Grand Jury Clears Roan at Ft. Madison

City Manager Peter Roan Wednesday was cleared of a drunken driving charge by a Lee county grand jury at Ft. Madison.

The jury returned a no-bill on the charge filed by Ft. Madison police Sept. 15.

The Iowa City council, after talking to witnesses involved in the case, had voted not to suspend Roan one week after the charge was filed.

Mayor LeRoy Mercer said Wednesday, "We based our decision on what we were told. This bears out that our thinking was correct."

Pleaded Innocent

Roan had no comment. He had pleaded innocent to the drunken driving charge Oct. 11 at arraignment in Ft. Madison justice of the peace court.

The grand jury that refused to indict Roan returned a true bill against another man for drunken driving. Seven witnesses, including Roan, appeared at the city manager's hearing.

Roan also was charged Sept. 15 with leaving the scene of an accident and driving with an expired license. He will have a hearing on those charges Tuesday in Ft. Madison justice of the peace court.

'Criticized Stories'

Roan was arrested after it was charged his car nicked one driven by Mrs. Jack Feigter of Ft. Madison.

Mrs. Feigter told Iowa City councilmen one week after the accident that newspaper stories of the incident had been exaggerated.

She said that she did not even feel the vibration when Roan's car hit her parked vehicle. She said she was told of the side-swipe by a passenger. A small amount of chrome was scraped off her fender in the accident.

Roan was traveling about 10 miles per hour after the collision and pulled over to the curb when she first blew her auto horn, Mrs. Feigter said.

'Definitely Not Intoxicated'

A doctor who examined Roan following the accident told councilmen that the city manager was "definitely not intoxicated."

The councilmen stood behind Roan following their interviews with witnesses, declaring that he was innocent in their judgment until proven guilty.

Flying Bishop Rescues Man Mauled by Gator

CHICAGO (AP) — A missionary group reported Wednesday a flying Roman Catholic bishop risked his life to land his plane on a small island off New Guinea to rescue a man mauled by a crocodile.

The pilot is Bishop Leo Arkfeld, 42, of Panama, Iowa, head of a mission at Wewak, New Guinea. The scene of the rescue is Kairiru island, off the northeastern coast of New Guinea.

Police Doubt Mental Patient's Confession of Bremmer Killing

SIoux CITY (AP) — Sioux City police said Wednesday night they were "skeptical" that an escaped patient from the Mental Health Institute at Cherokee had killed young Jimmie Bremmer here this fall.

The patient, Lyle Walter Palmer, last was held in Portland, Ore., on a "Peeping Tom" conviction.

Detective Robert McKeown of the Portland Police Department said Palmer told him Wednesday that he killed the Bremmer boy and a woman at Sioux City.

No Record

Sioux City police have no record of the woman's death.

Detective Chief Harry Gibbons said he had a telephone conversation with Palmer and McKeown and that there were several discrepancies in the story told by Palmer in connection with the Bremmer case.

However, Gibbons said, Palmer's story "might be the truth." Palmer, admitted being in Sioux City Aug. 30-31, after escaping from the Cherokee institute last Aug. 1, Gibbons said.

Jimmie's Body Found

Jimmie, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bremmer, disappeared from his home Aug. 31 and his body was found in a field outside of Sioux City on Sept. 29.

Gibbons said that as far as is known Palmer had no car while in Sioux City.

The story of the killings came after Palmer had been questioned for some days about the Bremmer boy's death.

McKeown said Palmer told him he strangled the woman in her room in an argument over how much money he should give her.

Sioux City police said they have no record of a woman's body being found here since last August.

Campus Chest Donation Aim: $1 A Student

One fraternity and one sorority have already pledged 100 per cent donations in the Campus Chest drive which begins next Monday.

Each member of Sigma Delta Tau sorority and Acacia fraternity have voted to contribute $1 to the campaign which will run through next Thursday.

One hundred per cent contribution of $1 per students is the objective in the drive, Emma Lou Fuller, A2, Altoona, Campus Chest chairman, said Wednesday.

Solicitations on campus and in housing units will begin next Monday, Jim Grier, A2, Ottumwa, solicitations chairman, said.

Student Rally

Plans call for a student rally to kickoff the drive on the east approach to Old Capitol Monday at 9 p.m. President Virgil M. Hancher will speak briefly and will light the big match in the central display built around the campaign theme, "Help Herky Light the Match."

Also appearing at the kickoff show will be Bhaskara Rao, G. Bangalore, India, who is a representative of the World University service, and Prof. Robert Michaelson, director of the school of religion and faculty advisor to the Chest planning committee. Wes Pippert, A4, Mason City, will be master of ceremonies.

To Present Skit

A skit will be given in sororities on Monday afternoon and evening, in dormitories on Tuesday afternoon and evening and in the fraternities on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Currier residents will have an opportunity to purchase the services of a waiter for their Wednesday dinner, in connection with the Campus Chest drive.

Solicitors will go through the dining rooms this evening and ask at the tables if they would like to buy a waiter.

Money collected during the drive will be distributed among the World University service, the loan fund for needy SUI foreign students, CARE book fund, Save the Children federation, and the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro students.

Says Russia 'Strange as Mars'

(DI Photo by Howie Greenwald) LYDIA KIRK, WIFE OF REAR ADM. Allen Kirk (Ret.), who served as U.S. Ambassador to the Kremlin from 1950 to 1952, Wednesday night told an SUI lecture series audience the fight for top power among Kremlin officials since Stalin's death hasn't ceased. Mrs. Kirk said the situation remains "pull and haul, dog eat dog."

'Russia Hasn't Changed'

Wife of Former Ambassador Tells Audience Top Man in Kremlin Still Undecided

By JOE MORAN

When Ivan the Terrible shook hands with the envoy sent by Good Queen Bess, he was careful afterward to wash his hands in a bowl kept near the throne for such occasions — and the wife of the U.S. ambassador to the Kremlin in 1950-52 thinks Russian wariness of foreigners hasn't changed greatly since.

Her tone suggested "no one knows what to think of Russia, and less what to expect."

Although there've been a few changes since Stalin died a year and a half ago, "Russia hasn't changed as much as we would like to believe," Lydia Kirk reported to an SUI lecture audience in Macbride auditorium Wednesday night.

Promises Forced

Following Stalin's death the "committee" of Malenkov, Molotov, Beria, Krushchev and Mikoyan felt they "had to make promises" to consolidate "the shuffling brown mass" of the people behind them, she said.

