Strikes Force GM To Close 20 Plants

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. said Thursday it will close 20 plants across the nation today idling 60,000 workers. Parts shortages from wildcat union strikes protesting delay in GM contract negotiations was given as the reason.

GM's announcement came as talks with the CIO United Auto Workers continued on a hopeful note that an agreement could be worked out to beat a Sunday midnight strike deadline.

GM was reported preparing to hand UAW President Walter Reuther and the union negotiators an offer patterned after Monday's Ford settlement, but both sides maintained a strict silence.

The wildcat strikes erupted earlier this week in a half dozen or more GM plants as the UAW extended its contract from Tuesday to Sunday midnight. Strikers were reported confused about the postponement and trigger-happy for a walkout because of slow progress in the Detroit bargaining.

It was indicated, however, that GM's delay in making an offer was primarily due to preparing its position in the light of the Ford agreement, which provides a modified guaranteed wage, plus pay pensions and other concessions.

The scattered strikes were subsiding Thursday in the face of Reuther's warning that they were "sabotaging" the contract negotiations. They resulted in a parts shortage and otherwise unbalancing of the delicately integrated vast GM productive system.

GM estimated it will lose production of 20,000 cars and trucks this week.

Germans, Reds Will Meet In 'Near Future'

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is willing to talk with the Soviet Union's leaders, but not for several weeks and not necessarily in Moscow, a government spokesman said Wednesday.

There must first be a low-level exchange of views to determine the "appropriate circumstances," the spokesman said.

Talk with Ike First

This apparently rules out any possibility that Adenauer will reply to the Kremlin until after he talks with President Eisenhower and other Western leaders in Washington and New York next week. He is to leave for the United States Sunday.

Government officials said Adenauer does not want to fall into any trap that would perpetuate the Russian grip on East Germany. Nor does he want to get out of step with his Western allies and lay himself open to a charge of disloyally playing off East against West, they said.

Might Meet at Geneva

Official reports said the Bonn government is exploring the idea Adenauer might meet the Russians at the Big Four summit conference which the United States, Britain and France have proposed be held in Geneva July 18-21. There is also a possibility a West German parliamentary delegation might be sent to Moscow for preliminary talks.

Heinrich Von Brentano, who took over the Bonn foreign office from Adenauer Wednesday, told an interviewer that West Germany would remain faithful to the Western alliance in any discussions with Russia. He pledged that Paris pacts making her an armed member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would be strictly observed.

Confident Air As Elizabeth Opens Session

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth opened a new parliament Thursday with a confident prediction of "fruitful negotiations" with Russia and a pledge that Britain will press ahead in search of a Formosa peace.

The young monarch, looking radiant in white gown and glittering diamond tiara, delivered her traditional speech from the throne in the ancient gilded House of Lords.

Assembled before her were the newly elected members of the House of Commons, headed by Conservative Prime Minister Anthony Eden, and peers of the realm robed in scarlet and ermine.

But some of the old pomp was dispensed with because of the railroad strike gripping the nation. Elizabeth drove to Parliament in a car instead of a horse-drawn processions that would have tied up traffic in London's congested streets.

Elizabeth summoned parliament five days early to approve the state of national emergency proclaimed to deal with what she called "the grave situation" created by the strike.

The speech was written for the Queen by Eden and members of his government.

Later, in welcoming the Queen's address, Eden told the House of Commons he believes Russia will have no objection to the Western Big Three's suggestion for a heads of state meeting in Geneva July 18-21.

Eden Mishandling Strike, Attlee Says

LONDON (AP) — Labor Leader Clement Attlee accused Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden Thursday of mishandling the nationwide railway strike and said his policy could worsen Britain's industrial crisis. Eden angrily denied the charges.

To the cheers of his supporters, the 72-year-old Socialist chieftain said Eden "perhaps inadvertently put forward a new doctrine in a radio broadcast last Sunday that no negotiations can take place without a return of the strikers to work."

He seized his first big opportunity to attack the Conservative government's handling of the crippling strike by 67,000 enginemen since the Conservative's decisive victory over the Labor party at the polls May 26. Eden struck back immediately:

"I do not think Mr. Attlee has given an accurate account of the broadcast. It was never in my mind that there should be no discussions or conversations of any sort before work was resumed, and they are in fact at this moment going on."

Rotary Honors Kerr

PROF. H. DABNEY KERR, left, retiring head of the SUI radiology department, receives the gift of a life-jacket at a Rotary club meeting Thursday. Kerr, a boating enthusiast, is retiring this summer after serving 25 years as department head. He also received an honorary membership in the Iowa City Rotary club, of which he has been a member for more than 20 years. John Piper, Rotary club president, makes the presentation.

Jurisdiction Dispute Halts Viaduct Talks

By KIRK BOYD

The Iowa state commerce commission's hearing on the Dodge street viaduct Thursday was cut short by a jurisdictional dispute.

A. B. Howland, attorney for the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co., claimed in his opening statement that the matter may not be within the commission's jurisdiction.

Carl W. Reed, commission chairman, ordered lawyers for the railroad and Iowa City to file briefs on the jurisdiction before July 1.

Commission Ruling

The commission will then rule on whether or not to continue the hearings, Reed said.

The three-man commission decided, however, to hear part of the city's case Thursday before postponing the hearings.

The city of Iowa City petitioned the commission earlier this year to direct the railroad to share the cost of building a new Dodge street viaduct.

The railroad claims that the present viaduct, which was built in 1899, can be repaired.

Witnesses

Edward Lucas, Iowa City attorney, brought in witnesses to show that a new viaduct is needed if city traffic is to be rerouted around the business district.

Lucas claimed in his opening statement that the present 22-foot viaduct roadway would be inadequate for increased traffic.

George Barton, owner of the Associated Consultants of Evanston, Ill., told the commission of his recommendations in a traffic report on Iowa City that Dodge street be developed to re-route highway 261 traffic around the business district.

6,500 Cars

He estimated that about 6,500 cars would be passing over the Dodge street viaduct within the next 10 years if southeastern Iowa City continues to grow. About 2,800 cars now pass over the viaduct daily, Barton said.

He said that traffic over the bridge has increased from 11 to 17 per cent during the past 12 months.

Barton said that the construction of a toll road north of Iowa City would increase north-south traffic going on and off the road.

Growth to the South

L. R. Beals, assistant to the city engineer, testified to the increasing number of building permits being taken out on lots south of the railroad.

Prof. Ned Ashton of the SUI college of engineering told the commission that the viaduct is "unsafe for further use."

He said the structure could be made safe by extensive repairs, but added that "piece-by-piece restoring would not be economical."

Jurisdictional Dispute

Howland said that a section of the Iowa code stating that the railroad shall be responsible for viaducts in no more than every fourth blocks may take the dispute out of the commission's jurisdiction. Dodge street is three blocks from the Summit street viaduct.

Howland also claimed that (1) the bridge has 25 to 30 more years of use left in it and (2) the city's plans calling for a clearance of 18 feet do not meet with the commission's rule requiring clearances of at least 22 feet.

Receive Pharmacy Awards

Ladd Tells City High Grads of Hope

Dean Mason Ladd of the SUI college of law Thursday night injected a note of hope into the thoughts of 176 graduating seniors of Iowa City high school.

"As constant as the tensions and the many shifts in international life have been, there is still hope for the future," Ladd assured the record graduating class.

"To evaluate the unhappy experiences in Europe and Asia we must think of what conditions might have been if America had withdrawn to isolation after the war," he said.

"We are a part of the world and must continue to exercise our influence for the freedom of peoples and for security in international life."

Ladd said the United Nations has not achieved all that might be desired, but expressed hope that it would continue to ease the international situation.

"The Communists have first tried to scare the world to death," Ladd warned the graduates, "and now they seek to win it with sweet words.

"We must be ever watchful," he continued, "but continue to have hope of friendly relations with all nations of the world."

Ladd advised the students that although there is much opportunity in a competitive society, it will require constant action to make the most of it.

"The past could have been worse," he concluded, "and the future can be brighter."

Corey's Talk: 'The Dynamics Of Freedom'

Arthur Fisher Corey, today's SUI commencement speaker, may prove to be one of the most popular in the history of the June ceremonies.

He has wired SUI officials that his talk will run about 20 minutes.

The title of his talk will be "The Dynamics of Freedom." He has said that it will discuss the extremist of both the left and right.

Contact

Corey has had close contact with a fight for academic freedom in recent years.

