Red Challenge Must Be Met: Dulles

Stock Market Falls After Senate Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — The stock market broke sharply Tuesday following testimony before the senate banking committee that stock buying ought to be put on a cash basis, that there is too much speculation.

However, Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.) said of the market drop: "I think it has no connection whatever with the study being made by this committee."

Some New York brokers attributed the sell-off in the market to testimony Tuesday by John Kenneth Galbraith, professor of economics at Harvard university, who urged "strongest precautionary measures" to prevent a repetition of the disastrous market crash of 1929.

Safeguards

While saying there is too much speculation, Galbraith added there are some "formidable safeguards" against a 1929-type crash.

A reporter referred to Galbraith's testimony as "gloomy," but Fulbright said: "It wasn't a gloomy statement. He only said we should be cautious. We should be cautious when we are walking across the street."

Prevention

Galbraith told the committee that "prevention rather than cure is our best hope."

He is the author of a book "The Great Crash" to be published next month, dealing with the 1929 crash.

Harold E. Wood of St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the board of governors of the National association of Securities Dealers, Inc., followed Galbraith on the witness stand and was asked by Fulbright whether there "is too much speculation in the present market."

Speculation

"There are evidences of speculation and we don't like it," Wood replied.

The break in the market Tuesday, which some brokers attributed to Galbraith's testimony, wiped about three billion dollars off the market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The six-foot plus professor told the committee that a "catastrophic break" in the stock market seems improbable. But, he said, it would be "unwise to go on the assumption that it couldn't happen."

As a precautionary measure, Galbraith proposed that stock buying be put on a cash basis.

60 Per Cent Margin

The Federal Reserve board, which regulates what is known as "margins" for buying stock, now requires 60 per cent cash. The margin was increased from 50 to 60 per cent in January, but the stock market has continued to rise since then.

Galbraith said it is "perfectly possible that the market could go up and there could be a collapse."

Nation Enjoys Spring Weather

Real spring weather covered most of the United States Tuesday.

The Great warm-up followed Monday's near-zero temperatures from the Great Plains to the Appalachians, the Associated Press reported.

Forecasters said the warm weather would last at least until Friday.

The temperature took a 40-degree jump in Dubuque, where it rose from 14 in the early morning to 54 in mid-afternoon.

The Iowa high was a warm 62 recorded at Council Bluffs. It was 16 below the nation's high of 82 at Thermal, Calif.

Snow in Morning

Tuesday started with traces of light snow in the northeast sections of Iowa. The skies cleared later in the morning and the warm weather moved in.

Iowa City's high Tuesday was 55. Weather observers said the mercury would climb to 60 to-day.

Ohio River

The clear skies were welcomed along the swollen Ohio river, where an estimated 2,600 families already have been forced from their homes in Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Indiana.

Moyer Nominated For Safety Position

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Official quarters Tuesday indicated that as many as 15,000 men will be thrown into the defenses of the Matsu islands, threatened by a Communist invasion.

Insisting that the islands, 100 miles northwest of Formosa, will be defended, they put out the word that the strength of the defenders would be trebled. The garrison now is estimated at 5,000.

These sources also said the Nationalist air force was capable of providing adequate protection if the Matsus are invaded.

If buildup reports are true, the Matsu garrison would be built up to about half the strength of the Nationalist forces on Quemoy, the only other important offshore holding. The force would be stronger than that which garrisoned the Tachen islands before the withdrawal.

The Nationalists now are feverishly strengthening defense positions in the Matsu group, whose main islands are 20 miles off the mainland.

Suggestions of a pullout from the Matsus prompted an angry reaction in Taipei.

Trend Started

"The trend has already started and it can be stopped only by an end to the anti-union attacks by business people who are so little affected by trade unionism in Iowa," he said.

Dale told reporters some Iowa unions already have distributed merchandise to members at wholesale prices.

Rober Burlingame, executive secretary of the Iowa Employers association, said Iowa is "unique among the states" because it depends on small businesses.

