Royalists Oust Mossadegh

300 Killed In 9-Hour Street Battle

TEHRAN (AP) — Forces loyal to the absent Shah swept iron-willed, weepy old Premier Mohammed Mossadegh out of power Wednesday with a bloody and violent nine-hour coup.

At least 300 persons were killed and Mossadegh's chief henchman was reported torn to pieces.

The young Shah, a fugitive in Rome, said he would fly back at once to reclaim his throne.

Fled Sunday

Mossadegh forced Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi to flee Sunday. The aged premier himself fled Wednesday from his bed in a Hitler-type bunker from which he has ruled this country with tears and an iron fist for almost three years.

The coup succeeded with a minimum of bloodshed in most parts of Tehran and the provinces, Royalist officials said, adding it was the desperate resistance of Mossadegh's picked household guards that raised the death toll.

200 Dead

Official estimates said at least 200 men died in the gunfire as the premier made his last stand.

A curfew was clamped on the city Wednesday night. Troops, tanks and armored cars guarded all key points.

Mossadegh's present whereabouts were unknown. Mobs pillaged his fortress home and peddled his furniture in the bazaars for souvenirs.

Led by Zahedi

The uprising was led by Maj. Gen. Fazollah Zahedi whom the Shah named as premier just before he left the country in his private plane with Queen Soraya Sunday.

Foreign Minister Hossein Fattemi, Mossadegh's No. 1 henchman, who only Tuesday night threatened to hang the Shah, was reported torn to pieces by mobs. Fattemi was violently anti-British, disliked Americans and was considered the strong man behind Mossadegh.

Zahedi reportedly had taken refuge among wild, pro-Shah tribesmen in remote Azerbaijan after Sunday's fiasco. He emerged to take over the country Tuesday.

Asked To Return

The new regime called on the Shah to return from Rome and take over the country. In Rome, the Shah said he planned to fly back Wednesday.

Zahedi broadcast an eight-point program to the people of Iran.

The principle points of the program were the rule of law, raising the standards of living, free health service for all and mechanization of agriculture.

As furious battles raged in the

450 POW's Returned On 16th Exchange Day

PANMUNJOM (Thursday) (AP) — Happy, shouting Allied prisoners contrasted sharply with their sour-faced Communist captors today as they reached freedom on the 16th day of Operation Big Switch.

The day's consignment included only 60 Americans, 90 British and 300 South Koreans, delivered at hourly intervals.

For the first time since the exchange began there were no Communist prisoners returning northward.

Fell to His Knees

Among the first Allies to arrive was one British soldier who fell to his knees at Freedom Gate and clasped his hands as if in prayer.

"Oh, boy, oh boy, oh boy," he chanted over and over.

As sullen Chinese truck drivers stared coldly, one young American repatriate exclaimed, "They never smile, do they?"

"Hell no," another answered, "what have they got to smile about? They're going back up there."

While the Allied repatriates were joyous, the UN command grimly accused Communist Red Cross workers Wednesday of activities bordering on spying during the prisoner exchange, and told the Reds to put a stop to it.

A spokesman, asked if these activities actually included spying, begged off by saying "I wouldn't want to use that word."

But the spokesman did say the Communist Red Cross workers had "broadened their field to more of an investigation and indictment instead of aid and comfort" for prisoners.

Protest To Reds

The protest was made to the Communists a few hours after the Reds freed 75 Americans, 75 British and 306 Koreans. The Reds promised to send back 60 Americans, 90 British and 300 Koreans today.

Today's group included the smallest number of Americans and the largest number of British returned since the exchange began Aug. 5.

Thursday's 450 boosted past the halfway mark—at 6,533—the number of prisoners released of the 12,673 which the Reds listed for repatriation. The total to date includes 1,315 Americans with 1,998 remaining to be freed. On the other hand, only 112 British remain among 921.

Halted Traffic

The UN turned over 602 North Koreans Wednesday but said no more could be delivered until Saturday because of typhoon conditions which halted boat traffic from offshore islands where the Reds were held.

Wednesday's protest to the Communists was delivered by Col. L. C. Friedersdorff, senior U. S. member of the joint Prisoners of War Repatriation committee. The protest said of the Communists' Red Cross team members:

"It is obvious from their actions that some of them are attempting to engage in activities exceeding the purely humanitarian mission with which they are charged.

"We have no intention of permitting them to engage in such activities and suggest you explain to your members of the joint Red Cross teams their authorized missions, functions, duties, responsibilities and limitations."

Released members said they were convinced the Reds had not planned to free them until the UN Red Cross teams interceded.

H-Bomb Is Most Powerful Of Atom Type

(Editor's Note: Following are some of the pertinent facts concerning the hydrogen bomb that have been published in reliable reference books.)

The hydrogen bomb (H-bomb) is the most powerful type of atomic bomb. One hydrogen bomb could destroy a large city.

The atomic bomb (A-bomb) contains uranium or plutonium instead of hydrogen. A-bombs may be used merely as matches to "light" the more powerful H-bombs.

Explosion Explained

An H-bomb explodes when atoms of heavy hydrogen (deuterium) or heavy hydrogen (tritium) are "welded," or fused, together. This fusion is possible only at extremely high temperatures of about 50 million degrees centigrade, much hotter than any part of the sun. The A-bomb is the only known thing which can produce heat of that intensity.

When an H-bomb is touched off by an A-bomb, the hydrogen atoms fuse together and energy is released in the form of heat and powerful rays. At this time the hydrogen changes to helium.

Scientists discussed the tremendous amounts of energy that an explosion of hydrogen atoms could produce as early as 1922. But ordinary hydrogen atoms found in nature would not give up energy fast enough to produce a thermonuclear chain reaction.

Isotopes Required

Heavy types, or isotopes, of hydrogen are required for explosion purposes. One of these types, deuterium, was discovered in 1932, and another, tritium, was produced in 1934.

The U.S. atomic energy commission was directed to begin work on the H-bomb by then President Truman on Jan. 31, 1950. This was nearly five years after the first A-bomb explosion.

Work was carried on in strictest secrecy, but letters were published in American newspapers late in 1952 reporting the greatest atomic explosion ever seen.

