Issue of Jailed Airmen Placed on UN Agenda

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. Wednesday night appealed urgently to the UN assembly to throw its moral force behind a demand for the release of 11 American airmen jailed as spies in Red China.

He also called upon the Communists to send home hundreds of other UN personnel not yet repatriated.

He said the list totaled 2,840 names.

The chief American delegate pleaded to a tense assembly immediately after the delegates overrode Soviet bloc objections and voted 48-5 to put the case of the airmen on its agenda.

The assembly also voted 44-8 for an immediate debate, by-passing the usual committee action.

Strongly supported by British Minister of State Anthony Nutting and Canadian Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson, Lodge called for prompt passage of a resolution by the 16 Korean war allies.

This would ask the secretary general, Dag Hammarskjold, to use "continuing and unremitting efforts" to obtain the release of the captured airmen and report back by Dec. 31.

The debate on putting the complaint on the assembly's agenda was long and acrimonious. Lodge opened it with an assault on Communist procedural obstacles to an immediate debate.

Red Objections 'Hollow'
He said the Communist objections that the men actually were spies and that the UN had no right to intervene were "nothing but a quibble and a hollow quibble at that."

Lodge said the United States and its Korean allies had exhausted every other avenue for the release of the 11 airmen and all other unreported personnel and said that the case "belongs here."

"This was the only place we could bring it," he said.

He said the imprisonment of the 11 airmen and the detention of hundreds of other captured war prisoners was a "glaring violation" of the Korean armistice.

Jacob A. Malik, Soviet acting chief delegate, repeatedly said the Americans were on an espionage mission and that the UN had no right to intervene to set aside their sentences, which were announced by Peiping radio on Thanksgiving day.

Nutting said that Britain would persist in its endeavor to reduce international tension but he said that international confidence requires an effort by both parties.

He said the UN personnel held in Red China were UN soldiers and the assembly must speak for them.

War Fears Diminished, Ike Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said Wednesday the free world's fears of a global war have diminished in the last four years. He said the last year itself has brought a considerable accomplishment in his "atoms-for-peace" proposal.

Eisenhower gave his appraisal to an overflow crowd at his weekly news conference. The crowd was swelled past 200 by the thought he just might fire back at Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) who publicly charged him with weakness toward communism.

In that, the hopeful were disappointed. To the very first question—about McCarthy's charge—Eisenhower said firmly that he was not going to indulge in personal vituperation or quarrels of any kind.

Eisenhower was smiling, almost jauntily, when he walked into the conference room, made three brief announcements and called for questions.

He grew serious and his brow wrinkled when a reporter asked him whether he thought the chances of peace had increased since he took office in January 1953.

He replied first that peace needs to be defined.

An armistice is not peace, he said thoughtfully. He described peace as a situation where a nation may have justifiable confidence it can devote its energies to the good of the people, not to protecting them or destroying others.

That is not the situation now, he observed.

He mentioned the atoms-for-peace progress in his opening announcement, noting that this is the first anniversary of his offering the idea at the United Nations. It envisioned a pooling of atomic materials and knowledge for the good of all nations, rather than for destruction of any.

Chou En-lai Raps U.S.-Nationalist Defense Treaty

TOKYO (Thursday) (AP)—Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China today called the United States-Nationalist mutual defense treaty "a grave provocation against the People's Republic of China."

In a Peiping radio broadcast Chou declared that unless the U.S. withdraws its forces from Nationalist Formosa and Formosa Strait "it must take upon itself all the grave consequences."

"On behalf of the government of the People's Republic of China," Chou said, "I hereby declare that Taiwan Formosa is China's territory and president Chiang Kai-shek of Nationalist China is the public enemy of the Chinese people."

"To liberate Taiwan and liquidate the traitorous Chiang Kai-shek clique is a matter which falls entirely within the scope of China's sovereignty and internal affairs. No interference of any foreign country will be tolerated."

It was Chou's second attack of the week on the treaty signed last week in Washington under which the U.S. would protect Formosa and the nearby Pescadores from Red invasion.

Chou repeated his charge made Monday at a diplomatic reception that the treaty was designed to legalize U.S. "armed seizure of China's territory of Taiwan" and "to extend its aggression against China and prepare a new war."

Red Interest In Atom Pool 'Increasing'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles reported Wednesday the United States has taken "concrete steps" toward pooling atomic energy for peaceful purposes and that apparently Russian interest in the project is increasing.

In summing up progress on the first anniversary of President Eisenhower's proposal to the United Nations, Dulles said in a statement that probably "the single most important step" taken by the United States was to allocate 220 pounds of enriched uranium for atomic power plants abroad.

Four days ago, with a rare unanimous vote, the UN agreed to set up an "atoms-for-peace" clearing house, as suggested by the United States.

Dulles noted that although Russia voted in favor of the clearing house it acted with reservations and "without preferring any material support for the agency at this time."

The secretary's statement gave unusual emphasis to the question of Soviet contribution of fissionable material to the international agency. It was the first time he has publicly stressed this particular point.

As originally presented, the President's proposal was for creation of an agency under the UN to control a pool of atomic data and materials.

It would use this pool to assist underdeveloped countries, combat disease and similar peaceful pursuits.

Mystery Shrouds Death of Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Veteran stage and movie actress Gladys George died in a hospital Wednesday under circumstances the police described as mysterious. She was 50.

She was sent to the hospital on the advice of her physician, Dr. Russell Jones, but died a few hours after being admitted. Her landlady, Mrs. Emma Colfax, had found her in her apartment. Police said she was unconscious when she was found.

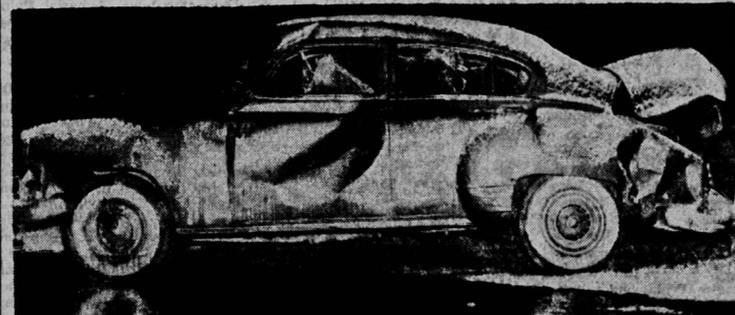

Miss George, whose real name was Gladys Clare, was born in Patton, Me., and made her stage debut when 3 in a touring stock show with her parents.

