

Today Is 'Safe Driving' Day—Avoid Accidents Like These!

SUI STUDENTS AND IOWA CITY RESIDENTS join with fellow citizens throughout the nation today to see how close they can come to making Safe Driving day one entirely free of traffic accidents. The 24-hour campaign, which began at midnight Tuesday, calls for caution, not only on the part of the motorist behind the wheel but the pedestrian on the street as well. Since President Eisenhower proclaimed Dec. 15 as S-D day, communities throughout the state have been alerted by newspapers, radio and TV stations, safety officials and various local organizations. The above pictures are displayed to give a pictorial warning to motorists to drive safely on S-D day and every day.

Iowa Has Caught Up—

Several months ago an Iowa City afternoon newspaper displayed a headline to the effect that "Iowa Traffic Death Toll Lags Behind Last Year."

The New Yorker magazine was attracted by this headline and used it as a joke, adding, "Come on Iowa, catch up!" Iowa has done just that.

The year 1951 has been the worst for traffic deaths with 600. This record has almost been eclipsed in 1954 with 588 deaths and some hazardous driving days yet to come — namely the Christmas holidays.

Alarm over this slaughter is spreading so rapidly that it could reach the Iowa legislature. If it does, and with sufficient strength, there may be some laws passed which most persons feel will cut the death toll.

But the lawmakers of Iowa don't rush in and pass laws without first understanding the situation. Since 1949 this group has been studying a voluminous report compiled by six legislators in 1948.

Already they have lifted from the report four proposals which may come in for consideration in the house and senate. That is unless something important comes up — like colored margarine.

The proposals are:

1. Increase the highway patrol by about 50 to 75 men. It is now 225 and was 160 in 1948.
2. Impose a night time speed limit of 50 miles per hour.
3. Provide for annual auto inspections to be conducted by the department of safety.
4. Authorize the highway commission to place speed limit signs on any rural road where traffic surveys indicate the need for speed limits. The placing of the signs would presumably be at especially hazardous locations.

The legislature hasn't been entirely lax on all these measures. The highway patrol was increased, but now there is agitation and a need for further bolstering.

Iowa lost one of its most popular and public-minded citizens not long ago in the death of William S. Beardley, a victim of a traffic accident. This tragic death may provide the inspiration for Iowa to catch up. Not in traffic fatalities, but in safety legislation.

Man's physical reactions have not increased commensurate with automobile horsepower and speed. This gap must be closed before sane driving will become a reality. And the only way it can be done is through wise lawmaking backed by strict enforcement.

At Ease, Veterans—

At ease, Veterans. You are still entitled to all the educational benefits which are included in public law 550, for nine years, notwithstanding the opening paragraph in yesterday's editorial.

One Korean veteran phoned The Daily Iowan Tuesday and wanted to know if he was losing his educational benefits included in the G.I. Bill of Rights.

We attempted to point out in the editorial that if the G.I. Bill is discontinued by congress or the President, then veterans subsequently discharged after the public law has expired, will not receive educational and other veterans benefits.

So relax, men, while we thumb through a "Guide to Precise Writing."

Interpreting the News

The forthcoming argument in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization over civilian vs. military control of the use of atomic weapons in a European war puts the United States on quite a spot.

Secretary John Foster Dulles undoubtedly knows that the American public will not stand hunched to any war or any alliance where American troops might be used in a "wall of flesh," deprived of the use of their most effective weapons.

And, as General Gruenther has put it, that's just the position his forces might be put in if European governments, fearful of strategic retaliation, voted against the tactical use of atomic weapons in event of an outbreak.

For a year now the NATO military command has gone ahead with a plan of organization based on use of atomic "small" weapons. There are but a few of them in Europe, and they are American-made and American-manned, but there will be more.

The military men are convinced that the first days — the first day and a very few thereafter — will be vital. They don't like the idea of a round-robin discussion between governments of what they shall then do.

The Council originally approved in principle the "new look," also adopted by Britain and the United States for their own forces.