Crews Tell Story

Crew members of ships near the atomic testing ground at Eniwetok atoll in the Marshall Islands wrote those letters.

The Atomic Energy commission then announced that Joint Task Force 132 at Eniwetok had completed a test program including "experiments contributing to thermonuclear weapons research."

U.S. scientist Harold C. Urey, discoverer of deuterium, said that the AEC announcement "sounds like official language for a successful H-bomb."

In January 1953, the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists stated that it was indeed a hydrogen bomb which was exploded at Eniwetok.

Mossadegh had told the people that all the troubles were due to the presence of the British in their country and when the British were gone they would all be better off. The British have been gone for a long time but Mossadegh has not been able to make good on the other part of his promise.

No one in authority here expects that Zahedi, if he succeeds in establishing his rule, will produce any overnight miracles in ending the oil dispute. He is considered to be as strong a nationalist as Mossadegh. But he is also said to be much more realistic than the old premier. Therefore it is hoped that in a matter of months he may be able to undertake negotiations which would eventually lead to a settlement.

2 Youths Arrested On Larceny Charge

Two Iowa City teen-agers were arrested and jailed on grand larceny charges Wednesday afternoon, Johnson County Deputy Sheriff Donald L. Wilson reported.

They were charged with the theft of two 670x15 tires and wheels, and four chrome wheel discs from Ekwall Motor Co., 627 S. Capitol st., on Aug. 3.

One of the youths was apprehended in Iowa City. The other was removed from a west-bound bus by Marengo, Ia. police at the request of the Johnson county sheriff's office.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy commission said Wednesday night it has received information the Soviet Union conducted an atomic test on the morning of Aug. 12.

Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, issued a statement Wednesday night after the Moscow paper Pravda said the Soviet Union recently touched off a hydrogen bomb explosion of great strength.

The text of his statement: "The Soviet Union conducted an atomic test on the morning of Aug. 12. Certain information to this effect came into our hands that night. Subsequent information on the subject indicates that this test involved both fission and thermo-nuclear reactions.

"It will be recalled that more than three years ago the United States decided to accelerate work on all forms of atomic weapons. Both the 1951 and the 1952 Eniwetok test series included tests involving similar reaction."

The AEC declined further comment. "Thermonuclear" is the term scientists use to describe a hydrogen explosion.

Vishinsky Charges Rhee Is Blocking Agreement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky Wednesday accused Korean President Syngman Rhee of doing everything possible, with the help of what he called reactionary circles in the United States, to prevent an agreement on the future of Korea.

Vishinsky said Rhee still is determined to conquer North Korea by force.

He also told the UN Assembly's political committee that a 15-country resolution limiting participants in the Korean peace conference to combatants is "illogical." He said neighbors and other countries interested should have a hand, but he left up in the air a definite answer as to whether Russia will attend the peace conference if asked to sit on the side of the Communists.

Western delegates, who are hoping for a vote in the 60-nation committee perhaps by Friday, said they expected Russia to be present at the conference regardless of what strong language Vishinsky might use against various resolutions.

Vishinsky said that John Foster Dulles, U. S. Secretary of State, had agreed with Rhee not to take unilateral military action while the conference is under way and also to walk out at a certain time if results are not obtained.

Vishinsky said one wonders what would happen at the end of the conference, with Rhee determined to subjugate North Korea.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. chief delegate, told the committee immediately after Vishinsky ended a 40-minute speech that "Secretary Dulles has concluded no secret agreement with the President of the Republic of Korea."

Lodge attacked a resolution put up by Vishinsky Tuesday calling for a Korean peace conference made up of six belligerents and five "neutrals," including the Soviet Union. He said the Moscow resolution was not democratic. He said it gave a "first class compartment" in "Mr. Vishinsky's train" to the Chinese and a "second class compartment" to the Republic of Korea.

Vishinsky's resolution provides that decisions of the peace conference will be considered approved if the parties signing the armistice agree to them. American circles contend this would give Red China a veto as a signatory power and would ignore South Korea, which pointedly boycotted the signing.

Science Reporter Foresaw Possession Of Bomb by Soviets

The confession of Klaus Fuchs, British scientist who admitted, early in 1950, giving atomic bomb secrets to Russia, convinced William L. Laurence, science reporter for the New York Times, that Russia was working on a hydrogen bomb.

Laurence said, in a Saturday Evening Post article in June, 1950, Fuchs' confession "made it evident that the Russians were without doubt already at work on the hydrogen bomb and had probably been working on it uninterruptedly since 1945."

Possession of the hydrogen bomb by both the U.S. and Russia might make war "unthinkable" since neither side could win, Laurence said.

But then he warned that "it is by no means unthinkable that a Hitler, faced with certain defeat, would not choose to die in a great 'Gottterdammerung' in which he would pull down the whole of humanity with him to destruction."

Laurence quoted Dr. Albert Einstein as his authority for saying that "poisoning of the atmosphere" was theoretically possible with the H-bomb.

"The time may come when we shall have to search every vessel several hundred miles off-shore for a hidden atomic bomb," Laurence concluded.

Pravda Says Experimental Aim Employed

MOSCOW (Thursday) (AP) — Pravda said Thursday the Soviet Union recently touched off a hydrogen bomb explosion of great strength.

The Soviet Communist paper said the Russian H-bomb was exploded "with an experimental aim."

"As a result of the possession of mighty power of thermo-nuclear fission in the hydrogen bomb, the explosion was of great strength," Pravda added.

"The test showed the power of the hydrogen bomb was many times greater than the power of atomic bombs."

Malenkov Announcement
Premier Georgi Malenkov told the Supreme Soviet on Aug. 8 that the United States was no longer alone in its monopoly of the hydrogen bomb.

At that time the United States said, however, that it had no evidence that the Soviet Union had set off an H-bomb. The United States said its detection apparatus would register such a test.

Malenkov said on Aug. 8 he made his announcement because "the trans-Atlantic enemies of peace have of late found a new solace: the United States are in possession of a still more powerful weapon, than the atomic bomb and have the monopoly of the hydrogen bomb, if you please."

Premier Chides U. S.

"This evidently could have been some sort of comfort for them had it been in keeping with reality, but this is not so. The government deems it necessary to report to the Supreme Soviet that the United States have no monopoly in the production of the hydrogen bomb either."

