Army Lists 46,000 As Wartime Deserters

All Except 11,000 Have Been Caught

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army said Tuesday that 46,000 enlisted men have deserted since the start of the Korean war, but all except 11,000 have been picked up or returned voluntarily.

For all the services, air force, navy and marines as well as army, the current count of deserters not caught was given by Pentagon officials as about 13,790.

Those figures cover men classified as actual deserters and not merely absent without leave. The AWOL list would add thousands at any one time.

Lt. Gen. Anthony J. McAuliffe, the army's assistant chief of staff for personnel, gave that branch's figures at a news conference. He said the rate of desertion during the current hostilities was less than half of what it was during one 12-month period in the last year of World War II.

Information Incorrect

McAuliffe told reporters at the outset that information given them by officials earlier in the day in answer to inquiries about army desertions had been both incorrect and unexplained. Reporters had asked for a comment on a story published in the Louisville (Ky.) Times which estimated that there were enough runaways hiding out in this country to form the equivalent of two combat divisions, which would be about 36,000 men.

Commenting on the basis of the Times' report, Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) said that the senate preparedness subcommittee which he headed in the last congress had not received any reports of a desertion problem of alarming proportions.

To Ask Pentagon

Chairman Short (R-Mo.) of the house armed services committee said he would ask the Pentagon for the figures but added it was too early to determine whether an investigation is needed.

Parents sometimes have asked him in cases of deserters or men absent without leave, Short said, but he did not know whether, as the Times story said, some congressmen have intervened to prevent the army from punishing deserters.

"If that is true it will bear looking into," Short said.

Current regulations classify a man as a deserter if he is absent without leave for more than 30 days. He comes off the deserter list when he returns to military control.

Brodie Twin Gets New Skin Graft

CHICAGO (AP) — Rodney Dee Brodie, born a Siamese twin, received a new skin graft Tuesday and showed some signs he is on the road to recovery.

But his twin brother, Roger, passed his 20th day in a coma and doctors held little hope for his survival.

The 15-month-old twins, who had been joined head to head, were divided in a day long operation at the Illinois Neuropsychiatric institute Dec. 17.

The skin graft on Rodney was a follow-up operation to one performed a week ago. In the earlier operation, skin from Rodney's forehead and the sides of his head was used to cover three fourths of his exposed brain top.

AWOL Soldier Found at Front

AWOL A YEAR AND NOW DUE for rotation back to the U.S. is the story on Cpl. Robert Van Kuznick, Lakewood, Ohio, (left), GI who secretly left his instructor's post at Ft. Knox, Ky., and hitchhiked to the front in Korea, where he joined a tank outfit. His girl, Shirley Taylor, South Gate, Calif., (right), said she was proud of him, but "mad" because he didn't tell her first. He was found when authorities went to his home and were handed a letter he had sent from Korea. It all wound up happily for him when his company commander gassed and shipped him back to Japan, where he was fined $10 and handed $1,100 back pay, then returned to Korea up on his request.

Bolivian Revolt Attempt Foiled After President's Party Splits

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Loyal troops Tuesday foiled an attempted revolt which President Victor Paz Estenssoro blamed on traitors within his own ruling party.

The abortive uprising, in which a cabinet minister and the chief of the army's general staff were taken prisoner, was bloodless, although the President's life was in danger for a time when the palace guard was disarmed while he slept.

Prisoners Released

At least eight veteran army officers and eight civilians were arrested. The prisoners were freed and calm was restored within the tin-rich, money-poor country.

This was the third attempt to overthrow Paz Estenssoro since he came to power after a bloody revolution last April in which Bolivia's regulars were defeated by "the people's army" of his National Revolutionary Movement, MNR. The revolutionary troops are now the backbone of the armed forces.

Claim Red Infiltration

Military and right wing groups have accused the government of permitting the infiltration of Communists, and the attempted coup apparently was the climax of a split in the ranks of the MNR party.

As punishment, the government announced, all military men involved will be cashiered from the Army and the civilians will be expelled from the MNR party.

Took Over Tin Mines

Paz Estenssoro signed a decree Oct. 31 taking over the valuable tin mines of the Patino, Hochschild and Aramayo companies. A third of the shares of these companies, which have accounted for about three fourths of Bolivia's exports, are in the hands of United States investors.

Since that time, Bolivia's economic trouble have been piling up. She lacks the smelters to process tin and has been unable to ship abroad because of unsettled claims for compensation for the nationalized mines and disputes over prices to be paid for the raw product.

British Science Club Bestows Rare Honor On SUI Professor

The first Iowan to achieve membership in Britain's 114-year-old Royal Microscopic society is Harold W. Beams, SUI professor of zoology.

Beams, a cell-structure expert who uses an electronic microscope to probe the characteristics of the beginnings of life, Tuesday morning received a certificate announcing his election as a fellow to the exclusive society which only rarely honors a non-English scientist.

He served in 1948 as American editor of "Vade Mecum," international text on microscopic techniques. This work plus his research with Rockefeller foundation in Dublin in 1934-35 brought Beams to the attention of the Royal society, says J. H. Bodine, head of the university department of zoology.

In addition to using the electronic microscope to approach life in its infinitesimally tiny and secret beginnings within the cell, Beams has pioneered in displacing cell parts by whirling them in ultra-speed centrifuges at 200,000 times the force of gravity.

The basic research of Beams into such intracellular constituents has universal applications, Bodine says, possibly becoming very valuable in such areas as cancer and virus research. Beams has been a member of the SUI faculty since 1930.

Flu Epidemic Hits Ft. Leonard Wood

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army said Tuesday that about 3,500 cases of a mild form of influenza have occurred at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., since last fall.

The "usual seasonal increase in infections" has occurred at other army posts in recent weeks but the specific diagnosis of influenza so far has been made only in the cases at Ft. Wood, it was said.

The outbreak has caused no deaths, the army said.

Intended Suicide, Not Killing, Duffy Testifies At Hearing

Tells Court Details Of Love Triangle

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—Twenty-one-year-old George C. Duffy under questioning Tuesday afternoon said he had no intention of killing James Hackman, 18, of Cedar Rapids, with whose death he has been charged, but had planned to commit suicide instead.

Duffy was on the witness stand when the hearing before District Judge Charles Pinningroth on the young defendant's offer to plead guilty to a charge of second degree murder was recessed until this morning.

Duffy, accused of shooting Hackman on a Cedar Rapids street three days before Hackman and Shirley Jean Arnold, 18, were to have been married, originally was charged with first degree murder. The maximum penalty for first degree murder is death.

Plans Changed Late

Miss Arnold has testified she first planned to marry Duffy Oct. 11 but returned his ring Oct. 9—the date of the slaying—and made plans to marry Hackman instead.

Duffy said that on the night of the shooting he put an automatic 12 gauge shotgun in his car and planned to drive outside of town and shoot himself. But, he said, he first wanted one last look at Miss Arnold.

Miss Arnold that evening was at a shower originally planned in honor of her approaching marriage to Duffy.

Looked For Her

Duffy testified that he drove around town to various places he thought Shirley might be and finally went to the home of a married sister of Miss Arnold's. He said he saw Hackman's car parked in front of the house and figured the girl was with Hackman.

He said he saw Hackman come out of the house and get into his car. Duffy said he drove alongside Hackman's car and "asked him where Shirley was."

Duffy told the court "he never answered but said 'Now lets see you take her away from me.' Then he started laughing."

'Lost Control'

Duffy said he became infuriated at Hackman's remark and lost control of himself. He said the next thing he remembers, "I was sitting there with the gun in my hands and there were bullet holes in his car."

The hearing likely will be concluded Wednesday but it is expected that Judge Pinningroth will defer his decision on acceptance of Duffy's plea and determination of sentence.

Earlier Tuesday, Duffy related details of the "love triangle" which preceded the slaying of Hackman.

Duffy said that he met Miss Arnold at a picnic in 1948 and dated her in 1949 but that on many of his dates "Hackman would show up."

He said that numerous times when he visited the girl at her home Hackman would come there and "there would be three of us."

Old Friends Discuss New Problems

New Cold Front Expected to Reach Iowa City Today

A new blast of sub-zero weather one that may stick around for a while—is in store for Iowa City today.

The new cold front, moving in from the west, is expected to bring with it a new season's record low of three degrees below zero for the Iowa City area. The expected record will replace that set Tuesday when the mercury dipped to two below.

