British Air Official Discusses Recent Jet Airliner Crashes

By DICK SOLOWAY
The recent mysterious crashes of two British Comet jet airliners was termed "Most unfortunate for civil aviation," by Jack Brooker, chief fire service officer to the ministry of transport and civil aviation in the United Kingdom, Wednesday.
Brooker is visiting Prof. and Mrs. Ned Ashton in Iowa City. He and Mrs. Ashton are cousins and met for the first time Wednesday when the aviation official stepped from a twin engine airliner at the Iowa City airport. Their fathers were brothers, but Mrs. Ashton was born and raised in the U.S.
He is scheduled to address the National Fire Protective association at their annual convention in Washington, D.C., next week. In addition, Brooker is making a survey of fire prevention methods at several U.S. airports.

Riddle Unsolved
British aviation officials are at present trying to solve the riddle of the two recent Comet crashes. Thirty-five persons were killed January 10 when a BOAC Comet jet airliner en route to England exploded in mid-air and crashed into the sea between Elba and Monte Cristo Islands off the west coast of Italy.
At that time all of the four engine jet liners were grounded pending investigation.
Two weeks after the airliners were restored to service on March 23 another Comet crashed into the Mediterranean sea near Capri while on a flight from Rome to Cairo. Twenty-one people were killed.

No Solution
No solution to the crashes has been offered although there has been much speculation by aviation officials.
Brooker said, "It is unwise to conjecture on the causes at this stage, but the matter is certainly being thoroughly investigated."
"We still have complete faith in our design, and we believe that we have made substantial gains in the aviation industry."
Orders Cancelled
In reference to several companies cancelling their orders for the Comets and the announcement that a 4-jet American airliner will be flown in the near future Brooker explained, "The crashes are certainly a set-back, but nothing more." He added that the tragedies certainly haven't shaken the English people's faith in British aircraft designing.
At present all Comets are grounded.

Arrived Monday
Brooker arrived in the U.S. Monday and has been visiting Chicago's Midway airport. He said that he visited this country in 1947, but was able to visit only New York and Boston at the time.
Sipping his third cup of tea, he explained that he is responsible for fire protection in all of Britain's 35 state owned civil airports. "It is necessary that I visit all the units of the service, and we also act in an advisory capacity for airdromes in the colonies when requested," Brooker added.
Ruth, A3, the Ashton's daughter, spent two weeks with Brooker in London when she was on tour with the SUI Scottish Highlanders in Europe in 1952.
From Iowa City, Brooker, accompanied by the Ashtons, will travel to Omaha, Neb., today to meet 28 more of the family in a reunion.
He will then fly to Washington, D.C., for the convention.
From the Capitol city Brooker will visit New York and Boston airports and will return to England on May 26.

May Magazine X To Expose Success Of 'Captain Simcox'
Captain Wiley Simcox, Chief of the University police, his success story and his underhanded methods will be exposed in the May issue of "Magazine X, SUI's ludicrous monthly," which is scheduled to go on sale Wednesday, May 19.
Simcox, who is "X's" man of the year, will be displayed on the cover, standing in front of the familiar sign, "reserved for faculty only." The expose, entitled, "Success Story from Boiler Room to Men's Room," will be the lead story of the magazine.
The parody of "Time" magazine is carried through-out the 24-page "X," with such features as "People," which will include the sad story of Elmer Snick and his 36 ROTC demerits in one drill period; "Milestones," sparked by the story of the guy who lived in Currier disguised as a co-ed, and the consequences of his nomination for MECCA queen; and "Books," which features in Choposky's review of "The Old Man and the Flea," by Herringway.
Other features of the magazine will be "Science," by editor George Kern; "Business," by cartoonist George Heiring; "Cinema" and "Boys and Girls Apart" by-lined, Elizabeth Wayward.

Peters Chosen Editor-in-Chief Of Law Review
Jack Peters, LI, Ames, is the new editor-in-chief of the Iowa Law Review, the 39-year-old quarterly magazine of the SUI college of law. He succeeds John E. McTavish, L3, Estherville, 1953-1954 editor.
In the next highest staff position on the review, in which articles by legal authorities on current law problems and legislation interpretation are edited and published by Iowa law students, William Van Dercreek, LI, Council Bluffs, succeeds Donald Dorei, L2, Davenport. Van Dercreek will be article and book review editor.
Notes and legislation editor for the next four issues of the Iowa Law Review will be James F. Pickens, L3, Red Oak. Comments editors for 1954-1955 will be Donald Ribble, L2, Cedar Rapids, and Rodney Shkolnick, LI, Centerville.
Other members of the retiring staff who selected their own successors with the approval of the law faculty are Dick L. Jensen, L2, Audubon; Gordon L. Forsyth, L2, Colfax, and Phillip S. Dandos, L2, Sioux City.

CAMPAIGN ISSUE
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican National committee said Thursday there will be five basic issues in the congressional election campaign, including "unceasing vigilance against communism."
The vote came on Laniel's plea to the assembly to defer a debate on his government's Indochina policy and to continue him in office. The vote came a week after the fall of the Indochina fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Hancher Returns to City After Examining Academy Sites

President Hancher

SUI PRESIDENT VIRGIL M. HANCHER arrived in Iowa City Thursday afternoon aboard this air force Constellation after flying about the country examining proposed sites for an air force academy. The Constellation was the largest plane to ever land in Iowa City, airport officials said. Hancher was met at the airport by his wife, and a crowd that hastily gathered as the big plane landed.

Hancher Flown to Iowa City In Air Force Constellation

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher arrived in Iowa City at 3:45 p.m. Thursday aboard an air force Constellation, the largest plane ever to land at the municipal airport.
Aboard the plane were the four other members of the commission appointed by Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbot to choose a site for an air force academy similar to West Point and Annapolis.
Brig. Gen. Charles Lindbergh, Gen. Carl Spaatz, newspaper executive Merrill C. Meigs, Gen. H. R. Harmon along with Hancher make up the commission. None of the other members of the commission emerged from the plane during the brief stop here to let Hancher off.
The group flew to Iowa City from New Mexico, where they had been examining sites. Earlier this week the group examined a site near Keokuk.

