Ike Says He Never Broke Word on T-H

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower insisted angrily Wednesday he never knowingly broke his word in his life — a reply to charges made by his resigned secretary of labor, Martin Durkin. Durkin, an AFL union leader and Democrat, quit three weeks ago and accused Eisenhower of breaking a pledge to recommend to congress a set of union-wanted amendments to the Taft-Hartley law.

Asked for his version of the controversy, Eisenhower told a news conference he always refused to engage in personalities but he would say this: To his knowledge, he'd never broken an agreement with any associate in his life.

With eyes flashing and jaw jutting, Eisenhower went on to say that if he ever had broken an agreement it was something he never understood had been made.

The President then challenged anyone at his news conference who had evidence to the contrary, to take the floor and make a speech. No one spoke up.

Durkin, asked for comment on Eisenhower's remarks, said he still stood on his statement to the AFL convention in St. Louis on Sept. 22. In that speech Durkin said Eisenhower gave his word personally at a New York city meeting Aug. 19 to provide administration support for a series of 19 proposed Taft-Hartley law amendments. Later, Durkin told the AFL convention, Eisenhower changed his mind and informed him he couldn't go along with the amendments.

As to the prospect of any T-H law changes, Eisenhower advised last week's AFL convention he still is having the problem studied and will recommend some changes to congress next January to correct "a number of defects." But he said he considered the law, co-authored by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), to be "essentially sound." He did not comment further Wednesday.

Returned Prisoner Questioning Delayed

PANMUNJOM (Thursday) (AP)—Biting today put off indefinitely questioning of nearly 23,000 Korean war prisoners—a vast majority of them anti-Communist—who refuse to go home.

The UN command drafted a protest that the decision on rules of procedure, announced Wednesday by the five-nation neutral repatriation commission, gave in to every Communist demand.

"The Communists got everything but the lists of names of the prisoners," an Allied spokesman declared after a first look at rules compelling each prisoner to listen to explanations whether he wants to or not.

Explanations had been due to begin Sept. 23, were first put off until last Saturday and then until today.

After announcement of the rules touched off a new tempest, the Indian spokesman said he would not even speculate on when the explanations would begin.

The Reds have more than 14,000 Chinese and nearly 8,000 North Koreans to interview.

A shortened period would offer no problem to the Allies who have only 23 Americans, 1 Briton and 335 South Koreans to interview.

President Smiles His Well Wishes

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER CONGRATULATES Louis B. Toomer, Negro banker from Savannah, Ga. after the latter was sworn in as register of the U.S. treasury in a White House ceremony Wednesday. Toomer will get $9,600 a year to start. He will be in charge of cancelling registered government securities other than savings bonds, as they are redeemed. "It's nice to have you aboard," Ike told him.

Lectures, Musical Programs Included on Union Schedule

Three lectures and nearly a score of events have been announced by director Earl E. Harper of the SUI Memorial Union as comprising the 1953-1954 lecture-concert series.

Authorities on government, diplomacy, religious education and music will appear on the lecture program, while the Union's concert agenda includes such names as the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, pianist Eugene Istomin, violinist William Primrose and the Columbus Boy choir. Arrangements are being made for other lectures, Harper says.

Several concerts by SUI musical organizations have also been scheduled for performance in the student union, including those by the band, orchestra and chorus.

Dean Merrimon Cuninggim of the school of theology at Southern Methodist university, Dallas, Tex., will appear on the lecture series Sunday. Richard Elsasser, organ virtuoso, will present a concert Nov. 3. Elsasser also appears on the lecture series.

General Carlos Romula of the Philippine Islands, former ambassador to the United States and described by Who's Who as an editor, author, lecturer, soldier and diplomat, will speak Dec. 9.

Acclaimed as one of the world's foremost authorities on opera, Boris Goldovsky will appear on Feb. 17. He will discuss opera.

and will illustrate his lecture at the piano.

Cyrus Ching, former director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation services, will deliver a lecture Mar. 10. Ching is also a long-time member of the advisory council of the department of commerce.

With the exception of the guest artists appearing on the music series—Istomin, Minneapolis symphony, Columbus Boy choir and Primrose—all events will be free, including the concerts staged by organizations in the university music department. Ticket information may be obtained at the Iowa Memorial Union desk or by calling university extension

The schedule of musical events includes:

University symphony orchestra, Oct. 21; pianist Istamin, Nov. 18; university symphony, Dec. 2; Christmas oratorio, Dec. 16; Violist Primrose, Jan. 13; university band, Jan. 30; university symphony, Jan. 27.

University chorus, Feb. 24; university band, Mar. 3; Columbus Boy choir, Mar. 17; university symphony, Mar. 24; Minneapolis symphony, (afternoon and evening) Mar. 31; university symphony, Apr. 28; university band, May 5; university chorus, May 12, and the university symphony, May 26.

Eisenhower Ends Possibility Of National Retail Sales Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday the administration will not ask congress for a retail sales tax which critics contend hits the little fellow harder than the millionaire.

But the President didn't rule out the possibility of a general tax on goods that manufacturers produce — a tax which could be passed on to the public in higher prices.

The whole tax problem still is under study, the President told his first news conference in 10 weeks, and the goal is levies that will be fair and just and still produce the necessary revenue.

He didn't say how much will be needed or whether the net result will be a boost or cut in taxes.

No Elaboration

But he did declare congress won't be called back into special session to boost the ceiling on the national debt unless there is "some radical change" in the government's financial situation.

A crowd of 239 reporters, overflowing into a balcony, turned out for a conference that included these "various topics: hydrogen bomb; Russia's 'H-bomb know-how,' Eisenhower said, is of utmost importance to the world and makes us more interested than ever in learning Soviet intentions.

Plans Later Report

The President said he will report to the American people frankly when he straightens the issue out in his own mind and reaches definite conclusions.

International conferences: We want to relieve world tensions, the President said, but it is difficult to determine when and how conferences with Russia and other great powers could be held to full advantage.

Cardinal Wyszynski: The chief executive volunteered word that forced retirement of the Roman Catholic primate of Poland is very deeply resented by the heart of America and discourages efforts to achieve real understanding with what he called the other side.

Homecoming Parade Meeting To Be Today

Presidents and representatives of student organizations interested in participating in the SUI Homecoming parade to be held Oct. 23 should meet today at 4 p.m. in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Loren Hickerson, director of SUI's alumni service and chairman of the Homecoming parade committee, will preside over the meeting.

The session will cover last year's parade program and students will make plans for the drawing of a sponsor for each float. The float entry date deadline will also be announced.

UN Group Blocks Debate On Korea In Assembly

Parents Refused Trips To See Sons in Korea

WASHINGTON (AP)—The army Wednesday rejected a proposal that mothers of American soldiers who refused to return home after release from Communist prison camps be allowed to go to Korea to plead personally with their sons.

In a statement, the army said it considered the proposal "neither practical nor advisable."

The group that spurned repatriation includes 23 Americans, one Englishman and about 300 Koreans.

Not A U.S. Zone

Among other factors, the army said, the militarized zone where the men would be interviewed by their relatives is not under United States' but under United Nations' command and the men themselves are in the custody of the neutral repatriation commission.

