Muscatine Meets Roosevelt Tonight

Muskies' 68 Tops Abe Lincoln's 62

By GENE INGLE

Muscatine came fast in the second half to put the clamps on a fighting Council Bluffs team 68-62 Friday night in the boys' state basketball tournament semi-finals. The win put the Muskies into the finals tonight and left the Lynx only consolation hopes.

Council Bluffs' control of both boards kept them in front most of the first half.

Ironically, it was the Muskies' control of the boards in the second half that won the game.

The Lynx' Mark Thompson hit his tournament low in the game, only 18 points. The Muskies' Gregg Schroeder, however, hit his tournament high—27.

Got Flying Start

It was Schroeder who put Muscatine off to a flying start with only 15 seconds gone in the game with a jump shot. A half-minute later Bill Cambron hit a shot from the foul circle for the Lynx to tie the game at 2-2.

Schroeder popped through a long set shot and the Muskies led again, 4-2.

Thompson came through with a set shot to tie the game once again, this time at 4-4. Six seconds later, Cambron fouled Don Huff who dropped through the charity toss. Thompson tied it at 5-5 on a free throw.

Puts Team Ahead

More than a minute later, Thompson put his team ahead 6-5, after being fouled by the Muskies' 6-8 center, Norm Perkins.

Thompson next hit a jump and a set shot while Schroeder was hitting a set shot from the side. Thompson's two buckets rocketed the Lynx into the lead 10-7.

Muscatine almost tied it up with a minute left but the Lynx' Dave Goecker sank a free throw and a set shot from the side to give the Lynx a one-point lead at the end of the quarter, 17-16.

Stretched Lead

The boys from Council Bluffs stretched their lead to eight points midway in the second quarter, 28-20, with Thompson and Goecker contributing two baskets and Cambron hit one.

Although Muscatine threw away many passes in the latter part of the second period, they managed to cut the deficit to 29-33 at the end of the half.

The Muskies scored 23 points to the Lynx' 11 in the third quarter for a 52-44 lead and then fought off several late Lynx challenges for the victory.

The Lynx were hurt by four of their starters fouling out. Thompson fouled out early in the fourth quarter as did Dave Goecker. Guards George Berg and Art Grell left the game via the foul route with about one minute left in the game and the score at 68-60.

Sports Staff Receives 18 Wage Hikes

Salary increases for 18 members of the SUI athletic department staff were approved "with some misgivings" by the Iowa State Board of Education Friday in Des Moines, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Several members of the board opposed the pay raises, voicing the opinion that athletic staff salaries were out of line in comparison to salaries of academic staff members.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher explained to the board that athletic salaries have to be viewed in a separate category.

"That is the situation all over the country," he said. "If you want good coaches, you have to pay more than you would for someone in another position."

Brechler Receives $1,000 Increase

He told the board that the increases had been approved by the SUI board of athletics "composed mostly of academic people."

When the final vote was taken, the proposed raises were passed with no dissentions.

The largest increase went to Paul Brechler, SUI's director of athletics. He gets $1,000 a year more for a total of $13,500.

Other Salary Increases

Raises were also approved for:

Frank S. (Bucky) O'Connor, basketball and golf coach, from $9,000 to $9,500; Chalmers Elliott, assistant football and basketball coach, from $8,000 to $8,700; Bob Flora, from $8,200 to $8,700; Francis X. Cretzmeyer, track coach, from $8,400 to $8,750.

Rolland F. Williams, assistant director of athletics, from $8,000 to $8,500; Henry Piro, assistant football coach, from $6,300 to $7,500; Archie Kodros, assistant football coach, from $6,700 to $7,500; Leonard Raffensperger, assistant professor and advisor, from $6,500 to $7,250.

Francis Graham, business manager, from $7,000 to $7,250; David McCuskey, wrestling coach, from $6,200 to $6,600; Doyle Allsup, trainer, from $6,000 to $6,400; Frederick S. Beebee, intramural athletics, from $6,100 to $6,300.

Muscatine defeated Council Bluffs 68-62 Friday night to earn the right to compete for the championship title tonight. A capacity crowd of more than 16,000 witnessed the action. Man Accused of Trying To Sell Minors Liquor

Iowa City detective Harland Sprinkle announced Friday night that charges will be filed early next week against William T. Foster, 49, Chicago, Ill., accused of attempting to sell intoxicating liquor to minors during the basketball tournament.

Police officials received a call Thursday night that an intoxicated man was trying to sell liquor to high school students here for the tournament.

Patrolman Richard Lee was sent to investigate and found Foster in the vicinity of College and Dubuque sts. Lee, who was in plain clothes, approached him and inquired where he could buy some liquor. Foster then offered to sell a bottle of hard liquor to the policeman, Sprinkle reported.

Has Names of Witnesses

The detective stated that he has the names of witnesses who are willing to testify against Foster. Foster, originally charged with being intoxicated on a public street, was sentenced to five days in the county jail by police court Judge Emil G. Trott, Friday morning.

Meanwhile County Attorney William Meardon confirmed Friday afternoon that an investigation is being conducted in Iowa City to determine where teen-age high school students here for the tournament have obtained beer and liquor.

Attorney General Leo Hoegh and R. W. Nebergall, chief of the state bureau of investigation, said in Des Moines Friday that the state would investigate the situation.

Minor Purchases Beer

Authorities have learned that a minor purchased beer at two establishments Tuesday and that beer was present at a party attended by minors in the Jefferson hotel. Meardon withheld the name of the stutent, but indicated that he was a high school student here for the tournament. The names of the places where the beer was bought, one in Iowa City and one in Coralville, is also known.

Meardon stated that there was no definite connection between the beer party in the hotel and the beating of Larry Ehler, Independence high school basketball player.

Arraignment Postponed

In police court Friday morning, arraignment against Robert Bailey, 16-year-old Roosevelt high school student in Des Moines, who is charged with assault with intent to do great bodily injury to Ehler, was postponed. Bailey's case, which is being considered a felony, will be heard in district court Tuesday afternoon.

Dwight Lanmon, the boy's stepfather, told authorities that Bailey would cooperate with any investigation regarding beer that had been obtained by the youth in Iowa City Tuesday afternoon. He was released on $500 bond Wednesday night.

Conduct Called Bad

Police Chief Ed Ruppert commented Friday that the conduct of students at this year's tournament is worse than he's ever seen.

The theft of a stuffed teddy bear, valued at $5, from a local store, was the latest incident. Earlier, a parking meter and pole on which it was mounted were reported missing on N. Clinton st.

$75,000 Estimate For Bowling Alleys Approved by Board

DES MOINES (AP)—The State Board of Education Friday approved plans to provide bowling alleys in the new part of the student union building at the State University of Iowa.

The cost is estimated at $75,000, which will be paid out of union funds.

The board also approved:

The low bid of $67,455, entered by Broune Morse, Muskegon, Mich., for restoration of the university chemistry building, which was severely damaged by fire several months ago. The project now must be authorized by the state legislative interim committee.

Expenditure of $72,000 for alterations at the university quadrangle dormitory kitchen. Dormitory funds will finance the work.

A program of rerouting and reorganizing all utility installations required for the new medical research building authorized by the last legislature. The utility work is to cost $240,000.

McCarthy Charges Stevenson Used Red-Type Attack

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged Friday night that Adlai Stevenson, "spokesman and defense lawyer for the Democrat party used the officially approved and published Communist method of attacking McCarthy and the Republican party."

In a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner meeting of 400 Young Republicans of Milwaukee, the controversial Wisconsin senator said he would "place before the American people an indictment of 20 counts" against the Democrats which he said constituted "criminal stupidity—or at worst, treason."