Hancher estimates that he has flown nearly 20,000 miles with the commission. He said he could not disclose the sites the commission are most interested in or when a site location would be announced.
Airport officials said that this was the first time an air force Constellation ever landed in Iowa City. The giant plane had little difficulty landing or taking off on the 4,300 foot runway. It continued its flight towards the east coast.
Hancher said the plane had approximately a 14-man crew. Members of the plane staff included Col. Max Boyd, public information officer, and Lt. Col. James Moore, who is in charge of arrangements for the commission.
In the past month the group has been hedge-hopping over millions of acres of land in search of a suitable tract of 15,000 acres on which to build the academy, a flying field and a tradition.

The air force instructed the group to look for a spot surrounded by naturally beautiful countryside, on comparatively level ground, near a budding cultural center, in a four-season moderate climate, and close to a good supply of water, natural gas, electricity and transportation.
As soon as the academy's home is announced, the air force will commission a group of architects to design not only a flying field, but a library, laboratories, dormitories, athletic fields, rifle ranges, and classrooms.
It will be the summer of 1957 before the academy is far enough along for the cadets to use it. The school will temporarily be housed at quarters elsewhere.
Congress will furnish about 85 per cent of the nominees for air cadet training, with the rest coming from the territories, enlisted

French Assembly Votes Laniel Slim Confidence
PARIS (AP)—The French national assembly Thursday night gave Premier Joseph Laniel a slim vote of confidence, 289 to 287. The closeness of the vote left Laniel's prestige and position sharply reduced despite the nominal victory.
The vote came on Laniel's plea to the assembly to defer a debate on his government's Indochina policy and to continue him in office. The vote came a week after the fall of the Indochina fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Denies Leaking Charges
WASHINGTON (AP)—Army counsel John G. Adams denied under oath Thursday he ever tried to buy off a McCarthy investigation of the army by offering tips on homo-sexuality or subversion in the navy or air force as "bigger bait."
This is one of the more serious charges hurled at Adams by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and aides. Calmly, in a day of rapid-fire cross-examination, the army lawyer denied that one and also a volley of similar charges, among them:
1. That army officials gave special treatment to Pvt. G. David Schine to curry favor with the McCarthy committee and halt its investigation of alleged subversive activity at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.
2. That Adams "leaked" to the press a series of charges against McCarthy aides—mainly against Roy M. Cohn — to block subpoenaing of army security — loyalty board members. Adams acknowledged, however, he discussed these charges with five newsmen.
3. That Adams tried to sponge a free prize fight ticket from Schine and did accept free theater tickets from Cohn. Adams testified he paid Cohn back for the theater tickets and "I never asked Dave Schine for a stick of gum."
4. That Adams tried to wangle a $25,000 a year law partnership through Cohn. Adams said such a thing never was mentioned except in a "for amusement only" vein and he said Cohn knew this perfectly well.

Telephoned Lawton
The high strung but low-voiced army lawyer did accept the truth of one allegation—that he telephoned Maj. Gen. Kirke Lawton at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., and asked him to withdraw security risk charges against nine persons.
Adams said he did so because Pentagon screening officials felt there wasn't enough evidence against these individuals to justify a case before a loyalty-security board.
The meat of Adams' testimony came in a three-hour afternoon session, after he had freely acknowledged going out of his way to be nice to McCarthy staff members but insisted he did nothing to hamper their probe of alleged Communist infiltration in the army.
Denies Improper Acts
As for his alleged efforts to put a damper on the Ft. Monmouth investigation, Adams declared: "I never made any overt acts which were in any way improper."
But Adams testified, as Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens did before him, that they wanted the "type of hearings" McCarthy was conducting ended. Stevens has said this kind of hearing amounted to "hammering" the army on the head and creating an untrue impression of widespread espionage at Ft. Monmouth.

Adams underwent cross-examination by special counsel Ray H. Jenkins in his second day of televised testimony in the senate inquiry into the McCarthy-Pentagon row.
Schine Creates Stir
Young Schine, the well-to-do ex-McCarthy aide who is in the storm center of the controversy, created a brief stir by turning up at the hearing Thursday and—with TV cameras pointed at him—asking an army lawyer, beside the witness, where he (Schine) was supposed to be.
James D. St. Clair, the lawyer, apparently told him he didn't have to stay in the hearing room if he didn't want to. Army officials said it would be all right for the tall, handsome private to do just what he had been doing—watch the proceedings on television and stick around in case he might be needed. That's what Schine did after a further session with army officers in the corridor outside.
A McCarthy aide told reporters, meanwhile, the senator feels President Eisenhower's chief aide, Sherman Adams, and other officials should be called on to testify now that the army side has brought them into the hearings.
Hasn't Asked Subpoenas
McCarthy himself said: "I haven't asked for any subpoenas yet."
Adams testified Wednesday that Sherman Adams — at a meeting of top level officials in the office of Attorney General Herbert Brownell—advised him to start a written record which became the basis of the army charge that McCarthy and aides tried by improper means to get favors for Schine.
The McCarthy camp countered with a charge that Stevens and associates used Schine as a "hostage" to get the Ft. Monmouth probe called off. It was on the Ft. Monmouth matter that Adams testified Thursday.
Basically, Adams did little more than back up the testimony Stevens has already given—that the army was "unhappy" with publicity stemming from the McCarthy hearings, and would have been glad to take over the investigation itself.
But Adams, like Stevens, denied ever acting to get the McCarthy investigation called off. He said at one point "I think that's correct" when Jenkins asked if it was a matter of "utter indifference" to him whether the McCarthy investigation continued.

Adams Denies Attempting To Buy Off McCarthy, Aides

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union Thursday accused Maj. Charles R. P. Landon, an assistant military attaché in the British embassy, of espionage. Landon, now in England on vacation, was ordered barred from returning to Moscow, Paul Grey, minister in the British embassy, said his government rejected the charges. He added that Britain had no choice but to accept the ouster, the first against one of its diplomats here.