Malenkov's announcement followed by five years and nine months a statement by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that the West's sole possession of the secret of the atom bomb "has long ceased to exist."

American experts said after Malenkov's Aug. 8 speech that, although the Russians might have mastered the secret of the hydrogen bomb, they doubted that they had produced one. They labelled his speech an attempt to bolster failing Soviet morale and frighten the outside world.

Used A-Bomb

The Soviet Union had used the atomic weapon in a similar manner. After President Truman announced that U.S. detection agencies had learned that the Soviet Union had detonated an atomic bomb—that was in October, 1949—the then Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky referred to it in a speech at the United Nations. He claimed Russia had it but said it was being used for such purposes as moving mountains and other peaceful aims.

3 SUI Physicists Return from Navy High Altitude Tests

Three SUI physicists who took part in recent high altitude observations of cosmic radiation and tests of pressure, temperature and density in the upper atmosphere near the North Pole for the navy have returned to the SUI campus.

The men, Prof. Melvin E. Gottlieb, physics department, and two research assistants, Leslie H. Meredith and Robert A. Ellis Jr., were engaged in tests for the office of naval research.

Gottlieb declined comment on the polar expedition and plans for further research Wednesday. In an announcement Monday, the navy said that the experiments would be continued.

The navy added that further work was needed to complete the observations which ended recently. A portion of the observations were accomplished by launching rockets from balloons floating at about 70,000 feet, the navy said.

Instruments carried in the rockets were used to secure the measurements. The navy reported that all test rockets had been fired (14, according to a July announcement), and that more than half of the rocket launchings had been successful.

The navy announcement concluded that specific plans for continuing the scientific tests would be issued soon.

Reject Vishinsky's Korea Plan

U.S. AMBASSADOR Henry Cabot Lodge (left), and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd engage in earnest conversation, apparently ignoring Andrei Vishinsky (right), chief Soviet representative to the UN, as he addresses the political committee of the general assembly. Vishinsky's demand that Red China and North Korea be invited to participate in setting up the Korean peace parley was rejected by the policy making body.

Ike Says Best U.S. Defenses Are Families

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday that families with a proper and decent standard of living constituted a better defense against communism than "any bomb of whatever kind."

"That is the kind of thing that will preserve this nation," the President declared at ceremonies dedicating a $32 million federal-aided slum clearance project.

Eisenhower took time out from his western vacation to fly here for the dedication and a series of conferences.

Like Campaign Crowds
Crowds like those of last fall's campaign days greeted him as he stood waving in an open automobile enroute to the housing project on Manhattan's Lower East Side.

Chief Police Inspector Conrad Rothengast estimated that one million persons lined windows and curbsides along the President's approximately four-mile route from the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to the dedication ceremony. In all, the chief inspector said, one and a quarter million persons saw Eisenhower.

At the housing project, dedicated to Dr. Simon Baruch, father of Bernard M. Baruch, philanthropist and presidential adviser, Eisenhower said that, in America:

Family Best Weapon

"... We expect to see living, happy families, families who, because of their standards of living, are our nation's best weapon against communism—more eloquent defense against that insidious doctrine than the most eloquent tongue of any lawyer, or preacher, or teacher—a more sure defense than any battleship, or any plane, or any gun, or any bomb of whatever kind."

From the dedication ceremonies, Eisenhower drove to La Guardia airport and left for Denver, where he will resume his vacation.

Gas Company OK's 120 Local Permits

The authorization of about 120 gas heating installations in Iowa City, which had been started before the suspension of all permits Friday, was announced by Robert H. Lind, manager of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company Wednesday.

Lind said that the company expected a limited increase in gas supplies by Dec. 1 as a result of increased pipeline capacity, and so were approving the additional installations.

Permit authorizations will be mailed to individual homeowners and installing contractors concerned, Lind added.

Installation is being completed in homes where progress on gas heating facilities had advanced to the point of making it impractical to use another type of heat.

All permits had been previously suspended as a result of mechanical difficulties encountered at the Herscher underground gas storage project near Joliet, Ill.

Nationalism, Desire for Oil Brought Mossadegh to Power

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mohammed Mossadegh, given to weeping and fainting in the middle of impassioned arguments for his nationalist cause, rode to power on the crest of growing hatred of the British, who controlled Iran's oil, the rich life blood of his country.

The seething nationalism reached a climax when extremists assassinated Premier Ali Razmara March 7, 1951. Razmara was a moderate man who favored alignment with the West against Iran's threatening neighbor to the north, the Soviet Union.

The Shah quickly appointed another moderate, Hussein Ala, to the premiership. Ala gave up the following month, however, under the growing pressure—engineered by Mossadegh—for nationalizing the oil industry.

Shah Names Mossadegh
The Shah saw no way out of naming the fiery millionaire liberal—Mossadegh—as his first minister. For 50 years, Mossadegh had been in the foreground for improving the lot of his poverty-stricken country. At the same time however, he never gave up the turbulent affairs of a near-bankrupt nation from a simple hospital cot in his home. Mossadegh began a struggle to seize more and more power.

This struggle was mainly with the Shah. When the Shah refused to let Mossadegh become his own minister in July, 1952, the frail but iron-willed Premier resigned and the Shah appointed former Premier Ahmed Qavam—a rightist—in his place.

But Mossadegh's resignation was only a political dodge.

Two days later, violent riots and bloodshed broke out. Nationalist mobs screamed against Qavam and demanded the return of Mossadegh. Four days after he was appointed Qavam resigned and Mossadegh was back in the saddle.

Then started the uphill climb for absolute power which—as much as anything else—may have led finally to Mossadegh's downfall. He got Parliament to grant him dictator's powers to rule by decree last summer. Then he began trying to strip the Shah of power. Particularly, he wanted Parliament to pass a law handing the Shah's control over the armed forces to him.

Kashani Withdraws Support
None of these maneuvers was without opposition. As Mossadegh became more and more ambitious, a powerful Moslem religious leader, Ayatullah Seyed Abolghassen Kashani, withdrew his support and became the Premier's bitterest foe.

