6,000 Reds Storm Twin Allied Posts

SEOUL (Wednesday) (AP)—Reinforced U.S. 7th and South Korean 2d division troops were reported holding grimly in twin hill battles today while more than 6,000 Chinese Reds stormed the muddy slopes of Porkchop Hill and Arrowhead Ridge for the second day.

The fighting, 40 to 45 miles north of Seoul, was the most violent in weeks on the western front. It was the first heavy assault on an American division since the Reds began picking on one South Korean division after another in grinding assaults in mid-June.

Some officers thought the Red offensive against the Republic of Korea army was intended to punish the ROKs for failing to sign a truce agreement.

2 Red Divisions

Frontline officers said the current attacks were being directed by two separate Chinese divisions which so far have committed about a third of their force.

Up to 3,000 men beat against U.S. 7th division troops holding strategic Porkchop Hill, near Old Baldy on the western front. At least another regiment was pounding furiously against the South Koreans holding Arrowhead Ridge, about five miles northeast. Arrowhead is near White Horse mountain where the Koreans scored a great victory over the Chinese last fall.

The fighting was of savagery unusual even in the Korean war. Starting at 10:45 Monday night, it raged all day Tuesday and on through the night up and down the slippery outposts in a welter of mud, rain and sweat. GI's used rifles, grenades, gun butts and knives to smash back wave on wave of driving Chinese.

Red Waves Break

At midnight Tuesday another violent Red wave was breaking on Arrowhead but the Porkchop Hill battle had dropped off slightly.

The Reds still held footholds on both heights.

The violent twin-battle dwarfed other actions along the front. The eighth army said other fighting was confined to patrol actions and harassing raids.

Heavy rains of the preceding three days lessened to a shower near the battle area Tuesday afternoon. The fifth air force, back in the air after the storm, poured in close support missions for the infantry. Thunderjets, B-26 light bombers and marine Panther jets attacked on both the western and eastern fronts.

NBC Education Director To Speak to Classes

Miss Judith Waller, director of education for the National Broadcasting company, will appear on the SUI campus July 21 and 22.

Prof. H. C. Harsbarger, head of the division of radio-television-film in the department of speech and dramatic art, says, "Miss Waller is one of the important people in the education and public relations end of broadcasting and telecasting."

She will speak to seminars in educational radio and TV as well as to radio classes. A longtime associate of NBC, Miss Waller recently developed "Ding Dong School," popular early morning educational program.

Author-Educator Is Welcomed to City

PROF. M. WILLARD LAMPE (right), director of the SUI school of religion and chairman of the summer lecture series, welcomes author-educator Claude M. Fuess to Iowa City. Fuess, who spoke at the Iowa Union bandshell Tuesday night, and Frank L. Boyden, headmaster of Deerfield academy, Deerfield, Mass., will participate in discussions today at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

'The Dignity of Education' Claude Fuess Tells Audience How The Teacher Is The Molder of Mankind

By AUDREY BELLE

If parents realized what harm a careless teacher can do to a youth, they would be willing to put a mortgage on their house or give up a second television set in order to guarantee their children the highest quality of instruction, author-educator Claude M. Fuess told an audience in the Iowa Memorial Union bandshell Tuesday evening.

"As an independent schoolmaster," Fuess said, "I claim that we can guide the conduct, set the standards, and even stimulate the reasoning processes of the younger generation, telling them not what but how to think."

Fuess emphasized that usefulness to mankind is the proper aim of education. Teachers must train citizens who know more than merely how to make a living—how know also how to live.

Must Resist Propaganda

Today's children must be taught to resist propaganda, Fuess said. He cited the Nazi movement as an example of how effective education can be in spreading a misleading political philosophy.

We as teachers must assume the responsibility for increasing the numbers of fully educated men and women today," Fuess said. "The dignity of schoolmastering is justified by our conviction that the teacher is the molder of citizens and consequently the molder of the state."

In his speech entitled "The Dignity of Schoolmastering," Fuess began by pointing out that there are large sections of the general public which are "temperamentally hostile to the learned world. Teachers are, to them, a kind of third sex—tepid, tame, and timid—ignorant of the facts of life and unrealistic in their approach to human problems."

Without foundation However, these accusations are without foundation, Fuess said. He showed that in recent wars schoolmasters have been rated highly and that many eminent men have been teachers.

"But leaving geniuses out of consideration," Fuess said, "it becomes clear that the schoolmaster, even in a minor role, is a most important person. We may be the preservers or destroyers of our American culture."

Fuess said that a teacher "needs infinite patience, broad sympathy, and an unflinching sense of humor. He should be intelligent but not pedantic, firm but not intolerant, familiar but not vulgar. Although Claude M. Fuess is pronounced Fez, according to Who's Who in America. Fuess is the former longtime headmaster of Phillips academy and the author of some 30 books. He and Frank L. Boyden, Deerfield academy, will participate in roundtable discussions of questions pertaining to teachers' status today at 10 a.m. in Old Capitol and at 2 p.m. in University theatre.

ne should not be ashamed to proclaim his ideals, he should be prepared for compromise in a practical world. He should deal with his pupils not in the mass but as separate individuals, each with his or her significant personality. He should avoid regimentation and prejudice as he would an epidemic."

No Price Too High

If a teacher with these qualities enters a community no price is too high to reimburse him for what he does, Fuess said.

Schoolmasters are frequently accused of being "purveyors of false doctrines," Fuess said. To attract attention, a political agitator will denounce public schools for their un-Americanism. But "as a group, we are as unselfish, as patriotic, and as public-spirited as any similar body of workers in the U.S."

"While I deplore the methods of some congressional investigators, I have little sympathy with teachers who refuse to answer questions regarding their relationship toward communism," Fuess said. "The dignity of schoolmastering can be preserved only when teachers have no disloyalties to hide."

Fuess closed his speech, "It is the most satisfying and the most tragic of professions. If the millennium is ever reached, it will be to a considerable degree through the instrumentality of education. The schoolmaster is of incalculable importance to the future of the human race."

Reds Accept Clark's Proposal, Request Armistice Date Be Set

Iowa City Gets Electric, Phone Service Again

Most Iowa Citizens should be able to cook on their electric stoves and call their friends today as service was restored to most homes Tuesday night, officials of utility companies have announced.

The only homes which probably do not have electricity today, according to Robert H. Lind, district manager of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., are some of the homes which had lead-in wires, known as service entrances, pulled away from the house during Saturday night's storm.

In order for those homes to get electricity, Lind said the homeowners will have to have electricians repair the lead-ins.

Telephones Repaired

About 200 to 500 homes are without telephone service today, according to C. M. Atkins, outside representative for Northwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Atkins reported that several telephone repair crews worked all night Monday. They would continue night work Tuesday, Atkins said. He hoped that all phone service would be restored by tonight.