"True collective bargaining is impossible between such small enterprises and monopoly unionism, whenever and wherever that monopoly chooses to flex its muscles," he said.

Faure Government Wins First Battle

PARIS (AP) — The two-week-old government of Premier Edgar Faure Tuesday night won its first parliamentary battle.

The victory came when the National Assembly accepted limited increases in budget funds for government employees and retired civil servants. The government of former Premier Mendes-France was turned down on the same issue.

He said, however, that he felt there would be some loss of face if the Chinese Nationalists decided to defend them against attack and lost them.

And, he added, if the U.S. decided to defend the islands and loses them "we might as well get out of Asia."

Faure warned deputies he would resign if defeated.

Militarist Says Matsus Threatened—

Reds in Position To Attack

TOKYO (AP) — A top U.S. military leader said Tuesday the Communists are in position to attack the Nationalist Chinese offshore islands of Quemoy and the Matsus at any time.

The Chinese Communists have reinforced air units in the area and have moved in ground troops to positions near the islands, the officer, who cannot be named, told correspondents.

Should the Communists attack, he emphasized, the decision to defend the islands with U.S. forces is up to President Eisenhower.

The officer said he thought Western observers were inclined to overrate the Red Chinese military.

He observed that while the Communists have a large ground force they lack the structure — presumably industrial — to support a great military machine.

The officer indicated a U.S. decision still was to be made whether to defend Quemoy, across the strait from Formosa, and the Matsus, 100 miles northwest of Formosa. Quemoy is only seven miles from the Red port of Amoy and the Matsus are 20 miles offshore.

Chinese Nationalist quarters on Formosa this week appear confident U.S. aid will be forthcoming should the Reds attack.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has said the United States will fight for Quemoy and the Matsus if convinced the Communists are trying to seize them as stepping stones for an attack on Formosa.

Labor Hits Open Shop in Iowa

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa labor leaders Tuesday denounced the state's "right-to-work" law and threatened to go into business competition against businessmen who support "restrictive laws against labor."

The state labor laws were warmly debated by spokesmen for labor and employer organizations at a joint public hearing of the house and senate labor committees.

The hearing was on a house bill which would legalize the "union shop" in Iowa. In a union shop, a person need not be a union member when he is hired but must join within a certain period, usually 30 days.

No Discrimination

Under the present "right-to-work" law an employee cannot be discriminated against for refusing to join a union.

President Vernon Dale of the CIO State Council and President Ray Mills of the Iowa State Federation of Labor (AFL) spoke in favor of the union shop bill.

Dale told the committees the unions might carry a battle of business competition "to the extent of setting up union-owned business enterprise in direct competition with regular business."

Says New Weapons Can Stop Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday night that the Red Chinese seem bent on conquering Formosa, but he warned them the United States has new "weapons of precision" which can annihilate their military centers.

He said the U.S. pledged to the defense of Formosa, stands ready "to meet hostile force with the greater force that we possess."

In a speech prepared for nationwide radio-television broadcast, Dulles did not name the new weapons. But he said they can be pinpointed as to "utterly destroy military targets without endangering unrelated civilian centers."

Baby Atomic Bombs?

This could mean "baby" atomic bombs; or guided missiles — or something not yet disclosed. His mention of not endangering civilian centers could be taken as a form of assurance to those — some American allies among them — who oppose the use of hydrogen bombs or conventional A-bombs as indiscriminate slaughter.

It also could be taken as a warning to any Red Chinese leaders who might figure they would be safe in launching an attack because the U.S. would never risk world-wide revision by the use of massive atomic or hydrogen weapons. Dulles was saying in effect that there would be no need to use these ultimate weapons, that others would suffice.

Eden told the house of commons his soundings of Peiping show "The necessary conditions for progress" toward ending the China war "do not yet exist."

But he said secret contacts with Russia and Red China are continuing in an effort to get a Formosa cease-fire through a conference or other discussions.