The army said that under the armistice agreement the U.S. has the authority to explain to the men their rights as American citizens and soldiers and the fact that they are still free to return to the U.S.

These explanations will be made by "explainer teams" which, under the armistice terms, are limited to seven men per 1,000 non-repatriated. This provision, the army commented, "restricts the number of persons who may participate in such explanations."

Doing All We Can

The army statement said: "We are doing everything we can to assure that the explanations are made free from any duress or coercion from the other side and in an atmosphere most favorable for each of these 23 men to exercise his right of free choice. No man will fail to return home unless it is by his own free will."

The statement also said that: "If there are any Americans who, having made their free choice under these principles and after full explanation, still persist in their free decision not to return home, the armistice agreement provides that they shall be released to civilian status at the end of 120 days."

Can Meet Later

"Thereafter a meeting with his mother, father, or any other relative will undoubtedly be a matter which the man himself can bring about when he desires to do so."

"Therefore, although the department of the army fully sym-

State Plans Survey Of Tuition Charges In Small Colleges

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa legislative interim committee asked Alden L. Doud of Douds, former state senator, Wednesday to serve as a committee of one to gather information on tuition charges at smaller colleges in the state.

State Rep. A. C. Hanson of Inwood, committee secretary, said the group invited Doud to appear before it Wednesday. He had informally proposed previously a statewide survey of educational opportunities, tuition rates, etc., in the privately owned and endowed colleges in Iowa.

Results of Doud's survey, to cover many things, but tuition in particular, might be used in determining future state policy as to appropriations and particularly tuition charges at state supported institutions.

The committee approved most of a lengthy series of items presented by the state board of education. The series included mostly routine requests.

In discussing the proposed educational survey, Doud told the committee:

"I think recent legislatures have indicated that the state has about reached its limit insofar as further expansion of the state supported schools are concerned."

He said a survey of the privately owned and endowed schools should include such points as present enrollment, facilities for accommodating additional students, and the average student load per instructor.

Earl Warren
California Governor

Justice Job Gets Quick Warren OK

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—California's Republican governor, Earl Warren, wired President Eisenhower his "humble acceptance" of his nomination Wednesday to be chief justice of the United States.

"To be a member of this high court, and as such an interpreter and defender of the Constitution for all the people of the United States," said Warren, "is the greatest obligation that could be assumed by any lawyer."

Governor of California for 11 years, the 62-year-old Warren said he will resign at midnight Sunday and be in Washington, D.C., Monday to take his oath when the supreme court convenes.

Warren will be succeeded as governor by Republican Lt. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight, 56, a wealthy Los Angeles widower. Senate President Pro Tempore Harold J. Powers, 53, a successful cattle rancher from tiny Eagleville, will become lieutenant governor. He is also a Republican.

Warren, a middle-of-the-road Republican, who former President Harry Truman once said is a Democrat and doesn't know it, announced he will go to Washington alone, leaving Mrs. Warren to close up the old-fashioned governor's mansion.

He said he will live in a Washington hotel until Mrs. Warren can join him. Their six children are all living away from home.

Action Places Problem Last In Business

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The UN political committee beat down Wednesday a new Soviet bloc attempt to force an immediate and full debate in the UN assembly on the Korean peace conference.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky had warned that this action doubtless would doom the peace conference. But the 60-nation committee ignored his statement that there was little possibility that the parley would be held at all unless the committee reconsidered last month's assembly decision barring neutrals from it.

By a vote of 48-6, the committee put the Korean issue at the bottom of a list of seven items before the committee. This meant Korea will not be taken up until some time late in November at the earliest, well after the Oct. 28 deadline set for opening the peace talks, unless the delegates decide to revise its work program.

The committee delegates adjourned until Oct. 7 when they may start debate on the French Moroccan question.

As finally approved, the committee order of business for this session follows:

1. The Moroccan crisis.
2. Tunisian disturbances.
3. Investigation of germ warfare charges lodged against the United States.
4. Burma's complaint that Nationalist Chinese troops are committing aggression in Burma.
5. Disarmament.
6. Russia's package peace plan.
7. The Korean situation.

Longshoremen Union Officials Announce Beginning of Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—"The strike is on" longshore union officials declared today, heralding the start of a walkout designed to tie up east coast shipping.

The terse announcement came from Patrick J. Connolly, executive vice-president of the International Longshoremen's association at 12:01 a.m.

There was no immediate report of strike activity on docks of the world's largest port, largely closed down at night anyway.

The strike, expected to cost New York $1.5 million a day, was called Wednesday for all east coast ports from Portland, Me. to Hampton Roads, Va.

It includes 12 cities—New York; Portland; Boston; Providence, R.I.; New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Philadelphia and Chester, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; and Hampton Roads.

This time the ILA was without the support of the AFL, which kicked the union out last week for racketeering.

The strikers also face a revolt within their ranks of longshoremen pledged to a new dock union, chartered by the AFL to replace the ILA.

The ILA claims about 40,000 members in New York and 20,000 elsewhere.

The ILA is demanding a 13 cents an hour wage-welfare package atop a present base dock wage of $2.27 an hour.

A Condensation of Late Developments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The air force announced Wednesday that Lockheed Aircraft corporation, Burbank, Calif., is making a "preliminary design study on nuclear-powered aircraft. No details may be revealed as to the scope of the Lockheed project," said the announcement, which gave neither the amount of the contract nor the date it was awarded.

NEW YORK (AP)—First experimental units of a new type radar system, designed to give at least six hours' warning of aircraft approaching over the North Pole, are nearing completion in the polar region, the Western Electric Co. reported Wednesday. The initial installations are near Barter island, Alaska, about 1,200 miles from the North Pole. If the new type radar is successful, it was added, the line of installations will be extended from Alaska to Greenland.

LONDON (AP)—Two British warships crippled themselves by colliding in the darkness of the North Atlantic early Wednesday during NATO naval exercises testing the free world's sea defenses. Thirty-two sailors aboard the 8,000-ton cruiser Swiftsure were injured. The other vessel, the 2,610-ton destroyer Diamond, suffered no casualties among her personnel.

Theater Schedule Will Start Oct. 30

The 1953-1954 season at University theater will open Oct. 30 with a production of "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward. The play will run through Nov. 7.

Tryouts for the production are now in progress.

Students will be able to obtain free tickets and reserve seats for the play with their identification cards. Single admissions for others will be $1.25.

Selection of other plays to be presented has not been completed, but will be soon, dramatic arts officials said.

The dates of the other presentations will be as follows: Dec. 4 through 12; Jan. 14 through 23; Feb. 26 through March 6; April 5 through 10 and May 13 through 22.

U.S. Ups Financial Aid to French Indochina

PARIS (AP)—Assured of a stronger French war effort, the United States came through Wednesday with a $385 million increase in its contributions to help crush the Communists in Indochina.

The two nations jointly announced plans to step up the campaign against the Red-led Vietminh and a foreign ministry spokesman said France will never negotiate for a settlement of the 7-year-old war without participation of the U.S.

Ends Negotiations

The formal announcement of the extra aid agreement climaxed weeks of intensive French-American negotiations. The $385 million will be spent over the next 15 months to buy guns, ammunition, planes and other equipment for the French and their Indochinese allies.