Cable repairs ran into a snag on Clark st. where a cable controlling about 950 phones was

Aldous Greenhouse To Be Rebuilt After $25,000 Damages

The Aldous greenhouse, 700 E. Church st., will be rebuilt in two or three months, owner Frank E. Lee announced Tuesday. The greenhouse received damages of $20,000 to $25,000 in broken glass and structure, plus an estimated $1,000 damage to plants in Saturday night's storm, Lee said.

The greenhouse will be torn down and rebuilt from the ground up, he explained. Crews doing this type of construction number only three or four men, Lee added, and so the job requires considerable time.

Insurance covered most of the loss except for the green plants which were destroyed by broken glass.

The recent storm damage marked the fifth time the greenhouse has had a major loss in a period of five years. Hail and wind storms damaged the property in 1949, 1950 and 1951. The greenhouse was swept by fire in March of last year.

May Leave in October—

Ike Names Nixon as Good Will Envoy to Far East

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Tuesday that President Eisenhower has designated Vice-President Richard Nixon to make a trip to the Far East as a good will envoy carrying "the sincere greetings of the people of the United States" to the people of Asia.

Nixon will be accompanied by his wife and officials of the state department. The group will probably leave in October.

The announcement followed a series of recent demands by Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.), acting GOP floor leader in the senate, and other congress members for stressing greater emphasis on U.S. relations with the Far East.

Counter Communism's Spread Nixon main task is expected to center on efforts to counter the spread of communism in the Far East and show the peoples of that area that the U.S. is interested in their welfare. Officials said both Korea and Japan are among the places the vice-president will undoubtedly visit.

struck by lightning and damaged by falling trees. Atkins said splicing of this cable should be finished Tuesday night.

Damage Heavy

The telephone company still has about 70 repairs at work, including crews from Dubuque, Clinton, Davenport and Cedar Rapids.

Homes which are still without phone service today are mostly in the Aldous greenhouse area, 700 E. Church st., where storm damage was unusually heavy.

Lind reported that the power company had 40 men at work, including 10 supervisory and office personnel who were pressed into service.

'Hidden Damage'

Several of the electric repair crews worked until 10 or 11 p.m. Monday. The men returned to work between 4 and 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Homes without electricity Monday night were mostly in the Ronalds, Brown, Church, Davenport and Bloomington sts. area. There were some also in the H st., Seventh ave and Russell st. areas, as well as a few others.

Lind reported that "hidden damage" was more extensive than first supposed. He explained that hidden damage meant electric lines which had snapped inside of conduits and could not be seen. This delayed repair work.

Insurance Firms Report Over 1,000 Storm Claims Filed

More than 1,000 claims for storm damages have been reported to Iowa City insurance companies, with more claims still coming in, it was learned Tuesday.

There were a few large claims reported, but most of them were for small amounts, companies said. They included damaged roofs, porches, spouting, automobiles, television aerials, garages, sheds, awnings, signs, windows and plate glass.

Damages in the business district were limited to broken plate glass windows, signs and some roof damage. The business area got off lightly apparently because it was on the southern edge of Saturday's thunder squall.

Insurance men estimated that damage claims would not equal those of the storm of May 5, 1950. In that storm, roof damage occurred on almost half of all Iowa City buildings.

Bulldozer at Work at Land Fill

A BULLDOZER PUSHES BURNING TREE BRANCHES into the city land fill. The branches, which were blown down in Saturday's storm, were hauled to the fill from Iowa City's cluttered streets. Carroll Irvin, who is operating the bulldozer and who is the son of street commissioner Willard Irvin, estimates that more than 1,000 truckloads arrived at the land fill Tuesday. On Monday he counted an average of 100 truckloads of debris an hour. (See more pictures on page 2).

Storm Damage May Exceed $200,000, Roan Estimates

Total storm damage in Iowa City may exceed $200,000, City Manager Peter F. Roan estimated Tuesday. Cleanup of storm debris is costing Iowa City $1,600 a day for labor and equipment, he added.

At that rate, with at least two weeks' more work required, total cleanup expense can be expected to go over the $25,000 mark.

About 70 men and 18 trucks are working on the cleanup job, including 22 regular men and 8 trucks from the city streets department, he said. City employees are working a 12-hour shift, he added.

Since the cleanup is proceeding better than expected, Roan said that it was decided not to add a night shift. However, burning of trees and branches went on all night Monday in an attempt to stay ahead of the trucks.

The most difficult part of the cleanup job, he explained, was in pulling out trees and branches which had fallen into other trees and gotten tangled up. Cranes are being used for this work, and also to load tree trunks and branches on the trucks.

Communists Will Proceed Without Rhee

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today accepted Gen. Mark W. Clark's proposal of June 29 to proceed with final arrangements for signing a Korean armistice without South Korea participating.

The acceptance was contained in a message to the UN commander handed Allied liaison officers in reply to Clark's suggestion for a truce now.

The Communist high command agreed to permit truce teams to go ahead with the question of

BULLETIN

TOKYO (Wednesday) (AP)—Peiping radio today branded as unsatisfactory the UN command's handling of the situation created by South Korean release of anti-Communist Korean war prisoners.

implementing an armistice agreement.

The contents of the Communist reply to Clark were disclosed to Allied correspondents by Communist newsmen outside the truce conference tent. The Red correspondents released a copy of what they said was the reply to Clark.

Letter Addressed to Clark

The letter was addressed to Clark and was signed by North Korean Marshal Kim Il Sung and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai. The UN command did not immediately announce the contents of the Red letter.

Clark nine days ago suggested to the Red high command that the full delegates meet to fix the date for signing a truce agreement worked out in two years of negotiations.

The unofficial Red reply said the senior truce delegates of each side should set the date for their teams to come to Panmunjom. Apparently no date was set.

Take Effective Steps

The letter said the UN command must take effective steps to make the South Korean government observe truce terms, the Red newsmen said.

The Communists said "our side is not entirely satisfied" with Clark's letter, in which the UN command made it plain that President Syngman Rhee's government is an independent sovereign state.

The UN commander had written the Communist high command June 29 suggesting that each side set an effective date for a truce, with or without the approval of South Korea's President Syngman Rhee, who has bitterly opposed the terms.

Wednesday's meeting of liaison officers lasted only five minutes.

Meanwhile, in Seoul, Rhee met again today with President Eisenhower's special truce envoy, Walter S. Robertson— their 10th talk in 13 days. But there was no sign that Rhee was any closer to lining up behind a truce.

The current Rhee-Robertson talks were stalemated. Robertson already has told Rhee that the U.S. plans to go ahead with an armistice—the Reds willing—even if South Korea stays out. There have been increasing signs that American patience with Rhee's stubborn resistance is growing short.

