

Russians Expel 3 American Army Attaches

Ousting Seen
As Retaliation
To U.S. Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has expelled three American army officers attached to the American embassy in Moscow on the ground they were involved in improper activities, informed sources said Friday.

The three men — a lieutenant colonel and two captains — are understood to have already left the Soviet Union.

Diplomatic Feud

The Russian move struck a discordant note in Moscow's current peace offensive and opened the way for retaliation by the United States against Soviet diplomats here and in New York.

It came as the latest maneuver in a diplomatic feud between Russia and the United States which has seen several diplomats on each side expelled on charges of espionage.

No Official Comment

The Americans involved in the latest incident were reported to be Lt. Col. John S. Benson, assigned to Moscow about 10 months; Capt. William R. Stroud, an embassy attache for 15 months; and Capt. Walter Mule who had been in Moscow 27 months. All three were assistant army attaches.

When the story broke Friday, the state department refused to make any official comment. Officials appeared upset because a reporter learned about it.

Reliable informants, however, reported the three Americans had been declared persona non grata — no longer acceptable — in the Soviet Union.

Other Cases

In the past, Russia and the United States both have resorted to this diplomatic move whenever they want to force the departure of anyone suspected or accused of spying on them.

In the last such case, July 3, 1954, Russia expelled two Americans — Lt. Col. H. Felchlin, an assistant attache; and Maj. W. McKinney. They were charged with seeking to perform espionage work, an activity "incompatible with their diplomatic status." The state department categorically denied Russia's charge.

The department said at the time that Russia's move actually was retaliation against the United States for forcing the departure early in 1954 of three Soviet diplomats alleged to have engaged in spying.

Jury Returns
Guilty Verdict
On Triplett

LE MARS (AP) — A Plymouth county district court jury Friday night convicted Ernest J. Triplett of second degree murder in the slaying of 8-year-old Jimmy Bremmer of Sioux City.

The jury reached its verdict after four hours and 23 minutes of deliberation. Second degree murder carries a penalty of 10 years to life in prison.

After the verdict was announced Defense Attorney Thomas O. Tacy said:

"Triplett now is acquitted of first degree murder. He can only be charged with second degree murder in the new trial."

He said he had asked Judge R. G. Rodman for 15 days to file a motion for a new trial. If the judge overrules the motion, Tacy said, the judge then will set the date for sentencing.

The case went to the jury at 5:20 p.m. The jury went out to eat at 6 o'clock and resumed its deliberations an hour later. The verdict was announced at 10:42 p.m.

The state had asked the death penalty for Triplett.

Seamen Gain
GAW Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — An east coast seamen's strike was gradually dissolving Friday under an agreed-upon principle of a guaranteed wage plan.

There was no immediate relaxation of the tie-up of 40 ships from Texas to Maine. However, there was peace on one front in the contract battle and a promise of peace on the others.

The strike of 28,000 CIO National Maritime union sailors early Thursday had threatened to snarl American-flag trans-Atlantic passenger service at the peak of record tourist year.

By voice vote, NMU members approved a contract agreement Friday with operators of East and Gulf coast liners and freighters. It was expected that 37 tanker firms might soon fall in line.

Ike Ends Alert; Asks Reserves

EMERGENCY PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Operation Alert (AP)

President Eisenhower rang down the curtain on Operation Alert, 1955 Friday with a call for peace prayers, better civil defense organization and quick approval by congress of his military reserve program.

Speaking from a secret command post away from Washington, Eisenhower said he derived "great encouragement" from lessons learned in the vast civil defense exercise—one that saw more than 50 cities theoretically wiped out and 15,000 government people actually evacuated from the capital before it was "bombed to radioactive rubble."

Prayers

But in solemn tones the chief executive said:

"This is my deepest impression of this exercise: The most devout daily prayers that any of us should be uttered in the supplication that this kind of disaster never comes to the United States."

In a brief address, Eisenhower declared the most important point he wanted to make was that no "extraneous matter of any kind" must block congressional action on military reserve bills.

Eisenhower's reserve program has been shunted aside in the house in a dispute over a move to bar race segregation in the reserves and the National Guard.

Only Friday the senate armed services committee decided to hold up action until the situation clears up in the house.

The President's final report on Operation Alert was a go-home signal to the 15,000 government workers who flowed out of the capital when air raid sirens shrieked about noon Wednesday.

The President himself went on to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm after the report.

Before he talked, Eisenhower met at the underground Pentagon with key aides who gave him a final report on "damage" and a calculated 14% million "casualties" from the simulated atomic onslaught against cities from coast to coast and from Alaska to the Panama Canal zone.