Kashani sided with the Shah on the army control issue and last February sent his own fanatical mobs to Mossadegh's home. Mossadegh fled in his pajamas to the traditional sanctuary of the Parliament building.

Kashani's supporters in Parliament blocked the legislation Mossadegh wanted and the Premier's men resigned.

That left Kashani in control of an all-opposition rump Parliament of 22 men, who couldn't pass laws themselves and had to hide in the Majlis building to escape arrest.

Mossadegh decided to put to a vote of the people his demand for any of his own vast lands. Although Mossadegh was no Communist and, indeed, was as much opposed to the Russians as to the British, he finally accepted the full support of the outlawed Communist Tudeh party.

Mossadegh's own National Front party had only seven members in the Majlis lower house of Parliament when he started pushing his nationalization campaign. But as so impressed the deputies by his emotional oratory—and by the powerful threat of extreme action against them if they didn't go along—that they voted unanimously in May, 1951, to seize the Anglo-Iranian Oil company's billion dollar installations in Iran and kick the British out.

Mossadegh Seeks Power
From that time on, usually running the turbulent affairs of a near-bankrupt nation from a simple hospital cot in his home, Mossadegh began a struggle to seize more and more power.

This struggle was mainly with the Shah. When the Shah refused to let Mossadegh become his own minister in July, 1952, the frail but iron-willed Premier resigned and the Shah appointed former Premier Ahmed Qavam—a rightist—in his place.

That left Kashani in control of an all-opposition rump Parliament of 22 men, who couldn't pass laws themselves and had to hide in the Majlis building to escape arrest.

Mossadegh decided to put to a vote of the people his demand for dissolution of the rump Parliament so he could hold national elections for a new—and he hoped—a more obedient Majlis. Kashani ordered all "good Moslems" to boycott the plebiscite.

Mossadegh Holds Vote
Mossadegh held the referendum last week—a non-secret affair in which those for his dissolution proposal voted in separate booths and all voters had to give their name and identity card numbers. More than two million voters supported Mossadegh. With the boycott working effectively, only a few more than a thousand ballots were cast against dissolution.

This, Mossadegh declared, meant automatic dissolution of the rump Parliament and he sent a formal demand to the Shah last Thursday for a royal decree calling for new elections.

Iowa Congressman Invites Area Officials To Flood Conference

LE MARS (AP)—Opposing ideas for the control of the often-rampaging Floyd river may be tossed into a discussion called for here Thursday by Congressman Charles Hoeven, R., of the 8th Iowa District. The U. S. representative has invited all concerned about future flood control on the Floyd to attend.

Mayor Ralph Henderson and other Sioux City officials are planning to be present as are Sioux City Chamber of Commerce representatives.

The Omaha District office of the Corps of Army Engineers will be represented.

Coming, too, are Floyd valley farmers and conservationists. They have recently organized a Floyd Valley Watershed association.

A starting point for the discussions will probably be a control plan started by the Army engineers a number of years ago. It involves upstream storage and downstream channel works. It got no where when first proposed.

But with the June flood, which caused millions of dollars damage in Sioux City alone, in the near background, some new interest in the plan is confidently expected.

And Washington announced Tuesday that the Floyd valley was to get funds for a flood survey.

From Washington, will be Ethon A. Norton, assistant soils conservation supervisor in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Gov. William S. Beardsley was among those invited to the gathering but he said other engagements may prevent his attending.

He spoke here Wednesday on the general subject of conservation and flood control. The governor has advocated a policy of developing means for holding water where it falls.

Royalists Out—

streets of Tehran, the radio became the only means of communication. Cable and telephone service overseas was cut off.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Schwind was granted the use of Tehran radio facilities, owned by the government, to broadcast direct dispatches to the AP monitoring facilities in London.

As news reached Rome of the clear-cut nature of royalist success, the Shah made plans to fly home immediately. He hoped to charter a plane overnight. He said he wanted to rush here to "halt bloodshed and restore order in Iran under the monarchy."

Here is part of the coup as Schwind broadcast it over Tehran radio because other forms of communication were blocked:

Last Resistance
"By 7 p.m. local time, (9:30 a.m., CST) the last nest of resistance in the capital, Mossadegh's home and the compound surrounding it, were in the hands of Zehedi's forces. A mob shouting 'Long live the Shah' swept through the compound and the ailing politician's house. They even entered the room containing the little white bed from which he so long held court and in which he received foreign diplomats.

"The Shah's men took Radio Tehran and shut down the transmitter at 2:12 p.m. When the radio resumed broadcasting it carried the voice of Zehedi reminding the Iranian people that he is the newly appointed prime minister of the Shah. Speaking from a stuffy little room just under the roof of the station, Zehedi told Iranians that his problems included a government of law, the raising of the people's living standards, wage increases, and general security."

Complete Victory
All broadcasts gave a picture of complete victory for the Shah over the hawk-nosed, 76-year-old premier, whose sobbing breakdowns marked many an Iranian crisis since the beginning of the Iranian dispute with Britain over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. properties.

U.S. Ambassador Loy Henderson was in constant touch with the state department in Washington on the crisis, relaying reports of the mob action against Mossadegh.

What the revolt will mean in terms of international relations was the big question in the foreign ministries of many capitals.

Russian Shop Attacked
Bits of information from U.S. embassy reports—a Russian shop attacked, burning of a theater frequented by the Communists—suggested a setback for Soviet efforts to woo the little neighbor with warm water ports such as the Russians lack.

If the U.S., Britain and other Western countries had a choice, they would undoubtedly prefer to see the Shah's people rather than Mossadegh in power.

British officials said the fall of Mossadegh could lead to a settlement of the dispute that cut off the westward flow of 30 million tons of oil a year.

Wants Compensation
The nub of these troubles: Britain wants compensation for her vast holdings and for an unexpired 60-year portion of her concession to develop the oil resources of southern Iran. Mossadegh filed counterclaims and refused to consider paying Britain for the loss of the concession.

The U.S. has offered economic help to Iran up to $100 million if he goes along with the West in searching for a settlement deemed reasonable.

The Shah, a constitutional monarch who took the throne in 1941, is western-minded. Observers consider him open to suggestions in handling the nation's big problems.

