McCarthyism's Threat Cited By Leader of Socialist Party

NORMAN THOMAS, WHO LECTURED AT SUI TUESDAY NIGHT, IS SHOWN BEING GREETED AT MUNICIPAL AIRPORT TUESDAY AFTERNOON BY PROF. ORVILLE HITCHCOCK OF THE SPEECH DEPARTMENT. THOMAS, SIX TIME CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT ON THE SOCIALIST TICKET, SPOKE ON "CIVIL LIBERTIES AND THE COLD WAR." THE LAST TIME HE APPEARED AT SUI WAS IN 1946.

By IRA KAPENSTEIN
The danger of McCarthyism lies in its exploitation of hate and suspicion and in its substitution of accusations for facts, Norman Thomas, Socialist party leader, said Tuesday night.

Speaking on "Civil Liberties and the Cold War" to more than 350 people assembled on the west approach of Old Capitol, Thomas ended the SUI summer lecture series with a blistering attack on Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

McCarthy and McCarthyism are dangerously evil because they mislead the public on the real nature of communism," Thomas said. "The evil of communism does not lie in its economic doctrine. The evil is in its totalitarian nature, its false doctrine of secular salvation to be attained by the road of hate and by the ethical principle that anything is right which the Communist dictators believe will advance their cause."

"It is precisely these principles which in a great degree McCarthyism accepts and furthers," Thomas declared.

But there is more to what is called McCarthyism than McCarthy, for if there were no McCarthy, it would have existed under another name, he continued.

The 70-year-old author-educator said that McCarthyism cannot now be equated with communism. "It hasn't had a chance yet to become so bad," he explained.

Thomas charged that with the advent of McCarthyism people no longer say "you're wrong, you're mistaken" — but rather, "you ought to go back to Russia."

The very soul of democracy is defiled and corrupted by the growth of this intolerance of difference of opinion," he affirmed.

The Socialist leader pointed to the fear and the heavy preparation for danger that has sprung up. "People begin to say — McCarthy or communism, just how much is the difference?"

"Our success in the cold war," he said, "depends upon our gaining the confidence of the peoples of the world. This is greatly jeopardized by McCarthy and McCarthyism because they are arousing furtive sympathy with Communists and fellow travelers."

There is a more furtive condonation of communism now than ever before, he asserted, because many people have come to believe that everyone and everything that McCarthy attacks must be good.

Thomas stated that the Wisconsin senator has uncovered "one Red dentist who apparently was jeopardizing the morale of the army" but other than that he has not unveiled "one conspicuous traitor."

The "Grand Inquisitor," as Thomas has termed McCarthy, placed a man on his own staff who was dismissed by the FBI "under a shadow" Thomas pointed out. "He has refused to answer legitimate questions about his own conduct and he has substituted accusations for proof."

Thomas contrasted action being taken against McCarthy to the legend of St. George and the dragon, in which the pure and gallant knight went forth to do battle with the dragon, cut off his head and returned triumphantly to the cheering populace.

"Today the knight, Democracy, reluctantly rides forth into a confused kind of conflict and by and by the dragon poops out," Thomas said.

Thomas, speaking in a loud, self-assured manner, told the quiet audience that he does not believe there is anything to be gained by outlawing the Communist party. He said that the party itself is the most legal aspect of the movement and must be kept

Nixon Named To Speak at Hoover Day

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon will represent President Eisenhower during the 80th birthday celebration of former President Herbert Hoover, at West Branch, Aug. 10, William B. Anderson, chairman of the committee on arrangements announced Tuesday.

Present plans call for the Vice-President to fly here and to return to Washington immediately after his address, Anderson said.

In connection with the celebration, Gov. William S. Beardsley Tuesday proclaimed Aug. 10 as Herbert Hoover day in Iowa.

Beardsley urged all residents who can to attend the celebration at West Branch. He also suggested that those in other parts of the state and nation "give special consideration on that day to the industry, integrity and sense of public obligation which made this native Iowan one of the world's greatest men."

Details of Nixon's visit have not been worked out yet, according to Anderson.

Armas Launches Air, Land Attack At Military Base

GUATEMALA (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas' honor guard and the Guatemalan air force launched an attack Tuesday night on the still defiant garrison at the nearby Auroir military base. The base apparently continued to oppose the regular army's agreement with the ruling military junta.

No official reason was given for the attack, which was announced by a spokesman of the junta, Capt. Lionel Sisniga Otero.

Planes swooped low over the restive capital before the attack was announced, as thousands of Armas supporters — many in deep mourning — demonstrated against the army pressure which brought disbandment of the president's irregular "liberation army."

Then, as the attack was announced, the planes disappeared. Armed units blocked off all roads leading to the base, four miles from downtown Guatemala. The size of the force at Aurore is not known.

The regular army Monday night forced the junta to order the disarmament and disbanding of some 700 irregulars quartered at nearby Roosevelt Hospital.