The U.S. national security council recommended the arrangement to back up an allocation of $400 million voted by congress earlier this year for defense of Southeast Asia's strategic gateway. President Eisenhower approved it, despite his administration's determination to economize and keep foreign aid at a minimum.

8,100 Men Ready

The French intend to send nine battalions of troops—8,100 men—from Europe to join the French Union forces and to speed recruiting for the armies of the Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Laos and Cambodia.

Though the new American aid will arrive too late to figure in checking the Vietminh in their next offensive, expected to start in October, it should help the French and their allies to mount their own end-of-the-war drive later.

A communique said the French government "is determined to make every effort to break up and destroy the regular enemy forces in Indochina."

France Will Negotiate

Asked how this declaration of determination to push the war jibes with the statement of Deputy Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann in the United Nations Sept. 25 that France is willing to negotiate with the two outside powers which "inspire and arm the Vietminh" (Russia and Red China) for a settlement in Indochina, the foreign ministry spokesman said:

1. France must press the war because the needs military suc-

Kansas Kidnaping Clues Are Lacking

KANSAS CITY (AP)—An ominous silence closed in Wednesday night about the fate of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease whose wealthy parents waited in the seclusion of their fashionable home for his kidnappers to make a ransom move.

The trail of the son of Robert C. Greenlease, multi-millionaire automobile dealer outwardly led nowhere two days after his abduction from a private Catholic school here by a woman who passed herself off as his aunt.

Police retained a hands-off attitude. But they indicated they had reason to believe the brown-haired boy still was alive.

'Outdated' Social Security Act Blasted; 4 Revisions Requested

WASHINGTON—Sen. John F. Kennedy Jr., (D-Mass.) has charged the present Social Security law is "as dated as silent movies" and called for drastic revisions by congress in its next session, in a signed article in the October issue of the American magazine.

The newlywed Kennedy, one of the youngest senators in congress, declared the law now penalizes the aged while placing an unfair burden on the younger generation.

He cited the four most "serious holes" in the law as: (1) The "work clause," under which persons between 65 and 75 are not allowed to earn more than $75 a month and still draw Social Security benefits. (2) The fact that people retiring before 65 because of a permanent and total disability cannot get help, despite contributions to Social Security. (3) A faulty coverage which denies protection to millions of our citizens (including farmers, members of the armed forces, lawyers, veterinarians, accountants, architects, engineers, ministers and some household workers and public employees). (4) The inability of widows between 60 and 65 to get relief, despite obvious need.

Young Support the Old.
Kennedy, member of the committees on government operations and labor and public welfare, said the law has become a burden upon the young because, first, the young people are largely responsible for the financial support of Social Security, since they contribute longer; secondly, because in many cases the young also are directly supporting older people who, if the law were corrected, would not be dependent on them.

This latter situation, stemming from the "unfair" work clause, Kennedy referred to as "discrimination of the worst sort," putting a "premium on idleness and lack of enterprise."

He pointed out that in 1950, when the cost of living was lower than now, the bureau of labor statistics estimated an elderly couple needed a minimum annual income of $1,900 with which to maintain the barest standard of living. Since the average Social Security benefit to a retired couple averages $840 (1952), and the couple is not permitted to earn more than $900 a year, their total possible annual income is $1,740, or $160 less than the government itself recognizes as the minimum essential.

Hits Income Requirement
"The law seems all the more unjust," Kennedy argued in his article, "when you consider that a person over 65 can receive any amount of income from securities, rents, private pensions, or other unearned income and still draw his Social Security, while those who earn more than $75 a month cannot."

The senator emphasized, however, that the Social Security fund, which has always been self-supporting, "must resist the demands of those who want to raise benefits, without raising revenues, to a point where the fund will either become bankrupt or a serious drain on the national treasury." He added, "Obviously, the sky is not the limit."

To pay out full-scale pensions to all at a certain age, in return for the comparatively small amount put into the fund, would wreck our economy, cause wild inflation and make everyone's dollar worthless, he asserted. "In general," he said, "the principle of Social Security... is not to provide entirely for your old age, but rather to give you a supplement."

You Are Flirting With Death, Iowa Drivers Warned

An immediate $100 million highway modernization program to widen Iowa roads was called for this week in The Iowan magazine.

In an article "12 Inches from Death," W. D. Archie said, "You are flirting with death every time you venture upon our highways." The former state highway commissioner pointed out that a motorist has less passing room on most Iowa roads than when entering a single car garage.

The need, Archie claims is for the immediate building of wider roads on our most heavily traveled routes. The article pointed out that out of 8,154 miles of paved rural primary roads in Iowa, 4,004 miles are still only 18 feet wide and 1,349 miles are only 20 feet wide.

The story in the October-November Iowan said that a complete modernization program would cost from $500 to $700 million. Such a program would include widening our present paved roads to 22 and 24 feet, replacing such structures as bridges, changing grades and improving alignments.

It went on to point out that certain less complete modernizations are now underway which may provide a partial answer such as widening projects in Mahaska county and between Ames and Nevada where the present condition of the road allows widening operations alone.

The article recommends the building of four lane roads near such heavily populated centers as Des Moines, Davenport, Sioux City and Council Bluffs to further alleviate traffic congestion.

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

Careful study of the latest Russian note, at first interpreted as at least agreement in principle to a four-power conference on Germany, has led to Allied doubt that the Reds want any conferences at all at this time. The feeling was heightened by Vishinsky's speech at the UN Wednesday.

The obvious next step for the Allies on Germany is to ask Russia directly, ignoring all the rigamarole with which she surrounded the question, whether or not she wants to meet at Lugano, Switzerland Oct. 15, or anywhere else.

There is no obvious next step on the Korean conference, which Vishinsky says cannot be held unless the United States backs down from its refusal to permit the attendance of Asiatic neutrals.

The significance of the Vishinsky statement is somewhat clouded by the fact that the question may not mean as much to Russia as he makes out. He knows the U.S. worked itself into a poor position on the Korean conference, and he may be just playing the music as written for the purpose of embarrassing the U.S. as much as possible.

Everybody knows there couldn't be much harm, and might be some good, in having India and other neutrals at the conference. But the U.S. promised South Korea they wouldn't be admitted, and South Korea threatens or bluffs—that she will reopen the war if the conference doesn't go to suit her.

The state department estimates that Russia may be trying to avoid a German conference at this time because she knows her own political weakness in Eastern Europe, and because of internal problems at home. Things could go wrong at a conference which would bother the Kremlin in both places.

Single, Male Students Eligible To Apply For Oxford Study

Unmarried male students who have completed two years of college are eligible to apply for a Rhodes scholarship, granting two years of study at Oxford, it was announced Wednesday by Prof. Rhodes Dunlap of the English department.

Candidates will be interviewed the middle of the month by a screening committee appointed by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, and the winners will then enter into competition with other students throughout Iowa. From this group one or more will be chosen to compete in the district finals, on which level the scholarships are granted. There are six states in a district.

Applicants are judged on their intellectual and scholastic ability, as well as their personal character. There are no limitations on the subjects that may be studied under the scholarship.

