Mostly fair and cool today, high in 50s. Fair and continued cold tonight with frost or freezing temperatures. Fair and not so cold Saturday.

Anthony Orchestra Entertained at Supper

GUESTS OF SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON fraternity and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority at a buffet supper Thursday were Ray Anthony and his orchestra. The band was invited for supper by members of the groups when he was playing for a dance in Cedar Rapids last weekend. Seated, left to right are Donna McMahon, A4, Ft. Dodge; Anthony, and Bob Doerr, A4, Sioux City. Standing are Bill Steele, A4, Cedar Rapids, and Alice Dalbey, A4, Des Moines, presidents of the organizations.

Gets Divorce at 99, Can Marry at 100

IOLA, Kan. (AP)—An Iola man who will be 100 years old next May was granted a divorce Thursday and was told he must not get married again within the next six months.

Thomas K. Kimzey asked for the decree and told Judge Spencer Gard he wanted to get the divorce before he is 100 years old.

Kimzey and his wife, Mrs. Clara Kimzey, 70, were married in Pickneyville, Ill., in 1945. They lived together at Iola until 1952 when she left him, Kimzey said.

Reds Exploit 'Dog' Remark

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio told the Soviet people Thursday night that U. S. Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson had called American unemployed "dogs."

Commentator Valentine Zorin devoted 400 words to "the scandal" he said had stemmed from Wilson's comments at Detroit Monday.

"Wilson... attacked the American unemployed... by accusing them grossly and calling them dogs," the broadcast said.

Zorin made no mention of Wilson's acknowledgement in Chicago Wednesday night that his statement was inept. In his remarks at Detroit, Wilson had made the following comment after referring to unemployment:

"And I've got a lot of sympathy for people where a sudden change catches 'em — but I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel fed dogs. You know, one who'll get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

Zorin called the situation "a noisy, political scandal."

First 2 Break-Ins In 2 Weeks Listed

The first Iowa City break-ins in two weeks were reported Thursday to Iowa City police.

Although nothing was taken from the Skelley Oil company, 204 N. Dubuque st., and the Kennedy auto market, 708 S. Riverside drive, burglars entered both buildings by breaking windows. Office desks were rifled.

"The break-ins," Detective Harland Sprinkle said, "were the work of amateurs, probably youngsters."

Oct. 22 Deadline On Senior Annuals

Seniors who have not yet applied for their copy of the 1955 Hawkeye yearbook have only seven more days to do so.

Applications must be filed with the office of the registrar before 4:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22.

Students in the undergraduate colleges are eligible to receive a copy without charge if they expect to receive a degree in February, June or August, 1955, and if they have not received a Hawkeye for a previous year as a senior in the same college.

Anthony Band Lacks Conductor Ray's Zest

By DRAKE MABRY

Approximately 900 enthusiastic music fans listened to a somewhat unenthusiastic Ray Anthony band Thursday night in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

But that's not saying the audience didn't like his music. They applauded the honking saxophones, screaming trumpets and blaring trombones with exuberance.

Ray Anthony put on a good show himself. That's why he's a successful band leader. He's a passable trumpet player, a comedian of sorts ("My piano man has been with B.G., T.D., and B.O."), and a natural for the job of fronting the band.

Included 'Dragnet' Music-wise the Anthony band played most of its record hits, including the inevitable "Dragnet," and came out with some pleasing music at times.

Anthony's salute to band leaders of the past was well received by the audience. Harry James and Tommy Dorsey were immortalized by the Anthony band when it played several of the tunes associated with the James and Dorsey bands.

Resting from his antics on the stage, Anthony said that concerts are a natural for his musicians to play.

Concerts Easier "The complete attention of an audience is focused on the band during a concert," he said. "But at a dance the kids are concentrating more on dancing, or their girl, than the music. Thus the boys tend to let up just a little."

Anthony then started discussing the band business in general.

"The people, the dancers are different than they were in the days of Benny Goodman, Glenn Miller, and Artie Shaw," he offered. "Why, if they came back now it wouldn't mean as much as it did in the late 30's and early 40's."

He tried to explain his position.

Local Men Return After Plane Crash

Three Iowa City men, involved in Wednesday's airplane crash near Anthon, returned to Iowa City Thursday afternoon.

Roland Smith, Woodlawn apartments, Iowa City realtor, received a skinned nose from his eyeglasses.

M. D. McCreedy, 1205 Seymour ave., was flying Smith and Max Hawkins, 607 Melrose ave., to Sioux City when the private plane lost power following a takeoff from a road near Anthon and crashed into trees.

McCreedy is a local contractor and Hawkins is fund director for the new Old Gold development fund, an alumni contribution organization. He is a former SUI football player.

LIKED TO PAINT ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—The height of the murals and the prints of bare feet were the clues to the persons who did several thousand dollars worth of damage to the almost complete addition to a new building. An 8-year-old girl and a 6-year-old boy admitted they painted the murals because they "liked to paint."

Carolina Gets Set For Hazel As Hurricane Gains Speed

Candidate Rejects Tickets

Democrat Denman Turns Down Purdue Passes; Seats for Officials Traditional, Ebel Says

Robert Ebel, Homecoming committee chairman, Wednesday expressed regret that William F. Denman, Democratic candidate for the state legislature from Polk county, rejected two tickets reserved for him at the SUI Homecoming game with Purdue Nov. 6.

Although no personal letter from Denman had been received by the committee his rejection was announced in an Associated Press story.

Denman was quoted as saying that "receiving them raised in my mind why they were sent to me. I never received any before I became candidate for the legislature."

Ebel pointed out that it has been a tradition with the university for about 30 years to invite state officials to the Homecoming game. Because this year's elections fall so close to the date of the game, all candidates have been sent an invitation to sit in the "official guest" section.

He added that "public officials and candidates are worthy of all the honor we can give them and this is one way to show appreciation to them."

No other rejections have been received by the committee.

UMT Criticized By GOP Candidate

Fred Schwengel of Davenport, Republican candidate for U. S. congressman from the first district, said Thursday night that he did not believe in universal military training, except in an emergency.

"When you have military training for everyone, you will have a military state," Schwengel said.

Schwengel termed Secretary of Defense Wilson's "kennel dog" statement as "an unfortunate remark."

