Panama Chief Placed Under House Arrest

PANAMA (AP)—The National Guard Friday night surrounded the residence of Jose Ramon Guizado, Panama's chief executive since the assassination of strongman Jose Antonio Remon, and the President said he was under house arrest.

Headquarters of the National Guard confirmed that the President's private home in the fashionable La Cresta section of the capital had been surrounded after the President told a reporter it was his impression he was a prisoner.

Saturnino Flores, deputy commander of the guard, said the encirclement was for the President's own protection, but did not indicate how his life was being threatened.

Question 3 Men

Several times Flores remarked, "The lid is being taken off a hot pot."

He made the remark in connection with a statement that three men were being questioned.

Flores confirmed that Jose Ramon Guizado Jr., son of the President, and Rodolfo Saint Malo, a partner in the President's construction firm, also had been arrested.

Over the telephone from his residence Guizado had reported that no one was permitted to enter or leave the house.

He said he understood the developments were the result of a "confession" by Ruben Miro, one of the many suspects arrested in connection with the mystery machine gun assassination of Remon at Juan Franco race track here the night of Jan. 2.

Vital to U.S.

The upheaval in Panama came as fighting apparently dwindled in neighboring Costa Rica.

Panama's troubles are of vital importance to the United States because of the Panama canal.

Remon was the 28th president in this turbulent Central American nation and its fifth ruler in four tumultuous years.

Guizado, elected vice-president with Remon as President in 1952, also became foreign minister and succeeded automatically to the presidency when Remon died.

Russia Offers Atomic Data

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia said Friday it is ready to share with the world the scientific and technical experience it claims to have "piled up" in the operation since last summer of an atom-driven industrial power plant.

The press chief of the Soviet foreign ministry, Leonid Ilyichev, told a news conference Russia is ready to hand over this experience at a World Atomic Energy congress scheduled for later this year under the auspices of the UN general assembly.

He said his government is sending Soviet Academician Dmitri V. Skobeltsyn to the UN in New York to submit the proposal for inclusion on the congress agenda.

It will be the first time the Soviet Union has been represented by a scientist rather than a political figure at such talks.

There was no indication in Ilyichev's statement that the Soviet Union is planning to let foreign scientists study firsthand the atomic power station claimed in an announcement last July 1 to have been put into operation in Russia.

In Washington, Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy commission said the Soviet offer "goes part of the way" to a true toward meeting President Eisenhower's proposal to set up an atom-for-peace pool.

Strauss told newsmen at the White House he did not discuss the development with the President.

Sue McBride Crowned IFC Queen

MINUTES AFTER BEING CROWNED queen of the 1954-55 Interfraternity ball Friday night, Sue McBride, A.4, Waterloo, right, accepts congratulations from a member of her court, Beverly Baker, A.3, Des Moines and her escort, Tom Kerf, A.4, Iowa City. The dance, which had a theme of "A Greek Inn in the Swiss Alps," was held in the main lounge and cafeteria of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Moslem Magazine Publisher Gets Needed Financial Aid

Things are looking up for Abdul B. Naem, 26-year-old Iowa City publisher of a Moslem magazine, "Moslem World and The U.S.A.," for their information centers in Moslem areas.

Naem, who will move out of his apartment Sunday, has sufficient money to pay in advance for new housing.

The Cedar Rapids Moslem mosque bought $233 in subscriptions to his magazine. Another organization which does not wish to be named, purchased $100 in subscriptions.

Now that Naem has received financial assistance, he will start work on the second issue of his magazine. "It is necessary that I get to work on it immediately," he said. "It has been two weeks since I have done any work on it."

Naem was offered temporary housing in Cedar Rapids but feels that he cannot leave Iowa City because all his mail is sent here and he uses the SUI library facilities extensively. Naem said he is willing to take temporary housing so he will be able to work on his magazine.

Both will assume their new duties Monday working the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift.

Temporarily, all stops by buses will be made to the west of the depot on S. Capitol street.

Work on the new station is expected to be completed about Feb. 1.

Dag Says He Made 'No Deals'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold said Friday his trip to Peiping was a successful first step toward release of the 11 American fliers jailed by Red China and declared that Chou En Lai had laid down no conditions as barriers to their freedom.

He said he made "no deals" with Chou and that the premier and foreign minister of Red China had not suggested any.

The UN secretary general told his first news conference since returning here that Chou did not link the question of the prisoners to issues outstanding between the East and West, including the question of China's bid for a seat in the UN.

He said Chou did, however, bring up all pertinent questions in their thorough talks.

Expressed Confidence
Hammarskjold appeared confident that the fliers would be released eventually but he gave no promises to that effect and refused to disclose his next step in his moves to free them.

He indicated he might go to Washington if necessary but said he and U.S. Chief Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., had talked over the trip fully and both were in agreement that full restraint must be observed by all parties.

During his 45-minute press conference, Hammarskjold said:

1. He had no contact with any of the 11 prisoners nor was he shown any exhibits relating to their capture, alleged confessions or trials.

2. The question of releasing 35 Chinese students in the United States to return to the Chinese mainland was not made a condition.

3. While there is no definite link between the points of tension and the freeing of the prisoners, according to Hammarskjold, an improvement in conditions between the Communist Chinese and the United States would have a bearing on the issue.

On the question whether he was successful, Hammarskjold said:

"If by successful you mean I brought the fliers back on the plane, I was not successful. If you mean successful on the point of explorations, it was successful."

On one member of the Iowa board in control of athletics member said, "Dr. Brehler did not ask and did not receive a salary increase." The member, who asked that his name not be used, added that "although he received no increase, we do not feel that he has reached the limit of his earning capacity at Iowa."

Brechler To Keep SUI Athletic Post

By Arlo Jacobson
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

Paul W. Brechler, director of athletics at Iowa since 1947, has rejected a similar job offered him by Indiana university and will remain at SUI where he says, "the future is bright."

In a statement released Friday by the university, Brechler expressed his thanks to Indiana officials for "the honor which Indiana has done me in considering me for the position."

By rejecting the Indiana offer, Brechler turned down a pay raise estimated to be from $1,500 to $3,000 more than the $13,500 which he is currently being paid.

List of Reasons

Brechler listed his reasons for staying as:

1. The confidence and interest demonstrated by administration, athletic officials and faculty members at the university.

2. His view that Iowa, with one of the "best young, energetic, all-sport coaching and teaching staffs in the country," has a bright future in athletics.

3. A feeling that Hawkeye fans and the citizens of Iowa are solidly behind the University's athletic program and teams.

Brechler assumed the athletic directorship in 1947 following a year as Iowa's business manager. He coached football and basketball teams of University High school in Iowa City.

Brechler has supervised a vast expansion in University athletic facilities, including a new, 270-acre golf course and a new athletic ticket office which is now under construction.

University President Virgil M. Hancher in a statement, released Friday with Brechler's announcement, said:

"On numerous other occasions I have expressed my high regard for Dr. Paul Brechler as head of the department of physical education, as director of intercollegiate athletics, and as a personal and competent gentleman."

"It was my opinion at the time of his appointment that he would become one of the outstanding directors of intercollegiate athletics in the United States, and I believe that it is now recognized that he has achieved that position. I am delighted that he plans to stay at Iowa."

There were reports that one of the President's main purposes in issuing the statement was to head off any hot utterances from members of congress at this juncture.

Sen. William F. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, and some other legislators have advocated a blockade of Red China if necessary to obtain the prisoners' release.

Favors Naval Blockade
Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said on returning Tuesday from a trip around the world that he would favor an Allied blockade if less drastic measures fail.

Hammarskjold, on his return from Peiping, reported the results of his mission to Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Friday Lodge and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred in Omaha, where both are attending a briefing given by the Strategic Air command—the operational division of the air force charged with responsibility for retaliation against any attack by an aggressor power.

Authorities Say Chute Didn't Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The body of air speed record holder James B. Verdin, who bailed out of a bantam jet bomber 30,000 feet over the Mojave desert Thursday, was found Friday about 2 1/2 miles south of the wreckage of his plane.

His chute had not opened, authorities said.

The body was spotted from the air late Friday afternoon after an all-day search involving scores of planes and several thousand men afoot, on horseback and in automobiles.

A ground party later reached the scene, about 30 miles west of Barstow.

The 36-year-old Douglas Aircraft Corp. test pilot, who as a navy lieutenant commander set the world's three-kilometer jet mark of 753.4 m.p.h. on Oct. 5, 1953, was on a test flight out of the Mojave's Edwards air force base when he radioed he was bailing out.

Plane Found Thursday
The wreckage of his A4D Skyhawk, the nation's smallest atom bomber, was found Thursday night near Victorville, 75 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

Verdin was the third famous flier to lose his life testing planes over the Mojave in the last five months.

