Lodge Confident Of Fliers' Release

Like Reveals Plan To Keep Servicemen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower sent congress his blueprint for maintaining "a military force that we can support for the many years that may be necessary to dispel the shadow of Communist threat." Congressional leaders promised to give it careful study. The President called for a four-year extension of the draft law, an increase in pay and allowances for the "experienced hard core" of regular fighting men, and a modified form of compulsory military training to create a powerful reserve of young men ready for instant mobilization.

Pay Increases
Pay increases, ranging up to more than 20 per cent, would go only to men serving longer than the minimum time on active duty—three years for officers and two for enlisted men. "We are losing too many men trained in leadership and technical skills — the experienced hard core of a modern fighting force," the President said.

Hazards Increase
Asserting that the atomic jet age has "drawn our services into new dimensions of hazard and uncertainty," the President also proposed extra, hazardous duty pay for airmen, submariners, paratroopers, demolition crews, deep sea divers and certain other specialists. He did not go into details on the amounts. He also urged special allowances to men forced to leave their families, better medical care and housing for service families and other benefits.

Poet-Critic To Speak At SUI Next Week

Richard P. Blackmur, poet and critic, will speak at SUI next Tuesday and Wednesday under the auspices of the graduate college, the Humanities society and the department of English. Tuesday Blackmur will speak on "The Language of Silence" at 8 p.m. and Wednesday he will lecture on James Joyce's "Ulysses," at 4 p.m. in the senate chamber, Old Capitol.

HIGH CALIBRE

TUSCON, Ariz. (AP) — A 15-year-old boy with a loaded .38-caliber pistol in his waistband was removed from a high school class here by police. His explanation for carrying the gun: "A couple of those teachers were giving me a hard time."

FINANCES DWINDLED

Five hundred copies were printed in late December on the strength of 56 advance subscriptions. Subscribers include Moslems in America, several foreign and American consuls, libraries, national magazines and business men with probable dealings in Moslem countries.

The long hours Naem spent in writing, compiling, editing and laying out the journal were accompanied by steadily increasing expenditures for stationery, advance circulars and engravings. By the time the journal was on the press, Naem's finances had dwindled dangerously low. Naem produced and financed his venture entirely on his own. Besides compiling the magazine and handling all correspondence, Naem worked 65 hours a week in a restaurant to provide a living for his family, which numbered five in December. At the time when the work reached its peak, early in December, Naem's wife, who was pregnant, became ill with a virus infection. He was forced to quit his job and assume the duties of the household. Tuesday he reported back to work for the first time in more than a month.

New Year Child
On New Year's eve, Naem took his wife to the hospital and a few hours later he was the father of the first baby born in Johnson county in 1955. Because the Naems had not lived in Iowa City long enough to become legal residents, their baby was not awarded the 29 prizes that are given to the first baby of the new year. The Naem children range in age from 27 months to 12 days. Shahid and Sheeren are twins, 27 months, Selma is 15 and Saud is the youngest.

Better Schooling Top Aim Of Program, Hoegh Says

DES MOINES (AP) — Republicans and Democrats in both the house and senate agreed Thursday that Gov. Leo A. Hoegh's legislative program is a very ambitious and progressive one. But after his address at his inauguration they said many hurdles it presents cannot be negotiated in one legislative session. After Hoegh was sworn in Thursday afternoon, along with Leo Elthon as lieutenant governor, Hoegh outlined a sweeping program calling for considerably increased appropriations. He left specific plans for state financing in the next biennium to his budget message to be given in early February. In his inaugural address before a joint session of the senate and house in the jam-packed house chamber the governor listed better education as the top objective of his administration.

Among other things he recommended 25 per cent state aid to public schools, an immediate program of highway improvement, highway speed limits, enlargement of the state patrol, payment of the agricultural land credits in full, expansion of activities of the Iowa Development Commission.

Also increased unemployment and workmen's compensation benefits permitting union shop provisions in labor contracts, reappointment of the legislature, higher salaries for state officials, payment of a bonus to Korean War veterans, some governmental consolidations, tightening the homestead credit law and broadening the sales tax use bases.

Real Dangers Face U.S., Dulles Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Walter George (D-Ga.) quoted Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Thursday as having told the senate foreign relations committee that America faces very real dangers and, "There are places where the margin of security is very thin." Dulles met in closed session with the committee for 1 1/2 hours Thursday. The secretary had no information for reporters when he left the capitol, and George's account was largely in general terms. George said Dulles was "rather guarded" in what he had to report on Indochina. The senator added on his own: "But the situation seems to be somewhat more favorable than it has been."

Chamber Overflows For Inauguration

DES MOINES (AP) — Leo A. Hoegh of Chariton was inaugurated as Iowa's 33rd governor Thursday in a colorful ceremony witnessed by members of the legislature and others in the overflowing house chamber. Afterwards a large number of people greeted the new governor and his wife in the executive suite rather than wait until the inaugural reception Thursday night. The reception opened with a grand march for the first time in Iowa history. Then Gov. and Mrs. Hoegh, Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Elthon, and state officials received the public.

Chakravarty, who is professor of oriental religions and literature at Boston University, was formerly associated with Mahatma Gandhi. He has lectured and taught widely in the United States. The lecture is sponsored by the Graduate college.

