SUI To Test TV Classroom Teaching

By Drake Mabry
Daily Iowan City Editor
George Gobel and Dave Garway have nothing over two SUI professors who will begin teaching a class on television next semester.
Prof. Hugh Kelso and Prof. Russell Whitesel, of the SUI political science department, will teach comparative foreign governments via TV in an experiment designed to study the effectiveness of television as a method of teaching.
The experiment is the brainchild of Prof. Dewey B. Stuit, dean of liberal arts, Prof. H. Clay Harsbarger of the SUI television center, and other faculty members.

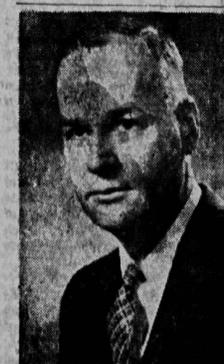

Divide Into 2 Groups
The study will work like this: the class will be divided into two groups, one in the SUI television studio, the other in an upstairs room. The class will be taught by the discussion method under the cameras while the other will watch and listen in the other room. The TV circuit will go only to the other class.
The class viewing the discussion will be able to enter into the discussion by means of an inter-communication system.
The two groups will be rotated during the semester so that each will have the experience of being under the camera and in the viewing room.

Search for Problems
The study next semester is primarily concerned with the discovery of problems involved in television teaching, Stuit said.
"The plan possesses a lot of possibilities," Stuit said, "but it also means lots of work. We have to find what materials are best suited for this type of thing and how the students will function in such a teaching situation."
The use of visual aids—charts, graphs and blackboards—will be studied as well as methods of stimulating and guiding discussions and the most effective camera and microphone techniques.

Preserve Group Discussion
Stuit and Harsbarger believe that television can be a means of preserving the small group discussion method of teaching while faced with the task of instructing a large body of students.
"It is known that television can be used effectively as a way to transmit lecture methods of teaching. But the current experiment is designed to study the discussion method within small groups and how TV can preserve the advantages of this method."
The use of the inter-communication system will enable the viewers to participate in the discussion as if they were actually there. It takes them out of the observer role, Stuit said.

More Personal Contact
It is hoped that television will provide a means to use the discussion method of instruction—which provides more personal contact between student and professor—in a large class.
The ideal situation, Stuit said, would be to have a high-powered professor teach a class of 15 students, then 15 more and so on. But there is not enough money or professors to do this, he said.
So the next step would be to televise one class of students using the discussion method to other groups, giving them the opportunity to enter in the discussion, too.

Ask Centers In Iowa City For Retarded

DES MOINES (AP) — Several speakers told a joint meeting of the senate and house public health committees Thursday that the state of Iowa could save money by establishing two centers at Iowa City for specialized treatment of children.

The program is contained in a bill introduced in the house by Rep. Ernest Kossek (R-Cedar Rapids). It calls for a building with 40 beds at a cost of $700,000 for the treatment of emotionally disturbed children.
It also proposes a $250,000 structure with 30 beds for care of mentally retarded children. Kossek said it would cost about $450,000 annually to operate the two units.

The speakers were representatives of the Iowa Association of Retarded Children. Since its organization about a year ago by 26 groups and additional individuals, it has received inquiries from 93 of the state's 99 counties.
In three months two-thirds of the counties reported 1,800 cases of children who needed help, association spokesmen said.
Dr. Frank Coburn, associate professor of psychiatry at SUI, said that studies show the proper treatment would result in 85 per cent of the patients being cured. He said also that it costs $30,000 to $50,000 for lifetime care of a child committed to a school for the retarded.

Knowland Hits Pacific Stand

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. William Knowland (R-Calif.) said Thursday this nation's failure to take a stand in the Pacific could mean "moving our line of defense back to Oregon" if the Reds take over all of Asia.
Knowland, Senate minority leader, has differed with President Eisenhower concerning Asian plans.
In Chicago for a speaking engagement Thursday night the California Republican said, "The spread of communism in Asia is the challenge to the United States."
He said he thinks the Eisenhower administration has been taking steps to stop the spread of communism in Asia, but that "the time is not too far distant when we've got to make a decision on a line in the Pacific where we'll have to make a stand."
"If not, and if the Reds take over all of Asia, it means moving our line of defense back to Oregon."
Knowland, asked about a cease-fire between the Chinese Reds and Nationalists, said he doubted "that either of them would agree to it."
"And even if they did, it wouldn't mean a thing to the Reds because they've constantly violated the armistice in Korea by holding American men building up airstrips, and building up their fire power."

Russians Free 3d American Prisoner

BERLIN (AP) — An American soldier was released by the Russians Thursday after six years' captivity. He was in such poor shape the army ordered hospital care first rather than the usual interrogation.
Pvt. William A. Verdine, 28, Starks, La., was turned over to United States officials in the Soviet East Berlin headquarters, the third American to be released from Soviet prison camps this month.
Verdine, missing from his unit at Coburg, West Germany, since Feb. 3, 1949, told army doctors he had stomach trouble, feared for his heart, and once suffered severe coughing fits in the coal mines of Vorkuta, Soviet forced labor camp in the arctic.
Verdine was hospitalized, but under guard. He will remain in detention while an inquiry determines if he shall face a court-martial for illegal absence or desertion.
Verdine had been in the Vorkuta camp with John H. Noble, Detroit, and Pvt. William T. Marchuk, Norristown, Pa., who were released 12 days ago after a combined total of 14 years in Russian hands. Noble, a civilian, is back home. Marchuk is in the guardhouse here, facing a possible court-martial.

Sheppard Attends Father's Funeral

DR. SAMUEL H. SHEPPARD, hatless in dark suit, leaves the mortuary after funeral services for his father Thursday. The other men are sheriff's deputies. They joined the funeral procession in a 10-mile ride to the cemetery where Dr. Richard A. Sheppard, who died Tuesday night, was buried next to his wife, Ethel, who committed suicide Jan. 7. The 31-year-old son, convicted last December of murdering his wife, was permitted to leave Cuyahoga county jail to attend both funerals.