"It's liable to have an effect on the election," Schwengel said.

Schwengel, a five-term state representative, called for the election of a Republican congress to prevent "the situation that developed with Herbert Hoover in 1932."

"All the legislation to remedy the depression was flitted away by a quarreling congress that wanted to set up a Democratic president. You know what happened. It hasn't been good."

Schwengel claimed that the Eisenhower administration has accomplished more in the past two years than has been accomplished in any other two-year period in recent times.

He said, "It ended the Korean war and followed up by settling the Indo-China war. For the first time in 20 years we have world peace. That's quite an accomplishment."

Chicago Man Buys Tallest Skyscraper

NEW YORK (AP)—The Empire State building, tallest skyscraper in the world, Thursday became the property of one man — Col. Henry Crown, Chicago industrialist.

It was the second time in the building's 23-year history that one man has owned it. John J. Raskob, industrialist and General Motors executive, built the structure and held it in personal ownership until his death in 1950.

Crown, who already held 61 per cent control, bought out several estates and investors to make his ownership 100 per cent. It cost him $49½ million.

Vessel Sinks In Collision Off Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The 258-foot Dutch cargo ship, Prins Willem V, sank in Lake Michigan Thursday night after colliding with a tug, but all aboard were believed rescued.

The Willem, an Oranje Line ship with 29 men aboard, went down in 80 feet of water one hour and 15 minutes after colliding with a Sinclair Oil company tug, which was towing a barge.

The 2,000 ton ship, carrying general cargo, was bound from Milwaukee to Canada and Europe. The collision occurred in heavy seas, but there was no fog.

The coast guard sent rescue ships to the scene and reported that all aboard the Willem were taken off or had taken to life boats. The tug reached harbor under its own power.

Milwaukee police detective Wallace Armstrong said the Coast Guard was towing some of the lifeboats into shore in heavy seas.

Ambulances were waiting at Milwaukee where the first of the crewmen from the Prins Willem began arriving.

The Willem had sailed from Chicago Thursday morning.

Extent of damage to the tug was not immediately known. The barge pulled by the tug was believed to contain oil.

At Chicago, the Coast Guard was sending the cutter Arundel to the scene.

Sioux City, Chicago Air Route Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four airlines contended before the Civil Aeronautics board Thursday for authority to fly a route between Chicago and Sioux City, Iowa.

Lawyers for the airlines — Braniff, Ozark, United and North Central — presented their views in four hours of oral argument before the board.

The board took the matter under advisement.

FLOOD WATERS FOLLOWED in the wake of Hurricane Hazel, bringing widespread destruction to the island republic. Deserted houses and cars stand in deep water at Haitian towns of Ozeau and Croix des Missions, suburbs of the capital city of Port-au-Prince.

Delaware To Readmit 10 Negro Students

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Delaware Thursday paved the legal way for the readmission of 10 Negro students to the formerly all-white Milford, Del., high school.

Vice Chancellor William Marvel ruled that the 10 Negroes "have a clear legal right" to attend the Milford school, pending a final decision by the Delaware court of chancery in a case filed by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

There was no immediate reaction by the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, or its president, Bryant Lewis.

Bowls L. Redding, attorney for the NAACP, said in Wilmington it would probably be the middle of next week before the children return to the school.

He explained that the defendants in the case — the Milford school board, the school superintendent and the high school principal — have until Tuesday noon to file arguments or exceptions to the ruling with the chancery.

If none are filed the chancery then would issue an order, effective immediately, which would clear the way for the school to readmit the pupils.

Mayor Edward C. Evans of Milford said he understands the school board will meet Friday to decide whether to file exceptions.

One source close to the school board said he didn't think they would.

The NAACP suit was heard in court of chancery at Georgetown, Del. last Tuesday.

During the hearing, State Atty. Gen. H. Albert Young appeared "as a friend of the court" and made a dramatic appeal for readmission of the 10 Negroes.

In his ruling Thursday, Marvel said:

"I hold that the plaintiffs have constitutional rights to a non-segregated education vested on their admission to Milford high school, rights which the defendants concede but which they wish to withhold for the present. I find the plaintiffs' legal rights clear and convincing."

Winnie Enters Dock Strike

LONDON (AP)—The Churchill government Thursday night stepped into the two-week-old London dock strike which has cut deeply into Britain's vital shipping industry.

Prime Minister Churchill summoned a cabinet meeting, and Sir Walter Monckton, minister of labor, asked waterfront employers and union representatives to meet with him separately today.

The cabinet also discussed the strike which has halted thousands of London's red double-decker buses.

Walkouts spread throughout the day. Only one ship in the miles of London wharves was being worked.

Between a quarter and a third of Britain's overseas trade was at a standstill. More than a third of the city's 7,100 buses stood idle.

"Will Become National" Union pleas to strikers to return to work to permit negotiations of grievances were countered by strike committee predictions the stoppage "will become national."

The waterfront dispute is complicated by a war between two rival unions, but both strikes were set off by differences over whether overtime should be compulsory or voluntary.

The government could declare a state of emergency and call troops to unload perishable cargoes.

This was the picture of London's surface transport: More than 12,330 bus drivers and conductors were out. Service was at a standstill on 92 of London's 200 bus routes. Forty-two other routes were partly affected and 32 were working restricted schedules.

No Way Home Thousands of Londoners were delayed getting home. Jams formed at entrances to the subway system and trains were crowded with thousands of extra passengers.

Hundreds were given lifts by passing automobiles. Others hiked to the railway stations.

The bus strike stems from a demand for higher pay and better working conditions. The drivers and conductors recently began a ban on overtime in support of their demand for a weekly minimum wage of 10 pounds ($28).

Drivers now get a basic 7 pounds, 18 shillings, 6 pence ($22.19) and conductors, 7 pounds, 14 shillings, 6 pence ($21.63).

Storm To Hit Coast During Early Hours

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Hazel, gaining speed and, expected to move still faster, aimed its death-dealing fury at the North Carolina coast Thursday night.

The season's most vicious tropical storm with winds of 130-miles an hour and moving north-northwest at 25 to 30 m.p.h., was expected to strike land near Wilmington, N.C., about 5 a.m.

