West Branch Readies Big Day For Hoover

Expects Thousands For Favorite Son's 80th Birthday Party

The eyes of the nation will be on West Branch, Ia., Aug. 10, and the people of that community are making certain there will be plenty to see.

On that day Herbert Hoover, Iowa's only son ever to become president of the United States, will come home to celebrate his 80th birthday in West Branch, where he was born Aug. 10, 1874.

Hoover himself suggested the picnic dinner when he celebrated his 74th birthday there in 1948.

The event is expected to attract more than 50,000 visitors who will crowd Hoover park to see the ex-president cut his birthday cake. The cake will measure about two feet square at the base.

Television Tower Built
Special preparations for the day are vast and numerous. A television tower has been built on the south edge of the park to enable national television networks to carry the celebration.

Electric lines for the radio, television, and refreshment stands have been erected.

Local volunteer carpenters have constructed a 16 by 30 foot speaker's platform.

A first aid committee, with a doctor and three or four nurses has been set up to handle emergencies that may happen during the day.

The Women's Society for Christian service, largest such organization in town, will prepare the food for the birthday dinner to be attended by Hoover, his two sons, their families, and special guests.

Food Cooked at Home
The food will be cooked in the homes of some 40 local women, and then taken to the park by a special route and through a special park entrance.

The menu will include: fried chicken, potato salad, sweet corn, and apple sauce.

In addition to the television stations, several nationwide magazines, newspapers, and press services are expected to publicize the festivities.

To make preparations for the day 10 committees have been set up in the last six months to handle the program.

Iowans To Pay Bill
Iowa industrialists and businessmen will foot the bill of several thousand dollars, through the finance committee headed by Robert K. Goodwin, Des Moines.

To accommodate the increased number of telephone calls, the transcontinental cable, one mile south of West Branch, has been connected to local phones.

More than 20 leased wires have been contracted for, in addition to the regular telegraph and wire news services.

Ira A. Buckles, of the Iowa attorney general's office, will be in charge of security for the day. Oliver A. White, Iowa City police chief, will be in charge of the uniformed police officers at the celebration.

Legion To Guide Traffic
Traffic in the town will be

Herbert Hoover
Celebration Planned

directed to fields near the area for parking facilities, by members of the American Legion from West Branch, Tipton, and West Liberty.

A special pass signed by a West Branch resident will be necessary to park in a yard inside town.

Explorer scouts will guard the equipment in the park the night before the big day.

Twenty-four scouts from all over Iowa will serve as guards and messengers during the celebration.

16 Bands To Play
Music for the event will be provided by 16 bands made up of 700 young musicians.

To provide the gathering with enough cold soda pop, the local boy scouts have acquired four stock water tanks.

The local Commercial club has assumed the task of decorating the town for "Hoover Day."

As one task is completed another arises. West Branch intends to make the day the biggest in its history.

New Housing Bill Signed into Law; Cuts Down Payment

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday signed a housing bill which he said will mean that "millions of our families with modest incomes will be able, for the first time, to buy new or used homes."

"Families will be helped to enlarge or modernize their present homes," he added in a signing ceremony at the White House.

As much as Eisenhower liked the new law, it fell short of his request to congress for 140,000 new low-rent public housing units, to be subsidized by the government, during the next four years.

To Build 35,000 Units
Congress voted to authorize 35,000 public units during the fiscal year which started July 1, and these will be permitted only for families displaced by slum clearance projects. It provided for none in the years beyond.

Loans insured by the Federal Housing administration could run as long as 30 years.

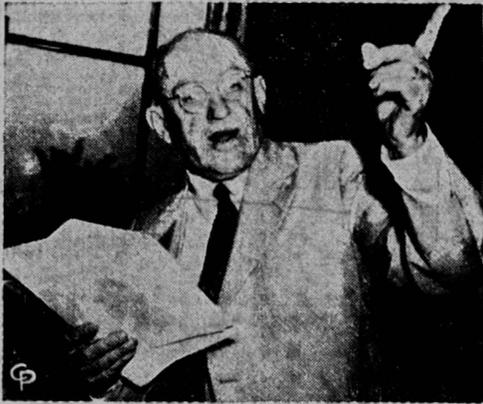

World News Briefs

A Condensation of Late Developments

France To Quit Colonies in India, Paper Says
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Indian newspaper Statesman reported Monday night that France has decided to quit her small colonial enclaves in India on Aug. 14, the day before the anniversary of Indian independence. The Statesman said Andre Menard, French commissioner at Pondicherry, capital of the French settlements in India, announced the decision to a meeting of leading citizens there Monday night. The newspaper added that the first ship to take departing French families back home will call at Pondicherry, capital of the French settlements in India, on Wednesday.

France, East Germany To Increase Trade
BERLIN (AP)—Soviet-occupied East Germany announced Monday night an agreement with French representatives to increase trade between the two countries by 25 per cent. The East German government news agency, ADN, said the agreement was reached in negotiations last month between the East Zone Trade Ministry and representatives of the "French commercial services in Germany." Without specifying exact quantities or the length of the agreement, it said the French will deliver phosphates, shoes, textiles, and other products. The East Germans will send toys and machinery, including office machines.

Asks Censure of McCarthy

SENATOR RALPH E. FLANDERS (R-Vt.) waves his bill of particulars against Senator Joseph McCarthy. He is asking the senate for a vote of censure against the Wisconsin senator. McCarthy has told reporters there could be "no compromise" over Flanders' resolution.

SUI Experts Send Rockets Soaring into 'Charged Air'

Four SUI physicists are members of an expedition which has just completed a series of 13 ROCKOON—combination rocket and balloon—flights, launched from a navy icebreaker in the Arctic to study cosmic ray activity, the office of naval research announced Monday.

Sponsored jointly by the ONR and the atomic energy commission, the high-altitude experiments were conducted aboard the USS ATKA between July 15 and 28. Major objective was to probe the ionosphere—a layer of electrically charged air beginning 25 miles above the earth—and to attempt to rediscover, if possible, a large number of "low energy particles" detected during similar cosmic ray observations in 1953.

Detect Energy Particles
Further evidence of the particles was obtained during the latest studies, but identification of their nature and origin awaits complete analysis of the data, according to the ONR announcement.

Iowa scientists taking part in this year's experiments include Robert Ellis, research associate in physics at SUI and assistant professor of physics at Tennessee A & I Institute; Frank B. McDonald, research associate in physics; Jason Ellis, research assistant in physics, and Warren German, technician on leave from Collins Radio company in Cedar Rapids.

Rockets Send Signals
Each Rockoon consisted of a 68-foot diameter balloon from which was suspended a DEACON meteorological rocket, a technique invented two years ago by Prof. James A.

Van Allen, head of SUI's physics department. Each balloon carries its rocket to a height several miles above the earth, after which the rocket is fired and continues into the upper atmosphere, carrying sensitive measuring instruments which send radio signals back to a ground station for recording.