Eden Discloses

Eden's disclosures came during his just-completed tour of Asian countries and the Far Pacific.

Red China, he said, seems "determined to try to conquer Formosa," and is spreading the propaganda that the U.S. is only a "paper tiger."

U.S. Practices Restraint

While practicing restraint against such taunts, Dulles continued, the U.S. must not let the free people of Asia get the idea that "our love of peace means peace at any price."

"We must, if occasion offers, make it clear that we are prepared to stand firm," he said, "and, if necessary, meet hostile force with the greater force that we possess."

"If the Chinese Communists engage in open armed aggression," he said, "this would probably mean that they have decided on general war in Asia."

Mutual Defense Pact

They would then have to take into account the mutual defense treaties of the U. S. with the Republic of Korea and the Republic of China, and the forces maintained under them.

"Thus general war would confront the Chinese Communists with tasks at the south, center and north, tasks which would strain their inadequate means of transportation."

The allied nations possess together plenty of power in the area.

The U.S. in particular has sea and air forces now equipped with new and powerful weapons of precision, which can utterly destroy military targets without endangering unrelated civilian centers."

Formidable Obstacle

Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson supplied the opinion at a news conference Tuesday that the Chinese Reds do not have the capacity to invade Formosa. He said the Formosa strait would be a "more formidable obstacle" to invasion than the English Channel was in Normandy landings of World War II in 1944.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he hoped Dulles' address "means that we are stating a policy and standing on it."

Sparkman said the administration indicated early last year "in no uncertain terms" that no part of Indochina would

Let's Keep Russia in UN—

Rep. L. H. Smith (R-Wis.) has introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives asking President Eisenhower to move toward ousting Russia from the United Nations. Smith claims that Russia has violated the UN charter by supporting Red Chinese aggression in the Korean war.

Congressman Smith is right. Russia has violated the principles for which the United Nations stands. But the effect an ouster move would have should be given more consideration than the appeal it will have in American domestic politics.

The UN charter is up for revision this year. Many American politicians, with an eye to the 1956 election, are suggesting that we "get the U.S. out of the UN and the UN out of the U.S." Others, such as Smith and Bishop Fulton Sheen, suggest that we stay in, but throw Russia out.

The issue is not a bitter partisan one. Both President Eisenhower and Adlai Stevenson are strong supporters of the UN. For this reason such radical changes are not likely to be made.

The adoption of the Smith proposal would turn the UN into a mutual admiration society composed only of nations acceptable to the United States. Smith and those who agree with him do not want Russia out of the UN simply because it has fostered aggression; they do because they do not like Russia's unfriendly attitude toward us. They have not moved to oust Egypt and Nicaragua, which have committed obvious aggression.

Smith's resolution says that Russia has made the UN a sounding board for Red propaganda. That is true. But the many votes on which Russia has only the support of her satellites out of the 60 UN nations gives the free world a big lead in the propaganda battle.

The Smith resolution would take one of the world's two largest powers out of the organization that was formed to promote world peace. A world group has little peace-keeping value when the nations most capable of aggression are not members. The League of Nations had little power when Russia and the United States refused to join and Germany, Japan and Italy dropped out.

Allowing Russia to remain in the United Nations is not appeasement. The United States has maintained a tough policy toward Russia since the outbreak of the Korean war. We should continue this tough policy. Not another square inch of free world territory should be surrendered to Communism. But foolish international flag-waving, designed for its domestic political effect, should be treated lightly.

The Right to Cross-Examine—

Attorney General Herbert Brownell has told the supreme court that the security of the country might be imperiled by giving government employees charged with disloyalty an opportunity to confront their accusers.

This statement was made in a justice department brief filed last week with the court urging it to uphold the June, 1953, dismissal of Dr. John P. Peters from the U.S. public health service. His dismissal followed a loyalty board finding that there was "reasonable doubt" of his loyalty.

