Senate Kills McCarthy Big 4 Plan

Scelba Resigns After Party Rift

ROME (AP)—A Rightist minority in his own Christian Democrat party forced pro-Western Premier Mario Scelba to resign Wednesday and plunged Italy into a governmental crisis.

The resignation came just two months after Scelba made a triumphal tour of the United States in which he was received by President Eisenhower and hailed by thousands of Italian-Americans as a stout friend of the U.S.

Bitter Day

It was a bitter day for the little Sicilian who has become known as Italy's leading post-war foe of communism.

After long and futile efforts to avert the crisis by reshuffling his Center bloc-coalition Cabinet, Scelba gave up trying to close rifts in his own Christian Democrat party ranks.

He was obliged to notify President Giovanni Gronchi, member of the Leftist branch of the Christian Democrats, that his Cabinet could not continue in office. Scelba had opposed the Communist-supported Gronchi's election last April.

Remain at Posts

Following the usual routine of Italian government crises, Gronchi asked Scelba and his ministers to remain at their posts while a solution is sought.

The President then scheduled a series of conferences with Italian political leaders preparatory to asking one of them to try to form a new government.

Scelba's position suddenly weakened Tuesday night when the Christian Democrat party directorate declared in an official communique that it did not consider his Cabinet reshuffle an adequate means of reconstituting the Democratic coalition.

In a final Cabinet meeting Wednesday that lasted three hours, Scelba and his ministers made their decision.

Personal Trouble

His vice premier, Social Democrat Giuseppe Saragat, came out of the long session to make a heated statement. He accused Rightist groups of the Christian Democrats of having made a deal with Monarchist-Fascists to open the crisis.

"The difficulty within the Christian Democrat party," said Saragat, "is more personal than political."

"Small minority groups within the Christian Democrats, in an attempt to checkmate their own party, are making use of the totalitarian forces of both the right and left."

Since the end of the war there have been about a dozen Italian government crises. During these, administrative functions continue but no important new decision is taken.

THIS LONE FIREMAN is shown silhouetted against a wall of flame in a $500,000 warehouse fire on Toronto's waterfront early Wednesday morning. The buildings were packed with kegs of vegetable oils and animal feed which sent flames leaping 200 feet in the air. The blaze was stopped from spreading to explosive materials stored in nearby warehouses.

Chicago Policeman Criticizes The Tough Cop on the Beat

The policeman on the beat may be the difference between a good citizen and a cop-killer, a Chicago officer told Iowa police officials Wednesday.

Captain William J. Szarat spoke to the 19th annual Police Short Course on juvenile crime in his city. He is director of a Chicago police youth bureau.

Szarat said that the most difficult gang leaders in his city are those who have had a "working-over by a tough cop."

"It's a tough job to reduce this hatred by trying to convince these youngsters that brutal policemen are the exception,"

Szarat said. "Policemen should consider what they would be if they were products of broken homes and a crime-breeding environment, he said.

"The police are in a good spot to get behind the scenes and uncover some of the crime-breeding influences of the community," Szarat said.

"And the new policeman is just as interested in the kid who is apt to commit a crime as in one who does."

Szarat cited a recent example of this in Chicago: A policeman gained the confidence of a runaway boy from a small Midwestern town. The boy led officers to five homosexuals who were depraving youngsters in Chicago parks. The five were paying penniless young runaway boys for such depravity.

Szarat said detention homes and jails were breeding grounds for crime in Chicago.

"A child can learn a world of knowledge which serves him as an entry into the criminal world in only 24 hours in a detention home," Szarat said.

"He can learn about fences, gang affiliations, and how to make contacts after he gets out that will net him bigger hauls."

Szarat said in city jails the young offender meets experienced criminals and homosexuals.

He said that allowing the youngster to remain in the custody of his parents until trial is a better procedure.

He quoted these figures to prove his point:

1. Only 12 per cent of youngsters allowed to remain with their parents became repeaters in the past 10 years in Chicago.

2. Over the same period 70 per cent of the youngsters sent to correctional institutions became repeaters.

Says Arrest Of Turncoats Is Certain

HONOLULU (AP)—The Star-Bulletin said Wednesday the Army has ordered its area commanders to take into custody three former American soldiers the Communists say now have permission to leave Red China.

The three, dishonorably discharged when prisoners of war, chose to remain in Red China after the Korean War. They are Cpl. Lewis W. Griggs, Jacksonville, Tex.; Cpl. Otho G. Bell, Olympia, Wash., and Cpl. William Cowart, Dalton, Ga.

Cowart, the Reds said, wants to go to Japan; the others to the United States.

The Star-Bulletin quoted an unidentified Army source as saying the men may be picked up "whenever and wherever they come out of Red China."

Under Article III of the Uniform Code of Military Justice they can be tried for offenses committed while subject to military law, the source said.

There was no indication what charge if any would be filed against the men.

Stevens, Foe Of McCarthy, Quits Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert T. Stevens quit as Secretary of the Army Wednesday, a year after his televised row with Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.).

President Eisenhower named Pentagon general counsel Wilber M. Brucker, onetime Republican governor of Michigan, to succeed him.

Stevens, who had said repeatedly he would stay in office as long as the President wanted him, gave unspecified "compelling personal considerations" as his reasons for resigning, effective toward the end of next month.

Nothing About McCarthy

Eisenhower, in a letter accepting the resignation "with deep regret," praised him for "devotion."

Neither man made any reference to the McCarthy-Army row which roared to a climax just about this time last year. Since then four other figures in the controversy have left the government—McCarthy aides Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr; Army counsel John G. Adams and Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensele.