But the British and some other European governments are now saying that use of even tactical atomic weapons falls into the field of strategy where control must be kept in civilian hands.

"Wall of Flesh" Gruenther has warned that the only alternative to the "new look" and the capability of putting it into immediate effect in event of attack, is a "wall of flesh" which would demand greater and greater standing armies.

This has been emphasized in recent days by the Russian threat to intensify the arming of the Soviet bloc if Europe goes through with Western European Union. To deprive the Allied command of atomic weapons, or to make its members unsure they would be permitted to use them, would require an effort to meet Russian manpower. A point where the West is weakest.

Strange Events Mark '54 Crop of Accidents

CHICAGO (AP) — Lady Luck called the shots as she pleased in reeling off 1954's crop of odd accidents.

With her blessing, it was child's play to get washed overboard in the stormy Atlantic or to fall off a high fire escape.

But caught in the wrong mood, she made hash of such things as sitting in a swivel chair or sticking the nose through a fence knothole.

These are the highlights of the National Safety Council's annual roundup of unusual accidents printed in its magazine Public Safety:

Fast Fall

Judy Combs, 4, of Cincinnati, broke the family speed record for getting from the fourth to the second floor. She rolled off a fire escape, fell 20 feet, landed on a network of clotheslines and gently bounced back to the lower fire escape landing—unhurt and unbruised.

Just as lucky were Lars Sele and Audun Jense, crew members on the Norwegian freighter Magnild. They were washed overboard during a storm on the Atlantic only to be scooped back aboard when the vessel dipped deep down into a swell.

But Peter Passantino, 11, of Chicago, still rues the impulse that drove him to stick his nose through a knothole in a fence, just for the heck of it. An inquisitive dog loping by on the other side, sprang up and gave the tempting target a hard nip.

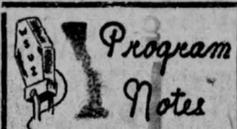

Dangerous Chair

Desk Sgt. Frank Krueger of the Chicago police was convinced the swivel chair is not the safest place for a cop. The rollers slipped during a quick turn-around, dumping him to the floor so hard he had to go to the hospital for cuts and bruises.

Landell became the unwitting victim of the snappy salute. He threw his back out of joint and had to be evacuated to a hospital.

The first rung of the ladder became the Achilles heel of Morgan Wallace, circus daredevil who made 113 parachute jumps without a scratch. He fell 18 inches at his home in Pueblo, Colo., breaking a bone in his foot.

Tumbles Onto Drum

Dr. Otto Erhardt, 200-pound stage director of the New York City Opera company, probably made the noisiest fall of the year. He tumbled into a kettle drum during dress rehearsal frenzy.

Edward Sweeney, of Philadelphia, got four blowouts during a 60-foot auto trip. But his trip was straight down. His car ripped through a guard rail on a bridge over the Schuylkill river, turned a somersault and landed wheels down on a railroad siding 60 feet below.

Missourian Envious of Iowa City

The following letter appeared in a recent issue of the Columbian, University of Missouri student daily:

Editor, The Missourian: I went to Iowa City lately and four times broke the commandment about envy, but it was civic envy. I envied them their river; their beautiful wooded park in the center of the town; their public library; and their community center.

I suppose I can only blame my great grandfather, Gen. Richard Gentry, who selected the site of our town, that we do not have a delightful river running through the center of it, and we may console ourselves for the water sports we lack with the fact that we probably have fewer mosquitos and that we do not have to fish the kids out of the water. The river in Iowa City keynotes the town, but there is no use moaning now over a river we never had.

The oak filled park reminds us that we have no park within the city limits, and the parks we do have are for the benefit of those who have cars and can get out into the country with them. We can not blame our pioneers that we have no park, for there was plenty of ground long after this town was laid out to select any number of parks.