Peters has contended he had no chance to defend himself against "unsworn, second-hand statements to the F.B.I." He has denied under oath he was a Communist.

Brownell says that forcing accusers to face the accused in open hearings would dry up vital sources of information to the detriment of the basic security of the country. He said the government depends greatly in security operations on "undercover agents, paid informers and casual informers" that "must be guaranteed anonymity."

We are in complete accord with the need to root out subversive elements of our government. But we do not have to adopt the methods of a totalitarian state to do so.

The use of accusations by shadowy informers who need not confront the person under investigation or face the rigors of cross-examination is not a practice that can be condoned in our system of law.

The major concern of the justice department seems to be the protection of this underground of informers. In doing so, it is denying the basic right of a citizen to face and cross-examine his accuser.

Without the right to meet his accuser in open hearing, the accused cannot question the prejudices, the credibility or the self-interests of the informer. When these are exposed, the charges may well wither.

President Eisenhower, in a speech in 1953, endorsed this basic right when he said: "In this country, if someone dislikes you or accuses you, he must come to the front. He cannot hide behind the shadows, he cannot assassinate you or your character from behind without suffering the penalties that an outraged citizenry will inflict. . . . If we are going to continue to be proud that we are Americans, there must be no weakening of the codes by which we have lived."

Brownell says the security of the nation is at stake. But even more important, he says, the security of our basic right of free trial is involved.

If the government's evidence consists of the accusations of a nameless informant only, that evidence should not be allowed to damage the character of the accused. We question the validity of evidence that can be given only under the cloak of anonymity.

Our basic right of fair trial and due process of law is in danger. As Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has said, "Experience has shown that once one man's rights are tampered with, all men's rights are in jeopardy."

Premium on Education—

According to the Milwaukee Journal, industry is finding out some things about the kind of young minds that are best fitted for top executive posts.

A survey conducted in 1949 showed that 97 industries classified the kind of graduates they preferred as potential executives.

Forty-eight said they wanted engineers. Twenty-eight preferred commerce graduates. Only 21 gave the nod to the liberal arts graduates.

Succeeding years have changed the picture.

Liberal arts graduates stood up best under the practical test and are now at the top of the pack, headed for better things. The casualties occurred in the other fields.

There's strong evidence if not conclusive proof that industry is developing an appreciation for EDUCATION as distinguished from mere TRAINING.

Interpreting the News—

Republican Critics of UN

Worry Foreign Diplomats

By Max Harrelson
For J. M. Roberts Jr.

Some diplomats at the United Nations are beginning to worry over attacks on the UN by Senator William Knowland (R-Calif.) and other Republican political leaders.

Although the critics seem few in number and their views are disputed by President Eisenhower, the anti-UN blasts have become sharper and more frequent during the past few weeks.

This raises two questions:

How much effect are they having on public opinion?

How much are they influencing the policies of the Eisenhower administration?

7-Year High

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the UN, says there is no cause for concern.

"We have reached a seven-year high in public support of the UN," Lodge said recently. "Last November those who said we should get out of the UN reached an all-time low of 7 per cent."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and President Eisenhower have supported the UN at every opportunity, as have Lodge and many senators of both major parties. Only a few weeks ago, the President challenged a statement by Knowland that the UN no longer offered "effective means for achieving peace."

Withdrawal Procedure

But Knowland and others, including Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio) and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), stepped up their discussion of the UN over the weekend. Bricker raised the question of legal procedure for withdrawal.

He added: "Unless our relationship with the UN is clarified within the reasonably near future, we shall bequeath to our children and grandchildren almost certain civil strife."

UN delegates from other countries are worried about the effect such Republican leaders might have on U.S. policy in the UN.

Less Conciliatory

There is a feeling the influence of a few critics already has caused the State department to become less conciliatory on some important UN issues, particularly on the problem of freeing the American fliers held by Red China.

Some diplomats at the UN say frankly its cause was hurt in the United States by the failure of the world organization to win the release of the U.S. fliers and by its recent failure to obtain a cease-fire in the Strait of Formosa.

