Brothers Exchange Autographs

ALDEN POND, 14, and his brother, Richard, 10, of Pomona exchange autographs on each other's arm casts, having each broken an arm within a five-minute period during a maiden ice skating session at a Pasadena rink last weekend. Boys' mother, Mrs. W. B. Pond, said she still has a hard time believing it really happened.

No U.S. Troops To Indochina: Wilson

6 Economic Experts Predict High Incomes, More Buying

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six economic experts predicted to congress Tuesday that Americans will enjoy high incomes and do a lot of buying at fairly stable prices in 1954.

The experts gave this generally optimistic forecast amid these related developments:

1. The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported a drop of two million workers on the payrolls of industry, transportation, government and trade between December and January—but non-farm employment, 47,700,000, was the largest ever reported for the month of January except in 1953.
2. The Commerce department reported that total business inventories stocks, which President Eisenhower has blamed for the current economic slow-down, were shrinking at the end of 1953.

Sales, Inventories Declined

The department said, however, that sales declined in the last quarter of the year at about the same rate as inventories dwindled.

Eisenhower said in his economic message to congress last month that if sales stay high enough to cut down inventories, production would swing up again and the current business dip would "soon come to a halt."

On Capitol Hill, a group of economic authorities testified that people may not spend as much as they did at the 1953 peak, but there is little reason for any panicky alarm over the outlook for the year ahead.

A. W. Zelomek, president of the International Statistical Bureau, Inc., of New York, told a senate house committee studying President Eisenhower's economic report to congress: "I do not agree with the prophets of doom."

Yet there was a cautioning note from Gerhard Colm, chief economist for the National Planning association in Washington. "We cannot be too happy," he said, "if the outlook is for a level of economic activity only somewhat below that of last year."

Economy Must Grow

To remain healthy, Colm said, the economy must keep growing and private purchases should go up 20 billion dollars this year if America is to keep at full-scale production.

Zelomek said people may spend a bit less on food and drink and a bit more on clothing and shoes, so that 1954 sales of non-durable goods should be at about the same level as last year.

Tax cuts should just about offset cuts in overtime pay and increases in unemployment, Zelomek said, and result in consumers having about as much money to spend as in 1953.

Durable Goods Sales May Drop

George P. Hitchings, manager of the Economic Analysis department of the Ford Motor Co., said durable goods sales were abnormally high last year and may drop five to 10 per cent this year. Even so, he said, they should be "at least as high as in 1952."

The vice president of Sears, Roebuck and Co., Gordon B. Hattersley, said inefficiencies in production and distribution developed during the post-war boom. If business concentrates on eliminating them and reducing prices, he said, 1954 can be "a year of high activity, even though below recent peak levels."

"The wants of the public," he said, "are literally endless."

Mother Hysterical After Rescue Attempt

SOBBING AND PROSTRATE after her child slipped from her grasp, Mrs. Betty Mitchell, of Woodlyn, near Chester, Pa., lies on the bank of a quarry that claimed the lives of her four-year-old son, Michael, and another four-year-old, Micheal Collins, Tuesday. Mrs. Mitchell, who expects another child in two weeks plunged fully clothed into the icy water in a futile rescue try.

Crops Cause Coffee Rise, Senators Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators prying into dollar a pound coffee prices were told by New York traders Tuesday that the cause is crops and increased coffee drinking.

But members of a senate banking subcommittee still had an idea speculation might have something to do with price boosts that have aroused many protests.

When they started exploring that possibility, New York brokers refused to bring out lists of their customers and their dealings in a public hearing. They suggested the subcommittee subpoena the lists if it insists on having them.

Chairman Tells Reporters

The subcommittee chairman, Sen. George Beall (R-Md.), told reporters that is exactly what will be done, if necessary.

With Gustavo Lobo Jr., and Leon Israel, president and vice-president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange on the witness stand, Senator Bush (R-Conn.) asked for a sum-up answer to this question: "Why is the price of coffee so high?"

Lobo replied: "It is our feeling that the present price of coffee is due in a very great measure, if not in its entirety, to a changing statistical situation of world supply and demand."

Situation Outlined

He and Israel outlined the statistical situation this way: "Aside from coffee consumed in the growing countries, the world uses more than 30 million bags—each weighing 132 pounds—a year. The United States consumes roughly two-thirds of the total and Europe the other third."

Consumption is going up by about half a million bags a year in the U.S. In Europe, it has risen from three million bags a year just after World War II to 10 million now.

Brazil Leads in Supply

Brazil is the world's biggest coffee producer—turning out more than half the supply in 1952-53. For the present 1953-54 crop year ending next June 30, Brazil had expected a crop of 16.9 million bags. It estimated the 1954-55 crop at 17.9 million bags.

But as a result of heavy frosts last July, three estimates have been lowered to 14 million bags for this year and 12.7 million for next year.

Sending Of Technicians Hit in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson reiterated Tuesday the United States is not sending combat troops to Indochina, but Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) declared in the senate "we are riding hard on the road that will lead to direct intervention" in the war there.

Stennis criticized the Eisenhower administration for deciding to send about 200 air force technicians to Indochina without consulting the senate armed services committee, of which he is a member.

He said there are plenty of French mechanics capable of servicing the aircraft the United States has made available to France to fight the Communist Vietnam forces. He insisted the Americans be brought back "at the earliest possible date."

Foresees Power Need

Those who approve of sending air force technicians to the Asian battleground, Stennis said, also ought to advocate a bigger army, more taxes and extension of the draft "so we will have the power to carry through on a policy which we are making inch by inch."

Wilson, discussing the Indochinese situation at a news conference, predicted the French and loyal native forces probably would win a military victory unless there is intervention by the Red Chinese or a similar change in the situation.

Later he prepared a statement for radio and television, saying in part, "the equipment which we have sent to Indochina is highly technical so we are sending technicians as a temporary training force."

No Combat Troops

"We are sending planes but no pilots. We are not sending combat troops."

Wilson told newsmen the war against the Reds "is going fully as well as we and the French expected it to at this stage." He added he had no reason to think Indochina would become another Korea.

Newsmen interpreted his remarks as meaning that he saw no need for sending extensive American forces against the Vietnamese as was done against the Communists in Korea.

Indicates Retreat

Noting that Wilson had said the American technicians would be brought back from Indochina by June 12, Stennis asserted this indicated "a retreat from the plan" and "an admission that the situation is fraught with possibilities of great danger."

Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the GOP policy committee in the senate, said this country should not put "soldiers for fighting purposes" into Indochina but he had no objection to sending in the technicians. He said he understood they would not be in the war zone.

Late dispatches from Indochina reported the Vietnam forces within 25 miles of Luang Prabang, the royal capital of Laos, in a fresh drive. French and Laotian forces were withdrawing. The French said they had completed their major defenses in front of the capital.

Township School Boards Meet To Discuss District Expansion

Boards of education from surrounding townships met with the Iowa City school board Tuesday to discuss plans for district expansion of the Iowa City school district.

Frank Snider, county superintendent of schools, requested the meeting, with the Iowa City board to permit township directors to hear opinions on consolidating Johnson county school districts.

Boards of education from Scott, East and West Lucas and Newport township attended the meeting. Snider explained that elementary school children from these sections would be included in the Iowa City district if the reorganization plan was adopted.

Snider told the group that the proposed reorganization would split Johnson county into four or five districts instead of the present 68.

He listed Solon, Oxford, Iowa City and Lone Tree as tentative districts where children would attend schools.