But she emphasized that there has been no real change in the Kremlin or in the people. It was a question of giving the people a "new ikon" (image) to look to.

During Stalin's dictatorship, "his presence was felt everywhere. No such meeting as this could be held without his picture over the speaker's platform, without a hymn in his honor. School children were taught to sing 'Thank you, comrade, for our beautiful lives.'"

"The thing that maddened me most," said Mrs. Kirk, "was the Russians' claim that they lived better than anyone else!"

Vice-Like Control

"Who, what is going to take (Stalin's) place?" she asked. It took Stalin 12 years to effect his vice-like control of the party and of Russia, after Lenin's death in 1924. The Russians have known "Stalin, Lenin, the

Air Force Grounds F100 Jet Fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air force said Wednesday it has grounded all F100 supersonic jet fighters as a result of three crashes, including one in which a British air officer was killed.

A spokesman said the grounding was a "precautionary measure pending completion of thorough investigations" into the causes of the crashes.

Air Commodore Geoffrey D. Stephenson, commandant of the central fighter establishment of the Royal air force, was killed Monday at Eglin air force base, Fla., when the Supersabre fighter he was flying crashed after going into a steep spiral.

Tuesday, the air force also said, another crash occurred at Edwards air force base, Calif. The pilot of that plane parachuted with only minor injuries.

The first of the series of crashes occurred Oct. 12 when an F100 flown by chief test pilot George Welch of North American Aviation Co. crashed near Lancaster, Calif.

Czar and God — can Malenkov and the 'committee' fill his place?"

"We don't know and any Westerner would be rash to prophesy," the speaker said. "Russia, its people and its land, are as strange to us as Mars."

The "committee" is new, she said, and none but Molotov has been outside Mother Russia. Stalin, "dreadful as he was, was more predictable."

'Vague Relaxation'

What happened to Beria caused a "vague relaxation" among the people, when they felt the power of his secret police might be cut, but the "duplicitous of the Kremlin" makes it difficult to predict a course Stalin's successors may be expected to follow, either foreign or domestic.

Comrade Malenkov, "five feet seven inches, 250 pounds, shapely, with eyes that look out piercingly at you from a gray face" is something of a contradiction, she implied. He may "pick roses for Miss Summer-skill, but . . . he is a Soviet Red automaton. He might have been invented by George Orwell."

Nikita Krushchev, "tough, given to getting noisy late at night," is another hard nut to crack. Who will finally succeed in consolidating the party and the people is anyone's guess, Mrs. Kirk implied.

She added, alluding to Stalin's Moscow purge trials in 1936 that "we haven't seen the last of the game of Ten Little Indians" in the Kremlin.

Hits 'Abuse' Of Senators In Debate Over Censure

Ike Defends Dixon-Yates Power Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday he does not believe it is in the best interests of the country to saddle the federal government with "a continuous and never-ending responsibility" to provide new public power.

He set forth his power philosophy in a letter urging the senate-house atomic energy committee to allow swift execution of the Dixon-Yates private power contract if the committee finds its terms satisfactory.

The controversial contract is for a 107 million dollar generating plant at West Memphis, Ark., to pour private power into the lines of the Tennessee Valley authority. The power would take the place of electricity TVA is furnishing to plants of the Atomic Energy commission.

Congress Declines

There had been proposals that TVA build government-owned plants to supply the extra power needed in the valley but congress declined to underwrite this plan.

The President's letter, addressed to Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), chairman of the senate-house atomic energy committee, was released toward the end of a day in which Eisenhower forces won a big round in the Dixon-Yates fight. Democrats on the committee lost, 10-8 on straight party lines, a move to bar immediate signing of the contract.

Not Against TVA

"No one in this administration has any intention of destroying or damaging TVA or of diminishing its effectiveness in any way."

"But this is not the same thing as fastening on the federal government a continuing and never-ending responsibility which I frankly do not believe is logical nor, in the long run, in the best interests of the country."

Read in the context of the whole letter, it was clear that by "responsibility" Eisenhower meant responsibility to build generating plants and distribute public power.

Disputed Territory

He located the scene as the Habomai Islands, some of which are as close as two miles from Japan. He said that when the Kurile Islands were given to Russia they claimed the Habomais were part of the Kuriles, and it is a disputed area. The Russians are very jealously holding onto the area, he said, perhaps on the theory that possession is nine points of the law. He added that the United States and Japan have not recognized the Reds' claim to the Habomais.

Eisenhower said this isn't a clear cut thing, where one can say this must be so, and that is that. His calm approach was in

Calm Stand by Ike On Bomber Incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower took a calm and non-belligerent stand Wednesday on the latest Russian plane incident. He said it occurred in a disputed border area and that the Russians seem more conciliatory this time.

Eisenhower nevertheless said the American photo bomber shot down off Japan last week-end by Red fighters had a right to be there. He said he approved the protest which the state department has made.

In reply to a question on the plane incident, Eisenhower said that this was a very complicated, tricky problem. He said that the world these days, even in the sort of peace that exists, is very watchful of its borders. He said there were some cloudy features in this newest incident.

No Sitting Ducks

He said that when the United States uses planes for any purposes in areas that are risky, they ought to be planes that fit the particular needs. They shouldn't be used as sitting ducks, he added, and if a fighter escort is needed in an area where the United States ought to go, then it ought to be sent.

Eisenhower also said Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen obviously could not have known the details of the shooting—even whether it was an accident—when he decided to attend a Russian celebration in Moscow after the incident.

Bohlen has come in for some senatorial criticism, but the President said he was not going to sit here this far off and say Bohlen was wrong for going to that meeting. He added that he believed American foreign officers could be trusted to act with good judgment.

Widow of 10 Weeks Bears 18th Child

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A 44-year-old widow who says she's had less trouble with 17 children than some people do with one, was the mother Wednesday of No. 18.

"My children take care of each other," said Mrs. Bertha Evans of nearby Alsuma after the birth of her eighth son.

"After the first few were born, the children even took over naming their younger brothers and sisters."

Mrs. Evans' husband, Mark, 58-year-old disabled World War I veteran, was killed last Aug. 24 in an automobile accident.

Only one of the children is deceased, a girl who died in 1945 at the age of 19 months. The oldest is 26.

"I find girls are easier to control than boys," observed Mrs. Evans. "Boys are more stubborn."

Case Says Solons Are Doing Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A member of the Watkins committee, which has been accused by Sen. Joseph McCarthy of being a tool of Communists, hit back Wednesday with a declaration that senators doing their duty should not be subjected to "personal abuse."

