Field House Backdrop Ready for Commencement

IN PREPARATION FOR MID-YEAR commencement ceremonies, three physical plant workers prepare the gigantic backdrop that adorns the inside of the field house at the ceremonies. Here the men are preparing a section of the 10,000 square yard backdrop (enough to cover two football fields) to replace one that was used for 23 years. Material for the drop was made at Ft. Madison Penitentiary and was dyed at the SUI laundry.

Students Pull a 'Switch'

Harshbarger Finds Himself on a TV Show As a Student Exam Stunt

Students are normally expected to do most of the work on a final exam, but one group of radio-TV students pulled a switch Saturday and made the professor work.

The final exam in Prof. H. Clay Harshbarger's class in "Speech in Radio and Television" was this: groups of five students were to present a 15-minute television show, complete with commercials, script, cast and sound effects.

"This Is Your Life" One group staged a "This Is Your Life" show centered around the life of Harshbarger, who was called down from a control booth to appear on the show.

During the show, which ran 15 minutes over the allotted time, Dean Mason Ladd of the SUI college of law was introduced. Ladd, a school chum of Harshbarger's, reminisced about past college days.

Mrs. Harshbarger, who knew about the program but didn't tell her husband, also participated. Letters from former students were read, expressing gratitude for "the profound influence you (Harshbarger) have had on my life."

Narrators reviewed the high points in Harshbarger's life, showed pictures of his youth and clippings from his scrapbook. Mrs. Harshbarger was a big help here, they said.

Stunned at First Harshbarger, who was stunned at first, quickly entered into the spirit of the show.

The show was produced by Warren Nelson, A4, Rock Island, Ill.; Mary Bennett, A4, Oskaloosa; Carol Sundeen, A3, Dubuque; Peg Milota, A3, Davenport and Eleanor Staves, A4, Fairfield.

No report on the grades of the five students is available.

Reds Alarmed By Situation On Formosa

MOLOTOV

MOLOTOV — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told British Ambassador Sir William Hayter Monday Russia is "alarmed by the dangerous situation in Formosa Strait and has passed on to Red China the British and New Zealand views that a cease-fire is necessary to prevent the outbreak of a major war."

Molotov's statement to Hayter, broadcast by radio, was in reply to a request the British ambassador made Friday that the Soviet Union do all it could to help quiet the Formosa crisis and avoid a general outbreak of hostilities.

Britain Approaches Peiping In asking Molotov to urge restraint upon Red China, Hayter said London also had approached Peiping directly to urge a cease-fire.

It was not clear here that Molotov's passing along the British-New Zealand viewpoint to Peiping could be construed as "urging" Red China to accept it.

"The government of the USSR holds," Molotov told Hayter, "that the cause of the situation that has arisen lies in the fact that the USA, with the aid of Chiang Kai-shek, several years ago seized the island of Taiwan (Formosa), which belongs to China; the Pescadore, and several other Chinese islands."

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate, denounced the Moscow proposal as a "preposterous cold war fraud." He said it exposed the aim of international communism to take over Formosa and every other area it could. He did not oppose inscription of the item on the agenda.

Soviet Amendment Rejected The council voted, 10-1, to reject a Soviet amendment to give the Moscow plan priority over the New Zealand plan. Only the Soviet Union voted for this.

Finally, the council voted, 10-1, to adjourn until it hears whether Peiping will send a delegate. Nationalist China voted against adjournment.

Lodge was caustic in his assault on the Moscow plan after New Zealand and the Soviet Union had proposed in separate and distinctly different speeches that Peiping send a representative here. (The Red delegate will not have a vote in the discussion.)

Murray said the Dixon-Yates contract, more than any other factor, had contributed to an "unhappy situation" which had found the AEC losing some of its stature.

Reds Given Invitation To Partake

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The UN security council Monday decided to begin work now on a cease-fire between the Chinese Reds and Nationalists. It invited Red China to take part in debates.

The council voted, 9-1, to put on its agenda a proposal by Sir Leslie Munro, New Zealand, for a cease-fire without strings attached.

Soviets Vote 'No' Only the Soviet Union voted against the proposal. Nationalist China abstained on the grounds the Munro proposal was "superficial."

The council then voted, 10-1, to put on its agenda a Soviet-made plan for working out a cease-fire in the Formosa area. This envisions mainly the withdrawal of the American forces and a green light for Red China to assault the Nationalists on Formosa. Nationalist China alone voted against it.

