U.S. Invites Red Farmers To Visit Iowa

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States Tuesday formally invited a delegation of Soviet farm experts to America this summer to learn how Iowa farmers raise corn and hogs. There is no doubt the Russians will accept.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires Walter Walsley delivered a note to the foreign ministry suggesting that about 10 Soviet farmers reach Iowa July 10 for a month's stay.

The note, also released in Washington, said the U.S. department of agriculture would have over-all responsibility for the Russians, Iowa State College would arrange their program, and the University of Minnesota would take charge when they visit other areas, unspecified.

Return Visit

The note said some American farm experts would pay a return visit to Russia. It asked how many should go and when.

In compliance with Soviet requests when the exchange visits were first discussed, the Russian delegation would have official status so the members could avoid such U.S. immigration formalities as fingerprinting, which the Russians say is obnoxious. An unofficial group of Russian student editors has refused to visit the U.S. for this reason.

The note gave the Des Moines Register full credit for originating the idea of inviting the farmers.

Register's Idea

An editorial in the Register last Feb. 10 suggested the visit by the Russian farmers. It was written after Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev urged Russian farmers to copy American methods, particularly the planting of more corn for livestock feed, as a means of boosting Soviet farm output.

Vladimir P. Bazzykin, acting head of the American section of the foreign ministry, told Walsley the U.S. invitation "will be transferred to competent organs, and we will notify you shortly who will make up the delegation."

Reds' Corn Program Lags

Delivery of the invitation came as another wave of criticism of Soviet agriculture was sweeping across the country.

Newspapers reaching Moscow from the Baltic soviet republics in the west to the central Asian republics were jammed with complaints of late and faulty sowing of grains, the use of bad seed, faulty supervision by local Communist party units and, above all, resistance by the collective farms to central directives that more corn be planted.

A newspaper in the Lithuanian soviet socialist republic recently published a cartoon showing an animated ear of corn trying to get into a collective. The director drives it away saying: "We are not well enough acquainted yet."

The next issue of the same paper complained that the corn planting program was "slow and bad."

Ex-Justice Roberts Dies

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Owen Josephus Roberts, 80-year-old retired U.S. supreme court justice, who gained a reputation as a frequent dissenter in his 15 years as a member of the nation's highest court, died Tuesday of a heart attack. Death came to the famed lawyer and jurist at his farm home after an illness of four months.

His widow, the former Elizabeth Caldwell Rogers of Fairfield, Conn., and their only child, Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton, were at his side when he died.

The tall, affable Roberts reportedly gave up a law practice worth $150,000 a year to accept a supreme court appointment by former President Herbert Hoover in 1930. At the time of his retirement in 1945, he had more than 200 dissents in high court decisions.

In Polio Row

Sen. Wayne Morse Opposes Mrs. Hobby

Morse Calls Mrs. Hobby Incompetent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration's new polio vaccination program gained quick bi-partisan support in congress Tuesday.

But Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) criticized secretary of welfare Oveta Culp Hobby's handling of Salk vaccine and declared she ought to be fired for "gross incompetency."

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) introduced a bill carrying out a proposal made by Mrs. Hobby and endorsed by President Eisenhower that the federal government put up $28 million to make sure no child goes without vaccine for lack of money.

Hill Confident

Chairman Lister Hill (D-Ala.) of the senate labor committee announced he would sponsor the appropriation, too, and said there is "absolutely no question" congress will quickly approve it. Smith is the committee's ranking Republican.

In the house, Chairman J. Percy Priest (D-Tenn.) of the commerce committee put his name to a similar bill. The money would go to the states to provide free vaccination of lower income persons 1 to 19 years of age.

Defends Action

Mrs. Hobby defended the Public Health service's action in testimony Monday before the senate labor committee. She opposes moves by many Democrats, including Morse, and some Republicans to provide stand-by controls for vaccine distribution. Tuesday the Public Health service reported the number of confirmed polio cases in persons who have received Salk vaccine went up one to 74. There have been five deaths throughout the nation.

Juvenile 'Hooligans' Worry Russians, Too

MOSCOW (AP) — Juvenile gangs who beat up schoolmates, terrorize teachers and disrupt whole neighborhoods are worrying Moscow.

And Leningrad has a crowd crazy about cars and allergic to work and study.

'Survival of Capitalist Past'

Both elements are subjects of worried newspaper articles. Of course, writers say the fault lies with "survival of the capitalist past" and poisonous American influence.

'Mr. Roberts' Opens Here Tonight at 8

University theater's presentation of its last play of the current season, "Mister Roberts," begins tonight at 8 for a seven-day stand. "Mister Roberts" will be presented tonight through Saturday night and May 26-28.

"Mister Roberts", a popular comedy of life aboard a navy cargo ship during World War II, will be directed by William Reardon, SUI instructor in dramatic art.

Humorous and Poignant

The two-act play was written by Thomas Heggen and Joshua Logan. It presents the humorous and occasionally poignant struggle of a man of action, Lt. (jg) Roberts, to bring about his transfer from a ship in the safe area of the Pacific ocean to a combat vessel. He is aided by the crew, which has made him its champion in a private war with the captain.

Roberts is aided in this "war" by his spirited roommate, Ensign Pulver, the drill doc, and a crew which dreams of liberty. On the "enemy" side stands the captain, described as a tyrant "with a rule book for a heart," helped in an inanimate way, by a certain palm tree.

Dulles Sees Red Setback In Pacts

Big 4 Talks 'Hopeful,' Ike Now Thinks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Tuesday night pictured the final approval of the pact admitting a free West Germany to the NATO alliance as the greatest diplomatic defeat the Soviet Union has suffered in recent years.

He said that and other recent events including the Austrian independence treaty, "may really mark a turning point in the tide of world history."

In a broadcast from President Eisenhower's office, the secretary told of negotiations in Europe from which he has just returned.

'Hope' in Big 4 Talks

The President and Dulles voiced hope of real progress in forthcoming top level talks with the Russians.

Mr. Eisenhower spoke of a possible "new dawn," though he cautioned that this country must stay strong and vigilant — mustn't get its hopes too high or be misled by any false appearance of agreement.

Dulles said he was by no means convinced the Russians have "got religion." But he said it does look as if they have decided — in some fields at least — to quit "bucking" the moral standards of the world. And he attributed this mainly to strong and persistent pressure from the West.