Hay Fever Victims Suffer This Month

For the first time this season, the pollen count was 100 granules per cubic yard of air Tuesday. This count, reported by experts of the SUI hygiene department who make a daily check, means a dim outlook for hay fever sufferers.

The ragweed pollen grains in the air are just double the amount necessary to set afflicted noses-a-twitching.

A further rise is expected through the end of the month, unless a heavy rain knocks some of the pollen grains from the air. The count will begin to decrease about the first of September.

A royalist coup in Iran has been about the only thing Britain and the United States could think of recently which would keep that oil-laden land from falling into the hands of the Russians.

And it wasn't really expected. The two Western allies have been handcuffed by several factors:

1. They didn't want the Iranian oil for themselves anymore. They only want to keep it away from Russia.

Support Withdrawn
2. They had to abandon their efforts to support the Mossadegh government, in spite of his being their only hope for a long time against Russia, because they could no longer countenance his principle of expropriation lest it set fires in other Middle Eastern oil lands.

3. Even if they had wanted to continue supporting Mossadegh, the time was arriving when economic support would have had to be augmented by military support. Mossadegh was in no position to handle mere munitions aid, and arrival of allied forces, even military missions, would merely have aggravated the extreme Iranian nationalism as well as being an invitation to Russia to occupy the northern part of the country.

No Power Available
4. There was no political power outside of Mossadegh to which the Allies could appeal without redoubling the bitter anti-foreign feeling already prevalent throughout the country and actually dooming whoever accepted foreign cooperation.

5. Mossadegh had begun to play footsie with the Communists, and had accepted Russia's invitation to sign new commercial agreements. If he was willing to let his desire for power and his anti-British feeling carry him into the arms of the Russians, then he would have carried with him any continued aid the U.S. might give. So it was cut off.

Western observers were not surprised five days ago when the Shah fled after an abortive attempt to designate a new premier. The surprise came Wednesday, when the royalists showed their ability to stage a really strong effort.

"Rome is the greatest city in the world," according to Prof. William E. Porter, who returned Monday from a lectureship at the Instituto di Publicismo of the University of Rome.

Porter, who is head of the magazine sequence in the SUI college of journalism, took a leave of absence during the 1952-1953 school year to teach at the Italian school.

He taught a survey course on contemporary American journalism. His lectures, delivered in Italian, were written first in English and then translated for Porter to read.

Comments in Italian
After the first few months, Porter said, he was able to add comments in Italian to his lectures.

Although Rome seldom gets below freezing in the winter, Americans often find the Italian winter cold. This, Porter added, is because of their heating systems which is never understood by Westerners.

Mrs. Porter, who accompanied her husband on the trip, learned to cook using the Italian system of no refrigeration. She belonged to a study group which visited many museums, churches and operas.

See Most of Country
The Porters were able to see most of Italy during the year they spent in the country. They also toured Holland, Paris, Austria and other parts of Europe.

They spent the first month abroad at a university at Perugia, Italy, studying the Italian language.

18 Daily Papers
Rome has 18 daily papers, each politically dominated, he added. Each paper advocates a certain policy with no pretense of objectivity.

Living costs, the Porters discovered, are very much the same in Iowa City and in Rome. Italian citizens live at a fraction of the

Fortune Teller Charged With False Pretenses
COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Mrs. Lola Marks, 24-year-old fortune teller, was bound over to the grand jury Wednesday on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from a Council Bluffs woman.

Mrs. Marks was arrested on the complaint of Mrs. Bessie Burnett, 51, who said she had paid Mrs. Marks $255 as part of a "get rich and get well" treatment.

In Municipal Judge Allan Ardel's court, Mrs. Burnett testified she had left the money with Mrs. Marks and was told that its value would increase. Mrs. Marks testified Mrs. Burnett had left the money with her for safe keeping, saying she did not trust cost of Americans in Italy. This, he explained, is because Americans are assumed to have money and they usually have a higher standard of living.

Porter's lectures were completed in May. Examinations were given in July. These were completely oral and conducted in Italian.

Before returning to the United States, Porter addressed the Press club at Naples and attended the international conference for journalism professors at Amsterdam late in May.

The Porters sailed August 6 on the new Italian liner "Andrea Doria."

McCarthy Attacks Printing Office Security

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) thundered at government printing office officials Wednesday that it was "fantastic" for GPO employees to be kept on the job in the face of FBI reports of Communist activity—even espionage.

Time after time the senator asked why.

S. Preston Hipsley and E. C. Mellor, top personnel men for the GPO, who prints some top secret documents for other federal agencies, said they merely did their duty as they saw it. They said they operated under regulations that Communist party membership was not a sufficient reason to fire an employe.

"This," said McCarthy, "is the most fantastic picture I have ever heard of."

Hipsley countered at one point that the FBI does not report that a person is a Communist party member, but only that a reliable individual identified only by a code number "says so and so."

"It isn't a matter of fact, it's only information," he said. "We were not satisfied he was a Communist."

He said that if he were running a private plant, he would fire a man even on rumors he was a Communist. But he said it's different in a government agency subject to pressure and publicity.

"We are there to run a print shop, not to detect criminals," Hipsley said.

McCarthy exploded. The GPO, he said, handles secret and top secret material that might mean death to American boys if it fell into the hands of an enemy.

"Your job," he said, "is to see that Communists do not get that material."

McCarthy is serving as a one-man investigating subcommittee, trying to determine whether such material did leak from the big printing plant, and the extent to which Communists may still be on the payroll.

U. S. Returned Prisoners Tell of Beating Turncoats

FREEDOM VILLAGE (AP)—The batch of "problem children" from North Korean prison camps who believed the Communists guards and beat up their comrades — came back Wednesday.

These men, who stood steadfast against Red propaganda despite inhumanity and actual torture, and were labeled "problem children" by their captors, told of their own secret organization.

Beat Betrayers

Members used stones, rocks and fists in the dead of night on prisoners showing signs of wavering over to the Reds.

Some of them changed their minds," said Pfc. James D. Prow, Salisbury, Ind.

"We tried to make men out of turncoats," said Sgt. Lloyd W. Pate, Columbia, S.C.

Pate accused the Chinese of being the leader of the POWs put into a special company of "reactionaries" because of their tough stand against Communism. Pate would not deny the charges to newsmen.

