Martin, Hoegh Lead In Iowa Vote

Tucker, Murphy, Swisher Lead In County

Margin Small In Local Vote

Courthouse Moods Vary During Vote

Republican William M. Tucker was leading Democrat Emil G. Trott in the race for Johnson county attorney and Republican incumbent Albert J. Murphy was slightly ahead of Democrat Frank J. Burns for Johnson county sheriff at 1:30 a.m. this morning with 29 out of 33 precincts reporting.

By DRAKE MABRY

A county courthouse during a national election occupies a unique place in American politics.

The courthouse is the filter center for the county vote. In Johnson county, the 33 precincts bring the official tally and the ballots to the auditor's office, where a crew of extra helpers tabulates and records the vote.

Incumbent Democrat Sen. Guy M. Gillette had a slight lead of 150 votes over Iowa City's Rep. Thomas E. Martin in the county. Gillette had received 4,720 votes to 4,570 for Martin, but state results gave Martin a strong lead. Democrat Clyde E. Herring was leading Republican Leo A. Hoegh in Johnson county, 5,028 to 4,206, but Hoegh too led throughout the state.

Swisher Leads

In the race for state representative, Iowa City's Democrat Scott Swisher had a slight lead of 131 votes over incumbent G. M. Ludwig of Tiffin. Swisher had 4,636 votes to 4,485 votes for Ludwig.

John O'Connor, Lone Tree Democratic candidate for congress from this district, was ahead of Davenport Republican Fred Schwengel, 4,846 votes to 4,165 in Johnson county. But Schwengel had piled up a substantial lead in other counties.

Frank Messer, Democrat and Robert L. Larson, Republican, Iowa City attorneys, were leading a field of six candidates in the race for three Iowa supreme court seats.

Messer, Larson Strong Johnson county voters had given Messer 5,150 votes, and Larson 4,699 votes. Next were A. R. Shepherd, Democrat, 4,406 votes; Loren M. Hullinger, Democrat, 4,217; W.A. Smith, Republican, 4,064, and John E. Mulrone, Republican, 3,841.

District Judge Harold D. Evans was elected for his eighth consecutive term on the bench, running on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. Evans has served since 1928.

Eight Democrats and two Republicans ran unopposed for Johnson county positions. Asst. County Auditor William L. Kanak was elected county auditor, running unopposed on the Democratic ticket to fill the position which was vacated after 40 years by the resignation of County Auditor Ed Sulek.

Unopposed Democrats Other Democrats running unopposed were Lumir W. Jansa, reelected county treasurer; Dr. George D. Callahan, reelected county coroner, and R. Neilson Miller, reelected clerk of court.

Democrats Marvin A. Stahle and Robert Mahoney Sr. were elected unopposed for terms as county supervisor beginning in 1955 and 1956, respectively. Incumbents John Dana and Preston Koser ran unopposed for constable positions.

Republican J. Newman Toomey and Democrat C. H. Hutchinson were reelected to justice of the peace positions, with no other candidates running.

R. J. Jones was reelected county recorder on the Republican ticket, running unopposed.

Late Returns Offset Early Demo Margin

DES MOINES (AP)—Republican nominees for U.S. senator and congress and the state ticket generally were holding comfortable leads, but the governorship and a congressional seat were developing into close races in Tuesday's election in Iowa.

Iowa has almost invariably gone Republican, except for electing one Democratic senator frequently. The top GOP effort Tuesday was to defeat that Democrat, Sen. Guy M. Gillette.

Rep. Thomas E. Martin, GOP senatorial candidate who was counted on by his party to help it retain control of congress, let Gillette assume an early lead. But soon Martin switched to the front runner, and, although his margin wavered, he maintained an increasing majority.

Hoegh, Herring Close Atty. Gen. Leo A. Hoegh, who sought to replace retiring Republican Gov. William S. Beardsley on the same ticket, was having trouble with Democrat Clyde E. Herring. But Hoegh retained the switching lead most of the time by a slight advantage.

The seven Republican congressmen and their running mate, Fred Schwengel, Davenport, who seeks Martin's house seat, pushed along in front of their opponents. The only exception was Rep. Karl LeCompte who dropped behind Herschel Lovelless, the Democrat.

Reps. Gross, in the 3rd District, Dolliver, in the 6th, and Jensen, in the 7th, successfully won re-election.

Martin Leads On the basis of 1,491 of 2,483 precincts, the senatorial contest results showed: Martin 270,565, Gillette 256,987. At the same point the close battle for governor stood: Hoegh 264,490, Herring 262,678.

Martin, in his year and a half campaign, climaxed it with consistent pleas that Republicans be given control of the next congress to save the Eisenhower program. Martin has been in the House the last eight sessions.

Gillette, the best and most consistent vote-getter among Iowa Democrats, put his greatest emphasis on sagging farm prices, and said they resulted in slackening of business and high unemployment. Gillette was trying for his third full term in the senate.

Democrats Gain Early National Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Democratic surge threatened Republican control of congress early Wednesday after toppling a long-time GOP bastion, the governorship of New York.

All the efforts of President Eisenhower and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey failed to prevent Averell Harriman, former "New Deal-Fair Deal" official from defeating Republican Sen. Irving M. Ives.

And as the clock ticked away

past midnight, Democrats had made a net gain of 3 house seats in Tuesday's election and were leading in 17 districts now held by Republicans. They needed only a gain of three for house control — but they had not yet clinched the fight, for many races remained undecided.

15 Demo Senators Thus far neither party had captured an opposition seat in the struggle for command of the senate, although Democrats had elected 15 senators to the Republicans' four.

Most of these Democratic victories were in the south, but they retained their seats in the battleground states of Delaware and West Virginia. Republicans won senatorial contests in Kansas, New Hampshire (2) and Maine (in September).

Among Republicans leading for the senate were Gordon C. Allott in Colorado and Sen. Guy Cordon in Oregon.

Close Connecticut Race The Democrats edged a governorship victory in Connecticut so close it could be reversed on later, official tallies.