In addition McCarthy was rebuked by the Senate—though not on charges growing directly out of his feud with Stevens and other Pentagon officials.

McCarthy declined comment Wednesday on Stevens' resignation.

Brucker, who will be 61 Thursday, has been the Defense Department's general counsel—and head of its security system—since April 1954.

The White House announced the Stevens-Brucker shift just before Eisenhower took off for a swing through New England. Only Tuesday presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty denied any knowledge that the long-rumored Stevens resignation was imminent.

Ride with Ike Stevens, Brucker and Secretary of Defense Wilson rode with the President from the White House to the airport.

Brucker's nomination must be approved by the Senate. Stevens became a familiar figure to the nation in last year's televised hearings into his charge that McCarthy and aides tried by improper methods to get special treatment for their just-drafted associate, Pvt. G. David Schine, and McCarthy's countercharge that the Army tried to blackmail him out of investigating alleged subversion, especially at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

Stevens, 55, presumably will return to his post as board chairman of J. P. Stevens, Inc., one of the nation's biggest textile concerns.

To Open Medical Center Bids July 21

Bids on the proposed $1,265,000 medical research center at University Hospitals will be opened July 21, George Horner, planning and construction superintendent, said Wednesday.

The bid opening was postponed last Friday while the State University of Iowa sought the approval of the center's plans by the United States Public Health Service.

The service, which is putting up $366,000 for the building, gave its approval Friday, Horner said.

The research center will be located between the general hospital and medical laboratories on Newton road.

Idea To Force Talk On Red Satellites Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate administered a 77-4 drubbing Wednesday to Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and his resolution to force a discussion of the Soviet satellites at the forthcoming Big Four conference.

In the maneuvering and heated bickering that preceded the vote, McCarthy tried and failed to call off a direct showdown. The Democratic leadership blocked that maneuver and the result was the overwhelming vote rebuffing McCarthy.

The Senate roared down a motion by Sen. William Jenner (R-Ind.), friend of McCarthy, to send the resolution back to the Foreign Relations Committee. It balked at taking what McCarthy called a "softened down" substitute. It refused to let McCarthy withdraw the original.

And the Wisconsin senator wound up by tossing charges of aiding the Communists at those who insisted on the showdown vote which McCarthy himself had been demanding as late as last Monday.

Solid Team
The administration, Senate leaders of both parties and the Foreign Relations Committee teamed up almost solidly against the resolution, which would have expressed the sense of the Sen-

First Summer Session Play June 28-30

The first play of the summer session, "Black Blizzard," by Sherwood Collins, G. Junction City, Kan., will be presented by the University Theater June 28, 29 and 30.

The play is part of Collins' doctoral work in State University of Iowa Speech and Dramatic Art Department.

It is the story of the fight of Kansas farmers to master the prairie and its dust storms.

The play will be directed by Prof. Harold Crain, of the SUI Dramatic Art Department. Prof. A. S. Gillette, associate director of the dramatic art laboratory, designed the set. Prof. Walter Dewey of the SUI Dramatic Art Department, is in charge of lighting, and Miss Janet Loring, G. Kansas City, Mo., costumes.

Tickets will be on sale at room 8A Shaeffer Hall Monday through Friday at 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Admission is $1.25.

Cast members: Beck Whitney, Robert Paulus, G. Iowa City; Margaret Whitney, Helen Baird, G. Iowa City; Andy Whitney, Kent Braverman, A4, Iowa City; Henry Jackson, Sam Smiley, G. Columbus, Ind.; John Dickerson, Arthur Housman, G. Kirkwood, Mo.

Knowland told McCarthy he objected to the original resolution and would object to any amendment or substitute.

McCarthy retorted that he was not surprised that the Democratic party was bucking his proposal, "but I am surprised, shocked and disappointed at the position the minority leader takes." The record of the Democratic party, McCarthy said, is one of "whining and whimpering" over communism.

Leaping back to his feet, Knowland replied:

"Whining, Whimpering"

"I will not allow the senator to say I have been whining and whimpering."

Three times, McCarthy insisted he was talking only of Democrats. But he said Knowland's position was in "complete contradiction of the solemn pledges made in the Republican party platform of 1952 to work for freeing the 'captive peoples' behind the Iron Curtain."

In view of that plank, he asked whether any Republican voting against his resolution was not a "disgrace to his party." A "no" vote, he said, would give the Communists a great propaganda weapon.

Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) hopped into the skirmishing to protest that McCarthy was making "a blanket indictment of the President, Secretary of State and Republicans as Communist appeasers."

Bigger, Better Atom Bomb?

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago area atomic scientists speculated Wednesday that the United States has a new, more powerful and cheaper atomic bomb.

Members of the Atomic Scientists of Chicago released a statement to that effect at a luncheon on the University of Chicago campus.

"Scientists have suggested," the statement said, "that the hydrogen bomb detonated in the Pacific in March of 1954 was actually a new device—a hydrogen-uranium bomb yielding thousands of times the radioactivity produced by the atomic bombs tested in Nevada or by simple hydrogen bombs."

The statement added that a speech made at the University of Chicago June 3 by Dr. Willard F. Libby, member of the Atomic Energy Commission, was "the first major speech to give sufficient information supporting this hypothesis."

The scientists said Libby's speech indicated that "ordinary, cheap uranium" was the major explosive content of the Pacific bomb.

Molotov Calls for 'Peaceful Coexistence'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—V. M. Molotov Wednesday put before the United Nations a far-reaching Russian bid for "peaceful coexistence" to end the cold war. He left the next move to the United States and the other Western Powers.

