

Michigan Has Blind Representative
LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Robert Mahoney, blind since he was 12, is confident he'll keep pace with his colleague in the Michigan house of representatives. Friends will read to him. His dog will lead him. He'll keep notes in his left hand. He has a wife, who also is blind, and six children, none of whom is blind.

NO, NEVER AGAIN

Hot Hawkeyes Humiliate Penn State, 82-53

Davis-Cain Duo Scores 40 Points

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Deshaun Davis and Carl Cain combined for 40 points Friday night to lead Iowa's fancy ball-handling Big Ten champions to an easy 82-53 victory over Penn State and into the NCAA regional finals against Marquette.

Marquette's well-poised team edged out Kentucky, the nation's second ranking team, 79-71 in a torrid, lead-changing opener of the No. 2 regional tournament before a capacity 9,500 fans in Northwestern's McGraw Memorial Hall.

Iowa and Marquette will meet tonight with the winner advancing to the NCAA finals at Kansas City next weekend.

Penn State and Kentucky will battle for regional consolation honors in the first game here tonight.

Iowa used reserves in the last 10 minutes after piling up a 61-39 lead. Davis and Cain, going out at this time, scored 19 and 21 points respectively.

The Hawkeyes, ranked No. 5 nationally, coasted to their 18th victory in 23 games with ease. They surged into a 15-5 lead in the first five minutes, and made it 25-11 in the next five minutes and were coasting 39-25 at the half.

Would Hire Risk: M'Leod

W. R. (Scott) McLeod
"To Get Job Done"

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department's security chief started a group of senators Friday with an assertion that he would hire a security risk if it were necessary "to get the job done."

"I wouldn't hesitate to do so if necessary to fulfill a mission," W. R. (Scott) McLeod told a senate government operations subcommittee. The subcommittee is studying security policy.

Chairman Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) wanted to know whether McLeod also felt that a person with "disloyal" tendencies might have to be used by the government even though elaborate machinery has been set up to keep such persons out of federal service.

"It's a possibility," the security chief replied. "I wouldn't want to foreclose anyone who has responsibility to the American people from using the tools necessary" to do an essential piece of work.

McLeod emphasized that he was speaking only of rare and unusual cases, and that he couldn't recall any such case during the two years he has been with the state department.

The discussion arose when Humphrey was questioning him about the case of Wolf Zedekjinsky, but McLeod emphasized he didn't refer to Zedekjinsky in talking about possible employment of security risks.

Catch Holdup Suspect

Nabbed in $25,000 Afton Bank Robbery

MT. Ayr (AP)—An armed bandit sought in connection with a $25,000 robbery at the Commercial State bank of Afton Friday afternoon was apprehended Friday night in Missouri.

R. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa bureau of criminal investigation, identified the man as Eugene William Buff, 33, who was discharged from the Nebraska State penitentiary at Lincoln on Wednesday.

Two Iowa highway patrolmen and Sheriff Rex Rouse of Winterset stopped the man four miles west of Highway 69 and a mile south of the Iowa line in northern Harrison county, Mo.

Suspect Jailed
Buff was being taken to the county jail at Bethany, Mo., where Nebergall said he would be taken into court today.

The sheriff's office at Bethany reported the man was arrested after he had taken a car at the Virgil Blake farm northwest of Eagleville, Mo. The man was stopped as he was driving from the driveway.

Authorities said Buff was armed with a sawed-off shotgun but offered no resistance when caught.

Highway patrolmen and sheriffs in southern Iowa and northern Missouri had been alerted for a chunky bandit wearing gold-rimmed glasses after he held up bank personnel just before the 3 p.m. closing.

Money Found
Nebergall said a "suitcase full of money" was found in the man's possession when he was apprehended. There was no immediate estimate of how much money the bag contained.

A man resembling the description given by bank employees of the bank bandit was reported seen in the Ringgold county area several hours after the holdup.

He was reported at several farm houses posing as a mail order shoe salesman.

The Afton holdup took place about 2:55 p.m. Friday.

R. M. Crandall, cashier, and his three assistants were preparing to close when Crandall looked up and saw "this fellow behind the counter with us. He was carrying a shotgun in one hand and a gunny sack in the other."

"He had the gun pointed at us," said Crandall, "and said 'Don't get in any hurry. Just give me all the money and you won't get hurt.'"

"I emptied both cash drawers into his gunny sack. Then he asked us to get the money out of the vault," said Crandall.

"I want the rest of the money," the gunman commanded.

"So I gave him the rest of it," Crandall said.

"Then the fellow asked: 'Is that all of it?'"

"Yes," Crandall said he answered.

Threatens Cashier
"If it isn't you'll get hurt," the gunman cried, as he looked into the vault, according to Crandall.

After Crandall had given the robber the money from the vault—the bulk of the contents of the safe located in the vault, the bandit asked:

"If I lock you all in there, will you suffocate?"

"I told him 'no,'" Crandall said.

The robber then locked Crandall and the three women employees, Mrs. Dorothy Bronsman, assistant cashier, and two bookkeepers, Mrs. Vilet Means and Mrs. Doris McGrath, in the vault.

The famed bacteriologist collapsed shortly after having breakfast in bed at his home, Lady Fleming, 43, a Greek word heroine and scientist, was at his side when he died.

Fuller Leaves Court After Trial

Al Fuller Gets Life

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—

Albert Fuller, former chief deputy sheriff at Phenix City, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday on a first degree murder conviction for the slaying of A. L. Patterson, sworn enemy of racketeers.

The 12 jurors, who listened to millions of words of testimony in the longest jury trial in Alabama history, returned their verdict at 2:36 p.m., 22 hours and 11 minutes after they received the case.

Fuller's $12,500 bond, under which he had been free since shortly after his indictment last Dec. 9, was immediately revoked. He was taken into custody by Jefferson (Birmingham) county Chief Deputy Sheriff Wilton Hogan.

To Appeal Verdict
Chief Defense Atty. Roderick Bedlow announced that the verdict will be appealed to the state supreme court and a motion will be filed for a new trial within a week or 10 days.

Patterson was slain at Phenix City last June 18, only 17 days after winning the Democratic nomination for attorney general. The prosecution charged that his pledge to smash Phenix City's multimillion dollar racket empire inspired the killing.

The 35-year-old Fuller remained calm as the verdict was read to the packed courtroom at the end of the 25-day trial. The 200-pound defendant had appeared almost nonchalant throughout the trial.

Judge J. Russell McElroy, taking precautions after word came that the jury had reached a verdict, ordered the courtroom emptied and the spectators searched once more for concealed weapons before the jury filed in.

Only a jury can decide on the extent of punishment for murder in Alabama. Prosecutor Cecil Deason in his closing argument Thursday had asked for the death penalty.

Fuller is the first of three former public officials to be tried for the Patterson slaying.