In the Nutmeg state former Rep. Abraham Ribicoff got 463,000 votes to 460,000 for Republican Governor John Davis Lodge.

And in Pennsylvania, with the returns mounting past the half-way mark, Democrat George M. Leader, state senator and chicken farmer, held a 170,000 vote lead over Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood for the governor's chair — held by a Democrat only once in 70 years.

Early tallies from Michigan showed Democrat Patrick V. McNamara running somewhat ahead of Sen. Homer Ferguson in the senate contest. Ferguson is a top Eisenhower lieutenant in the senate.

Williams Ahead In the governorship battle G. Mennen Williams was far ahead for an unprecedented third term. Massachusetts returns, still incomplete, gave Democrat Foster Furcolo an edge over Sen. Leverett Saltonstall in another senatorial contest.

Veteran Sen. Matthew Neely of West Virginia forged to victory, while in Kentucky former Vice-President Alben W. Barkley took a sizeable lead over Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper.

Democrats were ahead, too, in key governorship races — by a 50,000-vote margin in Massachusetts and by 27,000 in Ohio. Democrats took house seats from Republicans in Delaware, Indiana and New York but lost one to a Republican in Florida.

Newspapers, including the New York Times and the New York Daily News, and Democratic state headquarters pro-

Martin Says People Liked His Campaign

With his lead of more than 20,000 votes growing all the time, congressional candidate Tom Martin observed at 1 a.m. today that perhaps the Democrats had made "too many overstatements of the possibility of economic collapse in this nation."

Though he made it clear that he was not yet "making the boast" of having won the senatorial election, the Republican candidate contended that "the people were thankful for the two points brought out in my campaign. I made repeated note of the nation's stable position following the peace in Korea, and cited a sound economy in the nation as a whole."

Pat on Back Martin believed he "got to see more people than most of the candidates," though he patted the Democrats on the back for conducting a good campaign.

At 1 a.m., Martin was not yet ready to turn in. "This thing has some need for close watching," he quipped. "Then," he added, "I have a lot of work to do that needs some serious attention."

Democrat Guy Gillette, meanwhile, had not yet conceded defeat at 1 a.m. He did admit, however, that "with the lead Martin has, it looks as if the people of Iowa want a Republican in office."

Gillette Observes Gillette, incumbent U.S. Senator, observed that "the election was based on the argument that President Eisenhower needed the support of a Republican congress. That was the most potent with the voters of Iowa."

He was pleased, he said, with "the strong vote given me by the voters."

"I campaigned on my record of service in congress for the 18 years I've been there. My record was well-known."

editorial Debate Controversy —

We believe that, by and large, American higher education is in a pretty healthy condition. We do not go along with the gloomy musings of men such as Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago, who believes that a pall of conformity has fallen over the American college campus.

Occasionally though, we'll have to admit, things do happen which are disturbing, even shocking. The current controversy in Nebraska over this year's college debate topic is a good example.

Each year, college debate teams all over the country debate a topic chosen by a national committee of the Speech Association of America, which is an organization representing several forensic groups. The topic chosen this year is: "Resolved, that the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to the Communist government of China."

Some teachers' college presidents in Nebraska are refusing to allow their students to debate this topic. Their reasons are curious, alarming, and incredibly suspicious.

They object to the topic because the debate teams would, as is customary, argue in the affirmative half of the time. Thus, one educator hints, they would spend half of their time talking the Communist line. These few educators see something darkly sinister in the fact that the topic was chosen at all. "I personally feel," said one teachers' college president, "that back of it all is a bit of a desire on the part of somebody to indoctrinate a few thousand college youths with what I believe to be a dangerous philosophy."

So far as we know, no Iowa colleges have adopted this thoroughly lamentable and indefensible position, nor do we expect any of them to do so. And it should be pointed out that only a few Nebraska colleges are involved and that seven others (including Roman Catholic Creighton University and the University of Nebraska) are standing firm.

But even a handful of colleges is too many to be involved in a situation of this sort.

Debate is more than just a means of teaching good speaking techniques. It is a means of training students to obtain information on a topic, to organize the material, to present arguments on even the hottest issues dispassionately, reasonably, and carefully. The topics chosen are purposely controversial — else why debate them?

Most Americans would by choice take the negative side of this topic. For the moment at least so has our State Department. But we doubt that the State Department has tucked the question into a file marked—"Not for discussion—ever."

But whether Red China should be recognized is not at issue in this dispute. The issue is whether American colleges are going to preserve the traditions of free inquiry. This they must do if they are to serve democracy properly. To the scholar, no question is so closed that it does not merit discussion. Certainly the teachers of our children should come from teachers colleges where these traditions are alive and functioning—not from institutions where educators rule that unpopular, controversial topics shall not even be talked about on a debate platform.

The Nebraska teachers college debaters might discuss, instead of the Red China topic, this subject: "Should College Presidents Rule Out Controversial Subjects for College Debaters to Debate." The students, we daresay, would naturally incline to the negative side although, being debaters, they would also prepare arguments for the affirmative.

That's the way with those college debaters—they believe in looking at both sides of a question.

Des Moines Register

4-Lane Roads, But—

A little while ago a writer, in the New York Times magazine, suggested somebody could make a lot of friends by proposing to build a few thousand miles of narrow, winding dirt roads leading nowhere in particular. (Said the writer) "Such roads will be open only to motorists tired of queuing across the country at 70 miles an hour. They will be built for dawdling, for stopping on hillslopes, for parking on curves, for wildflower admiring, for bird-watching—for all the things the prudent motorist simply can't or shouldn't do on a four-lane highway." We understand what inspires . . . this proposal. Modern turnpikes and superhighways are magnificent. They are engineered for safety and give you more of it than any other road. They give you peace of mind and more physical ease. But racing over them almost neutralizes the scenery. Except in places where mountains just demand your interest, the land alongside a turnpike can seem as impersonal as the grass covering a modern airport.

House Fire Losses Down

DES MOINES (AP)—Fire losses among certain types of Iowa business property have been increasing while damage from house fires has dropped markedly, state insurance officials said Monday.