Sen. Francis Case (R-SD), a member of the committee which recommended censure of McCarthy, spoke out near the end of the senate's first day of debate on the hotly controversial censure question.

McCarthy Accuses Watkins The day also saw Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) swap accusations with Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), committee chairman. McCarthy accused Watkins of twisting facts and the Utah legislator countered with a charge that McCarthy has violated his obligation — if not his oath — as a senator.

Watkins was referring to McCarthy's failure to appear before an investigating committee which looked into his affairs in 1952. This is the basis for one of the censure counts against him. The other charges he abused Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker when the general appeared before McCarthy's investigations subcommittee.

"Unwitting Handmaiden" Case, in cautioning against "personal abuse" of senators, was replying to McCarthy's statement that the Watkins committee acted as the "unwitting handmaiden" of the Communist party in making its censure recommendations.

McCarthy made the charge Tuesday in a speech he said he would deliver in the senate Wednesday. As it turned out he didn't actually deliver it but put it into the Congressional Record — with Case and others insisting it be described there as a statement and not a speech.

Case declared, his voice rising: "I don't want the senator from Wisconsin to prove unintentionally to the country that count one is right."

Contempt for Committee The first count in the two-count censure recommendation of the Watkins committee is that McCarthy showed contempt for another senate committee.

Case said the Watkins group is trying to make it possible for senators to accept committee assignments in the future without laying themselves open to "personal abuse."

"We hope," he declared, "to preserve for the senate of the United States the right to serve on a committee, go into the facts and make a report without having their motives impugned."

McCarthy told Case he never meant to suggest any of the six senators on the Watkins committee was sympathetic toward communism. But he continued to insist that the committee unwittingly "served the Communist cause by proposing censure for him."

Debate Bogs Down The debate frequently bogged down in technical details before the day was over.

Case raised the question whether a two-thirds vote would be needed to censure McCarthy on that portion of the committee's charges which refers to acts occurring before the 83rd congress began.

Senate parliamentarian Charles Watkins took the question under advisement. Normally, a simple majority vote is all that is needed to censure a senator but Case said a question arose over a 1953 election contest whether a senator can be disciplined for acts occurring in a previous congress without a two-thirds vote.

The Democrats — what few of them turned out for the debate — mostly sat quiet Wednesday and let the Republicans do the arguing.

Only three full speeches and part of another were delivered. Watkins opened the debate, saying his committee had no intention of appearing in the role of prosecutor but was offering its censure proposal and would leave any action on it to the Senate's discretion.

Russia Orders Stop 'Insults' to Clergy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party central committee ordered Red propagandists to stop persecuting and insulting Soviet churchgoers and clergymen and confine themselves to "painstaking and systematic atheistic propaganda."

A decree, signed by Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev and published in the party's official newspaper Pravda, warned overzealous antireligious workers that "insulting attacks against believers and the clergy can only lead to strengthening and even intensification of religious prejudices among the people."

Democratic Victory Normal in Off Year

By JIM OWENS

Prof. Donald B. Johnson, of SUI's political science department, commenting on last week's Democratic victory said, "I doubt that the 84th congress will be a 'do-nothing' assembly, or that our foreign policy will be substantially affected."

Johnson said, however, "As the party out of the White House, the Democrats cannot be expected to cooperate with the President as fully as the Eisenhower-Republicans. Considerations of the 1956 election will be constantly in the background."

Republican strategy in the 1954 campaign seemed to hinge on the popularity of Eisenhower, Johnson indicated. Votes for Republican candidates were made to appear as pledges of support for the Eisenhower program.

Opposition Elected
However, he said, some voters seem to have elected Republicans to office because these candidates had opposed administration policies. This may be the case in some rural areas where local Republican winners have had a record of opposition to the Eisenhower-Benson farm program, Johnson added.

Because of the President's major role in the campaign, Johnson said, it is possible that some right-wing Republican leaders may hold Eisenhower responsible for GOP losses in the election.

"I don't think we can say Eisenhower lost in popularity," Johnson said. "Eisenhower, the man, remains a tremendously powerful symbol to the American people."

Victory Margins Narrow
Margins of victory for winning candidates in this election were very narrow, but Johnson pointed out that party control of congress has been fluctuating for some years. In four of the last five elections the balance of congressional control has shifted from one party to the other.

However, only two other presidents in this century, Woodrow Wilson and Harry S. Truman, have lost control of both houses during their terms of administration.

Johnson characterized last week's Democratic gains as normal for an election between presidential election years, although margins of victory were smaller than might be expected.

Greatest Loss in 1922
In the last 25 years the average off-year election loss to the party in power has been 45 seats in the house and 4 in the senate. The greatest loss in that period was in 1922, when the Republicans lost 75 house seats. The only gain by a party in power in that time was in 1934, when the Democrats added nine house members.

The GOP this year lost 16 house and two senate seats, well below the average figures. However, the Republicans had a margin of only three seats in the house and two in the senate before the election.

"The Republican strategy of utilizing Eisenhower's popularity as a principal campaign technique helped cut the losses in many areas," Johnson said, "but the odds were against marked success, considering the narrow margin of control possessed by the GOP in the 83d congress."

Issue Voting Spotty
Johnson said he felt the impact on the voting by specific issues was spotty from area to area. People voted because of farm policy proposals, economic measures and public power policies only in regions directly affected by such issues.

"The economic picture over the nation as a whole was regarded by the voters to be generally satisfactory," he said.

"However, in certain areas in Michigan, Minnesota, Indiana and Pennsylvania, the election results reflect dissatisfaction with the method by which the problem of unemployment was considered by some of the Republican leaders," Johnson said. Democratic gains were strong in some of the areas mentioned.

Reputation Not Shown
"Considering the average loss of congressional seats by the party in power over the last 25 years, the recent election does not illustrate a national repudiation of the Eisenhower administration," Johnson said.

"There was a trend toward the Democratic party, but the trend was irregular over the country—based on local conditions and specific issues," he remarked.

Niemann Reappointed March of Dimes Head
DES MOINES (AP)—W. K. Niemann, Des Moines businessman, has been reappointed to head the March of Dimes campaign in Iowa.

The announcement was made by Basil O'Connor, New York, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Niemann will coordinate the activities of 1955 March of Dimes volunteers in Iowa's 100 chapters of the foundation.

Expect Record 'Building' Year

DES MOINES (AP)—Home building in Iowa's 16 first class cities so far this year almost equals the total spent in all of last year. Indications are that 1954 will be the biggest year since the record was set in 1950.