The army pressure climaxed a day of bloody fighting Monday between the irregulars, non-uniformed but well armed, and cadets of the military academy who received army support.

Twenty persons were killed and 70 were wounded in the scattered battles throughout Monday. It started with a pre-dawn brawl in a house of prostitution between the liberation forces and the cadets.

That brawl apparently only brought to a head the festering resentment of the army at the presence of the irregulars.

South Koreans Riot To Get Inspecting Reds Out of Country

SEOUL (Wednesday) (AP)—South Koreans staged three more demonstrations Tuesday in a snow-balling campaign to get Communist truce inspectors out of the country. The Communists angrily protested to the military armistice commission.

In Washington, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said he would be sympathetic toward a move to junk the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission, on which Red Poland and Czechoslovakia serve with Sweden and Switzerland.

In Seoul, Kim Chang Yong, chief of South Korea's police, said he would investigate reports that the commission's Polish and Czech truce inspectors were engaged in "open espionage." There have been reports that Poles and Czechs have been replaced by Russian secret agents.

Kim's statement was an echo of a charge last week by Lt. Gen. Won Yong Duk, South Korea army provost marshal. He accused the Red inspectors of spying and threatened action if they did not quit South Korea.

The three demonstrations were orderly. There were no new reports of violence, such as Saturday and Sunday, when homemade bombs were tossed into one inspection team compound and bullets were fired into another.

At Panmunjon, the Communists accused the U. N. command of violating the armistice by permitting the demonstrations.

37 Escape Death In Airliner Crash

PRESTON, Conn. (AP)—Thirty-seven passengers and crewmen among them two babies, cheated death Tuesday in a terrifying crash of a big transatlantic Constellation battling rain and a low ceiling.

The Air France four-engine plane, bound for Mexico City from Paris via New York, crashed on an isolated farm. It then burst into flames and burned furiously for two hours.

Twelve were listed as hurt, but half of them only superficially. Among the most seriously injured was the pilot, Capt. Jean Caboche of Paris. It was feared he would lose his left leg. Miraculously, no one was killed.

Caboche had guided the big plane to New York's Idlewild airport, its immediate destination. Turned back by weather, he was groping for a landing place when the plane came down in this small eastern Connecticut town between Norwich and New London, about 130 miles from New York.

Three Civil Aeronautics authority investigators hurried to the scene in an effort to determine the cause of the accident.

Dulles Charges Korean Reds With Violations Of Armistice

Senate Wants New Probers On McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate leaders started a hunt Tuesday for members of a new committee to investigate Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), said nobody is lobbying for the assignment. But Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex.), said he doesn't "subscribe to the idea that the senate is a bunch of cowards" and that he expects no difficulty in lining up three Democrats to serve.

His opposite number in the Republican ranks, Sen. William F. Knowland, (Calif.), stood by predictions the committee would be picked within 48 hours.

Ferguson says Case Criminal
Ferguson, who is chairman of the GOP policy committee, told newsmen the committee hearings in his opinion should be "in the nature of a trial."

"This has a semblance," he said, "of being a criminal case as well as a civil case."

As a former judge, he said, he thought the trial could be completed in two five-day working weeks. Many senators consider that estimate far too optimistic.

Sidestepping a direct, immediate showdown on the issue of condemning McCarthy's conduct, the senate voted 75-12 Monday night to turn over charges against the Wisconsin senator to a special committee of three Republicans and three Democrats.

46 Accusations Held
Forty-six specific accusations, some of them overlapping, are on file against McCarthy. They range from abuse of witnesses, to dishonoring the nation and improperly accepting $10,000 from a housing corporation for a booklet on housing.

Thirty-three of the charges were raised by Sen. Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt.), author of the original resolution to censure McCarthy on grounds his conduct has tended to bring the senate into disrepute. Sen. Wayne Morse, (Ind-Ore.), tossed in seven more and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, (D-Ark.), listed six.

Now it is up to the special committee to weigh all the charges and bring back recommendations whether McCarthy should be cleared or reprimanded.

Knowland predicted the senate can wind up its legislative chores by Aug. 14.

"Then," he said, "if we want to remain in session two weeks or a month we can do so."

Joint Committee Agrees On Atomic Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.) announced Tuesday that senate and house conferees have agreed to a compromise solution of a bitter controversy over how far the government may go in development of commercial atomic power.

Verse Play Begins 4-Day Run

By JACK PEASE
Five years ago, British playwright Christopher Fry penned "The Lady's Not for Burning," a complex play in blank verse embodying symbolically his ideas of modern, yet barbaric society.

Tuesday night, the University players attempted to convey Fry's cynical, yet undesparring views.

The actors flitted about the well-constructed fifteenth century set under expert lighting effects. They undertook the tremendous task of voicing the production's abstract ideas of twentieth century civilization in a fifteenth century play all expressed in iambic pentameter—five accent to a line—verse.