The Miami weather bureau warned that winds would increase along the coast north of the storm throughout the night.

The weather bureau said Hazel was centered about 275 miles east of Daytona Beach, Fla., and about 350 miles southeast of Wilmington at 8 p.m.

To Keep Tabs A Navy reconnaissance plane planned to keep tabs on the hurricane by radar throughout the night.

North Carolina coastal dwellers worked feverishly to prepare for the savage storm which caused uncounted death and destruction as it lumbered through the Caribbean.

Storm-wary New Englanders, already battered by two death-dealing hurricanes this year, hurried preparations against Hazel just in case.

All along the coast from Charleston, S.C., to Block Island storm warnings were hoisted and the Weather Bureau cautioned against dangerous winds and high tides.

Coast on Alert The entire North Carolina coastline was brought under hurricane alert Thursday night as the storm maintained its north-northwest course. Earlier only the Capes area expected the full brunt of the storm.

The weather bureau said the center of the storm was about 260 miles east of Melbourne, Fla., at 5 p.m. It was picking up speed.

Gales extended 200 miles to the north and east and about 100 miles to the south and west. "Winds will gradually increase and squalls become more frequent along the coast as the hurricane approaches," the bureau said.

Planes Patrol Planes from the Coast Guard Air Station at Elizabeth City patrolled North Carolina's outer banks and inland sounds during the day, dropping warnings.

Residents in threatened areas were advised to "get away and stay away" from low-lying beaches or other locations that might be swept by high tides or storm waves.

Atlantic Beach, N.C., already has lost most of its summer residents, and the rest—it has a winter population of 49—prepared to sit it out.

New Englanders, twice hit by hurricanes this year, were put on notice by the Boston weather bureau that Hazel's position and course "make it critical for New England."

Hazel was closely following the paths of hurricanes Carol, which blasted a path up Narragansett Bay in August, and Edna which hammered hard at Massachusetts and Maine in September.

CAMPUS CHEST DRIVE READIED

Housing Units To Indicate Choices

Letters will be sent to presidents of all housing units this week asking them to indicate the organizations they wish to support through the Campus Chest drive Nov. 15-18.

This is the first year that the student body will have a voice in the distribution of chest funds. In other years the Campus Chest central planning committee has picked the agencies to be helped.

The goal for next month's drive will be set after the preferences have been indicated. Emma Lou Fuller, A4, Altoona, and Emilie Lathrop, A4, Cedar Rapids, co-chairmen, said.

Campus Chest is the only drive for solicitations on campus sponsored by the SUI Student Council.

The letter to the presidents says in part: "The preferences of the students will determine the organizations to which Campus Chest will contribute and how the money will be apportioned."

"Have the members of your housing unit or organization select their top four preferences by numbering one through four the agencies which they choose. Include suggestions of additional organizations if they wish."

CARE buys books and educational equipment and organizes laboratories or schools in devastated or backward countries.

The National Scholarship service and Fund for Negro students help students on the basis of academic standing, merit and need.

World University service is voluntary and is sponsored by all religious orders and student associations. It gives financial assistance where efforts are being made to establish an educational program. The needy area supplies the labor for the projects.

Save the Children federation works both with the world's underprivileged and the Indian children of the U.S.

The United Negro college fund helps colleges that admit Negro students, especially where segregation is practiced.

The fund for foreign students at SUI provides loans for those in need.

The Japanese International Christian foundation sponsors scholarships to deserving and needy students in Japan.

It is impossible for Campus Chest funds to be given to the American Red Cross according to Miss Fuller and Miss Lathrop. They said the Red Cross receives money only through membership campaigns.

Last year's Campus Chest drive netted $2,250.

Meanwhile local Community Chest contributions reached $5,750 Thursday, leaving $27,629 still to be raised by the campaign which ends Oct. 23.

Thousands of Londoners were delayed getting home. Jams formed at entrances to the subway system and trains were crowded with thousands of extra passengers.

Hundreds were given lifts by passing automobiles. Others hiked to the railway stations.

editorials Foot-in-Mouth Disease—

We're wondering when Charlie Wilson is going to learn to say what he actually means instead of sticking his foot in his mouth in an attempt at cuteness.

His recent statement concerning hunting dogs and kennel dogs has caught the full wrath of the Democrats, labor leaders, and even some of his own party.

Wilson said, in an off-hand comment at last Monday's press conference, that he liked bird dogs better than kennel dogs because "the bird dogs like to get out and hunt around for their food, but the kennel dogs just sit on their fanny and yell."

CIO President Walter Reuther immediately hopped on the statement and claimed that Wilson was referring to jobless workers and "wanted them to abandon life-long savings invested in their homes and wander like gypsies... seeking a job."

The defense secretary has always been a blunt, outspoken individual. He has said about himself, "I don't think I would ever be a good politician. I am assumed to have too simple a mind and think too directly about things."

Surely Mr. Wilson should know by this time that in the political arena one has to watch his analogies. People are paid to jump on such unfortunate comparisons and use them against the speaker.

Whatever Wilson meant by the "dog" remark, it served no useful purpose. Following the Reuther blast, Wilson claimed he didn't mean what he said. But what did he mean?

He was referring to a certain type of unemployed worker who is, after all, the exception rather than the rule. With the election less than three weeks away, the remark was ill-chosen.

It is unfortunate that some important points of policy discussed by Wilson in this same Detroit speech were virtually ignored after the useless "dog" remark.

He discussed the relative merits of negotiating contracts and getting competitive bids.

He evaluated the airplane and automobile industries. He talked about retooling and conversion problems in wartime.

Wilson's comment on dogs consisted roughly of one-hundredth of his total speech: It took probably less than one minute to utter. But that is all it takes to get your foot in your mouth, especially in the last few days before an election.

Wilson did a good job of that. And it will take some doing by his good Republican friends to get his foot out.

It will be even harder to repair the damage done to his party's position before election time, especially in the areas where unemployment is an issue.

A Case for Short Ballots—

A friend of ours in the Iowan newsroom got his absentee ballot from Polk county Thursday.

The thing was over four feet long and a foot and a half wide. It cost nine cents to mail it. There were 47 choices on the ballot ranging from U.S. Senator to township trustee.

