$200,000 Augustana College Fire

Blaze Damages Science Building

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP)—Fire, fed by a series of chemical explosions, caused an estimated $200,000 damage at Augustana college's science building, Friday evening.

The building itself was saved by a quick thinking professor and some students.

Dr. E. R. Erickson, chairman of the science division, said the first indication that anything was wrong came when lights in the building began to flicker.

Prof., Students Investigate

Erickson and a group of students went to investigate and found the top floor of the four-story building in flames. They sounded an alarm and shut all fire doors.

This action, plus the construction of the brick and concrete building, isolated fire damage to the roof and fourth floor.

About 50 students were in the building, known as the Wallberg Hall of Science, but all escaped.

Two firemen were slightly injured fighting the blaze. Lee H. Evans suffered an ankle injury, and J. E. Remmy stepped on a rusty nail.

Firemen, though handicapped by a lack of water pressure, succeeded in bringing the blaze under control about 2 1/2 hours after it broke out.

Cause Unknown

Cause of the fire was not known.

Erickson and Dr. Conrad Bergendoff, college president, reported the fire started on the fourth floor, where many electric motors are installed.

Several loud explosions occurred while the flames raged. One was a hydrogen tank.

The damage estimate was made by the college president. He said the $700,000 building lost its roof and the entire fourth floor. Lower floors suffered water and smoke damage. In addition, equipment and supplies were lost.

The college did research for the Rock Island arsenal and for the George Evans Filter corporation of Moline in the fourth floor laboratory.

Firemen from Rock Island and Moline battled the flames. They blamed the fact that the college is situated on a hill for the lack of water pressure.

Pineau Loses Premier Bid

PARIS (Saturday AP)—The National Assembly early Saturday turned down the bid of Christian Pineau to be premier of France. The official vote was 312 against, 268 for him.

Pineau, a 50-year-old Socialist who writes fairy tales as a hobby, had been struggling against odds since he first was summoned Monday morning by President Rene Coty to form a government.

At the outset he was conceded a small chance, but he persisted and formed a Cabinet.

Nominate 6 to School Board

Six candidates were nominated Friday night to run for two positions on the Iowa City board of education in the March 14 elections.

They were nominated by the school selection committee, a group composed of 10 Republicans and 10 Democrats.

The candidates: John Wilson, 501 Kimball Road, sporting goods store operator; Elwin Joliffe, 1502 S. Muscatine st., SUI business manager; Elliot Full, 1831 Friendship st.; Sam Saltzman, 917 E. College st., furniture store operator; George Gay, 111 S. Governor st., official of the Gay Locker company, and Dr. Andrew C. Garvy, physician.

The board members who are elected will replace present members Alva Oathout and Irving Weber, who will not run for re-election.

The committee nominated Milo Novy, present city treasurer, to run for school district treasurer. He will replace David Stochl, who is not seeking re-election.

Longs Visit Their 3 Surprises

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LONG view their recently born triplets at University hospitals Friday. From left, Joann Carol, who weighed four pounds, four ounces at birth and now weighs four pounds, two ounces; Jim LeRoy weighing three pounds, thirteen ounces, a gain of one ounce since birth, and Jeff Norris who weighs four pounds, two ounces, two ounces over his birth weight. Long's fellow engineering students have chipped in to help meet the extra expenses. The Longs said they had been expecting twins.

Honorary Colonel and Cadet Colonel

MISS JEANNE HOTZ, A4, Ft. Dodge, and Warren Lawson, C4, Fairfield, were presented as Honorary Cadet Colonel and Cadet Colonel during ceremonies at the annual Military Ball in the Iowa Memorial Union Friday night. Miss Hotz will attend all military reviews during the year, while Lawson acts as student commander of all air force and army ROTC units here at SUI.

Auditor Claims SUI Did Not Follow Law

State Auditor C. B. Akers stated Friday in a report received by SUI that the university spent more than $5 million in the last fiscal year that was not pre-audited according to law.

The report quoted a state law which provides that the treasurer of the university "shall pay out funds only after pre-audit by the state comptroller and on order of the state board of education or of its finance committee, on bills duly audited in accordance with the rules described by said board."

James Jordan, director of SUI relations, said Friday night that the pre-auditor had an opportunity to pre-audit all of the university expenditures, but that some were not audited at all, or were audited after payment.

Says SUI Comptroller Jordan explained that this was in compliance with a board of education ruling which states: "The board instructs the treasurers of its institutions to pay vouchers which the business officers and the treasurers believe to be correct and for which they have evidence that the pre-auditor has had an opportunity to pre-audit them."

Damage Suit Filed In Bream Death

Clarence P. Bream, 105 N. Governor st., Thursday filed a $17,000 damage suit in district court asserting negligence on the part of Keith E. Hills, 24, who, with Bream's daughter, Doris Ellen, 17, was accidentally asphyxiated Dec. 5 in a parked auto on a country road east of here.

The two were found in the auto, whose engine was still running, in the early morning. Death was attributed to accidental carbon monoxide poisoning.

Bream, administering his daughter's estate, is suing Ira Hills, 1008 E. Bloomington, administrator of the son's estate. The suit alleges Hills' carelessness and negligence in the operation of the automobile directly caused Miss Bream's death. The auto was known to have a defective exhaust pipe, the suit indicates, and blames Hills, a truck driver, for permitting the engine to run while the car was parked.

According to the report, 17,063 vouchers for $5,382,236 had not been pre-audited at all as of last January 18, the date of the report.

State Comptroller Says: 'News to Me'

DES MOINES (AP)—State Comptroller Glenn D. Sarsfield said Friday the findings contained in the state auditor's report on SUI comes "as news to me."

"There was some discussion about delays in pre-audits about three years ago," Sarsfield said, "but no delays during the last fiscal year were ever reported to me."

David Dancer, secretary of the state board of education, said he had not yet read the auditor's report in detail but that the board's official position on the pre-auditing was unchanged. "We still feel it's unnecessary and is not good government," Dancer said.

PLEADS GUILTY
Leonard Prizler, 33, North Liberty, Thursday pleaded guilty in Johnson county district court to a false check charge. Judge James P. Gaffney continued sentence until Sept. 19 and released Prizler to the custody of two brothers.

Hancher Says TV Role Increasing

DES MOINES (AP)—SUI President Virgil M. Hancher predicted Friday that television will play an increasingly important role in American education.

Hancher spoke here at the opening session of the 17th annual National Farm Institute.

"Without state networks of educational television," Hancher said, "many children either will not be taught in the years ahead or will be inadequately taught in the elementary and secondary schools."

