House Members Confer During New Session

(AP Wirephoto)

Congress Assembles For 'Social' Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress came back in a back-slapping mood Wednesday to an election year session attuned to White House hopes for a peaceful world and a prosperous America.

Wednesday there was no legislative business, only prayers, eulogies for the late Chief Justice Vinson and a sort of birthday party on the House floor for 72-year-old Sam Rayburn, the Democratic leader.

Today President Eisenhower comes before a combined Senate-House session to deliver his State of the Union message sketching a legislative program for 1954.

Gaiety Will Cease

From then on, in the clashing cross currents of a campaign year, the air of gay good fellowship may drift away. For Democrats in congress are almost as numerous as Republicans. And they are showing signs of a strengthened unity brought on by lashing Republican attacks and a dislike for many portions of Eisenhower's home front program.

And in the field of foreign policy, Eisenhower may run up against as much opposition from Republicans as from Democrats.

No major legislation is on tap before next week, at the earliest.

In the senate, the GOP policy committee mapped out a program that is likely to sett off the first blasts of controversy in the new session. It includes for next week not only a batch of minor legislation but also a start on either the St. Lawrence seaway plan or a proposal to limit the President's treaty making powers—a pair of items charged with legislative dynamite.

Farm, Labor Ahead

But plenty of more important measures lie ahead. Eisenhower offers his farm and labor programs to congress Monday, and controversy already is swirling around them.

Signaling the start of the new congressional session, Eisenhower partook of Communion Wednesday morning and joined in prayers—prayers that God will give him "serenity of soul . . . soundness of judgment" and that congress will go about its tasks in the interests of "the safety and honor and welfare" of the people.

More than 50 members of congress were on hand at the special services at National Presbyterian church, of which Eisenhower is a member. So were Vice President Nixon, Chief Justice Warren and a number of cabinet and White House officials.

Starts at Noon

Up on Capitol Hill gavels fell exactly at noon in the senate and house chambers. Legislators and onlookers in crowded galleries bowed in prayer with the chaplains. Then the membership rolls were called.

Once again, after five months of idleness, the legislative merry-go-round was ready to start whirling.

A bill to make membership in the Communist party punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 and 10 years imprisonment was introduced by Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich), a member of the house un-American activities committee.

Rep. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb) introduced a bill to revamp the nation's social security system and declared this is "our last good opportunity to make the program sound."

Curtis Is Chairman

Curtis is chairman of the social security subcommittee of the house ways and means committee.

Introduced on the opening day of congress, the Curtis plan would place virtually all retired persons over age 65 on the rolls for monthly payments from the Old Age and Survivors Insurance program and extend tax coverage to almost the entire working force under 65.

The budget comes to congress Jan. 21 and a report on the country's economic condition a week later.

The President reportedly will ask again in the budget message that congress lift the 275 billion dollar lid on the national debt. The house approved a boost to 290 billions last year, but it didn't get by the senate.

Trouble is stacking up already for a new effort. Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said Wednesday he is going to keep the fight going against an increase.

A Condensation of Late Developments

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel Wednesday night won from the national assembly a vote of confidence he demanded so "France can have a government solidly supported" for the Berlin conference of the Big Four foreign ministers. The count was 319-249 for Laniel. Although it had been generally believed the assembly would indorse him, the size of the vote in his favor was unexpected.

PANMUNJOM (Thursday) (AP) — The Indian command today faced a new dilemma in the critical issue of what to do with 22,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war after Jan. 22. Apparently the Communists ignored the Indian request to give their views on the issue by Wednesday midnight. The United Nations command already had told India it would insist on release of prisoners as provided in the truce agreement.

ALDBURY, England (AP) — A two-engine Royal air force troop carrier plane carrying an RAF rugby team crashed on a blizzard swept hillside Wednesday night, killing 15 of the 16 men aboard. Two men were pulled alive from the wreckage strewn over the snow at Toms Hill, 30 miles north of London. One died in a hospital; the other was in critical condition. The pilot of the plane apparently became blinded by the storm and crashed into trees.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Direct federal farm aid programs have cost the government about $14 billion since the days of the Hoover farm board 25 years ago. This estimate, as calculated by the agriculture department, came to light at a time when the Eisenhower administration is facing the prospect of having to ask congress for several billion dollars more to carry out the congressional price guarantees to farmers. Officials said the cost figures have been collected in response to congressional requests.

Short Story Writer To Lecture at SUI

J. F. Powers, ranked by SUI writers' workshop leaders among the nation's 10 finest living short story writers, will appear Monday at 8 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Author of the critically acclaimed "Prince of Darkness and Other Stories," Powers has been published frequently in New Yorker magazine. His stories have also appeared in Accent and in the Western Review.

Both of the standard annual collections—Best Short Stories edited by Martha Foley and O. Henry Prize Stories now edited by Paul Engle and Hansford Martin of the SUI English faculty—have included work of the young Minnesota author. He is now working on a novel as a Rockefeller under the recent $40,000 grant which is administered by the SUI writers' workshop.

According to Prof. Ray West, acting director of the writers' workshop, Powers' best known short story is "Lions, Harts, Leaping Does." Like much of his work this story attempts to define the place of religious devotion in modern life, presenting an interplay of ideas as two Catholic monks try to realize a life of devotion.