Secret Vote in Committees Kept

DES MOINES (AP) — A move to do away with secret balloting in Iowa senate committee meetings was beaten down by the Republican majority as several committees held organizational meetings Thursday.
Committees which completed their organization included appropriations, tax revision, cities and towns, claims and public works and buildings.
Democratic members of all the committees said they attempted to get through each committee a rule change calling for roll call voting, with a record kept by the committee secretary as to how each member voted.
Under rules which have applied in most committees through the last several sessions of the legislature, balloting is secret if two members of the committee ask that it be so.
A secret ballot was taken in each committee session, the Democratic members said, to determine that the roll call balloting will not apply in the current general assembly.
The Democrats said they also plan to move in the future to open committee meetings to the press.

Dog's Life

Canine Naps During Mosse Lecture
Some people might say that a college professor leads a dog's life, but how many dogs lead a professor's life?
Such a dog confronted Prof. George Mosse Thursday morning during his lecture on Western Civilization in Macbride hall.
A brown canine who must have had ambitions for an education ambled into Mosse's class, sniffed around the lecture stand, looked wistfully at Mosse and then settled down to a short nap in front of the stage.
As Mosse ended his class he remarked: "Dog-lovers may go home now."
Looking down at the yawning dog he said, "And you, too."
Not wanting to appear stupid, the dog looked at Mosse and slowly walked out of the room.

FARMERS DECREASE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department Thursday estimated the nation's farm population declined 12.6 per cent between 1950 and 1954 as many rural folk continued a long prevailing migration to the cities.

Ridgway To Remain As Chief of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday approved Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's retention on active duty beyond the normal retirement age of 60.
Ridgway will be 60 in March. Without Thursday's action, he would have been forced to resign at the end of that month, 4½ months short of his appointed two-year term as the army chief of staff.

Ike Sees Tax Cut Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Dwight Eisenhower said Thursday "a general, though modest, reduction in taxes" may be enacted next year.
The President held out this prospect in an optimistic review of progress toward a greatly expanded American economy, in his annual economic message to congress.
He said America now is in the process of vigorous recovery from last year's "mild and brief" recession and:
Increased Production
"With wise management of its national household, our country can within a decade increase its production from the current annual level of about $60 billion dollars to 500 billion, or more, expressed in dollars of the same buying power."
The President's talk of a possible tax cut in 1956 — an election year — was more positive than the language he used in his State of the Union and budget messages earlier this month. In those messages, he merely expressed hope that reductions could come about.
Thursday Mr. Eisenhower said taxes are still a heavy burden and added:
Expanding Economy
"Lower taxes would tend to encourage work, promote more efficient business practices and create more jobs through new investments."
"Fortunately, with our economy continuing to expand, we can look forward to larger federal revenues from existing tax rates."
"This, together with further economies in expenditures, should make possible next year another step in the reduction of taxes."
No Cut This Year
"Congress might then consider enacting a general, though modest, reduction in taxes and, at the same time, continue the program which was begun last year of reducing barriers to the free flow of funds into risk-taking and job-creating investments."
He repeated that no tax reductions should be made this year, in the face of a call by some Democrats on the House Ways and Means committee for action to cut everybody's personal income tax.

UN Appeal Considered For Tachens

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the United States and New Zealand consulted Thursday on a possible appeal for United Nations intervention to stop fighting around the Tachen islands between Nationalist and Red China.
The active ground combat zone is in Nationalist island territory along the China mainland.
The British foreign office disclosed the three countries jointly have been considering asking the UN security council to seek a cease-fire in the whole China conflict.
British officials said the cease-fire move now is being given fresh attention due to the personal weight President Eisenhower has thrown behind the proposal.
The President told a White House news conference Wednesday he would like to see the UN try to halt the fighting in that area, which he called a "sort of powder-keg."
Diplomats here said all three countries have revived the cease-fire suggestion because of the new fighting in the East China Sea north of Formosa.

Guatemalan Rebels Attempt To Seize Air Force Base

GUATEMALA (AP) — The anti-Communist government of President Carlos Castillo Armas said a rebel force tried to seize the Aurora air force base here Thursday. Several men were killed or wounded in the clash.
The outbreak apparently was the biggest blow attempted against Castillo Armas' government since his irregulars drove out the Red-supported government of President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman last June.
Unconfirmed reports say the leader of the revolt was Col. Francisco Cosenza, former ambassador to Italy who recently returned here and was jailed. He was released a few days ago.
Cosenza was reported to be a close friend of ex-President Arbenz. Arbenz recently left his exile residence in Mexico and went to Switzerland where that country extended him the right to Swiss citizenship through his father.
Government officials said the names of the plotters against the Castillo Armas' regime could not be made public yet. It was hinted that the move was instigated or supported by Communists.

Costa Rica Agrees To Buffer Zone

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Costa Rica and Nicaragua agreed Thursday to bottle up hostilities in Costa Rica with a neutral buffer zone astride their common border northwest of the present battle area. The agreement was announced by the Organization of American States peace commission.
The OAS said it had stationed 23 officers in the buffer zone to keep watch over the area.
By its action the commission sought to neutralize the border area in an effort to avoid a wide open incident between the two countries.
Acceptance of the OAS plan meant it became effective immediately.
The buffer area covers the northwestern fighting zone where a showdown battle appeared to be shaping up in the war. Costa Rica charges the rebellion was sparked from Nicaragua, but Managua has denied this.

Lawson Named Cadet Colonel

WARREN G. LAWSON, C4 FAIRFIELD, has been named Cadet Colonel of the SUI Reserve Officers Training Corps. He will serve as student commanding officer for all joint army-air force ROTC ceremonies held on the Iowa campus this spring. Lawson was appointed on the basis of his scholastic record and general military adaptability, having earlier been designated a "distinguished military student."

