Firemen Battle 9-Building Blaze

(Daily Iowan Photos)

IOWA CITY FIREMEN POUR WATER into a two-story barn, one of the nine buildings that were either destroyed or badly damaged by fire Wednesday night. The fire was discovered about 9 p.m. and was brought under control about 10 p.m. In addition to the buildings, three cars and a truck were destroyed by the flames. No estimate of the damage could be made by Fire Chief Al Dolezal, but it was expected to top the $100,000 mark.

Reds To Return More POW's

9 Buildings, 3 Cars Burn In Local Fire

Three buildings were destroyed and six more badly damaged in a raging fire about 9 p.m. Wednesday evening in the block between Bloomington and Market sts.

All available Iowa City firemen and equipment were called to the scene where flames roared as high as 100 feet in the air at times.

Those buildings destroyed in the fire were:

A 20 by 40 foot two-story barn owned by Don Alberhasky, 912 17h ave.; a two-story 15 by 20 foot storage shed owned by Miss Margaret Schindhelm, 218 E. Market, and a storage shed owned by Fred Stenocher, 209 N. Linn.

Buildings damaged in the fire were:

A two-story brick building owned by Shuppert; a garage owned by Cora L. Unash, 623 E. Bloomington; a two-story 10 by 20 foot storage shed owned by Paul Sgennell; a two-story 20 by 40 foot barn owned by C. F. Huebner; and two storage sheds whose ownership was not determined. Fire chief Al Dolezal said Wednesday night that damage could be more extensive but inspection would determine that today.

Also destroyed and damaged in the fire were three automobiles an a truck belonging to Newton Weller of 101 East park road. He is the owner of Weller Motor Service at 207 N. Linn. Weller also lost some automobile supply parts which he had stored in the Alberhasky barn.

No estimate of the damage could be made by Dolezal. The origin of the fire, which started on the east corner of the Alberhasky barn could not be determined.

John Eggers, one of the first eye witnesses of the event, said the flames seemed to spread in a matter of 15 minutes.

Two SUI students and a companion discovered the blaze when they were walking through the alley. They were Jim Andersen, L1, Springsted; Jack Kuehnle, L4, Dubuque, and John Sweeney, Iowa City.

Officials Plan Investigation Of Atrocities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) said Wednesday administration officials have agreed to collect all possible evidence of Communist atrocities in Korea for possible war crimes prosecution in the future.

This report came after Bridges' appropriations committee had closeted itself for two hours with officials of the state and defense departments.

Bridges said the witnesses confirmed "the general information about atrocities and speaking generally said they were probably to a large extent sadly and unfortunately correct accounts."

He was referring to the spreading reports from sick and wounded U. S. prisoners released by the Communists under the agreement reached at Panmunjom.

Bridges Calls Meeting

Bridges called a hurried meeting of the committee so that senators could get a fill on what the administration knows about the reports.

Bridges said state department officials "agreed to broaden their inquiry with a view to keeping the records up to date so that war crimes prosecutions can be made."

At another point he spoke of prosecutions "if and when the time comes we are in a position to take some affirmative action." At present UN forces are unable to bring the perpetrators to book.

Inquiry To Be Broadened

The New Hampshire senator said the officials agreed to broaden their inquiry after the committee "strenuously urged war crimes procedures be followed in securing evidence while information is current on these atrocities."

Sen. Karl Mundt (R-SD) and Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) said the hearings did not turn up any new information on the atrocities and Magnuson went so far as to say he didn't have "an idea of the purpose served" by the hearings.

"I think it is important," said Bridges, "that the Communists know that these records are being made, and that there is going to be a complete job."

"This nation," he asserted, "cannot tolerate such carryings on. And I trust we will not do so."

Revise List To Exceed 1st Pledge

PANMUNJOM (Thursday) (AP) —The Communists today promised to free more than the 605 Allied sick and wounded pledged originally for the historic first prisoner exchange of the Korean war.

They also said they would release Friday 40 Americans, four Britons, four Turks, one Dutch, one Canadian and 50 South Koreans.

The transfer Friday will bring to 119 the total of Americans released, just about all the Reds originally had promised. Presumably, however, more Americans will be released in accord with the latest Communist promise.

The good tidings came amid thunderous reverberations as a big gun duel shook the hills around the Panmunjom plain where the disabled captive exchange rolled into its fourth day.

14 Americans Freed

Fourteen Americans, five Australians, six Colombians and 25 South Koreans were handed over to the Allies at 9 a.m. (6 p.m., CST Wednesday). Fifty South Korean disabled were to be released later in the morning.

With today's 14, the Reds now have returned 79 disabled American prisoners of war.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel said the Reds at a brief liaison meeting Wednesday agreed to release more disabled captives than they had pledged in the exchange agreement.

The American Broadcasting Company quoted one of its representatives at Panmunjom as saying the Reds would release 40 Americans in today's exchange.

Daniel, chief Allied liaison officer, quoted Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho as saying the additional repatriates would include "those captured within the last month in the fierce battles around Old Baldy and Vegas and Carson hills near Panmunjom on the western front.

Lee was quoted as saying: "I would like to inform your side that the sick and injured captured personnel whom our side is repatriating this time include not only all sick and injured captured personnel held in POW camps of our side, but also those captured recently by our side at the front.

More Than Informed

'Therefore, the number of personnel to be repatriated by our side is more than the estimated figure of which your side has been previously informed.

"As to the exact figures of the sick and injured captured personnel whom our side will repatriate, your side will be informed daily according to the agreement of both sides."

When the Reds first set their figure, Daniel protested that it was "incredibly small" and asked them to recheck their prison camps for more Allied sick and wounded.

The Reds had resisted Daniel's request until today.

$9,131,000 Budget Bill for SUI Forwarded to Senate for Approval

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa house sent to the senate late Wednesday a bill setting the budget for SUI at $9,131,000 for each year of the next biennium, which begins this July 1.

