Senate Rejects Tax Cut, 50-44

Iowa Senate OK's Tax Overhaul Group

DES MOINES (AP) — A resolution to create a 12-member legislative committee to overhaul the state's tax system was passed by the state senate and sent to the house Tuesday.

Vote on the measure, hailed as the most important piece of legislation that will come before either house this session, was 49-0. Senate leaders said they expected the house to take up the measure in the near future.

As passed by the senate, the resolution would:

Set up a committee of 12 members, consisting of four house members named by the speaker of the house; four senators named by the lieutenant governor; and two senators and two representatives appointed by the governor.

Require the committee to study the entire tax structure of the state including financing of county and local governments and school districts, and to report to the governor within 60 days before the start of the 1957 general assembly.

Appropriate $30,000 to finance the study.

Provide that if the committee submits its report prior to the deadline, the governor may call a special session of the legislature to consider its recommendations.

Sen. Prentis (R-Mount Ayr), chairman of the senate tax revision committee, said the resolution was "the most significant legislation we will be called upon to consider in this session of the legislature."

Fulbright insisted he has no opinion whether stock prices had risen too high in the past 18 months or whether recent sharp declines were healthy or unhealthy.

But he said a note of caution sounded in 1928 might have helped prevent the 1929 crash.

The stock market, which Monday ran into its heaviest day's loss in five years, rebounded Tuesday with its biggest day's climb in more than 15 years. Some brokers have blamed the recent drops in stock prices on testimony given at the senate hearings, but others have disputed this.

Prentis moved to amend this provision to make the committee a ten member group, five from the house and five from the senate. The other three would have been named by the governor from the general public.

As originally drawn, the resolution would have called for a nine member committee, three from the house and three from the senate. The other three would have been named by the governor from the general public.

Prentis moved to amend this provision to make the committee a ten member group, five from the house and five from the senate. The other three would have been named by the governor from the general public.

Van Sickle said it was a "personal error" and swore no one had ever asked him to "cover up" for Peress.

Van Sickle was the first witness called in the fourth inquiry to date into the promotion and honorable discharge of Peress at a time Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) was saying the army dentist ought to be court-martialed. Peress had declined to answer questions about Communist associations in army forms and before McCarthy's investigating committee.

McCarthy demanded Tuesday that the new probe be broadened to explore what he termed a big "conspiracy" aimed partly at him. Reviving an issue which helped raise the temperature of the army-McCarthy hearings last spring, the Wisconsin senator said the investigation should reach as high as the White House.

Bishop Sheen had described the Western world as "Christ without a cross," and compared it to the Communist world of the "cross without Christ" and then asked, "Would the Communists find Christ for the cross?"

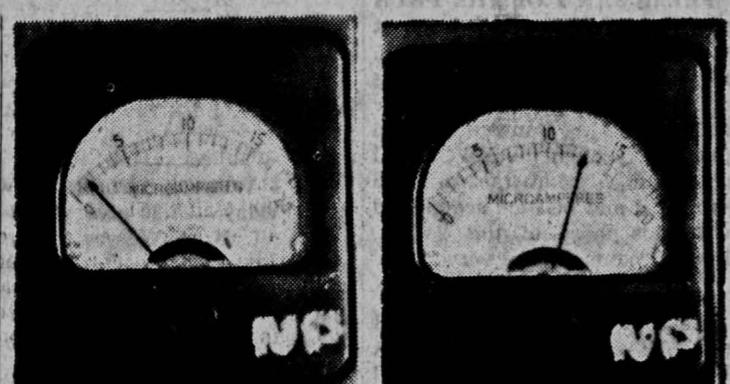

"Of course not," a loud and clear feminine voice was heard to say as if in answer.

Ted Jaffee, news director of station WAAM, explained that a technician, transferring the program from studio control to master control, inadvertently threw the switch to ABC for an instant instead of to DuMont. The picture was not disturbed.

A total of 114 awards, amounting to $895,000, was given by American Heart Association.