At one time Powers taught creative writing in Marquette university.

Layoffs Increase, Hiring Drops

WASHINGTON (AP)—Less hiring and more layoffs in the nation's factories continued into November, the bureau of labor statistics reported Wednesday. The layoff rate rose from 18 per 1,000 employes in October to 24 in November.

At the same time, the bureau reported, the hiring rate at factories declined from 33 per 1,000 workers in October to 27 in November.

The bureau noted that layoffs usually rise in November with the coming of cold weather, but "the increase this November was somewhat greater than in most recent years." The largest increases were in the lumber, furniture, food, electrical machinery and chemical industries.

The drop in factory hiring was in line with seasonal expectations, but the bureau added this comment:

"Hiring has declined rapidly between July and October and therefore the number of workers added to payrolls in November remained at about one-third below the post-World War II average for this month."

SUI Political Groups To Argue Farm Policy

SUI Young Republicans and Democrats will square off on current farm policy in a debate Tuesday night at 7:30 in the Shambaugh lecture room at University library.

The Republicans plan to have a young full-time farmer as one of their two debaters. They will attempt to convince listeners that the present farm policy is not against the best interests of the American people.

Ed Failor, L1, Marion, president of the Young Republicans, said his other debater would be an SUI student. The meeting is open to the public.

Moderator To Be Chosen

Dan Cosgriff, C4, Tipton, Young Democrat president, said his organization will try to counter the GOP by obtaining a farmer as a debater. A moderator has not been selected yet.

An audience-participation discussion session will be held following the debate. Spectators may quiz any of the four debaters. A coffee hour will be held after the discussion.

Failor and Cosgriff said they had received no word as to the time and place of the proposed debate between the farm councils of the state-wide Young Republican and Young Democratic clubs.

Accept Challenge

The Democratic club, at the time of the formation of their farm council, challenged the state Young Republicans to a farm policy debate.

Bob Joslin, Clarence, head of the Young GOP farm council, accepted the challenge and a debate will be held sometime after Tuesday's debate at SUI. Dave Koch, Iowa City, who was graduated from SUI in June, 1953, is secretary of the state Young Democratic organization.

Former SUI Dean To Visit Campus, Inspect TV Studio

Harry K. Newburn, former dean of the SUI college of liberal arts and current president of the Ford television and radio program center, will discuss the Ford center's freedom series with university officials Friday. He will also inspect the SUI television facilities.

SUI has been granted $10,000 to contribute to the center's freedom series programs.

Newburn, who resigned as president of the University of Oregon to accept the Ford center post, was dean of the liberal arts college from 1941 to 1945. Previous to that time he spent 10 years associated with SUI as principal of University high school from 1931 to 1938; an assistant professor in education from 1934 to 1936; associate professor from 1936 to 1941, and director of the University high school from 1938 to 1941.

The former dean received his bachelor of education degree from Western Illinois Teachers college in 1928. He received his master's degree from Iowa in 1931 and his Ph.D. degree here in 1933.

Student Council To Meet Tonight

SUI's Student Council will hold its bi-weekly meeting tonight at 7 in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

Frank Myers, M1, Sheldon, will report on the progress of a proposed leadership training program. Reports on Panacea and the efforts to obtain pencil sharpeners for university buildings will also be made.

The council will also decide whether or not to send delegates to the eighth annual Student United Nations conference at the University of Wisconsin. Proposed changes in the income tax plan allowing deductions for educational expenses will be discussed.

10 MISSING ON PLANE

TOKYO (Thursday) (AP)— The navy said today a twin-engine Neptune patrol plane with 10 men aboard was missing and presumed lost off the southwest coast of Korea.

Hold 2 More in $160,000 Robbery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret Service agents quizzed four more persons Wednesday in a broadening search for $31,700 still missing in the daring New Year's eve theft of $160,000 from the Federal Bureau of Engraving, the nation's paper money factory.

Two of the four were released after being questioned while the other two were held.

That made a total of five persons, including two women, held in custody since the anguished father of one of the suspects broke the case to police Tuesday.

Authorities said some of the money—believed spirited from the heavily guarded plant in "false pockets" worn by a $3,460-a-year employe—was passed in a whirlwind spending spree in Washington and Baltimore.

Police found about $7,000 in old money in one of the three separate caches of loot totalling $128,000 so far recovered. The officers figured the $7,000 had been received in change for new $20 bills.

Meanwhile, the man who tipped off police where to find the major share of the money expressed fear that he might be "bumped off." He is Irving Grant, 45, chauffeur-butler on a palatial 340-acre estate near Middlesburg, Va., whose tip to police led to the arrest of his daughter, Mamie, 26; her husband, James Rufus Landis, 29, a $58-a-week employe at the bureau of engraving; and another suspect, William Giles, 32, a government flagpole painter.

Landis is held under $50,000 bond, charged with currency theft, as the alleged major figure in the robbery.

Officials said Landis, a snappy dresser with a spotless 11-year record of service in the federal bureau, admitted stealing 8,000 crisp new $20 bills from two sealed packages and replacing them with dummy packages stuffed with plain slips of paper.

His wife, mother of two infant sons, was held in $10,000 bail on charges of conspiracy, Giles, held in $50,000 bond, was charged with theft.