Tuesday's record cold weather was accompanied by an inch of snow. A bright sun broke through about noon, however, ending the snowfall, and forcing the temperature up to Tuesday's high of 22 above.

Elsewhere in the state Tuesday the mercury dipped to a minimum of 17 below at Decorah early Tuesday but a snow front which moved across the state caused temperatures to moderate during the day.

Iowa received an average fall of new snow measuring about two inches, although some sections had four to six inches. But skies cleared by afternoon, opening the way for new maritime air that was expected to bring lows of 10 to 15 below in the northwest today.

The weather bureau reported a new disturbance headed toward Iowa from the west will cause more snow beginning in the western counties late today and spreading over all of Iowa by Thursday.

SUI Chemistry Department Offered DuPont Fellowship

The SUI chemistry department has been granted a postgraduate teaching fellowship by the DuPont company, it was announced Tuesday.

The grant has not been formally accepted by the state board of education as yet but the board will consider it at a meeting on Jan. 20, said Dean Allin Dakin, administrator of SUI.

A new type of aid to education, the grant offers $2,400 for an unmarried student and $3,000 for one who is married, provides $500 to the university for support of his work and pays tuition and fees. It is for the 1953-54 year.

First of Its Kind

The teaching fellowship is part of a new aid to education program worked out by the company. DuPont officials said that as far as they could learn this is the first time a fellowship of this type has been offered.

The fellowship is to be offered to an outstanding graduate student having two years' experience as a half-time teaching assistant in the chemistry department. The recipient will be required to continue teaching on a half-time basis during the time of his appointment. He will be nominated by the university's chemistry department.

Holds Experienced Men

Primary objective of this plan is to hold the student in teaching or an additional year so that the university can take advantage of the teaching experience gained. After two years of teaching most graduate students devote their full time to study and research. Thus the benefit of their accumulated experience and advanced training is lost. Similar teaching fellowships have been awarded to 12 other institutions.

At the same time the company granted another postgraduate fellowship in chemistry for the next academic year. The latter provides $1,500 for an unmarried fellow, $2,100 for a married fellow, $1,200 to SUI for support of his work, and payment of his tuition and fees.

Nursing Program Accredited for '53

The basic program of the SUI college of nursing has been given full accreditation for 1953, according to word received recently from the National Nursing Accrediting service.

Myrtle E. Kitchell, dean of the college, said the accreditation program was developed by the National League of Nursing to improve nursing service in view of the rapid advances of medical science.

The accrediting service, she pointed out, was established in January, 1949. It is concerned with accrediting the basic programs offered by hospital and collegiate schools of nursing and programs for graduate nurses offered by colleges and universities.

Accrediting of nursing programs began, Dean Kitchell said, as early as 1920, but that accreditation then was accomplished by specialized nursing organizations. The current program, she added, is a joint project of several nursing organizations who wished to eliminate duplication of effort and costs, as well as confusion on the part of educational institutions, members of the nursing profession, prospective students and the public.

WINTER HITS EUROPE

LONDON (AP)—Snow and freezing temperatures hit most of Europe Tuesday and the usually sunny Mediterranean shivered under some of its first icy blasts of the winter.

Senate Heads Promise Action At Later Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate tied into a fight over the burning filibuster issue Tuesday after earlier running quietly through the routine of pronouncing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's election official.

Two GOP leaders, Senators Taft of Ohio and Jenner of Indiana, promised to try later on this year to push through a rule making it easier to halt filibusters—a proposal which itself would be subject to a filibuster before it could be adopted. Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) swung along with the idea, too.

Coalition Wages Fight

But a small, outnumbered coalition of Democrats and a handful of Republicans put on a strenuous though apparently losing battle to change the rules now.

The senate rolled through hours of debate about the filibuster; the device Southern Democrats have used to talk to death fair employment practices and other civil rights legislation, but a showdown was held off until today.

Election Made Official

Before the arguments got under way, senate and house met together in the big blue, brown and gold house chamber for the formality of counting the electoral ballots from the Nov. 4 election. Just as everybody knew, it was 442-89 for Eisenhower, and Vice-President-elect Nixon over their Democratic opposition.

Now the two of them can take the oath of office in two weeks.

Plane Crashes Investigated

Around congressional committee rooms and offices meanwhile: The house armed services committee held the first hearing of the new congress and heard air force officials and generals testify the recent series of air force crashes apparently is due largely to human and mechanical failures and weather. Maj. Gen. Victor E. Bertrandias, deputy inspector general of the air force, said there was "no tangible indication that sabotage was a factor."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) suggested that Prime Minister Winston Churchill of England be invited to address the senate and house.

Dirksen Makes Threat

Dirksen told a reporter, "All hell will pop in congress" if the Eisenhower-Churchill conferences in New York lead to a British bid for "a gift of American gold to support the convertibility of Britain's currency."

Senate and house leaders wrestled with the problem of what members will go on what committees and how big the committees will be. Senate Republicans expect to consider in a party conference Wednesday a plan to increase the membership of 10 major committees by two each and trim by two each the rosters of five lesser committees.

Smith Question Solved

Taft, the new majority leader, resolved one question: whether he or Sen. H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey will become chairman of the labor committee. It's going to be Smith.

Taft is predicting both senate and house labor committees will start "wide open" hearings around Feb. 1 on amendments to the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Probe of Colleges To Be Impartial, Velde Promises

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harold Velde (R-Ill.) said Tuesday a house un-American activities committee investigation in the field of education is not aimed toward any particular university.

Committee investigators, he told a reporter, are sifting reports already on file concerning subversive activities of college personnel. "The investigations have been made in the past without reference to any particular university or college," he added, "and as far as I am concerned they will continue to be made impartially and without any idea in mind of exposing any one particular university."

Asked if he could name any universities under scrutiny, Velde replied: "I have no list to publicize at this time." He said the investigations will have to be pushed farther along before hearings can be scheduled.

World News Briefs

SEOUL (AP) — More than 100 Allied fighter-bombers blasted a big Communist troop and supply concentration in northwest Korea Tuesday 30 miles from Manchuria destroying at least 28 buildings, the air force reported. Communist MIGs from nearby Manchurian bases did not challenge the massive air strike, but Sabre pilots claimed two Red jets were damaged earlier in the day. On the ground, action slackened after staff Red blows at United Nations positions late Monday and early Tuesday ended a holiday lull in the fighting.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Economist David Weintraub, accused by the U.S. state department of being a Communist disciple, Tuesday quit his high UN post. He said he resigned to save the world organization any embarrassment. Weintraub, long-time director of the UN division of economic stability and development, was named in a state department list of 11 allegedly disloyal Americans employed by the UN which the Senate McCarran subcommittee made public in Washington Sunday.

PARIS (AP) — Rene Mayer, a leader of the Radical Socialist (Conservative) party, Wednesday was confirmed as France's 18th premier since World War II. The vote ended a 16-day government crisis that followed the resignation of Antoine Pinay as premier. The official tally gave Mayer 389 votes for confirmation to 205 against him.

Addresses U.S., Allies—

Wiley Blasts 'Loopholes' in Treason Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis.) urged the United States and the Western Allies Tuesday to "tighten their present statutes against the high crimes of treason, espionage and subversion in high places."

"The punishment should not be a tap on the wrist but a real deterrent," Wiley said in a prepared statement. He will head the senate foreign relations committee in the new congress.

Declaring his remarks were addressed to the United Kingdom, Canada, France and the other free countries, Wiley cited what he termed "these examples of Red infiltration in high places and Allied weakness in dealing with them":

1. The sentencing of Alger Hiss, former State department official, to prison on charges that he lied under oath in denying that he ever handed government secrets to a Soviet spy ring. Wiley said the statute of limitations prevented prosecution of Hiss on more serious charges and represented "an appalling loophole" in U.S. laws.

2. "The British traitor, Dr. Allen Nunn May, who made available atomic materials to the Soviets, served a mere 6½ years in prison," Wiley said. "He emerged unrepentant from his confinement and indicates he would do the same thing again if given the chance."

3. "The arch traitor of them all, the revealer of A-bomb and H-bomb secrets, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, is serving a sentence of merely 14 years. He is described as 'the master spy of all time,' but under the British official secrets act, 14 years is the maximum imprisonment for anyone who gives 'official secrets' to unauthorized persons, exclusive of 'enemy nations.' Russia is theoretically a 'non-enemy' nation apparently."