McCarthy's speech was in answer to one that Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president in 1952, delivered in Miami March 8. In that address Stevenson lashed out at McCarthy and charged that the Republican party was "divided against itself, half McCarthy and half Eisenhower."

Riders Top Panthers In Fast Finish, 54-51

By HOWIE GREENWALD
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Underdog Paullina, as "up" for this game as it could be for any, gave powerful Des Moines Roosevelt its biggest scare of the tournament before bowing from sheer fatigue, 54-51, Friday night to give the Riders a crack at the state title tonight at 7:30 against Muscatine. Paullina, meanwhile, was relegated to a consolation berth against Abe Lincoln in the preliminary game at 6 p.m.

Everybody hit in that first period, as class A Paullina grabbed a quick 2-0 lead and stretched it to 10 points as the Riders fought and lost a desperate battle for control of the ball under the boards.

Eschenbacher Starts Scoring

It looked for a quick moment as if George Eschenbacher would be the game's star as he dropped in a beautiful two-point jump shot to give the Panthers their initial lead. But then the other four men on the court for Paullina hit in turn, and it looked at the end of the first quarter like everybody would star and Des Moines was in for a severe beating.

It was a solid eight minutes of fighting for the ball that first period — in the air and on the court floor. The horn blew with Paullina in possession of the ball and a 17-8 lead.

Pace Is Fastest Yet

The pace—by far the fastest in the tournament so far — couldn't last for the Panthers. Jim McConnell, Bob Hopson, Randy Duncan and Bob Risser flipped in enough successive points for the awakened Riders to bring them within two points of the tiring Panthers, 20-18 with 4½ minutes left in the half.

Then it was basket for basket as Paullina's Melles scored on a long shot and Duncan of Roosevelt jumped one in. McConnell narrowed Paullina's margin to 23-22 with a quick set from the side, but Bill Hatfield added three points in the final 40 seconds while McConnell added a charity to give Paullina a still surprising 26-23 lead at the half.

The halftime break gave Paullina some of its wind back for a while, as they raced back on the court with a six-point surge while Roosevelt could snare only a single two-pointer.

Paullina Halted

With the count 32-25, McConnell of the Riders hit a tip-in, a jump and a side shot for six points while Duncan added two baskets from the floor to snuff the Paullina attack. With less than three minutes to play in the third period, and Paullina still in front by 36-33, the pace got even hotter.

Bob Nixon drove in for Roosevelt with a two-pointer and was fouled by Eschenbacher in the doing. The converted charity tied the score with 1:58 to play in the third period.

A long set by Risser gave Roosevelt the lead for the first time in the game, but Paullina raced downcourt on the very next play to knot it again at 39-39 with a one-handed jump shot by Hatfield. The period ended with Paullina still in front, 41-40.

From that basket on, there wasn't a moment of even near-quiet in the house. With 6:14 left, it had become 45-45.

McConnell clicked on two charities and Roosevelt had the lead again. Ewoldt would have none of it and tied it again with a layup that touched only the net. Then it was Hatfield again for Paullina, moving the Panthers in front 49-47 on a jump shot that moved everyone from their seats.

Scoring Slows Down

Here the scoring slowed down while the speed continued. Hatfield of Paullina fouled Duncan and Duncan hit one of two as the clock ran under three minutes to make it 49-48. McConnell grabbed the ball on the missed charity and laid it up for two points and Roosevelt had a 50-49 lead with 2:42 left to play.

Mitchell then fouled Hopson and Hopson didn't miss. The two free tosses gave Roosevelt a 52-49 bulge which remained just that way until McConnell added his foul shot with 34 seconds left. Ewoldt hit from the side for Paullina with 16 seconds left, but Des Moines had the last shot as Duncan dropped in a charity with four seconds left.

Voxman OK'd As New SUI Music Head

Prof. Himie Voxman, 42, was appointed head of the SUI music department Friday, succeeding Prof. Philip Greeley Clapp, who resigned effective April 1.

The appointment was approved Friday morning by the board of education meeting in Des Moines.

Clapp, who has headed the department since 1919, will continue his teaching duties, but will relinquish his executive capacity.

Voxman has been music professor at SUI since 1951 and has taught since 1936 in the music department. Prior to that he taught in Iowa City high school as woodwind instructor.

CLAPP VOXMAN

Born at Centerville, he was graduated from high school there in 1929. He received a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering from SUI in 1938 and an M.A. degree in music from SUI in 1934.

Voxman's major fields of interest are woodwinds and music education. He is the author of 30 methods for wind instruments, and has edited and arranged 100 solos and ensembles.

Concerning Voxman's appointment, Dean Dewey B. Stuit of the SUI college of liberal arts commented Friday. "Having made a nationwide search, we consider ourselves fortunate indeed to have a man of Professor Voxman's abilities here on our own campus and available to succeed Dr. Clapp, who has devoted extraordinary vision and imagination throughout many years in developing the study of music at Iowa."

Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the school of fine arts commented: "Dr. Philip Greeley Clapp, who has been head of the department of music at SUI since 1919, is internationally distinguished as an educator, composer and conductor. He has been creatively and administratively responsible for the development of a work in music education at SUI, pioneering in many of its aspects, which has exercised great influence upon, and has given direction to, the organization and administration of music education in universities and colleges throughout the United States and abroad."

"Prof. Himie Voxman, who by unanimous request of the faculty of the department of music has been nominated and elected to succeed Dr. Clapp, has been chosen after careful and long-continued consideration of nominations, recommendations and applications from every part of the country. He has won distinction in the field of music. In addition, he is a high-ranking graduate of the college of engineering of the State University of Iowa. His election has met with enthusiastic approval on the part of faculty members, university alumni and music educators in colleges, universities and high schools generally."

An article by Voxman, "Harmonic Structure of the Clarinet Tone" appeared in the Journal of Musicology.

Voxman has been chairman of the executive committee of the SUI music department for the past four years.

Clapp, who lives at 430 S. Summit st., has achieved note as a composer and educator.

Committee Votes Athletic Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate finance committee voted Friday to scrap the federal tax on all regular season college athletic events. The tax is now 20 per cent. A bill passed by the house earlier this week would cut the levy to 10 per cent, but the senate committee voted to end the tax altogether. The senate committee voted some relief, too, for high school sports. All sporting events where the admission is less than 60 cents would require no tax under the committee version of the bill.

Drivers Park in Illegal Areas

Why is there a parking problem at SUI?

According to R. J. Phillips, SUI physical plant superintendent, the main trouble is to be found with persons parking in prohibited areas, rather than with improper parking in the mechanical sense.

Worst offenders are those persons who block driveways or park in front of yellow lines, fire hydrants, or in fire lanes, even though often for only a short period of time.

Unauthorized students, faculty, and other SUI personnel are still guilty of parking in the several reserved zones around the campus, but this problem is minor compared to a few years ago.

Irving Stoner, SUI policeman who patrols the campus on a motorcycle, said that since they started handing out tickets, rather than just warning tickets, about three years ago, the latter problem has diminished steadily. Where the campus police at one time handed out 35 to 40 tickets a day, they now give out only about five or six.

Even though he doesn't have anything to do with city parking, except where it is in the SUI area, Stoner still writes more city tickets now than he does state (SUI) tickets. Streets, driveways, alleys and fire lanes are included in the city area.

Wrong angle parking and the taking up of two spaces by parallel parking are only minor aspects of the problem.

DULLES GIVES OPINION

WASHINGTON(AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the senate foreign relations committee that the President should consult congress before retaliating for an attack on a North Atlantic treaty nation, unless the President thought the U.S. would be hit next. This qualified the secretary's previous statement that the President would have the right to order instant retaliation without congressional approval.