'Russian Defeat'

Dulles declared that in the decision of the NATO allies to rearm West Germany as an ally, Soviet Russia has suffered its "greatest diplomatic defeat" since World War II.

Furthermore Dulles declared that Russia's decision to withdraw troops from Austria as part of the Austrian treaty settlement "is bound to have a tremendous impact" on satellite countries where "Soviet armies are in occupation."

When Austria's freedom has been completed, Dulles said, it will be, for example, the first time that Red ruled Czechoslovakia has had "an open door" on a free country.

Freedom 'Contagious'

Furthermore he asserted that the joy of the Austrians in their promised freedom will be "contagious."

He said he thought that now "the Soviet Union may be feeling it is more convenient for them to conform to some of the rules and practices of the civilized community."

At another point he declared that the policies of strength, firmness and "high moral principles" expressed by the Western powers in allying themselves and in embracing West Germany are "beginning to pay off."

Reds 'Softening'

"We find for the first time," Dulles said, "a softening of the Soviet attitude."

From time to time the President interrupted Dulles with some comment of his own. At one point he did this to express confidence that the American people have developed "a greater maturity" with respect to negotiating with the Russians than

Oppenheimer in Ames

PHYSICIST J. ROBERT OPPENHEIMER, director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., walks across Iowa State college campus at Ames where he lectured on the electron theory Tuesday night.

No Hazards From A-Tests: Oppenheimer

AMES (AP) — Physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer said Tuesday he does not believe there are any general hazards in the atomic test explosions in Nevada.

He is here for a technical lecture at Iowa State college. Oppenheimer was in charge of the successful wartime atomic bomb project at Los Alamos, N.M.

Explaining his views on possible dangers involved in the test shots, he said:

'No Danger'

"I do have rather strong views on the subject.

"I'll stick my neck out and say I don't believe there are any general hazards in the test shots.

"Further, I favor the full studies being made and feel they should be extended.

'No Widespread Harm'

"I'm sure there will be no widespread harm from the tests. Perhaps one community might be affected, but the commission (atomic energy commission) takes great care in that connection.

"That is not to say in warfare that people far away from a blast won't suffer. They will. But that is not the case in these tests of relatively feeble and controlled explosions."

Oppenheimer declined to discuss the action of the AEC last spring denying him access to secret government data by classifying him as a security risk.

Prevents Advice

His only comment in the interview was:

"The only thing this ban does is prevent me from giving advice or help on the use of secret materials."

Oppenheimer was asked his view on the Peters case now pending in the U.S. supreme court.

John Peters, a Yale university professor, is asking the court to hold that a person discharged from government service on grounds of disloyalty shall have opportunity to face his accusers at a hearing.

'Hard Decision'

After making clear he was avoiding any attempt to judge the case, Oppenheimer said:

"I feel the supreme court is faced with a decision as hard as the one on segregation.

"It involves a right we all recognize as fundamental—that the government has the right to pick and discharge its servants.

'Without Sure Process'

"On the other hand, processes like that which led to Peters' disconnection with government service are in fact injury by government to an individual without due process.

"The injury comes from the climate of opinion, as it exists in the world today.

"I'm very interested in how the court will thread its way between these two points."

Oppenheimer now is director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J. His Tuesday night's lecture on "The Electron Theory" was open to the public.

Douds Girl Is Killed By Backing Oil Truck

DOUDS (AP)—Patricia Downey, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Downey, was killed Tuesday afternoon when run over by an oil truck in the family's farm driveway near here.

Hillary Thomas, driver of the truck, said several children were playing around the drive and yard and that he looked about to see if they were clear before he started backing.

2 Die Under Truck Wheels

RODMAN (AP) — Two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fickbohm of near Rodman were killed when thrown from their father's pickup truck Tuesday afternoon.

Killed were Janice May Fickbohm, 3, and Jean Marie, 2.

The Iowa highway patrol reported Fickbohm apparently lost control of the truck when he looked into a nearby field for his son. The truck swerved off the county road and into a ditch.

The girls fell from the cab of the truck when a door was jolted open and they tumbled beneath the wheels.

The accident occurred about two miles north of Rodman.

N.Y. Woman Convicted Of 'Hogging' the Phone

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—A hot-tempered housewife was convicted Tuesday night of refusing to get off a country party line when a volunteer fireman tried to report a fire.

A Dutchess county court jury of seven men and five women deliberated a little more than three hours before finding Mrs. Mary L. Kayes, 43, of Rhinebeck, N.Y., guilty.

The case was the first test of a new state law covering use of party line telephones in an emergency. Mrs. Kayes could get a maximum of a year in jail and a $500 fine.

County Judge John R. Schwartz set Tuesday for sentencing and continued Mrs. Kayes in $500 bail.

Mrs. Kayes wept when the verdict was announced.

Volunteer Fireman Donald Townsend had testified at the two-day trial that he tried to use the phone to report a brush fire that eventually burned down a barn. When he asked Mrs. Kayes to release the line, he testified, she said:

"Let the damn thing burn."

The fireman said he had to drive nearly a mile to another phone to make his report.

District Attorney Raymond Baratta asked the jury: "Could anything be more willful than to say 'Let the damn thing burn' when a fire official was trying to report a fire?"

Defense Attorney Richard Russell said "if we expect everyone in the country to use the great amount of judgment on the spur of the moment, our jails would be filled. We must use reason in applying this law."

Let's Lay Off the Coaches—

The recent presentation of a Cadillac to Dean of Students M. D. Helser of Iowa State college hardly seems justification for renewed gibes at athletic coaches who have been the recipients of gift cars.

Helsler deserved a tribute for his contributions to education as an able administrator.

The fact that he never coached an athletic team has little to do with the matter.

The gifts to the coaches were expressions of appreciation for accomplishment in quite a different field of endeavor.

After all, these coaches, including SUI's Forest Evashevski and Frank (Bucky) O'Connor, did not solicit these gifts. They too were paid for and presented spontaneously by interested groups.

They probably have not minded a little joking on the subject.

But it seems to us that the joke has been stretched and belabored long enough.

No Baloney Here—

The Hoover commission's task force report on the supply of hamburgers in the army and navy storage is interesting.

Since the navy has only a 60 year supply, it would appear that the brass isn't too sure that this commodity is here to stay. But they are making damn sure that no one will have to eat their hamburger plain. Just to keep the figures nice and even they just bought a gallon of catsup per pound of hamburger. Nothing stingy there.