Last Aug. 25, Capt. Joseph McConnell, the nation's first triple jet ace, crashed in an air force plane.

Last Oct. 12, George Welch, chief test pilot for North American Aviation Inc., was fatally injured in the explosion of his F100 Super Sabre jet.

Verdin was testing the Skyhawk in the 30,000 to 35,000-foot altitude range when he radioed his base that he was jumping from the "Mighty Midget," as it is called by navy fliers. He didn't say why. The plane is capable of flying 600 m.p.h.

A native of Miles City, Mont., Verdin received a bachelor of science degree in aeronautical engineering at the U.S. Naval Academy and a master's degree at the University of Minnesota.

He served in the navy from 1941 to 1954, winning the Navy Cross, Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal with six stars.

His widow and three children, 3, 1 1/2, years, and 2 months, live in suburban Brentwood. Verdin had a daughter, 12, by a previous marriage.

Ike Cautions Against Talk Of Retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower called on all Americans Friday to avoid talk of "reprisal or retaliation" against Communist China despite "disappointment" at the Reds' failure to release 11 U.S. airmen immediately.

The President issued a formal statement commenting on the mission of Dag Hammarskjold, United Nations secretary general who went to Peiping to appeal for the airmen's release.

The President noted that Hammarskjold believes progress has been made toward obtaining the freedom of the men and other UN personnel and that the way is open for further efforts.

"We must support the United Nations in its efforts," the President said, "so long as those efforts hold out any promise of success."

The United States, he declared, will not "fall into a Communist trap and through impetuous words or deeds endanger the lives of those imprisoned airmen who wear the uniform of our country."

There were reports that one of the President's main purposes in issuing the statement was to head off any hot utterances from members of congress at this juncture.

Trade Future for Iowa?

The direction the United States takes in its trade policy will be before congress again, and the question of how Iowa's congressmen will vote stimulates some interesting speculation.

The apathy with which Iowans traditionally regard the trade issue seems to have lifted a little. Civic groups, the Farm Bureau and individual citizens are full of energy for the furtherance of removing trade barriers.

Iowa has an economic interest in international trade. However, its representation in congress has not always reflected this interest.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper has a record of opposition to lowering trade barriers. Sen. Thomas E. Martin of Iowa City, as U. S. representative consistently voted against tariff-cutting. Rep. Fred Schwengel, who has taken his place, admitted in Iowa City last spring that he was not too familiar with problems.

Iowa's stake in foreign trade, reveals some interesting facts. For instance, 2,600 workers in Iowa can be said to be engaged fulltime in producing goods for export.

Furthermore, exports are important to producers of farm machinery, fountain pens, locomotives, slicing and bread-wrapping equipment, commercial laundry equipment, foundries and machine shops supplying parts that are exported. These Iowa industries employ 12,400 workers.

On the other hand, industries that demand tariff protection are few. The freshwater pearl button industry, shoe factory and a ferro-alloy plant are the most important. These industries employ 2,250 workers.

The pearl button industry is actually being squeezed out by makers of plastic buttons and ocean-pearl producers. Tariffs are only postponing his day of judgment.

Comparing the two groups, 40-45 per cent of Iowa's industrial workers are in enterprises with greater interest in exports than in protection.

Agriculture's interest is even stronger than the manufacturer's. Twenty to 25 per cent of U. S. production of lard has to be exported; otherwise, the oversupply presses heavily on the domestic market and involves losses in hog prices.

Cotton exports even affect the Iowa farmer. They are needed to keep more land from being used for sorghum which has the same general value of corn.

The farmer's prosperity determines the market for agriculture machinery. Thus the benefits of good export markets for the farm products ultimately are felt again by industry.

There are two circumstances which, looking on the hopeful side, might mean a shift in positions by Senators Hickenlooper and Martin.

One is Hickenlooper's participation as a member of the President's Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, more commonly known as the Randall commission.

Though moderate in tone as compared to more drastic changes which many would like to see, the commission's report is a step for freer foreign trade.

One might speculate that Hickenlooper would not oppose the findings of his own committee.

The second hopeful note is a questionnaire Sen. Martin sent to 1st district constituents last spring. In reply to a query on the trade issue, 54.5 per cent of those answering favored extension of reciprocal trade agreements.

If Martin's purpose in sampling the opinion of 1st district Iowans was better representation, he cannot overlook the slight margin challenging his accustomed view.

Whatever motivated their actions in the past, the two senators must make a reappraisal. In the president's second request to congress for a freer trade policy, they have the strong commitment of the leader of their party to enact some measure during this session of congress.

In recognizing the economic advantage of trade to industry and agriculture in Iowa, the senators have the opportunity to do a real service to their state.

Want No Sympathy for Him

The Democrats' policy in 1955 will be to cut the President down in the voters' eyes, but not to lambast him so hard as to create a wave of sympathy for him.

Thought Processes

To the Editor:

Your Jan. 13 issue contained a letter by Mr. Powers. The most interesting aspect of the letter was Mr. Power's reasoning processes. He has the truth. Why, he is right by definition—his own—to wit, liquor is evil. Thus, anyone following, a contrary belief is wrong, a public menace, should be removed from society. This type of thought process has been used to justify the medieval church's burning, Hitler's shooting, Stalin's enslaving of opposition.

Down through the centuries fanatics have been trying to impose their peculiar ideas into the criminal law of communities. It is not enough that they are moral, everyone must be made to be moral.

The fright over flask-toting is tacit agreement that people will drink, law or no. If Iowa wants to control the evil in drinking, let them legislate against the evil—drunkenness—rather than drinking.

Enigma

Interpreting the News

By J. M. Roberts

AP Foreign News Analyst

Iraq's decision to sign a mutual assistance agreement with Turkey drives a rivet into a new Middle Eastern structure which has been taking form in some what halting fashion to replace the chaotic conditions of a year and more ago.

For a long time British and American policy in the Middle East was going nowhere with nothing to do when it got there. The plan for a regional defense bloc had foundered on the shoals of Arab-Jew hatred.

Then Turkey, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization despite its distance from that geographical point, began to move, with Anglo-American encouragement.

Pakistan did likewise. The two countries signed a pact.

Turkey also signed with Yugoslavia and Greece, the former also a non-member of NATO.

The United States maneuvered deftly to end the British-Egyptian dispute over Suez, and to jake Iran off the dangerous teeter-totter to which she had climbed by throwing out the British who had produced oil, her main support.

Opposed Creation of Ties The Arab League also opposed the creation of ties between its members and the West as long as the West supports the development of Israel. It has never been very friendly toward Turkey. But now that one of its members has broken the ice, things may develop.

One of the great enticements is Anglo-American military and economic aid. New plans in this field already have been made for Egypt since she signed with Britain, and are being made for Iraq even while her arrangement with Turkey is still only an agreement in principle.

There is, of course, a danger in this, if the Arab desire—the Arab promise—to go back into Israel cannot be controlled. As the new structure develops, a peaceful arrangement in that quarter, going far beyond the truce of hatred which now exists, becomes more and more essential.

Militarily Capable For the present, however, and some time to come, Israel is capable of taking care of herself militarily, giving time for something to be worked out.

The question now is whether Egypt, struggling to maintain leadership of the Arab states, will find that since she can't lick the tendency toward Western alignments, may decide it is to her interest to adopt it. That, plus the ability to avoid trouble with Arabia over the oil situation, will be a test of success for American policy which, abandoning frontal tactics, has now assumed a much more subtle form.

Ambulance Service Practices Economy Methods—

Preventive Maintenance on Autos Advised

By Claren Dale

Whether you are a student driving a 1955 model car or a faculty member with a 1947 version, you can save money by following the economy and safety methods used by University hospitals' ambulance service.

The service maintains a fleet of 24 standard seven-passenger cars, 22 of which are on the road daily. Through a system of preventive maintenance (that ties in with their safety program) they achieve maximum utility.

The oldest ambulance presently in the fleet, a 1948 model, has been driven 440,000 miles with the original engine. Clarence Hamer, chief mechanic, said that piston rings last about 150,000 miles.

Only One Accident A safety record of only one major accident since the service was started in 1932 has reduced liability insurance costs to a remarkably low rate.

