Treasury Honors Highlanders

MARYDALE MERRILL, A2, IDA GROVE, drum major for SUI's Scottish Highlanders, receives a United States treasury department award from Vernon L. Clark, Washington, D.C., savings bond official. The award was given the group for their efforts in promoting the "Thrift for Security" savings bond drive in Iowa last spring. The award to the all-girl bagpipe band is in the form of a miniature Liberty bell and was presented at half-time in the Iowa-Indiana football game Saturday. The Highlanders acted as a living symbol of thrift for the drive. They posed for pictures, performed at rallies, made radio and television appearances, recorded radio commercials and appeared in films. All publicity material for the drive was prepared by Gamma Alpha Chi, advertising sorority and Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity at SUI.

A Condensation of Late Developments

PANMUNJOM (Tuesday) (AP)—The allies of the Korean war rebuked the Communists today for repeatedly insisting that neutral nations be invited to the Korean peace conference, U.S. Ambassador Arthur Dean, representing the 16 Allied nations that fought the Reds three years in Korea, told the Communists at the second session of preliminary talks: "If we invite the neutral nations, admirable though they may be, we may turn the political peace conference into an endless debating society. In the meantime our troops face each other across an uneasy armistice."

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia Monday night delivered a sharp note to Greece protesting the granting of military bases to American armed forces. The note accused Greece of loaning territory "for preparations for a new war." The Russians alleged that the signing of the agreement means the Greek government has begun to carry out measures which are directly aimed at preparing a new war. "The Greek territory is thus turned into a foreign military base which is counter to the interest of maintaining peace and international security," the note said.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Protests against attempts to "intimidate the pulpit" came Monday as Christians of various faiths gathered to examine America's moral position in a troubled world. Approximately 400 Christian leaders representing 30 denominations are expected for the opening today of a National Council of Churches' conference on "The Church and World Order." At a preliminary assembly, several speakers assailed what they called efforts to silence pastors on social issues, and restrict churches from interpreting the Christian message as they see it.

Board Of Education To Fight Tuition Boost At 3 State Schools

An indication that the state board of education will fight any proposed boost in tuition fees at SUI, Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers college was voiced in comments Sunday by members of the board.

Dwight Rider of Ft. Dodge, chairman of the board, expressed the feelings of most members when he said, "Tuition could get up to a point where only the rich could go to school. Such an attitude would be very hard to maintain."

The state legislature's interim committee expressed interest in raising resident rates at the three public supported educational institutions of higher learning.

The Iowa Taxpayers association at its state convention also urged a boost in a resolution which stated in part: "to restore a proper balance on what the taxpayer pays and what the student pays."

Tuition Survey Released

Results of a survey released by the board of education at its Friday session in Iowa City showed that tuition fees at SUI were fourth highest in a study of 10 publicly supported institutions of comparable size.

Fees at the three state supported schools for the two semesters of the 1953-1954 school year are: SUI, $156; ISC, $150; ISTC, $120.

Schools included in the board's survey and the resident rates at each are: Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin, $180; Colorado, $162; Minnesota, $155.55; Kansas, $155; South Dakota, $147; Illinois, $146; Missouri, $128, and Indiana, $120.

SUI's non-resident tuition rate of $376 for two semesters was third highest in the 10-school field. Annual tuition and fees in Iowa private colleges range from $274 to $653 with an average of about $400.

Another Survey Ordered

The interim committee has ordered another survey of tuition costs in public and private colleges and the comparable facilities of each institution.

The problem worrying the legislators is the anticipated increase in enrollments at state colleges within the next few years. The legislators expect state colleges to be bulging with the many World War II babies by 1960.

They fear that this will mean a demand for more buildings and high operating budgets. The 1953 legislature voted the three institutions the following amounts for their annual operating costs: SUI, $7,829,500; ISC, $7,636,748; ISTC, $2,822,730.

Education Is Expensive

Another board of education member, V. B. Hamilton of Hampton said: "We should not be afraid to say that education is expensive taxwise. It is the biggest tax we pay back home at Hampton. It should be. Education also is the biggest single expenditure of the state legislature. Probably our educational system is what makes us different from the rest of the world."

He continued, "I'm not saying that we should not have more tuition, but this situation is making us face a very important fundamental in the education system of this nation."

Believes in Increase

Board Chairman Rider commented that the interim committee evidently believes tuition should be increased to help pay for operating costs of the schools.

He said, "That policy not only would raise money but would discourage more young people against coming to school. Therefore more buildings would not be needed."

Rider stated that some people forget students can not go elsewhere in Iowa to get the type of instruction that is provided at Ames in veterinary medicine and agricultural subjects. He said that SUI was in competition with smaller schools only in the field of liberal arts.

Education Is Target

The board chairman commented on education being singled out as a target. He said, "While they talk generally about economy, when they come to naming names, they tackle the board of education and higher education. The only specific economies they come up with are in the realm of higher education."

Another member, Mrs. Frank G. Brooks of Mt. Vernon, whose husband is a Cornell college faculty member, said she believes there is "a very friendly feeling" between public and private colleges.

She said, "Cornell could not get along without the university." Mrs. Brooks mentioned that Cornell students come to SUI for professional school enrollment and other work.

Private School Problem

The problem of the private school was presented by Clifford Strawman of Anamosa, another board member. He said that an increase in the enrollments of some smaller schools would be possible only if they obtained large endowments.

Strawman said that private schools face a problem, but suggested that those who want to help the private schools perhaps should devote more energy to obtaining financial assistance for them.

Board Member Harry Hagemann of Waverly said that many of the private schools are "filled up now." He said, "I don't suppose we could take more than 25 or 50 more student at Wartburg (in Waverly) if we wanted to."

SUI Theatre To Open With 'Blithe Spirit'

SUI's theatre will open its 33d season Wednesday evening with the university presentation of Noel Coward's sparkling production, "Blithe Spirit."

The play, depicting the humorous role a fortune teller plays in the lives of several people, features Sam Smiley, G, Iowa City, as Charles Condomine and Sonya Goering, A4, Walcott, as Ruth.

Hilah Cherry, A4, Paris, Ill., will play Elvira; Virginia Peters, A3, Webster Grove, Mo., the fortune teller, Mme. Arcati; Dick Thomsen, A4, Charles City, Dr. Bradmen; Ann Smiley, A3, Iowa City, Mrs. Bradmen, and Nancy Moss, A4, Flushing, L.I., N.Y., Edith.

Prof. Willard Welsh of the dramatic arts department, will be directing his first university play in presenting "Blithe Spirit."

With the exception of Sunday, the play will be presented every night until Saturday, Nov. 7. Students may obtain tickets to all performances by presenting their I.D. cards at the ticket office, 8A, Schaeffer hall.

Season tickets may be purchased for $5 or single admission for $1.25.

Other university plays scheduled for this semester include "Noah," by Andre Obey, Dec. 3-12; "The Shrike" by Joseph Kramm, Jan. 14-23; "Shakespearean Repertoire," Feb. 22-March 6; "The Cradle Song" by G. Martinez Fierra, April 5-13, and "Shakuntala" (The Lost Ring) by Kalidasa, May 13-22.

Interim Group Allots $84,000 to SUI For Fire Losses

SUI was allocated approximately $84,000 by the state budget and financial control committee Saturday for losses in the Chemistry building fire, Oct. 7.

The interim committee, which has control of a $2 million emergency fund, gave $67,030.50 to replace equipment and materials destroyed in the fire. The allocation for cleanup and repair work was $17,102.

SUI officials have set the total loss in the fire at $384,144.50. Sen. Jay C. Colburn, group chairman, said that funds eventually would be made available to restore the burned out fifth floor of the building.