Last year the balloon-assisted rockets reached heights up to 64.4 miles. Begun seven years ago by the ONR, the high altitude research is known as Project Skyhook. This is the third successive summer in which SUI physicists have taken part in Skyhook expeditions.

Typical Summer Weather in U.S.

Typical summer weather prevailed throughout the nation Monday, the Associated Press said. Temperatures in the 90's were spread across the South from southern Arizona into the southeast Atlantic states, with the highest reading 99 degrees at Needles, Calif.

In the east, cool air and cloudiness kept temperatures in the 70's and 80's. On the Pacific Coast, on-shore winds held readings mostly in the 50's from San Francisco northward.

A continuation of rain which began Sunday broke a drought that had threatened serious damage to crops in southern Illinois.

Cadets, Army Stage Revolt In Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—A revolt of military cadets, backed up by the army, broke out in Guatemala Monday and President Carlos Castillo Armas was forced to agree to disband his irregular "liberation" forces after a day of sporadic fighting.

Representatives of Castillo Armas' ruling junta signed an agreement Monday night with delegates of the Guatemalan regular army which apparently ended the conflict.

The agreement, signed on lines fixed by the regulars, provided for disbanding the ragged anti-Communist "liberation army" which invaded Guatemala from Honduras in June and brought Castillo Armas to power by overthrowing the leftist regime of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman.

6 Persons Killed
The army threw its full support behind the military academy cadets whose row with the irregulars broke out early Monday in bloody fighting in which six persons were reported killed and 18 injured.

One report said the fighting mushroomed out of a drunken brawl at a house of prostitution between cadets and irregulars.

Broadcasting a communique shortly after seizing the station in the heart of the capital, the army charged the Castillo Armas irregulars had "humiliated the national army."

It said an ultimatum had been issued to Castillo Armas and Maj. Enrique Oliva, second man in the three-man junta, demanding the immediate dissolution of the "liberation army."

Threatened All-Out Attack
Although the communique did not say so, it was reported unofficially the army men who seized the station threatened an all-out attack against the irregulars if they were not ordered disbanded.

A spokesman for the Guatemalan foreign office, meanwhile, denied an earlier report heard here that the government had charged the disturbances were part of a revolt plot hatched in the Mexican embassy. That embassy is harboring a political refugee ousted President Guzman and many of his leftist and pro-Communist supporters.

The fighting mounted during the day between the cadets, Guatemala's future officers, and the irregulars, many of whom wear no uniforms but are well armed with machineguns, pistols and rifles.

Then regular army troops from the Aurora air base outside Guatemala City came to the aid of the cadets.

There has been bitter rivalry between the army and the irregulars ever since Castillo Armas marched in from neighboring Honduras early last month and took over.

The fighting broke out at 4 a.m. near Roosevelt hospital on the city's outskirts. The liberation army has been encamped there since the end of its successful revolt last month.

As the fighting continued, Communist groups in Guatemala City tried to organize antigovernment demonstrations. All such attempts were broken by troops loyal to the junta.

There was no confirmation here of a rumor abroad that a Communist-inspired uprising had developed at El Progreso, 50 miles from the capital.

Polly Want $100? Awk! Just Squawk 'Vote for Fisher'

NEW YORK (AP)—Two Democratic primary candidates Monday offered a $100 defense bond for the loan of any parakeet that can say: "Vote for Fisher" and/or "Vote for Jacobs."

The candidates are Milton Fisher, seeking nomination for the state Senate in Brooklyn's 12th District, and Harold Jacobs, assembly candidate in the 18th district.

At least three persons in their headquarters must be able to clearly make out what the bird is saying, if it's to be eligible.

Should the publicity stunt pan out and enough qualified birds show up, Fisher and Jacobs look forward to carting them around their election districts twittering out their messages.

6-Man Bipartisan Group Approved by Senate 75-12

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate voted Monday night to set up a six-man, bipartisan committee to look into the question of whether it should censure Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) for his Communist-hunting tactics.

The vote was 75 to 12 in favor of the proposal. McCarthy voted present but most of his supporters backed the committee plan.

McCarthy Shows Letter Blasting General Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Harry H. Woodring, former secretary of war, said in a letter made public by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) Monday that Gen. George C. Marshall "would sell out his own grandmother for personal advantage."

Woodring confirmed at Topeka, Kan., that he had written the letter, to Robert M. Harris, a New York friend, in thanking Harris for sending him a copy of the book "McCarthy and His Enemies."

Woodring elaborated in his comment Monday to say that he had once held Marshall in high esteem but "I lost faith in him" after Marshall's mission to China following World War II. Woodring said Marshall "sold out" Chiang Kai-shek, the Nationalist leader, who was later driven from the mainland by the Communists.

Woodring Recalls Letter

Woodring said he recalled that in the letter to Harris he had said Marshall "would sell out his own grandmother."

McCarthy asked that the letter—addressed to "Dear Bob"—be published in the Congressional Record. He told reporters the Bob is "Bob Harris, just a fellow in New York," whom McCarthy knows.

McCarthy brought out the letter after Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) had urged the senate to censure McCarthy for, among other reasons, an attack McCarthy made on Marshall in a senate speech in 1951.

The letter was dated June 23, 1954.

Describes 'Sell Out'

It described Marshall as a man who would "sell out his policies, beliefs and standards to maintain his political and military position with the powers that be."

McCarthy told the senate that Woodring had "indicated" he had no objection to publication of the letter in the Congressional Record. He told a reporter "another senator" had obtained a copy of the letter and made it available to McCarthy.

McCarthy, in his attack on Marshall in 1951, said Marshall is "steeped in falsehood" and had swayed historic decisions in favor of Russian interests.

WRITE OFF $87

DES MOINES (AP)—The state department of agriculture was authorized by the Iowa Executive council Monday to "write off" from its books a total of about $87 it cannot collect. Department Secretary Clyde Spry said the total involved about 10 checks taken in over a year ago.

Thomas To Lecture Tonight

Norman Thomas—author, editor, and six-time candidate for President on the Socialist party ticket—will deliver the fourth lecture of the SUI summer series at 8 p.m. tonight on the west approach of Old Capitol.

That is the idea of a compromise plan, involving an understanding that the senate will

Thomas will speak on "Civil Liberties and the Cold War." A familiar figure to Iowa lecture audiences, Thomas spoke on "A Faith For Our Times" at SUI in the summer of 1949. At that time he pleaded for a world fellowship of free and rational men and a faith for our time—for rational, humane and logical solutions of problems.

Thomas, a successful author, published his latest book, "A Test of Freedom," this spring. It analyzes both communism and "McCarthyism" as threats to traditional American freedoms. His other books include "Appeal to the Nations," "America's Way Out," "Human Exploitation," and "What Is Our Destiny?"