At present, one SUI student, Thomas Brown '53, Iowa City, is studying mathematics at Oxford under a Rhodes scholarship. Several members of the SUI faculty are also Rhodes scholars, including Prof. Nicholas Riasanovsky of the history department, Prof. Robert Muir of the botany department, and Prof. Paul Engle of the English department. Hancher is also a Rhodes scholar.

Nominations from SUI will be made about Oct. 17, and prospective applicants should confer with Dunlap as soon as possible at 101-1 University hall.

U.S. Counterspies Have Secret Taps On Russian Atomic Energy

WASHINGTON—There is growing indication here that America's counterspy operations have come of age, and that Uncle Sam no longer is a chump at the global game of ferreting out secrets of other nations—if he ever was!

Latest confirmation of this, of course, was the instant corroboration by United States authorities of the Soviet claim of an H-bomb explosion. How did our intelligence experts know?

That is top secret indeed. However, from far off Australia come speculations that give a hint. The editors "down under" are having a field day telling how a United States B-29 arrived at Auckland, New Zealand, five days after the British A-bomb test at Monte Bello.

Carried Extra Men
The plane, according to the Australians, did not declare its radio presence until only an hour away from Auckland. It appeared to be specially fitted, and carried a crew of 11 instead of the usual eight. The excuse of a training flight seemed flimsy, and it took off soon after servicing for parts unknown.

The Australians speculate that the United States maintains a vast atomic patrol system sampling the atmosphere of the Pacific for radioactive particles. That is one of three possible ways that this country could know as much as it apparently does about Soviet atomic development.

Another is to detect earth shocks with instruments used to record earthquakes. Gordon Dean, retiring chairman of the atomic energy commission, hinted at a third when he said last June that the United States has "sources of information" inside Russia.

Refused Comment
Then he clammed up quickly, adding that, "We do not want to tip off Russia on the sources of information we have in the U.S.S.R." This could explain how British and American intelligence seem to be able to trace the movements behind the Iron Curtain of one Bruno Pontecorvo, renegade British atomic expert, whose trips often have heralded new atomic tests.

Getting the dope on the Soviet atomic program is just one aspect of the fact-gathering. Here are others: Russia has an army of about 4,600,000. Its tractor production is up 40 per cent since 1940. It has an annual plane output of 22,000 in 85 plants. The Soviet navy has 300 submarines. Soviet mine bosses are suffering nervous breakdowns from frantic speedup programs. The U.S.S.R. is worried by a scarcity of fuel oil. So it goes, on and on about internal Russian affairs.

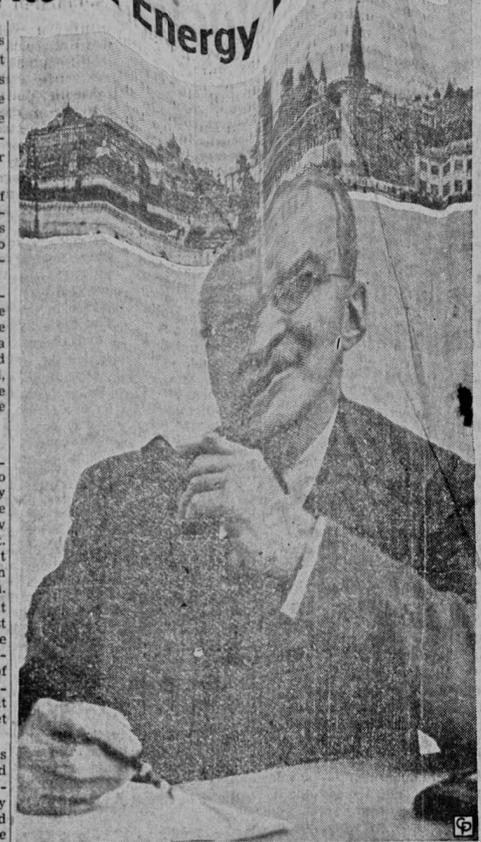

You can let your imagination run about cloak and dagger activities by American foreign agents. When the Central Intelligence agency was created after World War II, the U.S. for the first time in its history provided for peace-time espionage on a fight-fire-

Shrouded in Secrecy
The budget of Allen Dulles' agency is shrouded in secrecy. That the Russians are extremely sensitive about it is indicated by Vishinsky's blast against "the United States fund for spies," saying nothing, of course, about Russia's huge operation. This is a development that Uncle Sam came to reluctantly, but which presumably is progressing and producing gratifying results.

Recapitulations of the exploits of American intelligence agents in World War II provide ample evidence that they are not without aptitude.

The details slowly being revealed in piece-meal fashion as footnotes to history tell how Nazi war output was projected with pin-point accuracy; a pipeline into the German general staff told us that the Nazis would invade Russia six months before they did (the Soviets rejected our warnings!)

count of Japanese plans for defense of Luzon, and many other similar exploits.

It is axiomatic among authorities on espionage, however, that two other avenues often produce big results: the product of painstaking research into "open" sources, and windfalls in the shape of data sent in unexpectedly by unknown friends behind opposing lines.

Published Jet Story
In the last category falls detailed notes and sketches of an American aviation magazine was able to publish of the new Russian twin-jet bomber, the Ilyushin 28. An observer, on assignment from the magazine, accumulated them over a two-year period. Talk about leaks in security!

Ingenious putting of two-and-two together nets big results from research programs such as those going on at Columbia university, where all Soviet scientific publications are translated, and at the Harvard university Russian research center.

All of which possibly adds up to a legitimate conclusion that Uncle Sam is on his toes at last as a counterspy.

Cedar Rapids 32d

The Cedar Rapids orchestra will begin on Nov. 9 with the first of six subscription concerts. The orchestra will be directed by its new conductor, Henry Denekke.

Two famous arrangers, the Meade and Ruggiero Rhythmists, will appear at the events of their appearance.

An opening concert by a new conductor will be given on Nov. 9, and a Christmas concert will be given on Dec. 15. The orchestra is composed of 45 members and soloists.

1st Program
On the first program the orchestra will feature "Symphony No. 1" by Tchaikovsky, conducted by conductor Denekke.

Denekke who is a symphonist with symphony orchestras, the NBC Symphony, and the Philadelphia Orchestra, was hired as first tenor last spring for the first time as a conductor of the orchestra's summer season.

A Christmas performance of "The Nutcracker" will be given on Dec. 15. The orchestra will be the second of its subscription series.

Soloists
Kurt Baum, first tenor, of the Cedar Rapids orchestra, will be the soloist in "The Nutcracker" on Dec. 15. Baum, a listener heard tenor role in the year production at the opera, is well known to music centers as an American.

Cedar Rapids Symphony To Begin 32d Concert Season in November

The Cedar Rapids symphony orchestra will begin its 32d season on Nov. 9 with the first of a series of six subscription concerts. The orchestra will be under the direction of its new full-time conductor, Henry Denecke.

Two famous artists, tenor Kurt Baum of the Metropolitan Opera and Ruggiero Ricci noted violinist, will appear as soloists for two of the events.

Their appearances will follow an opening concert in which the new conductor will make his debut and a Christmas concert to be performed with the Coe college chorus and soloists.

1st Program Scheduled
On the first program, Nov. 9, the orchestra will feature the popular "Symphony No. 6 (Pathétique)" by Tschaiikov under the baton of conductor Denecke.