The fire loss trends were reflected in fire insurance rates changes.

Home fire insurance rates were cut by as much as 25 per cent. Commercial property in the "brick protected" class was rated 20 per cent higher. The rates, set by the state insurance department, are based on the fire losses on various types of buildings over the past five or six years.

Insurance Commissioner Charles R. Fischer said fire losses were heavier in business districts.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
Foreign Staff Associated Press

Efforts of the Democratic and Republican national committees to establish broad, nation-sweeping issues and fight out this year's campaign on them proved something less than successful or exciting.

In the absence of major issues involving international affairs, state by state and district by district, it is the local issues and personalities which have held such voter attention as the campaigns have developed.

ROBERTS This goes back to the time, before development of American leadership in world affairs, when states and districts sent their representatives to Congress not to become national leaders, but to represent the interests of individual constituencies.

There seems to be little question that as the national aspects have become paramount during recent years, so they have played an overwhelming part in the production of the so-called independent voter, who considers it more important that his representatives display broad vision than for them to look after relatively piddling home affairs.

No International Issues In the absence of vital international issues at this moment—meaning that American policy is pretty well shaken down and bi-partisan with no stirring decisions pending at the moment—it is very doubtful that the independent voter played anything like the role this year that he played in electing Eisenhower two years ago.

In various constituencies, both parties tried to get him to the polls, depending on whose side he could be expected to take.

Unemployment, taxation, security against communism, farm policy and a few other so-called national matters played their roles not nationally, but in a spotty, regional fashion.

Women Pipe Smokers May Revive Snuff

Reprinted From Lynchburg Advance

If women take up pipe smoking it may at least relieve men who smoke pipes of the objections women make to the pipes' smell and dirtiness. But it might also bring a more general revolution on the part of men to any kind of smoking.

The problem for a woman would be rather critical, for the pipe and tobacco pouch would have to be added to the other remarkable contents of the handbag, certainly with deleterious effects on other objects, such as lipstick and powder.

Perhaps this business of smoking should be dropped and snuff dipping revived, so that at least the use of tobacco would be confined to one practice and one equally disagreeable to all concerned.

Shy, Lands Head Job With College For Deaf

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Leonard M. Elstad hadn't been so shy, he never would have wound up as president of the world's most unusual college.

In 1922 he was a bashful student at St. Olaf college in Minnesota, uncertain of his future. So when an offer came for training to teach deaf youngsters, he didn't bother to think twice. He gratefully accepted.

"Up to that moment," he said Tuesday, "I'd never so much as seen a deaf person."

College President Now he's president of Gallaudet college, the first and only college anywhere for the deaf. Gallaudet has another distinction for the U.S. taxpayer.

Most colleges in this country are run on either private, state or municipal money. Only a few colleges, such as the military academy at West Point, the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Howard University predominantly Negro and Gallaudet get all or most of their support from federal funds.

About 70 per cent of Gallaudet's money is from Congress; the rest comes mostly from tuition.

Why Not States? "Many people wonder why the federal government, instead of the states, are doing this work," Elstad said. "Well, I'll tell you why. California has the most students here of any state, 24. That is not enough to justify a college of its own."

And why are there no schools for the deaf in foreign countries? "To be blunt," Elstad said, "they seem to think there aren't enough deaf youngsters to worry about them."

It was partly by accident that

2 from City Attend Business Law Institute

J. C. O'Byrne and W. L. Boyd, Iowa City attorneys, have returned from The Business Law institute in Des Moines which was held to give attorneys from all over the state further information on the Internal Revenue act of 1954.

The Iowa City attorneys were guests of the Polk county Bar association at the meeting that specialized in how the new revenue act affects various forms of business structures.

Britain Queen's Visit Recalls Protocol Rules

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was a time when swords flashed and blood flowed over questions of protocol. It probably couldn't happen now, but chances are you'll be hearing a lot about protocol during the visit of Britain's Queen Mother Elizabeth to this country, although the queen herself is a warm-hearted, friendly person who shies at too much fuss and feathers.

Protocol is sometimes defined as a code of etiquette to safeguard the dignity of the high and the mighty and to prevent the VIPs themselves from committing blunders.

State Department protocol officials try to prepare for coming events of international diplomacy. Their job ranges all the way from telling visitors what to wear for a call on President Eisenhower to providing black coffee for swirling heads the morning after a big soiree.

"Dry Run" for Queen In the case of Queen Mother Elizabeth, American and British protocol experts made a "dry run" of virtually every step of the queen's itinerary a month before she was due in New York for an 18-day visit to the United States.

Every entrance and exit, handshake and gesture was as carefully charted as in a TV dress rehearsal. A stand-in "queen" went through the paces. Even the ceremonial toasts were written out in advance.

Quarterbacking the entire operation is a onetime Princeton football player, John Farr Simmons, 62, chief of the State Department's Protocol Division.

Serious Subject The era of striped-pants diplomacy is about over," Simmons says, "but protocol is still a serious subject, based on irradical rules of precedent and tradition."

When a visiting bigwig arrives in the nation's capital, it is protocol's job to roll out the red carpet . . . set up bands, flags and military escorts . . . make sure he gets the choicest T-Bone steaks and other viands . . . even retrieve hard-boiled shirts from a laundry at midnight in an emergency.

Correct Etiquette The correct form, the experts say, is to address Queen Mother Elizabeth first as "Your Majesty" and in all following conversations as "ma'am."

Should American women curtsy to the queen? "It's a matter of choice," the protocol officers say. "British women always do. Some American women do, some don't."

1955 Car Volume May Hit 1 Million

DETROIT (AP)—Next year's new model automobiles are rolling from the assembly lines of all but a few smaller car makers.

All the large volume producers, especially Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth, are stepping up their output, as the industry generally heads into what may be the biggest two-month production of the year.

With the 1955 cars assembled in October, completions of the new models by the year end should total well over one and one-quarter million units.

Ford has set Nov. 12 for its presentation. All the Chrysler models will go on dealer display Nov. 17. Other makes will follow in quick succession.