The Soviet foreign minister told the 10th anniversary meeting of the UN that "We should pass from words to deeds and embark upon such steps as would lead to the establishment of trust among nations."

Need for Security

"What is obviously needed," he said, "is something more than just verbal recognition of the principle of coexistence and peaceful cooperation between countries with different social structures. . . . What we are all interested in today is not merely that certain principles be recognized or proclaimed but that concrete action be taken to serve the cause of maintaining and cementing international peace and security."

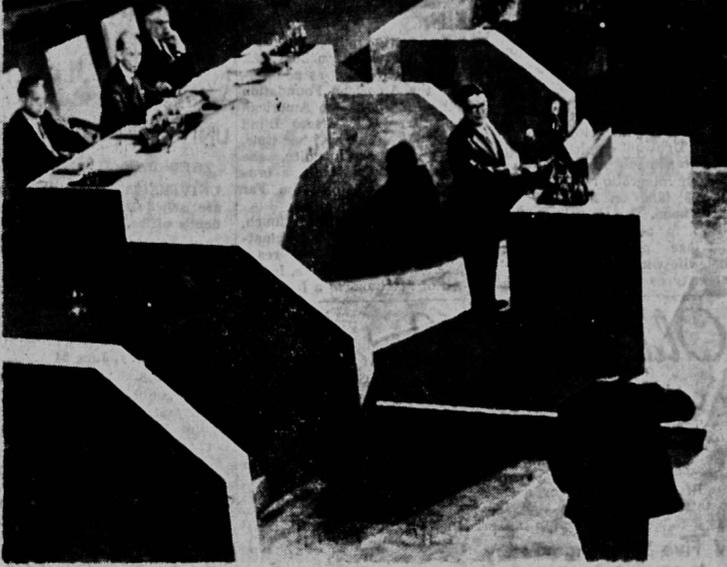

In a one-paragraph reference to the Big Four summit meeting next month, Molotov said it will have "great importance if all its members show a genuine desire to ease tensions in international relations, to settle outstanding issues and to consolidate peace."

To the applause of delegates of 89 other countries and hundreds of San Franciscans, Molotov pledged the support of the Soviet Union to the UN in its continuing efforts to cement peace and restore international trust.

As a step on that road, he urged the UN to consider calling a world economic conference to facilitate the development of international trade.

Molotov's Program

Molotov's program embraced many of the major points Moscow has fought for in vain in the last 10 years. Here are some of the moves he said should be

1. Red China must be seated in the UN without "further procrastination" and the island of Formosa must be "returned" to the Chinese authorities on the mainland.

2. Settlement of the problem of atomic weapons, renunciation of the use of atomic and hydrogen weapons, and outlawing of these weapons completely.

3. Inclusion of representatives of Red China in future discussions on the problem of reduction of armaments, the prohibition of atomic weapons and the "removal of the threat of a new war."

4. Implementation of the General Assembly's resolution on the termination of war propaganda in all countries. This resolution was passed in 1947 and represented a watered-down version of a Soviet attack on "warmongers."

5. Agreement among the great powers to dismantle bases in foreign territories.

6. Agreement between the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France on the withdrawal of their forces from Germany, with the exception of small contingents to be temporarily left behind, and strict limitation of local police forces in both parts of Germany.

7. Development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy and large-scale industrial, scientific and technical assistance to countries which are less fully developed technically.

A Clenched Fist?

"War to the hilt between communism and capitalism is inevitable. Today, of course, we are not strong enough to attack. Our time will come in 20 or 30 years.

"To win we shall need the element of surprise. The bourgeoisie will have to be put to sleep. So we shall begin by launching the most spectacular peace movement on record. There will be electrifying overtures and unheard of concessions. The capitalist countries, stupid and decadent, will rejoice to cooperate in their own destruction.

"They will leap at another chance to be friends. As soon as their guard is down, we shall smash them with our clenched fist."

This statement was made in 1931 by Dimitry Z. Manuisky, Ukraine presiding officer of the United Nations Security Council during the 1949 session.

Manuisky was ousted from the Russian foreign ministry during the time of the Beria purge in 1953, but his statements live after him.

Twenty-four years ago Manuisky, an old-time Bolshevik born in 1883, said that in 20 or 30 years the time would be ripe for a Russian attack on the capitalist world.

He said the attack would be preceded by a spectacular peace movement.

In 1955, we find the Russians in the midst of a spectacular peace movement. Premier Bulganin tells 100,000 people at a celebration for India's Nehru that the Red's aim is to ease tension.

A "new" Molotov comes to the U.S., accepts a 10-gallon hat in Wyoming and says "We must work for world peace." Khrushchev goes to Belgrade, pats Tito on the shoulder and gets drunk at a party.

Germany's Adenauer gets an invitation to go to Russia for a discussion of cooperation between the two countries. Marshall Zhukov keeps up a steady stream of pleasant correspondence with President Eisenhower. Russia signs a neutrality treaty with Austria and moves her troops out.

Even Red China gets into the act by cordially allowing three American ex-G.I.s who had originally refused repatriation to return to the U.S.

What is the Russian aim? Was Manuisky right when he said that in 1950 or in 1960 a gigantic Russian peace propaganda campaign would come before a surprise attack?

Or has the Russian policy changed? Have the so-called practical Communists taken over with a realization that they cannot win the world by a fighting war?

The problem of evaluating the new Russian peace offensive faces the free world. The dilemma is two-fold.