Estimates Up On Creamery

First estimates were raised Thursday on the fire which destroyed the storage section of the Johnson County Creamery Co. Wednesday afternoon. Clarence Neilson, president of the company, said "replacement of the storage building at the rear of the plant is expected to run higher than the previous estimate of $5,000 to $10,000, which is way out of line."

Neilson said that insurance adjusters were examining the structure Thursday but that no decision had been reached. Meanwhile, the creamery is open for business. Neilson said that 23,000 pounds of butter stored in the main part of the plant were undamaged, but that no decision was reached on 700 cases of eggs stored near the fire.

This was reported to be the third fire in the structure. Others occurred in 1904 and on Feb. 13, 1920.

JAMAICAN MINISTER OUT

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Prime Minister William Alexander Bustamante, the anti-Communist kinsman of Jamaica politics for a decade, lost control of the island government Thursday.

Group To Probe Costa Rican War

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — A U.S. air force plane crashed Thursday to investigate Costa Rica's 3-day-old war. The big question was whether this central American republic has been invaded, as its government charges, or faces a purely internal revolution, as neighboring Nicaragua contends. The presence of American planes and the commission from the Organization of American States are having a pacifying effect. There were no recurrences of the air raids which developed Wednesday, or reports of military engagements.

2 Killed In Riverside Car Crash

Two persons were killed and one injured when a car struck a tree on highway 22 in Riverside about 11:30 p.m. Thursday. Cletus Caster, 23, R.R. 1, Riverside, and Thomas B. Stumpf, 17, Kalona, were killed. Robert J. Kern was taken to University hospital. Kern's condition and hometown was not available. It was also not determined who was driving, police said.

Call German Arms Illegal

MOSCOW (Friday) (AP) — The Soviet Union handed representatives of the Western European Union powers notes Thursday night protesting their plan to rearm West Germany.

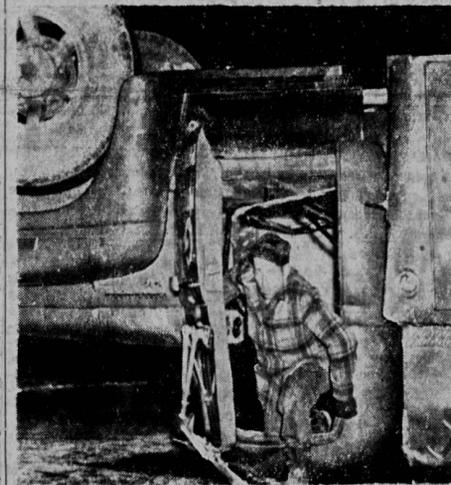

The Russians contended the plan would violate the Geneva convention barring weapons of mass destruction. The notes went to the envoys of Britain, Italy, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg. U.S. embassy officials said they had not received a note.

The note to France, published in the Soviet press, said, "The Soviet government considers it its duty to warn that the Paris agreements on bringing Germany into the Western defense system will hand to the West German army chemical, bacteriological and atomic weapons." The note added this is contrary to the Geneva convention of June 17, 1925, which prohibits use of mass destruction weapons such as poison gas and germ warfare.

State Rep. William Judd Dies After Heart Attack

DES MOINES (AP) — State Rep. William N. Judd, 67, Clinton Republican, died at a hospital here Thursday night. Judd became ill about 2 a.m. Wednesday and death came at 7:10 p.m. He apparently had suffered a heart attack in his hotel room.

Feels Hopeful After U.N. Chief's Return

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. said Thursday night he was confident that UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold had made progress in his Peiping talks and that "our fliers will be free."

New Raids On Tachens

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — New nationalist bomber raids and air and sea battles swirled Thursday around the Tachens, fortress islands threatened with Communist invasion 200 miles north of Formosa.

Chinese Nationalist correspondents returning from the Tachens brought back rumors that a U.S. destroyer had fired on Red planes Tuesday 80 miles south of the Tachens, but these were discounted officially.

While some U.S. warships—part of the 7th Fleet which guards Formosa from invasion—may be in those dangerous waters, there was no solid information that they had been drawn into the rising conflict.

Efforts To Continue

"Assuredly we will not—and must not—cease our efforts until they are..." "The situation is delicate and we must have both patience and determination." On his arrival in New York, Hammarskjold described his Peiping visit as the "first stage" of his efforts to release the fliers. He indicated the door is open to further contact and called for restraint on all sides.

The UN administrative chief landed at Idlewild airport at 6:03 p.m. (EST) to end a two-week, round-the-world flight on behalf of the American fliers. He issued the following statement as he stepped off the plane: "My visit to Peiping was the first stage in my efforts to release the 11 American fliers and the other United Nations command personnel still detained. I feel that my talks with Mr. Chou En-lai, premier-foreign minister of Red China, were definitely useful for this purpose. We hope to be able to continue our contacts. The door that has been opened can be kept open given restraint on all sides."

Report to Lodge

Less than two hours after Hammarskjold's arrival he was closeted in his apartment with chief American delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., making a full report. American sources said Lodge will be in Washington today and is expected to inform the cabinet of his talks with Hammarskjold Thursday night.

In addition to seeing delegates, Hammarskjold will hold an "on the record" news conference at 10 a.m. (CST) today. The communique issued by Hammarskjold and Chou En-lai on their meetings said their talks Jan. 6-10 had been useful.