"Every child should be a resident of a district that has a high school," Snider said. "The best school condition will result from larger school administrations."

Snider emphasized that the purpose of the meeting was not to adopt any measures for reorganization, but to answer questions.

Before any action on school reorganization can be taken, a petition from the school districts must be presented to the county board. The county board approved the general petition from the people and each district votes on the measure.

The school board met in regular session and set March 8 as the date for the school election. The Community building was selected as one polling site and a second place will be chosen by an election committee.

The board approved the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Thayer, 1st grade, Horace Mann school; Mrs. Roberta Harding, 4th grade, Henry Sabin school and Mrs. Ken Donaldson.

Appointments were given to Mrs. Maxine Delmare, high school; Mrs. Ruthana Fankhauser, Horace Mann; Mrs. Wanda Orr, Lincoln; Mrs. Shirley Hollstein, Longfellow; Miss Lois Evearts, Henry Sabin, and Miss Jean Garvin, Henry Sabin. These teachers were all appointed on a one semester basis.

A leave of absence was granted to Everett Alton for additional graduate work at SUI for one year.

Poet Named Lecturer For Writers' Workshop

New York Herald Tribune, New York Times, Time magazine, Partisan Review and the Library Journal.

The Herald Tribune reviewer said, "John Berryman is the first to attempt serious documentation and criticism, and interpretation of the interminglings of the life and the writings, with their lucid brilliance and their various meanings. And this he does with intuitive sympathy and a highly developed psychoanalytical technique—an ambitious undertaking for almost everything connected with Crane is fantastically involved."

Observing "one can only admire the intelligent industry which has gone into the establishment of fact," the Partisan Review critic said, "Berryman is at his best in the chapter on Crane's art; here he windows the major work from the trifling, distinguishes suggestively the peculiar quality of Crane's poetry in an intriguing analogy with the primitive spell of the medicine man."

Berryman's poems have appeared in such periodicals as in Accent, Poetry, the Kenyon Review, the Nation, the New Republic, and the Partisan Review.

John Berryman, poet and biographer of Stephen Crane, succeeds Robert Lowell this semester as lecturer in poetry in the SUI writers' workshop. Lowell moves to the University of Cincinnati, accepting for a half-year period the Elliston chair in poetry endowed by a former Ohio newspaperwoman.

Berryman has taught at Harvard and Princeton universities and held the Elliston chair at the University of Cincinnati two years ago. He won the Shelley poetry prize of 1949 and has held Guggenheim and Iowa Rockefeller fellowships. His biography of Crane, author of "Red Badge of Courage," was published in 1950 as one of the American Men of Letters series of William Sloane associates, who published Berryman's book of verse "The Dispossessed" in 1948.

"A Little Treasury of Modern Poetry," edited by Oscar Williams, reprinted four of Berryman's poems in 1946. A short story writer as well as literary critic and poet, Berryman has appeared in the annual O. Henry memorial prize story collection.

"Stephen Crane" was greeted by 1950 in such periodicals as the

Congressman Found Guilty Of Kickbacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Ernest Bramblett (R-Calif.) was convicted Tuesday of falsifying his congressional office payroll in a scheme to collect salary kickbacks.

A federal court jury of eight women and four men returned its verdict after deliberating about an hour and 40 minutes.

U. S. Dist. Judge Walter M. Bastian allowed Bramblett, 52, and serving his fourth term in the house, to remain at liberty on bail pending the filing of new motions. One of these will ask the judge to set aside the jury's verdict and acquit Bramblett.

Convicted on 7 Counts

The jury convicted Bramblett on all seven counts of the indictment which it considered.

Each of the seven counts carries a penalty of a much as five years in prison and a maximum $10,000 fine. However, maximums are seldom imposed.

Earlier in the day the 18-count indictment had been stripped to seven counts when Judge Bastian entered a judgment of acquittal on the 11 counts in which Mrs. Olga Hardway of Santa Barbara, Calif., a former business and political associate of Bramblett's, figured.

Falsely Represented Clerk

But Bramblett was convicted of falsely representing that Mrs. Margaret M. Swanson of Arlington, Va., was a clerk for him for the last seven months of 1950.

Bramblett, who received the verdict without any show of emotion, told reporters he had nothing to say and referred them to his attorney, Edward Bennett Williams.

Williams said the case will be carried to the U.S. court of appeals and to the supreme court, if necessary.

$4,700 a Year

Mrs. Swanson was a $4,700 a year clerk on Bramblett's staff for the last seven months of 1950.

She testified that she did no work for Bramblett in connection with his official duties while she was on the payroll. Her husband, Irving, testified that he "kicked back" to Bramblett most of the $3,300 his wife was supposed to have earned.

In sustaining the defense motion for acquittal on 11 Hardway counts, Judge Bastian said he was doing so "without any reflection whatever on the parties who testified."

This was believed to have had reference to testimony of John M. Hardway and his wife, Olga, of Santa Barbara, former political and business associates of Bramblett. The judge said Hardway testified he knew his wife was on the Bramblett payroll in January, 1951.

Smoldering Coal Causes Gas Fumes

A smoldering coal pile in the SUI heating plant's 6,000-ton coal pile, located just north of the power plant at Coralville, caused coal gas fumes to be noticeable in both Coralville and the north-west portion of Iowa City Tuesday.

Release of the offensive smelling gases was caused by spontaneous combustion, R. J. Phillips, UI superintendent of maintenance and operations, said. The smell, similar to the odor of sewage gas, was more noticeable Tuesday because there was no wind and a slight fog which retained the odor in a small area.

Phillips stated that the gas was not harmful because of its mixture with air, and that it had no harmful effects on men working with the hot coal at the university heating plant. Three men pumped water from the Iowa river onto the coal pile Tuesday and the university has stopped all incoming shipments of coal.

Reds To Present 'European Security' Plan

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Russia, striving to wreck the Western defense alliance, declared Tuesday night it will present a new plan for "European security" to the Big Four conference here today. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, who had refused at a secret session Monday to get the Korean peace conference started on United Nations terms, Tuesday kept the foreign ministers in a futile deadlock on Germany. In sharply worded exchanges with U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, the Soviet foreign minister disclosed he would offer a new Communist security plan in an attempt to kill off the European Defense Community.

UN Accuses Communists of Truce Violation

TOKYO (Wednesday) (AP)—The United Nations command Tuesday accused the Communists of violating the Korean armistice by secretly moving combat planes into nine North Korean air bases. The command charged the Reds slipped the planes in by bypassing three ports of entry specified in the armistice, thus avoiding the eyes of inspection teams. Allied officials have charged the Communists with an illegal military buildup before, but the command action made it official. A full investigation by mobile inspection teams, starting within 48 hours, was requested in a letter sent the Communist high command by Maj. Gen. J. K. Lacey, senior Allied member of the joint military armistice commission.

Johnson Blasts Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) joined other colleagues in criticizing what he called "irresponsible statements by high administration officials" about former Democratic regimes, and said that is not the way to encourage bipartisan support of President Eisenhower's legislative program.

McCarrel Says 2d Day Of Registration 'Normal'

Registrar Ted McCarrel said the second and final day of mid-year registration appeared "normal."

He said, "We won't actually know until Monday just how many did register and there are always quite a few late registrations at the mid-term."

Second semester classes begin at 7:30 a.m. today. New student orientation closed Tuesday night with an open house in the Iowa Memorial Union sponsored by Union Board and men's and women's orientation committees.

State Highs Break Weather Records

DES MOINES (AP)—Clear, sunny skies and unreasonably warm, dry air provided Iowa with record breaking high temperatures Tuesday.

