3 Stalin Pupils Battling For Russian Reins

MOSCOW (AP) — Three of Josef Stalin's favorite political pupils may hold the world's hopes for peace in their hands as they wage their mysterious battle for the leadership of Russia.

Marshal Nikolai Bulganin, for years head of the Soviet armed forces, took over Georgi Malenkov's premiership Tuesday. The man thought to be the logical successor was Nikita Khrushchev. Khrushchev was 60 last April. A miner's son, he worked in his youth as a herdsman in his native Kursh province, south of Moscow, and then as a plumber in coal mines of the Donets basin. In 1918 he joined the Bolsheviks. He fought in the civil war, then got himself the rudiments of an education. He got party assignments in Kiev and the Donets basin. In 1929 he went to Moscow to enroll as a "listener" in courses at the Stalin Industrial Institute and to lead the Communist party organization there. In 1932-34 he was made a secretary of the Moscow city Communist party organizations directly under Lazar Kaganovich, politburo member. Khrushchev won his spurs in work under Kaganovich in construction of the first Moscow subway. And when the latter resigned his Moscow party leadership it was given to Khrushchev. From 1935 to 1938 he held this key spot. In 1938 Stalin picked Khrushchev to be his personal hatchetman in the troublesome Ukraine. Khrushchev held this job until 1939 during war and peace. In the war he ran partisan operations against the occupying Germans. After the war he led the work of rebuilding the devastated industry and agriculture of the rich republic. In December (1949) Stalin brought Khrushchev back to Moscow as one of five secretaries of the central committee of the Communist party. Bulganin is 59. He was born in a middle-class family in Nizhni-Novgorod on the Volga river.

He was graduated from commercial high school, joined the Communist party and fought in its ranks during the revolution. He was a charter member in 1918 of the first Soviet secret police — the infamous Cheka. In 1922 he became an official in the Soviet supreme economic council. He took over direction of the Moscow electric factory and made a name through production. He was named mayor of Moscow and then chairman of the state bank of the USSR. During these years he got a

Malenkov Out; Shake-Up Expected

MOSCOW (AP)—Georgi Malenkov's resignation from the Soviet premiership likely will mean a reshuffle of the whole Soviet government under the supervision of Nikita S. Khrushchev, Westerners in Moscow believed Tuesday night.

Malenkov stepped down Tuesday with a confession of failure to do his job. To succeed him Khrushchev, first secretary of the Russian Communist party, nominated Nikolai Bulganin, defense minister and an army marshal. The Supreme Soviet parliament voted in Bulganin by acclamation Tuesday.

Stress Heavy Goods
The day's developments underlined the Soviet Union's renewed emphasis on production of heavy goods, including armaments—a policy exemplified by Khrushchev.

The tough policy was further supported in a long speech by V. M. Molotov, the foreign minister. He criticized the United States as an aggressor, upheld Communist China's claim to Formosa and presented a picture of possible atom warfare which communism alone would survive.

Increase Might, Prosperity
Recent articles in Pravda and other papers have advocated expanding the Soviet Union's heavy industry to increase the nation's military might and produce prosperity.

It seemed to many Western observers an admission that the Soviet Union cannot do all things at once. They cannot push a massive farm expansion program, at the same time pushing a big livestock program, a big consumer goods program, and yet have expansion of heavy industry, too. Something had to give. The resignation of Anastas Mikoyan as trade minister was a recent tipoff to differences in the Malenkov cabinet. Khrushchev apparently swung his support to those persons demanding more heavy industry and defense production, and that decided the issue.

Today's meeting of the Supreme Soviet may get an announcement of a reshuffle in the government. It is expected that Premier Bulganin will relinquish the defense ministry. Will it go to Marshal Zhukov, the Soviet Union's No. 1 soldier, who has come strongly to the fore again since Stalin's death?

Will Khrushchev enter the government as a deputy premier or continue as chief of the Communist party and general ex-pediter of everything from livestock and grain through expanding the populations to huge building programs?

And what new duties will be assigned to Malenkov? Does Bulganin's appointment as premier mean that the army is coming further to the fore and taking over in the Soviet Union? Malenkov resigned at a morning session of the parliament, confessing himself a failure in the field of agriculture and an inexperienced hand in the affairs of government. At the afternoon session Khrushchev nominated Bulganin.

Then Molotov went to the rostrum in the great Kremlin Palace. He said the U.S. had miscalculated the time it would take the Soviet Union to develop atomic weapons. Then he asserted:

"U.S. Lags
"In the production of the hydrogen weapon the Soviet people have achieved such a success that it is not the Soviet Union but the U.S.A. which is in the position of laggard."

He declared the Soviet Union wants to compete with the U.S. in atomic matters only "in using atomic energy for peaceful aims."

He warned: "In case of eventual war, world civilization will not perish but what will be destroyed is the rotten social system with its blood-saturated imperialism which is being rejected by oppressed peoples."

In view of the tenor of Molotov's remarks—obviously to be taken as a major statement of foreign policy—Western diplomats noted with particular interest that a man associated with the military had become the new premier. There was some speculation here that it meant a stronger role for the armed forces in Soviet internal and external affairs, even though Bulganin is not a career military man but an old Communist administrator.

Short Regime Ended

Last Civilian Taken Off N. Tachen

TAIPEI, Formosa (Wednesday) (AP)—The U.S. Navy announced the last Chinese civilian was removed Tuesday from North Tachen, whose garrison was reported ready to leave nothing of value behind for the Reds. Reports from the U.S. 7th Fleet said Red anti-aircraft gunners for the second straight day fired on U.S. carrier planes, but no damage was reported. An Associated Press dispatch said the Reds on Yikiangshan, eight miles north of the Tachens, fired on two planes Monday night and one Tuesday.

Otherwise, the Chinese Communists from nearby island positions made no attempt to interfere in the withdrawal, which some authorities expected to be completed by Monday.

The residents of the North and South Tachens, 200 miles north of Formosa, crowded aboard Chinese landing craft and U.S. transports. Defense ministry and air force sources said the guerrillas might go to other islands, possibly Nanchishan, 80 miles south of the Tachens.

Personnel Problem Studied by Hoegh

DES MOINES (AP)—Gov. Leo A. Hoegh said Tuesday he is working with the state commerce commission toward a solution of their personnel problem.

The discharge of six employees caused the latest of a series of disagreements in the three-man commission.

The senate has threatened action on a bill to make the commission appointive instead of elective. Hoegh held conferences earlier with the discharged employees and Tuesday afternoon with the commission members.