Pate was among 15 men in that camp who were "convicted" and given jail sentences up to a year on charges of espionage, sabotage, aiding a group of militants and anti-Communist Americans and assisting over to the Reds.

Pate, in the group of 75 Americans released Wednesday, said he and his stalwarts first tried to talk turncoats out of succumbing to Communist propaganda.

Some "Turned Rats"

"It did not always work," Pate said, "and some of the men who worked over to the Chinese line were the ones who turned rats and assisted on other prisoners."

Pate said some of his men got hold of Red records of "confessions" made by the weak-kneed, reporting to tell of "atrocities" perpetrated by American soldiers.

"When those confessions were made because the men were sick and had to make them to get needed medical attention, we considered the confessions excusable," Pate said. "But when they were made of their own free will, we took a somewhat different attitude."

Released Prisoners To Arrive Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The army Wednesday said 331 American prisoners of war freed after the Korean armistice will be on their way home on furlough within three to six hours after their arrival here Sunday aboard the transport Gen. Nelson M. Walker.

The big ship, which also carries marine and army combat veterans for reassignment, is scheduled to sail through the Golden Gate shortly before 8 a.m. (9 a.m. CST) Sunday and dock at Ft. Mason here an hour later.

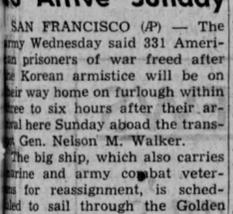

The defense department has telegraphed the families of all the patriots aboard the Walker in an effort to expediate the reunions of former captives with their loved ones. A space will be set aside on the pier for the ex-POWs to meet their families, who have been asked to notify Ft. Mason if they will attend the arrival.

Only those men requiring immediate medical attention will be delayed enroute home. They will be taken to Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Car Dealers Hear About New Law

DES MOINES (AP)—Car dealers from central counties met here Wednesday to learn legal technicalities of the state's new auto title law.

Officials of the Iowa Automobile Dealers Assn. said that after Oct. 1, all new cars must bear a "birth certificate"—and that future registrations will include a certificate of title. This is expected to reduce car theft and sale of mortgaged cars.

About 200 dealers, county treasurers and finance company officials attended the meeting, 6th of 18 meetings over the state. Counties represented were Boone, Jasper, Dallas, Madison, Marion, Marshall, Polk, Story and Warren.

Jet Nonstop Flight Planned

The Thunderjets, each capable of carrying small atomic bombs, will be refueled by tanker planes taking off from the U.S. If the operation is successful, the U.S. defense department will know that more fighter planes can be kept at home, in the knowledge that they can be rushed to Europe in less than a day in case of a crisis.

Services Announced For Polio Victim

Funeral services for two Iowa City residents who died Tuesday were announced Wednesday.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. today in the Hohenschuh mortuary for Derek Walton who died of bulbar polio Tuesday at University hospitals.

Walton, who was 28, lived at 620 Whiting ave. He was a graduate student at SUI studying child welfare. He obtained his B.A. degree from San Francisco State college, Calif.

Walton had been in serious condition since his admission to the hospital Aug. 6. He was Iowa City's first polio fatality of the year.

Born Jan. 9, 1925 in Cumberland, Md., Walton is survived by his wife, Muriel, and two brothers, Charles and Stanley, both of Vestal, N.Y. Burial will be in the family lot in New York.

Funeral services for Mrs. Adam Scheetz, 63, of 315 S. Gilbert st., who died suddenly at 11:30 p.m. Tuesday at Mercy hospital, will be at 9 a.m. Friday at St. Patrick's church. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the McGovern funeral home.

Mrs. Scheetz had been employed at SUI in the visual instruction department of the extension division for about two years.

She was born March 25, 1890, at Oxford, the daughter of John and Mary Bradley, pioneer residents of Johnson county. She was a member of St. Patrick's church and of the Altar and Rosary society, and had been a lifelong resident of Iowa City and vicinity.

Surviving are her husband; one daughter, Mrs. George Harms, Norway, Ia.; two sons, Robert, Omaha; and John, New London, Ia.; two sisters, Miss Mary Bradley and Mrs. Irene Tenney, both of Chicago, and eight grandchildren.

School Day Class In Religion OK'd

DES MOINES (AP)—Atty. Gen. Leo Hoegh ruled Wednesday that Iowa public schools may release pupils during regular school hours for religious instruction outside of school.

The opinion was given after a Dubuque attorney asked if it would be legal for the Dubuque school district to release elementary grade pupils for one hour a week on the written request of parents involved.

A Weekday Religious Education committee, sponsored by the Dubuque Council of Churches and the Lutheran Pastor's council hopes to start a pilot program this fall under which third and fourth grade pupils of two schools would attend religious classes in nearby churches. Non-sectarian, the program is aimed at moral and spiritual uplift of the pupils.

Congressman Cancels Trip in Economy Move

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.), chairman of the house interior and insular affairs committee Wednesday called off a planned committee trip to Guam and other U.S. trust areas as an economy move.

In a telegram to other committee members sent from here Rep. Miller said his decision to cancel the inspection trip followed an order by President Eisenhower to cut federal spending in all government departments.

The Kimball, Neb., congressman said that as committee chairman he would be "extremely reluctant to authorize this trip at the taxpayers expense unless presented with some overwhelming reasons, unknown to me at this time, that the trip should be made."

142,277 U.S. Casualties In Korean War

WASHINGTON (AP)—A preliminary Korean war battle casualty total of 142,277 Americans was announced Wednesday, making it the fourth bloodiest conflict in the nation's history.

Only World Wars I and II and the Civil War produced a greater toll.

The defense department said the Korean war casualties included 22,731 killed in action, 105,961 wounded and 13,586 missing.

These figures were in the last regular weekly summary of battle casualties to be released at the Pentagon. However, officials there said revisions would be carried on for months, perhaps years, before a final statistical story of the tragic cost of the war could be written.

The American casualties in the three years of Korean fighting were roughly one-third of the more than 400,000 suffered by the 16 nations fighting in the United Nations command.

The South Koreans were the hardest hit. The Allies suffered about 72,500 deaths, including the 25,000 Americans, 600 British, and 1,900 from other nations.