In Iowa City, which is smaller than Columbia, the public library is almost as big as the Kansas City public library, while Columbia, which has all it pays for in the way of a public library, may not offer many of the services offered by the Iowa City library, such as delivery to the sick, books for the blind and a complete circulation library of records. The Columbia public library is so stuffed with books now that its main problem is space. As the centennial of the first public library in Columbia approaches, wouldn't it be appropriate to build a new library that is worthy of the town? Our librarian does all she can do with the limitations, and the only thing remarkable about the Columbia public librarian is that she has stayed as long and put up with them.

But I envied Iowa City its Community building most of all. It is a building about as large as Lee school, and it is in constant use by all ages. I visited it during a dance of the Doll club (the junior high school group) and from the happy hubbub, I judged it to be a great success; there was nothing lacking in this teen town.

I ask again, must Columbia exist entirely for college students? May we never have faculties that other towns our size and smaller have? Must the teen age be always the forgotten group in Columbia? We may have problems that Iowa City does not have, but is there any reason that we may not have a public library of which we can be proud, and a recreation building? Both are a civic problem, to be worked out by the city itself and supported by its citizens.

The Hawks play undefeated Penn in the second Friday game, starting about 8:45 p.m. (Iowa time). Saturday's game with Princeton will open the twin-bill,

Army, UCLA Head Offensive Figures

NEW YORK (AP) — Army and UCLA shared top offensive honors in major college football in 1954, final National Collegiate Athletic Association Service Bureau statistics showed Tuesday.

The Cadets posted one of the best all-around yardage records in history, while UCLA produced an outstanding record in scoring.

Army averaged 448.7 yards a game in total offense and 322 yards a game rushing. It led runnerup Texas Tech by comfortable margins in both departments. The Texans had 422.3 and 316.4.

UCLA's Bruins tallied 367 points in their nine games for an average of 40.8. Arizona placed second with a 38.5 average.

at 7 p.m. (Iowa time). "We expect a very tough pair of games, and besides, we'll be on the road," said Bucky Tuesday. Princeton, which lost the Eastern title to Cornell, 48-46, in a play-off last year, in recent years has featured much ball-control in its attack, along with a running game.

After the brace-of games, the team and O'Connor will continue on to New York for a sight-seeing trip Sunday and Monday. Monday night the Hawks will fly back to Chicago where they will break up to go home for Christmas.

Then Dec. 26 the team comes back to Iowa City to prepare for the last non-conference game, Stanford here, Dec. 30, and the Big Ten opener at Wisconsin, Jan. 3.

Stanford of the Pacific Coast conference has beaten San Jose State and St. Mary's, the latter by 92-71. The Indians will meet Iowa in the last tilt of a five-game road trip which includes tussles with Tulane, Seton Hall

Winter Club Opens Drive

Obtaining official recognition from the university last week, the Winter Sports club has started an all-out drive for membership and has lined up its post-holiday program.

President Ralph Knoebel urged all students to bring their skis, skates, sleds and toboggans when they return to school after Christmas vacation.

The skating rink, located near the University Theater, will be open on Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7-10 o'clock and on Friday and Saturday nights from 7-11 o'clock except when Iowa has a home Saturday basketball game. A warming house adjoins the rink.

Prospective members may contact Lauri Fifield, S-124 Currier, university phone extension 3172; Violet Schiller, N-106 Currier, extension 4094; Bob Stifter, N-352 Hillcrest, phone extension 3256; or Knoebel, N-160 Hillcrest, extension 3268.

Olson, Langlois To Battle Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson Tuesday remained the expert's choice to continue his reign over the world middleweight division in his 15-round title contest with Pierre Langlois of France tonight.

Few, if any, of the boxing critics gathered in this sports-conscious town think that Olson, an efficient, workmanlike, if unspectacular performer, figures to lose to the miable challenger from France.

Most of them believe it will be close, this third defense of the title by balding Bobo, and many think it might develop into an entertaining engagement for the local fans and a national television (CBS) audience.

The fight begins in San Francisco's Cow Palace at 9 p.m. (CST).

