City Hall, Voting Machine Issues Defeated

Iowa City and Johnson county voters defeated both the city hall and voting machine bond issues at Monday's primary elections.

The city hall proposal fell 8 per cent short of the 60 per cent affirmative votes needed to approve the $330,000 bond issue. Iowa Citizens cast 1,689 "yes" ballots while 1,534 persons voted down the proposal.

County voters were fairly consistent in their defeating the proposed $80,000 voting machine bond issue. A total of 2,836 voters were against the proposal while 2,024 backed the purchase of the machines with 30 of the 33 precincts in.

Six of the nine Iowa City precincts voted for the new city hall. The largest vote of approval came from the second precinct of the second ward which recorded a total of 309 affirmative votes.

The third ward offered the strongest opposition casting 256 ballots against the bond issue.

Only two precincts in Iowa City voted their approval for the voting machines. County voters voted strongly against the bond issue with only 4 of 30 precincts reported backing it.

Provost Davis To Head City-SUI Committee

SUI Provost Harvey H. Davis was elected chairman of the newly formed Iowa City-university relations committee at the first meeting of the group in Old Capitol Monday.

Robert G. Stevenson, chamber of commerce representative, was named vice chairman, and Keith Kafer, chamber of commerce manager, was elected secretary.

It was agreed that the offices of chairman and vice chairman will alternate each year between the university and the city. Next year's chairman will be a chamber of commerce man, while the vice chairman will be from the university.

19 Attend Meeting

Nineteen persons attended the meeting, which established the principles of the group, and named its major objective as the discussion of matters that concern both the city and the university.

Chairman Davis said that the two main points where agreement will be sought by the group are matters that require joint cooperation, and problems that might be sources of conflict between Iowa City and SUI.

The committee will have no authority to act after agreements have been reached, but probably will make its decision known by recommendations to the proper municipal or state governmental bodies or other organizations which do have authority.

The city-university group grew out of remarks made by SUI president, Virgil M. Hancher, at an annual Iowa City chamber of commerce meeting January 21.

At that time, Hancher said he felt that such a committee was needed in the community and could be of great service. Since then, chamber of commerce and university officials have named members to serve on the committee.

Hancher spoke to the meeting Monday, and re-affirmed his statement that the committee would be useful in getting viewpoints of both the city and the university on questions of mutual interest.

The committee can work to the advantage of both groups, Hancher said. He speculated that in the future there may be new facilities and services the university can offer to the city. These might include evening courses and additional cultural activities such as lectures and concerts, he said.

Hancher mentioned the desirability of a large auditorium that could be used by both the city and the university. "There may come a day when the city and university could work jointly on a project of that type," he added.

Expansion Problem Cited

He said that he hoped the problem of city and university expansion, in opposite directions to avoid congestion, will be worked out by the committee. This matter has recently been mentioned by university officials in connection with zoning changes in Iowa City.

Brief talks were also made at the meeting by Chamber of Commerce President Dean Jones, Mayor Leroy S. Mercer and City Manager Peter F. Roan. All expressed the hope that future cooperation stemming from the new committee will aid in solving many problems.

Roan said he felt that past differences between the city and university have been due to a lack of information on both sides, and the committee will offer a solution to that problem.

Discuss Daylight Savings

The question of adopting daylight savings time in Iowa City was discussed informally at the meeting. The city council is seeking opinions of SUI officials on the matter before making a decision to adopt the plan.

Future meetings of the new committee will be held at 4 p.m. on the first Monday of each month, alternately at the chamber of commerce office and the university. The next meeting is set for July 6 at the chamber of commerce.

Representatives of the university at the meeting Monday were Hancher; Davis; Dean E. T. Petersen of the college of education; Dr. Franklin Top, head of hygiene and preventative medicine; Prof. James Jordan, director of university relations; Prof. Paul Brechler, director of athletics; Prof. Robert Ray, director of the institute of public affairs; and Fred Ambrose, business manager and secretary of SUI.

Iowa City was represented by Jones, Stevenson, Kafer, Mercer, Roan, Harry B. Dunlap, W. W. Summerville, Norman B. Shaffer, Lyle Duncan, Roland Smith and Dale Welt.

High Court Upholds Government Control Over Natural Gas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court ruled Monday the federal government has authority to regulate the price of all natural gas flowing into interstate commerce.

It held 5-3 that the federal power commission may fix the rates for all natural gas produced and gathered by the Phillips Petroleum Co. and sold to pipeline companies for interstate consumption.