(Daily Iowan Photo)

JUTTING INTO THE STREET at a bad angle and partially blocking a driveway, the car on the right illustrates one of the factors which constitute a parking problem at SUI. A big headache to the campus people are the many people, faculty and students alike, who park in the several reserved zones on the campus, closed to them. The surplus of out of town cars here for the state basketball tournament heightens this problem.

Plans Announced For Summer School, Fine Arts Festival

The 55th SUI summer session and its cultural accompaniment, the 16th annual Festival of Fine Arts, will extend from June 15 to Aug. 11, registrar Ted McCarrel has announced.

Noting that 63 per cent of the 1953 summer enrollment was in the graduate college, McCarrel stresses the opportunities for mature students to complete work equivalent to one-half a regular semester toward their advanced degrees.

In addition to a continuous flow through some 700 courses of the same kind and quality of offerings as those of the fall and spring semesters, programs of special interest to teachers will be the new eight-weeks economic education program, two-weeks workshops for music teachers and speech correctionists, and programs in community geography, mental health, industrial management, and drama instruction.

Workshops and conferences of shorter length will deal with high school publications, junior college problems, librarianship, audiology and other special fields. Plans are being considered for a field course in Iowa Indian archaeology and workshops in teacher education, public relations, and guidance and counseling.

Catalogues will be available approximately Apr. 10, and a bulletin "Summer Living at Iowa" can now be obtained from the registrar's office. Summer session director is Dean E. T. Peterson of the SUI college of education.

New students who are not candidates for degrees may apply for admission by presenting a letter of good standing from the college last attended. Others apply on forms of the SUI college they wish to enter, the registrar explains.

Course To Be Given On Water Works

The basic science of water treatment and the problems of water quality control will be discussed at the three-day water works short course given at SUI beginning April 5. The course is sponsored by the Iowa state department of health and the Iowa section of the American Water Works association.

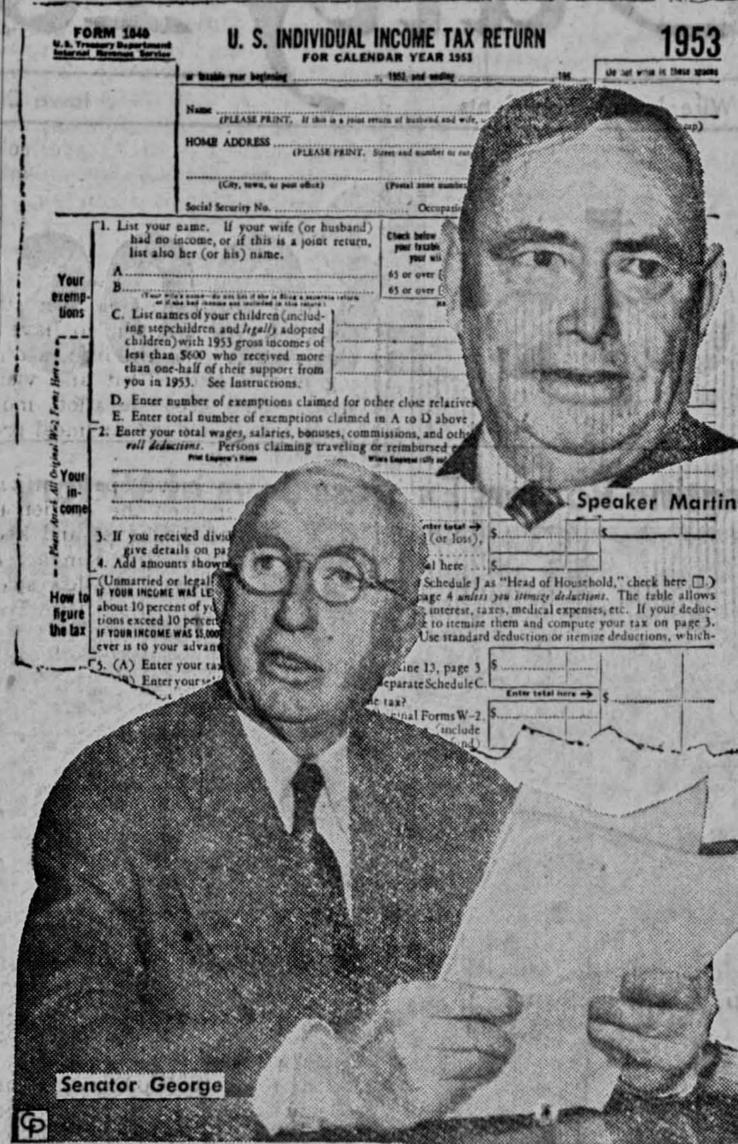
Speakers include faculty members from the SUI colleges of engineering and medicine, the State Hygienic laboratory and specialists from outside the university.

The lectures will be held in the Iowa Center for Continuation Study and the Medical Laboratory building. Since the first part of the course will consist of laboratory demonstrations, it will be limited to 30 registrants, but registration for the last two days will be unlimited.

Reservations for rooms at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study may be made when applying for registation.

The program will conclude with a demonstration and discussion of water conditioning devices which have recently appeared on the market.

Individual Hopes To Score From Income Tax Reduction



HOUSE SPEAKER JOSEPH MARTIN is backing a proposal to reduce a wide range of consumer taxes to 10 per cent. The levies now vary from 11 to 25 per cent. Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.) is proposing a $200 exemption boost.

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON — Get set for new tax cuts. They're apparently on the way.

They may range from $3,200,000,000 to $7,020,000,000 a year.

Greatest beneficiary will be the individual taxpayer, so often overlooked in non-election year tax bills.

But this is an election year and an important one, and indications are now that congress will override President Eisenhower's wishes.

The President favors a modest tax cut, approximately $1,500,000,000 a year, now being worked out by the house ways and means committee, but congress is looking beyond that.

Possible Reductions

Here is the way tax reductions may shape up:

1. Personal exemptions. An increase of $100 per individual is likely at an annual tax saving of approximately $2,250,000,000. Present exemption is $600. If congress boosts it to $800, then the saving would be about $4,600,000,000.

2. Excise (consumer) taxes. A slash of around $950,000,000 a year seems probable.

3. General tax revision. Cut of $1,500,000,000 already has been approved by the ways and means committee, largely of benefit to corporations and investors.

Powerful support is lined up in congress behind proposals to cut consumer taxes and increase personal exemptions, despite administration opposition.

House Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr. (R-Mass.), threw his weight behind a proposal to reduce a wide range of consumer taxes to 10 per cent. The levies now vary from 11 to 25 per cent.

Commodities Named

Under the proposal, the 11-25 per cent rates now in effect would be reduced to 10 per cent on the following commodities:

Handbags, cosmetics, furs, luggage, electric bulbs, jewelry, movie and theatrical admissions, telephone and telegraph rates, and bus, train and airplane tickets.

Present excise rates on liquor, tobacco, gasoline and automobiles, now below 10 per cent, would continue beyond April 1, when they would otherwise automatically go down. Existing corporation income rates, also scheduled for reduction April 1, likewise would be extended.

President Eisenhower asked congress to extend present excise and corporation income rates beyond April 1, but the feeling among both Republicans and Democrats is that this is not practical in an election year without some offsetting reductions.

The proposal to boost personal exemptions has been gathering steam all year. Most Democrats are for it and an increasing number of Republicans are falling in to line.

Children Included

Even a $100 boost would mean a real saving for most families, since it applies to each individual, including children. A $200 rise would mean still more. These, for example, would be some savings if the present $600 exemption were increased to $800: a single person with $5,000 income, $34; a married couple with two children and a $5,000 income, $160; a single person wih $10,000 income, $68; a married couple with two children and a $10,000 income, $176.