The weather bureau reported that Tuesday was the warmest February 9th since before the turn of the century in at least seven Iowa points.

The state high was 63 at Council Bluffs. The previous high of 47 was set in 1945. Other record breaking points included:

- Sioux City with 62, breaking a 1952 record; Des Moines with 58, trying the old mark set in 1938; Cedar Rapids had 55, breaking a 1938 record.

However, the weather bureau said Tuesday's highs weren't the highest on record for February.

The warm weather was scheduled to come to an end Tuesday night, the weather bureau said, with the arrival of a cold front moving in from Canada. It said lows Tuesday night would be in the lower 20's, with high readings Wednesday in the 30's. Tuesday morning temperatures ranged from 19 at Waterloo to 30 at Council Bluffs.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.

The international plan now being worked out to put Iran back into the oil business marks a gigantic mobilization of Allied big business to fight the cold war.

Perhaps dragging is a better word than mobilizing. For the oil companies which are organizing a big pool to operate the oil fields and refinery and sell the product are far from enthusiastic. About all they have to gain, at least for the immediate future, is the insurance that nobody else—especially the Russians—will do it.

Basic Plan Listed

The basic plan now is for the oil interests of France, Britain, the United States and Holland to form what is referred to as a consortium but which is about the same as a cartel. It would provide management and technical skills for the operation of the fields and the Abadan refinery. Iran nationalized them three years ago, ending the concession of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., which will be a member of the new pool.

From the standpoint of the governments involved, the chief objective is to revive Iran's economy and build a fence against the danger that, without Western co-operation, the ancient country would fall into the hands of Russia.

Means Adjustment

If this was going to be done, the oil companies had an interest in seeing to it that the Iranian production of 700,000 barrels daily, one of the cheapest productions in the world, would not be thrown helter-skelter into a market which is already over-produced. It's going to mean a downward adjustment of production elsewhere.

That can cause trouble in other Middle Eastern producing areas which have become accustomed to increased royalties during the Iranian holiday. It can also cause trouble in the U.S., where producers already are demanding the loosening of restrictions which recently have resulted in increased importation of oil while domestic fields operate at less than capacity.

Unemployment Group To Meet With Governor

WATERLOO (AP)—Appointment of a sub-committee to confer with Gov. William S. Beardsley and to find his wishes about further activity for his Fact-Finding Committee on Unemployment was decided upon at a meeting of the full committee here Tuesday, open to newsmen.

The sub-committee, after some discussion in which labor members urged continued effort to attack the unemployment problem, also was directed to push the U. S. Department of Labor for a modification of regulations now governing the award of emergency defense contracts.

In this, the committee had the situation of Charles City, one of the state's hard hit communities in mind. Present emergency defense contract award rules disqualify Charles City because its total population is too small and its surplus labor under 15,000.

'Mood of Revolt'

Supporters, Foes Await Fate Of St. Lawrence Seaway Bill

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — Senate approval of the United States partnership with Canada in construction of the St. Lawrence seaway by a vote of 51 to 33, after re-buffing legislation on the measure for more than 20 years, has focused attention of seaway friends and foes alike on what fate awaits the measure in the house.

Predictions are that it will be approved after a hard fight in which seaway foes pull out all the legislator-blocking tricks in the bag.

Cabinet Favors Proposal

In the United States my principal security advisers, comprising the National Security Council, favor the undertaking for national defense reasons. The cabinet favors it on both security and economic grounds. A committee of the U.S. senate has approved a measure authorizing it.

President Proposed Seaway

The St. Lawrence seaway was the first of President Eisenhower's current proposals to be thrown into the arena of senate debate. In his State of the Union message the President had stressed in these words his support of the seaway to increase the security and economic strength of this nation:

"Some of our vital heavy materials come increasingly from Canada," asserted the President. "Indeed, our relations with Canada, happily always close, involve more and more the unbreakable ties of strategic inter-dependence. Both nations now need the St. Lawrence seaway for security as well as for economic reasons. I urge the congress promptly to approve our participation in its construction."

Supporters of the seaway were encouraged early in the debate when Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), came in strongly in favor of the seaway — the first Massachusetts member of congress to do so in seven tests over a period of 20 years.

Let's Jail Our Drunk Drivers

(Ottumwa Daily Courier Editorial)

A modern automobile speeding down a narrow Iowa highway is a dangerous device these days, even in the hands of a prudent, sober driver.

In the hands of a drunk, it's a menace to life and limb! Cemeteries and hospitals are filled with the sad evidence. It's high time that radical measures are taken to discourage the intoxicated driver from getting behind a steering wheel!

The real promise of a jail term, though brief, would seem to be the only way.

6-Student Forum Discusses Leisure For Young People

DES MOINES—A panel of six high school and college students gave their elders during a forum here Tuesday some views about leisure time for young people after school hours.

The students provided the program for the February meeting of the Iowa Council for Better Education.

The group was divided on whether high schools should help look after the leisure time of pupils after school hours and on weekends but it was pretty well agreed that parents should assume more responsibility.

Other points brought out in the discussion were:

More parents of high school youths should attend PTA meetings. Parents should plan such things as open house parties after football games.

The relationship between teachers and pupils outside of school should be "friendly but not too friendly." All teachers should command respect. They ought not to have "pets" among their pupils.

Jim Joy, Perry high school senior was moderator of the program. Others who took part were Tom Hoerner of Central City, Iowa State college freshman; Mary Rasmussen, Des Moines East high school senior; Ivan Lydon, Stuart high school junior; Eugene Van Pelt of Corning, Iowa State senior and Gwen Groomes of Menlo, Simpson college freshman.

Dozens Undetected

Last year in Wapello county 85 drivers were arrested and 72 convicted, either through pleas of guilty, or by trial. A dozen more were arrested in January. And you may be sure, where one was arrested, dozens who were dangerous drivers because of liquor went undetected.

Every county in the state has a district court that has the power to hand out the kind of punishment that will deter drunk driving, and not just meet the requirements of the law.

Today in the second judicial district of Iowa, which embraces Wapello and six other counties, judges are giving the OMVI defendant the minimum punishment under the law. He loses his license for 60 days, and pays a $300 fine. That's just wrist slapping.

The judges of our district are not exceptions. They are handing down about the same penalties as are ordered by the courts elsewhere in the state.

52d Military Ball To Be Held Feb. 19; Verne Byers To Play

The 52d annual Military Ball, presented by the SUI Reserve Officers Training Corps, will be held Feb. 19 in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Verne Byers and his orchestra will play for the ball from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The orchestra is from Denver, Colo., according to the dance band committee.

Attendance will be limited to ROTC students. Since only 400 tickets are available, they will be allocated to advanced corps students and the remainder to basic students.

The Military Ball has the distinction of being the oldest traditional party on the SUI campus. This year's ball observes its 52d anniversary, but its history dates back to 1895 when 80 couples attended a party sponsored by the military department.

The tickets for the first ball sold for $1, and the ball committee consisted of the commandant, cadet captains and a few others.

The Vidette-Reporter, predecessor to The Daily Iowan, described the 1895 dance as a huge success and "a thing for the future." The paper mentioned that the ball-room was elaborately decorated and the dance lasted until midnight.

The parties were discontinued at the time of the Spanish-American war, but were revived in 1902.

Gov. and Mrs. A. B. Cummins and the governor's staff attended the revival ball in Smith armory. The dance was reported to have broken attendance records for university parties when 93 couples attended.