Liquor Bribe Report Spurs Investigation

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Leo A. Hoegh said Monday he has asked an investigation into reports of a former appointive state official receiving $1,000 to attempt to get a certain brand of liquor sold at state stores.

He said after a conference with Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman and Chief R. W. Nebergall of the state bureau of criminal investigation that he had asked them to check into the matter.

"Such reports might cast an inference against state employees and I don't want that to happen because that is not the situation as I understand it," Hoegh said.

Indirect Evidence "I don't want to create any suspicion on anyone except the guilty. All I have is some indirect evidence — a little more than a rumor, but not much more. I turned it over to the proper authorities to investigate."

Both Countryman and Nebergall declined to make any comment on the situation. Hoegh said he had set no time for a report from Countryman and Nebergall, but added: "It's in their hands."

"When a matter of this kind is turned over to the governor," Hoegh commented, "he should tell the attorney general and the chief of the bureau of criminal investigation of it, and that is what I did."

"I wanted to be certain it is investigated."

"No Monkey Business" Before the three way conference, Hoegh had said he "won't stand for any monkey business" in regard to individuals interfering with purchases of the state liquor control commission.

Hoegh said he had asked his informant to let him know if he learns any tangible information about the case and that if any concrete information turns up, "I think I'll know what to do."

Newspaper reporters said Sunday the former state official apparently was unsuccessful in his effort to get one particular brand of liquor on sale. He was reported to have approached the state liquor commission at least once.

Streets To Get Resurfacing

The Iowa City council has planned a $200,000 street improvement program that will include 50 blocks, City Manager Peter Roan said Monday.

Most of the city's heavy-traffic streets are scheduled for resurfacing in the program.

The project will be financed by funds now held by the city, Roan said. No special assessments will be levied to pay for the project.

"It will be on a cash on the line basis," Roan said. "The city will not pay interest charges."

The city council has held up street improvements to set up a large program to invite more competitive bidding by contractors.

The council hopes that the contractor will set up his own semi-portable asphalt plant here to reduce hauling charges, Roan said.

The council plans to ask the state highway commission to share the cost of re-surfacing parts of Burlington, Dodge and Dubuque streets.

The streets will be re-surfaced with a two and one-half inch coat of asphaltic concrete similar to the covering laid on the Riverside-Iowa avenue intersection and Church street last fall.

Streets to be re-surfaced: College—Capitol to F. v. ew. Market —Dunwoque to Dodge, Capitol—Washington to Harrison, Johnson—College to Bowers, Clinton—College to Des Moines, Washington—Lan to Van Buren, Summit—College to Sheridan, Belmont—River to Grove, River—River to Wolf, Burlington—Madison to Dubuque, Dubuque—Ronalds to Park, and Dodge—Church to Summit.

It took her nearly a week to complete the task. Then she sent it to the President.

"I thought he might have covered the same ground with fewer words," she said.

Elaine got the copy back Monday. Written across the top of the first page was this message: "To: Elaine Solgat—with profound apologies for the length of this speech to one who was given the task of copying it. With best wishes from Dwight D. Eisenhower."

Ridgway: Army Cuts Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army's chief of staff, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, testified Monday that a projected 140,000 cut in army manpower in three critical days would affect the safety of the nation and "jeopardize security to a degree."

Ridgway brought his objections to administration cut-back plans for his service into the open before the house armed services committee.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) told the general that "I'm deeply concerned about cutting down the army in the midst of a crisis" in which Red China is threatening war. Ridgway's comments were in answer to questions by Brooks.

In answer to a question whether the United States has enough manpower in the Far East to carry out its commitments, the general responded:

Reallocation of Forces "We are going to have to make a major reallocation of forces, worldwide. It does not affect just the Far East. The entire army will be affected."

But Ridgway also said that the decision on manpower reductions was not his to make—it came from higher authority.

Ridgway's outspoken opposition to slashes in army manpower took the committee a bit by surprise, since he had declined earlier to say in public session whether the administration's military program as submitted to congress was approved by the entire joint chiefs of staff. Ridgway represents the army on the JCS.

His Own Opinion Apparently he differentiated between disclosing JCS opinion and giving his own professional views on the manpower issue.

He appeared before a group of house members largely critical of plans to trim the size of army.

The reductions, designed to maintain military forces in balance with economic factors, have hit hardest at the army.