Rhee Has Support

But Rhee did not lack for supporters even in the U.S. In Washington, Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) told his senate investigations subcommittee Tuesday that Rhee was "one of the greatest patriots of all time" and was "doing a tremendous job to protect the rights of his country."

A highly placed South Korean source still insisted, in the face of U.S. embassy denials, that Robertson had offered Rhee a new compromise plan and Rhee had turned it down. The source said there could be no progress in the meetings unless Robertson produces "a new proposal satisfactory to Rhee."

Rhee, who was educated in the U.S., has been told the demand is impossible for Robertson or any other envoy to grant. It would be tantamount to a conditional declaration of war. Only the U.S. congress can declare war.

World News Briefs

A Condensation of Late Developments

LONDON (AP)—A leading British researcher said Tuesday doctors eventually may be able to prevent cancer through chemical treatment alone. Addressing the annual meeting of the British empire cancer campaign, Prof. Alexander Haddow, director of the Chester Beatty research institute, said researchers are familiar with hundreds of chemical agents, capable of inducing cancer, and how they work. "A full understanding of this remarkable process by which normal cells are transferred into cancer cells will surely lead to the discovery of the means by which the process may be regulated, controlled or even prevented or reversed," he added.

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Alexander Korensky, last premier of the Russian republic before the Communist revolution, Tuesday warned the West against being deceived by the Kremlin's latest peace offensive. "With or without Stalin," he told the Munich Academic-Political club, "the Kremlin's ultimate aim remains world revolution."

BERMINGHAM, England (AP)—Europe's largest atom-splitting machine has been successfully tested at Birmingham university, it was disclosed Tuesday. Prof. P. B. Moon, of the physics department at the university, said the machine—a proton synchrotron—would be used for research in nuclear physics, particularly for laboratory reproduction of some of the processes of cosmic radiation. The synchrotron is second in size only to the machine at Brookhaven national laboratory, Long Island, N.Y.

Wylie Reports Meteors over Midwest Area

Prof. C. C. Wylie of astronomy and mathematics, announced Tuesday that 12 reports of fireballs were received during June. Ten of these were of the type which light the sky like a flash of lightning. They came from Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska and Missouri.

Two of the reported fireballs were bright enough to attract attention in broad daylight. The daylight fireballs fell at 1:30 a.m., June 25, and about 8 a.m., June 26. The latter fireball was reported by two persons in the Iowa City area and was seen as far southwest as Orient (12 miles north of Creston). Wylie reports the department is hoping to receive additional reports from Missouri on this.

When first sighted these fireballs were as high as 35 or 40 miles above the earth's surface, according to Wylie. The fireballs, actually meteors, disappear when still 10 to 20 miles above the earth. This indicates that the atmosphere has slowed them so they no longer glow. The meteor then falls to earth as a dark stone.

The largest such meteor that Wylie has investigated weighed 800 pounds. Even this one lost its glow while still five to 10 miles above ground. He explains the meteor probably weighed six tons when it entered the earth's atmosphere. The meteor drove itself eight feet into the surface of a pasture and threw clods as far as 50 yards from the impact point.

Report Immediately
The astronomy department asks that anyone sighting such phenomena report by telephone to the department immediately. Even though the glow has disappeared the meteor may drop to earth as a dark stone.

Several requests for information about other objects, besides meteors, seen in the sky have been received by the astronomy department.

The planet Venus is now showing as a brilliant ball of light often visible in the early morning after other stars have disappeared. At times it seems to ripple and dance. This, Wylie explains, may be caused by heat waves shimmering from the earth's surface or waves in glass windows and doors through which the observer sees the planet.

Mirages Seen
On some occasions the observer is seeing a type of mirage caused by an inversion layer in the sky. This was the case last summer when one person reported seeing twin lights moving across the sky. They were the reflections of auto headlights from an adjoining road. The last such report was received during the recent storm in this area. Wylie says this was probably either a mirage or an electrical disturbance.

"We never get anything on a fresh report that actually defies explanation," says Wylie.

One case of flying saucers had experts baffled for a time. Numerous reports were received from Norfolk, Va., of flying saucers being seen at night. Experts could offer no explanation at first. Then it was discovered that a family of owls was nesting in trees with phosphorescent fungus growths. The owls brushed against the fungus and as they flew presented a luminous effect. So, says Wylie, ended the case of the flying owls.

State Advertiser For Bids on 200 Mobile Radio Sets

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa Executive council has decided to forget about a planned test of several Radio Corporation of America mobile radio sets. It has advertised for bids on 200 units to replace present RCA equipment.

This represents an apparent final solution of a problem with the RCA mobile sets for more than a year. State highway patrolmen, state agents and others have said the RCA equipment is unsatisfactory.

The council told RCA officials the bare sets would have to be replaced. RCA asked an opportunity to make a test with several higher-powered units.

RCA did not carry out the test in the prescribed 10 days. Grant Cunningham, council secretary, said the group has decided to open bids about July 20 on 200 sets as replacements. He added that RCA will have an opportunity to bid on the replacement units.

Board of Supervisors Operation Costs Grow

The cost of operating the Johnson county board of supervisors was 21 cents per person and the sheriff's office, 36 cents per person in 1951, statistics compiled by the Iowa Taxpayers association show.

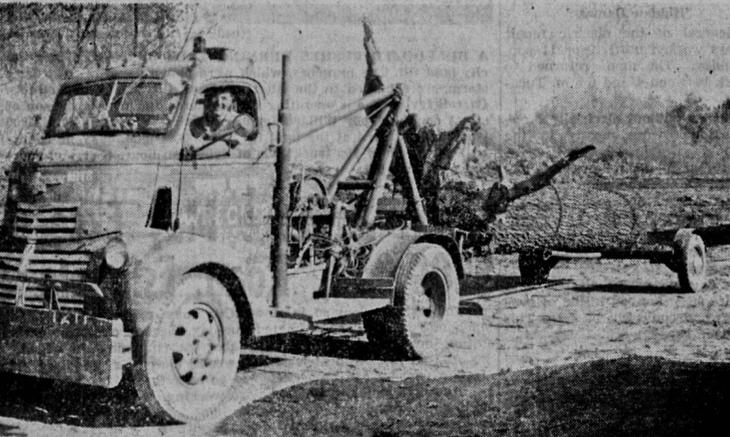

The county board's expenses for 1951 were $9,480. The per person cost in 1950 was 18 cents or an increase of 3 cents in 1951.

The cost of operating the sheriff's office in 1951 was $16,532. The cost per person in 1951 was four cents over the previous year.

Cleanup, Repair Time in Iowa City

C. KELLEY, IOWA CITY, takes time out from repairing the roof of Old Capitol to smile for a photographer. Kelley is one of the men employed in helping to restore the campus buildings and repair the damage done by Saturday night's severe thunder squall. Old Capitol had a number of slate shingles blown off its roof. The shingles are being temporarily replaced and plans are underway to reshingle the entire roof in the near future. Damage to the campus was estimated at about $10,000.