Ferrell, Garrett
Indicted with Fuller were Arch Ferrell, who was prosecuting attorney in the vice-ridden community, and former Alabama Atty. Gen. Si Garrett—who had fought vigorously to keep Patterson from being chosen as his successor in office.

Fuller already is under a seven-year prison sentence for taking payoff money to let a bawdy house near Phenix City operate unlicensed. That sentence is being appealed to higher courts.

But Thursday he submitted the name of Caffrey for appointment to the State Board of Social Welfare for a six-year term. This was widely interpreted as a peace move on the governor's part.

One of the governor's appointments to the commission must be a Democrat, under the law.

Iowa Senate OK's Larsen

DES MOINES (AP)—The senate met Gov. Leo Hoegh's peace overture half way Friday and confirmed the appointment of Chris Larsen, Sioux City printing shop operator, to the state highway commission.

But the confirmation of Larsen left it virtually certain that a Democrat will be named to the commission from northeast Iowa. This would frustrate the desire of Republicans from that area to have a member of their party on the commission. Some senators said they feared this might produce another clash in the future.

The senate and the governor had been deadlocked over Hoegh's nominations for four of the five posts on the highway commission.

The senate rejected L. L. Caffrey, Cresco Democrat, and Russell F. Lundy, Des Moines Republican. It now has confirmed Robert K. Beck of Centerville and Larsen, both Republicans.

Hoegh had commented previously that he had "submitted the names of four good people for the commission and as far as I'm concerned, that's it."

But Thursday he submitted the name of Caffrey for appointment to the State Board of Social Welfare for a six-year term. This was widely interpreted as a peace move on the governor's part.

Iowa Farmer Fined $14,000 in Tax Case

DES MOINES (AP)—A northwest Iowa farmer Friday was fined $14,000 and placed on probation for three years for income tax evasion.

Henry Ranschau Jr., 41, who operates a 280-acre farm near Alford in Lyon county, was accused of evading $4,470.51 in taxes from 1948 through 1951.

He had pleaded no defense to the charges in an earlier appearance before Federal Judge William F. Riley.

Ranschau was the first Iowa farmer in many years to face criminal charges growing out of failure to report all his income and pay taxes the government claimed due.

Aside from farming, he also had income from custom machine work and trucking.

The four-count information filed by Roy L. Stephenson, U.S. district attorney, charged that Ranschau had reported income of only $9,017.29 for the four years when he should have reported $30,000.51.

Italian Senate OK's German Rearmament

ROME (AP)—The Italian senate approved the Paris agreements to rearm the West Germans and make them partners in the Western European Union by a decisive 139-82 vote, Friday night.

The senate vote completed Italian parliamentary action on the accords. Italy is the eighth of the 15 nations involved to complete such action. Italy's lower house, the chamber of deputies, approved the treaties Dec. 23, 1954-55.

In addition to providing for German troops as part of the Western line-up against the threat of Red aggression, the accords provide for restoration of West German sovereignty and for admission of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fist Fights Rage
The vote came after two weeks of senate debate that saw fist fights break out on the floor of the chamber. There also were noisy disorders on the streets of Rome.

The Communists have bitterly opposed Western union and fought ratification of the accords here to the end. Police and Communist demonstrators clashed briefly outside the senate while the vote was being taken.

About 1,000 police milled around the Senate building during the final hours of the session. They blocked all streets leading to the building.

Police Quell Riots
In one sector police charged into a group of wildly shouting Red demonstrators and sent them scurrying down side streets. One man was injured. In this melee and other demonstrations over the city police picked up more than 500 persons Friday night but released most of them.

As a last minute protest against ratification of the pacts and against an attack Wednesday on Communist party headquarters here, the Red-bosomed Rome chamber of labor called out its members in a two-hour general strike Friday. The strike had little effect, since non-Communist unions had instructed their members to stay on the job.

Another Dog Poisoned

The fourth dog-poisoning in three weeks was reported Friday to Iowa City police.

The dog, a female Norwegian elkhound belonging to Thomas J. Patterson, 1604 Wilson st., is expected to live according to veterinarian Dr. R. W. Meyer.

The Patterson dog was found in convulsions in the 400 block on E. Washington street about noon Friday. Meyer said the dog showed indications of strychnine poisoning.

The dog was found in the area where three dogs had died of strychnine poisoning since Feb. 22.

The dogs belonged to Scott Swisher, 917 Bowery st.; Francis Collins, 334 S. Dodge st., and William Hart, 730 E. Burlington st.

U.S. Plans Action On Farmer 'Swap'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Friday promised a "rapid decision" on whether to allow a group of Russian farmers to visit Iowa to see how corn and pigs grow there.

State department press chief Henry Shugart told newsmen "the whole matter is under active consideration."

A Russian note handed the U.S. embassy at Moscow Thursday night formally suggested swapping Soviet and U.S. agricultural delegations and requested a statement of how the American government feels about it.

The Des Moines Register & Tribune first suggested exchanging farmers in an editorial after Russian leaders exhorted Soviet farmers to copy American methods of raising corn and hogs.

Says It's Now a Risk To Invest in Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Robert E. Wood, who manages the big profit-sharing pension fund of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said Friday "I don't want to risk my employees' money" in the stock market at its present level.

Wood told the senate banking committee the fund now has $90 million in cash but its directors are "at wit's end" wondering where to invest it.

Storms Rip Eastern U.S.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The season's biggest crop of tornadoes and thunderstorms ripped across the eastern third of the nation Friday, killing at least two persons, injuring a score and causing millions of dollars worth of property damage.

The twisters climaxed violent weather over large areas of the country.

Thunderstorms doused the sodden Ohio river valley basin hard on the heels of the river's worst flood in seven years. The U.S. weather bureau at Pittsburgh predicted no new floods.

Winds of up to 70 miles an hour sent the winter's worst dust storms boiling over the southern and central Great Plains. Half of Colorado's three million acres of winter wheat was ripped out.

A cool front, expanding eastward into moist and almost summer-like warmth, triggered the chain of tornadoes and thunderstorms.

The twisters tore down power lines, toppled television and radio towers, blew a freight car off its track and unroofed homes and buildings.

Fleming, Penicillin Discoverer, Dies
LONDON (AP)—Sir Alexander Fleming, discoverer of penicillin and thus one of mankind's greatest benefactors, died Friday of a heart ailment. He was 73.

The famed bacteriologist collapsed shortly after having breakfast in bed at his home, Lady Fleming, 43, a Greek word heroine and scientist, was at his side when he died.

Joe Kral, R.R. 1, Solon, was the driver of the car.

Finn Oil Tanker Nears Red China

TAIPEH, Formosa (Saturday) (AP)—If both sides mean what they say, there may be trouble if and when the Finnish tanker Aruba tries to reach a Red China port with 13,000 tons of jet fuel—enough to send out Russian-built MIGs on 5,200 missions.

It was quite evident on Formosa that Chiang Kai-shek's warships and planes intend to intercept the Aruba once she comes within range.