Fred Ambrose, SUI business manager said that the $67,000 allocation would cover the cost of equipment and chemicals.

The state board of education will make additional funds available later, Colburn stated. The current $67,000 allocation is being handled on the basis of a presentation made directly by the university itself.

Bids will be accepted by SUI for the major repair work to be done on the building.

In other action taken, the committee allocated $10,000 to Iowa State Teachers college for expenses of cleanup and repair after the windstorm at Cedar Falls, July 5.

The group also approved $2 million contracts for construction of of a new 33-bed patient building at the Independence mental health institute.

Child Strangles In Crib Accident

Jimmy Burkett, 15 months, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Burkett of 1401 Yewell st., died of strangulation about 4 p.m. Monday when he slipped between the mattress and the side of his crib.

Fire Chief Al Dolezal said that a loose bolt had apparently permitted the side of the crib to slide outward and the child's body to slip partway through the opening.

Firemen attempted unsuccessfully to revive the child with a respirator for about 30 minutes, Dolezal said. Dr. E. W. Paulus determined that the child was dead about 4 p.m.

The body was taken to the McGovern funeral home. Funeral arrangements have not yet been announced.

Hancher Praises Homecoming

"The 1953 Homecoming was a conspicuous success. So many persons and so many things — the students, the faculty, the Homecoming committees, the staff of the university the dormitories, fraternities and sororities, the Chamber of Commerce and businessmen of Iowa City, schools, lodges, civic organizations, and individual citizens of Iowa City and of neighboring cities and towns, alumni, friends and distinguished guests of the university, and finally the team, the coaches and the victory they brought us — contributed to the success of the occasion that it is almost impossible to apportion credit and praise among all those who deserve it.

"On Wednesday I expressed the hope that we might take this occasion to show our friends, parents, and alumni what the university means to us and what we hope it means to them.

"I believe that we did just that. Thank you all very much."

Finance Board Accepts Grants Totaling $63,233 for SUI

The finance committee of the state board of education has accepted a total of $63,233.93 in gifts and grants, four-fifths of the total earmarked for student scholarships.

Whether mothers with limited incomes eat well enough to insure well-born babies is a research problem which will receive part of that financial support from an $8,000 grant by Hoffman-LaRoche, Inc.

According to an anouncement by President Virgil M. Hancher, the sum will be used for the continuation of nutritional research by Dr. Genevieve Stearns of the department of pediatrics.

Diet Controls Health

In previous studies of the food habits of Iowa mothers, Dr. Stearns, the late Dr. Philip Jeans and other university scientists revealed that many more premature births and other abnormalities occurred in families whose diets were largely bread, potatoes and other starches and carbohydrates.

From the estate of Isabel Demple, Keokuk, came $23,173.30, from which the income is to be used for annual $300 scholarships for graduate students. The sum of $15,000 was accepted from the "I" club scholarship fund for scholarships in athletic activities.

The National Association of Master Plumbers gave $5,700 to continue the four-year scholarships in the college of engineering now held by 10 engineering students. And the Master Builders of Iowa contributed $500 for a scholarship for a civil engineering junior student. Engineering faculty members named Guy Ramsey, E4, Pleasantville, to hold this scholarship.

Protein Study Financed

Among the research grants accepted was $2,280.29 from the Research corporation of New York for Prof. Reinhold Benesch's study of the structure of proteins in the department of biochemistry. Another researcher in this department, Gene F. Lata, was given $1,810 by Eli Lilly and Co. for enzymatic synthesis studies.

Drs. Warren O. Nelson and Raymond Bunge of the departments of anatomy and urology were granted $1,000 from Eaton Laboratories, Inc., of Norwich, N.Y. They will conduct research on the drug furadantin, used in the treatment of urinary infections, to determine the drug's relationships to fertility.

Staff members of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station received $1,000 from the Field Foundation, Inc., of New York, to provide travel expenses in their work. From the Pet Milk Co. came $200 for the Memorial Library fund of the late Dr. Philip Jeans, longtime head of the university department of pediatrics.

Library Receives Books

Katharine Ellis Barrett, formerly of Charles City and now of Pasadena, Calif., gave the Iowa Authors collection in University libraries 16 books written by her and in collaboration with her husband.

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church gave $531 for two scholarships—one of $403 to Akiko Iwama, G, Tokyo, Japan, and one of $128 to W. A. Ditta, G, Punjab, India. The

Benson Rejects Plea for Livestock Support

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson Monday at least temporarily rejected a plea by hard-hit cattle raisers for immediate and direct government supports for the livestock industry.

Benson, under fire from several directions over his farm policies, told the disappointed cattlemen he has an "open mind" toward any feasible program to ease their distress.

But he strongly indicated that he is inclined to favor some other method than direct supports.

Obviously nettled by Benson's remarks, a leader of the visiting delegation told him that if he had no concrete aid proposals, then "God help the livestock industry."

After hearing Benson, the delegation of 350 cattlemen from 30 states promptly held a mass meeting and voted unanimously to press for federal price supports for cattle at a minimum of 90 per cent of parity.

The cattlemen also called for a sweeping investigation of the spread between the price they get for their livestock and the price the consumer pays at the meat market.

Virginia state Sen. Harry C. Stuart of Elk Garden, Va., told the delegations:

"We are all fundamentally against controls, but we in the cattle business can't stand unassisted when the rest of the economy is hopped up, propped up and subsidized."

Benson Criticized

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) charged Monday night Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson "wants to circumvent the will of congress by cutting to pieces the prices on cattle through the withholding of feed."

"But he has no right to blame the terrible results of his decision on the Democratic party," Symington said at a Jefferson-Jackson day dinner here.

Symington said the department of agriculture has approved policies giving outright to Bolivia, Pakistan and other countries millions of dollars of feed the government has in storage.

"But in this period of critical drought," he said, "the American cattleman and dairyman is not being given anything—and he is not asking to be given anything."

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE Ezra T. Benson Monday spoke to 350 cattlemen from 30 states who came to Washington to seek government supports for cattle prices. Benson said he has an "open mind," but a support program would raise tremendous obstacles.

Claims Use Of Torture By Russians

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States declared Monday that Russians directed a Communist torture center where false confessions of germ warfare were wrung from U. S. fliers in Korea—even after the armistice. The Russians entered a denial.

Dr. Charles W. Mayo, U. S. delegate, presented the charge before the UN political committee. Mayo said the interrogation center known as "Pak's Palace" near Pyongyang, North Korea, was staffed by Chinese and North Koreans but directed by Soviet personnel.

"Many of our fliers were interrogated there by Soviet personnel," the Minnesota surgeon said. He told of a Kansas flier who refused to write a confession despite 1,800 hours of questioning directed by Russians.

Fliers Tortured

Mayo said U. S. fliers were reduced to a level lower than that of animals, and that the tortures were designed to be more terrible than medieval methods:

"They are calculated to disintegrate the mind of an intelligent victim," he asserted, in order to make him destroy his own integrity and produce an elaborate fiction.

"If anything is surprising to me," he observed, "it is that so many of our soldiers—both those who confessed and those who did not, although for months they were treated like animals or worse — somehow continued to act throughout like men."

Reds Accuse Fliers

Mayo said the Communists accused 107 captured fliers of engaging in bacteriological warfare. Of these, 17 are listed as missing and 14 are known dead. He did not say how they died. He said 40 refused to sign anything, but 36 signed under duress.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet delegate sitting in the place of Chief Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky, responded that the U. S. had forced airmen who confessed to germ warfare to repudiate their confessions under threat of prosecution.

He called Mayo's statement "a lie and a slander which we repudiate."