P. O. PARKS, IOWA CITY, demonstrates his new invention. Parks, who has just received his patent, has perfected a two-wheeled dolly in order to tow cars with automatic transmissions. Parks originally applied for his patent in December, 1952. Parks is using his dolly for a different purpose than originally intended as a result of the recent storm in Iowa City. Here he is shown hauling a tree that was blown down in the yard of Police Judge Emil Trott.

Paul Robeson's Wife Refuses Senate Investigators' Queries

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New York playwright and Mrs. Paul Robeson, wife of the Negro singer, Tuesday joined the growing company of those who have refused to tell senate investigators whether they are Communists.

Arnaud D'Usseau, co-author of the play, "Deep Are the Roots," told Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and his investigations subcommittee that he was invoking his constitutional protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to answer.

Mrs. Robeson, 56, swore she is "a very, very loyal American," but she declined to state whether she is or ever was a Communist because an answer "might tend to incriminate me."

D'Usseau's play, dealing with a Negro veteran, was identified by the subcommittee as one of the books on the shelves of U.S. information libraries abroad. The senators are investigating what McCarthy has described as an attempt to "sabotage" the library program with "30,000 Communist books."

Two of Mrs. Robeson's books, "African Journey" and "Paul Robeson, Negro," are reported to be in the libraries.

McCarthy overruled Mrs. Robeson's claim to immunity from answering questions under the 15th constitutional amendment, which declares that the right of citizens to vote shall not be denied because of race, color or previous conditions of servitude. The senator said it didn't apply.

"You're white and I'm Negro, and this is a very white committee," Mrs. Robeson observed. Later, however, she said she knows of no case in which the subcommittee has discriminated against Negroes.

IT SHOULD COME IN BARRELS
CHICAGO (AP)—A tavern owner sued the Monarch Brewing Co. of Chicago for $25,000 damages Tuesday, claiming he suffered hand injuries when a beer bottle exploded. Harry H. Fischman, 29, of Chicago, charged in his circuit court suit that the brewery used defective glass and did not exercise proper care in sealing the bottle. He said he was putting the beer in an ice box in his west side liquor store July 25, 1952, when the bottle exploded in his hand.

Communists Infiltrate American Clergy, Ex-Reds Tell House

NEW YORK (AP)—House un-American activities committee members said Tuesday a number of American clergymen were named by witnesses, as evidence of "extreme importance" was presented concerning Communist infiltration of the clergy.

The committee in a prepared statement said it had received testimony on how Communists "planned to and did infiltrate the ranks of the clergy" in the United States. This testimony was given by Benjamin Gitlow and Joseph Kornfeder, the committee said.

Gitlow was described as a charter member of the American Communist party who broke with the Reds and Kornfeder as once an "important Communist party functionary" with Josef Stalin, late Soviet premier.

Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich.), acting chairman at the New York hearings, said the individuals were American clergymen but did not otherwise identify them or state the exact number.

Asked whether he would attack a clergyman if he were found to be a Communist, Clardy replied, "I would not attack him. I would expose him."

Earlier in the day, Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), heading a senate investigations subcommittee, said in Washington he had no intention of investigating the clergy and that there is "no doubt that the clergy of every religion are good, loyal Americans."

In New York, however, Clardy said his committee was interested in exposing Communists "no matter where they might be found."

Food Crisis, Unrest, Face Red Satellites

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Widespread hunger in some areas of Communist East Europe was reported Tuesday as Czechoslovakia eased up on the whip to keep sullen workers on the job.

Reports reaching diplomatic sources in Vienna said food shortages are affecting millions in Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Albania and Poland. Actual death from starvation was reported among the poor. In East Germany, too, the harvest was expected to be poor because so many experienced farmers have fled to the west.

The food crisis and smoldering unrest throughout Russia's satellite empire appeared to be the major reasons for a rash of conciliatory gestures by Communist governments.

Policy Switch
Czechoslovakia was the fifth satellite to show signs of abandoning the big stick for the velvet glove in handling the restless people. In a sudden switch of policy, Radio Prague announced that the government has revoked a decree making it a criminal offense for workers to remain away from their jobs four times without good reason.

The law was issued only a week ago because of widespread absenteeism, a form of passive resistance which followed the suppression of a workers' uprising at Pilsen last month in the wake of a currency revaluation which wiped out savings. It seemed likely the law was revoked on Moscow's orders. The government said the law no longer was necessary because the trade unions had agreed to see to it that workers stayed on the job.

Of the Kremlin's satellites, only Poland and Bulgaria have failed so far to make policy modifications to meet the wave of unrest and rebellion. Poland officially denied last week end that there had been riots and martial law in the East German pattern.

Bulgarian Decree
Bulgaria on Sunday announced a decree along the lines of the law annulled Tuesday by Czechoslovakia. Imprisonment and heavy fines were provided for workers and apprentices who leave their jobs or training without permission.

East Germany and Hungary have announced a 180-degree turn in their policy of communization, industrialization and collectivization. They are proclaiming a policy of less police terror, and more free enterprise and more food and goods for the consumer.

Romania has increased food rations from its reserves and ordered an amnesty for prisoners.

Hungary Starving
Albania last month forgave her peasants for their arrears in deliveries of grain, eggs, wool and meat in 1949-52.

Along with diplomatic reports, refugees reaching Vienna from behind the Iron Curtain told stories of hunger. They said thousands of families in Hungary recently were without substantial food for days and that children were crying at the tables.

Diplomatic sources said the food shortage was mainly due to the resistance of peasants to the Communist program of industrialization and collectivization at all costs.

West May Help
One diplomat suggested that the food situation is so critical the western powers should consider making offers to help—if assured that aid was not misapplied by the Communist regimes.

Diplomatic reports said Hungary and Romania are the hardest hit. Both were vast food-producing areas until the Communists took over. Hungary once the granary of central Europe, reports a wheat crop 40 per cent below expectations.

When and if such an across-the-boards "rights program" is promised by the U.S., laws would have to be re-written in 48 capitals, the 48 states and Washington.

For lawyers the worry is this: The Constitution says that treaties become the "law of the land." Could a small group of state department representatives sign such a document, and could it become the law of the land without senate approval?

No one knows. So Senator Bricker is trying to draw a clear line on foreign agreements which will make congress a part of any agreement which touches the laws governing Americans here at home. He has 63 other senators backing him up.

PERFECT GRADE POINT
Karl H. Harshbarger, son of Prof. and Mrs. H. Clay Harshbarger, North Liberty, had a perfect grade point average of 4.0 for the spring term at the University of Oregon, Eugene, and was listed on the college's honor roll. Prof. Harshbarger is head of the division of radio-television-films in the department of speech and dramatic art at SU.