Pleading for better world understanding, Hancher said: "We must start with the assumption that other peoples are as much entitled to their cultures as we are to ours; and that if their languages and customs seem peculiar to us, ours must seem equally peculiar to them."

Equality of opportunity in a free society, Hancher said, will be assured "by keeping the means of education free from political controls and social censorship by making the teacher a first-class citizen, honored, respected, and adequately compensated by providing adequate financial support for education."

SUI Group Attends State Conference

"Academic Freedom and the Teaching Profession" will be one of the subjects of discussion at the annual Iowa conference of university professors being held today at Iowa State college.

John Schmidhauser, instructor in the SUI political science department, will be a member of the panel considering the problem of academic freedom.

Others attending from SUI are Professors George L. Mosse, history; Manfred H. Kuhn, sociology; Chesley J. Posey, civil engineering; Marion C. Boyer, mechanical engineering, and Ralph E. Ellsworth, director of libraries.

First Semester Grade Reports Ready Tuesday

Grade reports for the first semester, 1954-55, will be available for students in the colleges of liberal arts, commerce and the graduate arts, in room B4, University hall, Tuesday morning, Ted McCarrel, SUI registrar, announced Friday.

Grade reports for students in the professional colleges will be available in the offices of the deans Tuesday morning.

Office hours for distributing reports are from 8:30 to noon, and from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

House Approves Tariff Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's tariff-cutting foreign trade program was pushed through the house late Friday with a big assist from the Democratic majority.

After a bitter, two-day fight, the bill passed on a rollcall vote of 295-110.

But the back of the opposition, led in part by members of Eisenhower's own party, was broken when the house defeated by seven votes an amendment by Rep.

Daniel A. Reed (R-N.Y.) which would have deprived the President of much of his power to override recommendations of the tariff commission for higher trade barriers.

In this key test of the legislation, the vote was 206-199. Reed's amendment was supported by 119 Republicans and 80 Democrats, but opposed by 140 Democrats and 66 Republicans.

Voting for passage of the actual bill were 186 Democrats and 109 Republicans. Opposing it to the end were 75 Republicans and 35 Democrats. The bill now goes to the senate.

Soon after the house action, Eisenhower expressed his gratification in a statement in which he said:

"This program is of tremendous significance to the economic health and security of the United States and our friends in the free world." He did not mention the refusal of house Republicans to unite behind the measure.

The bill, a major part of the administration's program for this session of congress, extends the reciprocal trade program for three years from June 12 and gives the President authority to cut tariffs up to 15 per cent during that period in return for similar concessions in foreign markets.

Democrats carried the major share of the fight throughout the hot debate, and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) once left the chair to speak for the program on the floor.

Eisenhower made a last minute appeal for support of the program in a "Dear Joe" letter to the minority leader, Joseph Martin (R-Mass.). Martin read it to the house a few minutes before voting started.

Program Set For Opening Of Union

A week long program to celebrate the opening of the new Iowa Memorial Union addition April 24 was announced Friday by Dr. Earl E. Harper, Union director.

The program will begin with the formal opening Sunday afternoon, April 24, and continue through Saturday, April 30.

In addition to two concerts, a dance, a lecture and a dedication banquet in the evenings, the program provides for a man and woman bowler and a billiards expert to give exhibitions during the week.

Billiard expert Charles Peterson, billed as the world's greatest trick shot artist, will be available all during the program week to give billiard instruction.

On opening day there will be a tea and an exhibition of paintings by six faculty members of the SUI art department.

The dedication banquet is scheduled for Thursday evening, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the University of Pittsburgh. The toastmaster will be Dean Allin Dakin, who was the student speaker at the opening of the original Iowa Union, Feb. 6, 1926.

SUI Grad Named Publicity Director

David E. Pullman, 27, SUI alumnus has been named director of publicity at Simpson college, Indianola.

Pullman will supervise the college news bureau, photo service and college publications.

Pullman, a graduate of Simpson college, received his master's degree from the SUI school of journalism in 1952.

While attending SUI, Pullman was a news-caster for WSUI and a Daily Iowan reporter. He is a member of the SUI chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

Red Sub, 21 Ships Sunk

TAIPEH, Formosa (Saturday AP)—The Nationalists claimed today their biggest victory since being forced off the mainland—a submarine and 21 ships of a Chinese Red troop-carrying convoy sunk Friday by warships and planes.

Loss of more than 1,600 Red soldiers was implied in the claim that eight Communist landing ships went down 15 miles off Chekiang Province during nearly 12 hours of steady attack by the navy northwest of Formosa.

The Red convoy was believed to have been bent on reinforcing a garrison recently slipped into Taishan island some 40 miles south of Nanchishan, the Nationalists' northernmost outpost since evacuation of the Tachens.

Small A-Bomb Dropped in Precision Test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—One of the smaller A-bombs in the American arsenal exploded over Yucca Flat Friday, opening the 1955 test series in Nevada.

The 32d shot to be set off at the Atomic Energy Commission's test site was an air drop at noon after bad weather had caused a 4 1/4 hour delay.

It was an impressive piece of precision bombing as a B36 bomber from Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M., dropped the weapon through the only patch of blue sky visible in a windswept mass of clouds.

The high noon shot itself, however, was not an impressive sight. Only a brief flash was visible to observers 30 miles away in the foothills behind the Army's Camp Desert Rock.

It was hidden by a range of low-lying mountains which encircle Yucca Flat. The noise of the detonation was very slight and there was no report of any heavy shock in the surrounding area.

A small mushroom which took on a pinkish color rose to a height of perhaps 25,000 feet in five minutes, but there was very little stem visible, indicating a moderately high burst.

A MUSHROOM CLOUD rose over the Yucca Flats proving grounds in Nevada Friday as the long-delayed 1955 atomic test series got underway. This picture was made from a distance of 30 miles where a high-flying B-36 dropped the secret atomic device.

Navy Plane Missing

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—A navy patrol bomber with 11 men aboard vanished near here Thursday night on a flight from Kodiak. No trace of the plane was found Friday by a fleet of 42 search planes.

The air force said the navy P2V5 Neptune presumably carried a crew of three, and the other eight men were passengers. None was identified.

The twin-engine Neptune was due at Elmendorf air force base here at 6:01 p.m. last night, but was behind schedule when it last made radio contact with the field at 6:22 p.m. It then was over the Anchorage radio range, and gave no indication it was in trouble.

The missing plane was based at Kodiak naval air station.

Hawkeyes, Gophers, Illini All On Road Today

Minnesota Is At Ann Arbor For TV Tilt

The Iowa Hawkeyes join the other two principal tie contenders—Illinois and Minnesota—on the road, as they meet Michigan State at East Lansing tonight at 7.