Physics Technician Says Increase Not Dangerous

Air Here Radioactive from Nuclear Test

GEIGER COUNTERS SHOW, left, "normal" reading for Iowa City and, right, Tuesday's reading.

Radioactivity from the Nevada nuclear tests caused the air in Iowa City to measure about 10 times more radioactive than normal Tuesday morning, George S. Carson, senior technician of the SUI physics department, said Tuesday.

"If there are any effects from this increase in radioactivity, they would probably be long range ones," explained Carson.

Carson tested the air with a Geiger counter Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. in front of the Physics building. He said the radiation probably came down with the rain Monday evening.

"The amount of radiation is far from being dangerous. Normal count on the Geiger counter is about 40 or 50 counts per minute. Tuesday morning the count was up to 400 or 500. A fatal dosage would be several thousand times larger than this," Carson explained.

"The effects are not 10 times worse because intensity as well as count must be measured to determine the effect on human beings," added Carson.

Carson, who has been testing for radioactivity for about four years, said no radiation occurred until last Wednesday and then the reading rose to three or four times normal. It then dropped until after the Monday evening rain, he said.

The radioactivity is apparently part of the fallout from the recent Nevada tests, Carson said.

A 100 mile wide and 1,000-mile long radiation cloud from the Nevada tests passed over Iowa last week, the Atomic Energy commission has stated.

Fulbright Says Stock Probe Will Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the senate banking committee, said here Tuesday that he would not be "dissuaded" from continuing his committee's investigation of the stock market.

Fulbright called the committee hearings "thoroughly justified" in answer to Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey's statement that the senate investigation might deal a blow to public confidence in the American economy.

After Tuesday's session, which featured head-on clashes between Fulbright and Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.), Fulbright told newsmen he was willing to take any criticism that comes his way if he can help avoid a crash such as occurred in 1929.

Fulbright insisted he has no opinion whether stock prices had risen too high in the past 18 months or whether recent sharp declines were healthy or unhealthy.

But he said a note of caution sounded in 1928 might have helped prevent the 1929 crash.

Proud Engineers Display Blarney Stone

SUI ENGINEERING STUDENTS proudly display the Mecca Blarney stone, found in the clock tower of the City hall in Iowa City last night after an intensive two-day search. Leading the rush of engineers to the tower in which the stone was hidden are (left to right) Wayne Evenson, E4, Ft. They had followed a trail of clues since Monday morning that led them, carrying slides and transits, from the Engineering building to many points in the Iowa City area.

The final clue was found in the city sewage disposal plant early Tuesday evening.

The clues—engineering problems, verbal puzzles and outright directions—are traditionally prepared by the preceding senior class, which also hides the stone.

Peculiar Actions

Citizens who saw young men methodically pacing off railroad tracks, carefully inspecting the contents of the city dump, or peering across the Iowa river at a hydrant or tree stump possibly felt like calling SUI Psychopathic.

An offer of a glass of his favorite beverage and a "god-speed" would have pleased him more, one noted.

By intuition as much as scientific method, and with the help of a student who reads Czech, these riddles were solved. The search continued.

Students Visit Janitor

Tuesday, following the trail of clues, students visited city engineer Fred Gartzke and Gus Miller, chief janitor at the engineering college for many years, who is now retired.

Gartzke, Iowa '23, gave them more data for the search. Miller, long a favorite figure on the engineering premises, also parted with clues, after getting the required fee, four fifteen cent stamps.

The stone will be displayed at the Mecca smoker Thursday night, in the Memorial Union River room when candidates for Mecca queen will be introduced to engineering students. Skits, satirical and serious, will be presented.

BLARNEY STONE

Black Angel Had Clues

THE BLACK ANGEL tombstone in Oakland cemetery was Monday night's stopping place in the SUI engineers' search for the Blarney stone. Here the engineers found a cryptic note written in Czechoslovakian and gave up for the evening. They persisted Tuesday, however, to find the stone in the clock tower of the City Hall.

Votes To Extend Corporate Tax Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic proposal to cut income taxes by $900 million a year was rejected by the senate Tuesday on a 50-44 rollcall vote.