On March 9, Peiping radio broadcast a Red China warning that any interference with the tanker on the high seas "is not to be tolerated."

The feeling was apparent on this Nationalist stronghold that a move to intercept the tanker would have sympathy from the United States.

On March 4, when the Aruba was reported in the Suez canal area, a U.S. state department press officer in Washington said the tanker's voyage "cannot fail to evoke the disapproval of the free world."

U-Bomb? Yes!

AT A NEWS conference, above, in Washington, D.C., Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson confirms that there is a U-bomb and declares America will hold a substantial lead in super-bombs for at least three or four more years.

A U-bomb—a hydrogen bomb surrounded by a uranium jacket—is even more terrible than the H-bomb, Wilson indicated.

Is Education Deductible?

The parents of SUI college students should be thankful that Rep. Charles A. Vanik (D-Ohio) is pulling in their behalf in congress.

The Ohio congressman recently proposed a bill which would provide an income tax deduction for amounts paid as tuition or fees to colleges and universities for the education of dependents.

It was not too long ago that parents of college youth were given a boost. Congress revised the previous tax law on exemptions, making it possible for college men and women who earned more than $600 to be claimed as dependents. Previously, if a son or daughter made more than that amount, the parent lost an exemption.

Vanik's bill would not result in a very large reduction in the college parent's tax, but it would be a help.

The average taxpayer usually can provide for his family the costs necessary to support them. However, when it comes to putting Junior through college, parents are hard-put to meet educational costs.

Vanik pointed out in presenting the bill that it is "a matter of tax justice which should be carried through by this congress at the earliest practicable time." The bill was presented March 8.

When a taxpayer educates his family he is not only benefiting his family, but also the country. The nation needs more college-trained men and women.

We urge congress to make tuition a deductible item and relieve in this small way the expense of sending a youth to college.

Let's Keep Polls—

Johnson county's Sen. D. C. Nolan and two other state senators have introduced a bill in the legislature which would severely hamper the publication or broadcast of public opinion polls in Iowa.

This bill would require that anyone publishing or broadcasting a public opinion poll must also publish or broadcast:

The name and address of the person who conducted the poll or under whose supervision it was conducted, the county or counties in which the poll was taken, the number of persons interviewed and a tabulation of the purported vote for and against any public measure and for each candidate for public office referred to in such a poll.

The bill also would require a person conducting a poll to file with the county auditor of the county where the poll was published a verified statement setting forth all this information.

We feel these restrictions would make it virtually impossible for a newspaper to conduct a public opinion poll because this information would take up nearly as much, if not more space than the poll itself.

The pollsters have no objection to making available the methods they use in sampling public opinion, but it is doubtful that many readers would be interested in this information and it merely would be printed matter no one would read.

If Nolan and his colleagues are worried about the effect of a poll on the outcome of an election, they should relax. A poll can stir the followers of a trailing candidate as well as encourage the leader, and the time for a trailing candidate to get excited is before the returns come in on election night.

We feel that polls serve the public interest and can be an asset to local, state and national officials in forming policies.

We think Nolan's bill will and should have the same fate as other attempts to limit public opinion polls in Iowa. The previous attempts died when the legislative committee declined to act upon them.

Now Is The Time—

This is a key year for the state's three big institutions of higher learning: the State University of Iowa, Iowa State college and Iowa State Teachers college.

Their physical plants are running down at the same time they are bursting at the seams. The board of education is asking from the legislature only money enough to complete buildings first authorized ten years ago, plus one additional building. Yet Gov. Leo Hoegh recommended to the legislature only 4 million dollars of the 12.1 millions the board asked for capital improvements for the next two years, including the school for the deaf, the braille and sight-saving school and the tuberculosis sanatorium as well as the three educational institutions.

Coming at the very moment when college population in Iowa is about to zoom, as the big bulge in the birthrate moves through the high schools into the college age, an appropriation of this size for building would be grossly inadequate in our opinion, no matter how good the motive.

The board of education feels its full original askings are sound and is still sticking by them.

Just as important is the question of staff. Teaching is a person-to-person process. Over the years, Iowa's salary position has been slipping backward as compared to competing institutions, slipping backward in some cases in real buying power, and moving forward only in inflated dollars.

The board of education is still asking the legislature for its carefully studied increases in the "salaries, support and maintenance" funds — roughly 14 per cent for the State University of Iowa, 13 per cent for Iowa State college, 6 per cent for Iowa State Teachers college. These increases are sought to add a few teachers, to raise salaries, to add supporting services and supplies.

Governor Hoegh's budget cuts these increases to 7.7 per cent, 3.4 per cent and 0.9 per cent respectively, pittance in the light of swelling enrollments and opportunities for professors elsewhere.

Does Iowa want first-class higher education or doesn't it? The 1955 legislative session is the state's last chance to stop the cumulative decline of its higher educational institutions before it begins to speed up disastrously. After 1957, comes the deluge of students born in the great birth boom which has been swamping the state's elementary schools and high schools. After 1955, it will be too late to begin to get ready in time, and doubly too late to begin to make up for the deficiencies of appropriations through the 1930's and 40's.

Now is the time.

Wish We'd Said It

Wille Morris in The Daily Texan

Many years ago in the Kingdom of Vanity, a kingdom of dwarf-like pygmies high in the clouds, there was a school for the young people called Whittle U. Here, from the farms and cities of Vanity, young pygmies convened for four long years to learn how to whittle.

'Twas indeed a proud place, this Whittle U., and its handsome corps of instructors were authorities on, say, the big tooth-hold whittle.

And arising upward from the geographic center of Whittle U., so majestic and high that the old pygmies claimed it reached to the very ends of existence, was a totem pole which stood as an immutable symbol of grandeur of this place.

Bloody Warfare
This is the story of how warfare, bloody and brutal — but more so to the mind than to the body — cast its ugly shadow over Whittle U.

At this great institution, let it be said, two different types of whittling were taught. So wide was the breach between the types, in fact, each practically became an ideology in itself.

Part of the young pygmies who came to Whittle U. studied, as they termed it, the more aesthetic points of whittling. They learned the theory of whittling, the history of whittling. They discussed Blueboy and Whittler's Mother and spoke the languages of foreign whittlers and studied the literature of whittling. And all of them joined clubs and read and talked, talked, talked into the waning nights.

Different Concept
The other segment of the pygmies learned a wholly different concept of whittling — the actual whittling itself. They learned how to whittle bridges, oil pumps, a thousand-and-one pygmy contraptions. Each afternoon they gathered in groups to practice their whittling.

Indeed, the trademark of this technical pygmy was a strange, exotic instrument called a slide-foot. It was rumored that this slide-foot, which each of the technical pygmies attached to his belt, could do wonders — attack equations and brutally tear them apart shuffly cards, and, so the more blatant whittlers said, make love.

So, at these extremes, the two families of pygmy-scholars co-existed.