A $200 exemptions boost has been proposed by Senator Walter F. George (D-Ga.), dean of the senate. George is the top-ranking Democrat on the senate finance committee and wields great influence among colleagues on both sides of the aisle in tax matters.

With senate Democrats holding a majority of one over the Republicans and only three fewer in the house, Republicans would find themselves on the spot politically if they permitted their opponents to carry the ball on such a popular issue.

3 Youths Room in Jail

IOWA CITY POLICE played host to three Des Moines youths attending the state tournament who requested permission to spend Thursday night in the city jail after they were thown out of their hotel near the SUI campus. The boys, aged 14 to 17, attempt to make themselves as comfortable as possible in the springless cots. Police estimated that at least four or five boys have been staying in the cells each night at their own request since the tournament began Tuesday.

It was a foregone conclusion that an anti-Communist campaign would be one of the first acts of Italy's new Premier Scelba.

Scelba has been a foremost Communist fighter ever since the war.

There is grave doubt, however, that purely repressive measures will do the job.

As time goes on, and one Italian government after another fails to remove the fundamental unrest on which Communism feeds the party continues to attract support from non-members. It gets the protest vote.

Italian Problem

Musolini tried to solve the problem of Italian overpopulation through colonialism, which got him into fatal trouble. Democratic regimes since the war have tried bootstrap operations with American aid. Progress has been made, but it is insufficient.

An attempt to carry out a land reform program in the south has moved very slowly. In the north, Communists have almost completely taken over one industrial center after another.

Corruption among the aristocracy has aided them.

Many business men and industrialists consider it a reflection on their smartness to be caught paying inequalities aid the Communists too.

Reds Appeal

One of the chief Red appeals to public sentiment lies in the fact that they led the wartime Partisan movement, that they were fighting for Italy when others were not. They blotted out Mussolini.

A few years after the war they were about ready to take control of Italy. They had cached their wartime arms. American intelligence agents were reporting that they could act successfully any day.

1948 Elections

American aid and an allied promise to return Trieste turned the tide in the 1948 elections. The Communists began to go downhill. In the last year they have begun to come back. Some observers estimate they are now in position again for a coup. Others disagree. However, although they have been frozen out of the government, revelations that they have been using government facilities, such as office space and a printing plant, suggest they have infiltrated heavily at some points.

Scelba is out to stop this infiltration and to strike at one of the chief sources of Communist income — businesses which pay a tithe to the party for helping them trade with the Russian sphere.

Orchesis Program To Feature Dances, Music by Students

Original dances and music will be featured in the Orchesis dance recital Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27 at 8 p.m. in Macbride hall auditorium.

The program will revive a tradition of dance recitals planned by the group for the general public and especially for those interested in the fine arts of the dance, music and drama.

Music for some of the dances was composed by students in the music department. The choreography was worked out by Orchesis members, under the direction of Miss Jean Minnis Smith, instructor in physical education for women, and faculty advisor for Orchesis.

Instrumental ensembles composed of faculty members and students from the department of music will play some of the original compositions for the dances. Records and piano music will be used for the other numbers.

Orchesis is a co-educational dance group, and is a part of the Women's Recreation association. Joan Schuman, A2, Waterloo, president of Orchesis, is student director of the recital. Costumes have been made by the students.

She took post graduate work at SUI, where she was affiliated with Delta Zeta social sorority. Her father is director of the bureau of business and economic research.

Professor Gives Tips On Kitchen Designs

Are you still hoping to get Dad started remodeling that old kitchen, or planning a new one, before spring? If so, you might take some tips from SUI home management students, who have completed a study of how to plan a kitchen to fit individual needs.

First, decide what purposes your kitchen will serve, Prof. Sybil Woodruff, head of the department of home economics, tells her students. If you want it to have a play area for the children, a dining corner and a "sit and visit" spot, you'll need to allot more space than you'd use for meal preparation only.

You can achieve space in two ways—either open the kitchen up to the rest of the house and keep the kitchen area itself compact, or enlarge the kitchen to allow space for these areas in the room. Both plans are popular today, with the large, homey kitchen reminiscent of our grandparents' time vieing for honors with the kitchen alcove separated from dining-living area only by a counter or other semi-partition.

Helps Decide Decoration

This first decision will help determine the decorative scheme for your kitchen, too. If it is to be open to the rest of the house, its color scheme and appearance in general must blend with other rooms.

And you will want to do away with any suggestion of the "cooking laboratory" look, perhaps by using wood for walls and cabinets. Remember, though, that wood paneling calls for plenty of windows so natural light can offset the light-absorption tendency of natural wood finishes.

"The 'open' kitchen encourages family and guests to take an interest in food served, whether they help prepare it or not. This type of kitchen is practical now, Miss Woodruff explains, because most of yesterday's dirt, heat and cooking odors have vanished with modern kitchen ventilation, food processing and improvements in appliances.

Advantages Told

But if you like to get away from the rest of the family while you work, you will want a kitchen shut off from living areas. If you make it a room to itself, its decorative scheme won't need to blend with adjoining rooms.

After you have decided which type of kitchen you want, the next step, the university students found, is the placing of major appliances —the sink, refrigerator, and range —in the kitchen work area. These appliances can be arranged in five basic patterns — in the shape of the letters U or L, as individual centers, on both sides of a "corridor", or along one wall, the last-named being sometimes called the "pullman" kitchen. In the U arrangement, the sink is usually located at the "bottom" of the U.

The large university foods laboratory was fitted recently with five kitchen units. Besides one U-shaped kitchen, the laboratory contains two L arrangements, one double L kitchen and a broken U arrangement. All are home-size kitchens, giving students practical experience with appliance arrangements found in homes being built today.

U-Shape Preferred

Most students and instructors who use the laboratory prefer the U kitchen, as they find it seems most compact and convenient. Corridor and pullman types were not built in the foods laboratory, as space available did not lend itself to these arrangements.

Keep these rules in mind in placing your sink, refrigerator and range: the work triangle formed by traffic through the kitchen. Appliances in this work area should be close enough together to cut out all unnecessary steps, yet far enough apart to allow you room to stoop comfortably and open oven and cabinet doors without feeling cramped.

Be sure the space you allow for your three major kitchen centers is large enough to hold standard appliances. Odd sizes are sometimes hard to find, usually are more expensive and probably will not be large enough to accommodate a family's needs, Miss Woodruff says.

Storage Space Used

With arrangement of sink, range and refrigerator decided, your next job will be to fill in space between and above these appliances with base-cabinet storage space.

One characteristic of today's kitchen is the continual horizontal line around the work area by the counter tops of base cabinets, sink and range. Every available inch should be filled with carefully planned storage areas. In addition to being handy to use, this continuous line of counter tops gives unity to the kitchen, makes it pleasing to look at.

You can choose from stainless steel, enameled steel or wood for your cabinets. Stainless steel, the most expensive, is really more durable than the average family needs. Today's enameled steel cabinets have a plastic enamel coating that doesn't chip or break and so is very satisfactory, the SUI students concluded. These are manufactured in a number of styles and colors.

Program To Introduce Women's Groups Officers

Newly elected officers of university women's groups will be honored at the Recognition day program Thursday at 4:10 p.m. in the River room of the Iowa Memorial Union. The program is sponsored annually by the University Women's association.

Dormitory officers and the presidents of social sororities will be introduced. Women elected to Union Board and those who have been elected senior class officers will be presented. Also included will be UWA officers and orientation leaders for next year, new officers of Women's Recreation association, and Home Economics club.