He is state executive secretary of the California Teacher's association, which has waged a running battle the past seven years against anti-Communist oath laws for California teachers.

Corey has been with the association since 1937 when he was hired as public relations director of the group's southern section.

Experience

He became executive secretary of the association in 1942.

He has been connected with education since 1924, when he started as a teacher in the Garden Grove, Calif., schools.

He has served as school principal and school superintendent and on the staff of the Washington, D.C. office of education.

Reds OK July 18 for Big 4 Talks

PARIS (AP) — Russia has no basic objection to beginning a Big Four top level meeting on July 18 at Geneva, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov told French leaders Thursday.

The same report was given by Prime Minister Eden to the house of commons in London.

An informed French source said Molotov told Premier Edgar Faure and Antoine Pinay, French foreign minister, at lunch here Thursday his government is not objecting to the place and date proposed by the Western powers for the Big Four meeting.

UN 10th Anniversary

Molotov stopped over in Paris briefly on his way to San Francisco for the UN 10th anniversary session.

After his Russian guest had departed for Cherbourg to board the liner Queen Elizabeth for New York, Faure told a news conference Molotov also had suggested that he and Pinay might visit Moscow.

'Tourism, Not Diplomacy'

This was not a formal invitation, Faure explained, but "more on the side of tourism than diplomacy."

It was the French Premier's first meeting with Molotov. But, he said, there was "nothing precise, nothing sensational" about their conversation.

Nehru Praises Reds

Meanwhile, Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin expressed hope Thursday night that the joint efforts of Russia and India can "ease the tension off the east coast of China" near Formosa.

Indian Prime Minister Nehru, responding, praised the Soviet Union for "its great steps . . . for peace."

The two premiers spoke at a Kremlin dinner honoring Nehru, in Moscow on a state visit.

"Everyone knows the leadership exercised by Mr. Nehru in the cause of peace," said Bulganin.

CANNONBALL FIND

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—John H. Hitchcock dialed the police. "That's right, a cannonball," he repeated. Hitchcock could have become a 1955 Civil War casualty. He plowed up the relic of the 1860's on his farm. The police forwarded it to the navy's bomb disposal team at Yorktown. The procedure isn't unusual here. If the cannonballs aren't loaded the owners get them back.

Corey To Deliver Commencement Talk

Arthur F. Corey, state executive secretary of the California Teachers association, will deliver the commencement address to 942 SUI graduates at 9:30 this morning in the Iowa field house.

About 90 air force and army ROTC cadets will receive their commissions in ceremonies at 8 a.m. in the north gymnasium.

Prof. Orville Hitchcock of the SUI speech department will describe the ceremonies over radio station WSUI.

Charge

President Virgil M. Hancher will deliver the charge to the candidates after conferring awards, honors, degrees and advanced degrees.

Prof. Robert S. Michaelsen, director of the SUI school of religion, will give the invocation.

This year's graduating class of 942 is 36 less than the 1954 class of 978.

Record

The record graduation figure was set in 1950, when World War II veterans swelled the ranks to 1,950.

Today's graduates represent 93 of Iowa's 99 counties, 40 states, Hawaii and 15 foreign nations.

The 942 degrees being awarded include:

Doctor of philosophy 56, M.D. degrees 107, doctor of dental surgery 46, law 29, master of arts 159, engineering 34, Bachelor of liberal arts 347, pharmacy 30, commerce 122, and nursing 12.

About 5,000 alumni are expected to attend SUI Alumni Reunion weekend events today and Saturday.

Saturday

Although Saturday is designated as Alumni day, some of the banquets and parties will be held today. Dinners for medical alumni, the SUI Emeritus club and the general alumni will be held at 6:30 p.m.

One of the features of Saturday's Alumni day program will be the color-televised dental operation to be held in the Dental building.

The operation will take place in an operating room in the Dental building. It will be shown on a closed television circuit in the Dental building auditorium.

It will mark the first occasion on which SUI has used color television in teaching.

The political science department used black-and-white television for a class in foreign governments during the spring semester.

Reunions

Three graduating classes will hold their reunions Saturday.

The class of 1905 will hold its golden jubilee dinner at 6:30 p.m. in the River room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The class of 1930 will hold its silver jubilee dinner at 12:30 p.m. in the River room of the Union. The class of 1945 will have its reunion at 12:30 p.m. in the west dining room of Currier hall.

List of Events

Thousands of alumni are expected to attend SUI Alumni Reunion events here today and Saturday.

The schedule of events on the two-day program include:

FRIDAY

8 a.m.—commissioning of air force and army ROTC graduates, north gymnasium.

8 a.m.—registration for all SUI alumni, Iowa Memorial Union.

9:30 a.m. — graduation ceremonies, Iowa field house.

12 noon—medical lawn party for college of medicine students, faculty and alumni in front of medical laboratories.

12:30 p.m.—registration of college of medicine alumni at SUI general hospital.

2:30 p.m.—professional medical sessions, medical amphitheater, University hospitals.

6:30 p.m.—all-medical alumni dinner, Iowa City Elks club.

6:30 p.m.—SUI Emeritus club dinner, south dining room, Currier hall.

6:30 p.m.—all-alumni buffet supper, north dining room, Currier hall.

SATURDAY

9 a.m.—college of nursing coffee hour, Westlawn.

9:30 a.m.—SUI alumni association meeting, Old Capitol.

9:30 a.m.—professional medical session, medical amphitheater, University hospitals.

10 a.m.—school of journalism coffee hour, Communications Center.

12:30 p.m. — silver jubilee luncheon, class of 1930, River room, Iowa Memorial Union.

12:30 p.m.—class of 1945 reunion luncheon, west dining room, Currier hall.

2:30 p.m.—televised dental operation, dental building auditorium.

3 p.m.—all-alumni coffee hour, main lounge, Iowa Memorial Union.

6:30 p.m.—golden jubilee dinner, class of 1905, River room, Iowa Memorial Union.

Fear 19 Dead In Ship Collision

RAMSGATE, England (AP) — A Swedish tanker erupted in a towering mass of flames early Thursday in the English channel after a collision with a Panamanian freighter.

Nineteen seamen from the 10,788-ton Johannishus were missing and feared dead in the blazing, oil-covered waters. One body was recovered. Rescue vessels brought 23 survivors to ports on the British side of the channel. A Ramsgate lifeboat messaged there was no possibility of further survivors.

The freighter, the 7,256-ton Buccaneer, reached a repair yard at Schiedam in the Netherlands Thursday afternoon. She had a large hole in her hull and was blackened by flames, but there were no casualties among her crew members.

43 Polio Cases Reported for Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health service Thursday reported 43 new cases of confirmed polio over the past week among family and other contacts of persons given Salk vaccine.

That brought the total of contact cases to 103.

The list of confirmed cases among those actually receiving vaccine arose to 142, an increase of eight cases since Tuesday and an increase of 26 for the past week.

About six million children have been vaccinated.

Steel Wage Talks Recessed Friendly

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Giant U.S. Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp. recessed wage talks Thursday with the CIO United Steel Workers. Two more major producers opened negotiations.

John A. Stephens, U.S. Steel vice president, said at a news conference "Everything has been fine. We have had a cooperative understanding relationship."

David J. McDonald, USW president, led union negotiators in initial sessions with Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co.

Prof. Bargebuhr Gets Grant To Finish Work

Prof. Frederick P. Bargebuhr said Thursday that he has received a grant from the American Philosophical society for completion of his work on philosophical, religious and heretical movements among the Jews in Islamic Spain.

Bargebuhr plans to leave for Spain, where he will spend the summer, June 20. This is the third grant he has received from the group for his study.

Today Is the Day—

Well, graduates, today is the day.

The majority of you will be leaving SUI student life behind to go out into "the cold cruel world" to live as useful and constructive citizens. Homes, jobs and families will replace the parties, classes and dormitory life.

You have all been told how it is your duty and responsibility to save our nation and our way of life. In fact you have been told this until you are passing it off lightly.

But trite as this may seem, that is your very responsibility. And as graduates of SUI you join a large group whose ability to "do something about things" in our government and our economy is potentially the greatest in our country.

If college has taught you to retain an awareness of issues around you and has ingrained in you a habit of keeping an open mind, it will have been well worth your time here.

"No more teachers, no more books . . ." is the refrain of an old schoolday ditty. But we sincerely hope that your diploma will not signify the end of your studies.

True — you will no longer attend lectures and carefully transcribe the notes of professors for future reference. You will no longer refer to yourselves as students.