Uneasy Compromise
One day, when the gray, seared second-month was tapering gently into the springtime, the academic pygmies introduced a plan to draw an uneasy educational compromise between the factions.

Such pygmy-profanity has never been heard. Overnight, the technical pygmies built a great wall around their massive laboratories. Whittle U. was torn asunder by the hiatus. The situation became more heated when pygmies on both sides of the wall began sending blasphemous letters to the newspaper, The Thrice Daily Whittler.

In these attacks, the technical pygmies called the liberal pygmies "pandy-dandy butterfly chasers," and the liberal pygmies called the technical pygmies "senseless automatons." They cursed, they raved, they theorized, they wrote, and — always — they talked, talked, talked.

'United Campus'

"A united campus or none at all," pygmy-president Log Wilkins said. "Taxation without differential calculus," student-premier Berry Nilson accused. "United we stand, divided we lose the conference championship," remarked one. "Don't give up Unbalanced Polyphase Systems 385K," warned another.

In short, Whittle U. was tottering precariously on the brink of warfare.

The leaders of both armies called a mass meeting of all the pygmies in front of the totem pole. From far and near they

Does it not teach us a magnificent lesson that they made no distinction between either? "I must remind you the foundation of this nation depends on the genius of the lever just as it does the genius of diplomacy, the strength of the lever as well as the strength of the printed page. We need the realist, we need the idealist, and we need the how's to defend our land just as we need the why's."

Common Respect
"We need the philosopher to remind us progress doesn't necessarily mean more A-bombs, automobiles, and corporations, just as we need the mechanical engineer to remind us it does not mean more planks in a platform, more literary societies, more appraisals of history."

Academic Panmujan
"Please listen," the clear and forceful voice of the pygmy beseeched, and the onlookers were silent. "Let there be peace on the academic front. Need we an academic Panmujan to establish peace here again? Each petty faction has held that it is the more noble, that only it and its kind holds the key to civilization. I challenge both of you. I say we are not civilized."

FINDER'S TROUBLE
LANSING, Mich. (AP)—James Slocum, 16, found $600 in cash — on the street. He and his mother were phoning banks in an effort to locate the owner when they were contacted by the woman who had lost the money. Slocum's reward: one dollar.

Climbs Pole
As the generals of both forces convened in view of the throng to try to negotiate a truce, the pygmies suddenly noticed a figure move from among the crowd. A gasp issued from the ranks as he began climbing the totem pole, and a collective whisper rose as he neared the Hour-glass at the top. "I know him," claimed one. "He is a philosopher." Said another: "He whittled a great bridge. He is an engineer." A third shouted, "This man lived for two years in Kill Hall with the athletic pygmies."

The rumors spread through the gathering: he was a writer, a scientist, a teacher. In essence, the stranger was all these. The rich blood of Huxley flowed in his pygmy-veins, but also the blood of a long train of Harvard presidents. Just as he was each of them, he was none of them, and yet he lived and slept and ate, like any normal pygmy.

Let there be peace, then. Let there be a common respect and a mutual confidence, for what after all is this respect but, in turn, a confidence our nation will someday grow into the nobility of manhood.

The pygmy had finished, and as he wearily descended the totem pole, a hush blanketed the pygmy-thousands. At last one of the fumber stood and shouted to the corners. "Peace at Whittle U.," he said, and the echo of his meager words was heard across the vastness of the Land of Vanity, finding its way to a hundred Whittle U's.

Interpreting the News — Tito Rejects Russian Offer For Reunity

By William L. Ryan

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—Marshal Tito's foreign policy speech to his parliament last week indicated strongly that the "normalization" of relations between Belgrade and Moscow has gone just about as far as it is going to go. Tito sharply rebuked Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, accusing the Russian in effect, of deliberately trying to cast suspicion upon Yugoslavia.

Tito said then that not all had been done that should have been done in the way of normalizing relations between the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia, but it had to be remembered that Yugoslavia had deviated from the path of eastern Europe. That was about all, but the inference the world may have been expected to draw was that Tito was moving closer toward rejoining the Cominform family. That seemed to have aroused Tito's anger.

Tito said anti-Yugoslav propaganda from Russia and its satellites stopped toward the end of last year. But, he added, attempts are still being made to represent Yugoslavia's "normalization" of relations with Cominform countries as a realization by Yugoslavia of its errors and that "we are trying to correct them and similar ones." Tito had his education for communism in Moscow and knows well how things are done there. He seems to be saying for Soviet benefit that he remains and intends to remain his own boss.

Letter to the Editor — Says SUI Education Cheap, City Costs Something Else

(Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses — typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The Iowan reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.)

TO THE EDITOR:
I would like to ask Mr. A. M. Jacobson if that is the way to talk about SUI and this great community of Iowa City. (Jacobson's views appeared in The Daily Iowan "Letters to the Editor," March 5.) I truly think it disgraceful that a student of this fine institution could bring himself to criticize such an outstanding center of culture.

Don't think ill of the university. After all, education is a desirable goal. It is possible to pay far more for a poorer education which could be received at some other institution.

Should Be Thankful
True, some of us are not financially set up to stand these seemingly infinitesimal drains on our pocket book. But when one considers the poor financial position of the state of Iowa, we should be thankful that there is no additional tax placed upon the student by either the legislature or the university.

But, this outstanding community is something entirely different. We should all look up to and respect the ideals exemplified for us by this city. After all, the purpose of a higher education is to prepare us for contact with life in the cruel world, is it not? Just consider Iowa City as taking part in our education and benefit from it as you would a class in economics.

Parasitical Humans
Surely you realize that everything in this great wide world is not as shown by Horatio Alger and Zane Grey!

At times, one meets shady, avicious, parasitical humans in his contact with the world. Therefore, we should closely observe this bustling, industrious community.

It means only to further our education by serving as an example of what we may have occasion to encounter in our struggle for life upon taking leave of this great school.

Protestants To Open Drive Sunday For Overseas Relief

Cell Group Meets in Little Chapel

A CELL GROUP of the United Student Fellowship meets in the Little Chapel of the Congregational church. The group meets every Friday morning at 7:30 for devotions, Bible study and discussion. Seated, from left to right, are David Howard, P3, Lewis; Mona Ahlschlager, A1, Olds; Shirley Smith, N1, Sibley; Tom DeYarman, E1, Olds, and the Rev. Nancy Forsberg, minister to students.

Protestant churches in Iowa City will begin a week of services Sunday, along with thousands of other churches in America, emphasizing the help the churches are giving to millions of destitute people in foreign lands.

The Rev. Ira J. Hoover, president of the Iowa City Ministerial association, said that no joint services are planned by the churches here but each church will observe the occasion "in its own way."

On Mar. 20, the Iowa City churches will participate in the nation-wide "One Great Hour of Sharing" observance. It will be part of the 1955 United Appeal of major protestant and eastern orthodox denominations for funds for their world-wide programs of overseas relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

The 1955 drive will be the seventh annual appeal with this year's goal set at $9,500,000.