One has to feel almost sorry for the poor old army on the battle for the hamburger. Even though they were using military spit and polish, they were forced to admit that the navy had gotten the jump on them. In fact they had a half a million pound shortage of the stuff.

The army never did get around to revealing what their ratio of hamburger to catsup was — but they did note sadly that they had only a seven month supply.

The trouble of the services in closing their supply of hamburger is amusing. John Q. Taxpayer will get quite a chuckle. It's likely though, when he gets the bill, he will realize that it is not baloney.

Who's Sorry Now?—

Regardless of what the Soviet Union hopes to accomplish by sending a delegation to Yugoslavia, it will be a strange position for the Russian leaders.

The so-called split between Tito and the Soviet Union occurred in 1948. Actually, it wasn't a split; Tito was literally booted out of the Cominform, the agency for international communism which was then dictatorially controlled by Josef Stalin.

Tito, in fact, tried to make amends; he wanted to stay in the Russian fold. But the Kremlin wanted nothing to do with him, and he, like a true dictator, refused to relinquish his reign on the Yugoslav government.

And now the Soviet leaders apparently would like to patch up their difficulties. They are so anxious to come to terms they are going to Tito, who refused to go to them.

The meeting will mean considerable loss of prestige for the red-faced Reds from the Kremlin. And Tito, with his ego inflated, will be singing, "Who's Sorry Now?"

'Peaceful Co-Existence' Not Near, Envoy Says

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of 12 interviews by Central Press correspondent Mark Leonard with foreign ambassadors to the United States.)

By MARK LEONARD

WASHINGTON — Italy's ambassador to the United States says "peaceful co-existence" with the Communists "does not exist and is not near."

Ambassador Manlio Brosio said that "one should not exchange for peaceful co-existence the mere absence of a shooting war."

Co-existence, he said, if it had to be peaceful, "should imply a serious lifting of the Iron Curtain, a real exchange of news and opinions between the two worlds, a real possibility of gradually nearing the capitalist to the socialist world without fanaticism, fear or subversion."

Manlio Brosio
'Cold War Is Dangerous'

Cold War
The envoy continued, "Things being as they are, we have no hot war and probably won't have any in the near future, but we have a struggle of two systems, one of which tries to subvert and to undermine the other with all means and without any possibility of compromise."

"This is cold war, not co-existence. Cold war is now more dangerous and more difficult to lead than hot war; we need military strength as an indispensable protection in order not to lose it, but we can't win it without an enormous effort of work, creation, patience and imagination."

Asked whether the Communists are gaining strength in Italy the envoy replied:

"Let me answer this way: According to the last local elections in the Aosta valley region and in the trade unions, Communists are losing strength, at least in northern and in central Italy. The question about the south is still open."

Asked whether the Communists are gaining strength in Italy the envoy replied:

"An answer will be given by the next regional elections in Sicily, a very important political test; they will take place in early June this year. You should look at them with attention. Speaking more generally, I think one should not be too pessimistic nor optimistic about the present situation in Italy. Free democracy will certainly be preserved, with watchfulness and determination."

"Certainly we have achieved a very striking economical progress and a considerable amount of governmental stability during the last eight years, but the question is not settled yet."

Ambassador Brosio said it was his impression that the question of whether Italy will join any Balkan alliance in the near future is a "little premature." He pointed out that the Trieste question with Yugoslavia now has been resolved and added, "We are now settling the minor, but important subsequent questions of the free port, of minorities and border movement, of trade and economic relocations, of fishing and so on . . ."

Balkan Alliance

He said that if and when Italy will be asked to join the Balkan alliance, will depend also on "manyfold circumstances." First of all, he said, "this is a matter to be discussed with Turkey and Greece, too; secondly, the whole picture of the central European situation has to be considered, also in view of the recent developments in Austria; third, Yugoslavia itself has to choose and define her final attitude about her political and military co-operation with the west."

"The only thing I can say for sure is that Italy is and will remain sincerely ready to consider sympathetically any suggestion which could contribute to strengthening the defense of the free world in central and southern Europe . . ."

On the question of East-West trade and Italy's trade with the United States, the veteran diplomat emphasized that his country "strictly respects" the international limitations by which East-West trade is governed.

Wants Trade Increased

He stressed that Italy has but one interest insofar as trade with the United States is concerned — to increase such trade, particularly exports.

The envoy explained that "the general balance of payments of his country is in deficit, which has been covered so far only through different forms of American help: lately by off-shore procurements, investments and loans."

He said if Italy has to stand on its own feet she must trade and export more. "Consequently," he added, "we will always support and greet whatever measure the United States will take in order to liberalize its foreign trade."

Conservative Defines Academic Freedom

A book review by LAWRENCE SHERMAN
ACADEMIC FREEDOM; An Essay in Definition—by Russell Kirk
Henty Regnery Company, $3.75

Russell Kirk, champion of the new conservatism, author of "The Conservative Mind" and "A Program for Conservatives," has used this philosophy to analyze a problem that is rather close to home.

His new book is "Academic Freedom," and the stimulus to writing it is the glut of contemporary documents charging that academic freedom is in jeopardy, that silence has been imposed upon the professors. Many of these cries have been elicited by loyalty oaths and the firing of teachers suspected of Communist sympathies.

Kirk agrees that suppression of academic freedom has taken place. He even devotes considerable space to describing a case involving a president of the University of Nevada, and presents his own research into an incident involving Robert Hutchins when he was chancellor of the University of Chicago.

But the real danger to academic freedom, Kirk says, is not suppression from without, but a sleepy aimlessness within the academic walls.

Armed with a powerful wit and enough authorities to sprinkle a new batch on every page, Kirk does exuberant battle with Hutchins, Hook, Commager, Dewey and many others on the aims and purposes of academic freedom and academic life.

Kirk's questions are: What is academic freedom? What is threatening it? How do we protect and conserve it?

The first question is answered by an examination of history, the second by an examination of present educational policies, and the third by an appeal to principles successful in the past. This is the conservative method. Kirk's conclusions in regard to academic freedom can be summarized briefly.