Forty-five Republicans and five Democrats joined forces to defeat the proposal and give the Eisenhower administration its biggest round so far in the current battling over taxes.

The senate then passed on a voice vote a bill extending present corporate income and major excise tax rates for another year from April 1. This is just what the administration wanted.

Now the legislation returns to the house, which approved the tax rate extensions but added a provision which would have reduced the tax bill of every income tax payer and dependent by $20 each.

Offer Amendment

Senate Democratic leaders had offered an amendment as a compromise of the house-passed bill. It would have given a large group of taxpayers $20 income tax cuts next year, plus $10 for each dependent except a spouse. It was intended principally to benefit families earning less than $5,000 a year.

Some legislators predicted that house spokesmen would put up a strong last-ditch stand for their plan in a senate-house conference committee. But house Republican leaders will try to persuade the chamber to go along with the senate version, and speed the extension legislation to the President.

The White House said President Eisenhower was pleased with the senate's action Tuesday.

In bitter debate preceding the showdown, opponents of any tax reduction at this time called the Democratic plan "nonsense" and a hoax.

Argue In Vain

Supporters argued in vain it would distribute the tax burden more evenly, push up purchasing power and actually increase revenues by withdrawing some tax relief given to corporations and stockholders last year. By rejecting the whole compromise, the senate voted to keep on the law books the relief for corporations and stockholders.

Democratic Senators Harry Byrd (Va.), Walter George (Ga.), Allen Ellender (La.), Spessard Holland (Fla.) and Willis Robertson (Va.) sided with administration forces against the compromise proposal. The only Republican voting on the other side was Sen. William Langer (N.D.).

Under present law the corporate income tax rate is scheduled to drop from 52 to 47 percent April 1. Federal excise taxes on automobiles, cigarettes, gasoline, liquor, beer, wine and transportation also are scheduled to drop then in varying degrees.

Want Extension

Administration leaders want these extended for another 12 months to retain about $3 billion in revenue.

After turning down the Democratic compromise, the senate voted 61-32 to approve the action of its finance committee in stripping the house income tax reduction from the bill.

Sixteen Democrats, mostly southerners, voted with the Republicans on this question. The switch was seen as a move to bolster senate Democrats who must work out a compromise with the house later.

Student Council Nominations Due

Nomination papers for five Student Council positions must be filed by Thursday in the office of student affairs, election committee chairman Jan Hausler, A3, Cedar Rapids, said Tuesday.

The positions: town men 2, married students 2

editorials*Investigation at Its Best—

The investigation by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.), chairman of the senate banking committee, seems to us to be a good example of how a senate investigation should be conducted.

Although the committee has received a rash of headlines throughout the nation's press, Fulbright has sought none. He has jumped to no conclusions, as others have done; he has listened fairly to many contrary opinions, as it should be.

It's much different from some previous senate investigations. It's good to see a chairman who has not drawn any conclusions before testimony is concluded. Fulbright has refrained from any description of the stock market.

But he did have a few harsh words Tuesday for critics of the investigation, mainly Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey and Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.). Humphrey said the investigation may be undermining public confidence in the American economy. Capehart demanded an end to the probe. He said Fulbright's purpose plainly has been "to prove stock prices are too high" and that a break is imminent.

We cannot accept this statement. It is true that there have been fluctuations in the market during the investigations. Whether the fluctuations have resulted directly from the investigation is something for the experts to decide.

If the investigation is allowed to continue, we can be sure that Fulbright and his committee will bring out a fair, constructive report on their findings.

With the government and those who follow the stock market alert and feeling responsible, there seems little chance that the economy will be allowed to rise or fall drastically.

Less Painful Donation—

The results of the poll to determine the reaction of Iowa Cityans toward a Community Chest sponsored united fund drive—in which all local organizations would benefit from a single drive—were not at all surprising.

In fact, it pointed up the well-known belief that it's far less painful to donate one sum of money than to drop money in the hat at frequent intervals.

But the big question will be: will the public donate as much?

When the citizens were asked whether they would contribute the same amount to a united fund as they would to independent collections, 75 per cent said they would donate as much, or more.