He tossed in a resolution by which the assembly would call on all countries which have not done so to ratify the 1925 Geneva Convention against chemical and germ warfare. The U. S. has refused to ratify it, demanding more than paper promises to stop such practices.

Malik Disagrees

Malik said attempts to prove that testimony was taken from the prisoners under coercion were propaganda and were intended to exploit the fliers for political ends. He said the present state of the servicemen easily permitted such exploitation, since they still were subject to U. S. army discipline.

Hubert Rassart, Belgium, told the committee the Korean war was fought under the UN banner and the germ warfare charge applied to all, especially those who sent troops to Korea. He said the U. S. statement is most impressive.

At one point in his presentation, Mayo referred to Vishinsky as an authority on the subject of getting confessions needed to bolster a campaign of lies which Mayo attributed to Communist imperialism. He was referring to Vishinsky's role as prosecutor in the Moscow purge trials of the '30s.

3,300 Fruit Trees Inherited by SUI

The state board of education has received a report showing that SUI has inherited 57 acres of fruit lands at Winter Haven, Fla., containing 3,300 fruit trees.

The property is valued at about $100,000 and income from it is around $8,500 a year. It was willed to the university for scholarship purposes by Amy Slawson, who had inherited the property from her brother-in-law, Gilman A. Drew. Drew was graduated from SUI in 1890.

Under terms of the will, income from the fruit grove is to be used for scholarships to be awarded to worthy university students. It is to be administered by SUI under the name of Gilman A. and Lena Drew memorial scholarship fund.

editorial

The students, alumni, faculty, staff and all Iowa Citians have a right to be proud of the outstanding Homecoming weekend. It is hard to see how Homecoming could have been more successful.

Every event on the program deserved and brought forth high praise including the Dolphin show, parade, pep rally, Union open house, football game, including the half-time show, and the Homecoming dance.

Homecoming was unusually successful due to the fine cooperation and efforts by all concerned, students, faculty, staff, Iowa City businessmen and organizations and townspeople.

Our local police, fire department, and 109th medical battalion and 34th reconnaisance company of the Iowa national guard also rendered valuable assistance by handling the heavy traffic control and fire prevention problems posed by the large Homecoming crowds.

Everyone who worked to make Homecoming such an outstanding success has a right to be proud. Surely all of our alumni had a wonderful time and will want to visit us again next year.

Legal Leadership Scholarships Offered For Law Students

Seniors interested in a career of legal leadership may apply now for a $6,600, three-year Root-Tilden scholarship offered at the New York university school of law, Russell D. Niles, dean of NYU's law school, has announced.

In the tradition of the NYU law graduates for whom they are named, Elihu Root (1867) and Samuel J. Tilden (1841), the scholarships are based on superior academic record, potential capacity for unselfish public leadership, and active extracurricular participation in college life.

Applications for the 20 scholarships to be awarded next year must be made by Feb. 15, 1954. Seniors interested should apply immediately to Dean of the School of Law, New York University Law Center, New York 3, N.Y.

Interpreting the News

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

There they stood, thousands of men and women, in the United Nations plaza.

Above them towered the odd-looking building, like a many-windowed factory for making practical things, but not yet producing regularly.

Nor had there been produced, within its hospital-like corridors, any cures for the ills of the world.

But these people had not lost faith in the organization whose eighth birthday they were celebrating. All over the world, in 74 nations and territories, similar meetings were being held. Millions still looked at the United Nations as the best they had been able to do so far in their search for peace.

Majority Favor Membership

The American Jewish committee announced it had taken a poll which showed 84 out of every 100 Americans still favored UN membership.

The UN serves many purposes, not all of them good. It is, for instance, considered extremely important by the Communists who use it to spread the propaganda of their world revolution. But this very thing has given the free world a clearer understanding of the forces it must face if it is to preserve its liberties and its culture.

The greatest concrete achievement of the UN so far was the demonstration of collective security in Korea.

Helps Understanding

For the free world its greatest day to day achievement is as a lens through which world public opinion can be focussed on the problems of the peoples as they arise.

It carries on several programs of practical good works.

But these are probably not the reasons why people all over the world celebrated the anniversary of the signing of the charter. The charter has, in many respects, proved unworkable. It was designed to keep a peace which has not been made.

Is Key to Peace

The celebration represents the need of peace-seeking peoples for some solid objective toward which they can work, something which will cast a shade in the heat of noonday under which they can nurse their hopes that somehow, someday, they will find the key to international cooperation, and that there will be no more war.

It is something like the search of individual man, knowing that he is not good, for goodness.

Man can look at his ships, his airplanes, his nuclear reactors and his medicines and believe that as he recognizes his material needs, he can develop the means for meeting them. He can look at the UN and, seeing its imperfections, still believe that he will also find the means of meeting his political needs. If he couldn't have that faith, he wouldn't keep working.

Currier, Hillcrest Complete Hook-Up Of Radio Stations

A hook-up bewteen Currier hall's radio station, WVOC, and Hillcrest's station, HILC, was achieved Monday evening after two years of planning. Dormitory residents were able to hear broadcasts from the stations from 5 until 11 p.m.

Programs are scheduled for every day from 5 through 11 in the evenings, except Fridays when the stations will go off the air at 6:30 p.m., Saturdays when Currier will broadcast from 9 a.m. through noon and Sundays when Currier's station will be heard from 9 until 11 in the evening.

The majority of the programs will be musical; however, sports, variety and dormitory news will be broadcast. Dinner music from 5:30 until 6:30 will be heard in the Hillcrest dining hall.

Beverly Scott, C4, Britt, is in charge of WVOC. Bill Gerlits, A4, West Branch, is station manager of HILC; Arnold Kauble, A2, Tama, is chief engineer, and Jim Carr, A2, Gowrie, is program director.

"When did you first start enjoying Math Skills?"

Russians Doubt News of Life In America, Student Reports

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Zander Hollander, 22-year-old former feature editor of the University of Michigan Daily, recently toured Russia with two other U. S. college students. They talked to students, teachers and youthful political leaders, visited classrooms, gymnasiums, dance halls and theaters. Here is the first of a series of articles telling Hollander's story.)

By ZANDER HOLLANDER

NEW YORK, N.Y.(AP)—Russian kids are hungry for news about life on the other side of the iron curtain. But when I tried to tell them about it, they wouldn't believe me.

Their questions were always the same: What's it like to be a student in America? How do we manage, living in such poverty? How did we feel about the lack of academic freedom in the United States?

Our answers didn't jibe with the twisted picture Russian students get from propagandists and Communist teachers.

When we came close to making an impression, adult supervisors or well-indoctrinated students jump in to shift the subject.

Once, in a discussion with Soviet students, we felt we were getting somewhere in correcting their warped ideas of life in the west.

Suddenly a buxom girl in her 20's, Raissa Ablova, who is high up in the Soviet Youth Anti-Fascist committee, broke into the conversation.

Asked Questions

"What is your class background?" she asked aggressively.

She seemed bothered when I said I came from a family with a moderate income and had gone through the University of Michigan on a scholarship.

She was really stumped when my friend Mark Emond, from the University of Colorado, explained he was the son of a factory worker killed in an accident on the job.

Tried to "Correct" Ideas

I met Raissa and other student representatives of the Youth Anti-Fascist Committee one night when they invited me to a meeting to correct any wrong impressions we might have about Russian youth. Three spoke English well and served as translators.

They'd been warned in advance by the editor of Komsomolskaya Pravada, official publication of the Young Communist League, that we might have some wrong ideas. We'd had a stormy session the day before with members of his editorial board.

The Anti-Fascist comittee didn't like our views on the cold war, the iron curtain or mind control. We got into a big ruckus over objectivity in Soviet education.