What is academic freedom? By tracing the development of academic institutions, Kirk concludes that just as political freedom exists under common consent to democratic laws, so does academic freedom exist under common consent to the proposition that Truth, in and by itself, is valuable. Both the academy of Athens and the medieval university, says Kirk, sought Truth. The former, instituted by private citizens for their own delight, couldn't escape the pressures of the community. The medieval university, however, was secure in its position and accepted by the community because they were "Bearers of the Word" and both community and academy believed that faith in God was the beginning of wisdom.

Academic freedom, we are told, is not granted by the community or state, nor seized by the academy. It is accepted from a higher authority, Truth. Kirk observes that academic freedom has been more secure when the authority of Truth was sanctioned by a religion with temporal powers. He notes with alarm the decline of religious educational institutions.

What is threatening academic freedom? Academic life, says Kirk, is withering under the influence of the "educational-levelers," who are promoting mass education, not in the name of Truth, but in the name of democracy. Many professors, Kirk says, have knuckled under and allowed themselves to become mere servants in the community's "custodial institutions." Partly through their concern with security and tenure, activity in their high calling has atrophied. The care and teaching of the young, Kirk holds, should be a by-product of academic life, not its main function.

A concern about mass education is no novelty these days. But it is somewhat novel that the problem should be reached through a discussion of academic freedom.

How do we fix it? Mass education like fat, we are led to believe, has weakened many muscles in the academy. Kirk prescribes some setting-up exercises. (1) We ought to encourage faculty senates that have real power in determining education policies. (2) We ought to make sure that administrators are scholars first and administrators second—even if it means loss of efficiency. (3) We should save private institutions even by state aid without attached political authority. (4) We should pay professors what they are worth or nothing at all. (5) At larger institutions we might create a separate "honors program" for students who really want to learn, and let others "play at the Hollywood image of campus life."

But these exercises are useless unless the academy changes its diet and is rededicated to its former purpose, Truth.

"To what truths, then, ought the academy to be dedicated? To the proposition that the end of education is the elevation of the reason of the human person for the human person's own sake . . . that the higher imagination is better than sense triumph . . . that fear of God, and not the mastery over man and nature, is the object of learning . . . that quality is worth more than quantity . . . that justice takes precedence over power . . . that order is more lovable than egoism . . . that to believe all things, if the choice must be made, is nobler than to doubt all things . . . that honor outweighs success . . . that tolerance is wiser than ideology . . . that the unexamined life is not worth living."

In this summary an effort has been made to present Kirk's main conclusions in their simplest logical development. Actually, the book is less straightforward and a lot more entertaining. Wherever Kirk finds complaints of suppression, he joins battle over their philosophy of education. Kirk, obviously and thoroughly, enjoys these skirmishes. When the antagonists become blurred, the reader can pick out warrior Kirk by his white horse and his belief that the academy has no claim to privilege unless it is dedicated to the search for Truth and the perpetuation of ultimate values.

Letter to the Editor— Student Recommends 30-Credit-Hour Loads

(Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses — typewritten signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The Iowan reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. TO THE EDITOR:

At present I am carrying a schedule of 29 credits. For this school year I will have 55 semester credits. Last year and the year before I carried about the same number of hours.

I imagine campus response to the foregoing paragraph is about equally divided into three main groups. First there are the morons who wonder how I can carry such a schedule. Second are the playboys who wonder why I carry such a schedule. Third are the students who wonder how they can get such a schedule. This third group is worthy of further consideration.

Students Limited

During the past generation a great American idea has grown up that a man working a 40-hour week is fully employed. That is the equivalent of a college schedule of 14 hours. With this in mind most colleges have limited their students to a maximum of about 20 hours.

This is ridiculous. Although the students are prevented from carrying a heavier schedule they are not prevented from seeking outside work. Quite a few students are carrying a "full" schedule of 14 or 15 hours.

and working a 40-hour week besides. The result is that wages are driven horribly low.

30 Credits?

Wouldn't it be much better if these students could carry 30 credits one semester and spend the other semester working in Alaska for $3 or more an hour?

The average medical student spends about 80 hours a week at class and study. How many hours could you carry if you worked 80 hours a week at it?

Many people will object to this program on the ground that the student will spend all his time at his studies and will have no time for extra-curricular activities. Supposedly these outside activities have great educational value. Perhaps they do, in high school.

Self-Limiting OK

I do not object to the students who are so inclined limiting their schedule to one course and hanging around for 20 years to get a degree.

After all, we need a few people to run the student government, play football and basketball and edit the campus newspaper.

Others will object on the ground that these hardworking students will make it appear that the rest of the students are only going to college half-time. All I can say is, let's call a spade a spade.

3 Problems

Three of the main problems facing American colleges today are:

1. Delayed entrance of students because of military service.
2. Increased length of college education because of the accumulation of technical data and the greater demand for advanced degrees.
3. Crowding of the colleges with the upcoming crop of war babies.

In light of these problems I believe a speeded-up program should be given very careful consideration. After all, the idea that a B.A. or B.S. degree takes four years is only a paper concept.

Hints for Selecting Gifts for Newlyweds

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles to help brides with their wedding plans.)

Give the newlyweds a bird bath as a wedding gift if you think they'll like it. There are no strict rules today about what to give the wedding couple. And you are not obligated to give a gift just because you were invited and attended.

Silver, china, glassware, linens and small electrical appliances are the most popular presents for the bride. Copper pots and pans and French ovenware are gaining in importance in the American kitchen, and starter sets usually are welcome. Ditto for a trend to wood with salt and pepper grinders, trays and salad bowls on every bride's preferred list.

You should know the bride's silver pattern, however, if you plan to get her silver. She certainly will not want a hodge-podge design whether flatware or holloware. Extra forks and knives always are welcome and easy on the budget.

You can go on to serving spoons, gravy ladle or a couple of demitasse spoons or a whole place setting, depending on your pocketbook. Duplicate pieces always may be exchanged by the bride.

Hints on China

She'll probably have her preferences in china, also, so if you plan to give her a place setting, be sure you find out her heart's desire. It is a good idea not to present odd pieces of china. Brides' gift tables frequently are filled with such useless (in quantity) pieces as cake plates, hors d'oeuvre platters, and coasters. Determine beforehand how your china gift can help add up to something.

Table glassware is a real luxury for most brides at the outset of marriage. But you should find out whether she takes her glassware straight or with design. Even a few goblets should be very appreciated.

Table linens are easier on the imagination. You don't need to match them to anything unless you want to make the effort. You can pick your price range, starting with place mats and napkins to luxurious luncheon and dinner cloths.

