U.S. Demands Reds Return Plane

Aides Attend Meeting by Helicopter

Dulles and Humphreys flew in the "windmill" from Wake island for meetings with the president-elect who is returning aboard the Helena from Korea.

12 Still on Job —

40 American UN Employes Labeled Bad Security Risks

NEW YORK (AP)—Senate probers were told Wednesday the state department labeled 40 Americans bad security risks in the United Nations but 12 still are on the job.

John D. Hickson, assistant secretary of state for UN affairs, testified the UN dropped 28 employes after his department questioned their loyalty. The UN has only admitted firing 18.

He refused to name any of the 40 cases publicly, saying the matter was confidential between the state department and the UN.

Asks Reasons

"So that approximately 12 reported by the state department to the UN adversely — who because of seceurity reasons you felt ought not remain on the UN payroll — are still there?" asked Sen. O'Conor (D-Md).

"Correct," replied Hickerson.

Sen. O'Conor, who Wednesday renewed open hearings by the Mccarran internal security subcommittee, said the testimony seemed to him "very shocking."

"It does to me, too," agreed Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), sitting with O'Conor in the inquiry into subversion among American UN employes.

At UNU headquarters, Secretary General Trygve Lie was not available for comment on Hickerson's testimony. However, an informed UN source who asked that his name not be used agreed with Hickerson's figures.

2 More Fired

This source added that two additional Americans have been fired who never were mentioned in state department reports to the UN.

A federal grand jury last week said the state department's screening process for Americans in the UN has "failed miserably."

State department witnesses tossed the ball right back to the UN. They emphasized the department is not responsible for UN personnel beyond checking their loyalty. The actual firing, they said, is solely up to the UN.

Under the department's screening system, the UN furnishes a list of present or potential American employes. Then the state department checks them with American security agencies. Finally, the state department passes on each one and informs the UN.

Turns Down 37

Hickerson testified his department turned thumbs down on 37 American UN employes "on a basis of loyalty." Three others were blackballed "on a basis of morals."

Sen. Ferguson said of the adverse report on the 40:

"I'll draw the conclusion — at least showing evidence of disloyalty?"

"It's essentially that, sir," replied Hickerson.

Sen. O'Conor wanted to know if the 40 were "bad security risks."

"That's correct, sir,' said Hickerson.

Hickerson refused to say who in the state department labelled the UN personnel.

"These state people are trusted employes, completely checked, and in whom we have every confidence," the witness added.

Act Promptly Or Pay Costs, Moscow Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday demanded that Russia return an American cargo plane which Red fighters forced down in Communist Hungary last year.

Moscow was told in a note that if Soviets could not return the plane and its cargo promptly, the U. S. would settle for total value, figured at $98,779.29, plus six per cent interest from the seizure date. The plane and its equipment alone was valued at $96,436.40, and the cargo at $2,342.89.

Another note delivered in Budapest at the same time called on Hungary to supply full information about the detention and fining of the four-man crew of the plane.

Investigation Last Year

The action, taken after a year's investigation, was described by the state department as a preliminary legal action. If Russia and Hungary reject or ignore the demands, the United States could start action in the International court.

Officials, however, would not say whether this action is planned. Russia has not agreed to be bound by the court's findings in such disputes, although the United tSates does have a binding commitment.

U. S. Fined $123,605

The cargo plane, a C47, was forced down in Hungary Nov. 19, 1951, while on a flight from Erding, Germany, to Belgrade, Yugoslavia. The four crewmen were held two weeks before the U. S. knew where they were. They were released Dec. 28 last yar after the U. S., under protest, paid a $123,305.15 fine to the Hungarian government.

The plane, supplies and equipment aboard were retained and these are what the U. S. demanded that Russia turn back.

The Communists claim that the plane was on a subversive mission

Lodge Asks Morally Based Foreign Policy

DENVER (AP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge Wednesday night called for an American foreign policy grounded on moral ideas — and not dollars or bullets.

Lodge, designated United States Ambassador to the United Nations, told 2,000 church leaders from across the nation:

Our international problems "must be dealt with on a moral basis" or they "will not be dealt with at all."

Discrimination Impedes Success

And he said that discrimination at home is "a real danger to the success" of our policy abroad.

The church leaders, delegates to the nation's most representative religious body, also heard Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert declare that American Christianity had entered into "a new era" of solidarity.

Cavert, general secretary of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., said "Ours is the first generation of Christians in America that could be described as living in an era of co-operaton," and he foresaw an even an greater co-operation in the future.

Private Activities Better

In his first major address since President-elect Eisenhower named him head of America's UN delegation, Lodge said "private activities" overseas usually are better than "governmental endeavors."

The Massachusetts Republican, in the address prepared for the General Assembly of the national council, said that communism had threatened the world with "an idea" of power and violence.

"We may as well make up our minds now that we cannot defeat an idea with dollars or bullets," Lodge added. "We must have a better idea of our own. We have such an idea — if we would live up to it."

Christianity Needs Action

He said this is "the Christian idea of the dignity of man," but suggested America has failed partially in transplanting the idea into action.

"Our discriminations are not only in conflict with Christian deals, but they are a real danger to our foreign policy."

Lodge told the church leaders, representing 29 Protestant and Easten Orthodox denominations with 33 million members, that military, economic, political and collective strength are essential to building world peace.