New suspects held Wednesday were Charles Nelson Howard, 27, a cousin of Landis; and a woman. Police said the woman, Edith Chase, 24, was suspected of helping spend the "hot" money in a weekend tour of Washington-Baltimore stores.

Suspect Held in Reuther Shooting

(AP Wirephoto)

CLARENCE JACOBS, (RIGHT) of Tecumseh, Ont., appeared with his attorney, Ross S. Riddell, in Windsor, Ont., adjacent to Detroit, Wednesday, after police took him into custody on a warrant charging Jacobs and three others with responsibility for the attempted assassination of CIO President Walter Reuther. Prosecutor Gerald O'Brien said "this is the solution" to the mysterious shooting which occurred in 1948.

3 Held, 5 Sought In Reuther Shooting

DETROIT (AP) — Prosecutors Wednesday accused four men of conspiracy and assault with intent to murder CIO President Walter P. Reuther five years ago, and withheld names of four other persons sought in what they called a "solution" to the attempted assassination.

Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien disclosed names of three men in jail and a fourth still being sought, but withheld names of the other four and information on evidence he had before the pre-dawn announcement and arrests Wednesday.

Warrants for arrest of the men were based on police information and officials said no grand jury action would be required to bring them to trial.

Motive Sought

O'Brien declined to disclose the motive for the Reuther shooting.

O'Brien in saying "This is the solution," added, however: "There may be other involvements."

One of those arrested and the one sought figured prominently in hearings of the Kefauver senate crime committee here in February, 1951. Both conceded they had made huge profits on scrap metal contracts with two companies, both often the scenes of violence in union attempts to organize them.

One is Carl Renda, 35, arrested at his home in expensive, suburban Grosse Pointe, and the other is his father-in-law, Santo Sam Perrone, 56, an ex-convict whose police record dates back to 1920. Perrone is sought. Renda stood mute on arraignment and was placed under $25,000 bail.

Jacobs in Custody

Clarence Jacobs, 48, of Tecumseh, Ont., was taken in custody in nearby Windsor, Ont., and O'Brien said that the fourth man named in the warrant, Peter Lombardo, 51, is serving five years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for possession of counterfeit money.

Jacobs was named as a triggerman at his arraignment in the Essex county Ontario court house. Representing Michigan, Crown Atty. Bruce J. S. MacDonald read a letter from O'Brien that said:

"Jacobs participated in the actual shooting."

Claims Innocence

Jacobs said only: "I don't know what this is all about. I certainly am innocent of this thing."

A police headquarters source said "You can be sure they didn't do it on their own, didn't think up the whole scheme, if they did it." He also suggested the John Does might turn out to be "top flight" names.

Reuther, then and now president of the CIO United Auto Workers union, was shot through a kitchen window of his home April 20, 1948. A shotgun charge crippled his right arm.

His brother, Victor, was wounded in a similar attempted assassination May 24, 1949. He lost an eye. Victor now is educational director for the UAW. O'Brien said Wednesday's arrests did not solve the assault on Victor Reuther.

Ft. Dodge Mayor Quits Press Fight

FORT DODGE (AP)— The right of the press to cover city hall affairs without any censorship was acknowledged Wednesday by Mayor Marvin D Vedvig.

"City business and records belong to the people and are open to their inspection," said the mayor in a statement ending a program he had previously announced whereby he would clear city hall news stories for what he caller accuracy, correct wording and possible additions.

He said he had not suggested to the city council any plans for news supression and had no "intention of doing this now or in the future."

The mayor's statement was welcomed by Managing Editor Joseph Givando of the Ft. Dodge Messenger with the words:

"Now we can go to work getting the news rather than spending our time defending our right to get it."

On Monday, Givando had answered Vedvig's statement that he intended to be a "clearing house" for city hall news by declaring that the Messenger would not permit the official to be censor or controller of the news it digs up.

TREASURY REPORTS DEFICIT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The treasury announced Wednesday it was just over $9 billion in the red on Dec. 31, but is expected to knock the deficit down to less than $4 billion by June 30

Early Date To Be Set, Says Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP) —The United States and Russia agreed Wednesday night to hold preliminary talks concerning President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan.

First the Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow announced that Russia was ready to begin the talks, which will deal with such questions as how, when and where negotiations on the President's idea will be held.

The state department declared that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles "expects to proceed at an early date" with the conversations with the Russians.

Scheduled for Washington

The talks are scheduled to be held in Washington with Soviet Ambassador G. M. Zarubin speaking for Moscow.

The President's plan calls for an international pool, to which atomic powers would contribute some of their atomic energy, for research and use on such peaceful projects as medicine and industrial power.

The U.S. has been earnestly pressing Eisenhower's atomic pool idea. The President has taken the stand that, since Russia and the U.S. have been unable to agree to a system for control of atomic weapons, the practical thing to do is to approach the atomic problem from another angle—a pool of atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

Could Give Tipoff

The idea behind this is that if such a plan should work out, the cooperative effort among nations might lead eventually to a cooperation on the issue of controlling or outlawing atomic weapons.

Although the talks to which Moscow agreed Wednesday would be purely preliminary, they could be of major importance.

For one thing, they could provide a tipoff to officials here as to whether Russia is really interested in making any progress now toward solving some of the international problems posed by the birth of the atomic age.

