Must Continue Foreign Aid, Dulles Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told congress Thursday he sees no early end to America's mutual security program of grants and loans to friendly nations.

He made the statement in testifying before the senate foreign committee on the Eisenhower administration's three and one-half-billion-dollar foreign aid appropriation request.

Pressed by committee-member Alben Barkley (D-Ky.), Dulles declared:

"I think we will have to have a program of this kind for a considerable length of time."

Continue Assembly Lines
Even if the program were suddenly halted, Dulles said, it would take about two years for the pipeline to dry up.

In other words, the tanks and guns of military aid ordered but not paid for last year will be coming off the assembly line for a couple of more years.

Dulles' prepared statement, sounding a hopeful note in world affairs, credited the U.S. mutual assistance program with "measurable success" in creating conditions favorable to peace.

'Reasonable Price'
"The price we are paying for this result I consider to be reasonable when measured in terms of the attainable results," Dulles said.

He expressed his hope for easing East-West tensions this way:

"A series of small but perhaps significant signs suggest that the time may be nearing when those who have been seeking the conquest of freedom will in fact put their foreign relations on a more tolerable basis . . ."

Feels Encouragement

"There are still bad spots . . . Nevertheless I do feel a certain sense of encouragement because today the tactics of the international Communists suggest that they realize that the Free World is in fact strong and that they do have to give up some of the courses they once selected."

To keep the Free World strong, Dulles said, the U.S. must continue its foreign aid.

Because of Europe's remarkable recovery from postwar paralysis, he said the emphasis can be shifted to Asia where "international communism is pressing hard to extend its influence."

Utah Students Telephone Red Premier

PROVO, Utah (AP) — A group of Brigham Young university students telephoned the Kremlin Thursday with five questions for Russian Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

Their spokesman said he talked to a man in Moscow who identified himself as Bulganin's private secretary and promised the questions would be answered.

Political Science Prof. Stewart Crow said the call was approved by the state department.

He said Robert I. Owen of the European affairs section told him the Russians sometimes give out information on new policies through such calls.

The student newspaper identified the student spokesman as Peter Lysenko, 19, a native of the Crimea who came to the United States several years ago.

After talking to Moscow, the students phoned the White House and got an assistant to Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty.

They asked him to relay to President Eisenhower the questions in the list they gave the Russian.

The questions:
1. What do you think is the major stumbling block to better relations between the United States and Russia?

2. What can we as students do to improve relations between the United States and Russia?

3. What would be your reaction to an exchange student program or travel study tours?

4. Would you be willing, through the lowering of restrictions and through reciprocal trade agreements, to increase trade between the United States and Russia?

5. We have heard that Russia has eased up on its religious policies. We would like to know what your religious policies are at the present time.

Stuit Sees 16,000 Students by 1972

"It took nearly 100 years for SUI to grow to a student body of 8,000 and it will probably take only 15 to 17 more years to reach 16,000," Dean Dewey B. Stuit of the college of liberal arts said Thursday night.

Addressing the conference of heads of colleges of liberal arts in state universities of the Mississippi valley, Stuit commented on the "parallel expansions of enrollment and knowledge since SUI first opened its doors to students, Mar. 5, 1855."

One hundred years ago, he told the 30 deans representing universities from Wyoming to Ohio, a student could earn a bachelor of philosophy degree by completing three departments (presumably all the

Vets' CBS Appeal Gains Plane Tickets

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine army veterans finally took off Thursday night on their way to a Moscow reunion with the Russian soldiers they met on the banks of the Elbe river 10 years ago.

The group, which calls itself the American Veterans of the Elbe Meeting, had accepted an invitation from Russia, but found when they got to New York they did not have enough money for the transatlantic trip.

They appeared on the "Strike It Rich" CBS television show last night, made an appeal, and the money was advanced for round trip plane tickets to Paris. The Russian government will fly them from Paris to Moscow roundtrip.

Cancer Drive Here Goes Over Quota

The Johnson county cancer crusade hit 143 per cent of its goal, collecting more than $31,200, it was announced. The county quota was $7,532.

"Twenty scattered volunteer workers and members of 21 university fraternities are finishing the door-to-door canvass for funds and distribution of cancer information this week," Attorney L. G. Klein, campaign chairman, said.

The annual educational and fund raising campaign started April 11, with the canvassers' visits.

147 New Polio Cases Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service said Thursday new polio cases reported by the states for last week totaled 147 as compared with 106 in the previous week.

Last week's figures also showed a gain of about one-fifth, above the 122 for the corresponding week of last year.

In other polio developments:

1. The service said the number of confirmed cases of polio contracted after inoculation with the new Salk vaccine has reached 41.

2. A group of experts on polio and immunology worked all day at the National Institute of Health on reports of the post-inoculation cases, and on other angles including the manufacture and testing of the vaccine. The service refused to comment on a report from one of its doctors in Montana that an investigation of 10 polio cases in Idaho "points strongly to vaccine as the cause."

3. Stephen Alex, a spokesman for the Washington office of the National Foundation for infantile paralysis, said the foundation would turn over enough vaccine to the defense department to inoculate first and second grade dependents of military personnel "the world over."

Mixup Causes Full Air Alert

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A mixup in air defense communications caused a "real thing" air alert in most of the western states at mid-morning Thursday.

Actually, the planes were a flight of American B-47 bombers in an exercise of the strategic air command and the continental air defense command.

Air force headquarters in Washington asked the air defense command for a full explanation. It would be on this system that the air defense of the entire U.S. would depend in case of a genuine attack.

The alarm at 11:40 a.m. (CST) lasted from 3 to 10 minutes, ranging over a dozen states from Louisiana to the Pacific coast.

A Canadian radar station sounded the alarm that unidentified planes were approaching over the Pacific.

A-Test Of 35 Kilotons Smashes Survival City

Civilians And Troops Protected

SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. (AP) — A savage atomic test explosion Thursday severely damaged Survival City, an array of buildings populated with mannequins, less than half a mile from the nuclear blast.

But while the 35-kiloton blast smashed buildings on the city's Doomsday drive, flesh and blood men and women in close-up trenches and U.S. soldiers in stout tanks came through unscathed.

Civil defense photographers, wearing radiation safe suits entered the dust-shrouded area hours after the blast to take the first pictures of the wreckage.

Brick House Wrecked

Photos showed a two-story brick house on Doomsday drive, 4,700 yards from ground zero, to be a mass of wreckage. This was the Darling family home, occupied by mannequins, whose fate is not yet known.

Presumably those in rooms on the first and second stories were destroyed. However, two mannequins in a wooden bomb shelter in the basement were not moved by the blast. Both—a father and son—were covered with dust.

Masonry House Survives

A one-story frame house on the same street also was destroyed. But a reinforced masonry block house next to it withstood the mighty shock and searing fire. However, a radio transmitter in the block house was knocked off the air.

Newsman and television cameras will enter the area today for a detailed report on damage.

Atomic Battleground

On the opposite side of the shot tower was an atomic battleground, like that which may await soldiers on some tomorrow.

Deployed there at the hour of explosion was an armored task force — 55 medium tanks and supporting armored personnel carriers.

200 Soldiers

Shut safely behind the three-inch steel turrets of the tanks and the protection of the personnel carriers were more than 200 soldiers, with a half dozen newsmen.

When it was over they knew men could survive, unhurt, an atomic bomb explosion of virtually major force at a distance of slightly less than two miles. Infantry troops crouched in trenches a few hundred yards behind the tank force.