That is an answer, which at the time, many persons would make. But, if a united fund is adopted, will the public actually give more?

It is doubtful that a united fund will be as effective financially upon some of the people, as would separate drives. Many persons, when faced with the ultimatum of plunking down money in one lump sum, will give less.

On the other hand, many persons who are "disturbed" by frequent collections, will gladly donate a larger amount to a united fund.

A requirement which has to be met before the united fund would succeed is the backing of all the Iowa City charity organizations, which annually conduct fund-raising campaigns.

If one organization backs down, the drive would be only semi-united and much of its appeal would be lost.

Now that the Community Chest has found out what the public wants, the way is open to gain the backing of all Iowa City organizations. Cooperation will be needed to make a united fund successful.

Interest in Liberties

By Sandy Litvack

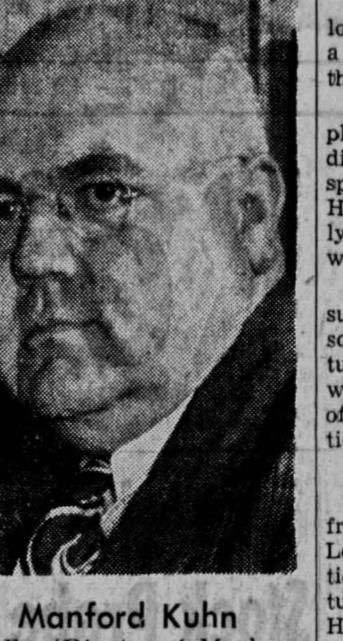

One of the greatest problems facing us is the lack of interest in the problem of civil liberties and communism, said Prof. Manford Kuhn, of the sociology department, Monday at a meeting of the League of Women Voters.

He quoted statistics used by Edward R. Murrow on his television program to show that only one per cent of a sample group of people that were interviewed were worried about communism and civil liberties.

The group was asked the question, "What type of thing do you worry about most?" Forty-one per cent said their family, 28 per cent claimed their marriage, 22 per cent answered their health, 8 per cent said world problems and the remaining 1 per cent were concerned about communism and civil liberties.

See Communists

Kuhn continued by saying that 10 per cent of the people were sure they had seen a Communist. When they were asked how they knew the person was a Communist, these were the re-out our history, he added. This new position has presented many problems which we are not equipped to face.

Thirteen per cent of the people interviewed felt that they didn't have as much freedom of speech as they had previously. However, Kuhn pointed out, only two per cent of this thirteen was worried about this fact.

Kuhn cited these figures to support his basic thesis that our society no longer views the "nature of man" in the same light which was prevalent at the time of the writing of our Constitution.

Basic Theories

Kuhn said, "We have deviated from the basic theories of John Locke, upon which our Constitution was founded, and have turned to the concept of Thomas Hobbes." Hobbes' theory is that man's natural state is one of war. Man, according to Hobbes, is a restless and troublesome animal.

Locke, Kuhn added, gave us our basic concept of the right of life, liberty and property." Kuhn pointed out the happy state of a child as being an example of Locke's idea of man's natural state.

"Freud," he continued, "affected our society as much as any person ever has. However, Freud borrowed most of his views from Hobbes. Our society is enveloped by Freudian concepts which are in many ways the opposite of Locke's views. Freud's concept of the child is one of a confused complex individual, who is in anything but a happy state."

Underlying Tensions

Kuhn said, "The reason for this deviation is the strain upon our society. This strain is due to our new position as a leader in world affairs and to underlying tensions within the country."

We have had a traditional isolationist foreign policy throughout our history, he added. This new position has presented many problems which we are not equipped to face.

"Our main problem," he stated, "is the internal tensions which are a result of accelerated industrial growth."

The luncheon will begin at 12:15 p.m. Saturday in the university clubrooms of the Memorial Union. Luncheons may be made at Mrs. Charles Schwartz, phone 2885, or Mrs. R. A. Utter, phone 8-4080, before 9

Thursday.