But Lodge, an Episcopalian, added that "we can solve" foreign problems only with moral strength.

Truman Calls For Any Peace Plan 'At Once'

ABOARD CRUISER HELENA (AP) — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur will meet in New York shortly after Eisenhower's return to discuss MacArthur's plan for shortening the Korean war, a reliable source said Wednesday.

Indications were that the meeting perhaps would be held next week.

Eisenhower expects to leave Hawaii by plane Saturday night and arrive in New York Sunday night.

At the same time President Truman called on MacArthur Wednesday to disclose to him "at once" if he has an air-tight plan for ending the Korean war.

In effect, the President prodded MacArthur to deal directly with the White House — and now — without waiting to confer with Republican President-elect Eisenhower.

No Time or Place

A source, who is close to Eisenhower, said no time or place had been set for the meeting but it probably would be at Eisenhower's Morningside Heights residence or his Commodore hotel headquarters.

This source also said that MacArthur would be consulted frequently on Far East affairs although he would not be asked to take a place in the new Republican administration.

Meanwhile, secretary of state-designate John Foster Dulles told friends he hopes after he takes office to make a world tour that would carry him to Europe, the Middle East and the Far East.

Dulles said he planned to study world conditions as they relate to Eisenhower's program of peace, informants reported.

Dulles Seeks Information

Dulles is interested in making the trip to get first hand information just as Eisenhower made his trip to Korea. But Dulles has said he does not know when he will be able to break away from the task of reorganizing the state department.

Eisenhower and his advisers continued talks aboard the cruiser Wednesday.

Early today, before the Helena docks at Pearl Harbor, they will be rejoined by Charles E. Wilson, the next secretary of defense. Wilson left the Helena at Wake Island and flew to Pearl Harbor Monday. There he conferred with Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, navy commander in the Pacific.

A Diplomatic Move

Eisenhower's radioed message to MacArthur Sunday, expressing interest in the former Far East commander's views on Korea, was seen as a diplomatic move to heal the breach between the two.

MacArthur's quick reply on Monday saying "I am grateful for your interest in my views" referred to Eisenhower by his familiar nickname of "Ike".

It seemed clear that with Eisenhower's message he showed a desire to give his administration the benefit of MacArthur's broad experience in the Far East. Friday, the day Eisenhower left Korea, MacArthur said in a speech before the National Association of Manufacturers that he had a new plan for solving the Korean puzzle. He added that he was ready to give it to Eisenhower if he asked for it.

Auto, Building Steel Limits Lifted by NPA

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Wednesday authorized the automobile industry to step up its production to 1½ million cars in the second quarter of 1953. It also eased restrictions on construction of homes, schools, hospitals, recreational and other projects effective Jan. 1.

The number of automobiles authorized represents an increase of 250,000 over the ceiling set by the national production authority for the first three months of the new year.

Isn't Guarantee

NPA chief R. A. McDonald said the increase, requested by the auto industry, does not mean the government will guarantee enough steel, aluminum and copper to produce that many cars. He said the output will depend on future allotments, plus any conversions or foreign steel the industry is able to obtain.

In lifting the ban on metals for recreational construction—projects like baseball parks and night clubs—NPA said that beginning with the new year builders may use up to five tons of carbon steel, including not more than two tons of structural steel, on each project. They will also be permitted to use 500 pounds of copper and 300 pounds of aluminum per project. The use of foreign or second hand steel is also authorized.

5 to 25-Ton Jump

The new order increases from 5 to 25 tons the amount of carbon steel which may be used without government approval for the construction of hospitals, schools, public utilities, water and sewage projects, hotels and other works.

NPA also said Wednesday that restrictions probably will be dropped early in 1953 on the quantity of cans that may be used to pack products such as beer, oil, paint and many types of food.

It told can manufacturers the action will be taken because prospects for tin supplies are good in 1953.

2,200 Copies Of Magazine X Sold Wednesday

A total of 2,200 copies of Magazine X were sold Wednesday through news stands and sales personnel located on the campus.

Clarence Andrews, A4, Sheldon, circulation manager of the magazine sold 707 copies, nearly a third of the total of the holiday edition. Andrews worked from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Christmas issue, presenting Beverly Bartunek, A4, Knoxville, as Magazine X's pin-up of the month, contains an entry blank for an all-expense paid date with Miss Bartunek.

On Dec. 18, Miss Bartunek will receive a corsage from the Curtis Flower shop and the evening will begin with dinner at Curt Youm's. After dinner the couple will be guests at the Christmas party held at the Iowa Memorial Union. Transportation will be provided by the Deluxe Cab company.

The holiday edition also carries the pictures of a number of foreign students enrolled at SUI and presents descriptions of Christmas in their home countries.

2 Seniors Chosen To Represent Iowa At Rhodes Meeting

Two SUI seniors, James Wiegand, A4, Washington, D.C., and Thomas Brown, A4, Iowa City, were chosen Wednesday to represent the state of Iowa at the Rhodes scholar district meeting in Des Moines Saturday.

President Samuel N. Stevens of Grinnell college, chairman of the Rhodes scholar selection committee for the state, announced the selection of Wiegand and Brown following a meeting of the committee here. They were picked from a field of six candidates who had been chosen as the result of preliminary screening. Stevens said the committee decision was unanimous.