The governor would not say how he hopes to create peace over the issue of the discharged employees or any of the other issues which have disturbed the commission.

Senate Group Votes To Ratify Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee voted, 11-2, Tuesday for ratification of the Formosa defense treaty.

The pact commits the United States to recognize any Communist attack on Formosa or the neighboring Pescadore islands as "dangerous to its own peace and safety" and to meet it with military power within the limits of the U.S. Constitution.

Ike Outlines Plan On Aid to Schools

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Tuesday outlined a three-year attack on the nation's school shortage which would throw $1,100,000,000 of federal money into emergency construction.

He said the program would preserve "the responsibility of communities and states in educating our children."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) and Rep. Peter Freylinghousen (R-N.J.) immediately introduced bills to put Mr. Eisenhower's proposal into effect.

The President's plan is aimed at assisting school districts in three categories:

1. Those which are able to issue building bonds but which cannot market them at reasonable interest rates.
2. Those which have issued all the bonds they are legally permitted but which still have some money available.
3. Those which are flat broke.

Candidates for 1955 Interfraternity Pledge Queen

bridge, Alpha Delta Gamma, Phi Kappa Psi, Burlington; Sara Shinn, Alpha Phi Beta Phi, Phi Gamma Delta, Cedar Rapids; Lorie Shadle, Alpha Delta Delta, Phi Delta Theta, Boone; Kerin Okerlin, Alpha Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Upsilon, Clarinda; Doris Gettenfelder, Alpha Delta Gamma, Phi Kappa Alpha, Atlantic; Jean Anderson, Alpha Phi Beta, Phi Delta Tau, Delta, Geneseo, Ill.; Joanne Brown, Alpha Gamma Phi Beta, Sigma Nu, Des Moines; Beth Moore, Alpha Phi Beta, Alpha Tau Omega, Dubuque, and Donna Schumann, Alpha Kappa Gamma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Waterloo. Couples attending the dance will each have one vote toward the selection of the 1955 queen.

2 Die as Plane Burns; 18 Survive

FT. WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A giant B-36 bomber exploded and burned on the runway at Carswell air force base here early Tuesday night. At least two men burned to death in the wreckage.

Another 18 survived. They suffered burns and bruises but none of them was critically injured, according to reports from the base hospital.

The big, intercontinental bomber was from the 95th bomb wing stationed at Biggs air force base in El Paso, Minn. Robert Spencer, Carswell public information officer, said.

Spencer said the plane was on a training flight from El Paso. When it came in for a landing on the main north-south runway the wheels touched down on soft dirt north of the runway, he said.

A moment later it exploded in flames.

Wreckage was strewn over the north end of the runway with the burning craft finally coming to rest near the center of the landing strip.

A spokesman said the names of the two dead would be announced as soon as next of kin are notified.

Extend Draft Until 1959

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives voted, 394-4, Tuesday to continue the draft four years beyond June 30, 1954. It is currently taking about 11,000 men each month.

The legislation, asked by President Eisenhower, now goes to the senate. The same international pressures that helped to sweep it to passage in the house will be pushing it there, but the senate is expected to take more than the one day of debate the house held.

The four house members who voted "no," all Republicans, were Usher Burdick of North Dakota, Clare Hoffman of Michigan, Noah Mason of Illinois, and Wint Smith of Kansas.

Uncertainties of the Formosan situation and the designs of Russia were in the background as the house debated.

Mrs. Lucht Lands In U.S., To Start Trip Home Today

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. William Lucht of Iowa City, who was taken off the Queen Elizabeth at Cherbourg Jan. 7 because of an appendicitis attack, came home on the sister ship Queen Mary Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucht's children, Wendy, 5, and Alec, 4, had to make the voyage back alone after their mother became ill.

Mrs. Lucht and the children had been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Johnson, of Bangor, North Wales.

After she was taken to a hospital at Cherbourg, she said, her parents visited her there.

Utility Dissatisfied With Rate Increase

J. E. Stewart, district manager of Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric company, Tuesday indicated the utility was not satisfied with the three per cent increase in electric rates granted Monday by the city council.

Stewart said in a statement: "We appreciate the three per cent increase in electric rates which the council has granted and intend to accept it as previously indicated."

"I wish to stress, however, that the resulting revenue will not approach the amount which we need and eventually must have in order to maintain the existing high standards of electric service."

AEC Will Not Cancel Dixon-Yates Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Atomic Energy commission (AEC) has refused to abandon the atom-ridden Dixon-Yates contract, it was disclosed Tuesday.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss reported the commission decided last Saturday "by majority vote that it would not now cancel" the contract for private power in the South.

The majority presumably was 2-1, with Strauss and Dr. Willard F. Libby in favor. Thomas E. Murray, the only other AEC member now functioning, has publicly urged the commission to rid itself of the contract and the ensuing controversy, which, he said, has drained its time and energy.

Shortly after Strauss told of the AEC vote in a letter to Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.), Murray appeared before the senate-house atomic energy committee, and again stressed his view that the contract row has diverted AEC attention from atomic problems.

He said it was true, as Strauss reported last week, that atomic weapons output is at a record high and that much headway has been made in developing peaceful uses of nuclear energy. But he added it would be "irrelevant" to cite AEC's recent progress report "as evidence that the controversy over the Dixon-Yates contract has not impaired our program and will not do so in the future."

Murray said "for the most part these superb accomplishments" resulted from programs initiated before the contract became an issue last year.

private power group headed by Edgar H. Dixon and Eugene A. Yates to erect a 107 million dollar plant at West Memphis, Ark., to generate electricity for the Tennessee Valley authority. The power would compensate for current which TVA supplies to AEC installations.

President Eisenhower recommended the contract and the administration has defended it as a sound, economical venture. Public power advocates contend it is part of a move to cripple TVA and will boost rates to consumers.

AEC signed the contract last November.

Suit Threatened As Sick LaRosa Leaves Iowa Job

NEW YORK (AP)—At the risk of a $200,000 damage suit, Julius LaRosa flew here Tuesday from an Iowa singing engagement. He said he suffered two virus attacks.

LaRosa had been getting about $1,000 a day at the Des Moines Auto show. The show opened Saturday and he had an eight-day contract.

Despite a threat to sue him for breach of contract, LaRosa flew here to see his physician and to enter Mt. Sinai Hospital. He said he did so under doctor's orders.

A New SUI Program—

If the Iowa legislature approves the appropriation increase asked by the State Board of Education, SUI will become the home of the only mortuary science program in the state.