Only $7,829,500 of the total would be appropriated to SUI by the state from its general fund, with the remainder of the total being made up by receipts of the university.

The $7,829,500 appropriated by the house falls far short of the $8,554,188 requested by the state board of education for the university.

The figure, however, was substantially above the amount set forth by Gov. William S. Beardsley in his budget message last December. Beardsley had recommended that SUI be given $7,442,500 for each year of the next biennium in addition to the university's receipts for the period.

$10,871,956 for ISC

At the same time, the house set up a budget of $10,871,956 for Iowa State college at Ames for each of the next two years. State appropriations to that institution would mount to $7,928,478 yearly during the period, again with the additional funds being obtained from the college's revenues.

All together, the house set the budgets for the 10 state institutions under the jurisdiction of the state board of education at $31,205,192 a year in the next biennium.

However, the total which would come from the state general fund would be $25,154,400 a year. The difference would be made up by receipts received by the various institutions.

Strict Control

The house set up for the first time a strict control over expenditures by the board of education. The bill provides for use of the board's estimated receipts before appropriations from the general fund. If the receipts for the biennium run higher than the estimates the additional receipts also would have to be used before the board dips into the money from the general fund. In the latter case whatever money was left over would revert to the general fund.

If the receipts should be less than the board estimated, the board could ask additional funds from the state budget and financial control committee. If the committee refused the request the institutions would have to stay within what money they had.

Suggest Changes

Rep. Fred Schwengel, Davenport, and Rep. Ernest Palmer Jr., Ft. Madison, attempted to change the new regulations. They proposed that the overall budgets set up for the institutions be merely a directive to the board but if it became necessary to exceed the overall budget the board could do so and then give the next legislature a report on its actions and the reasons for them. The Schwengel-Palmer motion lost 54 to 46.

Then Schwengel attempted to strike out of the measure the overall budgets and the provision for budget and financial control committee allocations to the board if need. This lost 66 to 29.

The $25,154,400 figure for funds to come from the state general fund is $449,235 higher than the original bill proposed. Along the way increases were given Iowa State college, Iowa State Teachers college, Council Bluffs School for the Blind, and the Vinton Braille Sight Saving school.

Governor's Total More

The governor had recommended an overall total of $23,924,000 a year for the institutions. This took into account some institutonal receipts. The institutions now are receiving $20,809,919 annually, which also includes some receipts.

After the house had refused to increase the figures for SUI, University hospitals, and the Psychopathic hospital, Rep. Carl H. Ringenburg, Ames, got the house, on a 54 to 40 vote, to boost the Iowa State college appropriation from the general fund by $292,000 a year for various types of research.

Loses Raise for SUI

Schwengel lost on a 63 to 37 vote an attempt to boost SUI's total from the general fund by $366,988 a year for various purposes.

Rep. Paul Cooksey, Spencer, was unsuccessful in attempts to increase the University hospitals' money by $210,760 a year from the general fund. The vote was 55-47. He said the hospitals needed the extra money to meet competition for personnel from the nearby Veterans hospital.

Cooksey also lost by a 65 to 31 vote an attempt to increase the general fund allocation to the Psychopathic hospital by $76,919 a year. He said the extra funds could be used to advantage for greater research.

Ask Boost for ISTC

Reps. Earl Miller, Cedar Falls, and Arch McFarlane, Waterloo, then attempted to get an increase for the Teachers college. They asked a boost of $130,000 a year for salary increases and additional teachers and won on a vote of 64 to 36. They had pointed out that the bill gave boosts of 25 to 22 per cent respectively for SUI and Iowa State but only 7 per cent for the Teachers college.

After that Rep. Guy G. Butler, Rolfe, attempted unsuccessfully to get reconsideration for SUI because of the changes made in Iowa State and the Teachers college, but his move lost 59 to 41.

Rep. G. M. Ludwig, Tiffin, lost by a vote of 59 to 35 an attempt to boost the amount from the general fund for the Oakdale sanatorium by $35,916 a year for general purposes.

$18,000 for Nelson

It was pointed out during the discussion on SUI's appropriation from the general fund that Dr. Norman B. Nelson, recently appointed dean of the SUI medical school will be paid $18,000 a year. Dr. Nelson, on leave from the University of Southern California at Los Angeles and now director of the University hospital in Beirut, Lebanon, is to report in Iowa City on July 1.

Here are the overall annual budgets for the various institutions and the amounts which will come from the general fund:

SUI, $9,131,000 and $7,829,500; Iowa State, $10,871,956 and $7,928,478; Teachers college, $3,177,730 and $2,952,730; University hospitals $5,221,300 and $3,832,700; Psychopathic hospital, $437,400 and $375,686; bacteriological laboratory, $222,300 and $198,300; Hospital-School for Handicapped Children, $293,900 and $293,900; School for Deaf, $549,164 and $539,164; Braille and Sight Saving school, $334,962 and $329,962; and Oakdale sanatorium, $965,480 and $873,980.

McGrath Resigns in Protest To U.S. Education Budget Cut

Earl J. McGrath, former dean of the SUI college of liberal arts, resigned as United States commissioner of education Wednesday in protest against cuts in the budget of the office of education, according to the Associated Press.

McGrath was dean of the liberal arts college from July 1945 to November 1948. He left SUI to take a position with the University of Chicago at that time. McGrath was sworn in as education commissioner on March 19, 1949, by former dean of the SUI law school, the late Supreme Court Justice Wiley Rutledge.

Instead of testifying before a senate committee, as scheduled, to defend the office of education budget — which he said he saw in final form only Tuesday — McGrath marched to the White House with a letter of resignation and protest. He did not see President Eisenhower.

Then the angry educator personally carried carbon copies to press association and newspaper offices and went home — out of a $14,800 a year job.