The Gophers, too, are on a road-trip — into the Wolverine state, meeting Michigan at Ann Arbor in the TV game of the week starting at 2 p.m.

Illinois, alone in third place, is in Madison for a game with Wisconsin, the team which pulled an early season upset by beating the Illini on their home court.

5-Game Streak

In the Spartans, Iowa will be meeting a team which currently has a five game winning streak on the home floor. Their last home loss was Dec. 22 to DePaul, and since then they have beaten Penn State, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and Purdue.

Even considering three of the conference victories were over second division foes, the win over Minnesota should give a good indication of what the Spartans can do before a hometown crowd.

The Spartans were badly beaten when they visited the Iowa field house, and may still be smarting from the 94-81 pasting handed them as the Hawkeyes scored the second highest shooting average ever recorded in the Big Ten. Their .515 percentage that night was second only to the .611 they shot against Northwestern in 1953.

Defense Important

Defense also played a part, however, as Iowa held Michigan State forward Al Ferrari to eight points, Ferrari, currently holding a 20.1 average for the season, has been named by Spartan Coach Fordey Anderson as "the best player I have ever coached."

The Spartans who gave Iowa the most trouble that night were forward Julius McCoy and center Duane Peterson, each of whom scored 18 points. In addition, McCoy grabbed 13 rebounds as Michigan State over-shadowed the Hawks in that department, 52-51.

Against the Spartans, Coach Bucky O'Connor is expected to start the same lineup he has used in recent games. Bill Seaberg and Sharm Scheurman are

Freepoint running mate, Deacon Davis, at forwards.

Davis, who took over the starting position when Bill Schoof injured and then reinjured his knee, has drawn praise from O'Connor for the hustle he has shown in recent games.

Schoof, however, has apparently recovered and may see action tonight. Cain, too, seems to be back in shape after suffering a painful leg cramp in the Ohio State game Monday night.

O'Connor is expected to stay with the same lineup Monday night, however, as the Hawks travel to Champaign for an important contest before returning home.

Illini Remembered
Illinois is remembered around the Iowa campus as the team that was leading the Hawkeyes by 16 points, midway expected to go at the guard positions; Bill Logan will be at center and Carl Cain and this in the final half, before the Hawkeyes, augmented by reserves Les (Babe) Hawthorne, and Bob George, caught fire to win going away, 92-80.

Reserves may be needed again Monday, as the Illini are a hard team to defend, with fairly well balanced scoring, led by little Bill Ridley who bangs away at the basket from all angles and is surprisingly accurate.

In any case, Iowa will have to be at its best to win twice against two teams which are tough to beat on their home floors.

The Hawks must find the combination to win on the road, however, as they have only one home game remaining — next Saturday against Michigan. Following that, they go on to the road again to finish the season against Michigan and Minnesota.

Boy (Athlete) Meets Girl (Athlete)

RICH FERGUSON, Iowa distance runner, chats with Marilyn Bell at the Ontario Sports Writers association conference held Thursday in Toronto. Ferguson, a Toronto native, was named Canada's male athlete of the year after running a 4:04.6 mile behind Roger Bannister and John Landy in the "miracle" mile event during the Canadian games last August. Miss Bell was named "Outstanding Canadian Athlete" after swimming Lake Ontario. The conference was held as a benefit for crippled children and many big name American athletes attended as well as several of Canada's outstanding hockey players. Attending were such standouts as: Rocky Marciano, Jesse Owens, Al Rosen, Robin Roberts, Lou Groza, Chris Chataway, Gene Sarazen, Charlie Boswell (the blind golfer), and Strangler Lewis.

Little Hawks Down Clinton, 74-60

By John Wicks
Iowa City 21 18 20 15-74
Clinton 8 13 14 20-60

Iowa City's Little Hawks romped over Clinton 74-60 Friday night in their tune-up game for next week's District tournament contest against Franklin.

The Hawkllets jumped off to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and hung on for a revenge victory over the River Kings who defeated Iowa City at Clinton earlier this season. Jim Kelley hit a set shot from the corner and the Little Hawks were off and running. Dave Bradbury dumped in two free throws and Bill Scott hit two free throws and a tip in and City High had a 8-0 lead.

Scott, Langston Score
After Herb Marske missed a charity toss, Scott rammed in two buckets and Jeff Langston added another to send Iowa City to its eventual margin of victory. Finally with 3:30 left in the first period, Marske jabbed in a jump shot for the River Kings and they had their first points of the evening. But City High kept pouring it on and still led 21-8 at the quarter mark.

It was clearly a case of one team wanting to win more than the other. Iowa City knocked in their first five shots, dominated the defensive board, and completely out-played Clinton from the floor.

The Hawkllets pulled away to a 21 point lead midway in the third stanza with Steve Bauserman hitting four straight jump shots and Scott adding another pair from close range. It was 59-40 at the three-quarter mark. Coach Holmstrom played his second team in much of the final period in an attempt to give these boys added experience before starting tournament play.

Scott, Kelley Lead
Bill Scott and Jim Kelley each hit 22 points for the Hawkllets while Herb Marske banged in 21 for the visitors. Once again it was the fine out-shooting of Kelley and the board play of Scott and Dave Bradbury that made the difference as it has so often this season for the Little Hawks.

With this victory over Clinton, Iowa City climbed ahead to a 21 point lead midway in the third stanza with Steve Bauserman hitting four straight jump shots and Scott adding another pair from close range. It was 59-40 at the three-quarter mark. Coach Holmstrom played his second team in much of the final period in an attempt to give these boys added experience before starting tournament play.

CENTER BILL SCOTT of City high school sets himself to try to stop guard Jim Piper of Clinton from shooting in the game which the Little Hawks won, 74-60. Scott shared scoring honors with Jim Kelley at 22 each. The victory swept City high into third place in the Mississippi Valley conference, behind Davenport and Dubuque.

Souchak Retains Lead In Texas Golf Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Barly Mike Souchak scrambled to a three-under par 68 Friday to retain his lead at the halfway point in the $12,500 Texas Open Golf tournament with 128.

Scores generally soared under pressure and a gusty wind. The big man from Durham, N.C., who Thursday took the first round lead with a record-breaking 60 for 18 holes, was a stroke ahead of the field.

Freddie Haas of Claremont, Calif., turned in a 67 as the field was cut to the low 60 shooters and ties. Haas' 36-hole total rested at 129.

The 6,400-rod Brackenridge Park course proved tricky with the wind and some of the hotshots faltered as the field of 167 moved to the trimming down period.