The State Health Department's public health engineering division said Saturday the cost of construction authorized by the 16 cities in the first nine months of this year amounted to $37,860,943.

The total for all of 1953 was $38,740,680, and for the first nine months of that year it was $30,683,816. The record was $55,050,639 worth of construction approved four years ago.

In the last three months of 1953 authorizations amounted to about $8 million dollars. That much added to the nine-month total this year would make the 1954 figure about 46 million dollars. That would compare with totals of $41,135,728 for 1952 and $40,103,251 in 1951.

The figures take into account only those cities with populations of 15,000 or more. The division does not obtain statistics from other urban and rural areas. The figures are based on building permits issued.

The 16 cities issued 3,809 permits for new homes in the first nine months of this year. This compared with 2,985 for the same period last year. The final total for 1953 was 3,846.

"That means 1954 is only 37 behind the last year total, with three months to go. In the last three months of 1953, about 860 permits were issued.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
Foreign Staff
Associated Press

One fact that must be taken into any objective consideration of the latest Russo-American plane incident is that American planes in the Far East are much nearer Russia than Russian planes are to the United States.

Another is that high-flying B29 reconnaissance planes have far-seeing eyes, and that Russians have long displayed a phobia about cameras.

President Eisenhower himself says the shooting occurred in a disputed border area, although the Americans had a right to be where they were.

Facts No Excuse
These facts are no excuse for the repeated brutality of Russian military policy. Nor is it a case of repeating the old query about what the United States would do if an enemy entered Mexico.

There is a different situation today. Danger moves swiftly. If a Russian plane capable of carrying atomic death, as the B29 is capable, were found crossing the North Pole into the Western Hemisphere during the present situation of international fear, Allied interceptors would not take chances.

All this is apropos of the criticism by Sen. William F. Knowland of Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen for attending an official Russian dinner after receiving word of the event. Especially a dinner celebrating the anniversary of the Red revolution.

Received No Instructions
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles says Bohlen received word of the Far Eastern incident only minutes before time to leave for the dinner. That the information at that time was still vague as to just what had happened, and was not accompanied by department instructions.

Bohlen went ahead. Whether the incident was mentioned between him and Malenkov during their subsequent conversation has not been revealed. It is just possible that it was, although it would have been slightly out of order on such an occasion.

If it was, it might be responsible for what the President called a slightly more conciliatory Russian attitude in this case than usual.

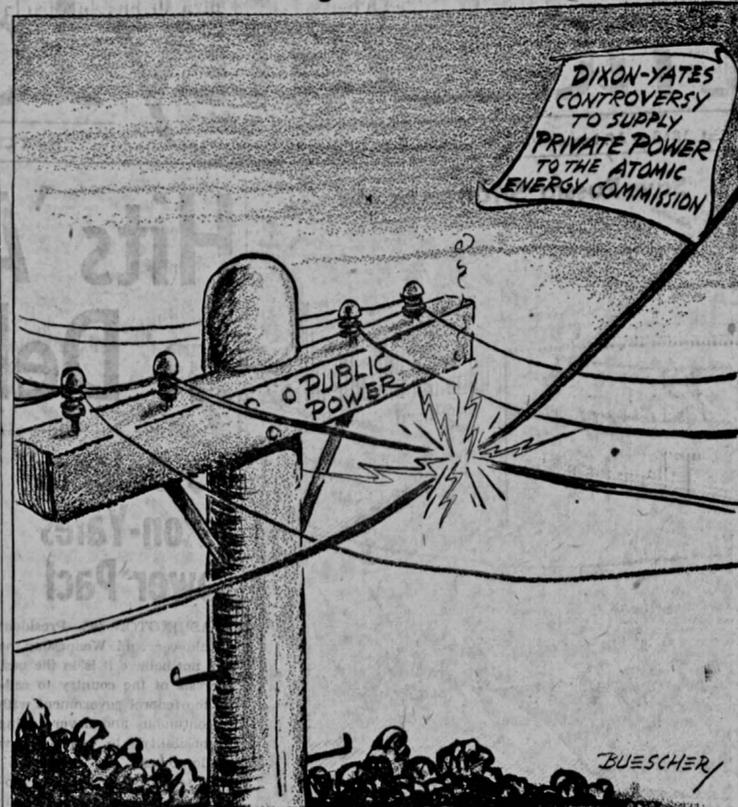

Bohlen's Going Necessary
In any case, for Bohlen to have refused to attend the dinner at the last moment would have turned the shooting into a major international incident, something that everyone tries to avoid in times such as these.

Such events are bound to occur when the armed forces of two nations face each other around such a vast perimeter. It is a case where maintenance of careful balance is required, lest bad lead to worse as Russia and the U.S. grind against each other like boulders in the rushing stream of time.

High Tension

New Iowa Attorney General Youngest Ever

NEVADA, Iowa (AP)—One of the youngest attorneys general ever to serve the state of Iowa will take over that office late this month. The outlook is for "stricter law enforcement if there's any change in policy."

Dayton Countryman, 36, now county attorney for Story County, was elected attorney general last Tuesday for both a short term and the full two year term. He will succeed Atty. Gen. Leo A. Hoegh, who was elected governor to take office next January. Hoegh's appointment by Gov. William S. Beardsley in 1953 was to run until his successor was elected.

Busy Since Election
Countryman said Saturday he has been busy in court every day since his election and hadn't had time to give much thought to personnel or policy of the attorney general's office.

He commented, however, that he would want to talk things over with Hoegh before deciding on anything.

"But the policy of the attorney general's office will be strict and uniform enforcement," Countryman said. "That was the basis on which I campaigned. I want to follow Leo Hoegh's lead."

He commented that he attributed his nomination and election to the wish of the people of Iowa for strict and uniform enforcement of the law, with emphasis against "gambling, narcotics, beer and liquor."

Countryman plans to commute from Nevada to Des Moines in filling the attorney generalship, and make that a regular procedure "as far as I know now."

Countryman was born in Kingsley, received a bachelor's degree in forestry from Iowa State College in 1940, and his law degree from the State University of Iowa in 1948.

In between getting the two degrees, the attorney general-elect spent six years as a pilot in the army air corps, and was a lieutenant colonel when he left the service. He has practiced law in Nevada since 1948.

He is married and has two daughters and a son—Karen, 12; Joan, 10 and James, 5. All are in school at Nevada.

Urologists will be "The Physical Sciences and Religious Knowledge."

Soldiers in Europe Swindled, Writer Says

CINCINNATI (AP)—American soldiers and their families in Europe are swindled out of eight million dollars a year, writer Mike Stern told a congressional committee Tuesday.