Nylon or Percal

Bedroom and bathroom linens are good gifts, too, but most brides have definite ideas on the subject. Some prefer nylon sheets, others percale, still others start at top bracket Irish linen sheets.

Bathroom linens depend on the color scheme unless you give white with white initials.

Electrical appliances such as toasters, broilers, blenders, waffle iron, steam iron, mixers are all fine gifts but be sure to purchase them where there will be no difficulty in making an exchange.

RICE RING

There's no need to bake a rice ring in the oven. Just pack hot drained cooked rice into a buttered ring mold and turn out on your serving plate.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrell D. Mackey, Wapello, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Baila JoAnn, to Lt. Thomas I. Colglazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Colglazier, Wapello.

Ford Pitches 3d Shutout On 7-Hitter

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees were held to four hits, but made the most of Billy Pierce's wildness to beat the Chicago White Sox 1-0 Tuesday night.

Whitey Ford kept seven Sox hits well spaced while gaining his third shutout and fifth victory of the season.

The victory pulled the Yankees to within half a game of the second-place White Sox, who missed a chance to take a share of the American league lead with Cleveland.

It was a duel between the two left handers until the sixth. Then Pierce walked Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra on eight pitches. Berra was out on an attempted double steal that moved Mantle to third. But after Elston Howard walked, Mickey came in with the only run of the game as Eddie Robinson hit into a force-out.

Ford clamped down on Chicago in the eighth as Chico Carrasquel fouled out with runners on second and first. In the ninth, Nellie Fox and Minnie Minozo singled with none out, but Minozo was cut down trying to steal second. George Kell grounded out while Fox held third and Bob Nieman ended it with a foul pop.

Orioles Beat Tigers, 3-2, Behind Palica

BALTIMORE (AP)—Baltimore backed Erv Palica's tight six-hit pitching with four extra base hits, including Billy Cox's second home run of the year, as the Orioles defeated the Detroit Tigers, 3-2, Tuesday night.

Ned Garver allowed the Orioles five hits, but three of the four extra base blows he yielded figured in the Baltimore scoring.

The Tigers socked three triples off Palica but Detroit failed to collect more than one hit in any inning.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alex Kellner, Kansas City left hander, dealt Washington its third shutout in five games, edging Maury McDermott in a mound duel, 1-0, Tuesday night. Kellner scattered eight hits while McDermott yielded six.

A lone base on balls given up by McDermott cost him the decision. He walked Hector Lopez to start the fifth inning, Joe Astroth sacrificed and Kellner singled to left, scoring Lopez.

Still in One Piece

ROCKY MARCIANO, still the heavyweight champion, inspects his nose Tuesday morning. It was undamaged from his fight Monday evening with Don Cockell. His nose was split open by Ezzard Charles in Marciano's last fight before the Cockell encounter and there was some worry among his followers that it might not stand up against Cockell's fists. Marciano said Cockell hit it several times without effect.

Possible Rematch, Rocky's Camp Says

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rocky Marciano brimmed over with praise Tuesday for Don Cockell's "durability" as the heavyweight champ's manager talked about a possible September re-match in London.

Manager Al Weill said Bob Baker or the winner of the June 22 match in New York between light heavy champ Archie Moore and middle-weight king Bobo Olson would be acceptable as a New York opponent. But he insisted he was not committed and was considering a "good proposal" from Jack Solomons, British promoter.

"If the terms is right — and that takes in a lot of territory — I think England is as good as any spot for a rematch," said Weill. "I'm going to be with Jim Norris (president of the International Boxing Club) in New York and we'll decide which is best—New York or London in September."

Braves Beat Giants, 9-4

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves, led by Joe Adcock with four for five, pounded five New York hurlers for 15 hits in a 9-4 triumph which gave them second place in the National league over the Giants. Big Gene Conley allowed nine hits in spearing his fifth win and his second straight over Leo Durrocher's New Yorkers.

The cold weather saw Milwaukee commit three errors for two unearned runs and the Giants two for one unearned run.

Willie Mays hit Conley's first pitch of the fourth inning 375 feet over the left field fence—his eighth of the year—to tie the count at 3-3. But Adcock retaliated by smacking reliever Al Corwin's first loss in the bottom of the fourth over the same fence to give the Braves the lead for good. It was Adcock's third round tripper of the year and made Corwin the loser.

'500' Driver Killed In Practice Run

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Manuel Ayulo, a veteran of auto racing and the nation's No. 2 race car driver last year, died Tuesday of injuries he suffered in a crash at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The 33-year-old driver of Burbank, Calif., rammed into a retaining wall on the southwest turn Monday as he was making a practice run in preparation for this year's Memorial Day 500-mile race. It would have been his sixth race here.

Ayulo, of Peruvian ancestry, began his racing career shortly after World War II. He piled up his points to finish second to Jimmy Bryant of Phoenix, Ariz., in the AAA big car standings last year by winning the 200-mile race at Milwaukee and Darlington, S.C., and placing second in the 100-mile races at Milwaukee and Phoenix.

Iowa Student One of 120 In Auto Race

Wally Ingram, E4, Iowa City, is 1 of 120 sports car owners throughout the country who will be competing in the second annual Iowa City sports car race here at the airport, May 30.

Ingram, the 23-year-old son of Prof. Walter Ingram of the college of medicine, will be driving a 1952 English made MG.

Ingram bought his car, which cost $1,250, during the spring of 1954 when he became a member of the Sports Car club of America. The club must officially approve of all races before any driver in the country may enter.

His Third Race

This will be the third race in which he has competed. "I came in fourth at a race at Wilmot Hills, Wis. I managed to finish in a race at Kansas City," he added jokingly.

"I don't know where I first got the racing bug but I've just always liked it. I think that a sports car is also a very practical thing besides using it in races. I use it for everyday purposes and I also derive an added pleasure from it when I can enter a race," he added.

The Iowa City race should really be a great one because they have some of the top drivers in the country entered in this race, he said.

From 11 States

The event will consist of eight races which will feature 32 different types of cars with drivers from 11 states. Included in the race will be such cars as the 300 SL Mercedes Benz, which cost $8,700. The Mercedes is a German car capable of speeds up to 150 mph.

Ingram felt that his top competition would come from Norm Patton of Woodstock, Ill. Ingram classified Patton as one of the top drivers in the country.