Souchak's 60 tied the all-time PGA record for 18 holes Thursday and his 27 on the back nine broke the record for nine holes.

In a tie for third place were Al Balding of Toronto, Canada, and Jack Burke of Kiamasha Lake, N.Y., each with 131. Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kan.; Bob Rosburgh of San Francisco, and John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., were next in line with 132s.

It required 140 to make the final 36 holes for the professionals and among the prominent golfers who failed to land were Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., former National Open champion, and Doug Ford of Kiamasha Lake, N.Y. Boros wound up with 143 and Ford 141.

The Daily Iowan SPORTS

Wet Floor, Collision Halt U-High Game

Poor playing conditions due to rain water on the floor at University high school and a violent collision of two players just before halftime led to the termination of the U-High-Lone Tree basketball game (at the half Friday night).

Officially the game goes into the record book as a 2-0 victory by forfeit for Coach Bob James' Lone Tree Lions, although U-High held a 30-19 intermission lead when further play was stopped. The home team is responsible for the floor's condition.

Much more important was the fact that U-High forward Dick Rider and Lone Tree guard Keith Crawford were shaken up after colliding when Rider went up to check Crawford's lay-in attempt with 1:17 left in the half. Each boy seemingly injured a leg, but the extent of their injuries was not immediately known.

Perhaps Lone Tree will be forced to enter the district tournament beginning Monday night in the Iowa field house without the services of Crawford. The Lions meet Kalona at 6:30 p.m. Monday in a Class B district opener. U-High lost out in the sectional tournament last Saturday.

Several towels were placed on the floor's east side of the center line to prevent the water from getting the floor too wet. In this area dribbling was difficult. In addition some boys occasionally wiped the floor when play was at the west end of the gym and during timeouts.

Iowa Malmen Face Colorado

Hawkeye wrestling fans have only two more chances to see the powerful Iowa team in action at home and one of them is Monday at 3:30 p.m. against University of Colorado.

Iowa will be the third team in this state to meet the Buffaloes, since Colorado was scheduled against Cornell Friday and Iowa State today.

The only other dual meet remaining on the schedule is with Purdue, Saturday Feb. 26, at 7:30 p.m. Colorado is the fifth non-conference opponent of the Iowans.

Coach Dave McCuskey said that it will be necessary to use Lester Binko, an inexperienced sophomore, in the 137-pound class because of a knee injury of Bill Clements, the regular, is still bothering him.

Terry McCann and Dick Govig will exchange places, going back to their original weights; McCann at 123 and Govig at 130. These men have the best records among the Hawkeyes.

Iowa's coach regards Colorado with a wary eye, because the Buffs held Oklahoma to a 20-11 win, and 10 of the Sooner points were on forfeits. Oklahoma beat Iowa on one point.

Linn Long at 130 is the Colorado leader. He has won more than 75% of his matches over a three-year period and was runner-up for two years in the Big Seven tournament.

Several Records Expected To Topple

Track Team in Final Home Appearance

Iowa's improving track aggregation will make its last home appearance of the indoor season this afternoon, taking on the Golden Gophers of Minnesota in a dual meet.

Field events will get underway at 1 o'clock, and running will begin at 2.

The Hawkeyes are at top shape for the meet, whereas Minnesota has been hurt by some key losses through ineligibility, and Iowa Coach Francis Cretzmeier let it be known his team is gunning for several records.

Last week in a triumph over Wisconsin, the Hawks toppled four meet marks and several fieldhouse and Iowa standards. Wisconsin also kicked in a new meet record—in the shot.

Les Stephens, lean Iowa junior, broke two meet records last week and will be gunning for at least one today. Stevens, a hurdle specialist who also picks up points in the high jump, should crack the mark of 8.8 in the highs unless he runs into trouble. He ran a tenth of a second under the low hurdle mark of 8 flat last week and is a threat to it, too.

Also in danger are the 800 mark of 1:57.4 (Hawkeye Murray Keatings ran 1:56.3 against Wisconsin); the pole vault record of 13 even (Iowa's Nick Piper and Gardner Van Dyke should both break this one); the high jump standard of 6-3 (Iowa's Paul Kitch the top threat), and the broad jump mark of 23-2 1/4 (Earl Smith should pass his own record). Should Rich Ferguson run in the two-mile, his record of 9:43.6 will have little value.

Minnesota's top performances are likely to be in the 60-yard sprint and the broad jump. Bill Garner and Burie Carmichael double in these events. In the 440, Gopher Charles Swanworth likely to give Ira Dunswoth and Tom Ecker trouble, and Richard DeLapp will probably stay close to Iowa's good hurdling corps.

Lost to Minnesota at the beginning of this semester were Capt. Harry Nash, sprinter, and Gordon Holz, 49-foot shot man.

The Hawkeyes will compete on familiar terrain for the last time this winter before beginning a rough schedule on the road. Next weekend, Iowa takes a cinder creek—called the best in years—to Champaign, Ill., for a fling at Illinois, which is shooting for a fifth straight Big Ten title, and Ohio State.

Schedule of events:
1:30 Shot, pole vault, high jump.

Hawkeye Swimmers Lose to Spartans

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State swimmers won the last event on the program — the 440-yard freestyle relay — to edge Iowa, 48-44, in a dual meet Friday.

The Spartans and Hawkeyes were tied 40-all going into the relay. MSC took the event by eight lengths.

Four dual meet records were toppled as each team took five first places.

Iowa alone had double winners in Dick Pennington, who took the 50-yard and 100-yard free style events, and Ross Lucas who won the 220-yard and 440-yard free style races.

Observance Of World Day Of Prayer Set

Baptist Students Relax in Recreation Room

Baptist Student Center Gives Welcome to All Students

A sign in front of the Baptist Student center used to say, "Come in and look around." The Rev. Elmer E. Dierks, Baptist minister, said good naturedly that although someone took advantage of the situation and took a camera belonging to the Dierks, the invitation to come in still stands.

The Rev. Mr. Dierks, who is leaving Iowa City soon, has a new camera now. His congregation gave him one.

The home-like atmosphere of the Baptist Student Center has provided many happy hours for hundreds of SUI students. The center, which doubles for a ministers' home is at 230 N. Clinton st. about two blocks south of the new First Baptist church.

Resident 25 Years
The Rev. Mr. Dierks, who has lived with his family at the center for the past 25 years said, "the door is always open and students have the run of the house."

The Baptist Student center is a meeting place for students from all races and nations. The Rev. Mr. Dierks is proud of the inter-racial characteristic of the groups that meet in the center. He said that there are many negro students at SUI who belong to the Baptist organization. He pointed out that students can meet here in the home-like surroundings for work, play and fellowship.