The administration proposes to cut the army down from 1,170,000 men last July 1 to 1,100,000 next June 30 and 1,027,000 a year later.

Boy Scouts To Run Iowa City Feb. 8

Skin from Dead Boy May Save Her

SEVEN-YEAR-OLD Shirley Cassada's chances for life and happiness may be furthered by skin grafts from a boy who died Sunday. Shirley received critical burns over more than 70 per cent of her body a year ago. Impaired health has made her own unburned skin unsuitable for grafting but the parents of Ronnie Wilson, 14, Osgood, Ind., who died Sunday, have given some of his skin for grafting. Ronnie died of injuries suffered in an auto accident last October. He and Shirley had adjoining rooms at St. Mary's hospital but they never saw each other.

Red Artillery Shells Tachens

TAIPEH, Formosa (Tuesday) (AP) — Chinese Communist batteries Monday night fired on the Tachens islands.

The 15,000-man Nationalist garrison was reported ordered to prepare for a bitter stand in case of a Red attack.

The Nationalist defense ministry said Red artillery of recently captured Ykiangshan, eight miles north of the Tachens, fired 22 shells but all landed in the sea.

The shelling followed by a day a Red fire bomb raid on the Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa. The ministry said 16 civilians and two Nationalist soldiers were killed in the bombing.

Unconfirmed Chinese press reports said the defense ministry issued orders to the Tachens defenders to prepare for a stand. There has been speculation that the Communists might try to seize the Tachens before the withdrawal begins under protection of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

It was rumored in Taipei that a Nationalist withdrawal from the fortified Tachens only awaits a signal from Washington.

The 7th Fleet, bolstered by possibly 400 planes from four carriers, was reported ready to cover the withdrawal. U.S. Sabrejets, rushed to Formosa, patrol the Formosa strait daily.

Different Views on Formosa—

Two retired generals have expressed their feelings on how to best solve the Formosa question. They differ in that one's political philosophy is reactionary and the other's radical.

On the observance of his 75th birthday anniversary last Wednesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared that total abolition of war was the solution to the world's problems.

He declared that the United States should "now proclaim our readiness to abolish war in concert with the other great powers of the world."

Some labeled the retired army general as a "visionary" whose ideas are impractical in a tense world situation.

Another retired army chief, Maj. Gen. Clair Chennault in an interview said "the time has come for a showdown with the Chinese Communists."

He called for immediate action, declaring that the time now is more opportune to cope with the Reds than one year hence.

"They (Red Chinese) are not our friends and are not fit for membership in the United Nations. We had better have a showdown now," the former commander of the Flying Tigers said.

Chennault had small support in his views from congressmen and administration officials.

The views of these two men reflect the amount of differentiation which the entire nation has taken toward the Formosa issue.

The senate and the house have approved President Eisenhower's "fight for Formosa" resolution, which authorizes the use of American military forces for the defense of Formosa.

Congressional approval of the resolution does not go as far as Chennault would like, or take the kind of action MacArthur favors.

Actually, the language in the resolution just clears the way for the President, with the sanction of congress, to employ home forces if necessary in order to defend Formosa and the Pescadores.

It is wise that the United States has not jumped into a hot war, but at the same time drawing the line is necessary to protect islands which are the key to our Asiatic defense.

These 4 Deserve Fame—

Four of the game's most popular and most sparkling players this week were accorded honors in Baseball's Hall of Fame. And 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association named two, Teddy Lyons and Dazzy Vance who had no reflected glory from World Series play. Lyons of the White Sox never got a series shot, and Vance was past his prime when he appeared in one series game with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1934.

Joltin' Joe DiMaggio, the Yankee Clipper, could not be denied a deserved berth among the all-time greats. His selection, only three years after retirement in 1951, shows how indelibly his feats were written into baseball's annals. A lifetime .325 batting mark for 15 years with the Yankees and participation in 51 games in ten World Series, a record, were among his many accomplishments, which also include a 56-game hitting streak in 1941. Three times he was the American league's most valuable player.

Selection of Gabby Hartnett, one-time great catcher of the Chicago Cubs, may have been somewhat of a surprise but his yeoman service for 18 seasons, including three as manager, and his dramatic home run "in the dark" against Pittsburgh in 1938 to propel the Cubs to the championship were impressive.

Lyons and Vance were dazzling pitchers with so-so clubs, but they were feared by every foe. Lyons came directly from the Baylor campus to a steady job with the White Sox. He's been one of the most popular players ever to wear a Chisox uniform.