The new program is urgently needed. An act of the last legislature requires (after 1955) two years of liberal arts before entering a study of mortuary science. Currently morticians are required only to take the specialized courses.

Of the total requested annual appropriation of $8,214,000 for new programs, an estimated $23,500 would be directed to the establishment of the program at SUI.

The proposed SUI course would cover approximately three years, two of the newly required liberal arts and one of specialized study in the field of mortuary science.

A committee headed by Prof. Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the liberal arts college, has been studying the possible arrangements for the program. A member of the committee, Prof. Norman B. Nelson, dean of the college of medicine, said the mortuary science would not be in the college of medicine. "It is probable they would use facilities in the college," he said, "but the program would be an independent unit."

There are approximately 980 morticians in the state, and to maintain the demand approximately 15-25 students would enter the program each year.

The legislature cannot veto items — such as the proposed mortuary science program — in a budget. But if the total budget is cut, the future of the program is speculative.

Entire Book Microfilmed On Space of Post Card

If that fine print at the bottom of your insurance policy seems small, compare it with one of the three by five cards at the SUI library, where the card index is printed on one side, and the entire book is printed on the other.

A book of 50 to 70 pages can be printed on the regular card catalog index card, with pages one-third the size of a three-cent postage stamp or smaller.

Microphotography has a colorful history, both in war and peace. The process began in the 1800's, with the same names in its history as those in regular photography's background: Daguerre, Niépce and L. J. M. Niepce.

The first practical application of the process was in the manufacture of novelties wherein microscopic photographs, individual, groups, famous documents, and sometimes naughty ladies, were displayed. These photographs, usually in the form of transparencies, were mounted in souvenir fans, miniature telescopes, and in crude viewers.

The first practical application of the process was in the manufacture of novelties wherein microscopic photographs, individual, groups, famous documents, and sometimes naughty ladies, were displayed. These photographs, usually in the form of transparencies, were mounted in souvenir fans, miniature telescopes, and in crude viewers.

It was during the siege of Paris in the 1870 Franco-Prussian war that microphotography was first utilized in a utilitarian role. The city was completely surrounded by the Prussians, with all means of communication severed, save for carrier pigeons. The pigeons could only bring in three or four pages of military dispatches at a time, so the military called in the Parisian photographer Daguerre to assist them.

Daguerre took his photographic equipment out of the city by balloon, and set up shop at Tours. He prepared films of the dispatches that were reduced so small that a pigeon could carry a whole set.

About 40 sets of prints were sent out each time, as the flying route was watched by special details of Uhlan sharpshooters, and even guarded with hunting falcons. Many of these dispatches are still in existence, and they can still be read.

During World War II, several million pages of English manuscripts that were menaced by the war were reproduced on microfilm. More recently, a war-torn development is the microdot, wherein an entire page is reduced to the area occupied by the dot appearing above the letter "i" on a typewriter. This process is used for espionage purposes.

In America, to conserve space taken by mail and to speed delivery the war department inaugurated in June, 1942, the V-mail service to and from the men on overseas fronts.

A peaceful use of process was the process when the Shostakovich Seventh symphony was first performed in the United States—from a score reproduced on microfilm and brought by air from Europe.

The enormous saving of space gained by using microphotography is illustrated by an example of government storage. Thirty million pages of a filled-in tabular statistical form exists in a government depository. They occupy approximately 9,000 cubic feet of space. On microfilm, the storage space could be reduced to roughly 450 cubic feet—less than five per cent of the original bulk. The original file weighs roughly 300 tons—the microfilm would weigh one and one-half tons.

In 1930 to 1940, microphotography became so popular that it was a multi-billion dollar business.

In 1951, a plan was adopted by a committee of the Association of Research Libraries to use microfilming in the publishing of university theses. Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of the SUI libraries, chairman, and his helpers, decided "all accepted dissertations (Ph.D.) should be published (by microphotographic process)."

There are now 49 participating institutions in the plan, 8,112 dissertations have been published, and an average of 15 requests per day for copies are received at the central agency of the University Microfilms, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Eugene B. Power, University Microfilms, says "An average size periodical of 800 pages, bound and stored over a 50-year period, incurs a storage and binding cost of $425, whereas the same material can be purchased on microfilm and stored over the same period of time for $127."

Microphotographic cameras are similar to conventional cameras except that they are usually built to higher standards of precision and are mechanized to take long lengths of either 16 or 35 mm film.

He Kills Chickens, Raises Boa Constrictors

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — "When I was a girl," says 80-year-old grandma Louise Heron, "we used to kill snakes and raise crickets." That is her recreation to grandson Mike Heron's raising of chickens to feed his two 5-foot pet boa constrictors which he keeps in his basement.

The boas are thriving, says Mike, 13.

WHOA THERE, PARTNER

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) — They caught a horse thief here recently and even back when hanging on the spot was the penalty, the culprit probably would have got off with a good spanking. He was just 7, and took the broncho for a spell of riding the range.

But How Do I Know She Means It?

Why Student Government?

Following is an editorial reprinted from the "College Eye," student newspaper at Iowa State Teachers college.

Today the nations of the world are mobilizing all available resources in fatalistic expectation of the deadly clash of the free world and the Communist empire.

The twentieth century has already observed two desperate struggles. War is not new to the population. The two previous wars seemed to be motivated by the same desire for world conquest as does the expectant battle. However, this new struggle involves a battlefield not seen to a great extent in either of the previous wars.

This is the battlefield of ideology. The new weapon of ideology has revolutionized modern warfare. The saboteur of today seeks to destroy the minds of individuals rather than the physical implements of war. He seeks to weaken the nation by pitting citizen against citizen, class against class, and government against government. He concentrates on confusing issues, of aligning himself with causes that will destroy the solidarity of a nation. He seeks to exhaust the desire of people to fight for their principles by providing new ones easily attainable on the five-year installment plan. He tries to pick the nation's pocket while occupying its mind with other enemies, real or unreal.

We saw the terrifying results of this new warfare in the brainwashing episodes in Korea. We are now beginning to realize that a confused mind is susceptible to any kind of injection that may be put into it. We know that to fight for God, Mother and Country is no longer good enough. It's necessary to know what makes up God, Mother and Country and of what significance they are. The why and the how is vitally important to the soldier fighting for a way of life against an entirely different mode of living.

Conformity is not the answer, though certain midwestern senators seem to think so. This country was built on the right of debate and discussion. However, other important ingredients of the country are cooperation and understanding. At no time in history has the ability of Americans and the entire free world to cooperate been so vigorously challenged.