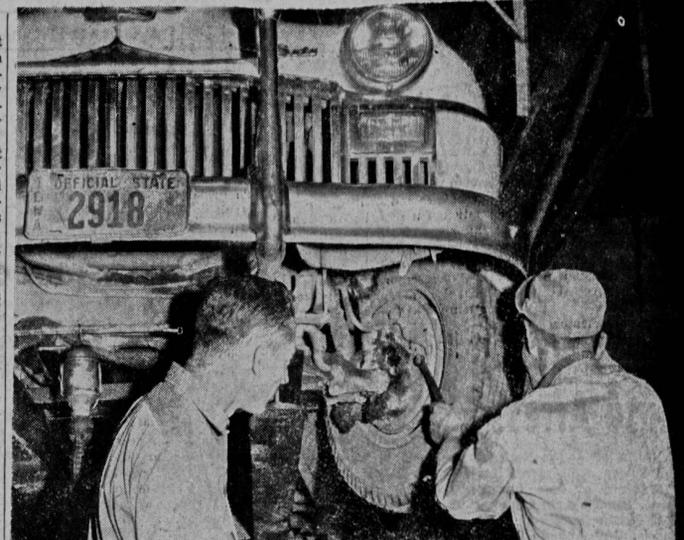

How is this done? A log is kept on each ambulance from the time it is purchased until it is sold, listing mileage and about 50 separate maintenance functions.

The log is checked daily and the required work is done before the car leaves for the next morning's trip.

Oil and filter cartridges are changed each 5,000 miles; grease, 2,500 miles; minor tune-up 10,000 miles; tires rotated, 8,000 miles; wheels repacked, 20,000 miles; alignment, 40,000 miles; generator re-built, 50,000 miles and so on through the list.

Inspected Nightly A nightly inspection is performed on each vehicle. Any operating problems noted by the drivers are reported immediately and corrected. The car is washed and vacuumed before starting each trip.

The service uses standard tires which are selected by the manufacturer to meet the weight and driving demands of the fleet. Tires used in the summer are re-capped with wire coils imbedded in the rubber and are held over for winter driving.

Wear is reduced by the driver keeping the same car each day and using a specific brand of gasoline and detergent-type oil.

Few Repairs Needed

Since 1948, in an estimated 13 million miles of travel, Hamer said that only one generator has burned out and that this was due to a faulty part in a new ambulance.

The drivers themselves are one of the biggest safety factors, according to Robert C. Rea, traffic manager. They travel from 50 to 55 miles an hour, usually only during daylight.

Most of the trips cover two days during which time the driver is in charge of the ambulance.

Operating only in Iowa and carrying only state patients, the driver takes patients to their home on the out-going trip and picks others up at their homes on return to Iowa City.

Young Drivers

The age range for new drivers is from 30 to 45 years of age, the youngest currently employed being 38 years old. D. R. Williamson, administrative assistant, said, "They enjoy the work and get a great deal of job satisfaction out of helping patients."

Rea explained, "Our drivers have an extra sense when they are on the road. Because of the driver's constant effort our accident record is extremely low."

"Almost all the accidents are of a minor character. For example, when one of our ambulances pulled off an ice-covered road to allow an approaching vehicle to pass, the car brushed against the ambulance," Rea added.

What does this record mean to the private car owner?

Applies To Any Auto Hamer believes that a system of preventive maintenance such as the ambulance service follows can be adopted by anyone.

The program in general would apply to any auto, although differences in city and highway driving would necessitate some changes such as more frequent oil changes.

Hamer pointed out the example of a private auto on which this 'maintenance' has worked well. This particular car has been driven 105,000 miles without any major engine work.

Safety is largely up to the driver, but the record set by the ambulance service shows that the combination of maintenance and good driving can save money as well as lives.

Roses, Forlorn Pullet Figure in New Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has been on the job only a week, but already it has been tossed such horticultural, urban-cultural and agricultural problems as:

A. Should the rose be our national flower?

B. Do the nation's urban-culturalists—that is, city dwellers—deserve a cabinet officer and a full department to look after their interests,

C. What can be done about the unwarding life of a North Dakota pullet?

Appropriately, the horticultural note is supplied by a lady legislator, Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio) has introduced a resolution to have the rose named our national flower.

The urban-culturalist is Rep. J. Arthur Younger (R-Calif.), who not only thought up the idea but also the word. During the last congress Younger got to thinking about how the Agriculture department worried about the farmers. Fine, especially in the

Danforth Reschedule

Daily devotional services in Danforth chapel will be continued next semester at the new hour of 4:10 p.m.

Student Christian council, the coordinating body for 11 religious groups at SUI and sponsor of the services, decided in the face of poor attendance at the 8 a.m. chapel services this semester, that the 4:10 hour would be more desirable.

The daily meditations were begun in the fall of 1953 by a group of interested students led by Barbara Baldwin, Lancaster, Pa., then a Danforth foundation graduate student at SUI. The services became a Student Christian council project second semester last year.

This year the member groups of the council have given the daily devotions for one week at a time. Joby Rankin, A3, Tracey, has been chairman of arrangements.

It was pointed out by the council that the chapel services not only provide a time of meditation for students but also give them an opportunity to express themselves spiritually as devotional leaders.

The Iowa Christian fellowship will conduct the services next week, Miss Rankin said.

The Danforth chapel itself was dedicated on Jan. 11, 1953.

The university planning authorities first came upon the idea of a student chapel in the early 1930s. R. H. Fitzgerald, then director of the Memorial Union and of the school of fine arts, called attention to the old St. John's Episcopal church, also known as the "old Zimmerman's church," in Graham township in Johnson county.

The plans materialized when William Danforth of St. Louis, contributed $10,000 toward the construction of the chapel.

Chances Slim For Merger

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The chances of a merger of the three United States branches of the Presbyterian church appeared somewhat dim this week as the result of opposition from southern presbyteries. The union would unite the three groups now in the process of voting on the proposal, the United Presbyterian church, the Presbyterian church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the United States (southern). They have a combined membership of about 3 1/2 million. Unanimous approval of the three is necessary. Thirteen southern presbyteries have voted on the issue and 12 have opposed it. A three-quarter majority of the 84 presbyteries in the southern branch is necessary for the group's approval. Only 10 more negative votes are thus needed among the southern presbyteries to kill the plan. In Philadelphia, Dr. Walton Rankin, publicity manager of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., said 40 out of 256 presbyteries of his branch had voted for union. He said he has received no reports of any presbyteries in his branch that voted against the proposal. The third group, the United Presbyterian church, was scheduled to begin voting Friday in Pittsburgh. The results of its vote will not be known until April.

Hillel Activities Include Observance Of Oneg Shabbat

Weekend activities at Hillel house include plans for a talent show, and cost supper, the observance of Oneg Shabbat and the organization of a new choir. Oneg Shabbat, meaning the delight of the Sabbath, will be observed at Hillel house at 3 p.m. Saturday. Prof. Frederick Bargebaur, of the school of religion, explained the observance as an hour of spirituality to usher out the Sabbath on a spiritual note. This hour is climaxed by the Havdalah ceremony which is a prayer of thanks and the extinguishing of a light in wine. A box containing spices is passed, symbolic of the last whiff of the Sabbath flavor. Chayem Nachman Blalik, Hebrew poet of Televiv, Palestine, is credited with reviving and giving new meaning to the Oneg Shabbat during the 1920's through his writings and his wide observance of it, Bargebaur said. Hillel foundation will sponsor a talent show Sunday evening following a cost supper of lox and bagels at 6 p.m. There will be a charge of 75 cents for visitors and 50 cents for Hillel members. Prof. and Mrs. Stuart Canin will be guests. All students are eligible to participate in the talent show. Participants are asked to be at Hillel house today at 3 p.m. A choir organizational meeting will be held today at 3 p.m. Mrs. Sonia Sands will be choir leader.

Recovery of Pope Seems Imminent

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Transfusions of whole blood and plasma given Thursday to Pope Pius XII may be the last of a long series he has received since he fell gravely ill Dec. 2. The transfusions — given every two or three days since — were given to build up the strength of the 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church. A source close to the Pope said that slow, steady improvement continues, but that the pontiff still is quite weak.

Temporary Donation Memphis, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Mrs. Harold W. Minch donated two guppy fish to a church bazaar. When she returned home her 10-year-old son, Jerry, borrowed a quarter from her. He went to church and now the guppies are back in the Minch household. The entire Gospel probably

Mechanical Brain Probes Accuracy of Scriptures

A mechanical brain at Harvard university called "Mark IV" is now being used by the Rev. John W. Ellison, Episcopal rector from Winchester, Mass., to probe the Bible. He lists the differences in three classifications of spelling variations, additions of a word or several words and omissions of words. The Rev. Mr. Ellison said that comparing these things was simple for Mark IV. However, the questions must first be translated into mathematical terms that the brain can "understand" according to a formula Harvard scientists provided. Every variation in every manuscript had to be described by the terms of a numerical code. The Rev. Mr. Ellison selected four chapters of St. Luke for his study by the mechanical brain. He explained his choice of Chapter Two because it has "absolutely no parallel in any of the other Gospels." This is the chapter beginning: "And it came to pass in those days that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. . . . And Joseph also went up from Galilee. . . . Chapter Three was chosen because it affords a broad study of proper names. He selected Chapter Nine to study because it has a wide diversity of stories. Fifteen verses of Chapter Ten were used because part of the information previously had been gathered and given to the Rev. Mr. Ellison.