Brooks Stevens, Milwaukee, Wis., is also considered to be one of the top entries in the race. Stevens will drive an "excalibur." There are only three such cars in the country and Stevens designed this one himself.

'Pretty Safe'

"One thing about a race like this," Ingram said, "you know that it is pretty safe. The precautions taken are followed very carefully and during the race we are warned by a system of colored flags just what is going on in front of us."

The event, which is being sponsored by the Iowa City Optimist club, will cost an estimated $10,000. Each driver is required to pay a $10 entry fee but this goes to the Sports Car club of America. The Optimists intend to use all the proceeds that are received to help replace equipment lost in the Community Center fire.

Tickets for adults are $1.50 and for children, 50 cents. All tickets must be purchased at the airport May 30.

Frick Hires Study Group For Baseball

NEW YORK (AP)—Commissioner Ford Frick made it known Tuesday he has hired a group of experienced analysts to make a thorough survey of baseball's current problems for the purpose of "keeping up with the times and getting our house in order."

The assignment given the research firm, the Stephen Fitzgerald company, is to "get the facts" concerning such problems as radio-television, major-minor league relations, feasibility of expansion, falling game attendance, unpopular legislation, relations between front office and player and front office and press.

"There has been a lot of loose talk regarding what effect radio-TV has had on baseball attendance, both in the majors and minors," Frick said. "There has been all sorts of guesswork regarding the length of the games. Do the fans prefer shorter games? What effect do longer games have on attendance? What about television? How much does it hurt attendance, if any? 'Nobody really knows the answers. Everybody has an idea but it's all guesswork. Now for the first time we are making a concentrated effort to get the facts so we can establish policy."

Frick said the survey will begin next week and probably take all season to complete. He added, however, he expected a preliminary report which will be made available to the club owners for their league meetings in July.

10-3 Victory By Sox Ends Tribe Streak

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox, after 11 straight losses to Cleveland last season, ended the Tribe's mastery in Fenway park Tuesday by blasting the American league leaders for a 10-3 victory.

The victory was the fourth for the Red Sox over the Indians in their last 23 decisions over a two-year period. The Indians won 20 of 22 last season and had taken three straight earlier this season in Cleveland.

The Red Sox combined power and timely hits off five Cleveland pitchers and were aided greatly by a porous Tribe defense. Four of the Boston runs were unearned.

The Indians were weakened by the loss of three regular infielders.

Third baseman Al Rosen is sidelined by a pulled leg muscle, second baseman Bobby Avila has a foot ailment and shortstop George Strickland is in a Washington hospital with an infection.

The Indians spotted the Sox a run in the third inning, then took a 3-1 lead in the fifth.

Boston bounced back in that same inning with four runs after two were out. And in the eighth, Boston rang up five runs.

WON ALL TWINBILLS

One of the reasons for the success of the New York Giants in 1954 was the fact that they did not lose a doubleheader during the entire season.

Cards' Jackson Stops Bums for 4th in Row

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Rookie right-hander Larry Jackson of the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers Tuesday night on 10 hits, 3-0, scoring the Redbirds' fourth straight victory on the strength of home runs by Red Schoendienst and Ken Boyer.

Jackson, 23-year-old Idahoan, held the Dodgers hitless in only one inning, but walked just one batter as he continued a string of sensational St. Louis pitching that has permitted the opposition just one run the last four games.

Victim in this pitching duel before a crowd of 23,067 was Carl Erskine, little Dodger ace who suffered his first 1955 defeat against five victories, a result of Schoendienst's fifth-inning homer into the screenless right field pavilion. Erskine yielded five hits in six frames.

Pee Wee Reese paced the Brooklyn attack with three singles.

Prep Team Leads, 3-1, Then Scores 29 Runs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Springfield and Cathedral went into the seventh and final inning of an Illinois High School District Playoff game Tuesday with Springfield leading its city rival, 3-1.

Springfield then scored 29 runs on 16 hits, 7 walks, 3 hit batsmen and seven errors for a 32-1 triumph.

Nuxhall Leads Reds, 9-2, Over Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI (AP)—Southpaw Joe Nuxhall, who also hit a three-run double, Tuesday night dumped Pittsburgh, 9-2, to boost the Cincinnati Redlegs into sixth place. Big Ted Kluszewski hit his ninth homer of the season.

Nuxhall's four-hit shutout was blasted in the sixth inning when Pittsburgh's Jack Shepard doubled to the scoreboard, bringing in Frank Thomas, who had bunted after Dick Groat walked.

The Reds snatched an early lead in the second when Nuxhall whacked a double to left center, scoring three. Big Klu smashed the first pitch of the third inning into the right field bleachers to score his ninth homer of the season. Kluszewski also scored on a wild pitch in the sixth.

The win was Nuxhall's fourth straight this season and second over the Pittsburgh club. Nuxhall's record is 4-2. Bob Purkey was charged with the loss, giving him a 2-3 standing.

Air Force Criticized For Building 'Waste'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic Sens. Dennis Chavez (NM) and A. Willis Robertson (Va.) accused the air force Tuesday of "wasting" millions of dollars in its construction program outside the United States.

Recalling the wastage uncovered by congress after the building of North African bases during the Korean war, the senators said they "could forgive the air force one mistake" made in a rush program but that they did not expect the errors to be repeated.

Air force officials were confronted with the charges when they appeared before a senate appropriations subcommittee to explain requests for nearly $13 billion in their budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Wishes Talbot Could Hear

Chavez, subcommittee chairman, expressed regret that Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbot was not present to hear the criticism.

Asst. Secretary Lyle S. Garlock, who appeared surprised by the charges, said Talbot would appear later to reply to them. He added the air force had improved its efficiency and financial management greatly since 1952.

"We still have waste and inefficiency," Chavez declared.

Says $10-$15 Million Wasted—He said an example was a report to the subcommittee that between $10 and $15 million had been wasted on air force construction in the United Kingdom by "needless repetition of planning."

"Much greater sums have been wasted in trying to execute these imperfect plans," he added. "Structures have been built without utilities to support them; buildings have been built for which no specific requirement exists; buildings have been built that are much larger than required; and buildings have been built which are nonoperational because they will not accommodate the equipment which was intended to be installed in them."