Ike Ponders Using U.S. Planes, Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported Thursday night to be considering asking congress for special authority to use United States naval and air power to help evacuate Chinese Nationalist troops from islands along the Red China coast if necessary.
These troops would then be deployed elsewhere for defense of Formosa and the Pescadores, which the U.S. is committed to help Gen. Chiang Kai-shek hold against the Reds.

LONDON (AP) — Britain, the United States and New Zealand consulted Thursday on a possible appeal for United Nations intervention to stop fighting around the Tachen islands between Nationalist and Red China.

McCarrel Announces Commencement Change

Mid-year commencement exercises, originally scheduled for 1:45 p.m. in the field house Feb. 5, have been shifted to 10 a.m.
Iowa will play Purdue in a nationally televised basketball game at 2 p.m., the same date as commencement.
Registrar Ted McCarrel said Thursday that the change was decided upon by the deans of the colleges last October. The change in time is popular with the mid-year graduates, he said.
Letters to graduating students will be mailed this week informing them of commencement plans.

Yikiangshan Taken, Red Ships Bombed

TAIPEI, Formosa (Friday) (AP) — Waves of Nationalist planes Thursday attacked Red ships swarming in seas around the imperiled Tachen islands and claimed at least 44 craft sunk, including 9 gunboats.
Resistance by Nationalist guerrillas on Yikiangshan island ceased at 9 p.m. Thursday, official Chinese Nationalist reports said Friday.
The defense ministry earlier had reported the garrison locked in a "life or death" struggle on the island 8 miles north of the Tachens, which are 200 miles north of Formosa.
Peiping radio asserted the entire garrison, which it put at 1,080 "troops," was killed or captured.
Col. Hsiung En-teh, ministry spokesman, said 720 guerrillas defended Yikiangshan when 5,500 Red marines landed Tuesday.
Hsiung estimated the guerrillas killed 1,500 Communist attackers despite a Red bombing and artillery pounding that rivaled that of the battle for "Heartbreak Ridge" in the Korean War.
The defense ministry said the Wednesday air blows were concentrated in the Fochow Minnow area some 130 miles northwest of northern Formosa.
Three waves of Nationalist planes struck the Funing Siapu area more than 75 miles north of Fochow.

Strengthen Defense

2. American authorities feel that the Nationalist defenses overall could be strengthened if there was a regrouping of Chiang's forces.
One consideration is reported to be that if U.S. naval and air forces swing into an evacuation operation, the Chinese Reds might attack them. The President, some sources said, would want congress and the country thoroughly apprised of that possibility.
An evacuation operation would bring the vessels of the fleet within range of Communist fire or bombardment in active or potential combat areas.

editorials A New Public Service—

The world may now look in on presidential conferences and see practically everything that the reporters see — except for a few scenes snipped by administration censors.

For the first time a press conference with the President was telecast Wednesday and carried by TV stations and on newsreels. Most of the questions asked by reporters were allowed, but a few of them were deleted because Mr. Eisenhower was not briefed on the subject.

Although televising the conferences will prove informative to a large section of the public and perhaps, create more interest in national affairs, there is the possibility that the film will become propaganda material for the administration.

Press Secretary James Hagerty said that the film of the news conference will be cut according to the desires of the President and his advisors.

In the half-hour telecast Wednesday, one-fourth of the film taken was deleted. Included was a ten-minute answer to a reporter's question in which Eisenhower summarized his first two years in office.

Making available in graphic form the views of the President will make interesting televising and provide a definite public service.

We hope matters about which the public should be informed will not fall on the cutting-room floor.

Enforce Blue Laws, Too?—

At least one person in Iowa has taken Attorney General Dayton Countryman's oath of office "to heart." He is Rep. John L. Duffy (D-Dubuque.)

When he took office, Countryman pledged to enforce all laws of Iowa. The immediate question was raised: "Does he mean every law on the books, outdated or not?" Liquor laws were the first target. Iowa should be "cracker dry," the attorney general said.

Duffy, apparently fearful of "to the hilt" enforcement of all laws, has introduced a bill to repeal the "blue law" chapter placed in the Iowa code in 1855. Expecting on sidewalks, dancing on Sunday and driving a horse-drawn carriage at an "excessive rate of speed" are a few of the items that would be removed from the list of criminal offenses. Anyone carrying firearms, hunting, shooting or horse racing on Sunday is guilty of a "blue law." Buying or selling property of any kind is illegal on the Sabbath. Any labor except for necessity or for charity also is forbidden.

The point that Duffy wishes to make in his somewhat facetious action is as plain as the blue laws are obscure. Laws that no longer fulfill their original intentions are shoved back and forgotten. Any attempt to enforce outdated laws usually results in immediate repeal or change.

Iowa's liquor laws cannot be classified as blue laws. Yet, the problems of enforcement that have been so sharply illustrated by two former attorney generals, Robert L. Larson and Leo A. Hoegh, indicate that in certain sections of the state existing laws may never cope with the situation even though vigorously enforced.

Now Iowa's new attorney general has embarked upon the task of making the state "cracker dry" even if it means monthly raids on hundreds of targets. There is no doubt that Countryman has an official obligation to do this.

Technically, and Duffy said he expects consistent enforcement of all penal laws, the widespread practice of selling cigarettes to minors is also scheduled to end. And unless Duffy's bill is passed — shades of 1855.

A considerable gap has grown between Iowa liquor laws as applied to the entire state and liquor practices as carried on in various sections of the state. We will watch with interest the effects of Countryman's efforts to enforce all laws of Iowa.

A New Approach—

From Moscow Thursday came word that the Ministry of Culture now is pushing a morals drive, destined to rid the country of Russian party girls wearing "indecently tight" dresses, slit skirts and bright lipstick and who dance to American boogie woogie and bebop.

Political diplomacy, the Voice of America, and other political devices have failed to penetrate the Iron Curtain and get directly to the Russian common folk as successfully as Benny Goodman and other swing and bebop masters have.

It might be wise for the administration to adopt this angle in playing the game of co-existence in the decades to come.

Radar for Highway Patrol?—

League of Women Voters Discusses Current Issues

By Betty Tucker

In the winter of 1918 ten Iowa City women got together to talk about what they could do to further suffrage for themselves and other women.