Born in Marion, Ohio, in 1884, Thomas is a graduate of Princeton university and Union Theological seminary.

Following the lecture, a forum will be held in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

In case of rain, the lecture will be delivered in Macbride auditorium.

The End of KP?

KITCHEN POLICE — "Enlisted men detailed to assist the cooks in an army mess; also, their work."
Webster's International Dictionary

A memorable GI tradition that dates back to the Civil War is about to be booted out the window by the Air Force. Kitchen Police, or KP, as it is remembered by millions of former GIs, exists no longer at Vance Air Force base near Enid, Okla. Instead, the base has hired a catering firm from Chicago to pull KP for the airmen.

The results of such a move could have a shattering effect on future GIs.

They'll never know what goes through a hungry soldier's mind as a half-asleep KP dumps the tossed salad on the mashed potatoes with his right hand, while the left hand sneaks up and smother the meat loaf with sliced peaches before you can move your tray.

The catering firm provides separate plates for each dish. They'll never know the thrill of standing in the rain to wash out their mess kits in a steaming GI can full of soapy water. And what will they use the worn-out GI brushes for now?

The catering firm provides waitresses who clear the tables after the airmen have finished eating.

They'll never know the feeling of reminiscing at American Legion conventions about the time "Ole Sarjint Mole kept Tam Kane on KP 19 hours Thanksgiving day back in '54."

It looks like KP is really on the way out.

We're wondering what will happen to the unforgettable military species known as the mess sergeant. Will he become extinct, pushed off his throne by a bunch of civilians, or will he continue to reign supreme over his mess hall?

And will the airmen still be able to grab a quick cup of coffee and a sandwich any time of the day or night?

These are questions that enter our mind when the KP tradition is on the block because such things are part of the way of life in the military. It seems a shame to see them fall by the wayside.

In fact, we hope they don't.

U.S. Map Makers Foil Red Delaying Tactics

By EUGENE KRAMER

TOKYO (AP) — Inches of ground, $38.72 in cash and shrinking paper all played delaying roles in the final Korean armistice negotiations a year ago. The skilled Americans who turned out — to Communist specification — the official truce maps are still talking about it.

"The Communists were trying to pass us out. They specified the type of maps thinking we couldn't do the job," says C.W.O. Searfoss Jr., an army printing expert. "But we delivered and I figure that forced them to buy the truce."

The general area of the truce line had been set. The UNC wasn't quibbling about minute details in those final days of the fighting — June and July, 1953. But the Reds were ready to quibble so they, in effect, called signals on the mapmaking.

Communist complaints and specifications, map sketches and proofs "were flying like fury back and forth" between Tokyo and the Panmunjom truce site, says M. Sgt. Robert Dow of San Francisco, of the 34th topographic battalion.

Fiestas were shrinking paper. The Reds sketched the truce line on old U. S. maps which had shrunk slightly from the master map printing plates in Tokyo, Dow says. So the line on new, unshrunk maps was slightly off. But the Reds wanted it the first way.

"They got to quibbling over a foot of ground. Maybe the line nicked off the corner of a house, which is only .02 of an inch on a map. If I'd been sitting on the truce delegation, I'd have blown my top," Dow says.

Finally new master plates were made up just for the truce maps, adjusting to the original shrunken paper regardless of correctness.

The Reds demanded a purple truce line, Searfoss says. But this couldn't be produced without an extra printing, introducing a slight inaccuracy, "bolterizing" some things they wanted to see. They were being completely asinine," he says.

Several officers told how the Communists paid for their 500 copies of the truce maps — in American $50 bills. The map charge was $1,361.28. Communist negotiators presented twenty-eight $50 bills, or $1,400, and demanded $38.72 change, says Lt. Col. Hawkins L. Slatum, commander of the 29th engineer topographic battalion.

So, while the world anxiously awaited news of a truce agreement, a delegation member "dug around the black market in Seoul" for $38.72 change, the story goes.

Centennial Dancers To Join Festivities At Airport Tonight

Iowa City's weekly square dance will be held tonight at 8 p.m. at the municipal airport. The concrete apron just west of the terminal building will be the scene of the frolic.

A special flavor will be added to the dance by the presence of bearded and costumed square dancers from North English.

From 25 to 100 couples who have organized for the North English centennial are expected to join the festivities this evening.

Summer attendance at the airport square dance sessions has averaged about 100 dancers per night, William Coen, 1712 E. St., said. Coen directs the adult square dancing program for the Iowa City playgrounds and recreation commission.

Coen said Friday that "everyone is invited" either to dance or as a spectator. Several dances for youngsters will be held during the evening, he added.

Coen, who often calls the square dances, said that tonight several Iowa City and North English callers will probably be present. Phonograph recordings will provide the music.

TO THE EDITOR:

The recent Britain-Egypt Suez agreement signifies that Egypt is committed to defend interests of western nations through linking herself to NATO via Turkey.

It is conceivable that this commitment represents the Egyptians' aspirations; but considering the record of western nations and civilization, and their impact upon us, it is questionable that on matters of war and peace our new agreement is the best position Egypt should take.

This writer believes that reasonable grounds substantiate this questioning:

All freedom-loving nations must oppose aggression. But it is criminal for Egypt to accept atomic war and annihilation of millions, simply because so wishes Syghman Rhee, Admiral Carney and other advocates of aggressive preventive war.

No one perhaps can judge civilizations; but what are we joining a western civilization that has, to say less, failed during the last 40 years alone to prevent the killing of approximately 60 million people; from Marne to Stalingrad, from Buchenwald to Mau-Mau reservations; and which is now threatening another colossal slaughter? Even Christianity seems unable to redeem the west from this trend.

True, western civilization contributed to man's progress; but much is said in that its contributions catered more to the materialistic and selfish; indeed these contributions seem petty as one is horrified by the bloody record of killing, conquest, and colonialism, war, and weapons of mass destruction.

And as for western civilization's spiritual heritage, it is largely the produce of Christianity which grew first in our mainstreet. And even then the western Roman Empire almost snuffed it in the bud. Anyway, Christianity notwithstanding, western civilization gave birth to Communism.

And whom do we join? France, who still butchers our people in Tunis, Morocco, and Algiers; or Britain who does likewise in Kenya or Malaya; or the other colonial powers with no divine right to suppress other nations?

Undoubtedly Egypt rejects all forms of totalitarianism; and our Moslem world is perhaps impregnable to Communism; while our geo-politics draws us inexorably to the western pole of economic, political and military power; but in so gravitating, there is reason for concern, indeed for fear, and at least for a troubled conscience on the part of one Egyptian.

Ballot Battle For Control Of Congress Already On

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS

Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The advance guards of professional politicians of the Republican and Democratic parties are roaming over the countryside, surveying the situation, checking the advanced reports, accepting every invitation they can wrangle to speak at luncheons, and heartily greeting voters at barbecues and "coffee hours" arranged by local representatives.