The letter told Eisenhower that budget slashes already have "markedly damaged the morale of a highly competent professional staff," and the proposed new budget will "further damage" the federal program supporting education.

McGrath informed the President he could "not in good conscience be a party to carrying out such a policy," and wrote:

Protests Budget Cut

"I therefore submit my resignation at this time in order not to have to undergo the embarrassment of trying to defend before the senate appropriations committee at 11 a.m. today a budget which I consider indefensible."

McGrath thus set off the first public flare-up in the newly created department of health, welfare and education, of which his office is a part. Mrs. Hobby had no comment; neither, for the present, did the White House.

Earl J. McGrath
Raps Budget Slash

The proposed budget for education in the fiscal year starting next July was not made public. McGrath gave reporters an example which he said was typical — a four million dollar, or 24 per cent, slash in the $18,400,000 item which former President Truman proposed for vocational education.

Eisenhower Request Is Low

Later the appropriations committee supplied additional figures on the office of education budget. They showed that the Truman request for veterans' educational services was $292,000; the Eisenhower revision asked $92,000.

For "salaries and expenses," Truman asked $3,250,000 and Eisenhower $2,926,000. For payments to school districts, Truman requested $70 million and Eisenhower $66,500,000.

Building Funds OK'd for SUI Television Expansion Stalled

DES MOINES (AP)— The Iowa house Wednesday passed one senate bill to appropriate funds for building improvements at state board of education institutions but got stalled on another by debate on television stations. The house did not complete action on the second before lunch.

Rep. Harold Nelson, Sioux City, attempted to amend the second measure to provide $375,000 for a television transmitter and studio at SUI and $100,000 for a television studio only at Iowa State Teachers college.

Rep. W. C. Hendrix, Letts, got the house to change the figure on SUI television to $200,000. Nelson then withdrew his proposal for the TV studio at the Teachers college.

The first bill passed would appropriate $1,535,000 for building improvements at SUI, at Iowa State college, and at the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving school at Vinton. The senate measure called for taking the money from the $30 million state treasury reserve fund. The house amended the measure so as to use state general funds unless the governor and comptroller certify that not enough money is available in the general fund.

The bill calls for a $900,000 medical research center at SUI, a $600,000 veterinary diagnostic laboratory at Iowa State college and a $35,000 home and furnishings for the superintendent of the Vinton institution.

Rep. Carl H. Ringgenberg, Ames, sought unsuccessfully to attach to the bill the provision for a $800,000 home economics building at Iowa State.

The second bill would appropriate $3,414,338 for building improvements at SUI, Iowa State, Teachers college, the Oakdale sanatorium, the Council Bluffs School for the Deaf, and the Vinton school.

The senate in this bill also called for the funds to be taken from the treasury reserve account. However, the house amended the bill so as to use general funds if available.

Iowa Senate Votes State Pension Plan

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa senate agreed on a close vote late Wednesday to set up a supplemental state pension plan for those public workers who will go under the federal social security law next July.

The action is not final because the house has to approve the senate plan of financing whatever costs will be involved. There was not any clear indication of what these costs will be until the legislature adjourns.

The senate made certain that all public employes, including school teachers, state and local workers, will have to participate in the new plan unless they switch to private jobs.

Gov. William S. Beardsley Wednesday signed a bill that will give social security coverage to those of the 80,000 public employes who have not yet retired.

Those who have retired will continue to draw their state pensions and those no longer publicly employed who have contributed to the old state fund established in 1946 will be eligible for refunds of their contributions.

For the average state or local government employe who continues on his present job the net effect will be:

He will pay social security tax of ½ per cent starting July 1. The rest will be paid for him back to Jan. 1, 1950.

He will pay 3½ per cent of his salary into the proposed new state fund.

If he withdraws any pension contributions made to the state he will get only 2 per cent interest.

British Geographer To Talk at UNESCO Conference at SUI

Neville Scarfe, world famous geographer, will be a principal speaker at the regional UNESCO conference on the improvement of teaching for international understanding, to be held at SUI May 1 and 2. He was the British director of press censorship during World War II.

Now dean of education at the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg, Canada, Scarfe will address the UNESCO conferees in a joint session with the 31st annual conference of teachers of history and social studies. He will speak on the topic "Geography, History and the Improvement of International Understanding."

Before his six years of war service as chief press censor, Scarfe was an outstanding teacher of geography. He is credited with helping to make geography the most popular of all subjects in the British curriculum. When he was only 27 years of age he was appointed to head England's most prominent geography school, the University of Nottingham.

Because of his research work in the teaching of geography the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural organization chose Scarfe to head an international seminar on the subject held recently at McGill university, Canada. The seminar was attended by more than 50 experts from 22 nations.

Student Council Meeting Postponed Until Monday

Tonight's regularly scheduled meeting of the Student Council has been postponed until 4:10 p.m. Monday, Peter Van Metre, L4, Waterloo, Council president, announced Wednesday.

The Council will meet in the study room in the basement of Schaeffer hall. The meeting has been postponed because it conflicted with the annual Finkbine dinner slated for 6:30 tonight.

U.S. Citizen Heads German University; Will Speak at SUI

The first United States citizen ever to head a major German university will lecture at SUI May 6 on the subject "Germany's Role in the Current European Struggle for Power."

Werner Richter, rector (president) of the University of Bonn, was ousted from his University of Berlin professorship by the Nazis in 1938. During the next 10 years he taught in American colleges and became a U. S. citizen.

In 1949 he accepted a professorship at Bonn and the next year was elected to head the famous old university on the Rhine.

As undersecretary for higher education in pre-Hitler Prussia, Richter prepared a series of methods for secondary schools. By the time he reached the age of 45 he held five honorary degrees from German universities. At the invitation of the British government he has appeared as guest lecturer at Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh universities.