She was acclaimed one of the best performers of 1936 by the Motion Picture Academy for her role in "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie." Among her best known roles were "The Way of All Flesh," "Best Years of Our Lives," and "Lullaby of Broadway."

STORMS HIT BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Winter storms battered Britain and surrounding waters Wednesday, snarling traffic on land, sea and in the air. One person was killed.

Snow Blamed for Traffic Accidents

SLIPPERY ROADS RESULTING FROM the snow which hit Iowa City Wednesday evening caused this car, driven by Allen Phelps of Cedar Rapids, to skid and overturn five miles north of Iowa City on highway 218. None of the five persons in the car was injured seriously. The auto was lifted back onto the road shortly after the accident.

The first sizable snowfall of the year blanketed Iowa City in white Wednesday evening and caused several accidents from slippery roads and streets.

Five accidents were reported to the Iowa City police Wednesday evening. Hospital treatment was required in only one.

Ailing Pope Airs Marian Year Blessing

VATICAN CITY (AP)—United by radio to Roman Catholics everywhere, Pope Pius XII Wednesday closed the Marian year with a blessing to the world from his sickroom.

His Latin message was spoken with deep emotion, as if reflecting his suffering.

It was with "suffering in our members and sacrifice in our heart" that he closed the Marian year by saying the Ave Maria, the Pope said.

Very Little Chance

In Rome, a doctor among the consultants on the Pope's illness said the ailing 78-year-old pontiff "would have very little chance of surviving an operation."

Dr. Raffaele Paolucci de Valmaggione, one of the four physicians who will examine the Pope again to determine whether he has stomach ulcers, said: "I would never take the responsibility of authorizing or talking part in an operation on the Pope. He would have very little chance of surviving an operation, due to his age and his weak condition."

Recorded at his bedside, the Pope's message, prayer and blessing was broadcast here and to other parts of the world.

Takes First Steps

A few hours before the ceremony, the ailing pontiff took a first few halting steps, supported by the arm of his private physician, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi.

This, an authoritative source explained, was at once a measure of the Pope's slow recovery and a medical precaution, taken lest he suffer disability by prolonged immobility. His doctor plans to repeat this procedure daily.

Gradually the pontiff has been able to take small but more frequent quantities of food by mouth since his serious collapse of last Thursday.

Mistaken Identity Causes Confusion

DES MOINES (AP)—Mrs. Orin H. Young says she wishes something could be done to straighten out the confusion between Wesley Acres, Des Moines and Wesley Gardens, of Des Moines, Wash.

Mrs. Young, wife of the superintendent of Wesley Acres, says hardly a day passes that something intended for Wesley Gardens isn't delivered to Wesley Acres here. Recently one of the misdelivered items was a huge hot water heater which came all the way from California.

Both Wesley Acres and Wesley Gardens are Methodist homes for retired persons—but they're half a continent apart.

CIO Leaders 'Optimistic' Over '55 Wage Outlook

LOS ANGELES (AP)—CIO leaders said Wednesday an improving economic outlook for 1955 has raised their sights toward bigger wage and other gains, even if strikes are needed to win them.

A "confidential" report circulated among leaders at the CIO convention takes a generally more optimistic view of conditions next year than the CIO previously had recognized.

It estimates that 1955 will be a better year than 1954, but not so good as 1953. It anticipates an increase of 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent in total production of goods and services, although saying this will not be enough to insure full employment. In fact, it says the 1955 jobless average may be higher than in 1954.

Rosier View

The somewhat rosier view of the future was believed to be the basis for a number of convention speeches outlining bargaining campaigns and threatening

Board Delays Naming Sketch Contest Winners

The Union board announced Wednesday that due to unforeseen circumstances the winners in the campus sketching contest will not be announced at this time.

The board expressed its gratitude for the response in the contest and said that the most popular sketch chosen by viewers of the exhibition will be announced at the Union Christmas party Dec. 16.

Improvement Seen In Job Situation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rehiring in the nation's mills and factories brought "further improvement in the job situation" in November despite some increase in total unemployment, the commerce and labor departments reported Wednesday.

Unemployment went to 2,893,000, a rise of 152,000 from October.

But the climb was only about half as great as is normal in the season of dwindling activity in farming, building, and food packing.

Employment declined 410,000 because more than one million farm workers dropped out, but factory jobs reached the highest total since March and over-all nonfarm employment hit a 1954 high.

Back-to-work calls in the auto, steel, and other industries helped to hold total employment at 61,731,000. This was nearly half a million below the November 1953 total.

Doctor Says Sheppard's Neck Chipped

CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard's broken neck was described Wednesday by a friendly witness as a possible chip fracture—"a little thing." It never could be pinned down after the first X-ray.

The testimony came from Dr. Gervase Flick, X-ray analyst at Sheppard's osteopathic hospital. He was a defense witness at Sheppard's trial for the July 4 murder of his pregnant wife, Marilyn.

Wore Neck Brace

For six to eight weeks after the slaying, the 30-year-old osteopath wore a neck brace and his brother said the neck was broken by an unknown stranger who killed Marilyn. The state has been trying to prove the injury trivial, the brace unnecessary.

Flick testified he was called in to examine the first X-ray prints the morning of July 4.

Chip Fracture

"I saw a shadow that is consistent with separation of the lower back tip of the second vertebrae of the neck which would be a chip," Flick recalled. "It's a little thing which we characterize as a chip fracture."

The analyst conceded it was so vague that it took him 48 hours to assure himself it wasn't just a flaw on the X-ray print.