In place of professors, you will learn from your newspapers and periodicals, from your favorite authors and commentators and from your business and social companions. All of these sources will be offering you all kinds of information. It is up to you to pick out sound ideas and reject the rest.

You will meet the pious and the bigoted, the optimists and the pessimists, the radicals and the conservatives, the pro-this and anti-thats and the staunch "middle of the roaders." Your attitudes will be moulded by all of these people. We hope you choose wisely.

Graduates are leaving SUI with promising world prospects in view. Unlike graduates of most of the other Junes in the past decade, this year there are no shooting wars going on anywhere in the world. Though the cold war continues, Russian tactics indicate that there is a desire on their part for a truce for several years while they rebuild their industrial and agricultural productions.

Organized labor is in the process of fighting for a guaranteed annual wage in the auto industry. They have received partial success in their quest already. Their success will spearhead an era of better living standards for labor.

The world of medicine is offering the promise of life with less pain and sickness. Dr. Salk's contribution has offered the graduating medical students their latest powerful weapon in the fight against polio.

New technology and new industries will challenge the abilities of our graduating engineers, chemists and industrial managers.

In fact, the prospect for this year's June graduate looks very bright. Though it may sound trite after many repetitions, there is a great challenge and opportunity awaiting the graduate after leaving SUI. To borrow a phrase from freshman orientation speeches — it is up to you.

We wish you luck.

Parties Woo the Women—

Both parties are stepping up their activities to woo the ever increasing women's vote for the coming elections in 1956. This political chivalry is based on some very practical statistics, because potentially women voters now outnumber the men by about two million.

A recent poll showed that women supplied 52 per cent of the vote that elected President Eisenhower in 1952; another study indicates that women's votes increased 39 per cent between 1948 and 1952. During that time votes by men increased only 16 per cent.

No doubt the Republican party will bank heavily on its claim that it kept the country out of war, when election time comes. Another claim that the party in power may publicize is the continuing cut in the draft, and efforts to stabilize the cost of living. All these issues are of great importance to women, and the party with the better record in these fields can count on support.

Television has brought the candidates into the ladies' living rooms. Automatic household appliances have given women more opportunity for club work and party activities. Both parties recognize that the steady increase in the percentage of women voters may well reach a new high in 1956.

President Eisenhower has been attending a series of breakfasts with women party and civic leaders, and Democrats are holding monthly "Congressional wives' forums" led by Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, wife of Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois.

Both parties have been using women to turn out voters, for door-to-door distribution of literature, and for providing baby sitters while mothers go out to the polls.

This trend in politics is not altogether without its disadvantages. Candidates often are more interested in appearing "kind," "folksy" and "gentlemanly" than they are in discussing their platform.

Kissing babies has always been a popular political sport, but in branching out into the "women appeal" field, politicians should realize that with a growing interest in politics, women have also developed a growing awareness of issues.

Women will play an increasingly important part in national politics in the coming years.

Ah, Progress!

New Report on Cancer-Tobacco Link

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Give up cigarettes, and you probably cut your risk of getting lung cancer, the American Cancer Society's top statisticians declared early this week.

This is indicated by the latest figures in the society's study of about 190,000 men and their smoking habits, said Drs. E. Cuyler Hammond and Daniel Horn.

Among some 25,000 ex-smokers, the lung cancer death rate in the last three years was only half as high as among men who kept smoking cigarettes, they find. The death rate among the ex-smokers still was 14 times higher, though, than among men who had never smoked.

"It seems probable that even after years of regular cigarette smoking, giving up the habit may result in a reduction in the risk of developing lung cancer," Drs. Hammond and Horn told the American Medical Assn.

'Reasonable Doubt'

But they declared more cases are needed and must be studied before it can be said to be "proven beyond reasonable doubt" that quitting reduces the chances of developing cancer.

The Hammond-Horn report a year ago covered 20 months and about 5,000 deaths. This week's covers 32 months and more than 8,000 deaths.

A spokesman for the tobacco industry declared the ACS study does not "establish any cause and effect relationship" between cigarettes and lung cancer, and said the statistical study ignored many factors which may affect disease and longevity.

Main findings of the ACS study:

Lung cancer is rare among men who never smoked, and the death rate increases with the amount of cigarettes smoked. Even those smoking less than 10 cigarettes daily run an appreciable risk of lung cancer.

Pipe Smoking

There is evidence now that pipe smoking "appears to be associated with lung cancer," but to a much lesser degree than cigarettes.

As for cigars, no significant association has been detected.

The cancer death rate is higher among smokers than nonsmokers regardless of whether they live in cities or in rural areas.

The heaviest smokers — two packs a day or more — run the greatest risk, says the report. Among these men, lung cancer was the second most common cause of death, exceeded only by heart disease. But in other men, lung cancer ranks well down on the list of causes of death.

Interpreting the News—

Dulles Has Long-Standing Interest in Red Satellites

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

John Foster Dulles' interest in setting up the fate of the European satellites as a major issue for the Big Four conference goes back to a time before he was secretary of state.

He has always urged that the West do everything possible to keep up the spirits of the non-Communist undergrounds, supporting their hope for eventual liberation, but not encouraging them into any premature overt acts which might produce costly reprisals.

In 1952 one of candidate Eisenhower's speech-writers, incorporating some Dulles material into a campaign address, carried the thought into a suggestion of an active liberation movement.

Suggestion Dangerous

The immediate reaction from Europe was that a suggestion of that type was dangerous. Underground leaders over there have preached that their cohorts should concentrate on organization and safety now, in contemplation of a time when action will be possible.

Russia's recent wooing of Yugoslavia, however, has given rise to hope that she may be intending some relaxation of her grip on other Balkan and central European countries.

But she reacted violently when Dulles, on his return from the Austrian treaty signing, mentioned the possibility of lifting the Iron Curtain.

Russia has just formalized the control she has maintained over the armed forces of the satellites. Undoubtedly she remembers what happened in East Germany two years ago when she slackened the reins there. She had to put down a revolt.

Russian Obligations

But Russia did agree at Yalta and Potsdam to help foster the independence of these nations, and the Austrian treaty came in fulfillment of another of her long-ignored obligations. So does the just-announced return of 62 American vessels she has kept illegally ever since the end of lend-lease.

Dulles apparently intends to go down the list of Russia's obligations at the Big Four conferences, in an attempt to impress upon her the necessity of establishing some record of keeping agreements before seeking new ones.

'Tough Guy' Radford To Start Second Hitch as JCS Head

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adm. Arthur Radford will enter his second two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff with a reputation as the "tough guy" among American military leaders.

His name even crops up in the talk of a rock 'em, sock 'em school reputedly convinced the United States should smash Red China to halt Communist expansion in Asia; and that it could be done without igniting World War III.

The talk has grown to such proportions that Radford, on recent occasions, has taken the trouble to deny he has any warlike attitude. And his friends say such talk is sheer nonsense.

Ike's Confidence

President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson have displayed complete confidence in Radford as an advisor. Eisenhower made his own position clear when he announced Radford will keep his job for another two years. His present term expires Aug. 15.

But the talk about Radford has persisted.

Why has the 59-year-old admiral been singled out as the chip-on-the-shoulder influence among all the top military leaders? Just how much influence does he have in shaping U.S. foreign policy?

It's an intriguing story because only a handful of people in the administration really knows where State department diplomacy ends and Pentagon policy begins.

Far East Policy

There are some who say it is Radford who has put "backbone" in the administration's Far Eastern policy and influenced a tougher attitude, although the admiral insists the policy making is the responsibility of civilians and not the military.

None deny the admiral is in a strong position to influence policy. He sees the President sometimes two and three times a week. He sits in on important policy-making meetings. He has ample opportunity to press his views not only through the President but also through Secretary Wilson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. This becomes doubly important where there may be differences of opinion among the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Radford's critics contend he has encouraged the administration in a policy which they claim ties the military to the use of atomic weapons. They say the United States now has no choice but to use nuclear weapons because the policy in effect rules out a "localized war."

Ground Forces

Further, they say, Radford is willing, and has been willing, to commit military force in situations which they claim inevitably would mean commitment of ground forces on a scale which the army is not prepared to furnish and still carry out its mission in other parts of the world.

Radford insists that neither he nor any other member of the JC's has taken a warlike attitude or favored preventive war against the Communists.