In a final statement, Civil Defense Administrator Val C. Peterson reported, "marked improvement" over last year's Operation Alert, which had no such elaborate features as a 15,000-strong flight from Washington.

Article five of the petition says: "That the cost to taxpayers of Iowa City is too much for purposes of permitting motorists who desire to make left turns to go through a little faster."

Other articles say that the widening (1) will not relieve the traffic bottleneck on the Burlington bridge, (2) will cost Burlington street property owners too much for revision, (3) create sidewalk problems, (4) congest the street by attracting more cars and (5) will not make left turns any easier.

The house added $500,000 to the $4 million figure recommended by the house appropriations committee. President Eisenhower had asked for $4.5 million in his budget message.

The Coralville project appropriation was part of a $526,219,800 inland waterways program passed by the house Thursday.

$500,000 Appropriation

The $500,000 addition came when house members openly traded votes to put through projects in their districts.

SUI Medical Center Bids Postponed

The taking of bids on SUI's proposed medical research center were postponed Friday. Bids will be accepted later in July.

The U.S. public health service approved the $1,263,000 center. George L. Horner, SUI planning and construction superintendent, said Friday.

The service is putting up about $306,000 for the center. The $900,000 appropriation made by the 1953 state legislature will finance the rest.

The center is planned for the area between the University hospital and the medical laboratory. Passageways will connect the three buildings.

The T-shaped center will face Newton road with the top of the T four stories high. The rest will be two stories.

The building will provide research areas and laboratories for the SUI college of medicine and university hospitals.

State Awards 12 Printing Contracts

DES MOINES (AP) — The state printing board awarded 12 printing contracts Friday, and all except two went to the Wallace-Homestead co. of Des Moines. The state furnishes the paper.

The contracts included:

Iowa fire marshal's annual report, 12,000 copies, Anundsen Printing Co., Decorah, $518.

Iowa Transit magazine, a publication for the SUI engineering college, 1,500 copies, Service Press co., Cedar Rapids, $320 per issue.

The board also purchased some stock paper.

Gov. Leo A. Hoegh asked state officials in a conference earlier this week to work toward efficiency and economy, and he specifically emphasized the advisability of cutting down state printing costs.

GRADES

Second semester grades will be available to students in liberal arts, commerce, and graduate college sometime next week.

Harvey J. Crox, recorder in the registrar's office said Friday.

Time and place of distribution will be announced early next week, Crox said.

Students in colleges of nursing, pharmacy, engineering, dental hygiene, medicine, dentistry and law can obtain their grades from their respective dean's offices.

Nautilus Finishes Shakedown Cruise

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The world's only atomic powered submarine, the Nautilus, has completed a six-week shakedown period successfully, the Navy reported Friday. The tests included a 1,400-mile voyage sub-

The Nautilus, on a cruise to the Caribbean in May, did not surface after leaving here until she reached San Juan, Puerto Rico, the Navy said.

Her log since January, when she moved under atomic power for the first time, shows more than 10,000 miles traveled and 180 dives.

Local training operations, with brief periods in port, are now in store for the Nautilus, the Navy said.

Peron Decrees Drastic Steps To Crush Rebels

HERE IS THE SCENE at the Melilla airport at Montevideo, Uruguay, as planes fleeing from the Argentine land take refuge. Reports from Montevideo said that 37 planes fleeing from revolt-torn Argentina took refuge at three airfields in Uruguay.

Says Military Will Repress All Disorders

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Juan D. Peron Friday night decreed a drastic crackdown on roaming mobs who sacked and burned some of Buenos Aires' finest churches in the bloody Thursday naval-air revolt.

He blamed Communists for the attacks on the churches following the ill-starred revolt in which 36 persons died and nearly 1,000 were wounded.

In a 13-minute broadcast to the nation, the Argentine strong man said peace now prevails.

Peron promised to deal vigorous justice upon those responsible for the rebellion and that the military, under a new state of siege, would repress all kinds of disorders.

The naval mutineers, it appears, were in Peron's hands or had taken refuge in neighboring Uruguay after bombing and strafing the government house, the pink-walled palace housing the presidential offices, and ripping gashly wounds in the near-by Plaza de Mayo area.

U.S. Embassy Hit

Among the buildings damaged were the United States and British embassies.

A communications blackout which had prevented correspondents in this shocked capital from reporting events finally was lifted Friday night after nine hours.

The correspondents were required, however, to have their copy censored by officials.

A police cordon fenced off 15 blocks in the center of the city and around the Plaza de Mayo, preventing a first-hand inspection of Thursday's fighting scenes. At intervals the authorities exploded bombs that had failed to go off in the rebel attack.