White-thatched Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) put his blunt, powerful finger smack into the middle of a no-man's land in our foreign relations when he asked that congress take a new look at the way the U.S. is writing agreements with other nations.

Bricker wants an amendment to the constitution which will insure congress of the right of consultation when this nation makes an agreement with a foreign government.

To anyone who knows the American Constitution, Bricker's move looks like back-tracking. The Constitution says that presidents can sign treaties only with the "advise and consent of the senate," and the senate must approve by a two-thirds vote.

But with World War II and its pressures for speedy action, President Roosevelt began to sign papers called "agreements." The senate was bypassed. Small groups of American delegates would go to a meeting and agree with other nations what should be done. These groups were chosen by the White House and the state department.

Now the senate is up against the fact that American delegates to the United Nations have supported two international agreements which could, some lawyers say, reach right into the heart of American life. That is, an international body could set up laws which would reach past Washington, and past all the state capitals, to tap the shoulders of Joe and Minnie Dokes, private citizens.

One agreement is the "Genocide Convention" lobbied through the UN by a former mayor of Warsaw, Poland—Raphael Lemkin. He advocates international punishment for anyone who kills because of hatred of racial or religious groups.

Lemkin asks that such killers be brought before an international criminal court. This frightens some senators and some members of the American bar. Here and there, Americans are brought to trial for the death of American Negroes.

Would such people be jerked out of the United States before an international court? Under the Genocide convention would they lose their right to be tried in American courts?

The second most immediate worry on the international front is the "Convention of Human Rights" which has been supported, in large part, by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. She was the American delegate in the UN debates until President Eisenhower took office, when she resigned.

The Human rights convention promises: the right to work, to housing, to free medical care, and to leisure. Most of those rights are part of the Russian 1936 constitution which the Kremlin has never honored, except for a special class.

When and if such an across-the-boards "rights program" is promised by the U.S., laws would have to be re-written in 48 capitals, the 48 states and Washington.

For lawyers the worry is this: The Constitution says that treaties become the "law of the land." Could a small group of state department representatives sign such a document, and could it become the law of the land without senate approval?

No one knows. So Senator Bricker is trying to draw a clear line on foreign agreements which will make congress a part of any agreement which touches the laws governing Americans here at home. He has 63 other senators backing him up.

Enlisted Protestants
Matthews wrote that in the past 17 years the Communist party has enlisted 7,000 Protestant clergymen as members, fellow travelers, or dupes. While stating that the vast majority of the Protestant clergy are perfectly loyal, he also said that "The largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

Subcommittee members said after Tuesday's meeting that McCarthy took the stand that as chairman of the subcommittee he had the right to hire and fire staff employees without consent of the other members.

McCarthy affirmed that the three Democratic members—Senators McClellan of Arkansas, Symington of Missouri and Jackson of Washington—had protested earlier that the magazine article by Matthews was "a shocking and unwarranted attack against the American clergy."

Even as the subcommittee was meeting here the house un-American activities committee, in session at New York, said it had received testimony of "extreme importance" that Communists had "planned to and did infiltrate the ranks of the clergy" in this country.

The testimony came from Benjamin Gitlow, member of the U.S. Communist party, and Joseph Kornfeder, whom the committee described as a onetime "important Communist party functionary."

On Capitol Hill, McCarthy told newsmen that Matthews, who was appointed to his new post two weeks ago, had offered his resignation. The senator said he had not accepted it and did not intend to do so.

SUMMER SESSION PLAY-NITES. Summer session students, staff and faculty and their spouses are invited to take part in the playnites held in the field house each Tuesday and Friday nights from 7:30 to 9:15. # Des Moines Jet Crash Hospitalizes 2

DES MOINES (AP)—Two persons escaped death when an air force F-80 jet plane crashed on takeoff and exploded as it hit a home near the Des Moines airport Tuesday afternoon.

The pilot, Lt. Bruce Fountain, 28, Long Beach, Calif., leaped out just as the plane burst into flames. He was hospitalized with burns and a broken arm but his condition was not serious.

Mrs. Marguerite Wilson, 57, who was alone in her brick home when the plane struck, was carried to safety by a neighbor. She was not hospitalized but authorities said she suffered "severe shock." Mrs. Wilson suffered a leg fracture recently and was lying on a couch when the near-tragedy occurred.

Just Taking Off

Lt. Fountain, a pilot with the Ferry Command, was just taking off and was barely off the ground.

Jerry Herten, 19, an eyewitness, said the jet then bounced back onto the ground, skidded some 2,000 feet through a fence, on across Army Post road, and into Mrs. Wilson's house. The plane narrowly missed a big gasoline transport on the highway.

"As the plane hit the house, it appeared to explode and sprayed fuel all over," Herten said. "Both the house and plane burned furiously."

Fought Blaze

Foam fire-fighting equipment from the Iowa National Air Guard hangar and Des Moines and Bloomfield township firemen fought the blaze. The plane was destroyed and Mrs. Wilson's home was gutted.

Authorities said the F-80 had taken on about 900 gallons of fuel and was taking off for Buckley, Colo., when it crashed.

Fountain told an interviewer: "I never got it off the ground—just didn't have enough runway." He said that to get out he "threw back the canopy and dived over the side—those ejectors would throw you 70 feet into the air."

Air Force Plane

Col. Wilson H. Neal, senior air instructor of the National Guard unit here, stressed that the plane was an air force plane and was not attached to the National Air Guard unit.

"In my opinion the crash occurred because the pilot elected to take off with an overload of gasoline," Neal said. "He had both his tip tanks at the wing tips of the plane full."

Neal explained that Air Guard planes in Des Moines do not take off from the airport with their tip tanks full "because runways are too short and the status of training of the guard unit here with jet planes is such that it is inadvisable."

The colonel emphasized that "all this is just my opinion" and is not based on an official investigation. The official inquiry into the crash, he said, will be made by an official from Offutt air base, Omaha.

Teachers Become Students at Music Workshop

FOUR IOWA HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS of vocal music receive a blackboard lesson from their professor at the Vocal Music Education workshop which they are now attending at SUI. Held concurrently with the All-State Vocal Music camp for high school students, the workshop stresses solutions to problems in high school choral work as well as basic instruction in conducting and music selection. Receiving instruction from guest director Henry Veld (far left) are Max Collins, Muscatine; Lorena Martin, West Liberty; Mrs. R. Eliason, Letts, and Ilene Benson, Winfield. Veld is director of choirs at Augustana college in Rock Island, Ill.

$1,200 in Rewards Offered by Parents Of Missing Soldier

Rewards for $1,200 are being offered for locating Pfc. Oliver Keefer Jr., 24, by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Keefer, 15 E. Prentiss st. Keefer has been missing from Camp Atterbury, Ind., since Nov. 3. Keefer's parents, who fear he has met with "foul play," are offering $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons responsible for his disappearance.