Vance, who was born in Orient, Ia., had his greatest years in 1924 and 1925 when he won 50 and lost only 15 for Brooklyn. His strikeout feats still stand out, for three times he brooked 15 in a game, and once fanned 17 Cardinals in a 10-inning affair. Twice he had 25 or more strikeouts in two games, a feat bettered only by Bob Feller, also off an Iowa farm.

While these four bask in glory of being placed among baseball's immortals, there's a youngster who's making a terrific start for similar selection in the future, Willie Mays, star outfielder of the New York Giants. Nothing in the way of honors has escaped Willie for his deeds in leading the Giants to a pennant and World Series triumph.

Criticizes Alarm Over Gold Key Presentation

(Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses—typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The editor reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Contributors are limited to not more than two letters in any 30-day period, and should limit their letters to 300 words or less. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.)

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing this letter in regard to the Letter to the Editor of Jan. 28, concerning Professor Mosse, Marilyn Monroe, and Coach Evashevski, and the story concerning them which appeared in The Daily Iowan on Jan. 26.

The writer expresses most of all his "alarm" at Prof. Wilmet's sense of values, merely because he was concerned that Marilyn Monroe received more money than college professors. The writer went on to say, "if entertainment has bigger following than education, it should be assumed that the actors should receive higher salaries than professors." I don't see why any educator should just sit back and assume the above opinion, and I think their "sense of value" should be praised when they remind us of our stress of entertainment over education. Certainly Prof. Wilmet's remarks did not represent those of a socialist, for he said nothing concerning a person's privilege to work to the top in a field.

Again, as far as sense of value is concerned, I hope that a write-up in a national magazine doesn't represent the supreme goal of our professors. Maybe not many SUI professors have appeared in national magazines, but many of their products have become fairly successful, for instance, the newly-elected governor of Iowa. Besides, how can a football team and a mixture of students competing against each other (representing a professor's team), be compared in terms of success?

In judging people's sense of values, I wonder if the writer also compared them to his own, as he advised others to do.

Gold Rush Ghosts To Lose Home

SEATTLE (AP)—Ghosts of the Yukon and Alaska gold rushes are going to lose a half century's happy home here next spring.

Government officials have announced the Seattle assay office will be closed. Millions of dollars of the metal have been channeled through it since the cry of "gold" first echoed from the Far North.

Now, however, the flow of the movement has dropped to a trickle and, in an airplane age, government officials reckon the mint at Denver and the assay office in New York can handle the traffic.

Interpreting the News— Chinese Reds Erred in '50 By Not Invading Formosa

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Fifty-six years ago the European powers and Japan seemed to be on the verge of partitioning China among themselves.

Japan had conquered China a few years before, taking Formosa, the Pescadores, part of Manchuria and a big cash payment as a peace settlement.

Russia didn't like to have the Japanese in Manchuria and, by threats, forced them off the Liaoning peninsula. Russia had France's support, then.

Taken Over Administration
China was disrupted. By 1899 the British, French, Germans and Russians had virtually taken over the administration of large areas under "leaseholds" obtained primarily by coercion. Each tried to monopolize trade in its sphere, and China as an entity not only appeared to be doomed, but the powers were gradually approaching a crisis among themselves.

The situation had become so dangerous that, when the United States stepped in with its "open door" policy, aimed primarily at Russian occupation of Manchuria, she got support from the other nations and all finally agreed to drop their trade monopolies and permit China to collect her own customs, thus preserving her as an administrative entity.

Formosa, which had been taken over more than 200 years before by refugees from a Chinese internal overturn, remained with Japan until she renounced ownership after World War II.

Half-Way Measures
By 1950 the United States, having failed in its half-way measures to prevent Communist conquest of the Chinese mainland, and having practically washed its hands of Chiang Kai-shek in a state department "white paper" describing the impossibilities of the situation which developed in 1948-49, said it was through President Harry S. Truman said there would be no American effort to defend Formosa.

Right then the Communists made one of the great mistakes of their lives. They could have taken Formosa. Instead, having prepared a puppet army which they thought would meet little opposition in an invasion of South Korea, they went after the peninsula instead of the island.

South Korea was the first nation founded under the United Nations. The invasion became the first test of a new system of collective security the world was trying to work out. The West reacted, and Chinese intervention failed to pull the Communist fat out of the fire.