Hurricane of Dust

To Associated Press Science Reporter Alton L. Blakeslee in a civil defense trench just two miles from the blast, it was a blinding silence, the shudders of an earthquake, and then the crashing roar of furious sound and a hurricane of dust, sand and stone.

It struck in waves, hammering at 6 women and 13 men civil defense volunteers. Awe, dazzled, they experienced a prime lesson of atomic war—that adequate shelter and knowledge can often save human blood and life.

White fire seemed to jet soundlessly from the dirt. Before its glare could fade, the trench rocked with the shock speeding through the earth. Bits of trench wall caved in.

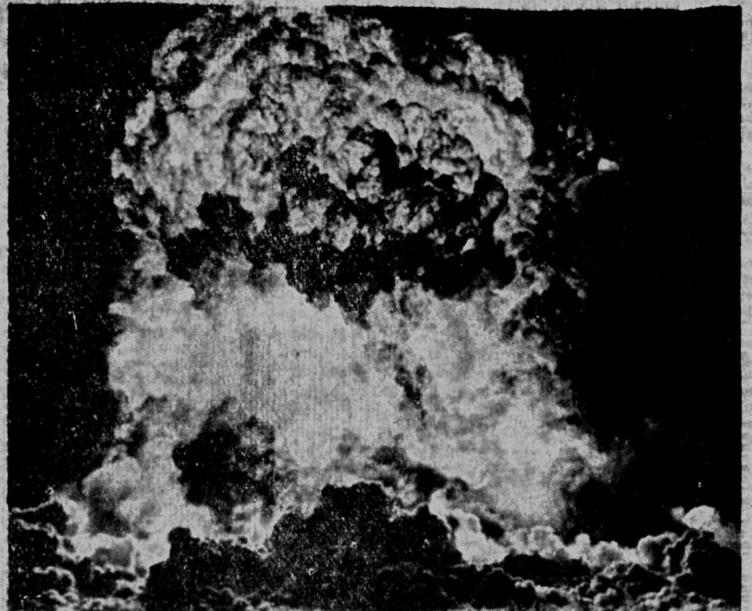

They had barely passed when there was a sharp stunning boom. Faces were lashed with flying dirt and sand, little stones rained on yellow helmets, as the airborne pressure wave smashed overhead.

Mannequin Killed

A male mannequin, seated in a chair outside the trench, whipped backward, a rock-torn hole in his head. Hurling to her back was his "wife," who stood beside him. But heat of the bomb seemed not to have scorched her dress.

Ten seconds from the flash the huge atomic cloud raced skyward, flashes of vivid purple here and there in it, the mushroom reaching like an umbrella that seemed almost to cover everything.

The 14th and final shot of the 1955 series, also from a 500-foot tower on Yucca Flat, was scheduled tentatively for Saturday morning, depending on how soon instruments can be readied after Thursday's big "duster."

THE FIREBALL FROM THURSDAY'S BIG ATOMIC BLAST at Yucca Flat rolls upward in a gigantic ball of flame a few seconds after detonation. The pre-dawn blast illuminated Las Vegas, 75 miles away, brighter than the sun and was seen as far away as Oregon and Arizona.

THESE CIVIL DEFENSE VOLUNTEERS withstood the shock of Thursday's atomic explosion from a distance of 3,500 yards—less than two miles—protected only by a trench. Included in the group of 19 were 6 women. They scrambled out of the trench about 10 seconds after the blast to watch the fireball and atomic cloud form. (Other picture: Page 8)

'Shoot To Kill' As Strike Flares

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Shoot to kill orders were issued Thursday to halt violence in one of the many trouble spots in the Southern Bell Telephone Co. strike.

Mayor George Dempster of Knoxville, Tenn., gave the orders and issued machine guns and tear gas.

The action followed two explosions early Thursday that wrecked two telephone cable distribution boxes. One of the explosions was in the city and the other on the outskirts.

'They Asked for It'

Dempster said he would assume full responsibility for the shoot to kill order, declaring "They (the strikers) asked for it" and "this has gone as far as it can."

Two men were arrested for questioning in the explosions.

Dempster's statement brought immediate condemnation from W. A. Smallwood, CIO district director in Atlanta.

Smallwood said "wild accusations of a man who does his thinking with a machine gun should be called directly to the attention of the public."

Deny Union Involved

Communications Workers of America leaders have repeatedly denied that union members had anything to do with reported damage to company property.

In Washington, a source close to negotiations said there seemed to be a good chance for settlement of the strike on the Louisville and Nashville railroad Thursday night.

Officials of the national mediation board also reflected optimism and said they expected to keep talks "going all night if necessary to achieve a settlement."

Began March 14

Both the telephone walkout and the strike of nonoperating unions against the L&N began March 14.

A dispute over health-welfare benefits resulted in the L&N strike. Telephone workers failed to agree on a new contract, the company insisting on a no-strike clause. The union claimed this was secondary, saying the basic cause of differences was wage differentials and arbitration.

T. Z. Koo To Retire

Prof. T. Z. Koo Thursday announced he is retiring from the SUI department of oriental studies at the end of the spring semester.

Koo said that he has reached the automatic university retirement age of 68. He and his wife plan to divide their time between their children in State College, Pa., and Wilmington, Del.

Taught 3 Courses

Since coming here in 1950, Koo has taught three courses in oriental studies. The fourth oriental studies course, one on India, is taught by Bhaskara Rao, C, India.

Koo first came to the U.S. as a delegate from China to the 1945 United Nations organizational meeting in San Francisco. Since that time he has been in this country except for a short visit in 1946 to the South American countries.

From 1933-1947, he was international secretary of the World Student Christian federation. In this job he was sent all over the world many times, he said. It was on a special assignment from the Chinese government that he was sent to the UN meeting.

Continued To Travel

He continued to travel for the student federation until he joined the SUI faculty. During that time he made his headquarters in New York city.

The only time his traveling was halted was from 1941 to 1944, during World War II, when he was marooned in Shanghai, China, by the Japanese troops.

Koo said that teaching was a new experience for him when he came to SUI. He received all of his education in Shanghai schools and colleges.

Chinese Reds Shell Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Chinese Communists Thursday loosed one of the heaviest shellings of the year in the Quemoy across Formosa strait close on the heels of their first aerial thrust in the Matsu area Wednesday.

The Defense Ministry said that in 45 minutes Red artillery on Amoy fired 150 rounds into Little Quemoy island, four miles away. There were no further details. Little Quemoy, 22 square miles and stoutly defended, guards the western flank of Quemoy.

Says Israel Won't Harm Arab Minority

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of 12 interviews by Central Press correspondent Mark Leonard with foreign ambassadors to the United States.)

By MARK LEONARD
WASHINGTON — Ambassador Abba Eban of Israel branded as "completely and maliciously untrue" a Lebanese charge that his country is bent on sweeping out the last Arab remnants within Israel by "acts of prosecution" and replacing them with new Jewish immigrants.

The Israeli envoy said the recent accusation of Lebanon's delegate Karim Azkoul before the United Nations is without fact and emphasized that "our Arab community is secure and thriving."

Eban stressed that "this position would improve further if surrounding Arab governments would cease maintaining tension between the Israeli and Arab peoples."

Blames Arabs

"The only basic cause of bloodshed and friction is that the Arab governments refused to recognize our sovereignty and statehood," Eban said. "Bloodshed has been caused by their attempts first to overthrow our state by force and then to weaken it by constant incursions and infiltrations."