In 1903 the ball was made a benefit dance for the athletic union, the price being advanced to $3. Tickets remained at that price until World War I with the exception of 1908 when the dance was informal.

The music of the ball in 1905, played by the university band, included the two-step and waltzes.

The Iowa Journal of History and Politics in 1923 said "The Military Ball was the first to extensively decorate the university armory and the first to introduce leather, celluloid and metal programs and has been the best decorated formal of any of the big university parties.

For many years it was the custom for the ROTC members to wear the dress uniform of their rank. In 1938 The Daily Iowan society editor described the ball as a "style show for men" because of the bright red, white and blue combinations of the military students' uniforms.

It was traditional before World War II for the male Scottish Highlanders to entertain at the ball.

In 1942 the "biggest social function of the year" was the reason many military students waited at the ticket window from 11 p.m. to 8 the next morning to be the first in line for Military Ball general ticket sales.

The Military Ball was the first dance to be held in the first unit of the Iowa Memorial Union in 1926. In 1952 the ball changed to a cabaret style.

Highlight of this year's ball, as in past years, will be the presentation of the honorary cadet colonel and her attendants.

Demos To Honor New President At Des Moines

Plans for a dinner to be held in Des Moines Saturday honoring the new national Young Democrats' president, Neil Smith, will be discussed at a SUI Young Democrats meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in room 121A Schaeffer hall.

The Young Democratic clubs of Iowa are sponsoring the victory dinner at which Gov. C. Mennen Williams of Michigan will be the principal speaker. It will be held in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Fort Des Moines at 6:30 p.m.

Other business to be taken up at the meeting includes formation of new committees for this semester and the welcoming of new members into the club. Any student interested in joining the group may register at the meeting.

Local Man Held On Larceny Count

An Iowa City man, Richard F. Stalkfleet, 22, of R.R. 1, waived preliminary hearing Tuesday and was bound over to the grand jury when he appeared in Iowa City police court on a larceny charge.

Stalkfleet was arrested Monday night by Iowa City police and charged with the theft of welding equipment from the Reggie Eckhoff Plumbing and Heating Service at a construction site at the Horace Mann school in December. The value of the items was estimated at $120.

Stalkfleet is being held in Johnson county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Goldovsky To Present 'Piano Portraits' Music Department Plans Program

Boris Goldovsky will present his program of "Piano Portraits" at the Iowa Memorial Union Wednesday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. The concert is under the sponsorship of the University Lecture course.

Goldovsky combines the role of a pianist with that of a commentator; he, therefore, not only plays the music but talks about it.

He made his professional debut with the Berlin Philharmonic in 1921 at the age of 13.

Goldovsky is master of ceremonies on the Metropolitan Opera

News of the Air broadcasts. He produced and directed the first American performance of the Mozart opera "Idemeneo" in 1947 at the Berkshire Festival in Lennox, Mass.

Free tickets for the concert will be available to students, faculty and staff at the information desk of the Union beginning Friday. The remaining tickets will be available to the general public Wednesday.

The SUI department of music will present the sixth in a series of music hours tonight at 8 o'clock station WSUI. Featured on the program will be Miss Betty Bang, instructor in music, flute, and Prof. John Simms of the music department, piano.

Included in the program will be "Sonata for Flute Alone" by Robert Tyndall, instructor in the department of music; "Sonata in B Minor" by Bach and "Sonata" by Pison.

Amvels Plan Jazz Concert

Fred King, A4, Des Moines, local drum and vibre man, will head an all star group in a jazz concert Friday at the Amvels club at 8:30 p.m.

The unit, a six piece troop gathered for the propagation of the fine arts known as jazz music, will present a program that promises to be unique, King said.

And this is why, the leader said, "Contrary to many schools of thought floating around these days, jazz does not consist solely of loud screaming saxophone players. It can be quiet, smooth and subtle without sacrificing any of the emotional and improvisational feelings, associated with jazz, America's only true form of art."

In addition to King, the group also carries the following personnel: John Collins, piano; Rich Mateson, A4, Rock Island, valve trombone; Turk Ratton, A3, Des Moines, tenor and alto sax; Mill Poinsnick, L2, Fort Dodge, tenor sax, and James Clute, A3, Iowa City, bass.

Collins is a physical education major from Chicago, Ill., where he received most of his piano experience. He has had two years of army musical experience.

Mateson is studying music at SUI. He has worked with Serge Chaloff and other members of Woody Herman's orchestra before coming to Iowa.

Ratton, also a music major, has been a regular member of King's Kombo on campus.

Poinsnick gained his musical experience playing with territorial bands in Fort Dodge and Iowa City.

Clute, a music student, is a regular member of the Tri-Cities Symphony and the University Symphony orchestra.

King is in his fourth year as the tympnist with the University Symphony orchestra and is currently working on his M.A. in music.

Hall Overton holds a M.A. degree in music from New York's Juilliard, where he taught in 1952. Currently teaching privately, he is working with jazz musicians who want to study classical theory and analysis.

King plans to present several of the types of jazz at the concert Friday.

A Currier Sweetheart is chosen each year and is presented at the annual Sweetheart dance. Nominations are limited to senior girls and are based on each girl's Currier activities.

Voting for a queen and four attendants will be from noon until 7 p.m. Thursday at Currier. Every resident of Currier may vote.

The queen and her court will be presented during intermission at 9:30 p.m. They will also attend a tea during intermission which will be held for guests and Currier officers.

Paul Perry's orchestra will play at the dance, which will be held in south dining room at Currier Saturday from 8 p.m. to midnight.

Currier residents may obtain their free tickets at south desk. Eastlawn residents, who have also been invited, may obtain their free tickets from Marilyn Coleson, A1, Manchester, Eastlawn social chairman.

Kappa Phi Plans Movie Program

A movie entitled "The Family Next Door" will be shown at a meeting of Kappa Phi, national Methodist college women's club, tonight at 7:30 in the north lounge of Wesley Foundation. The film deals with family relation problems.

The meeting will be a model program to introduce Kappa Phi to interested college women. All women of Methodist preference are invited to attend. Sally Werner, A2, Perry, is in charge of the program, which will include a worship service. Refreshments will be served.

Home Economics Club To Vote on State Head

A state president for the Iowa Home Economics association will be voted on at a meeting of the Home Economics club today at 4:10 p.m. in room 212, Macbride hall.

Marjorie Martin, A4, Hamburg, will present the program, "Passport to Europe," illustrated with slides. The program chairman is Dorothy Borts, A2, Iowa City.

The tea committee includes Betty Miller, A4, Otumwa, chairman; Rita Olesker, A3, Omaha, Neb.; Anne Fisher, A3, Evanston, Ill.; Mary Van Vliet, A2, Otley; Helen Larson, A3, Elk Point, S.D., and Yvonne Waskow, A2, Cedar Rapids.

SUI Research Examines Fear Of Childbirth

When a young wife awaits the birth of her first child, her chief anxieties—if she is worried—are for successful delivery of a healthy baby.

An SUI research study based on hospital records of and interviews with 77 young mothers reports that the largest number—22—said they were "disturbed a great deal" by the fear that the baby would be deformed and 21 by worry that he would be born dead.

On the other hand, 21 of the group expressed "very little or no concern" about possible deformation and 29 admitted to little or no anxiety over a possible still-birth. According to Iowa college of medicine specialists in obstetrics, medical progress has reduced the number of still-births and deaths immediately after birth to less than three per cent of all births, with prematurity being the chief cause of birth mortality. The specialists say that deformed infants number less than two per cent.