AAUW Education

Round table discussions on educational problems will be at the March luncheon and general meeting of the Iowa branch of the American Association of University Women.

The luncheon will begin at 12:15 p.m. Saturday in the university clubrooms of the Memorial Union. Luncheons may be made at Mrs. Charles Schwartz, phone 2885, or Mrs. R. A. Utter, phone 8-4080, before 9 out our history, he added. This new position has presented many problems which we are not equipped to face.

"Our main problem," he stated, "is the internal tensions which are a result of accelerated industrial growth."

"The United States has never been subjected to rigid class structure. We never had any old ruling aristocratic families," he continued. Most of the wealthy people in the U.S. have recently acquired their money and their status, he said.

Envious Attitude

"There is a trend in which big industry is moving west and away from the traditional eastern domination," he said. "All these facts lead to frustrations and an envious attitude of many people."

Kuhn felt that people are looking for targets upon which to unleash their emotions. He pointed out that the two main targets were communism and disloyalty. Since people can't talk about these strains, they try to look for faults in others and magnify them.

Kuhn said, "The threat of big government is no longer a prevalent one. We must stop relying purely upon the Constitution and traditional rights. The Bill of Rights is only a minimum. We must always remember that man's greatest advantage over other animals is his adaptability. Man can try other alternatives to a situation without actually doing it. Man can experiment within his mind and find the best answer. This is our advantage and this is what we must take advantage of."

In his conclusion Kuhn proposed, "We must reexamine the realistic nature of man and society and establish enthusiasm which will help implement the dignity of man, and we will thereby help ourselves."

Prepare cake batter according to package directions. Stir in nuts. Line bottoms of one 9x9x2-inch square pan and one deep 8-inch layer pan with batter. Pour half of the batter into the square pan and the other half into the round pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 30 minutes for the square layer, and about 35 minutes for the round layer. Cool.

Cut out a paper shamrock pattern, 8 inches in diameter. Place on round layer and cut away cake carefully along edges of shamrock.

NCAA-Bound Iowa Cagers Fly Today For Battle With LaSalle

Open Meet Friday; 2 Games Due

By Bob Hooker

Iowa's basketball team, after a workout at 2:30 p.m., flies today at 5 p.m. for the National Collegiate Athletic association's final four-team playoff for the national championship.

Coch bucky O'Connor's 15-man Hawk club originally intended to fly Thursday morning, but uncertain weather conditions forecast for Thursday caused the 90-minute flight to be moved up to today.

Thursday the Hawks will work out at the Kansas City municipal auditorium, the site of the tournament for the NCAA title. Iowa's first game is 7:45 p.m. Friday night against LaSalle for the Eastern crown. In the second Friday game San Francisco meets Colorado for the Western title.

Title Game Saturday

The two winners play Saturday for the national championship after the Friday losers play a 7:30 p.m. consolation game. Guard Sham Scheuerman, stellar front court man along with Bill Seaberg, has been given the go-ahead sign by team trainer Doyle Allsup for Friday's action.

Scoring on a vital lay in to give the Hawks a 74-68 lead over Marquette Saturday, Sham knotted the muscle above his knee when he collided with a Warrior after his shot.

Davis Ready, Too

Also, Deacon Davis is all set for full steam duty after picking up an arm bruise in the 86-81 victory over Marquette.

In the traveling party are these 15 Hawks: Carl Cain, Davis, Doug Duncan, Bob George, Babe Hawthorne, Roy Johnson, John Liston, Bill Logan, Augie Martel, Jerry Reichow, Jerry Ridley, Scheuerman, Bill Schoof, Bill Seaberg and Frank Sebolt.

Since Iowa's known bench strength delivered again at the Evanston regional sweep, several reserves may see action. However, only 12 players can suit up under NCAA tourney rules, and they must be the same ones—unless an injury deems otherwise—who were eligible in the regional meet.

Thus, Reichow, Liston and Sebolt probably will not participate in the Kansas City battles.

Students: Wire Today for Rooms

Tom Choules, Iowa student council president, Tuesday advised students planning to attend the NCAA basketball tournament this weekend to wire today for rooming accommodations.