Denecke, who for 13 years was tympanist with the Minneapolis symphony orchestra and who has played with such other orchestras as the NBC Symphony, Cleveland orchestra, the Pittsburgh Symphony, and the Firestone orchestra, was hired as full-time conductor last spring following the retirement of Prof. Joseph H. Kitchin.

Mitropoulos Pupil
Denecke is a conducting pupil of Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the New York Philharmonic, Leon Barzin, conductor of the National Orchestral association and the late Albert Stoessel, former head of the Juilliard school of music.

Besides conducting all concerts of the Cedar Rapids orchestra this year he also will conduct the Northwest Symphonetta on its 10th annual tour, will be guest conductor of LaCrosse, Wis. Symphony orchestra and will direct one of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra's summer concerts.

A Christmas program including a performance of Handel's "Messiah" with the Coe college chorus will be the second offering on the orchestra's subscription series.

Soloists To Appear
Kurt Baum, first of the two renowned soloists, will appear with the Cedar Rapids musicians on Jan. 27. Baum, whom many Iowa listeners heard singing the leading tenor role in the Metropolitan Opera production at Des Moines last year, is well known in European music centers as well as throughout America.

He made his Metropolitan debut in 1941 and since has been the Met's "High-C tenor star." During his several tours of the United States and Europe, he has appeared with some of the major orchestras of the world.

In Florence, Italy, the Maggio Musicale said of his singing: "Kurt Baum rightly deserved the ovations given to him by the public for his magnificent voice as well as for the agility with which he sang this very difficult part of Arnoldo in 'William Tell'."

Guest Violinist
Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, second of the two famous soloists, will appear with the orchestra on April 7. Ricci, called the "magician of the bow" and "a fantastic fiddler" by the New York World-Telegram and Miami Herald respectively, completed an extensive 32-concert tour of Europe last year.

He made his debut at Carnegie hall at a young age and has since built a reputation in the U.S. and abroad as a master of the violin. A pupil of the famous violin teacher Louis Persinger (teacher of Stern, Menuhin, Gullie Bustaba and many others, Ricci plays with Columbia network as well as making his many appearances as soloist.

Schedule Listed
Complete schedule of concerts on the Cedar Rapids Symphony subscription series is as follows:
Nov. 9 — Opening concert, debut of new conductor.
Dec. 12 and 13 — "Messiah" performance with Coe chorus and soloists.

Jan. 27 — Concert with Kurt Baum as soloist.
March 3 — Concert, possibly with another chorus from near-by area.

April 7 — Concert with Ruggiero Ricci as soloist.
May 9 — Concert with soloist from local area or state.

All of the above events will be staged in Coe auditorium. In addition to these the orchestra's subscription series.

University Club Opens Fall Social Events October 8

The University club will open the club's fall social events with a guest tea Oct. 8 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the University clubrooms in the Iowa Memorial Union. Mrs. Robert Ebel will be in charge of the arrangements for the tea.

Other events scheduled for October include a dessert party bridge on Oct. 13, a luncheon program on Oct. 15, a dessert party bridge for husbands and guests on Oct. 20, a Homecoming reception on Oct. 23, and a coffee hour and Kensington business meeting on Oct. 29.

Mrs. Earl E. Harper is the general chairman for October. Chairmen of the parties for the month include Mrs. L. A. Yare, Mrs. Albert Luper, and Mrs. Dewey B. Stuit. Members of the committee assisting with arrangements include Mesdames D. A. Armbruster, Ned Ashton, Ernest L. Bright, A. W. Bryan, Harvey H. Davis, F. M. Dawson, Robert Ebel, George Fonken, Robert Garlin, Robert Gibbs, and E. A. Gilmore.

Others include Mesdames H. A. Green, Virgil M. Hancher, W. R. Kern, R. A. Kuever, E. F. Lindquist, Albert Luper, E. C. Mabie, Bruce Mahan, William Meardon, Ignacio Ponseti, Louis Penningroth, Fred M. Veterans' Playschool Hits Full Enrollment

A full enrollment at the Veterans' Playschool at Clinton and Bloomington sts. was recorded by Mrs. Robert Cowell, school registrar, following registration last Friday. Enrolled in the junior and senior groups were 25 pupils each and all other prospective pupils will be put on a waiting list to fill possible vacancies.

This week the new pupils have participated in an orientation program before the regular classes begin. The junior class includes pupils in the two and a half to four years age group and the senior group includes pupils from four to five.

Mrs. Jack V. Buerkle, wife of an SUI graduate student, will be the teacher this year.

Rock Island Lines To Use New Car

An extra heavy duty flat car for movement of "out-size" loads will go into service on the Rock Island lines in about nine months, it was announced Friday.

The car will have a capacity for loads up to 125 tons, compared to 50 tons for the ordinary flat. It will be equipped with a depressed floor to accommodate high loads, such as electrical generators and transformers, and if need be the army's mammoth 280mm cannon which has already had a train ride across country.

The 58-foot-long car will be equipped with six-wheel trucks, rather than the conventional four wheels. It will weigh 125,000 pounds compared with its "little brother's" 50,000 pounds.

Hospital School Completion Bids Will Be Opened Today

BIDS FOR COMPLETION OF the Iowa hospital-school for severely handicapped children (above) will be opened at 1 p.m. today in Old Capitol. The building is designed to hold 54 in-patients and 6 day pupils. The completion date has been set for Jan. 1.

SUI Reopens Class Series On Saturday

Between 200 and 300 students are expected to be enrolled in SUI's 1953-1954 series of Saturday classes, which will begin Saturday, Dean Bruce E. Mahan of the extension division said Wednesday.

Students will register at their first class meeting with representatives from the registrar's office. After classes they will go to the treasurer's office, university hall, to pay their fees. The office will stay open until 1 p.m. Fees are $5 per semester hour.

The purpose of the program is to provide an opportunity for on-campus education to persons within commuting distance of SUI.

Offer 23 Courses
Twenty-three courses are being offered in the program, which will continue through March 13. They include classes in art, commerce, education, English, geology, history, home economics, library education, political science and sociology.

Each will have 12 sessions of 1 hour, 40 minutes each. Because most of the persons who study under the program are in education, 10 of the courses are in this field.

All the classes are two-hour courses. Students may take up to four credit hours at once under the program. Most sign up for one education class and another in some other area, Mahan said. The selection of classes varies from year to year. New this year is life drawing. Two science courses in this year's program, field botany and physical geology, have not been offered under it for some time.

Started in 1915
The Saturday class program was begun under the college of education in 1915. It was discontinued because of wartime transportation difficulties in 1943 and re-initiated in 1948.

From the beginning, the selection of subjects was similar to the present. The program was shifted to the extension division in 1929. At this time it was reorganized and put under a special committee, headed by Mahan and including the deans of all colleges offering classes under the program plus the registrar.

Completion of the Iowa hospital-school for handicapped children has been set for Jan. 1, with bids for finishing the work being accepted today in Old Capitol starting at 1 p.m.

The legislature appropriated approximately $200,000 last spring to complete and equip the building. The cost of equipment will take half the amount.

Bids will be submitted to the state board of education for approval. Construction on the building stopped last March when the original contracts ran out. The work to be done includes completing the outpatient wing; construction of a kitchen; occupational therapy and building of special equipment for the children; installation of an elevator; floor covering on the top story; painting throughout the building and plumbing, heating and electrical work.