In one of two dissenting opinions, Justice Clark said the action of the majority of the court "brings every gas operator, from the smallest producer to the largest pipeline, under federal regulatory control."

"In so doing," Clark added, "the court acts contrary to the intention of congress, the understanding of the states, and that of the federal power commission itself. The federal power commission is thereby thrust into the regulatory domain traditionally reserved to the states."

The case involves millions of dollars. Lawyers have said it will affect more than 2,300 independent producers who sell natural gas directly to transmission companies.

Tucker, Trott Win Bids In County Attorney Race

Johnson county voters at Monday's primary election endorsed William M. Tucker for the Republican nomination for county attorney and Emil G. Trott as the Democratic candidate to oppose him in the November general election.

With unofficial returns reported early Tuesday from all of the 33 precincts in the county, Tucker was leading his opponent, Shirley Porter 1,267 to 1,161. Trott was out in front of William H. Bartley 1,401 to 901.

The county attorney race, the only one in which there were contests for the nomination on both ballots, was a close one all the way.

Republican voters in 17 precincts favored Tucker, while Porter led in 14 and two precincts were tied. Trott won the Democratic vote in 26 of the 33 precincts.

The race for the county attorney nomination was the only contest on the Republican ballot.

On the Democratic ballot, Frank J. Burns, retired Iowa City policeman, took the three-way race for the nomination for Johnson county sheriff with 1,311 votes. Glen G. Helmer followed Burns with 732 votes and Robert E. Rowe trailed with 279.

The only other contest on the Democratic ballot saw Robert J. Mahoney, Oxford, edge out Leo J. Tesar, Solon, for a term on the Johnson county board of supervisors beginning Jan. 1, 1956. M. A. Stahlke, Solon, was unchallenged in his bid for the term on the board beginning Jan. 1, 1955.

County Coroner George D. Callahan, Treasurer Lumir W. Jansa and Clerk of Court R. Neilson Miller were proposed for renomination on the Democratic ballot. Nor are they opposed by GOP candidates. 1,955

County Gives Schwengel Edge

Fred Schwengel, Davenport, carries Johnson county by 647 votes in his bid for the Republican nomination for United States representative from the first district.

With all precincts in the county reported, the unofficial count gave Schwengel 1,562 to 915 for Herman Lord, Muscatine.

In the Democratic race for the same office, John O'Connor polled 1,665 votes in the county to 469 for Henry Zimmerman, Davenport.

The county gave G. M. Ludwig, Tiffin, 1,384 votes to 1,271 votes for John Wilson, Iowa City, in the race for the Republican nomination for state representative from the forty-first district.

Scott Swisher, Iowa City, running unopposed for the Democratic nomination for state representative from the forty-first district, polled 1,778 votes.

1st Dist. Democrat 187 precincts of 297: O'Connor 4,029, Zimmerman 2,090.

Atty. Gen. Leo A. Hoegh, who campaigned against legalizing the sale of liquor by the drink in Iowa, appeared early today to have won the Republican nomination for governor.

On the basis of tabulated returns from more than three-fourths of the precincts in the state, the attorney general was given 38 per cent of the vote in the six-man contest, the feature of Monday's primary election.

2 Demos Behind Army's Charges, McCarthy Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged Monday the army accusations against him and his aides were instigated by two prominent Democrats in an effort to make the Republican party commit suicide and wreck the two-party system.

In an angry reply, Sen. Stuart D. Symington (D-Mo.), one of the Democrats named, blasted McCarthy as a spreader of "terrible" unfounded doubts as to the loyalty and integrity of the U.S. armed forces and the whole Eisenhower administration.

The McCarthy-Symington clash—bitterest yet to arise between them—also brought in the name of Clark Clifford, one-time chief aide to former President Harry S. Truman.

Clash Follows Calls

It came after the last 26 available monitored telephone calls were introduced as evidence in the televised hearings on the row between McCarthy and army officials.

These calls disclosed, among other things, that Secretary of the Army Robert Stevens took a personal interest on at least three occasions in the army career of G. David Schine, drafted McCarthy aide. Transcripts of Stevens' own calls showed:

1. Stevens spoke of making "every effort" to get a special investigating assignment for Schine as soon as the wealthy young New Yorker completed basic training.

A dispute developed over this call—did Stevens phone Schine, or did Schine call Stevens? In any case Schine, who took part personally in the argument, never did get such an assignment. He's still a private, as McCarthy has pointed out several times.