When he opened the ballot to full length he had to call on the city editor to help him hold it so he could see what it was.

The last time we saw him he was wandering around the reporters' desks with the ballot slung over his shoulder muttering something like, "Oughta have short ballots, oughta have short ballots!"

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
Foreign Staff Associated Press

Workers in the democratic nations won the right to strike by fighting many bitter battles and it is one of their most cherished possessions.

In Britain, France and the United States, particularly, it would be politically impossible to pass any law annulling this right, and even the loosest of regulations is difficult.

Yet it is a right, like so many others exercised by free men, which is peculiarly open to perversion and an invitation to the Communists despite the fact that it would be a high offense against the totalitarian states to which they pay their principal allegiance.

The Reds are now attempting to make hay out of the British strikes, some of which are maverick affairs not sponsored by leaders of the unions themselves.

Workers Desire
The strikes fundamentally are the results of a desire by the workers for greater participation in a growing national prosperity. The role of the Reds, as always, is to set up as many unreasonable barriers as possible against reasoned settlement.

The strikes come at a time when Britain is still turning the corner. They threaten to disrupt the nation's business, particularly its international trade which is so vital, just at a time when loss of momentum could be extremely damaging.

That's why the Communists are so interested, and why they have sought so diligently to infiltrate the waterfront unions, with considerable success.

Red Policy
It is not only a part of their policy of disruption of democratic economies. It is also practice for the time they hope to see, when strikes will play a major role in their efforts to spread their conquests.

That is why it is so important for democratic workers, exercising their rights as free men, not to permit them to be subverted.

If you ever see widespread Communist-led strikes occurring simultaneously throughout Europe you can feel pretty sure that you are witnessing the prelude to one of the world's gravest crises.

Iowa GOP's Fighting Gillette; To Help Ike

(Editor's Note: This is another of the stories by roving Associated Press reporters analyzing the campaign in key states.)

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa Republicans may elect a Democrat to the United States senate on Nov. 2.

There wouldn't be anything particularly strange about that, except that this year the GOP high command is driving hard here as in other states to guarantee President Eisenhower a Republican congress.

Iowa Republicans are up against Guy N. Gillette, who is something rather apart in politics. The best Democratic vote getter in Iowa—just about the only one, in fact—is trying at the moment to get another senate term. He may make it with the help, as usual, of friendly Republicans.

Gillette Consistent
It takes a liberal helping of GOP ballots for a Democrat to win in a state that usually is about 3 to 2 Republican. Gillette has been able to round up those votes consistently in the past and to run far ahead of all other Democrats on the ticket.

His opponent this time is a veteran Republican congressman, Thomas E. Martin.

Spinning around through the Gillette-Martin race are the usual issues—peace, jobs, taxes, foreign relations, support and opposition to the administration, farm prices, especially in Iowa the prices of corn and hogs. But the politicians seem to be more interested in the issues than the people are.

Light Vote Likely
Most Iowa folks aren't whipping themselves into a froth of excitement over the election and there is likely to be a light vote. The corn and hog farmers aren't talking much politics and evidently are less disturbed about prices and price supports than the dairymen in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Thus the senatorial race is more of a polite popularity contest than a fighting showdown on vital national issues.

Martin, 61, is giving up a house seat he has held for 16 years to try to jostle Gillette out of the senate. He has been campaigning for nearly two years, campaigning hard. But it has been an uphill pull all the way.

Martin Gaining
The Republican state chairman, Don Pierson, said in an interview that "Martin has been behind but I think our candidate is gaining, pretty reasonable ground right along."

The big problem for the GOP, Pierson said, is to get Republicans to change their idea that Gillette is "almost a Republican."

"Our success," he said, "depends on getting our Republicans to vote, and then getting them to vote for a Republican and to stop voting for Gillette."

Democratic Trend
It isn't only Gillette and his bi-partisan following that Martin and the GOP are bucking. Here, as in some other midwestern states, there appears to be something of a trend toward the Democrats, some sort of subterranean undercurrent of indeterminate proportions fed partly by pools of discontent on the farms.

At the moment — and some Democrats will dispute this — this undercurrent evidently isn't running with the force needed to upset GOP control of the state government or to jar loose the Republican clutch on any of Iowa's eight house seats.

Iowa hasn't elected a Democratic governor for 18 years or a Democratic house member for 14.

In the gubernatorial race, it is Democrat Clyde E. Herring against Republican Leo A. Hoegh.

One Party Rule
Herring is county attorney of Polk county, Des Moines, and the son of a former governor and U.S. senator. He has been basing his campaign largely on a plea to end "one party rule" in Iowa, where Democratic representation in the legislature is at a record low—7 members out of 150.

Hoegh is Iowa's attorney general. He has built his bid for the statehouse around promises of "clean, honest government."

Hoegh was appointed attorney general by Gov. William S. Beardsley, who has had some troubles with the income tax collector but who has since won reelection. The Democrats are trying to tag Hoegh "Beardsley's boy."

Chicago Boy, 3, Unhurt After 2-Story 'Bounce'

CHICAGO (AP)—The last time 3-year-old Michael J. Serra bounced up from the bed springs Thursday, the bed wasn't below him.

Instead, he angled sideways, bounced right through the glass of his closed window and plunged to the rain-soaked ground two floors below.

His only injury was a cut over the eye.

UCLA Writer Claims Some Professors Lazy

Barry Tunick
UCLA Daily Bruin

Some profs are just lazy. So are most people, perhaps, but in the case of some profs at UCLA the presence of this human failing encourages it in some of their students, to the general detriment of all concerned.

I refer especially to the practice of giving the same questions on tests every semester, the reasoning for which seems to be that the prof gives the same material in the same lectures, so why shouldn't he ask the same questions on the same tests every semester?

Students Exploit
Many students know the answer, but hope strongly that the prof will never find out—because THEY are the answer. They have found a way to exploit the laziness of their instructors. It's obvious: Just maintain files of past exams. (Although the most complete files in certain subjects are found in living groups, I do refer only to orgs, as outsiders have access to them too.)

A student who doesn't want to put in much time on a course doesn't have to; a few well-spent hours in the files before the exam will tell him 80 to 90 per cent of the questions he'll have to answer in many cases.