Other X-Rays Taken

Flick testified that two other sets of X-rays were made without again detecting the chip fracture. The third set was shot with Sheppard's neck brace off. Shown the third print, Flick was asked by Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Parrino:

"In the last picture taken do you see any fracture?"

"No, I don't," the witness replied.

Thief Decides Car Not Worth Taking

A car thief evidently decided Tuesday night that a 1929 car wasn't worth the risk and effort.

James Mead, Iowa City, R.R. 3, reported to police late Tuesday that his 1929 model car was gone from its parking place in the 800 block of Bowers street. The car, Mead said, had a run-down battery and was almost out of gas.

Wednesday morning, the car was found resting in front of Longfellow school—three blocks from the original parking place.

LIGHTS FAIL, CAR LOST

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP)—Lights on Silas Arnold's car failed. He awakened a farmer who took him into town in the farmer's car. But Arnold forgot to get the farmer's name and he couldn't remember just where it was his car had been left behind.

Says People Want Policy Of Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower shunned a personal word battle with Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin Wednesday, while declaring the American people want a government run by "progressive moderates."

"And that is exactly what I am working for," the president added.

Eisenhower, with his temper apparently well contained, told his news conference crisply that he would not reply to McCarthy's attack on him Tuesday.

The senator had accused him of displaying a "shrinking show of weakness" toward communism.

No 'Personal Quarrels'

The president said he stands for positive things and does not indulge in personal vituperation or quarrels of any kind. He did not mention McCarthy's name once during the conference.

When a reporter spoke of the possibility of the "extreme right wing" of the Republican party following McCarthy into a new party in 1956, Eisenhower said if people want to split off because of secondary or lesser considerations that will have to be their business.

McCarthy said Tuesday he has no interest in a third party "at this time."

"From the beginning I have tried to stand for something that is positive and progressive," the president declared.

Cites Obligations

"I believe that the federal government has a continuous, definite obligation to study the needs of 163 million people, our standing abroad, our security from attack, and the arrangement of the connections between government and our economy, our industries and our individuals.

"Now that is the kind of program that I stand for," Eisenhower continued, "and if there are enough people waiting to go along with it, then we have no fear."

"If people want to split off because of some other secondary or lesser consideration, that will have to be their business."

Want 'Progressive Moderates'

"But I do know that so far as I can determine, the great mass of the people of the United States want what I would call a group of progressive moderates handling their business."

"And that is exactly what I am working for."

The White House authorized direct quotation of these comments.

Joins In Laughter

Eisenhower smiled frequently and joined heartily in a round of laughter after a reporter, remarking that McCarthy had said he was sorry he had asked the people to vote for Eisenhower in 1952, asked whether the president exchanged the sentiment.

The president said obviously the reporter didn't expect an answer.

A reporter said it was Eisenhower's congratulations to Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), which apparently set off "this McCarthy controversy."

Watkins was chairman of a special senate committee which recommended the Wisconsin senator be censured.

The reporter asked the president what his congratulations signified.

Eisenhower explained that Watkins was at the White House by chance shortly after his appointment as committee chairman, and that at that time he told Watkins he thought he had been given one of the toughest jobs that ever faced a United States senator, but that he knew Watkins would handle it with dignity and a sense of justice.

When Watkins came into his office last Saturday, Eisenhower went on, he simply congratulated him and told him he had certainly lived up to everything that the president expected of him.

One SUI Student Chosen To Compete For Rhodes Award

Rex Jamison, M1, Story City, was chosen Wednesday as one of two students to represent Iowa in competition for Rhodes scholarships to Oxford, University in England.

James Price, 21, senior English major at Luther college in Decorah, is the other Iowa representative.

The two will compete with two representatives from each of five other states in Des Moines Saturday for four scholarships. Jamison, 21, has been a member of Student Council, Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Eta Sigma, the student advisory committee, Union Board and several other student organizations.

Russell D. Cole, president of Cornell college, is chairman of the Iowa selection committee. Serving with him are SUI president Virgil M. Hancher; R. B. Patrick, Des Moines insurance man; D. T. Nelson, president of Luther college; B. C. Carolson, instructor at Iowa State college. Jamison applied for studying physiology. The scholarship is for two years and would start Sept., 1955.

Schools and the Legislature

Underneath the surface there appears to be a controversy between state schools and the legislature, but from recent news accounts, it is difficult to observe.

Gov. Leo Elthon has stated that a feeling of "distrust and disdain" exists on the part of the state schools and the legislature. On the other hand, SUI President Virgil M. Hancher has expressed "surprise and concern" at this remark.

But the urgency with which a meeting has been called, suggests that there are definitely some important matters to discuss.

It is unusual that an acting governor with only 53 days in office would take it upon himself to call a meeting unless matters warranted it.

Basically, the question is whether the legislature through its "pre-audit" law passed in 1951 should have the final approval on the payment of bills.

The "pre-audit" law requires the approval by a pre-auditor of all bills of the state educational institutions.

Besides the "pre-auditing" conducted by the state comptroller's office through its "pre-auditor," there is also a continuing audit of the schools by the state auditor's office as well as by SUI accountants.

It seems to indicate a lack of faith in the state institutions by the legislature to have them submit to a final authority who can say whether the state will pay the bill. Any state official can check these records if there would be any reason for question.

As an example, the state comptroller's office can say "no" to the payment of a bill which could possibly prohibit the engineering college from continuing its existence. There is a potentially dangerous situation involved when this is allowed to be carried out.

Nothing that has occurred recently appears to show that the state comptroller's office has gone this far. Neither does it appear that personality strife is at the bottom of the issue. It is a matter of principle with which the schools have been concerned.

Hancher said Tuesday that the basic issue is whether major decisions affecting the university should be handled by the state board of education as it has been for the past 40 years or whether other officials are to assume the job.

State comptroller Glenn Sarsfield says the question is whether the educational institutions are to be a part of the state government or a "super-arm." He says there is no new principle involved in having some agency authorized to examine a claim before it is paid.