Monetary Problems May Sink Naem's 'Moslem World'

By Don McQuillen
Reprinted from
Cedar Rapids Gazette

Financial burdens may put an end to a rare example of individualism and enterprise here. Abdul B. Naem, a 26-year-old native of Pakistan, is the publisher of the first and perhaps the only issue of the new magazine "Moslem World and The U.S.A." The next two days may tell whether two years of preparation and planning will fade into oblivion or grow into the success he had hoped it would.

His publication is the first illustrated monthly journal on Islam and Islamic affairs ever printed in the United States. There are 500 million Moslems in the world who are potential readers of Naem's magazine, but unless his fortunes change soon only a handful will ever see it.

Only a small portion of Naem's personal savings remained for the family to live on. He applied for a $100 bank loan to pay for some of the magazine; but was turned down. Then, with the rent on his apartment two months past due he decided to use his savings; he got 150 copies from the printer.

Even though he has the copies in his home now, Naem isn't financially able to pay the cost of having them mailed. And it is essential that they be mailed to the hundreds of persons and organizations upon whose support the future of the publication depends. With all his frustration and despair, Naem is faced with an even bigger problem. His family will be evicted tomorrow. He can't find another apartment; many landlords will not rent to couples with children, or rents are too high for Naem's pocketbook. Furthermore, it has been impossible to find anyone who doesn't demand rent in advance. Most persons would give up after the setbacks Naem has suffered. But he refuses to admit defeat.

However, Naem has but one day to decide where he and his family will go. He can go to New York where a job opportunity awaits him. A probable alternative, but he would rather stay in the Midwest where he believes his children will lead better lives and get better schooling. Another reason for his reluctance to leave Iowa City is that replies to the vast amount of correspondence he has sent out in regard to his magazine will all come here. The confusion and delay would be costly, he said.

Naem could move to Cedar Rapids, but again he would have change-of-address problems. Also, he dislikes the prospect of leaving the facilities of the University of Iowa library, which he said are the most complete he has ever seen. It may be difficult for many to understand why a man should sacrifice so much on such a hazy venture. But there is no doubt in Naem's mind of the importance of what he is attempting to do. There is only small doubt there as to his chances of success.

Naem is concerned with the problem of mutual understanding between Islamic countries and America and advancing the cause of democracy in countries where there is little to be had. Fights Communists "It has become important to do this type of work because of the great expansion and success of Soviet propaganda in the Moslem world," he explained. As an example of the spreading Communist threat, Naem pointed out that for the first time men who are avowedly anti-Western have been seated in the parliament of Jordan.

This in itself is not fatal, but, according to Naem, these men will use their positions to bring on the same sort of coup d'etat that took place in Romania, Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia. "Government officials in Jordan are immune from arrest in many cases. They can speak and write what they please. In no time at all anti-American officials will be publishing newspapers backed by the Soviets. These well-financed newspapers will underseal all others and soon the people will be reading pure Communist propaganda," he said. Naem's repertory of instances where the Communists have been most successful in their propaganda efforts is long and appalling.

To Prove Reds Wrong "If I succeed it will prove to my readers that the Soviets are wrong about the things they say about the Western world. Believe me," he emphasized, "Communist influence in Moslem countries is not ebbing." Among the guest authors in the first issue of "Moslem World and The U.S.A." are world-famous historian Dr. Arnold J. Toynbee and Dr. Mahmoud F. Hoballah, director of the Islamic Center, Washington, D.C. The friend has offered to pay the fare. Naem said this is the

Lock and Load!

The feuding Hatfields and McCoys have nothing on two Central American countries who are currently battling about invasion of territory.

Costa Rica and Nicaragua have been at odds for the last seven years largely because of the personal repugnance of the countries' two leaders, Costa Rican President Jose Figueres and Nicaraguan President Anastasio Somoza.

Now Somoza has arrived at a stroke of diplomatic genius which other nations of the world might well adopt.

"There is no need for bloodshed," Somoza said, "just because Figueres has such a personal hate for me. I will fight a duel at the frontier with Figueres. Why won't he be man enough to do that?"

That would solve a lot of problems. Rather than continue to involve the entire country in bloodshed, a duel with the two principals would be a neat, comparatively less vulgar way to bring peace.

Perhaps it would be well for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to start target practice in his off moments in case this type of diplomatic maneuvering catches on.

If Figueres accepts Somoza's gallant invitation to a duel on the border (perhaps at midnight) then all the world's top diplomats should be given ring-side seats.

A new era in diplomacy might be at hand, and these men shouldn't be caught with their breechlocks down.

Interpreting the News

By J. M. Roberts

AP Foreign News Analyst

The Organization of American States, taking the stand in the Costa Rican case that no country should permit itself to be used as a base for revolution against another, is pursuing a strictly one-shot policy.

This time it fits into the policy of the United States, which obviously is hopeful that the Figuerese government will remain in power.

Such a pronouncement, however, would run violently contrary to American policy in the Guatemala area a trouble some months ago. Then the U.S. favored invading rebels against a Communist government.

One of the disturbing things about international relations in times such as these is that principles and practicalities constantly are being tailored to fit the exigencies of given situations.