2. Stevens went to Allen W. Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence agency, on his own initiative to see if Schine could get an assignment with this super-secret counterespionage agency. Nothing came of it. McCarthy recently said there is evidence of "Communist infiltration" of the CIA, a charge Allen Dulles has denied.

3. Stevens rearranged two weeks of temporary duty in New York for Schine, starting immediately after his induction, for the purpose of completing work on McCarthy subcommittee business. The army secretary personally guaranteed to Roy M. Cohn, McCarthy's chief counsel and a friend of Schine, that this arrangement would go through. He invited Cohn to call him at once if any hitch developed.

McCarthy Lashes Symington
The Wisconsin senator lashed at Symington as "Sanctimonious Stu" and described him as "the man who would be president."

He said it was Clifford and Symington who stopped Stevens from testifying before the McCarthy subcommittee on the Zwicker incident, and who goaded the army secretary into filing the Schine charges after Stevens had expressed doubt there was very much substance to them.

The top man must gain 35 per cent of the total or the selection of the nominee will be left to the GOP state convention. Hoegh's percentage mounted as more and more precincts reported.

Nicholas 2d

Running in second place steadily was W. H. Nicholas, although Hoegh maintained a two to one margin. Third was Rep. Ernest Palmer, fourth A. B. Chambers, who made liquor an issue in the campaign; fifth Rep. William S. Lynes, and sixth Benjamin Ellsworth.

Johnson county voted with most of the state giving Hoegh a total of 1,086 as compared to his nearest opponent Palmer who received 573 votes.

Other Johnson county votes gave Nicholas 422, Chambers 350, Lynes 132 and Ellsworth 92.

Indication of Victory

Hoegh said early this morning that the results are an indication of victory. "I would not consider it a personal victory, but instead a victory for the principles for which I stood."

Those who won nominations without a contest included: Lieutenant governor—Lt. Gov. Leo Elthon, Fertile, Republican, and Maurice E. Rawlings, Sioux City, Democrat.

American Republics To Discuss Guatemala Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed diplomats said Monday wide agreement has been reached among the American republics to hold an inter-American foreign ministers conference with the Rio treaty and adopt a series of "prudent" measures to cope with rising communism in Guatemala. These officials said the accord among a substantial number of the 21 hemisphere nations embraces not only the advisability of holding a conference but also the general lines of the action to be taken. The United States has been consulting with the other hemisphere nations on the basis that this country believes there is sufficient grounds to invoke the Rio Military Defense pact.

Ike Again Calls for Congressional Support of Plan

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP)—President Eisenhower made another plea Monday for action in congress on his legislative program. He coupled the plea with a warning Americans must watch their government constantly to see it doesn't overstep its powers and become a government of "merely busybodies." The President talked informally, without prepared text or notes, after receiving an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from historic Washington college, here on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Rhee Claims U.S. Should Quit Geneva

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee said Monday the United States and South Korea should walk out of the Geneva conference immediately. "America is losing too much face every day," the South Korean President declared in an interview at the presidential mansion. Rhee said he had not abandoned the idea of "the use of force or the threat of force" for the unification of Korea, the issue which the Geneva conference has been debating fruitlessly. "The latter alternative is especially promising," Rhee continued. "It is obvious that the Soviet Union does not want and is not prepared for an all-out war at this time—and what the Soviet says is law for her minions."

Rhee urged anti-communist nations to abandon "talk and appeasement" and tell the Reds to get out of Indochina and Korea "or we shall fight you, using every weapon at our command and attacking every legitimate target." "I think," he said, "the Communists would heed such an ultimatum. Korea could then be unified, and the war in Indochina brought to an honorable conclusion." The President said that if the Communists ignored the warning, "We have no choice except to fight" in Korea, because otherwise the Communists "soon will have made the north into a colony of Red China."

Oust McCarthy Move Fails In Wisconsin

SAUK CITY, Wis. (AP)—The Joe Must Go club's movement to recall Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) failed Monday and the question immediately arose whether it helped or hurt the controversial junior senator from Wisconsin. Leroy Gore, Sauk City weekly newspaper editor, who started the drive to recall McCarthy from the senate, and other leaders, while admitting their drive had failed claimed that "it proved that anti-McCarthy sentiment would see him defeated in an election today."