"The punishment for crime," Wiley said, "should be commensurate with the gravity of the crime. The punishment should not be a tap on the wrist but a real deterrent."

Wiley called U.S. laws for dealing with espionage "hopelessly weak and obsolete." Among other things he cited the ban against the use of evidence obtained by wire tapping.

He announced he has asked Atty. Gen. McGranery to submit to congress proposals for tightening the laws.

Early Domestic Issues to Test Administration

WASHINGTON (CP) — President-elect Eisenhower's relations with the new congress will be put to the test during the first few months of his administration. The outcome may well determine the course the new administration will follow in its relations with the house and senate during the next four years.

The crucial issues involved will be domestic, and not foreign, even though foreign issues pose some of the gravest problems he will have to face.

Command Safe Majority
This is so because Eisenhower will command a safe majority in both houses when it comes to major international decisions.

Since the new Republican President apparently plans to pursue in international affairs a course similar to that carried on by his two Democratic predecessors, he can expect the support of most Democrats, as well as many Republicans, for foreign legislation.

It is on domestic issues that the test will come soon after he takes office Jan. 20. In his first six months Eisenhower must decide whether to permit many economic controls to die. If he decided against termination, then he must determine in what form, and to what extent, they should be re-enacted.

Price, Wage Controls
Price and wage controls, reciprocal trade, corporation profits, and individual income taxes are some of the important matters that the new President must act upon early in his administration. Which ever way he acts, Eisenhower will find that congress, and the country, are sharply divided on the course to be taken.

The first problem that will face President Eisenhower—and one to which he must find an almost immediate answer—is what to do about price, wage and rent controls. These anti-inflation curbs have been in effect almost two years. They expire April 30.

President-Elect Eisenhower and Some of the Problems He Faces.

quests. However, such action on the new chief executive's part would diminish his popularity with congress, even though it is controlled by his own party. President Eisenhower may meet the tough problem with a compromise. He may ask congress to give the government authority to control wages, price and rents after April 30, but only on a stand-by basis, for use in the event of a sudden emergency.

June 30, if no further action is taken, while the personal income tax boost will terminate Dec. 31.

Approximately $5 billion is involved. President Eisenhower will have to decide whether the government can afford to leave this income go. President Truman has estimated the deficit for the current fiscal year which ends June 30 will total $10 billion, 300 million.

When President Eisenhower contemplates the forthcoming deficit, he will also be faced with another fiscal problem on which an unpopular decision may have to be made. If President Truman's fiscal officers are right in their estimates, the public debt will reach $275 billion by June 30, 1953.

That Is the Limit
That is the limit permitted by existing law. President Eisenhower and the congress may have to decide whether to increase the ceiling. Failure to do so may pose financial difficulties for the government. The public debt has already passed $267 billion.

Next June 30 the Reciprocal Trade Agreements law also expires. This program, one of the bulwarks of the New Deal, was initiated in 1934 by Cordell Hull while secretary of state. Its purpose has been to increase world trade by reducing tariffs, both United States and foreign.

Republicans have fought the program for years. Eisenhower will have to decide whether he wishes to go along with numerous revisions which GOP congressmen have been demanding.

Could Have Repercussions
Drastic amendment of the tariff program which has been in effect for 18 years could have worldwide repercussions and bring adverse reactions from America's allies abroad.

With the expiration dates on these important laws looming so close after inauguration, President Eisenhower will find little time in which to bask in a nation's acclaim.

Perhaps this is why President Truman wears an almost perpetual grin these days. Along with the rewards of office go its headaches—and the new President and the new congress face some mighty big ones.

GOP State Senators To Choose Leaders

DES MOINES (P) — Iowa Republican state senators will caucus at 10 a. m., Saturday at the Hotel Savery here to choose a president pro tem and floor leader.

State Sen. Leo Elthon of Fertile, caucus chairman, Monday issued the call for the Republican meeting of 46 senators. Their choice for president pro tem formally will be elected when the legislature convenes Monday. There are only four Democratic senators.

Elthon is the lieutenant governor-elect as well as Republican senate floor leader. He will not take office until he is inaugurated Jan. 15, with Gov. William S. Beardsley.

REPAIR AUTHORIZED
DES MOINES (P) — The Iowa executive council Monday authorized the state department of public instruction to spend $1,113 for some new and repair of some present equipment used in the education of handicapped children in their homes.

McCarthy Says Truman Would Give Testimony

WASHINGTON (P) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Monday night he believed if congressional investigating committees ever need President Truman's testimony he will give it without a subpoena.

He said he had no plans to summon the President after Truman returns to private life. But he indicated Secretary of State Acheson might be called after his term of office ends.

McCarthy was asked in a radio interview about the possibility that both the President and secretary of state might be subpoenaed for questioning after they left office. He said he thought "the opposite party should be very, very reluctant to subpoena the President" and that he himself had no plans at present to do so.

To Head Investigations
McCarthy is slated to head the senate investigating committee.

Also to be reorganized under Republican control are the House Un-American Activities committee and the senate internal security subcommittee, which has been investigating reports of Communist infiltration among American nationals in the UN staff.

Without saying that he would follow a suggestion of Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), senate majority leader, the new investigations should be cleared in advance with the Republican senate policy committee, McCarthy said he would have "no objection to discussing any of these matters with the policy committee."

But he made it plain he thought co-operation between the committees would have to be worked out by the groups themselves and their staffs and said he was sure there would be no "fight over jurisdiction."

Claims to Have Information
He said he had considerable information on "Communist professors and teachers" which he would gladly turn over to the house committee if it undertook that investigation.

Under further questioning he said he was not concerned with faculty members who taught what communism is, but only those who followed the party line in their teaching "under Communist discipline."

He said he had no intention of stopping his search for Communists now that a Republican administration was in authority, declaring he did not think "either the Republicans or the Democrats have a monopoly on subversives or corruption."

"The Communists," he said, "will work harder to infiltrate this administration than the last administration—they'll find it harder to do."

Defense Withdraws 'Rights' Objection In 'Key Club' Case

DES MOINES (P) — Defense attorney Raymond Rosenberg Tuesday withdrew his objections to the right of Carl Smedal, special assistant attorney general, to work with the Polk county grand jury in its investigation of "key clubs" in Des Moines.

Rosenberg represents two men and one woman from Club Royale, who were indicted Dec. 24 on charges of bootlegging and conspiracy to violate the liquor control act.

In withdrawing his motion to set aside the indictments, Rosenberg told Judge Russell Jordan he was now satisfied with the right of Smedal to participate in the grand jury probe.

He then entered pleas of innocence for his three clients, Edwina Alexander, 21; Donald D. Jackson, 39; and Sam Paterno, 29.

In resistance to Rosenberg's motion, Smedal had proposed to call the seven members of the November term grand jury which returned the indictment, in a move to show that no unauthorized persons had appeared in the investigation.

Judge Jordan temporarily delayed assignment of the cases.

Federal Indictment Against Karasek Declared Legal

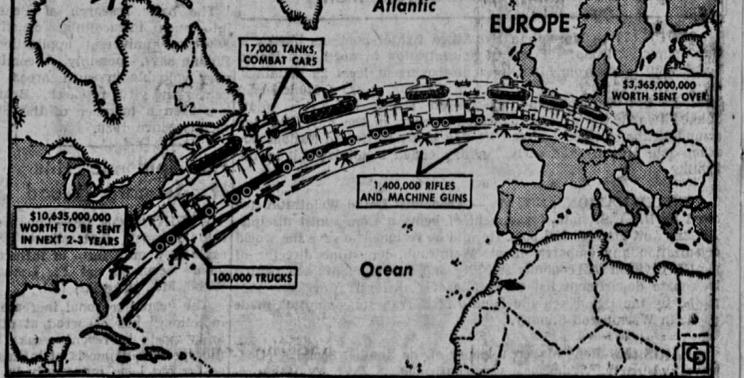

DES MOINES (P) — Federal Judge William F. Riley Monday refused to dismiss a federal indictment against Martin Karasek and has ruled in effect that an order to deport Karasek from the United States is valid.

Karasek, a Bettendorf iron construction worker, is accused of violating the 1950 subversive control (McCarran) act. The charge resulted in a deportation order issued by federal authorities on April 30, 1953.

The deportation order was made after an immigration hearing in which officials held that Karasek was an alien "who believed in the overthrow of the government by force or violence."