Other committee members were Prof. Nicholas Riasanovsky, of the SUI history department, secretary; SUI President Virgil M. Hancher; Prof. D. K. Nelson, of Luther college, Decorah, and Prof. Rhodes Dunlap, of the SUI English department. Hancher is secretary of the district committee.

Brown is a mathematics major at SUI. A graduate of University high school, he is the son of Mrs. Mary P. Brown of Iowa City. Wiegand, who is majoring in history, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Wiegand of Washington, D.C. He is a former resident of Iowa City.

At the district meeting in Des Moines, four students will be chosen to go to Oxford university in England as Rhodes scholars in October, 1953. Seven other district committees throughout the nation also will select four men each.

Supreme Court Hears More School Segregation Argument

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme court heard warnings and denials Wednesday that abolition of race segregation in the public schools would deal a heavy blow to the educational system in the South.

The high tribunal is grappling with the question whether the Constitution forbids states to put Negro and white children in separate schools.

Virginia's attorney general, J. Lindsay Almond, contended in vigorous tones that a ruling against segregation would "destroy the public school system in Virginia as we know it today."

White haired, 70-year-old John W. Davis emphasized solemnly that abolition of segregation in South Carolina schools "is something that we cannot contemplate with entire equanimity."

Arguing on the other side of the question, Thurgood Marshall, a noted Negro lawyer, said:

Not Lawless People

"I for one do not believe the people of South Carolina are a lawless people. I believe the rank and file of people in the south will observe whatever decision is handed down."

The three men offered those opinions as batteries of rival lawyers ran through hours of argument in five school segregation cases now before the Supreme coure for decision. The ruling, when it comes, will affect 17 states which require complete or partly separate school systems for white and Negro children and four more where segregation is permissive.

Immediately involved in the five cases are the states of Kansas, South Carolina, Virginia and Delaware — plus the District of Columbia.

Decision in Spring

The court probably will give its decision some time in the spring.

The main issue before the tribunal is whether it will stand by or upset an 1896 decision holding that segregation is permissible if equal facilites are provided for the races. This decision held that segregation in such instances did not conflict with guarantees of the 14th Amendment to the Constitution that everyone shall have equal protection of the laws.

Davis, the 1924 Democratic presidential nominee, and T. Justin Moore of Richmond, arguing in the South Carolina and Virginia cases, said there is no reason now to overturn the 1896 "separate but equal" doctrine.

Doesn't Bring Equality

"Equal protection, in the minds of the congress of the United States," Davis reasoned, "does not contemplate mixed schools as a necessity."

The Negro lawyers, representing Negro parents and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, are taking the position that regardless of whether states give Negros as good schools as whites, segregation is harmful to their race.

Education Official Discusses Minimum Support Program

Paul Johnson, assistant superintendant of public instruction in Iowa, talked on the Minimum Foundation Program for public school education Wednesday night before 150 local educators in the junior high school auditorium.

Present were Congressman Frank Ludwig and Sen. Richard Nolan.

Johnson said the program seeks to provide a minimum foundation of school opportunity for each child and to determine the financial need of each school district.

County taxes are levied at the rate of 10 mills and this is redistributed within the county according to district needs. In this way wealthier districts aid the poorer districts within a county, Johnson brought out.

State money is added to county money to maintain the minimum per pupil expenditure at $200. State money now accounts for 13 per cent of this $200, explained Johnson, but he added that Iowa education expenditures are now lower than ever before in proportion to the state's income.

Business Group Declines to Give WSB Suggestions

WASHINGTON (AP) —The nation's biggest business organization Wednesday completed a one-two punch at the Truman administration's wage-price controls program.

The National Association of Manufacturers, in a statement closely paralleling one Tuesday by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce declined to recommend new industry members for the Wage Stabilization board, crippled by a walkout of all its business spokesmen.

Like the Chamber of Commerce last, the NAM statement by its president, Charles R. Sligh Jr., said the time has come for President Truman to order all wage and price curbs terminated at once.

Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam was undismayed by the NAM statement. He told newsmen:

"As far as I am concerned there is no change in the situation. I am still working on the problem of reconstituting the board and I expect to succeed."

Industry's boycott of the WSB stemmed from Truman's decision last week overruling a WSB decision on a coal wage increase.

Industrialist in East Eyes Air Chief Job

NEW YORK (AP)—Harold E. Talbot, a New York aircraft industrialist, said Wednesday night his name has been discussed as a possible secretary of air under President-elect Eisenhower.

At the same time he added: "I have not been offered, nor have I accepted any appointment. I have not been asked to serve nor have I agreed to serve."

The New York Daily News said Eisenhower has selected Talbot as secretary of air and plans to announce the appointment on his return to New York next week.

Siamese Twins May Have Operation Before Christmas

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Illinois spokesman said Wednesday another in a series of delicate operations to separate the Brodie Siamese twins probably will be attempted before Christmas, but he added the odds are against a successful final outcome.

The 15-month-old Brodie twins, Roger and Rodney, are joined at the top of their heads. Medical literature lists only two attempts at surgical correction of such a condition, both failures.

The twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Loyt Brodie of East Moline, Ill., have undergone nearly a dozen plastic and more extensive surgical operations in the last few months at the University of Illinois Medical center.

In the most recent, Nov. 26, surgeons ran into technical difficulties and the operation lasted seven hours. The twins lost considerable blood in a short time and although they responded well, they were in serious condition for several days.

The spokesman said that while the twins have separate brains and independent nervous and blood circulatory systems, they have common bony plate and soft tissue where they are joined.

The twins are joined at the upper part of the cranium. The juncture is such as to appear that they have a common forehead.

In the preliminary operations surgeons have had to tie off and then re-route common veins nourishing this connective tissue. They also have had to prepare skin flaps to cover the exposed skull area after separation.

The spokesman said the doctors could not determine in advance whether final surgical separation will be attempted in the next operation.

Treaty Ratification Question Averted In West Germany

BONN, Germany (AP) — A constitutional crisis that might have toppled Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government faded abruptly Wednesday.

President Theodore Heuss withdrew his request to the federal constitutional court for an opinion whether he could legally sign the two bills ratifying West Germany's treaties of alliance with the West after Parliament finally passed them.

This request — pending since mid-June — turned into a hot potato Tuesday when the 23-judge court, sitting in Karlsruhe, ruled that its decision on the constitutionality of the treaties in Heuss' case would be binding in future test cases before its two 11-judge chambers.

Adenauer's government has such a treaty test case pending before the No. 2 chamber regarded by Bonn politicians as sympathetic to the government, and feared that the decision by the full court on the Heuss petition would go against it.

Adenauer has staked his political life on ratification of the West Germany peace contract and the European defense community treaty under which West Germany would raise a half million soldiers for Western defense.

We're a Bit Skeptical

Much ado has been made over President-Elect Dwight Eisenhower's request to see General Douglas MacArthur's plan for ending the Korean war.

Eisenhower's request followed the disclosure last Friday by MacArthur at a meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers that he had such a plan.

Frankly we're a bit skeptical that one man holds the key to the solution of the bloody conflict. We wonder if General MacArthur will add anything new to what he has already said about his ideas on the war.

He has continually advocated the use of Chinese Nationalist troops to assist the undermanned UN forces in Korea. This could possibly be the basis of his new plan to end the struggle — at least as far as the U.S. is concerned.

When MacArthur's suggestion on the use of the Nationalists was first made known early in the war it was generally condemned on the grounds that it would draw the Chinese Reds into the affair.

Since the Chinese Reds have taken a full part in the war, however, the argument against the use of Chiang Kai-Shek's army has been considerably weakened.

Whether anything will come out of the proposed meeting between Ike and MacArthur remains to be seen. We hope so. Regardless of the outcome, though, the move by Ike will serve to close somewhat the breach between two of America's outstanding militarists — a breach which looked to be almost insurmountable in the days before the Republican National convention last July.

State to Replace Patrol Car Radios

DES MOINES (AP) —The Iowa executive council took preliminary steps Wednesday toward the replacement of 200 RCA mobile radio sets in state patrol cars.

The council took its action after receiving lengthy review of use of the sets and word that the equipment has not proved satisfactory. The sets were purchased about two years ago at a cost of $85,575.

Council members indicated their intended future action is to replace the sets and then negotiate with the Radio Corporation of America on payment for use of the sets the past 20 months.

The matter of the RCA sets has been before the council several times and council members expressed the view that they should take final steps now.

Texts of Notes Between Ike, MacArthur

ABOARD USS HELENA, (AP)—Following are the texts of radio messages exchanged Sunday by President-elect Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur relative to the Korean war:

Gen Douglas MacArthur
Waldorftowners
Park Avenue and Fiftieth Street
New York City, N. Y.

Have just received aboard the USS Helena excerpts of your speech before NAM (National Association of Manufacturers) and am gratified by your continued interest in the Korean war which so vitally affects the United tSates and our allies.

Naturally I and my associates in the new administration, particularly the secretaries of state and defense, are vitally concerned about Korea and the Far East.

We are now in the process of outlining a future program to be based upon the best interests of our country and the free world.

It will aim, of course, at ultimate peace in that section of the world.

I appreciate your announced readiness to discuss these matters with me and assure you I am looking forward to informal meetings in which my associates and I may obtain the full benefits of your thinking and experience. With personal regards.

Eisenhower.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower
USS Helena

For Ike. I have just received your message. I am grateful for your interest in my views concerning solution of the problems involved in the Korean war and the Far East.

This is especially so because, despite my ultimate personal and professional connection and well known concern therewith, this is the first time that the slightest official interest in my counsel has been evidenced since my return.

A failure of policy there might doom indefinitely the progress of civilization.

A successful solution on the other hand might well become the key to peace in the world. You knew, without my saying, that my service is, as it always has been, entirely at the disposition of our country. My best to you, Ike. As always.

MacArthur.

Sioux City Man Gets Army Library Post In Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paul Burnette of Sioux City, Ia., has been named director of libraries for the army here.

A civilian employee, Burnette has done library work since he was graduated from Simpson College in Iowa in 1929.

In between library assignments at various colleges, Burnette obtained a master's degree in education from Northwestern University in 1934 and a library science degree from the University of Illinois in 1937.