Why Work?
Why should he take notes in class, do reading assignments at home and cram before tests when his final grade (the only thing he'll ever remember about the course) will represent the average of four or five test grades? (Here you may think I speak as a disgruntled non-file-user who resents others getting good grades without working for them. Well I am, although I once got an A in a bus ad course which I never would have gotten if it hadn't been for fraternity files.)

The system of students' relying upon files is an unhealthy one, viewed in the light of a university's functions. It tends to lay too much emphasis upon passing the tests, and lessen the importance of understanding the material presented in the course. Cases are known in which a student takes a course only because the files are unusually complete on the prof who's teaching it. The system does nothing to stimulate the inquiring mind; rather it does the opposite—you take the courses you are sure to pass, not those you'd like to take.

So the students who rely upon files are doing injustice to themselves, analogous to the self-inflicted ethical injury of those who cheat, although in neither case will they admit injustice.

Perhaps this is not a major problem, but in a way it is an important one. If any action will be taken to solve it, it's up to the profs to take it.

Old-Fashioned Cookbooks Best

Mrs. Richard Fisher
West Branch Times

I imagine most women like cookbooks. So many beautiful ones are put out by manufacturers of foods but they are not the kind that fascinate me.

I like those spattered old notebooks in which recipes were copied by hand. The number of spatters on a page gives a pretty clear indication of the quality of the finished product.

These old "cookbooks" may contain information not related to the art of cooking, as it was a place where the busy homemaker could jot something down without fear of it being lost. For example, one cookbook devotes a page to "Mary's vocabulary at one year."

Another page contained a favorite poem and at the bottom of a page toward the front of the book was this notation, "Spot freshened April 12."

For cooks who include the source of the recipe along with the half cups and teaspoons, a cookbook is like an album. "Miriam's hamburgers, Helen's white cake, Martha's brownies" keeps memories fresh, no matter how many smudges mar the pages.

Dog Retrieves Escaped Rabbit Without Violence

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—A rabbit got out of a pen in Fred Gardner's back yard. Two days later, he turned his young Beagle loose for some exercise. The dog headed for a nearby woods. Several hours later he returned herding the rabbit.

Gardner says the dog would stop when the rabbit stopped, but would worry the rabbit back on a homing course to its pen every time it tried to veer off.

Iowa Nursing Homes Among Top in U.S.

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa has five beds in nursing homes for every 2,000 people in the state, a survey made for the U.S. Public Health Service showed Wednesday.

Preliminary figures from the national inventory indicated Iowa's ratio of nursing home beds to its population was among the highest in the nation.

Iowa has 302 nursing homes with 6,757 beds, the survey reported.

A's Picture Still Unclear As Roy Mack Keeps Stock

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The status of the Philadelphia Athletics franchise Thursday night was a lot like the nursery rhyme — button, button, who's got the button?

Arnold Johnson, Chicago real estate man, said he was all but signed, sealed and delivered owner of the ball club with intentions of moving it to Kansas City.

Roy Mack, executive vice-president of the A's, said that wasn't quite so. Mack said he hadn't agreed in so many words at an American league meeting in Chicago Tuesday to sell his interest in the team.

League 'Disposes' Sale
Will Harridge, president of the American league, said it was his impression the loop had taken up "and disposed of" the sale of the club to Johnson with Mack given until 10 a.m. (CST) next Monday to make up his mind for good and all.

However, Harridge added, while the league made the way clear for Mack to sell, there is no way the league can force him to do that. Harridge summed the situation up this way:

"There is nothing further to say. We just have to sit and wait."

Denies Selling Stock

Mack surprised just about everyone Thursday by issuing a statement in which he denied he had reached the actual point of selling out. Quite the contrary, he said he still retains some hope of keeping the team in the city where the dynasty founded by his father had fielded a major league team for more than a half century.

"I have not sold my stock," declared Mack, who had been keeping his silence since the American league meeting in Chicago last Tuesday, a meeting at which the sale of the club to Johnson was believed all but sewed up.

"The last thing I said before leaving the meeting in Chicago, was 'I am in a closely-knit family and I want a chance to talk it over with them' and I'm still struggling."

Swedberg Ready To Play; Hawks Leave for Columbus

By DICK SOLOWAY

Iowa's Hawkeyes leave by chartered plane for Ohio State at 7 a.m. today after wrapping up practice Thursday with a brief session on both offense and defense. Wearing light weight suits, the Hawks polished up the rough spots in a chilling rain, with much of the time being spent on defense against Buckeye pass plays.

Quarterback Don Dobrino, who was shaken up in the rugged scrimmage session held Wednesday, worked out lightly Thursday, but there is a possibility that he may not see action Saturday. Evashevski said the extent of Dobrino's rib injury is not yet known, "but if the Hawks were to play today, the quarterback would not be ready."

On the brighter side of the game-picture, tackle Rodger Swedberg worked out with the first team for the second day in

HAWKEYE TRAVELING SQUAD
ENDS: Ruston Bordin, James Dick, Frank Gilliam, Tom Hatch, Lou Maty-kiewicz, Ken Meek, James Freeman, James Willett.

TACKLES: Cameron Cummins, Richard Deasy, Boyd Green, Bill Reichow, Terry Shuck, Rodger Swedberg.

GUARDS: John Hall, Ken Jehle, Harlan Jenkinson, Calvin Jones, Terry Moran, John Smith.

CENTERS: Warren Lawson, Norman Six, Don Sucky.

QUARTERBACKS: Don Dobrino, Jerry Reichow, Mitchell Ogles, Duane Tolson.

HALFBACKS: Don Inman, Eldaan Matheson, Ken Ploen, Earl Smith, Robert Stearns, Ed Vincent.

a row, and following practice he said, "The knee feels pretty good; I think I'll be ready to play Saturday."

With the exception of Dobrino and Swedberg the Hawks will be in good physical shape for the Ohio State tilt. Evashevski said Jerry Reichow will definitely start, and Ken Meek will probably start in place of Jim Freeman. It appears that Bill Reichow has taken a firm hold on the first string tackle slot ahead of Cam Cummins and Terry Shuck and will start Saturday.

In the event that Swedberg is not ready to play, Dick Deasy, who has been filling in for the injured lineman, will start.