Keep Allies Informed

Henry Suydam, state department press officer, gave reporters the department announcement that the talks would begin. He said the discussions would be held in Washington "as the Russians proposed." Otherwise, he said he could add nothing to the official U.S. statement.

Officials here have said that the U.S. would keep Great Britain and other friendly atomic powers informed about the progress of private discussions with the Soviets.

Reds Want Control

It is realized that, as negotiations develop, they must at some point involve all of these powers and come clearly under the sponsorship of the United Nations. That is a key point in the President's proposal, which was made in a speech Dec. 8 to the UN.

The Russians have criticized the Eisenhower plan, on the ground that it does nothing to control the use of atomic weapons. In a Dec. 21 note they served notice they want pledges "not to use atomic, hydrogen or other weapons of mass extermination."

The U.S. has taken the position that such weapons can be outlawed only after safeguards are set up assuring that no nation will violate the ban. This would involve international inspection of atomic facilities.

Russia To Meet With U.S., Allies

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians agreed Wednesday night to meet with the three Western Allies today to arrange for the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin Jan. 25.

The preliminary meeting will be at British headquarters. The Western powers will be represented by the U.S., British and French military commandants in Berlin. The Russian counterpart presumably will represent the Soviets.

The Allies have proposed that the Big Four meet in the former Allied Control Authority building in the American sector. The Russians have objected to this site but have not completely ruled it out.

France's 'Agonizing Reappraisal'—

It is reported from Paris that Georges Bidault, French minister of foreign affairs, said recently he thought his government would move to withdraw from the war in Indochina "in a matter of weeks" unless the U.S. offered to send American troops.

Bidault apparently fears that the French public, disgusted with the bloody, seven-year-old war, will demand a negotiated settlement with the Communists similar to the Korean truce.

Joseph Alsop says that such a withdrawl "simply means the loss of Indochina" since "the whole country is already thoroughly infiltrated by Communist troops."

And, he points out, Secretary of State Dulles "has repeatedly said that the loss of Indochina will be the prelude to the loss of Asia."

The French should not be too quickly condemned for their desire to escape from the seemingly endless jungle warfare in Indochina.

That conflict, which marked its seventh anniversary Dec. 19, has cost the French over 33,000 in dead or missing, over 65,000 wounded and about $5 billion over and above American aid. (U.S. dead and missing in Korea totaled about 32,000, with about 104,000 wounded).

On Dec. 14, Dulles warned the French that they must approve the European army plan. In a speech which the French press termed a "brutal ultimatum," Dulles threatened that the U.S. might have to make "an agonizing reappraisal" of its troop dispositions in Europe.

He added that France and Germany might have to "commit (suicide) alone" if they failed to approve the European Defense Community army. President Eisenhower backed up this threat by Dulles.

It now appears that the French may soon have a "brutal ultimatum" of their own to present.

Women Surpass Men In Reading News Items

Women readers of an Iowa weekly newspaper read a higher percentage of news items than did men, according to a recent survey conducted by the Iowa Study of Newspaper Readership.

Of a total of 168 news items, excluding editorials and stories on the sports page, which appeared in an issue of the Adams County Free Press, published at Corning, the men's readership score exceeded that of the women on only 13 items.

Conducted by the SUI school of journalism with the cooperation of the Iowa Press association, the study found that as many as 94 per cent of the women subscribers interviewed had read a certain news item, and as many as 76 per cent of the men had read a particular item. The results were based on answers provided by 153 men and 150 women subscribers to the Free Press.

Only three of the 15 items best read by women appeared on page one, and the article receiving the highest percentage appeared on page two. Of the men's 16 top stories, seven appeared on pages other than one.

Of the top 13 stories best read by the men interviewed, ranging from 49 to 76 per cent readership, only six were among the top 15 read by the women interviewed.

The women gave top readership to nine stories that the male readers didn't include in their top 13, according to the results.

Editorials and stories appearing on the sports page were generally read by more men than women, the survey found. In each of four editorials printed, however, women's percentages were only four to six points less than men's. Of the group interviewed, 69 per cent of the men and 34 per cent of the women read one or more items on the sports page.

The study was organized and conducted by Prof. Arthur M. Barnes, head of the research division of the SUI school of journalism, with the assistance of Prof. Wilbur Peterson, head of the school's bureau of media service. Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the school of journalism, is editor of the Iowa Study series.

Interpreting the News

By SEYMOUR TOPPING
For J. M. ROBERTS JR.

LONDON (AP) —Prime Minister Churchill is wrestling a mutiny within his own party against the projected agreement with Egypt for British evacuation of the Suez Canal base.

The Prime Minister finds himself in the unaccustomed role of battling 41 Conservative rebels who says his Suez policy threatens to undermine the empire.

Capt. Charles Waterhouse, a 60-year-old ex-guards officer, leads the backbencher uprising in the house of commons. He declares:

'Disastrous Effect'

"Should we withdraw from Suez today—even under the appearance of pressure in Egypt, it would have a disastrous effect throughout the whole of the world.

"It might well be taken as a signal that 'Britain has had it' and is no longer going to trouble to stand firm."

Waterhouse has not won widespread support. Britain appears content to back Churchill's policy-evacuation with adequate safeguards for reoccupation in case of war. The Labor party sides with Churchill.