The play takes place entirely in a room in the house of Hebble Tyson, mayor of a small market-town of Cool Clay.

Action Centers
Action centers around the troubles of Thomas Mendip, an eccentric young man with a seemingly consuming desire to be hanged, and Jennet Jourde-mayne, a young woman falsely accused of witchcraft and sentenced to death by burning, but who doesn't want to die.

Unfortunately, most of the audience would have agreed with one character who remarked in the second act, "I can't understand anything that's going on." The difficult verse style, abundant with words un-

Claims Reds 'Obstructing' Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles charged Tuesday the Communists have clearly violated some terms of the Korean armistice, but he held that the violations do not justify resuming the war.

Dulles said the Reds have deliberately obstructed the work of the Neutral Nations Supervisory commission and probably have built up their airpower beyond the limits allowed under the 1953 cease-fire.

In view of the Communist attitude, Dulles told a news conference, he favors Sweden and Switzerland's request that they be permitted to quit the Supervisory commission which is assigned to check conditions on both sides of the armistice line.

Make Inspection Impossible
He said Red restrictions on the commission, which also included representatives of Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia, have made it impossible to inspect Northern Korea, particularly since they have built up new supply routes which they do not permit the Swiss and Swedes to inspect.

In answering questions, he said:

1. Chided visiting South Korean President Syngman Rhee for remarking that "fear and vaccination" were evident in U. S. policy toward Asia. Dulles said such comments showed a petulance which might be attributed to Washington's heat wave. He added, however that the United States is big enough to be tolerant of Rhee's remarks since he is a very fine patriot.

Again Demands Compensation
2. Reported that the United States has sent a second sharp note to Communist China, demanding compensation for six Americans killed or wounded by red fighter planes. He said this note makes the point that the Peiping regime is totally wrong when it says the shooting is none of the business of the United States because it involved a clash between Red fighters and a British airliner.

3. Said the American air force and navy would help protect Formosa against any Communist attack even though no formal defense treaty now exists with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government. No decision has been made on whether to negotiate one.

Expects Iranian Agreement
4. Said he has reason to believe an agreement can be expected Wednesday, solving the long-standing British-Iranian dispute over oil facilities along the Persian Gulf.

In talking about Korea, Dulles said Red China has pulled substantial numbers of its troops out of North Korea into central areas of China itself. But, he said that at the same time the Reds probably have improved air fields and sent in aircraft despite armistice regulations forbidding this.

These apparent violations, he continued, are not serious enough, as far as he is aware, to justify the scrapping of the armistice and resuming the war.

U.S. To Centralize Air Defense System

WASHINGTON (AP)—The scattered air defenses of the United States will be placed under one central authority in September with the establishment of the continental air defense command, the Pentagon announced Tuesday.

The decision was reached by the administration after a long study and argument within and without the military services.

For the first time it gives the air force primary authority as well as responsibility for directing the activity of some 2,000 jet fighters, the army's growing system of "nike" antiaircraft missiles and all of the ships and aircraft operating far at sea that will be tied into a central warning and defense system.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said in announcing the big new weapons and increased forces made central direction advisable.

Wilson said also that additional wings of interceptor planes will soon be available for defense of the homeland and that new advances in electronic detection and missiles should be taken advantage of rapidly by the unified command.

Foreign Aid Bill Cut by $1/2 Billion In Senate Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate cut half a billion dollars from its foreign aid bill Tuesday and passed it as a $2,610,000,000 measure. The vote on passage was 67-19.

The cut-down bill goes back to the house which had approved $3,368,000,000.

Before the house bill came to the senate floor, it had been cut in the senate foreign relations committee.

Originally, President Eisenhower asked $3,448,000,000.

Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La.), proposed the half-billion cut on the senate floor. It was approved by a 45-41 vote that found 26 Democrats joined by 19 Republicans. On the losing side were 25 Republicans, 15 Democrats and one Independent.

Long lost 48-38 in an attempt to make a cut of a billion dollars.

Reds Arrest Western Agents in Germany
BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communist regime announced Tuesday night widespread arrests of alleged American and West German agents operating in the Soviet zone. The arrests were announced just two weeks after the former chief of West Germany's internal security service, Dr. Otto John, crossed to Communist East Berlin. Since John's defection, Allied and West German officials have feared such wholesale arrests of East Germans who regularly send out vital information from the Russian zone.

World's 2d Highest Mountain Conquered
RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—The world's second highest mountain, 28,250-foot K2, has been conquered by an Italian expedition, a message from the climbers said Tuesday. The summit was reached July 31, the message said. After the triumph over Everest May 29, 1953, K2 was the earth's highest unclimbed mountain. Although 752 feet lower than Everest, K2 was considered more difficult because of the steepness of the final distance to the summit. The message did not name the successful climbers or say how many reached the top. The Italian party included 11 climbers and seven scientists.