In this connection, he said in answer to a list of questions: "The Joint Chiefs of Staff have had considerable experience in past wars and probably know better than anyone the real meaning of the impact of war. I really do not believe you could have a group of men who are more dedicated to the cause of peace and the prevention of war than the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

'Not The Case'

"Sometimes the fact that we have to deal constantly with critical situations and work on military matters seems to give some people the notion that we would probably like nothing better than a good war some place. I can tell you that such is not the case."

The admiral's supporters argue that much of the criticism comes from sources whose views on modern warfare are limited, and from those who do not have his understanding of the capability of our armed forces as they are now constituted under the "new look." They point out that only the President can authorize the use of atomic weapons — not the military.

One officer in a position to follow Radford's actions as chairman of the JC's had this to say:

Firm Attitude

"Radford is no saber rattler. He doesn't want war. But he does think that firmness now will avoid war later. Too many people have misinterpreted his attitude of firmness as being warlike.

"I know Radford thinks we should be ready to do what we say we will do. He thinks unless we back up our words with actions, then the Reds will keep pushing us back further each time until there is no choice left but war.

"He believes that from a military standpoint we don't have to retreat because we have the military capability to do whatever we want to do in backing up our foreign diplomacy."

Peiping Overrated

Radford has made it clear in in past that he regards Red China as being vastly overrated as a military power. He told an interviewer recently: "I continue to be amazed at the credulity of so many people in accepting the theme of Chinese Communist strength. It is indeed an amazing paradox that an offensive posture can be maintained and initiative achieved with no real substance to back it up."

In this connection, Radford was asked: "Would you say you have favored a tougher policy in the Far East than other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff?"

He replied: "No, I wouldn't. It is possible that a greater interest in Far East matters has been attributed to me personally, due to my past association and assignments in the Far East area. I can assure you that my interests and my responsibilities, just as in the case of the other members of the JCS, are global. It just so happens that the aggressive actions of the Chicoms (Chinese Communists) in Korea, the Formosa Straits, and Indochina have focused a good deal of everyone's attention on those local hotspots."

'Admiral's Revolt'

Radford's tough-guy reputation has grown from a series of events reaching back to post-World War II days when he stepped forward as a critic of unification of the armed forces and then became a central figure in the "admiral's revolt" against the air force program to build up the B-36 as the nation's strategic bomber.

His friends say he fought the B-36 program because he thought the navy's air strength was in danger of being nibbled away, and that he felt too much reliance was being placed on one weapon.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, when he was chairman of the JCS, angrily denounced as "fancy Dans" the admirals who opposed the program which congress finally approved. Later, it is said Bradley and Radford patched up their quarrel.

But Radford and his friends did succeed in blocking those opposed to further construction of navy carriers, and in this sense he won his fight.

ADM. ARTHUR RADFORD, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is shown here as he appeared before the senate foreign relations committee early last month. Radford, characterized as the "tough guy" among American military leaders, will begin his second two years as head of the JCS in August.

Old Capitol Remembers

✓ One Year Ago Today

The United States and Red China were expected to resume talks on the release of Americans detained by the Peiping regime.

First alumnus to return to the Iowa campus for the alumni-commencement weekend was Dr. S. M. Mann, graduate of the 1896 class in medicine.

✓ Five Years Ago Today

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) in a Wisconsin speech branded Secretary of State Dean Acheson as the "Red Dean of Fascism" and demanded that he be fired "this very day."

Eric Johnson, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, told 1,850 graduates at SUI that "corrupting influences" that erode "spiritual and human values" are a greater threat than communism.

✓ Ten Years Ago Today

One hundred fifty to 200 Superforts attacked five Japanese industrial plants and repair bases on Honshu island.

The canning sugar ration was cut to five pounds per ration book, according to Mrs. Edith Jones, chief clerk of the Iowa City Ration board.

✓ Twenty Years Ago Today

An indictment of the New Deal—an 18-point "declaration of grievances"—was adopted with shouts of approval by a grass roots conference of Republicans from 10 farm states.

The You Smash 'Em, I Fix 'Em baseball team defeated Unraths, 13-2, and the Elks walloped Coralville, 14-5, in the Iowa City Diamondball league.

Retiring Housemother Gives Recipe for Chicken Curry

MRS. ROBERT GLEN, Theta Xi fraternity housemother who plans to retire this month, looks over the rose bushes in front of the chapter house. From her new apartment she will still be able to look at the roses, whicIf she planted.

BY BETTY BROYLES

Mrs. Robert Glen, Theta Xi fraternity housemother since 1939, will retire this June, but she intends to keep an interest in her boys.

"The boys always keep in touch with me," she said. "I receive many letters and am one of the first to get pictures of the newest baby."

Mrs. Glen plans to remain living in Iowa City, and in July will move only some hundred feet into her new apartment at the Commonwealth apartment building.

She calls the short distance move the "joke of the year," as from her front window she will enjoy a birdseye view of her roses, which she planted in the Theta Xi front yard.

Born in Elsworth, Kan., Mrs. Glen calls Chicago her home. She was educated at Ward-Belmont junior college at Nashville, Tenn., and Randolph-Macon college at Lynchberg, Va.

Son Flies

She has one son, Capt, Robert E. Glen Jr., who flies the Globemaster out of Westover Airforce base, Westover, Mass. He graduated from Florida university, before receiving his air force commission in 1943.

In dealing with boys, Mrs. Glen believes a sense of humor to be of utmost importance. She thinks it is also important to have a sense of present ideas. "If you're going to get along, you must remember how you felt at 18," she said.

Mrs. Glen has always been interested in writing. She has never taken any actual writing courses, but likes to "dabble at stories and poetry."

Following Maj. Glen's death in 1922, she was assistant editor of a commercial law journal in Chicago.

Collects China

Mrs. Glen also collects china, and she loves a china tea set on her son brought from Japan. Her most recent opportunity to use the tea set was May 26, when the Theta Xi actives and alums held a tea in her honor, and presented her with a beautiful silver tray.

Mrs. Glen plans to use both the tea set and tray more in the future. "When you do your own entertaining, you really get the joy of cooking," she said.

Mrs. Glen is known as an excellent cook, and experimental cooking is her specialty.

She has many favorite recipes, but considers chicken curry as her best. (It has been her special dinner both as a Major's wife and a housemother.) She calls it the "most beautiful dinner I've ever seen."

Chicken Curry Dinner

Cut at joints three 2¼-lb. chickens. Saute to golden brown. Add 1 tsp. spice Island Beaumonde.

Put in kettle. Add 6 cups water. Cover and simmer until tender. Cut (do not shred) meat from bone. Save chicken stock.

For sauce melt ¼ lb. butter. Add 3 medium sized chopped onions. Cook to golden brown. Remove from fire. Add:

3 tsp. Ginger
2 tsp. curry powder
2 tsp. fine chopped very dry cooked bacon
1 tsp. sugar
8 cups chicken stock

Cook. Add salt and pepper to taste. Let all ingredients come to boil. Add 3 egg yolks beaten in ½ cup cream. Cook slowly until slightly thick. Add chicken meat to this ½ hour before serving. Keep hot.

Wild or white rice cooked dry should be served with chicken curry. (Curry can be cooked day before).

Ten condiments that may be served with chicken curry are:

1 freshly grated coconut
Chopped toasted almonds
Avocado cut in slices mixed with crisp bacon crumbles
Chutney
Chopped whites of 3 hard cooked eggs
Yokes of hard cooked eggs pressed through sieve
Green pepper cut into small even pieces
5 firm tomatoes cut into small pieces. Remove watery pulp, seeds.
Finely chopped chives (onions will do)
Sliced mushrooms sauted in butter and minced with garlic.

Table Setting

Set the table for assembly-line serving. The bowl of rice is placed at the table head, with the chicken curry. The condiments are then arranged in separate bowls in a half moon around the curry.

Dessert is ice cold fruit. Melon balls are preferred with fresh berries, and other summer fruits topped with frozen orange juice. The beverage is tea.

POTATOES AND BACON

Pile mashed potato into a shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with bits of bacon. Broil until potato is heated through and bacon bits are browned.

Brownie, Girl Scout Camp Schedules Told

Fun outdoors will keep Girl Scouts of Cardinal Council busy during June. Day camps for Brownies and for Intermediate Girl Scouts will both open Thursday at City park in Iowa City, while six troops will go to Camp Cardinal for three-day troop camps next week.

Established camp will open at Camp Cardinal June 19, with every camp session already filled to capacity, according to Mrs. Hugh Carson executive director of Cardinal Council. Registration for day camps is also filled. Total registered for the opening one-week session and three sessions of twelve days each at established camp is 254 girls.