Langlois' record in 1954 is spotty. He lost decisions to Gil Turner and Carmen Basilio, both a couple of good boys. But he beat the No. 1 contender, Joey Giardello, in 10 rounds last May. Olson has the more impressive record for 1954. His good wins include such victims as Kid Gavilan and Rocky Castellani in defense of the title he won from Randy Turpin in October, 1953.

Evashevski to Speak At Illinois Banquets

Iowa Football Coach Forest Evashevski will be the guest speaker tonight and Thursday night at two Illinois high school football banquets.

Tonight he will be featured at Alton high's banquet and Thursday at East St. Louis high and Vanderbilt. Looking immediately ahead to this week-end's games, which incidentally will be the only time Iowa plays two games on successive nights unless they gain a berth in the NCAA tournament, the Hawks must cope with a perennial pair of Ivy loop toughies. In 1953 Penn took the league title.

The Quakers already have won four straight, beating Purdue, 69-68 in the opener, and since have stopped Swarthmore, 86-58, and Muhlenberg, 71-52. Tuesday

Iowa Skids to 13th In AP's Cage Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Iowa's Hawks fell to 13th from their pre-season rating of 4th in the first weekly Associated Press basketball poll Tuesday.

The slide was attributed to the 97-94 loss to Missouri, who was ranked sixth.

LaSalle's National Collegiate Athletic Association champions headed the nation's college teams, but the talented Explorers and at least four other members of the elite top 10 are heading for stormy weather — and quick.

In addition to the leaders from Philadelphia, third-ranked Illinois, fifth-ranked Dayton, seventh-ranked Indiana and eighth-ranked UCLA face menacing opposition this week. The other members of the first 10 — Kentucky, No. 2; North Carolina State, No. 4; Missouri, No. 6; Duquesne, No. 9; and Niagara, No. 10 — appear fairly safe for the rest of the week.

U-High 28 25 8-61

SPRINGVILLE — Iowa City's University high staged a major upset Tuesday night, beating previously unbeaten Springville, 61-60 in overtime.

Bob Koser's 20 points, featuring 12 out of 12 free throws, paced Coach Chuck Wolbers' club to its first win of the season. The Bluehawks hit 35 of 45 gift shots and committed only 16 fouls.

Jim Bowers got 12 and Bill Riggle 11 for the victors. Dick Biggart scored 19 for Springville.

Globetrotters Head Local Cage Twin-Bill

Showmanship will prevail all the way through the big basketball doubleheader at the University of Iowa field house on Thursday night, when the Harlem Globetrotters play the Washington D.C. Generals in the featured contest.

The opener, at 7:30, pits the Toledo Mercurys against the Philadelphia Sphas. Tickets are on sale at the university field house.

The Globetrotters are among the greatest attractions in basketball and one of the greatest of any kind because of the showmanship which is part and parcel of their makeup. Abe Saperstein's cagers are probably the most outstanding showmen in all sports history.

Taking a cue from the Trotters, other clubs on the program have made showmanship an important item in their way of doing things.

Saperstein, who introduced the idea of added variety acts between the halves of games to further entertain the fans and has seen his idea boom boxoffice sales, has a stellar array of added attractions with this unit.

He has Richard Bergmann, the British world's champion, and Dick Miles, the perennial United States title holder, in a table tennis presentation. The Garners, Jimmy and his wife, Yvonne, do a trampoline act that rates in the terrific class.

A Cuban act is the Farias Duo, hand-balancers extraordinary, who recently stopped Ed Sullivan's "Toast of the Town" TV network show cold. Peter Woodrow, a British discovery of Saperstein's, is an expert juggler who is winning a large following on the tour.

The showmanship even extends to the referees, especially to Pat Kennedy of New York City, whose antics in calling fouls are a crowd pleaser.

Says High Ranking Of Mizzou Too Early

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—"It's a good basketball team, but the national rating is a bit premature."

That's what Coach Wilbur (Sparky) Stalcup had to say Tuesday about the No. 6 spot national sport writers and sportscasters gave his Missouri Tigers in the Associated Press poll.