$265 Cost Per Pupil

A report of costs per pupil in 114 cities having high schools in Iowa today shows that Iowa City spent $265 per pupil in the last fiscal year.

The median cost for the state was $250 per pupil.

Foreign Viewpoint

The foreign viewpoint was set forth in a statement by the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, an association of non-governmental farm organizations in 28 countries, including the U.S.

"American stocks are enormous," the federation said.

"Their possible liquidation or even simply their reduction weighs heavily on the future of world markets and particularly on the specialized exporting countries."

MAKESHIFT BOOTLEGGING

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP)—A shortage of copper tubing, wood barrels and good water has driven moonshiners to the use of substitutes. Sheriff J. E. McTeer reports that recent raids show galvanized pipe and steel drums being used in stills. The water shortage arose with the long summer drought, reducing the workable sites for stills and making them easier to find.

Wheatland Tops Davenport Five

Wheatland 13 15 17 16-61
Davenport 9 14 16 20-59

Once-powerful Davenport, king of the Mississippi Valley conference, was humbled in its first round substate game, 61-59, by Wheatland in the Iowa field house Tuesday night.

A pair of free throws by guard Paul Diericks of Wheatland in the last four seconds broke a 59-59 tie for the victory.

Wheatland took the lead midway in the first quarter and maintained it until the last 90 seconds. With the score at 59-54 Davenport made its last bid.

Blue Devil forward Ken Denner dropped in a field goal as did teammate Mike Fenn. This made the score 59-58, Wheatland still out in front.

The Wildcats decided to stall with one minute remaining. Davenport stole the ball and John Villinis was fouled. He made the first ones, but missed the second one with just 16 seconds left.

Wheatland rebounded the missed shot and in the down-court Lee Frandsen fouled Wheatland's Diericks, who won the game.

An iron man team of five players went the distance for Wheatland. Center Lorin Fox tallied 20 points and his teammate Glen Mente made 15. High for Davenport was Denger with 12.

Japanese Wrestlers To Face Hawkeyes

Seven Japanese wrestlers will try their Oriental techniques on Iowa athletes in the Hawkeye field house tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the first exhibition matches ever staged here with a foreign team.

The Japanese, who have been demonstrating their skill at universities since arriving in San Francisco several weeks ago, will compete with the Hawkeyes in seven bouts. Since these are purely exhibition, no team points will be scored.

Coach Dave McCuskey, who arranged for the appearance of the Japanese stars, said that he would use six varsity men, fresh from winning second place in the Big Ten championships last week. The other university man is a star freshman.

Hawk Squad

Hawkeye varsity athletes are Terry McCann, 114.5 pounds, the Olympic weight; Dick Govig, the 1954 National Collegiate 123-lb. champion, wrestling at 125.5; Gary Klemesrud of Osage, a freshman, 125.5; Bill Clements, 137.5; Jerry Salmon, 147.5; John Winder, 160, Big Ten 177-lb. champion; and Harlan Jenkins, 174.

Since these are exhibition bouts, it will not be necessary for the wrestlers to weigh in at the exact required weights. All weights are those contested in the Olympic games.

Personnel of the group is: Katsumoto Yokoyama, 114.5, second ranking in all Japan; Etsuma Iwano and Shuhel Isada, both 125.5; Tadashi Numajiri, 137.5; Motoichi Motohashi, 147.5, first ranking all-Japan collegiate; Toshio Kitamoto, 160; and Toshi Nagai, 174, third ranking in all Japan.

Marion's WaMac champions spurred late in the third quarter to subdue Anamosa 51-45, Tuesday night.

The second quarter was all St. Mary's as the Ramblers defense limited the Cascade team to five points in this frame. The winners led at half time to 26-16.

St. Mary's kept the pressure up and entered the last quarter with a 50-30 lead. A tight zone kept St. Martin's shooters from getting in close.