Adult Committees

Adults who will assist with Brownie Day camp include Mrs. Merle Hale, Mrs. E. E. Perrin, Mrs. Robert Hochstedler, Mrs. Ralph Bohlin, Mrs. H. A. Herdliska, Mrs. David Appel, Mrs. Frank Lupini, Mrs. Charles Grimm and Mrs. Josef Jauch. Helping at Intermediate Day Camp will be Mrs. A. C. Marks, Mrs. Robert Kupka, Mrs. Robert Herring, Mrs. Betty Hennessy and Mrs. Norman Baenziger.

Girl Scouts serving as program aides for both day camps will include Connie Weller, Mary Hanson, Judy Seavy, Sheri West, Susan Boatman, Joan Gosenberg, Judy Murphy, Phoebe Welt, Janet Robertson, Joan Michener, Nancy Croy, Donna Nelson, Georgia Fonken, Debbie Hawkins, Mary Fran Cretzmeyer, Corleen Pickering, Berthe Wells, Marjorie Glasgow, Joan Alberhasky, Karen Herrick, Linda Vanderhoef, Claudia Hopkins and Jean Connelly.

Games, Crafts

Games, singing, outdoor cooking and crafts are on the schedule for Brownies, while the Scout Day camp will also include campcraft and more outdoor cooking in addition to games, crafts and singing. Twelve units will accomodate 269 Brownies, and 142 Intermediate Scouts will form seven units.

A highlight for the Brownies will be a lunch to which their parents are invited June 17 at noon at City park. Intermediate Day camp will close with an overnight trip to Camp Cardinal June 16, with a program to be given for parents from 7 to 8 that evening.

Brownie Day camp will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, June 9 and 13, 14, 16 and 17 and will meet from 3 to 7 p.m. Friday, June 10. Intermediate Day camp is scheduled for 3 to 7 p.m. Thursday, 7:30 to 10 a.m. Friday, 3 to 7 p.m. June 14, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 15, and 5 p.m. June 16.

Troop 22

Troop 22 will go to Camp Cardinal for a troop camp June 12-14, with Mrs. Merle Hale and Mrs. Arthur Schmeichel accompanying them. Mrs. Louis Shimon and Mrs. Glen Helmer will go with Troops 9 and 11 to the camp June 14-16, and Mrs. Leslie Beers, Mrs. Gerald Baughman and Mrs. Carson will accompany Troops 49, 56, and 62 to the camp on June 17-19. Each troop will plan its own activities and do its own cooking for the outing.

SEASONINGS

Braising meat? Take your choice of seasonings. Here are seasonings you can choose among: catchup, chili sauce, bay leaves, curry powder, garlic, Tabasco sauce, soy sauce.

To Wed June 20

Miss Jean Lane

Mrs. Maggie Lane, 711 E. Jefferson st., announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Jean, to Mr. Wiley Reed, son of Mrs. Dove Reed, 1215 Muscatine ave.

The wedding will be held June 20 at St. Patrick's Catholic church, Brooklyn.

Miss Lane is a graduate of Guernsey high school and Mercy School of Nursing. She is now employed at Mercy hospital in Iowa City.

Mr. Reed is a graduate of Iowa City high school, and attended Coe college.

DeMarco To Defend Title Tonight

17-10 Odds On Basilio In Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Welterweight Champion Tony DeMarco of Boston invades Carmen Basilio's home territory tonight as a 17-10 underdog for the 15-round title fight at the War Memorial auditorium.

It's turnabout for the chunky, 23-year-old Bostonian. Last April 1 he grabbed the 147-pound title on his home grounds by stopping Johnny Saxton in 14 rounds at the Boston Garden.

The swarthy son of a shoeworker isn't dismayed by the odds. He made a joke of the wise money by shellacking Saxton, a 4-1 favorite. Saxton, making his first defense of the crown he won from Kid Gavilan, failed to go the route for the first time.

Tony Is Confident

Tony said he is confident of winning but his handlers go him one better. They firmly believe DeMarco will win by a knockout in his first title defense even though the 28-year-old challenger never has been stopped.

"Neither was Saxton until he met Tony," said Sammy Fuller, DeMarco's trainer. "Tony is greatly underestimated. He has the punch to put away Basilio."

'Carmen by a KO'

Basilio's handlers feel the same way about their gladiator.

"Carmen by a knockout," said Johnny De John, Basilio's co-manager.

Ordinarily statements like these are grist for the propaganda mills. But this "natural" between two good little fighters didn't need any steam-up.

Tickets Sold Out

The fight was sold out shortly after promoter Norm Rothschild announced the ticket sale. Rothschild, co-promoting with the International Boxing club, has a 9,100 seat and $115,000 sellout.

In addition, the coast-to-coast radio broadcast and telecast both NBC for the 8 p.m. scrap, will add another $50,000 to the pot.

Closed TV Circuit

For Syracuse fans shut out of the auditorium, a closed circuit telecast will be piped into the nearby State Fair Grounds Coliseum. Rothschild said he expected about 6,000 fans to pay $3.50 each to watch the show on large sized screens.

With his 40 per cent cut on everything, DeMarco will receive about $60,000 and Basilio, at 20 per cent, half as much.

No Return Bout

There is no return bout contract but it is understood that the winner will give the next shot to Saxton.

DeMarco did a neat job of demolishing Saxton and has won a lot of supporters. He has a 17-fight unbeaten streak over a span of two years, marred only by a draw with Jimmy Carter, the lightweight king. DeMarco stands 5-5½, an inch shorter than Basilio, and will weigh about 145, the same as he did for Saxton.

Basilio, who had trouble making 147 for Kid Gavilan here on Sept. 18, 1953, expects to make weight easily this time. He has been under 147 for more than a month.

Dodgers Sell Joe Black

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers Thursday sold pitcher Joe Black, who won 15 games in 1952, to the Cincinnati Redlegs for a reported $20,000 in cash and a player to be named in the next couple of days.

The club declined to disclose the amount of cash involved but sources close to the Dodgers put the figure at $20,000.

Black, 31, went into a slump after his impressive 1952 season, winning only seven games since. His record this year is 1-0.

In 1953 Black won six games and lost three and last year was shipped to Montreal where he had a 12-10 record.

He started the 1952 World Series against the New York Yankees and won one and lost two during the series. He also was voted the National league's rookie of the year for 1952.

Hearst Co. Prepares To Appeal Case

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Attorneys for Vincent X. Flaherty, sports columnist for the Los Angeles Examiner, and the Hearst Publishing Co. Thursday prepared to fight a $35,000 libel award to ex-heavyweight boxer Lou Nova.

A motion for a new trial was filed in superior court, where a jury returned the verdict favoring the fighter after three hours deliberation June 1. The trial had lasted five days.

In its verdict, the jury ruled Flaherty was wrong in calling Nova a coward for his actions in a fight with then heavyweight Champion Joe Louis on Sept. 29, 1941. Flaherty had reviewed the fight and subsequent dressing action in a column two years ago.

SURVIVES BAD ROUND

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore survived what she described as "a lousy round of golf" Thursday to win the annual Women's Eastern Golf Assn. amateur championship with a 54-hole total of 11-over-par 230.

Errors Help Red Sox Beat Indians

CLEVELAND (AP) — Towering Frank Sullivan, with some last inning help from old Ellis Kinder, beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2 Thursday to give the Boston Red Sox a sweep of a three-game series.

More loose infielding, including three errors, contributed to the Tribe's loss, its sixth in the past seven games.

Sullivan blanked the Indians on four hits up to the ninth, when he walked Larry Doby and Ralph Kiner, and Bob Lemon pinch-singled to bring Doby home with the first Cleveland run. Hal Naragon singled to load the bases and Kiner was called in. Kiner scored on pinchhitter Hank Majeski's fly, but Bob Avila flied and Al Smith popped out to end the game.

Errors by pitcher Herb Score and catcher Jim Hegan helped the Red Sox to two runs in the third inning. Score missed the bag on a throw from first baseman Vic Wertz on Bill Goodman's grounder. After Billy Klaus walked, Jackie Jensen singled Goodman home. Klaus took third when Hegan let a third strike get away and Sam Mele's fly brought Klaus home.

In the next inning Boston stepped ahead 3-0 on doubles by Ted Lepcio and Sullivan.

Roberts Beats Cards 2-0, Walks None

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robin Roberts, throwing in his best mid-season form, set the St. Louis Cardinals down with three singles Thursday night as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cards 2-0. Roberts fanned nine as he won his ninth victory against four losses.