A Condensation of Late Developments

PARIS (AP)—The top military and political leaders of the North Atlantic treaty nations meet today to pump more guns and planes into a defense program they hope will get still softer words out of Russia. U.S. military leaders especially were demanding a beefed up building program, and with some reluctance, European nations appeared willing to go along. Foreign and defense ministers of the 14 counties will attend the meeting. Almost the first thing on the program today will be a careful study, led off evidently by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, of what the Russian peace gestures mean and what NATO should do about them.

BERLIN (AP)—A five-hour meeting of the four occupation powers Wednesday night failed to produce any agreement on measures to guarantee air safety over Germany. This was the third meeting of its kind this month attended by representatives of the U.S., Britain, France and Russia. It was decided to resume the meeting at a date to be fixed later. The four-power sessions were proposed by the Soviets.

SEOUL (AP) — Ten small, sharp clashes were all that broke the calm of the Korean battlefront Wednesday on the third day of the exchange of disabled prisoners at the truce town of Panmunjom. In the air, U.S. Sabre jets picked three scraps with Russian-built MIGs high over northwest Korea but failed to draw blood before the Red jets fled to safety in Manchuria. Other Sabres, modified to carry bombs, dumped high explosives on a Communist supply center in the Haeju peninsula above the western front, fifth air force said. Navy carriers launched their planes for sweeps in North Korea, while warships shelled North Korean coasts.

Farm vs. City Bloc—

The much publicized farm-state split in the Iowa legislature has reached such a point that it threatens to make each succeeding state assembly a "do-nothing" group, such as the present 55th general assembly has been called, and perhaps justly.

The gasoline tax bill now pending before the house, which will raise the Iowa gas tax from four to five cents a gallon, is a good example of the split. A large majority of the house seems to be in favor of raising the tax in order to increase revenues for state road construction. But a real fight has developed over just how these extra funds would be used.

The bill originally was introduced with the intention of giving the additional revenues to the sadly depleted Iowa primary road fund. The state is far behind in the maintenance of this phase of its road construction program due directly to a shortage of funds. While the primary road system carries 65 per cent of Iowa's traffic, it obtains only 40 per cent of the appropriations going to the entire road program.

The gas tax hike was intended to correct this unfortunate situation. But an amendment tacked onto the bill Tuesday will split up the additional revenues almost half and half between the primary fund and the secondary road program — a program rarely plagued by a money shortage and which is moving along far ahead of schedule.

The bill ended up as too many bills before it had — stalemated by a struggle between rural and urban representatives.

The long drawn out battle over the oleomargarine and reapportionment measures are other examples of what can happen because sectional interests take precedence over the good of the state.

If the legislature continues this utter disregard for the best interests of the state, then Iowa in the future can expect an even further increase in the number of persons moving elsewhere to make their living.

Drawn from Workers' Language—

Labor Book Adds New Words

Labor negotiations and governmental rulings are rapidly adding picturesque words to the language, Commerce Clearing House reports in its second edition of the "Dictionary of Labor Law Terms," just published.

Among the almost 1,000 words and phrases listed in the dictionary are: "fettler," a worker who puts things in order and makes minor repairs; "pirating," the practice of luring workers from one job to another job with higher pay in a tight labor market; and "bull-cook," a housekeeper in a lumber camp who does the heavy work for the cook.

Specialized Vocabulary

The specialized vocabulary, CCH says in a foreword, is drawn from statutes, judicial opinions, administrative interpretatons, the labor press, and from the language of the workers. It adds:

"Since labor problems are the concern of the great mass of Americans, the terms employed come bubbling up from slang to respectability with the usual inexhaustibility of our nation's capacity for word-coinage. Just last year, a U.S. supreme court opinion referred to 'gadgets,' and it is probably only a matter of time until legal phraseology is expanded to include 'across the board' and 'zeal strike.'

"At the moment, the coinage of new terms is going on at an accelerated rate under the impact of the large number of principles and rules emanating from the regulating and deciding bodies."

Recent Term Described

"Zeal strike," a very recent term included in the new volume, is described as a slowdown in which workers, tongue in cheek, simply obey all the laws and rules applying to their work. By this new technique, first used last year in France by Parisian taxi drivers, city traffic was hopelessly snarled.

"Invasion," another new labor term, acquired a specialized meaning for labor law in the coal industry, where it was used to describe the mass descent of union members on non-union mines. "Danbury injunction" was recently coined by the labor press to describe a violently anti-union court action. The reference is to a case in Danbury, Conn., in 1908, in which the court ordered workers' homes and savings seized to satisfy a $243,000 judgment in favor of their employer.

CEDAR RAPIDS RECLASSIFIED

WASHINGTON (AP) —The government Tuesday decertified Cedar Rapids as a critical defense housing area. The action removes authorization for the rent control program in Linn county. The office of defense mobilization said a resurvey showed an influx of defense workers was not going to be as large as expected.

U.S. Officials Assigned Cars Of Bootleggers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of those sleek government limousines moving importantly about town were not always that way.

They began life adventurously, even dangerously, as the automobiles of bootleggers.

Take the new Secretary of Commerce, Sinclair Weeks.

One of the cars assigned to the commerce department, and frequently used by him, as it was by his predecessors, is a Cadillac the government got for free. The federals confiscated the machine from a rum runner.

Bootlegger's Car Used

This has been the system for years. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, for instance, also used a car formerly owned by a bootlegger.

Actually, we taxpayers pick up a pretty penny this way.

A check Tuesday showed the U.S. government is confiscating automobiles at the rate of around one a day.

The people in charge of surplus seized and abandoned property say the confiscated items fall into four classes:

1. Automobiles, usually seized from bootleggers.
2. Narcotics, taken from dope peddlers.
3. Liquor, from moonshiners.
4. Firearms and miscellaneous knicknacks.

Items Sold

Some of this is sold, some is destroyed and some is kept.