The U.S. army has listed Keefer as a deserter. His parents offer an additional reward of $200 for his arrest and conviction as a deserter, if the army is correct, in hopes of locating their son.

The Keefers said they delayed for so long in commencing a search for their son because they "dislike the publicity."

"They find it hard to believe that he has deserted, since he had already served seven years in the army and had only one year to run on his current enlistment."

Keefer's parents last saw their son on Christmas, 1951, when he was home on furlough.

Local Pool To Re-Open Saturday or Sunday

The Iowa City swimming pool in City park probably will open Saturday or Sunday, it was announced Tuesday.

Swimming classes sponsored by the Johnson county chapter of the American Red Cross will be postponed until the pool is re-opened. The pool was drained Monday and cleaned since there were a number of branches and limbs floating in it after the storm.

Electrical power has not been restored to the pool. It is necessary to operate the filter and chlorinating systems. Since two days are needed to purify the pool for use, it will be at least until Saturday before the pool can be re-opened, officials said.

Master Builders Strike Settled in Des Moines

DES MOINES (AP)—The last of a series of building trades strikes which have tied up millions of dollars worth of Iowa construction work came to an apparent end Tuesday.

The settlement came when the last two striking AFL unions came to terms with the Des Moines Master Builders association. Five other striking unions had settled earlier.

The 68-day strike, which started May 1, had halted nearly $23 million worth of major construction projects in Des Moines including 12 public school projects, a $10 million power plant addition and a $5 million Veterans Memorial auditorium.

At its peak the strike had halted work in 20 Iowa cities and towns but settlements were steadily negotiated in various places. The Des Moines stoppage became the last one on Monday when settlement of the strike in the Quad cities was announced at Davenport.

Final agreement in Des Moines came when the AFL ironworkers signed for a 20 cent hourly increase without welfare benefits, bringing their base to $2.82 1/2 hourly. They had asked a 25 cent hourly boost plus a 7 1/2 cent welfare fund contribution. The other union which signed Tuesday was the local 90, AFL building trades truck drivers which agreed to a 13 1/2 cent hourly increase without welfare benefits, bringing their base to $2.10 an hour. They had

Police Must Always Be Calm, FBI Agent Tells Short Course

While young policemen often find it difficult to endure insults they wouldn't have tolerated before they put on the uniform, the progress of law enforcement demands that they stay calm.

Because of the importance to law agencies of public cooperation growing out of public confidence, no police force can ever risk charges of brutality, unfounded and bitterly prejudiced as most such charges are, a federal bureau of investigation official reminded Iowa law officers Tuesday at SUI.

"Isolated instances of police brutality must be everybody's business because such acts give persons who are unfriendly to the police an anchor for their hostility and something to point to for support," J. S. Dalton, FBI special agent in charge, Omaha, Neb., declared at this week's 17th annual Peace Officers' short course.

Has Same Rights

"While it's sometimes hard for us to realize it, the lawbreaker has the same constitutional rights as a law-abiding citizen," Dalton observed.

The statement "This is a free country" means not only the basic freedoms of speech, press, religion and assembly but also the right to due process of law—without the "third degree," being forced to bear witness against oneself, or denial of counsel, he said.

Discussing how the Bill of Rights and other statutory protections of civil liberties applied to law enforcement, Dalton admitted that some subversive organizations have used these "keystones in the arch of democracy" in their own defense.

Protect Legal Rights

Yet, he maintained, the best definition for American police forces is that they are the primary constitutional forces for protecting citizens in their legal rights.

And unless the law violator endangers the person of the peace officer, other citizens, himself or attempts to escape, the arresting officer cannot legally use force to subdue him, he reminded.

Arrest of a violent person often presents difficulties because bystanders often decide the police are "brutal" when they are having trouble protecting themselves from assault, he said.

Year May Go By

Noting that one of the chief duties of the Omaha FBI office is to investigate charges of civil rights violations when they occur, Dalton observed that in Iowa a whole year may go by without a complaint of police brutality.

Another difficulty police face in their public relations is that many people erroneously think that law officers prosecute and deal out punishment as well as apprehend culprits. The FBI leader said some persons don't stop to realize the distinctions between law officers and courts.

Another FBI agent, H. I. Helgesen, Burlington, discussed his criminal investigation methods in a smaller group session; and R. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, led a demonstration of police firearms. Other Tuesday sessions presented fingerprinting techniques and clinical color slides of cadavers in police morgues.

Stress Visual Aids

Today, midway in the five-day intensive course for Iowa law enforcement men, Wallace Huff, Woodbury county attorney, and Bayne Linden of the Sioux City police department, will present "Visual Aids in Presenting Evidence."

In place of an evening session tonight there will be a dinner meeting of the Iowa State Sheriff's association.

A Thursday highlight will be an analysis of interrogation methods under the leadership of a nationally known clinical psychologist, Alan Canty, executive director of the psychopathic clinic of the Detroit Recorders court.

Burkemo Wins PGA Brooks Win 2; A's Trip Yanks, 5-4

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Walter Burkemo, the people's choice, tamed Felice Torza the toy tiger 2 and 1, Tuesday for the 35th Professional Golfers association championship.

The blond belter from Franklin, Mich., only one up at the end of the morning round, ripped off the first three holes of the afternoon with some great pressure putting to put the little pro from St. Charles, Ill., into a hole from which he never recovered.

The 5½ foot, 135-pound Torza sprang brisk rallies twice to cut the advantage to two holes at the 24th, but Burkemo applied the screws and closed the match with a par four for a half on the 35th.

Tee Shots Strayed
The toy tiger — as the little Italian became known in his unexpected sweep into the finals — couldn't control his tee shots through 35-m.p.h. gusts of wind in the morning, and after lunch his putting went completely sour.

On the first 18 holes over the 6,465-yard, par 71 Birmingham country club course, Torza sprayed his tee shots into the rough seven times. On the first nine holes of the final round, he missed four putts of six feet and less.

Burkemo, four up with five to play and three up with three to go, let Torza stay alive with some erratic play. Walter went over par on the 29th, which he three-putted, and on the 32d and 34th, where he hit into the rough.

PGA Worth $5,000
The PGA is worth $5,000 in immediate cash for Burkemo, 34-year-old Detroitier who took a sound lacing from Sam Snead in the PGA final at Oakmont, Pa., in 1951. It also gives him an automatic spot on the U.S. Ryder Cup team which meets Britain's best at Wentworth, Eng. in the fall.

As runnerup, Torza collects $3,000—the first big purse he ever won. A pro of less than six years, this is his first PGA.

In defeat, the friendly, chatty Torza had one consolation. A tough scrapper who put out Gene Sarazen and defending champion Jim Turnesa on opening day, he won the hearts of a gallery estimated at 15,000.