Major areas of need covered by the 1955 United appeal will be Germany, Greece, Austria, Yugoslavia, Korea, India, Pakistan, Indonesia, Japan, Hong Kong, Viet Nam, Kenya, and the Near East.

The National Council of Churches has reported that emergency relief of food, clothing and medicine are urgently needed in these areas, along with rehabilitation and reconstruction programs.

Cooky Jar Kept Open At Fellowship Center

The cooky jar is always open at the United Student Fellowship private center — and it's usually filled with home-made cookies, too.

The women of the Congregational Christian churches in the state of Iowa have taken on the task of keeping six Iowa student church centers supplied with cookies. This was explained by Miss Nancy Forsberg, minister to students at the center. Miss Forsberg said that every week on Friday or Saturday a box of cookies arrives in the mail.

"It is sort of like a box from home and the students look forward to opening the package each week and sampling the new cookies," she said. Students of the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed churches are served by the USF. Whenever there is just one of either denomination in a town, Miss Forsberg explained, both are served by one church.

Meets Every Sunday
The USF meets every Sunday evening for a "cost" supper and an evening program. The supper and program are planned by students.

The programs have consisted of speakers, panel discussions, one-act plays, and a program called, "This is your life as a Christian."
The Sunday evening programs also include a student worship service in the little chapel of the Congregational church, which is student-planned and presented.

Raising Money
The local USF cooperates with both the national and state USF organizations. The SUI students are currently raising money for the national organization to help build an interdenominational student center in Paris, France.

To raise money for this project the students have sold blood to the blood bank, done baby sitting, and are planning to present a pageant at the Congregational church Palm Sunday evening.

Students from the SUI fellowship will meet in Cedar Rapids March 25 for a spring rally with members from other USF campus fellowships in Iowa. The SUI students are in charge of a workshop on program planning at the meeting.

Lenten Booklet
In conjunction with the other USF student groups in Iowa, the local students have prepared a booklet of lenten devotions. Each of the groups contributed a week of the devotion material in the pamphlet.
Activities of the student group

Rev. Livingston To Lead Monday 'Chapel' Service

The Rev. Luther Livingston, G. Vinton, will lead WSUI's Morning Chapel service on Monday of next week.

The morning services Tuesday through Saturday will be conducted by the United Student Fellowship of the Congregational Christian, Evangelical and Reformed churches. The Rev. Nancy Forsberg is in charge.

cover a wide scope. A cell group which meets Friday morning for devotions, Bible reading and the study of outstanding Christian literature has recently been organized within the local fellowship.

The students also take part in the regular activities of the Congregational church. Many of them sing in the choir, usher at Sunday services and teach Sunday school classes.

Holds Informal Gatherings
Miss Forsberg, who has been here for about three and a half years, often holds open house at her apartment for the students. "These occasions are just informal gatherings for fun and discussion," she said.

An important part of Miss Forsberg's work is student counseling. This semester she has set up a schedule whereby students who want to may have a regular private conference with her each week. Miss Forsberg added that the students are welcome to stop in at her office at any time to discuss any problems they may have.

The USF is governed by a cabinet of students who meet once a month and make plans for coming events. Some form of group recreation or social activity is planned every two months. This year they have had a hay ride, Christmas party and a Valentine's day party.

David Howard, P3, Lewis, is president of the cabinet. Other members include Virginia Swihart, N2, Baxter; Clark Miller, A3, Des Moines; Marilyn Lyon, N2, Dennison; Tom DeYarman, A1, Olds; Don Pollak, P2, Chicago, and LaDonna Busch, A2, Council Bluffs.

DSF Installs Allen As New President

Jay Allen, A3, Mason City, was installed as president of the Disciples Student fellowship of the First Christian Church Mar. 5. The group installed its officers for the 1955-56 school year during a retreat at Camp Waspie Y, north of Cedar Rapids, last week.

Other officers installed were Edward McLachlan, A2, Iowa City, vice president; Anna Boerner, Iowa City, secretary, and Joanna Rogers, A1, Mount Ayr, treasurer.

Monday evening the group will hold a "Coney Island Supper" to raise money to finance the retreat. The supper will be at the student center from 5 to 8 p.m.

SUNDAY TOAST
Dress up French toast for Sunday brunch! Heat canned pineapple rings or peach slices in a little butter or margarine in a big skillet, sprinkling with brown sugar. Serve the hot fruit with the golden-brown French toast.

'Better Get Started' to God

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill believe the salvation of the world lies in a religious revival, and "We'd better get started." 35-year-old Billy Graham tells an overflow throng in Madison Square Garden, New York. He is shown (upper) in a typical Graham gesture and (lower) at the lectern facing a crowd of 19,000. About 8,000 were turned away at the door.

Revival Has Been 'A Surface Affair,' Billy Graham Says

NEW YORK—Evangelist Billy Graham said this week an apparent American religious revival has been a surface affair without an effect on morality.

"We believe a religious revival is the only hope of the world," Graham said. "But very few of us are willing to start in our own lives and pay the price."

Asked about recent criticisms of the quality of popular Protestant preaching, Graham said various types of preaching should be recognized as appealing to different people. However, he said there is "a lot of sort of watered-down namby-pamby peace of mind sort of business" which is of little religious value.

He said this might be good psychology but "I have my doubts" as to its value in "getting people to church and to Christ."

Graham said he had been invited by a number of commercial television sponsors to do "a program along the line of Bishop (Fulton J.) Sheen's" and that "I will probably accept one of those at some future time."

Cuts Bible To 1/3 Its Usual Length

NEW YORK (AP)—A modest woman armed with scissors, paste pot and patience has completed the task of editing the Bible into a version less than a third its usual length.

"I am not a theologian and not even a Sunday school teacher," Margaret Nicholson, editor of "The Compact Bible," said.

She pencilled, snipped and pasted sections of half a dozen different copies of the King James version to put together her volume, which totals approximately 200,000 words. The King James version has 774,746 words.

Daughter of a Missionary
Miss Nicholson, daughter of a missionary and for many years a top editor with a publishing company, began the job two years ago. "The Compact Bible" was published this week by Hawthorne Press.

The first two months of her task she spent at her farm near Hillsdale, N.Y., "seven miles from my nearest neighbor," concentrating on the Bible. She'd read it through twice before, but she'd never done any serious Bible study.

"I began with half a dozen expensive copies of the Bible," Miss Nicholson explained. "The first copy I read through, crossing out verses with a pencil when my interest seemed to go."

Essential Part
She decided early in the task that she wasn't going to try to create a historian's Bible or a scholar's Bible — but a volume which might tempt more people to begin with Genesis and read all the way through Revelations, not missing any of the essential story but skipping tedious passages.