They are cheated, he said, in post exchanges and in purchase of whiskey and life insurance.

He testified before an open hearing of the House Armed Services subcommittee on Defense Activities.

Stern said a group of 14 life insurance companies, 11 of them from Texas, had a stranglehold on the sale of policies to GI's and their families overseas.

Tottering Companies
"Texas, which places a premium on superlatives, has the worst insurance laws in the nation," said the European correspondent for Argosy magazine. "In the last 18 months, 10 Texas companies have gone broke and others are tottering. Ninety per cent of all insurance sold to GI's in Europe — and this amounts to 50 million dollars — is sold by Texas insurance companies."

He said the European association of Life Underwriters dictates policies and it in turn was run by Walter O'Haire, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Stern said some of the Texas companies were capitalized on as little as $25,000 yet wrote policies totaling 10 million dollars.

Denied License
Stuart Reichstein of San Antonio, Tex., testified he was a licensed salesman for two Texas companies. But when he shifted to the Great Western Life Insurance Co. of Washington State and declined to join the underwriters association, he was denied a license, he said.

Stern said the insurance companies are "permitted by Army practices, not regulations, to sell insurance to soldiers."

Companies Named
He named as the 14 companies doing business in Europe as: The American Investors Life Insurance Co., of Dallas; American Savings Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth; American Standard Life Insurance Co. of Fort Worth; American United Service Insurance Co. of Houston; Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas; Gibraltar Life Insurance Co. of Dallas; Great Northwest Life Insurance Co. of Spokane, Wash.; Great Southwest Life Insurance Co., of Phoenix, Ariz.; International Fidelity Insurance Co. of Dallas; Life Insurance Society of Birmingham; and others.

Memo to Drivers: Watch Child Die

"It's almost 11 o'clock on a beautiful Sunday morning. Some people are going to church now.

"In a small room at 2135 Arapahoe, an ambulance attendant lowers his stethoscope to a small boy on the bed. The mother screams, 'My boy! Doctor, my boy. Don't let him die.'

"Police officers in the room are stony-faced. The flash from my camera fills the room. A small boy plays on the floor, bewildered by all the commotion.

"Doctor, save my boy! The attendant bows his head; 'The boy is dead.' But for the mother's cries, the room is silent.

"Tears are in the eyes of the veteran officers, my eyes. We've all seen death before... And I have just recorded the death of Tony Guerrero. I don't like it but it's my job. I only wish everyone who drives a car could have been with me."

Tony, 2 years old, was killed almost instantly when hit by a truck in an alley. The driver did not stop.

Rec's Reported Firing On 'Freedom' Balloons

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Police sources here said Wednesday freedom balloons carrying anti-Communist leaflets are being fired upon by Soviet occupation troops in Austria.

The balloon campaign was started by the privately financed Free Europe committee of the Crusade for Freedom to encourage resistance in Communist-occupied countries. For the past six days, the police sources said, Soviet anti-aircraft batteries have been shooting the balloons down along the Austro-Czech frontier and in Burgenland province bordering on Hungary.

What makes a Lucky taste better?

to taste better!

What cigarette do college students go for? According to the latest, biggest coast-to-coast survey, students prefer Luckies to all other brands. And once again, the No. 1 reason is better taste. Of course Luckies taste better. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to taste better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Luckies' light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Try a pack. Maybe you'll be as fortunate as the student in the Doodle to the right, titled: Lucky smoker... faulty cigarette vending machine. Even if you're not, you'll enjoy the better-tasting cigarette... Lucky Strike.

STUDENTS! EARN $25!
Lucky Doodles are pouring in! Where are yours? We pay $25 for all we use, and for many we don't use. So, send every original Doodle in your noodle, with its descriptive title, to Lucky Doodle, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N.Y.

Escapee Captured

MAQUOKETA (AP) — Wayne Douglas, 29, was recaptured here Wednesday afternoon after he escaped five hours earlier from a deputy sheriff, Jackson county Sheriff Loren Felderman said.

The sheriff said Douglas, who had been working here, was picked up Tuesday night by the FBI in Maquoketa for allegedly being absent without leave from Lackland air force base in Texas.

The FBI had turned Douglas over to Jackson county authorities to hold for military police. Deputy sheriff Graham Moyer Wednesday took Douglas to an employer to collect pay due him and then to get his clothes from a rooming house here.

The deputy stayed downstairs talking to the landlady while Douglas went to his upstairs room to say good-bye to his 2-year-old son.

When the child started crying, Moyer investigated and said he found Douglas had fled through a window.

Felderman said Douglas was recaptured in mid-afternoon while trying to get the boy so he could leave town.

He was arraigned on an escape charge and waived to the grand jury. Bond was set at $1,000.

Controlling Child Emotions Subject of Family Workshop

Helping children understand and control their emotions will be discussed in the opening lecture of a family life workshop today at 7:30 p.m. in the Henry Sabin school gymnasium under co-sponsorship of the Child Welfare Research station and the Iowa City Parent-Teacher associations.

The session also will include discussion of the harmful effects of making children ashamed of their emotions, forcing them to hide feelings which they should have a chance to express.

Schedule 5 Meetings
Mrs. John Eekstein, 513 Grant st., is in charge of registration for the workshop, which will meet five Thursdays. Workshop sessions will be conducted by Prof. William D. Lampard and John Chantiny, both of the research station.

A lecture Dec. 9 entitled "Temper Tantrums and Other Negative Behavior" will point out how parents may be responsible for causing negative behavior in their children.

Films to be shown at two of the sessions are "Preface to a Life" Nov. 18 and "Social Development" at the closing meeting Dec. 16.

search station. The half-hour talks and films in the series will be followed by discussions in small study groups.

The workshop will be open without charge to any parents, teachers or other interested persons in the Iowa City area.

List Session Topics
"Sex as a Part of Growing Up" will be the lecture topic Dec. 2. The speaker will point out what normally can be expected in sexual development in early childhood, pre-adolescence and the adolescent or teenage period.

A lecture Dec. 9 entitled "Temper Tantrums and Other Negative Behavior" will point out how parents may be responsible for causing negative behavior in their children.

Films to be shown at two of the sessions are "Preface to a Life" Nov. 18 and "Social Development" at the closing meeting Dec. 16.

While he declared there are many other contributing factors — including maladjusted homes, sub-standard health, welfare and recreational conditions in certain areas, and lack of proper job opportunities for teenagers — Seckinger told the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical association:

"The atomic blasts, aggression overseas, the threat of war, the military draft, the facility of mobility and other factors have tended to accentuate our national problem No. 1.