Bethany Baptist Ends Conference

The Bethany Baptist church in Iowa City has just concluded a ten-day Bible conference with the Rev. James Merrill, St. Paul, Minn., as speaker. The Rev. Mr. Merrill's theme for the conference was "Your Witness Life for Christ." Bill DeLung, A2, Iowa City, acted as song leader for the special services. The Rev. Leonard Goranson, Bethany pastor, announced that a two-week series of evangelistic meetings would be held Feb. 1 to 13 with the Rev. Harold Howard, New York city, as speaker.

English Church Ends 99th Year

Five men were elected to the church council of the First English Lutheran church at the 99th annual meeting of the congregation this week. Newly elected councilmen include Dayton G. Howe, Leon Cooper, Willard D. Unsicker, Sterling C. Goplerud and Dale M. Bentz. A centennial budget goal of $25,300 for the coming year was approved by the group. Vernon E. Rogers, financial secretary, reported an income of $16,611 for the past year. Of this amount, $4,200 was contributed to outside groups, including the United Lutheran Church in America and the Iowa Synod. They will serve with A. C. Cahill, Kenneth V. Dudley, Frederick W. Moore, Vernon E. Rogers and Frank S. O'Connor on the council. They will be installed Sunday at the 10:45 a.m. service in the church. The Rev. George T. L. Jacobsen will officiate. The congregation entering into its Centennial year adopted a five-point Centennial Year program that will include Evangelism, mission and home advance, the publication of a centennial brochure and jubilee events throughout the year.

University Hospitals Has New Chaplain

The Rev. Lloyd Bartholomew will take over as Protestant chaplain for Iowa churches at University hospitals, Feb. 1. Succeeding the Rev. Allen Lewis, Bartholomew had been serving in residential training in hospital administration at SUI when the Iowa Council of Churches appointed him to the post. He attended Dubuque university, receiving his master's degree in theology in 1941, and served as Presbyterian minister in Centerville, Lansing and Des Moines, before coming to SUI to do graduate work. ARE YOU AN OPTIMIST? What most people call "optimism" is simply an unwillingness to confront reality. It is undoubtedly a virtue to hope for the best—but first you have to know you cannot achieve it merely by hoping for it.

New Places of Worship in Iowa City

MEMBERS OF TWO CONGREGATIONS are holding services in newly constructed churches in Iowa City. The ground was broken for the Bethany Baptist church at B st. near Fifth ave., pictured right above, in August, 1953, and the congregation has been meeting in the basement chapel until the main sanctuary is completed, the Rev. Leonard Goranson, pastor, said. Much of the construction has been carried on by church members. The new Grace

Missionary church on lower Muscatine ave., has been in use since September. Initial work having been started in March, 1954. The church is affiliated with the United Missionary church, a denomination which has one foreign missionary for each one hundred members in this country, the Rev. Norman Hobbs, local pastor, reported. The Bethany group is a member of the Baptist General Conference of America.

'Christian Assertion' In Housing Units Set for February

Religious emphasis planning for next year takes definite form next month when 45 local Christian laymen and ministers will visit university housing units. The Rev. Donald Hetzler, minister to Lutheran students at SUI and advisor of the sponsoring Student Christian Council religious emphasis committee, said that it is hoped a positive Christian assertion will be made in each living unit. The 45, the bulk of whom will be from the SUI faculty, will make their visits from Feb. 7 to 26. The advisory board of Student Christian council has contacted Dr. Daniel T. Niles, an outstanding Asiatic Christian leader from Ceylon, about speaking to a religious emphasis convocation at SUI next year. Dr. Niles will come to the United States next year to address the quadrennial gathering of the Student Volunteer movement in New York. Marlys Long, N2, Cylinder, is chairman of the religious emphasis planning committee.

President Endorses Memorial Library Honoring Pope

President Eisenhower personally has endorsed the construction of a four and one-half million dollar Pope Pius XII Memorial Library to be built at St. Louis University. Plans for this building have been outlined to him in a White House conference with the Rev. Paul C. Reihert, president of the university, and George Strake, chairman of the project. The library, which will be financed by private contributions, will house some 600,000 microfilms of Vatican documents, some of them more than 2,000 years old. The library will make copies of many documents available to researchers on this continent for the first time. In a letter given to the two men, the President stated that establishment of the library "will interest millions of Americans, for one of the world's primary sources of information on the history of Western thought." He added that access to the collection "will be immensely valuable to all who wish to delve more deeply into the fundamentals of our civilization."

Hawk Cagers To Face Rugged Illini Monday

Each Team Hard To Beat On Own Court

By Bob Hooker

Iowa Basketball Coach Bucky O'Connor takes a busman's holiday today as he turns from mentor to spectator. He and his Hawks don't go to the cage wars again for two days.

But with Illinois due at the Iowa field house Monday for a 7:30 p.m. sell-out tussle with the Hawkeys, it's a very good wager Bucky will be found about 2 p.m. today near a television set watching the Illini play Ohio State in the Big Ten's TV game of the Day. The Hawks are to work on the finishing touches for Monday's game in an 11 a.m. drill today.

Should Illinois beat the Buckeyes today, they would retain at least a share of first place with a 3-1 win-loss conference mark. Iowa goes into Monday's outing with a 2-1 Big Ten record. All but two teams could have two Big Ten losses after Monday night.

Tight Series

The series has been close, with the respective home floors meaning much. Iowa has won 10 of the last 12 games here, while Illinois, until last year, hadn't lost to Iowa at Champaign for 26 years. But, then and there, Iowa dealt a 79-90 spanking to the Illini. In turn, though, Illinois gave the Hawks more than a 74-51 licking here. That loss was a vital one to Iowa's hopes of taking the conference crown away from Indiana.

Directing the Illini for seven years, Coach Harry A. Combes has won the Big Ten title three times (in 1949, '51 and '52) and has been runner-up once ('53). A former Illinois star, being named on all-conference teams in 1936 and '37, Combes also was the recipient of the Big Ten medal for proficiency in athletics and scholarship.

Although he won another trophy for the highest Illini free throw percentage in 1936 Big in the Big Ten, Combes has compiled a .787 figure on a 137-37 record. Since 1951, Iowa under O'Connor has won 56 of 77 cage frays for a .727 mark, good for a pair of Big Ten second place finishes (in '52 plus last year). Monday's joust will be Bucky's (33-16) 50th conference game.

This year Illinois is 8-2 as against Iowa's 8-3. Last weekend while Iowa split its two games, the Illini crushed Indiana, 99-75, and tilted Purdue, 83-73, to offset an opening 79-64 reversal received from Wisconsin.

With a squad average of 6 feet, 3 inches Illinois averages one-half inch taller per man than Iowa.

Close Scoring Range

From the 10.1 point per game mark of Deacon Davis to the 13.5 of Carl Cain, four Iowa players range very close in the over-all scoring. Bill Logan has 13 and Bill Seaberg 12.8. In conference play Cain's 18.6 is good for seventh place, while Seaberg's 16.6 stands 14th.

Bucky's philosophy summarizes the outlook on both teams: "It doesn't matter who gets the points as long as they are made."

Like the Hawkeys, Illinois has fine scoring balance with four men—Bill Ridley (13.8), the blazing guard; Bruce Brothers (14.1), the 6-5 forward; George BonSalle (13.0), a 6-7½ sophomore center who has replaced the departed John Kerr; and Paul Judson (12.2), a 6-3½ forward—averaging between 12 and 16 points per game. Ridley tallied 20 points against each Indiana and Purdue, and he leads the club with a 15.6 average in Big Ten games, good for 17th place. For all games Brothers is shooting at a 44.5 clip, while Phil Judson, Paul's twin, is "batting" .440. Ridley is hitting .411.

"Great Respect for Speed"

"It appears Illinois' scoring balance is one of their strengths along with their strong defense," said Bucky Friday. Continuing, Bucky revealed, "We have great respect for the tremendous Illinois speed and their over-all personnel is good, despite loss of players from the 1954 team. They have fine outside shooting by Bill Ridley, and Bill Altenber-

$600,000 Iowa Golf Project Approved

DES MOINES (AP)—A $600,000 program of projects at the new SUI golf course was authorized Friday by the State Board of Education.

The projects, all of which are to be financed from athletic funds, included:

Curbing on driveways and parking area, $16,000; gravel for driveways and parking areas, $2,500; fencing along public highways and some adjoining property, $14,500; entrance gates and walls, $10,000; lighting for practice area and driving range, $23,000.

The university submitted to the board a long-range program of projects which would be financed out of available athletic funds in 1954-55 and 1955-56. The golf course items approved Friday are part of the long-range plan.