"If they would recognize our sovereignty and our right to security, all other problems could be solved. If we are a sovereign state, then our agreement is necessary for any change in the situation embodied in the present armistice agreements."

"Once this is realized by our Arab neighbors," Eban said, "we shall become involved with them in a quest for agreement on interstate relations, non-aggression, territorial cooperation and intercommunication."

Would 'Conciliate'

"Since we need and value peace, we would work in a conciliatory spirit to achieve such an understanding. We shall not seek to curtail or injure the integrity or security of any Arab state; and this, in turn, is all that we would require of them."

Elaborating on the problem of Arab refugees, Eban said:

"The Arab governments whose invasion of Israel created this tragic problem are fully capable of solving it. The United States and other governments have urged in the United Nations that the refugees see their destiny as citizens of the free Arab world."

'Sound Counsel'

"This is sound, humane counsel, possessing all the conditions for solving the problem — large areas of land, huge water resources, many under-populated areas and communities, and the full capacity to absorb 800,000 new Arab citizens without any threat to their security."

"If little Israel could find homes and shelter for 800,000 new immigrants (half of them fleeing from Arab lands) how much more easily could the vast and lavishly endowed Arab world find homes for an equal number of its own kinsmen, if only the will existed!"

"We could do our share in helping such a solution by paying compensation for abandoned lands. However, everybody who seriously studies this problem now admits that the crux of its solution is a change in the attitude of Arab governments to the point of wanting and trying to accommodate their refugee kinsmen within their vast inheritance of land and sovereignty."

Explain Western Stand

Asked what stands in the way of Israel aligning itself on the side of the West, Eban replied: "If the question means that Israel is not integrated into the Western defense system, the answer is that we have not been invited to join in any agreement for strengthening security in Israel and the Middle East.

Abba Eban
'Arabs Cause the Bloodshed'

"The United States, the United Kingdom and Turkey have concluded many such agreements with various Moslem states in the Middle East; but they have not yet sought any arrangement with Israel to this end. Prime Minister Sharetz has pointed out that this policy increasingly disturbs the balance in the Middle East."

"We hope that Western statesmanship will realize the danger of this imbalance and move to correct it."

He said that while "friendship with the United States is a central aim of our foreign policy," there has been "profound disappointment at the policy of offering arms and security agreements to the Arab states, which maintain fierce hostility to Israel, while withholding such support from Israel, which is threatened by that hostility."

"Our people do not understand on what principles of morality or prudence this exclusive approach to regional security is based," Eban went on. "There is no precedent for it in Western security policy in any other part of the globe."

May Remove Ban

"If, as I hope, measures are taken to correct this discrimination, the only issues which seriously impair our traditional friendship will be removed."

The envoy said that his government "regrets the absence of peaceful relations with our neighbors," but added, "This regret does not cause us to sink back in impotence and despair. We shall go about constructive tasks of political progress, economic consolidations, agricultural pioneering, scientific and cultural advance."

"Our hands are full of challenges and opportunities. It is quite wrong to believe that without an early peace we shall either languish or lose heart."

'U.S. Must Be Moved'

He declared that Americans "cannot be unmoved by the spectacle of Israel resuming its nationality on the very soil from which it once proclaimed the immortal truths of freedom and brotherhood."

Many Americans, he added, "remember their own struggle to build a new nation by immigration, pioneering, and a stern fight for freedom. It is natural that they should be moved by a historic process so similar to that by which their own civilization was built and defended."

Public Schools Face Modern Challenge

From Information Service, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

"Convinced that the unique values and practices in the American educational tradition deserve renewed attention in current discussions," the Educational Policies commission has made a comprehensive statement, "Public Education and the Future of America" (Washington, National Education Association, 1955, $1.50).

The commission is appointed by the National Education Association and the American Association of School Administrators. The report here reviewed was drafted by Lawrence A. Cremin, associate professor of education, teachers college, Columbia University and was approved by the members of the commission.

The Founding Fathers, the men who formulated the Declaration of Independence, "gave careful attention to the matter of education." They believed "that the foundation of a democratic-republican society must be in the education of the citizenry."

"Moreover, such an education, in its organization, content, goal, and method, would have to aim at producing men and women who could intelligently share the rights and responsibilities of freedom and self-government."

Story of Public Schools

"The story of how American leaders, both liberal and conservative, sought to design and build just such an education is the story of the American public school."

Today "powerful challenges from without and from within place the American people at one of the major crossroads of their history. Whether they can continue to strengthen their values in the service of democracy will depend largely on their faith, their resourcefulness, and their good judgment. These qualities may be cultivated and enhanced by education."

"That education alone cannot equip the American people to meet these challenges is apparent; but that it can play a vital role is equally obvious."

"However, only an education specifically designed to support and advance freedom, equality, and self-government will do so. One cannot wisely put his faith uncritically in just any kind of education no matter how much there is of it.

"Anti-democratic and totalitarian nations are as vitally interested in education as are the democracies. Few of the latter have been as concerned with schools as Nazi Germany, pre-war Japan and contemporary Russia."

Extent of Education

"The crucial question, then, is the kind as well as the extent of education. Americans today more than ever need an education consistent with the principles of their distinctive way of life."

"A source of profound strength lies in the American educational heritage. For more than a century, the American people have sought to develop an education uniquely designed to further their way of life; the product of their labor has been the American public school."

"Nowhere else in the world is there a school approaching it in character, scope, magnitude and responsibility. Designed especially for their task, public schools have stood — and now stand — as great wellsprings of freedom, equality and self-government. They must continue as supporters and guardians of the American way of life."

After recounting the long processes whereby the American people developed their public schools, note is taken of significant events in Oregon:

Controversy Occurred

"Shortly after World War I a controversy occurred in Oregon which influenced profoundly the movement toward the common-school ideal. Oregon in 1922 passed legislation requiring all children between 8 and 16 years of age — with certain exceptions — to attend the public schools."

"Some thought the law simply carried the historic common-school ideal to fulfillment; others, however, saw the law as an unwarranted trespass on the right of parents to direct the education of their children."

"To test the constitutionality of the legislation, a Roman Catholic parochial school and a non-sectarian private military academy petitioned the federal court for an injunction restraining state authorities from enforcing the law."

"The case came before the United States supreme court; and that tribunal in 1925 ruled the law unconstitutional. While the court raised no question concerning the state's right to supervise and inspect all schools, it maintained that the Oregon statute would destroy the property of the petitioners without just cause and would deny parents the right to educate their children in schools of their own choosing."

Meaning of Decision

"The meaning of this momentous decision for education has been a subject of debate almost from the moment it was handed down. There seems little doubt but that most citizens and educators took it to mean that the vast majority of American children would continue to attend public schools — as was then the case — but that the way would always be open for those who desired to attend private institutions."

"On the other hand, the decision has been followed by a substantial expansion of private — particularly church-related — school facilities. In 1950, 99 per cent of all American youth of elementary school age were enrolled in elementary schools, with 88 per cent of these enrolled in public schools."

"Whether that ratio would continue had become a matter of speculation. At heart, the question remained much the same as that posed by early educational leaders: whether the common-school ideal would continue to command the support of most American citizens. On the outcome would depend much that for more than a century had been at the heart of the American way of life."