He was a librarian at Teachers College in Springfield, Mo. for several years prior to entering the army air force in 1941. He was base adjutant at air installations at St. Petersburg and Sarasota, Fla. in the early 1940's and then was transferred to Japan in 1945.

Burnette, serving under General MacArthur's ocupation forces in Tokyo, set up the first information library in Japan. It was patterned after the American system and was available to Japanese as well as Americans.

During 1947, his last year in Tokyo, Burnette was a civilian consultant on the occupation staff for civilian information and education services, chiefly on library problems.

He served as acting director of the army libraries here for more than a year prior to his selection to succeed W. Kenneth Lowry in the $9,600 a year job. Lowry was named director of technical information at the air research and development command of the air force in Baltimore.

Government Asks Advice on Supply Of Polio Serum

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government Tuesday asked state health officers for guidance on how to make scarce supplies of gamma globulin do the most good in next summer's polio "season."

Gamma globulin (G.G.) is the blood derivative which has shown promise of preventing paralysis in polio.

The request came shortly after the American Red Cross had announced an expansion of its blood-collection and processing program designed to get enough G.G. for at least the "minimal epidemic needs" of the 1953 polio season—that is, in parts of the country where the disease might be epidemic in proportion.

But the Red Cross also said that even with stepped up production of the precious substance, expectations are that there still may not be enough to give injections to all of the two million children who might be exposed in an estimated 150 "epidemic" counties.

UN Advance Suggested By Great Britain

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Asociated Press News Analyst

Great Britain, taking advantage of the policy exploratory period pending President-elect Eisenhower's inauguration, has come up with a compromise suggestion for the next step in Korea.

Most talk in the United States has centered around the alternatives of a continued stalemate or of an offensive to the Yalu border clearing the Communists out of all Korea.

Most talk in the United States has centered around the alternatives of a continued stalemate or of an offensive to the Yalu border clearing the Communists out of all Korea.

Other alternatives, such as a blockade of Red China, which might not be too effective, and extension of air warfare to China, which would run the risk of expanding the war, have been largely pushed into the background of pre-inauguration speculation.

Advance Might Be Possible.

Now the British are suggesting that a 150-mile Allied advance at the Korean narrows might be possible, although they say they have no more troops for it. They point out that this would cut the length of the line from about 150 to about 100 miles, making it more feasible to carry out Gen. Eisenhower's idea for turning a greater part of the front line job over to South Korean troops.

This idea of letting the Koreans carry the defense job as soon as possible, stressed by the general during his campaign and now taken up by the British, is by no means a mere effort to relieve Allied troops. It has important political aspects. The greatest hay made by the Communist propaganda in the Orient is the idea that the Western powers intervened in Korea for selfish or aggressive purposes. The more Korea, does the more the war becomes, in Eastern minds, defense of Asia against communism instead of the use of Asia as a battlefield between the West and Russia.

U.S. Would Have Trouble.

Evidence from Europe and from the United Nations is strong that the United States would have trouble getting agreement for another advance to the Yalu. They still believe that Red China might not have intervened in the war if the Allies had not driven to her border before, and they are unwilling to take any similar chance with the Russian border on Korea's northeast.

In addition to setting the stage for turning over the front to South Korea, the idea of a limited drive about 150 miles northward to the 40th parallel, would renew military pressure on the Communists for a truce. There is some reason to believe they once actually wanted one, when it was first suggested, but that consequent relaxation of Allied pressure taught them the values of stalemate.

Same Arguments Possible.

With the exception of the fear of extending the war, the same arguments can, of course, be made against a limited offensive as against a Yalu offensive. Neither would produce a sure military decision—only stalemate in a new place. An end to the war would depend on political decisions in either case.

There is, of course, the possibility of Allied landing in the narrow Korea waist which, properly timed and manned, might cut off the Chinese armies massed north of the 38th parallel.

Communist-Supported Wars Threaten World Peace

3 COMMUNIST-SUPPORTED WARS are pinpointed on the above map. Countries in black indicate areas in which the U.S. state department warns that other local "wars" may break out if Moscow thinks they can succeed. Approximate location of Red and satellite troops is also shown. The state department says there are 491 communist divisions ready to take the field. The western powers reportedly aim at 4,000 warplanes for Europe's defense by the end of 1952. Other airbase defenses are available in Africa, Greece and Turkey.

Bucky Not Alone —

As was briefly reported in Wednesday's Daily Iowan, Iowa's basketball coach Bucky O'Connor was not the only Big Ten coach reprimanded by the conference for contacting athletes.

Bill Battles, one of Bernie Crimmins' assistant football coaches at Indiana U., has been forbidden to contact any prospective athetes until July 1, 1953.

Battles reportedly visited the home of a prospective football player and discussed his possible matriculation at I. U. with the student's parents.

Although the name of the athlete was not disclosed, he definitely did not enroll at Indiana. The same was the case concerning the cager that Bucky was penalized for contacting — he did not enroll at Iowa.

It looks like the Big Ten commissioner, Tug Wilson, has succumbed to pressures from the bigger conference schools and disciplined two of the smaller members for something all of the schools do.

So let us be consoled that we don't stand alone in the whole affair.