Brilliant Leader
The Baptist student group is officially called the Roger Williams Fellowship. The Rev. Mr. Dierks explained that the fellowship is named after this early American because Williams was one of the most vocal and brilliant of early Baptist leaders.

Beatrice Dierks, A3, Iowa City, is the president of the Roger Williams Fellowship and John Hall, A4, Chicago, Ill., is the vice-president.

The Rev. Mr. Dierks said that the local group has been quite active in the national Baptist student movement. Several from the SUI Baptist student group were leaders in a move several years ago to organize a national Baptist student organization within the Baptist youth movement. Several local members attended the conferences in Green Lake, Wis. to help in this organization.

Active Part
Baptist students take an active part in the activities of the First Baptist church. The choir is largely students and students are represented on all the major church boards, the Rev. Mr. Dierks said.

An important part of the Baptist student program is work projects. Students from the fellowship work together on various projects to help themselves and also to help others.

Each Friday evening the Work First club meets at the church and does whatever tasks need to

Church Files Application For Uranium Land

Central Christian Church of Spokane, Wash., has filed application for the lease of mineral land near the Spokane Indian reservation in Stevens county where a uranium strike has been reported.

Karl W. Jasper, head of the church board and also president of Grandview Mines, said the plan is for Grandview to work the property and pay the church a royalty on production results.

be done around the building. This club is made up of students and other members of the congregation. After an evening of work the group has lunch and joins in a period of recreation.

Work Days
The students also have what they call Work Days when they go out and earn money which they give to the church. A big project for the students right now the Rev. Mr. Dierks said, is buying pews for the new church building.

While the new church building was under construction students pitched in and aided in the construction. The Rev. Mr. Dierks said that volunteer labor contributed by students and others probably amounted to 12 or 15 thousand dollars. Some money for the new building came from former Baptist students who were contacted by The Rev. Mr. Dierks.

A phase of the Baptist student movement that aids others is the deputation program. The Rev. Mr. Dierks explained that groups of students who meet first at the Student center plan and develop topics and programs for presentation at other churches.

Plan Parties
But not all activities of the Student center mean work for the students, the Rev. Mr. Dierks explained. He said that the students plan occasional parties at the center and make use of the center as an informal meeting place to relax and have fun.

"We do not try to compete with social activities of the housing units and the university," the Rev. Mr. Dierks said, "rather we have more informal gatherings following natural interests after games and other functions."

In the basement of the Student center is a recreation room which the students themselves constructed about 15 years ago. Students can play ping pong,

Science-Religion Conference To Discuss Man, Universe

Discussions at a science and religion conference to be held at SUI's Center for Continuation Study next Saturday and Sunday will center around three lectures on theological approaches to scientific and historic realities.

The conference will attempt to answer these questions:
1. "How can science and religion help in adding to man's understanding and appreciation of the universe?"
2. Where and how do they differ?

The conference, arranged primarily for Iowa's teachers and advanced students of science, is directed by a committee of faculty members of science departments. Prof. Robert S. Michaelson, director of the SUI school of religion, will serve as chairman.

Speaker will be the Rev. William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute dance or join in other recreation here the Rev. Mr. Dierks said.

Start at 9:30 a.m.
Activities on Sunday at the center start at 9:30 a.m. with a student discussion class at the center. The Rev. Mr. Dierks is very enthusiastic about this group. He said that it provides an opportunity for students to really dig in on various problems.

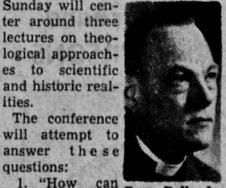

The discussion centers mainly around Bible topics. The Rev. Mr. Dierks, who leads the class, says, "there are no questions barred."

On Sunday evening the students meet at 5:30 for supper and an evening program. Sometimes, students lead the program and sometimes they have guest speakers. During the week the center serves as a place for committee meetings and other informal gatherings.

Completely Furnished
When the new church building is completely furnished there will be a student lounge and recreation room where students may gather for formal and informal occasions.

The Rev. Mr. Dierks, who has guided the Baptist Student center for nearly 26 years, will be leaving the last of this month for a new job in West Virginia. The Rev. Mr. Dierks has seen hundreds of Baptist students come and go at SUI and has helped the Baptist organization at SUI to be more meaningful to the students.

"Probably the biggest change in the Baptist organization here since I came," the Rev. Mr. Dierks said, "is the new church building which will be dedicated soon. Although that is the most visible improvement that we have made I feel that the most significant work done through the student center and church."

Rev. Pollard

of Nuclear Studies and an ordained Episcopal clergyman.

During the past two summers, Pollard has directed a seminar on the "Teaching of the Natural Sciences in Relation to Religious Concepts" at Pennsylvania State University.

In explaining his devotion to both science and religion, Pollard has observed, "I decided that science was a way of investigating the wonders of God's creativeness, such as the marvelous unity of a living cell and the intricate combinations of particles that make up matter. That being so, it seemed to me irrelevant to oppose the work of science."

He believes that "science is now at the pinnacle of its influence and in the years ahead will give way to a religious renaissance comparable in its impact on the world to that of quantum mechanics."

SUI faculty members who will preside at the conference's three sessions include George W. Stewart, professor-emeritus of physics; George W. Martin, head of the department of botany, and Gene F. Lata, assistant professor of biochemistry.

SUI Students To Partake On Sunday

SUI students Sunday will join in a program of prayer with students and church congregations over the northern hemisphere.

Sponsored by the Student

Christian council, the "Universal Day of Prayer for Students" program will be held at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian church, 26 E. Market st. The program will be preceded by coffee and dessert in the student lounge at 6:15 p.m.

In all countries, in their native tongue, students will repeat together the Lord's Prayer in an attempt to show how all Christians are one in God.

Headquarters is Geneva
Headquarters of the program is in Geneva, Switzerland, where it is written by students, for students. The international organization, the World Student Christian federation, the program's sponsor, is believed to be the largest group of Christian students in the world. It is comprised chiefly of Protestants, although its members are of all denominations.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will deliver the sermon at the Presbyterian church, and students will take part in readings. The program will be identical with those held in other countries, with the exception of language. It has been translated into the language of all countries where there is a student council movement.

The same service will be held at a later date in the southern hemisphere, completing the world-wide services.

Participants
SUI students who will participate in readings are:

Donna Petty, A1, Muscatine; Gene Kenny, G, Iowa City; Mona Ahlschlager, A1, Olds; Jay Allen, A3, Mason City; Charles Wittenberg, G, Cedarburg, Wis.; Eleanor Staves, A4, Fairfield; Wendell Stevens, M3, Mason City, and Keith McKean, A3, Logan.