As one of those present, Mrs. Frank Stromsten, recalls: "We knew there were great things afoot... and we wanted to be ready."

Thirty-seven years later, groups of eight to ten women meet in many sections of Iowa City with much the same feeling. Important political and economic changes are taking place in the world, and they want to be informed.

Interested Participants They are members of just interested participants in the Iowa City League of Women Voters discussion groups. They meet in small neighborhood gatherings because there it is easier to talk and express opinions.

The League holds larger monthly meetings for all its members, too. But the organization has found, since the creation of the discussion groups during World War II, that the real work of the League gets done in the smaller groups.

"Work" for League members means study and decision on national and international issues, state and local problems.

Month Theme The general meeting sets the theme for the month: a study of tax-supported schools in Iowa, United Nations charter revision, a legislative council to do research for Iowa legislators, international trade or individual liberties guaranteed under the Constitution.

A speaker from outside the League, whose experience in the particular area will be valuable to their study, usually addresses the Leaguers.

Occasionally the discussion groups have taken "field trips" on subjects under study. The most recent excursion was to the Johnson county board of supervisors meeting at the court house.

Impressed the Women Whatever the real feelings of the supervisors were at the feminine intrusion, they impressed the women with their courtesy and care in explaining the board's activities.

On another occasion, the "field trip" was to attend a party caucus. The several discussion members who went to the township caucus of their party somewhat started the committeeman and committeewoman, who traditionally "caucused" without any residents of the township showing up.

Its activities are not always limited to discussion. Before the June primary in 1952, members of the League turned to doorbell-ringing in an effort to increase voter registration in Iowa City.

League Member Skeptical One Leaguer was skeptical. She reluctantly accepted her pavement-pounding task. Soon after she reported in to the chairman of the project.

"I've finished my list and I want some more names," she said enthusiastically. "I don't know when I've had such a good time. I met such interesting people."

There are six groups meeting throughout Iowa City this year. A north group, an east group, southeast, west, a university housing area group and a city-wide daytime unit for women who prefer day meetings. All other meetings are at night.

Group Leaders Listed Discussion group leaders are Mrs. Frederick Leach and Mrs. Samuel Hays, north; Mrs. Bruce Wohlwend, east; Mrs. Bertram Cohen, southeast; Mrs. David Stout, west; Mrs. John Franz, housing area, and Mrs. Glen Clasen, city.

The workshops have undertaken such meaty problems as: individual liberties, tax-supported education in Iowa, Iowa City's public health agencies, an evaluation of the city water system, recreation facilities, and structure of local government.

The last topic resulted in a handbook for Iowa City residents entitled "That's Where Your Money Goes."

New Workshop Formed Written when Iowa City had the mayor-council type government, the handbook is now out-of-date. A new workshop, headed by Mrs. R. T. Feddersen, has been formed to revise it to include the council-manager system.

Members of the workshop are Mrs. Fred Doderer, Mrs. Elliott Full, Mrs. William Tucker, Miss Virginia Coverdale, Mrs. Robert Ray, Mrs. Walter Ris, Mrs. Robert Lubin and Mrs. Edwin Cohen.

Asked to criticize the old handbook and to make suggestions for the new, each discussion group took a section of the outdated book and spent an evening discussing what they would like to see included and how it should be written.

The result of their evaluation will serve as a guide for the handbook workshop. It will give the committee a better idea of what the residents of Iowa City might like to know about their community.

1956: Here We Come

Interpreting the News

By William L. Ryan
AP Foreign News Analyst

So long as Peiping interprets United States policy as meaning nonintervention for defense of anything but the Pescadores and Formosa itself, it can proceed to present its home front with victory after victory.

Island after island can be "liberated." The promise that Formosa will be conquered for Red China gains substance. The Red Chinese need not, for a long time to come, give any indication that they intend to stop short of the Pescadores and Formosa out of respect for the U.S. 7th fleet.

Such a string of victories and "liberations" would be important to Red Chinese internal propaganda. It can offer conquests of the islands and defiance of the United States in exchange for public belt-tightening so that Peiping's armies can become more and more mighty.

Important for Propaganda The conquests are important for Peiping's external propaganda, too. Peiping's claim to be the dominant power in Asia is buttressed. So is the claim to recognition as the rightful representative of the Chinese people in the United Nations.

With Peiping still outside the U.N. that organization can do little but appeal to the Red Chinese not to risk plunging Asia—and possibly the world—into a major war.

If the Peiping decision to invade Yikiangshan was in the nature of a test, to determine what Western reaction might be, the Red Chinese now have their answer: The United States will not defend the outlying islands.

Tinged With Fear The reaction in Britain and elsewhere in the non-Communist world was tinged with fear that the island fighting might lead to something far more grave. President Eisenhower's suggestion that the U.N. step in to preserve peace in the Orient seemed to have been received with a sigh of relief. All this bespoke the extreme reluctance of the Western powers to become involved in the shooting.

But all this also gave the green light to Peiping. There seems nothing in the way of the Chinese Red army now if it wants to launch a long campaign of island-hopping until all but the Pescadores and Formosa are in Communist hands.

The threat to Formosa will remain as Peiping's biggest bludgeon in its intercourse with the Western world.

DURHAM N. H. (AP) — Reports of a large black bear, which appears to be conducting an independent "traffic survey," have reached the Fish and Game department.

The bruin was first reported recently sitting in the middle of a traffic circle in town carefully watching vehicles whizzing by. A later account placed what appeared to be the same bear about four miles west on Route 4, still gazing at traffic.

Hurrying to the scene, conservation officers spotted the animal heading north to his natural habitat.

Rescue Hook Described by Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The air force has affirmed that it has equipment with which an airplane in flight can snatch cargo from the ground — even humans — but denied a Communist charge that such apparatus was being used by an American captured in Red China.

Peiping radio said that John Thomas Downey had confessed he was on a mission Nov. 29, 1952 to pick up "an agent" with the equipment when his plane was shot down in Chinese territory.