Burkemo Favored
The crowd on the whole was still for Burkemo, the favorite son, but Torza picked up hundreds of loudly vocal supporters.

One of 10 children, Burkemo was a caddy and a public links player before turning pro. In the last war he was twice wounded while an infantry sergeant.

Dressen Picks Star Players From 7 Teams
CINCINNATI (AP)—Manager Charlie Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday dipped into the ranks of seven clubs to fill out the 25-man National league All-Star team which will meet the American league All-Stars in the annual game here next Tuesday.

Dressen named these seven pitchers:
Robin Roberts (13-6) of the Phils, who has pitched in two previous All-Star games; Gerry Staley (12-3) of the St. Louis Cardinals; Hoyt Wilhelm (5-4) of the New York Giants' great reliever; Murr Dickson, who has a 7-9 record with Pittsburgh's last place Pirates; Curt Simmons (7-5), back in action for the Phils after a layoff because of a foot injury; Warren Spahn (10-3) of the Milwaukee Braves who will be making his sixth appearance on an All-Star squad, and Harvey Haddix (10-3) of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The rest of the squad named by Dressen to go with the eight starters picked by a vote of the fans will be:
Infielders — Gil Hodges and Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers, Davey Williams of the Giants, and Granny Hamner of the Phils.
Outfielders — Duke Snider and Carl Furillo of the Dodgers, Ralph Kiner of Chicago Cubs and Richie Ashburn of the Phils.
Catchers — Del Crandall of the Braves, and Del Rice of the Cardinals.

Football Tickets Can Be Purchased
The Iowa athletic department is now receiving football ticket orders for the 1953 season, athletic business manager Francis (Buzz) Graham has announced.

Orders for season tickets have priority over single tickets and will be given the best location, Graham said. The season tickets, for five home games, cost $18.

Over 50,000 copies of application materials have been issued to alumni and former purchasers to date.

Single seats for the home games cost $3.00. The games are: Michigan State, Sept. 26; Washington State, Oct. 3; Wyoming, Oct. 17; Indiana, Oct. 24 and Minnesota, Nov. 14.

Road games and prices are: Michigan at Ann Arbor, Oct. 10, $4; Wisconsin at Madison, Oct. 31, $3.00; Purdue at Lafayette, Nov. 7, $3.00, and Notre Dame at South Bend, Nov. 21, $4.00.

Babe Looks to More Golf

BABE ZAHARIAS, THE WORLD'S foremost woman golfer, looks over her golf course in Tampa, Fla. for the first time in six months. "The Babe," who recently underwent a cancer operation in Texas, hopes to get back in shape to rejoin the touring pros. In her first round since the operation, Mrs. Zaharias played nine holes in one over par. With her is greenskeeper Ed Fricks.

'The Whip' Retires Blackwell Moves to Sidelines Voluntarily, Hopes To Cure Shoulder Ailment

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (AP)—Ewell Blackwell has been placed on the voluntarily retired list for a rest he hopes will cure a shoulder ailment which some right-hand batters might be forgiven for hoping is nothing trivial.

The towering side wheeler was just about the most awesome chucker we ever saw when he had it, particularly against right-hand hitters, who would head back to the bench muttering darkly about the third baseman throwing the ball at them.

That's where the pitches seemed to come from, at that, with "The Whip" going into that boy-falling-out-of-a-tree motion and sweeping his long right arm around in a sweeping arc.

Impressive Wins
We have followed his career closely, taking due note of his impressive triumphs and of the hard luck which seemed to have made him a special target.

Periodically he was plagued by arm trouble, an operation for the removal of a kidney, an appendectomy and one thing and another, but between times he had many a batter wishing he could go fishing on days when Blackie was due to pitch.

He wasn't having too good a year with the Reds last year, but such was his reputation and so great the fear that he might overnight regain his form that a great howl arose when the Yankees acquired him.

League Waives
He had to be waived out of the National league, of course, and the suspicion was that the waiver came when nobody was looking, as it seemed highly improbable that no other National league club would want to take a chance on him.

The Yankees acquired him as pennant insurance, but fortunately for them they didn't have to rely on him too much. He pitched only 16 innings and was credited with only one victory, although his .56 earned run average was impressive.

IOWA STADIUM
Completed in 1929, Iowa stadium this fall will reach its first quarter century of use. Hawk teams have won 49, lost 44 and tied 8 on the stadium field. The record crowd of 53,050 attended the 1951 Iowa-Michigan game. Crowds in 1952 averaged 45,491.

WES SANTEE, AMERICA'S GREATEST MILER, WHO'LL BE PURSUING THAT ELUSIVE 4-MINUTE MILE IN EUROPE THIS SUMMER.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Preacher Roe smashed the first home run of his major league career and Billy Cox collected two roundtrippers as the Brooklyn Dodgers walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9-5 in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday.

The Dodgers also took the first contest, 5-4, on a home run barrage by Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson, setting a new National league record of hitting at least one home run in 20 consecutive games. The New York Giants previously held the record with 19 set in 1947.

Carl Erskine racked up his seventh win of the year but needed help from Ben Wade after Preston Ward hit a grand slam homer for the Pirates in the ninth of the first game. Roe's victory was his fifth against two losses.

Giants Take 2

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants thrashed the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night in a two-night doubleheader, 5-3 and 9-1, behind the pitching of right-handers Marvin Grissom and Al Corwin for a sweep of the three-game series.

A surprisingly large turnout of 34,736 saw Corwin pitch his first complete game of the season in the nightcap as his mates backed him with 14 hits against rookie Thornton Kipper. Kent Peterson and Andy Hansen.

Corwin allowed six hits and helped his cause with a home run, triple and single. A three-bagger by Mel Clark in the ninth and an infield out ruined his bid for a shutout.

The Giants sewed up the second game in the first two innings, scoring five runs off Kipper.

Braves Top Cubs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eddie Mathews smashed his 25th home run and Joe Adcock blasted the stadium's first inside-the-park round-tripper Tuesday night as the Milwaukee Braves beat the Chicago Cubs, 4-1, before 37,113 fans, the largest crowd of the season.

Both homers came with the bases empty. Mathews' poke sailed 400 feet over the Braves' bullpen in right-center in the sixth and gave him 69 runs batted in.

Johnny Antonelli was in trouble in every inning except the ninth as he won his seventh game against four losses, but the Cubs counted only in the second.

Cards Triumph

CINCINNATI (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals choked off a game Cincinnati uprising in the bottom of the ninth Tuesday night and, led by Rip Repulski's two homers and three-run double, stumbled through to a 7-6 triumph.

The Redlegs outthrew the Redbirds, 14-7, but left 12 men stranded while St. Louis shrewdly took advantage of almost every scoring chance.