An over-protective state is no bargain if state schools are not allowed the freedom to carry on their work. A meeting between legislators and the schools should bring this question out into the open and Gov. Elthon is to be commended for its initiation.

Firemen Answer a Call

Iowa City's firemen, all 20 of them, answered a call last week and did a commendable job of discharging their "duty."

In six days the firemen collected $3,500 for the Muscular Dystrophy campaign. Each day of the drive 10 men went door-to-door seeking donations. Only 10 could canvass at one time because the other 10 were on duty.

Out of the voluntary efforts of the fire department came a total donation two and one-half times larger than that collected by Davenport's firemen in a city four times the size of Iowa City.

The only compensation the volunteers received for the solicitations was the satisfaction of helping a worthy cause. Congratulations are in order for the firemen, who, with a minimum of publicity carried out a fund drive which was made more difficult by the fact that it was on the heels of the Community Chest drive.

Trott's Policy Mitigated

Iowa City Police Judge Emil C. Trott has apparently softened his policy of automatically recommending suspension of driver's licenses upon conviction of a moving traffic violation.

During the first two months of the "get tough" policy every driver arrested and convicted on charges such as improper passing, speeding, reckless driving and running stop signs was not only fined but Trott recommended to the public safety department that the violator's license be suspended for not less than 15 days.

This was a blanket rule made by Trott and like all such edicts came to have its complications.

One man in the county who was given a 15-day suspension ceased to drive immediately. Unknown to him there was a delay of about 15 days before the public safety commission received Trott's recommendation and took action on the matter.

As it turned out, the man had gone for 15 days without driving when he received a notice from the department that his license was about to be suspended for 15 days. Thus he was deprived of the use of his automobile for a month.

In the last ten moving traffic violations to come before Trott, seven of them were handled in a different manner, but the same result was effected.

The same result is now obtained by imposing the maximum fine for each violation but to suspend all but $12.50 if the violator will voluntarily surrender his driver's license for 15 days. The maximum fines in these cases was about $100.

Trott still suspends licenses in cases serious enough to warrant it, but the blanket rule evidently has been abandoned.

Interpreting the News

By J.M. ROBERTS JR.
Foreign Staff
Associated Press

Almost simultaneously with Sen. Joseph McCarthy's attack on President Eisenhower you could see his senate associates pulling their robes tightly about them and moving away from him.

Men like Sen. William F. Knowland, who only a few days ago were trying to protect McCarthy from the censure brought by a senate committee, refused to go along with him in his latest outburst.

He had made an open break with the administration and Chairman Leonard Hall's comment that he had made a serious mistake extended that break to the Republican National Committee. McCarthy was breasting a tide which he had created himself, and which few of even the most extreme right-wingers of the party cared to face.

"Let's You and Him Fight" As for the Democrats, they were merely acting as co-holders, obviously pleased with their position of "Let's you and him fight."

You could search McCarthy's record without finding any sure clue to just what he expected to gain, if anything. Political observers looked for a long-range motive but achieved only speculation.

There were some suggestions that he had launched an active campaign to seize the leadership of the Old Guard and through it the 1956 presidential nomination. There was even talk that he was trying to launch a new Bull Moose movement.

The history of such movements carries too much weight against such aspirations.

McCarthy Felt He Was Abused Considering all the circumstances, many observers were inclined to believe that the senator, ranking under the senate's censure, couldn't stand still when the President praised Sen. Watkins' conduct of the prosecution. It was a type of counterattack which the senator has often used, and may not necessarily have been inspired by anything except that he felt himself abused.

The President still declines to wrestle personally with McCarthy. But word of his antipathy for the senator has been spread throughout Washington, by his closest associates.

A David Without A Sling McCarthy, who previously has criticized the administration but not the President, has now laid his feelings hotly on the line. He has succeeded, in one way, in establishing himself as a figure who openly challenges the President of the United States. You could find a lot of people this week to argue that in his battle with Eisenhower he would turn out a David without a sling.

'Bridge Intersections Need Changing'

Following are excerpts from a booklet, "A Street Traffic Plan for Iowa City," prepared by Associated Consultants, traffic and transportation engineers, and presented to the Iowa City council Monday night.

Modernizing Bridges

The difficulties at the Burlington street bridge are produced by the narrow (30 foot) roadway and the fact that the peculiar shape of the intersection requires the majority of vehicles passing through it to turn.

3 Intersections Studied

Grand, Burlington and Melrose avenue all intersect Riverside drive within a distance of approximately 200 feet. Various schemes were studied for modernizing this intersection while retaining all the existing streets. No design could be found which produced the necessary traffic capacity and still retained all the streets in their present form.

In simplifying this intersection the alternative then was faced of closing either Melrose or Grand avenue.

By retaining Grand avenue and closing Melrose a four-phase signal movement became necessary, to the detriment of traffic operation.

Would Close Grand Ave.

By retaining Melrose in spite of its steep grade and closing Grand, the integrity of the campus measure such as a chain barricade with a cul-de-sac west of Riverside drive to allow vehicles to make a U-turn when the barrier is closed.

On days of special athletic events, the temporary barrier could be removed, the traffic on Riverside drive then being controlled by police officers. At other times access to the west campus would be via Newton Road and Melrose avenue.

IOWA AVENUE AND MADISON STREET

The needed capacity can be developed at this intersection through channelization and the widening of the approaches to the intersection. The design proposed for this intersection calls for closing the east-west crosswalks at the north side of the intersection, concentrating pedestrian movement on the south crosswalk.

Bridge To Be Widened

Along the south side of the bridge immediately east of Riverside drive, an additional structure is proposed to permit an adequate turning radius and a two-lane exit from the intersection.

If this plan is not possible, then the entire bridge structure would require widening to create a basic 48-foot roadway plus sidewalks.