Part of Thesis

Anxiety responses in maternity questionnaires were reported by Margaret Shuttleworth as part of her "Investigation of the Relationship Between Certain Psychological Factors and Childbirth." A former Iowa City resident now living in New York, Miss Shuttleworth was awarded a doctor of philosophy degree in the SUI winter commencement exercises.

Using the measuring devices available to the modern clinical psychologist she checked on theories that emotions affect childbirth difficulties. In introducing her study, she observes that some writers—the "natural" birth school of thought in particular—have stressed that much childbirth pain is the result of fear. She says that other writers have emphasized finance problems and the feared loss of the husband's affection as principal worries of prospective mothers.

But according to responses in the study's questionnaires, "Should we have waited for more income?" was "very disturbing" to only one quarter as many mothers as "What will we do if the baby is deformed?" and "Will my baby be born dead?", she reports.

Baby's Sex No Worry

Only two women in Miss Shuttleworth's sample admitted being "very disturbed" about whether their husbands were glad to become fathers and three on the question of whether their men were looking at other women. No mother saw a source of worry in the question "Can I love my baby even if it isn't the sex I wanted?"

Her study also reveals that girls with more education found childbirth more difficult than they had anticipated. Miss Shuttleworth attributes these responses to the facts that better-educated girls are generally more accustomed to successful experiences and many of them have read soothing articles about "natural birth."

But girls of less education who generally have had more difficulties in their previous life and have heard frightening "Old Wives' Tales" about abnormal births often said they were pleasantly surprised that giving birth was "so easy," the SUI research notes.

Complex Factors Involved

Because of the many factors involved in so complex a human experience, Miss Shuttleworth suggests that measuring techniques more sensitive to these factors need to be developed before the relationships between psychological factors and childbirth difficulties can actually be "proved." Miss Shuttleworth expects soon to be a professional counselor in the vocational, educational and emotional problems of young people. Her father, Frank K. Shuttleworth, formerly of Sibley and Iowa City and now of New York City, also received his doctor's degree in clinical psychology from SUI.

Her grandfather, John C. Gates, late resident of Waterloo, was an SUI law graduate. Her two sisters also graduated from SUI and married graduates of the Iowa college of medicine—Dr. Dexter H. Hake, now practicing in Reinbeck and Dr. Richard E. Rust of Cedar Rapids.

Stolen Car Recovered; Police Search for Thief

Police were searching Tuesday for the person or persons who stole a car owned by C. F. Robinson, 308 S. Capitol st., and then drove it into a ditch near the new SUI golf course.

Robinson reported his car missing early Tuesday morning and the missing vehicle was discovered about noon in the ditch.

The car was locked up in his garage at about 6 p.m. Monday night, Robinson said, and he did not notice that it was missing until Tuesday morning.

Commissions Offered by Navy

The office of naval officer procurement, Omaha, Nebr., announced that they are accepting applications from those students interested in the officer candidate program.

Seniors, between the ages of 19 and 26, who are within 6 months of graduation may apply for this program which leads to a commission as ensign in the U. S. naval reserve.

The navy offers commissions in a variety of fields. Most graduating seniors will be eligible for the unrestricted line program,

SUI Dentists Plan Apollonian Frolic

The Associated Students of Dentistry at SUI will sponsor their annual dance, the "Apollonian Frolic," Friday from 9 to 12 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union. Jack Payne and his orchestra will provide music.

Guests of honor at the event will be Dean Emeritus A. W. Bryn and Professors Emeriti A. O. Klaffenbach, E. S. Smith and J. D. Wells.

The Associated Students council consists of three members elected from each class in the SUI college of dentistry. Officers are Samuel Christensen, Ringsted, president; James Johnson, Humboldt, vice-president; and Delmar Albers, Mitchellville, secretary-treasurer. Dr. P. W. Herrick, associate professor in the college, is the group's faculty adviser.

which program prepares officers navy.

Others who have majored in the field of business administration may apply for a commission in the supply corps. The navy also has a few openings in the civil engineer corps for those men who have a baccalaureate degree in civil engineering or electrical engineering.

An early application can be processed in time to notify those selected before they graduate from school, and while they still are entitled to a draft deferment.

The navy also offers commissions to women who are graduating seniors or within 4 months of graduation. These commissions are in two fields, unrestricted line and the supply corps.

The U. S. navy recruiting station and office of naval officer procurement, Omaha, Nebr., will supply information.

Book Sales To Begin At Student Exchange

Used books go on sale this morning at the student book exchange located on the ground floor of Schaeffer hall.

Late Tuesday afternoon, the exchange had received 1,300 books turned in by students for resale.

Rex Jamison, A3, Story City, chairman of the Student Council book exchange committee, said that more books were expected to be turned in today and Thursday while books are being sold.

Jamison said there is still a need for more student volunteer workers at the exchange. Currently, six students are staffing the operation. Volunteers should talk to staff members at the exchange.

Lenka Peterson, Once Student At SUI, Succeeds as Actress

Lenka Peterson, who attended SUI from 1943 to 1945, is gaining success as an actress. Miss Peterson, originally from Omaha, Neb., had the name of Isacson back in her SUI days; when she became an actress she changed it to Peterson to keep it Scandinavian, but make it easier to pronounce. She studied speech and dramatic art here and was a member of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Went to New York
Late in 1945 she went to New York city; Rachel Updegraff, another SUI coed went with her. They arrived in New York soon after World War II. Instead of getting a little job Miss Peterson started visiting television offices with recommendations from her SUI professors. The recommendations were to such high people that they could do her no good. They told her to go home and get married. Instead she got a job guiding visitors around the NBC television studios. She heard of an audition for the part of Corliss in "Kiss and Tell" which was being produced by a USO group. She told them how much experience she had, of which, very little was true. They gave her an audition and she landed the part.

Toured Overseas
The tour took her to Japan, Okinawa, Korea and the Philippines. When she returned to Omaha she had little enthusiasm for returning for her senior year of school. While in Omaha she became engaged to Dan O'Connor, an actor in the community plays, that she had admired from afar. She became engaged in 1946 and was married in 1948. O'Connor is a graduate of Creighton university. They were married while he was living in New York doing television research and working on his M.A. degree at Catholic university in Washington D.C.

Returned to Midwest
They returned to the Midwest for one year while her husband had a job at St. Louis university. They then returned to New York where her husband is currently operations manager of the NBC television studio WNTB. Miss Peterson's first part on Broadway was as an understudy in "Years Ago" which starred Frederic March. That play and all of the others she was in had one thing in common, they flopped. Her big chance came when Elia Kazan invited her to the hand-picked group at the Actors studio. At the Actors studio, 100 professionals, including Cloris Leachman, Des Moines, got training while out of work. Kazan got her first movie part for her. She was called to New Orleans while living in St. Louis to play a small part in "Panic In The Streets." She later went to Hollywood for a part in "Take Care of My Little Girl." She played the part of a gawky girl who was rejected by her sorority sisters. She got a lot of teasing from her own sorority sisters over that part. She is often cast as a plain girl or the sweet little girl next door. She says that she would like to play the part of a street walker.

Will Continue Career
Miss Peterson has no thoughts of giving up her career on Broadway and says that she spends more time with her children than a mother who works five days a week. She is lucky to have a baby sitter who lives nearby and has grandchildren of her own. Her children are Kevin, four and a half, and Brian, one. She says that she doubts if the directors are too interested in her and are probably beginning to say that she's always pregnant. She has two children now and expects another in June.