The congressional battle for 1954 has begun and seldom before in a non-presidential year has the battle for votes aroused such national interest. Although the 83d congress is still in session, members of congress, particularly those up for re-election and whose political lives are at stake, are using every excuse to leave Washington and return home to help in mending their political fences.

More Senators

The voters in November will elect many more senators than the usual one-third of the senate due to the resignation of Vice-President Richard Nixon, from the senate, and the many deaths which have occurred since 1948. All 438 members of the house of representatives are up for election.

What will happen if President Eisenhower loses control of the congress to the Democrats? It would mean a sharp decline in his great prestige and power here and abroad. Would this mean that President Eisenhower would then decide to run for re-election in 1956? His close White House assistant Sherman Adams, has so stated to newsmen.

What effect will this unparalleled and uncontradicted White House statement have on the voters? Washington politicians agree that only time will tell whether this was a shrewd or a bad political maneuver.

Would Mean Shift

What many regard as even more important is that a Democratic victory would mean a shift in the actual operation of the lawmaking branch of the government from the Atlantic seaboard and the midwest to the deep south and the far west. The deep south, incidentally, would be the greatest beneficiary from this shift in political power.

The winner in the November election will select the 15 senate and 19 house standing committee chairmanships. The chairman of these all-powerful standing committees are selected in accordance with the strict seniority tradition of congress.

If the recent army McCarthy hearings served no other purpose it did reveal to the nation the great political power possessed by these chairmen.

Apparently it came as a surprise to many that these chairmen, in having the right of subpoena possessed a power not given to either the President or any department of administration.

The chairmen of these standing committees have a controlling influence over all legislation as all bills introduced are first referred to one of these committees, which decides whether the bill shall be pigeonholed or returned to the floor for a vote.

Dominant Power

It can be said that the dominant power of congress largely rests, not with its elected members, but with the chairmen of the all-powerful standing committees.

Sharp shifts in regional dominance over coveted chairmanships will result if the Democrats win control of congress in November. Of the 15 standing committees in the senate, seven would be headed by southerners and five by westerners. This would leave slim pickings by the eastern and midwest Democrats.

Possibly the greatest popular interest is in the fate of Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.). He would be succeeded as chairman of the government operations committee by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), who is up for re-election.

Should Sen. McClellan lose, the chairmanship would then go to Sen. Herbert Humphrey (D-Minn.). The third Democrat in line, should Humphrey fall of election, would be Senator Jackson of Washington.

Move in Force

At this point the south would move in force. Louisiana's Sen. Allen J. Ellender (D) would be the head of the senate agriculture body, Georgia Sen. Richard B. Russell (D), head of the armed services committee; South Carolina's Sen. Burnet R. Maybank (D), head of the banking and currency group; Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), the head of either finance or foreign relations, and Sen. Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.), head of the post office and civil service committee.

The westerners — Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.); Sen. Pat McCarran (D-Nev.); Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.); Sen. Warren O. Magnuson (D-Wash.) — in a Democratic-controlled senate would take over the top commands of the appropriations committee, judiciary, interior, labor and welfare, public works and interstate and foreign commerce committees.

Last Hawkeye Village Trailer Goes

By CARTER PITTS

Another chapter in the history of the SUI campus ended Monday when Hawkeye Village disappeared.

The last few remaining trailers of the married students' housing unit were sold last week by the university to individual parties and removed from the premises. The last trailer was claimed Monday.

Everything is quiet now in the area between the Burlington street bridge and the Washington street bridge, the former site of Hawkeye Village, waiting for a new era and plans for the property.

Built in 1946

Hawkeye Village was built in 1946 to accommodate the sudden postwar boom of married students with children.

Two hundred-fifty second-hand trailers were purchased from excess government housing units located near defense plants and moved to SUI for temporary emergency housing. Hawkeye Village was provided with 173 of these trailers, and the other 77 were installed at Riverdale. The units at Riverdale were sold last summer.

As units became obsolete or irreparable they were sold or junked. Last summer all the units in the north section of Hawkeye Village were sold to provide more parking space near the library.

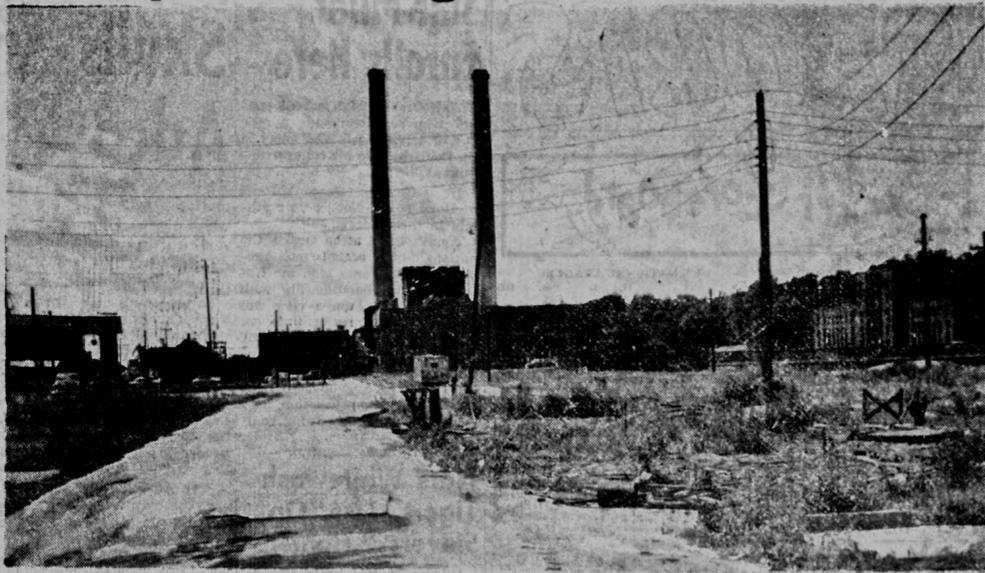

Closed Last June

After the students moved out last June, the remaining Hawkeye Village trailers were sold and removed. The last units were sold last week.

Plans for the vacated area have not been completed, but will probably include a parking lot for 600 cars. The property along the river was originally a gift to the university by a local citizen who thought the university needed a playground. As the sports program developed, it became the Iowa athletic field, the scene of many football games.

Only Wooden Bleachers

Prof. Emeritus Ernest G. Schroeder of the SUI department of athletics recalled that there was only a seating capacity of 400 to 500 on the wooden bleachers on Iowa field when he arrived as athletic director in 1907. Concrete bleachers were added around 1915 and later steel bleachers became a fixture in the stadium. Some of these

THE LAST TRAILER IN HAWKEYE VILLAGE waits forlornly Monday to be moved away after its sale. Built in 1946 to provide emergency temporary housing for married students with children, trailers in Hawkeye Village were dismantled and sold this year to give additional parking space near the university library.