Iowa Tankers Meet Indiana

It may appear to be a dual meet between New Zealand and Hawaii, but actually the swimming affair here Saturday at 2 p.m. is the first contest between Iowa and Indiana in 26 years.

Stars of the Hoosiers are Hawaiians Bill Woolsey, 1952 Olympic team member and a national champion; and Dick (Sonny) Tanabe, a fine young sprinter.

And among the better Iowans are the New Zealanders Ross Lucas, senior who won the 220 and 440 in the Illinois meet; and Lincoln Hurring, who took two seconds off the pool record in the backstroke and bettered last year's winning time of the Big Ten champion.

Woolsey from Honolulu last summer defeated Ford Konno, Ohio State's great world record-holder, three times, once in winning the National A.A.U. 400-meter freestyle title and twice in Hawaii at 200 and 400 meters. He won the Japanese 200 meter title last summer, and in 1952 was a member of the U.S. Olympic 800-meter relay team which took 13 seconds off the Olympic record. Last week he swam 220 in 2:08.7 and the 440 in 4:45.4.

Iowa's Lucas hopes to push Woolsey, but his times are much slower: 2:14.8 and 4:49.2 last week against Illinois. Hurring, regarded as a potential champion and record-breaker, has times many seconds faster than Indiana's best, Larry Good.

The other Hawaiian-Hoosier, Tanabe, sped the 100-yard freestyle in 51.8 last week as compared with Iowa's Dick Pennington's 52.2.

Feller Inks 17th Indian Pact

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pitcher Bob Feller signed his 17th pact with the Cleveland Indians Friday and ventured that he will win around 40 more games in the twilight years of his spectacular baseball career. He has 262 victories now.

"I figure I can do the team some good for the next two or three years," the 36-year-old righthander told a reporter. "After that, I'll probably quit playing, but stay in baseball in some capacity like coaching."

Financially, Feller has nothing to fret about. He has earned about $700,000 from the Indians over the years and has made a number of healthy investments.

His contract Friday calls for about the same amount of cash he got last year, between $30,000 and $35,000, Feller said. He won 13 and lost 3 last season with an earned run average of 3.09.

"I'll be happy if I can match that mark this year," he said. "Frankly, I think I can do it. With one exception, my arm felt CLINTON — Clinton's River Kings stormed from behind in the second quarter Friday night to dump Iowa City, 65-57, in a Mississippi Valley conference game.

The Little Hawks hit 78 per cent of their shots in the opening period to take a 17-12 lead, but Iowa City could not keep up the pace and ran into a half-court press set by Clinton. Clinton held a 34-24 lead at the half.

Herb Marske's 19 points led the River Kings, while Jim Kelly tallied 17 markers for Iowa City.

LOI WINNER
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sharp — punching Duilio Loi, lightweight champion of Europe, scored a unanimous and convincing decision over Glen Flanagan, the St. Paul, Minn., bad-boy, in his American ring debut here Friday night.

He first joined the Tribe in 1936 as a 17-year-old Iowa farm-boy noted for his fast ball.

Adding a set of curves, a sinker and a slider to his repertoire, Feller started displaying a new control in contrast to the days when his fireball frequently went past catchers as well as batters. In 1951, he hurled 22 victories against 8 losses for his sixth 20-game season.

Feller said he thinks the Indians can repeat for the American league pennant this season, "but the going probably will be tougher."

The American league's oldest player in point of service, Feller has won more games than any other active major league hurler.

WILTON JUNCTION — Up-rising University high of Iowa City shattered Wilton Junction's zone defense Friday night to post a 53-43 win in an Eastern Iowa conference game.

Jumping to a quick lead, U-High forced the Beavers out of their zone to take its fifth triumph in the last six games. The halftime count favored Coach Chuck Wolbers' Bluehaws, 23-20, but U-High pulled away in a strong third quarter.

Bob Koser with 15 led U-High, but he was supported by Jim Scott and Mike Schoenfelder who got 14 apiece. Jerry Davies and Dave Williams each got 10 for the Beavers.

An effective sliding man-to-man defense by the Bluehaws helped to even its EIC win-loss record at 5-5.

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's basketball fans get a chance Saturday to see what all the shooting is about in the Big Ten race—the shooting of Ohio State's Robin Freeman, that is.

Freeman, the country's top collegiate scorer, takes a 35.1 average against well-balanced Illinois at Columbus, Ohio, in a nationally televised conference game (CBS, 2 p.m. CST).

If Freeman's hoop riddling is up to par, the Illini (2-1) may have a tough time holding onto the top league perch they share with Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota, also sporting 2-1 loop marks.

In Saturday night's three-game Big Ten program, Iowa is idle, but Minnesota is host to tough Purdue (1-1) and Michigan gets into a neighborhood scrap at Michigan State (1-2). The other contest takes Indiana's faltering champions (1-2) to Wisconsin (1-3).

Northwestern (1-1) is host to Notre Dame in a non-league joust.

Ohio State's sole loss in two conference starts was an 88-81 overtime reversal at Michigan. However, the Buckeyes are unbeaten in four home starts this season, and carry an over-all record of 6-3 against Illinois' 8-2.

Jack Mitchell Said Signed By Arkansas

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—An University of Arkansas official Friday said Jack Mitchell of Wichita university has signed a three-year contract to coach the Arkansas Razorback football team.

Bob Cheyne, athletic publicity director at Arkansas, said he did not know what salary Mitchell would receive.

Mitchell was reported en route to Little Rock to meet with the board of trustees.

The 30-year-old former star Oklahoma quarterback succeeds Bowden Wyatt, who resigned last Saturday to accept the post of head football coach and assistant athletic director at his alma mater, the University of Tennessee.

Mitchell will bring two assistant coaches with him from Wichita, Cheyne said. He identified them as George Bernhardt, former Illinois halfback, and Dick Monroe, who played with Kansas.

At Wichita Mitchell's 1954 team won nine games and lost one, capturing the Missouri Valley conference crown.

Wichita officials said Mitchell broke a 10-year contract, with renewal for five more years at Mitchell's option, to take the Arkansas post.

Pete Tillman, Mitchell's chief assistant at Wichita, was announced as Mitchell's successor.

Hawkeys with perfect 2-0 records are Dick Govig, 130; Terry McCann, 123; Harlan Jenkinson, 167; and Jerry Salmon, 147.

AAU Clears Bob Richards

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Richards, America's No. 1 pole vaulter, is still a simon pure amateur.

The Southern Pacific association of the Amateur Athletic Union, after investigating Richards' appearance on a television program during which he received several gifts, came up with this ruling late Friday:

"The gifts that were presented during the 'This Is Your Life' program on the occasion of Rev. Robert Richards' appearance on this show, were presented to the Church of the Brethren in Long Beach, of which Richards is pastor in the interests of furthering its service to the members of its congregation and the community.

"In the light of these circumstances, it is the decision of the registration committee that the amateur status of Richards has not been jeopardized."

The statement was issued by Larry Houston, chairman of the rules committee.

Among the gifts handed to Richards at the conclusion of the TV program last Wednesday night was a dummy set of keys to an automobile. AAU officials became alarmed immediately, and Dan Ferris, secretary-treasurer, wired Houston to investigate at once.

Richards was as surprised as anyone about the complications that arose.

"Whatever the AAU says I'll be happy to comply," he told newsmen. "I certainly want to compete in the 1956 Olympic Games."

Parade of Passing Likely in Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—You can count on plenty of passing when the all-stars of the National Football league's eastern and western divisions tangle Sunday in the fifth annual Pro Bowl battle.

Doing the throwing are the best in the business — Norman Van Brocklin and Y. A. Tittle for the West and Otto Graham and Adrian Burk for the East.

This marks the final game for Graham. He says he's definitely retiring from competition.

Kickoff time for the game is 3 p.m. (CST). It will not be televised.

Buck Shaw, lately of the Francisco 49ers, will coach the West with Coach Jim Trimble of Philadelphia piloting the East.

Thirty players comprise the squads for the game sponsored by the Los Angeles newspaper Publishers association. After payment of other expenses, the proceeds go to charity.

One of the busiest and least known centers of activity around SUI is Alumni House, where university alumni records are kept.

Since 1855, when Dexter Edson Smith received the first degree awarded from SUI, to the present time, a record has been kept of every graduate.

These records contain basic information about the graduate, a brief college history, address, occupation, marriage and family record, newspaper clippings about him, all correspondence carried on with him, and a record of his membership in the alumni association.

Maintains Contact
Loren Hickerson, director of alumni records, says workers at Alumni House try to keep in touch to the best of their ability with the 55,000 living SUI alumni.

To make the job even more difficult, about 2,000 names are added to the files every year and approximately 1,000 addresses are changed every month.