Youths, Parents To Discuss Problems on SUI TV Show

The need for children as well as parents trying to understand each other's problems will be demonstrated on a television guidance program to be telecast today at 10 a.m. over WOI-TV, Ames. The program, entitled "Understanding Parents," will consist of three dramatic incidents, with a panel discussion following each incident. SUI students appearing on the program, which is one of the current "Guideposts" series being produced at the university, include Jean Ogden, A3, Cedar Rapids and Larry Hauck, G, Pittsburgh, Pa. Appearing in the dramatic part of the program are David Wagner and Louise Moellering of Iowa City high school and Virginia Smayda, Iowa City. The panel includes Mrs. P. L. West and Mrs. G. T. Stack of Iowa City. Bill Voxman and Jerry Stack of Iowa City high school and Sharon West of Iowa City junior high school will also take part in the panel discussion. Mrs.

Alice Kemp, girls' counselor at Iowa City high school, will act as moderator of the panel. Prof. Lewin Goff, of the SUI television teaching division, will direct the program. C. A. Gersen, associate professor of psychology, is the consultant, and Robert Oesterling, Zellenople, Pa., is the student director. Presented each Wednesday over WOI-TV, the "Guideposts" programs are co-sponsored by SUI, Iowa State college, Iowa State Teachers college and the state department of public instruction. The series is produced at SUI by John Ross Winnie, chief of television production.

PROFESSOR TO SPEAK

Residential Building Rise Reported for '53

Although 1953's residential and business building rose above 1952 levels, the total value of the state's construction contracts dropped seven per cent last year over the previous year. Reason for the construction decline was a 17 per cent sag in public and other construction, reports the February issue of the Iowa Business Digest, for business building increased nine per cent and residential construction seven per cent last year. In other year-to-year comparisons the monthly publication of SUI bureau of business and economic research notes that 1953 prices received by Iowa farmers averaged six per cent below 1952 farm prices. But the nation as a whole experienced a 10 per cent farm price drop in 1953. Also Iowa farm prices of December, 1953, were seven per cent higher than in the last month of 1952 and six per cent above those of November, 1953, the Digest points out. In an upward movement which has been in progress for several years, bank debts, or total check transactions, in 11 major Iowa cities topped the 1952 level by 7.3 per cent. And savings deposits in December, 1953, totaled $275 million, higher than that of any previous month, Editor Dick Leabo observes. Leading article of the new issue of the Iowa Business Digest is "Current Outlook" by Lewis E. Wagner, research assistant in the bureau. This article is a contribution of "A Road to Economic Disaster?" which Wagner wrote for the January issue.

Committee Passes Conservation Deductions

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee voted Tuesday to let farmers deduct soil conservation expenses in figuring their income for tax purposes. Iowa Teams Earn Best Winter Record

If there has been a better record in winter sports contests of Iowa teams than that of 1953-54, the archives don't reveal it. Up to Feb. 12, Hawkeye teams have won 24 contests and lost 9 for a percentage of .727. Figuring Big Ten contests only, the record is 15-6 for .714. Basketball, gymnastics and wrestling teams are the big winners. On the court, the basketball men have won 13 of 16 and their record now places them second in the Big Ten race. Iowa's gymnastics team has 6-1, including four wins over conference teams, and Hawkeyes have 23-won 23 of their last 29 dual meets. The young wrestlers have won three of four and their only loss was a one-pointer to Michigan State. An even break in two meets is the record of the swimmers and the fencing team has 1-3. Track is the only sport which has yet to start its season, for the first meet is here Saturday afternoon with Wisconsin. Hawkeyes have won 10 straight contests and have taken 13 of the last 15. Last defeat was the swimming loss to Michigan State Jan. 23.

Coaches Irk Cage Mentor Russian Tracksters May Visit America

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Ken Loeffler, coach of LaSalle college's highly successful basketball team, says the trouble with basketball is the coaches not the rules. He took issue Tuesday with Yale's Howard Hobson, who recommends certain rule changes to stimulate fan interest and stop an alarming decrease in college basketball attendance. "Let the rules alone. The game already is over-legislated," Loeffler asserted. "The trouble with basketball today is the way it's taught. The teams reflect the personality of their coaches. There are 100 different ways to play the game, from Oklahoma A & M's possession brand to the 'firehouse' of Rhode Island state."

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia is interested in sending a track team to America this spring and have U.S. athletes visit the Soviet Union, a high government official said Tuesday. Dmitry Pasnikov, deputy minister of health and chief of the Central Board of Physical Culture, said in an interview that this is all part of an extended program of international competition being arranged for Soviet teams this year. In New York, Dan Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union, said he had conferred with a representative of the Russian embassy in Washington over the prospects of a Soviet team visit and had received a favorable re-firehouse' of Rhode Island state."

They Can't Stop This Clock

(Daily Iowan Photos by Dick Fitzhke) A CLOCK ALL HIS OWN was presented to Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski Feb. 4 by the Detroit Times Downtown Quarterback club signifying his selection as their "coach of the year." Here, Evy admires the combination clock and fountain pen set in his field house office. Johnny Lattner of Notre Dame was named college "player of the year" at the same dinner.

Star Defends '53 Title—Selvy Still Top Scorer, Despite Bevo's 1,954

By HOWIE GREENWALD A guy named Frank Selvy is breaking a few records down south and creating a sensation along the way. Bevo Francis, of Rio Grande, of course, is going him five or six hundred points better, but not the way the NCAA sees it. That austere group last year refused to recognize Bevo's 1,954 points in 39 games for an average of 50.1 per game. They said Rio Grande played too many junior colleges and gave top honors to Kuss of River Falls State, who dropped in a "paltry" 817 points in 21 games.

The Pressure Is On This year the pressure is on the NCAA to reverse its stand, based mostly on the fact that Rio Grande has played four-year colleges and his scoring has remained consistently high nevertheless. So far the 20-year-old giant has clicked for 929 points in 19 games—an average of 49 per game.

But Furman's Selvy, the odds are, will still sweep the post-season major "top player" awards—probably because the NCAA will never allow a team representing a school with 88 students (that's Rio Grande's enrollment) to be called a major college team. Furman just makes the 1,000 mark.

It's not rumor or word of mouth calling Selvy the greatest scorer in the history of major college basketball. It's an item of record. In fact, his average-points-per-game record is now higher than the average major college team scored in 1938—the year the center jump disappeared from all sections of the country. Selvy's average-per-game through January was 38.7. College teams 16 years ago scored an average of 38.2 points in a game.

Coach Bob Feerick of Santa Clara has said: "I'll tell you right now, Frank Selvy is the best college basketball player in America today." Del Booth of the Associated Press watched him play, and raved: "Selvy is the finest basketball player I have ever seen, any time, any place—the most valuable to a team ever."

So you figure the boy must have something. The records are well enough known by now. He broke five of them in the December All-College tourney at Oklahoma City, set the all-time major college scoring mark last year with 29.5 per game, copped the high point total in a single game with 63, and broke the all-time high for two years of ballplaying. Those are a few of the immediately countable ones.

There are games to go yet this season though, and Selvy looks like a better-than-ever bet to shatter last year's feats. In '53, he ended up with 738 points for 25 games. Right now he's played a dozen games and has pushed the total to almost 450.

There's no trick to the way he does it. He simply swishes the net 45 per cent of the time. He jumps without a giveaway sign on his face, springs high and keeps both hands on the ball till he heaves it up. The ball rarely hits the backboard, and most of the time never touches the rim.