Missouri, a pre-season favorite to battle Colorado down to the wire in the Big Seven conference race, Monday night knocked off Wisconsin, 67-56 for its third straight conquest of the Big Ten after opening in a 49-77 loss to Illinois.

The Tigers' other Big Ten victims this winter were Indiana (64-61) and Iowa (97-84).

While admitting he's "right proud" of his Tigers in early games, Stalcup says he's taking a "dim but hopeful view" of chances for the Big Seven tournament, Dec. 27-30, and the conference race.

"Our starting team has done most of the work thus far," Sparky said. "If we are to go any place this season, all of our regulars will have to keep their bones intact and our sophomores will have to develop rapidly."

Stalcup said he's a strong believer in the deliberate, ball control game made famous by Iba, although his Missouri team uses more fast breaks this year.

Perhaps the big difference in Missouri play over a year ago is the improvement of Stewart and the "find" in sophomore Lionel Smith who replaced veteran Lloyd Elmore. Elmore underwent knee surgery in December and isn't expected back in action before late next month.

BROOKLYN SOLD TO BALTIMORE Tuesday left-handed pitcher Preacher Roe, left, and third baseman Billy Cox, right, for cash, reported to be about $55,000. In addition to the money, Brooklyn will get two minor league players who will go to the Dodgers' Ft. Worth farm club.

Hancher, Brechler To Discuss Offer Early Next Week

President Virgil M. Hancher said Monday in Des Moines that he plans to meet early next week with Paul Brechler, Iowa athletic director, to discuss Indiana's bid to hire Brechler for a similar job.

The president's office said that "no definite time has been set for the conference."

Hancher said his first news of the offer came when he heard it on a television program Sunday night. He said he then talked to Brechler on the telephone to confirm that Brechler had met with Indiana representatives.

Dodgers Sell Cox, Roe to Baltimore

BROOKLYN (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday sold third baseman Billy Cox, right, and lefthanded pitcher Preacher Roe to Baltimore of the American league for cash, reported to be about $55,000.

Both veteran players had to be waived out of the National league before the deal could be completed.

Cox, 35, is one of the best fielding third basemen in baseball. He batted .235 in 77 games last season, filling in at both shortstop and second base in addition to third.

Roe, 36-year-old former Dodger pitching ace, had a poor 3-4 record last season, appearing in only 15 games.

No Local Mishaps During S-D Day

Iowa City did its part in Safe Driving Day Wednesday. No accidents were reported, although streets were icy in spots. Earlier in the week, Mayor Leroy S. Mercer, in conjunction with the nation-wide program, issued a proclamation setting aside the day to decrease Iowa City's accident rate. Dean Jones, president of the Chamber of Commerce, called on all motorists and pedestrians to eliminate all accidents for the 24-hour period.

Student Apathy Killed Panacea

Probable financial failure due to a lack of student enthusiasm and the submission of only one script, which was not suitable, was the reason for the discontinuance of the Panacea show for 1954-1955.

The Panacea board of directors made the announcement Tuesday.

In announcing that this year's campus musical show will not be presented, the board stated that plans are now under way for a Panacea show for 1955-1956, however a date has not been set. It is felt by members of the board that it would be better to present next year's Panacea earlier in the year than previous shows because of conflicting activities at that time of year.

Last year's production was held the latter part of April.

The board said that the lack of enthusiasm was shown in poor attendance at last year's show, and the difficulty in getting students to submit scripts for the show.

The board felt that in order to have a financially successful show this year it would be necessary to have an outstanding script.

Only one script was submitted this year and was incomplete and not suitable for Panacea.

An intensive campaign is now being planned to obtain scripts for next year's Panacea. The campaign will start the second semester of this year and selection of a script will be made before May. The board hopes to select a cast for the show at the beginning of the fall semester next year.

Scripts for Panacea may be submitted by any student at SUI. The scripts do not necessarily have to include the music for the show but usually the two are submitted together.

The first Panacea was presented in the spring of 1947 and with the exception of 1950 there has been a show every year.