The air force said it has tested successfully with humans such equipment as was described in Downey's alleged confession and which the Communists claim to have on display in Peiping.

Downey was quoted as saying: "The air pickup equipment consists of a winch, electrically operated."

"One end of a rope is attached to a revolving drum, then drawn through a metal pulley which is at the end of a metal arm thrust out of the plane door."

"The other end of the rope with a hook is attached to a pole protruding from the plane. The plane is flown so that the pole hits the agent's ground rope."

"When this happens, the plane's rope flies free from the pole. The hook grabs the agent's rope, the winch is then started, pulling the agent into the plane."

The equipment described is somewhat similar to that often used by military and civilian planes to pick up gliders, two targets, cargo or mail. The equipment is manufactured and sold commercially.

The device was intended primarily for rescue work.

Stock Market Makes 3d Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market made its third straight advance Thursday but the showing was not very convincing.

There was little vigor behind the rise and it never got very far.

On Monday the stock market broke heavily. In the last three sessions it has climbed back up about two-thirds of the original loss.

Most of the time Thursday the market was narrowly mixed. In the afternoon the market began to firm a little. Shortly before the closing bell, selling whacked down several leaders and the market closed under its best.

Milliners Want Them, Stylists Prefer Them, But—

Will Women Wear Longer Hair Styles?

By Jan Papke

Will women give up the comfort, convenience and simplicity of 1954 hair styles for the new longer styles the professional hair stylists prefer?

This is and will remain a controversial question for the first few months of 1955.

All the top coiffure artists appear to be in favor of styles as much as three inches longer than most of those in 1954. Whether or not American women will accept them should be determined by the time their Easter hats are purchased. Hats for Spring are suited to longer coiffures. Stylists insist that the torso dresses and suits demand a more feminine, controlled hairstyle.

Like Short Hair

The public has its own ideas, however. College women, housewives and professional women like short styles for a variety of reasons. They are easier to care for and make them look younger. Hair doesn't get mussed as easily. Professionals say this is only because there isn't anything there to muss.

Parisian stylists have shown longer hair for a year or more and American women appear to be great ones for Parisian trends, even to the point of submitting in part to Dior's H-line. The hair style question, however, is still up in the air.

"It is doubtful that American women will sacrifice comfort and convenience for chic alone," commented Michel of Helena Rubenstein.

One Answer

One hair stylist seems to have an answer to the question. He prefers the longer hair version with the hair nestled gently over the ears, a side swirl bang and an above-the-collar length. But we can't all have carbon copies of one design.

If you now have an Italian cut, a little boy cut, a butch cut, a Raggedy Ann cut or a brush cut you're going to have to decide: Is it time for a change?

Beau Jack Wins 1st Comeback Try

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—Former lightweight champion Beau Jack scored an unspectacular 10-round unanimous decision over middleweight Eddie Green of Kannapolis, N.C., here Thursday in his first attempt at a comeback. Jack weighed 147, Green 159.

The 33-year-old Beau Jack, making his first ring appearance since 1951, was the aggressor throughout but was unable to get past Green's longer reach to use his once deadly combinations.

There were no knockdowns and Jack never appeared in trouble. He stung the 27-year-old Green with several jarring left hooks in the final rounds.

'Sugar Ray' To Ponder Ring Future

CHICAGO (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will spend the next 10 days pondering whether he should quit his comeback try after his decisive defeat by Ralph (Tiger) Jones at the Chicago stadium Wednesday night.

Robinson planned to return to New York late Thursday and his talking was done from his hotel room by his manager, Joe Glaser.

"Sugar feels good, much better than he thought he would," Glaser said. "I've talked to him all morning and my advice was for him to go back to New York, rest up 10 days, look at the films of the fight and then make up his mind whether he should continue boxing."

Wednesday night, after Jones relentlessly battered the former middleweight and welterweight champion into his fourth defeat in 143 fights, Robinson said he thought he'd like a couple of more fights to determine whether he really is through as a boxer.

Glaser, who managed Robinson in his 31-month career as a song and dance man, reminded an interviewer that he was against Jones as an opponent from the start.

"I knew he was too tough after Ray started his comeback by beating Joe Rindone in Detroit two weeks ago," said Glaser. "Sure, Jones lost five in a row, but they were close or bad decisions against good boys."

Lujack: 'Fainting' Is Strategy

By Arlo Jacobson
Daily Iowan Sports Editor
Johnny Lujack, Notre Dame quarterback of 1943, 1946 and 1947, stated in a speech in Iowa City Thursday night that the "fainting" of Frank Varichonne during the 1953 Iowa-Notre Dame football game was "strategy."

Lujack, who was named to every major All-America team during his playing days, said he feels that "anything that is within the rules of the game is perfectly ethical." Lujack was an assistant football coach at Notre Dame at the time of Varichonne's controversial action.

In K.C. Address
The statement came while Lujack was addressing the fourth annual Knights of Columbus sports banquet, which each year features a "name" speaker.

If fainting is unethical, added Lujack, then such things as the "mousetrap" must also be considered unethical. The "mousetrap" is a play in which a lineman on the team having possession of the ball pulls out of his position in the line and allows the man opposite him to rush into the offensive backfield, where he is hit hard, with the play going through the hole he has just vacated.

'Quick Thinking'
Frank Varichonne merely did some quick thinking, Lujack added. "And you just can't legislate against quick thinking."

During a question and answer session following the banquet, Lujack said that strategy such as fainting cannot be legislated against because the first time football officials ordered a man whom they believed to be acting to continue playing, and the man was really hurt, such a rule would become a poor rule.

Lujack told of a case history in Notre Dame files to indicate what he considers unethical.

The case concerned a professor at an unnamed college who is well-known for his speeches on ethics. In this instance, Lujack said, the professor flew to JOHN LUJACK TELLS A JOKE to the Iowa City Knights of Columbus at Thursday night's annual athletic banquet. The former Notre Dame and Chicago Bears star now is a co-owner and operator of a Davenport automobile agency.