Selvy Is a Modest Star Like Bevo, Selvy is a modest star. Late in December Furman edged Presbyterian college 67-66 with the help of his 38 points. Presbyterian college athletic director Walter Johnson has been around for a good while, but he came away from a handshaking bit with Selvy and told the press: "I have never seen a boy carry such great publicity so humbly. He is genuinely modest, the most modest I've seen."

Come March though, NCAA has a problem on its hands—Selvy or Bevo Francis for major college honors? Ultimately though, the NCAA will probably recant on only one part of the issue. They'll recognize Bevo for small-college honors, but Selvy will still pull down the "major" college glory.

Hawkeye Wrestlers To Meet Powerful Michigan Saturday

The University of Iowa's bristling young wrestling team, which has shown no regard for the form chart, will take on its biggest assignment of the season Saturday when it meets Michigan's defending Big Ten champions at Ann Arbor.

With the first win in history over Illinois at Iowa City behind and the possibility of the best overall season since 1951 ahead of them, the Hawkeyes will attempt to snap another losing streak at Ann Arbor.

Michigan holds four straight wins over the Hawks, with an Iowa team last winning in 1949, 15-9. Since then the Wolves have taken decisive triumphs, 15-9 in 1950, 20-6 in 1951, 18-6 in 1952 and 20-6 in 1953. Since 1922 the two teams have split with four wins each in their sporadic series.

Coach Dave McCuskey's wrestlers will have their work cut out for them on the Michigan-mat as they mark their first trip of the season and they must face a powerful Wolverine squad headed by NCAA and Big Ten champion Norvard (Snip) Nalon of Mason City, Ia., and Dick O'Shaughnessy, Big Ten champ at 177 pounds last season.

Michigan suffered its first loss in 13 dual meets Saturday to Purdue, 15-9, with O'Shaughnessy out of action because of a knee injury.

The Hawks go into the meet with the best Iowa mid-season mark since 1950 when the Iowans posted an identical 3-1 record in the first four meets.

In compiling their impressive record the matmen humbled Wisconsin, 23-3, and Indiana, 20-8, and registered their first home win over Illinois, 19-3. It was only the second Iowa win in 23 meetings, with the Illini holding 20 victories and one meet ended in a tie. The first win came at Champaign a year ago, 17-13.

Grid Contract Should Bind, He Believes

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — "It isn't right," the man said, and he wasn't talking about a lefthanded monkey wrench.

He was speaking of the situation involving Paul Bryant, the Kentucky football coach who asked to be relieved of his contract so he could sign up as coach at Texas A & M. Kentucky naturally was a little sore about the deal, and daggers hung on every word of the statement granting his request.

Should Bind

"What I mean," the man continued, "is that a contract should be binding to both parties. As it is, a coaching contract is a one-sided affair."

"If a school wants to get rid of a coach before the termination of his contract, unless the coach is the good-fellow type and doesn't want to take money without working for it, he can make the school pay his salary for the unexpired term."

"But if a coach wants to quit, the school is helpless. If it holds him to the contract, it's going to have a disgruntled employee who can really gum things up until the school is more than happy to let him go."

Contract Called Silly

Under the circumstances it seems silly for schools to sign a contract at all. They might as well hire their men by the day, just as a longshoreman or itinerant yard man is hired. Then if they want to get rid of them, there is no obligation.

"Schools as a rule don't toss around money for non-working coaches as major league baseball clubs do for non-working managers. If a coach under contract doesn't produce as expected, he usually is permitted to stick it out, although sometimes life is made unpleasant for him."

Officials Supressed

Bryant, from all we have read, is taking a shorter-contract job for no more money, if as much, as he was getting at Kentucky, and the Kentucky officials probably are a little taken aback by such a circumstance.

He is quoted as saying that Kentucky is a basketball school, and that unfortunate publicity involving the conduct of that sport has discouraged boys with a talent for football from enrolling.

Indiana Called One of Best Teams Ever

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Indiana's slick Hoosiers drew a thumping vote from Minnesota coach Ozzie Cowles Tuesday as probably the finest college basketball team in the land and one of the greatest of all time.

Cowles is in the painful position of being an authority on the Hoosiers' destructive talent. His current Minnesota team may be the most gifted in Gopher history, but its title dreams have been wrecked by two losses to Indiana.

'None Better'

"I've seen a lot of basketball teams with class," Cowles said Tuesday after the defending national champions mauled his team 90-77 Monday night, "but I can't recall any one better than Indiana."

Conjecture was rife over the comparative strength of Indiana and Kentucky, the latter rated No. 1 in The Associated Press poll. Indiana is third.

Schlundt 'Unstoppable'

Cowles has lost to them both this season and the Gophers' record would be unblemished save for those defeats. The Gopher coach is reluctant to be drawn into any comparisons, but:

"Who does Kentucky have that can stop Don Schlundt?"

Monday night the 6-10 Schlundt popped in 14 straight free throws and 11 field goals for 36 points that ruined Minnesota's bid for a piece of the Big Ten championship.

Has Poise, Balance

But despite the presence of such a glamorous point producer, Cowles observed, Indiana retains splendid balance and over-all poise.

Individually, Cowles puts the Hoosiers' field general Bob Leonard on the same plane with Schlundt in team value. At various times, he has called Leonard the greatest all-around college player in the country.

Student Trio Wins, Loses In Gloves Tilts

Three Iowa students and three other Iowa City youths have participated in the Golden Gloves tournament in Cedar Rapids.

Lester Binko, E1, Cedar Rapids, entered as a novice lightweight, lost by a TKO Tuesday night in 1:05 of the third round to Jerry Reifenstahl of Vinton. Monday night he won his first match by decision, and took a second bout by a technical knockout.

Jose Cestero, a sophomore pre-medical student from New York city, fought in the 147-pound open and took his first bout Monday night by TKOing Dallas Patten of Cedar Rapids in 1:42 of the third round. He dropped a second match Monday night by decision.

Jay Robertson, A1, Cedar Rapids, in the novice class, lost on a TKO in the third round to Joe Lehman of Worthington.

The other three local boys entered were Jim Peterson, 147 novice, who lost on a TKO; Art Dunlap, 147 novice who dropped a decision; and Dick Brown, 126 novice who lost on a decision, all Monday night.

Twenty-one-year-old Cestero was a Golden Gloves bantamweight champ at Peekskill Military academy in New York in 1945. He fought in several tournaments at George Washington university in Washington, D. C. before transferring to Iowa.

ST. PATRICK'S WINS

St. Patrick's of Iowa City Tuesday night defeated Cosgrove 72-54 in the boy's sectional tournament at Cosgrove.

Hawkeyes Close to Top 10

Iowa's Hawkeyes are within striking distance of the top 10 in the wire services' national ratings.

They missed the Associated Press top 20 by a shade this week, finishing in 21st slot in the balloting of sports editors and sports directors across the nation.

A single vote more for a top 10 spot would have pushed the Hawks into the top 20.

United Press has put Iowa in a tie with Seattle for 14th place, while the International News Service has ranked the Hawks 17th.

Besides Indiana, Minnesota is the only other Big Ten team ranked. The Gophers, beaten twice by Indiana for a 6-2 conference record, is ranked 12th by AP and 5th by United Press. They beat Iowa 59-55 on Jan. 16.

A win by the Hawks over Minnesota in Saturday's game at Minneapolis could drop the Gophers behind the top 20.