McCarthy supporters, on the other hand, pointed to the fact that the Joe Must Go club, by its own admission, obtained only 335,000 signatures on petitions for a recall election. This figure, they said, is less than half of the number of voters who cast ballots against McCarthy when he was elected to the senate in 1952. McCarthy defeated Thomas Fairchild, a Democrat, in 1952 by a vote of 870,444 to 731,402. The Wisconsin senator took no public notice of the recall movement. It was necessary for the Joe Must Go club to obtain 403,904 signatures on recall petitions before the names could be submitted to the secretary of state for a decision on their validity. Had the drive succeeded there still was a question whether an election would have been ordered because many experts believe the congress is the sole judge of its members. Gore said that "nearly 400,000" signatures had been obtained on the petitions over to Dist. Atty. estimate that only 335,000 were valid.

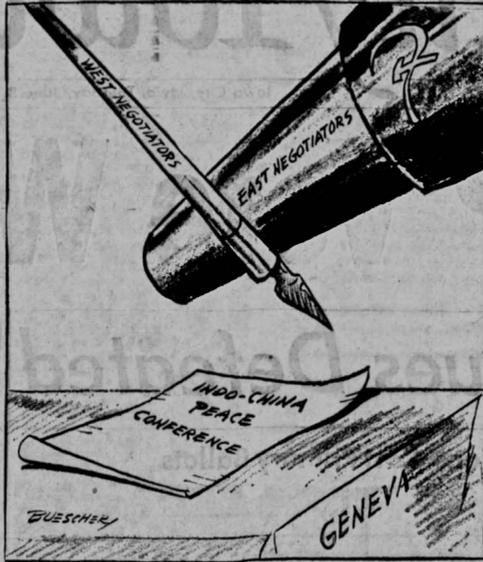

Tense Parliament Approves Jap National Police Bill

TOKYO (AP) The Diet Monday approved Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's national police bill in a tense session boycotted by Socialists and guarded heavily by police. Visitors were barred from the Diet building. Guards were increased around Yoshida himself as talk of assassination increased. Some newspapers even talked openly of assassination. The Socialists, who charge Japan is returning to a state of prewar fascism, also faced a vote of censure for last Thursday's riot in the Diet during which 50 persons were injured. Yoshida's Liberal Conservative party at a committee session in the lower house decided to bring up a censure motion Wednesday against 46 Socialists they accused of being major offenders in last week's violence.

A WOMAN LEGISLATOR'S DRESS is torn during Thursday's riot in the Japanese parliament. Forty-six were injured during the 20-minute uproar over measures to centralize rural and urban police in Japan.

The Persuaders

Paris, Geneva Await Molotov's Next Move

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov clearly dominated the negotiations for peace in Indochina Monday night on the eve of a conference session which may provide the key to the future of that war-torn region. Molotov, after six weeks of futile debate, was expected to make an important statement of Communist policy at today's 17th session on Indochina. His declaration may have an important bearing on the deadlocked peace talks here. It may decide also the future of Premier Joseph Laniel's government in Paris and the head of the French delegation here, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. Molotov and Bidault: Molotov's views will reach Paris as the national assembly engages in crucial debate on the Indochina policy of the French government. An attack here by the Soviet diplomat on Bidault could have serious repercussions for his government. Many believe Molotov asked for a semi-public session of the conference today with the assembly debate in mind.

Molotov talked to Bidault for nearly an hour Monday in what French sources described as a "cordial atmosphere." They discussed the long debated subject of a neutral commission to police the hoped for cease fire in Indochina, but failed to reach agreement on its composition, the sources said. Bidault was reported prepared to make one concession—that the neutral nations supervision commission might include one Communist nation. The Communists earlier had asked that the supervisory commission for Indochina should be modeled after the Korean commission, which consisted of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Switzerland and Sweden.

The U.S. pointed to the unimpressive record of the Korean commission and rejected this set-up for Indochina. Switzerland and Sweden have repeatedly complained they were unable to carry out their control mission in North Korea because of Communist obstruction. Now apparently the Communists have reduced their demand to one Communist "neutral" on the commission. Bidault was reported as being persuaded that a body with three Asian nations, one Communist and one Western nation might be the solution. There was no indication the U.S. had changed its view against putting a Communist nation on the commission.