A $50 bond, the Adelaid L. Burge award, will be presented to a sophomore or junior woman on the basis of scholarship, leadership and service. The award is given in memory of Mrs. Burge who was formerly dean of women at SUI. Miss Katherine LaShek, sister of Mrs. Burge, will make the presentation.

Four scholarship awards which are $25 bonds will be persented by UWA to the woman in the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior class who has the highest cumulative grade point. The award may not be received more than one time.

Home Ec Group Plans Elections

Election of officers for the Home Economics club will be held Tuesday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in room 117 Macbride hall.

Candidates for offices are Marydale Merrill, A2, Ida Grove, and Helen Richmann, A3, Marion, president; Jane Gage, A2, Cedar Rapids, and, Betty Kunik, A2 Washington, secretary; Eleanor Fleming, A3, Whittemore, and Joan Cook, A4, Boone, treasurer; Beverly Bauer, A2, Des Moines, and Sherlene Rabus, A3, Cedar Rapids, publicity chairman. ROOSEVELT PLAYER Bob Risser (22), who Friday night scored five points against Paullina as his team sneaked by 54-51, here is shown during the Albia game after a rough play knocked the wind out of him. That's Arnold Bumtrock, Iowa's assistant athletic trainer, administering the aid.

6 Of 8 Coaches Pick Muscatine For Crown

By HOWIE GREENWALD
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

If the sweet sixteen coaches have their say about it, it'll be Muscatine all the way tonight to take the 1954 boys' state basketball crown.

It was an informal poll, but of the eight who ventured an opinion Friday night, six gave the Muskies a slight edge in the title quest. The other two stuck solidly with Roosevelt.

Foreman Picks Muskies

Hull coach Les Foreman gave the nod to Muscatine for a single reason—rebound control. "Norm Perkins will get up high in the air after that ball," he said, "and that will be the factor. But that's the only reason I'd give it to Muscatine. You can't tell much in this kind of tournament."

Paul Bruns of Carroll went along solidly with Foreman in picking Muscatine, but he figured that Paullina would be the foe and not Roosevelt. "I pick Paullina because I think they have a little more gas left yet than Des Moines. There really isn't too much height difference, and though it'll probably be close, if Paullina plays like it did the first night (against Independence), they'll take the game. "It was an almost perfect guess. Paullina almost turned the trick.

"In the finals, though," he added, "it'll be Muscatine."

Rashke Goes with Muskies

Clinton's Ed Rashke went along with Foreman's selections, giving the nod to Roosevelt and Muscatine last night, then picking Muscatine for the title tonight. "It's that Muscatine rebounding," he figured. "Perkins isn't very fancy, but his 6-8 gets the job done under the boards. And that's what counts. Schroeder is a better ballplayer than he's shown yet in this tournament, and he just might bust loose."

Independence coach Fred Deines pondered a long time before he gave Muscatine the edge. He had picked Roosevelt and the Muskies last night, and finally chose Muscatine to take the crown with Perkins' size controlling the boards and the ball.

'Hard To Pick Them'

"It's hard to say from night to night who will win a ballgame," Deines countered, "but that Schroeder is a sharp shooter, and that blond-haired kid (Ron Havemann, who hit 10 against East) is real accurate from the outside."

COMITO

Slater Ray (Pat) Patterson picked Muskie and Des Moines also, and went along with the majority in naming Muscatine as the champion. "Whoever wins, though, will have to fight hard tonight," he assured. "But when you have two boys like Muskies' Schroeder and Perkins, it's a hard combination to beat."

Jones Respects Muskie Power

Paullina coach Vic Jones was a sad guy after Roosevelt outlasted his boys Friday night, and he didn't feel exactly like picking a winner in tonight's game. Especially since winning coach Al Comito was standing there with a handshake ready. But he did think that "Muscatine has a little more power."

Comito himself wouldn't venture a guess on the game, but he did say that the only way to beat Muscatine was to outscore them. And coach Earl Gantenbein of the Muskies wouldn't say a thing about the game tonight.

The two dissenters in the crew of coaches were Gene Evans of Wales-Lincoln and Bud Bonwell of Albia.

Evans Dissents

Evans chose Roosevelt and Muscatine, like most of the rest, but thinks Roosevelt has the all-around type of ball club that can beat Muscatine. "Des Moines has a nice bunch of rebounders and good shots. Then they've got that little 'extra something.' I think they can do it."

Bonwell chose Roosevelt over Paullina, but liked Council Bluffs over Muscatine. "If Abe Lincoln can keep their boys in—that is, of they don't foul out working their press—they should give Muscattine some trouble. How much trouble? Enough to beat them." That prediction proved wrong.

And Bonwell then chose Des Moines to take care of AL in the finals tonight. "No team in the state can put a press on Roosevelt with Duncan handling that ball."

His slight regard for Muscatine lines him up on Roosevelt's side tonight. Because certainly if he chose AL over Muscatine, and Roosevelt over AL, he think's Des Moines will go all the way.

4 Gave Paullina A Chance

The tough fight Paullina put up Friday night against Des Moines Roosevelt didn't come as any surprise to some of the coaches.

A lot of them recognized that if Paullina had an "on" night, they might grab the title chance away from the Riders.

Four of the coaches who regarded Roosevelt as a good bet to get into the finals made that upset possibility a big "if" — Deines, Foreman, Bonwell and Rashke.

Some of the coaches who wouldn't pick a winner no doubt agreed with Hull's Foreman who felt anything could happen in a high school tournament.

Roosevelt, Muscatine Coaches Tell How They Made It To Finals

Muscatine Mentor Figured Lynx Press Would Backfire

By GENE INGLE
Assistant Sports Editor

Muscatine coach Earl Gantenbein was all smiles after his Muskies knocked off Abe Lincoln Friday night in the semi-finals. But he wasn't excited.

He admitted he was pretty worried in the second quarter when his team was down by eight points, 20-28. But the Muskies came back with 23 points in the third quarter and fought off a last quarter Lynx rally to win, 63-62.

"We didn't change a thing," said Gantenbein, speaking of his team's third-quarter surge. "Everything we already had just started to click."

Explains Strategy

Gantenbein, a 1949 graduate of Dubuque university, explained the strategy employed throughout the game. "We figured their full-court press would backfire on them by getting them to foul out of the game." It did. Four of the Lynx' starters left the game via the foul route.

Their leading scorer, center Mark Thompson, fouled out in the opening seconds of the fourth period, and Dave Goecker, who collected 16 of the 62 points, left the same way only 10 seconds later.

Guards Art Grell and Roger Berg went by the wayside with about a minute left in the game.

Speakng still of his team's third quarter hot flash, the Muscatine coach confessed that "We just began to push the Lynx players who had four fouls on them. We wanted to get Goecker out."

Calls It 'Goofy' Defense

Gantenbein, switching to the Muskies' defensive game, admitted "We had a 'goofy' defense. We had a 6-8 man (Norm Perkins) on a 6-2 man (Mark Thompson). But it worked. I thought our defense took care of itself."

It was discovered before the game that Perkins had two four-inch gashes in the innersoles of his basketball shoes. But it was too late then to do anything about it. And since he wears size 16, it is doubtful whether the Muscatine coach will be able to find a pair here in Iowa City before the final game tonight.

Incidentally, "Perk" lost five pounds during the Muskies' win over the Lynx. He weighed in before the game at 210 but lost five pounds in the three quarters he was on the floor.

Coaches Choose To Play 2 Halves

KANSAS CITY (AP) —The National Association of College Basketball Coaches Friday spent two hours suggesting assorted changes in the one-and-one free throw rule but delayed any action until today.