Tailfeathers To Be Called Hawk-I Club

The Hawk-I club is the name which has been chosen for the SUI pep club, formerly called Tailfeathers. The name was announced Thursday at the pep club mixer in the Union by Fred Hahn, A2, Maquoketa, president of the group.
The winning name was submitted by Patrick McGuire, A1, Ft. Dodge, who received a $15 cash prize.
Announcement was also made of three new cheers chosen by the executive committee of the pep club and cheerleaders.
A first prize of $15 went to Dick Sager, A1, Maquoketa, for the following cheer:
Clap-clap-clap, clap, clap
Go-go-go, team, go
Clap-clap-clap, clap, clap
Fight-fight-fight, team, fight
Clap-clap-clap, clap, clap
Win-win-win, team, win
Go-fight-win.
Second prize of $10 was awarded to Cindy Pryor, A3, Des Moines for the following cheer:
H-A-W-K-S
Hawks, Hawks, Hawks.
(Repeat twice)
Go Hawks Go
Eleanor Fleming, A3, Whittemore, and Nancy Clithero, A2, Atlantic shared the third prize award of $5.
I-O-W-A
Hawkeyes
(repeat)
Go Hawks, go Hawks
Go, go, go
Members of the 1954 football squad were introduced at the mixer which was held in the Union from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Refreshments were served.

Tests Are Successful
The tests were successful in the development of thermonuclear weapons. They were essential to our national interest and have contributed materially to the security of the United States and the free world.
"The tests being concluded, within a few days sea and air traffic may be safely resumed within the 'warning area' which was set up for safety purposes for the time when the tests were taking place. Official notice to airmen and mariners will be published."
Three test explosions were announced previously during the 1954 series—on March 1, March 26 and April 6.
Releases Pictures
Only last month, the government released pictures of the first hydrogen blast in November, 1952, disclosing that among other things it had wiped out a small island at Eniwetok Atoll, leaving a crater in the ocean floor 175 feet deep and a mile wide.
Last March 1 AEC scientists and military men fired a second hydrogen shot, which reportedly dwarfed the 1952 explosion in its gigantic force.
This blast was estimated unofficially to have produced energy equivalent to the explosion of between 14 and 16 million tons of TNT. The explosion threw radio-active material far into the stratosphere, where traces of it were carried by unpredictable winds outside the warning area established by the AEC around the proving ground.
The radio-active dust settled on at least two Japanese fishing boats outside the warning zone, an incident which produced protests both in Japan and in some other nations.
Reports 3d Test
The third of the hydrogen explosions last March 26 was reported to have been of less force than the terrific blast of March 1.
The next explosion fired April 6 was described only as the "third test of the present weapon series."
The announcement made no mention of its being a hydrogen blast, like the preceding ones, or as has been known generally.
It was significant that the April 6 announcement used the words, "weapons series." All shots this year thus appear to involve use of actual weapons, rather than the test "device" which was used in 1952.

Time Lag
The time lag since April 6 was sufficient for at least one more explosion. And there were indications that, while the fourth explosion of the year went off at the Bikini proving ground, a fifth shot could have been made at Eniwetok atoll.
The announcement came in a joint statement from Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, and Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.
The statement said:
"The 1954 series of thermonuclear tests at the Atomic Energy commission's Pacific proving ground has been completed."

SUI Council Votes To Back Lower Grade Requirements
The Student Council, in the only split vote of their Thursday evening meeting, voted to back a petition asking that grade point requirements for admission to social fraternities from the colleges of pharmacy and engineering be lowered from 2.0 to 1.5.
Opposition to the motion was on grounds that the council was not within its jurisdiction in backing such a petition, as it did not concern the school in general and the fraternities concerned are already represented in the Inter-Fraternity council, the petition's sponsor.
Council President Tom Choules, LI, Idaho Falls, Idaho, ruled that the council could vote on the motion, and it passed 13 to 6. The petition in question will be submitted to the committee on student life for consideration.
Panacea, backed financially by the council, was reported to have taken a $550 to $600 loss this year, about $300 of which is covered by the Panacea reserve, the rest to be made up by the council.
The council voted unanimously to divert $200 of $800 originally allotted to buy bonds, to help meet deficits in the Student Council budget. Of $1,938 budgeted for the year ending this June, $1,839 is already spent.
A motion was passed that gubernatorial candidates be written asking the position of each on proposals to raise tuitions in state-operated schools.
In other action, the council voted $150 to be used for men's orientation for the coming year, and made plans for setting up a student talent index to enable civic and university groups to find entertainers in the student body.

A Condensation of Late Developments
Eden Presents Korean Unity Requirements
GENEVA (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden laid down Thursday the "absolute minimum" of Western requirements for a formula to unify Korea. He urged action upon them by the 19-nation conference on Korea, but most of the principles Eden cited have been rejected already by the Communists. The Reds were not expected to change their views.
Vietminh Troops Hurl Heavy Attack
HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Vietminh troops Thursday hurled their heaviest attack of the year in the vital Red River Delta against French forces near Phuly, 30 miles south of Hanoi. The French said their battalions smashed the assault but suffered "serious losses." The Communist-led Vietminh threw 2,000 to 3,000 regulars against the French one mile south of Phuly—a key point in the delta on a direct road to Hanoi. Rebel losses were described as "extremely heavy."
U.S. To Promote South Asian Unity
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, it was learned Thursday, is opening conversations with several South Asian countries, including India, to give them an opportunity to join a united front against Communist power. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his chief aides regard the diplomatic move as an extremely delicate one. They have designed it in such a way that none of the five countries principally involved has to say "yes" or "no." Of the five it is expected that India and Indonesia will show no interest in joining any such cooperative enterprise at this stage. On the other hand, Western officials have believed that Burma, Pakistan or Ceylon—perhaps all of them—are interested in lining up with the free world nations in opposing Red aggression.

Letters to the Editor

Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses — typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The Iowan reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Contributors are limited to not more than two letters in any 30-day period, and should limit their letters to 200 words or less. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.

TO THE EDITOR:

I am grateful to Mr. Kuenzel for his constructive criticism. That he is aware of, and is opposed to, the "gimme" attitude is to his credit.

I, too, detest this attitude. No one owes me an education. I'm sorry he got the impression that I want to be carried through college by the sweat of someone else's labor. On the contrary, I am proud to be working my way through.