"With the development of the atom and hydrogen bombs we have become the first generation in history which, we can realistically say, is living under the threat of total annihilation.

"This threat is reflected in the anxieties and uncertainties of parents who in turn impart them to their children."

He added that, "in this period of uncertainty and aggression it is exceedingly difficult to influence our junior citizens to exert control over their aggressive behavior."

As a possible antidote for delinquency tendencies accentuated by the threat of war, Seckinger said, doctors "must use our influence to help both adults and young people to adapt better to these conditions."

Marines Dedicate Flag-Raising Statue

A 75-FOOT REPRODUCTION of the historic flag-raising on Iwo Jima is unveiled on a bluff near the Potomac river in Washington, D.C. The statue, nine years in the making, was dedicated Wednesday as the marines celebrated their 179th anniversary.

Chinese Communists Now Drafting Girls

HONG KONG — For the possible invasion of Formosa (Taiwan), the seat of the Chinese National government, and other "colonial and semi-colonial countries in Southeast Asia," the Chinese Communist army is to be increased by a million conscripts to be inducted during the remainder of the year.

Recent inauguration of conscription by the Peiping regime has enabled various draft boards throughout the country to grab not only youths from 18 to 22 years for the first call but girls of same age, according to several students who came here from South China to escape the draft. They said their fellow students fear they might be taken by the armed services.

Communist Forces Strong
Gen. Nih Jung-chen, just appointed vice chairman of the new national defense council, said in a written report to his superiors that the Communist armed forces are strong enough to fulfill the mission of "liberating Formosa, thanks to the modernization of our armed forces through the unselfish aid of Soviet Russia."

General Nih, who had been acting chief-of-staff of the armed services for the past three years and concurrently commander-in-chief of troops in North China, expressed "confidence in the Communist army after its rich experience in fighting American imperialism in Korea."

Pick Flower of Youth
The very essence of compulsory enlistment is to pick the flower of youth for the fighting services and to keep down the strength of the regulars as an economical measure, stressed General Nih, whose idea is that every citizen must have a "chance" to serve in the armed forces, particular the army.

Plauding that the defense of the country is the duty of every citizen of the "People's republic" the general said the government would save money to carry out military improvements and basic reforms which require urgent attention.

Professional Officer Corps
The present conscription calls for a small professional officer corps with better salaries so that each officer may have a chance to get married and support a family, according to Vice Chairman Nih, who emphasized the "necessity of strenuous study of Soviet military science and strategy in the conquest of Formosa."

Military observers here believe that the invasion of Formosa does not necessarily have to depend on the newly-conscripted soldiers but the existing regular units known as "People's liberation army." These analysts expect the conscripts will be used for the future liberation of other countries such as Thailand, Malaya, Burma and Indonesia.

A Chinese nationalist source added that Gen. Pang Teh-huai has been the commander of the "Asian volunteer army" which is made up of "Chinese volunteers" from Korea with a strength of nine divisions of about 100,000 officers and enlisted men.

Dedicate Iwo War Statue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Marines, proud possessors of a heroic past, gave to the nation Wednesday a giant memorial to their fallen comrades.

President Eisenhower attended the ceremony paying respect to the memory of all Leathernecks who have paid the last full measure of devotion to their country, from the Revolutionary War to Korea.

Nixon Gives Dedication
Vice President Nixon told some 5,000 persons in dedicating the memorial on the banks of the Potomac that it stands as "a great challenge" to Americans to find a way to peace and freedom that will require no further sacrifices on the field of battle.

The memorial, which was dedicated on the 179th anniversary of the birth of the Marine Corps, depicts one of the most glorious moments in the history of the Leathernecks: The raising of the Stars and Stripes above the World War II Pacific battleground of Iwo Jima.

Paid For By Donations
The scene was recorded for posterity in February 1945 in a photograph by Joe Rosenthal, then of the Associated Press and now of the San Francisco Chronicle. It was recreated by Felix de Weldon, an Austrian-born sculptor.

Donations by Marine Corps and Navy personnel paid for the memorial.

The monument, which stands a few hundred yards from the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, is the largest bronze casting ever created. The figures of the six straining flag raisers are each 32 feet high and are raised above a 40-foot block of black Swedish granite.

Iranian Nationalist Executed as Traitor

TEHRAN, IRAN (AP) — They lashed Hessein Fatemi to a stake before a mud wall Wednesday and riddled him with 16 bullets for being a traitor to the Shah.

Thus ended on a windswept barracks rifle range the life of the fiery pint-sized ex-foreign minister who had been the right hand man of former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

He was executed in secret by a four-man squad just before dawn. Ben. Teimour Bakhtiar, Tehran's military governor, a witness, said the blindfolded Fatemi shouted as he stood tied to the stake!

"May God protect you!" Other army witnesses said he cried out "This is Britain's work" and "The British are murdering me!" before four volleys ended his life.

Fatemi was an uncompromising supporter of Mossadegh's extreme nationalist policy under which the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. was nationalized in 1951.

ISC Atom Expert To Get Iowa Medal

The 1954 Iowa medal of the American Chemical Society will be presented Friday evening at the ASC's seventh annual Iowa banquet in the river room of the SUI Memorial Union.

Harley A. Wilhelm, Iowa State college research professor, will receive the award in recognition of his work on a process for large-scale production of uranium and for other research in rare metals.

Robert S. Casey, chief chemist of the W. A. Scheaffer Pen company of Fort Madison, is chairman of the award committee. Toastmaster will be Charles Tanford, SUI associate professor of chemistry.

Wilhelm's career, from his Ellston birth in 1900 to his present post as associate director of the Institute for Atomic Research at ISC, will be reviewed at the banquet by the Iowa medal's first winner, Frank H. Spedding, director of the ISC institute.

Previous winners of the Iowa medal have included Spedding, 1948; Casey, 1949; Henry A. Mattill, late SUI head of biochemistry, 1950; Prof. Henry Gilman of ISC, 1951; George Glockler, former SUI chemistry head, 1952, and Prof. Leo P. Sherman of Grinnell, college, 1953.

Atomic War Fear Aids Delinquency, Doctor Declares

ST LOUIS (AP) — Parental fear of atomic warfare are contributing to the "nation's No. 1 problem"—juvenile delinquency — Dr. Daniel L. Seckinger, public health director for the District of Columbia said Wednesday.