How well do we know our way of life and understand our form of government? Could we adequately defend our beliefs if we were seriously challenged by some wily opponent? Is the fact that we vote enough? Or is it necessary to know why voting is important and what advantages it has over any authoritarian form of government? Where do we get our education in democracy? Is reading about it in history books enough to give us that education? Or is it necessary to supplement the book with active and interested participation in a democratic framework?

Does student government provide that democratic framework for the college student? Do students really take seriously student government or is it considered only an honorary job without any real significance? How well does a student government provide the student with a real appreciation and understanding of this thing called democracy? If student government is worthwhile, what conditions are necessary to provide desirable and effective student government?

A first requirement, is the necessity of believing in the college community as a whole. The college must be more than the institution in which people build up academic credits. It should be a place where people with similar motives and ideas meet on common ground and work in close relationship with one another. The individual must be concerned with the drives and ambitions of his classmates. He must realize that the success or failure of this community rests with the amount of time and talent he is willing to contribute in making the community a success.

In other words, he must widen his scope of thought from his room, his roommate, and his girl to terms of the college, the student body and the faculty. Provincialism of thought is not confined to nations or states but can begin with the individual.

A second necessity is the desire of the student to make decisions for himself and to be responsible for them. Perhaps this is just part of growing up but so often it is easier to let someone else make the decision and also take responsibility for that decision. This is certainly the easy way, for to make no decisions and to assume no responsibility relieves the person from any pressure or criticism that might be forthcoming. However, this country was not built on the "let George do it" motif at the time from Washington and Adams to the days of Truman and Eisenhower.

How much responsibility is shown when about half of the present day electorate fail to show up at the polls or if a student body takes very little interest in student politics? There is little worry so long as the social security checks keep coming or the intramural basketball keep functioning.

To have a good student government, the student body must believe in this over-used, misinterpreted word Democracy. Proclaimed on every fourth of July, extolled at every convention and venerated from the pulpit, it is still taken for granted as some sort of good living which we should favor. However, there are governments of the world which seriously challenge our form of government and seem to be adding new converts to their banner. Is democracy merely the counting of heads in order to determine what the majority think best? Or is democracy a whole attitude of life in which the expression of the individual is held sacred? Is it a philosophy of life which believes in the dignity of the individual whether he be right or wrong?

It is a way of living in which dissent involves no fear of his opinions.

Interpreting the News—

Strong Russian Trio Emerges

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

In October 1941 there was a shift in the Japanese cabinet which the world quickly assessed as meaning the extension of the European war to the Pacific.

It did. The shift of Russia back to the tough line now creates a similar feeling, though not quite so intense.

The fall of Malenkov, who walked more softly than Stalin, the full emergence of tough man Khrushchev, the appointment of Bulganin as Khrushchev's front man, and the appearance of Molotov on the same Supreme Soviet program with violent new threats against the United States, all tie into a very disturbing picture.

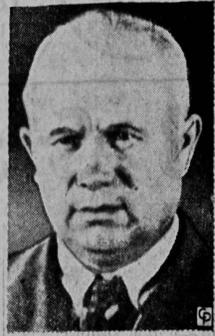

A New Triumvirate Here we have something of a triumvirate. It may be some time before its impact on international affairs can be fully evaluated. But one thing is sure. Its members are all beligerent toward the West.

This is so true that, in the brief interim between Malenkov's resignation and Bulganin's appointment, there was some hope among Western observers that Molotov would get the job, in the thought that he, because of his greater contacts with the West, at least understood better than the others the extreme dangers of a warlike attitude.

End to Social System But after Bulganin had been

Marshal Bulganin

Nikita S. Khrushchev

introduced to the Soviet in his new role by Khrushchev, Molotov took the floor and made one of the most dangerous statements ever to come out of the Kremlin: "In case of eventual war, world civilization will not perish, but what will be destroyed is the rotten social system with its blood-saturated imperialism which is being rejected by oppressed peoples."

If that is the Russian belief—that she can win and come out strong enough to be master in the ruins—then the world has arrived at a point of extreme danger, and hopes of peace must depend on a faith which becomes very hard to sustain.

Perhaps the most immediate effect of these events of this fateful Tuesday was a Soviet attempt to solidify its position beside Red China in the Formosa dispute.

There was every indication, from Molotov's speech and from the records of the now-smaller group of men who rule Russia, that instead of acting as a restraining influence as the West had hoped for a time, Moscow would now present with Peiping an even more intransigent axis.

BLOOD WEAPON

DETROIT (AP) — Police say blood bought a gun with which a 22-year-old ex-convict led a four-man holdup and burglary gang. Detective Lt. George Zellman said he admitted he bought the gun with $25 he got for a pint of blood at a hospital. Zellman said he also admitted being the gang leader in a dozen hold-ups and burglaries.

REPORT CARDS SOUGHT

GRAND HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A group of Grand Haven parents has petitioned the school board to return to the report card system for pupils in elementary grades. Report cards were abandoned in favor of a parent-teacher conference system. The petitioners said they wanted to see how Junior was doing—on paper.

Perhaps the most immediate aspect of these events of this fate, Tuesday was a Soviet attempt to solidify its position before Red China in the Formosa dispute.

There was every indication, in Molotov's speech and from records of the now-smaller group of men who rule Russia, instead of acting as a remaining influence as the West had hoped for a time, Moscow would now present with Peiping even more intransigent axis.

'Miracle' Fabrics Important—

New Textures Shown in Spring Fashions

By Jan Papke

Nylon and cotton, silk and wool, and rayon and silk blends are favorites of spring fashion designers along with a long list of other "miracle" fabrics.

Nylon and mercerized cotton blends look like silk, behave like nylon and are as cool as cotton. Dresses, skirts and blouses of this fabric will be a delight to the college woman.

Wool tweed suits and coats are predominate with linings of crepe, silk shantung and tissue faille. The overblouse, which will be very popular with suits, is usually of the same fabric as the jacket lining.

Orlon Knit Dresses Knit dresses will feature spring pastel shades, and some will be hand washable because of a new wool and orlon chenille fabric. No blocking is needed when these dresses are washed.

Broadcloth dresses, blouses and skirts now are available in wrinkle-resistant finishes, and many outfits are made of "disciplined" cotton with a crease-resistant finish.

Nylon and dacron fabrics are easy to wash, dry quickly and need little or no ironing.

Wool and Mink A new sweater yarn combines wool and mink fibres. This combination makes an easily washable sweater. Wool and cashmere blends are used in many soft spring coats. Orlon fleece coats and jackets in pastel shades also will be popular.