If we completely reject Russian peace moves we may be casting away solid opportunities to ease world tension and to bring about world peace.

But if we are taken in by the new line, if we leave our guard down, we could be hit with, as Manuisky put it, a "clenched fist."

Interpreting the News—

Conditions Look 'Too Good' For Geneva Talk Success

By J. M. ROBERTS Associated Press News Analyst

A friend of mine recently returned from a series of official and unofficial interviews in Europe with the feeling that "things look almost too good."

The spate of optimistic remarks about the possibilities of peace which have come from world leaders this week sound almost too good. One cannot help recalling Chamberlain's "Peace in our time" and Hitler's promises of no more demands against Europe.

There has been an obvious attempt by some, especially on the Allied side, to warn about the difficulties which will attend negotiations with the Soviet Union.

Allied Estimate

All this talk has to be taken against the background of the unspoken Allied estimate of what the Russians are up to. And that estimate does not include real peace.

After the Big Three foreign ministers met in New York last week it became obvious that, among the many things they were agreed on, they all considered Russia's current moves as merely tactical, containing no promise of any change in her objectives. These are to divide the non-Communist nations and eventually bring them all into the Communist sphere.

Geneva will either have to make a start toward revision of this goal or be counted as a failure.

Security Without Control The Allies will try to make the Russians see that they can have security without control. They will try to test how much her attitude is the result of fear, and how much it is a part of Communist expansionist determination.

Reports keep cropping up that the Allies will have something concrete to offer in the way of disarmament and collective security, even though they don't expect Russia to be willing to pay the price at any early date. The price would be reunification of Germany through free elections, an end to Russia's divisive tactics and her fight against German rearmament, and some token that she would not merely use a period of peace to prepare for further conquest.

Arms Race Not Over

There is not even any hope for an immediate curtailment of the arms race, although that is something Russia seems to really want. The price the Allies would have to pay for that would be weakening to their entire defense setup. There is nothing in the air now, and nothing is expected any time soon, to lessen the inherent dangers of that.

Taken on balance, despite all the peace talk in San Francisco and Moscow, the Allies appear to be going to Geneva not with the idea of accomplishing anything, but with the intention of not missing any outside chance.

Parents Shouldn't Try To Set Rigid Rules in Child-Rearing

There are no ten "do's" or "don't's" for experts to give parents as guides to raising their children. While parents can be taught what danger signs to recognize, they cannot be given any rules to apply rigidly to any situation.

Dr. Gunnar Dybwad, director of the Child Study Association of America, stressed this point to more than 300 parents, teachers, nurses, and social workers attending the closing address of the 28th Iowa Conference on Child Development and Parent Education Wednesday at the State University of Iowa.

Sense Change

Parents need to be sensitive to the changing stages in their child's development, Dr. Dybwad said, so they can give him reassurance in the varying amounts he will require until he attains the independence of maturity. Children may even begin actively to push their parents away with criticisms as they move toward independence, the speaker explained, yet the parent must be ready in the background with his support.

Parents can get many cues as to what help their child needs from the child himself, by talking with him and observing him, Dr. Dybwad said, though there will be times when all parents will feel uncomfortable and distant from their children. Such temporary feelings do not mean that the over-all relationship is not comfortable.

Father's Part

The increased part which fathers have been taking in infant care during the last 10 years is a good thing, he explained, and pointed out a need to include fathers in education programs in family living.

Referring to the discouragement experienced by some parents as they encounter conflicting advice from child development authorities, Dr. Dybwad explained that it is only reasonable to expect differences of opinion of such complex processes as personality development.

Dr. Dybwad emphasized the need to achieve personal maturity and integration before individuals take on marriage and parenthood. Only then are they ready to achieve a successful marriage partnership, sharing their life without giving up their integrity as individuals, he said.

Helen Keller Gives Hope To The Blind

EASTON, Conn. (CP) — The world has 14 million blind people. One of them, Helen Keller, can easily be labeled "America's first lady of courage."

On June 27, Helen Keller will reach another milestone in her unusual career—her 75th. At an age when most of us are thinking of retirement, Helen Keller remains healthy, vigorous, serene and ever-responsive to the fast-moving world around her.

At 75, Miss Keller is full of plans and projects, complains constantly about the too-few hours in the day, and is deeply worried about the other blind people of the world — the millions she feels are not as fortunate as she.

Helen Keller Legend

The Helen Keller legend has become world history. She was born a normal child, in the little town of Tuscumbia, Ala., in 1880. The white frame cottage of her parents was called Ivy Green.

Then, at the age of 19 months, disease suddenly sealed off her eyes and ears, leaving her a half-wild creature with babbling guttural speech.

At the age of 7, Anne (Teacher) Sullivan came into Helen Keller's life. She remained until her death, 49 years later. Even today, Miss Keller remembers that first meeting:

"I sensed approaching footsteps, and held out my hand, thinking it was mother. Someone took my hand and I was caught up and held close in the arms of her who had come to reveal all things to me..."

'Not Dumb'

Now began the long battle of teaching words to a child who could not see and could not hear. Three years later, with the help of a special teacher, Helen Keller walked into the family parlor one day, to announce slowly, and in a high, strained voice, "I am not dumb any more."

By the time she was 10, Helen Keller could say simple sentences. Today she speaks no less than seven languages. Looking back today, Helen Keller says, "Learning to speak was the hardest job I ever tackled." However, once she learned to speak, Helen Keller became an honor graduate of Radcliffe College, author, lecturer, teacher—and a benefactor to the blind.