Campaign Country

While stumping the country for support, the Tory rebels say they will not bolt discipline to the extent of bringing about the downfall of the Churchill government.

Throughout the ranks of the Conservative party, there are grave doubts about the wisdom of Churchill's policy—but so far only the "41" have spoken out publicly.

Churchill is therefore under plenty of pressure at home not to make any further concessions in Egypt in Cairo negotiations over British withdrawal.

Wants To Negotiate

Britain is eager to reopen the formal negotiations which were suspended last October. But London apparently intends to stand by its demand—in one form or another—that British troops be allowed to reoccupy the Suez base if a major war threatens the security of the Middle East.

Egypt reportedly has been willing to allow reoccupation only if an Arab state is attacked and to consult on the matter if Turkey is threatened.

Churchill is far from happy about the prospect of the British garrison leaving Suez.

His decision to get out openly has been based upon the belief that Britain can no longer afford to have 80,000 troops immobilized there. The British military think the base won't be able to function properly anyhow—even in case of war—unless the Egyptians cooperate. Cairo has made it plain that the price of cooperation is British evacuation.

Violations by Parolees Cause Criticism of Present Systems

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The Iowan is reprinting this article from The Presidio, monthly magazine published by the men of the Iowa State Penitentiary, Ft. Madison.)

By LEE SWEENEY
Associate Editor, The Presidio

Late in the year of 1953, a particularly vicious and sadistic crime was perpetrated by an ex-convict and his mistress. This deed which rocked and shocked a nation provided a new supply of ammunition to those who so bitterly oppose parole and gave certain crack-pot columnists and commentators fresh fuel to write and talk about. For the man who planned and carried out this foul act and deed was a parolee.

The immediate and usual cry to abolish parole went up from the mouths and pens of that determined branch of humanity who always leap with bared fangs upon such incidents to rend and tear in the manner of wild animals at the parole system. Even the most remote or slightest reprehensible act by any paroled man gives them occasion to sit back on their haunches in the manner of sapient spaniels and bay at the moon.

Belief Expressed

Let me say here and now that I believe every man serving time in America when this crime was committed had nothing but contempt for those persons involved and hoped that they would "get what was coming to them." But I also believe that all men, imprisoned or free, who think sanely, will agree that this man being a parolee had nothing whatsoever to do with whether or not he would ever have planned and committed this crime. For it cannot be denied that had he served out his entire sentence the time remaining to be served would have amounted to mere months rather than years.

Looking at this man impersonally while he was serving a short sentence for a minor crime, who could make claim to being able to say definitely whether he would leave the prison to become a good citizen or to become the most talked about and most hated kidnapper and murderer in the nation? Did those who condemned this particular parole board make any inquiry as to how many parolees working under this board had or were making good records in the free world?

Newspaper Insists

One large newspaper from another state insisted that this particular board should be boiled in oil. Yet this same publication has constantly overlooked the filth, dirt, crooked politics and gang warfare in its own back yard, county and city. Of course, had this man served his full term and then committed the same crime, this particular newspaper would have condemned the prison from which he came and its officials for not reforming, regenerating and rehabilitating this culprit. But, as a matter of record this newspaper and its many subsidiary publications have always screamed loudly at any suggested legislation or proposed movement for prison reforms and prisoner education, holding that such measures constituted "coddling."

It thus becomes obvious, that in a nation devoted to progress, we still have those who advocate the tearing down or destruction of certain social structures while forwarding not one iota of constructiveness or proposing any worthwhile alternatives.

Deserve Criticism

I believe that most, if not all, parole boards both state and federal deserve some criticism but it should be levelled at the personnel rather than at the entire system or structure of parole. When we recall those times when a great national depression was at its highest peak, we remember our banks failing by the tens and hundreds and thousands. Did we abolish our banking system and structure? Hardly. New protective measures were adopted with the help of state and federal legislation to replace the shaky foundations upon which our American banking system tottered and the structure was not only saved but came back stronger, surer and more progressive.

The same could be accomplished with our American parole system. It could be made into a strong, safe, sound and progressive weapon for the public good, but so long as our parole structure rests upon a foundation of political patronage and party spoils it will never attain more than a fraction of its potential power for good, and its objectives will be obscured by red tape, boondoggling and double talk.

Citzens Must Act

It would seem that the time has come for our citizenry to take a more active interest in our national parole picture; to find out what kind of people are manning our parole boards and their qualifications. For it is inconsistent to rant and rage against the entire system of parole and yet take no part or interest in how appointments are made in parole board personnel as well as what method is used in making such appointments. The fact that many of our nation's parole boards are staffed by old political wheelhorses whose years of faithful party service apparently entitles them to munch at the public haystack seemingly does not interest the average citizen. Yet they will condemn the acts of these inept fumblers while failing to realize that it is their own lack of interest that has allowed such persons to assume public positions for which they are entirely unfitted.

Lack Qualifications

In many instances persons of retired or semi-retired status are appointed to parole boards even though they have little or no understanding of parole. An entirely fallacious belief which is generally accepted is that former prosecutors make good members of parole or pardoning bodies. Nothing could be farther from the truth as men who formerly served in this capacity retain to the grave their belief that imprisonment is the only solution in dealing with crime and almost without exception they feel that the term set by statute for any crime is too lenient. But the former prosecutor is not alone in his aversions.