Mrs. Sylvia Biresol, A4, Manila, Philippines, will sing the solo "O Divine Redeemer."

Members of the planning committee of the service here at SUI are:

Beatrice Dierks, A3, Iowa City, director; McKean; Gloria Haddy, A2, Cedar Rapids; Lola Underwood, A2, Davenport; Wittenberg, and Hulda Freymiller, A2, Des Moines.

College Panel Program Attacks Racial Tension

All over the United States colleges and universities are forming panels to examine intergroup differences and encourage understanding and appreciation of these differences.

These student panels attack the problem from an educational, rather than a coercive standpoint. The purpose of these panels is to decrease the social tensions which are detrimental to our national morale and unity.

The program is set up on a discussion pattern with each panel member representing a particular racial, religious, or cultural group in the United States. A typical panel consists of a Catholic, Protestant, Jew, Negro and second general Americans.

These panels originated in Los Angeles during World War II when intergroup tensions had reached a dangerous pitch. The University of California sponsored the first panel through the University religious conference.

The students appeared before public and private schools, P-T-A's, churches, service clubs, civic groups, and professional organizations.

During the war these panels spoke before army orientation programs throughout California. In 1947 a UCLA panel was sent on a demonstration tour of the nation to illustrate the way in which one community was tackling the problem arising from intolerance of differences.

New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, and Kansas City were among the cities visited.

Citizens of the communities included in the tour were convinced that the panels were worthwhile, and they proceeded to set up local programs of their own. Today 15 communities have their own panels working through local universities and colleges.

These schools include Boston University, Indiana University, San Francisco State college, Syracuse University, Omaha University and Purdue University.

The students speak to audiences of the beliefs and traditions which make them different. They explore the ideals and loyalties that make them Americans and united.

These panels originated in Los Angeles during World War II when intergroup tensions had reached a dangerous pitch. The University of California sponsored the first panel through the University religious conference.

The students appeared before public and private schools, P-T-A's, churches, service clubs, civic groups, and professional organizations.

Lampe Expected To Return Monday

M. Willard Lampe, former director of the SUI school of religion, is expected to return to Iowa City and his work in the school of religion Monday.

Lampe spent the first semester of this year in Hawaii as an exchange professor at the University of Hawaii.

Harley H. Zeigler, director of the school of religion at the University of Hawaii, spent the first semester at SUI in exchange with Lampe. Zeigler terminated his work at SUI and returned to Hawaii Feb. 12.

Des Moines Rabbi To Talk On Judaism March 30

Rabbi Edward Zerlin of the Temple of B'nai Jeshurun, Des Moines, will speak on "What Every Christian should know about Judaism," at 4:10 p.m. March 30, in the Senate chamber of Old Capitol.

Rabbi Zerlin is a graduate of the University of Delaware, and the Hebrew Union College where he was ordained a rabbi.

He is now the spiritual leader of Congregation B'nai Jeshurun in Des Moines. Before coming to Des Moines he served at the Temple Beth David, San Gabriel, Calif.

Rabbi Zerlin teaches a course of Judaism at Drake University, Des Moines, and lectures at colleges under the auspices of the Jewish Chautauqua society.

The Iowa City Council of Church Women will sponsor World Day of Prayer services Friday. Services will be held at Trinity Episcopal church.

The Rev. William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies and an ordained Episcopal clergyman, will speak at the morning service which starts at 10:30.

From noon until 1 p.m., there will be a sack luncheon in the Parish hall. The afternoon program will start at 1 p.m. Prof. T. Z. Koo of the SUI school of religion will speak at the afternoon service.

The Rev. Nancy Forsberg, president of the Iowa City Council of Church Women, said that the offering taken at the services will go to Christian World Mission, an inter-denominational group.

Christian Church Officials Elected

DES MOINES (P) — The Rev. Homer Watkins, minister of the First Christian Church of Sioux City this week was elected president of the Institute of Christian Churches of Iowa.

Other officers named are Mrs. William Knight, Des Moines, vice president; Mrs. Richard Goins, Spencer, secretary for the women's group; the Rev. Halsey Wakelin, Washington secretary for the men, and Dr. Loren E. Lair, Des Moines, re-elected treasurer.

DISMISS CLARK CHARGES
MONROE, La. (P) — The Ouachita Parish school board has dismissed all charges against Mrs. Tina G. Clark, the principal whose lockup of a pet dog sent little Joe Cooper home for his shotgun. A petition signed by 287 parents asked for Mrs. Clark's removal after the 10-year-old boy served two weeks in a reform school.

Rifle Trophy

The SUI varsity rifle team has one trophy in its trophy which legally does not belong to it. It is a traveling trophy which, since 1947 has gathered dust instead of traveling.

The trophy, a 24 inch cast figure of a rifleman, discovered during Jan. housecleaning at the office of the army ROTC by Capt. H. Warner, director of the team.

Examining the trophy, er found that it was the Rifle trophy trophy trophy was to be awarded annually the university winning the Ten smallest championship.

Gels the Facts
Since Warner's SUI men are leading the Big conference race, he decided should get the facts on the trophy.

Winners inscribed on trophy are on the base of trophy are: Iowa, 1926-32; Minnesota, 1933-39; Iowa, 1940-1941; Iowa, 1942-1947.

SUI did not have a rifle trophy from 1942-46 because of the Warner said.

In his attempt to find out background of the trophy, er first wrote a letter to Ward who writes a column in the Wake of the News, in Chicago Daily Tribune.

A notice explaining the covery of the trophy appeared in the Tribune. Parsons added that Munn had won the Big Ten rifle trophy in 1948 and 1950 and the University of Wisconsin won in 1949. Warner then wrote a letter Russell Wiles Jr. The answer letter cleared up the history of the trophy.

Personal Friend
In his letter he said that Wiles Jr. was a personal friend of his and that he now the owner of the Big Ten rifle trophy.

Parsons added that Munn had won the Big Ten rifle trophy in 1948 and 1950 and the University of Wisconsin won in 1949. Warner then wrote a letter Russell Wiles Jr. The answer letter cleared up the history of the trophy.

Examining the trophy, Warner found that it was the Russell Wiles rifle team trophy which was to be awarded annually to the university winning the Big Ten smallbore championship.

Gets The Facts

Since Warner's SUI marksmen are leading the Big Ten conference race, he decided he should get the facts on the trophy.

Winners inscribed on plates which are on the base of the trophy are: Iowa, 1926-32; Minnesota, 1933-39; Iowa, 1940; Minnesota, 1941; Iowa, 1942 and Iowa, 1947.