New York city in a private plane and made a speech which received wide acclaim. After the speech, Lujack added, the professor boarded the plane for the ride back to his institution. With him were several high school boys whom the college was trying to recruit.

Another case, Lujack added, involved a player who had an IQ of 75, with the average person rating for comparison.

Student Truck Driver
An investigation by Notre Dame showed the student to be majoring in "how to drive a trailer truck," which is a legitimate major at the school involved.

In other statements during the question and answer session, Lujack said:

1. That he admires Iowa Football Coach Forest Evashevski and Athletic Director Paul Brechler for stating they want to continue athletic relations with Notre Dame because "they like to get in the ring with a champion."
2. That City high school end Jeff Langston is one of the few high school players he has seen who are qualified to play college football.

3. That Ray Lemek, co-captain of the Notre Dame football team from Sioux City, Iowa, is "the greatest prospect he (Lujack) has ever seen for professional football."

BALTIMORE (AP)—What ever happened to the $2 better?

The little guy with the racing form in his pocket and a couple of crumpled one dollar bills clutched hopefully in his fist has apparently either graduated or has taken up bowling.

You need only a quick look at parimutuel figures from Bowie race track where Maryland's most recent meeting was held to detect that most-bred improvers are now in the $10 class.

Here are the Bowie percentage figures toted up by sports with little else to do until spring rolls around and they can start living again:

- One hundred dollars to win, 8.04 per cent of the total handle;
- $50 same way, 12.38 per cent;
- $10 straight, 26.1 per cent; $5 still on the nose, 12.7 per cent;
- $15 combination, 6.51 per cent;
- $6 combination, 7.84 per cent;
- $2 to win, 18.78 per cent; $2 daily double, 5.71 per cent; $10 daily double, 1.94 per cent.

Game Requires Skill

New Camp

By Thomas Lias
Chess, a game which requires skill and concentration, is on its way back at SU. In fact chess enthusiasts have formed a club which meets every two weeks in room 122, Schaeffer hall.

Not since the 1920's has there been a chess club here. During that era, the game was popular enough that in 1928 the state chess tournament was held in Iowa City.

The idea for starting the present chess club originated with Prof. Lawrence A. Ware of the college of engineering and Jim Fife, instructor in the English department. The first meetings were held last winter and the group has continued its activities this fall.

Intercollegiate Competition
Fife said that he hopes members of the club can compete in intercollegiate and intracollegiate chess meets. He pointed out that the universities of Wisconsin and Illinois both have chess clubs and hopes the SU club could schedule contests with them.

The club has about 20 members. About half are students. "Anyone who is familiar with the game is encouraged to come to the meetings," Fife said. "Second semester we hope to find a place to meet where we have more room and at that time we can teach a class of beginners how to play chess," he said.

It usually does not take a beginner very long to play a game of chess because he does not know what to expect from his opponent, Fife said. He pointed out that the more experience the beginner gets, the longer it takes him to determine a move. Experienced players may plan several moves in advance. "After a player becomes familiar with the game he can recognize certain patterns which occur and will know how to cope with them," Fife said.

Rating System
With the formal organization of the chess club, Fife hopes to start a rating system so club members can chart their rank in the club. Then players will be able to look on the chart and pick an opponent of similar ability to challenge to a game.

Chess games are reputed to be on for many hours at a time but according to Fife this no-

1886 Postcard Found Earns 9-Year-Old

CHICAGO (AP)—Nine-year-old David Pyle, who found an 1886 penny postcard in a bottle on the beach near his home in Muskegon, Mich., came to Chicago Thursday to collect the dollar promised on the card. He got quite a dollar's worth.

The bottle he found was tossed into Lake Michigan nearly 70 years ago. In those days Chicago drainage and water system engineers investigating lake currents, threw corked bottles into the lake with postcards enclosed for finders to mail back.

A $1 reward was promised for each returned card. The offer expired Jan. 1, 1887.

But Anthony A. Ollis, president of the Sanitary District of Chicago, heard about David's find and decided to reward him anyhow. David and his parents were invited to come and get it.

SUI To Receive GM Scholarships

SUI will share in a new series of four-year scholarships to be granted by General Motors corporation with Iowa State college and Drake university.

According to GMC President Harlow H. Curtice, the scholarships will be awarded to entering freshmen chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership and need. Two such grants will be awarded each year at SUI.

In addition, GMC will award 100 other scholarships through a national competition. At least one of these will go to an Iowa high school graduate, who may use it at any accredited institution.

Just to set the record straight: Iowa's basketball team is scheduled for three television appearances on the CBS-TV programs involving Big Ten teams.

The third is the Michigan-Iowa game here, Feb. 26. All games begin at 2 p.m., having been shifted from evening because of television.

Russian Emphasis
Emphasis is placed on chess playing in Russia according to Fife. He said that chess is as popular there as basketball is in America. Although about half of the world's 10 best chess players are Russians, the game did not originate in Russia. Chess probably originated during medieval times in the Orient and was later introduced to the western countries, Fife said.

There are several fine chess players in Iowa City and at SUI. Among these is last year's state chess champion, Charles Sorenson, G, Iowa City, and Leonidis Ratermanis, A3, Iowa City who was third in the state contest.

Stoddard To Speak On UNESCO Tonight

George D. Stoddard, former Iowa educator and recent president of the University of Illinois, tonight will address the Citizen Consultations conference sponsored here by the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO.

Former chairman of the U.S. Commission, Stoddard will discuss "What UNESCO Means to America" during the dinner meeting. Eighty Iowans are invited to express their views and convictions on world affairs. The dinner will begin at 6 p.m. in the River room of Iowa Memorial Union.

Following Stoddard's address, the 80 representatives of Iowa organizations will split into two groups, the first to hear national authorities and exchange views on "The National Interest and Foreign Languages" and second to discuss "America's Stake in the Progress of the Less Developed Areas of the World."