Choules has been advised that Hotel Kansas Citian, a downtown Kansas City, Mo., hotel, said it would hold a bloc of reservations until 4 p.m. Friday.

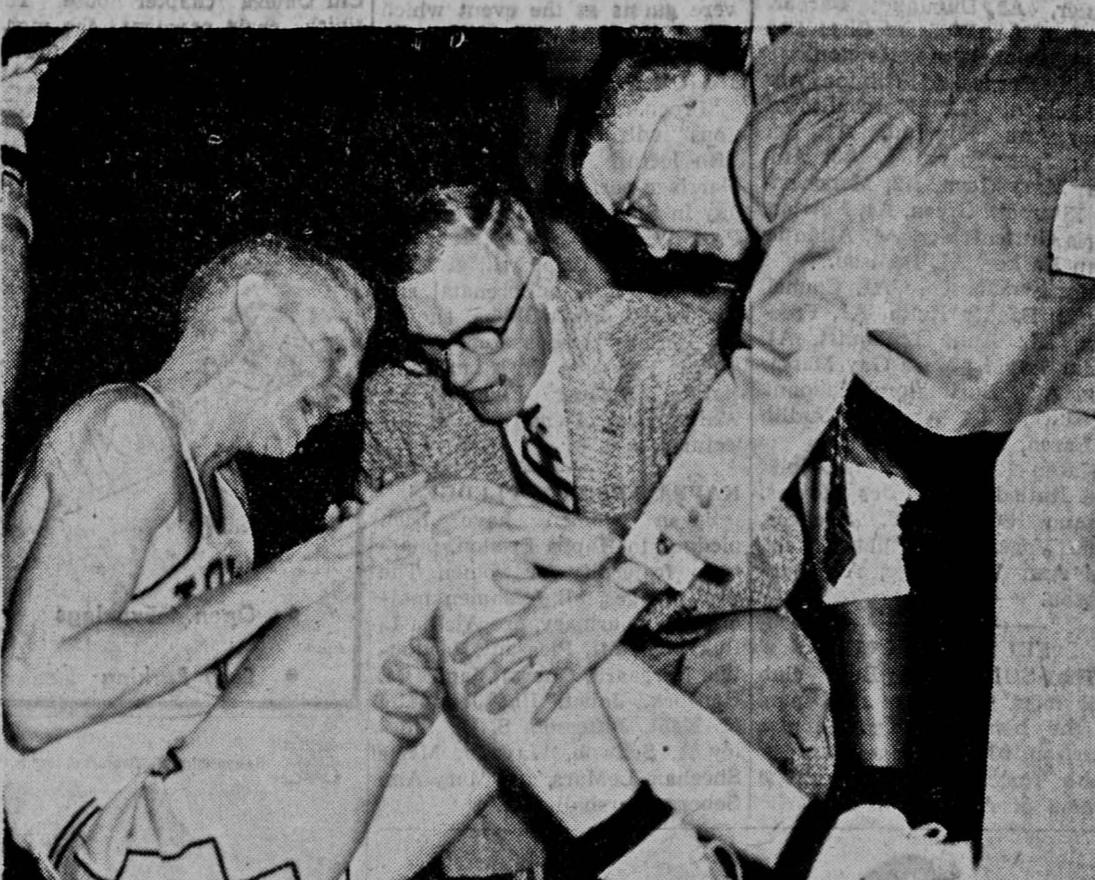

Most downtown Kansas City hotels are booked up solid for the NCAA championship games Friday and Saturday, it was reported Tuesday.

Dayton, St. Francis Win NIT Games

NEW YORK — Second-seeded Dayton and underdog St. Francis of Pennsylvania—the smallest school in the meet—advanced to the semifinals of the National Invitational basketball tournament Tuesday night.

Dayton's Flyers outscored St. Louis, 97-81, after little St. Francis had rallied with 12 straight second half points to spill third-seeded Holy Cross, 68-64.