The only definite action to come out of the day-long session was approval of a proposal to return playing time to two 20-minute halves. This would eliminate the 10-minute quarter system and cut in half the opportunity for stalls, or freezes.

The National Rules committtee, headed by Bruce Drake, University of Oklahoma, will consider the coaches' proposals starting Sunday.

Comito Believes 'Good' Game Is Due For Team, Hopes It Will Be Tonight

by HOWIE GREENWALD
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Coach Al Comito had won a big ball game over Paullina Friday night, but he wasn't a bit lordly about it.

"I told the boys before this one that Paullina was a solid ball club," he said in the locker room, "As a matter of fact, if we played them four times, we'd probably split."

The game tonight with Muscatine was a reason to toss a lot of questions at the happy guy, and he obviously hadn't had the time to think much about it. "My gosh," he answered, "that's a tough one. But our boys will have to play a good game one of these nights."

Didn't Do Their Best

Even in winning, it seemed the feeling all around that the Riders hadn't done their best against Paullina and would have to do a lot better to beat Muscatine.

"We didn't do so good in the first half," Comito observed. The team was behind 17-8 and the quarter and had to fight uphill all the way to pull to a 41-40 deficit at the half.

"How to stop Muscatine?" the coach figured. "You tell me. The only way we can come close is to try to outscore them."

The team seemed to have fired itself up in the second period, but it was in the last half that the Riders really came to life. They had to, or they would have been in the consolation match tonight.

"I just told them at the half," said Comito, "that they'd better start moving that ball to get back in the game. I don't often try to 'coke' 'em up. They usually do their own firing up."

Perkins Big Worry

Perkins, the 6-8 Muskie center, and forward Gregg Schroeder, who always scores too high for the other team's peace of mind, will be the two big thorns in Roosevelt's scoring attack.

"We can never win by outscoring just one man," Comito observed. "We'll have to outscore their whole team. And that Schroeder is a terrific ballplayer.

"You can bet though," Comito promised, "that we'll give those boys a battle. We're going to play them, not fold up and give the ballgame to them."

Muskie Height Dominates

GREGG SCHROEDER (25) Muscatine's star forward is looking for two points in the opening minutes of basketball action at the Iowa field house Friday night. Abe Lincoln players Roger Berg (23) and Art Grell (31) try to break up the play. The Muskies won a berth in the finals by defeating the Lynx 68-62.

Championship Tilt To Match 4 Of Tourney's Top Scorers

by GENE INGLE
Assistant Sports Editor

Tonight's championship game between the Roosevelt Roughriders and the Muscatine Muskies will pit two of the Little Six conference's top scorers against two of the Des Moines City Series leading point-makers.

All-Little Six forward Gregg Schroeder counted for 366 points during the regular season and has hit for 65 in three tournament games. His teammate, 6-8 center Norm Perkins, was close behind him in the regular season with 358 points and so far has hit 46 in the tournament.

Thompson Leads Scoring

Through Friday night's games, Schroeder ranks second only to Council Bluff's center, Mark Thompson, who has scored 76. Perkins ranks seventh with 46.

On the other hand, the Riders are bolstered by 6-1½ senior forward Jim McConnell and 5-11 guard Randy Duncan. McConnell topped the Roosevelt point-makers this past season with 356 points. Duncan hit 355.

In Friday night's game with Paullina, McConnell sank six field goals and five free throws for 17 points while Duncan was getting 16 on five fielders and six charities.

McConnell is the son of former all-state Mason City and Iowa guard, Chuck McConnell.

Muscatine Has Height

Muscatine will have the height advantage when the two teams take the floor at 7:30 tonight. Perkins' six feet eight inches boosts the Muskies starting lineup average to just over 6-2. The tallest team the Riders can put on the floor averages just over 6-1.

Roosevelt is a member of the Des Moines City Series. Formerly, the largest school in the tournament was a member of the Big Six, but dropped out in the late '40's. Other members of the intra-city conference are East, Lincoln, Tech and North.

Muscatine represents the Little Six conference from the southeastern portion of the state. Other members of this conference are Keokuk, Ottumwa, Burlington, Ft. Madison, and Fairfield.

Comito Coaches Riders

The Riders are coached by Al Comito, a 1937 graduate of Iowa State Teachers. He coached at Mount Auburn, Williams, Avoca, and Colfax before coming to the Des Moines school in 1948.

This is Muskie coach Earl Gantenbein's first trip to the state tournament. It's the fifth for he Muskies. Gantenbein was graduated from Dubuque university in 1949, where he lettered in football and basketball.

Muscatine entered the 1954 tournament after wins over Iowa City in the district, 56-40; Burlington in the sub-state, 65-51; and Ottumwa in the sub-state, 77-65.

The Riders got by Dowling of Des Moines, 66-52, in the district: East Des Moines, 55-49; and Marshalltown, 60-49, in the sub-state.

Brechler Talks to Coaches, Preps

PAUL BRECHLER, SUI ATHLETICS DIRECTOR, addresses players and coaches from 12 of the high schools competing in the boys state basketball tournament in Iowa City. More than 200, including Clinton players at far right, attended the Friday noon luncheon as guests of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce at the Jefferson hotel. Brechler was toastmaster at the event which featured short speeches by (far left) Forest Evashevski, SUI head football coach, and Mayor LeRoy S. Mercer, Chalmers Elliot, assistant basketball coach, Harold Schmickley and R. R. Watson of the Iowa High School Athletic association.

Tourney Sidelights Televised

Movies of the high school tournament sidelights in Iowa City were filmed by students in SUI's television news workshop Tuesday and Wednesday for presentation over three Iowa TV stations Thursday night.

In explaining the purpose of the production, Prof. Arthur Barnes, head of the news TV sequence, said, "all the tournament activity is not on the basketball floor, and we felt these other angles had news value."

The films dealt with the many colorful events which took place during tournament week such as the crowds at the hotels and basketball games, crowded restaurants and groups of students wearing their various decorated jackets.

Scenes of the hotel room where Independence center, Larry Ehler was beaten Tuesday night were also filmed.

Pictures of the 1,000 bed sleeping facilities set up in the community building for tournament visitors, and the large buses bringing in teams and fans were also taken.

TV stations which used the films were KCRI-TV and WMT-TV Cedar Rapids and KWWL-TV in Waterloo.

KCRI-TV used about six minutes of the film, WMT-TV, 3½ minutes and KWWL-TV about 9 minutes, Barnes said.

"We filmed a total of about 500 feet," Barnes added.

Police To Discuss Law Enforcement At Sessions Here

Current law enforcement and police administration problems will be discussed at the three-day police command officers school to be held at SUI March 30 to April 1.

Fifty police chiefs and police officials are expected to attend the course sponsored by the institute of public affairs, according to Richard L. Holcomb, chief of the SUI bureau of police science. Lecture sessions will be held in the Iowa center for continuation study.

To Discuss Traffic

Two main topics of discussion will be parking problems and truck regulations concerning speed, noise control, hazardous loads, deliveries in congested areas and truck routing. Thomas R. Stephens, vice-president of Eldon Miller Inc., will take part in this discussion.

Parking problems which will receive special attention are policies in installing collecting and servicing meters, parking time enforcement, restricted zone parking and off-street parking.

Budget Talks Planned

Police administration problems to be discussed include the preparation of police department budgets, the purchase and maintenance of police cars, policies regarding salaries, working conditions and disciplinary action.

In addition to Holcomb, instructors for the course will be director Robert F. Ray of the institute of public affairs and Clayton L. Ringgenberg, research specialist in the institute. Johnson county's record is a part of last year's all state total of 53,158 accidents and a total loss of $23,092,253, which for the third consecutive year showed a decrease in the state's totals.