"I'll be darned if I owe you an education and I don't believe the rest of the taxpayers do either," Kuenzel emphasized. If he's talking about myself, whom he considers a free-loader, he is justified. However, if he is condemning the system of state tax-supported colleges and universities, he will have a fight ahead of him.

My first letter should be considered revised by this one. Let me clear up some confusing points.

The consensus is that students who work while in college get more from their education than those who don't work. However, when their work week approaches 30 or 40 hours, then it is obvious that their grades will probably suffer. Grades indicate the amount of knowledge assimilated, and a university is instituted to instill knowledge.

However, few working students are overburdened at the present time. A tuition increase of $10 to $20 per year would have no great effect—if this didn't encourage raises in other expenses.

But too-great tuition hikes would discourage some potential good students from enrolling and some already enrolled would be forced to drop out of school.

Uniform tuition is a device that keeps some worthy, but poor, students who don't receive scholarships from enrolling. To some students, the tuition is relatively too low. The only qualification of some, besides average intelligence, is the ability to pay tuition.

Universities must screen out those students who, by their presence, hinder others in obtaining an education. Class instruction must be present so that those of borderline ability or diligence can grasp it. Those who don't really belong in college tend to lower the general intellectual atmosphere, especially through inappropriate extracurricular activities. The uniform tuition charge assumes that each student has the same amount of money at his disposal. This is false.

If tuition for the offspring of the more well-to-do parents is raised high enough, desirable results will be felt: such students will have less money for frivolities, or will hesitate to spend so freely money that cost labor; some who detest work (indicative of the degree they would apply themselves to their studies) will not enroll; and those forced to work a few hours weekly will somehow do better in their studies, as demonstrated by thousands of working students.

With the institution of a sliding tuition scale to take into account the amount of work necessitated by a student's financial condition, some students will work less, and some will work more. There will be no shortage of jobs.

Although such a scale may be complicated to apply, I recommend a study to explore its possibilities.

I repeat that I am not infected with the "gimme" attitude. I think my friends—if any remain after having read Mr. Kuenzel's letter—will testify to this.

My "garble" is tainted because I was slightly stirred emotionally when I wrote it, and because I work myself. Otherwise, my motive was that of wanting assurance that, on the state college and university level, the best qualified will get the best possible education.

The fuss I caused was not entirely warranted, and I apologize to Mr. Kuenzel and the other readers to whom I gave incorrect impressions of my ideas. However, I hope the readers enjoyed Mr. Kuenzel's letter as much as I did!

Respectfully yours,
Darold Powers, A2
Washington, Iowa

TO THE EDITOR:

The letter to the editor in Thursday's Daily Iowan written by Calvin A. Kuenzel, LI, clarifies what it means to be "inebriated with the exuberance of your own verbosity." But the letter did not clarify Mr. Kuenzel's reasons why a tuition boost is the only fair way to bring about more funds for state educational institutions.

Would Mr. Kuenzel rather pay $40 more per year for tuition, or would he rather pay $5 more per year in taxes. It seems that an increase in appropriations for SUI could be more painless taken from the thousands of taxpayers in Iowa rather than from 7,000 students. And, unbelievable as it may seem to Mr. Kuenzel, there are one or two student-taxpayers besides himself.

But taking the taxpayer's money to support SUI is a terrible thing in Mr. Kuenzel's way of thinking. He said in his letter that he doesn't owe an education to a certain gentleman named Powers. True. But doesn't he believe that as a member of society he owes it to himself to see that as many persons as possible benefit from education.

Well, let's not get started on this "who owes whom" kick. Just look into the basic ideas behind state schools, Mr. Kuenzel, and perhaps you will find some justification for your annual tax AND tuition contributions.

Sincerely,
Don McQuillen, A3

6 River Tours Oversubscribed, Peterson Reports

The six Mississippi river cruises and the Missouri river inspection trip planned by the Iowa State Historical society during June and July have been oversubscribed, according to William J. Peterson, cruise superintendent and professor of history.

Peterson said, the Missouri trip which commemorates the 150th anniversary of the Lewis and Clarke expedition, went "over the top" within 72 hours. He also commented that reservation cards sent out to society members were returned with promptness.

The Missouri trip is scheduled for Friday, June 4, and is restricted to 100 guests and members. Peterson said although reservations were accepted from various parts of the state, those residents in western Iowa were given preference. Thirty counties and 40 towns are represented on the present passenger list.

The total reservation quota of 660 (110 a day) has been surpassed for the seventh annual series of steamboat cruises on the Mississippi.

According to Peterson, 75 to 100 applications arrived too late. He added that it is hoped that some of these may be placed if cancellations are received.

2 Babies Choose Lucky Birthday

A baby boy and a baby girl found it paid to be born on National Hospital day, Wednesday.

As part of Mercy hospital's observance of the day, the new son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton F. Sterba, North Liberty, and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Michel, Oxford, were each given a new carriage robe. The robes, handmade by one of the Catholic sisters at Mercy, were presented to the babies Thursday morning.

Young Sterba, who received a green robe, and little Miss Michel, who was given a pink one, share their birthday with Florence Nightengale, an early nurse whom Hospital day honors.

Iowa City hospitals are now observing National Hospital week.

3 Million Tourists Expected To Visit Nation's Capital City

WASHINGTON — The annual tourist invasion of the nation's capital is again underway with three million sightseers expected before the holiday season ends.

For most of the tourists, this will be their first visit to Washington. Among them will be probably 500,000 public school students.

For all it presents a thrill that comes to everyone on his first visit to the capital city of the world's greatest nation—the first view of the gleaming white dome of the Capitol, the Washington monument, towering toward the sky; the majestic figure in the Lincoln Memorial, the beautiful white marble astride the body of the Unknown Soldier, the home that was George Washington's.

Clarence A. Arata, executive director of the Greater National Capital committee, says Washington has a special appeal to all Americans, regardless of age.

"Washington is really America's other home town," said Arata. "Survey after survey shows that every family in the United States desires to visit their nation's capital at least once in their lifetime. They rightfully feel it belongs to them."

The committee is making a special effort this year to provide for the comfort of Washington's visitors. It operates a transient housing service, which augments the facilities provided by the hotels.