Nolan, Wood Argue Bricker Amendment

Two prominent Iowa Republicans, state senator D. C. Nolan, Iowa City, and District Judge Blair C. Wood, Waterloo, debated the merits of the proposed Bricker amendment to the Constitution of the United States in Shambaugh auditorium Tuesday evening.

Nolan and Wood disagreed sharply upon the wisdom of the adoption of the amendment which aims at regulating the president's treaty and executive agreement making powers with foreign powers or international organizations.

In support of the amendment Nolan contended that the measure is designed only to safeguard the Constitutional rights and privileges granted citizens of this country in the 10th amendment to the Constitution by safeguarding states rights.

"Unnecessary Measure"—Opposing the amendment, Wood called it an unnecessary measure which would make our system of government impossibly cumbersome and reverse the historical division of powers established by our Constitution.

Wood asserted that according to historical precedent and supreme court decisions in the past treaties and executive agreements do not supercede the Constitution. These powers as all others of our government are derived from the Constitution and therefore cannot be in violation of it, he said.

The constitution has served us well the way it is for over 150 years, Wood said, and we should have faith in its being able to continue to do so.

Have'n't Read Minutes'

"Perhaps the trouble with some people is that they have not read the minutes of the past meeting," Wood said. The Bricker amendment would take us back to the days of the Articles of Confederation; it didn't work then and it won't work now, Wood asserted.

Wood said those people who wish to reduce the president's power in foreign affairs "are not so much in error in their interpretation of the law as in their interpretation of the future of this country."

"Many colonies refused to sign the constitution until 10 years after it was framed," Nolan retorted, and unless we take adequate steps to prevent any future executive encroachment the fruits of their reluctance may be lost."

SUI Publishes Daykin Booklet

Prof. Walter L. Daykin, of the SUI labor economics department, is the author of a booklet "Free Speech Rights of Management" published this week by the SUI bureau of labor and management.

Drawing conclusions from 140 National Labor Relations Board decisions of the past two years, Daykin concludes that the Board tends to grant more freedom to employers to use anti-union speeches and to question employees about their union activities in order to keep unions out of their plants.

The real test of the legality of anti-union speeches and questionings appears to be whether or not they actually restrain or interfere with the employee's right of self-organization, Daykin observes from the board's recent rulings.

"Some contend that the old board (before 1952) was too rigid in its administration of the free speech rights of the employer and that there was nothing illegal about the questioning of employees by supervisors if such interrogation was done in a joking manner or if it was based upon curiosity," the SUI labor economist reports.

Navy Tests Underwater Atomic Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect that any atomic war will be fought partly in the dark depths of the oceans was underlined Tuesday with word that the navy has successfully tested a small nuclear device somewhere in the Pacific.

The underwater test presumably occurred some hundreds of miles off the west coast of the United States. Officials have indicated it was part of a drive to perfect methods of "killing" submarines with the power of the atom.

New Dimension
The advent of a new dimension of atomic warfare was signaled in a joint announcement from the Defense department and the Atomic Energy Commission:

"The underwater explosion of a small nuclear device in the eastern Pacific ocean has been successfully completed."

The explosion took place against the background of reports that Russia has built up a fleet of about 375 U-boats.

Tuesday's report said that "no further announcement will be made concerning the military results of the experiment."

There was no pinpointing of just when or where the explosion took place.

Recalls Bikini Test
The depth at which the explosion was timed to go off presumably was that at which submarines engage in evasive tactics, 200-500 feet or more.

The United States set off an underwater atomic bomb at Bikini atoll in 1946, one with the force of 20,000 tons of TNT, but that was at a depth of only 40 feet.

The current test was conducted by a task force headed by Rear Adm. Charles B. Momsen.

HAZARDOUS PARKING

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Most of the time, a nickel in a parking meter gives parking time. But when Mrs. Joanne Wense, 21, put a nickel in one recently, it toppled over, whacked her in the ankle for a hospital-grade injury and ripped one of her nylon stockings. By the time she got back from the hospital, she needed another nickel for the meter, fixed by city employees.

Group OK's Fund Hike For Sioux City Airport

WASHINGTON (AP) — The house armed services committee Tuesday tentatively increased the proposed appropriation for the Sioux City, Iowa, municipal airport from $290,000 to $343,000.

The group was considering a $2 billion military public works bill. The entire bill will be reconsidered after the committee completes separate consideration of the projects. The Sioux City item is among air force projects.

It contemplates new lighting, mess hall improvements and additional airfield paving. The airport is used as an air force base.

Police Too Lenient With Legislators, Recruits Are Told

Police tend to be more lenient toward legislators than the law requires, members of the Police Recruit School were told here Tuesday.

Prof. Frank R. Kennedy of the SUI college of law pointed out that law enforcement officers may overestimate legislator's privileges during and in transit to and from their lawmaking sessions.

The constitutional immunity of legislators applies only to police and court action in civil cases. A lawmaker may be arrested for treason, felony and breach of the peace, Kennedy explained.

"And a legislator doesn't have to start a riot to breach the peace," he continued. If his actions can be interpreted as injurious to public safety—speeding, disregarding stop signals, even illegal parking in such a fashion as to create traffic hazards—he is then outside his circle of immunity and liable for arrest, the SUI specialist in constitutional law observed.

The class of 21 young policemen from 11 Iowa cities will graduate from their two-weeks school Saturday.

High School Youth Invents 'Atomic' Tube

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — A high school senior may have scored an important victory in the realm of atomic power for peaceful use.

He has come up with a design for a tiny self-powered electronic tube. For its energy source, it would use built-in radioactive material from the atomic trash-pile. It would step up, correct or switch a signal or a sound. The inventor says it should last at least 10 years on its small fuel supply. It would operate with no appreciable amount of heat.

For his work in the new field that is challenging leaders in nuclear energy and electronics, Ralph D. Raymond, 18, has been given honorary membership in the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Last week at Harrisonburg, the Virginia Academy of Science picked him as a science talent search winner, assuring him a top college scholarship. His report to the Virginia academy produced a few unscientific whistles of amazement from several senior experts.

Raymond, a slender, scholarly-looking boy who speaks with a decided French accent, was quietly pleased at the honors. But he said he is keeping his fingers crossed, pending the outcome of his application for a patent on the tube. He said three examiners in the U.S. patent office have assured him his device is patentable and practicable.

The Washington and Lee High school senior's idea for the tube came from an atomic battery announced by RCA last year.