Sigma Chi Edges Past Pikes for Cage Title

After romping to a 19-7 half-time lead, Sigma Chi eked out a 34-30 victory over Pi Kappa Alpha in the north gym at the Iowa field house Tuesday evening to win the social fraternity intramural lightweight basketball crown.

Sigma Chi outshot the Pi Kappa Alpha quintet through the entire first half. The Sig's bounded into a nine point lead before their opponents could collect a point.

Pi Kappa Alpha had trouble cracking the Sig defense during the first two periods and missed a majority of the shots they attempted. Sigma Chi showed a well balanced attack, especially in the initial quarter. Every member of the starting five hit for at least one point during the evening.

The game continued to follow the pattern of the first half for the first moments of the third quarter. About midway through the period, however, Pi Kappa Alpha began to click for a much higher shot percentage. By the end of the quarter they had narrowed the deficit to nine points. In the final period, both teams switched to roughhouse tactics on the floor. Pi Kappa Alpha, using a full court press a good portion of the time, continued to gain ground on the Sigma Chi team, which made most of its points from the free throw line during the quarter. The Pi Kappa Alpha squad pulled to within four points of a tie before the final buzzer sounded.

In other games Tuesday night,

Hillcrest D won the Hillcrest heavyweight crown with a 37-30 victory over Hillcrest B, and Delta Sigma Delta knocked off Alpha Kappa Kappa 40-32 to salt away the heavyweight professional fraternity title.

Delta Sigma Delta and Delta Sigma Pi will meet at 9:30 tonight in the north gym to decide the lightweight professional fraternity competition.

Grand Jury Indictment Sought For Liquor Sales to Convicts

DES MOINES (AP)—New ramifications piled up Tuesday in the case of the liquor-drinking spree of two convicts at the Clive State Prison farm with these developments:

Folk County Attorney Clyde E. Herring announced the grand jury will be asked Wednesday to indict the operators of six "sneak liquor joints" which the convicts visited in Des Moines Sunday, Jan. 31.

Herring said the county had been put to the expense of a grand jury investigation because state officials had not furnished him with the proper information. This brought a prompt retort from R. W. Nebergall, chief of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Arrested, Charged
A 51-year-old Des Moines man, Verlin A. Quail, was arrested at his home on charges of selling liquor to the escapees. He waived to the grand jury.

The State Board of Control brought the guards at the Clive honor farm up to full strength by appointing a new man to replace a former guard who had been discharged for neglect of duty as the result of the escapee. The board also announced it will confer Wednesday with Warden Leroy A. Lainson of the Iowa penitentiary at Ft. Madison on a proposal that the number of guards at Clive be increased. Three are now stationed there. The new man appointed is Bartie Pinker of Des Moines, former guard at the Ft. Madison prison.

Charged With Bootlegging
The arrest of Quail coincided with County Attorney Herring's announcement of a grand jury probe. Quail was apprehended by the Des Moines police vice squad and charged with bootlegging. Municipal Judge Charles S. Cooter fixed his bond at $500.

Quail was accused of supplying part of the liquor bought by the convicts, William Rimmer of Cedar Rapids and Don Baldwin of Des Moines.

Taxi Driver Free On Bond
C. D. Edwards, 40, Des Moines taxi driver whose cab the prisoners used on Jan. 31 is free on $3,500 bond on charges of aiding a felon to escape and soliciting for prostitution.

County Attorney Herring said a statement made by Rimmer and Baldwin to agents of the State Bureau of Investigation had not been made available to his office and added:

"We can't file a county attorney's information against the liquor joints because we are not being allowed to see the state report."

Informed what Herring said Nebergall replied:

"This is the first information I have had that the county attorney's office ever made any request for the convicts' statements."

$2.80 Buys 8-Way Call—Telephone Scores Again

Telephone wires throughout the state buzzed with confusion recently when an SUI graduate and three students attempted an unprecedented eight-way telephone conversation.

The students, Norton Mezvinsky, A4, Ames; Leland Terry, L1, Omaha, Neb.; Milton Brown, L1, Council Bluffs, and Malcolm Falik, a 1932 graduate, decided to call four coeds in Iowa City from telephone booths in the Roosevelt hotel in Cedar Rapids.

Cedar Rapids operators were startled at the request but lacked facilities and were unable to comply. They in turn called Omaha, Neb., where they were told that their facilities would only handle a six way conversation.

Stumped only for the moment, the Omaha operator then forwarded the call to the largest mid-west office, Chicago, Ill.

Chicago operators were also confused with the request and called in the supervisor to discuss the possibility of the call. They agreed that it had never been done before, but were willing to give it a try.

After one hour and thirty minutes the lines were hooked up and the eight way "conference" call proved to be successful.

Operators could be heard laughing from Omaha to Chicago as the conversation proceeded in jumbled confusion.

The total cost of the call, $2.80.

Woman Asks Damages Following Divorce Suit

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Mrs. Madeline Rasmussen of Council Bluffs, who was named in another woman's unsuccessful divorce suit, has filed two damage suits in district court here totaling $75,000.

Mrs. Rasmussen asked $50,000 from Mrs. Barbara Speer and $25,000 from Mrs. Speer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Montgomery.

Mrs. Speer sued her husband, Tom, for divorce, last September naming Mrs. Rasmussen as having been seen in the company of Speer.

PTA at Coralville Sees School Plans

A revised plan which will include a gymnasium as well as four classrooms may be included in the proposed school addition to be voted upon by Coralville residents March 8, the Coralville school board announced Tuesday.

The revised plans were presented at the meeting of the PTA at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Coralville school.

Original plans proposed by architect George L. Horner had an addition to the east of the present building, consisting of four regulation size classrooms plus a large all-purpose room that eventually could be converted into two more classrooms.

GRANTS PERMISSION

DES MOINES (AP)—The city zoning board Tuesday granted the Iowa State Education association permission to use the 42-room Carl Weeks mansion as its state headquarters. The board made the permission subject to numerous limitations, including the requirement that "the entire premises remain intact as a unit."

Supervisors Decline To Join With City in Building Project

The county board of supervisors Tuesday politely declined to join with the city in the proposed construction of a structure to house both city and county offices and departments.

The supervisors said that they felt their courthouse was in good condition and well located, so did not wish to join in such a project.

Mayor Leroy S. Mercer and City Manager Peter F. Roan met with the board. Roan said the city hesitated to go ahead with a new structure only to find the county was making similar plans.

Have 'Good Set-up'

J. E. Pechman told the city officials that the county now possesses a "good set-up." He commented, "If we were in the same fix you are, it would be different." The board said about 5,000 had been spent in remodeling the courthouse recently.

Roan told the supervisors that some time ago, the council hired Henry L. Fisk, an architect to make a survey of city building and the need for space.

Fisk recommended that a new building be constructed and said it would not be economical to remodel the existing facilities.

Points Out Need

The city manager then pointed out the need for additional facilities for the fire department which is now separated into two units. The separation makes an efficient training program difficult, he said.

An advantage of a new city hall at the proposed site, Burlington and Gilbert sts. intersection, would be centralizing of the fire department. The Community building, to which the new structure would be attached, would offer additional training facility space.

Roan said that in the distant future, a civic center might be developed in the block containing the public library and College st. parking lot and on the Community building block.

Candidate Freed On $500 Bond

A candidate for the Republican nomination as congressman from the first district, Elmer R. Meyer, Wayland, is free today on $500 bond after being arrested on a charge of drunken driving Friday.

Meyer was arrested by the highway patrol and taken before justice of the peace in Washington, Ia.

A former professor of history at Ohio's Kent State university, Meyer announced his candidacy in January.