"The main reason for all this work," Hickerson said, "is to gauge the effectiveness of the university. One of the best ways to do this is to find out how and what the alumni are doing."

Rely On University
But that isn't the only reason for a division of alumni records, he explained. In the alumni body there is a group, who, after training and graduation, continue to rely upon the university to keep them educated.

Included in this group are graduates of the professional colleges. They want to keep up on developments in their fields through professional meetings and short courses.

The professional colleges must know how to get in touch with these people in order to inform them of these opportunities. It is here that Alumni House offers one of its greatest services.

Addresses are available to all divisions of the university and are especially useful to the athletic association in the sale of football tickets.

The university sends a bulletin, "On Iowa," to all alumni every two months. The alumni address list is used for this also.

Keeps Records of All Graduates— Alumni House Gauges SUI Effectiveness

"The main reason for all this work," Hickerson said, "is to gauge the effectiveness of the university. One of the best ways to do this is to find out how and what the alumni are doing."

Rely On University

But that isn't the only reason for a division of alumni records, he explained. In the alumni body there is a group, who, after training and graduation, continue to rely upon the university to keep them educated.

Included in this group are graduates of the professional colleges. They want to keep up on developments in their fields through professional meetings and short courses.

The professional colleges must know how to get in touch with these people in order to inform them of these opportunities. It is here that Alumni House offers one of its greatest services.

Addresses are available to all divisions of the university and are especially useful to the athletic association in the sale of football tickets.

The university sends a bulletin, "On Iowa," to all alumni every two months. The alumni address list is used for this also. Alumni House works with all classes in sponsoring class reunions. Special efforts are made to stimulate attendance at the 10th, 25th and 50th class reunions. Every June during alumni week almost 30 other classes are represented also.

Plan Luncheons

Hickerson and his staff plan luncheons for all the classes and honor the 10th, 25th and 50th year reunions with special programs.

RECORDS OF EVERY GRADUATE OF SUI since 1855 are kept up to date in the Alumni House files located across the street from the Iowa Memorial Union. About 2,000 names are added every year, and nearly 1,000 addresses must be changed each month. Assisting in keeping these files up to date are Mrs. Jennie Bolander, right, and Mrs. Paul Ramsey.

gram speakers.

Every person who graduated 50 years ago receives a gold medal at the Golden Jubilee and automatically becomes a member of the Emeritus club.

Many special services are offered to the approximately 5,000 dues paying members. Every two months the "Iowa Alumni Review" is published by the alumni association and sent to members.

This magazine includes features about events at SUI and the activities of the association.

Alumni Interest

Particular interest to members is found in the "Alumni Family" section which tells news of graduates, class by class.

By-weekly reports from behind the scenes in Iowa football in the form of the "Coaches Letter," are sent to all members. Members also receive a priority over non-members on football ticket orders.

A new graduate is automatically a member of the association for one year. A special low renewal rate is offered at the end of the year to keep new graduates in the association.

The association is also of service to the university itself, Hickerson said. It serves as a promotional agency on the university's behalf and does many things the university can't do because of financial appropriations.

Another service of Alumni House is to help form alumni clubs over the country. Almost every large city in the U.S. has an alumni club which meets once or twice a year for an alumni get-together.

SUI Enthusiasm

Hickerson tries to meet with these clubs every few years in an effort to keep up their enthusiasm and ties with the university. Films about athletics and activities at SUI are circulated to these clubs by Alumni House.

Alumni House is also the headquarters for the alumni association, of which Hickerson is executive secretary. The association formed in 1860, is an independent self-supporting agency, incorporated and supervised by a board of directors.

One of the better known services is the sponsoring of broadcasts of sports events over WSUI. Spot time was also purchased for broadcasting promotional information about SUI. These two projects are new this year.

9 Employees

To handle these services and projects, a staff of nine in addition to Hickerson is maintained.

Robert D. Noble, MA '52, is editor of the "Iowa Alumni Review." Both he and Hickerson are former Daily Iowan editors.

Max Hawkins, one of the "iron men" of 1939 is secretary of the Old Gold Development Fund, the newest project of the association. John Reid serves as the traveling field secretary.

Mrs. Blanche Holmes, supervisor of records, is assisted by Fern Rundell, Mrs. Paul Ramsey is the office secretary and Marie Keller is association bookkeeper.

The alumni department offices were in the basement of Old Capitol until January of last year when it moved into Alumni House across from the Iowa Memorial Union. Hickerson has been director since 1947.

Area Toastmasters To Compete Here

Winners of nine local Toastmaster club speaking contests will compete for the fourth Iowa area of Toastmasters International title Feb. 26, at the Iowa Memorial Union, the Iowa City Old Capitol Toastmasters club announced Friday.

Representatives of the area clubs were selected through local speaking contests. Clubs in the fourth Iowa area include three each in Cedar Rapids and Davenport and one each in Iowa City, Clinton and Muscatine. A committee of nine judges will determine the area winner.

The speech contest will be held following a banquet in the River room.

Honor Group To Initiate 25

Twenty-five recently elected members of the SUI chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic society, will be initiated in a ceremony to be held Tuesday at 5 p.m. in the senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Loren Hickerson, chapter president, will preside at the initiation ceremony.

Six of the 25 new members will be initiated in absentia, according to Hickerson.

Election to Phi Beta Kappa requires a scholastic average of at least 3.2 throughout four years of university work.

The Iowa chapter of Phi Beta Kappa will honor its new members at a banquet in the river room of Iowa Memorial Union at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Chapter president Hickerson will extend greetings to the new members of the society. The response for the initiates will be delivered by Jane Eick, A4, Spencer.

T. Z. Koo, SUI professor of oriental studies, will speak to the group on "Intellectual Leadership in a New Age." He will also play several flute solos of old Chinese songs.

EDUCATIONAL DUMMY
STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A dummy is putting Phil Wein, of Sharon, Pa., through Pennsylvania State University. Wein, a junior, has been a ventriloquist since he was 9 years old and has appeared on the stage, radio and television.

Moishe Smith Art To Be Exhibited In Memorial Union

An exhibit of 17 prints and 12 paintings by Moishe Smith, C, Los Angeles, Calif., will be presented in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union from Jan. 16 through Feb. 11.

The fine arts committee of the Iowa Memorial union board is sponsoring the exhibit.

A faculty tea will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday in the main lounge of the Union in honor of the artist.

Moishe Smith received his M.F.A. from SUI in August 1953. He also studied painting and printmaking at the school of Painting and Sculpture, Skowhegan, Maine.

Parade of Passing Likely in Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—You can count on plenty of passing when the all-stars of the National Football League's eastern and western divisions tangle Sunday in the fifth annual Pro Bowl battle.

Doing the throwing are the best in the business — Norman Van Brocklin and Y. A. Tittle for the West and Otto Graham and Adrian Burk for the East.

This marks the final game for Graham. He says he's definitely retiring from competition.

Kickoff time for the game is 3 p.m. (CST). It will not be televised.

Buck Shaw, lately of the Francisco 49ers, will coach the West with Coach Jim Trimble of Philadelphia piloting the East.

Thirty players comprise the squads for the game sponsored by the Los Angeles newspaper Publishers association. After payment of other expenses, the proceeds go to charity.

Physicists Give Gun Mount One-Over

THIS SIX-TON TURRET, part of a 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun, has been lent to the SUI nuclear physics group by the United States navy. The turret will be used by the tank room of the Physics building to support an analyzing magnet now being built by the physics group. Prof. James A. Jacobs, director of nuclear research at SUI, right, and R. C. Grimm, physics department mechanic, examine the mount.

Children's Dentists To Discuss Fear

The psychological management of the child who has unusual fears of the dentist will be a major topic of discussion in a post-graduate course in children's dentistry beginning Monday at SUI and continuing through Friday.

"The main purpose of the course is to make available to the general dental practitioner the results of the latest research in children's dentistry," explains Dr. Kenneth E. Wessels, professor and head of preventive dentistry and pedodontia at SUI and director of the course.

Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann of the Iowa Child Welfare Research station will discuss the psychology of the normal child. Frank R. Coburn, associate professor of psychiatry, will talk to the visiting dentists about the psychology of the problem child. Wessels will discuss the actual handling of the child in the dental office.

Morning sessions of the course will be held in the Iowa Center for Continuation Study, and afternoon meetings will be held in the children's clinic of the college of dentistry.

The visiting dentists will be welcomed at the opening session by Dean William J. Simon of the college of dentistry.

DANGEROUS PROTECTION
ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — Glen Chitwood was afraid fire would get into long, dry grass around his garage and destroy the building so he decided to burn the grass off. The "protective" fire burned down the garage.

Porter Elected To Medical Group

Dr. John Roger Porter, professor and head of bacteriology in the SUI college of medicine, has been elected to membership on the dean's office advisory committee in that college.