The U.S. has always denounced other countries for intervening in the affairs of small nations. She even does it sometimes to the accompaniment of denials that she is doing so, as during the last general elections in Greece.

Since there seems to be no escape from this sort of thing when one set of great powers is struggling to protect itself from the expansionist policies of another, the question arises whether it might not be better to be frank about the whole business.

Another facet of U.S. policy is the matter of arms for Latin America.

The use of U.S.-made planes in the shooting re-emphasizes the historical fact that the presence of arms in these volatile countries is an invitation to their use. It is Washington's responsibility to see to it that arms provided by the U.S. are kept in proper hands and restricted to proper uses.

Coralville To Have New Postal Station

A new rural postal station will be opened and R.R. 1 extended in Coralville Jan. 17.

Extension of R.R. 1 will result in an overlapping of R.R. 1 and 2. Those affected will be allowed to choose which route they wish.

The new postal station, located in the First Avenue shop building, 302 Brisket, will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. It will handle first and fourth class mail, including postage sales, issuance of money orders, and letter registry, according to A. R. Bowers, clerk in charge.

Persons wishing to receive their mail at the station will use a general delivery address.

Mr. Powers was particularly worried about "flask-toters" like myself.

When Mr. Powers observed that "The average person's morals are a reflection of the expectations of society," he was right. But society is composed of differing people. Mr. Powers, with other righteous abstainers, wants to force part of this society to accept a law contrary to its will. It should accept this law because Mr. Powers says that drinking is evil. But I say that drinking is beneficial. Whose word is to be law? If a majority of society agrees with me, shall we force Mr. Powers to drink? This is not more stupid than to force me not to drink because a majority of society agrees with Mr. Powers.

Most opinions, and therefore most laws are subject to exceptions. Indeed, even killing, condemned by all men, is accepted to punish murder. Therefore when Mr. Powers demands a strict law against drinking, his argument is tenuous. By the same logic, he could find himself embarrassingly drunk one day. Clarke Meeker, A3 1032 N. Dubuque

Homer showed up at the Lewis McKay house here six months ago. The family already had a couple of cats but they let him stay for a while. Last month, though, they gave him to a Garfield, Wash. couple.

Then Homer came back. He apparently walked the 60 miles from Garfield. The McKay's say they will keep him now.

Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.

Another Rebuttal TO THE EDITOR:

Yesterday you published a letter from a John D. Marshall about my hitch-hiking trip to South Carolina. Although the trip was taken three months ago, I'm still getting letters and phone calls threatening to expose me for my underhanded tactics. Mr. Marshall's letter finally gives me a chance to answer all the anonymous letters and calls. I would therefore like to direct this to not only Mr. Marshall, who is apparently the spokesman for a large group, but at all members of this group.

First, you mentioned that I was sent getting off a train on the way back. At 11:15 that Sunday morning, I was offered a ride from South Chicago all the way to Iowa City with Mr. and Mrs. Abner Hendrickson of Cresco. Why would I leave them somewhere along the way to take a train to Davenport? Mr. Hendrickson is the Howard County superintendent of schools if anyone would like to write and ask him.

Also, you mentioned knowing a young lady who was acquainted with Miss South Carolina last June - and it wasn't Rankin Suber. Of course it wasn't Rankin Suber. She wasn't crowned Miss S. C. until later in the summer. Undoubtedly your friend was acquainted with last year's queen.

Orchesis Recital Features Serious, Comedy Routines

By Lawrence Sherman

Many kinds of exhibitions have been staged in the name of modern dance. The small audience at Macbride auditorium Thursday night saw most of them.

"Dance—Then and Now," presented by Orchesis, progressed from serious interpretive dancing through musical comedy, variety show routines and a kind of parlor charades. It is fair to report that as the evening drifted away from the heavy influence of Martha Graham, the more the audience enjoyed it.

The two numbers having the most legitimate claim to choreographed modern dance were "The Remembered Days," choreographed and danced by Mary Lou Niebling, G, Willmette, Ill., and "Recapitulations," choreographed by Marilyn Falk, A4, Washington.

"Remembered Days"

"The Remembered Days" was performed solo by the choreographer, Miss Niebling. Without resorting to pantomime, she danced her memories of good and bad days. It was simple enough but very effective.

"Recapitulations," properly held over from last year, was choreographed for four persons. The theme stated in the program says, "A mortal singled out by Time, re-lives moments in her life before ultimately submitting to her fate." The theme was serious. Marilyn Falk was trying to be a serious artist in one of the most difficult mediums. And the audience watched it very seriously.

Choreography, it must be said, is very difficult to learn. You should know music as a musician knows it. You must know dancing as a dancer knows it. You must have a stage, musicians, and dancers who are willing to give their time for your education. There are no teachers. You have to teach yourself. Anyone who tries to buck these obstacles deserves sympathy and attention.

Lighter Vein

The second half of the evening was on a lighter foot. "Four No" was billed "especially for ladies who attend, or give bridge parties." It was the first deliberate comedy of the evening and the audience was demonstrably appreciative.

With the flip of a record came "A Bit of Americana" and recognizable coeds in black shorts, white shirts and bow ties put on a minstrel dance to some rousing banjo music. They bowed out with "Shuffle-off-to-Buffero."