Folk Lore Expert Lectures

Henning Larsen
Has 'Best Folk Lore Collection in U.S.'

Norwegian Folk Tales Explained

Henning Larsen, provost of the University of Illinois, said Tuesday night that Norwegian folk tales follow conventional folk lore style—evil is punished and good is rewarded.

Speaking to a group of approximately 40 members of the graduate college and the Humanities society, Larsen outlined the preservation of Norwegian indigenous culture as falling into two groups: folk tales, which are entirely fictitious, and legends, which have historical characters and definite locations.

The two groups have been further divided, according to Larsen, into four main collections. He said that first editions of all folk collections are owned by either the SUI library or himself.

Larsen, in describing the beginning of his interest in the field of folk lore, said "it was by accident that I became interested in this subject. I found it necessary to chase down a reference in a Norwegian folk tale. Ever since, I have been collecting them.

"After Norway became conscious again of being Norway (after the 1905 separation from Sweden), some groups worked for consciousness of economic independence, some for political independence and some for cultural independence," he said. "The (folk) tales show nationalization of language underscored on every page."

Larsen read several short Norwegian tales to illustrate points in his lecture.

He also described the Norwegian folk tale as having conventional beginnings, sharply contrasting characters, with usually only two characters involved, and favoring repetition.

S-D Day Aim: No Accidents

CHICAGO (AP)—This is Safe Driving day across the nation. It is dedicated to making a big reduction in traffic accidents—and, if possible, eliminating them entirely for a 24-hour period. Dry, cool weather is indicated for most of the country.

Hazards Noted
But it will be a day of high hazards. For December, with its short span of daylight and Christmas shopping crowds, is the most dangerous month of the year.

The National Safety council estimates 50 million motor vehicles and a total of about 150 million drivers, riders and walkers will be on the streets and highways.

They have been alerted by newspaper stories and cartoons, verbal messages via radio, television and loudspeaker cars, posters, handbills, bumper strips, and displays of wrecked automobiles.

Police Prepare
Police and safety leaders are marshaling their forces for the extraordinary campaign against death and injury.

In Massachusetts, for instance, 8,000 state and local policemen are being mobilized for highway law enforcement.

All traffic policemen and all available equipment will be in use in Chicago. The officers there will wear S-D arm bands.

Post Office To Help
The U.S. post office department, which runs the world's largest motor fleet of about 80,000 vehicles, is cooperating in the life-saving drive.

The quickest means of gauging the degree of success or failure of S-D Day will be the number of traffic deaths.

Through the first 10 months of this year traffic deaths averaged 97 per day.

Death Tolls Compared
For purposes of drawing comparisons, the Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths on Wednesday Dec. 1, when they totaled 64.

The count of dead—if any—Wednesday and on Dec. 1 are on a spot basis. They do not take into account deaths which occur later from injuries suffered that day.

City High To Hold Safety Program

A special assembly will be held at Iowa City high school today at 9 a.m. in observance of Safe Driving day.

Guest speaker will be Fred Lewis of the local police department.

A safety film entitled "Drunk- en Driving" will be shown.

The safety program is under the direction of George Bowman, high school driver training instructor.

ADVANCED CADETS OF THE army and air force ROTC program voted Tuesday night for the "Honorary Cadet Colonel of 1955" at a smoker in the Iowa Memorial Union. The winner and her four attendants will be presented at the 1955 Military Ball Feb. 18. The 10 candidates are (seated) Anita Reznicek, A4, Omaha, Neb.; Zeta Tau Alpha; Vivian Hochstetler, C4, Kalona, Currier; Jeanne Hotz, N4, Ft. Dodge, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Irene Livingston, A4, Iowa City, Delta Delta Delta; (standing) Sally Rehnberg, A4, Clinton, Kappa Alpha Theta; Mary Hauer, A4, Sheldon, Delta Gamma; Louise Savage, A4, Des Moines, Currier; Leah Lunan, N4, Charleston, Westlawn; Jan Haberly, A4, New Hampton, Alpha Delta Pi, and Mary Louise Schulze, E3, Ossian, Currier. Leff, Bellenger Win 1st Argument

Philip Leff, L2, Iowa City, and Richard Bellenger, L2, Waterloo, won the first junior law argument Tuesday night at the SUI law school courtroom with Blair Wood, Waterloo, 10th district judge, presiding.