It also works closely with the National Education association in planning the trips of public school students. Arata said hotels are also going in increasingly for special family accommodations, with a low rate that brings a Washington visit within the average family budget.

As a special attraction, which brought together 100,000 to 150,000 spectators, the national capital sports car race was held May 2 at the air force's nearby Andrews field. An elaborate aerial and entertainment program was also featured.

However, most of the visitors come to Washington with their agenda already tentatively mapped out in advance. Foremost of all, they want to see congress in session. If the legislative body is not meeting, they will nevertheless see the Capitol. Twenty thousand visitors on Sundays, more on holidays, is a normal crowd at the Capitol during the tourist season.

A close second to the Capitol is the White House with the excitement that comes from being permitted to walk through the new $5 million renovated structure.

The Lincoln Memorial also attracts all tourists. More than 20 million people have already visited it.

Many will take the trip to the top of the Washington Monument and all, at one time or another, will visit hallowed Arlington National cemetery and watch the sentinel make his appointed rounds at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

For most tourists, a trip to Mount Vernon is also a must and hats are reverently doffed there before the caskets of George and Martha Washington.

Other major attractions annually visited by thousands, include the Archives, where the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, and other historic documents are on display; the Library of Congress; the Jefferson memorial; the Smithsonian Institution; and Ford's Theater, where Lincoln was assassinated.

Annual Directory of Iowa Publisher Mailed to Members

The annual directory of The Iowa Publisher and the Bulletin of the Iowa Press Association has been mailed to members of the mass communications media throughout the state.

The 32-page directory provides names of the newspapers and the communities where they are published, and circulation, date or time of publication, subscription or single-issue price, advertising rates, page sizes, and community population data.

Radio and television station data include call-letters, frequency, power, network affiliation, news-services available, and other technical information. Regular issues of the magazine are published monthly by the SUI school of journalism, Prof. Edward F. Mason, head of the pictorial journalism sequence at the SUI school of journalism, is editor of the magazine.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
Associated Press
Foreign Staff

President Eisenhower and Sen. William Knowland have now, in effect, apologized for some of the wilder partisan statements made against the Democrats.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has reiterated his determination to conduct foreign policy on a bipartisan basis as far as possible.

The President even went so far as to say that when it came to loyalty to the nation, he didn't see that party affiliation meant anything.

When it comes to foreign policy, the wisest thing all of them could do now would be to drop the argument.

Initiated by Democrats

The basic policy was initiated by the Democrats, and is being continued by the Republicans. Like the foreign policy of all nations, it is a national policy, based on national interests and the circumstances of the times, founded in the long run on the relative positions of friendly and unfriendly nations.

If the Republicans are now able to talk about massive retaliation and fighting treaties, it is because the Democrats recognized—belatedly but finally—the state of the world and began to prepare this nation for the position of leadership which history has thrust upon it.

Difficulty in Mechanics

Ever since the death of Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, in whom both Republicans and Democrats put such faith, there has been difficulty in the mechanics of conducting not a bipartisan policy, which it is, but in conducting it bipartisanly.

It is only natural that in times of crisis men should develop strong feelings and make strong statements. But this nation now faces a serious situation of a nature it has not faced before.

If the other nations accept the Dulles idea of a fighting Pacific pact, the United States must decide about entering a calculated war, as against previous wars into which she has been dragged by direct enemy action.

If that decision is to be wisely made, it must be done by men who have put aside all thought of partisan gain or personal position in favor of acting solely in the general interest of the nation.

Ladd To Attend Legal Conference

Dean Mason Ladd of the college of law will leave for Washington, D. C. Wednesday to attend meetings of two legal groups in the Mayflower hotel.

Ladd, who is on the executive committee of the Association of American Law Schools, will meet with the other four committee members on May 21 to discuss policy and operations of the association. The SUI law college is a charter member of the association.

Ladd will also represent the SUI college of law at the annual meeting of the American Law Institute May 19-22.

Teter Wins $10 Prize In Essay Contest

William H. Teter, A2, Des Moines, today was named the winner of the annual Bryan prize, awarded to the SUI student submitting the best essay regarding the science of government.

The $10 prize is the income from a fund established by William Jennings Bryan at SUI before his death in 1925. Judges of this year's contest were Prof. Kirk H. Porter, head of the political science department, and Prof. E. Lane Davis of the political science department.

The general theme of this year's contest was "Fair Play in Government." Teter's paper dealt with corruption in government.

Pi Sigma Alpha, political science honorary fraternity, conducted the contest which was open to all SUI students.

Visitors Tour New Communications Center

ROGER MCLAIN, A4, Iowa City, is showing a recording machine to Prof. John M. Russ of the engineering department and Mrs. C. D. Greece, 1136 Kirkwood court, during the Communications Center open house Thursday afternoon.

Students, Professors Explain Journalism Center to Visitors

Visitors who registered at the Communications Center open house Thursday will have their names sealed and enclosed in a time capsule which the school of journalism is currently filling with papers that are illustrative of present day mass media.

The capsule, which is to be opened in the year 2053, has been sealed in order to give the world an idea of today's mass communications.

Jay Hytone, A4, Des Moines, gave a demonstration Thursday evening of an Associated Press wirephoto machine, which is used to send and to receive news pictures throughout the state.

Afternoon visitors were shown an eight-minute TV newsreel, produced and shown by journalism students, that included scenes of the Chemistry building fire and of the last official run of the Crandie passenger train.

Visitors were given an opportunity to see 10 books printed by Prof. Carroll Coleman, SUI typographer. The books have been judged as some of the best typographical works in the country.

Organized and directed by a student committee the open house and guided tours provided an opportunity for Iowa City residents to see the new $525,000 Communications Center before its official dedication next fall.

Visitors were shown The Daily Iowan newsroom, Hawkeye office, Magazine X office, typography laboratories, photography darkrooms, classrooms and school of journalism offices that have been centered in the new building.

Grid Game To Be Played Saturday

Coaches Hope To Find Squad's Weaknesses

Look them over, the veterans of the powerful November team and the youngsters who will have to fill in for departed stars and form your own opinion of Iowa's 1954 grid chances.

You can do that, with every person his own expert, at the final spring intrasquad football game in Iowa stadium Saturday at 2 p.m. The investment is one dollar and the proceeds of the regulation game will go into the university's scholarship and student aid fund.