Rayon with a linen finish is a new fabric for casual clothes. A rayon flannel fabric will be used for spring suits.

Blouses of silk and orlon with a shantung weave will shun creases, wash and dry quickly.

Dacron crepe is another new material for blouses.

Bridesmaid's Gowns Dimity, silk organdy and organdy over taffeta will be featured in bridesmaid's gowns for spring weddings.

Faille coats that are water repellent, wrinkle-resistant and color fast will serve for dress-up occasions for clear or rainy evenings.

Silk, tissue faille, and chambray will be used for summer fashions that will be cool and easy to launder.

Women will have many choices of fabrics and should find spring clothes easy to care for and pretty besides.

San Francisco Holds Poll Lead; Iowa Pushes to 15th

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Top place in the current ranking wasn't enough to satisfy Coach Phil Woolpert and the Dons. San Francisco "wants to really prove it's the best in the nation," Woolpert said. And it's willing to try that in either the NCAA or the National Invitation Tournament, with the NCAA getting first call.

Iowa's victory over Purdue last Saturday resulted in a boost to the No. 15 spot in the AP poll.

and to twelfth in the United Press ratings.

In winning 16 of 17 games so far, San Francisco has beaten George Washington, ranked sixth this week; UCLA, eighth, and Oregon State, 18th, and has lost only to UCLA.

The poll is based on performances through last Saturday. Behind Kentucky in the rankings came La Salle, Duquesne, Utah, George Washington, North Carolina State, UCLA, Marquette and Illinois. The only change in that order since last week saw George Washington move up one place to sixth and North Carolina State drop one. Illinois barely squeezed into the first ten ahead of Maryland.

The top 20 teams with first place votes in parentheses:

1. San Francisco (68) 16-1 1,107
2. Kentucky (39) 14-2 1,807

3. La Salle (3) 16-4 638
4. Duquesne 13-3 614
5. Utah (3) 17-3 559
6. Geo. Washington (9) 13-3 398
7. North Carolina State 18-4 389
8. UCLA (1) 14-4 338
9. Marquette (6) 16-1 319

Precision Strutting by Swedish Gymnasts

THE DISTAFF SIDE OF THE Swedish gymnastics team which gave an exhibition in the field house Tuesday night is shown performing in a group calisthenics movement. The show assumed proportions of a television extravaganza as the gymnastics events were combined with the emceeing of Tommy Bartlet of Welcome Travelers TV fame. The group included 10 men and 10 women.

the best athletes in Sweden, some of them Olympic champions. The team is currently on a two-month tour of the United States with the next stop at the University of Illinois. A week ago part of the group was featured on the Welcome Travelers TV show. Bartlet said he became well acquainted with the group during its TV appearance and accompanied the team to Iowa City to visit with Iowa gymnastics Coach Dick Holzhaepel, an old friend.

Adolph Rupp Tells About 'Cats' Slump

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — One of basketball's burning questions — what happened to Kentucky down South? — is so simple to answer that Coach Adolph Rupp wondered Tuesday why he should be asked.

"Let's just say that basketball has moved to the South," he said in unfruffled tones. "The day has come when Kentucky must do more than show up in the Southern gyms. We must play our best to win."

He pointed to Alabama, Vanderbilt, North Carolina State and Maryland as recognized national powers, along with Kentucky, and suggested they are getting knocked off with some regularity in their own conferences.

RUPP

"When can you remember so many Southern teams being ranked in the top 20 teams of the nation in The Associated Press poll?" he asked.

There are now four Southern teams in the top 20 including Kentucky which dropped to No. 2 this week after leading the poll seven weeks.

"Every team down south is out for Kentucky's skin," Rupp said. "We are their big game of the year. We can't point for every game on our schedule, but we never play a team that isn't pointing for us."

"Now they are getting the coaching and the personnel to do something."

Rupp's team suffered two defeats at the hands of Georgia Tech and had close calls against Louisiana State, Tulane, Vanderbilt and Mississippi State.

He agreed that some observers might put the slump and the departure of star guard Linville Puckett last week together and conclude he had a situation of bad morale.

"Actually," he said, "our morale was better. The boys are playing well and they are winning. That's what counts."

Iowa State Whips Jayhawks, 77-59

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Big Chuck Duncan whipped in 37 points to give the Iowa State Cyclones a 77-59 Big Seven Conference basketball victory over the Kansas Jayhawks Tuesday night.

The victory upped Iowa State into fifth place and dropped Kansas into sixth.

Bullpen Job Creates Either Hero Or Bum

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Major league relief pitching is a hazardous occupation, says the Milwaukee Braves' No. 2 fireman.

"You're either a hero or bum, and all you need is a couple of pitches to find out which," Ernie Johnson explained Tuesday. And, with 99 innings of National League chores during 1954, Johnson was in a position to speak. He and Dave Jolly ranked 1-2 as Braves' relievers last year.

"You come in there from the bullpen and you walk past second base," Johnson said. "Jack Dittmer or Danny O'Connell will say 'How you feel, boys?' and Joe Adcock will come over to the mound and say the same thing."

MT. VERNON — University high of Iowa City rallied to pip Mt. Vernon's Mustangs, 46-43, Tuesday night to advance to the finals of the Mt. Vernon state sectional tournament. The victory gave the Bluehaws three straight wins over Mt. Vernon.

In the class A championship game Saturday night, Coach Chuck Wolbers' U-High club will meet the winner of tonight's Springfield-Cedar Rapids Wilson battle following the 7 p.m. B finals.

Trailing 43-42 after Mt. Vernon's Vern Stadt stole the ball and raced half the length of the floor for a lay-in, U-High overcame the deficit on four free throws by Jerry Schoenfelder in the last 55 seconds to win. He sunk a pair at 0:55 to put the Bluehaws on top, 44-43, and then caged single points at 0:42 and 0:03.

The teams entered the last quarter deadlocked at 32-all, and the lead switched hands nine times plus two ties before U-High took it for keeps in the last minute.

Getting off to a slow start, possibly from tournament jitters, both teams together caged only four first quarter baskets. Mt. Vernon's Dick Kruse got the sole Mustang field goal in the first period after 7:11 had gone. However, he hit five free tosses to help his mates to a 11-8 quarter margin.

After falling behind, 14-8, U-High tallied 14 straight points to take a 22-14 lead over the hapless and cold Mustangs. But then Coach Clarence Bergman's club hit twice from the field to cut U-High's halftime lead to 22-18.