While he declared there are many other contributing factors — including maladjusted homes, sub-standard health, welfare and recreational conditions in certain areas, and lack of proper job opportunities for teenagers — Seckinger told the 48th annual meeting of the Southern Medical association:

"The atomic blasts, aggression overseas, the threat of war, the military draft, the facility of mobility and other factors have tended to accentuate our national problem No. 1.

"With the development of the atom and hydrogen bombs we have become the first generation in history which, we can realistically say, is living under the threat of total annihilation.

"This threat is reflected in the anxieties and uncertainties of parents who in turn impart them to their children."

He added that, "in this period of uncertainty and aggression it is exceedingly difficult to influence our junior citizens to exert control over their aggressive behavior."

As a possible antidote for delinquency tendencies accentuated by the threat of war, Seckinger said, doctors "must use our influence to help both adults and young people to adapt better to these conditions."

PREMIUMS REDUCED DIVIDENDS INCREASED SAME TOP QUALITY

No Change in Minimum Policy or Underwriting Requirements

DIVIDENDS INCREASED . . . Again Connecticut Mutual helps its policyholders reduce the cost of their life insurance. Upward adjustment in dividend scale, with substantial increase at the higher ages, means lower cost. This is our 7th dividend increase in 12 years . . . all benefiting both old and new policyholders.

The interest allowed beneficiaries on income payments is increased to 3.3%, and the interest rate allowed policyholders on dividends left with the company to accumulate is increased to 3.15%.

All of this means lower cost to policyholders — and larger income to those receiving income benefits.

PREMIUMS REDUCED . . . In addition Connecticut Mutual now offers several popular plans of insurance with new low premiums to meet the needs of family protection and business insurance.

SAME TOP QUALITY . . . Connecticut Mutual for 108 years has offered top quality contracts with features equal to the finest. Here are just a few:

- Change of policy plan at any time.
- All dividends payable annually, beginning end of first year.
- Ten different income payment options.
- Extremely flexible ownership and beneficiary clauses.
- Premiums in default, including riders, automatically covered by dividend accumulations.

Bandit Gets $1,700, Misses $5,000

MRS. HELEN SHORE, 31, smiles with relief Wednesday after a man shoved a check drawn for $1,500 through her cage window in a Syracuse, N.Y., Lincoln branch bank and made off with $1,700 she counted out for him. "I didn't see any gun but I had the feeling that he would kill me if I didn't give him the money," she said. The thief missed out on another $5,000 which was in a drawer under Mrs. Shore's counter.

Maucker To Speak At School Dedication

J. W. Mauker, president of Iowa State Teachers college, will be the principal speaker at the dedication of the new Mark Twain school here Sunday.

The dedication, coinciding with the city's observance of Education week, will be held at 3 p.m. in the all-purpose room of the Mark Twain school.

Scrolls of tribute will be presented to some of the 147 teachers in the Iowa City public school system, particularly those who have contributed years of service to the education of youngsters.

At the conclusion of the program, the Mark Twain Parent-Teacher association will be hosts at a coffee hour and open house. Those attending may inspect the facilities of the new building.

'Never Ending Frontier' To Open Friday

"Never Ending Frontier", dramatic chronicle of education's progress in Iowa, written and produced by the university theatre, will have its first presentation on campus Friday.

The play also will be presented Saturday and the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Curtain time for all productions will be 8 p.m. Admission is free to student, but tickets must be picked up at the ticket office in room 8A, Schaeffer hall.

Premiered at the centennial convention of the Iowa State Educational association in Des Moines last week, the play is described as a "dramatic chronicle of the common schools of Iowa through more than a century."

Written for Convention
The play was written for the convention by students and members of the staff of the school of fine arts. It presents dramatically the story of struggle for better education in Iowa to the present time.

Three characters symbolizing devoted, forward minded teachers, progressive administrators, and the enemy of education appear in the various scenes.

Critical impacts on educational progress are emphasized in each scene and each episode has a climax. Treated are the annihilation of time by advanced transportation and communication; scientific developments; the effect of monopolistic corporations; and the impact of global wars.

"Outstanding in Scope"
Dean E. T. Peterson, of the college of education, who saw the play in Des Moines and who has worked with the dramatic school in presenting and promoting the play, described "Never-Ending Frontier" as "outstanding in scope and dramatic impact. "In it the authors have devised new ways of handling elements and carrying and maintaining themes," he said.

200 Iowa Pre-Med Students To Attend Conference Here

Some 200 Iowa college students and their advisers are expected to attend a pre-medical conference Friday at the SUJ college of medicine. Thirteen institutions will be represented.

Prof. W. W. Morris, assistant dean for medical student affairs, says the annual conference is designed "to help pre-medical students make the best possible preparation for the study of medicine and for the career which follows." Friday's meeting will be the sixth of its kind held at SUJ.

Welcome by Nelson

Dr. Norman B. Nelson, dean of the college of medicine, will give the welcoming address at 9:30 a.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

During the remainder of the morning, the students and their advisers will hear talks by SUJ President Virgil M. Hancher; Russell D. Cole, president of Cornell college in Mount Vernon; and Dr. Russell Meyers, professor of surgery in the college of medicine at SUJ. They will speak on "A Liberal Education in Preparation for a Medical Education and Practice."

Seniors Speak

Three senior medical students will open the afternoon portion of the student program in lecture room one of the Medical Laboratories building.

Richard M. Caplan of Des Moines will speak on "A Look Back at Pre-Medical Studies"; Edward R. Duffie, Jr. also of Des Moines, will talk on "What Medical School is Like"; and David L. McClellan of Council Bluffs will address the group on "A Look Forward to a Medical Career."

The process by which students are selected for admission to the college of medicine will be explained by Morris and Ted McCarrel, SUJ registrar.

Zoology's Part

For advisers attending the conference, the afternoon portion will be devoted to a panel discussion on "Teaching of Zoology in Preparation for Medical Studies."

Visiting participants in the discussion will be Ellis A. Hicks, professor of zoology at Iowa State college in Ames; the Reverend W. F. Lynch, professor of zoology at Grinnell college; Leonard Johnson, professor of biology at Drake university in Des Moines; and Frank G. Brooks, professor of biology at Cornell college.

SUJ participants in the discussion will be Prof. Roger Porter, head of bacteriology; Dr. Walter R. Ingram, professor and head of anatomy; and Dr. Jack Davies, associate professor of anatomy.

SUI participants in the discussion will be Prof. Roger Porter, head of bacteriology; Dr. Walter R. Ingram, professor and head of anatomy; and Dr. Jack Davies, associate professor of anatomy.