Many different types of careers are to be found on our American parole boards and each has its own pet peeve or bias against some certain type of crime over and above all others. The former banker abhors the forger, the ex-merchant despises the burglar or shoplifter and the one-time insurance man detests the absconder. Strangely enough, however, members of the medical fraternity on our parole boards represent just about the only profession which actually dislikes or takes a stand against the paroling of persons serving sentences for sex crimes. Most of our former business men are more concerned with the monetary rather than the moral aspects of any case.

Conformity Needed

Someway, somehow, this facet of state and federal government should be made to function smoothly and conform to a definite and determined standard set up by a national parole control board upon which each state should have one active participating member. Federal and state parole board personnel should then be selected through competitive examinations which are set up by the national board. This would insure the staffing of all parole boards with competent personnel who would hold such positions through personal ability rather than as a mere political reward.

Our parole system is admittedly faulty . . . but its faults are not incurable. Demands for abolishment do little to solve the problem, and law enforcement bodies who make such demands should come to realize that the system which sponsors their own selection is also responsible, to a great extent, for the selection of the targets of their attacks. Too often the choice of parole boards is based upon the spoils system which ignores, in effect, the necessity for a working knowledge of sociology, criminology, pathology plus a goodly abundance of plain, common sense.

As Americans, let us not condemn a system that has never been given a truly fair trial. Parole should be and can be made to work for the mutual benefit of society and the prisoner.

463 Traffic Accidents Reported Here in 1953

The number of traffic accidents in Iowa City during the year 1953 increased from 391 in 1952 to 463 this year, according to figures compiled by Police Chief Edwin J. Ruppert.

However, the number of persons injured in automobile accidents in 1953 totaled 81, which is the same number injured in 1952. This is a decrease in the number of persons injured in 1951 from 97 persons injured out of the 532 accidents of that year.

Hogan Named Male Athlete Of Year

Marciano 2d, Shoemaker 3d In AP Poll

NEW YORK (AP)— Ben Hogan, called by many the greatest golfer who ever lived after he captured the British Open championship with a record-smashing final round last summer, was voted "male athlete of the year" for 1953 Wednesday in the 23d annual year end Associated Press poll.

The mighty Texas shotmaker, who won golfdom's triple crown in 1953—the U.S. and British Open championships, and the Augusta Masters — was an overwhelming choice in the nationwide poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

The 41-year-old Bantam Ben received 67 first place votes out of the 129 ballots cast, and rolled up 229 points on a 3-2-1 basis.

Marciano Places 2d

For the second straight year, Rocky Marciano, world's heavyweight champion, was in the runnerup spot. Marciano received 12 first place votes this time and had a total of 80 points.

Third in the 1953 poll with 63 points was William Shoemaker, the year's champion jockey who rode 485 winners, more than any other rider in one season in racing history.

Two college football stars were fourth and fifth, respectively, Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame, 50 points, and Minnesota's Paul Giel, 48.

1st Golfer Since Nelson

Hogan is the first golfer to be named male athlete of the year since Byron Nelson was voted the honor in both 1944 and 1945. Only one other golfer was chosen, Gene Sarazen in 1932—second year of the poll.

Hogan was born Aug. 13, 1912, in Dublin, Tex., and lives part of the year now at Ft. Worth, Tex., and Palm Springs, Calif.

He won his second Augusta Masters last spring; followed that up by taking the Pan American Open at Mexico City; the Ft. Worth Colonial Invitation, his fourth,; the U.S. Open, his fourth, at Oakmont, Pa., with a 283 for a course record.

In February, 1949 Hogan's automobile and a bus collided on a Texas highway. He lay near death after complications set in, but he recovered. By midsummer he was back hobbling around the links on crutches. They said he'd never reach his tournament form again.

Hey—They Took Out The 'Faint' Scenes

CINCINNATI(AP) — Opening event Wednesday on the agenda of the 31st annual meeting of the American Football Coaches association was the eagerly awaited showing of the Iowa-Notre Dame game motion pictures.

Some 450 coaches and members of the press showed up for a look at the pair of now famous "fainting spells" by Irish linemen in the fading seconds of each half.

The injuries stopped the clock in each instance and Notre Dame moved in for a touchdown each time to gain a 14-14 tie.

A Notre Dame representative gave a running play-by-play as the film showed the Irish with the ball. An Iowa representative did the same when the Hawkeyes were in possession.

But the press and other spectators felt they had been mousetrapped when they found the "Fainting Irish" episodes had been deleted from the films and neither commentator made even a casual mention of the controversial maneuvers.

(The hundreds of fans who jammed the Iowa Memorial Union to see the movies after the game also received the deleted version. The game scenes shown in the newsreels also avoided the incidents.)

Logan, Cain Sport Hawks' Top Averages

Iowa will have two cagers—forwards Bill Logan and Carl Cain—averaging above 10 points per game for Saturday's game here with Wisconsin, according to official sports service statistics.

Logan, lanky Keokuk sophomore who occasionally plays center, boasts a 13.9 average, hitting on 44 per cent of his field goal attempts. Cain, who tallied 17 against Michigan State in the Big Ten opener last Monday, has averaged 11.8 with a 47 per cent field goal mark.