Karasek claimed the deportation order was a "mere administrative proceeding without protective purposes guaranteed to persons accused of crime."

U.S. Arms to Europe Could Equip 2,000,000

THE UNITED STATES HAS SUPPLIED ENOUGH ARMS and other equipment for 2,000,000 men to defend Europe, the Pentagon has announced. Chart illustrates arms already sent and to be sent under a total appropriation of $14 billion under provisions of the mutual assistance program, which now is three-years old.

More Communist Purges Seen in East Germany

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst
The Communists are on the hunt for scapegoats again, this time in East Germany, and the purge trial seems to be near.

As it was in Romania and other countries held captive by the Soviet empire, the root of the purge will be economic troubles. The whipping boy will be the long-suffering Jew. In name, the enemy of the Communists at the present time is Zionism, but that is only a light mask for the anti-Semitism which is again raising its bestial head in Middle Europe under the cynical sponsorship of the Kremlin.

The East German Communists—they call themselves the Socialist Unity party—have already announced charges against two former high Communist officials who now suddenly become "Trotskyites" and plotters with Zionists. The two are ex-Politburo member Paul Merker and the former West German Communist leader Kurt Mueller.

Usually Long Confinement
As usual, in Communist-ruled countries, arrest does not mean trial at once. The arrested person is held in solitary confinement for months and years, if necessary, until the time when he implicates a sufficient number of others, confesses his own sins, and is useful as a witness for the big show trials with which Communist kills communists.

These are not the only two slated for the reward that fanatical service to Stalin has brought to many a Communist. Gerhart Eisler, the man who jumped his jail in the United States and became information minister in the East zone of Germany, evidently is on his way to the prisoner's lock. He is a Jew—and more than that, he is the brother of Ruth Fischer, who became a Trotskyite. That is enough to hang Eisler.

The pattern seems the same as that in Czechoslovakia, where the Communists hanged Rudolf Slansky, their former boss, and 10 other former big shots in the party. The answer is economic trouble.

Ministers Handy Scapegoats
The minister of supply would be a handy scapegoat for the shortages of foods and other materials in East Germany, a rich agricultural area. The party control commission would be the scapegoat for the straying of Communists disillusioned by the Soviet debauchery of the country.

Former Social Democrats and others taken into the government will be castigated in the forthcoming trial, but the overall blame for the troubles of all the people in his satellite country, as in the others, will be placed on the Zionists. This could lead to a starring role for Eisler. The complaints of the party against "American Jewish financial circles" indicates that the stage has been set.

But Eisler put his own neck in the noose.

Plan Would Control Morse GOP Influence

WASHINGTON (P) — Republican leaders have worked out a plan that would prevent Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon from holding the balance of power in any senate committee.

Under the plan, Morse would be placed with the Democratic minority as far as committee influence is concerned. The Oregon senator bolted the Republican party in the recent presidential campaign, and now calls himself an independent.

The proposed plan calls for the realignment of most senate committees. Two members would be added to each of 10 major committees and two would be subtracted from each of five less important ones.

There is an odd number of senators on each committee, with the majority party—in this case, the Republicans—holding an edge of one.

Thus, under the proposed plan, if Morse were on a 15-member committee, the lineup would be eight Republicans, six Democrats and one independent. The effect would be to assure he would not have the deciding vote in any group.

A highly-placed source said no decision had been made as yet whether to knock Morse off the two major committee jobs he now holds and assign him to lesser groups. He now is on the armed services and labor committees.

The committee plan is to go before a conference of all Republican senators Wednesday. If approved there, it may be adopted by the senate later in the day.

Congress Formally Proclaims Eisenhower As President of U.S.

WASHINGTON (P) — The new 33d congress formally proclaimed to an unsurprised world Tuesday that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has won the right to be inaugurated as president of the United States.

In a ceremony described by some critics as a throwback to the horse-and-buggy days, the lawmakers also declared Richard M. Nixon of California to be vice-president-elect.

Re-enacting an age-old historical drama, the legislators met in joint session in the house chamber and listened as four tellers solemnly tolled off the state-by-state tally for electoral college votes for the two highest offices in the land.

The official confirmed that the Republican ticket of Eisenhower and Nixon won the Nov. 4 election over the Democratic ticket of Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John J. Sparkman of Alabama.

The score, in electoral votes, was 142-89.

Meanwhile, Sen. Smothers (D-Fla.), introduced a bill in the senate aimed at abolishing the electoral college as presently set up.

Under current law, all of a state's electoral votes go to the candidate who wins a majority of the state's popular vote. The electoral votes are proportioned among the states according to the number of each state's senators and representatives in congress.

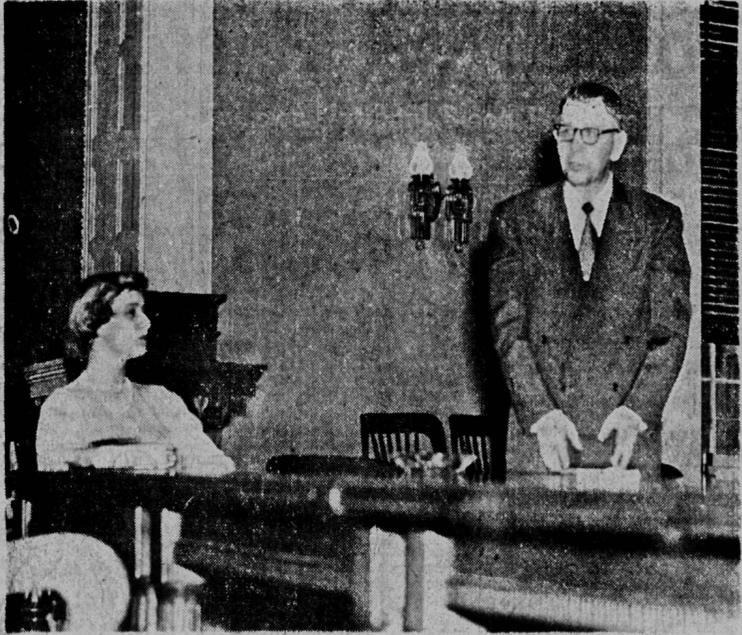

Smathers said his bill would divide the electoral votes in the same ratio as the state's popular vote was split.

The Florida senator's proposal would require an amendment to the Constitution.

Wheeler Talks on National Blood Program

MERLE WHEELER, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR of the mid-western bloodmobile drive, spoke to SUI housing representatives Tuesday afternoon on the importance of recruiting blood donors. Wheeler's talk pointed up the national blood program which will be carried on in Iowa City Jan. 19 through 21. Charlotte Becker, A3, Burlington, chairman for the student blood drive, is seated at the table.

SUI Recruiters Hear Talk On Blood Drive at Meeting

"The Red Cross is the national blood collection agency, and the biggest job of collection is recruiting donors," said Merle Wheeler, assistant director of the mid-western bloodmobile drive, in a speech to university housing representatives in Old Capitol Tuesday afternoon.

Wheeler is here in connection with the national blood program which will be carried on in Iowa City and SUI.

Blood donations will be accepted in the First Methodist church basement on Jan. 19, 20, and 21.

Quota for Iowa City and SUI is 792 pints, but 1,200 pledges will be sought.

Persons from the ages 21-59 may give blood without the consent of their parents if they meet the physical requirements. A donor can't be less than 18 years of age. All persons between the ages of 18-21 must have written parental consent unless they are on active military duty.

Physical Requirements
The physical requirements, in addition to age, include good health, weight not less than 110 pounds, and the donor must not have given blood for at least three months before the date of the blood drive.

Mrs. Leslie G. Moeller is general chairman of the drive. Chairman for student Red Cross is Karen Kratz, N2, Rockford, Ill., and chairman for the student blood drive is Charlotte Becker, A3, Burlington. Faculty advisers are Miss Helen Focht, counselor for women in the office of student affairs, and Miss Frances Camp, director of the educational placement office and co-ordinator of the SUI placement service.

The blood will be collected by a mobile unit of the Red Cross as part of a national drive. It will be sent to the armed forces, placed in civilian defense stockpiles and converted to serum for use in polio prevention. The entire drive is under the co-ordination of the office of defense mobilization.

Col. Walter E. Sewell, head of military science and tactics and Col. George Bosch, head of air science and tactics, will be in charge of loading and shipping the blood after it is collected.

Will Recruit Donors
Robert G. Stevenson, 1305 Yewell st., will be in charge of recruiting blood donation pledges Jan. 5 through 10.