"Psycho-Saga" somehow managed to get comedy out of a room full of schizophrenics and manic-depressives.

A very complete evening of dance was over with "What Makes the World Go Round," the story of how a tom-boy attains woman-hood. Choreography was by Miss Jean Minnis Smith, physical education instructor, and faculty adviser to Orchesis.

'Unknown' Iowa Squad Is Winner

By Ken Koopman

Which Iowa varsity team was recently challenged by a girl's team from another university?

This team is seldom mentioned in campus sports conversations but makes a lot of noise every Saturday.

Which Iowa varsity team does the public never see in action?

Team members keep one eye open and one eye closed while participating in this sport.

Which Iowa varsity team competes almost every Saturday with as many as ten other college and university teams from all parts of the nation?

A steady finger and a little "Kentucky windage" are ever-present factors in the outcome of this team's competition.

This "unknown" varsity squad is the Iowa rifle team which this year numbers ten sharpshooters.

Although the marksmen compete regularly in matches and tournaments, the public is not well acquainted with this sport.

Spectators Not Invited
Firing rifles is a participant, not a spectator sport.

Spectators would be in danger says Capt. John H. Warner, director of marksmanship.

To win a spot on the varsity rifle team a member must be a sophomore and meet the same eligibility requirements as for any other major sport.

The team competes with many other schools from all over the U. S. each week by a system called "postal matches."

Challenges Issued
Challenges are mailed to the teams that SUI wants to participate with each week.

The marksmen fire at the armory range on Saturday. Scores must be mailed to the other schools by midnight Monday following the match.

The "postal matches" give the team practice, and also determine who will make the squad. The top ten men who consistently fire the highest scores are selected for the varsity team.

The riflemen were recently challenged by the girl's rifle team of the University of Detroit for a "postal match" according to Col. Charles G. Kirk, professor and head of Air Science. The offer had to be turned down because SUI has no girl's rifle team.

Encourages Competition
Col. Kirk, an avid rifle team fan, said that he would like to see more students participate in the sport.

"Our rifle range could handle many more shooters. We want to emphasize the fact that, although the rifle team is closely connected with the ROTC program, it is not necessary for the student to be a cadet in order to be a member," he said.

A Hearst match is a "postal match" with teams from all over the country firing at targets which are mailed to them.

Targets are returned, scored, and the various prizes, including the Hearst memorial trophy, are awarded.

Marksmen Keep Busy
Besides four Big Ten matches each year and the final Big Ten meet in Chicago, the varsity team also competes in the annual National Rifle association meet, the Illinois invitational tournament and the William Randolph Hearst memorial match.

The rifle team is supported by the university, with help from the army and air force ROTC departments. All road trips are paid for by the army and air force.

The team flew to its last meet with the University of Wisconsin in an air national guard transport plane, which is used by the governor of Iowa.

Members of the varsity squad are: John F. Amesbury, Clinton; James R. Bell, Tipton; Thomas E. Carson, Britt; Wayne Cogswell, Grundy Center; Charles O. Griffith, Kanawha.

Edward A. McLachlan, Iowa City; John E. Westwick, Springfield, Ill.; Randall K. Wickey, Waterloo, Frederick E. Tillman, Oskaloosa and Arthur W. Boerner, Iowa City.

Gymnasts To Face Gophers Here Saturday

Another all-out effort to defeat Minnesota in gymnastics will be made in a dual meet here Saturday evening by Iowa's gymnasts.

The Hawks have lost all six dual meets to the Gophers since the series started in 1950, most of them by close scores. Coach Dick Holzappel predicts that one or two points either way will decide the 7:30 p.m. affair this year, too.

Iowa is strong with two fine sophomores, Sam Baile, an all-around performer, and Walt Patterson, who also can compete in several events. The pair won 15 first places as Iowa defeated Chicago Illinois and University of Chicago last Saturday. Iowa placed second by one point in the Lincoln Turners invitation meet, also in Chicago, last Saturday.

The rival teams have some experience in competition against each other. Iowa scored 59 points in the Turner meet, while Minnesota was third with 42½ but this does not indicate definite Iowa superiority because four other teams figured in the scoring.

Four other men, Jerry Kottong, Jerry Wiedman, Stan Beck-and Dick Kuiper are members of the supporting cast for the high-scoring Baile and Patterson.

Richards, Pole Vault Ace, in AAU Hassle

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Robert Richards, Olympic pole vault champion, found himself in the middle of a controversial question on amateurism Thursday.

Making a surprise appearance on a television program, he received keys for a new car and various other gifts.

Richards was the central figure on the TV program "This Is Your Life" Wednesday night. At the end he was given the keys to a new car, a motion picture camera and projector, and other gifts. The sponsor also announced a $1,000 donation to the Olympic Fund.

May Give Up Car
Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the AAU, said Thursday Richards probably will have to return the car in order to retain his amateur standing.

Ferris added that the Southern Pacific association of the AAU probably is investigating the case now and that he had telegraphed for information.

"It must be assumed that Richards received the award because of his prominence as an athlete and not because of his preaching. If that is so, he'll have to return the car," Ferris said.

Informed of the hassle, Richards said, "To whatever the AAU says I'd be very happy to comply. I certainly want to compete in the 1956 Olympic Games."