He succeeds Dr. W. R. Ingram, professor and head of anatomy, in the four-year post.

The committee is composed of two clinical members and two non-clinical members elected by the faculty, and one member appointed by the dean from either area. One member is elected each year to succeed the member whose term expires.

U.S. Navy Loans 6-Ton Gun Turret To Physics Group

The SUI nuclear physics group has received a twin 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun, minus barrels, on a loan from the U.S. navy.

The six-ton turret, obtained for SUI by the atomic energy commission, will remain in the Mechanical Engineering building while physics department mechanic R. C. Grimm removes the superstructure.

The basic mechanism will then be taken to the tank room of the physics building where it will support a rotating analyzing magnet, now being built by the physics group.

An analyzing magnet is used to study various particles and their energy, given off when an atom smashes causes a nuclear reaction.

The magnet was designed by the University of California and will weigh over 2 tons.

The nuclear physics group is studying medium energy nuclear reactions to learn about the properties, behavior and structure of nuclei.

The gun mount, valued at $85,000, came without plans or assembling instructions, "but we can get it apart pretty easily," said Prof. James A. Jacobs, director of nuclear research. "If they (the navy) want it back together again, though, they'd better send someone to do it," he added.

Allis-Chalmers Men To Interview Engineers

Representatives of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company will interview SUI senior engineering students Jan. 18, to select men for on the job training and professional development.

Discussion of the Allis-Chalmers graduate training course will be led by A. W. Kremser, manager of the firm's Davenport district office and J. C. Schroeder of the company's development office.

City Adopts New Parking Measures

By Kirk Boyd

The new year has brought a new look to Iowa City's parking problem.

Five changes are in force, or upcoming. They are:

1. Fewer parking violation tickets are being issued.
2. Parking stalls are being widened to allow easier parking.
3. The maximum time on parking meters will be cut to make it easier to find a parking space.
4. A new city parking lot will be open soon.
5. Motorists will find it harder to beat fines on parking violations.

Fewer Tickets

The graduated scale of parking fines has already brought down the number of parking tickets issued.

Iowa City has been averaging 35,000 to 40,000 parking tickets per year. That is as many, traffic consultant George Barton said, as a city of 280,000.

Barton recommended fines of $2 for the second violation, $3 for the third, $4 for the fourth and $5 for the fifth. The council agreed and put the scale into effect Jan. 1.

The number of traffic tickets paid since then tells the story: Jan. 4, 106; Jan. 5, 100; Jan. 6, 102; Jan. 7, 89; Jan. 8, 87; Jan. 10, 61; Jan. 11, 37, and Jan. 12, 24.

Chronic Offenders

"Some of the chronic offenders will start moving their cars when they get the third and fourth ticket," Police Chief O. A. White said.

Only two persons so far have received 33 tickets.

Parking stalls, both parallel and diagonal, are being enlarged to accommodate today's larger cars.

"Most of the original stalls will be enlarged," City Manager Peter F. Roan said, "although some of them won't need it."

The diagonal stalls are often as narrow as seven feet. They will be enlarged to 8.3 feet. The change, Roan said, will eliminate about 150 parking spaces in Iowa City.

Widen Driving Areas

The diagonal stalls often leave cars at angles up to 57 degrees from the curb. This is being cut down to 45 degrees to widen the traveled portion.

The Iowa City street department is now moving the meters for the larger parking stalls.

The city council is slated to pass a resolution Jan. 24 that will cut down the maximum parking time in parking meter areas.

Some three-hour meters will be replaced by two-hour meters; many two-hour meters will be replaced by one-hour meters, according to the plan.

Meters will be installed on some blocks where parking is now free.

New Parking Lot

A new parking lot will be located at the site of the Union bus depot, which will be torn down in the near future. The lot will hold 36 cars.

All of the changes may not be beneficial to one breed of violator: the meter cheater, according to Roger Ivie, police judge.

"Motorists have been able in the past to bring meter violation tickets to police court and complain that the meter cheated them on time. There is little choice for the police judge except to excuse the tickets.

"We can't tell a man he is lying to save 25c or two dollars," said Ivie.

Now tickets will be excused only if the motorist notifies the police department as soon as he discovers the ticket.

Telephoning the police from a pay phone doesn't cost a dime, Ivie pointed out. On a call to police, the dime is returned.

21-Year-Old Law Commons Houses Coeds For 2d Time

ONCE THE HOME OF LAW STUDENTS, the Law Commons will be invaded by women students starting with the fall semester of 1955. The building will be used as a women's dormitory until a new dormitory is finished in September, 1957. Women students occupied the Law Commons once before during the school year of 1944-45.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series about buildings on the SUI campus).

By Ken Koopman

Beginning with the 1955 fall semester women students will again be climbing the 88 steps up the hill to the Law Commons.

This is not the first time women students have invaded the building. They occupied the dormitory during the school year of 1944-45 and the first semester of 1946.

Conversion of the Law Commons, which now houses the Iowa Center for Continuation Study, into a women's dormitory will begin this summer.

Until 1957

Women students will use the dormitory until the new Burge Hall dormitory is completed in September, 1957, according to T. M. Rehder, director of university dormitories and dining services.

The dormitory, which will house approximately 150 women students, will be called simply "The Commons" after the women move in, Rehder said.

The Iowa Center for Continuation Study will move into new quarters at Parklawn this summer, Rehder said.

The Law Commons, built in 1934 by the Works Project Administration at a cost of $178,000, was principally a dormitory for law students until World War II.

Military Use

Since that time, the Law Commons has been used as a dormitory for almost everyone but law students. The army air force used it during the first part of the war. Then men from the army's special training program took it over.

After that came the women students. In 1952 the Iowa Center for Continuation Study moved in.

When the building was opened in 1934, Fred W. Dolezal, 61, took over the job of custodian. He has been on the job at the Law Commons for the last 20 years, and has worked for the university for 33 years.

Earlier Hours

When asked if he thought women students would be less trouble for him than law students, Dolezal said, "Yes. They have to be in earlier at night."

"I liked the law students, though, and hated to see them go," Dolezal said.

"They were good scouts. Sometimes they got rowdy, but they always paid me back at Christmas with lots of gifts," he said.

Telling of his experience with the law students, he said one of them had once used a battering ram to knock a hole through the wall of his room when he had forgotten his key.

Kidnap Queen

"He just battered the wall in and crawled through the hole," Dolezal said.

In 1937, during Mecca week, the engineering students stole the Law Commons sign and Painted it green, he related.

In retaliation, Dolezal said, the law students kidnapped the Mecca queen and the orchestra that was to play at the Mecca dance and locked them up at the Law Commons.

Committee To Ask New Center Funds

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa legislators will be asked during the current session to provide funds for a new center at Iowa City for diagnosing emotional disturbances and mental retardation of children.

Requesting the new center will be a number of citizens' and parents' groups, working in cooperation with the Iowa Association for Retarded Children.

The Citizens' Committee for a Children's Center, headed by Mrs. Gordon DeLay of Cedar Rapids, said the center would be of "immeasurable help" to social workers, parents, teachers and others engaged in working out plans to aid emotionally disturbed and retarded children.

Early Stork Ruins Surprise Shower

A surprise baby shower wound up surprising the two hostesses Friday. The expectant mother, Mrs. James Tsufis, 310 N. Gilbert, had the baby a month ahead of time and had to be taken to University hospitals 21 hours before the surprise party was to take place.

Hasty consultations between the hostesses, Mrs. Julia Bartling, 514 N. Dubuque st., and Mrs. H. M. Libowitz, 407 N. Dubuque st., resulted in the shower coming off as scheduled, but without the chief guest.

Tsufis will take the shower gifts with him this morning when he visits his wife and new son.

Boy Helps in Arrest Of Candy Store Thief

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP)—An indignant 11-year-old boy aided in the arrest of an armed bandit who dared to hold up the youngsters' favorite candy store.

IN LINE OF DUTY

MUSKOGON, Mich. (AP)—Municipal Judge William T. Caughey didn't have to take a safe-cracker from jail when he misplaced his keys and found himself locked out of his chambers. Detective Sgt. Rudolph Johnson deftly picked the lock for the judge.

Board OK's Dorm Name, Approves Faculty Changes

Approval of two resignations, four leaves of absence and two appointments for SUI faculty members was granted Friday by the state board of education, President Virgil M. Hancher announced.

The board also approved "Burge Hall" as the name for the new 600-bed women's dormitory to be built soon. The name was selected in memory of the late Adelaide Laschke Burge, SUI dean of women from 1920 to 1946.

Meeting in Des Moines, the board accepted the resignations of Elizabeth Halsey from her administrative duties as head of the department of physical education for women and Sybil Woodruff as head of the department of home economics, both resignations to be effective at the close of the 1955 summer session. Miss Woodruff is retiring under the university's voluntary retirement plan.