"The second copy of my Bibles I started clipping out verses I wanted to use," Miss Nicholson continued. "I put them on sheets of paper first with scotch tape, so I could remove them, and later pasted them down."

Each Book Included
Each book of the Bible is included, and each verse that is used is complete. Unobtrusive numbers at the side of the pages give the numbers of chapters and verses, so readers will know when sections are missing.

"Some chapters, like Ruth, I cut very little," the editor said. "Psalms I just had to be automatic with. I tried to pick the most familiar psalms and also those which are most beautiful and not so familiar."

"Revelations was the hardest chapter to cut. I just read it and reread it until I understood it, and then cut out what seemed to me the unessential verses."

COUNTRY-STYLE STEAK
Like country-fried steak? Choose round steak that is cut about one-half inch thick and tenderize it by pounding it on both sides with the handle of a heavy knife. Be careful not to break through the meat. Toward the last of the pounding, beat in a little flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown the steak quickly in a little fat and serve with mashed potatoes and gravy made from the steak-pan drippings.

Further Study Set For Convention Plan

DES MOINES (AP)—The executive board of the Iowa State Education association Friday directed its convention committee to make a further study of a proposal for dropping the association's annual state convention in Des Moines.

Under the proposal, the 1956 state convention would be dropped and regional conventions substituted. The plan would not affect the 1955 convention scheduled for Nov. 3-5.

J. Leonard Davies, associate professor of education at SUI, convention committee chairman, said the main objection raised thus far against the full scale state convention in Des Moines, is the distance that some delegates have to travel.

The executive board's action came toward the close of a two-day meeting at the association office here.

Explosion Injures 3 At Maytag

NEWTON (AP)—A butane explosion in an air line in the receiving area at Maytag company's plant No. 1 injured three men Friday and caused an undetermined amount of damage.

The injured men, all of whom suffered burns from the resulting fire, are Fred Davidson, 28; Floyd Mullbrook, 29, and Don Rogan, 40.

A company doctor said Davidson suffered first and second degree burns about the face, chest and arms. Mullbrook and Rogan suffered slight burns about the face but continued working.

A portion of a concrete slab roof over the receiving area fell in and a wall between the receiving area and die casting areas was damaged. Many parts for the company's conventional model washer were in the receiving area and production of such washers was stopped until Monday.

Officials said the explosion was set off when Davidson drove an electric powered truck into the area. Both Mullbrook and Rogan had been working on pipes from a butane gas tank no longer in use since conversion to natural gas about a week ago.

The butane had been under air pressure while workers "bled" the tanks but apparently had leaked out, filling the area.

Church, Minorities To Be Discussed

"The Church and Minorities" will be the topic under discussion at the Lutheran Student association meeting Sunday at 6 p.m. at First English Lutheran church.

David C. Johnson, G, Grand Rapids, Minn., will speak. A discussion period will follow. A cost supper will be served at 5 p.m.

Wittenberg Installed As LSA President

Charles Wittenberg, G, Cedarburg, Wis., was installed president of the Lutheran Student association at a service Sunday evening.

Other officers installed were Eloise Miller, A3, Rock Valley, first vice-president and program chairman; Carmen Armiger, N1, Inwood, second vice-president and social chairman; Arlene Dom, A1, Parkridge, Ill., secretary; Richard Westwick, E1, Springfield, Ill., treasurer; Joan Hamlett, A1, Lamont, dietician, and Marilyn Smith, G, Norma, N.D., and Russell Tokeheim, A3, Eagle Grove, publicity directors.

The officers were installed by the Rev. Donald Hetzler, Lutheran campus pastor, at the regular meeting of the Lutheran Student association.

Hillel Purim Dance Set for Tonight

Hillel foundation will hold a Purim dance tonight at Hillel house from 9 until midnight. The dance is in connection with a Jewish festival, the Feast of Lots, being celebrated this month.

A skit will be presented by several members of the SUI faculty. Theme of the skit will be, "How Teachers See Their Students." Prof. Louis Landweber of the SUI hydraulics department, Prof. George Kalnitsky of the biochemistry department, Prof. Frederick Bargebur of the school of religion and several other professors will take part in the skit.

Sunday, Bhaskara Rao, G, Bangalore, India, will speak to the Hillel group on the subject, "Asian Youth at Crossroads," following the weekly supper at 6 p.m.

Now I lay me down to sleep...

THE hair so like young corn silk draws appealingly back into the little pony tail. Lashes droop demurely over eyes in which, all day, small lightning fires of mischief flared and flashed. A chirrupy little-girl treble quavers...

"God bless Mommy... God bless Daddy..."
You listen. In this moment you understand truly why you were put upon this earth. And as you hear your little girl at her prayers what wouldn't you do to keep her world always warm and confident and secure?

Give love? Of course—first and always!
But, because you've grown up in a tough world, you know you have to give material protection, too. And one of the finest forms of material protection is a steadily growing pile of U. S. Series E Savings Bonds!

Bonds pay good interest—3% compounded when held to maturity. They'll earn for as long as 19 years and 8 months, paying you 80% more than you invested!

Bonds offer the world's easiest and surest way to save when you invest in them through the Payroll Savings Plan. On this Plan you can pick any amount you wish (as little as a couple of dollars a week) and have your company's pay office save it out of each check. This is invested in Bonds which are turned over to you. And you'll find you can save successfully no matter how many times you may have tried before and failed.

You can also invest in Bonds automatically where you bank. Your little girl, or your little boy, needs all the protection you can give. Build it for them, with U. S. Savings Bonds!

the voting of the officials.
Both Judge Harold Barnes and referee Ruby Goldstein gave to Ryff, 9-1. Judge Artie Aida called it 8-1-1. The Associated Press voted 9-1.
Perez's cut was examined by referee Goldstein at the end of the fourth round and again by Dr. Vincent Nardiello, of the state athletic commission staff, at the end of the fifth and seventh rounds.

Cut 'Not Serious'
Nardiello declared after the fifth round that the cut was a "superficial one and that in his last fight Ryff was cut 20 times worse."
He referred to Ryff's bout with Orlando Zulueta in December in which Frankie was severely cut over the eye and had 22 stitches.

Those who were afraid that Frankie might be cut again were surprised. Frankie got a small cut in the first round and again in the last round, but in between he spurred no blood and concentrated on fighting.
A turnout of 4,597 for the nationally televised and broadcast saw Frankie carry the fight virtually all the way to Danny. Perez's best punches were counted.

Blarney Stone Hunt To Start Mecca Week

An unlovely chunk of granite will be the object of a traditional search next week as SUI engineering seniors open their yearly Mecca week quest for the Blarney stone.

Presentation of the first set of clues and problems Monday morning will officially open activities of the SUI Mecca week celebration. The stone was hidden last year by the 1954 graduating seniors, and can be found only by solving a series of clues and problems.