The hospital-school will ultimately admit 60 children, including 54 in-patients and six day patients. Its aim is the rehabilitation of physically handicapped children, both physically and educationally, and the eventual integration of these youngsters into the public schools system.

Handicapped children who are capable of being educated, will be admitted. This includes a wide variety of severe handicaps.

By law, the hospital school must admit all children between the ages of 3 and 21 who meet the requirements and whose parents are residents of Iowa. Raymond R. Rembolt, SUI pediatrics professor, is the director.

1954 Hawkeye Editors Discuss Staff Problems

MARILYN MAYWALD, C4, CAMBRIDGE, editor of the 1954 Hawkeye, confers with Dick Pitschke, A3, Rock Island, Ill., photo editor, and Prof. Wilbur Peterson, circulation director of Student Publications Inc., about the editorial staff. The 1954 Hawkeye organizational meeting will be held tonight in 221A Schaeffer hall at 7:30. Applications will be accepted for positions on the copy, art, photo and business staffs. Anyone interested in obtaining publication experience is urged to attend. Following the meeting a conducted tour will be given of the new Communications Center in which the Hawkeye office is located.

Foreign Students Are Invited To Take Communication Skills

All new foreign students registering at SUI for the first time this fall are invited to enroll in communication skills 10:9.

The first class was held Wednesday evening from 7 to 8 in Law building temporary number one. This building is located at the rear of the International Center, 3 E. Market st.

Communication skills 10:9 is a basic course in English. There will be assigned text books and attendance will be required for all who register.

The course is being taught from the standpoint of English as a foreign language by Morton J. Gordon, student assistant, office of student affairs, under the supervision of the department of communication skills.

Gordon is a graduate of Columbia university and is at present taking his Ph.D. work at SUI in speech pathology. Gordon has had previous experience in teaching English to foreign students at the University of Michigan.

Voter Registration Light, Records Show

The Iowa City clerk's office records show that registration of new voters for the municipal election Nov. 3 has been light to date.

The deadline for voting registration will be Oct. 9 if a primary election is necessary this fall. The necessity of a primary depends on how many candidates file nomination papers by the Oct. 6 deadline. The primary would be Oct. 20.

Registration will be closed until after the primary, if one is necessary, and reopened until Oct. 23 for the regular election.

Three city council posts and one park commission position are to be voted on this fall.

Voting qualifications include being at least 21 years of age, a U.S. citizen, resident of Iowa for six months, of Johnson county for 60 days and of the present precinct 10 days. A person must be registered in order to vote.

Only one new registration has been recorded this week, with seven persons having signed up last week for voting.

Library Offers Students Better, Faster Service

Reserve and circulation departments at the university general library have been reorganized to give greater service to the students.

The circulation desk, located opposite the elevator on the first floor, is the usual stop for students and faculty who wish books charged out to them. Names of students who request books already out are put on the waiting list.

Something new has been added by the circulation desk for students. They may now obtain keys there for lockers on third floor in which to store their belongings. These lockers were nicknamed "rabbit cages" because of the similarity. The lockers were built especially for the library.

The desk attendants use an inter-communication system between floors to aid in quicker book paging. A book lift is used also to convey the books between floors.

The reserve desk is located on the first floor in the west wing of the library. There are two types of reserve books, open and closed. The books on open reserve are shelved in their normal place in the stacks while the closed reserve books are kept at the reserve desk. Reserve books are those books which faculty members have requested to circulate for a limited time.

Near the reserve desk is the periodical reading area. Students will find a variety of magazines and newspapers for class research or pleasure reading. The library subscribes to 8,523 different magazines and 102 newspapers.

SUI Journalists Plan Telegraph Editors Conference

Iowa Associated Press telegraph editors will learn what students and teachers think of current newspaper practices at a conference Saturday and Sunday at SUI.

Joseph P. Meyer, Elkader graduate in journalism and C. E. Barnum, instructor in the Iowa school of journalism, will present the faculty-student view of Iowa newspapering during a panel discussion Sunday morning at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study. Phil Dooling, Burlington Hawkeye-Gazette, president of the Iowa AP Telegraph Editors association, will conduct the meeting.

Prof. William Porter will deliver an address on "The Press of Italy" at the conference dinner Saturday evening.

The conference is sponsored by the SUI school of journalism.

Sewell Accepts Swimming Plaque Won by Cadets at Fort Benning

Scientists Dive 2 Miles

ISLAND OF PONZA, Italy (AP)—Two miles beneath the surface of the sea there is a gravelly calm and stygian blackness broken only by ghostly flickers of phosphorescence hinting at unknown forms of life.

That was the word brought back Wednesday by Prof. Auguste Piccard and his son, Jacques, from the greatest depth living man has ever reached.

"There was nothing else to see," the frail, 69-year-old professor said when he returned to the surface in the steel diving boat he calls a bathyscaph. "Even our powerful searchlight greyed away in the silent, sunless darkness of the abyss."

Too Excited To Talk. The wispy scientist, who 20 years ago invaded the stratosphere by flying up 10 miles in a balloon, bobbed back to the rain-swept surface of the Tyrrhenian sea too excited and too tired to tell of his experiences immediately.

He cupped his oil-stained hands and howled gleefully across 100 feet of sea to correspondents in an Italian corvette: "Three thousand, one hundred and fifty meters!" That's 10,339 feet—only a bit under two miles.

Later, rested, Piccard talked eagerly. "We're so happy," he said. "So happy—and so tired. "But that doesn't matter. I can tell you nothing now, scientific-

Adventure Just Starting

"But one thing is certain: Our adventure does not end here. Science never has a point of beginning and a point of end. We have just reached the greatest depth in the Mediterranean. But we have not yet gone as far as the bathyscaph is capable of going."

Piccard may never try again—almost certainly not this year, as autumn storms already are roughening the depths of the Mediterranean.

His dramatic dive and return to the escorting Italian navy corvette Tenace took two hours, 12 minutes, although the 52-foot-long bathyscaph dropped like a plummet at a yard a second into the sunless depths.

Minutes On Floor. He and his son remained on the floor of the Tyrrhenian Sea mere minutes before signaling for the haul back up.

Piccard's dive easily broke the record set off Toulon by two French naval officers Aug. 12. They took a similar model bathyscaph down 5,085 feet.

Previously the record was held by William Beebe, who descended 3,028 feet off Bermuda.

Piccard's diving boat is named "Trieste." It is a stubby craft, about 13 feet wide amidships

Accepts Four Freedoms Award

Venus, Mars To Appear This Week

Anyone who is able to rub the sleep out of his eyes at 3:45 a.m. this week will be able to see a brilliant display in the eastern sky, according to Prof. C. C. Wylie of the astronomy department.

Wylie said the planet Venus will rise over the horizon trailing the reddish planet Mars.

Venus will at first look like the headlight of an approaching automobile while above and to the right will appear the reddish Mars.

The planets will come closer together until Oct. 4 when they will seem to be almost touching.

Persons living far enough to the east will be able to see the planetary show around 11 p.m. and 12 p.m.