Dealers apparently will have no serious inventory problems, such as harassed them at the start of the present model year. All surveys indicate the movement of outgoing models is progressing smoothly.

Of course, bargain prices are being offered on the remaining 1954 models. But few, if any, dealers are losing money in the cleanup.

WINSTON

Winston brings flavor back to filter smoking—full, rich, tobacco flavor! No wonder college smokers are flocking to Winston—on campuses across the country! Along with real flavor—the kind you've been missing in filter smokes—Winston brings you a finer filter. This exclusive Winston filter is unique, different, truly superior! It works so effectively, yet doesn't "thin" the taste or flatten the flavor. Winston's are king-size, too, for extra filtering action—and easy-drawing for extra good taste. Try a pack of Winston's!

WHITNEY MARTIN'S —
Sports Trail

NEW YORK (AP)—The thought of death failed to terrify Wilbur Shaw. He had met it face to face so many times, even challenged it, that he refused to be brow-beaten into a morbid fear of the man with the scythe.

He knew he would lose eventually, and there was a certain fatalism about his attitude toward that final meeting which, at one time at least, he expected would find him huddled in the wreckage of a racing car.

It was ironic that when the violent end he anticipated did arrive it was the result of a routine flight in a small airplane, far from the excitement of the race track which was so dear to him.

If there was one regret he had, it was his inability to continue his career as a race driver. The last time we saw him, which was last spring, he still spoke yearningly and hopefully of once more sitting behind the wheel of a roaring monster in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway classic, although he knew in his heart the passing of the years had dulled his reflexes and that a severe heart attack had made such an ambition out of the question.

But, as president of the Speedway, he stayed as close to the game as he could, and probably more than once sneaked behind the wheel of a big car for a trial spin to feel once again the thrill of speed, which was his life.

They don't come any finer than the little guy with the big, ingratiating grin and matchless sense of humor. Little is used with reservations. He was small in physique, but in every other sense he was a big man, and a gentleman.

Even his physique was misleading, as he was so superbly proportioned, with muscles like steel cables, that you forgot his physical stature and thought only that if there ever was trouble you'd want him on your side.

He and Tony Hulman, the owner of the track and another gentleman of the same mold, each spring were in the habit of coming to New York to throw a party for the press.

It was one of the nicer parties anywhere, and it was not tossed with the idea of publicity. After all, they got little publicity out of it.

They just liked to do it, that's all. It gave them a chance to renew their friendships, and they themselves got a bigger kick out of it than their guests, if possible.

Wilbur would buzz about, visiting this table, then that one, always with a quip or fresh joke to leave 'em laughing, his eyes twinkling and his whole attitude that of a man who knows that life is short, enjoy it while you can.

Despite his fabulous career and brushes with death, Shaw was not a reckless man in the sense that he was careless. Never was there an automobile race driver more meticulous in his preparation for a race.

He knew every inch of his car, even X-rayed each part to uncover any hidden flaw in the metal. And after taking every possible precaution, he left the rest to his own amazing skill. His skill never failed him. Occasionally his car would.

He will be missed, the big little man who will remain in memory as so vibrantly alive. He came about as close to being the indispensable man as anyone could come, at least as far as the Indianapolis race is concerned. It almost literally had become the "Shaw 500."

Accident May End Reynolds' Career

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A slip in the shower last week may cost Allie Reynolds, the New York Yankee super chief, the remainder of his pitching career, it was being conjectured Tuesday.

Reynolds had returned from deer hunting. While taking a shower the mat slipped, throwing him into the glass enclosure.

A specialist was summoned and soon after performed an 80-minute operation in a Colorado Springs hospital on the finger which suffered a bone-deep gash. Skin had to be grafted over the cut.

Results of the surgery will not be known until late today Reynolds informed the newspaper.

His salary was reported in excess of $40,000 last season.

Racing Great Shaw Buried Near Home

VERNON, Ind. (AP)—Wilbur Shaw, the self-made force behind the 500-mile Indianapolis auto race, was buried Tuesday on a frozen hilltop above his home town.

The great of auto racing and the auto industry gathered in final tribute to a friendly, energetic little man whose steel nerve carried him to three 500-mile victories before he became track manager.

Just before the plane crash that brought death to Shaw at 51 last Saturday, he had finished an automobile test drive at Detroit with a quip, "This is safer than flying an airplane."

Among the notables attending the funeral were Harvey S. Firestone Jr., whose tires were used in the 500-mile races; L. L. Colbert, president of Chrysler Corp.; J. Frank Duryea, auto designer; and Col. A. W. Herrington, head of the American Automobile association contest board.

Yale Coach Faces '53 Cadets with Less Fear

By LOU BLACK
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—No matter what happens in the Army-Yale football game here Saturday, the East's big battle, Jordan Olivar is sure it'll never top what happened to him and his Villanova squad at West Point ten years ago.

"My Villanova team had won four of our first five games, but under the war accelerated program, we had a vacation break late in October. When classes resumed on Nov. 1, we called out the candidates, and couldn't believe our eyes when only one veteran showed up, Bucky Williams.

"He explained that everybody else had been transferred to various naval and Marine stations. "This was a Tuesday, and we had a game to play on Saturday. In desperation, we addressed the student body, and 32 prospects reported on Wednesday. We spent the 55 minutes allotted to us for practice that day finding out the positions to place the players, and it wasn't until Thursday that we got down to business.

"I didn't have the heart to tell the team who we were playing, but on Friday, as we sat in the bus, I explained that we were going to a little town in New York, West Point, to play Army. We quickly shut the doors and headed north."

Platoon Strategy
That was the Army team that had fellows named Glenn Davis, Doc Blanchard and Barney Poole, among others.

"On the way up," continued Oliver, "we established our strategy. Our best 11 players were to play the first quarter; our next best were to play the second quarter and the subs were to fill in as needed. We did use the first and second teams as planned, but at the half, the score was 62-0 in favor of Army.

"In the dressing room, I had to say something, so I explained to our quarterback that I thought he had made a mistake; that with third down and 19 to go, just before the half ended, he should have relied on a trick play, instead of a quarterback sneak, on which he made seven yards.