France—The Country That Cannot Make Up Her Mind

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS (AP)—Despite her ancient pride and present promise, France is steadily slipping into the status of a "has been."

This is a country which cannot make up its mind, and yet every year of indecision leaves it with less choice of courses to follow.

It is a country on which the free world and the United States have based much of its policy in opposing the spread of communism. Yet it has one of the largest Communist parties outside Russia.

Weak Link

It is a country with a long tradition of freedom and should be a strong bastion of democracy. But it is one of democracy's weakest links.

The country is fundamentally so rich and well balanced in its resources, that ever since the war there has been a lively expectation that France suddenly would "blossom out" in the full flower of a great nation.

But it hasn't, and the reasons are becoming ever clearer, both to Americans and to Frenchmen who, as observers or statesmen, must estimate its future place in the world.

Its riches are evident on every hand. Food, one of the great resources of the world, is plentiful here. The fine stands of wheat in Utah, Idaho and Washington can be matched in a half hour's drive from the center of Paris. Yet in a large part of France, farm methods are a century out of date.

German-Built Plants

In northern France, in the Lorraine area, is an industrial heaven. Side by side lie rich coal beds and rich veins of iron ore. Yet until the time of the Marshall Plan in 1948, the most up-to-date steel plants in France were those built by the Germans in Lorraine before 1914. They came into France's possession when Lorraine, lost in 1870, was restored to France after World War I. And nothing was built to match them until Marshall Plan money financed the building of two great steel mills in northern France.

These plants were expected to bring about a quick improvement in France's economy. But under this country's peculiar paralysis they cannot as yet contribute the one thing they were designed to contribute—cheap steel. Prices are fixed at high levels by steel cartels which function in France despite efforts of the newly-formed European coal-steel community to break them up and force a healthy competitive operation.

Few Optimistic

Though Premier Mendès-France has managed to deliver an Indo-China truce agreement on deadline as promised, few are optimistic enough to believe that this solved the problem for all time. And the country's inability to deal with other basic problems has brought at least four of them to its doorstep on a critical basis:

1. The situation in North Africa is menacing.

2. Severe internal fiscal and economic problems cry for solution, with no immediate remedies in sight.

3. A badly-needed friendly settlement with Germany hangs in the balance.

4. International agreements with the West also hang in balance.

What does the average Frenchman think about these problems?

Not much.

Must Submit Reports

Under a system inaugurated by Napoleon, the police of the country are required from time to time to submit reports on public reaction to current affairs. It's a system of taking the public pulse.

At the time of the fall of Dienbienphu a new report was called for. What did the people think about it? In the heart of Paris on district police captain summarized findings of his police observers in a French phrase which translates best into an English expression: "They could not care less!"

There's an attitude of shoulder-shrugging among the people when it comes to foreign affairs, domestic problems, public responsibility. They blame it on the wars, and if that doesn't quite cover it, they blame it on French individualism. There is truth in both.

Every major American and French political figure I have talked to puts his finger on one point as the chief cause of difficulty—the present system of French government.

Executive Branch Weak

The French executive branch is so weak it can be overthrown on the most trivial of issues by minority political parties. And parliament is composed of a grumbling antagonistic group of minority political parties.

The people who share the responsibility of governing France do not intend to change the system. They might vote themselves out of power—and they are traditionally wary of strong central management.

A new cabinet has to be created for almost every new piece of important legislation contemplated. In choosing members for such a cabinet the dominant question isn't so much "how good is he?" as "how many votes can he guarantee?"

Every little packet of 5 to 10 votes—the following of a single leader—becomes extremely important. It often results in complete deadlock on important matters. That is what is meant by "immobilism."

This system has held up the rearmament of Germany ever since it was decided in Allied councils of 1950 that it was necessary.

Come, Come Pull Yourself Together

Red China Should Eventually Be Admitted to UN: Thomas

By JOE MORAN

Red China should be admitted to the U. N. "when she ceases her aggressive behavior toward other nations," Norman Thomas said Tuesday afternoon.

Calling this idea "so unpopular in this part of the country that a man holding it couldn't run for dogcatcher and expect to be elected," Thomas gave these reasons for his stand.

The U. N., conceived "as an assembly of democratic, recognized governments," has great opportunities for bringing about peace and unity among nations, he said.

Better Off With UN

"Although the United Nations was greatly 'oversold' when it was begun—I still feel that we are better off having it than not.

"I wouldn't want to see Red China admitted right now, but I think it is foolish for the American people to adopt a 'never-never' attitude toward her admission," Thomas stated.

He added that he felt Great Britain and India were "premature" in their enthusiasm to have Red China in the U. N., but that in time, when that nation shows herself to be a peaceful one, she ought to be admitted.

Discussing the U. S. government's gradual adoption of socialist measures during the past six administrations, Thomas termed it "inevitable."