As substitutes finished the game, St. Martin's pulled up to within 15 points at the end.

Once again Walljasper paced the Ramblers. He scored 27 points on 12 field goals and three free throws. High for Cascade was Tom Goetzinger with 16.

In Thursday night's semifinals, Marion will strive for its 23rd victory in 25 starts against St. Ambrose of Davenport, the No. 1 ranked southeastern Iowa team.

Ron Altenberg, Dallas Fairley and Jerry Cox led the Marion club in its third period barrage which overcame Anamosa's 22-20 halftime lead. In the late third period stretch Coach Les Hippie's Indians rolled up a 12-2 margin to give Marion a 38-29 lead entering the final frame.

Marion maintained a safe lead through the last quarter after Anamosa once closed the gap to 38-34 early in the quarter.

Fairley with 18 and Cox with 14 paced Marion, while Lou Teymer's 19 and Don Norton's 15 were tops for Coach Ted Lawrence's Blue Raiders who finished third in the WaMac loop behind Marion and Independence.

New Parking Meters in 10 Days: Roan

Installation of new parking meters in eight blocks of the Iowa City business district will be completed in about 10 days City Manager Peter F. Roan said Tuesday. Some already have been installed.

Two of the newly-metered areas will be adjacent to SUI classroom buildings. Two-hour meters will be placed on both sides of College street next to the Communications center and along both sides of Washington street next to the engineering building.

S. Capitol Street

The 200 block of S. Capitol street also will have two-hour meters. Three-hour meters recently have been installed in five blocks at the eastern edge of the business district.

New meter areas for three-hour parking are the 1-300 blocks of S. Gilbert street, the 400 block of E. Washington street and the 300 block of E. College street.

Roan said that more than 225 new meters will be in use when the program is completed. He said that 150 of these meters were taken from downtown areas when parking stalls were widened and the remainder were newly purchased units.

Two New Motorcycles

Two new three-wheeled motorcycles with radio equipment were put into service Tuesday to service metered areas.

Roan said that the addition of meters is designed to attain better use of existing curb parking facilities. He said that meters were thinned from the downtown area to allow wider parking stalls and a narrower parking angle.

Award-Winning Ads Displayed

Evidence of advertising's advancing role in the United States is offered in a display of advertisements now on exhibit on the third floor of the Communications Center.

The display has its permanent home at the University of Oregon where a court of honor has been established for the award-winners. It is on a nation-wide tour of university campuses under the sponsorship of Alpha Delta Sigma chapters.

A Fair Return

Parity is a standard of fixing law prices, declared by law to go producers a fair return in relation to the price of things they buy.

While Cooley was confident that the house would go along with his committee, he declined to comment on the bill's chances in the senate.

Higher Supports

The new house legislation would reinstate 90 per cent supports for wheat, rice, cotton, corn and peanuts. Tobacco, the sixth basic crop, is supported at 90 per cent under a special law.

Rep. Thomas Abernethy (D-Miss.) added a dairy provision which would raise the price support floor for dairy products—milk, cheese and butter—from its present level of 75 per cent of parity to 80. The change would become effective immediately upon enactment.

Under present law Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has authority to slide dairy supports between 75 and 90 per cent. He pushed them back to 75 per cent a year ago but the current level is around 80.

Parity Boost Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON (P)—Another farm fight brewed Tuesday in the house, where the Agriculture committee approved a bill to restore major price supports at 90 per cent of parity.

The vote was 23-11, crossing party lines, and Chairman Harold D. Cooley (D-N.C.) predicted house passage of the legislation.

After a long struggle in congress last year, the Eisenhower administration succeeded in scrapping the wad-born law calling for high price supports on "basic" commodities. Substituted was a measure providing a more flexible system ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity.

Higher Supports

The new house legislation would reinstate 90 per cent supports for wheat, rice, cotton, corn and peanuts. Tobacco, the sixth basic crop, is supported at 90 per cent under a special law.