At its height, Hawkeye Village contained 173 trailer units. The picture above looks south down the center street of Hawkeye Village towards the Burlington street bridge and the city power plant.

bleachers are now in use at the present football stadium and in the first and second balconies in the field house.

The new football stadium was built in 1929 and the old Iowa field became an athletic field for college activities.

Land Was Raised

At that time, the area was considerably lower than it is now. In the late 1930's the river was dredged and the low areas along both sides of the river, including the former swamp where the present dramatic and fine arts buildings are located, were raised about 10 feet with soil, Schroeder said.

After the athletic field area had been filled in, it was not used for any particular purpose and remained a "park" until 1946 when it became Hawkeye Village. Thus progress moves on. From a river bank, this tract of land progressed through the stages as a playground, athletic field, park, and housing unit area to a parking lot.

'Cynical Disregard' For Veterans, Says VFW Proclamation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The veterans of foreign wars Monday charged the federal government with "cynical disregard" for veterans and their dependents "while dealing generously with foreign nations, including former enemies."

The VFW, in a strongly worded "proclamation of policy" at the 55th annual encampment read by its national commander-in-chief Wayne E. Richards of Arkansas City, Kan., protested "this growing indifference for the welfare of our veteran class."

The VFW attack was the first public blast at the government for its veterans program, though in past years the VFW has "suggested" certain kinds of legislation and gone to bat vigorously to get more benefits for veterans, their widows and orphaned children.

The attack cited the record of the past 14 years and said that American taxpayers had given $6 billion dollars for foreign aid, while veterans' expenditures have totaled $2 billion "since the birth of our republic over 175 years ago."

"We deplore in public session this willful neglect and call upon the American people to join with us in requesting a return by the national government to the sympathetic and realistic treatment of veterans and their dependents that was established with the nation's inception," the resolution stated.

More than 8,000 VFW delegates and members of the service organization's ladies auxiliary packed the downstairs auditorium of Convention hall.

Dick Haymes Ordered Deported for 2d Time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Crooner Dick Haymes was ordered deported Monday for the second time in an order issued by Ralph Farb, special hearing officer of the immigration service here. Farb was sent here a month ago to hear Haymes' appeal after the board of immigration appeals in Washington ordered the case reopened.

The government originally ordered Argentine-born Haymes deported on the ground he illegally re-entered the continental United States after a trip to Hawaii to visit actress Rita Hayworth, whom he later married.

University Prints Faculty Handbook For New Teachers

A faculty handbook has been published to give to new SUI faculty members next fall. The book, entitled, "Faculty Handbook," is generally descriptive in nature, and does not present verbatim the procedures and regulations under which SUI operates.

Topics covered in the book include: SUI's objectives and ideals; the organization of SUI; organization of the faculty; terms of employment; promotions in rank; leaves of absence; insurance, health, and retirement plans; student personnel responsibilities; and university offices and facilities.

The other topics are: support of research; miscellaneous regulations; organizations; fiscal matters; publications; Iowa City, and faculty relationships and climate of work. SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, wrote an introduction to the book.

June Grad Gets French Fellowship

Adele Cockshoot, June graduate from SUI "with highest distinction," has been awarded a French government fellowship for study at the University of Paris.

A native of Atlantic, Miss Cockshoot majored in the European literature and thought program of the SUI college of liberal arts. In her senior year she was elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary fraternity, and to Mortar Board, national women's honorary group, and was president of the Young Women's Christian association.

Earlier in her SUI career Miss Cockshoot was also president of her social sorority, Gamma Phi Beta, and of Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman scholastic sorority.

Red China Must Be Excluded From UN, Lodge Tells Legion

DES MOINES (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, said Monday that to admit Red China to the U.N. before there is peace in Korea "would be an affront to the memory of our dead."

He said also that such a move would be an insult to the entire principle of collective security. Lodge, a former U.S. senator from Massachusetts spoke to the Iowa American Legion convention.

In his address he said this nation must do everything possible to keep Red China out of the U.N. He added that those who favor admitting the Chinese Communists "base their argument on expediency for the simple reason that they cannot base it on principle nor on good international morals."

Lodge had said earlier on his visit to Iowa that in his opinion Red China can be kept out of the U.N. without the United States using the veto power.

Iowa-Nebraska Guard Encampment Begins

CAMP RILEY, MINN. (AP) — Officers and men of the Iowa-Nebraska national guard 34th infantry division settled down Monday for their biggest post-war encampment and for many a veteran it was something of a homecoming.

Iowa units trained here before World War II and Minnesota's guard, not now included in the 34th, was part of the famed Red Bull division during the war.

About half of the men attending the encampment reached camp Sunday and the remainder arrived by troop train and convey Monday.

Roberts To Speak At Kiwanis Meeting

Prof. Hew Roberts of SUI's college of education will speak today at the noon meeting of Kiwanis International in the River room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Roberts' subject will be: "Impressions of Australia." The speaker returned from a six-months stay in Australia in June.

have an opportunity to decide before adjournment whether it wishes to remain in Washington to act on findings of the special committee.

Some senators said it would be October or November before the committee could complete its job of sifting charges against McCarthy and file its findings.

McCarthy took the floor late Monday night to insist that the committee have power to subpoena senators suggesting that this be done by changing a motion of Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California to set up the special investigating body.

Unanimous Consent

He asked that this be done by unanimous consent, so he could determine who objects to subpoenaing senators to testify on "scurrilous, false charges."

McCarthy went on to name senators he said should be compelled to appear before the committee to back up their charges.

He mentioned Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark.), Cooper (R-Ky.), Lehman (D-N.Y.), Hennings (D-Mo.), Monroney (D-Okla.), Morse (Ind.-Ore.) and Flanders (R-Vt.) — the latter the author of the original senate resolution to condemn McCarthy's investigative tactics.

As they got up one by one to say they would appear before the committee, McCarthy checked their names off one by one.

Major Developments

As debate ground on, there were these two other major developments:

1. McCarthy put into the Congressional Record a copy of a letter he said was written by former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring June 23 saying Gen. George C. Marshall "is a good enough military strategist to know that he was selling out to Reds" in China, and that Marshall "would sell out his grandmother for personal advantage." Former President Truman sent Marshall, former secretary of state, on a post war mission to China.

2. Knowland told the senate that Sen. Morse (Ind.-Ore.) had used a "top secret" memo during the 1952 political campaign dealing with withdrawal of U.S. troops from Korea in 1945. Morse said Truman personally declassified the memo and authorized its use against the Republican nominee, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Both these incidents tied into Flanders' effort to get the senate to reprimand McCarthy's conduct as tending to bring the senate into disrepute.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) has offered six amendments to the Flanders resolution listing definite charges against McCarthy — one of them that he made "an unwarranted attack" upon Marshall in a 1951 senate speech.