Asked About NATO Next, he wanted to know whether North Atlantic Treaty Organization objectives, which have always been ahead of actual accomplishments, were going to be revised. Turkey, which has never wavered in her determination to face Russia with everything she can possibly muster, has been unable to meet her assigned quota. She became alarmed last year when Washington announced its intention of cutting aid. Without it, Ankara said, she would fall still farther behind. The Turks also pointed out that their economic development was making steady progress toward the point where they would soon be far better able to assume a greater proportion of the military burden themselves. The whole plan, they argued, would fall short of completion without continued aid.

Several Factors Recognized The money grant indicates that the U.S. recognizes several factors: 1. Turkey is the only feather in the allied cap in the Middle East unless you include Pakistan, which some chancelleries do when using that geographical term. 2. There is talk of including her in the group of western countries—France, Britain and the U.S.—which has guaranteed to maintain the status quo between Israel and the Arab States under the Palestine truce, which is constantly being strained toward the breaking point. 3. Turkey must play an important role if Iran and Iraq, where she is not very well liked, are to fill the break between Turkey and Pakistan in the free world defense line. Increasing aid to Turkey, assuring these countries of America's growing interest in the area, is important bait to them.

Over and above these specific things, the increase is also significant against a background of increasing world tension. The U.S. may be able to meet it in part by geographical shifts of defense emphasis. But there is no assurance now that the economy line can be held at all.

High Court Upholds Lobbyists Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—The supreme court Monday upheld the constitutionality of provisions in the 1946 law which require congressional lobbyists to register and file financial reports. To rule otherwise, Chief Justice Warren said in delivering the 5-3 decision, "would be to deny congress in large measure the power of self-protection." The court said, however, it was not necessary at this time to decide the constitutionality of a provision in the Lobbying act setting up penalties for violations. That question, Warren said, could be settled separately if suits are filed later involving persons sentenced under the law.

French General Admits Annam Campaign Loss

SAIGON, Indochina (AP)—Gen. Henri Navarre admitted Monday night failure of a five-month French Union campaign intended to smash Vietminh strength in central Annam. He said this might pose an even greater immediate threat to his successor than the situation in the Red river delta. Navarre described as "pure hysteria" reports that the delta was in imminent peril. Advances from Hanoi said the rebels were pushing closer to the delta from Dien Bien Phu in an attempt to close a pincers on that northernmost strategic area of Indochina. Navarre, who has been relieved as commander-in-chief in Indochina, told newsmen the operation launched in January to seize a long strip of Viet Nam's coast had met with no success. French Union forces established a beach head at Tuy Hoa, 250 miles northeast of Saigon, last Jan. 21 in what was billed then as their first large scale offensive not aimed primarily at warding off rebel blows.

But Navarre said his troops—mostly Vietnamese—failed to destroy six Vietminh regiments operating in the area. Last week the French high command said 200 Vietnamese were wiped out and 100 more mauled by Vietminh troops at Cung Son, 25 miles west of Tuy Hoa. Navarre said the central Annam situation held more potential danger for his successor, Gen. Paul Ely, than the delta.

The retiring commander said the six Vietminh regiments in central Annam could strike southward from the Kontum Plateau toward Dalat, only 120 miles northeast of Saigon, and the summer capital of Bao Dai, Viet Nam's chief of state. In an open letter to his troops, Navarre said the calling of the Geneva conference had caused the Vietminh to move ahead of its plans for an offensive.

He assailed as false, rumors spread since the fall of Dien Bien Phu that he had defended upper Laos for political reasons; that he had ignored an alternate plan from his subordinates for defense of the northwest Indochina fortress. Navarre said it was militarily necessary to keep Luang Prabang and Vientiane, the royal and administrative capitals, of Laos, from falling into Vietminh hands because their loss would have opened Thailand and Cambodia to invasion and with them all of southeast Asia.

Stevens Resigns As Grinnell Head

GRINNELL (AP)—Dr. Samuel N. Stevens, president of Grinnell college for the past 14 years, resigned Monday, effective at once, and the trustees designated Rupert A. Hawk acting president until a successor to Stevens is selected. Announcement of the change was made by the trustees, who said Stevens' resignation was accepted "with regret." Stevens said his plans were not definite but added that he would spend a "good deal of my time taking care of my management consultant business." In addition to his college duties, Stevens has been an active partner in the firm of Stevens, Thuro and Associates of Chicago, psychological consultants to industries. Stevens, now 53 years old, was 39 when elected president of Grinnell in June, 1940. He came to Grinnell from Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where he had served for 16 years.

A hundred million dollars is only small change in America's world-wide defense program, but it is a significant break in the Washington administration's effort to hold down on foreign aid.