Kruse led the game scoring with 17 points with Bluehaws Dick Rider and Schoenfelder next with 13 and 12, respectively. U-High missed 23 of 46 free throws, while Mt. Vernon failed on only 12 of 27 attempts. The Mustangs committed 29 personal fouls to U-High's 19.

Only once in the hectic second half did as much as four points separate the teams. U-High led then, 26-22. In addition, except for Mt. Vernon's 39-36 lead, two points was the biggest point spread throughout the half.

Northwestern Chooses Grid Boss From Staff

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern university Tuesday picked one of its own assistant coaches, 33-year-old Lou Saban, to become head football coach succeeding Bob Voigts.

Voigts resigned suddenly last week after serving eight years. He said he quit because of alumni criticism.

At the time, former Northwestern and Cleveland Browns' quarterback star, Otto Graham, was boosted enthusiastically by alumni for the job. But Graham quickly withdrew from consideration.

Saban, who becomes the youngest head football coach in the Big Ten, served one year under Voigts as defensive backfield mentor. His new contract is for one year at an undisclosed salary. Voigts reportedly received $14,000 annually.

"I accept the position with humility," said Saban, who played quarterback for Indiana from 1940 through 1942 and starred defensively for the Browns for four seasons beginning in 1946.

"I am extremely happy to receive the appointment and grateful for the confidence placed in me. I will work hard to give Northwestern a successful football program."

Alumni pressure built up against Voigts when his teams won only one conference game in the last two seasons. He had one more year to go on a five-year contract.

Asked To Sneak Down Sorority Fire Escape—

Locksmith Encounters Odd Situations

By Marian Shapiro

Has your job ever gotten you into a family argument? Or has it ever put you into a predicament where you were asked to sneak down the fire escape of a sorority house?

Mr. Locksmith takes situations like these in stride. It's all in a day's work.

Mr. Locksmith in Iowa City for the past 30 years has been William L. Novotny, 1833 Muscatine ave. "I started off in bicycle work and speedometer repair," Novotny said. "From this I went into locksmithing as sort of a hobby. Most mechanics like to work with small mechanical things, and many of them start monkeying around with locks."

It's A Challenge
"You find an unusual lock and learn all about it. Gradually, one by one, you become familiar with all the different types of locks. It's kind of a challenge. No locksmith ever wants to be stumped."

Novotny has helped people in and out of many situations. Much of the time the trouble stems from a damaged lock or key.

One night some sorority girls found themselves in a dilemma. While the housemother was out, a few of the hungry girls raided the pantry. As they turned the pantry lock. A frantic call went out to Mr. Locksmith.

William Novotny
"Mr. Locksmith"

'We'll Stand Guard'
"One of the girls was waiting outside the house," Novotny said. "She rushed me into the kitchen where the rest of the girls were."

"You fix the lock and we'll stand guard," they said. "If the housemother comes we'll whistle and you run down the fire escape."

"Now wouldn't that have looked cute if someone had seen me sneaking down a sorority house fire escape?"

"I told the girls that I had come in the front door and would leave by the front door, whether it be now or later."

Did His Job

He fixed the lock, made a new key and went on his way before the unsuspecting housemother returned.

Another time Novotny was called to the American Telephone and Telegraph booster station near Williamsburg, which is about 24 miles west of Iowa City. The station is all brick and glass brick, has a steel door and no windows. The men are required to lock the door behind them while they use the phone.

Novotny was called to rescue two men who were locked in the station one night when it was about 15 below zero. After the men locked the door, the lock jammed and refused to budge.

Assembled Carelessly
"A couple of people from the phone company went with me to put up a tent and heater," Novotny said. "Just as they got the heater working the lock opened. This time it was a case of the lock being assembled carelessly."

In another case where there was mechanical trouble with the lock the locksmith had to work against time. Novotny said he read in the Locksmith Ledger, a trade publication, how a California locksmith had to race against the clock in a doctor's office to free a woman who accidentally had been locked into an adjoining windowless room. The woman was released from her prison and rushed to the hospital where her baby girl was born less than an hour later.

Shortly afterward, an Iowa City woman found herself locked in the rest room in a tavern because the casting on the lock cracked when the door was slammed too hard.

She Remembers Him

"I was downtown shopping with my wife and couldn't be reached at the time," Novotny said. "By the time the tavern owner contacted me the lady had been trapped in the rest room for over an hour. Now every time I pass her on the street she breaks into a big smile and says, 'I'll never forget that night.'"

Even a simple thing like being asked to make a car key can put a locksmith into the middle of an embarrassing situation. Once, a woman called him to her house to make a key to the family car.

In Middle of Brawl

"The woman came to the front door and told me what she wanted. Then her husband came out and screamed that he didn't want her to have a car key. The two of them started swinging. If the clothes line hadn't come between them, I don't know how things would have ended."

Frequently locks are damaged intentionally. "Once I had to go to a downtown clothing store to fix a lock that someone had filled with pencil lead."

"Lots of times people jam the locks on the money boxes on public telephones by doodling with their pencils while making calls."

Practical jokes sometimes lead to situations that require a locksmith's help. "One night two fraternity boys brought a handcuffed girl in to me," Novotny said. "They put the handcuffs on for a gag and couldn't get them off."

Boy Scouts Take Over City Government

The Iowa City council Tuesday voted to:

1. Issue $500,000 in bonds to build a combination city hall-community center.
2. Establish one-side parking on Dodge street.
3. Improve College street and Newton road.

All this won't cost the taxpayers a cent—the ordinances don't count.

They were passed by Iowa City Boy Scouts, who took over the city council seats at 10 a.m. as part of the Citizenship day observance here.

Chosen at Convention
Jim Rocca, 718 N. Gilbert st., presided as mayor. Raymond Barnes was city manager. The councilmen were Ed Hale, Dick Annis, John Parker and Dick Bywater. All were chosen at a city boy scout convention.

The councilmen had their own ideas on the proposed combination building. Ed Hale said the combination building would be easier to build and maintain.

Dick Annis thought the separate departments might get in each other's way. He voted for the building, however, in the roll call vote. John Parker suggested that parking meter revenues be used to finance the building.

Same Site
City Manager Raymond Barnes, when called on for advice, said he favored constructing the building on the site of the burned-out Community building.

Tuesday's council didn't have the unanimous effects of the regular group. Councilmen Annis voted against measures improving Newton road and providing for one-side parking.

Measures voted on by Tuesday's council were similar to ones currently being considered by the regular city council.

Other Boy Scout city officials selected by the council spent the day with their regular counterparts.