When a particularly classy automobile comes along, it is turned over to a department head who has been asking for another car.

Narcotics, with the exception of heroin, are kept by the government. It is stockpiling narcotics just as it is stockpiling other important materials for a national emergency.

Heroin Destroyed

An informant at seized property headquarters said heroin is destroyed, and for a good reason: it has no medical value.

The government also has picked up diamonds from smugglers. These are held until they can be swapped for industrial diamonds. Then these, too, will go into the stockpile.

Senate Investigators In Europe Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two house Republicans returned from Europe Tuesday and criticized the effect of operations there of two investigators for a senate subcommittee headed by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The two, Rep. James G. Fulton (R-Pa.) and Rep. Robert J. Corbett (R-Pa.), spent three weeks in Western Europe on a general investigation trip for the house foreign affairs and house administration committees.

Both said they found "detrimental effects" of the recent trip to Europe of Gerard David Schine and Roy M. Cohn, chief consultant and chief counsel, respectively, for the McCarthy subcommittee investigating the foreign information program.

Having been present at the three recent sessions of the Student Council, this letter is meant to express one person's appreciation to the militant minority of the Council that insisted that that organization operate according to its own constitution. My conversations with my fellow students lead me to believe that I am not alone in this regard.

Therefore, for myself and those who will join me — thank you, Dale Razee and Bill Isenberger. It took considerable intestinal fortitude to stand up to the majority of the Student Council and you had it. The same applies to your associates from the Quadrangle, Hillcrest, South Quad and Westlawn, who followed their consciences and voted the wishes of their electorate. Special mention for Jewel Lamar, who refused to be brow beaten and was every bit a match for the law school people. It was her insistent voice that the elections be declared invalid. In my appreciation I cannot pass over Dave Koch who threw the spotlight of publicity on the whole matter.

Yours sincerely,

President of Iowa Deaf Association Asks School Probe

DES MOINES (AP)— Upbraiding the Iowa legislature for indifference to the "shocking conditions" at the Iowa School for the Deaf, Council Bluffs, the president of the Iowa Association of Deaf Tuesday night called for a committee to study the conditions at the school.

Charles Loughran of Davenport, president of the association, said in a prepared statement that "history will record that the 55th general assembly of Iowa has deliberately piled additional handicaps on the neglected children at the Iowa School for the Deaf."

"In spite of the overwhelming evidence we have placed before them," Loughran said, "the Iowa legislators have refused to examine the shocking conditions which now prevail at Iowa School for the Deaf.

"We solemnly call on the general assembly to halt further wastage and frustration of young lives. The assembly should appoint a committee to study the dreadful deterioration of the once-respected school and then report back to the legislators in 1955."

Loughran recalled that early in February his association had sent a letter to each member of the assembly, setting forth the major defects at the Iowa School for the Deaf.

"We have been ignored by the legislature," Loughran added. "The evidence presented in our letter to the legislators was so startling that the state board of education went on the defensive."

Political Coverage Probe Suggested

WASHINGTON (AP)— The national chairman of Americans for Democratic Action called Wednesday for an investigation of how the American press has been reporting politics.

Francis Biddle, the ADA chief, made the suggestion in a letter to James R. Wiggins, managing editor of the Washington Post and chairman of a Freedom of Information committee.

Biddle wrote that while charges and countercharges involving political reporting "have perhaps reached the point of absurdity, they nonetheless seriously impugn the high standards of journalism for which the American press is known throughout the world."

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

The King of Cambodia, which is one of the three so-called "independent" members of the French Union in Indo-China, has chosen a bad time to stage his little play entitled "Revolt Among the Puppets."

There is no indication that the King was attempting to make capital out of the emergency into which the French have been thrown by the Communist invasion of Laos. It just happened he was on a trip and arrived in New York at this time, out from under the French thumb and in the world's best propaganda-launching spot.

He didn't create a very great noise. So far, there is no sign of any Abraham Lincoln brigades dedicated to the freedom of Cambodia.

Interest Not Independence

The overwhelming interest of France and her Western allies at the moment is not, it must brutally be said, the independence of Indo-China. It is the preservation of Indo-China from Communist conquest. When that is done perhaps something can happen about Indo-Chinese liberty.

Perhaps the two things might get along better if they went hand in hand. The French have made concessions already to the native desire for independence. But these people, uninitiated into the techniques either of self-government or of international affairs, unable to defend themselves, can hardly be cast loose into the turbulence of the present emergency.

Asks American Help

The King, however, did make his way to the window like the old-time damsels in distress to shout to America for help and somehow or other the atmosphere seems a little cleared and fresher for it. A square facing of the problem might be healthier for all concerned.

His people, he told the world, consider the Communist-led Vietminh a force for independence, and they dislike the French control so much he doubts he could mobilize them if Cambodia was invaded as Laos has been. He says France has got to give Cambodia the same standing in the French Union that India and Pakistan have in the British Commonwealth if a revolution is to be avoided.

Other States Quieter

These are problems which apply not only to Cambodia but to Vienam and Laos as well, although the Paris-chosen rulers in the other two states have chosen to be less vociferous.

An attempt to balance the issues is precarious in such politically immature areas, although it is obvious that a better balance is needed. In the long run, communism cannot be defeated at the front if it is spreading constantly behind the lines. Something must be done to let Indo-China feel that independence will come when it is safe.

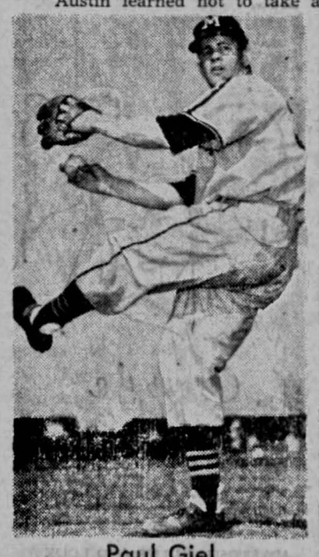
Briefs—

.....Had a short chat with umpire Bobby Austin after the Iowa-Luther game. Austin, among other things, will be remembered for tossing out the Bradley baseball coach last Friday—the first time most people around here have ever seen a college coach ejected.