Outwardly disturbed by his team's poor showing against Michigan last weekend, Evashevski drove the Hawks through rugged scrimmage sessions the first three days this week.

Joost, A's Manager, Awaits Word

NO NEWS IS GOOD NEWS to Eddie Joost, left, field manager for last season's Philadelphia Athletics, as he greets mailman B. H. Thomas in his Burlingame, Calif., front yard. Judging from the frown on Thomas' face there was no news for Joost from official sources about his transfer to the new Kansas City franchise.

'Little Mo's' Fiance Finds Hungary Dull

SALZBURG, Austria (AP)—One of the first American athletes to compete behind the Iron Curtain said Thursday he had found life in Communist Hungary "very, very drab with little or no care-free spirit."

Norman E. Brinker, U.S. navy hero of the modern pentathlon world championships now taking place in Budapest and fiance of Wimbledon women's tennis champion Maureen Connolly, made his comment in the U.S. army's 109th station hospital here.

Brinker suffered a fractured collar bone when he fell from his horse during the first day of the modern pentathlon championships. Despite his injury, he remounted, finished 18th and helped bring the U.S. team into third place in the equestrian phase of the championships.

Ohio State Sub Center To Start

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Senior Bob Thornton will start at center for Ohio State Saturday when the Bucks meet Iowa, Coach Woody Hayes said Thursday.

Thornton replaces Ken Vargo, who broke an arm during the Illinois game.

The Buckeyes went through workouts this week with no injuries received. Hayes scheduled light workouts today.

Sports Views

By Gene Ingle—Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Received in the mail Tuesday, a column written by Tom Kelly of the Emmetsburg Reporter that I thought I'd pass on for what it's worth.

"A sports page dispatch of this past week reported that a star college football player who had been injured was not taken on the traveling squad for Saturday's game, and that brought us back 25 years to our college days at Minnesota and an incident—it was only that except to those of us involved—which once more proved to us that the bigger they are the nicer they can be. The big guy involved was Fritz Crisler, then Minnesota football coach and later coach and now athletic director at Michigan. Today we don't feel too kindly toward anyone from Michigan, but our impression of their athletic director still stands.

"Minnesota had one of its typical powerhouse teams that year and our roommate was big, tousel-haired blocking back. He was a senior and had been plagued for three years with a trick knee. The high spot of the season, from the players' standpoint, was a trip to California for an intersectional game.

Roommate Injured
"On the previous Saturday we watched the game in Memorial stadium at Minneapolis. The game was ruined for us when we saw our buddy go down under a terrific block and fail to get up. He was carried off the field. It looked like the end of his playing career, and it actually was.

"Several of us were waiting at home for him after the game. The squad was leaving on the long trip at eight that evening and when he arrived we asked him about his chances for the trip. He told us that the coach had asked him how he felt and he had confessed that his leg was gone for the season—that he'd be no good for the team. And he'd walked out of the dressing room.

"The big kid, when he'd told us about it, limped into the bedroom. We went in a minute later. Big fellas, especially football players, don't cry. But this 215-pounder was lying across the bed, face down, and sobbing as he probably hadn't cried since he was eight years old.

Notified Crisler
"We tiptoed out and hesitantly picked up the phone. We got Coach Crisler on the phone, fortunately at his home, where he was hastily packing for the trip. We told him what was going on. Just thought he might like to know. There was a pause at the other end, and then the coach's voice.

"Now listen carefully," he told us. "Throw a change of clothes into the kid's bag. I'll be over in my car in 15 minutes. Don't tell him a thing, but be ready to help me carry him out to the car if he proves stubborn. He's going to make that trip if we have to put him in a straight jacket."

"Over the span of years we can still see the big kid sitting beside his coach, alternately wiping his eyes and grinning from ear to ear as they pulled away from the curb. He made the trip that he'd dreamed of all of his life, although he never even suited up for the game.

"The big kid is now a successful attorney in Fargo, N.D. The big man is outstanding in the world of American intercollegiate athletics. And it's nice to remember, from time to time, that the bigger they are, the nicer they can be. Even if they're at Michigan!"

Grid Swami Grimsley Predicts Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Another fling:

Notre Dame over Michigan State: The Fighting Irish have had their one bad day and don't expect any others. When one unit bogs, Terry Brennan throws in another to get the job done.

Oklahoma over Kansas: The nation's No. 1 team has passed its toughest obstacles, should romp here by four touchdowns.

Illinois over Minnesota: This is the weekend blue plate special. J. C. Caroline and his mates are bound to bust loose any moment and the moments looks ripe.

Wisconsin over Purdue: The pressure is building up for the Badgers, but we like their strong running attack with Alan Ameche over Purdue's air-minded Boiler-makers.

Phils Get New Pilot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies dipped into the minor leagues — and for the fourth time to the New York Yankee organization — Thursday and tapped lean, greying Mayo Smith to lead the National league ball club in 1955.

The 39-year-old mild-mannered Smith was introduced to a gasping group of newspapermen, radio and television reporters at a specially summoned news conference. When he walked into the room with General Manager Roy Hamey, Smith was a complete stranger to the 50 waiting there.

Hamey, the last Yankee employed to join the Phillies, said Smith was named to succeed Terry Moore, the former St. Louis Cardinals ball hawk, because the Phillies wanted an "experienced" manager. Smith has managed for six years in minor league ball, ranging from class D to AA.

Short Tenure

Hamey said Moore was released after a half-season tenure at the head of the Phillies because he was "inexperienced." His 3 months as manager of the Phillies followed 11 seasons as a St. Louis Cards star.

Moore said in St. Louis that he asked Hamey, when told by telephone Thursday about the appointment of Smith, if there was any other reason besides "inexperience" for his replacement and Hamey said there was "absolutely none."

Smith was born in New London, Mo., in 1915 and 10 years later his family moved to Lakewood, Fla., where he learned to play baseball. In 1933 he was signed by Dan Howley and went to Toronto of the International league. From 1934 to 1936 he played for Wilmington, N. C., of the Piedmont league.

Made Switch

A left-handed hitter, he started out playing third base but switched to the outfield. For the next seven years he was with the Buffalo Bisons of the International league and in 1945 played briefly with the Philadelphia Athletics.