The Air Ministry Friday banned air traffic to and from Buenos Aires and its vicinity.

Government Approves

The chamber of deputies approved the state of siege which Peron declared Thursday. The senate also approved.

A police cordon fenced off 15 blocks in the center of the city and around the Plaza de Mayo, preventing a first-hand inspection of Thursday's fighting scenes. At intervals the authorities exploded bombs that had failed to go off in the rebel attack.

The Air Ministry Friday banned air traffic to and from Buenos Aires and its vicinity.

Report Continued Resistance

A broadcast heard in Montevideo which claimed to be from a clandestine rebel radio, reported widespread areas of continued resistance, though Peron said the revolt had been crushed. This broadcast said naval forces had risen against the government at Puerto Belgrano, in southern Buenos Aires Province.

Army garrisons at Rosario, second largest Argentine city, and Cordoba, also were reported to have revolted against the Peron regime.

Peron, excommunicated by the Vatican a few hours before the falling of bombs signaled South America's bloodiest rebellion in many years, insisted in his broadcast Friday night that "we are not fighting religion."

All That's Involved

All that was involved, he said, was the question of whether the Roman Catholic Church should remain the official state church, as at present, or should be severed from its legal status with the state.

He said this could be settled in the scheduled election of an assembly to amend the constitution — probably late this year — and urged again and again that Argentines remain calm and let the issue be settled at the polls.

House Boosts Fund for Coralville Dam

The much-delayed Coralville dam-reservoir project was given another boost Thursday night when the house voted a $4.5 million appropriation to resume work on the project, which was discontinued in 1952 due to lack of funds.

The house added $500,000 to the $4 million figure recommended by the house appropriations committee. President Eisenhower had asked for $4.5 million in his budget message.

The Coralville project appropriation was part of a $526,219,800 inland waterways program passed by the house Thursday.

The $500,000 addition came when house members openly traded votes to put through projects in their districts.

All eight members of the Iowa delegation voted for the bill containing the Coralville project.

Work Begun in 1949

Work on the Coralville project started in July, 1949. Army engineers said then the project would be completed in late 1953 or early 1954.

Work on the project continued until funds ran out in January, 1951. Congress refused to appropriate more funds during the Korean war emergency.

President Eisenhower asked the Republican-controlled 83d congress for $2.2 million for the project in 1953, but the house appropriations committee voted it down.

The project was renewed in the second session of the 83d congress when an appropriation of $1,750,000 was approved.

President Eisenhower's budget that year had asked for a $2.3 million figure.

With this money, work was started this spring on raising road grades and railways to put them above the water level of the reservoir and graveling roads leading to the dam site.

Iowans To Meet For Child Welfare Studies

The welfare of children will hold the spotlight in three meetings on the SUI campus next week.

Thirty-five discussion group leaders from local Parent-Teacher association units in Iowa will register Sunday evening for the sixth annual Parent-Education leadership workshop preparing leaders for parent-education discussion groups in Iowa communities.

The workshop will continue through Friday under sponsorship of the Iowa Congress of Parents and Teachers in cooperation with the Iowa Child Welfare Research station. Meetings will be held in Iowa Memorial union.

Human Relations Study

Opening Monday in the SUI Center for Continuation Study will be a two-week Workshop on Education in Human Relations and Mental Health, with some 35 educators, social workers and group leaders from Iowa and neighboring states expected to participate.

Speaker at the opening session Monday afternoon at 2:10 will be Dr. Paul Huston, head of the psychiatry department in the SUI college of medicine.

Dr. Huston will discuss how environmental stresses may bring about mental breakdowns and will explain the part the school and home can play in preventing such breakdowns.

Members of both workshops will join Iowa parents and teachers from all parts of the state in attending the 28th Iowa conference on child development and parent education Tuesday and Wednesday in Old Capitol.

The conference is being sponsored by the Iowa Child Welfare Research station in cooperation with the SUI college of nursing and the Iowa Council on Family Relations.

"The Challenge of the Early Years" will be the theme of his year's conference, expected to bring some 350 registrants for one of the largest meetings of the summer at SUI.

Six work groups to be formed during the conference will consider preparation for parenthood and problems of parents during their children's early years.

Open to Public

Conference lecturers who will form a panel to summarize the meeting following a luncheon Wednesday in Iowa Memorial Union are Dr. Kent A. Zimmerman, Elizabeth Hall and Dr. Gunnar Dybwad. Dr. Zimmerman is director of child guidance services for Children's hospital of the East Bay, Oakland, Calif. Miss Hall is director of pediatric nursing at Boston university and Dr. Dybwad is director of the Child Study Association of America, with offices in New York city.