Asked About Marxism

I asked: "What do your professors teach you about errors in Marxism?"

They fidgeted a bit before one member of the committee replied:

"Marx never made a mistake. . . in his own time. Changes made in applying Marx came in response to changing situations. Marx was always right."

Lack Academic Freedom

Then a graduate law student, Vladmir Belazarov, brought up academic freedom in the United States.

"In the Soviet Union," he said, "students don't have to struggle for academic freedom. We have all we need. No group has to fight for anything in a classless society."

It seemed to me that Soviet students themselves belonged to a privileged class. They don't enjoy anything like American academic freedom, but by local standards they are living high on the hog, even if it is a mighty lean hog.

Take the students who escorted us through Moscow's spanking new state university, a cross between the Empire State building and a thousand pounds of French pastry. For one of them, Sergei Sachin, son of poor peasants in the Kursk region, the new university is a dream come true.

Student Privileges Listed

While millions of Russians live in poverty, this is what Sergei gets as a student at the university:

Almost 500 rubles (about $150) a month in state scholarships; free textbooks; free medical care; hearty meals at very low cost; his own room in an oak-paneled wing of the building, complete with radio, lamps and daily maid service.

Sergei talks with burning intensity.

"A few years ago the Lenin Halls were empty. Now. . .and he gestures down a gleaming marble corridor.

Proud of University

He is jusifiably proud of the new university. He helped build it. Other youths who labored in construction gangs with him got first crack at its plush facilities when it opened last month.

Students who did not work on the building must pass stiff entrance exams to get in.

At Kiev university, which we visited later, a dumpy brunette student grumbled that it took more than high grades to get into the "student paradise" in Moscow. She never had a chance to explain, as I was led away to a physics lab.

Aviation Firm Plans SUI Student Interviews

Interviews for February graduates of the SUI college of engineering for positions with the North American Aviation Inc. will be held on Thursday, Nov. 5, when a representative from the company will be on campus.

North American has junior engineering positions available at the company's Los Angeles, Calif., and Columbus, O., plants. Any February graduate who wants details should contact the director of personnel at the college of engineering as soon as possible.

Girl Scout Leaders To Get Pins at Area Meeting Today

New Girl Scout leaders in the Iowa City vicinity will receive pins during a candlelight investiture service at an area meeting of Cardinal council of Girl Scouts today at 8 p.m. The meeting, to be held in Longfellow school gymnasium, will be a highlight of national Girl Scout week, which opened Sunday.

Mrs. Dale Slaymaker, president of Cardinal council, and Mrs. Hugh Carson, executive director, will present the leader's pins. Each new leader will be escorted for the ceremony by a member of her troop.

Joining Mrs. Slaymaker and Mrs. Carson in reporting during a business session on the 32d national convention of Girl Scouts held last week in Cincinnati, Ohio, will be Mrs. George Robertson and Dale Slaymaker.

The group will summarize highlights of the biennial convention in a conversation piece at the area meeting, one of three held each year.

Mrs. Leslie G. Moeller, a member of the Iowa City Community Chest board, will report during the business session on the relation of the board to participating agencies, which include the Girl Scouts.

A question box will be provided so that any member may submit questions or comments on any Scouting problem for consideration by the Board of Cardinal council.

A 15-minute radio program explaining what association with the Girl Scout movement means will be a feature of the final day of Girl Scout week. Scheduled for 11:15 a.m. Saturday the program will be broadcast over radio station KXIC.

Mrs. Arthur Kerr will serve as moderator and will represent the Girl Scout council member in a panel discussion. Other Girl Scout personnel to be represented on the panel will be a troop leader, troop committee member, senior Girl Scout, intermediate Girl Scout and a Brownie.

Mrs. Dave Braverman, a member of the Cardinal council program committee, planned the broadcast.

Girl Scout week is also being featured in a window display by Younkers department store, with Scouting equipment and a Girl Scout uniform being shown during the week.

Honorary Members Rehearse Party Skit

(Daily Iowan Photo)

"LITTLE BLUE RIDING HOOD" is the title of the skit which will be presented at the freshmen mixer at 7:30 tonight at the Iowa Memorial Union. The party is for freshmen students who ranked in the upper 20th percentile on their entrance exams and is co-sponsored by Alpha Lambda Delta, women's freshman honorary sorority, and Phi Eta Sigma, men's freshman honorary fraternity. Members of the entertainment committee who will present the skit include, left to right, Toby Dunitz, A2, Newton, chairman; Ed Sornson, A2, Exira; Margie Rickett, A2, Mt. Pleasant; Roy Pitkin, A2, Anthon (seated); Edith Blot, A2, Waterloo; Ann Raster, A2, Canton, Ill., and Sidney Jones, A2, Atlantic.

Delta Sigma Pi Honors New Student Pledges

Twelve new pledges of Epsilon chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, international commerce fraternity, were honored last week at the Colony Inn in Amana.

The pledges include William Howard, A2, West Union; William Vaughan, A2, Ottumwa; Dallas Gregerson, C4, Bettendorf; Robert Wilbur, A1, Cedar Rapids; Kenneth Miller, A1, Iowa City; Barry Moranville, A1, Jefferson; Myron Peterson, C3, Alta; Ben Noll, C3, Evanston Ill.; Charles Harvey, A3, Iowa City; Ordine Hintzen, C4, Mason City, and Carl Hintzen, C4, Mason City; and Carroll W. Schaal Jr., C3, Jefferson.

Women's Club To Hear Austrian War Bride

Guest speaker for the Iowa City Women's club today will be Mrs. William O'Hara, war bride from Vienna, Austria. She will display her Viennese needlework at the meeting at 2 p.m. in the clubrooms of the Community building.

Pauline Glatstein, A3, Muscatine will provide special music. The hostesses are Mrs. J. Goldberg and Mrs. Henry Kruse. Mrs. Dale Jackson will preside over the meeting and Mrs. M. M. Crane is in charge of the program.

Iowa's Clergymen To Meet Nov. 2-4 For Study at SUI

An inter-denominational representation of Iowa clergy will meet at SUI Nov. 2 through 4.

Religious instruction in the schools, counseling responsibilities of the clergy and the place of music in the churches will be subjects of three principal sessions of the first University Conference for Iowa clergy. It will be held in the Iowa Center for Continuation Study.

Iowa ministers expressed their interest in such a conference and then chose their discussion topics in a poll conducted by the Iowa school of religion and the university's extension division.

Attending clergy will meet Robert S. Michaelson, who will become director of the Iowa school of religion in January. The Clinton-born Yale professor of theology was chosen this summer to succeed Prof. M. Willard Lampe, director of the church-supported program in inter-faith understanding since its beginning in 1927.

They will hear a keynote address from President Virgil M. Hancher, presentations by specialists on the university faculty, and a recital of organ music by Richard Elsasser, composer, church musician and concert organist whose work has been featured by two film studios.

In the sacred music sessions of the conference choirs of St. Ambrose college, Davenport, and of the SUI music department will provide choral illustrations. Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the university school of fine arts, who will preside at this session, is chairman of the department of worship and the arts for the National Council of Churches.

Principal To Speak To University Club

Mrs. Grace Orr, principal of the University hospital school for severely handicapped children, will speak at the University club coffee hour and Kensington business meeting Thursday at 9:30 a.m. in the clubrooms at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Mrs. Orr will tell about the school and teaching methods and will display teaching equipment used at the school. Mrs. Orr received her M.A. degree from SUI.

Members are asked to bring scissors, a needle and a thimble to the meeting, as they will sew doll clothes for the school. Decorations on the coffee table will include foreign dolls collected by Miss Helen Barnes, director of the business and industrial placement office, on her European tour this summer.