Arguing as appellants, they won over appellees Richard Wells, L2, Davenport, and James Smith, L2, Ottumwa. Wells took place and Leff won second in the individual ratings.

In rendering his decision, Wood upheld the winners' contentions that under the Iowa statutes, a corporation (hospital) can not practice medicine; that a nurse anesthetist is practicing medicine because it is the function of an anesthetist to treat ailments, and that the paying of doctors on a salary basis is fee-splitting.

"The arguments were ably presented and I found it very difficult to make a decision in the case. However, the facts of the case might have been tied to the arguments a little better," Wood commented.

In the second argument tonight, William Shoemaker, L2, Hawarden, and Richard Thomson, L2, Waukon, will oppose Calvin Kuenzel, L2, Garnavillo, and Ralph Bremer, L2, Eagle Grove. Judge B. J. Maxwell, Tipton, of the 18th district court, will hear the case.

Carbon Monoxide Victims Recovering
DES MOINES (AP)—A 22-year-old mother and her two children were recovering Tuesday from the effects of carbon monoxide gas believed to have come from a faulty furnace vent in their home. They were given oxygen by fire and police officers and were reported in good condition.

Overcome were Mrs. Betty Cunningham, Allen, 2, and Marie, 5 months.

Hays, 73, Civil Rights Lawyer, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Garfield Hays, 73, one of the world's foremost fighters for civil rights, died Tuesday.

Hays, a wealthy corporate lawyer and general counsel of the American Civil Liberties union, died in New York hospital.

He went there Nov. 8 for what was described as a rest. Cause of death was not announced.

Participated in Trials
Hays participated in some of America's most celebrated trials, including the Scopes evolution trial in Tennessee, the Scottsboro boys' trial in Alabama, and the Sacco and Vanzetti trial in Massachusetts.

He fought for the right of free speech for Communists and German Bundists and others whose views often were the opposite of his own.

Sided with Minority
Such cases found him invariably on the side of what he called "the minority, the unpopular, the dissenter."

"We of the union," he once wrote, "have always fought for the right of a man to be out of step with society."

Hays became the ACLU general counsel in the early 1920's. He waged civil liberties battles for labor organizations, pacifists, birth control advocates, Negroes, for freedom from censorship and for individuals such as Harry Bridges and Tom Mooney.

Handled Money Cases
Hays handled innumerable big money cases. In one 40 million dollar will case (Ella Wendell), his office was paid more than $500,000.

But in civil rights cases he served without remuneration and often poured thousands of dollars of his own into the cause. He called that work the "tang and salt" of his life.

Born in Rochester, N.Y.
Hays was born in Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 12, 1881.

He was married twice, first to Blanche Marks from whom he was divorced in France, and then to Aline Davis Fischer. He had a daughter, Lora, by the first marriage, and another, Jane, by the second.

Ys High R of Mizzou T

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—"It's a good basketball team, but the national rating is a bit premature."

That's what Coach Wilbur Sparky Stalcup had to say Tuesday about the No. 6 spot national sport writers and sports-casters gave his Missouri Tigers the Associated Press poll.

Missouri, a pre-season favorite to battle Colorado down to the wire in the Big Seven conference race, Monday night knocked off Wisconsin, 67-56 for its third straight conquest of the Big Ten after opening in a 49-77 loss to Illinois.

The Tigers' other Big Ten victims this winter were Indiana (64-61) and Iowa (87-94).

While admitting he's "right proud" of his Tigers in early times, Stalcup says he's taking "dim but hopeful view" of chances for the Big Seven tourney Dec. 27-30, and the conference.