Despite the record attendance of 180,000 paid at Iowa home games the past season, the SUI athetic department fund still will be tapped for at east $15,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

This will be the first time the Hawks have finished in the red since athletic director Paul Brechler took over in 1947.

These facts were made public at the Big Ten winter metings in Chicago last week.

Brechler explains the deficit by saying, "We had a weak road schedule in football. The only place we played and showed a real profit was at Minnesota when we we played Minnesota."

The salary figures released showed that Iowa paid $17,250 for a head football coach during the fiscal year — $11,000 to Leonard Raffensperger and $6,250 to Forest Evashevski.

Incidentally, Raff received a $1,000 raise the year before he was relieved of his coaching duties.

Among the other raises were $1,500 to Brechler, $1,200 to freshman baseball coach Maury Kent and $1,000 to track coach Francis Cretzmeyer.

Cage coach O'Connor got only a $500 raise after his great first year at the helm.

Among the salaries not already listed are $12,000 to Brecher, $7,500 to assistant athletic director Rollie Williams, $7,750 to baseball coach Otto Vogel, $7,000 to O'Connor, $6,750 to Cretzmeyer, $6,666 to swimming coach Dave Armbruster and $6,500 to freshman football coach Wally Schwank.

These salaries come mostly from athletic funds.

The Iowa cagers have a shot percentage of .277 to their opponents' .269 figures for the first two games show. The Hawks have hit .630 on free throws to their foes' .503.

In each game, Iowa scored 62 points.

Deacon Davis is the top scorer with 37 points. Second is Kenny Buckles with 27. Buckles has a .381 shot percentage, and .846 on free throws. Chuck Jarnagin has 21 points and a .333 shot percentage.

Capt. Herb Thompson has scored 19 points and has rebounded well.

Munn Named Coach Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Michigan State Wednesday had the football coach of the year in Clarence Biggie Munn as well as the nation's No. 1 college football team.

The 44-year-old Spartan mentor, whose team has won its last 24 games, was picked for the honor by members of the American Football Coaches Association in the 18th annual poll conducted by the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Munn was named first on the ballot of 139 of the coaches to win by 40 votes over Bobby Dodd, Coach of Georgia Tech's second ranking eleven.

Hill 3d

Jess Hill of Southern California's Rose Bowl-Bound Trojans was third with 55 votes, followed by Jordan Olivar, Yale, 45; Frank Leahy, Notre Dame, 26; Ivy Williamson, Wisconsin, 18; Harold Drew, Alabama, 14; Henry Sanders, UCLA, 11; Wes Fesler, Minnesota, 10; and L. P. Dawson, Pittsburgh, John Vaught, Mississippi, and Stu Holcomb, Purdue, each with 7.

An All-America guard at Minnesota in 1931, Munn coached at Syracuse before moving to Michigan State six years ago.

Informed of his selection, Munn said:

'Yearned For It'

"Say, that's wonderful, it's terrific. I don't mind confessing I wanted to win. I really yearned for it. But I didn't think I would do much more than challenge four or five others."

Munn praised his players and his coaching staff — "The finest staff of coaches you'll ever see."

Pacific Coast Votes To Let Alums Bring Athletes to Campus

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The Pacific Coast conference relaxed its strict control of athlete recruiting Wednesday and voted to permit alumni to bring prospective athletes to and from a campus.

A subject of agitation for the last six or seven years, the new transportation policy brings the PCC into a pattern of recruiting that is prevalent in other conferences of the nation.

Conference spokesman H. P. Everest of the University of Washington, emerging from the closed session of the faculty representatives, said that violations of the old rule had been a "common occurrence."

The alumni can bring a prospective athlete to a campus for a one-day-and-night visit. The conference specified that there should not be any form of lavish entertainment, and that the cost of the night's lodging and visit can be paid either by the alumni or the school involved.

The conference can not control, Everest admitted, anything that goes on during the trip to or from the campus.

Huskies' Heinrich Wins Passing Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Washington's Don Heinrich, the T quarterback who played his last college football game five days after being inducted into the army, won the major college passing title for 1952.

Heinrich's seven completions in his last game gave him a season's total of 137, the second highest mark ever recorded.

Despite his hot pace, Heinrich was closely pursued. He played 10 games while Tommy O'Connell of Illinois, completed 134 in nine games.

Crack Golfers Begin Miami Open Today

MIAMI (AP) — Golfers from 39 states and five foreign countries sharpened up their games Wednesday for the start of the $10,000 Miami Open tournament today over the lengthened and toughened Miami Springs course where par is 35-35—70 for the 7,010-yard layout.

In the crack field of 166 are nine former winners of this, one of the oldest continuous tournaments in the nation.

Missing will be Slammin' Sammy Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., pro who won this fixture five times and is defending champion. Snead is in Hollywood to make a picture.

Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., pro who won the tournament in 1933, toured the course Wednesday in 68 strokes.

Willie Klein, who won the tournament in 1926, is registered to compete again. So is Tommy Armour, who won it in 1932 and again in 1935.

Other previous winners back for a shot at the $2,000 top money include Steve Warga, 1934, Dutch Harrison, 1944; Henry Picard, 1945, and Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., amateur who won in 1948, only amateur ever to take it.

Illini Dump Loyola In Opener, 71-57

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Johnny Kerr, 6-10 center, pumped in 34 points Wednesday night to lead Illinois defending Big Ten champions basketball to a 71-57 season opening victory over Loyola of Chicago.