Statistics for the first eight games are as follows:

NCAA To Receive College Grid TV Group's Findings

CINCINNATI(AP)—College football television next fall will be subjected to virtually the same controls as in 1953 if the recommendations of the National Collegiate A. A. Television committee are carried out.

The 1953 Television committee Wednesday finished a two-day task of compiling its report and recommendations to the NCAA convention. Chairman Robert J. Kane of Cornell and program director Asa S. Bushnell refused to divulge the details of this report until they can be presented at a roundtable meeting this morning.

They indicated, however, that the committee was pretty well satisfied with the results of the game-a-week controlled program last fall and Kane added that the recommendations will be "substantially the same with some added provisions."

(AP Wirephoto)

IOWA'S JERRY HILGENBERG BLOCKS for Fordham passer Roger Frantz during a North drill as coach Paul Brown watches. Brown, coach of the Cleveland Browns, will direct the North stars against the South in the annual Senior Bowl game Saturday at Mobile, Ala. Two of the players in the background are UCLA back Bill Stitts (40) and Penn State end Don Malinak (33).

Chelf Listed as North Starter

MOBILE, Ala.(AP)—Paul Brown, coach for the North in the Senior Bowl football game here Saturday, Wednesday named his tentative offensive lineup.

Quarterback Dick Thomas, Northwestern star, was chosen to direct the North's attacking force of three big runners.

They are 185-pound Harland Carl of Wisconsin, 180-pound Gene Filipski of Villanova and 210-pound Tom Allman of West Virginia.

Joe Collier of Northwestern and John Ryan of Illinois, both 190 pounds, will be the flankers. Heaviest man on the squad is tackle Bob Fleck of Syracuse at 256. The other tackle is Don Chelf of Iowa, 205.

Guards are Mike Takacs, 209, of Ohio State, and Boston university's Ray Cataloni, 207. Jim Neal, 220, of Michigan State, is center.

SUNDRIDGE, Ont. (AP) — Harold Hill, a forest ranger, must love his hockey. The star of the Sundridge Beavers Intermediate hockey team, Hill has to travel 18 miles, six of them by snowshoe, for practice and the games.

When blizzards block the roads, he tramps the whole distance to town from his post in Algonquin Park.

Iowa Matmen To Open Here Against Badgers

Coach Dave McCuskey will take the wraps off his sophomore-loaded Iowa wrestling team Saturday at 2:30 p.m. when the Hawkeyes take on undefeated Wisconsin.

For the Iowans it will be the first of eight dual meets and a real test of their potential since the Badgers boast their best-balanced team in recent years.

With impressive wins over Marquette, 26-0, and Minnesota, 16-15, behind them the Badgers will probably use a lineup that includes four returning lettermen and six grapplers who have yet to taste defeat this season.

Leading Wisconsin will be Captain Jerry Seeber of Osage, Ia., who has posted nine straight dual meet wins without a defeat at 157 pounds. Other Badgers who haven't been beaten this year are John Woods, 130 pounds; Ted Fox, veteran 137-pounder; Erv Sodos and veteran Bob Reif, 167-pounders.

McCuskey will use five sophomores—Dick Govig at 123, Wenceslaus Pecinovsky at 130, Harlan Jenkinson at 157, John Winder at 167, and Ken Leuer at 177.

Three 1953 major "I" winners, headed by Streeter Shining, heavyweight who finished fourth in the Big Ten meet, complete Iowa's team. Veteran LeRoy Hansen will wrestle at 137 and Laurence Gertsma at 147.

Maranville, Great Shortstop, Dies

NEW YORK(AP)—Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, one of baseball's finest shortstops for over 20 years, died Tuesday night at the age of 61 of a heart attack.

Ironically, Maranville died while ballots were being distributed for the latest Hall of Fame election. "The Rab" was high on the list last year and certain to get heavy support in the current voting.

As long as baseball is played, Maranville will be remembered for his famous "basket" catch of infield fly balls.

2 Juveniles Await Action After Prank

County juvenile authorities are deciding what action to take against two Coralville youths who placed a metal object on the railroad tracks near Coralville, Johnson county attorney William L. Meardon said Wednesday.

The two are aged 6 and 10.

A metal tie plate, which is a piece of railroad equipment used between the track and the wooden tie, was placed on the track by the boys.

As the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway's rocket passenger train came from the west last Thursday about 4 p.m., one wheel of the locomotive struck the object and knocked it off the track. The train was not damaged or derailed but a serious accident could have resulted, officials said.

The engineer of the train reported the incident to railroad officials when he arrived in Iowa City at 4:15 p.m. An agent for the railroad then traced the two boys who admitted placing the object on the tracks.

They had apparently found the tie plate alongside the tracks where the railroad was having repair work done.

Meardon said that county juvenile officials were now handling the case, but what action will be taken has not yet been determin-

Communication Center Facilities Expanded

SUI Women May Win Scholarships For Creativeness

Three scholarships for women of $500 each for graduate study will be awarded by the National League of American Pen Women, according to Mrs. Iduna B. Field of Decorah, state chairman for scholarships.

One scholarship will be awarded for creative talent in each of the fields of art, journalism and music, enabling the winner to pursue work in an accredited school for graduate study.