The army and marine corps took the brunt of the American casualties in the Korean war. The breakdown by services: army 110,596, marines 28,071, navy 2,082, and air force 1,528.

U.S. casualties in other principal wars were: World War II, 1,125,389; World War I, 364,800; Civil War, 495,573. The Civil War figure includes both Union and Confederate forces, but counts only deaths; the number of wounded never has been definitely determined.

Laniel's Government Totters As Strikes Paralyze France

PARIS (AP)—France's most serious post-war strike entered its second week Wednesday with a million workers still out, railroads and communication still paralyzed and Premier Joseph Laniel's government tottering.

Negotiations between the government and non-Communist unions broke down Monday and there was no prospect of a resumption in sight.

Socialist Party Leader Guy Mollet told Laniel that any savings he might realize through his touted government financial reforms—which touched off the walkouts—already have been surpassed by the huge losses to the French economy from the strike.

Nobody contradicted Mollet.

Parliament was expected to be called back from its vacation for a special session next week. Laniel may be thrown out of office in the bitter squabble certain to develop.

These are the main strike areas:

1. Railroads—only a handful of trains operating.
2. Post offices and telephone exchanges—millions of letters piled up, slowing many businesses to a standstill, and forcing Frenchmen to put personal notices in newspapers to communicate with their stranded families.
3. Coal mines, building and textile trades, some metal working factories, the Paris subway and bus system, and street-cleaning services.

The walkout began as a protest against government plans to cut public pay rolls and boost retirement ages. Now the unions are pressing for all kinds of general wage and bonus rises as well.

Frenchmen were taking the strike situation calmly.

They clambered resignedly into army trucks to get around Paris.

CIO Committee Voices Criticism of Congress, Mild Praise for Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The CIO Political Action committee sharply criticized the 83rd congress and some Eisenhower administration policies Wednesday but included mild praise for the President.

The 150 members attending the meeting of the CIO's political arm adopted unanimously a resolution declaring the congress left behind after its first session "a disgraceful record of disregard for human welfare."

It praised Eisenhower "for his stand against those in his own party who do not yet understand that the United States must live in a world community."

But without specifically naming Eisenhower or his administration it criticized new government policies, among them appointment of administrators "to head up government operations with which they are not in sympathy."

The resolution was adopted at the end of a day which saw CIO President Walter Reuther and other union leaders launch a frontal assault on both the Republican administration and the GOP-controlled congress in opening a campaign to elect a pro-union senate and house of representatives next year.

Reuther said the administration "has not stood up and resisted" Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis). Reuther said McCarthy has "done more to strengthen the Communists in Europe" than any other single force.

"They (Europeans) think McCarthy is taking over the strongest nation in the free world," he added.

TWO SOLEMN HEADS got together at Lowry air force base, Colo., as President Eisenhower hears from Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell on the wetback problem. Veeck, Oil Officials Confer on Possible Move to California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bill Veeck continued his West coast shopping tour Wednesday looking for a new home city, complete with ball park, for his American league St. Louis Browns baseball club.

The Browns' president insisted he was just browsing, but a possible move to Los Angeles was receiving substantial support from at least one quarter, the Union Oil Co. of California.

This company, a substantial California concern, issued a statement confirming reports that its officials have been meeting with Veeck for talks on the possibility of moving the Browns to Los Angeles.

Veeck said he did not want to give out any details. He denied that Union Oil is dickering for purchase of the Browns, saying flatly: "The Browns are not for sale."

Veeck, shopping for a more profitable city for his club, said he probably will go to San Francisco today for conferences there.

The American league owners turned down Veeck's bid last spring for a transfer to Baltimore. Now the owners have told him he can make a transfer if he can show financial ability to make the change.

But a league committee of four owners told Veeck that it could not approve Los Angeles or San Francisco individually. The owners take the view that having just one major league club on the Pacific coast would present too many problems from a travel standpoint.

Rule Rules Iowa Roster

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Jack Rule of Waterloo was the only one of four Iowans to land among the 50 top scorers in the first round of the 8th International Jaycee Golf tournament here Wednesday.

The 15-year-old Rule fired a 37-43-80 for an eight-way tie for 35th place.

Tom Garside of Davenport led the other Iowans with a 39-44-83.

Al Lohrop of Cherokee carded a 42-42-84 and Brian Kneafsey of Ottumwa came in with 46-41-87.

NCAA Proves 'A Cop With A Blackjack'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Once upon a time a father thought some of his children were acting like a bunch of little monsters and he decided to take proper corrective measures.

He grabbed his razor strap and called the handful of rebellious offsprings out to the woodshed to receive their own-uppance.

But the kids, thinking they were getting a raw deal, rallied the support of some of their brothers—there were around 400 of them in all. So when pop started to wind the strap, the kids seized the strap and ran away.

Outnumbered Now there were other children in the family who tried to help pop, but they were outnumbered. The father was crest-fallen. He had lost his authority and his household.

Then high-placed relatives came in and told pop if he couldn't handle the family they would. And the relatives started to take over. But pop—just when it looked as if he was through—gritted his teeth and got tough.

He ignored the relatives. He put in some new rules, not as stringent as those before. He rallied most of his children around him and cracked down. From now on, he told him, they'd do what he said, or else.

Whacked 2 Biggest A year or so passed and three of the kids got in trouble. They disobeyed. Pop gave them the razor strap. No kickback. Then just this week pop really showed his mettle. He called out the two biggest, most influential kids in the family and gave them a good whacking.

The other kids looked on in awe, and were impressed. Now they're all careful because pop has a big razor strap, he's not afraid to use it, and it hurts.

This is the story of the NCAA, alphabetical father of some 400 of the nation's college athletic programs.

In sharply reprimanding Notre Dame and Michigan State this week for illegal athletic practices and in meeting out more severe punishment to Arizona State Temple, the NCAA proved it has finally won its fight to become an enforcement arm of the organization—a cop with a blackjack.

Naval Cadets To Perform At Iowa Game

Intricate marching maneuvers of the 54-man Naval Aviation Cadet drill team from the "Annapolis of the Air" at Pensacola, Fla. will be executed during halftime of the Michigan State-Iowa football game here Sept. 26.