Ike Nominates General To Head TVA Board

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Monday chose a distinguished army engineer, Brig. Gen. Herbert D. Vogel, to take over the politically sensitive job of chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The selection seemed to be in line with Eisenhower's oft-stated pledge that politics would not be a gauge of his choice of a new TVA head. He had said he would pick a man of high standards and qualifications. Vogel's record as an engineer is outstanding and he has no political affiliations of record.

Eisenhower announced the nomination of Vogel to the three-man TVA board for a term expiring May 18, 1963. And the White House said the President plans to designate him as chairman after the senate confirms the nomination.

Holds Engineering Posts

Vogel is now chief of army engineers southwest division, with headquarters in Dallas, Tex. He also is on the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors and on the Mississippi River commission.

The 53-year-old soldier would step into the $15,000-a-year job vacated by Gordon R. Clapp. Eisenhower refused to reappoint Clapp after his term expired in May, despite the urging of many people in and out of congress. Clapp was a Truman appointee who had been with TVA since its inception.

If Vogel is confirmed, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said, he will take over his TVA assignment on Aug. 31, when he will retire from the army.

Has 3-Man Board

Vogel would serve on the three-man board with Raymond P. Aty, a native of Bell, Buckle, Tenn., and former president of the University of Alabama, and Harry A. Curtis, a native of Colorado and former dean of the University of Missouri college of engineering.

The role of TVA under the Eisenhower administration has been a subject of recurring controversy. The seven-state billion-dollar federal power flood control and conservation project was set up during President Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

A lengthy debate which tied up the senate last month hinged largely on Eisenhower's order to the Atomic Energy commission to contract with a private firm to supply power to the TVA area.

Vogel was born in Chelsea, Mich., Aug. 26, 1900. He attended the University of Michigan, was graduated from the U.S. Military academy in 1924 and received a master's degree in engineering from the University of California and a doctorate in engineering in Berlin.

SUI Medics Appointed To State Committee

Two members of the SUI staff have been appointed to the Iowa State committee on chronic illness.

Prof. Steven Horvath, of the department of physiology in the college of medicine, and Gerhard Hartman, superintendent of University hospitals, have received appointments as members of the organization and will attend the committee's next meeting, scheduled for Thursday in Des Moines.

The committee has the responsibility for studying ways of meeting the present needs of Iowa's elderly citizens. At the Des Moines meeting the group will consider both statewide and local chronic illness problems.

Broeder Enters 4th Season; Sports 3.8 Rushing Average

Note: This is the first of a series of sketches on Iowa football players who will report for practice next month.

Solid competitor, enthusiastic driver and a players' player; that's George (Binky) Broeder, captain and fullback of Iowa's 1954 football squad.

It's the fourth season coming up for bouncing Binky, who entered Iowa in 1951 when freshmen were eligible for varsity competition. And for the last two seasons he has been Iowa's leading gainer by rushing as well as one of the best punters in the nation.

Now Broeder enters his final season with an average of 3.8 per rushing play in 199 carries, a punting average of 39.1 on 87 kicks and a kickoff return average of 22 yards. As a scorer, he has made eight touchdowns, for 48 points.

Likes To Play

The St. Louis, Mo. senior, 180 pounds and 5-8, has powerful football legs with strong drive, fair speed and a tremendous desire to play. He is hard to tackle and works ideally as a spin fullback. Knee trouble has bothered him but he manages to keep on going, without complaint.

He lettered as a freshman in 1951, playing halfback, and despite the presence of veterans he broke into the lineup frequently. His touchdowns included one of 65 yards on a pass play, plus an 8-yard sprint, both against Notre

George (Binky) Broeder
All-Star Material

Dame in the 20-20 game at South Bend.

In 1952, Binky led Iowa rushers with 311 yards and an average of 3.6 per carry. He tried for the scoring lead on the Iowa squad and ranked fourth in the conference among punters with an average of 38.7.

Last fall he made the best average of his Iowa career, 4.2 yards on 96 carries. His best day was against Notre Dame, again a tie (14-14) when he rambled for 127 yards in 19 carries for an average of 6.6. Broeder that afternoon at South Bend was the best back on the field; no Irish back gained more than 105 yards.

Included among Broeder's sprints were those of 30 and 22 yards on important drives against the Irish. His punting in 1953 placed him No. 1 in the Big Ten with a 41.2 average for conference games and tied for ninth in the nation with 39.7 on 34 tries.

His best days as a kicker occurred against Pittsburgh in 1952, 4 for an average of 44 yards; Indiana, 1952, 6 for 43.8; and Wisconsin, 1953, 7 for 41.1.

Binky came to Iowa with a terrific reputation as a high school athlete at Maplewood high of St. Louis. In four years of prep football he scored 43 touchdowns in 38 games and in 1950 was named to one of the all-American prep teams.

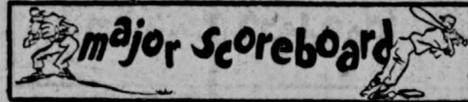

All-State Prep

In addition, Broeder was an all-state basketball player and in track won two Missouri A.A.U. dash titles. He somehow found time to play shortstop on the baseball team and also won two letters as a swimmer. At Iowa, however, his efforts have been confined to football.

Modesty to a high degree is one of Binky's best traits. At a dinner after being elected 1954 captain, Broeder said, "I only hope I can be a playing captain."

His past record shows that he will be a hard man to keep on the bench, even with some of Iowa's finest fullback material present.

Golfing Southpaw Shoots Hole-in-One On 354 Yard Hole

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Using a cross-handed grip, an East St. Louis golfer took a short cut across a 354-yard, par four hole for an amazing hole-in-one Sunday.

The golfer, Robert Enzwiller, 43, made the shot on the U-shaped seventh hole at West Haven golf course in nearby Belleville, Ill. He shot over two groves of trees and a pond in the center of the hole with a No. 3 wood he said he had never used before.

It was the first hole-in-one ever made on the hole. The cross-handed grip? "That is natural for me," he said. "I was a lefthanded batter in baseball and adopted the cross-handed style because I couldn't find any lefthanded clubs when I learned how to play golf."

He said he traded his old clubs for another right-handed set before the match and had no occasion to use the No. 3 club until the seventh hole.

Enzwiller, who operates a dry cleaning business here, had 40 for the par 36 nine holes.

NO MISTAKES HERE Tommy Jackson, before his recent fight at Madison Square Garden, explained why "708" was written in indelible ink on both his hands. "That's my hotel room number," he said.

Boys Town Star Miler Enrolls Here

A Nebraska high school runner who recently made a mile run of 4:17.6 at an AAU meet in St. Louis will do his college running at Iowa.

He is Charles (Deacon) Jones of Boys Town, Neb., a star athlete in three sports.

Jones' 4:17.6 time broke the national high school mile record. In 1953, Jones won the Nebraska mile championship with a time of 4:30.4 on a very wet track.