Despite her blindness Miss Keller is an inveterate world traveler whose journeys have taken her to more than 25 countries, on six continents — the equivalent of five times around the world. Her books have been translated into more than 50 languages. She has received decorations, honorary degrees and citations from many nations. Her circle of friends is worldwide, and included every American president since Coolidge.

Happy

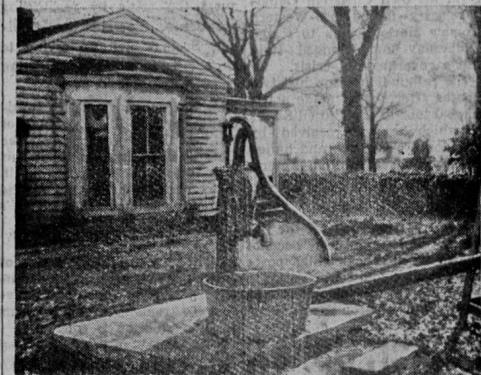

Visiting Helen Keller in her rambling colonial home in Connecticut, you feel she is happier than most of us, despite her physical handicaps. As she touches the contours of your face, or lets her words tumble over themselves in the sheer ecstasy of being able to speak, you know she is to be envied, not pitied.

"Why am I happy?" she challenges. "Because I am busy." Miss Keller's jobs as counselor to the American Foundation for the Blind, and the American Foundation for Overseas Blind occupy more than half her time. Last year, for instance, she traveled 40,000 miles in a crusade for the blind in the Far East.

Her private world of touch, smell and vibration is fascinating and amazing. She reads character in a handshake, in the touch of her hand to a face. She

MISS KELLER gets acquainted with President Eisenhower at the White House this year. She "sees" his smile via her fingertips.

HELEN KELLER'S BIRTHPLACE, Tuscumbia, Ala. At pump she learned her first word, "water." She learned 20 other words that day.

MISS KELLER with her good friend, Alexander Graham Bell.

WITH ANNE SULLIVAN, who was her companion for 49 years.

loves President Eisenhower's smile. Appealing to her, too, was President Franklin Roosevelt's strong features and Sir Winston Churchill's "great, wonderful dome."

Miss Keller's study no doubt contains the largest privately-owned Braille library in the world. Her Braille volumes of the Bible are her most-fingered books. "I love the Bible as I love no other book," she says. "The Bible gives me a deep, comforting sense that things seen are eternal, and things unseen are eternal."

Happy birthday to you, Helen Keller, on this your 75th year of an extraordinary life!

Soft Light, Lightweight Lighting Places—

List of New Products Spotlights 'Light'

NEW YORK (AP)—Light is the top topic of the day in the new product presentation.

That covers new soft light, a light that lights with a light fingertip touch, and a helicopter lighting place made of lightweight aluminum.

Sylvania Electric Products of New York has a new pearl pink electric light bulb that is so flattering to complexions that it isn't recommended for makeup mirrors.

The new bulb is designed to eliminate hard glare and harsh shadows. It appears to soften wall tones and deepens the colors of fabrics, the company says, plus being easier on the eyes.

General Electric at its Bridgeport, Conn., plant has devised a new switch for table or bridge lamps that turns on and off with a touch of the fingertips. No pressure is needed. The control mechanism is an electronic impedance switch.

The problem of landing a helicopter on a roof—which might cave in when the wheels bang down—has been solved with an aluminum raft. The lightweight raft is floated in a few inches of water in a shallow tank on the roof. The helicopter lands on the raft. Thus the weight of the wheels on the roof is evenly distributed over a large area.

Tire sidewalls in any of six colors can be attached or taken off on a do-it-yourself basis. They come from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Cleveland. The sidewalls for 15-inch tires are mounted by fitting a lip between the tire and the wheel so that a little more than two inches of the sidewall shows.

A screwdriver with a magnetic clutch automatically regulates the tightness with which the screw is turned. It comes from the Chicago Pneumatic Tool company of New York. The screwdriver works at high speed and is designed for industrial use. A permanent magnet in the clutch halts action when the screw reaches the required degree of tightness.

Cooling fans that exhaust massive amounts of air from your home through the attic now are available for installation on a do-it-yourself basis. The Lau Blower company of Dayton, O., makes the fans in two sizes to exhaust up to nearly 6,500 cubic feet of air a minute from your house. The kits come complete down to nails and screws and instructions for installing.

A lawn sprayer molded from tenite plastic looks like a big red rose on your lawn. Turn on your hose and water swirls up into the rose and comes out like rain. Maker is Ray Plastics of Toronto, Canada.

Wedding Ceremony Held in Burlington

Miss Virginia Myrtha Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Lynn, Burlington, became the bride of Ralph William Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morris, Cleveland, in ceremonies held at the St. Luke Evangelical Church, Burlington, June 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Raridon, alumni of the State University of Iowa, were soloists during the ceremony.

Bridesmaids were Peggy Luhrs and Rolanda Ringo, Iowa City. Best man and matron of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morris, Youngstown, Ohio.

The bride, who majored in music, graduated from SUI in February, and plans to continue her studies at Northwestern University this fall.

The couple will live in Iowa City until August when the groom will receive a Ph.D. from SUI.

Hot-Rod, 27 Years Old, Is Called 'Reluctant Wagon'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—If you're ever down in these parts and start to pass a 1928 model station wagon, take a close look before you try.

It might be Worth Gruelle's "Reluctant Wagon"—a misleading name if there ever was one.

It's a 1928 model all right—he's owned it for 27 years. But it'll do 103 miles per hour.

Gruelle is an architect and builder—and you could call him a hot rod fan too, since he souped up the "Reluctant Wagon."