Developed Modern Army

But China did flex her muscles. She began developing a truly modern army with Russian aid. Now she has worked herself up to the point where she may dare the might of the U.S. in a new try for Formosa—and the U.S. has changed its mind about letting the island go.

The strategic lines are tighter and more clearly discerned in the Pacific than they were five years ago. An effort is under way to save what's left of Southeast Asia.

Philippines Involved

The Philippines are involved in that effort, and memories of the Japanese bombers and Japanese ships coming out of nearby Formosa to attack those islands are still very fresh.

A few months ago the Reds were perfectly willing to discuss a cease-fire in Indochina, for there they were the winners. Today they are adamant in refusing to discuss a cease-fire in the Formosa area until they get a surrender, and can again be the winners. That is the unvarying history of all Western dealings with them, everywhere.

Old friends face one another grimly and, as so often down through the centuries, there's blood again on the China moon.

Bromfield To Write Applesed Ballet Script

MANFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Author-farmer Louis Bromfield who lives near here says he plans to begin a script soon for a ballet based on the famed historical character, Johnny Applesed. He will produce it in collaboration with George Balanchine, New York choreographer.

Bromfield says it probably will take a year before production starts since music will have to be written. Eventual presentation is scheduled for the City Center Ballet in New York.

THE TREEHOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON

Spring is just around the corner, and with spring, as always, will come tree-sitting contests. This I applaud. Tree-sitting is healthful and jolly and as American as apple pie. Also it keeps you off the streets.

Tree-sitting is not, however, without its hazards, as you will presently see when I tell you the dread and chilling tale of Manuel Sigafos and Ed Pancreas.

Manuel and Ed, friends and room-mates, were walking one day past the folk music room in the School of Dentistry and Fine Arts. Suddenly they stopped, for coming through the door of the folk music room was a clear and thrilling voice singing the lovely folk tune, I Strangled My True-Love with Her Own Yellow Braids, and I'll Never Eat Her Sorghum Any More.

When the last shimmering notes of the ballad had died away, Manuel and Ed rushed into the room, and there they thought their swelling hearts must burst asunder. For the singer was as beautiful as the song! Fair as the morn she was, doe-eyed and curvilinear.

"My name is Manuel Sigafos," cried Manuel Sigafos, "and I love you madly, wildly, tempestuously!"

"My name is Ed Pancreas," cried Ed Pancreas, "and I love you more than Manuel Sigafos."

"My name is Ursula Thing," cried the girl, "and I've got a jim-dandy idea. Why don't you two have a contest, and I will go steady with the winner?"

"What kind of contest?" cried Manuel and Ed.

"A tree-sitting contest," cried Ursula Thing. "Natch!"

"Done and done," cried Manuel and Ed, and they clambered up adjoining aspens, taking with them the following necessities: food, water, clothing, medicaments, bedding, reading matter, and — most essential of all — plenty of Philip Morris cigarettes.

We who live on the ground, with all the attendant advantages, know how important Philip Morris cigarettes are. Think, then, how much more important they must be to the lonely tree dweller — how much more welcome their vintage tobaccos, how much more soothing their mild pure flavor, how much more comforting to know as one sits in leafy solitude that come wind or weather, come light or dark, Philip Morris will always remain the same dependable, reliable, flavorful friend.

Well supplied with Philip Morris, our heroes began their contest — Manuel with good heart, Ed with evil cunning. The shocking fact is that Ed intended to win the contest with a Machiavellian ruse. It seems that Ed, quite unbeknownst to Manuel, was one of three identical triplets. Each night while Manuel dozed on his bough, one of Ed's brothers — Fred or Jed — would sneak up the tree and replace him. Thus Ed was spending only one-third as much time in the tree as Manuel. "How can I lose?" said Ed with a crafty giggle to his brother Fred or Jed.

But Ed had a surprise coming. For Manuel, though he did not know it himself, was a druid! He had been abandoned as an infant at the hut of a poor and humble woodcutter named Winthrop Mayhew Sigafos, who had raised the child as his own. So when Manuel got into the tree, he found to his surprise that he'd never felt so at home and happy in his life, and he had absolutely no intention of ever leaving.

After four or five years Ed and his brothers wearied of the contest and conceded. Ursula Thing came to Manuel's tree and called him to come down and pin her. He declined. Instead he asked her to join him in the tree. This she could not do, being subject to acromegaly (a morbid allergy to woodpeckers) so she ended up with Ed after all.