Complicated Search

Use of engineering "know-how," and such engineering instruments as the transit, level, and slide rule plus considerable travel are usually necessary to locate the missing stone. Problems involved cover various branches of the engineering curriculum at SUI — mechanical, electrical, civil, chemical, and aeronautical, and it is from these terms also that the term MECCA originated.

The seniors hope to find the stone in time to present it at the annual "smoker" next Thursday evening. The five finalists for the title of Mecca queen will be introduced at the smoker and the final vote taken to determine the queen. The engineers will also vote to determine the "most personable engineer."

Beard Contest

During the activities of the smoker, the five Mecca queen candidates will form a royal court to decide the merits of the beards which engineering students have been growing since the start of the second semester. Prizes will be awarded to the student with the handsomest beard, longest beard, and ugliest beard.
Mecca week activities will end Friday evening with the Mecca ball in the Iowa Memorial Union. Presentation of the Mecca queen and her court, and introduction of the "most personable engineer" will highlight the evening's activities.

VAN FLEET BAGS TIGER

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Gen. James A. Van Fleet has bagged a tiger while on a hunt as guest of officials in the famed "Bengal tiger" area of East Pakistan, a report received here Friday said. The former U.S. 8th army commander, now retired, is on a private visit in Southeast Asia.

Case of the Portable Hydrant

(AP Wirephoto)
JOSEPH BARONCINI smiles at a police station in New York city Friday as he dropped by to look over a realistic—but dummy—fire hydrant which was the cause of his auto being tagged for a parking violation Wednesday night. A patrolman ticketed the auto, but on return found the plug and the car had disappeared. On return the next night, the patrolman found the plug again and on inspection found it to be a phony—apparently a TV or stage prop. Baroncini said his car was parked by a doorman. He is due in traffic court next Thursday to answer the summons.

Exams Open For Hospital Jobs

Civil service examinations for positions of laundry foreman, at $2,974 annual pay, and seamstress, $2,552, at Veterans hospital here, are open to applicants, the board of examiners announced Friday.
Applicants should file standard forms 60 and 5001 ABC with the examining board at Veterans hospital. Information for obtaining forms may be secured at any post office.

Schwengel Attends Luncheon With Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was host at a White House luncheon Friday for 16 Democrats and 5 Republicans elected to the house for the first time last November.
Among the Republicans attending was Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa).

Cadets To Fly Plane Today

Seventy-five air force cadets are scheduled to take more indoctrination flights in a twin-engine air force C-45 today and Sunday. Flights also were made Friday.

Four cadets go up on each one-hour flight. Each cadet will have a chance to fly the plane for about 10 minutes, according to M/Sgt. Jack Lansinger, air science and tactics assistant.

Most of the cadets scheduled for flights are in the basic program.

Cadets signed up for the flights last week in class. Alternates can still sign up for a flight and will be taken up if a vacancy occurs, Lansinger said.

The plane was flown here from O'Hare air force base, Ill., by Maj. Emilio Ratti and Capt. Kenneth Dyer, both of the air science department. Ratti and Dyer will pilot the flights.

Former SUI Student Translates Anthology

Prof. Mildred E. Johnson, former SUI student, now assistant professor of Spanish at the University of Missouri, is the translator of an anthology, "Spanish Poems of Love."

The book of 50 poems is published by Exposition Press of New York. The poems are the work of 24 Spanish and Latin-American poets.

Prof. Johnson, who was born in Woolson, received her A.B. and B.S. degrees from the University of Missouri. She went on to receive an M.A. in 1922 and a Ph.D. in Spanish, French, and Italian in 1929 at SUI.

Bad Check Passers May Be Identified

Iowa City police said Friday afternoon they have made "tentative identification" of two men who passed bad checks totaling $164 in two Iowa City business houses on March 5. No arrests have been made.

Detective Lieutenant Harland Sprinkle said that the men each passed two false payroll checks for $82.

Drawn on a Cedar Rapids bank, the checks were used to purchase $56 of merchandise in one store and for a $25 lay-away order in another.

Old Armory Once Iowa Fieldhouse

This is the 10th in a series of articles about familiar buildings on the SUI campus.

The Old Armory, once the scene of Iowa basketball conquests, has kept pace with the changing SUI scene.

The building, across from the University library, in its 50-year-existence, has accommodated a variety of activities.

It is now used by the geography department and houses new television studio laboratories.

When the building was dedicated in February, 1905, it was called the Armory and Athletic pavilion. Years later it was used as a library known as the Reserve library, although its official name during that time was the Library annex.

The building was completed in the fall of 1904 at a cost of $35,190. Of this, $4,000 was spent for equipment.

Military Offices
The ground floor was occupied by military offices and the athletic department. Lockers and shower were located on the second floor. The third floor housed a reading room, faculty locker room and boxing and fencing quarters.

The athletic facilities included lockers, gymnasium, offices and a 1/16 mile track around the 70 by 125 ft. drill floor and athletic court.

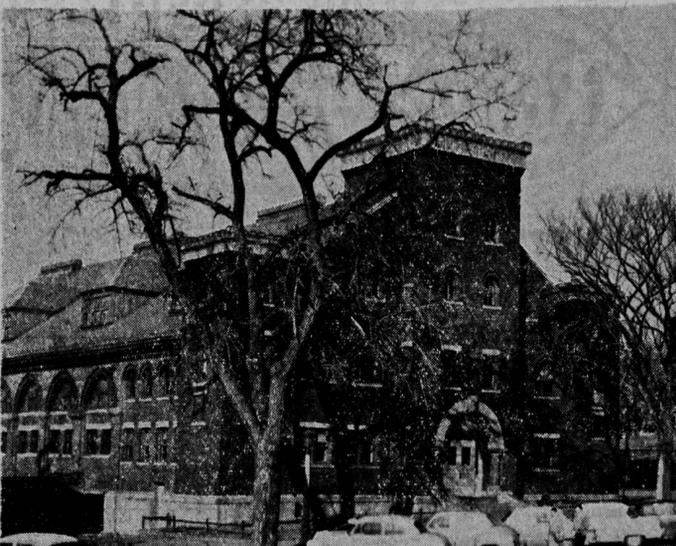

The building was dedicated on Feb. 22, 1905, in a combination program. In addition to the dedication, mid-year commencement exercises were held there.

Concluded With Dance
In the evening the program was concluded with a dance. The main floor hall served for social functions and as an auditorium until the Iowa Memorial Union was built in 1928.

Two days after the dedication, the first basketball game was played in the building. Iowa defeated Grinnell, 24 to 17.

In 1915, a remodeling and expansion project doubled the size of the armory-gymnasium.

A section was built on the

THE OLD ARMORY, located across from University library, has served as one of the most versatile buildings on campus. The building, completed in 1904, has housed ROTC units, athletic departments and sections of University library. In 1951, when the new library building was completed, the armory was taken over by the geography department and television studios.

north end. In the west half of the addition a 30- by 60-ft. swimming pool was installed with 300 seats around it. The pool is now used by University high school.