Mrs. R. A. Fenton heads volunteer services for the collection. Mrs. H. B. Elkins will oversee attending nurses, and Dr. Robert Hardin of the SUI college of medicine will be in charge of attending doctors.

Carolyn White, Bernard Westfall Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Westfall, who were married Dec. 14 in Iowa City, are at home at 404 E. Davenport st., after a two week honeymoon at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Mrs. Westfall, the former Miss Carolyn Adelaide White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey White, 612 S. Clinton, and Mr. Westfall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coyl Westfall, R.R. 6, were married in a double ring ceremony at the First Methodist church.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Ruth White. Kenneth Westfall, Lone Tree, was best man.

The bride wore a princess style gown of white slipper satin trimmed with lace insets and seed pearls. The skirt extended into a court train and the sleeves formed points over the wrists. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a Juliet cap of white seed pearls.

Bridesmaids were Misses Patricia Thomas and Barbara Waller, both of Iowa City.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride was graduated from Iowa City high school in 1952. Since then she has been employed with the Northwestern Bell Telephone company.

The bridegroom was graduated from Lone Tree high school in 1948. He is a senior at SUI majoring in physical education.

RECITAL PLANNED

Alan Rea, A3, Iowa City will present a piano recital Jan. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the north music hall of SUI. Included in his selections will be "French Suite No. 5 in G Major" by Bach, "Sonata in E Major" by Beethoven, "Sonata in B Minor" by Chopin, and "Tombeau de Couperin" by Ravel. The public is invited to attend.

Young Women's Christian association.

Mr. Glattly, D4, is a member of Psi Omega social fraternity. The couple will be married in June.

Miss Heller Engaged To Dental Student

Carla Heller

Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Heller of Appleton, Wis. announce the engagement of their daughter, Carla May, to Mr. Dean Glattly, of Spencer.

Miss Heller, A4, is a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority, Mortarboard and president of the blood during the war. After the war the program ceased to exist, but doctors coming back from military service felt the need of blood for the local level. Small communities set up blood banks and soon a regional system was established whereby several counties belonged to one bank. This medical program was approved by all medical societies. Most all of the program was set up on a volunteer basis.

In 1950 the Korean war broke out and again the Red Cross was called upon to increase plasma collection for war purposes.

None of the blood collection was for civilian use, so on Dec. 10, 1951, the national blood program was established under the defense mobilization department. Human blood was declared a national resource. This was set up in case of attack so that blood can be shipped to any emergency point for civilian as well as military use.

Fraternity Tries Own Home Cooking

Some of the members of Sigma Nu social fraternity are taking a no credit course in home economics in addition to the rest of their curriculum.

The men are helping their housemother, Mrs. George Whitford, with the cooking at the chapter house. The fraternity has been hunting unsuccessfully for a cook since their former cook announced her January resignation in September.

Kappa Kappa Gamma social sorority also does not have a cook. Their cook became ill during vacation and was not able to return to work.

The girls were dinner guests of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity Tuesday evening.

Tonight the girls will be dinner guests of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

While the fellows are eating all three meals at the chapter house the girls do not get lunch at the house until a cook is found.

Mrs. Eleanor Mitchell, Kappa Kappa Gamma housemother, prepares breakfast for the girls. Mrs. Whitford gets the coffee ready for the boys and they get their own breakfast.

The quota this year is twice that of last year's quota of 456 pints, collected last January.

The hours for the blood bank will be on the 19th, 11 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.; the 20th, 10 a.m. to 3:45 p.m.; the 21st, 9 a.m. to 2:45 p.m.

Must List Hours

Students are asked to give exact hours at which they can appear at the blood bank. The process will take about an hour, during which time the donor will be checked for physical capability. There will be cookies and coffee served at the canteen.

Students are also asked to eat normally until four hours before giving blood; in that four-hour period one should have all the juices, coffee or tea, fruits and toast (with jam, jelly or honey), but fatty foods are out. This means no fried foods, fat meats, butter, cheese, cream, milk, pastries, peanut butter or oily dressings.

Wheeler devoted most of his talk to acquainting the audience with the beginning of the American Red Cross as an agency for blood collection.

Red Cross Chosen

The Red Cross was first chosen for such work during World War II. Every county in the U.S. contributed some 13 million pints of blood.

SPORTS

Over the holidays the Big Ten basketball race began to shape up as the experts predicted — upset-filled.

To begin with, Illinois, ranked No. 1 in the poll of the nation's coaches by the United Press, was knocked off at Minneapolis by the Golden Gophers who capitalized at the free throw line although the Illini scored 10 more field goals.

Ohio State, figured as one of the league big guns, lost two of its first three league ball games and only Paul Ebert of the squad's many returning regulars, played up to form.

Then Minnesota was matched with lowly Northwestern at Minneapolis last Saturday. But, after losing their first two Big Ten starts, the Wildcats had little trouble knocking Minnesota from a tie for the league lead.

Only Indiana has played up to its ability consistently, winning all four league games. However, even the Hoosiers have been pressed, eeking out a high-scoring 91-88 over Michigan, who has won only one of five league games.

And Monday night they received another scare, trailing Michigan State 50-34 at halftime but pulling ahead, 69-62, at the final gun at East Lansing.

It looks like big Don Schlundt is the likely successor to Iowa's Chuck Darling as the Big Ten's leading scorer. Against Iowa the 6-foot, 9-inch Hoosier was able to pivot and score almost at will and he has since dropped in 39 and 33 points in recent loop games.

This Saturday's game at Michigan State should give a good indication as to just how high our Hawks can rank.

Iowa got back to work Monday after a layoff since Dec. 30. After workouts tonight and Thursday the squad plans to leave by plane Friday morning for East Lansing. It then moves to Ann Arbor for a game with Michigan Monday.

Bucky said Tuesday that Whitey Diehl, 6-4 forward and center who won a letter in 1951, has returned to the squad and may help the reserve situation. Diehl had a tonsillotomy in early season but suffered a relapse.

Both Michigan State and Michigan should be tough on their home courts. The Spartans play a ball-control type of game which gets opponents off their timing. Michigan showing improved scoring, last Saturday scored the same number of field goals as Indiana but lost, 91-88, on free throws," Bucky commented.

Before the Hawks play at home again — Jan. 19 against Northwestern — they meet Minnesota at Minneapolis Jan. 17.

California, the team that both Iowa and Wisconsin had no trouble beating 10 days ago, is still rated one of the tops nationally in the current Associated Press poll. Despite a mediocre 5-4 season mark, the Bears got enough points to rank 20th in the country.

From what we saw of California, if it is the No. 20 team in the country the teams that rank from 21 down must be below par.

Deacon Davis, Herb Thompson and Ken Buckles are less than five points apart on averages, 18.0 to 13.8, and the other guard, Chuck Jarnagin, has hit for 10 points per game.

The Iowa teams have a record of 11 wins and 11 losses in contests since last September. The basketball team has 5-3; cross country, 3-1; gymnastics, 1-0; and football, 2-7.

The three Big Ten basketball games in the field house were seen by an average of 9,900 persons. However, two of the tics came during Christmas vacation when most of the students were away. The 1952 home average for league games was 14,142.

Big crowds are definitely expected for the remaining home games: Jan. 19, Northwestern; Feb. 9, Michigan State; Feb. 21, Illinois; Feb. 23, Ohio State; Mar. 2, Minnesota; and Mar. 7, Purdue.

Thompson tops the cagers at the free throw line with a .733 percentage. He has made 33 of 45. None of the other Hawkeyes has hit more than .667. The team percentage is .629.

When Iowa beat Wisconsin in the field house Dec. 29, it was the 100th basketball victory on that court since 1943-44, a period of about nine and one-half seasons. In that time, the Hawkeyes have lost only 12 home games.

Bell Ready To Approve New Entry

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Tuesday night that Baltimore fans had "lived up to their end of the bargain" by buying 15,000 season tickets for 1953 and "I'm ready to live up to my end" by approving a franchise for the Maryland city.

Bell said that he had obtained unanimous consent of NFL owners to okay a Baltimore franchise if fans in that city agreed to purchase $250,000 worth of season tickets by Jan. 22. That amounted to about 15,000 tickets.

Until Tuesday individual fans in Baltimore had guaranteed to buy about 13,000 tickets and Tuesday night an oil company agreed to buy any of the 15,000 not sold by the deadline.