The Phillies' ace righthander mowed down the first 12 Cardinal batters to face him before allowing a single by Bill Virdon in the fifth. The next six St. Louis batters went down in order before Red Schoendienst led off with a single in the seventh. Wally Moon singled with one out in the ninth.

Robbie didn't walk a man in the nine innings.

The first Philadelphia run came in the sixth on singles by Gran Hamner and Del Ennis followed by Jim Greengrass' sacrifice fly. The second was scored in the eighth as Marv Blaylock singled, advanced on Hamner's groundout and came home on Ennis' single.

The game was played before a chilled crowd of 5,668 with the mercury in the low 50s.

Larry Jackson went the distance for the Cards. The loss was his third. He has won two.

Santee in Race Tonight With Sowell

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Two of the nation's fastest middle distance runners — Wes Santee and Arnie Sowell—meet tonight for the first time in a special half-mile which could produce more work for the record keepers.

Santee, the ex-Kansas cowboy who has made more unsuccessful tries for a four-minute mile than almost anybody, has the second fastest 880 time in history on his slate.

Sowell, the smooth-striding University of Pittsburgh ace, has been clocked at a speed for the distance never previously reached by a collegian.

The two brilliant times were run within one week of each other and on opposite sides of the continent. Santee ripped off a 1:48.5 clocking in the California relays at Modesto, Calif., on May 21, and Sowell whipped his collegiate rival, Tom Courtney of Fordham, in 1:49.1 on May 28 in the IC4A meet at New York for a new intercollegiate record.

The fastest 880 ever run was a 1:47.5 by Lon Spurrier, ex-University of California track captain, competing in a triangular meet at Berkeley, Calif., March 26.

Yanks Beat Detroit, 7-3, Split Series

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Robinson, probably the best .230 hitter in baseball, slammed his 10th home run with two on base in the first inning and started the New York Yankees to a 7-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Thursday.

The triumph gave the Yanks an even split in the four-game series with the Tigers and stretched their league lead over rained out Chicago to five games, longest of the season.

Relief pitcher Jim Konstanty, making his sixth appearance in seven days, replaced shaky Eddie Ford in the fifth inning and checked the Tigers on one hit the rest of the way. He killed a Detroit rally in the fifth by throwing a double play ball to Jack Phillips with runners on first and second.

The 38-year-old righthander now has yielded only two runs in 31⅓ innings this season.

Robinson, who went into the game with a .231 batting average connected against losing pitcher Steve Gromek in the first inning. He drove the ball into the upper right field deck, following singles by Irv Noren and Yogi Berra.

It was Robinson's fourth homer in the series and gave him 26 runs batted in for the season, even though he has been at bat only 81 times.

Thinks Nashua Able To Break Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Racing officials at Belmont park said Thursday Nashua is capable of threatening the record time of the $100,000 Belmont Stakes Saturday — provided something makes him run fast enough.

The Belair bullet was beaten in a thriller by Swaps in the fourth fastest Kentucky Derby on record May 7. Two weeks ago Nashua fractured the Pimlico track and stakes record when Saratoga chased him to the wire in the Preakness.

There is a definite lack of any class opposition to Nashua in the mile-and-one-half Belmont, which will be broadcast and televised from 3:30-4 p.m. (EST).

A field of seven or eight is expected to be entered this morning for the 87th Belmont, second oldest stakes race in the country. But whether they can menace William Woodward Jr.'s fine colt is something else again, let alone force him into any records.

"Nashua's at his peak right now, and he's been working out fast enough," said Jimmy Kilroe, Belmont racing secretary, when asked his opinions about the probable time of the race. Count Fleet set the Belmont mark of 2:28 1/5 in 1943, when he won by a whopping 25 lengths, and Citation equalled that clocking five years later.

Cubs Defeat Pirates On Minner's 6-Hitter

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Chicago Cubs collected six runs on 13 hits Thursday to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2. Cubs catcher Walker Cooper banged out his second homer of the season in the seventh.

Frank Thomas hit his fifth homer of the year in the fourth inning for the Pirates.

Lefty Paul Minner, winning his fifth game against two defeats, retired the last 10 batters he faced. He tossed a six-hitter.

The Cubs scored a run in the third when Gene Baker collected one of his three singles and Bob Speake doubled him home. They added another in the fourth on singles by Ernie Banks and Dee Fondy, along with Cooper's double play grounder.

The Pirates kept pace with a run in the third on Harding Peterson's single and Gene Freese' triple, and the homer by Thomas in the next inning.

Cooper put the Cubs ahead in the seventh and they scored three times in the eighth. Baker singled and Speake tripled for one, Randy Jackson singled for another, bringing in Bed Wade to pitch for Pittsburgh. Jim King singled and Banks hit a sacrifice fly to end the scoring.

RAIN NO PROBLEM

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—University of Wyoming football candidates have no fear of the weather. When cold or rainy weather comes up the Cowboy gridmen use the tanbark area of Memorial field house.

Nine Race Record: In Money 7 Times

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP)—Retrouve, a 5-year-old chestnut horse, is what haltermen call a "useful horse." In nine races since last December he has been out of the money only twice.

Not only is the son of Easy Mon—Jane F consistent but he has been claimed six times in four months. In January, he was claimed in two straight races at Tropical Park, was claimed for $5,000 in his next outing at Hialeah and in his subsequent start at Gulfstream Park he went for $6,000. Next time out, running with a $7,500 claiming tag, he triumphed. In his last 29 races Retrouve has five wins, nine seconds and three thirds.

440 RECORD

EAST LANSING, Mich. — Michigan State track captain Kevan Gosper won the 1955 Central Collegiate conference 440-yard dash title in the record time of :47.5.

A's Blast Senators In 4-2 Win

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics scored in only one inning Thursday but that was enough to defeat the Washington Senators, 4-2, as Art Ditmar steadied after a rocky start to pitch his third victory.

Chuck Stobbs, Washington's lefthander, got himself in trouble in the fourth inning by walking the first two men up, Hector Lopez and Bill Renna.

But he might have escaped if Bob Kline had handled Gus Zernial's doubleplay grounder that followed. The ball squirted through Kline's hands for an error as Lopez scored. After Simpson struck out, Vic Power doubled to the centerfield fence and Renna came in on the blow. Zernial stopped at third.

Stobbs intentionally walked Billy Stantz to get to Ditmar, who promptly singled through the middle to bring in the winning runs.

Stobbs had pitched hitless ball through the first three innings and except for the seventh when he gave up two hits, had the Athletics well in hand. He gave up seven hits in losing his sixth game against a single victory.

A's Zernial Aims At Long Ball Crown

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Gus Zernial, Kansas City's long ball specialist, is drawing a bead on the American league home run crown plus the coveted 100 RBI mark.

That's the word from the husky Athletics outfielder Thursday. He is currently tied at 14 with the Yankees' Mickey Mantle for the league homer leadership. And with 37 runs batted in, he is among the league's top five in that department.

"Ozark Ike" doesn't expect to reach his top hitting form until the really hot weather arrives. A glance at his past performance shows that neither goal is out of his reach.

Zernial has slammed in over 100 runs in each of three seasons in the American circuit. His best year was 1953 in Philadelphia, when he collected 42 homers, batted in 108 runs and finished with a .284 average.

He lost out in the home run race to Al Rosen that year. The Cleveland ace finished with 43.

Everything it takes to be "TOPS"

STANDARD GASOLINES
...balanced for top power, economy, and all 'round performance ... and raised to the Highest Octane levels in our history

STANDARD WHITE CROWN and RED CROWN Gasolines have been stepped up to the highest octane ratings in our sixty-six year history . . . designed to give smooth, knock-free performance in the most modern of high compression engines—and older cars too. But important as octane is, good gasolines need something more. They must be balanced to give you top performance with controlled volatility—the right gasoline for the right season; no vapor lock even in the hottest summer weather, and clean-burning for efficient, economical performance.

Try a tankful today, and drive away convinced that these gasolines have everything it takes to be tops.

You expect more from STANDARD and get it!

Lillian Gilbreth To Address Meeting Here

Lillian M. Gilbreth, known to most Americans as the mother of the "Cheaper by the Dozen" family and to management officials as an authority on work simplification and time-motion studies, will be the luncheon speaker Tuesday at the 16th annual Management course at SUI.

Making her 12th appearance at the two-week program held each June by the SUI college of engineering for plant and production engineers, supervisors and executives, Mrs. Gilbreth will speak on "Management Abroad." Now 77, she is president of a New Jersey firm of consulting engineers.