Jones, 5 feet, 11 inches and 157 pounds, will be under the supervision of Iowa track coach Francis Cretzmeyer, who left Iowa City Monday on vacation, and could not be reached for comment.

Nats Whitewash Tigers, 11-6, On Sievers' 2 Homers

DETROIT (AP) — Roy Sievers, Washington's hard-luck left fielder, hit a pair of 360-foot home runs and knocked in five runs, leading the Senators to an 11-6 victory over the Detroit Tigers Monday night.

Sievers, batting a meager .229, hit his 18th home run to start the fourth inning. He followed up with his 19th in the next inning, connecting with two runners on base.

On his next trip to the plate, Ted Gray walked him with the bases loaded, forcing across a run.

The Senators, roughed up in their previous four games at Cleveland, made merry against three Tiger pitchers — loser George Zverinik, Gray and Ray Herbert.

Johnny Pesky had four singles for the Nats while Mickey Vernon had a single and his 16th home run.

Helmets Protect Skulls In Majors; Adcock Knows

NEW YORK (AP) — Plastic protective helmets, such as that which saved Milwaukee's Joe Adcock from serious injury Sunday, are worn by a large majority of major league batsmen.

Several clubs make it mandatory. Others suggest it, leaving the matter to the players. Some batsmen wear them by personal choice. There is no baseball or league rule.

The Braves recommended the helmets be worn by all their batters after Andy Parko was beaned in April. The edict was timely.

Adcock Not Hurt Sunday Adcock, after hitting four home runs the day before, was struck by a ball pitched by the Brooklyn Dodgers' Clem Labine. The blow sent him sprawling but he wasn't seriously hurt, thanks to the helmet.

The protective helmet was the personal brainchild of Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates who ordered them as standard equipment for his team at spring training in Havana in 1952.

The St. Louis Cardinals followed suit, and the rule is strictly enforced.

Fernandez Winner In Upset Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Frankie Fernandez, Honolulu welterweight, scored an upset at St. Nicholas arena Monday night by winning a split decision over Livio Minelli of the Bronx in a 10-round televised bout.

Fernandez, fighting on the mainland for only the second time, weighed 143½; Minelli 148.

Fernandez gained the victory, the 30th of his career, by out-slugging Minelli throughout the fight and continuously scoring with both hands to the head and body. On two occasions, both in the seventh round, he connected with hard rights to the head from long range which sent Minelli into the ropes.

Date Set for Marciano Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles will have it out again at the Yankee stadium, Wednesday night, Sept. 15.

President Jim Norris of the International Boxing club set the site and date Monday after consulting with Al Weill, manager of the undefeated Brooklyn blaster.

Charles' co-managers, Tom Tannas and Jake Mintz, previously had agreed to the fight "at any place and any time."

Will Sign Contracts The two fighters and their managers will sign official contracts Tuesday at the state athletic commission office.

Norris said no decision has been made on whether the 15-rounder will be televised into homes, but once again it looks like parlor chair fans will be out of luck.

Although the IBC usually telecasts bouts on Wednesday nights, this particular date has been taken over by another sponsor for a special dramatic show.

National Radio Likely Like the first bout June 17, the return most likely will be radio broadcast nationally and telecast into theaters coast-to-coast over a closed circuit.

Marciano already has started training at Grossinger, N. Y. Charles will pitch camp at Monticello, N. Y., 11 miles from Rocky's quarters, after the signing ceremony.

Orioles Beat A's, 10-2, as Turley Throws 5-Hitter

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Turley set the Philadelphia Athletics down on five hits here Monday night for his eighth victory of the season 10-2 as the Baltimore Orioles took the first of a three-game series.

A crowd of 7,839 saw Turley play the master's role from the start as he completed his first game since July 3, when he bested the Detroit Tigers, 5-3. That brought his record to seven apiece in the won-lost columns.

Wildness had contributed most to the four defeats he was charged with since then. Monday night he didn't walk a batter until the fifth, and only four in the entire game. Eight strikeouts upped his American league-leading total in that department to 122.

Patterson TKO's Harrison in 1st

BROOKLYN (AP) — Floyd Patterson, once beaten former Olympic champ, moved closer to the light-heavyweight heights Monday night by stopping Tommy Harrison on a technical knockout in 1:29 of the first round at Eastern Parkway arena.

Patterson weighed 169, and Harrison 176½.

A thudding right to the jaw floored Harrison after about a minute of action. He got up at four but took the automatic eight count.

Time Running Out for Casey As Yankees, Indians Clash

Sitting One Out

DANNY O'CONNELL, MILWAUKEE BRAVES second baseman seems to be "sitting this one out" but actually he's just fired to first base to complete twin killing against Brooklyn in the first inning of Monday's game at Ebbets field, later won by the Dodgers. Danny caught a fly by Pee Wee Reese. Junior Gilliam, Dodger second baseman, running from first on a hit and run play couldn't get back in time.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Even if there is no calendar in the dug-out, Casey Stengel and his New York Yankees will have to keep it in mind the next three days. They haven't as much time to catch up anymore.

The first-place Cleveland Indians, currently at the mark of .703 in the standings, have only 53 games to go, and the Yanks only 50. That includes the three-game series here Tuesday night, Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon. Casey's second-place squad is 2½ games behind.

The Indians have won 71 and lost 30, the Yankees are 70-34, and even if the world champs could grab all three contests in this series, they could not quite take over first place. The Tribe would remain in the lead by .6827 to .6822.

In 14 games this season the two teams have won 7 games each, and each club has scored 74 runs.

Stengel might not be in a position to start Eddie Lopat, who usually puts a jinx on the the Tribe, in this series. The Yanks were not able to maintain their pitching equilibrium in getting past the Baltimore Orioles the past weekend.

He is expected to start Whitey Ford Tuesday night, and Manager Al Lopez has designated Don Mossi, the young southpaw, for the opener.

After that it may be rookie Bob Grim and the old chief, Alie Reynolds going for New York. Bob Lemon will pitch Wednesday night, and Early Wynn or Mike Garcia will be next in line for the home club.

Dodgers Top Braves, 2-1; Gain ½ Game on Idle Giants

BROOKLYN (AP)—Billy Cox's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the 13th inning Monday snapped Milwaukee's 10-game winning streak with a 2-1 Brooklyn victory that pulled the Dodgers within five games of the idle New York Giants.

Singles by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges and an intentional walk to Sandy Amoros filled the bases for Brooklyn for the fifth time before Cox flied out to Hank Aaron, scoring Snider to end the long thriller. The victory was the first in the majors for Pete Wojay, a rookie who pitched the last inning.

The Dodgers left 20 men on base, tying a 23-year-old record in the National league for a 13-inning game.

Braves Strand 12
The Braves left 12, making a two-team total of 32 players left on base. This figure was two short of the National league record and four short of the American mark for two teams in a 13-inning game.