When Premier Menderes of Turkey arrived in this country he was seeking the answers to various questions. Getting the money, which practically doubles the military aid program for Turkey during the next year, was a partial answer.

In trying to set up his own program, Menderes wanted to know what the U.S. planned for the next four years. He got no answer to that one.

Next, he wanted to know whether North Atlantic Treaty Organization objectives, which have always been ahead of actual accomplishments, were going to be revised.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR., Associated Press News Analyst

A hundred million dollars is only small change in America's world-wide defense program, but it is a significant break in the Washington administration's effort to hold down on foreign aid.

When Premier Menderes of Turkey arrived in this country he was seeking the answers to various questions. Getting the money, which practically doubles the military aid program for Turkey during the next year, was a partial answer.

In trying to set up his own program, Menderes wanted to know what the U.S. planned for the next four years. He got no answer to that one.

Next, he wanted to know whether North Atlantic Treaty Organization objectives, which have always been ahead of actual accomplishments, were going to be revised.

Turkey, which has never wavered in her determination to face Russia with everything she can possibly muster, has been unable to meet her assigned quota. She became alarmed last year when Washington announced its intention of cutting aid. Without it, Ankara said, she would fall still farther behind.

The Turks also pointed out that their economic development was making steady progress toward the point where they would soon be far better able to assume a greater proportion of the military burden themselves. The whole plan, they argued, would fall short of completion without continued aid.

Several Factors Recognized The money grant indicates that the U.S. recognizes several factors: 1. Turkey is the only feather in the allied cap in the Middle East unless you include Pakistan, which some chancelleries do when using that geographical term.

2. There is talk of including her in the group of western countries—France, Britain and the U.S.—which has guaranteed to maintain the status quo between Israel and the Arab States under the Palestine truce, which is constantly being strained toward the breaking point.

3. Turkey must play an important role if Iran and Iraq, where she is not very well liked, are to fill the break between Turkey and Pakistan in the free world defense line. Increasing aid to Turkey, assuring these countries of America's growing interest in the area, is important bait to them.

Over and above these specific things, the increase is also significant against a background of increasing world tension. The U.S. may be able to meet it in part by geographical shifts of defense emphasis. But there is no assurance now that the economy line can be held at all.

Falling Tree Limb Damages 2 Cars

No one was injured, but an estimated $1,300 worth of damages to two cars resulted Monday afternoon when a tree limb crashed down on the vehicles in the parking area near the Iowa City park swimming pool, Iowa City police reported. A car owned by Everett Buline of Lone Tree, sustained an estimated $1,000 in damages when the branch smashed the roof of the hard-top convertible. Damages of $300 to another car, belonging to Carl E. Schilling, 18, 25 N. Van Buren st., also resulted.

AEC To Consider Only Written Pleas For Oppenheimer

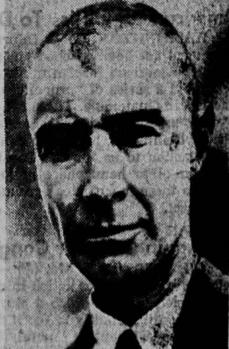

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy commission said Monday night it cannot permit attorneys for Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer to make oral pleas for his reinstatement but will give "very careful consideration" to their written arguments. The AEC said it is permitting the written brief to be offered although security clearance procedures "make no provision for submission of a brief, or for oral argument," when a case comes before the commission itself. A June 3 letter from AEC general manager K. D. Nichols to Lloyd K. Garrison, Oppenheimer's attorney, giving the commission position was made public tonight, the AEC said, because parts of the letter had appeared in the press. A special three-man board ruled 2-1 last Tuesday that Oppenheimer, 50-year-old father of this country's atomic bomb, was a "loyal citizen" but declared him a security risk. This barred him from any further access to atomic-hydrogen bomb secrets. Oppenheimer's attorneys asked the AEC to bypass the usual review by the commission's Personnel Security Review board and take the case "under immediate consideration" itself.

Memphis College Bars 5 Negroes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Five Negroes tried to enter Memphis State College Monday. They were not accepted. The students went to the college after a conference with the Rev. Van J. Malone, Baptist minister and president of the Memphis branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and James F. Estes, attorney for the NAACP. Estes had said previously the NAACP will go to court if the Negroes were turned down. The Negroes appeared in line with about 200 students waiting to register for the summer term. There were no incidents. R. P. Clark, registrar, told the five he could not accept them until he gets instructions from the State Board of Education. Memphis State President J. M. Smith said he had instructed the registrar "not to accept applications from Negroes: My position will remain unchanged until the Supreme Court decides when and how its decision banning segregation in public schools is to be carried out."