The NFL commissioner said that he expects to announce within the next few days the name of the new Baltimore franchise owner. He has every hope, Bell said, that man will be Carroll Rosenbloom, 45-year-old wealthy Baltimore clothing manufacturer who played football at the University of Pennsylvania while Bell was coaching there.

The new Baltimore team will replace the Dallas Texans, which met a financial demise at the end of the 1952 NFL season. The Dallas franchise was operated by the league during the latter part of the season and then passed out of existence. The Baltimore franchise will be a new one.

Whoever does get the franchise at Baltimore will have to pay $200,000 for it. Bell guaranteed that the money realized from the ticket sales would be used solely for operation of the club.

The new owner would acquire, along with the franchise, the players from the defunct Texas team.

Line Couldn't Shift After Getting Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The influential rules committee of the American Football Coaches association took steps Tuesday to outlaw the controversial "sucker shift" used by Notre Dame and some other college gridiron teams including Iowa.

The group recommended a change in the rule concerning false starts which would automatically penalize any lineman who makes a move after getting set in his usual starting position.

In effect, the proposed new rule would say it was illegal procedure for a lineman to shift his position once he got down with his hands touching the ground. It would rule out the doubtful shifts which aroused a storm of controversy during the 1952 season and brought charges that they were designed to draw the defensive players offside.

2 Changes Recommended
Only two changes were recommended by the coaches committee.

The second change recommended was to make the quarterback in the T formation eligible to receive a forward pass under certain specified conditions.

Before the football coaches reported their ideas about rules, the association of College Baseball Coaches came up with a proposal to establish a draft of college players as a means of reaching an agreement with professional baseball.

Davey-Gavilan Welter Match Announcement Due Today

CHICAGO (AP) — A 15-round welterweight title match in Chicago Stadium Feb. 11 between champion Kid Gavilan and Chuck Davey is expected to be announced formally today.

Springville Falls To U-High, 53-48; Blues Now Top Loop

U-high fought its way to the top of the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference heap Tuesday night by beating previously undefeated Springville, 53-48. Playing rough ball all the way, both teams kept the game close to the final gun.

Led by center Ike Riggle who poured in 18 points, the Blues used the fast break to advantage. Gardner Van Dyke added 15 points.

John Wyman topped the losers with 13 points while Ed Luse added 10.

U-high opened fast and built up an 1-3 lead midway in the first period before the visitors started to roll. The lead dwindled and the half ended with the score tied 23-23.

Springville continued to gather in the points in an effort to pull away but the Bluehaws got hot. The visitors' advantage was short-lived as the Blues picked up steam at the start of the fourth quarter.

From then on it was point-for-point ball with neither team gaining any safe lead. The Springville team became desperate and collected too many fouls. Coach Lou Alley's squad hit a good percentage of last minute free throws.

Forward John Price also hit his stride to help the Blues, turning in some fine floor play.

The U-high reserves hit the win column downing Springville junior varsity, 36-32.

1,500 Gather

Some 1,500 representatives of more than 400 institutions of higher learning gathered for a weeklong series of meetings on athletic matters. They are here for the 47th National Collegiate Athletic association convention, starting Thursday.

While the baseball men were getting down to serious business, the important membership and television committees of the NCAA held closed meetings to complete their reports to the convention.

The television committee, completing its report on the 1952 program of controlled football TV and preparing its plan for 1953, had nothing to say for itself. Its report probably won't be made public before Wednesday.

Explains 'Draft' Proposal
In a lengthy press conference, Paul Amen of Army, president of the baseball coaches association, explained the new "draft" proposal had been suggested as a means of interesting the professional club owners in sort of an agreement that would prevent the signing of players while they still are in college.

Previous efforts to reach an agreement had faded out, but this time Amen has the assurance of major league baseball commissioner Ford Frick that a committee will be named to talk things over with the coaches.

The duties of the national commissioner, if such an office is created, would be principally to continue the dickering between the college coaches and organized baseball and to promote the regional and national college tournaments.

Baltimore Pros Set to Propose NBA Merging to 8 Teams

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Bullets are ready to propose that four of the National Basketball Association teams merge into two for the second half of the season.

Bob Elmer, general manager, said Tuesday he is prepared to suggest the consolidation at a league meeting next Monday in Ft. Wayne as the answer to an expected plea from Philadelphia and Indianapolis for player help.

The other eight teams turned a deaf ear to such a request by Philadelphia and Indianapolis at the last league meeting. There has been talk that they will renew it next week.

Elmer said he will propose that Philadelphia merge with Baltimore and Indianapolis with Milwaukee. They are the bottom teams in the two divisions of the association.

In Indianapolis, however, Cliff Courtney, president of the Indianapolis team denied Tuesday night that it is interested in merging with another club.

Courtney said Indianapolis has been having trouble at the gate but "I believe our team is rounding into good form and that the worst part of our schedule, with its long trips, is over."

The association reaches the halfway mark in its season Sunday. Elmer would have Minneapolis, leader in the West, proclaimed the first half champion because it has a better percentage than New York, the East pacesetter. The eight teams then would finish out the season in one circuit.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro basketball has taken the play away from the collegians in Madison Square Garden as one aftermath of the fixing scandals.

A check of the attendance figures for the first 12 programs for both the pros and collegians in the garden this season and last season, shows the New York Knicks' crowds are up 23 per cent while the amateur turnouts are down 34 per cent.

This season the 12 college twin bills drew 93,948 for an average of 7,829. Last season the collegians attracted 126,289 fans for an average of 10,524.

The Knicks, of the National Basketball Association, have lured 133,899 fans for an average of 11,158 compared with 1951-52 figures of 109,132 and 9,094.

The colleges playing in the Garden still are feeling the reaction of many fans to the widespread fixing scandals. Also, New York teams playing in the famed area are weaker than usual. Restrictions on off campus play also have dealt a body blow to the Garden college programs. "Name" basketball teams from Kentucky, Utah, and Oklahoma among others did not visit the Garden this year.

16 Minutes of Thrills!
TO-DAY THURSDAY FRIDAY

ENGLERT

"Here's why I admire you."
says BARBARA STANWYCK

I've always admired the kind of people who are doing something about their future. People who are investing in U. S. Defense Bonds. People like you!

When I think about how you and I and millions of our friends and neighbors have more than 49 billion dollars invested in Bonds—it makes me proud.

For we've done this—not only because U. S. Defense Bonds are a sure way to save money. But because we believe they represent a realistic plan for peace and security—in a world where peace is only for the strong!

Great News!
New money-earning features for U. S. Defense Bonds!

FIRST—Thanks to new Treasury regulations, every Series E Bond you invest in begins earning interest after only 6 months. It earns 3% interest compounded semiannually when held to maturity. It reaches full maturity value earlier (9 years 8 months) and the interest it pays is now bigger at the start.

SECOND—Every Series E Bond you own can now go on earning interest for 10 more years after it reaches the original maturity date—without your lifting a finger!

THIRD—During the 10-year extension period, every unmaturing Bond earns at the new, higher interest rate (average 3% compounded semiannually). Your original $18.75 can now pay you back $33.67. $37.50 pays back $67.34. And so on.

FOURTH—If you want to be paid the interest your Bonds are earning every six months, or if you want to invest more than the present $20,000 limit for E Bonds, ask at your bank about the new Series H, J and K Defense Bonds.

Why the Payroll Savings Plan is the easiest way to save money!
More than seven and one-half million Americans are now saving easily and regularly on the Payroll Savings Plan. It's the plan that works because it saves money out of your check every payday before you have a chance to spend it. And you know, no matter how large or small your income, you can't afford not to save something for yourself! So today, sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank.

Peace is for the strong! For peace and prosperity save with U. S. Defense Bonds

TV, Radio Replace Schools

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mothers sacrificed their soap operas Tuesday and their children got school lessons instead of cowboys and Indians on television and radio.

The nation's broadcast attempt at education by commercial air lanes was staged for 80,000 children kept out of school by a six-day strike of municipal workers.

The strike has kept janitors and firemen out of 107 of the city's 174 schools. Children and teachers in the unheated schools reported at 9 a. m., kept on their overcoats, got homework assignments and left. They are to do this every day.

Education continued for three hours on two television and two radio stations. Baltimore's third television station and more radio outlets are expected to be used if the strike continues.