Only she made a mistake — a very natural mistake. It was Jed she ended up with, not Ed.

Ed, heartbroken at being tricked by his own brother, took up metallurgy for a forget. Crime does not pay.

A sweet version of an old Scotch recipe made in the shape of hearts is likely to please on St. Valentine's day.

These Valentine scones are a not-too-sweet dessert bread the whole family will enjoy. Ingredients are:

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 cup sugar

THIS PATTERN, ribbon trimmed party apron and heart shaped pot holder makes a nice Valentine's day gift. The apron requires only 3/4 yard of red net fabric, and the pot holder 1/4 yard of 35-inch material.

Valentine's Day Gifts

Heart-Shaped Apron, Potholder Are Easy To Make, Decorative, Useful

February 14 is one of those special days which require the selection of a thoughtful gift with added personal attention. Two Valentine's charms are a hostess apron and pot holder, which are useful as well as a little sentimental.

The apron is so pretty and feminine that it will make anything a hostess wears look attractive. All that's needed is nine yards of No. 9 red satin ribbon and 3/4 yard of red net fabric. And it is so easy to make, even for the most unskillful!

Here's How To Make the Apron

Just sew four rows of ribbon to the net as shown in the picture; shirt waist edge; sew strip of ribbon to back at waist edge; and sew a strip of ribbon to front at waist edge, attaching it to back ribbon and leaving ends for ties.

Just as easily made is the pot holder, which requires 1/4 yard of 35 inch red fabric, one yard of No. 3 ribbon, and cotton batting, double thickness, between the fabric. To finish merely stitch ribbon through center of heart on both sides and add bow to one side.

Pot Holder Is Practical

Of course, no one would dream of wearing the apron for anything except serving goodies to guests; but the pot holder is a grand everyday accessory, in spite of its dainty appearance. The heart shape and ribbon trim are bits of whimsy that don't detract from its usefulness.

Thus in only a short time and with no required skill, you have charming gifts which will be appreciated long after Valentine's day.

Court Rules Title Fights Under Anti-trust Laws

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the nation's antitrust laws can be applied to championship fights and to the legitimate theater.

This action set the stage for the government to go into court with monopoly charges against the International Boxing club and the Shubert theatrical interests.

The court's ruling did not disturb its previous decision that organized baseball is outside the provisions of the nation's anti-monopoly laws.

Some sources, however, anticipated a new drive to get baseball declared to be engaged in interstate commerce and hence subject to antitrust regulation.

The government monopoly charge against the IBC and two of its officials was that they had monopolized boxing so greatly that only two of 21 championship fights held in this country since June 1949, were promoted by other groups. The suit was aimed particularly at "exclusive contracts" held by the IBC with top boxers and "exclusive control" of fight arenas.

The government case against the Shubert enterprises alleged that they conspired to restrain trade by monopolizing production, booking and presentation of legitimate stage shows.

The vote on the theatrical case was unanimous, 8-0. In the boxing case, the court split 6-2, with Justices Felix Frankfurter and Sherman Minton dissenting.

The court's answer on all three questions was "yes." Attorneys for the IBC argued that baseball and boxing were so similar that the court couldn't legally differentiate between them.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in the court's majority opinion, wrote: "The issue confronting us is... not whether a previously granted exemption (the one given baseball) should continue but whether an exemption should be granted in the first instance to boxing. And that issue is for congress to resolve, not this court."

The court thus was telling congress that if it wanted boxing exempt from antitrust laws it should pass legislation declaring this to be so.

Possibilities Weighed After Boxing Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was anybody's guess Monday just how far reaching the Supreme Court's boxing decision will be. The only sure thing was that monopoly charges will soon be heard in a U.S. district court in New York.

Beyond that, no one in authority was saying. But such interesting possibilities as these may be in the offing:

1. A move to set up a federal boxing commission.
2. A move to give the federal government authority to regulate not only championship fights but the run of the mill bouts that are seen on television every week.
3. A move for a full-scale congressional investigation to try to uncover evidence of racketeering in the fight game.

Baseball Action Doubtful
The court's action might even set in motion a new campaign to bring organized baseball under the interstate commerce laws, but that was considered doubtful.