But when you are watching and trying to make up your mind about the Hawkeyes, remember that October and November games are not won by May intrasquad fireworks, that the squad has been drilled entirely on offense this spring and that some of the men are playing positions relatively new to them.

And a big point to consider is that the Black and White squads were chosen by a player draft by the rival "coaching staffs"—eight newspaper and eight radio-TV men.

Writers are coaching the White squad and in the draft they snatched the regular tentative first team backfield—Jerry Reichow, Eldean Matheson, Ed Vincent and Binkey Broeder. The radio-TV experts nabbed five of the first seven probable linemen—Rodger Swedberg, George Kress, Warren Lawson, Calvin Jones and Jim Freeman.

Among the new men to watch are: Blacks—11 Jim Dick, 52 John Oakley and 56 Jim Willett, ends; 27 Ken Ploen, quarterback; 65 Ray Holder, tackle; Whites—50 Don Suchy, center; 80 Ken Meek and 86 Burt Bordin, ends; 78 Jim Johnson, tackle; 64 Bob Elizbasich, guard; and 37 Jim Head, fullback.

Lou Matykiewicz Jerry Reichow

These 2 Will Call the Signals

Masterminding the two teams Saturday in the Iowa stadium will be two quarterbacks with plenty of Big Ten experience. Matykiewicz will be seeking a repeat of last year's intrasquad performance when he threw the game's only touchdown pass for the Blacks. Last year, the Blacks beat the Whites 13-0. "Gerry" Reichow's passing has also been a standout in spring practices.

Iowa Schedules Oregon State for '56

A football game with Oregon State college had been placed on Iowa's schedule for 1956, the game to be played at Iowa City Oct. 6.

Director Paul Brechler said that the game would replace the one first booked for that date with University of Washington. The Seattle university withdrew from the tentative agreement.

The Oregon State game has been arranged on a one-game basis, so Iowa will not play at Corvallis, Ore. later, Director Brechler said. It is the first contest between Hawkeyes and Beavers.

"Bump" Elliott, Iowa assistant coach, was backfield coach at Oregon State in 1949, 1950 and 1951, leaving that position to join Forest Evashevski's Iowa staff in 1952.

The date of Oct. 20 remains to be filled on the 1956 schedule. Other games are Sept. 29, Indiana at Bloomington; Oct. 13, Wisconsin at Iowa City; Oct. 27, Purdue at Lafayette; Nov. 3, Michigan at Iowa City; Nov. 10, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Nov. 17, Ohio State at Columbus; and Nov. 24, Notre Dame at Iowa City.

Hawkeye Nine Seeks 3 Wins

Iowa's baseball team meets Ohio State at Columbus today in an attempt to get back in the winning column. With a 3-6 record, the Hawkeyes are tied for seventh place with Purdue, while Ohio State holds third spot in the Big Ten.

Tomorrow, Iowa travels to Bloomington for a doubleheader with eighth place Indiana. The Hoosiers have just won their first victories in more than two years after losing 28 consecutive league games. Indiana last week defeated Illinois and split a twin bill with Purdue.

Both of Iowa's weekend opponents have better batting records. Indiana is third with a .247 average and Ohio State ranks fifth with .240. The Hawkeyes are ninth with a .219 average.

However, two Iowa batters are contenders for slugging honors in the Big Ten. Shortstop Don Waldron is batting .323 with three homers, a triple, a double and five singles. Left fielder Ed Lindsey also has hit three homers in addition to two triples, a double and three singles.

for a .290 average.

Two teams which beat Iowa last weekend, Michigan State and Michigan may decide the Big Ten title in a three game series this weekend. Today the

Iowa To Meet Gophers On Track Saturday

The oldest Hawkeye track rivalry, Iowa-Minnesota, and the dual meet series with some of the best marks over the years will be renewed here Saturday at 1 p.m.

It is the only home dual outdoor meet of Iowa's season. Open without charge, most of the meet can be seen by sports fans before the kickoff of the final spring intrasquad football game at 2 p.m.

BROOKS BEAT CARDS

Brooklyn (P)—Brooklyn had its biggest inning of the season—six runs in the sixth inning—as they defeated the Cardinals 10-3. It was Johnny Podres' 4th straight victory, and the 12th straight loss for St. Louis at Ebbets field.

Spartans play host to Michigan at East Lansing and on Saturday the two teams will meet at Ann Arbor in a crucial twin bill.

Michigan State, with a 6-1 record is currently leading the league but defending champion, Michigan, with a 7-2 record, is in hot pursuit.

YANKEES DEFEAT TIGERS
DETROIT (P)—Yogi Berra clouted a two-run homer deep into the upper right field deck in the 10th inning Thursday night to give the New York Yankees a 5-3 victory over the league-leading Detroit Tigers before 50,916—the largest crowd of the major league season.

By JOHN WILSON

With another weekend coming up, hundreds of people from Iowa City and vicinity will take to the highways, rivers, lakes and state owned parks for their weekend fun. We mentioned two weeks ago how good the fish tastes that you catch and cook right away. We're going to give you a few more hints on how to cook your meal when out on a fishing trip or picnic.

If you've caught bullheads or catfish, you need to have with you a pair of pliers or a Townsend fish skinner to first remove the skin. Perhaps you've seen these fish skippers on television. They do an excellent and fast job. Scale fish, such as crappies, bluegills, and buffalo may either be skinned or as most commonly happens, the scales scraped off.

By taking a blunt knife and pulling it crosswise from the tail of the fish toward the head, these scales will come off easily. Then, of course, there's the matter of making an incision and removing the entrails, cutting off the heads and tails. Wash your fish allowing the excess water to drain off. The fish should then be seasoned to taste with salt, and pepper if you prefer, and dipped in a mixture of half and half flour and corn meal. Then, they are all ready for the frying pan.

Many who cook outdoors carry with them a small grill in which they use charcoal briquettes. These grills are mighty handy when it comes to cooking hamburgers, steaks or weiners. You can also put a frying pan or coffee pot on it as well.

If you want to rough it a bit, build a small fireplace of stones, under which you make a small fire. Try to get a bit of coals in this fireplace before starting to cook, and after you have a bed of coals it only takes a few small pieces of wood added to complete your cooking job.