Surprise
The young minister went to the television studio on pretext he was to film a one-minute talk in behalf of the Olympic Fund. He didn't know until he was on the air that he was to be the central figure in the surprise telecast that reviewed his life.

Richards actually did not receive the car after the program, but was to get it later from Chicago. He did receive a set of mock car keys. A spokesman for the program said the presentation had been checked with an officer of the Southern Pacific AAU before it was made.

Richards is pastor of the Church of the Brethren in Long Beach, Calif.

The format of "This Is Your Life" is to have a surprise telecast that reviewed his life.

OVERFLOW CROWDS
The Detroit Lions average home crowd during the 1954 NFL season was 54,340. This is 1,487 more than Briggs Stadium's seating capacity.

Iowa Army, Air Force Riflemen Win

The Iowa army and air force ROTC rifle teams defeated Grinnell college's team Wednesday night in a dual match at the SUI fieldhouse armory.

The army ROTC team out-pointed Grinnell by a score of 1783 to 1663 to remain undefeated in the Iowa ROTC rifle team league.

Scoring 1827 points to Grinnell's 1663 the Iowa air force ROTC team stretched its victory string to four against only one loss in league competition.

Westwick Wins
John E. Westwick, E4, Springfield, Ill., took top honors in the sitting position by firing 99 out of a possible 100.

James R. Bell, A2, Tipton, with scores of 94 out of 100 and 90 out of 100 took first place in the kneeling and standing positions.

Varsity Leads Conference
The Iowa team has a ten point edge over second place Ohio State in the first round of the sectional tournaments.

Winner of the Big Ten championship is decided by three sectional meets and a final round to be held in Chicago on March 12. The Iowa team competes with the University of Wisconsin in the sectional matches.

Illinois plays at Iowa Monday. Bill Ridley, Illinois' top scorer with a conference average of 15.6, is only slightly ahead of Bruce Brothers' 14.1.

Fascist Cries Hail Burial Of Marshal

ROME (AP) — A hundred thousand Romans raised their arms in the forbidden Blackshirt salute and roared Fascist battle hymns in a funeral demonstration Thursday for ex-Marshall Rodolfo Graziani, Mussolini's last-ditch commander.

"Italia, Italia," chanted the throngs as a mile-long cortege of neo-Fascists bore his flag-draped coffin through the city. They shouted in the same high-cadence of "Duce! Duce!" once used to hail Mussolini. The police did not interfere, although Fascist salutes are banned.

After the demonstration, Graziani's body was taken to Afife, a town 50 miles east of the capital, and buried in a family tomb.

Church bells tolled as the hearse passed through villages on the way.

The old "Desert Lion," who had lived in retirement for four years, died Tuesday at a Rome clinic after an operation for an ulcer.

Graziani's body was clothed Thursday in the uniform of his North African campaigns and his old gold-braided field cap was placed on top of his coffin. But he was stripped of the medals he lost in a 1950 war crimes trial which convicted him of treason. He was sentenced to 19 years in prison, but won freedom under amnesty.

'Fortify Freedom with Faith, Fellowship' Is Theme—

SUI To Celebrate YWCA Centennial

By Judy Jackson
SUI's Young Women's Christian Association will join 1,319 YWCA units in the United States and others in foreign countries in celebrating the organization's centennial year—1954.

The theme of the celebration will be "Fortify freedom with faith and fellowship."

The second century of service officially began Tuesday in New York city and Washington, D.C. In New York, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles addressed an inaugural luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. In Washington, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower highlighted a similar luncheon by turning a switch which lit 100 candles on a huge birthday cake at both meetings.

Local celebrations will not begin until the second semester because of final exams. A tea at the home of SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will start the festivities. The local campaign will attempt to answer the question, "What does it mean to belong to YWCA as a world organization and as a Christian organization?"

In its centennial observances, commemorating the founding of world YWCA in London in 1855, the SUI chapter will try to (1) rededicate itself to a Christian purpose, (2) increase membership by 10 per cent, and (3) raise $500 through financial projects as its contribution to a $5 million centennial birthday fund to strengthen the YWs all over the world. A birthday dinner in mid-March will close festivities.

YWCA began at SUI in the fall of 1885. Bible study, prayer meetings and service activities occupied the organization in its first few months.

In January, 1887, work was officially discontinued, but the members struggled on. With the aid of money from townspeople, faculty and students, a building for religious activities was erected in 1890 at the corner of Iowa and Clinton streets.

SUI was the third state university to boast such a building when Close hall was dedicated on Nov. 22, 1891. Bible study, prayer, worship and missionary study continued to dominate its activities for the next 10 years.

First Woman Hired
In 1901, YW first began to emphasize physical fitness by hiring a physical education instructor to teach classes in athletics. She became the first woman staff member ever to be employed by the YWCA.

In 1906 the group became a charter member of the student division of the YWCA's in the United States.

During World War I, YW emphasized war activities. By 1926 the organization had eliminated the activity emphasis and had begun experimentation with smaller groups.

1928-1929 saw headquarters moved to its present location in the Union after investing $13,000 in its building, and the combining of YWCA and YMCA into one organization with separate departments for men's and women's work.

In 1931-1932, YW separated from YM to become independent again.

City Opens Case In Damage Suit
Defense testimony for the city of Iowa City and the Iowa Water Service Co. was heard Thursday afternoon in the $20,000 damage suit brought by Carrol B. Smith, Iowa City mechanic.