Biggest Gain
"You know what he did? He asked me 'What other play today has gained that much?'"

"Anyway, as we came out for the second half, Andy Gustafson, an assistant Army coach, and in charge of the Cadets that day, was very kind. He suggested we shorten the periods. We did and held Army to 21 points in that half. The final score was Army, 83-0.

"After the game, one of our boys, a 135-pound veteran who had seen combat action and had been cited for heroism, told me, 'It sure was a lot safer in one of those foxholes than it was out there this afternoon.'"

Hawks Taste First Rugged Workout Since Indiana Tilt

A rugged offensive scrimmage and pass defense occupied Iowa Tuesday as the Hawks tasted their first heavy contact drills since the Indiana game a week ago last Saturday.

Only one injured player was withheld from the drills. Center Don Suchy is still bothered by a swollen knee. His place on the second team was taken by Norman Six.

Quarterback Jerry Reichow was limping from an injured knee and was taking it easy. He did participate in a light contact signal drill which ended the practice session. Trainer Doyle Allsup said Reichow would be ready for Purdue here Saturday.

Don Dobrino replaced Reichow on the first team, with Ken Ploen working on the second squad.

The two changes were made in the first team line. Dick Deasy moved ahead of Rodger Swedberg at tackle, and Jim Freeman was back at the starting end position in place of Ken Meek.

Allsup said, "everyone is all right except Suchy, and his knee is coming along slowly."

Purdue Uses Frosh To Run Iowa Plays
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's probable starters worked out Tuesday against a husky freshman crew which duplicated Iowa's type of defense.

Small Cage Squad Reports at Illinois

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—One of the smallest squads in University of Illinois basketball history, 14 men, reported to Coach Harry Combes Tuesday for the 1954-55 basketball season.

Missing was captain-elect Ed Makovsky, senior forward who dropped out of school because of scholastic ineligibility.

Included among the 14 are six lettermen from last year's squad which finished third in the Big Ten race.

What's the Score At Slippery Rock?

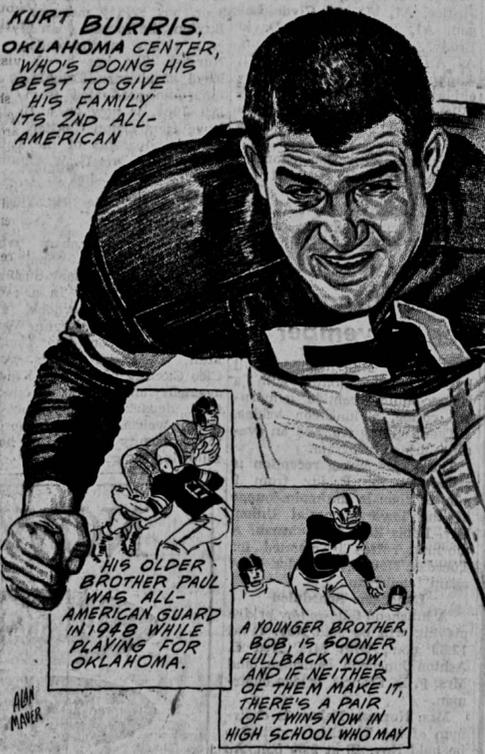

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Every Saturday, the Amarillo Globe-News said, it got a telephone call from somebody asking, "How did Slippery Rock do today?"

There is a Slippery Rock Pennsylvania State Teachers college at Slippery Rock, Pa. To satisfy its customers, the Amarillo Globe-News published complete coverage of Slippery Rock's football game last Saturday and a special Associated Press Wirephoto picture of the game action.

In case you're interested, Slippery Rock lost last Saturday, 12-6, to Geneva (Pa.) college.

Football knee injuries this season which have disabled two of the South's finest players, have also played havoc with the Hawkeyes.

Hawk Captain and fullback George (Binkey) Broeder, guard Cal Jones, quarterback Jerry Reichow, center Don Suchy and tackle Rodger Swedberg have all been hampered by knee injuries this season. With ten men hurt from all types of injuries, Coach Forest Evashevski had to come up with a modified platoon system for the Wisconsin game.

Georgia Tech's great center and leader, Larry Morris, and Tennessee's tailback, Jimmy Wade, are hobbled by bad knees according to the Associated Press. Morris may get back into the lineup this year. Wade is very doubtful.

Sideline Corps
These are but two of a legion of knee cases who sit on the sidelines with their knees taped and fight to get into the lineup or play through the season in the shadow of the injury threat.

The legion taps great athletes — Joe DiMaggio, Doc Blanchard, Jackie Robinson, Beau Jack, Glen Davis, Marlon Motley, Warren Spahn, Terry Brennan, Mickey Mantle, Tommy Thompson, Ferris Fain, George Kell, Kyle Rote and others.

John Johnson, New York football Giants trainer, said of all injuries, knees give a professional football club the most trouble.

Elastic Tape
"We have about 10 with bad knees," he said. "Ten that we tape or reinforce. We use that elastic tape. It works great with us. It reinforces the joint and still lets it bend freely."

"The human knee was not designed for the game of football, and for this reason the game is plagued with an unusually great number of knee injuries," said Preston Stahly, president of a knee brace company, Athletic Products Co.

The National Federation of State High School Athletic associations reports that over 50 per cent of the time lost to practice and games because of injuries is the result of knee trouble. The association said 19.6 per cent of all football injuries are knee injuries. This is second only to face and dental injuries in frequency.

'Bad Knee Hurts'
Doc Wendler, Brooklyn Dodger trainer who played 11 years of football said, "Any knee that hurts is a bad knee injury."

Wendler explained that 90 per cent of the knee injuries come from a blow on the outside of the knee with the damage coming on the inside of the knee, usually the ligaments or the cartilages.

"The weakest joint in the body, for the pressure put on it, is the knee," he said. "The knee was not meant to bend laterally."

End Jim Temp, who also received a leg bruise last week, was back in action.