There is something about that smell of wood smoke while your food is cooking that adds a flavor that can't be found in the finest of restaurants. The aroma of coffee over this fire made in an open pot is out of this world.

Another outdoor dish which is tasty is fried raw potatoes. You merely slice your potatoes thin and put them raw into the frying pan and season them to taste as they are cooking. You wouldn't believe fried potatoes could be so good.

Be careful of the water you drink while out on fishing trips or picnics. Two young friends of mine were laid up for two days last summer with dysentery contracted through the drinking of the water from what they thought was a beautiful looking stream. The safe thing to do is to either boil anything you drink first, or take with you a thermos bottle or thermos jug with either hot or cold drinks, whichever you prefer.

Indians Win; A's Triumph

CLEVELAND (P)—Al Rosen, who started a six-run, game-winning rally with a homer in the ninth, hit a double in the 11th to drive in the run which gave Cleveland an 8-7 victory over the Washington Nationals Thursday.

CHICAGO (P)—Gus Zernia's single and Pete Suder's double drove across two ninth inning runs Thursday to give the Philadelphia A's their first victory in eight games, 3-2, over the Chicago White Sox.

PITTSBURGH (P)—Milwaukee's Braves, behind the steady eight-hit pitching of southpaw Chet Nichols, whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 Thursday night. Left-handers now have inflicted 11 of the last-place Bucs' 19 losses this season.

BALTIMORE — The Boston Red Sox, plagued by weak hitting up to now, exploded an 11-hit attack on the unsuspecting Baltimore Orioles and trounced the Birds 9-1 Thursday night.

PHILADELPHIA (P)—Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies' ace righthander, gave up a lead-off homer to Bobby Adams in the first inning Thursday night, then mowed down the next 27 batters to face him as the Phils trounced the Cincinnati Redlegs 8-1.

NEW YORK (P)—The New York Giants pushed their winning streak to five games and wasted little time against the Chicago Cubs in winning 6-1. Monte Irvin hit two home runs in the game, and Hank Thompson, Willy Mays and Ebba St. Claire each hit one.

TODAY'S QUIZ

WHAT MAKES A LUCKY TASTE BETTER?

"IT'S TOASTED" to taste better!

A Lucky tastes better for two important reasons: 1. Lucky Strike means fine tobacco...light, mild, good-tasting tobacco.

2. That tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' fine tobacco... makes it taste even better—cleaner, fresher, smoother.

That's why a Lucky tastes better. And naturally, better taste is why thousands of college students prefer Luckies to all other brands.

So, enjoy better taste. Be Happy—Go Lucky!

Dental Honors Day To Feature Awards, Speech by Executive

Dr. H. Trendley Dean, secretary of the council on dental research of the American Dental Association, will be the principal speaker at this morning's dental college Honors day exercises.

The Honors day exercises are scheduled for 10 a.m. in the Shambaugh lecture room of the university library.

Dean will speak to faculty and students of the dental college on "Global Distribution of Dental Fluorosis." He is a former director of the national institute of dental research.

Dean William J. Simon of the college of dentistry will be master of ceremonies for this morning's program.

Among the awards that will be presented to students this morning are: American Academy of Dental Medicine award, American Society of Dentistry for Children award, Alpha Omega and Sigma Xi awards, and an Omega Kappa Upsilon award, "Class of 1923" award, the Rudy E. Minger awards and the annual book awards.

Truckers, Union To Confer Today

Representatives of the union, involved in a strike against three Iowa City trucking firms have made plans to meet here today with the company representatives in an effort to work out a settlement, according to Melvin Smith, local business agent for the union.

The strike, by about 15 members of local 238 of the Teamsters union, began Monday against Thompson transfer and storage company, Maher Brothers and Iowa City transfer and storage company.

Smith said he contacted Leo Baker, an associate of Newton L. Margulies, Des Moines attorney, and the companies' representative to arrange the meeting. The time and place has not been announced.

Principal issues involved in the strike are a wage raise, a guaranteed 44-hour work week and the handling of goods shipped to or from firms involved in labor disputes.

Helser To Lecture On Military Justice

Military justice will be the subject of a lecture in room 5 of the law building at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

The lecture will be presented by Lt. Col. William G. Helsler, Jr., of the 5th army staff judge advocate's office.

Helsler will illustrate his lecture with movies.

'Julius Caesar' Is Entertaining Despite Limitations of Staging

By DRAKE MABRY

Taking nothing away from the university players, we have seen them do a better job on Shakespeare than the current production of "Julius Caesar." The play opened Thursday night at the University theatre.

"Julius Caesar" is a difficult play to put over with the limited props and space of the SUI theatre. It requires a variety of settings and a multitude of bit players. Neither are available here.

With the material at hand director Denis McCarthy did a noteworthy job. The direction of the play under the circumstances was a difficult job, but he got the most out of the production.

Bright Spots

There were some bright spots of individual acting however. William Jacobi as Julius Caesar, Jerry Silberman as Marcus Brutus, Bill Smart as Marcus Antonius, and especially Carmen Bonacci in the role of Cassius.

Jacobi makes an impressive Caesar. He has a lot of natural ability, and he made the most of this in portraying the overly pompous Caesar.

Bill Smart is a somewhat diminutive Antony. But he fulfills the Shakespearean obligations with vigor. His funeral speech over the body of Caesar was particularly well done.

Bonacci Outstanding

Carmen Bonacci turned in a great job on the role of Cassius. This is a meaty part anyway, and Bonacci carried the emotional aspect of Cassius over to the audience.

There were others who turned in a nice bit of acting on this opening night — Gary Kloppenberg as Casca, Richard Thomsen as Octavius Caesar, Jerry Bass as a Soothsayer, and Shirley Gillespie as Portia.

The many death scenes in the play were performed in a realistic manner. All of them created an impressive sight. But we think the scene where Caesar was stabbed could have been played up more to get the maximum emotional appeal from the thing. Slow it down a bit perhaps. Seemed as though Caesar was saying "Et tu, Brute?" before the rest of the daggers were out of his body.