But it wasn't always thus—he bought it new in 1928 for $325. Worth worked for an automobile agency near Norwalk, Conn.

There was a waiting list for Ford station wagons then. He sold it to a farmer a week later.

"He was a friend of the boss," he explains in faintly plaintive tones.

A few months later Worth bought it back—for $55. The farmer had turned it over on the Boston Post Road.

Worth fixed it up. His job was selling racing parts and equipment and souping up the "hot rods" of the time.

"I used to lower the steering wheels and slant back the windshields on roadsters for the sportsmen of that day," he said. So with his experience and ability, he repaired it for $30—including a new wood body and top.

He put over 300,000 miles on it, and in all that time he bought only one factory-built engine and the usual tires, condensers and coils, and similar odds and ends.

After World War II he decided to come to Florida, where his family had wintered since 1923. It was here that the "Reluctant Wagon" came into its own.

Gruelle stripped it down and reworked and replaced everything, painted it bronze-red and put in a 198 Mercury V8 engine.

Souped up with reboring dual carburetors and a modified manifold it gave him power of 135 eager horses. He installed a 1939 Ford transmission, a Cadillac radiator, Lincoln hydraulic brakes, oversized wheels and tires, modern headlights, extra springing, radio, new instrument panel, spotlight and a new, solid mahogany body. He put in new floor carpeting, new leather seats and a fancy steering wheel.

But he kept that old, nostalgic, model A horn, the one that gently "ha-oo-ga's."

"That horn really gets 'em," he grins.

Conference To Discuss Child Speech

"How Language Develops in Children" will be the opening lecture at 9 a.m. Friday in Old Capitol at a two-day State University of Iowa Conference on Recent Developments in Speech Pathology and Audiology.

The conference's first speaker will be Prof. Mildred C. Templin of the University of Minnesota and a leader in a series of cross-sectional studies of early language development.

Public school speech correctionists, parents and other conferees will hear Miss Templin again Friday afternoon on "The Results of a Cross-Sectional Normative Study of Articulation."

Two other featured visitors who will speak are Samuel Pruzansky of the Cleft Palate Center of the University of Illinois professional colleges in Chicago and Director Robert Millen of the Indiana University speech and hearing clinic.

Discussion panels on three major problems will bring to bear the approaches and techniques of the SUI student counseling office, the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, the College of Dentistry, the Otolaryngology Department of the College of Medicine, the SUI Speech Clinic, and the areas of the visiting specialists.

The problems: design and procedure in the study of language, implementing a cleft palate program, and appraisal of diagnostic and therapeutic procedures.

Five Boys Admit Acts of Vandalism

DES MOINES (AP)—Five boys, 12 to 14, Wednesday told police how they attempted to wreck trains here, committed acts of vandalism in Woodland Cemetery and stole trucks for joy rides.

Activities of the boys were revealed as a result of investigation by detectives and a railroad special agent.

The officers had been investigating numerous acts of vandalism, but their investigation intensified Saturday when a railroad tie was found across the tracks used by the Rocky Mountain Rocket.

The boys told of breaking the locks on burial vaults and overturning tombstones, and causing damage estimated by police at "several hundred dollars."

They also told of "throwing switches" in the railroad yards, causing railroad cars to be transferred to tracks other than intended by the switching crew.

Trap Is Set To Capture Sea Monsters

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP)—Scientists here are planning a giant marine trap to snare a monster from the ocean depths of Cook Strait.

They do not know exactly what they will catch.

"The possibilities are fascinating," says Prof. L. R. Richardson, head of the Zoology Department at Victoria University College, Wellington.

"Sworn statements by experienced mariners indicate that there are at least four types of giant ocean creatures still unknown to man. Some people call them sea serpents."

There are reports, going back to the 1870's, of occasional strandings along the shores of Cook Strait of giant squid, fearsome creatures with plate-sized eyes, bodies 10 feet across with 10 tentacles up to 25 feet long.

Cook Strait is the turbulent stretch of water between the north and south islands of New Zealand.

The idea of a giant mousetrap was suggested to the New Zealanders by marine scientists of the Danish research ship Galathea.

The object would be to catch one of the monsters of the depths and bring it alive to the surface.

State Won't Use Building For Gas Testing

DES MOINES (AP)—The State Executive Council has given up the possibility of remodeling an old, unused building to house a new gasoline testing machine, a spokesman for the council said Wednesday.

The dilapidated structure across the street from the Statehouse once was the office quarters of two state agencies. They now are in the new Office Building.

The council recently decided to give the material in the old structure to anyone who would tear it down. There were no immediate takers. Later the council considered putting the testing device in it.

An architect for the State Board of Control looked the building over and told council members it was not suitable for the machine. The quarters for the machine must have a solid foundation for the unit, and the place must be air-conditioned.

The 1955 Legislature appropriated funds for purchase of the $5,000 machine. This action was a followup to another measure which requires that beginning July 4 all gasoline sold in Iowa meet federal standards.

Another state employe said that if the state would build a building for the machine, the structure also could be used to house a truck testing machine. He said the state could collect as much as $200 a day "for quite a while" under that set-up.

The truck testing machine now must be taken to the home office city of the trucking firms for the check-ups.

States Can Share In Wildlife Fund

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wildlife refuges and projects of the states could share in a $13,467,468 federal fund under a bill reported to the Senate Wednesday by its Commerce Committee.

The fund results from federal excise taxes collected from 1939 to 1947 on firearms and ammunition that Congress earmarked for federal aid to wildlife restoration.