Wisconsin Tackle Misses Workouts

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Big Bob Konovsky, Wisconsin tackle from Cicero, Ill., missed Tuesday's workout because of a knee injury as the Badgers prepared for their encounter with Northwestern here Saturday.

Konovsky, 6-2, 215 pound junior, was bumped in Wisconsin's 13-7 defeat by Iowa last week. Trainer Walt Bakke was hopeful he would be ready for at least part-time duty against the Wildcats.

End Jim Temp, who also received a leg bruise last week, was back in action.

Hillcrest Addition Outlined

DETAILED PLANS FOR THIS 250 bed addition to Hillcrest, men's dormitory at SUI, have been authorized by the state board of education. The $875,000 addition (its roof marked by a dotted line) will be built across the south end of the dormitory.

Dorm Addition Bids To Be Opened Today

Bids on the construction of a new $875,000 addition to Hillcrest dormitory for men will be opened in the office of planning and construction in Old Dental building today at 2 p.m.

A public hearing on the proposed construction is set for 1 p.m. Bids will be received until 1:30 p.m.

The addition is planned to hold 250 men in its 140 rooms, but under the recently announced policy of adding one occupant to all single and double rooms on campus, the addition will probably house more than 350 students. The policy is to go into effect in present dormitories next year.

The 42 by 275 foot addition to Hillcrest is not expected to be ready for almost two years according to current estimates by university officials.

It will match the present structure as closely as possible. The present dormitory houses 535 male students.

Like other university housing, the addition is being financed out of non-appropriated funds.

It is part of an expansion of university dormitory space which also includes a planned new girls' dormitory to be built in the block south of Currier hall.

Eisenhower Visits GOP Quarters, Thanks Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower paid a surprise visit Tuesday night to Republican national headquarters in downtown Washington.

Asked if he saw any straws in the wind yet, Eisenhower said: "Oh, no. I don't know anything yet."

"I just came up here to see this headquarters and thank these people who have been working so hard."

Escorted by Hall Eisenhower was escorted through headquarters, where the Republican national committee staff was preparing to tabulate the night's returns, by National Chairman Leonard Hall.

Eisenhower left after a visit of approximately 22 minutes.

He stopped, smiled, shook hands, and chatted with the party workers who crowded around him.

The visit was recorded by seven TV cameras. A crowd of reporters and still cameramen also were present.

Eisenhower planned to return to the White House, pick up Mrs. Eisenhower, and then drive to the home of Secretary of the Treasury George L. Humphrey for dinner.

No Special Arrangements White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said in response to questions that no special arrangements had been made for election returns to be received at the Humphrey residence.

2 Professors Attend Adult Education Meet

Prof. Hew Roberts, of the SUI college of education, and Prof. J. L. Davies, director of the SUI bureau of correspondence study, will be Iowa's delegates to the Adult Education association's policy-making assembly in Chicago, Nov. 11.

The policy-making assembly, which will chart plans for the association for the coming year, will follow a three-day meeting of 1,500 educators, community leaders, editors and business and labor leaders who will discuss Adult Education for a Free Society.

The three-day conference preceding the assembly will feature 50 round-table discussions and workshops exploring the role of adult education in meeting the growing needs of our time.

Prof. Bradley N. Davis Recovering in Hospital

Prof. Bradley N. Davis of the SUI labor and industrial management department, was reported in good condition at University hospitals Tuesday, after collapsing downtown Monday afternoon.

He said Tuesday that he at first thought he had suffered a heart attack, but medical examinations found nothing wrong with his heart.

Spelling Scale Offers Help to Teachers

Just by flicking the pages of a new handbook, a teacher can now see how well her pupils may be expected to spell any of 5,507 words in comparison with children all over the United States.

She can also check whether she is assigning words which are too easy or too difficult for her pupils by using the "New Iowa Spelling Scale," an SUI educational research publication directed by Prof. Harry A. Greene of the college of education.

The handbook reports how 230,000 children in 645 school systems fared recently in their spelling of a scientifically selected list of words. For instance, 42 per cent of the fifth graders and 54 per cent of the sixth graders spelled "partner" correctly, so that word might be considered of slightly more than average difficulty in the fifth grade and a shade under average difficulty in the sixth.

Besides giving teachers the most exact evidence possible as to the comparative difficulty of each word in each grade, the handbook will assist in the preparation of valid testing programs and aid research into values of different methods of teaching spelling, Greene observes.

The handbook's columns of figures relate spelling skill to the child's growing knowledge of the world. For instance, fifth grade children did eight times as well with the word "government" as did fourth graders.

"Wednesday" is the most difficult day of the week to spell, according to the "New Iowa Spelling Scale." "Sunday" comes easiest to second grade children while the nation's seventh graders do best with "Monday." Among the months of the year, "February" is the hardest to solve.

Words that children rarely use until they become adults—"psychology," "accommodation," "guaranteed," "collateral," "incidentally," "conscious," and "discipline,"—proved to be the most difficult.

The "New Iowa Spelling Scale" will be demonstrated to many Iowa teachers this week at the annual Iowa State association meeting in Des Moines.

U.S. Civil Service Exams Announced

The U. S. Civil Service commission has announced a new examination for student trainees, covering positions in various fields of science and engineering.

Applicants for the positions must be high school graduates or college students who are majoring in one of the fields covered by the examination.

The positions pay $2,750 to $3,175 a year. The training will be located in various activities of the Potomac river naval command and the Engineering center, U.S. army, Fort Belvoir, Va.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the U.S. Civil service commission, Washington 25, D.C.

Evans Couldn't Lose; He's a '2-Party Man'

By JERRY HESS

District Judge Harold D. Evans relaxed in his easy chair Tuesday night and let election cares fly to the wind.

Evans is the man who is sure to win in the off-year congressional elections, being unopposed as a Republican candidate and also as a nominee of the Democratic party.

He has had the distinction of being a candidate for both parties in two other elections, in 1934 and 1950. Evans was seated in the district bench of 1928 upon the appointment by Iowa Governor Hammill.

Evans, who says his friends jokingly call him a "half-breed" because of his present two-party status, gave an emphatic "darn nice" in regard to his "can't lose" position.