People Needed It

"Roosevelt, of course, was the first to do it back in 1932, when very few people—myself among them—could see that the people demanded it," he said.

"Eisenhower, too, has a welfare-state program, and has had many of his measures passed already, although he's having trouble with others."

Thomas indicated that what has been variously termed by others as "creeping socialism," "the swing to the left," and "welfare statism," is the path the American people have chosen.

He regretted that both Roosevelt and Eisenhower, while using "many Socialist measures have not based their various programs on a Socialist philosophical basis."

Affects Nil

Speaking of the affect of the activities of the senate investigations subcommittee and similar legislative investigating groups on the U. S. socialist party, Thomas said it had been nil.

He added that fear of Communism in the U. S. has also failed to affect adversely the Socialist party in this country.

"At times, in fact," the six-time Socialist presidential candidate said, "I wish that McCarthy had attacked me or the Socialist party."

Thomas has been an outspoken critic of the junior senator from Wisconsin.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR. Foreign Staff Associated Press

DeWitt Mackenzie, famous foreign correspondent and columnist of the Associated Press, now retired, used to say that the Soviet regime in Russia would eventually crack up because, by its denial of all the tenets of the world's greatest religions, it was just plain evil.

Aside from common fear of deliberate aggression, perhaps the greatest reaction against the Soviet regime is its disregard for the dignity of man, one of the great Christian tenets.

And the search for dignity, for the right of self-assertion—call it patriotism, nationalism or what you will—is a yeast working in today's world as it has seldom worked before.

Nations have recognized this, and have been cutting their patterns to meet it.

Since World War II Britain has either gotten out or made important grants of independence in India, Burma, Ceylon, the Sudan, Rhodesia, the Gold Coast and British Honduras. Holland has no more control in Indonesia. France is just about through in Indochina, is about to give up her enclaves in India, and is preparing to yield a vast proportion of her powers in North Africa, with complete independence for Tunisia and Morocco not far off.

The current season is particularly one of adjustments and settlements among the nations of the Free World, with greater emphasis than ever on the "free."

Affects Free World The American assembly, a group of business and professional leaders, has just recognized the African and Asiatic drive for self-determination as amounting to a revolution, with its proper handling directly affecting the security of the Free World.

Russia and Red China, however, are proceeding with their long-outdated policy of forceful expansion and dictatorial control of every people and every area which they can conquer.

For a time they have been able to make use of the very revolutionary tide which, once in control, they seek to suppress. They may do so for a time longer. But in the end there's going to be a day of reckoning.

Garner Back from Education Meet

Burford Garner superintendent of schools, returned to Iowa City Sunday, after attending the National Education Association convention in New York.

The NEA convention, which began June 26, was held at the Teachers College of Columbia University. Garner also attended the three-week superintendent work-shop conference which followed the main convention. Thirty-five superintendents from the United States and Canada attended the conference and discussed problems pertaining to school administration.

Porter To Discuss The Italian Press

Prof. William E. Porter, head of the magazine journalism sequence at the SUJ school of journalism will speak on his impressions of the Italian press at the Albuquerque, N. M., convention of the Association for Education in Journalism, August 31 and September 1 and 2.

Porter, who held a lectureship under the Fulbright program in the Institute di Pubblicita at the University of Rome, Italy, during the 1952-53 school year, will provide a 15-minute portion of the panel on "The Flow of the News and The Foreign Press."

He will appear with six other journalism educators who have recently been abroad.

Battleship Missouri Heads for Shelf

By CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON — They're putting the "Mighty Mo" to bed! The powerful battleship, one of the mightiest afloat, is being placed in the reserve fleet and this time there is no President to intercede for her.

This is not the first time the navy has threatened to put the U.S.S. Missouri in mothballs. On another occasion, former President Harry S. Truman prevented it. Now, however, with the emphasis on air power, it is doubtful that the Missouri will ever again ride the waves in all her glory.

The Missouri compiled a great record of achievement during her 10 years of active service. Her finest hour came in 1945, when the Japanese signed the terms of surrender aboard her in Tokyo bay. Her saddest was in 1950, when she got hung on a sandbar for 15 unhappy days off Hampton Roads, Va.

Launched in 1944

The Missouri was launched in January, 1944. The navy listed as her sponsor "Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the then Senator and Mrs. Truman." The ship was named for the senator's state and he never forgot her.

She was the pride of the fleet, the epitome of speed, power and the most modern design. She was Adm. William (Bull) Halsey's flagship during World War II and compiled a good battle record during Pacific combat.

When the war ended, economy once again became an important word in the government and there were those who pointed out that it cost $67 million a year to keep the mighty ship afloat.

By August, 1948, the Missouri's sister ships, the Wisconsin and New Jersey, were in mothballs. It was announced the Iowa was next and there were reports the Missouri would follow.