Chain Barricade On Grand

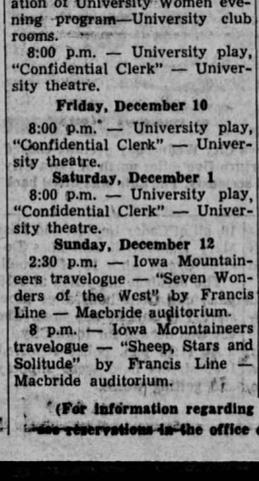

It is anticipated that the closing of Grand avenue would be accomplished by a temporary measure such as a chain barricade with a cul-de-sac west of Riverside drive to allow vehicles to make a U-turn when the barrier is closed.

Intersection of U.S. 6 AND RIVERSIDE DRIVE

The problem at this intersection arises chiefly from the fact that traffic southbound on Riverside drive intersects traffic from the west on U.S. 6 at such an acute angle that proper visibility is impossible.

RECOMMENDED INTERIM WIDENING AND CHANNELIZATION FOR BURLINGTON STREET BRIDGE END

HERE IS THE PROPOSED revamping of the Burlington street, Melrose avenue, Grand avenue and Riverside drive intersection. Note the islands, stoplights and the chain across Grand avenue.

Health Division Commends Nurses

The Iowa City Visiting Nurse association has been commended for providing nursing services normally handled by office agencies, in addition to those designed for the association, by Miss Julia Brandeberry, assistant director of the department of public health nursing.

Miss Brandeberry also pointed out the need for more nurses in proportion to the population of the community.

The association board and Miss Brandeberry stressed the importance of maternal and child welfare assistance by the nurses in an evaluation of the Iowa City Visiting Nurses association at the December board meeting Tuesday evening.

The increase in the case load of older patients and the need for better community education on adequate public health service was also discussed.

Slate Discusses Budget Requests

DES MOINES (AP) — Representatives of the State Board of Education and members of the Iowa Legislative Interim committee discussed the board's budget requests and problems in a lengthy meeting Wednesday.

Dave Dancer, board secretary, said it was a general discussion session, with no particular emphasis on any of the board's requests. The board announced its financial askings for the several institutions under its jurisdiction several weeks ago.

Dancer commented that members of the committee have visited all of the institutions recently and are familiar with the requests. He described Wednesday's session as "a general talk on our problems."

DZ Houseboys Served by Girls At 'Reverse' Meal

The Delta Zetas gave a reverse dinner and the four houseboys, Larry Honeywell, A2, Clinton; Ed Brodersen, A1, Clinton; Sven Jorgensen, E1, Round Lake, Ill. and Jerry Daley, C3, Clinton, ate dinner in the dining room with the sorority while four girls served.

At the start of the dinner each houseboy walked up behind a girl, took off his white jacket and presented it to her for the evening. The four "chosen" girls then retired to the kitchen to serve the meal and wash and dry the dishes.

The houseboys enjoyed a meal without having to answer bells for more water, rolls and second helpings. Then they stood around and supervised while the girls took over the nightly dish washing routine.

Check Poor Posture By Easy 'String' Test

It's so easy to slump into bad posture habits that it's always wise to check those habits now and then. Besides ruining your appearance, poor posture is also a health hazard.

A simple way to check standing posture is used in the SUI women's physical education department. Any woman can adapt the same test for her own use, according to Prof. Margaret G. Fox of the women's physical education department.

Posture Test

All you do in your posture test is to suspend a weighted line or cord from some point above your head, as in a doorway, and stand sideways to the cord so that it drops alongside your body. Place your feet so that the cord hangs in a line parallel to the front surface of your legs at the ankles.

To suspend the cord, you might tie a picture hook to one end and catch it over the top of a door casing, letting the cord hang down in the opening. Or fasten the top end of the cord to the top of the door with adhesive tape. Then tie at the bottom end of the cord at a point just free of the floor, an object heavy enough to pull the cord taut and straight.

Check Line

Since you cannot see for yourself where the line falls when you stand sideways to it, you will need to have someone else check for you where the cord passes alongside your body in relation to four other points besides the front of your ankles.

If your posture is correct, the line should pass just behind your kneecap, checking from the side, then through the hip joint, midway through the tip of the shoulder and through the ear lobe.

Gravital Line

This line is called the "gravital line," Miss Fox explains, and has been used widely by physical education authorities, but with some disagreement as to where the line should pass.

A research project directed last year by Miss Fox revealed that on the average this line lies slightly more than one-fourth of an inch in front of the shin bone at the ankle.

The study is reported in a current issue of the Research Quarterly of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, in an article by Miss Fox and Olive G. Young, formerly a research assistant at SUI.

Weight Distribution

Your gravital line is simply the point in your body around which your weight is evenly distributed, Miss Fox explains. The line runs through the center of gravity of your body, downward to the feet. Its position may vary slightly from person to person, depending on body build and length of foot, but the variation is not more than two or three centimeters, she says.

If on checking your posture against your gravital line you find that your kneecaps are behind the line, you probably have a faulty pelvic position which can cause backache as a result of too deep a hollow in the lower back.

Head Placement

If your head is too far back, you may be sway-backed and suffer backaches, too, since your body is badly off balance. Miss Fox says more entering freshman women at SUI seem to have this posture fault now than in previous years, and thinks the strutting walk adopted by high school drum majorettes may be one cause.

Shoulders

If the center of your shoulder is too far forward in relation to the line, you are round-shouldered and probably have a rounded upper back. This is a position brought on first by fatigue and is normal when you're tired — but if it becomes permanent, it will make you look older as well as have harmful effects on your skeleton. So keep your back erect if you don't want the typical "posture of the aging person."

No matter what your age, you will find it profitable both for appearance and health to bring your posture literally "into line."

Miss Vasey Engaged

Miss Mary Vasey

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Vasey announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Mary, to Mr. William Grubbe, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Ewers, Denver.

Miss Vasey is a junior in the SUI college of liberal arts. She is majoring in speech pathology, and is affiliated with Delta Delta Delta social sorority.

Mr. Grubbe, a senior at Denver university, is an announcer for KFEL-TV in Denver. The couple plans to be married Feb. 12 at the Trinity Episcopal church in Iowa City. They will live in Denver, where Miss Vasey will continue her education at Denver university.