Mrs. Dewey B. Stuit is chairman of the meeting. Members of the committee are Mrs. Estella Boot and Mesdames Louis Pennington, William Spear and Earl Harper.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"Safari as I'm concerned" said Sheedy's gal, "your hair looks like something the cat dragged in. Purrhaps you better spring for some Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's favorite hair tonic. Keeps hair combed without greasiness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Relieves annoying dryness. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcoholic." So Sheedy roared down to his druggist for Wildroot Cream-Oil, and now he's feline mighty fine. All the girls paws and stare when he passes. So you better leopard on the bandwagon and try Wildroot Cream-Oil right meow. Scratch up 29¢ for a bottle or handy tube at any toilet goods counter. And ask your barber for some Wildroot Cream-Oil on your hair. Then you'll be the cat's whiskers!

New Standard Premium does what no other gasoline will do!

A THIN FILM OF ICE— a major cause of engine stalling

Even when outside temperatures are from 58° to 28° rapid evaporation of gasoline can cause a thin film of ice to form on the carburetor throttle plate. Ice shuts off the flow of fuel during idling. Then, when you make a stop, your fuel-starved engine sputters and dies. DE-ICER additive in New STANDARD WHITE CROWN Premium Gasoline prevents carburetor ice.

Believe it or not, when your engine quits in traffic at this time of the year, chances are that ice does it. Yes, ice causes cold-motor stalling even on Indian Summer mornings! Carburetor ice! And this amazing fast-freeze is likely to occur when the temperature registers between 58° and 28° above zero!

For years motorists have mistakenly blamed their cars for this cold-motor stalling. But now Standard scientists have solved it.

New STANDARD WHITE CROWN Premium Gasoline contains a costly DE-ICER additive. This DE-ICER additive is a built-in anti-freeze that prevents the formation of a thin ice film. Ice that can cripple the action of your carburetor!

And remember . . . you can't buy a more powerful gasoline.

Stop in today and get the gasoline that does what no other gas will do— PREVENTS STALLING due to carburetor ice.

You expect more from STANDARD and get it!

Iowa's Rice Slips Around End, Winds Up with Cameramen

DUSTY RICE, HAWKEYE HALFBACK, starts a right end run, gets away from two Hoosier tacklers and finally winds up among the press photographers on the sideline. Daily Iowan photographer

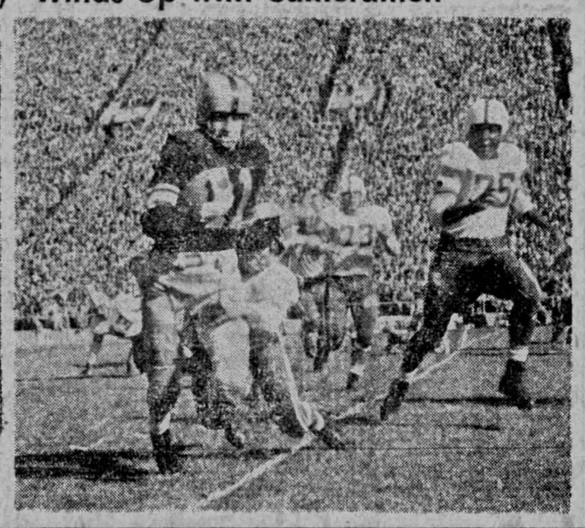
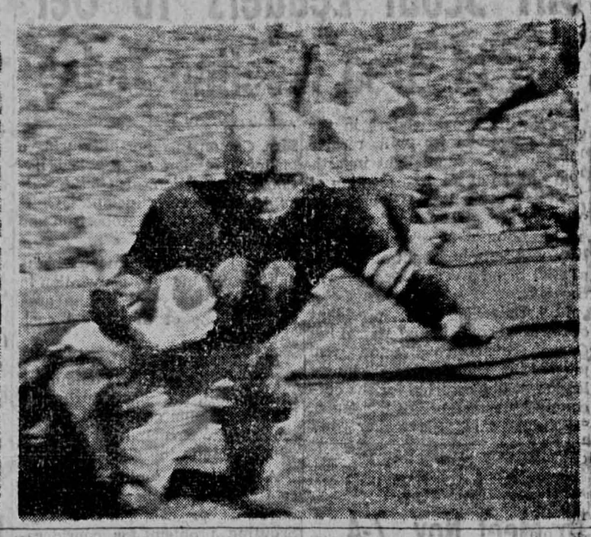
Fred Graham, shooting with a machine gun camera, held his ground until Rice bore down on him (picture three) and the last shot was taken on the run.





Hawkeyes Quit Early After Sweat-Suit Drill

Iowa's Hawkeyes got off work early Monday — about 5:15 — as coach Forest Evashevski gave them a brief rest before starting preparations for Wisconsin.

While the third team scrimmaged a freshman eleven in the mud, Iowa's first two teams ran through plays and defensive passing maneuvers in sweat suits. Assistant coach Archie Kodros drilled another unit on Wisconsin plays which they will run against the regulars this week.

Captain Andy Houg spent the afternoon in the dressing room, receiving treatment for his injured back. Houg, kicked in the first half Saturday, may not be ready for Wisconsin, trainer Doyle Alsup said.

Hall Looks Good

John Hall, who replaced Houg against the Hoosiers, played with the first team Monday while Cam Cummins filled in for Jerry Clark who didn't practice. Hall's outstanding performance was praised by Des Moines Tribune sports writer Tony Cordaro in "The Tribune Salutes" column Monday.

Team Gains 1,713 Yards

The team now has gained 1,713 yards in the five games, 1,330 by rushing and 383 on 34 pass completions in 70 attempts. Opponents have 1,225 yards, 415 on the ground and 809 by air. The opponents have been held to an average gain of only 2.3 per rushing play.

Wisconsin, which has won four straight from Iowa, will provide serious problems. The 1952 co-champion Badgers beat Purdue, 28-19, in their first conference game but dropped to Ohio State, 20-19, last Saturday after leading at one stage, 19-7.

Rice in Form

Dusty Rice, the left halfback who has come back after a slow start had his best day of 1953 — in fact he made more yards than any other Iowa back this season. Rice ran 101 yards in 18 carries and his total boosted him into first place among Iowa backs with 262 for a 6.4 average.

The best average still is held by Eddie Vincent, right halfback, 7.7 on 231 yards. Fullback Binkey Broeder is third in total yards, 213. He has an average of 4.0 and with 52 carries has been the busiest back.

Wisconsin has a powerful team with plenty of punch, reports scout Archie Kodros. Fullback Alan Ameche is a hard man to stop and the new quarterback, Jim Miller, has done well as a passer and runner.

Iowa Offense Nears Total Of '52 Year

The strongest offense of an Iowa football team in many years is rolling up the yards, with the total at 1,713 after five games.

Of this total, the Hawks have traveled 1,330 on the ground for an average of 4.9 per play. For all of the nine games of 1952, the rushing total was 1,560 and the net yards gained was 2,545.

Defense Doing Well

On defense, too, Iowa is doing well. Opponents have 1,225 yards for an average of only 245 per game. Iowa has been stingiest in the rushing department, restricting rivals to 415 yards for an average of 2.3 per play.

Iowa passing has brought 383 yards and three touchdowns, including two against Indiana. Opponents have hit on 51 of 100 for 809 yards and six touchdowns.

Rushing leadership has been taken over by Dusty Rice, the left halfback, who now has 262 yards and a 6.4 average. In second place is Eddie Vincent, 231 and 7.7; and third is Binkey Broeder, 213 and 4.0.