Austin learned not to take any extracurricular remarks from players, coaches or managers the hard way—he has umpired in professional baseball as high as the Class AAA American association. In fact, he was slated to move up to the American league during one of the war years but was called to service himself, the navy, before he could report.



Paul Giel

2-Sport All-American

He now makes his home in Rock Island, Ill., and is rated one of the top officials in any sport in the midwest.

Besides being a baseball umpire, Austin is a regular member of the National Basketball association refereeing staff and is a National Football league official.

Austin's umpiring mate in the three Iowa home games to date has been Jim Ryan, who is well-known in midwest circles as an official in the Three-I league (of which Waterloo, Cedar Rapids Keokuk and Burlington are members).

Minnesota's all-American halfback, Paul Giel, is slated to pitch one of the three-game Iowa-Minnesota series coming up Friday and Saturday. Giel, a junior, has yet to be defeated in Big Ten competition.

He won five games last year in conference play to tie with Gerry Smith of Illinois and Paul Ebert (the basketball all-American) of Ohio State for the best won-lost record, 5-0. In all conference games his team compiled a so-so 7-7 record.

Giel led the Big Ten in strike-outs with 43 and fewest walks, 8. He was named to the All-American second team as picked by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches and also won a first team all-conference berth.

This season Giel has won three and dropped one, allowing 27 hits in 33 1/3 innings, striking out 42 and giving only 16 walks. His latest feat was a 2-0 win over Iowa State in seven innings when he gave up only two hits and let only two runners reach second base.

All eyes will be on Texas A & M's muscle man, Darrow Hooper, who will seek victories in the shot put and discus in the Drake Relays Friday and Saturday. He won both events in both the Texas and Kansas Relays earlier this year.

He is expected to re-write the Relays shot put record of 55-feet, 1½-inch since he has surpassed that distance twice already this year.

ChiSox Find Homer Range, 9-7

DETROIT (AP) — The Chicago White Sox found the home run range for the first time this season Wednesday, clubbing three into the seats, but again needed some clutch relief pitching by Harry Dorish to carve out a 9-7 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers pushed across five runs in the bottom of the ninth and twice had the potential winning run at the plate. But Dorish, a calm righthander, retired Bob Nieman and Jim Delsing to put out the fire.

Vern Stephens, Sherman Lollar and Sam Mele belted home runs off Milt Jordan, Tiger rookie making his first big league start. Lollar's blast came with one on, the others with none on.

In all, the White Sox piled up 15 hits, four of them by Lollar, off the inept Tiger pitching. Detroit has used 24 hurlers this season while losing seven of eight games, the last five in a row.

Mize Hit Wins

NEW YORK (AP)— Johnny Mize, 40-year-old hero of the 1952 World Series smashed a pinch single with the bases full and score tied in the eighth inning Wednesday as the New York Yankees came up with four runs to whip Boston, 6-2 behind Vic Raschi.

The victory gave the Yanks undisputed possession of first place in the American league.

Loren Babe, whose first major league homer in the seventh had given the Yanks a short lived lead, came through with a two-run single in the big eighth when Hector (Skinny) Brown was knocked out.

Raschi, lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth, held the weak-hitting Sox in check with five hits in eight innings for his first win of the year.

Tom Gorman finished up for Raschi allowing two singles in the ninth.

Dom DiMaggio made his first appearance of the year as a pinch hitter in the ninth, delivering a single. He missed most of spring training because of an eye inflammation.

A's 7, Nats 4

WASHINGTON (AP)— Washington rallied for four runs with two out in the ninth inning off Harry Byrd Wednesday night but Carl Scheib came out of the bullpen to preserve a 7-4 victory for the Philadelphia Athletics.

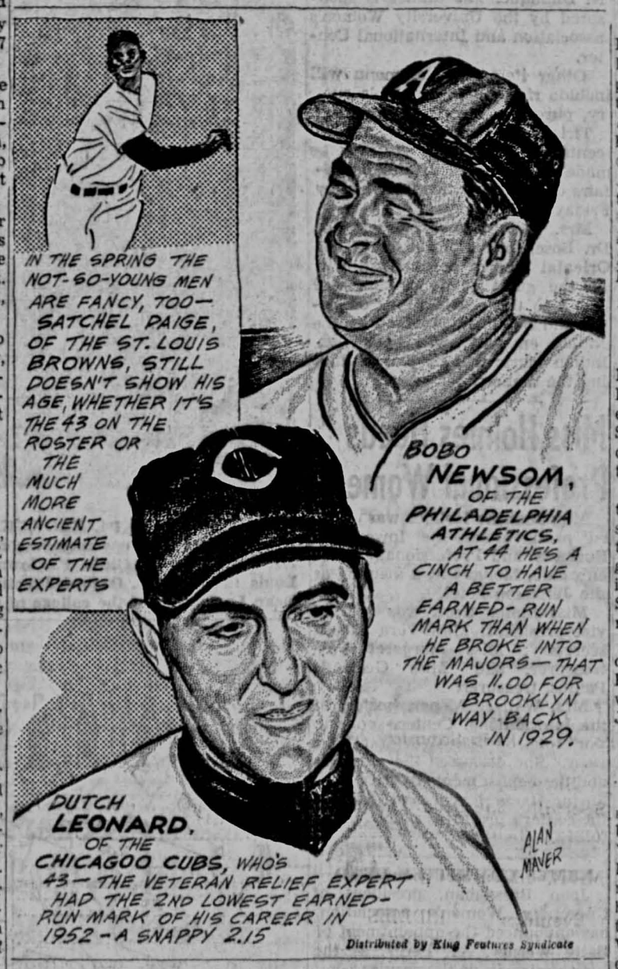
NATS BUY VOLLMER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators Wednesday purchased outfielder Clyde Vollmer from the Boston Red Sox. The acquisition of Vollmer, a 31-year-old righthanded power hitter, ended the Senator's search for a replacement for Gil Coan, the outfielder who fractured a bone in his leg in spring training.