Steak or Beans? Depends on Your Grades

Steak and beans were on the menu at the Pi Kappa Alpha scholarship dinner Tuesday night.

Members who did not receive delinquency were rewarded with steak dinners, while those who received delinquency watched enviously, eating beans.

Leslie Willig, assistant counselor to men, and his wife were guests at the dinner at the chapter house.

The PiKAs started the "steak and beans" dinner last year.

COACH FRANK (BUCKY) O'CONNOR gives some pointers to his two high scoring men in preparation for the game with Missouri Saturday. Center Bill Logan, left and forward Carl Cain, right, share the scoring lead with 41 points each and a 13.6 average for three games. Each man has hit for 12 field goals and 17 free throws.

A perfect record of 3-0 will be risked by Iowa's basketball team Saturday when it meets the University of Missouri, conqueror of Indiana, at Columbia.

The Tigers pulled a big surprise by beating Indiana at Bloomington Monday, 64-61, after losing their opener to Illinois, 77-49. Meanwhile, Iowa was beating Nebraska at home for its third straight win.

Coach Bucky O'Connor presently is setting a defense for the balanced scoring of Missouri, whose Bob Reiter, 6-9, averaged 19.6 last season, and Norman Stewart averaged 12.2.

Against Indiana, Stewart hit 16, Ned Park, 15, Reiter, 13, and Lionel Smith, 11. Determined rebounding gave the edge to Missouri. The Hawkeyes expect a severe test at Columbia, something which is needed before the eastern trip next week and the conference games which open in early January.

Team Averages 84.3

Current statistics show that the team has averaged 84.3 per game to opponents' 67. The shot percentage is .366 to foes' .337 and the team has averaged 675 on free throws and out-rebounded opponents, 159 to 106.

Carl Cain, forward; and Bill Logan, center, share the scoring leadership, with 41 points each for a 13.6 average. Cain has hit 353 on his shots to Logan's 324. Logan has a remarkable free throw percentage of .895 on 17 good ones in 19 attempts.

Third high scorer is guard Bill Seaberg with 33. His shot percentage is .500 on 12 of 24. Others include Bill Schoof, forward, 29 and 407; Deacon Davis, forward, 26 and 529; Roy Johnson,

Jones Named AP 2d Team All-American

Iowa guard Calvin Jones was named Wednesday to the Associated Press second team All-American line.

In addition, end Frank Gilliam and halfback Eddie Vincent were given honorable mention by the Associated Press All-American boards on individual recommendations submitted by the more than 500 Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations.

Named as first team selections were: ends, Beagle, Navy and McDonald, Miami, Fla.; tackles Ellena, UCLA and Boggan, Mississippi; guards Brooks, Arkansas and Ceshnauskas, Army; center, Burris, Oklahoma; Backs, Guglielmi, Notre Dame, Cassidy, Ohio State, Moegle, Rice and Ameche, Wisconsin.

The Associated Press called the backfield the best balanced unit of recent years.

Big Ten TV Committee Maps Area Grid Plan

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Ten television committee, mapping what is expected to be a definite stand for regional football TV next year, extended its meeting through late Wednesday night without an announcement.

It is studying plans, as they have progressed to date, of the NCAA's 1955 television outlook and forming strategy in carrying on opposition to the NCAA if that group continues a restricted national policy that has been in effect four years.

Fritz Crisler, Michigan athletic director, reported on NCAA television matters Wednesday. He is a member both of the Big Ten seven-man TV committee, headed by Ted Payseur of Northwestern, and the TV committee of the NCAA.

Brechler Sits In

Crisler will be replaced on the Big Ten group after Wednesday night by Paul Brechler, Iowa athletic director.

While the regional television question was thought to be gradually reaching a climax, conference football coaches endorsed a new plan of substitution presented by Ray Eliot of Illinois. Eliot is chairman of an American Football Coaches' association committee studying the substitution rule.

Eliot's proposal would provide for any player who started a quarter to re-enter the game in that same quarter. The proposal which gained unanimous support of other Big Ten coaches, will be forwarded by Eliot to the association's meeting in New York during the NCAA convention Jan. 5-7.

Not Platoon System

"The new substitution plan emphatically does not lend itself to the old two platoon system," Eliot said. "Its main attribute will be to permit an injured or exhausted player to leave the game for sideline examination and then return if he is in condition."

"The proposal cannot be construed to mean a return to two platooning. A survey shows that the ball changes hands an average of about six times per quarter. A player can re-enter the game only once per quarter un-

Study Case TV

Athletic publicity directors studied halftime programming for the nationally televised Big Ten basketball series to be carried this season (CBS). The series will open Saturday afternoon with Indiana at Notre Dame. The following Saturday, Dec. 18, Tulane at Northwestern will be telecast.

Starting in January, nine conference games will be beamed coast-to-coast Saturday afternoons, but this schedule is yet to be worked out.

Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson met with football coaches to open the four-day winter meetings of the Big Ten and discussed methods designed to improve football officiating.

Wilson said instructional films of close decisions — such as roughing the kicker and pass interference — will be offered for study at future meetings.

Baseball Meetings End; Many Trades Pending

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1954 major-minor baseball conventions are only memories now but echoes linger on.

There isn't a baseball executive left in New York now that trader Frank Lane finally packed his bag and entrained for Chicago but that doesn't mean the trading season is done.

In fact the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday traded third baseman Ray Jablonski, pitcher Gerry Staley and an unnamed minor leaguer to Cincinnati for relief pitcher Frank Smith.

Other player deals are hanging fire and some may be completed before the new year rolls around.

Trades Considered

Following is a list of trades which currently can be considered in the pending stage.

1. Kansas City's Bob Finegan, third baseman, to Chicago for pitcher Sandy Consuegra and veteran third baseman George Kell.

2. Brooklyn's second baseman Junior Gilliam and pitcher Bob Milliken to Cincinnati for outfielder Wally Post, pitcher Fred Baczewski and catcher Hobie Landrith.