At the news conference, Smith said he is taking the job as a "cold turkey proposition," since he is not familiar with the Phillies' team.

Waterfowl Hunting Opens This Noon

Iowa's 1954 waterfowl hunting season begins today at noon for thousands of nimrods.

With the wettest fall in several years, prospects for this season are good. Heavy rains in many areas have filled sloughs, ponds and lakes, and although federal and Canadian authorities say Iowa's duck supply will be lower than usual, many hunters are optimistic.

The season will extend from Oct. 15 through Dec. 8. After today shooting will begin one-half hour before sunrise and close one hour before sunset.

Talks of Jobs with Ex-GI Here

HELEN BARNES, business and placement bureau director, discusses job opportunities with Roger Coleman, 1952 SUI graduate. Coleman, who was discharged from military service recently, returned to Iowa City from his home in Galesburg, Ill., to seek a job through the placement bureau. At a meeting Thursday for 1955 graduates, Miss Barnes said students planning to enter military service should register at the bureau now if they want help in finding a position after they are discharged.

Justices Get Sedition Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether states may prosecute accused subversives under their own sedition laws or must let the federal government do it will be decided by the supreme court. The court, in its first business session of the new term, agreed Thursday to review a Pennsylvania supreme court decision throwing out the conviction of Steve Nelson, western Pennsylvania Communist party leader, on charges of violating the state's sedition act. Federal offense? The Pennsylvania court ruled that sedition against the United States is a federal offense and can be prosecuted only in federal courts. Twenty-seven states joined Pennsylvania in asking the U.S. supreme court to review the decision. Nelson was given a 20-year sentence under the Pennsylvania Sedition act in Pittsburgh in 1952. Smith Act Subsequently, he was tried under the Smith act and received five years. The Smith act makes it a crime to conspire to teach the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. The court also refused to interfere with an order of the court of appeals here reinstating an indictment against Ray Brennan, Chicago Sun-Times reporter. Brennan is charged with posing as an employee of the senate crime investigating committee to get secret testimony of a Chicago police captain.

Oct. 23 Is Deadline For Vote Sign-Up

Students who fulfill residence requirements must register in the County Auditor's Office, city hall, before Oct. 23 to vote in the Nov. 2 elections. Students who receive support from their families, send laundry home or return home on weekends are asked to vote in their home town or obtain absentee ballots. Voters must be 21 years old, have lived in Iowa for six months, in the county for 60 days and in their precinct for 10 days.

Meeting Set For Town Women

An organizational meeting for all independent town women will be held Monday at 7 p.m. in conference room one at the Iowa Memorial Union. The meeting is very important and all eligible women should attend.

SUI To Hold Parley on World Affairs

SUI has been picked along with 27 American universities and colleges to act as host next year in a national plan of "Citizens Consultations" on international matters. Iowa representatives will have a chance to tell the government what they think about international relations. The U. S. National Commission for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, is sponsor of the plan. At conferences at each of the host schools, community and state leaders will discuss the American citizen's stake in the progress of less developed areas of the world, moral and spiritual resources for international cooperation, the national interest and foreign languages, and the American as traveler and host. Conference dates have not been set. Chairman of the SUI host committee is Vernon Van Dyke of the political science department. Committee members include Professors Robert Johnson, economics; Camille J. LeVols, Romance languages; H. H. McCarty, geography; R. S. Michaelsen, religion; A. K. Miller, geology; Robert Ray, public affairs institute and Hew Roberts, education. SUI President Virgil M. Hancher is a member of the U. S. National Commission of UNESCO, established by Congress in 1946 to further international cooperation, through educational, scientific and cultural activities.

3 Brothers Reminisce Their Legislative Days

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — The three Daniel brothers, all of whom have represented the state legislature and the same district in the state senate, cast nostalgic glances toward their old desks during a recent state house visit. Paul H. Daniel presently occupies the senatorial seat from the 19th district, while J. Felix, held the post in 1937 and Charles E. in 1947.

SUI Music Groups, Guests To Give 30 Concerts Here

The first of five concerts by the SUI symphony orchestra will be Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union, James Dixon director, Prof. John Simms, of SUI's music department, will be piano soloist for Bela Bartok's "Third Piano Concerto." The SUI orchestra also will give a concert for the Marengo adult evening school Monday at 9 p.m. in the Marengo high school. Prof. Stuart Canin, SUI violinist, will be the soloist for Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor."

May 11, and will go on a tour of Iowa beginning April 1. The band is directed by Frederick C. Ebbs. Recitals will be presented during the year by 10 faculty members of the music department.

3 To Attend Parley Of Big 10 Unions

Three Union board members will represent SUI at the annual conference of Big Ten Unions Oct. 15 to 17 at the University of Illinois. Dick Guthrie, A3, Iowa City, will attend panels on "Strengthening Regional Conferences," "Improving Public Relations With Other Campus Activities," and "Training Officers." Socrates Pappajohn, A4, Mason City, will attend discussions on "Selecting and Training Personnel," "How Big Ten Unions Can Help Each Other," and "Big Weekend Events — Their Problems."

Carolyn Clements, A2, Newton, will attend panels on "How to Promote Lagging Programs," "Student-Staff Responsibilities," and "Improving Public Relations with the Faculty and the College Community." George Stevens, assistant director of the Union, will accompany the group.

Opening the SUI concert course Oct. 24 will be George London, bass-baritone from the Metropolitan opera. Other artists to appear are the De Paar Infantry chorus Nov. 17; Vronsky and Babin, duo-pianists, Feb. 9, and the Minneapolis symphony orchestra April 19.

Free tickets for the concert Wednesday will be available at 8 a.m. Saturday in the union. Tickets will be required for all concerts at the union, with those for SUI orchestra, band and chorus concerts distributed free, beginning the Saturday preceding each program.

The first of five chamber music concerts by SUI faculty members will be Sunday at 4 p.m. in Shambaugh auditorium. Tickets will not be required.