SUI did not have a rifle team from 1942-46 because of the war, Warner said.

In his attempt to find out the background of the trophy, Warner first wrote a letter to Arh Ward who writes a column, "In the Wake of the News," in the Chicago Daily Tribune.

A notice explaining the discovery of the trophy appeared in Ward's column January 14. Capt. David B. Parsons, director of marksmanship at the University of Minnesota read the column and wrote to Capt. Warner.

Personal Friend

In his letter he said that Russell Wiles Jr. was a personal friend of his and that he was now the owner of the Rig Products company, Oregon, Ill.

Parsons added that Minnesota had won the Big Ten rifle meet in 1948 and 1950 and the University of Wisconsin won in 1949.

Warner then wrote a letter to Russell Wiles Jr. The answering letter cleared up the history of the trophy.

Wiles said that his father was active in rifle team competition and was eager to see rifle shooting become a recognized college sport.

In 1926 Russell Wiles Sr. made an agreement with Col. Morton C. Mumma, director of military science at SUI. Wiles said he would give a trophy to the winner of the Big Ten rifle match, if Mumma could get SUI to give awards to their riflemen.

Awarded Medals

SUI awarded medals to their riflemen and Wiles followed through with the trophy. It was sculptured by Enrique Alfarez, at that time a student at the Lorado Taft studios in Chicago.

The trophy was first awarded to the SUI marksmen when they won the Big Ten meet in 1926.

Warner has written to the company to find out if they still have the die. If so, he hopes to have the medals for the winners of the trophy in 1956, he said.

"It is our intention to take this trophy to the Big Ten rifle meet this year and return it to its traveling status," Capt. Warner said.

SUI Leads

Scores just received from the second round of the sectional meet in the Big Ten show the SUI riflemen in first place with the University of Wisconsin running a close second.

The SUI marksmen meet the University of Wisconsin today at the field house armory in a shoulder to shoulder match.

Team members who will fire today are: John E. Westwick, E4, Coralville; Roy F. Eberline, E2, Okaloosa; James R. Ball, A2, Tipton; Thomas E. Carson, A2, Britt; Bernard Slofer, E2, Knoxville, and Charles O. Griffith, DI, Kanawha.

Bid Taken On Reservoir

Low bid on the first Coralville reservoir relocation project, on which work has been suspended for more than two years, was made by the Brooks Construction company, of Kahoka, Mo.

The $69,367.75 bid, made on bridge, culvert and fill work on county route Y, the North Liberty-Solon road, was $40,000 under estimates made by army corps engineers in charge of the reservoir project.

Bids from 16 firms ranged to $122,947.

Brooks will have 240 days from the time they are officially notified that the contract has been awarded to complete the job. It is expected that work on county route Y will begin this spring. The project will also include the construction of a new bridge over the Jordan creek just east of the entrance to Lake Macbride state park.

Plans also call for the ultimate closing of the bridge over the Iowa river in the area to be flooded when the dam is completed.

Retrial Granted In Litchford Suit

A new trial in a $77,500 damage suit, filed by L. J. Litchford, 24, against the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., was granted Thursday by Johnson county District Court Judge James P. Gaffney.

Gaffney ruled possible error on his part in not instructing the jury on state law and in not fully explaining his instructions on contributory negligence. He set aside the October jury trial verdict.

Gaffney's ruling stated: "The verdict did not meet the ends of justice... an unjust result has been reached which may be obviated on a trial to another jury."

Litchford's suit for personal injuries, allegedly incurred when his body touched a power line on a farm near Solon, was rejected in October.

THE RUSSELL WILES traveling trophy, which was won by the SUI rifle team in 1947 and has been in SUI's possession since then, has been found and will be dusted off this spring to be put back into the Big Ten rifle marksmanship contest. Looking over the trophy are Capt. John H. Warner, who discovered the trophy, and Robert H. Phillips, captain of the Wisconsin rifle team, which will be matched against the SUI team at the SUI armory rifle range today.

Women's Gym Hosts Camping, Sports

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh in a series of articles about buildings on the SUI campus.)

In the middle of the winter, students are actually camping, woodland style, on the SUI campus.

This activity has nothing to do with a housing shortage, nor is it intended to bring out people with white coats and butterfly nets. The campers are members of the camp leadership course which meets in the new section of the women's gymnasium.

Located at the corner of Jefferson and Madison streets, across from the Union, this building contains one room equipped as a camping laboratory for use in stormy weather.

Weather Hinders Camping

Prof. Elizabeth Halsey, director of women's physical education, says that the girls normally take camping field trips to an area about two miles from the campus, but that bad weather sometimes makes camping inside the building necessary.

The Women's gym also contains rooms for graduate study, instructor's offices, an office for two clubs, equipment lockers, a special exercise room and a formal and a social classroom.

The social classroom is fitted with modernistic furniture for use as an informal study room. It can also be converted into an informal classroom to seat 200 students.

The lower floor also contains a men's dressing room for use of men enrolled in co-educational sports such as tennis and folk dancing.

Third Floor Planned

The new building was finished in 1951. A third floor will be added when funds are available, according to George L. Horner, SUI architect.

Miss Halsey explains that the proposed third floor will house another gym and study rooms for graduate students.

The addition is joined directly to the original women's gym which was built in 1915. The gymnasium annex, an old two-story frame structure was torn down to make room for the new construction in 1951.

Building Outgrown

Miss Halsey, who joined the staff in 1924, said that old building is still very functional, although outgrown. It has only once been used for other purposes: in 1917, when it housed the ROTC.

"I can remember when I first came here," Miss Halsey recalled. "I would ask the janitor about some dust in the corner and he'd reply, 'Oh, that's just the army.'"

Although it has recently been repainted and the floors tiled, the older building presents a contrast with the modernistic architecture of the 1951 addition.

The paneled walls in the hall and the woodwork, even in a fresh coat of varnish, show that it was built before the age of modern design.

Physical Education Changes

As the styles change to form this contrast, so does the nature of physical education, Miss Halsey observes the trend is toward individual sports such as badminton and volleyball, which require more space.

When women's education classes first were organized in 1900, they used the YMCA-YWCA in Close hall. A year later, a special gym was set up in the basement of the hall of liberal arts.

Called the "crypt," it consisted of one room, 44 by 25 feet, in which 114 girls took instruction. There was one shower.

At the same time a plan was proposed, according to a 1924 issue of "Iowa Alumnus," in which both men's and women's physical education classes would use the SUI armory. The magazine explained that "this was later deemed unwise and inexpedient."