Speakers in the first group will include Donald D. Walsh, associate secretary of the Modern Languages Association of America, Friday evening and Prof. Erich Funke, SUI German department head, Saturday morning.

Addressing the second group hostess; a filet mignon lunch at an oyster bar; radio and television appearances; a trip to the Tribune Tower observatory; and six tickets to a musical comedy and a backstage visit with the cast.

Oh, yes, and he also received the dollar — doubled; an 1887 silver one contributed by a bank and an old-fashioned outsized 1899 paper bill from a coin shop "to remind David of the days when a dollar was worth a dollar."

In fact, that particular paper dollar is now worth about $3.75 on the collectors' market.

$10,000 Contract Awarded to SUI For AEC Project
A chemical research contract of $10,000 to continue chemical studies of several rare earth oxide and halide systems has been awarded to SUI by the atomic energy commission.

Begun in 1950, the investigation is under the direction of LeRoy Eyring, assistant professor of chemistry at SUI, who explains, "The project is primarily concerned with research on the physical-chemical properties of some unusual compounds of the rare earth elements.

Assisting Eyring in his investigation are two graduate students of chemistry, Charles L. Sieglaf, Waterloo, and Harry A. Eick, Rock Island, Ill. Before the AEC awards a contract for a particular research project proposed by a university, the project is reviewed by scientists who are well acquainted with the proposed field of research and its relevance to the atomic energy program. Their review is taken into consideration by the AEC division of research before a decision is made whether to accept a proposed research project from a university.

Ike Asks Study of Effect Of Private Pension Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told congress Thursday the government should carefully study the impact of private pension plans on the nation's economy.

The President said in his economic report that while private plans for retirement income "appear to be highly desirable," congress and the executive branch should look into their over-all effect.

Mr. Eisenhower raised a number of questions which he said should be answered. For instance, he asked, what influence does investing large pension funds have on the stock market and the supply of venture capital?

Contribute 3 Billion

There has been considerable discussion in business circles on this point. The estimated three billion dollars per year being

Study Shows Wage Scales For Counties

County officials in Iowa now can easily compare the salaries paid workers in their own counties with salaries paid similar employees in other counties of similar size.

Detailed information on salaries and wages and policies regarding working conditions in most of the state's 99 counties is contained in a study just published by the institute of public affairs a SUI.

The survey was conducted by the institute in cooperation with the Iowa County Auditors' association and the Iowa County Engineers' association. Clayton L. Ringgenberg of the institute staff compiled the information.

The 72-page report is divided into two sections: one concerning county office employees and the other county road employees. Information regarding office employees in 95 counties and facts about road employees in 98 counties are included.

Besides salaries and wages paid these county workers, the survey also reports the employment policies in each county on holidays, vacations, hours of work, overtime pay and sick leave.

The salaries of elected county officials and their chief deputies are not included since these are set by state law.

In the study the pay rates and employment policies are given in detail for each county. To aid in comparing this information, counties have been grouped according to population.

with other members of the faculty saw the possibility of using television to achieve this about a year ago. When the equipment was available they began to plan the experiment.

"And it is an experiment," Stuit said. "We are doing this so we can study and throw out the bad aspects and work on the good ones."

After the current experiment, it is hoped that the class can be divided into three groups, one using the TV discussion method, one in the viewing room, and the other subjected to the lecture method.

Compare 3 Groups

A study based on the differences of achievement between students in the three groups could then be made.

Stuit thinks the students would like such a TV set-up and would perhaps take more of an interest in the discussion method of teaching.

TV offers a challenge to the professors, too, Stuit said. "They would have to be more aware of better methods of presentation of their subject with the use of charts, graphs and other visual aids."

Becker, Phillips Assist Sam Becker of the SUI television center, is directing the experiment along with Harshbarger. Clarence Phillips is the technical supervisor.

Although much remains to be done in the use of television as a teaching technique, the current experiment is a step in the right direction, Stuit believes.

He knows of no other college or university in the United States who is experimenting with television as a means of furthering the discussion method of teaching, although Stevens college in Columbia, Mo., received a Ford foundation grant to study the use of television in the lecture method of instruction.

"In the future," Stuit said, "we hope to bring the impact of a professor to a great number of students at the same time while maintaining the advantages of discussion as a teaching tool."

contributed by employees to such plans represents less than one per cent of the 350 billion estimated total annual value of goods and services. Yet the pension funds are accumulating fast.

How, asked the President, do private pension plans affect the mobility of workers and willingness of employers to hire older workers?

Job-Switching Essential

A number of studies have been made to the effect that workers are less likely to switch jobs when it means losing pension rights. And sometimes job-switching is essential from a national standpoint, for example quick staffing of munitions plants in event of war.

The Labor department recently has been studying employer reluctance to hire older workers. One reason it found is that pension costs are higher for employees due to retire in a relatively few years.

Two other questions raised by Mr. Eisenhower were:

Integrated Program

How can, or should, private pension plans be fitted together with federal old age and survivors insurance to form an integrated program for retirement income?

What are the effects of pension plans upon the spending and savings habits of people? This suggests inquiry into whether pension protection encourages people to devote more of current income to immediate expenditures and less toward savings for old age.

The President said more than 12 million employees are now covered by private pension plans, supplementing social security.

Bill Proposes Vehicle Tests

DES MOINES (AP) — Bills proposing annual legislative sessions and compulsory testing of motor vehicles were prepared Thursday for introduction in the Iowa house.

Rep. William F. Denham (D-Des Moines), is sponsor of the former and Rep. Vern Lisle (R-Clarinda), the latter. Both have passed in the house in previous sessions but neither has gotten through the senate.

Denham said the annual sessions measure would make it unnecessary to hold special sessions.

"Annual sessions also would ease the situation of the present regular sessions," Denham said. "Regular sessions get about 1,000 bills and only about a third of them are acted upon. These bills often lose out because there is not enough time to consider them."

Under Denham's proposal there would be no limit on the length of time of the annual sessions. Neither would there be any limitation on the subject matter to be taken up in the yearly sessions.