States obtain the funds on a matching basis of $1 for each $3 of federal aid. During the eight-year period Congress appropriated less than collected.

The Senate bill would authorize distribution of this over a five-year period on a basis of 20 per cent a year.

STRIKE THREATENS

Says Benefit Payments Up

Social security benefit payments rose 45 per cent in Johnson county during 1954, figures released Wednesday by the Social Security Administration showed.

The increase came due to 1954 amendments to the social security law, which increased all benefits.

One of the changes made it possible for the survivors of many workers who died between 1939 and September, 1950, to qualify for payments.

A total of 787 retired workers received $43,610 monthly in Johnson county during 1954, the administration said. In addition to the retired workers, 520 persons received $18,421 monthly as dependents of retired workers or survivors of dead workers.

Red Cross Needs Field Directors

College graduates between the ages of 25 and 40 may find positions with the American Red Cross as assistant field directors at military installations, it was announced Wednesday.

Assistant Red Cross field directors serve as a link between the servicemen and women and their families by providing counseling, emergency communication, and general assistance to service personnel.

Men interested in these openings should write the Director of Personnel Service, Midwestern Area Office, American Red Cross, St. Louis, Mo., or contact the Johnson county chapter, 309 East Washington.

SUI Librarians To Attend Conference

Four members of the State University of Iowa Library staff will attend the 74th annual American Association conference in Philadelphia July 1-9.

The director of SUI Libraries, Ralph E. Ellsworth, and the associate director, Dale M. Bentz, will head specialized sections of the conference.

Mr. Ellsworth, as chairman of the Committee on Microfilming of Doctoral Dissertations, will participate in a meeting of the Association of Research Libraries.

Bentz will serve as chairman of the Committees on Statistics of the Association of College and Reference Librarians and the Committee on Administration of the Division of Cataloging and Classification.

Harold Bellingham, head of the SUI catalogue departments, and Miss Ada Stoffel, reference librarian, will also attend the Philadelphia meeting.

Craft Loaned to Russia Will Be Returned Soon

BONN, Germany (AP)—Fourteen small naval craft being returned to the United States by Russia are expected to arrive in Kiel on July 1, the U.S. Embassy said Wednesday.

Under an agreement signed in Washington May 26, the Soviets are returning a total of 6 lend-lease subchasers and 56 PT boats during July and August.

Moore Stops Olson In 3d Round, Keeps Title

Victor Steps in Line For Marciano Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Moore gambled his fighting future and won Wednesday night defeating middleweight champion Bobo Olson on a knockout in 1:19 of the third round to move into line for a September heavyweight title shot with Rocky Marciano.

That Archie, the 38-year-old ring gypsy, was making the fourth defense of his world light heavyweight title was almost incidental.

Will Defend Title Against Moore: Rocky

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano said Wednesday night "There's no question that arrangements will be made to defend my crown against Archie Moore in September" after watching Moore knock out Middleweight King Bobo Olson on television.

"I thought Moore landed a good body punch which weakened Olson before landing the left hook that kayoed Olson," Rocky said.

"By that improved showing," Rocky added, "there's no question that arrangements will be made for me to defend my crown against Moore in September. However those details are the responsibility of manager Al Weill. I expect a call from him tomorrow morning."

Phillies Trip Cardinals, 9-6

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Philadelphia ace Robin Roberts survived home-run pitches in the early innings Wednesday night and gained his 10th victory as the Phils defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 9-6.

The Phils had a 14-hit attack, and Roberts was prominent in it. The game was a 5-5 tie after Stan Lopata homered in the sixth for the Phils, and Roberts began a tie-breaking, three-run rally by leading off the seventh inning with a double.

A single by Richie Ashburn, an intentional walk to Granny Hamner and singles by Del Ennis and Lopata figured in the seventh-inning rally by the Phils.

Stan Musial homered with a man on base to start the Cards to four runs in their first inning. Red Schoendienst and Rip Repulski hit successive homers in the inning. Musial led off the eighth with a triple, scoring on Repulski's double.

Spinal Disc Surgery For Babe Zaharias

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Golfer Babe Didrickson Zaharias, 41, underwent an operation for a ruptured spinal disc Wednesday.

Dr. S. R. Snodgrass performed the 3½-hour surgery at John Sealy Hospital. A witness, Dr. Robert Moore, said:

"She's getting along fine. It was a typical disc. She'll have considerable pain for about a day, then everything should be fine."

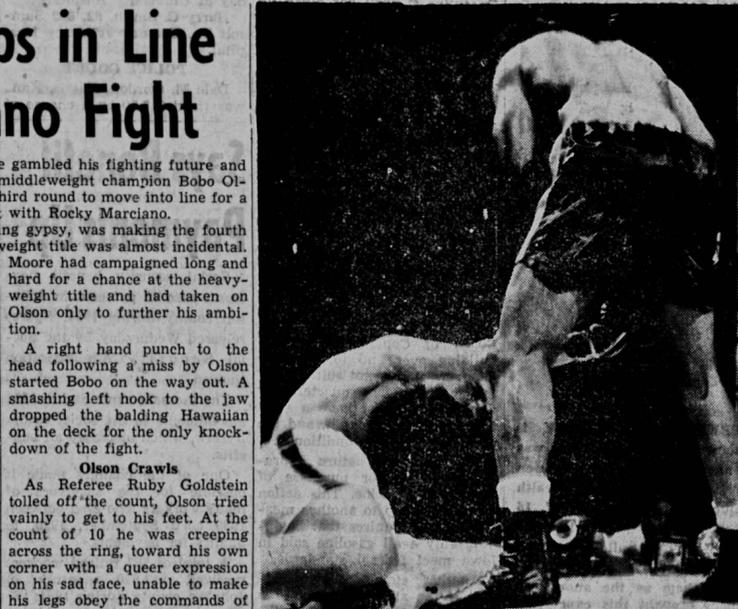

Tuesday Dr. Snodgrass said if it was only a normal disc surgery, it would be about "three months before she will be back on the greens."