Steps Toward Equality

Steps already taken "toward equality of educational opportunity are summarized. The development of professional education of teachers is described. Among evidence concerning the ways whereby the public schools served the people is this observation:

"From its inception, the public school has concerned itself with moral and spiritual values. In so doing, it has recognized that the school cannot alone see to the entire spiritual education of youth; it must work in active partnership with home, church and synagogue. The genius of the public school system, however, is that it has for a century sought to develop in children the moral and ethical commitments which are common to all of the great religions. This common basis of ethical values has both raised the level of the nation's morality and left each individual free to pursue the religious dictates of his own conscience."

"Public schools have always been concerned with such great moral commitments as the basic dignity of the individual human being, respect for lawful government, devotion to truth and respect for individual excellence. Above all, the public schools have taught the great precept of brotherhood. It is easier to dislike the unfamiliar than that which is known from experience. The American child who attends the public school has learned, played and grown up with children of many different religious faiths and ethnic groups. In the give and take of growing up together, public school children have learned the real meaning of brotherhood; they have become friends with children of all faiths. Only a common school can serve this great end."

Spiritual Growth

"Thus, while public schools are prohibited by their very nature from teaching sectarian religious doctrines, they have contributed immeasurably to the spiritual growth of the American people, to the ethical foundation of American democracy and to harmonious working relations among the varied groups within the United States."

"The schools have now come into 'an era of decision.' The people of the United States live in a most complex society. Education is called upon for the maintenance of a productive economy, for improving civic behavior, for safeguarding diversity within bonds of unity, for realizing intellectual and aesthetic potentials and for maintaining 'moral and spiritual values.' Under this last it is stated:

"Whether we consider the social effects of recent wars," wrote the Educational Policies commission in 1951, "the remoteness of workers from the satisfactions of personal achievement, the mounting complexity of government, the increasing amount of aimless leisure, the changing patterns of home and family life, or current international tensions, the necessity for attention to moral and spiritual values emerges again and again. Moral decision of unprecedented varety and complexity must be made by the American people."

Become Unified

"Even in a context of religious heterogeneity Americans have over the decades become singularly unified in allegiance to common moral and spiritual values. On these values they have built their individual lives and discharged their social and civic responsibilities. These values include: respect for the dignity and worth of the human personality; the moral responsibility of the individual; the superiority of free cooperation to authoritarian domination and involuntary servitude; the preferability of common consent, cooperative enforcement; devotion to truth and to the search for truth; the brotherhood of man; and the abiding importance of the life of the spirit, with freedom for individuals to seek spiritual satisfaction in the religion of their choice."

"The common schools have taught these values to succeeding generations of Americans and through them have nurtured a moral unity within which a diversity of religious commitments has flourished."

"Moral courage, with emphasis upon the responsibilities and duties of free men in a democratic society, is a requisite in American life for the future. The public schools have a unique role to play in developing the kind of cohesive morality necessary for the nation to endure the stresses of domestic growth and international leadership."

Says U.S. Apathy Hurts Fight With Communism

OSKALOOSA (AP) — Herbert A. Philbrick, former undercover agent for the FBI, said here Thursday the indifference of the U.S. public hinders the fight against communism.

Philbrick, author of the book, "I Led Three Lives," addressed the Iowa Federation of Women's clubs. He said:

"A check of the record of the 160,000 people tested for histoplasmosis against the Weather bureau records of tornadoes has supported this suspicion. It is inferred from this that the less severe, but more frequent storm may be the principal carriers."

Other public health experts told a reporter the American area involved extends from Kansas east to Virginia, south to Tennessee and northward to Ohio and southern Iowa.

Only 35 to 40 deaths resulted from it in 1950, according to the most recent available records.

Tornadoes Blamed In Disease Spread

WASHINGTON (AP) — Support for a "suspicion" that some tornadoes help spread a fungus disease widely prevalent in the midwest was reported Monday by a U.S. Public Health service doctor.

The disease is "histoplasmosis," a fungus caused almost recognized in this country only in recent years and sometimes confused with tuberculosis. It is seldom fatal, but even in very mild cases, it has sometimes hampered the health service's "mass" program for detecting TB.

Dr. Nicholas E. Manos told about the tornado concept at the annual meeting of the American Geophysical union.

"The causative fungus has been found in the soil, in old buildings, and in other sheltered places," he said "yet its mode of spread has never been demonstrated."

"The geographical distribution of the disease led to the suspicion that tornadoes might be a means of spread."

"A check of the record of the 160,000 people tested for histoplasmosis against the Weather bureau records of tornadoes has supported this suspicion. It is inferred from this that the less severe, but more frequent storm may be the principal carriers."

Other public health experts told a reporter the American area involved extends from Kansas east to Virginia, south to Tennessee and northward to Ohio and southern Iowa.

Only 35 to 40 deaths resulted from it in 1950, according to the most recent available records.

Junior women who have been selected for membership on Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, will be tapped Saturday at 2 p.m. in ceremonies on the west approach to Old Capitol.

The names of the members for the 1955-56 school year will be kept secret until each girl is tapped. New members were chosen by the current Mortar Board on the basis of their service to SUI, their scholarship and leadership, recommendations from the faculty and results of the junior vote.

Dodgers Increase Lead, Edge Cardinals, 4-3

Pinch Hitter Connects In 8th Inning

BROOKLYN (AP)—The record-breaking, rhubarb-growing Dodgers rallied from a bad start Thursday to make it 18 victories in their first 20 starts with a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Dodgers won out with a run in the eighth inning after their starting pitcher, Tom LaSorda, had cut loose three wild pitches in the first inning and got himself spiked in the process. The Cards had tied it up at 3-3 on a fifth-inning homer by Bill Virdon.

The winning run came without a hit as Manager Walter Alston got results with some masterminding on pinch hitters. Duke Snider drew a walk from Cardinal pitcher Harvey Haddix and scooted all the way to third on Roy Campanella's sacrifice bunt.

Alston sent Frank Kellert in to hit for Sandy Amoros and when Cardinal Manager Eddie Stanky replaced Haddix with Frank Smith, a righthander, Alston had Rube Walker hit for Kellert. Walker hoisted a sacrifice fly to Virdon and Snider came in.

LaSorda's three wild pitches in one inning tied the National league record, held by four players, but fell one short of the major league mark established by Walter Johnson in 1914.

Hurler Newcombe Refuses Manager's Orders, Suspended

BROOKLYN (AP)—Don Newcombe, a 20-game winner for the Brooklyn Dodgers four years ago, drew an indefinite suspension Thursday after a run-in with Manager Walter Alston, the most serious of the flare-ups that have marked Brooklyn's successful start of the National league season.

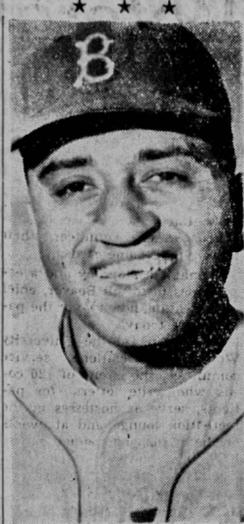

Newcombe, who hasn't pitched since April 24, refused to pitch in batting practice Thursday and demanded to be given a regular turn against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Angered by this refusal, Newcombe's second within a week, Alston told him to go home. Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi made the suspension formal with a telegram which told the pitcher he could apply for reinstatement "when you are ready to comply with the orders of your manager."

Although at least three other Dodgers have sounded off this spring about Alston's actions, Bavasi denied that there was any dissension on the club. He called these "gripes" a "healthy situation" showing a desire to win.