The strike of 3,300 employees for a 10 per cent increase also is piling up the garbage in this city of a million. The city has refused any increase in the hourly pay of $1.19 1/2 to $1.22 1/2.

The school children don't have to watch or listen to the television and radio classes. But those who do turn in reports will get extra credit. Most of the 80,000 probably tuned in Tuesday for the novelty at least.

Kids Prove Enthusiastic
The reaction of one group of four youngsters was typical. No sooner had Dr. William H. Lemmel, school superintendent, started introducing the television classes than 9-year-old Billy Montgomery cracked:

"Boy, they ought to have a little bit of comics to liven this up."
Seven-year-old Sue Stine approved. "I like it very much. I thought it was very interesting."

Variety of Subjects
School officials admitted the programming was "something less than perfect." They rushed into it and planned it only as an addition to the homework assignments given out in school. The first day's subjects included science, arithmetic, spelling, aviation, language, safety, culture, library procedures and music. A student gave a teenage view of the news.

Fifteen teachers were picked for the television and radio classes. The television portions were conducted in the form of a teacher and a demonstration class. Some young viewers acted like it was a quiz show, blurted out answers to questions asked by the teacher of the studio pupils.

The class subjects were about equally divided between elementary and high school levels.

Iowa City Complies With State Request To Test Raw Milk

Iowa City has complied with the state department of health's request that raw milk brought to local dairies be tested in state laboratories, city manager Peter Roan said Tuesday.

An agreement with the state laboratories, located in the SUI medical laboratory building, will provide for the testing of raw milk at an estimated cost to the city of about $1,500 per year. This is at the rate of one dollar per test.

A city ordinance passed Jan. 8, 1945, requires that milk of producers selling to dairies here be tested at least six times a year. There are about 180 producers who bring milk to Iowa City.

At the time the ordinance was passed, the milk was tested by the state laboratory at the expense of the state, according to Dr. D. F. Fitzpatrick, city health officer. The testing was eliminated later when the legislature cut the state laboratory's budget.

There is nothing wrong with milk sold by dairies here at the present time, health officials said, because of the sterilization process which the milk goes through in the dairies before it is ready for sale to the public.

The testing is an added protection Roan said, and some local dairies have been sending some raw milk to a Cedar Rapids laboratory for testing occasionally in the past.

Iowans Plan Float In Inaugural Parade

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa's float in the Eisenhower inaugural parade will feature a big wheel geared to a smaller wheel with the theme "working together makes the wheels go."

Republican state headquarters said also Tuesday the float will be liberal in its display of corn on each end. The color scheme will be blue and gray, with the yellow corn.

The mechanism part of the float will show Iowa as the smaller wheel, with a cog each for agriculture, industry, business, the professions and labor.

RESERVE MEETING SET

Flight B, 9688th volunteer air reserve training squadron, will hold a meeting tonight at 7 in the ROTC armory, room 11.

Capt. Joseph Gaeta, a member of the flight, will discuss the geography of Russia. A coordinated training film will be shown.

Headquarters, Tenth Air force, recently announced the promotion of Graham E. Marshall to Lt. Col., commanding officer of the local flight.

Gun Crew Awaits Target on 'Old Baldy'

WAC, WAF Seek Women Graduates As Army Officers

March 15 is the deadline for commissions in the women's army corps, regular army, the Iowa military district headquarters in Des Moines announced.

The applicant must be a college graduate or prospective graduate in her senior year; at least 21 years old, but under 27; a citizen of the United States; single; have no dependents under 18; of good moral character and physically fit. She must not be a member or past member of any subversive organization.

College women will be given direct appointments, upon selection, as second lieutenants in the women's army corps reserve and ordered to extended duty for attendance at a basic course at Ft. Lee, Va.

Pay of second lieutenants, amounting to $222.30 monthly base pay, $68.40 quarters allowance, and $47.88 subsistence allowance will be given trainees.

After completing the training course, officers will be expected to apply for commissions as second lieutenants in the regular army which will enable them to be assigned specific assignments in various army fields.

Applications should be sent to Screening Officer, WAC/WAF Section, U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, Room 109, Old Federal Building, Des Moines.

Sandburg Honored On 75th Birthday By City of Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago, Carl Sandburg's "hog butcher for the world, stacker of wheat and player with railroads"—turned out in its finery Tuesday night to honor the humble poet of the prairies.

This was the 75th birthday anniversary of the white-maned, guitar-playing bard and historian. Sandburg and his wife Lillian came to the city Monday from their goat farm in Flat Rock, N.C. The crystal room of the swank Blackstone hotel was taken over for an assembly in honor of this son of Swedish immigrants who grasped the pulse of urban and rural America as a migrant worker and later translated his findings to words.

Among the 500 names on the guest list were Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, who has proclaimed this "Carl Sandburg Week"; and Robert E. Sherwood, author and playwright and, like Sandburg, a Lincoln historian.

The Swedish government designated its ambassador to the United States, Erik Boheman, to present the poet with a decoration. An observance also was being held in Stockholm, Sweden, in Sandburg's honor.

Best known to latter day readers as author of a six-volume Pulitzer Prize biography of Lincoln, Sandburg was unheard of in the literary world until he was 38. It was in 1914 that a group of his poems appeared in "Poetry," a Chicago magazine that proved a stepping-stone to fame for many.

One of these poems was "Chicago," in which he described the metropolis as "hog butcher, wheat stacker, player with railroads, freight handler, big shouldered, husky, brawling, crooked and brutal," its head lifted high "so proud to be alive."

The poem won a prize and prompted him to bring out a book, "Chicago Poems." It made the raw-boned writer a bright new star in the literary sky.

Chicagoan Survives Leap

CHICAGO (AP)—Alexis Grekoff, 30, who survived a 14-story leap here Monday, said Tuesday his plunge was awful and that he "was conscious right up to the moment I hit."

Grekoff, formerly of Berkeley, Calif., suffered multiple fractures and cuts and bruises in crashing onto the roof of a car after jumping from a downtown YMCA. He is given a good chance of recovering.

Grekoff told this story of the plunge: "I looked down just before I jumped. I saw the car on the lot below me. I tried to jump out far enough so that I wouldn't hit the car, but I couldn't control my fall.

"It was a terrible feeling. I can't describe exactly how I felt as I rushed downward. It's a feeling I can never forget, and a feeling I never want to have again.

"I was conscious right up to the time I hit."

Group Endorses Larson For Iowa High Court

Atty. Gen. Robert L. Larson of Iowa City has been endorsed by the Johnson County Bar association for the vacancy now existing on the Iowa supreme court bench, Atty. Robert Osmondson, association president for Johnson county, said Tuesday.

A telephone poll of the members of the local group was conducted during the latter part of December and an endorsement of the Iowa Citizen was then sent to Gov. William S. Beardsley, who will appoint the new justice.

The present supreme court vacancy was created by the recent resignation of Justice Halleck J. Mantz, of Audubon, who had been a member of the court since 1942.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Court Clerk Miller of the Johnson County Courthouse was faced with an interesting coincidence recently when he was asked for a marriage license by a groom named Miller and a bride named Miller who had brought along a witness named... Miller!

McCarthy Asks Investigation Of Monroney Campaign Fund

Shows Truman Letter Of Acknowledgement Sent to Gruenewald

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) Tuesday produced a copy of a letter he said President Truman sent to Henry W. Gruenewald, Washington mystery man and wirepuller, expressing "heartfelt appreciation" for Gruenewald's support during the 1948 presidential campaign.

At the same time McCarthy suggested the Senate investigate "a very sizeable" political contribution he described as having been solicited from Gruenewald by a high government official and paid in cash into the campaign fund of Senator Monroney (D-Okla.).

Jess Larson, head of the general services administration, promptly identified himself as the official who received the money from Gruenewald. But he told reporters he did not solicit it. He said Gruenewald voluntarily contributed $500 in 1950, and that he passed it along for the benefit of Monroney, an old college chum.

Both Have Clashed

Monroney and McCarthy have clashed frequently both on the floor of the Senate and in the rules subcommittee probe of charges made against McCarthy by Sen. William Benton (D-Conn.).

McCarthy's own finances have come under the scrutiny of the subcommittee, on which Monroney served for a time. Monroney withdrew from the group before it filed a report Jan. 2 raising questions it said the Senate should decide to determine McCarthy's fitness for office.

This report, which also raised critical questions concerning Benton, was sent to the justice department Tuesday for study.