Applications must be sent to Mrs. Field before Feb. 15. SUI must first recommend the student before the application will be considered.

The three $500 scholarships are the National Scholarship in Art, Mattie R. Logan Scholarship in Journalism and the Bonita Crowe scholarship in Music.

Applications must include a sample of work in either art, music or journalism, plus a brief biography and a signed statement of intent to remain in selected work.

Tryouts Open Tuesday For Campus Musical

Tryouts for the 1954 production of Panacea, all-campus musical, have been set for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Over 32 parts will be available for the musical.

This year's show, written by Berkley Forsythe, G, Omaha, Neb., and Rolland Klopfleisch, G, Crosby, Minn., will be called "The Great Norwegian Legion." It is a political satire revolving about the complications arising from an advertising campaign.

The cast will include 13 male and three female roles, a 16 voice chorus and a dancing chorus. Although the actual performances will not be given until April 28, 29 and 30, rehearsals for the chorus will start immediately after selection.

Forsythe and Klopfleisch, who are also co-directors, have written two other musicals together at the University of Omaha. Forsythe is a graduate instructor in television and Klopfleisch is a graduate assistant in the brass division of the music department.

George Doty, A4, Rochester, Minn., chairman of the Panacea board of directors, announced Wednesday that Bill Nelson, C4, Palos Heights, Ill., has been named business manager of Panacea.

Court Blocks Marriage

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — Runaway Bolivian heiress Maria Isabella Patino, 18, and her dashing English lover, Jimmy Goldsmith, 20, appealed to Scotland's highest court Wednesday for the right to marry over her father's objections.

The showdown is due in the Court of Session here today.

Three Scottish judges will be asked to rule "yes" or "no" to the young sweethearts' appeal against a temporary injunction tin magnate Atener Patino obtained Tuesday to block their quickie Scottish wedding.

Couple Hides Out

Isabella and Jimmy are still hiding out from her irate father somewhere in Scotland and may not appear in person when R. P. Morison, one of Scotland's leading lawyers, pleads their case.

Patino, one of Latin America's richest men, dashed here from Paris last week after learning his petite dark-eyed daughter and the debonair, Eton-educated Goldsmith had eloped.

He is dead set against his pretty daughter's marriage until she grows a little older.

Other Reasons Cited

But Goldsmith's older brother, Edward, who introduced him to Isabella at a coronation party in London last June, told reporters there are other reasons for the objections from Mr. and Mrs. Patino.

They said six suiters of French royal blood are all lined up to marry Isabella, he said, explaining that Isabella's mother is a descendant of King Louis XIV of France.

The lovers secretly planned their elopement to Scotland, hiring a car for the 400-mile dash from London to Edinburgh last Dec. 12.

Search Fails

The Patinos rushed to Edinburgh in a desperate bid to find Isabella and talk her out of marrying Jimmy, the son of a well-to-do London hotel owner.

When they couldn't track down the runaway romancers, even with a battery of private detectives, Patino won from the Court of Session an 11th hour "interim interdict" — a temporary injunction—forbidding the issuance of a marriage license anywhere in Scotland.

Persons over 16 can marry in Scotland without parental consent.

In his petition to the Edinburgh court, Patino said Isabella left her Paris home clandestinely early in December to elope with Goldsmith. He said her legal residence was in France, despite her 15-day stay in Edinburgh to satisfy Scottish marriage law requirements.

Specially, the court is expected to rule today on the question of domicile. If it upholds the lovers' claim that they have established legal residence in Scotland, they will be free to marry immediately.

March of Dimes Donation Containers Placed in County

Approximately 7,500 coin boxes will be sent out to solicit funds for the 1954 Johnson county March of Dimes. Of this number, 3,000 had been mailed by Wednesday, Mrs. J. K. Schaaf, county chairman, reported.

The cards were prepared by a group of 16 women. Boy Scouts carried them to the post office.

Another group of letters will be prepared for mailing Friday evening under the direction of Mrs. Ed Organ, county women's activities chairman. Volunteers to assist in this work are needed, Mrs. Schaaf said. The work will begin at 7 p.m. Friday in the LeRoy Weeks Veterans of Foreign Wars clubrooms, 208½ E. College st.

Containers for contributions have been placed in rural schools and business places throughout the county.

Contributions may be mailed to March of Dimes, P. O. box 530, Iowa City.

Highway By-Pass Project Urged By Woman's Club

Iowa City's Woman's club voted to urge the development of a by-pass to route highway traffic around Iowa City at a recent meeting. The proposal drew no objections from the group.

Copies of its stand on the matter were sent to Gov. William S. Beardsley, the state highway commission, and Iowa City Mayor Leroy S. Mercer.

The Iowa City League of Women voters will vote on a proposal to support the suggested highway by-pass around Iowa City.

If the vote is in favor of the by-pass, the action will be reported to the highway commission, city council, and Gov. William S. Beardsley.

The meeting will be held in the Elks club dining room Monday at 12 noon.

False Fire Alarm Awakens Coeds

Currier hall's 670 residents were roused from their slumber Tuesday shortly before midnight when the fire alarm sounded throughout the building.

It proved to be a false alarm and, though many of the girls did leave the building, they were quickly told to return to their rooms.

Dorothy M. Leslie, head of the women's dormitory, said the cause of the alarm is unknown.