Before the opening game Jackie Robinson complained that he hadn't been told whether or not he would play third base. He was recovering from a sore arm at the time. Catcher Roy Campanella objected to being eighth in the batting order at the start. He's hitting fourth now. And Russ Meyer protested against being a "spot" pitcher and asked for a regular turn on the mound.

Does Not Obey
After the game, which the Dodgers won, 4-3, Alston explained that Newcombe had refused to pitch in batting practice a week ago and when he gave his bullpen coach, Joe Becker, orders to have Newcombe work

Don Newcombe Refuses Alston's Orders

Thursday, the pitcher again refused.

Telephone calls to Newcombe's house brought only the reply from Mrs. Newcombe that the pitcher wasn't there.

Newcombe, who has started three times this season, hasn't finished a game although he has been credited with two victories. Alston said the reason he hadn't used the pitcher since he was taken out in the fourth inning April 24 was that Newcombe complained at the time his arm was a little sore.

Maglie Records First Win, Beats Cubs, 6-3

NEW YORK (AP)—Sal Maglie, 38-year-old righthanded pitching ace of the New York Giants, finally won his first game of 1955 Thursday as the Giants defeated the Chicago Cubs, 6-3, with the help of some timely hitting by substitute third baseman Billy Gardner.

Maglie retired to the clubhouse at the start of the seventh inning, after thundershowers delayed the game for first 29 minutes and then 25 minutes. He enjoyed a 5-2 lead at the time, and the only Cub scores came on Bob Speake's home run after the first delay.

Gardner singled home Willie Mays, who had walked and moved to second on a fielder's choice, with the first run of the game in the second inning. That run, plus Foster Castleman's second homer in as many days, gave the Giants a 2-0 lead when the rain started for the first time in the home half of the fifth.

Eventually the rain stopped and the Giants loaded the bases. Gardner promptly unloaded them with a double good for three runs. The second rain delay came in the Giants' sixth.

The full-length game, to be conducted under regular game conditions, will end four weeks of spring practice. Game time is 2:30 p.m.

Pirates Top Braves, 9-4

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The surprising Pittsburgh Pirates flashed the major leagues first triple play of the season Thursday to scotch a seventh inning rally and defeat the Milwaukee Braves 9-4 for a fifth consecutive victory.

It was the fifth straight loss for the pennant-hopeful Braves who have dropped the last three to the Pirates.

The triple play came as the Braves Ed Mathews lined out to Pirate first baseman Dale Long. Long tossed to second baseman Dick Groat who tagged Bill Bruton. Groat threw to first before Johnny Logan could get back on the sack.

Nelson King who started for the Pirates got credit for the win, although he turned the chores over to Vernon Law just before the triple play came up in the seventh. It was his first victory of the season.

The Braves used four hurlers and the Pirates clubbed them for 10 hits.

Al Kaline's Triple In Last of Ninth Stops Boston, 3-2

DETROIT (AP)—Al Kaline hit a two-out triple in the last of the ninth inning, scoring Fred Hatfield with the run that gave the Detroit Tigers a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Thursday and moved the Tigers into a tie for first place in the American league.

Kaline's triple broke up a hurling duel between Boston's Tom Brewer and rookie Duke Maas of the Tigers, a pair of young righthanders.

The victory closed out a successful home stand for the Tigers in which they won 8 of 10 games. The spurt gave them a 13-7 record for the season.

After five scoreless innings the Tigers took a 2-0 lead in the sixth on Jim Delsing's two-run homer following an inning-opening walk to Ray Boone.

But the Red Sox, who were held to one hit through the first six innings, picked up four safeties and scored two runs in the seventh to tie the score.

Big Ten Baseball Leaders Play; Iowa Visits Michigan

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten baseball race reaches a showdown stage involving co-leaders Minnesota and Michigan this weekend.

A 15-game program will be highlighted by Saturday's double header between Michigan and Minnesota at Ann Arbor, Mich., but each club must face another opponent in today's round of single games.

Iowa could upset the applecart today in its one-game stand with Michigan at Ann Arbor today. The Hawkeyes (1-3) have given Minnesota its only Big Ten loss so far. Iowa moves over to Michigan State for a doubleheader Saturday.

Minnesota, holding the same 5-1 record as Michigan, must play at Michigan State (3-3) Friday.

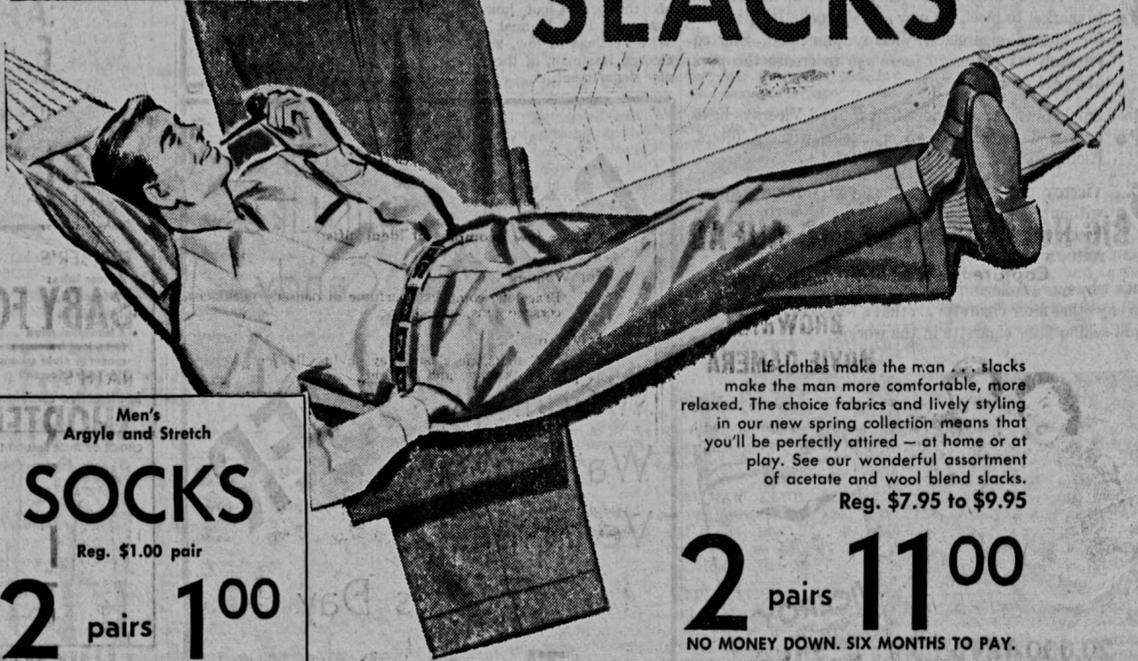

Other single games today include: Illinois (2-2) at Ohio State (2-2); Purdue (2-4) at Indiana (2-2); and Wisconsin (1-5) at Northwestern (3-3).

The other Saturday twin bills includes: Illinois at Indiana; Iowa at Michigan State; Wisconsin at Northwestern; and Purdue at Ohio State.

Swaps, West Coast Derby Entry, May Be Darkhorse

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Nashua and Summer Tan may be the glamour colts in the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby Saturday, but a lot of California cash was showing Thursday for Swaps — representative from the Golden West.

Nudged into the position of third choice for the 81st running of America's most famous horse race by the two Eastern toughies, Swaps could prove a rough customer in the mile and one quarter battle of the country's finest 3-year-olds.