Sunbathers Exhibit Stages of Suntan

THE THREE COEDS in this picture represent various stages of suntan. Jonne Shiley, A2, Graettinger, left, showed a general all over tan. Jean Ewers, A3, Iowa City, center, showed a bright pink on the backs of her legs, indicating she is due to turn over. Sally Coddington, A3, Sioux Falls, S.D., had a pink glow on all of her exposed skin, indicating she should be inside the house.

Sunbathers Advised To Be Cautious

By JIM OWENS
Dr. Chester I. Miller, SUI student health director, has offered some hints to sunbathers eager to acquire an early suntan. A suntan is all right, he said, but one should start sensibly and use caution to avoid a bad burn. Miller's advice comes at a time when SUI students are finding that suntans are back in fashion. A few rosy burns and some real tans can already be seen on the tennis courts across from the library, and it is reported that as many as fifty girls at a time can be found on the Currier sundecks on any clear day. If one has ever had a bad reaction from exposure to the sun, it is wise to use great caution in sunbathing, Miller said. For example, if the sun's heat causes headaches it is best to stay out of the sun, as such a reaction shows lack of resistance to the sunlight. Cancer Occurrence Nearly every year some medical authorities warn against too much exposure to direct sunlight, on grounds that such exposure is related to skin cancer occurrence. There seems to be some basis for the warning, as 90 per cent of the cases occur on the face and other exposed parts. According to one study, skin cancer cases are eight times as frequent among U.S. navy men, who often must work in direct sunlight, as among the population in general. Miller said many physicians believe continuous exposure to sunlight is at least a probable predisposing factor in the occurrence of skin cancer. A tan that is too dark may injure the layer of skin containing the tan-producing pigmentation, he said. An example of such an overdose tan is the extremely dark "cooked" skin of lifeguards and others who must work in the sunlight without protection. May Be Beneficial In spite of the risk of sunburn or other harmful effects of sunbathing, Dr. Miller said that a sensibly acquired tan is beneficial. The absorbed sunlight aids in the body metabolism of certain vitamins needed for good health. He pointed out that each person must find his own system for best getting tanned. The method should be worked out with caution, by the individual. In general, he said, the fairer one's complexion, the greater is the chance of getting burned instead of tanned. One should start by exposing himself to the sun only a short time each day—about 15 minutes is right for most people. Use of oil or lotion on the skin while sunbathing helps keep the skin from becoming dry or cracked. Miller admits that advice, and even bitter experience, doesn't always teach one proper respect for the sun. "You'd expect people to be more reasonable," he said, "but we have the same ones turn up at Student Health every year to be treated for sunburn. We fix them up, and the next year they're back—burned to a frazzle."

City Council To Decide Time Problem

Whether Iowa City will follow suit and adopt daylight saving time as 21 other southeastern Iowa towns have done will be determined today by the city council after a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. The council decided on this procedure after discussing the time change at a special meeting Saturday afternoon. Councilman Walter L. Daykin, head of industrial management at SUI, indicated Monday afternoon that he urged the public hearing before final action so that everyone wanting to present his own views would have that opportunity. "I'm just interested in settling the issue democratically," Daykin emphasized.

SUI To Give Views

One reason the hearing was scheduled, council members said, was to enable the SUI administration to present its views on the time change. Robert Yetter, Iowa City businessman who presented a petition signed by daylight time advocates to the council last week, told the Daily Iowan Monday evening that the chief advantage of the time switch for Iowa Citizens is that an extra hour of daylight would be made available. "An extra hour to spend in outdoor recreation or gardening will be welcomed by many local people who work inside during the day," said Yetter.

Commuters Cited

The 21 Iowa towns now on daylight time include Cedar Rapids, Marion, Mt. Vernon, Davenport and Muscatine. Most of these towns turned their clock head an hour Sunday morning. Signatures of 1,887 persons favoring the time change and 81 opposed to the switch had been presented by petition to the council before the Saturday meeting.