The east section of the new wing was used for wrestling, boxing and fencing.

On the second floor of the addition, volley ball, basketball and handball courts were built.

Lowered Six Feet
The drill floor and athletic court was lowered six feet to give it a higher ceiling for basketball.

Lowering of the floor was made easier because all the ground under the main floor had been excavated and was used for football, baseball and track. A gallery used to seat spectators for events held in the main hall was added.

The military and athletic departments continued to occupy the building until 1926 when the new field house was built and the two departments moved across the river.

Six Departments Moved
The following year most of the building was occupied by departments of the University library. Six of its departments, the reserve reading room, binding, administrative offices, serials and government documents departments were moved into the building.

The six departments of the library were housed in the library until 1951, with the exception of three years during World War II when the ROTC department and the Navy used the building.

Specialized departments of the library were housed in other buildings during the 1926 to 1951 period.
When the new library was completed and the general library was moved into it, the armory was taken over by the geography department and the television studios.

Government To Interview Men Here

Two U.S. state department workers will visit the SUI campus next Friday and Saturday as part of a program to recruit 300 men for foreign service work.

Prof. Vernon Van Dyke of the political science department said that personal interviews may be scheduled through his office.

The first examination under the new recruiting program will be given in June. Candidates for foreign service work must be between 20 and 31, and American citizens for the past 10 years. If married, their wives must be American citizens.

Starting salaries in foreign service work range from $4,000 to $5,000.

Successful candidates will serve at the state department headquarters in Washington or any of its 267 embassies, legations or consulates in 77 foreign nations.

The state department representatives, George Steuart and William Fisher, will hold a group meeting at 8:30 a.m., March 18 in room 203, Scheffler hall.

GOP Deletes Slaps At Ike's Economics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans forced major changes Friday in a Democratic-sponsored report criticizing President Eisenhower's economic policies. The original report asserted the nation is "not out of the woods" of recession.

As the climax of a week of behind-the-scenes battling, a majority of the senate-house economic committee agreed on a toned-down report eliminating most criticisms of the President, and pessimistic forecasts.

Mindful of Eisenhower's 1954 attacks on what he called "prophets of gloom and doom" among the Democrats, committee Republicans planned to submit as a supplement their own more optimistic views on the economic outlook. Democrats indicated they would incorporate in another separate statement criticisms of Eisenhower policies deleted from the bipartisan report.

The Democratic criticisms included the assertion, in a draft prepared by Chairman Douglas (D-Ill.), that "there has been improvement in the economy but we are not out of the woods."

IN BED 6 MORE WEEKS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Pianist Jose Hurlb, convalescing from a heart ailment, was reported in good condition at a hospital here Friday but his doctor said he would be in the hospital for at least six more weeks. Hurlb is stricken after a concert with the Buffalo Philharmonic orchestra March 1.

Hardware Meeting Here

A session on self-service as applied to hardware retailing will open a week-long Business Management Improvement clinic of the Iowa Retail Hardware association Monday morning at the SUI Continuation Study center.

Leader of the first sessions of the clinic will be Kenneth Wilson, SUI graduate who is now director of the Michigan State college business division. Monday afternoon sessions, under the leadership of Philip Jacobson and W. D. Nichols, IRHA officials from Mason City, will revolve around hardware store equipment.

In later sessions the hardware men will study advertising and credit selling practices and the general business outlook under SUI college of commerce faculty members including William A. Knoke, C. Woody Thompson, Leo G. Erickson and Max Wales. The clinic will conclude with a banquet with certificates of graduation Friday evening in Iowa Memorial Union.

Gives Up Child, Will Pay Support

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A University of Wisconsin coed Friday gave up her 2-year-old child in a divorce action to her husband and agreed to pay support money for the youngster.

The woman is Florina W. Solberg, 22, freshman in the school of letters and science. She was awarded a divorce in circuit court from Guener D. Solberg, also 22, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Solberg is a senior in the commerce school at the university.

She agreed to pay $66 a month for the first year, $58 a month for the second year, and $50 a month the third and $14 a month thereafter.

Social Workers To Hold Meeting

The American Association of Social Workers, eastern Iowa chapter, will hold an open meeting 8 p.m., March 21, in Shambaugh lecture room, Prof. Richard M. Seaman, SUI school of social work, said Friday.

A film, "The Social Worker," will be shown at the meeting. A panel of social workers will discuss their field and answer questions from the audience.

Panel members will be: Kenneth Price, director of Johnson county department of social welfare; Mrs. Alice Whiting, case-work supervisor, St. Luke's hospital, Cedar Rapids; Shirley Bridgford, G. Stockport; and Donald Ovrebo, of the Muscatine Lutheran home.

This "link" is made weak on purpose!

A better name for fuses might be "wiring protectors." These purposely weak links permit only a safe amount of current to pass through your wiring. Beyond that amount, the fuse "blows" and breaks the circuit.

It's no great cause for concern when a fuse blows because of an unforeseen short circuit in a faulty electrical cord or appliance. But when these safety valves start letting go frequently because of circuit overloads, it's time to look into your wiring!

If you're troubled with fuses, tangled up in extension cords, or tired of flickering lights and faulty appliance operation check with your electrical contractor now!

It takes all three to make adequate wiring: A big enough service entrance to bring sufficient electricity into the home — enough well-protected circuits with large-enough wires to distribute the electricity, and plenty of outlets, permanent lights and switches to make electricity easy to use.

FACTS ON FUSES

The size of each fuse is stamped on its base. Circuits with number 14 wire require fuses stamped "15". Circuits with larger wire take larger fuses. In replacing fuses, it's most important to remember: never use a fuse any larger than will protect circuit wiring.

Nurse Scholarship Deadline March 21

The Iowa Cancer society has set a March 21 deadline for applications for its annual student nurse scholarships, a Johnson county chapter spokesman said Friday.

Fifty awards as high as $500 are to be granted in Iowa in 1955.

Applicants must be at least 17 years old, have graduated from high school during or before 1955, rank scholastically in the upper third of the class, accepted by a three-year nursing school, and must promise to practice nursing in Iowa for two years after graduation.

Mrs. Charles C. Ingersoll, 1104 Yewell st., or Mrs. James Murray, 150 Stadium park, will provide further information to applicants.

AEPi Acquires Highest Grade Point Average

Alpha Epsilon Pi had the highest fraternity grade point for the fall semester of 1954-55, Leslie Willig, fraternity scholarship adviser, said Friday.

AEPi won the scholarship race for the third successive semester. Its grade point was 2.55. Phi Epsilon Pi was second with 2.51. Sigma Alpha Epsilon was third with 2.38.

The all-fraternity average was 2.27. The all-men's average was 2.26.

The pledge class of Sigma Alpha Epsilon won the pledge scholarship trophy, awarded each semester. It had a grade point of 2.52.

Theta Xi fraternity won the improvement trophy. It was in 19th position last year and is now 16th.