Kentucky hardboots can't forget that two of the last three derbies have been won by Colts who previously had taken the Santa Anita Derby — California's major test for sophomores. Hill Gail completed the double in 1952 and Determine did it last May, although both were Kentucky-Bred horses. Swaps won the Santa Anita last February.

Raises Eyebrows

Swaps, owned and bred by Rex C. Ellsworth of Ontario, Calif., raised a lot of eyebrows at Churchill Downs last Saturday when he zipped home an 8½-length winner in the Jefferson Purse.

Willie Shoemaker, the country's leading jockey for the last two years who will ride Swaps in the Derby, steered the handsome chestnut over the three-quarter mile route in a blazing 1 minute, 10 and 1-5 seconds, only one fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Only Ten Entries

The latest word was that the names of 10 horses would be dropped into the entry box Friday morning. This would make it the smallest derby field since 1948, when Citation defeated five others.

Television viewers will have it easier with a small field, too. Radio and TV (CBS) time is 3:15-3:45 p.m. CST.

Sports fans by the thousands continued to pour into Louisville, but nothing has happened to disturb the 4-5 early odds on Nashua, the heavy favorite.

Quote Odds

Likewise, Summer Tan continued to rule the second choice at 2-1, with Swaps next at 6-1.

Probable entries, jockeys and odds for Saturday's race:

Nashua, ridden by Eddie Arco at 4-5; Summer Tan, by Eric Guerin, 2-1; Swaps by Willie Shoemaker, 6-1; Racing Fool, by Hank Moreno, 8-1; Flying Fury, by Conn McCreary, 8-1; Jean's Joe, by Steve Brooks, 20-1; Blue Lem, by Chris Rogers, 30-1; Honey's Alibi, by Willie Harnetz, 50-1; Nabesna, by Johnny Adams, 100-1; Thim Destiny, by L. C. Cook, 100-1. All will carry 126 pounds.

Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., team captain, who turned 32 Thursday, is the only member of the team who ever has played the historic old course at St. Andrews. One other member, Harvie Ward, 29, of San Francisco, has played in Britain. He won the British amateur championship in 1952 and was runnerup in 1953. For the others it will be a brand new experience.

The U.S. team will have only five days in which to practice at St. Andrews. The team will reach London May 12.

Bruce Cudd, 21, is the youngest member of the team and Dale Morey of Indianapolis, 34, is the oldest. Neither has played in previous Walker Cup matches. Other newcomers to the international competition are Dick Yost of Portland, Ore., and Lt. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., both 25, and Billy Joe Patton, 33, of Morganton, N.C. Jim Jackson of St. Louis and Don Cherry of Wichita Falls, Tex., both 31, were members of the 1953 team which beat the British, 9-3, at Marion, Mass.

Harper Takes Lead At Ft. Worth; Iowa Golfer in Second

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Chandler Harper, the balding veteran from Chattanooga, shot a 1-under-par 69 despite a two-stroke penalty on a lost ball Thursday to snare the first round lead in the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament.

His irons were hotter than the 88 degree temperature as the man who has been on the tourney trail longer than any other active golfer eased in on his fine round.

Tying for second were Johnny Palmer and Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, a comparative newcomer to the tour. Fleck got his 70 despite two bogies.

The 41-year-old Harper, who has been 21 years on the tour, had only 30 putts on the sun blistered 7,035 yard course. But it was his deadly approach that gave him the lead over a field of 46 others who found the narrow fairways and rolling greens tougher to handle.

He posted his score late, just when it appeared that Palmer of Charlotte, N.C., the defending champion, would be at the top. Palmer shot a smooth 70 in the same threesome as Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, the tournament favorite. Hogan had a 72 and said he just wasn't hitting them right Thursday although his putting was excellent.

Special Services Aid Veteran's Recreation

The third floor of the Veterans hospital, west of the city on highway 6, is the hub of activity for a varied program that Leonard E. Hunn, chief of special services, directs.

In Elbert Beaver's office on a typical afternoon you'll see two women, members of one of the 44 welfare and service organizations which volunteer their time, typing name cards.

A chaplain stops by and a co-ed comes in to tell Beaver, chief of recreation, how two of the patients are today.

A member of the University Women's association's service committee, she is one of 120 co-eds who write letters for patients, serve as hostesses in the recreation lounge and at events on the wards, and conduct dances and social hours for the neuro-psychiatric wards.

Produce Radio Programs
While you are waiting in Beaver's office, you notice the adjoining broadcasting booth. You learn that this is where patients work in producing radio programs, doing the control mechanics of broadcasting.

Two veterans currently have their own half-hour disc jockey show, and occasionally there is a live production in which the patients who play instruments will participate.

Just down the hall from Beaver's office is a large recreation room. Here patients get together around a piano to sing, read magazines, watch television, or talk in small groups. Cookies and coffee donated by volunteer organizations are always available.

Library Service
Also on the third floor is the library, stocked with over 4000 books, copies of 100 different magazines, and almost all the daily and weekly newspapers published in this area.

Twice a week the librarian visits bed patients with a ward cart, from which they make selections of reading material.

These activities at the Veterans hospital and many more come under the supervision of special services.

Entertainment, recreation and religious and educational programs are provided at a cost of less than 50 cents per patient per day, Beaver has estimated.

"Recreation With Purpose"
Recreational activities constitute the largest category of special services. Murvin Perry, recreational leader who is currently working on his Ph.D. degree in mass communications at SUI, explained, "Hospital recreation is recreation with a purpose, a recognized medical activity.

It has varying objectives, some of which are development of skills, pleasure, morale-building, diversion, learning to associate with people and the opportunity to readjust."

These objectives are realized through social and group recreational activities.

UWA Aids Recreation
In a three and a half month period last semester, members of the UWA service committee contributed over 2000 hours of recreation work.

These hours included social periods on the neuro-psychiatric wards, Sunday afternoon coffee hours, work on the bi-weekly "Pulse," and Saturday afternoon variety shows.

Another phase of recreational activity is the adopted sports program. William Neary, SUI law student, is sports recreation leader. The weekly program includes four swimming periods, one bowling period, and eight gym periods consisting of softball, horseshoes, badminton, shuffleboard and croquet.

Three Movies Weekly
Neary is also in charge of movie activities, which include three feature-length pictures shown weekly on the wards and in the little theater, two newsreels, teleports, and short subject films which are shown on bedside movie projectors to individual patients on the wards. Patients and volunteers serve as projectionists.

A multiple-channel radio system permits veterans, who are equipped with a set of earphones, to select programs from four low radio stations. In addition, the Veterans hospital produces its own programs two or three hours a day.

Broadcasts from the central studios range from religious programs by the chaplains, educational programs by the librarian and contact officer who give information about the library and veteran's benefits, to disc jockey shows produced by patients.

Publish Hospital Paper
The recreation service also publishes the hospital newspaper "The Pulse," for which patients do the writing, cartooning and typing.

Chief of special services Hunn came to Iowa City when the hospital opened in 1952, after holding the same position at the Veterans hospital in Des Moines.

Hunn is assisted by Beaver, who has a background in veter-

2 Die in Blast At Burlington

BURLINGTON (AP) — Two workmen were killed in an explosion on the grounds of the Iowa Ordnance Plant near Burlington Thursday afternoon.