The very first thing the government is going to try to do is to break up the "exclusive" held by the International Boxing club. For years, the IBC has been signing exclusive contracts with championship caliber fighters and has had just about the only call on their services in title bouts. IBC also has had pretty much airtight control over mafor fight arenas where championship fights are held. James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz, two IBC officials who were named defendants in the case before the Supreme Court Monday, first got into boxing in March, 1949, when they teamed with Joe Louis, the heavyweight champion, to form the IBC.

IBC Controls Championships
Last year, there were 11 world championship fights in the United States. The IBC promoted all of them, either singly or in partnership with other promoters.

At the moment, the only regulation of boxing is being done by the various state governments. Chief Justice Earl Warren's majority opinion made it clear that if boxing wants relief from the interstate commerce laws, it must go before congress to try to win enactment of a special exemption law.

By inverse reasoning, the high court was telling the government that if it wanted additional regulations on boxing, it should ask congress for them. Under any circumstances, it is likely that congress will get into the act. Moves for hearings on the boxing picture are being weighed by the house Judiciary committee and the senate Commerce committee.

Hawk Wrestlers Rally To Beat Illinois, 14-12

John Winder won his 177-pound match by a fall to set the stage for heavyweight Ken Leuer to clinch the meet with an easy decision as Coach Dave McCuskey's Hawk wrestlers battled from far behind to nip Illinois, 14-12, Saturday in a Big Ten match. Winder was behind, 2-0, when he pinned Dennis McCarron at 5:41.

Trailing 12-6 as Illinois swept the four bouts from 137 pounds through 167, Iowa actually won the meet rather than only gaining through the two extra points from Winder's fall. Each team won four bouts, but a fall counts five points whereas a decision is worth only three.

In helping Iowa to its fourth win plus a tie in six outings, 123-pound Terry McCann posted his sixth straight verdict. Defending NCAA 123-pound champ Dick Govig also won his match for Iowa at 130 pounds.

Wildcats Top Michigan, 96-87

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Frank Ehmann set a new Northwestern basketball scoring record with 38 points to lead the Wildcats to a 96-87 Big Ten victory over Michigan Monday night.

Ehmann broke the record of 36 points set by Ray Regalis in 1951.

The 38 points also set a new high for McGaw Memorial field house where the previous mark of 32 was set earlier this season by Ehmann and Dick Garnaker of Minnesota.

It was the fourth straight game in which Ehmann scored 30 or more points.

The victory put Northwestern in a tie for fourth place in the Big Ten with Michigan State. Michigan dropped into the second division.

Michigan State Stops Purdue, 79-72, Now 4th

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State moved into the first division of the Western Conference basketball standings by whipping Purdue, 79-72, Monday night. The loss sent the Boilermakers into the Big Ten cellar.

Michigan State, with a 4-3 conference record, now has a solid hold on fourth place behind Illinois, third, with a 3-2 record. The loss dropped Purdue, previously tied with Ohio State for the bottom Big Ten spot, into last place with a 2-5 record.

Coach Cretzmeyer Optimistic On Indoor Track Hopes

Despite final exam week, forcing a lighter practice schedule, Coach Francis Cretzmeyer's Iowa track team is pointing to its Big Ten indoor meet opener against Wisconsin here Feb. 11.

Satisfied with the results of the Jan. 21 intra-squad meet, Cretzmeyer feels that again he has a good chance to duplicate or better last year's fourth place conference finish. However, he reminds, "Everyone else in the Big Ten looks to be as strong, if not stronger, than it was last year."

Although it doesn't come off until March 4-5 at Michigan State, the conference meet is giving "Cretz," as he is known to team members, pleasant thoughts. For the second straight year the Big Ten will include the 300, 600 and 1,000-yard runs in its conference meet program.

Iowa has a flock of quarter and half-milers, and Cretzmeyer will be able to spread them out over three more events. Like the other events, the three runs will be scored on a 5-4-3-2-1 basis at the conference meet.

1,000-yard runs are not run in dual meets, Cretzmeyer and the other Big Ten coaches feel the addition of these events has been an improvement. "Before, each heat of the 440 and 880 was loaded, and invariably each school lost points when its boys lost out in the preliminaries," Cretzmeyer explains.

"The coaches felt it worked out fine last year when we had the extra three events as we could juggle our runners around to attempt to get the most points out of them," points out Cretzmeyer.

Thus, part of practice for the distance runners is devoted to working on the additional events. For the 300 Cretzmeyer can call upon John Oakley, Larry Perry and Phil Valet. Tom Ecker probably will run the 600, while Murray Keatings handles the 1,000-yard run.