In 1952, there were 57,625 accidents in Iowa at a total cost of $27,092,253.

Balanced Program of Athletics Stressed by School Leaders

Widespread exploitation of athletically gifted youngsters for gate receipts and neglect of those whose physiques need the benefits of a balanced athletic program most were two major shortcomings of American education outlined Friday to 150 Iowa school leaders at the Iowa Center for Continuation study.

While attending the boys state high school basketball tournament in Iowa City this week, the schoolmen are devoting their pre-game time to problems of making interscholastic competition more educationally valuable to American youth. Friday morning they heard from an Iowa colleague and an Indiana educator who have just led in making nation-wide studies of the strengths and evils of school sports.

"Our greatest weakness in Iowa is that we've brought the advantages of athletics to too few rather than too many," stressed N. D. McCombs, Des Moines superintendent of schools and national chairman of the committee on athletics of the National Education association's educational policies commission.

Praises Sports Programs

Paying tribute to school sports programs as "great democratic equalizers of class distinctions" and builders of fair play values and the ability to accept "defeat without whimpering and victory without gloating," McComb said, "It isn't the sport itself but the spectators' attitudes which create so much abuse of a good thing."

He noted that some communities, looking at athletics mainly as a good show to present to the public, were actually initiating unrealistically large bond issues mainly to build gymnasiums with bigger seating capacities.

Otto Hughes, University of Indiana high school principal and chairman of the activities committee of the North Central educational association, reported results of surveys on midwestern observances and abuses of the National Collegiate Athletic association's "sanity code" to improve recruitment practices.

Under Pressure to Win

Many alumni groups and coaches under pressure to win games are engaging in double talk and double dealing with obviously injurious effects upon young athletes' sense of moral values, Hughes said high school principals had reported to him.

"Regardless of the grades you've made in your preceding work," began one coach's letter to a likely prospect which Hughes read to the Iowa schoolmen.

"Even if the registrar's office has refused you admission we can enroll you through our technical and agricultural program. We have the dean of agriculture's consent," this coach continued in the letter now in the hands of the Huges committee.

Such practices are resulting in many young athletes brazenly entering the offices of college athletics directors and asking, "What am I offered?", he said.

Hughes told one story which he said was a true one of a basket ball coach making an under-the-table offer to a good prospect. The coach didn't see the boy again until he met him on the campus a few weeks after registration. The basketball mentor told the boy he had assumed that his offer had been rejected. The boy's response was that the school's football coach had made him a better offer, Hughes said.

"What happens to the boy who is lured to a college and doesn't make the team or is dropped at the end of the first semester for low scholarship or other reasons?" the Indiana educator asked the Iowa schoolmen to consider. This will be discussed in sessions slated to follow McCombs' and Hughes' keynote speeches opening the two-day meeting.

Hughes pointed out that pressures from alumni and other community citizens often force school administrators to assist scholastically weak athletes to go to college. "It's good publicity for our town," these public-spirited citizens say in urging school leaders to act against their better judgment, Hughes reported.

Recommendations which Hughes said his committee will be making soon include the sending of grade transcripts only to the college registrar, not to coaches and other school officials; granting financial aid on a more equitable basis, including more aid to those in need and less bonus-type payments to star athletes; keeping all the grants in aid in a central repository to be distributed through a responsible committee, and de-emphasizing the athletic recruitment and other sports aspects of "high school days" at neighboring colleges.

"How do teachers of English, history and other subjects feel about all the classes that are missed when students attend state basketball tournaments?" Hughes asked the Iowa schoolmen.

Stand Explained

Opening the two-day conference, keynote speaker McCombs explained the thinking behind last month's publication of "School Athletics," on whose committee the Des Moines schoolman served as vice-chairman as well as reporting the study at the national Atlantic City meeting of the American Association of School Administrators.

Reasons for the study included the widely publicized scandals of gambling on results of intercollegiate games, community pressures on coaches so strong that many athletic mentors were returning to classroom teaching, the widespread exploitation of young boys to cater to adult spectators, and the lack of general literature on the subject available to laymen.

The NEA's athletics committee recommends, McCombs said, that each community begin to study what actual contributions athletics are making to the education of the whole student body.

Would Redirect Athletics

McCombs observed that some press reports of his Atlantic City address suggested that he and the committee were opposed to athletic programs. Insisting that this was not the case, he said the NEA committee was concerned most with redirecting this potential educational force of great power which he said is too often misused for the benefit of the few.

Group sessions this weekend will continue discussion on management of state competition, with Lyle Quinn, Boone, executive secretary of the Iowa high school athletic association making one presentation; crowd control and sportsmanship, chaired by L. H. Thompson, Grundy Center; financing competitive activities, led by C. E. Taylor, Sioux City, and competition on the junior high school level, chaired by D. J. Stout, Burlington.

Reports, recommendations, and resolutions by the four groups will be made early this afternoon following the concluding luncheon in Iowa Memorial Union.

Sports Staff Receives 18 Wage Hikes—

opened Friday when Clifford Strawman, Anamosa, a member of the board, said he wasn't going to vote against recommendations by the SUI board of control of athletics but he thought it was time "the people in our institutions realize that these salaries cannot continue to go up indefinitely.

"They should realize there are prospects of a decrease in the income of the state," added Strawman.

"I wonder what will happen when these salaries will have to be lowered," commented Roy Stevens, Ottumwa, another member of the board. "That time is coming and may come soon."

Hancher Discusses Salaries

The board was concerned that athletic salaries might be out of line with academic salaries because Brechler's salary was considerably higher than the $8,500 voted earlier Friday for Himie Voxman, new head of the SUI music department.

"It is a condition very largely determined by the wide interest shown in athletic contests," Hancher pointed out.

He said that, even with the recommended increases, SUI athletic staff salaries would be, he believed the lowest of any in the Big Ten.

"I would ask the sympathetic consideration of the board because we are doing our level best to deal with this situation properly," added Hancher.

Coaching 'Hazardous Occupation'

Mrs. Willard Archie, Shenandoah, a member of the board, said that coaching is a "hazardous occupation."

"It can be a short-lived one if you lose three games in a row," said Herman Hageman, Waverly, also a member.

"I am sure we could have lower salaries by hiring less competent coaches and winning fewer games," said member V. B. Hamilton, Hampton, who presided at the meeting.

Comparisons Made

Earlier Strawman had noted that, while the SUI athletic staff salaries are paid from athletic department funds and not from state taxes, "they do have to be considered in the light of all salaries at the institution."

Hamilton said that consideration should be given the fact that if less competent coaches produced fewer wins, there would be less revenue from games and the state might have to put some tax money into the department to pay bills.

In Iowa City Friday afternoon, Brechler said, "Since our department is self-sustaining, we expect to get pay raises when times are good. If we were to have bad times, we would expect to take a cut in salary.

Expresses Sentiments

"My feeling is that if we are going to be a member of the Big Ten, let's not confine it to just winning or losing ball games. Let's pay Big Ten salaries too. We don't want to be among the top in salaries, but we would like to be about in the middle."

Brechler pointed out that all repairs for athletic facilities, expansions and salaries are paid from athletic ticket sales.

In the other state schools, Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers college, athletic expenses are paid by state funds because the athletic programs there are not large enough to be self-sustaining, he said.

22 'A' Students Receive Letters Of Commendation

Twenty-two SUI liberal arts students earned straight "A" averages for the first semester of the current school year and have received commendatory letters from Dean Dewey B. Stuit of the college of liberal arts.

Stuit pointed out that such high averages reflect both high scholastic aptitude and willingness to work.