* * *

After almost 30 scoreless minutes Saturday, the Hawks and the Hoosiers got down and did some serious point-making.

A pass interference penalty set up the game's first touchdown. After a punt exchange the Hawks drove to the Indiana 27 where quarterback Jerry Reichow's pass to Bob Stearnes was intercepted by halfback Bill Holzbach.

The officials, however, ruled halfback Jerry Ellis had pushed Stearnes and gave Iowa the ball on the three. Left halfback Earl Smith fumbled on the next play but Iowa recovered on the eight.

Quarterback Paul Kemp replaced Reichow and flipped a pass in the right end zone for the touchdown with three seconds left. Fullback Roger Weigmann converted and Iowa led, 7-0 at halftime.

Hoosiers Make Touchdown

The Hoosiers took the second half kickoff and immediately marched for a touchdown. Ellis bucked over from the four but quarterback Florian Helinski's placement was blocked by Jerry Hilgenberg and Iowa led, 7-6.

Concentrating on single-wing running plays, the Hawks took the kickoff and drove 77 yards to score. Rice roared around right end for the tally, and when Wiegmann failed to convert, Iowa led, 13-7.

Indiana came back to score as Helinski took to the air. His 14-yarder to end Pat Fellinger and his placement tied the score, 13-13.

The winning touchdown came with four and one half minutes left in the game. Iowa moved from the Indiana 49 to the 9 in five plays. A holding penalty set Iowa back to the 24 where quarterback Lou Matykiewicz threw a buck lateral pass to end Frank Gilliam in the end zone.

Irish Develop New 'I' Defensive Formation

CHICAGO (AP)—Notre Dame is getting tremendous results from a new, mobile defensive alignment that was developed two weeks ago by accident.

Technically, it is so simple that less time is required in practice to teach defense formations. The time saved can be put to use elsewhere on team preparations.

It could be called the "defensive I." Three players are the key.

Like T Quarterback

Guard Menil Mavraides is in the line. Immediately behind him, like a T formation quarterback on offense, is center Jim Schrader. Hinged onto Schrader from behind is guard Ray Lemek, Notre Dame's only sophomore regular.

It looks similar to the "I" offense Notre Dame employed occasionally in the past, with two or more backs lined up directly behind center.

When the opposing center snaps the ball, this Notre Dame defensive pattern explodes. Schrader may go one way into the line and Lemek another. Or they may both hit the same side. Or they may go wide.

Roam and Run

"They just roam and run," explained line coach Joe McArdle.

"Their objective is to get to the ball. It is up to them to judge entirely for themselves what to do. This eliminates teaching them set defensive moves. They are out there on their own and so far have done a fine job."

Always alert to compliment the maneuver stemming out of the "I," are the defensive halfbacks and other linebackers who are lined up in orthodox fashion in the secondary.

Ellis Intercepts Hawk Pass

HAWK END Frank Gilliam stands open-mouthed as Indiana halfback Jerry Ellis gathers in an Iowa pass during Saturday's game. Gilliam, however, grabbed the important pass, a 23-yarder from quarterback Lou Matykiewicz, giving the Hawks a 19-13 win.

Less Passing Done In 1 Platoon Football

NEW YORK(AP)—There is less passing but more scoring in college football under the new limited substitution rule, a survey showed Monday.

The statistical wizards of the National Collegiate Athletic association who keep check on such things, announced also that the games are running 10 per cent shorter than a year ago and there has been a drop in extra point kicking efficiency.

Under the two-platoon system, abolished since last year, specialists could be run in and out almost at will. Under the present rule a player may not reenter a game in the same quarter except in the last four minutes of the second and fourth periods.

The NCAA figures were based on a survey of 650 games so far this year compared with 667 games through a comparable period in 1952.

They show that under the present rule there have been 18 per cent fewer passing attempts, 23.2 per cent fewer completions and 22.5 per cent less passing yardage than last year.

Only 64.1 per cent of all extra point attempts have been converted this year compared to last year's all-time high of 76.2 per cent.

Notre Dame Tightens Grip On No. 1 Spot

NEW YORK(AP)—Notre Dame's victory over Georgia Tech brought a new wave of popularity Monday for the Fighting Irish, who tightened their grip on the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press' weekly football poll.

Georgia Tech, its unbeaten string snapped at 31 games, and Michigan State, upset by Purdue after a winning string of 28, managed to hold positions in the top 10 but had to be content with lower rungs. State fell from second to sixth and Tech from fourth to eighth.

Maryland Moves Up

Maryland's high-riding Terapins moved into second place on an imposing record of six straight victories, while undefeated Baylor went into third and once-tied Illinois into fourth place.

Two victims of last week's uprising of the underdogs, Michigan and Navy, tumbled clear out of the select bracket, their vacancies taken over by a couple of Pacific coast powerhouses-Southern California and UCLA.

Michigan, swamped by Minnesota 22-0 in the Little Brown Jug game, fell from fifth to 16th, while Navy, downed by Pennsylvania 9-6, dropped from 10th to 20th.

Trojans Take 7th

Southern Cal took over seventh place on the strength of its 32-20 thumping of California. UCLA moved into 10th after humbling Washington State, 44-7.

Unconquered West Virginia made one of the week's better gains, moving up from eighth to fifth after thumping VMI, 52-20. Only Oklahoma stayed still. The Sooners, recovering from an early season loss and tie, kept a firm hold on ninth place.

In what should be a real tonic for their ailing head coach Frank Leahy, the Irish received 82 of the 120 first place votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters, and nobody else was close.

ORIELES' CHIEF

BALTIMORE (AP)— Art Ehlers, who was a 6-year-old kid playing in Baltimore streets when major league baseball left here, was hired Monday to be general manager of the Orioles' return to the American league next season.

Hoosiers Dispute Officials' Call

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Some Indiana university alumni after looking at motion pictures Monday of the Indiana-Iowa game thought an official gave a "blow decision" when he called pass interference against Jerry Ellis, Indiana halfback, shortly before the first half ended.

The decision gave Iowa the ball on Indiana's 3 and Iowa scored two plays later.

Coach Bernie Crimmins said "no comment" on the movie and started preparations for next Saturday's Homecoming game here with Missouri.

Paul Harrell, Indiana athletic director, said it's against Big Ten policy to criticize officials and he had nothing to say for publication. "Anybody can look at the movie," he added.

Campus Queen Gives Glamor Cold Shoulder' for Nursing

By HOWIE GREENWALD

There must be a formula, you ure, so you decide to find out d tell the feminine world how e girl—and a little one at that can win two campus beauty les in eight days.

But there's no formula, you scover. Just 18-year-old Kay aylor who thinks all the fanfare "just grand," but who's far more interested in her nursing areer.

The current campus rave, a 5 oot 3 inch package with greenish yes and light brown hair, earned ier laurels by being named Miss erfect Profile of SUI and Dol- in Queen for the 42d annual omecoming.

She Dances Too

But there's no doubt — even with the honors piling up—that Kay plans to sideline all this amour stuff. Though she plays e piano a bit, and has devoted me 10 years to modern dancing, t p and ballet, she didn't hesitate g when asked whether she'd like to use her dancing.

"I'd like to," she said, "but nursing seems to be much more practical. There's more to it. It's a much better life."

"More to it?" we asked. "How?"

"Dancing seems only for personal satisfaction," she answered. "It's all for yourself really." Then she worried about how that might sound. "That reads like a book," she laughed. "Really, I'm not being noble. It's just a fact."

Grades Near-Perfect

Many people still believe that a beauty queen has little on the ball upstairs. Kay took quick care that. She had a 3.9 average ck in Tulsa's Will Rogers high hool, and 4.0 is perfect.