Truman Steps In

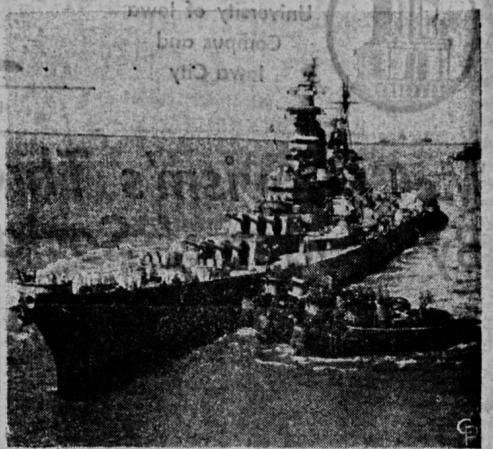

That is when Harry Truman stepped in. In December, 1948, President Truman boarded the ship at Norfolk, Va., to present a $10,000 281-piece silver service, the gift of the state of Missouri.

After the presentation services, the President told newsmen: "Some smart alec who poses as a spokesman for the navy has stated that the Missouri is to be put out of commission. 'The Missouri is not to be put out of commission. I want to make that as emphatic as possible. I am speaking as the President of the United States.'"

Stayed in Service

The great battleship stayed in service. The controversy died down until one day in January, 1950, the Mighty Mo ran smack onto a sandbar in Chesapeake bay. It took 15 days to pry her loose during which she was the center of national attention.

Once again the pressure built up to retire the Lady. Rep. Carl Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the house armed services committee, announced on Feb. 1, the day she was freed, that he would seek to have her retired and have an aircraft carrier activated in her place.

The following day, Adm. W. H. P. Blandy retired as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet. As he did so, he told a news conference that he favored replacing the Missouri with one or two carriers. He said it was difficult to justify her remaining in active service.

Heat Was On

The heat was on. It appeared that the mighty ship must go despite the President. However, several weeks later, she obtained a reprieve. It was announced the Missouri would become a "training school ship." This, it was explained, would reduce her operating costs in half.

Thus she continued until the Korean war broke out in June, 1950. She was hurriedly refitted for action, manned, and sent on an 11,000-mile dash to Korea. There she saw two tours of duty. Her three sister ships were also brought out of mothballs to join her.

In addition to her war duties, the Missouri also made a trip to Rio de Janeiro with President Truman and another to Istanbul, Turkey, to return the body of Turkish Ambassador Mehmet Estegun, who had died in the United States.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Some 300 of Michigan's best fire fighters were registering for the 24th annual state fire college when someone smelled smoke. While scores of firemen stood around, a woman registrar ran up to Jacob H. Hohmann Jr., assistant fire chief of Bay City, Mich., and put out the fire. His shirt was smoldering from a cigarette spark.

10,000th Patient Enters Hospital

VA's 10,000th Patient Enters Hospital Here

The 10,000th patient has been admitted to the Iowa City Veterans Administration hospital, Dr. L. E. Stilwell, hospital manager said Tuesday. He was William Leech of Davenport.

The VA hospital in Iowa City has been in operation since March 16, 1952. During that time, Dr. Stilwell said, it has achieved an impressive record of medical care for the community which it serves. It is well equipped and staffed in cooperation with the SUI hospitals as a research and teaching hospital with special facilities for treatment of tumor ailments and for research in radioisotope medicine. It has also pioneered in the development of new surgical techniques for which the VA has received national recognition from the American Medical Association. Designated as a general medical and surgical hospital, the institution has units for the care of neuro-psychiatric and tuberculosis patients. It employs approximately 600 persons to care for an average daily load of just under 400 patients. The policies governing admission to VA hospitals have been established by laws passed by Congress. First priority is given to emergencies and to veterans who have service-connected disabilities. Next in order of eligibility are those veterans who have service-connected disabilities, but who require hospitalization for other ailments; and finally when beds and funds are available, veterans who do not have service-connected ailments, and who do not require emergency care, may be treated if they do not have funds to pay for needed care in private medical institutions. Veterans needing hospital care should be referred to the hospital by their family physicians.

Australian Education Outstanding: Roberts

The foremost impression of Australia on a visitor is the intense independence and beliefs in equality of its people, Prof. Hew Roberts of the SUI college of education told the Iowa City Kiwanis club luncheon Tuesday.

Roberts, who was born in Australia but has lived most of his life in this country, recently returned from a six-month visit to his native land as an exchange professor.

Progress in public education is outstanding in "the land down under," Roberts said, though the biggest weaknesses lie in administration. Australia is highly conscientious in offering education and culture to all its people, surmounting tremendous problems of distance in doing so.

Finds National Theater

Roberts told of finding a national theater company, government-sponsored dramatic group, touring tiny rural villages more than 1,800 miles from the nearest large city.

"There is no trace of a socialized personality in Australia," Roberts said, in spite of extensive social security, public housing, child endowment programs, and free public schooling through college level.