Watch Fire

The firemen saw some of the action Iowa City firemen have been experiencing the past month when they were called to the fire at the Summit Food Market, 812 Summit st.

The scout city officials were guests of the Kiwanis club for a noon luncheon.

ONE OF THE MAJOR PROBLEMS discussed by the scouts as they took over the city council meeting was the problem of improving the city's streets.

Tickets for tonight's duo-piano concert by Vronsky and Babin at the Iowa Memorial Union are still available at the Union desk.

They may be obtained by students upon presentation of identification cards. Faculty members and the public may purchase tickets for $2 each.

Sponsored by the SUI concert course, Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin's program will be the third in a series of concerts by celebrated musicians presented at the university this season.

At 8 P. M.

Tonight's concert at 8 p.m. will open with "Sonata in G Major, No. 6" by Bach. Included in the program will be "Fantasie in F Minor, Op. 103" by Schubert, "Concerto Pathetique" by Liszt, "Jux d'Enfants, Op. 22" by Bizet and "Trois Mouvements de Petrouchka" by Stravinsky.

Miss Vronsky and Babin, who are husband and wife in private life, became known in America first through a recording of Rachmaninoff's "Second Suite," which became a best seller.

Studied Together
Both the pianists studied music from childhood in homes 500 miles apart in Russia. They met when both were studying piano under Artur Schnabel in Berlin and decided to form a two-piano concert team soon after their marriage.

Not American citizens, the couple finds appearances in small cities across the United States a pleasant contrast to their concerts in Europe, where "our sole contact with the townspeople was limited to the porter in the hotel, the local manager, and the piano tuner." Here they enjoy the friendliness of their audiences and the opportunities they have to meet many Americans while they are on tour.

The Babins spend two months of each summer at the Aspen festival in Colorado, of which Babin is director.

Contest for Panacea Scripts Underway; Deadline: April 18

A contest sponsored by the Panacea board is now under way in an attempt to find a script for next year's production. Writer of the winning script will receive $50.

The script should include characters, action, plot and staging but does not need to include a musical score. Scripts are due April 18 in the Office of Student Affairs.

The winning script will be announced May 1 by the Panacea board. A director will be selected by the board.

Panacea in the past has been held in the spring and attendance has been small at all performances. The date of the coming production will be earlier in an effort to attract a greater audience.

An emblem for Panacea in the form of a Greek man has been created by George Heiring, A4, Marshalltown, and now is appearing on posters advertising the script contest. This symbol will be used on all future Panacea material.

Panacea was not produced this year because no suitable script could be obtained.

Board members are Barbara Oliver, A3, Des Moines; Beth Howard, A3, Imogene; Mary Jane Baker, A3, Iowa City; Lloyd Johnson, A3, Sioux City and Heiring.

Up stepped the Duke of Edinburgh. For 10 minutes the husband of Queen Elizabeth II was stooge to Tommy Cooper, known as Britain's "Mad Magician." Between them, they made a glass beaker disappear mysteriously and pulled off a half dozen other tricks.

It happened in London Tuesday at a luncheon of the Variety Club, members of which are known as barkers. The duke is an "honorary life barker."

OVERDUE BOOKS
BETTENDORF, Ia. (P) — A plea by Bettendorf school officials for return of some 250 books overdue at the junior high library prompted a girl student to bring back 70 books and a board of education member to return two which he had overlooked.

Bill May Let Cities Acquire Locations To Lure Industry

DES MOINES (P) — The Iowa Senate Tuesday debated at length but then deferred action on a bill which would permit cities and towns to issue revenue bonds to acquire industrial sites for lease to private industries.

The bill was held for further study when some senators said they did not understand all the revisions.

Sen. Charles S. Van Eaton (R-Sioux City) said the bill was designed to encourage industries to locate in Iowa.

Chief opposition came from Sen. Frank C. Byers (R-Marion). He said the Cedar Rapids chamber of Commerce set aside a fund for a similar purpose, and he thought it was unnecessary for governments to operate in such a way.

Van Eaton declared Sioux City had lost five industries recently because the industries did not want to buy land and build their own buildings but only wished to lease property.

Under the bill, which he said was patterned after a law in Nebraska, a city could work in this way:

An industry could enter into a lease with a city, which would then proceed to issue bonds, acquire land and build the type of plant the industry wanted.

Proceeds of the lease would go to pay off the bonds. In order that the various governmental subdivisions would not lose revenue, the lease would contain a provision setting aside an amount equal to the taxes which would be assessed on the property if it were in private hands. This money then would be distributed to the various taxing bodies.

Van Eaton said the bonds would have to be paid only by the proceeds of the lease. The law, he added, would specifically forbid use of any city's general fund to pay off the bonds.

MUSICAL DEFLATION
DES MOINES (P) — With a drop in the price of bassoons, the Des Moines school board has voted to take bids on six instruments to replace the old hand-me-downs and war surplus ones some students have been tooting.

Senate Gets Tax Study Resolution

DES MOINES (P) — A reception calling for a special nine-member committee to study the tax structure of Iowa and its governmental subdivisions was introduced in the senate Tuesday.

The resolution was filed by the Tax Revision committee. But a study has frequently been suggested by members of both houses.

The committee would consist of three members of the house, three senate members and three persons from outside the legislature.

An appropriation of $30,000 would finance the study. The three committee members from outside would receive per diem pay of $20 a day plus expenses. The legislative members would receive expenses plus whatever extra compensation the legislature allows.

The resolution set the deadline of Jan. 1, 1956, for the final report of the committee. The committee also would be required to draft bills covering its recommendations.

The resolution also requests the governor to call a special session of the legislature within 60 days after the committee submits its final report. It provides that matters to be studied will include methods of raising revenue for state, county, municipal government and school districts.

Other matters the committee would consider include equalization of real and personal property assessments and tax exemptions.

Simplified Iowa Tax Return Bill Endorsed

DES MOINES (P) — A bill to simplify state income tax returns won the endorsement of the house Tax Revision committee Tuesday. The bill now goes on the house calendar to await its turn for debate.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Jack Miller (R-Sioux City) and 57 others, would permit a taxpayer to take a few figures from his federal income tax return such as could go on an electric accounting machine card and this would constitute the state income tax return.

Student Takes Survey for Work Toward Ph.D Degree—

'Classics' Disappearing in Iowa High Schools

Students in Iowa high school English classes spend much less time than their parents did with classics like "Silas Marner" and "Julius Caesar", their examinations tend to be shorter — but more frequent, and they write fewer "theses" — but more letters.