3. New York Yankees' third baseman Gil McDougald to Boston for veteran lefthander Mel Parnell.

Brooklyn Offers Cox

4. The sale of Brooklyn third baseman Billy Cox to either Cleveland or Baltimore.

5. The sale of Chicago Cub outfielder Frank Baumholtz to either the Philadelphia Phillies or New York Giants for a little over the waiver price of $10,000.

The Cubs' efforts to sell Baumholtz to the White Sox collapsed Wednesday when he was withdrawn from the waiver list because two National league clubs — the Phillies and Giants — claimed him for the $10,000 price.

Cassady Interception Named Years Most Spectacular Play

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oct. 23, 1954 in football-mad Columbus, Ohio. There were 82,000 people in the stadium to see the crucial game between Ohio State and Wisconsin for the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl bid. At halftime Wisconsin led 7-3.

That was the setting for the play that the nation's sports writers picked as the most spectacular incident of the 1954 football season. Other games may have been more thrilling than Ohio State-Wisconsin — the breathtaking Army-Navy struggle, for example. There were plays as sudden and exciting, but none with quite the same combination of thrills and importance.

Second Touchdown

Wisconsin was trying for a second touchdown when Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy snatched a Badger pass out of the air and sped 83 yards down the sidelines for a touchdown. That was the key play not only of one game, but of an entire season.

Within nine minutes Ohio had scored three more touchdowns and won the game handily, 31-14. From there on the Buckeyes were bowl bound and virtually safe. Wisconsin lost its next game to Iowa and was out of the running.

Fourteen of the football writers and broadcasters participating in the Associated Press post-season football poll cast their votes for Cassidy's run as the season's most spectacular incident. Only two other events drew more than three votes.

Purdue-Notre Dame

Purdue's 27-14 upset of Notre Dame was runnerup with nine votes, and UCLA's 72-0 slaughter of Stanford was picked by four experts.

The Minnesota-Iowa game furnished two. There was Bob McNamara's magnificent 89-yard punt return, when he escaped three Iowa tacklers, for a Minnesota touchdown.

Then Iowa's Earl Smith sprinted 81 yards across the goal line, only to have what might have been the winning touchdown called back for a clipping penalty. That play indirectly led to Minnesota's victory, for the penalty put the Hawkeyes back against their own goal and Minnesota picked up the winning points on a safety.

Three experts picked Smith's run as their top thriller and two claimed the penalty wasn't deserved.

O'Connor said that Logan, injured in the first half against Nebraska, has a very sore back and elbow but the effects of the hard fall should wear off later this week.

Police Officers Unsympathetic with Bad Drivers

The "I didn't mean to do it, officer" driver could find little sympathy Wednesday at the SUI Police Traffic school where 80 highway patrolmen and city policemen from 26 Iowa communities are attending a five-day traffic course in the Iowa Continuation Center.

While only about 15 per cent of the driver population seems to be responsible for accidents, Loveless stressed it is a mistake to assume that it is the same people who err each year. Persons who have been driving safely for many years may suddenly become prone to accidents because of failing eyesight, the onset of emotional disturbances or over-confidence, he said.

Postoffice Enacts Christmas Hours

Special Saturday and Sunday hours will be maintained by the Iowa City post office during the next two weeks.

General delivery and stamp windows will be open this Saturday and Dec. 18 during the afternoon until 6 p.m. On this Sunday and Dec. 19 the windows will be opened between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Normally the windows close at noon Saturday and are closed all day Sunday.

Packages which aren't delivered to residences because occupants aren't at home also may be picked up at the post office during the special hours.

W. J. Barrow, postmaster, reminded local residents to mail Christmas gifts and cards as early as possible to assure delivery before the holiday.

SUI To Sponsor Citizens Discussion

SUI has been asked to sponsor a citizens consultation on the topics "The National Interest and Foreign Languages" and "The American Citizens Stake in the Progress of the Less Developed Areas of the World" at the request of the United States Commission for UNESCO.

The conference is planned for Jan. 21 and 22.

Prof. Vernon Van Dyke, of the political science department and chairman of the citizen consultation committee at SUI said two groups would be invited to participate in the discussion.

Members include educators, businessmen, labor, newspapermen and other interested persons.

Main speaker at the conference will be Dr. George C. Stoddard, former Dean of SUI graduate college. He has been connected with UNESCO and is the former president of the University of Illinois.

THE EVASIVE GLOG

is happy go lucky—as long as luck is with him

The GLOG is an advertiser who refuses to be moored to the crass world of facts and figures. He may spend a million on advertising. But if you ask him why, he talks about golf. If you ask him what he expects to get out of his ads, he raves about some oomph-girl who has caught the public eye. You can't pin him down — because he honestly doesn't expect much from advertising. Fortunately the GLOG is a rare creature. Wise advertisers expect plenty from their advertising dollar. And they prefer to keep luck out of the picture. So they don't try to cover the nation with a flimsy catch-all schedule. They pick their best markets — then really cover them. Naturally they use newspapers. Because newspapers are basic — the foundation of any intelligent ad schedule. Because only the newspaper reaches just about everybody in every community. Because only the newspaper carries the sense of urgency. "If it's advertised today, I'd better go down and get it quick." No wonder advertisers invested twice as much money in newspapers last year as in any other medium! All business is local... and so are all newspapers!

Big Ten Selects Info Headquarters

Michigan State college was selected by the Big Ten student council presidents as headquarters for the gathering and dissemination of information concerning conference schools at their meeting at Northwestern university, Tom Choules, I3, Idaho Falls, Idaho, SUI student council president, reported Wednesday.

Choules said the new system will facilitate communication between conference schools by giving member schools a better opportunity to exchange ideas and information on problems relating to athletics, student government and student-faculty relations.

Under the new plan, each school's student governing body will send a report of its activities to the information center. There a staff supplied by MSC will disseminate the information that is of interest to other conference schools.

Previously, contact between governing bodies of Big Ten universities was carried on individually. The new system, Choules said, will be more efficient because the center at MSC will eliminate routine material from the reports and make available information which is of interest to other schools.