Roberts characterized the average Australian as realistic and rational, entirely willing to discuss freely the questions of the day without any trace of the intellectual fear which pervades this country.

American Popularity Declines

A distressing trend is indicated, Roberts said, by the sharp decline of American popularity among the Australian people. The Gallup poll of favorable opinion toward the United States has declined from 78 to 21 percent since the end of World War II.

Australians realize that a great power re-alignment is taking place in the world, Roberts said. They have appreciated American help in the past, but feel no inferiority and believe they have shared war burdens equally. Australia regards the U.S. as an equal but indecision in foreign policy and such things as the McCarthy hearings have lowered their esteem for us.

Another unfavorable factor has been the poor conduct of exchange professors from this country. Roberts told of teachers who seemed to have just come for the trip and evidenced no interest in serious research help and exchange of ideas. Australian colleges now hesitate to make these teacher exchanges, he said.

Roberts stressed that Australia is not a country inhabited by kangaroos and Aborigines as often imagined, but a modern and progressive people who can be important friends in the present day world.

Practical Politics Workshop To Meet At SUI Aug. 29

Twenty political science teachers in colleges and universities in Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin have been named to participate in a workshop in practical politics at SUI Aug. 29 to Sept. 2.

Robert F. Ray, director of the SUI institute of public affairs and director of the workshop, said today that the participants had been selected by the national Citizenship Clearing House, co-sponsors of the workshop, from nominations submitted by college officials in the four states.

Purpose of the workshop is to discuss ways in which college teachers can encourage students to take an active part in the political party of their choice when they leave college.

The professors will discuss courses, teaching techniques and special programs designed to prepare students for active political participation. With leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties, they will consider the ways in which young college trained men and women can participate in politics.

All expenses of the participants, including travel expenses to and from Iowa City, will be paid by the citizenship clearing house from funds provided by the Maurice and Laura Falk foundation.

Rumors Fly Again That A's Will Move to Kansas City

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Johnson of Chicago said Tuesday night he has made a "very fair offer" to buy the Philadelphia Athletics and move the American League team to Kansas City for next season.

"I have not received any reply from the Mack family," Johnson said. "I have reason to believe they are considering it."

"This is no secret. I have been working on it for a long time."

'K. C. Will Be Red Hot'
 "I think Kansas City will be a red hot baseball town."

Earlier Tuesday, John P. Carmichael, sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, reported the sale to Johnson would be announced by Aug. 11.

Roy Mack, who has opposed any sale or transfer of the club which he owns with his father, Connie, and brother, Earl, said of the Chicago story:

Roy Denies Story
 "The report out of Chicago is positively not true. I have every intention and desire to keep the club in Philadelphia."

Johnson said the Aug. 11 date had no special significance as far as his offer was concerned.

"I believe that has something to do with Roy Mack trying to buy out his brother and father. I think they've given him to Aug. 11. I expect the board of directors will consider my offer at that time, too."

Called 'Premature'
 At the same time, American League President Will Harridge said in Chicago that the report was "very premature and there is no deal as far as my office knows."

Harridge pointed out that Roy Mack has been given until Aug. 11 by the A's board of directors

NEW YORK (AP) — It could be that the ball players who decline to wear protective helmets at bat don't need them. Their skulls are thick enough.

Like the guy who said "I never had a cold in my life — kerchoo," these stubborn athletes, aware that players on occasion are carted to hospitals after being struck on the head by a pitched ball, take the attitude it couldn't happen to them.

No, it couldn't happen to them. It couldn't happen to Ray Chapman, or Mickey Cochrane, or Hank Leiber, or Joe Medwick, or Mel Ott, or Joe Adcock, but it did. Most of the serious injuries occurred before protective devices were available, and a batter just had to take his chances of being beaned.

Is It Pride?
 Possibly it is a certain pride that makes a man ignore precautions; the desire to prove he is a he-man who scoffs at danger. Only sissies would wear a plastic helmet or some protective band.

If that's true Enos Slaughter should be playing right field on a girl's softball team. Slaughter, one of the roughest, toughest competitors baseball has known, not only wears head protection at the plate, but in the field as well. He might break arms and ribs or shoulders crashing into fences, but he's not going to take a chance of having his head caved in.

Ty Cobb quit baseball before the modern protective devices were in use. One of the reasons he gave for retiring was that he wanted to quit while hitting better than .300, and "they were catching up with me."

Ty Cobb Afraid
 Another reason was that he was afraid of being struck on the head by a pitched ball! He had never been beamed, although his cap was spun around by one of Walter Johnson's pitches, but he feared his slowed reflexes might make him vulnerable.

If the great Cobb readily admitted fear of being hit, it would seem rather silly for lesser players to brazenly court a possibly lethal blow when the means are available to protect them.

That a pitcher would deliberately throw at a batter's head is unthinkable. That would be a criminal action comparable to trying to run down a man with a truck.