Names of the victims were not immediately made public, pending notification of next of kin. The explosion occurred at 2:05 p.m. and plant officials described it as an industrial type explosion. They said, however, that production activities at the plant were not involved in the blast. Only minor property damage occurred.

Several other workmen were treated for shock but no additional injuries were reported. The sprawling plant occupies an area of 20,000 acres and has numerous structures for storage of explosives in addition to its production buildings.

It presently is operating as an army shell-loading plant with 1,500 to 2,000 persons employed on two shifts.

Set Olson-Moore Light Heavyweight Bout for June 22

NEW YORK (AP) — Ageless Archie Moore, one of the marvels of boxing, agreed Thursday to defend his world light heavyweight title against Carl Bobo Olson, the middleweight champion, in New York's Polo Grounds Wednesday night, June 22.

The light heavyweight limit is 175 pounds. Last Monday night the veteran Negro, whose list of ring victories goes back to 1936, outpointed Nino Valdes, Cuban heavyweight contender, in Las Vegas, Nev. At that time Moore weighed 196½.

Olson, a Hawaiian, has fought himself out of opposition among the 160-pounders, whom he has ruled since whipping England's Randy Turpin Oct. 21, 1953. Should Olson defeat Moore he would be forced to relinquish his middleweight laurels.

No terms were announced. Neither were radio and TV arrangements revealed although the bout is booked for Wednesday night, one of the regular TV fight nights.

Moore admits to being born Dec. 13, 1918. There are some who say that date should be 1914, or even 1912.

He became light heavyweight champion by dethroning Joey Maxim in a 15-round bout at St. Louis Dec. 17, 1953. Since then he has twice defeated Maxim in return bouts and also stopped Harold Johnson.

Olson, the balding family man who now lives in San Francisco, is 20 years younger than Moore. He outpointed Maxim in 10 rounds at San Francisco last April 13 while weighing 169.

House Votes for Return To High Parity

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house voted 203-201 Thursday for a return to the Truman policy of supporting basic farm crops at 90 per cent of the parity price. But the action may turn out to be only a legislative gesture, because it is uncertain the senate will consider a farm bill this year, and even if congress decided to abandon the present system of flexible supports President Eisenhower would probably exercise his veto.

S. Court Day Opens Today

Supreme Court Day will begin today in the SUI college of law with the formal recognition of law seniors and graduates since last August who rank within the highest scholastic ten per cent of their classes. The afternoon will be marked by the traditional mock court session.

Justices who will hear the mock court session at 2 p.m. today are William L. Bliss, Mason City; T. G. Garfield, Ames; G. K. Thompson, Cedar Rapids; C. F. Wennerstrum, Chariton; W. A. Smith, Dubuque; John E. Mulrone, Fort Dodge; Norman R. Hays, Knoxville; Robert I. Larson, Iowa City and Ralph A. Oliver, Sioux City. The nine are members of the state supreme court.

Sigma Xi To Initiate 147 New Members

The Iowa chapter of Sigma Xi, professional honorary society in science will initiate 147 members in special ceremonies Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. at SUI. The initiates will include 72 full and 75 associate members.

Professor Emil Witschi of the SUI zoology department, president of the SUI chapter, will conduct the initiation, which will be held in Shambaugh auditorium.

Dr. Austin M. Brues, director of the division of biological and medical research of the Argonne National laboratories, will present an address following the initiation on "The Nature of Biological Effects of Radiation."

Galbraith 1 of 14 Given Ford Grants

John S. Galbraith, Culver City, Calif., who received a Ph.D. degree in history at SUI in 1943, has been awarded a fellowship grant for study in Africa. Galbraith is one of 14 who received the grants from the Ford Foundation.

Galbraith is Associate professor of history and chairman of the history department at UCLA, where he has taught since 1948.

against the administration's farm policy, which provides supports ranging from 82½ to 90 per cent of parity for wheat, cotton, corn, rice and peanuts.

An air of tension — and some confusion — filled the house during final balloting on the issue.

Unofficial counts showed the bill had been beaten before the final result was announced. But then about seven members arose to shift their votes from the "No" column to either "Aye" or "Present." Several latecomers voted "Aye" to help provide the margin of victory.

'Unusual Confusion'
Before the vote was announced, more than a dozen Democratic supporters of the bill got up to ask how they had been recorded. Such tactics are sometimes used to delay a final count until more votes are rounded up.

Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.) jumped up and called for a recount in view of what he described as "the unusual confusion" surrounding the rollcall and "that so many members apparently don't know how they voted." The count was then confirmed.

It showed 185 Democrats and 21 Republicans in favor of a return to high, rigid price supports, and 172 Republicans and 29 Democrats against it.

Dairy Products
The bill also contains a section to raise the support floor under milk and dairy products to 80 per cent of parity. The present level is 75 per cent. Parity is a legal standard for fixing farm prices in relation to the cost of things farmers have to buy.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), former secretary of agriculture and a member of the senate agriculture committee, said the committee "might vote to report the house bill but I doubt that the senate would pass it."

Couldn't Override Veto
Senate supporters of the Eisenhower-Benson farm program are confident congress could not muster the two-thirds vote required to override a presidential veto of any change in the system.

Congress turned from rigid to flexible supports last year after a long fight over the change.

The administration blames high price supports for building up the huge surplus of farm products. It argues farmers will be better off if their production is hitched tighter to the law of supply and demand.

The traveling exhibit of prize-winning photos of the National Press Photographers association has been placed on display in the SUI school of journalism.

The display is located on the second floor corridors of the Communications center, which will be open during the weekend so that the public may view the exhibit.

The 105 news pictures were taken by press photographers in

Included in the display are several of the top prize-winning pictures in such divisions as sports, human interest, and spot news, in the contest sponsored by the NPPA and the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Detectives Conduct Burglar-Preventive Business Survey

Iowa City detectives currently are undertaking a survey of local places of business in an attempt designed to assist proprietors in preventing burglary losses.

Record cards detailing the information gathered are being made for each place of business and placed in police department files. Included is such data as the names of the manager or owner and assistant manager, and the location of door and window locks and other means of blocking entrance.

Lighting, type of merchandise kept on hand, alarm systems or other protective devices, and other means of preventing burglaries are also checked.

Suggestions for measures designed to reduce the possibility of burglary may be made after the business is surveyed.

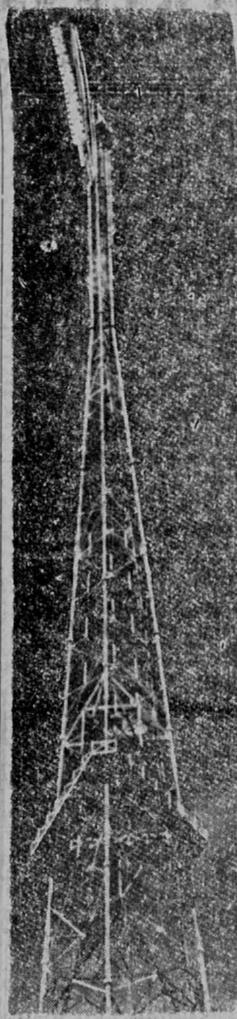

Detectives Harland F. Sprinkle and Emmett E. Evans are making the survey.

Sprinkle said that suggestions to date have centered on improving locks and more adequate lighting, particularly in the general areas of safes.