At the three day meeting, the student council presidents chose Michigan State as the site for the 1955 Big Ten queen contest. It will be held February 4.

A proposal by Choules to select the Big Ten queen before January 1 so that the winner could represent the conference at the Rose Bowl was withdrawn. The representatives felt it was too late to act on the proposal for this year, but action is expected to be taken in the future.

Four Ohio State co-eds and the 1954 queen will represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's day.

A policy initiated last year at SUI to welcome visiting members of student governing bodies at football and basketball games as guests was adopted. The plan calls for free tickets and lodging for visiting student council members. Details of the plan will be worked out by the individual schools.

Friday evening the delegates attended the double-header basketball game in which Iowa defeated Loyola of Chicago. They also attended a banquet at Northwestern university Saturday night.

Iowa Woman Lauds Lions Eye Bank Plan

A dark-haired young woman from Kalona sharply focused the attention of the Iowa City Lions club on the importance of their statewide project at their regular meeting Wednesday.

Miss Ruth Fisher, rescued from extremely distorted vision and eventual blindness by eye surgery, added her personal experience in support of the Lions project to establish an "eye bank" at University hospital.

Dr. Robert J. Davis, of the ophthalmology department of the hospital, briefly discussed the corneal transplants which restored Miss Fisher's vision, then answered more than 20 questions from club members.

Dr. Davis particularly stressed, through Miss Fisher's experience, that quick use of donated eyes for repair of defective eyes would be the greatest service of the projected eye service being pushed by the Lions.

Chapman Explains 'Northern Lights'

(SUI Photo by George Black.) THE LATEST SCIENTIFIC VIEWS on the origins of the aurora borealis are explained by Sydney Chapman, British geophysicist and visiting professor in the physics department this semester. According to his theory, the auroras are created by hydrogen particles escaping from an electric ring about 10,000 miles distant from the earth. This theory will be tested further in the International Geophysical year of 1957-58, of which Chapman is president.

'Northern Lights' Phenomena Told

Residents of Iowa City can hope to see "northern lights" from five to ten times a year, geophysicist Sydney Chapman said Wednesday night.

Chapman, a visiting professor at SUI, spoke about the aurora borealis, commonly called the "northern lights" at a meeting of Sigma Xi, national honorary scientific fraternity. The meeting was held in the Physics building.

Chapman summed up present knowledge about the auroras and explained his belief that the auroras speed their way toward the earth from a stream of hydrogen protons and electrons whose inner surface is about 10,000 miles from the earth.

The distance between the earth and the inner surface of this stream of hydrogen protons and electrons is substantially narrowed when great sun-spot storms disturb the sun, Chapman explained.

According to Chapman's theory, a ring of hydrogen nuclei and electrons is formed by the action of the earth's magnetic field within the hollow of these streams which burst forth from the sun. In 1957-58, a great sun spot will appear on the sun, and during its two week appearance many scientific cameras will follow its action, Chapman said.

Chapman illustrated with slides and pictures how the location of the aurora is determined by photographic methods. A map of the "aurora area," showing the geographic locations in which the aurora can most easily be seen, was shown. Chapman said that the frequency that the aurora is seen in this area varies from every clear night to once every ten years.

Visual, photographic and radar observations are among the many different ways of studying the aurora, said Chapman. The use of rockets has enabled scientists to learn more about the aurora and will contribute even more information in years to come.

Chapman, whose home is in Great Britain, has recently served with the Geophysical institute of Alaska. He was recently named international president for the preparation and organization of the International Geophysical Year, a cooperative effort of the world's scientists.

Grinstead Named J.C. President

Loren Grinstead, local loan company manager, Tuesday night was elected president of the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Named for a one-year term, he succeeds Wayne Goltz as JayCee president. Other officer-selected, also for one-year terms, included Jack W. Canney and Glenn Roberts, vice presidents, and Richard Schultz, treasurer.

Named to a one-year term on the board of directors was Roy Ferguson. Elected to two-year terms on the board were Charles Gay, Dr. William Kottemann and William Mass.

Charles Barker, a past president of the organization, presided at the election. New officers will be installed in January.

Beer Count Brings Fines To 3 Minors

Three SUI students Wednesday were fined $27.50 each on a charge of securing beer as minors at the Hawk's Nest tavern.

The students are Wayne Prichard, A1, Des Moines, 17; William Filter, A1, Dubuque, 18, and Thomas Wagner, A3, Gratiot, 20. The fines were made by Judge Emil Trott in Iowa City police court.

The boys were charged with securing beer Dec. 1 at the tavern. They were arrested by an Iowa City patrolman who was making a routine check.

They told Judge Trott that a 23-year-old student who was celebrating his birthday purchased the beer for them. No charges have been filed against the Hawk's Nest or the student.

William Tucker, assistant county attorney, said Wednesday his office was making an investigation of the tavern's position in the incident.

'Limping' Gunman Robs Loan Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Whenever a limping man dressed in army fatigue clothes enters his office, Edward Forberg reaches for the cash box.

Wednesday the limping man got $200 from Forberg in a hold-up of the Household Finance Corp. on the South side. Forberg, 27, is manager of the office.

It was the limping man's third visit. The man limps, Forberg told police, because he carries a .22 caliber rifle in a leg of his trousers, and has done so the last three times he has robbed the office. So far, he has netted $666.

Forberg said the robber is always dressed the same — in army fatigue cap and pants, red and black jacket and loafer shoes. His face is always covered with a blue muffler.

TAX OFFICE CLOSED

The Iowa City office of the internal revenue bureau in the post office building will be closed Friday. Agents are attending a tax school for officials of the bureau.

Geological Survey Asks Large Budget Increase

The Iowa geological survey asked Gov. Elect Leo A. Hoegh for an increase of $61,240 annually in its budget for the next biennium at a budget hearing in Des Moines Tuesday.

It asked $163,240 as compared with its current $102,000 allocation.

State Geologist H. Garland Hershey said his agency must pay higher salaries to hold its staff and that federal aid for the survey's work is expected to be reduced, while demand for information on water resources is increasing.