These are James E. Day's findings in his survey, "The Teaching of English in Iowa High Schools." Day was awarded a Ph.D. in education at mid-year Commencement exercises Saturday. He is a native of Waterloo. Spelling is taught. But, regardless of the assertions of some critics of modern education, who maintain that "fads" have replaced sound instructional methods, modern pupils are taught spelling. Day found that 89 per cent of the English teachers he interviewed devoted some class time to direct instruction in spelling. And the remainder checked spelling in connection with written work. Day interviewed 96 teachers in 33 high schools of varying sizes in eastern Iowa. He also observed 88 different classes of what is being taught and how it is taught. He concluded that the content and organization of English courses is largely determined by the textbook used, with two-thirds of the teachers instructing literature from a single basic anthology.

Smaller Schools
This reliance on the book is especially true of the smaller schools, he found, with teachers of larger schools tending to plan more independently of their textbooks.

The contemporary book of reading selections helps to make up for such shortages of library facilities as often exist in many smaller schools. It also gives assistance to the average teacher, who may be overloaded with classes in addition to averaging three extra-curricular activities apiece.

Approximately three-fourths of the teachers made some use of audio-visual devices, with 60 per cent using film projectors, 30 per cent record players and 27 per cent employing tape or wire recorders. Only 17 per cent use the bulletin board as a teaching device, partly because of lack of such space and because English teachers, unlike shop and typing teachers, often teach in several different classrooms during the day.

No More Long Reports
The long book report seems to be disappearing from the modern classroom scene, with at least one-quarter of the teachers using only small record cards or occasional conferences or questioning to keep abreast of student reading.

Day found that 62 per cent of the schools requires three years of English for graduation and 38 per cent require four years. And semester and yearly examinations are giving way to more tests of the unit or six-weeks type. Only 13 percent of the teachers now give the essay type of test, although 33 per cent add some essay questions to their multiple choice, true-false or other type of "objective" test.

Average 4.7 Years Service
Three quarters of the teachers interviewed had held their present position less than five years, but he found enough "old-timers" to make 4.7 the average number of years spent at the same teaching post. Day suggests that one reason for the rapid turnover is the English teacher's lack of time to check written work and to work individually with students.

Day is now an English instructor in El Camino Junior college in Torrance, Calif. While working toward his doctorate at SU, he taught in University high school and served as assistant editor of the Iowa English Bulletin, official publication of the state's English teachers.

3 Stalin—

military education at the same time and in World War II he emerged in responsible Communist party assignments on the front. He was a member of the military council on several different fronts and in 1944 Stalin named him deputy minister of defense. From that time on he has guided the destinies of the Soviet army.

On March 15, 1953, 10 days after Stalin's death, the central committee "accepted" the resignation of Malenkov as its leading secretary and named a new five-man secretariat. The name of Nikita Khrushchev led all the rest. But it was the arrest of Beria in June 1953 which really saw Khrushchev's stock soar. He played a leading role in this coup. And less than three months later he was given the formal title of first secretary of the central committee. He became from then on the leading Soviet public spokesman.

Bulgarian was a logical choice for Premier. As first deputy premier and minister of defense since Stalin's death, experienced in the most varied fields of work, as a veteran front man for the Communist party, he fills the bill.

Malenkov, 53, is the youngest of the three. One of the principal questions in the entire situation is whether he has really been ousted completely from the top of the Kremlin hierarchy or retains the power to make a comeback.

Who runs the Soviet Union today? The chain of command is difficult to trace, since the Communist party and government dovetail. The government actually derives its authority from the party.

On the assumption that the party rules the nation, the key position is held by Khrushchev, the party's first secretary and its recognized spokesman.

The head of the government, as such, now is Bulganin, premier; that is, chairman of the USSR council of ministers.

The real rule of the Soviet Union is exercised by the authority of nine men who make up the party presidium.

Hoegh, Commerce Commissioners Talk Harmony

IOWA GOV. LEO A. HOEGH, left, talks with Carl Reed, Cresco, (next to Hoegh); John Ropes, Des Moines, and John Tallman, Clarion, at the statehouse in Des Moines Tuesday afternoon. Hoegh called the 30 minute conference with the three members of the state commerce commission in an effort to promote "family harmony" after the recent dispute over the discharge of six commission employees.

Food Store Interior Destroyed By Fire

Fire Tuesday at 1 p.m. destroyed the interior of the Summit Food market, 812 S. Summit st.

The operator of the market, James Kellow, received minor burns on his head when he attempted to drag from the building a burning potato chip rack, on which the fire started.

He was given first aid treatment by firemen and remained on the scene salvaging what he could from the charred interior.

Fire Chief Al Dolezal said it has not been determined how the rack caught fire.

Owner of the building, Jack Wegmuller, 802 S. Summit st., would not give an estimate of damage to the building.

Kellow said he has insurance on most of the stock on the shelves and on some of the equipment.

Kellow was in the store with his daughter Kandace, 4, when he noticed the flames. He called to his wife who was in their apartment above the store and she notified the fire department.

Firemen reached the scene before the flames spread to the living quarters above the store. Both the basement and apartment were damaged by smoke and water.

The fire was extinguished in 30 minutes, but rapidly consumed the paper and wood materials on the shelves.

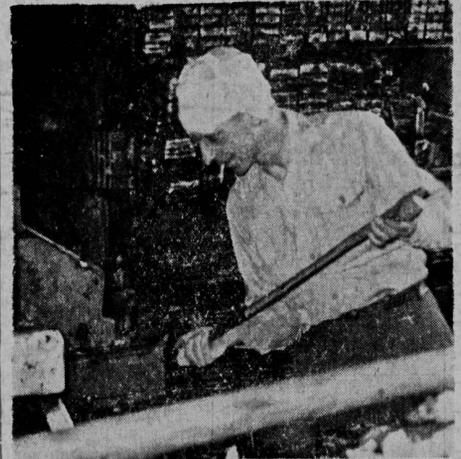

Two Boy Scouts, acting as assistant fire chief," were among the onlookers at the blaze. They were part of the group which "took over" city government Tuesday.

They were Bill Bywater, R.R. 1, eagle scout of Troop 214, and Richard Johnson, 1132 Hotz ave., second class scout of Troop 207.

The boys rode to the fire in a police squad car, which left the fire house for the scene as soon as the alarm was received.

JAMES KELLOW, operator of the Summit Food Market, 812 S. Summit st., attempts to force open the store's cash register after the fire. Kellow finally succeeded and was rewarded by discovering none of the money was destroyed although the machine was badly damaged by heat.