Smith rested his case Thursday morning after six witnesses testified on his claim for personal injuries incurred when he fell on ice in the 300 block of S. Capitol st., Jan. 5, 1953. Smith charges the city with negligence in allowing water from a broken line to run into the street and form ice.

Separate testimony for both the city and the Iowa Water Service Co. aimed to fix the location and responsibility for the leak. Glen V. Eckard testified for the city and Paul Shearer for the Iowa Water Service Co. Both are employees of the company and Iowa City residents.

Another defendant in the suit is Emma E. Hoppe upon whose property at 300 S. Capitol st., the leaky pipe was allegedly located. Her defense in the case is yet to be heard.

during the middle of World War II as YW women united in the Double Y program—Victory in War and Victory in Peace.

Today the YW's 380 members carry out a program of community, foreign student, financial, religious, and educational projects. It is governed by an executive board of nine girls headed by Margie Hahn, A4, Cedar Rapids, president; Helen Stoltz, A4, Ottumwa, vice-president; and Kay Putney, C3, Waterloo, secretary-treasurer. Decisions are made by the board.

YWCA's next religious event will be the Lenten services at Danforth chapel. The group also presented Thanksgiving vesper services at the Union.

In the field of community and social work, Y women sponsor a baby-sitting program and work at the community center. Other groups read to adults in University hospitals while others direct children's recreation groups there. On Saturdays, still another group goes to the school for severely-handicapped children to play with the children.

Of special interest to SUI students is the "Major in Marriage" lecture series. Begun in 1938, it is composed of six lectures in the fall and five in the spring.

Recent financial projects have included the mum sales at Homecoming and calendar sales. YW also plans to sell Mother's Day corsages in May.

The University of Iowa club of Des Moines will provide full fee scholarships to one graduate each of the five Des Moines high schools.

The awards, called the Irving E. Stone Honor scholarships, will be awarded for the first time in February for the spring semester of the current school year to students who are already enrolled at SUI.

Qualifications for the scholarship include: enrollment at SUI, a 2.5 or higher grade point average, and need for financial assistance.

Applications for the Stone scholarships are available at the office of student affairs, University hall, and must be filed by Jan. 25, to be considered for the second semester of this year.

BBC Backs 'Scientific' Broadcast

LONDON (AP)—A woman psychologist's broadcast that "humanist parents" should tell their children that the Christian story is part legend, like Santa Claus, came under sharp attack Thursday. But the government-owned British Broadcasting corporation defended giving her the right to speak.

A BBC spokesman said Mrs. Margaret Knight spoke for "scientific humanism" in accordance with the company's long-standing policy of permitting freedom of speech on matters of "beliefs and disbeliefs." The spokesman said Mrs. Knight, an instructor at Aberdeen university, was not accepted as an advocate of atheistic beliefs.

Mrs. Knight said in an interview Thursday night she was "surprised and pleased" by the extent of the controversy she had aroused.

Defining "scientific humanism," she said its "fundamental criterion" is "whether or not an act is conducive to human happiness and development, whereas in religion the criterion is, does it express God's will. Scientific humanism is concerned with this world; religion is concerned with the next."

Election Date Set For Bond Issue
The College community school district will hold a special school election Feb. 8, to decide if bonds will be issued to carry out the school building program.

A proposition for issuing bonds in an amount not to exceed $479,000 for the purchase of a site and the construction of a high school building will be voted on.

There is no high school now in College district, which is located in southern Linn and northern Johnson counties.

Red Newspaper Says 11 Chinese Executed
HONG KONG (AP)—The Communist newspaper Ta Kung Pao said Thursday 11 Chinese were executed by order of the Kwangtung People's court Tuesday on a charge of spying against Communist China.

The paper said many of these were enrolled by an "American espionage organization in Hong Kong called the Free China movement."

The University of Iowa club of Des Moines will provide full fee scholarships to one graduate each of the five Des Moines high schools.

The awards, called the Irving E. Stone Honor scholarships, will be awarded for the first time in February for the spring semester of the current school year to students who are already enrolled at SUI.

Qualifications for the scholarship include: enrollment at SUI, a 2.5 or higher grade point average, and need for financial assistance.

Applications for the Stone scholarships are available at the office of student affairs, University hall, and must be filed by Jan. 25, to be considered for the second semester of this year.

Mrs. Hammill died of a heart attack Tuesday afternoon in Denver, Colo., where she was on business.

Rayburn Has Woman Escorted from House

WASHINGTON (AP)—The not exactly airtight doors to the House swung open Thursday to a "nice looking woman" who marched down the aisle and told Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) she wanted to make a speech.

It developed later that her chosen topic was "the extraordinary situation." She didn't get to deliver her talk and the not exactly alert Capitol guards didn't get her name.

This was the scene: House Clerk Ralph Roberts was reading a message from President Eisenhower. Members were listening to him or to each other.

Red Coat
Then, out of the members' cloakroom and down to the rostrum strode this well dressed woman of about 40. She wore a red coat and a beret. How she got in the cloakroom is not known, but it is against House rules to wear a hat.

Rayburn, always gallant and seldom mystified, acknowledged that this time he was really puzzled.