Essay Contest Opens As Newspaper Week Is Being Observed

Today marks the beginning of National Newspaper week, Oct. 1-8.

Contests for the nation's high school and college students in connection with it have been announced by the Newspaper Week committee.

Four awards will be made on each level:

1. To the male student who writes the best essay on the importance of free and uncensored press.
2. To the female student who writes the best essay on the same topic.
3. To the boy designing the best illustration appropriate to that theme.
4. To the girl designing the best illustration fitting the theme.

Essays must be no longer than 750 words. A heading at the top of the page should give the student's name, age, home address, name of school and classification.

Illustrations should be done only in black and white, no smaller than six by nine inches and no larger than nine by twelve inches.

Entries are to be submitted to the National Newspaper Week committee, postmarked not later than Oct. 15. They must be mailed to Vern Sanford, chairman, National Newspaper Week Committee, care of the Texas Press Association, 1716 San Antonio st., Austin, Tex.

New Super Market Opens Here Today

The Hy-Vee super market, 227 Kirkwood ave., will officially open for business today, Dave Davidson, manager of the store announced.

The store layout features wide aisles and large frozen foods, fresh vegetables and meat sections. Four check-out stations, each with new automatic belt-driven check-out equipment, are at the front of the store. The entire store is air-conditioned. The store also features a customer concrete parking lot which can accommodate 50 cars.

Exterior construction of the store is brick with large plate glass windows on the north front and glass block.

The store is owned by Hyde and Vredenburg, Inc., of Chariton. The parent company was formed 15 years ago near Lamoni and now operates 31 food stores in south central Iowa and north central Missouri.

Company officials who will be here for the store's opening include, Dwight Vredenburg, president; Marlon Coons, secretary-treasurer; Harold Trumbull, vice-president in charge of retail operations; Ralph Baker, vice-president in charge of produce; Don Monroe, vice-president in charge of maintenance and equipment; William Smith, supervisor, and Charles Smock, meat supervisor.

Faculty Members Attend Conference

Director Leslie G. Moeller, Prof. Wilbur Peterson and Lester Benz, instructor, of the SUI school of journalism, attended a district conference of the Iowa Press association September 25 at Washington.

Benz, head of the community journalism sequence, and Moeller, director of the school of journalism, spoke on the current situation in school journalism, and will speak on the same topic at an IPA district meeting at Independence on October 2.

Members of SUI's infantry ROTC swimming team which entered and won a competition at the Ft. Benning, Ga. encampment this summer Tuesday presented a plaque signifying the championship to unit director Col. Walter E. Sewell.

The four-man team won the championship easily from competitors representing 71 universities and colleges across the nation. Iowa's quartet registered 29 points to turn the trick, 16 points ahead of the second-place University of Puerto Rico.

Team captain was David Van de Water, A4, Iowa City. Other squad members were Richard Seeburg, C3, Rockford, Ill.; Robert Hatlett, A4, Canton, Ohio, and Robert Higgins, A4, Minneapolis, Minn.

Van de Water swam to first place in the 100 yard backstroke and second spot in the 200 yard freestyle. Hazlett took first in the diving event. Higgins grabbed first place laurels in the 100 yard breaststroke, and Seeburg nabbed third in the 100 yard freestyle.

The combine of Van de Water,

Higgins and Seeburg won the 150 yard medley relay, and Higgins and Van de Water then joined causes with two men from Michigan State to take first in the 300 yard medley. Hazlett dives for SUI's varsity swimming team, and both Van de Water and Higgins are squad members.

The swimming competition is an annual one held at Ft. Benning. Van de Water accepted the trophy at the close of summer camp, and presented it to Colonel Sewell Tuesday for a two-week display in the armory. It will be placed in SUI's permanent trophy case.

Hawkeyes Favored Over WSC, 19-13

By Jerry (The Seer) Liska
Chicago (AP)—Beyond two fumbles (Purdue and Minnesota) and one near miss (Illinois) your midweek quarterback had fair success in switching from two- to one-platoon crystal balling.

Here's a second round of Midwest anticipating:
Iowa 19, Washington State 12—The Hawkeyes weren't pushed around too much by Michigan State. Washington State, however, is on the rebound after an opening defeat by Southern California.

USC Picked
Southern California 28, Indiana 13—Friday night—The Hoosiers are making a long trip for some rude hospitality. The Trojans seem to have it on the West coast.

Notre Dame 21, Purdue 14—You've got to stick with the nation's No. 1 team 'til it ain't. Purdue probably was contemplating this game against Missouri last Saturday and it cost the Boilermakers a 14-7 setback. The Irish can be taken at LaFayette, Ind., but not if they are as alert as they were in out-hawking Oklahoma's Sooners.

MSC Upset
Minnesota 18, Michigan State 14—This doesn't figure at all, but the game is at Minneapolis and Paul Giel must square that bum start at Southern California. MSC's speedy Spartans might as well get used to being a delectable Big Ten quarry this fall. Every conference foe will shoot the works against them.

Northwestern 20, Army 14—These two teams whipped a couple of out-manned victims in their openers, but we like the Wildcats with sophomore speedster Bob McKeiver making his varsity debut.

Ohio State 19, California 14—The Buckeyes may turn up with the season's best line. Johnny Borton can pull strings on OSU's attack with or without ailing halfback Howie Cessady.

Michigan 28, Tulane 7—Watch those Wolverines. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan has cranked up the smooth Michiganders and this may be the season for them to climb back atop the Big Ten, Ohio State and Michigan State notwithstanding.

Marquette 20, Wisconsin 19—Whoops. Can that be right? Yes, indeed. The Hilltoppers are as ready as they'll ever be and they can do it, with carefully planted bear traps for Alan (The Horse) Ameche. Marquette's Ron Drzewiecki is quite a back, himself.

Illinois 20, Stanford 14—J.C. Caroline will have to run plenty again, if the Illini haven't sharpened up their pass defense. Illinois will be pressed by Stanford's improving Indians, who used only three passes in beating Oregon.

DUKES ACCEPTS
NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Dukes, all-America center from Seton Hall, accepted an invitation Wednesday to play with the 1953 College All-Stars against the New York Knickerbockers in the annual Milk Fund game. Oct. 24 at Madison Square garden.

Bright Injured in Pro Game
CALGARY, Alta. (AP)—Hard-luck Johnny Bright, all-star full-back in his 1952 debut in the Western Interprovincial Football union, has been lost to the tail-end Calgary Stampeders for the rest of this season.

In Monday night's game here, Bright suffered a shoulder dislocation. Bright, dogged by injuries ever since coming to Calgary, said this might mean the end of his football career.

The big Negro from Drake university was hampered by a shoulder injury in the first part of the 1952 season, and an appendectomy sidelined him two weeks in the late season. He still finished as the WIFU's leading ground gainer.

Michigan Track Coach Predicts—Soviets To Win 1956 Olympics

Wolverines' Canham Says Red Athletes Are Professionals

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Russian athletes, competing on a professional basis in contrast to American athletic standards, will dominate Olympic track and field competition in Australia in 1956, coach Don Canham of the University of Michigan predicts.

Canham, just returned from northern Europe where he directed a touring U.S. track squad in more than 30 meets in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Finland, gave two reasons for his prediction.