Coach Cretzmeyer Expects Good Season

Iowa Coach McCuskey Never Wrestled; Produces Winners

By Bob Hooker
He never wrestled himself but in 20 years of college coaching Iowa wrestling coach Dave McCuskey has produced many a champion.

Last year, his second at Iowa, McCuskey's wrestlers finished fourth in the Big Ten conference meet and then amazed everyone by taking fourth in the NCAA national championships a few weeks later.

Saturday his 1955 wrestling squad tipped Illinois, 14-12, at Champaign in a dual meet. The Illini along with Michigan and Iowa are the top favorites in this year's Big Ten conference meet, Mar. 4-5 at Minneapolis.

National Titles
McCuskey won four national team championships while coaching Iowa State Teachers college, his Alma Mater, for over 17 years before coming to Iowa in June, 1932. In addition, in the past seven years his wrestlers have won 16 individual NCAA titles, 14 NAAU crowns, and 4 berths on U.S. Olympic teams. On 34 other occasions his matmen placed in national meets.

Dave McCuskey Coach Never Wrestled points when he advances through the first round that way.

Also, in the conference meet a victory by a fall counts two points in each round, while a decision is worth one point. Thus, a bye can cost a maximum of two points per round if a school's entry doesn't have to wrestle in every round of the weight's bracket. Each weight has a separate draw for its play-off bracket.

The final four places in each weight give points on a 6-4-2-1 basis, and all boys who lose in an early round have a chance to win third or fourth place.

Tough Decision
One of the biggest decisions McCuskey had to make this year was which of his two 123-pounders, Dick Govig or Terry McCann, to wrestle at 130 pounds. Govig, defending NCAA champion, got the nod to wrestle at the heavier weight, while the lighter McCann went at the 123-pound limit. "We figure if Dick can get a draw at 130 pounds, then Terry can clinch some points at 123," acclaims Dave.

The record indicates McCuskey called the turn correctly. Both are unbeaten, although Govig has had two draws. McCann, in winning six straight matches, has won half by the fall route. Falls count two more points than decisions in dual meets.

Feeling that wrestling is as good a conditioner as exists, McCuskey thinks that it can help a football player, but if a boy plays football, then wrestling will condition him better for agility and speed," he claims.

Regarding that pair of fourth place finishes of a year ago, one thing is evident. McCuskey and his Hawk wrestlers are aiming—despite Illinois, Michigan, Oklahoma and Oklahoma A & M among others—to jump three notches higher this March.

Says 3-D Movies Optical Illusions

"Three dimensional movies, as shown in theaters today, are not three dimensional movies as the movies houses claim," Joseph T. Leinfelder, electrical engineering student here, wrote in an article, "Stereoscopic Photography," in the December issue of the Iowa Transit.

Leinfelder points out that the "3-D" movies are actually planar pictures being presented in a new way, giving a series of optical illusions in order to produce the stimuli of depth.

The Transit is a monthly publication by the students in the college of engineering at SUI.

Ex-SUI Student's Story on TV

The story of Lt. Col. James F. (Skeets) Coleman, a former SUI student, and the role he played in the development of the navy's latest unique fighting aircraft will be featured on ABC's Cavalcade of America television program next week.

Entitled "Take Off Zero," the program tells how Coleman bought a small airfield in California to develop his own type of plane. Later while working for Convair Aircraft he was assigned as test pilot to the top secret XF-1 being developed for the navy as a carrier based fighter.

It is nicknamed "The Pogo" because it takes off by climbing straight up into the air from a standing position.

The story also dramatizes the private life of the test pilot whose family is often in doubt about his secret activities, his whereabouts and his personal safety. Coleman took part in the Civilian Pilot Training program while enrolled at SUI during 1940 and 1941.

Ojemann Authors Health Article

Prof. Ralph H. Ojemann of the SUI psychology department is the author of an article appearing in the February issue of the Journal of the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

The article, entitled "We Can Teach Human Relations," points out that helping a child to grow in mental health as well as physical health is recognized as an important responsibility of teachers of health and recreation.

Ojemann gives two ways in which teachers can contribute to mental growth of a child. One is by gaining an understanding of pupil behavior and applying the insight in the daily relations with them.

The second is the incorporation of the causal approach to behavior into content that is taught the pupil.