Approve Leaves

The board approved leaves of absence from teaching for Miss

Halsey and Miss Woodruff for the 1955-56 academic year.

Prof. C. E. Cousins of the department of romance languages was granted a leave of absence for the second semester of the current academic year, as was Asst. Prof. Francis T. Cole, department of physics. Professor Cole will spend the semester at the University of Illinois, working with the recently organized Midwest Universities Research association.

Raymond Rarey was appointed supervisor of the dental laboratory in the Iowa college of dentistry, effective Sept. 1. He has operated a private dental laboratory in Iowa City since 1943.

Union Manager

Robert E. Froeschle, executive secretary of the Bettendorf chamber of commerce, was named manager of the recreational area of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Miss Halsey, head of the department of physical education for women at SUI since 1924, received her education at Oshkosh State Teachers college, the university of Chicago, Wellesley college and the University of Michigan.

Miss Halsey taught at Wellesley and subsequently served as director of recreation for the Near East relief project in Constantinople and Athens before joining the Iowa faculty. She has been president of the Central association for physical education of college women, the Central District physical education association, the Iowa City League of women voters and the SUI chapter of the American association of university professors.

Since 1940

Miss Woodruff has headed the SUI home economics department since 1940, having pre-viously served on the faculties of California and Kansas.

Miss Woodruff has served as national president of Iota Sigma Pi, honorary chemistry society, and is a past vice-president of Omicron Nu, honorary home economics group. She is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Sigma Delta Epsilon, the American chemical society, the American association of university women, the American home economics association, and holds a fellowship in the American association for the advancement of science.

Lion Proves He Doesn't Make Very Good Pet

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Robert Tomorchin brought a 9-month-old, 60-pound lion home from a Guatemalan zoo and sold it to Mr. and Mrs. James C. Nicholas with the idea it would make a good pet for their six children, ranging in age from 4 to 15.

Nicholas kept the big cat on a leash on a screened porch and things seemed to be working out well until the animal snapped the leash, chewed through the screen and jumped into the yard. A collie pup rushed to the make friends but the lion killed it with a blow, took it under the house and ate it.

He went docilely when a Humane Society representative crawled under the house to get him—but he didn't return to the porch, he went to a zoo.

Tree Shears Off Top of Auto, 2 Killed

TWO IOWA CITY AREA youths were killed and a third injured Thursday night when their car failed to make a turn on highway 22 in Riverside. The top of the car was nearly sheared off when the vehicle struck a tree. Killed were Cletus A. Kasper, 24, Riverside, and Thomas B. Stumpf, 17, Kalona. A third occupant of the car, Robert J. Kern, also of Kalona, was taken to University hospitals where his condition was reported satisfactory Friday.

3d Youth Is 'Satisfactory' After Crash

Two Iowa City area youths were killed and a third severely injured about 11:30 p.m. Thursday in a one-car accident on highway 22 in Riverside.

Killed outright in the crash was Cletus Ambrose Kasper, 24, of route 1, Riverside, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kasper. Young Kasper was owner of the car and believed to be the driver.

Thomas Bernard Stumpf, 17, route 3, Kalona, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stumpf, died en route to the University hospitals.

Robert Joseph Kern, 18, route 3, Kalona, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kern, suffered fractures of the pelvis and femur, facial lacerations and possible other injuries. He was reported in satisfactory condition in University hospitals Friday.

The three were traveling east out of Riverside when their car failed to make a curve, plunged down the embankment, smashed into a large tree and came to rest on its wheels about 15 feet past the tree.

Apparently the car started to overturn before hitting the tree. The crash nearly sheared the top off the 1952 four-door sedan.

The two younger youths were thrown from the car, according to Sheriff Charles Snyder of Washington county. Kasper, pinned to the wreckage, was removed by early arrivals at the accident scene.

Indian Speaker Claims India, U.S. Not Parting

India and the United States are not drifting apart. They are bound together by their emphasis on spiritual values and democratic institutions.

This was the theme of a talk by Dr. Amiya Chakravarty, former member of the Indian delegation to the United Nations, delivered Friday in the House Chamber of Old Capitol.

Chakravarty explained that the April conference of southeast Asian nations, summoned by India's Prime Minister Nehru, would not seek to "create a new force or a hostile organization" but simply to organize police observers for the area. Neither India nor any other southeast Asian nation could mount a military force, Chakravarty said.

India's Differences

India's differences with the United States, Chakravarty said, arise from India's knowledge that her security cannot be won on a military level. Her role must be, he said, that of a mediator between the antagonists that surround her.

Chakravarty marshalled many facts such as the religious basis of Indian life and India's hospitality to many creeds and races to show the foundation for lasting Indo-American friendship.

India's best contribution to the defeat of communism, he said, is industrialization and land reform within her own boundaries. Like the United States, India seeks to combine spiritual values and material betterment.

The new budget, he said, will let the navy operate 400 warships and 600 other vessels — about the same as now. But the number of carrier air groups is being boosted from 16 to 17. The marine corps will remain at three divisions and three air wings.

Altogether, Eisenhower said, the number of active planes in combat and supporting units of the air force, navy and marine air corps will go up from 34,000 last June 30 to 36,000 on June 30, 1956. But whereas in last year's budget, he said the figure will rise to "more than" 40,000 during the next three years, this time he omitted the time element and mentioned an objective of "close to" 40,000 aircraft.

Not Big Enough

Some Democrats raised their eyebrows at the defense program and suggested it may not be big enough. Some did a bit of jeering because the budget still is in the red. Key Republicans commented, as did the President, that at least headway is being made toward a balanced budget.

The President estimated that in the year ahead, government spending will come down about a billion dollars, income will rise about a billion, and the deficit will add up to $2,408,000,000. This is a little more than half the size of this year's deficit.

Eisenhower said he has no alternative but to ask for an increase in the debt limit. Congress voted last year to lift the ceiling to 281 billion, but only temporarily. Unless it acts again, the ceiling will come back down to 275 billions next July 1.

SMITH DAMAGE SUIT TO GO TO JURY

The jury hearing Carroll B. Smith's $20,000 suit against the city of Iowa City will begin deliberations in Johnson County district court this morning after receiving instructions from Judge Harold D. Evans.

Smith, an Iowa City mechanic, sued for injuries suffered from a fall on an icy street in January, 1953. Because the water was said to have come from a leaking pipe, the city brought the Iowa Water Service company into the case in case judgment is awarded to Smith. Also defending is Mrs. Emma E. Hoppe on whose property the leak was allegedly located.

Final arguments on the case ended at 5:30 p.m. Friday with attorney Edward L. O'Connor summing up for Smith.

Ike Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower sent Congress Monday a slightly lower $62,408,000,000 budget that will put two of every three dollars into defense and the largest peacetime amounts into atomic-armed air power and continental defense.

Still unbalanced for the fifth straight year, the budget blueprints costs of operating the government for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

First Things First

Eisenhower told the legislators in a 27,000-word message the administration's objective is to be "provident," to put "first things first," to guarantee the nation's security in these days of uneasy peace, and at the same time "assure high and rising employment, a growing prosperity, and a stable dollar." The budget, he said, contains some increased funds to promote the "general well-being of the people."

Once again, therefore, the "stern requirements of our national defense" will use up two thirds of the expenditures — 49 1/2 billion dollars. That is 198 million dollars less than this year's figure and six billions below the amount for last year.

More Air Power

The key to deterring aggression, the President said, continues to be nuclear weapons and "nuclear-air retaliatory power." Thus 22 billion dollars allowed the defense department is assigned to air power of the three armed services and related programs — more than ever before in peacetime.

More radar fingers, he said, will be probing the northern horizons for enemy planes. More guided missile battalions, he said, are rapidly being set up around vital targets. Air defense forces, he asserted, are being kept on a constant alert.

Manpower Cut

Eisenhower didn't spell out how the coming cut in military manpower from 3,200,000 to 2,800,000 will affect the number of army divisions. He pictured the army of the future as "organized into smaller, but more mobile and self-contained units with greater fire power."

The new budget, he said, will let the navy operate 400 warships and 600 other vessels — about the same as now. But the number of carrier air groups is being boosted from 16 to 17. The marine corps will remain at three divisions and three air wings.

Altogether, Eisenhower said, the number of active planes in combat and supporting units of the air force, navy and marine air corps will go up from 34,000 last June 30 to 36,000 on June 30, 1956. HEART DRIVE BEGINS

The 1955 Heart Fund campaign was initiated Monday when L. E. Hunn, chief of special services and information officer at Veterans Administration hospital, was appointed chairman of the drive by the Johnson county heart committee. Under Hunn's direction, the committee will stage a door-to-door campaign Feb. 20.