Illinois, favored to repeat for the Big Ten title this season and ranked No. 1 nationally in many polls, bagged 21 points in the final quarter after Loyola trailed by only 50-47.

Kerr scored 10 points in the last period surge before leaving the game with 3½ minutes remaining. Irv Bemoras contributed five of his total 17 points in the finale and Jim Bredar added four of his total 12.

Loyola held 17-15 and 19-17 leads in the second before Illinois went ahead 36-28 at halftime. Loyola's Bob Collins, who dropped 12 free throws out of 13 attempts, collected 12 of his 18 points in the third period as the Ramblers tallied 19 to Illinois' 14.

The defeat was Loyola's first after winning its first three starts of the season.

Ramblers Tip St. Pat's 62-54, Cahill Gets 21

St. Mary's went all-out midway in the second half to down a stubborn St. Patrick's team, 62-54, in the jam-packed junior high gym Wednesday night.

The Ramblers now have won 33 of the 63-game series.

Coach Vic Belger's squad went into the game a slight favorite on the basis of its 6-2 season record, but as usual won-lost records and comparative scores meant little in the annual clash.

The teams battled to a 12-12 tie at the end of the first quarter and the Irish edged ahead, 23-21, at halftime. However, St. Mary's turned on the steam late in the third quarter, once building a 38-33 margin, before St. Pat's rallied to a 39-37 disadvantage at the end of the period.

Jerry Mottet extended the lead to 40-37 for the Ramblers at the beginning of the final period. Jimmy Callahan came back for a close-in one-hander to make it 40-39. Gene Milder hit a close one for St. Mary's and after a Callahan-Dave Cahill double foul, Tom Black hit two set shots from the side to give the winners a commanding 47-40 lead.

For the winners, Cahill had 21 points and Milder added 17. For St. Pat's, Callahan had 22 points, followed by Bob VeDepo, who fouled out in the final period, with 18, and Art Cano with 11.

SUI Digest Says Iowa 2d In 7 Areas

In seven manufacturing areas, Iowa is the second most important state, according to the December issue of the Iowa Business digest, published monthly by the SUI bureau of business and economic research.

Latest figures available to the bureau show that Iowa ranks second in soybean oil mills, buttons, creamery butter, wholesale poultry dressing, wholesale meat packing, corn products and domestic laundry equipment.

The state's percentages of total national production are as follows: soybean oil mills, 15.3; buttons, 15.1; butter, 10.6; poultry dressing, wholesale 10.2; meat packing, wholesale, 9.5.

Answering the question, "How does Iowa rank as a manufacturing state?" the bureau says it ranked 20th in 1929, 26th in 1947 and 23d in 1950 according to value added by manufacture.

Although the output of our establishments is small when its total is compared to the national total, just a shade over one per cent of the nation's manufacturing, those firms that we have are well grounded in our economy.

In the order of percentage of Iowa's total manufacturing output, the following are the state's chief products; food and kindred products, 34.1; machinery except electrical, 21.4; printing and publishing, 8.2; chemical and allied products, 7.6; primary metals and fabricated metal products, 6.0; stone, clay and glass products, 4.0.

13 Nations Represented In SUI Fluids Class

The class roll for at least one course at SUI is truly international in character.

Enrolled in the class in mechanics of fluids, conducted at the Iowa Institute of Hydraulic research, are 21 students representing 13 different nations, including the United States.

Every major area of the world concerned with the development of its national resources, says John S. McNown, associate director, has sent representatives to the five-story Iowa center of fluid and waterpower study.

Australia, Africa, Europe, South America, India, the Near East, Mexico and Canada have sent students to this class concerned with fluid flow through channels ranging from small tubes to large rivers.

The staff of the Iowa Institute for Hydraulic research is equally as international in character, McNown points out.

One of the research engineers, C. S. Yih, is from China. Five of the seven research associates are of foreign origin, including Francis Hama, Japan; S. C. Ling and T. T. Siao, both from China; Walter Rand, Estonia, and Arthur Toch, who came to the United States from Austria 10 years ago.

Seven of the eleven research assistants in the institute are also of foreign extraction, including Rasin Etiman and Turgut Sarpkaya, both of Turkey; A. K. Johnston and H. R. Vallentine, both of Australia; Gopal Murthy of India; Z. M. Glowiak of Poland, and Mubashir Hasan of Pakistan.

Students in the class include Francisco de Rigel, Mexico; Ibrahim El Assiouty, Egypt; Ahmed El-Sibaie, Egypt; Bali Ersever, Turkey; Zynowij Glowaik, Poland; Masaru Kawakuchi, an American of Nisei decent; Henry Maksoud, Brazil; Oscar Mejia, Columbia; Gopal Murthy, India; Edmund Overgaard, Canada; Leoncio Roda, Peru; Alberta Rodriguez, Venezuela; Daniel Rueda, Columbia; and Steen Secher-Jensen, Denmark.

Board Approves Purchase of Land For Grade School

Iowa City's school board Tuesday approved the $16,000 purchase of a 6½-acre tract of land near City high as a site for a proposed grade school.