Garner To Address Rotary Club Today

"The Future and Education" will be the topic of Buford Garner, superintendent of Schools, at the weekly luncheon of the Iowa City Rotary club today.

The club will meet in the Jefferson hotel with American Education week as its focus for discussion.

State Attacks Sheppard's 'Head Injury'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The state, seeking to knock down Dr. Samuel Sheppard's alibi in his wife's slaying, drew from a woman witness Wednesday that he knew a head injury "was the hardest to evaluate."

The implication, in the state's own words, was that he knew how to "pretend" such an injury.

The osteopath is being tried in the July 4 slaying of his pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31. He claims she was killed by a stranger who knocked him out and seriously injured his neck and head.

Family Friend Testifies

It is the state's claim that any injuries Sheppard suffered that night were very trivial — although wore his neck in a brace for weeks afterwards.

Mrs. Esther Houk, a Sheppard family friend, testified as a state witness that a sister of hers was in an accident last spring. The sister's auto was damaged but she was unhurt. The sister's insurance did not completely cover the damage.

She said she discussed the situation with Sheppard, and Asst. Prosecutor Saul Danaceau asked:

Discuss Faking

"Did he participate in a conversation with the subject of which was how to pretend a head injury?"

"He said that, as a doctor, he knew a head injury was the hardest to evaluate," replied Mrs. Houk over strong defense objections. "It pertained to the insurance in the case of the accident and, where there was no obvious injury, a head injury could be easily claimed as far as the insurance was concerned."

"Dr. Sam said in that particular case he knew as a doctor a head injury could very easily be claimed."

"Occasionally Quarreled"

Mrs. Houk, a thin-faced, nervous witness, testified that Sheppard and his hazel-eyed wife quarreled occasionally — about cars he bought and about a dishwasher she installed when he was out of town.

Mrs. Houk's husband is mayor of Bay Village, the suburban community 12 miles west of where the Sheppards lived.

Mrs. Houk was the first person definitely known to have viewed the body of Marilyn in her bedroom after she was murdered.

Husband Testifies, Too

Her husband, Mayor J. Spencer Houk, had preceded her on the stand. He testified he once appealed to Dr. Sheppard to confess the slaying if he was the murderer.

Sheppard, 30, is on trial for his life. The state accuses him of slaying his wife over an affair with another woman.

Avery Declares War on 'Raiding Parties'

SEWELL AVERY, 81-year-old chairman of Montgomery Ward and Co., smiles beside a chart as he announces that he "will use every legitimate means to resist and defeat the raiding parties being organized to grab the large liquid assets of this company." Two groups have announced their intentions to obtain control of the big retail merchandising firm. One is headed by Louis E. Wolfson, Florida financier; the other is Fred Saigh, St. Louis capitalist.

Ward Chairman Avery Ready For Control-Seeking Groups

CHICAGO (AP)—Sewell Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward and Co., Wednesday accepted the challenge of Louis Wolfson and Fred Saigh to seize control of the big retail merchandising firm.

The 81-year-old Avery did three unprecedented things. He issued a statement; he appointed a public relations firm; and he held a news conference.

In his statement Avery said Ward's management—which is Avery — "will use every legitimate means to resist and defeat the raiding parties being organized to grab the large liquid assets of this company."

2 Groups Seek Control

Two groups have announced their intentions to obtain control of Ward's. One is headed by Wolfson, a Florida financier who says he and his associates have become owners of the largest single block of Ward's stock—in excess of 500,000 shares. The other is Saigh, a St. Louis businessman.

Until Wednesday Avery had remained completely silent on all matters pertaining to control of the company. The annual stockholders' meeting won't be held until next April.

No Details Announced

"I am not prepared to go into details regarding the next annual meeting," Avery's statement said. He added, "Management is hired to run a profitable business and protect the interests of the stockholders. We intend to continue to do so."

For his news conference, Avery was dressed in his traditional dark blue suit, light blue shirt and blue tie. A white handkerchief peeked out of his coat pockets each year, rather than an entire board, is illegal. On this point Avery said, "My impression is that the gentleman is mistaken."

Strong Financial Set-Up

Avery called attention to the strong financial condition of the company, which had $19,762,444 in cash and $266,806,874 in U.S. government securities as of July 31, 1954.

Asked who would be sitting behind the chairman's desk at Ward's a year from now, Avery replied, "I can assure you with the greatest conviction that I don't know."

SUI EMPLOYEES TO MEET

SUI employees affiliated with Local No. 12 will hold a regular business meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the Teamsters hall, 212 1/2 S. Clinton st.

Comments on Wolfson

A reporter asked Avery what he thought of Wolfson's statement he planned to modernize the company's stores and Avery replied, "I don't think that was in his mind at all." Then he added:

"I wouldn't venture to know what the hell he (Wolfson) is doing."

To Wolfson's contention the company should open more stores, Avery said, "There is no need for additional retail outlets now, but conditions are changing as a result of the automobile."

Building Costs Too High

Avery said Ward's would like to build more stores—the last was built in 1941—but added, "My impression is that building costs are terrifically high."

He added the company's decision to refrain from buying was "the unanimous decision of an intelligent board of directors."

Wolfson has contended Ward's plan of electing only three directors each year, rather than an

Ex-Japanese Leaders Form Party To Oust Yoshida Rule

TOKYO Thursday (AP)—Two oldtime Japanese leaders purged by the Allied occupation formally decided Wednesday to launch a new Conservative party to oust the often pre-American Yoshida government.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, peg-legged World War II foreign minister who signed Japan's surrender, and Ichiro Hatoyama, wartime education minister, agreed to form the new party Nov. 23.

Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida is scheduled to return from the United States Nov. 17.

Shigemitsu and Hatoyama have big followings in the Diet Parliament, increasing the possibility the government will lose a vote of confidence planned by opposition Conservatives and Socialists. That would mean a new Diet election.

Shigemitsu, 67, agreed to disband his Progressive party — Japan's No. 2 conservative group — and urge members to sign up with the new anti-Yoshida movement.

Hatoyama, 71, founder of Yoshida's Liberal conservative party, is expected to lead into the new group 30 or 40 Liberals disgruntled by Yoshida's six-year rule.

Anti-Yoshida Liberals and Progressives plus 147 Socialists would be enough to carry a no-confidence vote in the 466-seat lower house.

Yoshida with 223 Liberals plus minor party support, barely survived a confidence vote earlier this year, when 20 Progressives abstained.