The Iowa Management course will open Monday with 51 "students" representing firms of 15 states and Canada. Their subjects for study will include plant layout, job evaluation, labor relations, time and motion study, materials handling, speech laboratory, quality control, production problems, and economic analysis.

The group's principal speaker Monday will be Professor J. Wayne Deegan, chairman of the SUI mechanical engineering department and director of the course. He will speak on "Objectives of Management and Engineering."

With still greater emphasis this year on harmonizing industrial goals with human values, the 16th course will seek to give the group a number of stimulating ideas and discoveries in areas of study outside engineering, Deegan points out.

Featured speakers of the two weeks will include Hew Roberts, SUI adult education specialist, who will speak on "Export a Training Director;" Paul R. Olson, SUI economics head, on "Problems in International Trade," and Scott N. Reger, SUI research professor of otological acoustics, on "Problems of Industrial Noise."

Nielsen Receives Senior Radio Award

Ted Nielsen, a graduating senior at SUI, was presented Thursday with the annual $50 award given by radio station KCHA, Charles City. H. Clay Harshbarger, assistant dean for advisory students in the SUI college of liberal arts, made the presentation.

The Charles City radio station gives the award to the student selected as the outstanding senior radio student at the university. Harshbarger headed the committee which made the selection.

Dr. Borts Attends Georgia Meeting

Dr. I. H. Borts, director of the State Hygienic laboratory at SUI, is participating in a symposium on "The Role of Microbiological Laboratories in Civil Defense" which the U.S. public health service is sponsoring at its Communicable Disease center in Atlanta, Ga.

While there, the physician also will attend a meeting today and Saturday of the executive council of the Association of State and Territorial Directors of Public Health. Dr. Borts is a member of the council.

Following the Atlanta meetings, Dr. Borts will attend a session of the National Serology Advisory council, of which he also is a member, in Washington, D. C. The purpose of the meet will be to develop and recommend new techniques and standard procedures for use in public health laboratories across the nation.

First Ride for Royal Children

(AP Wirephoto)

BRITISH PRINCE CHARLES hands the leash of one of two Corgi pet dogs to his sister, Princess Anne at a London airport, Thursday, after the youngsters' first plane ride. After a holiday at the Balmoral, Scotland royal home they were flown to London and were reported to have "enjoyed themselves thoroughly."

Testifies Disunity If Labs Rented

DES MOINES (AP) — Forcing hospitals to lease facilities to medical specialists would "open the door to disunity" and cause volunteer workers to "lose interest," Bruce Townsend, Clinton, testified Thursday in Polk County District court.

Townsend, 57, president of the City National bank in Clinton and one of 15 trustees of Jane Lamb Memorial hospital, Clinton, was the twentieth witness called by the Iowa Hospital Assn. in the hospital-doctor trial which started May 19.

In the lawsuit, the hospital group is seeking a ruling allowing hospitals to operate their own laboratories and employ certain medical specialists. The Iowa attorney general's office has issued an opinion that under such a system hospitals are guilty of practicing medicine without a license.

Under questioning by A. A. Herrick, one of the lawyers for the hospital group, Townsend said changing the present relationship between specialists and hospitals would mean that "some of the soul would go out of an institution that holds the loyalty of individuals."

He testified that the Clinton hospital hires a pathologist, Dr. John Stewart, on a "flat fee" of between $500 and $600 a month, and that "we share him" with four other hospitals where he apparently also works on a salary basis.

Townsend said the radiologist at the hospital until recently was Dr. Robert Knudsen, now living in Boulder, Colo.

TOO MUCH MANANA

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) —Manana may be soon enough for the Latins, but Mrs. Ruth Martin thinks 17 years of mananas is too long to wait for a letter. A friend traveling in South America wrote her from Chile in 1938. It was delivered to her in 1955. Postmarks that could be distinguished indicated that the letter was still knocking around Chile in 1941. There was no way of telling what happened to it after that.

43-Year-Old Ex-Executive To Get M.D.

A 43-year-old ex-Coca Cola executive who six years ago gave up his job and home in Waterloo to begin studies in medicine, will receive his M.D. at SUI commencement exercises this morning.

He is William D. Perrin, who 19 years ago interrupted his college training at Iowa State Teachers college to become office manager for Coca Cola.

Bill, his wife Edith and three children, Tommy, 13, Jacky, 9, and Cheri Anne, 6, have lived for six years in Finkbine Park while he finished work for his B.A. and completed four years of medical studies.

Short Course

After taking a short course here in anesthesiology in the graduate college, Bill will go to Des Moines to serve a year's internship at Iowa Methodist hospital. Then he will go into general practice with Dr. James Whitmire in Sumner.

"Dr. Whitmire practices the kind of medicine I'd always dreamed of being able to practice. He is close to his people, and he practices seven-day-a-week medicine," Bill said admiringly.

"When he asked me to go into practice with him when I finished my internship, I accepted enthusiastically."

Sumner

Bill explained that he was especially happy to be able to go into practice in Sumner because "I feel obliged to the state of Iowa since it has given me a chance to complete medical studies and I want to help out in one of the small communities where general practitioners are so badly needed."

He had applied to 12 schools before he came to SUI, but was turned down because he was "too old."

When Bill was attending West Waterloo high school he became engaged to his wife Edith. They decided not to get married until he could finish his medical studies. But that was during the depression, and money to finance eight years of school was hard to come by. Six months after their engagement was announced Bill and Edith were married.

Job

Bill had worked part-time as an accountant at the Coca Cola company while attending high school. After graduation he attended Iowa State Teachers college at Cedar Falls, seven miles from Waterloo, and commuted so that he could work from 1 p.m. to midnight at Coca Cola.

After three years at Iowa State Teachers college he quit to take a position as Waterloo office manager at Coca Cola. That was in 1936.

Over a period of 13 years Bill rose to the position of general manager of the Waterloo branch of Coca Cola company.

To Save

He hadn't intended that the break in his college work would be so long, but as he put it, "you can't always tell how long it will take to start a family, and save enough money to start school again."

Even while in the navy, Bill clung to his ambition to become a doctor. He was a pharmacist's mate and taught hygiene, public health, and related courses at Farragut, Idaho. Later he became an operating room technician and before going overseas on the Cruiser "Little Rock" he taught as senior corpsman in the surgical department at Farragut.

When he came back to school in 1949, it was over the objections of his friends and business associates in Waterloo.

Too Old

"You're too old," they said. "It's the most foolish thing I ever heard of. You're crazy to give up one of the best jobs in Waterloo."

But Bill's famliy was wholeheartedly in favor of his ambition. He summed up their philosophy this way: "It doesn't matter if you don't make a dime, as long as you're happy."

JayCees

In Waterloo Bill had been the only man to be twice president of the junior chamber of commerce. He served as chairman of a fund-campaign committee of of the Salvation Army that raised $52,000.

He had also been chairman of Waterloo district school board, vice-chairman of the Salvation Army corps, and vice-president and disaster chairman for the Red Cross in Blackhawk county.

While in high school he organized a dance band, "Perrin's Pirates," and started the first high school social dance program in Waterloo.

Born in Erie, Pa., Bill lived in 16 states and atttended 21 different grade and high schools before coming to Waterloo.

In his first year at SUI Bill got straight A's in his premedical courses. He calls himself "just an average student."

Senate Stalls To Let Humphrey Cast Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Down through the years the senate has had some unusual filibusters, including a filibuster on filibustering.

Now it can add another to its imposing list: A filibuster, by mutual consent, to allow time for Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) to come down to earth.

The behind-the-scenes situation was this. Humphrey was deeply interested in a housing bill, which came up for decision Tuesday. He had told his friends he would fly back from Minneapolis in time to cast his vote. He would leave at 7:30 a.m., and arrive here at 2:30 p.m., plenty of time, he figured to be on hand for the final verdict.

Storm

Everybody understood this except the elements. His plane ran into a storm and arrived at 4:45.

Well, the senate seemed to be dawdling, but even an expert can't distinguish unerringly between a hurrying and a loitering senate.

Then Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) let the cat out of the senatorial bag.

During parliamentary skirmishing with the Democratic leader, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Capehart said:

Along

"I know the purpose of the request by Johnson is so that the senator from Minnesota may reach the chamber in time to vote. I wish to get credit for going along."

More palaver, and Capehart repeated: "I merely wish to get credit for cooperating, so that the able senator from Minnesota may reach the chamber in time to vote."