The board announced Nov. 10 the $10,000 purchase of a 10-acre tract at the southeast edge of Iowa City as the site of another proposed grade school.

The board has ample funds in its budget to pay the $26,000 total cost of both tracts.

The two proposed grade schools are part of an overall expansion program under consideration by the board to supply the needs of Iowa City children who are now, or soon will be, of school age. Additions to four present elementary schools also are being considered.

The board hopes to submit a proposed bond issue to finance the expansion program to Iowa City voters at the annual school election next March.

Total cost of the bond issue will not be known until final plans and cost estimates have been drawn up.

Tank, Truck Production Cut As Army Finds Needs Met

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced Wednesday it will apply the brakes to production of tanks and trucks. Some plants will have to close as a result of the slowdown.

Army spokesmen explained the immediate needs of the Army are close to being met. At the same time strong production lines have been established to meet future needs.

Production of medium tanks will be cut back to a point about 45 per cent below the original goal set for the spring of 1954, the Army said.

Light Tanks Cut

There will be a 22 per cent reduction in the output of light tanks and the manufacture of 2½-ton trucks will be slowed down.

Production rates of some other basic weapons will be reduced later, a spokesman said.

He emphasized that the slowdown will not change the Army's original equipment goals. Rather, it will stretch out the delivery time of some articles.

Some factories will have to close down entirely, while others will be forced to reduce their work crews. The new production schedue will go into effect July 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year, with government-owned plants slowing down first.

Leveling Off

Andrew Berding, director of the Defense Department Information office, told newsmen:

"We have reached the point where we can see where we are and can level off on this and that item. We have the production lines now, so we don't need the end items so much — we have the means of production established."

As early as last September Secretary of Defense Lovett indicated that he thought the time was approaching when the production of some hard goods might be leveled off to what he called "a sustaining rate."

Hinted Change

He said at that time it was obvious that the Defense Department would have to readjust its schedule so as not to accumulate more tanks and other equipment than were needed for the U.S. armed forces and the foreign assistance program.

Beginning June 30, 1954, he said, the procurement program would serve two purposes — to replace worn out or destroyed equipment and to maintain tank arsenals and similar war goods factories with enough orders to enable them to stay in operation.

Maj. Gen. William Reeder, deputy chief of staff in the Army's supply section, said the new policy "places the principle reliance for industrial preparedness on production lines in being, rather than on the accumulation of completed equipment."

'51 Graduate Receives Navy Wings

ENSIGN ALBERT MEYERING, USN, B. A. '51, receives his Navy wings of gold and is awarded his commission on completion of flight training at the naval air station in Pensacola, Fla. Presentation was made by Capt. G. S. James, USN. Meyering is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Meyering of Chicago, Ill. He received his degree in English from SUI before entering the naval aviation cadet training program.

University Caroling Party Set for Dec. 8

The annual all-university caroling party has been planned for Dec. 18, Joe Warnell, G, Des Moines, spokesman for the student council said.

The carolers will proceed in a lantern bearing procession to the SUI hospitals. There they will sing for the patients devoting the majority of the time to the children's hospital.

All university students and faculty are invited to participate. The procession will form at 6:45 on the west steps of Old Capitol.

The procession will terminate at the union at 8:15 where the central party comittee will sponsor its traditional Christmas party at that time. The crippled children will be special guests.

Iowans Send Gifts to Cheer Hospitalized

Gifts from the hearts of generous Iowans are beginning to pour in to the SUI hospitals to help make Christmas a day to be remembered, particularly for the youthful patients who won't be home for the holidays.

To date, the usual and much appreciated assortment of paints crayons, dolls and games, has arrived at the hospitals, but there are still not enough gifts to assure every child a package on Christmas morning.

The Christmas committee suggests that Iowans think of their own children or of themselves when they send gifts, making sure they send something they would like to find under their own tree on Christmas.

For example, the committee points out, it is dificult to use many old Christmas cards, but new, unsued ones are extremely valuable to some patients. Many of the younger patients like to put scrapbooks together, and therefore need the empty scrapbook, material to insert, scissors and paste.

Other contributions desired for the younger set include tricycles, large and small rubber balls, commercial games, records and record players, 16 mm movies, particularly cartoons, child size painting easels and sand box toys. They also need dolls and doll buggies, scooters, large building blocks, small pull toys, wooden interlocking trains, doll clothes, playschool toys such as pounding boards and color cones, large trucks and cars and modeling clay.

Additional plans have been announced for the youngsters who will be hospitalized through the Christmas holidays. On Sunday afternoon, Dec. 21, the annual Christmas Story hour party will be held for all child patients, with stories told by Leota Stagg, patients' librarian.

Stories and music will be designed to meet the needs of all ages.

Bullets Hit 6 Persons During Gun Battle In Times Square Area

NEW YORK (AP)—A killer with a lust for gunplay was shot down by a game cop early Wednesday in a wildly blazing gun battle in the Times Square area. Six other persons, including three policemen, were hit.

At least eight policemen had a hand in the running, pre-dawn gunfight that surged along three blocks on Eighth ave. — a Wild West affray in the heart of sophisticated Manhattan.

The gunman, Clarence O. Sims, 37-year-old Negro holdup man from Cleveland, all but got away as whining bullets sent frightened early morning passersby scrambling for cover.