Phillies Beat Bums, Take 1st



PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Karl Drews tightened up after a Brooklyn rally Wednesday night and pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-4 win over the Dodgers. After allowing three runs on four hits in the seventh, Drews struck out the side in the eighth. Willie Jones blasted a two-run homer in the fourth, his second four-base blow of the season. The victory knocked the Dodgers out of first place in the National league as the Phils took over.

Cards Tie for 1st

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Vinegar Bend Mizell needed help only to get the last out as the steady beat of an extra-base hitting attack by the St. Louis Cardinals defeated Cincinnati, 8-3, here Wednesday night to go into a first place tie.

Mizell, making his first start of the season, held the visitors to seven hits, shutting them out in the first seven innings of the game. But with the bases loaded in the ninth and two out, Eddie Stanky had to call on Al Brazle to relieve the young lefthander.

The veteran relief hurler, taking over with the count 3-0 on Ted Kluszewski, pitched a fourth ball, walking in a run, then retired Jim Greengrass to end the game.

Giants Beat Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Hofman smashed two homers, a double and a single to lead the New York Giants to a 4-2 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday night. Jim Hearn gave up four hits to receive credit for the victory. He was relieved by Hoyt Wilhelm when the Bucs threatened in the ninth.

Braves Blast Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Third baseman Ed Mathews lashed across six runs on two of Milwaukee's four homers and a double Wednesday as the Braves plastered the Chicago Cubs, 15-6, to launch a "new neighbor" rivalry.

Sauer returned to the Cub lineup for the first time since breaking a little finger March 16. He singled, tripled and in the eighth smashed a drive over the left center stands, approximately 450 feet.

Mathews crashed a three-run homer and second baseman Jack Dittmer hit a three-run homer in a six-tally Milwaukee third.

Rocky May Not Fight Again This Year If He Beats Walcott May 15

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)— Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano may not defend his title again this year if he whips Joe Walcott in Chicago May 15.

His manager, Al Weill, isn't saying exactly that, but some of the things he is saying add up to just about that.

First of all, since training was resumed here after a three-week rest for Rocky's injured nose, Weill has shown a surprising indifference about the champion's next opponent.

Will it be Ezzard Charles, or Roland LaStarza?

Weill shrugged, and thought a minute before answering, then said:

"Charles, maybe. But on the other hand, maybe Charles and LaStarza would like to fight each other. How do I know?" and in the next breath he went on:

"You know, we're thinking of going to the Pacific if Rocky wins. Honolulu, Guam, Manila, Tokyo. I got a telegram last week from a fellow in Manila who mentioned $20,000 for an exhibition there with one of our sparring partners."

Weill gave the definite impression that such a trip, if made, might be quite leisurely, pleasant, and of course, profitable.

Charles and LaStarza are currently ranked second and third behind Walcott as heavyweight contenders by the National Boxing association.

Meier Appointed Chairman in Study Of Vote Counting

Prof. Norman C. Meier of the SUI psychology department has been appointed chairman of a committee to study ways of speeding up vote count in Iowa City.

The appointment was made by city manager Peter F. Roan.

Voting machines, which had been under consideration for Johnson county as a means of speeding up counting, are a dead issue at present, as far as the board of supervisors is concerned, chairman Marvin A. Stahle said Wednesday.

Sentiment in favor of the machines developed in Iowa City after last November's general election when one Iowa City precinct did not report until 26 hours after the polls closed.

Iowa City Teen-Age Job Plan Featured in Reader's Digest

How the Iowa City Woman's club found summer employment for 479 eager teen-agers is related in an article in the May issue of Reader's Digest.

The article, called "These Teen-Agers Get Summer Jobs" and written by James Finan, was condensed from the March 15 Minneapolis Sunday Tribune.

The problem of summer employment came to Iowa City's attention three years ago when three youngsters were sentenced for wrecking a closed-up fraternity house, the article said.

Blames Job Scarcity

Mrs. Myrtle S. Hubbard, chairman of the Woman's club youth committee, talked with the mother of one of the convicted boys and got an idea of the problem. She discovered that everywhere he had tried to get work he had been turned down. He had no spending money and nothing to do.

Returns from questionnaires distributed by the Woman's club in the spring of 1951 showed that 314 girls and 165 boys wanted help in getting summer employment.

The Woman's club set out to find 479 jobs without taking work from adult wage-earners. They talked with the Parent-Teachers association, the American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce. Letters were sent to 250 potential employers explaining the project and enclosing a stamped postcard for reply," the article said.

727 Students Get Jobs

By the time schools closed, 727 boys and girls had obtained full or part-time employment as a result of the Woman's club "Give a teen-ager a job," campaign.

At the summer's end, Iowa City's teen-agers had earned $163,000 in what many of them called the best vacation they ever had.

The article quoted Mrs. Mary B. Schuppert, current youth chairman of the Woman's club, as saying that since the first summer, the biggest factor in the project's success has been the attitude of the teen-agers themselves. "Among our teen-agers it is now fashionable to work," she said.

Hancher Approves Idea

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher said in the article, "It is impossible to over-emphasize the value of work in a youngster's development."

U.S. secretary of labor Martin P. Durkin commented, "The Iowa City Woman's club project demonstrates to youngsters how our economy works and what it has to offer them. Those who learn how to conduct themselves in the adult world, find their places in the field of work and discover what it takes to succeed and may return to school with a new appreciation of the value of education to their future lives."