"Anyone who has ever gone through a campaign," Evans said, "knows what a strain it is."

A Republican first, and a sometime Democrat, Evans said he was "hopeful that we can have a Republican congress to back Eisenhower's program."

"By the way," Evans remarked late Tuesday evening, "I haven't voted yet."

Other campaigners with a race on their hands were at the polls earlier Tuesday.

Enrollment Jumps by 728

An increase of 728 students over the fall semester of 1953 was reported by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher who released the figures Tuesday. Final enrollment figures show 8,414 students for the present semester as compared with 7,686 last year.

University authorities believe that the enrollment might have been even more increased had prospective students been able to find housing.

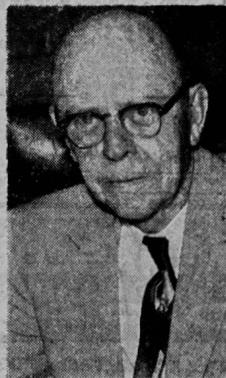

The veteran enrollment increased from 970 last year to 1,406 this year. Officials believe that many students who enlisted in the armed services in 1950 have now been discharged and are returning to college.

The figures include 5,779 men students and 2,635 women. Final fall enrollment by colleges is: commerce, 400; dentistry, 255; engineering, 492; graduate, 1,820; law, 197; liberal arts, 4,140; medicine, 446; nursing, 488; pharmacy, 176.

Patients at Vets Hospital Ineligible To Vote Here

Residents of Veterans' hospital were not eligible to vote in Iowa City, County Attorney William Meardon ruled Tuesday.

Meardon said that residence on a federal reservation does not qualify a person to vote in Iowa. The hospital residents had tried to vote in the second precinct of the second ward in Iowa City.

Radio Bureau Delays Reply to Cowles Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Communications commission's broadcast bureau Tuesday asked for a further extension of time in which to file comment on the proposed grant of channel 8 at Des Moines to Cowles broadcasting co.

A hearing examiner recently recommended the grant to Cowles and rejection of the competing application of Murphy broadcasting co., which has asked the commission to reverse the examiner.

The broadcast bureau, which handles station licensing, previously got an extension until Tuesday to file its comment, but said it would need additional time until Nov. 17.

It said "the instant case presents serious and complex issues which require detailed study in the light of recent commission decisions."

These decisions were not identified.

Student Talent Hunt Gets Poor Response

A very poor response has been received by Toby Dunitz, A.S. Newton, chairman of the talent index committee, in her attempts to compile a list of student entertainers at SUI.

Miss Dunitz and Carol Rawson, A.S. Chicago, Ill., are members of the Student Council committee working on the index. Letters were sent out to all organizations on campus. Only a few have been returned, Miss Dunitz said.

Any students who have talent and are interested in performing for social and church groups, radio and television should contact Miss Dunitz at 4197 or the Student council office, x2350. The information necessary for the index is the type of act, number of accompanists, properties needed, and type of audience for which it is performed.

2 Teenagers Admit Local Burglaries

Two teen-age boys confessed to Cedar Rapids police Tuesday that they committed six weekend burglaries in the Iowa City-Coralville area.

Donald Wilson, Johnson county deputy sheriff, recovered miscellaneous loot from the boys' hiding place, an abandoned Coralville school building.

The boys were arrested by Cedar Rapids police Tuesday morning in the Cedar Rapids bus station. They ran away from a Lutheran home in Muscatine Friday and hitch-hiked to Iowa City to start the weekend break-in spree.

They confessed burglarizing a bottling plant between Iowa City and Coralville, and a bowling alley, tavern grocery store and school at Coralville and an Iowa City service station. They claimed they took $99.60 from the school.

They also admitted committing two break-ins and shoplifting several articles Sunday in the Cedar Rapids area.

Dubuque Council Acts To Develop Supply of Water

DUBUQUE (AP) — The Dubuque Council Monday night took action to develop a new source of water for the city with a potential of up to 300 million gallons a day.

City Manager Laverne J. Schiltz said discovery of the source came from tests made on City Island. He said hydrologists have found "that the potential supply ranges from 170 to 300 million gallons a day, depending upon methods of developing available."

The council "voted to have plans prepared for development projects on the island costing an estimated $1,300,000.

Schiltz said the new supply will be a major factor in advancing industrial expansion here. It should attract industries that require inexpensive quantities of water, he said.

The new source can be reached within 240 feet of the surface, Schiltz said. Dubuque's present source of water is in the Dells area of Wisconsin reached by wells as deep as 1,500 feet.

Alumni Board To Meet Saturday

The board of directors of the SUI alumni association will hold its annual Homecoming meeting at 9:45 a.m. Saturday.

Principal business on the agenda for the meeting will be additional planning for the Old Gold Development Fund program, scheduled to get under way early in 1955.

The new fund raising program will seek to raise funds from private sources to provide university scholarships and to help subsidize university programs which are not supported by state funds, Loren Hickerson, SUI alumni secretary, says.

Tickets Available For Fox Concert

Tickets are still available for the Virgil Fox organ concert today at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Fox has just added to his program the Klavier concerto number 1 for organ and strings which he will play with the SUI faculty string quartet. Fox played this number as an organ solo last Friday and Saturday, with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

Fox will use the Union's organ for his performance. The organ, Hammond's largest concert model, was a gift to the Union from the class of 1950.

Juror Slated For Dismissal In Ohio Trial

CLEVELAND (AP)—A tainted juror is expected to be removed today from Dr. Samuel Sheppard's murder panel. The trial was recessed over election day. The juror is James R. Manning, 38, convicted 11 years ago of a sex offense. The state asked his ouster Monday on grounds he disqualified himself by his failure to reveal his past before he was sworn. The defense demanded proof of Manning's record, and this was being readied. Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin is expected to go along with the juror's ouster over vigorous defense objections. Ohio law permits a judge to discharge a juror who proves "disqualified" during a trial. Sheppard, handsome 30-year-old osteopath, is accused of beating his wife, Marilyn, 31, to death last July 4. She was four months pregnant. The maximum penalty for murder in Ohio is death in the electric chair. Pleading innocent, Sheppard claimed a bushy-haired stranger invaded his lakefront home, killed his wife and knocked him unconscious. The trial began Oct. 18. Seven men and five women were sworn in as jurors last Thursday and two alternates were seated Monday.