"She came down the aisle and leaned on my desk and said she wanted to address the house," he said.

Not Proper
"I told her I didn't think that was the proper thing to do, and when she just stood there I had someone take her out."

It was sergeant-at-arms Zeke Johnson who took her out. He turned her over to John W. Holton, Rayburn's administrative assistant.

There followed some real confusion for Holton, who hadn't heard of the invasion. She told him that she was from New Kensington, Pa., from Democratic Rep. Augustine B. Kelley's district.

Read Book
Then she told Holton that she wanted to address the house on the "extraordinary situation," and that she had just read a book by former Sen. Tom Connally of Texas.

Holton passed the buck. He suggested she see Kelley and ask for a visitor's card to the gallery. However, she didn't go there—the only card Kelley's office issued Thursday was to Mrs. Kelley.

The woman went instead to the Washington Post and Times-Herald. She explained there she wanted to make a talk "about the complacency of people" and didn't want to take time to go through her congressman's office.

Unidentified
The man she talked to at the Post was as mystified as Holton

3d Law Argument Heard Thursday By Judge Charlton

The individual winners of the third junior law argument held Thursday night in the law school were Alfred Hughes, L2, Cascade, and Louis Marlas, L2, Iowa City.

Shannon B. Charlton, 10th judicial district judge of Manchester, heard the case on the requirement of residence and the proper drawing of boundary lines in an election on school consolidation.

Arguing for the appellant were Marion Hemmon, L2, Cedar Falls, and Hughes. They were opposed by Roger Peterson, L2, Cedar Rapids, and Marlas, Judge Charlton ruled for the appellees, Peterson and Marlas, in deciding the case itself.

Charlton, who has served as judge in similar arguments at the SUI law school, commented, "These were probably the best I have heard here."

Commenting on the issue of the case, Charlton said, "It is one that is being dealt with at the present time in the Iowa courts and will be a pressing problem that the people of Iowa will have to cope with."

The final junior law argument is scheduled for Jan. 19 at 3:30 p.m.

British Develop Sea Rescue Plane
LONDON (AP)—The British Royal navy disclosed Thursday it has developed a helicopter rescue system to snatch men from the sea in nets, like fish.

The net, trailing a sea-anchor to keep the open side forward, is lowered from the rescuing helicopter by wires. The pilot slowly flies ahead, scooping a survivor into the net. The net is then raised to the helicopter by a winch.

About 100 volunteers have been hauled from the water by the new system in trials which continued for several months.

Panama Chief Placed Under House Arrest

PANAMA (AP)—The National Guard Friday night surrounded the residence of Jose Ramon Guizado, Panama's chief executive since the assassination of strongman Jose Antonio Remon, and the President said he was under house arrest.

Headquarters of the National Guard confirmed that the President's private home in the fashionable La Cresta section of the capital had been surrounded after the President told a reporter it was his impression he was a prisoner.

Saturnino Flores, deputy commander of the guard, said the encirclement was for the President's own protection, but did not indicate how his life was being threatened.

Question 3 Men
Several times Flores remarked, "The lid is being taken off a hot pot."

He made the remark in connection with a statement that three men were being questioned.

Flores confirmed that Jose Ramon Guizado Jr., son of the President, and Rodolfo Saint Malo, a partner in the President's construction firm, also had been arrested.

Over the telephone from his residence Guizado had reported that no one was permitted to enter or leave the house.

He said he understood the developments were the result of a "confession" by Ruben Miro, one of the many suspects arrested in connection with the mystery machine gun assassination of Remon at Juan Franco race track here the night of Jan. 2.

Vital to U.S.
The upheaval in Panama came as fighting apparently dwindled in neighboring Costa Rica.

Panama's troubles are of vital immediate importance to the United States because of the Panama canal.

Remon was the 28th president in this turbulent Central American nation and its fifth ruler in four tumultuous years.

Guizado, elected vice-president with Remon as President in 1952, also became foreign minister and succeeded automatically to the presidency when Remon died.

Russia Offers Atomic Data
MOSCOW (AP)—Russia said Friday it is ready to share with the world the scientific and technical experience it claims to have "piled up" in the operation since last summer of an atom-driven industrial power plant.

The press chief of the Soviet foreign ministry, Leonid Ilyichev, told a news conference Russia is ready to hand over this experience at a World Atomic Energy congress scheduled for later this year under the auspices of the UN general assembly.

He said his government is sending Soviet Academician Dmitri V. Skobeltsyn to the UN in New York to submit the proposal for inclusion on the congress agenda.

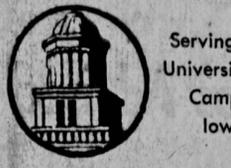

It will be the first time the Soviet Union has been represented by a scientist rather than a political figure at such talks.

There was no indication in Ilyichev's statement that the Soviet Union is planning to let foreign scientists study firsthand the atomic power station claimed in an announcement last July 1 to have been put into operation in Russian.

In Washington, Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy commission said the Soviet offer "goes part of the way"—if true—toward meeting President Eisenhower's proposal to set up an atoms-for-peace pool.

Strauss told newsmen at the White House he did not discuss the development with the President.

TEA DANCE SUNDAY
Union Board will sponsor a tea dance to be held in the river room of the Iowa Memorial Union Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m.