Among other things, the report raised a question of whether McCarthy diverted to his own use money collected to finance his campaign against Communists in government.

Gruenewald Was Indicted

Gruenewald, the man McCarthy said Truman wrote to, was indicted by a federal grand jury here for contempt of Congress. Known around Washington as "The Dutchman," Gruenewald refused to tell House investigators about his association with public officials involved in a series of tax scandals.

McCarthy made public a photographic copy of the presidential letter shortly after he announced he had drawn the Monroney matter to the attention of Senator Jenner (R-Ind.), slated to become chairman of the Senate privileges and elections committee in the new Republican-controlled Congress.

The letter, on White House stationery, was dated Nov. 24, 1948.

Can't Verify Letter

The White House said it was impossible to verify the existence of such a letter immediately, since files covering that period have been packed for shipment to Missouri. If there was such a letter, the spokesman said it would be in the same category as thousands sent out to campaign contributors at the time.

In disclosing Gruenewald's 1950 contribution to Monroney, McCarthy released a batch of correspondence in which he had written:

"The fact that the money was collected by a government employe would constitute a direct violation of the Hatch act." This bans political activity by most government employes. Larson contended that as a presidential appointee he is not covered by this ban.

McCarthy Questioned

McCarthy was asked whether he was contending that Monroney might have violated federal law if he failed to report the Gruenewald contribution, which was spent during a primary election campaign.

The Wisconsin senator replied that he believes federal law does not require such reports on primary election campaigns, but "I think the state law does — I've been told that."

Monroney issued a statement declaring that he had complied with both the Oklahoma state election laws and the federal election laws.

"I do not know Mr. Gruenewald," Monroney added.

Bus Strike Solved by These Girls

MANY OF NEW YORK'S MILLIONS trudged to work as eight independent bus lines put the city on its feet with a strike, but these girls prove that if you're pretty enough you don't have to walk. This pick-up truck delivers its cargo of girls right to the door at Columbus high school.

Witnesses Blast Slayer of Army Husband

TOKYO (AP)—A series of prosecution witnesses Tuesday pictured Dorothy Krueger Smith as a heedless slayer who either was drunk or drugged when her high ranking officer husband was fatally stabbed in bed at midnight last Oct. 3.

The prosecution expected to complete its presentation of evidence Wednesday and rest its case before a nine-member U. S. army court-martial. The defense readied a star witness of its own.

The attractive 40-year-old daughter of retired Gen. Walker Krueger has pleaded not guilty to charges of premeditated murder. Conviction calls for the death sentence on unanimous decision of the board, or life imprisonment if approved by three-fourths of the panel.

Defense Help Arrives

Thursday, Brig. Gen. Rawley E. Chambers, chief of the army's neuropsychiatry section was due to take the stand in defense of Mrs. Smith. He arrived from the J. S. Tuesday.

In the second day of the court-martial, Lt. Col. Joseph Hardin of Dallas, Tex., quoted the defendant as saying in effect, "Too bad I didn't get him in the heart," while her husband, Col. Aubrey D. Smith, lay bleeding to death with a knife wound in the side.

Hardin, a neighbor and golfing crony of Smith's, said he entered the bedroom a few minutes after a hunting knife with an eight-inch blade was plunged into the officer.

Tells of Actions

Hardin testified Mrs. Smith was "standing near a dressing table groping as though she were searching for something."

Hardin said Mrs. Smith seemed either drunk or drugged. She was not rational, and was unable to co-ordinate her physical movements. Finally she "seemingly passed out," he said.

Lt. Col. Melvin A. Goers, who accompanied Hardin to the Smith bedroom, testified he heard Mrs. Smith say in effect, "No one will ever know the reason why."

'Stumbled and Lurched'

Goers, of Champaign, Ill., said Mrs. Smith "appeared in a bit of a daze and stumbled and lurched to her dresser." Later, she crawled into bed and fell into a deep sleep or coma while her husband was taken to a hospital.

Unlike the opening day of her trial, Mrs. Smith maintained her composure Tuesday and even smiled at a Japanese maid servant who had testified against her.

It was almost a certainty the defense would not place her on the stand. It will try to prove that any army report saying she was able to tell right from wrong at the time of the slaying was in error.

March of Dimes Drive Gets Under Way Here

A total of $643.74 has been collected for the 1953 Johnson county March of Dimes campaign since the drive opened Friday, according to Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, chairman of the county infantile paralysis organization.

The drive, under the sponsorship of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, will continue until Jan. 31. A goal of $10,000 has been set for Johnson county.

Campaign officials emphasize the urgent need for donations to this year's drive. Last year represented the worst polio attack in the history of Johnson county. The crippling disease struck 41 persons with four deaths resulting. This is almost twice the number in 1951 when polio struck 22 persons.

Letters with return envelopes were sent to rural residents in the county for their contributions. Collection boxes in the shape of miniature iron lungs have been distributed to Iowa City business establishments to receive donations. Special collections in addition to the collection containers and the cural mail drive are being planned. The Women of the Moose are in charge of the Iowa City collections while the American Legion auxiliary chapters are in charge of collection in other county towns. Contributions may be mailed to the March of Dimes, Iowa City post office box No. 530.

Professor to Attend Faculty Advisors Meet

Louise Schmitt, associate professor of nursing service administration in the SUI college of nursing, will attend a Latin American faculty advisors conference at Michigan State college, East Lansing, Mich., Thursday and Friday.

The conference, sponsored by the W. K. Kellogg foundation of Battle Creek, Mich., brings together representatives from universities, hospitals and foundations to discuss the problems of bringing Latin American nursing students to this country to study nursing service administration.

Although SUI does not now have any of the Latin American nurses enrolled, it is anticipated, Miss Schmitt said, that some may enter the university next fall.

Medical Scholarship Winner Selects SUI for Residency

Dr. Raymond A. Schneider, intern at Eastern Maine General hospital, Bangor, Maine, and one of five winners of the Mead Johnson General Practice scholarship awards for 1953, selected the SUI hospitals in which to serve his one-year's general practice residency.

The scholarships, sponsored by Mead Johnson and company, manufacturers of infant nutritional products, are awarded annually to five outstanding senior medical students in the U.S. Winners are selected on the basis of scholarship, aptitude and fitness for general practice. They are assigned to hospitals where approved general practice residencies are available.

Scholarships are administered by the American Academy of General Practice, and each carries a $1,000 cash award payable in monthly installments during the period of residency.

In a letter to Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of the University hospitals, a spokesman for the academy said Dr. Schneider had expressed a preference for serving his residency at the SUI hospitals.

This preference was approved by the academy's scholarship award committee, the spokesman said, "since it has been highly impressed with the fine program you (the State University of Iowa hospitals) have established to prepare young physicians for a career as family doctors."

Iowa's general practice residency program was begun in 1950 by the University hospitals and the college of medicine to help prepare general practitioners for Iowa communities. Dr. Schneider will have the opportunity, as do other residents in the program for varied experience in general practice, with special emphasis on modern diagnostic and treatment techniques. Opportunity is given for the individual to vary his program in light of past experience and professional practice needs.

WSUI to Broadcast Dedication Ceremony Of Danforth Chapel

Details of the dedication ceremony for the new Danforth chapel on the SUI campus will be broadcast direct to Iowa listeners Sunday afternoon by university station WSUI.

The dedication ceremony will begin at 3 p.m. and the station will carry the full program. Normally, WSUI does not broadcast on Sunday.

A radio will be set up in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial union to accommodate visitors and university staff members who wish to hear the program.

WSUI is broadcasting the dedication because of widespread interest in the new chapel and because its seating capacity allows for only 75 persons.

According to M. Willard Lampe, director of the widely-known fonda school of religion, who will conduct the service, no denominational or sectarian services will be held in the church, in accordance with the wishes of the donors. It will be reserved for purposes of private and small-group worship and for student meditation.

Moeller to Head Press Committee

Professor Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, has been named chairman of the 1953 Iowa Press association committee to make the association's annual Master Editor-Publisher award.

The awards are made each year by the association to Iowans who have distinguished themselves by their work as editors and publishers of newspapers in the state.

The awards have been given each year since 1932, when they were set up by the late Grant L. Caswell, then managing director of the Iowa Press association.

Usually three publishers are chosen each year, although in three years during the period only two men were elected.

The announcement of the Master Editor-Publishers chosen will be made at the annual convention banquet of the Iowa Press association in Des Moines Friday, April 10.