Thurmond Wins Seat on Write-Ins

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Strom Thurmond, 1948 presidential candidate of the States' Rights Party, Tuesday was elected U.S. senator in a Democratic write-in campaign.

It was the first time in history that anyone had been elected to either house of Congress as a write-in candidate. Thurmond defeated Edgar Brown, who was nominated by the South Carolina Democratic executive committee, two days after the Sept. 1 death of Sen. Burnet Maybank. Thurmond and one of his chief supporters, Gov. James F. Byrnes, voted for Eisenhower two years ago.

It was the first time the official Democratic candidate for a major office had been defeated in South Carolina since the post-Civil War reconstruction period. Thurmond, however, will go to Washington as a Democrat. He has promised to resign in two years and run then in a primary.

With 1,383 of South Carolina's 1,569 precincts reported, Thurmond had 125,829 votes to Brown's 74,470. Another Democratic write-in candidate, Marcus A. Stone, trailed with 216.

In the 1952 presidential campaign Brown was a leader in the fight to keep South Carolina Democratic. The South Carolinians for Eisenhower, in which Byrnes was the most influential figure, lost by narrow margin.

Ice Cube Surgery Techniques Shown In Medical Movie

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dramatic medical movie showing how the life of a little girl was apparently saved by an ingenious operation inside the heart—made possible by first immersing the child in ice cubes—was shown to doctors in Washington Tuesday.

It was one of the first demonstrations to doctors anywhere in the country of the relatively new technique of considerably lowering the body's temperature so as to allow virtually bloodless surgery inside the heart.

The movie was shown to a joint scientific assembly of the District of Columbia and Virginia medical societies by a team of surgeons of the Children's hospital, Washington.

Man Admits Slaying Of 6-Year-Old Girl

JOHNSTON, Pa. (AP)—An unemployed merchant seaman signed a statement Tuesday night admitting the slaying of Karen Mauk, 6, who disappeared while on a Halloween trick-or-treat tour of her neighborhood at nearby Conemaugh.

Cambria county District Attorney Fred Fees said Harry Gossard, 39, signed the statement after a full day of questioning. Gossard, a neighbor of the slain girl, was arrested Sunday.

Fees said a murder charge will probably be filed against Gossard today. The little girl's nude body was found shortly after midnight last Friday. It was lying in a cemetery about two miles from her home.

State Police Sgt. James Blair said Gossard had been under suspicion from the time the body was discovered.

Blair said Gossard was arrested in nearby East Taylor township. His arrest was not disclosed until early Tuesday. State police and Cambria county authorities took Gossard

Tuesday to a cemetery two miles from Conemaugh where the body was found.

Blair declined to comment about the visit to the slaying scene.

An autopsy showed Karen had been suffocated with some bulky object such as clothing, Coroner Joseph Govekar said. He added she was not criminally assaulted.

Wearing one of her mother's old dresses, a pair of high heels, an old hat and a false face, the youngster had left her home on a "trick-or-treat" tour of the neighborhood. Pieces of her tattered Halloween costume, a bag of candy and an apple were found beside her body.

Mexican Takes 'Law' Seriously in Kentucky

ELKTON, Ky. (AP)—A stranger from a car bearing a Mexican license tag walked into the sheriff's office. He was carrying his shoes and socks. These he offered to startled officers, explaining he had been told travelers must remove their shoes when they cross a state line into Kentucky and turn them in at the nearest sheriff's office.

The stranger identified himself as Joseph Griffin, en route to Philadelphia. When officers became convinced he was serious, they explained he was the victim of a practical joker—there is no law in Kentucky against wearing shoes, regardless of all the hillbilly jokes.

claimed Harriman the winner before the returns were half completed. Harriman rolled up a comfortable margin over Ives even though President Eisenhower had come into the state and campaigned personally for Ives in a door bell ringing tour of housing projects.

Dewey, twice a presidential candidate, did not run for reelection this year. But he had the major voice in the Republican nomination of Ives and had campaigned actively for him.

Ives' senate term still has four years to run. There were a number of issues in the campaign, but Harriman hit hardest at unemployment. He accused the Republicans of a "do-nothing, care-nothing" attitude about it and promised government "with a heart."

Harriman's whole slate, backed by both the Democratic and Liberal parties, appeared to have been swept into office with him.

14 Officials Subpoenaed In Election

CHICAGO (AP)—In an unprecedented action, a federal grand jury Tuesday subpoenaed 14 election officials and records of 14 Chicago precincts for examination at 10 a.m. today.

The summonses were served on John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners.

The lightning federal investigative action was announced by U. S. Atty. Robert Tiekens, who earlier assigned three assistants to watch for irregularities in the Chicago voting.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarrecki, ex-officio head of the election board, commented, "Never before in the history of the election board has this been done."

Tiekens declined to say the basis upon which the officials and records were subpoenaed. A number of complaints were made to officials by Republican poll watchers during the voting.

They included challenges of persons voting as illiterates and charges that Democratic precinct captains accompanied voters into voting booths.

German Refugee Party Vetoes Adenauer Plan

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, facing the toughest political crisis of his career, Tuesday night lost another of his coalition allies in the parliamentary rebellion against his French-German agreement on the Saar.

The Refugee party, third largest in Adenauer's four-party government, announced it rejects the Saar agreement "in its present form." The agreement would "Europeanize" the Saar-German border after World War II—while leaving it economically tied to France.

This decision will deprive Adenauer of 27 critical votes in the showdown battle in Parliament unless the Chancellor persuades the Refugee party to reverse its position.

The Free Democrats, second largest party in the Adenauer coalition, and some members of the Chancellor's own Christian Democratic party (CDU), already have rebelled against the Saar agreement.