Tulsa's her home town, but e's quick to point out—like all exans—that she lived in the ne star state for the first 16 onths of her life.

At Will Rogers, she was a dele- ate to the state student council, directed the school's chapel services, was a queen attendant, president of one social club and vice-president of another.

Intent on Nursing

How Iowa City fit into the picture was worth a question.

"I was eight years old when I decided to be a nurse. I've never once changed my mind, and when a prominent doctor in Tulsa recommended SUI's nursing school, off I went."

It didn't take Kay long to get into the campus swing of things. She's a member of the Orchesis modern dance club, and a pledge —quite a celebrated one by now —of Pi Beta Phi.

Most important, Kay The Queen, is still the Kay from Tulsa.

ALL CURLED UP in an armchair, two-time campus queen Kay Taylor, N1, Tulsa, Okla., indulges in a favorite recreation—spinning platters at the Pi Beta Phi sorority house. The 18-year-old freshman was first named "Miss Perfect Profile of SUI" from a field of 2?, and was then selected as the Dolphin queen for the Homecoming celebration last weekend.

Iowa Women's Clubs To Sponsor State's 6th Business Clinic

The Iowa Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs will sponsor Iowa's Sixth Small Business clinic Nov. 7 and 8 at the Continuation Center on the SUI campus.

Saturday's program will feature a consultation period beginning at 4 p.m. Staff members in the college of commerce of the university will comprise the consulting panel. Harry Ketchum of the United States department of commerce is scheduled to speak at the Saturday evening session.

Developing, distributing, advertising and selling of products and "success' stories of some of Iowa's small businesses are included in the program Sunday afternoon.

Small Business clinic is a public service feature of the following organizations: SUI department of commerce, Bureau of Business and Economic research, Iowa Development commission and Iowa City Chamber of Commerce in addition to the Iowa Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs.

Reservations for the clinic may be obtained from Prof. Margaret Fox, Women's Gymnasium, University of Iowa, Iowa City, Iowa.

Professor Traces Renaissance

Prof. Frederick P. Bargebuhr, of the school of religion, discussed "The Renaissance of the Eleventh Century in Islamic Spain" at a graduate college and the humanities society lecture Monday night in the Art building auditorium.

The talk dealt with the intellectual movement in Islamic Spain and mainly Cordova where many features of the Italian renaissance were typified. During this period women were emancipated and the love of poetry flourished. Other elements of the rebirth, Bargebuhr pointed out, were the rebirth of almost pagan feeling for natural beauty and the climax reached in nature poetry.

Bargebuhr chose his materials mainly to demonstrate the continuity in the intellectual movement from Roman days to Islamic Spain, through southern France and the rest of Europe.

Important transmitting elements, he demonstrated, were the Jews. The flourishing of Hebrew poetry in this century was the legitimate counterpart to its model, the Arabic poetry.

SUI Physiologist To Discuss Diet On TV in Ames

Two junior high school students and an SUI physiologist will explore "The Importance of An Adequate Diet in Maintaining Health" on a television guidance show for junior high school pupils to be telecast Wednesday at 10 a.m. over WOI-TV, Ames.

Linda Davies and Jim Blommers, junior high school students and Prof. Norma Hajek of physiology, will be featured on this second program of the current SUI "Guideposts" series. The show is entitled "1 Plus 2 Plus 3 Plus 4 Plus 5 Plus 6 Plus 7 Equals You," referring to the basic seven foods needed in a proper diet.

Prof. Lewin Goff of television is director of the program, and will be assisted by Robert Oesterling, G, Zelienople, Penn. The script was written by Robert Snyder, G, Waverly, and Dr. W. D. Paul, associate professor of internal medicine, is medical consultant. Dr. C. d'A. Gerkin is research consultant.

The series is part of the daily WOI-TV feature "TV Schooltime," co-sponsored by SUI, Iowa State Teachers college, Iowa State college and the state department of public instruction. It is produced by John R. Winnie, chief of television production at SUI.

WSUI To Continue New Series

Power wielded by an African chief and the method of its administration form the theme for "The Forbidden Name of Wednesday," newest in the second radio series on the "Ways of Mankind" programs to be broadcast over radio station WSUI today at 7:30 p.m.

The "Ways of Mankind" radio series includes 13 half-hour broadcasts produced as an adult education project by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters.

"The Forbidden Name of Wednesday" is one of a series of six on law and justice. The entire "Ways of Mankind" series is designed to show how people live together in different times and places.

The entire broadcast tells how it was in the old days of the Ashanti, when a private quarrel between two men, of interest only to themselves, might, by the swearing of forbidden names, be made a quarrel in which the entire tribe took an interest. Once the tribe entered the picture, the entire fracas was settled by the chief, through due procedure of Ashanti law and by the will of the people.

Also, once the tribe became interested, fees had to be paid, for the court and its "attendants" had to be supported. "When a chief is going to compel you to do something," a "court official" says at the conclusion of the broadcast, "he does so by the authority of the peolpe."

Coralville Pastor To Get New Post

The Rev. E. V. Streed of Coralville has resigned as pastor of the Evangelical Free church to fill a similar post at Britt.

The Rev. Mr. Streed made the announcement to the congregation at the church's mid-week prayer meeting last week. He will assume his duties as pastor of the Britt Evangelical Free church on Feb. 1, according to his present plans. A successor to fill his pastorate has not yet been announced.

The Rev. Mr. Streed came to Coralville six years ago, when services were being held in the town hall and Sunday school in the old school building. Mrs. Streed, during this time, has served as Sunday school superintendent.

Wisconsin Girl Still Unfound; Mother Fears Daughter Dead

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP) — Grim searchers probed every bridge and culvert, river and slough Monday for trace of missing 15-year-old Evelyn Hartley, fearful they would only prove the words of her sobbing mother:

"We know she isn't alive."

Evelyn, a pretty high school honor student, vanished Saturday night from the home of Viggo Rasmusen, where she was baby sitting. Bloodstains were spattered around an open basement window, on the lawn and on a basement window well of a neighbor's home 200 yards away in the sparsely settled new section of town.

Followed Every Trail

Police followed every trail because no single one stood out.

About 1,000 police officers, Boy Scouts, National Guardsmen and other citizens scoured the countryside Sunday with no success. Monday 150 students and faculty members from La Crosse State college, where Evelyn's father is a biology professor, probed every bridge and culvert within a 50-mile radius of this Mississippi river town of 43,000 residents. Sheriff's deputies treked along rivers and sloughs.

Three men have been questioned in the case but Police Chief George Long said all were cleared and released.

Mother Breaks Down

Mrs. Richard Hartley, the girl's mother, appeared composed Monday when she visited the home of Rasmusen, also a teacher at La Crosse State. But when she viewed the bloodstains she broke down completely. Her body shook with sobs as she said, "We know she isn't alive."

Evelyn's father went to the Rasmusen home Saturday night after his daughter failed to telephone as she usually did when out baby sitting, and his calls to the Rasmusen home were not answered.

Hartley entered through the window and found his daughter's other shoe in the basement. The Rasmusen's 20-month-old daughter, whom Evelyn was tending, was sleeping unharmed in her crib.

The Rasmusen home was not burglarized. Rugs in the living room were disarranged but everything else was in order.

City Community Chest Drive for 1953 To Open Wednesday

The 1953 Iowa City Community Chest drive will open Wednesday morning when solicitors will make their first rounds of downtown business offices.

The business drive will precede the university drive by one day. SUI will open its campaign, under the direction of Prof. Allen C. Tester of the geology department, with a Thursday morning appeal by President Virgil M. Hancher.