Brooklyn held a 1-0 lead from the second inning to the ninth when Milwaukee tied the score on Del Crandall's single with two out. The Dodgers failed with the bases loaded in the sixth, eighth, ninth and 12th.

Adcock in Lineup
Joe Adcock, the Milwaukee first baseman who was "beamed" by Clem Labine in Sunday's game was back in the starting lineup. He drew a cheer from the crowd of 6,524 when he came up for the first time in the second inning and promptly doubled to right center.

Until the ninth, Billy Loes had pitched beautiful ball. The first two Milwaukee batters in the ninth, Aaron and Adcock hit long fly balls that Snider and Amoros backed to the wall to catch.

Highway Patrol Begins Use Of Unmarked Cars in Iowa

Highway patrol use of unmarked cars was begun over the weekend, Lieut. Leonard Sims noted Monday, and he termed the operation a definite success.

Sims said it appeared that traffic, particularly commercial vehicles, had slowed down during the weekend. He added that there were no traffic fatalities reported in the state Sunday and only one Saturday.

Sims is commanding officer for the highway patrol in 23 southeastern Iowa counties.

Stripped of Identification
The patrol cars were stripped of all identifying plates, signs and equipment before being put into operation Saturday. Patrol cars manned by officers in full uniform had dummy license plates placed on them.

Sims said the cars will be used day and night, and will be shifted from one area to another.

He said that definite results of the unmarked patrol car operation can not be ascertained this early. He added, however, that he believes the purpose of the operation — to make drivers more safety conscious — has already been partly achieved.

Can't Spot Patrol
Sims pointed out that now "a driver doesn't know but what the car ahead may be a patrol car."

The unmarked cars will continue to be used in this area. They will be shifted from one area to another according to an unannounced schedule.

An unmarked patrol car may be in the Iowa City-Cedar Rapids area one day, the Anamosa-Tipton section the next, and then in the Ottumwa-Fairfield area another.

Number Not Revealed
Highway patrol officials have not revealed the number of such cars in use.

Patrol Chief David Herrick said last week, when the new policy was announced:

"There will be no attempt to conceal the cars from view and there will be no traps. Our main purpose is to change the habits of the driver who has no respect for the law or the rights of others when he feels enforcement officers are not near."

Combats Fatality Toll
Pearl McMurray, commissioner of public safety, said he authorized the unmarked highway patrol car policy as a means of combatting Iowa's increasing auto fatality toll.

This is the first use of such cars in Iowa, although, according to the National Safety council, most other states have at least a few in operation.

Chief Herrick said that the first time an unmarked car is used in a manner not in the public interest, the policy will be terminated.

Security Council's Plan for Manpower Gets More Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Monday the National Security Council has not reached a final decision on a new military manpower plan.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty issued a statement of comment on news stories — which were based on interviews with just-retired Asst. Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah — that the Eisenhower administration has decided on a program of military duty for all qualified young Americans.

Hagerty's statement said: "The stories do not reflect fully the attitude of the National Security council."

Referred To President
"The matter has been referred by the President, on the recommendation of the National Security council, to the office of defense mobilization and the department of defense for the development of a specific program including cost estimates.

"There will be no further action or discussions until after these agencies, following consultations with various official and unofficial organizations, and individuals having an interest in the subject, have reported back to the security council in September."

Geared To U.S.-Soviet War
Hannah, who left the Pentagon last Saturday to return to the presidency of Michigan State college, had said the universal training program had been approved by President Eisenhower and the security council.

At his home in East Lansing, Dr. Hannah commented:

"The White House statement is perfectly true and the fact that the program was not finalized was made clear in my press conference last Friday."

SUI Professor Calls Turnpikes, Toll Roads 'Economically Risky'

Frustrated motorists who have become turnpike fans may overlook some complexities of building and operating such expressways, an SUI specialist in transportation maintains.

Writing on the subject of "Toll Roads and Highway Policy" in the August issue of the Iowa Business Digest, a university publication, Prof. Harvey C. Bunke of the college of commerce, stresses that turnpikes are economically practical only on highly traveled routes.

The famous Pennsylvania turnpike is such a case, Bunke says, since the existing free highway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg winds tortuously through mountainous terrain.

Only Partial Answer
Although such turnpikes can help reduce accident rates, save travel time and lower vehicle operating costs, they are only a practical and economically risky means of solving problems created by outmoded and truck-congested highways. And they violate traditional highway policies of making free roads available to everybody, Bunke says.

Observing that many states are "hurrying to complete the preparatory steps necessary to the construction and opening of turnpikes," Bunke is skeptical of "the intuitive belief that toll facilities are inherently superior to free-ways."

He offers certain disadvantages arising from toll financing: (1) toll stations and approach funnels must be established wherever the turnpike connects with other roads; (2) roads crossing but not entering the turnpike must be bridged over it or terminated; (3) toll collection costs amount to a substantial quantity of receipts; (4) state governments face possible loss of federal assistance for highway construction because national legislation prohibits use of federal funds for toll roads; (5) securing of funds through the sale of revenue bonds may cause toll roads to exceed the cost of similar freeways, and (6) often duplicating existing facilities, turnpikes sometimes compete unsuccessfully with free roads for the patronage of the motorist and the trucking company.

Roads More Congested
One reason for the growing crusade to return to the toll gate device for financing roads — a practice largely discredited and abandoned during the century between the rise of the railroad and the opening of the Pennsylvania Turnpike in 1940 — is that passenger cars have doubled and trucks have tripled in number on the nation's highways in the past 25 years, Bunke points out.

And vehicles grossing more than 25 tons were 22 times more frequent in U.S. traffic streams in 1952 than in 1936, he notes.

Besides the frustrations of driving "the sleek new passenger car with its 100-plus horsepower engine and its capacity for prolonged periods of high-speed travel" in such traffic, many motorists have lost faith in the effectiveness of the use of such taxes as motor-vehicle and gasoline taxes to finance adequate highways, Bunke continues.

Many Secondary Roads
Though 20 per cent of the nation's roads and streets are used for more than 75 per cent of all motor vehicle miles traveled, many states have rigid statutory formulas allocating the majority of tax farms to secondary and "farm to market" roads.

In Iowa, for instance, the code apportions road use tax funds as follows: primary roads, 42 per cent; secondary roads, 35 per cent; farm to market roads, 15 per cent, and city streets, eight per cent.

Noting that "high-density routes create a profit which helps to support secondary roads," Bunke concludes that "in the light of political factors especially challenging to elected state legislators, a change in tax distribution policy in the foreseeable future appears unlikely."

It is for such reasons, he observes, that many members of the "over-optimistic public" are ready to pay a toll charge comparable to a gasoline tax of 15 to 30 cents per gallon for a stretch of expressway. But these same people would balk at a direct gasoline tax of three cents per gallon for statewide highway improvement, he says.