"Whether it be in scholastic work, business or a profession the highest rewards to the men and women who have the necessary aptitude for their jobs and the strength of character and personality to apply themselves to the tasks before them," Stuit said in the congratulatory letters.

Eleven of the students were coeds who were honored at a Mortar Board "Smarty Party" March 13.

Men students who received the letters are:

William Fenton, A4; George Alvin Ojemann, A2; Louis Maher Jr., A2, and Bruce Nolf, A4, all of Iowa City; Jerome Falkner Doss, A2, Leon; James Olney, A3, Olney; James Van Vliet Jr., A3, Otley; Jack Stern, A2, Perry; Jerry Fein, A1, Sioux City; Rex Jamison, A3, Story City; Albert Currier, A3, Annapolis, Md.

Rusty-Colored Dust Hangs in Local Air

Rusty-colored dust filled the atmosphere in Iowa City Friday and caused objects to have a pinkish-gray tinge.

The dust probably comes from the plain states and the southwest. Violent dust storms swept along by high winds hit Colorado and Wyoming Thursday and Friday.

Pilots at the municipal airport reported that the dust extended at least a mile into the air but that it was not heavy enough to hamper commercial flights at the local field.

A brief "mud shower" shortly before noon Friday spattered cars, streaked windows and dirtied faces in Iowa City.

The Des Moines weather bureau estimated that one and one-half million tons of dust from the southwest fell on Iowa last week during a similar storm.

United Air lines officials at the Iowa City airport said the wind velocity Friday morning ranged from periods of almost dead calm to tops of 10 miles per hour.

Former Student To Be Ordained

Former SUI student Francis R. Larew will be ordained as a minister in the Presbyterian church at a service planned for 8 p.m. today at the First Federated church in Oxford.

For the past two years Larew has served as student pastor of the First Bohemian and Moravian Brethen church and the Rogers Grove church, near Ely, while completing his course at McCormich Theological seminary in Chicago.

Participating in the service will be the Rev. Paul Figge of Brooklyn, presiding moderator of the Iowa City Presbytery; the Rev. Jerome J. Leska, Williamsburg; the Rev. P. Hewison Pollock, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Iowa City; and members of the Iowa City Presbytery under whose direction Larew has continued his studies.

AFROTC Exams Slated for Tuesday

The second half of the air force officers qualifying test battery will be given to all Air Science II students who have applied, or plan to apply for Air Science III, at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday in MacBride auditorium, Lt. Col. R. W. Joiner, associate professor of air science and tactics, announced Friday.

The first half of the five test battery was given last week. Joiner said the tests are a prerequisite to acceptance for the advanced program and commissioning.

A make-up for those who missed the first test will be held, but the date has not been set, Joiner said. If a student missed the first half of the tests he should take the second half Tuesday with the rest of his class, Joiner added.

Raccoon Checks Weather Situation

(Daily Iowan Photo)

A RACCOON CHECKS THE weather situation in city park Friday to predict what the weather will be like today as the spring season begins. Spring will officially begin at 9:45 tonight. Prof. W. C. Wylie of the SUI astronomy department said the new season begins the instant the sun passes overhead at the earth's equator as it is moving northward. By the end of June, the sun will give us 15 hours of daylight each day, Wylie said.

Spring To Start Today

Wylie Gives Astronomical Explanation
Students Plan Sunning, Sports

Spring, which officially begins at 9:45 p.m. today, means golf and rainy weather, mud and sunshine, flowers and strong winds, a change to light weight clothing and many other things to SUI students.

Spring actually begins the instant the sun passes overhead at the earth's equator as it is moving northward Prof. C. C. Wylie of the astronomy department said Friday. For one day the sun will be above the horizon 12 hours and below it for 12 hours all over the world.

Warmer weather will come to Iowa City as the sun moves north in relation to the earth and is above our horizon for a longer period of time each day. By the end of June, Wylie said, the sun will give us 15 hours of daylight each day.

Varied Uses Planned

The warmer and longer days will be used by SUI students in various ways.

Some, such as Paul Bruns, A3, Waterloo, plan to play as much golf as possible. Others are looking forward to tennis, canoeing, or bicycling.

Many coeds make acquiring a suntan their spring project. To a few this is only a sideline to their participation in tennis or swimming. The majority, however, prefer to get their tan the easy way, Marilyn Prochaska, A3, Cedar Rapids, is one of these. She's looking forward to sessions with the sun from the roof of the Currier hall dining room.

Wants Coat Change

Jim Foster, A1, Eldora, says he'll breathe a sigh of relief when he can hang his heavy overcoat in the back of his closet.

A change in wardrobe is important to Connie Bishop, N1, Fairfield, too. But Connie says the first thing she thinks of when spring comes is that she'll soon be having a vacation from school.

Most SUI students will agree with the answer Connie gave when she was asked if she was ever a victim of spring fever.

"Oh, definitely!" was her reply.

Handicapped To Get Dental Care at SUI

The State Board of Education approved a plan Friday by which handicapped children can obtain dental treatment by specialists at SUI.

The service, which will be under the direction of Prof. Kenneth E. Wessels, is quite similar to that now given by university dental college staff members to private patients. This service is provided under a limited private practice plan.

The new program carries the plan a step further in providing care at a fee for those handicapped children not attending the school and who have been referred by private dentists to the university.

Albrizio Appointment As Art Professor Approved by Board

One of the six SUI faculty appointments approved by the state board of education in Des Moines Friday, will bring back to the campus a former teacher, Humbert Albrizio.

Albrizio was appointed professor of art effective next September. He taught in SUI's art department from 1942 to 1952 before accepting a position at the University of Wisconsin.

In other board action, Prof. Rhodes Dunlap was appointed research professor in the graduate college for the current semester, during which time he will relinquish his teaching duties in the English department to continue a literary study.

Named Physics Professor

Sidney Chapman was appointed visiting professor of physics, to serve between October of 1954 and next February. He is on the faculty of the University of Alaska.

Robert V. Vining was named assistant professor of operative dentistry and dental anatomy, effective Sept. 1. Vining is a 1950 graduate of SUI and for the past two years has been on the Creighton university faculty at Omaha.

John L. Lach was appointed professor of pharmacy, effective July 1, and Willard L. Boyd, now in private practice at Minneapolis, was named instructor in the Iowa College of Law, effective Sept. 1.

Approve Resignations

Resignations were approved by the board for director Wayne Vasey of the school of social work, Prof. Arthur H. Moehlman of the college of education, and Dr. Robert L. Jackson as professor of pediatrics. The three resigned to take new positions at other institutions—Vasey at Rutgers university, Moehlman at the University of Texas, and Jackson at the University of Missouri.

A leave of absence for the 1954-1955 academic year was authorized for Prof. Alexandre Aspel of romance languages, to enable him to complete a study of modern French prose.

Quad Council Plans Discussed

Convalescent Pope Appears in Public

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Joyful shouts of "Viva il Papa" greeted Pope Pius XII Friday upon his first public appearance in two months.

Briefly, for less than a minute, the 78-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic church appeared at a window of his Vatican palace apartment, where grave illness with a stomach ailment has confined him since late in January.

A throng of 50,000 or more gathered to see the Pope give his blessing to veterans of Italy's famous Alpine mountain troops, meeting in Rome.

The Pope's illness, tentatively diagnosed as gastritis, took a heavy toll of his strength. During the past two weeks he has been reported to be steadily but very slowly improving.

RULES ON TRANSFER

Des Moines (AP)—The attorney general's office ruled Friday that a county insanity commission cannot transfer a patient from a state hospital to a federal hospital unless the patient had been first committed to the state hospital.