"The senator from Indiana," Johnson observed, "always wishes all the credit he can get—and he gets it."

But still no announcement on what had become of Humphrey.

Arrival

So the senate stalled along, and stalled along, and finally Humphrey rushed in, the vote was taken, and passed 44 to 38. "The delay in the vote until my arrival," Humphrey said, "could only have come about as a result of cooperation from both sides of the aisle, and I am grateful to my colleagues."

Humphrey kept on being grateful for a couple of hundred words. Especially, he said, was he grateful to Lyndon Johnson. "The senator from Texas," Humphrey said, "is a genius in the art of the legislative process."

Cooperated

Capehart bobbed up to remind Humphrey that he had cooperated. "We knew all the time where the senator was," Capehart said, "but we did not know when he was going to arrive."

"Neither did I," Humphrey said.

Whereupon, its wandering member safely home, the senators became so carried away with the wonders of senatorial courtesy that compliments fell faster than the raindrops on Humphrey's plane.

Everybody seemed happy. Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) summed up the senatorial attitude with a quote from Justice Holmes.

"It is extraordinary," Holmes once said, "with what fortitude a man can listen to excessive praise of himself."

Cuts Bars, Escapes Jail

MASON CITY (AP) — Leroy McHale, 34, Duluth, Minn., held on a robbery with aggravation charge, sawed out of the Cerro Gordo county jail and escaped Thursday afternoon.

He made his escape after apparently using a hacksaw blade to cut through the window bars of his cell, then slipping through and dropping the short distance to the ground.

Sheriff Jerry Allen said McHale was probably armed with a knife.

The sheriff said McHale got out during the shower time about 1:45 p.m. A resident across the street from the jail reported seeing a man answering McHale's description crossing the jailhouse lawn five minutes later.

The bars had been secured with chewing gum, Allen said. He theorized McHale slipped back to his cell during the shower period, punched out the bars and fled.

McHale and James H. Blankenship, 33, Chicago, had been bound over to the grand jury in the $6,000 National Tea store robbery on March 12.

The highway patrol, Mason City police and sheriff's deputies joined in setting up roadblocks around the city.

Parker Defendant In Damage Suit

Thomas J. Parker, 1829 F st., Wednesday filed suit in Johnson county court asking $7,566 from William W. Villhauer, 233 Melrose st., for auto accident injuries.

William C. Villhauer, 813 7th ave., is not the defendant, as was reported Thursday in The Daily Iowan.

Des Moines Boy Drowns In River

DES MOINES (AP) — Stephen Sease, 14, drowned in the Des Moines river here Thursday on the first day of summer vacation.

Sease, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sease, and a friend, Ronald Houseman, 15, had been playing on the river.

Houseman said Stephen drowned as they tried to get off a homemade raft about two blocks below the Southeast 6th street bridge.

"We had found the raft — just two barrels nailed together with a couple of boards — near the bridge," Ronald said. "We got on and used sticks as paddles.

"When we reached some limbs in the river, we lost the sticks. We got off the raft and thought we could wade to shore but the water was over our heads. I can swim but Steve couldn't swim much."

Ronald said he "tried to drag him in but he kicked me and I couldn't."

Police continued to drag the river for the body.

HURRY AND FLURRY

BUG TUSSLE, Tex. (AP) — Judge James Bates Fink says one reason for the few traffic fines handed out in his justice court is that to catch all the speeders would mean a lot of hurry and flurry. Another reason, is "my constable doesn't get paid well enough to inspire him. He's not a hurry and flurry man, no how."

Police Say Triplett Paled At Body Site

LE MARS (AP)—Ernest J. Triplett paled visibly when he saw the canvas-covered body of 8-year-old Jimmy Bremmer in a field north of Sioux City last Sept. 30, a prosecution witness testified Thursday in Triplett's murder trial.

Triplett, 54, an itinerant music lesson salesman, is accused of beating the boy to death last Aug. 31. The boy had been the object of a mass search before his body was found 30 days after he disappeared from his Sioux City home.

Testimony in the trial resumed Thursday afternoon following a morning recess devoted to arguments by opposing counsel as to whether an alleged tape-recorded statement by Triplett that he was involved in the boy's death could be admitted in evidence.

Appeal

District Judge R. G. Rodman ruled the statement could be played back to the jury. Defense Attorney Thomas O. Tacy, however, indicated he may appeal the case if the tape recording is played and Triplett subsequently is convicted.

Asst. Police Chief Russell White of Sioux City and Sioux City Detective Lt. William A. Dennison told during the afternoon of Triplett's actions when he was brought to the scene where Jimmy's body was found.

White said Triplett ran from Ridge Road up a high bank near the body, although no one was in sight on the bank, the body could not be seen from the road and no one had told him to go up the bank.

Saw Body

When Triplett reached a point where he could see the canvas-covered body, White related, the salesman stopped, turned to Detective Chief Harry Gibbons and asked: "What's that?"

"Don't you know, Ernie? That's Jimmy," White quoted Gibbons as replying.

Then, White said, Triplett "turned white and was visibly affected."

He said Triplett also had told him he had seen Jimmy the night the boy disappeared and that he had taken the lad from a neighbor's house to his own home while Jimmy put on a shirt. But he said Triplett had maintained the last he saw of the boy was when Jimmy walked around the house to the rear of the Bremmer home.

Marijuana

Dennison also testified, over defense objections, that Triplett had told officers he had used Marijuana for four years and that he had smoked a "reefer" on Aug. 31.

Testimony was to resume this morning. The state indicated that the tape-recorded statement by Triplett might be one of the last items presented in the state's case.

The prosecution said that in the recorded statement Triplett admitted being with Jimmy the night he disappeared and striking him with his fist after the boy resisted hugs and kisses.

Gets Registration Materials

MARLENE BOND, G, Jonesboro, La., left, is receiving registration materials from Mrs. Glen Eckard in the basement of University hall, Thursday. Materials can be picked up today after commencement exercises until 4:30 p.m., Saturday morning until noon, or until 4:30 p.m. Monday. Registration for the summer session is Tuesday.

Refugee Relief Job to Gerety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The job of handling the controversial refugee relief program was handed Thursday to Pierce J. Gerety, a 41-year-old lawyer, with orders from President Eisenhower to "make it succeed."

Gerety has been serving in the comparatively quiet job of general counsel of the civil service commission. He formerly headed a board which looked into loyalty cases among Americans employed by the United Nations and other international organizations.

Controversial Problem

The refugee problem has been in controversy before and since congress passed a 1953 law permitting the entrance of 214,000 refugees and other non-quota immigrants by the end of 1956.

The controversy reached a climax this spring with the ouster of Edward J. Corsi, a New York state Republican who had been brought here as special adviser to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on immigration problems.

Corsi Tried to Run Show

Corsi accused Scott McLeod, state department security chief and administrator of the 1953 law, of trying to wreck the refugee program. Corsi said that under what he called McLeod's "security gang," the program had become "a complete failure and a national scandal." Dulles said he let Corsi go because he was trying to take over the whole show.

Gerety Under McLeod

It was stated specifically Thursday that Gerety will be under McLeod as deputy administrator — a title the State department said was offered Corsi — but will have "complete authority and responsibility for the operation of the refugee program."

Nothing was said about any 90-day limit on the job. When Corsi was let out, the State department said 90 days was the limit on his "special adviser" job.

MEASURED CAPACITY

RAVENNA, O. (AP) — A Ravenna man testified that it takes about four and a half cases of beer to get him drunk. Police arrested him for driving on the wrong side of the street and charged him with driving while intoxicated. Phelph said he drank less than a case of beer before his arrest.

Journalism Classes Elect New Officers

Ira Kapenstein, A3, New York, N. Y., was elected president of the senior class in the SUI school of journalism in balloting that ended Thursday.

Loy Brooks, A2, Des Moines, was elected president of the junior class.

The officers elected will serve as class officers during the 1955-56 academic year.

Other senior class officers: Arnold Gore, A3, Kankakee, Ill., vice-president, and Terry Bledsoe, A3, Clinton, secretary-treasurer.

BEE-DEVILED

SPROUSE'S CORNER, Va. (AP) — The Virginia Museum of Fine Art's traveling artmobile has drawn thousands of visitors, but one was decidedly unwelcome. A bee buzzed into the cab. The curator-driver, Sam Crockett, lost control and the vehicle overturned. Neither Crokett nor the cargo of paintings was injured. The bee departed for a study of real life subjects.