Army Shows Public Guided Missile Site

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army displayed to the public Tuesday a unit of its system of "back-yard" defenses against enemy bombers, the Nike anti-aircraft guided missile battery.

The battery, typical of others now in place around at least 15 northern and coastal cities, is located on farm land at Lorton, W. Va., 16 miles south of here.

Newsmen were shown a set-up consisting of two sites.

One is the control point from which three radar systems locate approaching bombers, "lock onto" the aircraft and fire the target-seeking missiles. The other is the launching site composed of 12 ramps.

What can the Nike do against enemy planes?

Brig. Gen. R. R. Hendrix, commander of the 2nd anti-aircraft region, says the weapon has a tremendous kill potential. "It is capable of outmaneuvering and destroying any type of aircraft presently known and foreseeable for the immediate future," he said.

TV Production Course Slated Here in August

The third annual educational television production workshop, sponsored by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, will be held at SUI Aug. 14-Sept. 3, NAEB President Frank M. Schoole of the University of Illinois announced Tuesday.

Prof. John Ross Winnie, in charge of SUI television production, said that the object of the workshop will be to improve television production skills and techniques. While the major emphasis of the workshop will be on production, the areas of writing for educational television and use of kinescope recording will also be stressed, Winnie said.

Thirty representatives from various educational institutions and educational television stations are expected to take part in the workshop, according to Winnie.

Honored by Phi Delta Kappa

Greene, Miller Honored by SUI Education Group

Prof. Harry A. Greene, of the SUI education department, was honored with emeritus membership in the Phi Delta Kappa education fraternity at a Tuesday night dinner meeting held in Reich's cafe.

Prof. Greene, a member of the SUI college of education staff since 1919, plans to take a leave of absence before retiring. He has been a member of the Epsilon chapter of Phi Delta Kappa for 39 years.

Earl A. Miller, of Hudson, a member of the Iowa house of representatives, was awarded the Phi Delta Kappa service key at the meeting, for contributions in the field of education.

A member of Phi Delta Kappa since 1930, Miller has taught school in Iowa and Minnesota and has been chairman of the schools committee in the Iowa house for the past three sessions.

Prof. Greene is the third former SUI professor to be honored with emeritus membership in Phi Delta Kappa. The others are Prof. Emeritus Forest Ensign, and Prof. Emeritus Ernest Horn.

Ike, Dulles—

they possessed some years ago. The President was prompted to this comment when Dulles warned that there is a danger in Big Four meetings of the kind in which Mr. Eisenhower may join some time in the summer.

Danger in High Hopes
The greatest danger, he said, is that the hopes of people in this country and abroad "may be raised so high they cannot be realized." That, he went on, could be followed by "open disillusionment and dismay, then a feeling that the only alternative is war."

But Mr. Eisenhower broke in to say "I don't believe that danger (of such dismay) is as great as it was one time." He said his mail and the comments which he had read in the newspapers had led him to believe that there was "greater maturity" than once existed in this country.

Dulles said the recent agreement putting Germany side by side with France and other nations in the Western defense community has given Western civilization "a new lease on life."

It was "a hard battle," he said, because "the Soviet Union went all out with all it had" to prevent ratification of the treaties for rearming West Germany.

Russian Youth—

boys of Moscow Public School 355 had ambushed and beaten his son after his daughter informed on the school's "hooligans."

'Not the First Case'

Komsomol Pravda reported that these hooligans "acted with impunity" and complained this was not the first instance of such gangsterism in Soviet public schools. It observed: "We are forced to say that cases of beatings up of Komsomol (Communist Youth league) and Pioneer (Child Communist league) members have occurred before. But no decisive measures have been taken. . . . In an atmosphere of permanent threats, hooligans do whatever they want with impunity."

Known by Western Names

Leningrad Pravda complained of idle youngsters who call themselves by such Western names as Jane and John and who wangle big cars out of Daddy. Leningrad's official Communist paper told of one "John" who thought he was "Rockefeller Jr."

John Karanazov Jr. nagged his father into buying him a Zim—the Soviet copy of the American Buick. It takes years for an ordinary Soviet citizen to work to the top of the list for the cheapest car, so Karanazov Sr. must have been high in Soviet rank.

Neither Works Nor Studies

John's real name is Georgi, the story continued. "Although this so-called John claims he is a student, he neither works nor studies. He imitates characters of trashy American movies which sometimes penetrate our screens. . . ."

The only U.S. films shown to the general Soviet public since the war have been old ones captured in Berlin.

No Films About U.S. Gangsters

These were carefully chosen—mostly historical, costume productions—nothing about gangsters or decadent high life.

"John likes the easy life. . . . When he needed money for himself and his drinking companions, he drove through the streets in his Zim, picking up taxi fares. . . . The viruses of this disease, brought to our country on foreign winds, find their individual victims among our educated youth."

Will Replace School Nuns At Cosgrove

COSGROVE — Five nuns will be replaced as teachers in this Johnson county town's elementary school, the school board has decided.

The decision came after the state department of public instruction threatened to halt state aid payments, Board President James J. Meade said Tuesday.

The state said that the school was not operating according to public school standards by employing the nuns, Meade said.

The Cosgrove district last year received $6,000 in school aid. The district's budget was about $63,000.

The Cosgrove district is composed of Hardin township and part of Clear Creek and Union townships. It is predominantly Catholic.

Members of the Sisters of Humility have taught at the Cosgrove school since it was opened as a Catholic institution 50 years ago.

The school facilities were turned over to the Cosgrove consolidated district in 1920, but the nuns continued to teach the elementary grades.

The nuns wore their religious garb while teaching, but removed their crucifixes before entering the building. They were paid salaries, which they turned over to their order.

The right of the nuns to teach in the school was challenged by suits filed in the Johnson county district court in 1937. The suits dragged on through several counter-suits, appeals and interventions before they were dropped in 1939.

The five nuns and one lay teacher are handling 165 elementary school pupils at present.

This 'Moonshine' Came Through The Ceiling

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Passing pedestrians stared suspiciously Tuesday at the Coral Gables police station. The place smelled like a distillery.

And no wonder. Inside, Sgt. F. F. B. Joke said it was virtually raining moonshine liquor.

Investigation disclosed that moonshine in a five-gallon can stored in the attic had eaten through its metal container and was leaking through the plaster.

Police hurriedly removed the leaking can and 50 other gallons of evidence before the stuff could eat holes in the ceiling.