Rep. Thomas Abernethy (D-Miss.) added a dairy provision which would raise the price support floor for dairy products—milk, cheese and butter—from its present level of 75 per cent of parity to 80. The change would become effective immediately upon enactment.

Under present law Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson has authority to slide dairy supports between 75 and 90 per cent. He pushed them back to 75 per cent a year ago but the current level is around 80.

Cites Lack of Evidence in Charge Against Ex-State Employee

Hoegh Announces Liquor Probe Results

DES MOINES (P) — Gov. Leo A. Hoegh said Tuesday there was "insufficient evidence" necessary to sustain a criminal conviction against a former state employee who reportedly had accepted money in an effort to place certain brands of whisky on sale in state liquor stores.

The governor, reporting on an eight-week investigation into the matter, said that present law makes it illegal for an employee or members of the Iowa liquor control commission to have any interest in dealing with liquor.

He added that a bill now is being prepared by the attorney general which would amend the law to make it illegal for any state official or employee to have an interest in the purchase or sale of liquor.

Accepted Money

Reports were circulated in January that a former employee had accepted money to get the liquor commission to list certain brands of whisky for sale in state stores. Hoegh directed the attorney general and Chief R. W. Nebergall of the Iowa bureau of investigation to investigate the matter and find out whether there had been any violation of Iowa law.

"It is the considered opinion of the attorney general of the state of Iowa that, in absence of additional information, there is insufficient evidence and corroboration necessary to sustain a criminal conviction under existing Iowa law," the governor said.

"Nevertheless the detailed report of investigation is available to any grand jury for its information and study."

The governor said the individual named in the original reports is not now in state employ and he is "not at liberty" to reveal the man's identity.

"When I don't have sufficient facts to substantiate a criminal conviction, I certainly never will reveal the person's name," the governor said.

The governor denied his report was a "whitewash," and added "No one asked me either directly or indirectly to have names withheld. That was the considered judgment of the attorney general and myself."

"For me to come out here and reveal the whole story without going through the proper channels of justice would be an error."

The governor said a copy of his report, condensed from the detailed report prepared by Chief Nebergall and the attorney general, would be sent to Polk County Attorney Leo L. Tapscott. The governor said Tapscott then could call a grand jury to look into the matter further.

"The alleged efforts of an individual or individuals to influence the Iowa liquor control commission to purchase certain whiskies failed," the governor's report said.

"None of the brands of whisky mentioned in the allegation is or has been purchased, stocked, or sold by the commission.

"There is no evidence to show that any individual made contact with any member of the Iowa liquor control commission for the purpose of attempting to influence the purchase of certain whiskies."

The governor said, however, that one person or more had contacted the commission "for the purpose of learning the procedure whereby they place liquor brands on the board. We have never found any evidence to show that there were direct efforts to get the liquor sold."

The governor will attempt to determine how inactivation of the thyroid gland benefits patients suffering from heart diseases.

Doctors Given Heart Grant

Census Bureau

To Conduct Local Housing Survey

Two SUI doctors have received a $13,000 research grant from the National Heart Institute for study of heart disease.

The grant will permit an intensive two-year study by Doctors Walter M. Kirkendall and Richard E. Peterson. Kirkendall is chief of the Veterans hospital medical service and associate clinical professor of internal medicine at SUI. Peterson is director of the Veterans hospital radio-isotope unit and assistant clinical professor of internal medicine at SUI.

They will attempt to determine how inactivation of the thyroid gland benefits patients suffering from heart diseases.

Noel L. Wilson, Marengo, is in charge of the local survey.

Information gathered will be included in a national survey report on the rate of housing vacancies.

Questions on employment and housing vacancies will be asked. Data concerning the number of rooms in each dwelling, rentals, selling prices, whether the housing unit is a single- or multi-family unit, and whether the unit is available for seasonal or all-year occupancy will also be obtained.

Other bids received were from G. J. Manatt, Brooklyn, for $27,246; Concrete Materials and