West Germany Acquires Sovereignty

ALLIED OCCUPATION ENDED with this meeting of representatives of Great Britain, France, and Germany May 5. From left seated are: Sir Frederick Hoyer Millar, of Great Britain; Andre Francois-Poncet of France, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German Republic won sovereignty Thursday and immediately pledged it will "never rest" until it gains freedom for the 18 million Germans in the Soviet Zone.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government stressed that the jubilation of its 50 million citizens at the ending of the 10-year Western occupation is clouded by what he called the "slavery of East Germany."

American, British, and French renunciation of supreme authority over the Bonn Republic at noon was the crowning achievement of the 79-year-old Chancellor's career.

Socialist Resentment Bitter
But opposition Socialist resentment was so bitter over Adenauer having tied up West Germany in the NATO alliance that he did not personally announce the grant of sovereignty in Parliament.

Warned that the Socialist deputies would walk out if he appeared, Adenauer forwarded a brief statement that Bundestag President Eugen Gerstenmaier read Thursday afternoon.

Only a dozen of the 151 Socialist deputies were in the chamber.

Socialist Erich Ollenhauer claims that rearmament will destroy chances of negotiating with Moscow for Germany's reunification.

East German Freedom
Adenauer's government proclaimed to Germans in the Communist-ruled East:

"You can always rely on us, in common with the free world, never to rest until human rights have also been restored to you and you live peacefully reunited with us in one state."

Throughout West Germany, people saw slight immediate evidence of their new sovereignty. The Allies had interfered little with the Bonn government in recent years. Newspapers gave restrained coverage to Thursday's events.

Foreign Troops Remain
The 450,000 foreign troops in West Germany did not march away. They are staying as NATO defense forces.

American strength, remaining unchanged for the present, includes about 200,000 soldiers and 70,000 Air Force men.

The final meeting of the Allied High Commission was held at 10 a.m. Andre Francois-Poncet of France, Dr. James B. Conant of the U.S., and Sir Frederick Hoyer-Millar of Britain, repealed the laws they had written, abolished the five and one-half-year-old commission, and proclaimed the occupation ended at noon.

The three became their nations' first ambassadors to the Bonn Republic.

AFL To Meet In Sioux City

SIoux CITY (AP) — The proposed merger of the AFL and CIO will be a topic of discussion at the 80th annual convention of the Iowa State Federation of Labor to be held here May 10-12.

Convention officials say this year's meeting will be the largest in Iowa's AFL history with more than 500 delegates and friends attending.

Greek Week To Be Held Here May 12-15

Four work projects will make up the constructive portion of the SUI Greek week scheduled for May 12 to 15. On May 14, sorority and fraternity members will tear down a pavilion and do general ground work at Oakdale tuberculosis sanatorium, clean and paint a house in Iowa City, police the campus grounds and clean up other parts of Iowa City.

That afternoon a picnic for all Greek week participants will be held in City park. A street dance from 9 to 12 p.m. in the south parking lot of the field house will complete the day.

Greek week will start May 12 with exchange dinners throughout the entire SUI Greek system. Kenneth McFarland, Topeka, Kan., educational consultant for General Motors corporation will climax the activities. He will speak on "Lamplighters", a subject dealing with the ideals of living, at 2 p.m., May 15 in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Also presented at this time will be the outstanding Greek woman and man.

Kindergarten Tots To Meet at Lincoln

The Lincoln school "Kindergarten Roundup" will be held Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. at the school, on River and Lee streets.

Children who will be five years old on or before Nov. 15, 1955, are eligible for kindergarten in September. They and their mothers may become acquainted with the teachers at this time.

Soldiers Crouch in Trench as A-Bomb Flashes

THESE SOLDIERS participating in Thursday's atomic explosion test sit in an open trench with their backs toward ground zero as the flash lights the sky. The picture was made with the light from the flash by an army photographer. The sandbagged trench is 3,500 feet from ground zero. (See stories, pictures: Page 6)

Helicopter-Airplane Unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defense department disclosed Thursday history's first aircraft conversion in flight from helicopter to conventional airplane and back again.

The department allowed McDonnell Aircraft corporation, St. Louis, to make public the achievement by its XVI convertible.

The craft used an overhead rotor, like that of a conventional helicopter, to take off vertically.

Upon gaining a safe height above the ground, McDonnell test pilot John R. Noll shifted power from the rotor to a pusher-type propeller behind the cabin, or pilot's compartment.

Thereupon the machine moved forward as an airplane, its overhead rotor "windmilling."

In landing, Noll reversed the process.

McDonnell thus won the race to be the first to fly a convertible through its complete helicopter-plane-helicopter cycle.

Other companies also are developing convertiplanes. These half-helicopter, half-airplane craft are not to be confused with vertical takeoff craft such as the Navy's Convair XPY1 and Lockheed XFV1, which take off or land on their tails but fly in a normal horizontal position.

Neither are they classed with recent developments such as the Hiller flying platform, which employs propellers in ducts to rise vertically but makes no conversion to other forms of flight.

Outlines Medical Plan For Local Atom Blast

Dr. Sidney Ziffren, SUI professor of surgery, outlined some of the drastic medical measures necessary for the handling of casualties in an atomic attack to members of the Johnson County Medical Society at the Mayflower Inn Wednesday evening.

Ziffren told the assembled physicians that the first action would be to move all patients out of University and Veterans hospitals to make room for the casualties of a nuclear explosion in neighboring vicinities. (The Quad-City area would be an ideal target.)

He indicated that a tremendous shortage of trained medical personnel would necessitate the employment of thousands of hospital attendants and orderlies from the civilian population—as yet untrained.

"We would have to take over every dormitory in town, the field house, fraternities and sororities to take care of the injured," he said. He commented that medical personnel would have to be "upgraded." Pediatricians would have to become surgeons.

Ziffren said that an emergency plan was needed for such action. He said that, although the best prevention was to have a weapon that is as good or better than the enemy, an informed and trained public was needed to combat the panic of a major disaster.

Ziffren discussed the general nature of injuries following three phases of the nuclear explosion: blast, heat and radiation. Burns as a result of the explosion can be effectively decreased if the individual is in shadow during the moment of the blast.

Commenting on care of the wounded, he indicated that hopelessly injured patients would have to be shunted aside to take care of those who had a chance for survival.

As to preventive measures, Ziffren said that a radio, a tub of water, a filtering apparatus and a three day food supply in the individual's basement would be instrumental and effective in cutting down the casualty rate of the atomic bomb.

He pictured immediate evacuation of large urban areas shortly before an A-bomb blast as not very realistic.

Ziffren used materials gained in a two-week meeting in Washington of medical and military personnel gathered to investigate the effects of atomic attacks.

SUI Students Argue With Britishers On Oriental Affairs

Two London university students concluded their U.S. debate tour by participating in the SUI International Debate, Thursday at 8 p.m. in Macbride auditorium.

Lester Borley and Jennifer Copeman joined forces with George Ojemann, A3, Iowa City, and Ida Mae Brendel, A2, Muscatine, to present the issue "Resolved, that this house deplors the interference of occidentals in Oriental affairs."

Miss Brendel and Miss Copeman argued that the west offers cooperative assistance to the Orient but does not force "economic, military or political aid" to any country.

Technological and economic aid were considered more important than military aid, as an increased living standard and prosperity resulting from international cooperation will help Oriental countries to protect themselves.

Borley and Ojemann argued affirmatively that western nations are making the Orient suffer because of mismanagement on our part; that the west in effect has "done nothing but bleed the Orient for the good of the west."

Ojemann pointed out that our recent policy has been "Oriental nations ought to adopt the western policy."