The Incomparable Red Smith—

Walter (Red) Smith, formerly of Notre Dame and presently of the New York Herald-Tribune, is one of America's best sports humorists.

With odd-and assorted fictional characters, and columns on everything from Westchester dog shows to baseball in Venezuela, Smith has taken a place as the Ring Lardner of today's sports writers. The only two columnists who come close to matching Red are Ring's son John, who writes a weekly piece for Newsweek, and Jimmy Cannon of the New York Post.

Red didn't start out to be a sports writer. In fact he didn't know a thing about the athletic world until he was jerked suddenly into the sports staff of a St. Louis paper. On the rewrite desk, when the sports department was fired, Smith was pressed into service when the desperate managing editor couldn't find any replacements. He drifted in and out of sports writing until settling with his "Views on Sports" column with the Tribune.

Red can come up with the strangest information and make it into a humorous and informative piece. Two weeks ago he studied the "Weekly Underwriter," a trade journal of the insurance business, and figured out that an umpire's life is getting safer. Umpires, who used to rank alongside policemen and firemen as AA risks, have fallen into a relatively safe, Class B category.

"The fact is, since the insurance johnnies have brought the topic up, that one must grope a long way back in memory to recall an instance of a fan, player or manager damaging any part of an umpire except his dignity," Smith comments. "There is a vague recollection that along about 1929 Red Ormsby, a widely popular employe of the American league, was gravely injured by a thrown soft drink which the thrower had neglected to remove from the bottle."

Even in his most trivial comments, Smith can paint a picture that you can almost see and feel. Talking about the National league race, Smith says:
"In the spring the Phillies were ranked here as the team most likely to succeed the Dodger's title. Perhaps they would be still if Curt Simmons had hired a small, ambitious neighbor child to mow his lawn. It was Simmons' toe that got caught in the power mower, but it was Steve O'Neill's heart that bled."

In his humorous way, Red often points up the ills and shortcomings of the sports world. One of his recent stories deals with the Pittsburgh ball park and the Kiner trade.

"The admirable quality of sportsmanship, the uncompromising sense of fair play which pervades the business offices of baseball clubs was illustrated strikingly in Pittsburgh as soon as Ralph Kiner was traded to Chicago. Immediately after the deal became official, carpenters were instructed to raze the fence which created Greenberg Gardens in the leftfield sector of the Pirates' play pen."

"The redecoration was dictated by the loftiest and purest of motives—the wish to render it more difficult for visiting players to hit home runs which the Pittsburgh batters aren't good enough to hit. . . . It is probably of small importance that such artificial measures for whittling the opposition down to size mock the principle of sporting competition, offend the fans and discredit the home players."

All is not humor in the Smith repertoire. One of his best pieces lately defended Ben Hogan after the Texan had been attacked for refusing to play in a Los Vegas "charity" tournament.

"It should be understood that the Los Vegas tournament was not for charity. Its sole purpose was to advertise the city and its several thriving industries, which are (a) slot machines, (b) roulette wheels, (c) craps tables. It was designed to attract new suckers to provide greater profits for the boob-traps."

Red then digs down and gives his impression of Hogan, in a brilliant paragraph.
"Here's a guy, Hogan, who clawed up to the top. He had to fight for his first job as a caddy. He was always littler than the next guy, so he had to be tougher and better. He knocked around the professional golf circuits when he couldn't win a nickel and didn't have enough to eat, and every time they knocked him down he got up a little tougher than he'd been before."

The 47-year-old native of Green Bay, Wis., is one of the few sports columnists who can supplement his writing with fictional stuff that is really entertaining. Smith, like Jimmy Cannon and his imaginary pal "Two-Head Charlie," has a bunch of strange friends who fill his columns on dull days. One of the latest is his Venezuelan baseball correspondent, "Jake Sussina."

No matter how you like your sports, Red can dish it up in good shape every day. He's even made Who's Who in America.

Hogan Qualifies for Open; '52 Champ Locke Takes Medal

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) — Ben Hogan and Carnoustie's soggy Championship course ran head on in the British Open golf tournament Tuesday, and the grizzled seaside layout's slow and snaggy greens lifted the U.S. Open champion's score to a 75.

That 75 along with a 70 Monday on the easier Burnside course gave the Texan a 145 total—easily low enough to qualify him for the tournament proper beginning today.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa, rustled up a brilliant 71, one under unofficial par at Championship, for a two-day 136 and medal honors.

While Locke was putting brilliantly, Hogan had little success on what he called "these chewing gum greens." It is his first crack at a British Open title.

Greens Cut
There is one consolation — the deep greens were cut Tuesday night in preparation for today's play. The 91 low scores qualified for rounds of 18 today and Thursday, after which the field will be reduced to 50 for Friday's 36-hole finale. The qualifying scores mean nothing in the tournament proper, which is medal play.

Locke's 136 was five strokes under the second low of 141, shot by John Panton of Scotland and Christy O'Connor of Ireland. Panten had a 72 Tuesday after an opening round record 69 Monday. O'Connor, a little-known Irish pro, toured the Burnside Course in 68. He had a 73.

Qualifiers had to score 154 or better. Lloyd Mangrum, another veteran of America's tournament circuit, shot the hottest round of the day, a 67 at the shorter Burnside course. His qualifying total is 145, equalling Hogan.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Suder hit a ninth inning outfield fly with the bases loaded Tuesday night to give the Philadelphia Athletics a 5-4 win over the New York Yankees.

It was an ironic defeat for manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks, who said earlier Tuesday he was sorry he hadn't seen fit to pick the same Suder for his American league all star squad.

The A's came from behind to win in the ninth, one of their few such performances this season. The Yanks broke a 3-3 deadlock with a lone tally in their half of the ninth.

Then in the bottom of the ninth Gus Zernial singled, sending Ed McGhee home with the tying run and leaving the bases loaded. Up came Suder to hit his game-winning fly ball.

Indians Win

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Five errors by the St. Louis Browns in the last two innings gave the Cleveland Indians a 6-3 victory here Tuesday night and put the Browns into the record books with 20 straight losses at home.

The 1906 Red Sox lost 19 straight at home, a major league record which the Browns tied with Monday night's defeat. The Browns last won a game at home on June 2 when Satchel Paige defeated the Washington Senators.

Nats Blanked
WASHINGTON (AP) — Skinny Brown limited Washington to four hits Tuesday night as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Senators, 2-0, to cement their hold on fourth place. Brown posted his seventh victory as Boston swept the two-game series.

Jerry Lane, recently promoted from Chattanooga, made his major league debut for the Senators and yielded only one run before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning.

ChiSox Win, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Catcher Matt Batts' error in the ninth inning enabled the Chicago White Sox to tally an unearned run and edge the Detroit Tigers 3 to 2 before 19,781 at Comiskey park Tuesday night.