Atty. Roger H. Ivie, general fund drive chairman, announced that this year's drive will be supported with the placing of red feather flags in the downtown section. Beginning at Dubuque and Washington sts., 36 flags will be placed in a fan-shaped manner in the loop district. This is the first time flags have been used to support the Community Chest campaign.

Ivie also announced the solicitation method this year. Solicitors will canvas the downtown district for the first week. Then Iowa City residential districts will be covered.

Ivie stressed the importance of business men and women signing campaign cards immediately, both as an aid to them and as an aid to the solicitors, so that no one will be asked to give twice.

This year's goal is $32,681. Although substantially less than previous years, the goal is still greater than Iowa City has been able to produce in the past few years.

Donations for the Community Chest are used to aid several organizations including: Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Visiting Nurse association, Children's Milk fund, Travelers aid, United Defense fund, Salvation Army and the Iowa Children's home.

City Sets Schedule For Leaf Pick-Up

Leaves throughout Iowa City will be collected by city workers according to a schedule for the next two weeks, City Manager Peter F. Roan has announced.

Workers will pick up the leaves in front of residences providing the leaves are raked in piles in the area between the curbing and sidewalk. The city manager also asks that the leaves be raked from lawns onto parkings and free from brush and trash.

The area north of Iowa ave. and east of the Iowa river will have their leaves collected on Monday and Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to the area south of Iowe ave. and east of the river. West of the river will have leaf collection on Friday and Saturday.

2d Student Recital To Be Thursday

The second in the series of student recitals for the 1953-1954 season will be given Thursday at 4:10 p.m. in North Music hall, Prof. Phillip G. Clapp, head of SUI's music department, announced Monday.

On the program will be Grovlez' "Sarabande et Allegro" performed by Mary Beth Taylor, A1, Davenport, on the oboe; Massenet's aria "Il est doux, il est bon" from the opera "Herodiode" sung by Rolanda Ringo, A2, Iowa City, soprano; Paladilhe's "Concertante," Carmen Warner, A1, Iowa City, oboe; Respighi's "Nebbie," sung by Robert William Cofer, G, Iowa City, tenor; Stevens' "Serenade" played by Margaret Trussel, A1, Iowa City, on the clarinet, and Pierne's "Solo de Concert, Op. 53" performed by Mary Louise Hatter, A1, Marengo, on the bassoon.

4 Members of Music Faculty Plan Program

Four members of the SUI music faculty will present a Beethoven-Mozart program on WSUI's "Music Hour" Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The performers will be Prof. Stuart Canin, violin; Carl Lederer, violin, instructor of music; Claude Carlson, instructor of music, viola, and Prof. Hans Koebel, violoncello.

They will play Beethoven's "Quartet, Opus 18, No. 3," and Mozart's "Quartet in B-flat Major K-458," subtitled "The Hunt Quartet."

What? Lamour With No Sarong?

MOVIE ACTRESS DOROTHY LAMOUR smiles for SUI Homecomers as Prof. Paul Brechler, director of athletics, introduces her during halftime ceremonies. Dottie told the crowd Saturday that she was very happy to stop for the Iowa Homecoming along the "Road to Davenport." She made an appearance there Saturday night. "I wish I could get out on the field and play football, but I can't," she told her stadium audience. (See pictures on page 1).

6 Librarians Attend Meeting

Five members of the SUI library department and Curtis E. Jenkins of the library education department attended the annual meeting of the Iowa Library association in Des Moines, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Dale M. Bentz, of the library department, spoke at the Thursday noon meeting of the college and university library section.

Miss Arlene Schlegel, of the reference department of the library, also spoke at that meeting on "Photo duplication in the SUI library as a service to libraries in the state."

Jenkins spoke at the Saturday morning meeting of school libraries.

Miss Schlegel was elected secretary to the college and university section for the coming year and Harold Bellingham, of the catalogue department, was selected chairman for the coming year for the catalogue section.

Others who attended the meeting were Miss Rita Benton and Miss Catharine Reynolds.

2-Year-Old Treated After Eating Rat Poison

David Harriman, 2, Tiffin, was treated in the emergency section of University hospitals Sunday after having eaten some rat poison. He was later released without being confined to the hospital as a patient.

Attendants said the child had consumed a commercial type of poison in common use for the destruction of rats and mice, but supposed to be non-toxic to humans unless taken into the system repeatedly.

Policeman in Greenlease Case Agrees To Testify For Jury

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The policeman who broke the Greelease kidnaping case and then resigned under inquiry fire, changed his mind Monday night about testifying before a federal grand jury inquiring into the case.

Lt. Louis Shoulders and his landlady have been subpoenaed to appear at Kansas City Wednesday before the grand jury, expected to seek new leads to the missing $300,000 of the $600,000 ransom.

Shoulders had told newsmen he would refuse to testify before the grand jury, stating he would stand on his constitutional rights.

However, Monday night the 55-year-old veteran police officer modified his statement. He told newsmen he and his landlady, Miss June Marie George, would testify, but he hadn't decided whether to give the jury names of other informants he said tipped him to the whereabouts of the kidnap-slayer.

"I'm not a lawyer," said Shoulders. "When the U.S. District Attorney . . . asks me the question about the name of the informant I will inquire whether I will be forced to reveal my sources or confidential information. I will make the decision at that time whether to name my informants."

The policy inquiry here followed reports the FBI had found discrepancies in police accounts of the arrest of the kidnap-killers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City.

The FBI indicated Monday the hunt for the missing $300,000 ransom money had bogged down. Serial numbers of the missing 10 and 20 dollar bills were distributed throughout the nation to banks, other financial institutions, law enforcement agencies and business concerns.

Teamster Strike Cuts Milk Supply In New York Area

NEW YORK (AP)— Twelve million persons in a tri-state area got their milk catch as catch can Monday as a teamster strike began drying up supplies. A run on New York depots was mounting.

Retailers' supplies were rapidly melting away in the metropolitan area of New York, Long Island, Westchester and Rockland counties and southern Connecticut.

The area normally uses about 5¼ million quarts a day. Deliveries to home and retail outlets were cut off by the strike.

There were no reports of immediate hardship. There were plenty of powdered and evaporated substitutes on hand. Mothers of babies were warned to be ready to use them.

Schools and hospitals were exempt from the strike of 13,000 AFL teamsters who drive milk trucks or work in plants.

Housewives lined up 500 deep at some milk depots in a growing run on available supplies. They were rationed to four quarts apiece.

At a Borden company plant in Brooklyn, women doubled back and went through the line more than once to hoard the rationed milk. Manager William Studd said one man tried to slip him $10 for a case of milk.

The teamsters are demanding a $15 a week wage increase from 200 companies. They are also seeking a five-hour reduction in the present 40-hour work week.

Dean Mason Ladd of SUI's college of law has been appointed a member at large of the traffic section executive committee of the National Safety council.

Bank Official Dies During Grid Game

A heart attack during the Iowa-Indiana game Saturday resulted in the death of Peter F. Bailey, 67, a vice president of the Merchants National bank and long time Cedar Rapids resident.

Bailey was stricken suddenly at about 2:15 p.m. while watching the Homecoming game and was rushed to University hospitals. He was pronounced dead on arrival.

Surviving are his widow, a son, Peter F. Bailey Jr., a sister, Mildred Bailey and a brother Ervin, both of Monticello.

Gaffney Reduces Land Assessments

Johnson county district court Judge James P. Gaffney reduced paving assessments on 10 tracts of land in south Iowa City in a decision Monday.

Owners of the tracts on South Linn st. and Kirkwood ave. appealed that assessments levied in 1952 by the city were excessive.

Appeals were made on 15 tracts of land in five separate cases, all ruled upon Monday. Assessments on five tracts were not reduced.