The SUI concert band will give concerts Jan. 19, Mar. 9 and

Students To Hold Christian Retreat

Fifteen SUI students will travel to the Quaker Heights camp near Eldora this weekend to attend the fall inter-varsity Christian fellowship retreat, Samuel Ling, G. Taipeh, Formosa, president of the affiliated SUI chapter, said Thursday. Students from inter-varsity chapters throughout Iowa will also attend the retreat. Ralph Buscarello, a consulting engineer from Chicago, will be the speaker. The theme for the weekend is "If We Believe." Inter-varsity staff members present will include Jim Nyquist, William, Minn., and Ruth Bell, Toronto.

The Quaker Heights camp is owned by William Penn college. Last spring 65 attended the retreat.

Busy Candidates Campaign Hard Throughout State

Iowa Republicans and Democrats sought Thursday to improve their positions with the voters.

Rep. Thomas E. Martin, GOP senatorial nominee from Iowa City, said at Hampton that Democratic control of the next congress would mean a renewal of attempts to socialize and control.

A group of Cherokee business and professional men reported that they mailed 37,400 letters this week urging the re-election of Democratic Sen. Guy M. Gillette, of Cherokee.

Clyde E. Herring, Democratic nominee for governor spoke twice in Davenport and once in Muscatine. He said that no one benefits from one-party domination. He also denied that his highway program would result in a property tax and said the interest would amount to about 30 million dollars instead of the 60 claimed by Atty. Gen. Leo A. Hoegh, his GOP opponent.

Don Pierson, Republican State chairman hinted informally at DeWitt that the Republicans have a "clincher" to spring next week that would "surprise all Iowa." He declined to comment further.

Herschel Loveless, Democratic nominee for 4th district congressman, said election of Republican congress would result in a "rubber stamp congress."

In remarks at a school near Ottumwa, he added that the opposition is saying in effect that anything President Eisenhower proposes they will approve.

At Clarinda, M. E. Rawlings of Sioux City, Democrat, nominee for lieutenant governor, said Iowa is faced with the necessity of an emergency highway improvement program because the present Republican administration didn't keep the roads up to date.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), will appear in Davenport Friday, and at Des Moines, Jefferson and Council Bluffs Saturday.

Indiana Floods Move South, Threaten Knox

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — The flood danger moved south to the Kankakee and Lower Yellow river valleys of northern Indiana Thursday.

Meanwhile, the high water receded in Hammond, Gary and Plymouth.

An end to the flood-producing rains again was forecast for Thursday night.

While displaced persons began shoveling mud and debris out of homes, dike-building and evacuations went on at Knox, on the Lower Yellow river.

Sheriff Lee James reported 10,000 acres of farmland flooded along the Yellow river in the 10 miles between Knox and North Judson alone after a levee broke three miles west of Knox.

The sheriff said many roads were impassable and an appeal was sent to South Bend for more sandbags.

A smaller flood overflowed Pine Creek, a small tributary of the Kankakee near its headwaters in the South Bend area. Bert C. McLellan, St. Joseph county surveyor at South Bend, estimated the creek flood has brought $600,000 damage to crops, roads and bridges near Walkerton, 20 miles northeast of Knox.

At least four bridges were blocked by the flood.

Civil defense forces moved their flood watch to the south edge of Lake county. Two deputies went along the Kankakee valley in the Shelby and Schneider areas, warning that a 14-foot flood crest might arrive this morning.

At Knox, 300 volunteers sandbagged the sewage disposal plant and built up earthen dikes with bulldozers to try to save corn and soybean fields.

Twenty-five families were rescued from their homes near Knox, but most of the town expected to stay clear of a 14-foot crest.

The Yellow river flood at Knox moved down from Plymouth, 20 miles to the northeast.

Councilmen Continuing Drive For 2d Vote on Proposed City Hall

By KIRK BOYD

Iowa City councilmen have not given up the fight for a new city hall.

Discussion of the proposed building, which was defeated in a bond issue vote in June, will start again soon at council meetings, it was indicated Thursday.

Vote by Spring
Councilmen expect another vote to be held by spring.

The council plans to discuss building the city hall on the Musser parking lot on Washington street.

City Manager Peter F. Roan has an architect's drawing of a city hall building on the Musser site.

Iowa City voters rejected a city hall that would have been built on a parking lot near Burlington and Gilbert streets.

The city planning and zoning commission, headed by SUI Prof. Allen Tester, favored a building on the Musser lot, but backed the Burlington street project in the June election.

Storage Space Lacking
"A Musser lot building would have about the same floor space," Roan said, "but no basement storage space because of the topography."

The city hall proposed in the June elections would have had basement storage space.

Councilmen Robert Stevenson and Ansel Chapman said they still favor the Burlington street site.

Favors Burlington Lot
"From what I have seen of the drawings," said Stevenson, "I am still in favor of the Burlington lot. The cost probably will be higher and the storage space less."

Mayor Leroy S. Mercer and Councilmen Walter Daykin and Clarence Parizek said they preferred to look more closely at plans for a Musser lot building before commenting. All three backed the Burlington lot.

Roan said he did not have a close estimate on the cost of a Musser lot building as yet.

The councilmen agreed that a special election on a bond issue for the city hall should be held by spring, 1955. Chapman and Stevenson want a special election as soon as possible.

Wanted November Vote
"I would have been in favor of placing the issue on the November election ballot," Stevenson said.

Mercer didn't think the pre-election argument over the site of the building had much to do with the bond issue's defeat.

"We didn't give people enough explanation of the issue. Next time we'll have to talk to more civic groups."

The $330,000 bond issue received a 52 per cent majority in the June vote. It needed 60 per cent for approval. The vote was 1,689 to 1,530 in favor of the city hall.

"People may think the council just wants to meet in a modern building," Daykin said. "That's not so. I would be willing to conduct our meetings in a barn. But the police and fire departments just can't operate much longer with the space they have."

2 English Artists To Appear Here

Two of England's most celebrated artists will present a program of song and recitation Monday at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium.

Hedli Anderson, a singer, has a repertoire of traditional ballads, American ballads, blues and modern songs.

Louis MacNeice is considered one of England's principal poets. He also has written many dramatic works for radio. He has performed in England, on the Continent and in the United States. Admission is free.

MUST HAVE BEEN
DANVILLE, Va. (AP) — "Is this your size?" asked signs over coffins placed on roads here in a safety campaign. One coffin disappeared. The Danville safety council offered a reward of $25.