Two Young Park Deer Need Names

Iowa City children up to 14 years old will name two white deer at city park zoo in a contest sponsored by the Iowa City park board.

The Iowa City Lions club is contributing money for two $10 prizes, one each for the names of the buck and doe.

The deer were brought to city park zoo in April from the Rose park zoo in Prairie du Chien, Wis. Neither is full-grown.

The deer are in a fenced-in area on the park's lower level, across the road from the playground.

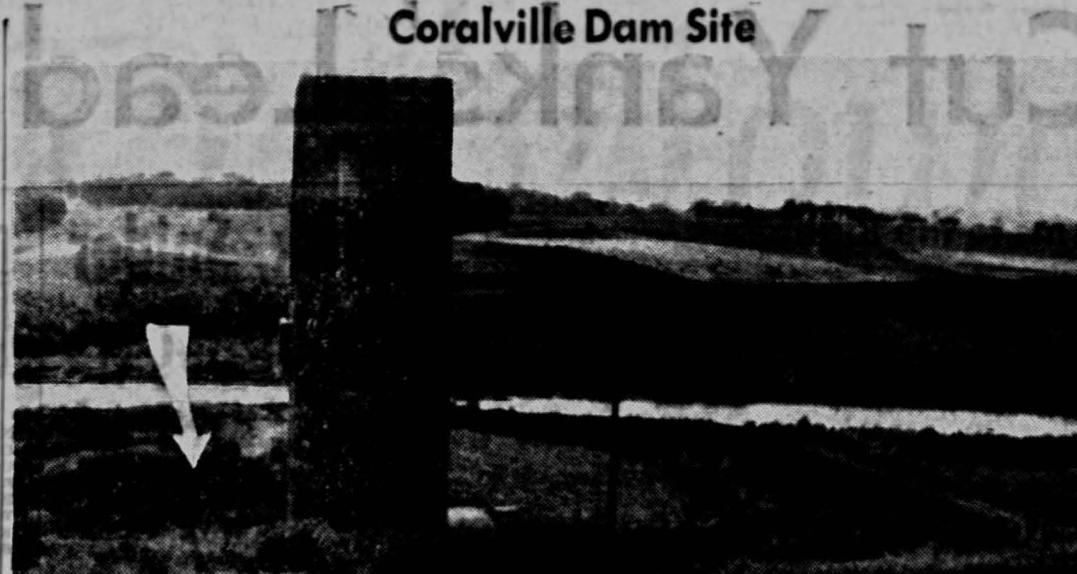

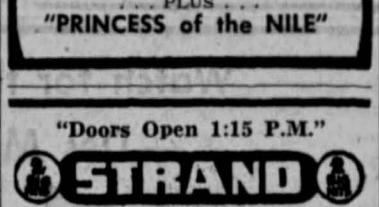

Buford W. Garner, superintendent of schools, and Harold J. Roberts, utility company executive, will be the judges of the contest.

Entries must be postmarked not later than midnight June 25. All entries are to be made on post cards and should be mailed to Francis W. Suerpell, secretary, park board, 22½ South Dubuque street.

Children can submit one name for each deer. No child will be eligible to win more than one of the two prizes.

FARRELL WILL HEAD TALKS

Thomas Farrell Jr., associate professor of English at SUI, will preside over a conference at the 63rd annual meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education June 20-24 at Pennsylvania State University, University Park, Pa. More than 200 separate symposia, papers and discussions are scheduled. Farrell will head a luncheon conference of the English division.

When completed the dam will span the Iowa river at the level indicated by the arrow. The river will be diverted by the dam and flow through the gates at the bottom of the tower. White Sox Cut Yanks' Lead To A Game, 2-1

9th Inning Hit By Kell Scores Deciding Run

NEW YORK (AP)—George Kell smacked pitcher Whitey Ford for a single that brought home the winning run in the ninth inning Friday night as the Chicago White Sox beat New York 2-1. The victory moved the Sox to within one game of the American League-leading Yankees.

It was the fifth hit off Ford and the second of the night for Kell.

The New York lefty until then had been working in a tight duel with righthander Dick Donovan. Mickle Mantle, fanned by Donovan with the bases loaded in the third, belted a tremendous home run for New York's third hit and a 1-1 tie in the eighth.

Nellie Fox singled for the fourth hit off Ford, stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to 13. After Minnie Minoso sacrificed Ford to second, Kell frustrated Ford's attempt to give him an intentional walk and lined the single to left.