Gordien won the discus with

SHAM SCHEUERMAN, IOWA'S DEFENSIVE ACE, had to sit out the end of the Marquette game Saturday night at Evanston, after receiving an accidental knee blow above his own knee. Trainer Doyle (Doc) Allsup and Coach Bucky O'Connor examine his injury. Scheuerman appeared to be ready for play against LaSalle Friday night as he ran through drills this week at near full speed.

Iowa Will Cause Trouble...Fast, Clever'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defending champion LaSalle Tuesday heard a warning from a keen judge of basketball it may be upset by dangerous Iowa in Friday night's semifinals of the national collegiate basketball tournament.

Arthur (Dutch) Lonborg, the University of Kansas' chairman of the NCAA tournament committee, told sports writers and broadcasters that the Big Ten champion Hawkeyes can't be sold short in the four-team title meet.

There will be no national televising of the meet at the Kansas

City Municipal auditorium.

Hawks Underdogs

Lonborg made his observations at a pre-tourney briefing at which the general feeling was that LaSalle and San Francisco would clash Saturday night in one of the most thrilling title games in NCAA history.

San Francisco's Dons, top-ranks in the regular season's

Associated Press poll, face Big Seven champion Colorado in Friday night's other semifinal game.

Dons' Hopes Rise

San Francisco's prospects of a triumph over Colorado were strengthened with a report by the Dons' publicity man, Dick

Blake, that Jerry Mullen, injured last weekend, would "see a lot of service" in the Kansas City tourney.

Mullen, second best San Francisco scorer behind the Dons'

All-America, 6-10 Bill Russell, sprained his ankle in Saturday's 57-56 squeal past Oregon State.

He obviously was referring to the need of constantly clamping down on LaSalle's great All-American, Tom Gola, who has averaged 24.5 points per game as the Explorers from Philadelphia ran up a 25-4 season record.

Lonborg lauded Iowa's two rebounding star forwards, Deacon

Davis and Carl Cain, and the Hawkeyes' 6-6 center, Bill Logan, who comes to grips with the 6-7 Gola, also a center.

Trotters Suspend Goose Tatum

CHICAGO (AP)—Reege (Goose)

Tatum, the Harlem Globetrotters' $50,000-salaried star, Tuesday was suspended for 30 days

by club owner Abe Saperstein.

Saperstein said the action resulted from Tatum's failure to rejoin the team following last

Saturday's nationally televised game from the Great Lakes

Naval Training station.

The Globetrotters and their opponents the Washington Gen-

night bound for Louisville and a Sunday afternoon game at Owensboro, Ky., said Saper-stein. "But Tatum was not aboard. And he has not been seen since by his teammates."

"Globetrotter rules carry an automatic suspension and fine when a player fails to show at a sixth game in a season without authorization from the team's management. Tatum's absence from the Owensboro game completed his quota of missed games."

The three gold medals, plus four second places and heavy lesser scoring boosted the United States' unofficial team scoring to 195 points. Beyond reach of her closest rival and defending champion, Argentina, which has 56½%.

The United States baseball team, meantime, had to rally in the seventh and eighth innings to eke out a 6-5 decision over the strong Dominican Republic, amateur champion of the western hemisphere.

Fortune Gordien, the world's record holder in the discus, and the Rev. Bob Richards, greatest of the modern pole vaulters, captured their events to give

Uncle Sam eight of the ten men's track and field championships decided so far in these hemispheric Olympics. The Yanks finished 1-2-3 in the pole vault.

The only man to crack this

North American superiority is Oswaldo Suarez, the tireless Argentine who added the 5,000 meter crown Tuesday to the 10,000 meter championship he took on Sunday. He won in a stirring stretch duel with Horace Ashenfelter, the U.S. Olympic steeplechase champion.

Gordien won the discus with a games-record toss of 174 feet,

2½ inches and Parry O'Brien, the new Pan-American shot put king, was right behind him with 167 feet, 6¾ inches.

Richards won the vault with a leap of 14 feet, 9¾ inches. Bob

Smith of San Diego State was second and Don Laz, the ex-

Illinois star, third.