Opposition Indicated

Postcards were mailed Monday afternoon to retail members of the Chamber of Commerce to determine their views on daylight saving time. Secretary Keith Kasper reported Monday evening. Mayor Leroy S. Mercer said at the Saturday meeting that Veterans administration hospital officials have expressed opposition to daylight time. Mercer also read part of a letter he received from a farmer which indicated that daylight time would be inconvenient for farmers. Yetter told the council Saturday that he did not feel that farmers would be antagonistic to the time switch. Farmers have signed the petitions, Yetter said.

Ladd, Zopf Given Honorary Degrees At Graduations

Two SUI deans have received honorary degrees at Grinnell and University of Nebraska commencement exercises. Dean Mason Ladd, of the law college, received an honorary LL.D. degree Sunday at Grinnell. Ladd had delivered the annual Phi Beta Kappa address at the college Friday. He was graduated from Grinnell in 1920. He has headed the law school here since 1939. Dean Louis C. Zopf, of the college of pharmacy, was given an honorary doctor of science degree from the University of Nebraska Monday. He has been dean of the college of pharmacy for about two years. Other recipients of the honorary degrees from Grinnell were Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and John H. Spencer, adviser on foreign affairs to Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia.

Youths Lose Use Of Bikes for Month

Two 14-year-old Iowa City boys who were discovered by police at 12:30 a.m., Sunday riding bicycles without headlights have lost the use of their bicycles for 30 days. The youths were found early Sunday in the 400 block of S. Gilbert st., and were charged by police with falling to have headlights on the bicycles. After the boys appeared in police court Monday and admitted to judge Emil G. Trott that they did not have lights, he ordered that the bicycles be impounded by police for 30 days. The boys told the judge they had gone to a movie Saturday night and were riding around for about an hour after they left the theater.

Rights, Duties of Iowa Labor To Be Viewed at Conference

Iowa labor will examine its rights and responsibilities in American economics and law and in world affairs June 14-18 at the Iowa Center for Continuation Study. Classes of the third annual labor short course conducted jointly by the Iowa state federation of labor and the SUI bureau of labor and management will open Monday, June 14, with sessions on labor law and history. Featured speakers of the week include Jay Lovestone on "Labor in World Affairs" Tuesday evening and John M. Brumm on "Union Health Problems" Wednesday morning. Lovestone is executive director of the committee for the nation's health appointed by President Eisenhower. Iowa labor leaders on the program include Ray Mills, Des Moines, ISFL president; John E. Cosgrove, Des Moines, ISFL director of education and research, and Henry Schwenker, Burlington member of the ISFL executive board. A panel discussion Thursday afternoon on "Union Security in Iowa" will bring together Andrew Frommelt, Iowa legislator from Dubuque, Chester Morgan of the SUI department of labor and management; Mills, Cosgrove and Schwenker. Other SUI staff members who will participate in sessions of the labor short course include President Virgil M. Hancher; Karl E. Lieb, acting director of the SUI bureau of labor and management; Prof. Walter Day-

Girl Scouts To Hold Day Camp in Park

Ninety-three intermediate scouts of Cardinal council of Girl Scouts have registered for intermediate scout day camp. Mrs. Hugh Carson, executive director of the council and director of the camp said. The camp will open Wednesday at the Iowa City park. Meetings will be held there from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, 7:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. Friday; and again Wednesday, June 16, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Headquarters are in the park's log cabins. The last meeting of the day camp will be at Camp Cardinal, Thursday, June 17, from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. Families and friends of the Girl Scouts are invited to a campfire to be held at 7 p.m. at this meeting. Fifth grade scouts will work toward completing requirements for badges as second class girl scouts, sixth graders will work on the camp craft badge and older girls will concentrate on earning the rambler badge. Counselors for the camp meetings are: Mrs. Louis Shimon, Mrs. Paul Farnsworth, Mrs. William Stickleford, Dolores Walljasper, Janet Olson, Donna Lou Nelson, Nada Wharton, Kay Moore, Martha Spitzer, Linda Vanderhoef, Bev Brown, Aggie Kerr, Betty Shima, Nan Kettleon, Lida O'Rear, Mary Lee Nagle, Sharon Thornberry, Erma Jean Connley and Joan Michener.

Trott Chosen Director Of State Bar Fund

Atty. Emil G. Trott, Iowa City police court judge, has been elected one of nine directors of the Iowa State Bar foundation. Trott was elected at the state convention of the bar association in Des Moines last week. The foundation's directors administer a fund of more than $100,000, contributed by lawyers throughout Iowa. Among the purposes of the fund are scholarships for law students.