Lisle, who was joined by five others in the motor vehicle test measure, said he introduced it in view of the record number of traffic deaths in Iowa last year, and the fact that Gov. Leo A. Hoegh has endorsed the proposal.

Under the measure tests of brakes, lights, steering apparatus and so forth would be compulsory semi-annually. The charge would be 75 cents per test.

Group To Discuss Problems Affecting Foreign Students

Discussion of immigration regulations affecting foreign students studying in the United States, and a study of counseling techniques used by various institutions in working with those students will provide the basis for the conference of Iowa foreign students' advisers which will meet at SUI Saturday.

Representatives from the Institute of International Education will attend the conference, as will representatives from the Chicago and Omaha district offices of the U.S. immigration and naturalization service.

Millard R. Kratochvil, foreign student adviser at Iowa State college, is in charge of conference arrangements, and W. Wallace Maner, SUI foreign student conference, which will be held in the SUI International Center.

School Children Here May Get Salk Vaccine

If the Salk polio vaccine, administered to almost one million school children in the United States last spring, proves successful in short-stopping polio, more than 1,280 Johnson county youngsters will have the opportunity to receive the immunity it provides.

W. K. Nicman, Des Moines, Iowa, director of the March of Dimes said his organization would provide the Salk vaccine without charge to children who participated in the 1954 vaccine field trials but received the "dummy" shots and children in the first and second grades of public, private and parochial schools next spring.

Results of the 1954 trials are now being evaluated at the University of Michigan. A report on the effectiveness of the vaccine is expected this spring. The National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis is stockpiling the vaccine for immediate use in the event it proves successful in stopping polio.

Council Names 3 to Posts

Sandra Betz, A3, Des Moines, was appointed chairman of Big 10 student council activities at SUI at a Student Council meeting Thursday night.

As chairman, Miss Betz will screen all information coming to the SUI council about other Big 10 student councils and will be correspondent for the tri-weekly bulletin sent out by the Big 10 student council secretariat.

Tom Choules, L4, Idaho Falls, Idaho, council president, said that all SUI students will receive a calendar which includes a schedule of all-university events for the year at registration next fall.

In other council action, Bob Eckert, A3, Sioux City, was appointed co-chairman of the student book exchange and Sally Werner, A3, Perry, was appointed public relations chairman.

$500,000 Estate Disputed

A dispute over the guardianship of Louis D. Jackson, 60, of Iowa City may determine the division of estates totaling $537,000.

Jackson, mentally incompetent, has been cared for for 36 years by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Sample, 649 S. Governor st. Louis was entrusted to the Samples by his father, Judge Douglas J. Jackson of Muscatine, who died in July, 1947.

Earlier this month, Robert S. Jackson, a Muscatine lawyer and brother to Louis, petitioned the Johnson county district court for the guardianship of Louis. He charged that the Samples refused to let him see his brother.

Wednesday, Robert Osmundson, Iowa City lawyer appointed by the court to be Louis' temporary guardian, answered the petition by saying that Mr. and Mrs. Sample have priority of claim to Louis' guardianship.

The answer also requested that Louis be given half of the separate estates that had been willed to Robert by his father and uncle. The uncle, Charles Jackson, died in August, 1950, and left his nephew Robert an estate estimated at $200,000. Judge Jackson's estate is estimated at $337,000.

Both wills, while leaving the estates to Robert Jackson, expressed confidence that Robert would care and provide for his brother, Louis, while he lived, and would provide for him in his will if he should die first.

Action in Formosa By U.S. Po

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and his top advisers in the cabinet and National Security council are reported to have charted new moves in the Formosa crisis at secret white house sessions Friday.

Informed officials said Eisenhower would send to congress early next week a proposed joint resolution authorizing use of American air and naval forces in regrouping Nationalist China's troops, as necessary.

Would Abandon Islands Some of the Nationalist-held islands along the Red China coast would be abandoned as militarily worthless. Still other

Nationalists Hit Red Ships

TAIPEH, Formosa (Saturday) (AP) — The Chinese Nationalist air force blasted Red gunboats and motorized junks along the China coast Friday by way of backing up present official intent to defend the Tachens despite the fall of nearby Ykiangshan.

"So far we have no plan to evacuate any of our island outposts," said a Defense Ministry spokesman after the Nationalists admitted the invading Red had wiped out the last resistance on Ykiangshan.

"All of them will be defended at all costs."

Fallen Ykiangshan is eight miles north of the Tachens.

Vice Adm. Roscoe E. Good, deputy chief of logistics for U.S. Naval Operations, arrived in Taipei Friday but there was no indication if this had any connection with the latest report from Washington.

Nationalists said waves of fighter-bombers Friday sank more than 20 Red ships, most of them motorized junks such as those which helped put ashore more than 5,000 Red invaders Ykiangshan.

In air attacks Thursday and Friday, the Nationalists have claimed more than 60 Red ships sunk, including 9 gunboats.

Respect for different cultures and beliefs has enabled UNESCO "the greatest educational undertaking in history," to move forward despite some misunderstandings and attempts to use as a political football, George Stoddard told 100 representatives Iowans at the Memorial Union Friday night.

Speaking on "What UNESCO Means to America," Stoddard, dean of the SUI graduate college from 1938 to 1942, keynoted the Citizen Consultations sponsored this weekend by the U.S. National Commission UNESCO. He is a former chairman of the commission.

In spite of its official status and its forward-looking program for increasing world understanding, health and happiness through science, education and the arts, some persons still think that UNESCO is subversive American interests, Stoddard noted.

"Wonderful Opportunity" Stoddard said, "a wonderful opportunity to tell the American story as it should be told, starting off the grinding attacks of the Communists."

Stoddard summed up the task of the UNESCO program to Iowa representatives of business, civic, religious, farm, and educational organizations as:

- 1. Elimination of illiteracy and encouragement of fundamental education.
- 2. Obtaining for each person an education conforming to aptitudes and to the needs of society.
- 3. Promoting through education respect for human rights.