U-High Students Admire Art

PUTTING THE FINISHING touches on art objects to be exhibited at the 23d annual Iowa high school art conference at SUI this weekend are three students of University high school. Motion Study Valuable, Nursing Directors Told

The belief what work speed can be increased greatly just by giving employes greater incentive for producing is a mistaken idea, directors of nursing service attending a conference at SUI were told Wednesday.

Sponsored by the college of nursing at SUI, the conference outlined the steps in applying the streamlining procedures worked out by industrial engineers to hospital programs.

Prof. James W. Deegan, of industrial engineering at SUI, told the group that the average amount of increase in accomplishment which can be expected by getting workers to put forth maximum effort is about 20 per cent. Industrial engineers have shown that a much more effective way to increase output is by analyzing work routines to cut out waste motion and delays, he explained.

Activity Chart Used

Use of an activity chart to show not only distribution of work among employes but also the amount of time involved for each task may give the administrator a picture revealing gaps where one employe marks time until others complete work which must be done before he can continue, Deegan said.

Since everything we do consists of a relatively few fundamental motions, and the motion study expert can assign a time value to these motions, he can tell in advance what the best method is, Deegan said in explaining the values of motion study.

The expert can assign these time values by determining the number of "positions" and movements involved, positions being points at which a start is made or an abrupt change in direction is necessary.

By having his audience write their names at maximum speed for one-half minute and counting the increase over the times they had written their names in the same amount of time at ordinary speed, Deegan demonstrated his point that only about a 20 per cent increase can be obtained by putting forth maximum effort.

Handwriting Time Useful

"If you can predict the time involved for something as complicated as handwriting, you can predict the toll in time involved for practically any motion," Deegan asserted.

In summarizing the conference, Louise M. Schmitt, director of nursing service administration in the SUI college of nursing, pointed out that a work simplification program has values in addition to saving time and energy.

Such a program in a hospital makes it possible for the director of nursing service to let each worker see the total job being done and to know the contribution he is making to that job. Giving the individual employe this information helps keep his morale high, Miss Schmitt explained.

Nursing Service Director To Speak at Conference

Louise M. Schmitt, director of nursing service administration in the SUI college of nursing, will present a paper today at the annual meeting of the Iowa conference of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada.

"The Nurse Looks Toward Medical Ethics as a Guide" will be Miss Schmitt's topic. The meeting will be held in Des Moines.

SUI '41 Graduate Completes Course

Maj. Richard T. Feddersen, Iowa City, a 1941 graduate of SUI, is 1 of 30 select service officers who completed a two-week special associate course of the Command and General Staff college at Ft. Riley, Kan., on April 17.

Te course is designed to prepare the officers for general staff and division level command work. It is divided into three yearly phases, with home study required in addition to the annual course at Ft. Riley.

Feddersen completed the second phase of instruction at Ft. Riley.

He is the holder of the Bronze Star medal with two Oak Leaf clusters, Distinguished Unit emblem, and the Combat Infantryman badge.

Professor, Alumnus Contribute Article To Chemical Paper

An article by Prof. Karl Kammermeyer of the department of chemical engineering and Dr. H. E. Huckins Jr., an SUI alumnus, appears in the April issue of Chemical Engineering Progress.

The article, "The Separation of Gases by Means of Porous Membranes," is based upon Huckins' doctoral dissertation. A second article will appear in a later issue of the magazine also based upon the dissertation.

Huckins received his Ph.D. degree from SUI in August, 1951, and is now associated with the Du Pont company in Deepwater, N. J.

The experimental work upon which the article is based was the initial stage of a project begun at SUI in 1950 under the auspices of the Atomic Energy commission.

Professor Kammermeyer is director of the project. Since July, 1952, it has been given classified status by the Atomic Enegry commission.

Deferment Test Scheduled Today

Approximately 95 SUI men are expected to take selective service college qualification tests today, according to Prof. Robert Ebel, director of SUI examinations service.

Ebel will administer the deferment tests at 8:30 a.m. in room 301-A University hall.

Only men with tickets of admission will be permitted to take the tests, Ebel said. Tickets were obtained by application to selective service testing service, Princeton, N. J.

Clapp's Work Played —

SUI Orchestra Performs

By JO MURRAY

The firm and majestic strains of Nicolai's "Church Festival Overture" resounded through the Iowa Memorial Union Wednesday evening as Prof. Phillip Greeley Clapp ide the SUI symphony orchestra through its fifth concert of the season.

Nicolai's work was stern and church-like in manner, characterized by somber chorales adeptly performed by the brass and slow-moving strings. It was typical of 19th century composers in its piousness and power.

Highlighting the evening's program was the performance of Prof. Clapp's composition, "Dramatic Poem for Trombone and Orchestra," in which Roland Klepfleisch, G, Crosby, Minn., did an excellent performance on a difficult and modern piece.

The first movement was ultra-modern and began with a series of choppy discords. Much interplay between the soloist's trombone and the orchestra characterized this initial movement.

The second movement indicated complete changes in mood. A haunting melody performed by the reed instruments of the orchestra was particulary impressive. It slowly faded into a theme which sounded throughout it and the third movement.

All through this orchestra background, Klopfleisch put his trombone through the vigorous paces demanded by such a work, maintaining for the most part a beautiful tone and exhibiting a great deal of flexibility in range plus a quantity of technical skill.

Wagner's "A Sigfried Idyll" was a quiet work, lacking in contrast, but was performed well by the members of this abbreviated group.

Climaxing the program was the mysterious Concert Suite from "The Fire Bird" by Stravinsky, adequately described by the title. The contrast in the work was startling.

The vigorous second movement was characterized by tremendous strain and an extreme concentration of energy depicting the dynamic dance of the Fire Bird.