Risk to Batter
 In throwing so-called dusters, intent on driving a batter back from the plate, the pitchers are risking injury to the batter, however.

Their control just isn't that good. If it was, they'd never issue a base on balls unless it was to a Ted Williams or a Stan Musial to keep him from knocking the ball out of the lot.

So if a pitcher can't hit the strike zone, how can he expect to just come close to a man without hitting him? We'd hate to have these baseball William Tells trying to see how close they could come to us without putting a dent in our hide.

New Carnera Too Meek, Returns to Mine

ROME (AP) — The new Carnera isn't one—and the mother of Milo Malagoli is very happy.

But the jovial giant of Tuscan has disappointed thousands of Italian fight fans who thought he would follow Primo Carnera's glory path and bring the world's heavyweight boxing championship back to Italy.

Instead, Milo is now back at his mine job at Niccioceto.

Twelve months ago, when Milo was discovered, the Italian and world press published stacks of photos of his 6-foot 10½ inch, 286-pound build. His mother then said:

"Why, Milo is gentle as a lamb. He wouldn't hurt anybody."

Fight fans, promoters, trainers hoped that what Signora Maria Sani Malagoli said was not true. Milo looked good. Steve Klaus, American trainer of Italy's national boxing squad,

Giants Crush Cubs, 7-1; Keep Lead over Bums

NEW YORK (AP) — Powered by Hank Thompson's 19th home run of the season with two mates aboard in the first inning, the New York Giants went on to crush the injury-riddled Chicago Cubs 7-1 Tuesday night to maintain their 5-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Blasting Bob Rush for 12 hits, the Giants made it easy for Ruben Gomez to register his 10th victory, and the Giants' fifth in succession. Gomez scattered five hits and lost his shut-out in the second when the Cubs tallied without the benefit of a hit.

They filled the bases on a hit batter and two walks. Frank Baumholtz' sacrifice fly scored Ernie Banks.

Alvin Dark, apparently recovering his batting eye, collected Davey Williams batted in two runs with a pair of singles.

Thompson's homer followed a walk to leadoff batter Whitey Lockman and Dark's first hit.

Singles by Don Mueller and Williams, sandwiched around a walk to Willie Mays, produced another run in the first.

Garver's 2.35 ERA Tops Junior Circuit

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran righthander Ned Garver of the Detroit Tigers and Virgil Trucks of the Chicago White Sox are waging a close battle for American League earned runs supremacy.

Garver, despite an 8-7 record, ranks as the leader with a 2.35 earned run average. Trucks, meanwhile, boasts 15 victories as against five setbacks, but trails Garver with a 2.36 ERA.

Garver has allowed 42 earned runs in 161 innings. The 28-year-old hurler, in his seventh season, has pitched 10 complete games, including two shutouts.

Trucks, third in the earned run listings last year, has given up 48 earned runs in 183 innings. The 35-year-old fireballer has recorded four shutouts among his 12 complete games.

Yankees Beat Cleveland 2-1; Indians Keep Narrow Lead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Southpaw Whitey Ford grudgingly gave Cleveland only four hits Tuesday night as the New York Yankees, in a 2-1 victory, chipped the Indians' American League lead to a game and a half.

Catcher Yogi Berra poked a third-inning single to send in the winning runs.

A crowd of 60,643, Cleveland's largest of the season saw Cleveland take a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Larry Doby slammed a homer over the right field fence, his 23rd of the season.

The New Yorkers gained seven hits off three Cleveland hurlers — Art Houtteman being charged with the loss.

Southpaw Don Mossi, who earlier had complained of an upset stomach, left after he retired two Yankee batters with "be bases loaded in the first inning."

It was Houtteman's sixth loss against 10 wins.

Ray Narleski relieved him in

Golfer Strokes 66 In Qualifying Round At Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (AP) — The big guns won't be booming at Tam O'Shanter until the All-American Golf tournament starts Thursday, but an unheralded pro whacked a resounding 67-under-par 66 to pace Tuesday's opening qualifying round.

On the first of two days of qualifying which will trim a field of some 200 hopefuls to 60 who will join 76 seeded pros, Tommy Burek Jr., formerly of Houston, Tex., stroked tam for 32-34.

A stroke behind Burke was George Fazio of Clementon, N. J., who carded 34-33-67, and Smiley Quick of Los Angeles, who matched Fazio's nines.

Promoter George S. May has notice from Sam Snead that because of surgery performed on his two sons, he will be forced to skip the All-American tourney. However, Snead will be on hand when Tams' real gold hunt, the "world" tourney with a $50,000 prize and $50,000 in exhibition contract for first place comes up next week.

Tuesday's Tom activity also produced nine qualifiers for the All-American Women's Amateur starting Thursday, headed by Marilyn Klumb of West Bend, Wis., whose 40-38-78 was two over women's par.