1. Russian athletes are subsidized and trained at the Moscow Sports institute under direct government supervision.

2. The Russians started training for the 1956 games immediately after the Olympic games at Helsinki last year and already are performing better than their top performances a year ago.

Athletes Attend Institute
"Any Russian athlete of promise, regardless of age or family connection is sent to the Moscow Sports Institute for training," Canham said. "If he's a youngster he's taken away from his family for

American 'Beizbol' Heard in Moscow
MOSCOW (AP)—Beizbol—as the Russians call it—ran around the world Wednesday night and Americans in Moscow had their ears to the radio to hear the Yanks take the lead in the World Series.

Radio reception isn't of the best on ordinary sets so rabid fans of the American colony piled into the room of White-haired Glen (Pappy) Barnett of Washington, D.C., veteran diplomatic courier who lives in the American club.

Barnett has a powerful battery set that is invulnerable to local disturbances.

He and Jack Moore of Long Beach, Calif., flashed word of the Yanks' triumph around the rest of the colony by telephone. They have arranged a play-by-play mimeograph service for the remainder of the series.

Managers Stengel, Dressen Confer

MANAGERS CASEY STENDEL of the Yankees and Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers talk over rules and regulations before the opening of the 1953 World Series. Stengel is train; for his fifth straight series, which will set a record major league record.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Minnesota coach Wes Fesler searched for a formula to slow down Michigan State's heralded pony backfield and experienced added worry when first string tackle Stav Canakes came up with a charley horse.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Notre Dame's footballers spent most of Wednesday's practice in dummy scrimmage, reviewing blocking assignments on all plays.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Michigan coach Bennie Oosterbaan emphasized running plays in a long dummy scrimmage Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's game with Tulane.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State lays a lot on the line in the football game with Minnesota Saturday.

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue worked on passing, with quarterback Roy Evans throwing and linemen and blocking backs drilling on pass protection in preparation for Saturday's game here against Notre Dame.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana held a short daytime scrimmage then accustomed themselves to lights in a night drill.

BRIGHT INJURED IN PRO GAME
CALGARY, Alta. (AP)—Hard-luck Johnny Bright, all-star full-back in his 1952 debut in the Western Interprovincial Football union, has been lost to the tail-end Calgary Stampeders for the rest of this season.

IN MONDAY NIGHT'S GAME HERE, Bright suffered a shoulder dislocation. Bright, dogged by injuries ever since coming to Calgary, said this might mean the end of his football career.

THE BIG NEGRO FROM Drake university was hampered by a shoulder injury in the first part of the 1952 season, and an appendectomy sidelined him two weeks in the late season. He still finished as the WIFU's leading ground gainer.

MICHIGAN 28, TULANE 7—Watch those Wolverines. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan has cranked up the smooth Michiganders and this may be the season for them to climb back atop the Big Ten, Ohio State and Michigan State notwithstanding.

MARQUETTE 20, WISCONSIN 19—Whoops. Can that be right? Yes, indeed. The Hilltoppers are as ready as they'll ever be and they can do it, with carefully planted bear traps for Alan (The Horse) Ameche. Marquette's Ron Drzewiecki is quite a back, himself.

ILLINOIS 20, STANFORD 14—J.C. Caroline will have to run plenty again, if the Illini haven't sharpened up their pass defense. Illinois will be pressed by Stanford's improving Indians, who used only three passes in beating Oregon.

DUKES ACCEPTS
NEW YORK (AP)—Walter Dukes, all-America center from Seton Hall, accepted an invitation Wednesday to play with the 1953 College All-Stars against the New York Knickerbockers in the annual Milk Fund game. Oct. 24 at Madison Square garden.

SUI Professor Plans Talks On Guidance

Prof. Ralph J. Ojemann of the child welfare research station will deliver principal addresses at the ninth annual conference of the All-States Guidance and Personnel Association on the Northern Illinois State Teachers college campus, DeKalb, Ill., Oct. 9 and 10.

Ojemann will speak on the theme, "Recent Discoveries in Human Behavior," before 400 guidance directors from all parts of Illinois at the first day's general afternoon session. He will be introduced by Angeline Gale, guidance counselor, Naperville, Ill. high school, program chairman of the two-day conference.

Second Topic

At the closing conference luncheon, Ojemann will speak on "Continuity and Community Forces."

Ojemann was elected national chairman of parent education for the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in 1943 and again in 1952. He was chairman of the Iowa Commission on Children and Youth in 1951-1952.

At the present time, Ojemann is directing an extensive research project in education, human correlations and mental health with grants from the United States Public Health Service, the Bivin foundation and other sources.

Known Authority

Ojemann is considered a nationally known authority on adolescent development and mental hygiene.

Other well-known personalities in the guidance field who will appear on the two-day conference of seminars are: Marshall S. Hisey, chairman, department of guidance and special education, Southern Illinois university, president of the association; Frank H. Finch, school of education, University of Illinois; C. A. Michelman, chief, Guidance Services, State Department of Public Instruction, Springfield, Ill.; Dr. Walter Johnson, professor of education, department of guidance and counselor training, Michigan State college, and C. Hobart Rickert, chief, guidance, training and placement, division of vocational rehabilitation, state of Illinois.

28 Cities To Join 'Friends of Scouting' Fund-Raising Project

Twenty-eight communities in the Hawkeye Area Boy Scout council will participate in the "Friends of Scouting" campaign next month and campaign chairmen are now being selected in each community, Allin Dakin, SUI's administrative dean and president of the council, reported Wednesday.

Purpose of the campaign is to raise funds which not only will make possible continuation of the Scouting program but will make it possible to extend the program to reach boys who are not now enrolled, Dakin explained.

Although some advance solicitation will get underway this week, the general campaign will kick-off Oct. 20 with a breakfast in each of the participating communities.

The "Friends of Scouting" effort will be conducted only in the towns which do not have community chests, including Monticello, Anamosa, Wyoming, Oxford Junction, Martelle, Walker, Center Point, Coggon, Alburnett, Lisbon, Garrison, Keystone, Van Horn, Shellsburg, Newhall, Blairstown, Ladora, Victor, Williamsburg, North English, Brighton, Ainsworth, Crawfordsville, Wellman, Kalona, Lone Tree, North Liberty and Coralville.

Dakin reported that the Hawkeye area council now has a membership of 3,794 boys.

"Those of us in the Scouting movement have seen what this program means to a community," Dakin said. "But it can continue to grow and to serve a community only if all of us lend our financial support. We need many 'Friends of Scouting' if every boy is to have the opportunity to be a Cub, a Scout or an Explorer."

SUI Highlanders To Lead Parade

The SUI Scottish Highlanders will travel to Centerville today to take part in that town's annual Pancake day celebration.

The group is slated to leave Iowa City at 8 a.m. by special bus and arrive in Centerville late in the morning. The Highlanders will take part in two events during the day, the mile long parade and a special show in the town square.

The Iowa group will lead the parade which will include some eight other marching bands plus numerous floats. Following the parade the Highlanders will put on a short performance including the Highland fling, sword dance and the drum dance. Immediately after the performance the Highlanders will return to Iowa City.

Pancake day, which is sponsored by the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, attracted some 20,000 people last year.

OPEN TODAY - 9:00 A.M.