The women's physical education class then returned to Close hall until the present gym was built in 1915.

POLICE COURT

A bad check charge against Peter Hemmen of Iowa City was dismissed Friday by Judge Roger Ivie. Hemmen is now serving a sentence in the state penitentiary at Fort Madison.

THE SUI WOMEN'S GYMNASIUM has served the department of physical education for women since its erection in 1914. The new addition, left foreground, was built in 1951 and has expanded gymnasium facilities which include classrooms, offices, dressing rooms and a swimming pool as well as space for many competitive sports and an indoor "camping" room.

Dentistry Speaker Stolen Clothes Found in ISC Room

Johnson Stresses Sympathetic Ear When Child Stutters

When a child stutters, the "patient" probably is the parent, Prof. Wendell Johnson, SUI speech clinic director, suggests.

Writing by invitation in the current issue of the New York Times magazine, Johnson stresses that "what is most important is not the way the child speaks but the way his parents listen to his speech and the way they feel about it and influence the child to feel about it, and the way they feel about him—and about themselves."

He reports results of SUI studies involving nearly 1,000 mothers and fathers and 500 children, with half of the children regarded by their parents as stutters. "It was observed that the parents who felt that their children did not speak smoothly enough tended to be overly conscientious, somewhat perfectionistic, impatient for their children to meet adult standards," he says.

"These mothers and fathers also tended to rate themselves and each other less favorably than the objective facts merited. By and large, they were striving to rise in social and economic status, and on the average they seemed to need to have their children 'show up well' a bit more than did the control group parents," Johnson observes.

Parents need information about normal speech development and the conditions that foster and retard it, he continued.

For instance, a study of approximately 200 normal children, ages two to five, revealed that the average child repeats a sound or word or phrase 45 times every 1,000 running words.

Rather than worrying about such repetitions, parents should seek the competent professional advice now available in the nation's speech clinics. And they need, in all their relations with their children, to make speaking rewarding and fun, Dr. Johnson concludes.

2 Local Churches Get Merit Certificates

Two churches in the Iowa City area have been presented certificates of merit for their programs of rural community service.

The churches receiving the awards were the Sharon Evangelical United Brethren church in Kalona and the Downey Baptist church at Downey.

Certificates were presented to the youth, Robert Dingel, 23, of Bayonne, N.J., a second year veterinary student, will be given a mental examination, the chief said.

Heart Fund To Canvass City Sunday

"Help Your Heart Fund — Help Your Heart" will be the theme of volunteer workers for the 1955 heart fund campaign Sunday as they conduct a house-to-house canvass of Iowa City.

The city will be canvassed between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday, Mrs. Gerhard Hartman, collections chairman announced.

No campaign goal has been set for heart Sunday because no goal can describe the need for funds to carry out heart research, says L. E. Hunn, Johnson County heart committee chairman. This drive is the only time of the year the Iowa City community will have an opportunity to help combat heart disease, he said.

Heart research today is aimed primarily at curing and controlling three heart diseases responsible for more than 714 thousand deaths in 1953. The three disorders are atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and rheumatic fever.

It is estimated that one of every 16 Americans suffers from some form of heart or blood vessel disease. These diseases are responsible for 52 per cent of all deaths at all ages. About 247,000 deaths occur in the "productive" age groups below 65.

Since 1948 more than $8 million has been spent on research projects of the American Heart Association. Progress has been made in diagnosis, in improving drugs for treatment and in new surgical techniques.

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI school of journalism, will be a speaker at the high school Career Day at Eagle Grove April 6.

Moeller, a past president of the Association of Accredited Schools and Departments of Journalism, will discuss careers and opportunities in the field of mass communications.

Belgian

RIETI, Italy (AP) — A wrecked Belgian airliner was found atop an icy peak in the Umbrian Apennines Monday, eight days after it disappeared. A ski patrol radioed that all 29 persons aboard, including 4 Americans, had perished.

The patrol said the wrecked Sabena DC6 was almost a solid block of ice and that bodies of the dead were strewn in drifts up to 18 feet deep. Helicopters were unable to land.

A search plane and a helicopter spotted the wreckage 4,500 feet up on sprawling Mt. Terminillo, 60 miles northeast of Rome, earlier.

Invisible From Air

It was almost invisible from the air, but enough could be seen to make positive identification.

Luigi Rossi, a ski instructor at a Mt. Terminillo winter resort, reached the wreckage about the same time as the patrol. Upon his return he said it appeared about 14 feet more altitude might have permitted the plane to clear the peak.

Francesco Mauro, prefect of Rieti Province, said there were indications would-be looters had reached the crash scene before the official search parties.

Possible Looting

"I have suspicions — almost proof — that somebody reached the plane before we did, possibly to loot the wreck," Mauro said. "I have ordered an investigation to find out who found the plane and failed to report it."

The plane was last heard from when it reported in to the Rome airport, only 16 minutes away, the night of Sunday, Feb. 13. It was on a regular flight from Brussels to Leopoldville, Belgian Congo, by way of Rome.

YMCA Is Asking For Contributions

Letters will be sent today to SUI male faculty members asking them to contribute to the SUI Young Men's Christian association.

Donald Sunde, G. Iowa City, student secretary of the YMCA, explained that the organization's advisory board hopes to raise $1,200 this year from faculty contributions. The $1,200 is one-half the organization's annual operating budget.

Prof. C. Woody Thompson, director of SUI's bureau of business and economic research, is chairman of the finance drive.

Says Religion Bigger

By Lawrence Sherman

Future intellectual leaders will find religious studies a greater challenge than scientific research, the Rev. William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, said Monday.

The Rev. Mr. Pollard, who has accepted challenges in both fields, arrived in Iowa City Monday for two weeks of addresses and discussions at SUI and nearby churches.

The ascending interest of religion is evident, he said, by the fact that leaders in science are turning to the study and practice of religion because the limitations of their own fields are now plainly visible and the excitement is no longer there.

Turn to Religion

"More and more scientists, concluding that purely scientific information will never give a complete picture of man, have turned, like myself, to religion for a fuller description of man's nature."

The Rev. Mr. Pollard believes that "science is now at the pinnacle of its influence and in the years ahead will give way to a religious renaissance comparable in its impact on the world to that of quantum mechanics."

Asked whether the pursuit of two careers imposed any hardships, he emphasized that in the first three centuries of the Christian church, no one earned his living by the church. Even today, he said, the church should not be considered primarily an "occupation."

Others Take Posts

He pointed out that other men in education and science have taken church posts without giving up their occupation. Referring to his own field of physics, he named Carl Von Weizsacker as