Athletic Director Paul Brecher Wednesday announced the scheduled appearance of the unit. It will be its fourth display of a 1953 fall schedule at 12 major football games. The cadets will open Sept. 11 at Chicago between halves of a professional game and close Nov. 28 at Los Angeles when Notre Dame meets USC in the coliseum.

Cadets are those currently taking pre-flight instruction at Pensacola to become naval aviators. They voluntarily give up much of their spare time to become members of the drill team trained by marine corps drill sergeants.

The 1952 unit, furnished the halftime entertainment at the Pittsburgh-Iowa game at Pitt stadium last September. Hawk-eye officials were so impressed with the performance that they made arrangements for the cadets to come to Iowa stadium.

Half-time shows are made as a means of helping to interest young college men in naval aviation and are presented as a good-will gesture of the naval air training command headed by Vice-Admiral John Price.

Browns Pin Defeat on Pierce With 4-3 Score in 10 Innings

CHICAGO (AP)—Les Moss' triple in the 10th inning was the big blow as the St. Louis Browns scored twice for a 4-3 victory Wednesday over the Chicago White Sox and pinned defeat on Billy Pierce.

The little lefty's scoreless streak was snapped at 40 innings as he lost a shot for his 17th triumph and absorbed his eighth setback. The Browns hopped on Pierce for 13 hits to dump the Comiskey's 8½ games behind the leading New York Yankees, who defeated Washington 2-0.

The Browns' two runs in the sixth were both unearned, one coming on an error by Rocky Krsnich.

A crowd of 9,253 paid went wild as the Sox threatened to pull the game out of the fire in the last of the 10th. They scored once off winner Bob Turley on Nellie Fox' double that brought home pinch-hitter Eddie Stewart. Stewart had walked. Minnie Minoso also walked, but both he and Fox were left stranded when Sam Mele flied out to end the game.

Yanks Bounce Back NEW YORK (AP)—Jim McDonald blanked Washington with four hits Wednesday as the New York Yankees bounced back from Tuesday night's disaster to top Washington, 2-0, although they got only four hits off loser Al Sima.

Sima was rolling along with a no-hitter until Yogi Berra came up with two gone in the fourth to blast his 23d home run.

The Yanks added their other run in the fifth when Bill Renna led off with a double down the left field line, took third on Billy Mar-

Snider's Single Brings 12th Dodger Triumph

BROOKLYN (AP)—Duke Snider's single in the eighth inning chased in the winning runs as the Brooklyn Dodgers clinched an uphill battle to defeat the New York Giants Wednesday 7-5 for their 12th straight triumph, biggest streak in the National league this season.

Snider's game-winning hit came off southpaw Dave Koslo, who had been summoned from the bullpen to replace Hoyt Wilhelm with the bases full and two out Wilhelm had yielded the tying run.

Brooklyn used four pitchers to three for the Giants. Roy Milliken, third Dodger hurler, received credit for the victory.

Wilhelm, who halted a Dodger rally in the third after relieving starter Marv Grissom, pitched runless ball until the eighth to be charged with his eighth loss. The Dodgers, trailing 5-1 when they came to bat in the third, scored three runs.

Dodger manager Charlie Dressen remarked quietly after the game, "We're on the way now."

Phillies Fall, 5-3 PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Frank Thomas' 18th home run of the year gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the lead and Eddie O'Brien's single pushed across the insurance run in the eighth inning Wednesday night as the Pittsburgh Pirates clipped Curt Simmons and the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-3.

Right-hander Elroy Face survived tin's bunt single and scored on Gil McDougald's single to center.

Indians Fall DETROIT (AP)—Lefthander Billy Hoelt of the Detroit Tigers snapped his personal four-game losing streak Wednesday as he scattered 11 hits and beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2. Both Indian runs came on homers by Wally Westlake and losing pitcher Early Wynn.

Williams Homers BOSTON (AP)—Ted Williams who less than a month ago was a marine combat flier, blasted a home run which guided the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics Wednesday.

a first inning Phillies' rally and Johnny Wrostek's fourth-inning home run to pick up his sixth win of the year against five losses. Simmons dropped his 11th against 10 wins.

Braves Win, 3-2 CINCINNATI (AP)—Andy Pafko waited until the ninth inning Wednesday to keep his consecutive game hitting streak alive and then blasted a home run that gave the Milwaukee Braves a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Pafko now has hit in 17 consecutive games. His wallop broke up a tight pitching duel between Warren Spahn of the Braves and Joe Nuxhall of the Reds.

It gave Spahn his 17th triumph as against five defeats. The Brave hurler had an anxious moment in the opening inning when Ted Kluszewski's 37th home run drove in Johnny Temple, who had walked, to account for both Cincinnati runs.

Spahn allowed only five hits and Nuxhall only seven.

Cards Sink, 5-3 ST. LOUIS (AP)—Red Schoendienst celebrated his "night" with a single, double and triple, but the St. Louis Cardinals were defeated by the Chicago Cubs Wednesday, 5-3.

The Cubs won on the strength of a two-run sixth inning in which they did not get a hit. The two scores came on four walks off starter Joe Presko and a fumble by rookie shortstop Dick Schofield.

Strafaci Leads Field In Western Amateur

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Given a break by the breezes, medalist Frank Strafaci of Garden City, N.Y., led a field of favorites into the second round of the Western Amateur Golf Championship Wednesday.

Strafaci nipped Thomas Stephenson of Kansas City 1-up with 15-foot putt on the 18th green but the turning point of the bitterly fought match came on the 10th hole.

Down by one hole, Strafaci aimed a short putt at the cup. A miss would have left him two down. The ball rolled an inch past the cup and, after coming to a dead halt, it was blown back into the hole by a gust of wind.

This weird stroke of luck left Strafaci still one down. He tied it up two holes later and, after falling behind momentarily, won out with his 15-footer on the final green of the Blytheheld Country club course.

Advancing with him into the second round were Walker cuppers Harvie Ward Jr. of Atlanta, Ga., Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, Tex., and James Jackson of Glendale, Mo.

The 18-hole rounds are scheduled for today, when the field will be cut from 32 to 8 players.