Minor Errors

But these are relatively minor points that do nothing to distract from the overall caliber of the production.

Disregarding the drawbacks which the university players had no control over, "Julius Caesar" did provide some entertaining and enjoyable moments.

Gillette To Back Bill For Coralville Dam

In a telegram received from Sen. Guy M. Gillette Thursday, Iowa City Chamber of Commerce members were notified that the Iowa senator will give his full support to a proposal now pending in the senate for funds to continue work on the Coralville reservoir project north of Iowa City.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors has requested Iowa representatives in congress to urge expediting appropriations for the Coralville project. No work has been done on the project since original funds were exhausted two years ago.

A resolution passed by the city council on April 26, directed City Manager Peter F. Roan to write Iowa representatives and request action on the present status of the dam.

A measure asking $1,750,000 to continue the work is now before congress.

Not in Favor Of Fee Raise, Nominees Say

Two candidates for the Republican nomination of state representatives from Johnson county told about 40 members of the SUI Young Republicans at a picnic Thursday night, that they were not in favor of a raise in tuition rates at state run educational institutions at this time.

G. M. Ludwig, Tifton, present member of the Iowa house told the young GOP that he did not feel that it was possible, or practical to raise the tuition when the institutions were not at this time producing enough professional men to fill the needs of the state.

Tuition No Issue

Ludwig stated further that he did not think that a candidate for governor should use tuition as a political issue. He said that in his opinion, the state board of education should have control of all tuition issues.

The other candidate for nomination, John Wilson of Iowa City, said that he felt that tuitions should not be raised, but if possible they should be lowered.

Schwengel Speaks

A third speaker at the meeting was Frank Schwengel, state senator from Davenport. He is a candidate for the U.S. from the first Iowa congressional district. He is opposed in the June 7 primary by state senator Herman B. Lord, Muscatine.

Schwengel told the club that he believed that a farm support program was necessary for the continued prosperity of the nation's farmers.

He also said that he was in favor of raising federal income tax exemptions, since they are not fair to people in the low income brackets at the present time.

Ike Approves St. Lawrence Seaway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower signed the St. Lawrence seaway bill Thursday, authorizing the United States to join Canada in digging the great new waterway.

The project will open the heart of the American continent to ocean shipping. A companion project calls for a dam on the broad St. Lawrence river, to provide a new source of electric power for the northeast.

"Now work can begin on the great project," the President said as he signed the measure at a White House ceremony. He noted that it took 30 years to get the controversial legislation through congress.

To Dredge River

The engineering plan is to dredge the St. Lawrence deep enough to allow salt water ships with a 27-foot draft to sail from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes and as far inland as Toledo, Ohio. Locks and canals also will be constructed. The federal government will spend an estimated $105 million on the work.

A 46-mile stretch of rapids beginning near Ogdensburg, N. Y., will be dammed and a $600 million electric power plant constructed. This is a separate project being undertaken by New York state and the Canadian province of Ontario and is not part of the federal legislation. It is expected to generate more than 12 billion kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

Ike Backed Bill

Eisenhower backed the bill for security as well as economic reasons. It was bitterly opposed, however, by railroad interests, representatives of seaports on the eastern and southern coasts, coal interests and others.

Engineers estimate it will take about six years to complete the project. There is an ambitious plan to extend the ocean channel all the way to the iron ports at the western end of Lake Superior, but this will require further congressional action.

The main planning for both the waterway and the power project has been completed.

Barrier Exists

But it will not be possible to start actual construction until the removal of a legal barrier which blocks participation by New York state.

The planners say it is not only economically unfeasible, but physically impossible, to start on the seaway before construction of the power project is assured.

New York has authority from the federal power commission to join with Ontario on the power project but the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' Assn. and other interests have challenged the state's right to proceed.

The challenge, already rejected by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, is expected to go to the Supreme Court for final determination. This, it is expected, will be done before the end of the month.

Assuming that the Supreme Court upholds New York's right to build its half of the power project, there will remain no foreseeable bar to beginning construction of the seaway.

Education Called Key To Success by Warner

By WES PIPPERT

Contrary to popular assumption the American socio-economic picture is more fluid now than a generation ago, Prof. W. Lloyd Warner, University of Chicago sociologist told an SUI audience Thursday night.

Warner's conclusions are based on a three year study of more than 8,000 American business leaders. The study is similar to one made in 1929 by Taussig and Jocelyn, but the current results indicate a less static and more vertically mobile society than 25 years ago, he said.

Warner, well-known for his study of the American class system, was brought to SUI by the sociology colloquium and the graduate college.

Education the Route

The increased emphasis on public education was pointed to as one explanation for the increase in ability. "The route up the ladder is through education," Warner said.

The biggest businesses are the most democratic in opportunities offered, he said. The smaller enterprises still cling to the hereditary principle, the sociologist remarked.

Warner's study showed that today, sons of foreign born fathers have a greater opportunity of reaching the business elite than sons of American born fathers. Similarly, it is easier for the sons of ethnic groups to achieve success than a rural-born person.

The ratio of actual opportunity to equal opportunity is higher today than in 1929 for sons of laborers and white collar workers while the same ratio for the sons of professional and business leaders has declined in the same period.

The results of the study will be contained in two books which Warner hopes to publish soon. He soon will be leaving for England where he will be visiting lecturer on social theory at the University of Cambridge.

Sociologist Discusses Speech

VA Official Warns Vets of August School Deadline

The 1954 college summer session may be the last chance for some Korean war veterans to receive schooling under the Korean GI bill according to a warning by William J. Doherty, Veterans' administration central representative at the Iowa City VA hospital here.

According to present law, Doherty said, men who served in the armed forces after June 27, 1950, and were discharged before Aug. 20, 1952, must be in training before Aug. 20 this year or lose their chance for training.

In most instances next fall's school terms begin too late to permit veterans to start training before that deadline. (SUI's 1954 fall term begins Sept. 20.)

Doherty said he understands that congress may extend the deadline, but advised against veterans risking loss of schooling benefits by waiting.

Veterans separated after Aug. 20, 1952, have two years from the date of their discharge in which to begin training.

The Aug. 20 deadline applies to veterans planning to take on-the-job or farm training as well as those who intend to go to school.