Frick Helps Settle Tribe-Oriole Trade Dispute

NEW YORK (AP)—An incipient feud between the Baltimore and Cleveland baseball clubs was nipped Wednesday when the Orioles agreed to hand over an undisclosed sum of cash to the Indians to compensate for the retirement of infielder Billy Cox.

Commissioner Ford Frick was called in to help arbitrate the argument which grew out of a four-player trade between the two clubs last week.

In the trade, Baltimore sent Cox and outfielder Gene Woodling to the Indians in exchange for outfielders Dave Pope and (AP Wirephoto) LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION Archie Moore stands over challenger Bobo Olson after he floored him in 1:19 of the third round Wednesday night in the Polo Grounds. Moore stopped Olson, the middleweight champion, with a right to the head and a left to the jaw. It was the 38-year-old Moore's fourth defense of his title. Olson, 25, suffered his second knockout in his 70-bout career.

Moore had campaigned long and hard for a chance at the heavyweight title and had taken on Olson only to further his ambition.

A right hand punch to the head following a miss by Olson started Bobo on the way out. A smothered left hook to the jaw dropped the balding Hawaiian on the deck for the only knock-down of the fight.

As Referee Ruby Goldstein tolled off the count, Olson tried vainly to get to his feet. At the count of 10 he was creeping across the ring, toward his own corner with a queer expression on his sad face, unable to make his legs obey the commands of his brain.

Once he groped to his feet, Olson refused to believe the bout was over. He wanted to continue and started to try to square off with Archie as Goldstein intervened.

The end came with a quick explosion on this steaming humid night, for Olson had been giving Archie all he wanted until the old boy lowered the boom.

Second Knockout It was the second time Olson had been knocked out in his 70-bout career and his first defeat after 21 straight victories. Sugar Ray Robinson, who tried unsuccessfully to make the same jump from the middles to the light heavies on another jungle hot night in 1952 owned the only previous KO over Olson. It was scored in 1950.

The odds of 12 to 5 and better favoring Moore reflected the expert belief that he could pare down from the 166½ he weighed May 2 at Las Vegas and still be strong at the 175-pound class limit.

Archie just made the weight at noon, coming in at exactly 175, while Olson weighed in a trifle heavy at 170½.

May Take Weeks If Olson had won, he would have vacated his 160-pound middleweight crown automatically under New York and National Boxing Association rules.

Days and possibly weeks of negotiation with Al Weill, Rocky Marciano's manager, probably will intervene before a Moore-Marciano fight is arranged for September.

But after Wednesday night's decisive victory, it is difficult to see how Moore can be bypassed.

Referee Goldstein had scored the first two rounds for Olson and Judges Artie Aidala and Harold Barnes had the same cards, one round for each man, the first to Bobo and the second to Archie.

When Olson threw a pawing right, in the third, Moore countered sharply with a right that could have ended the bout if it hadn't missed. A left uppercut by Archie found its mark.

Left to Chin Then came a double right hand, the left hook to the chin and it was all over.

"It ended quicker than I thought," said Archie in his dressing room. "I thought it would go eight or nine rounds. I figured Olson would try to rush me but instead he started to run. Then I knew I had to get him."

"I want Marciano. Any man I can hit I can whip and I can hit any man."

It was the 82d knockout for Moore who changes home towns with the seasons.

Rule Defeats Two In Golf Tourney

AMES (AP)—Jack Rule, Waterloo, a semi-finalist a year ago and medalist this year, slumped two opponents to the sidelines Wednesday to gain the quarter-final round of the Iowa Junior Golf Tournament.

Rule eliminated Frank James of Grinnell, 4 and 3, in the first round Wednesday morning, and dropped his fellow townsman, George Keith, 5 and 4, during the afternoon.

John Wicks of Iowa City, defeated Ted Connelly of Waterloo, 2 and 1.

Two top favorites, Virgil Chevalier of Dubuque, who carried

Rule to 21 holes in the medal play, and Russ Schrage, Waterloo, were casualties of the day's play.

Chevalier fell before Jack Norman of Spirit Lake, 4 and 2, in the first round and Jim Hinson, West Waterloo High School sophomore, ousted Schrage, 4 and 3, also in the first round.

Norman then bowed to Malcolm Risk of Independence, 2 and 1 in the afternoon. Hinson reached the quarterfinals with a 2 and 1 victory over Dave Strang, Oelwein.

Homers End Giant Losses

CINCINNATI (AP)—Hank Thompson and Bobby Hoffman homered in the ninth inning Wednesday night to break the longest losing streak of the New York Giants since August 1953 and to lift the New Yorkers to a 4-3 triumph over the Cincinnati Redlegs. The Giants had lost six in a row.

Sal Maglie, ace righthander, pitched his eighth victory in a row. He gave up 10 hits, including Ray Jablonski's ninth inning round-tripper. He struck out losing pitcher Gerry Staley three times and also got third baseman Bobby Adams to fan thrice.

The Reds put together two runs in the sixth inning with four singles to tie up the contest, 2-2.

Jablonski's pinchhit homer was his seventh of the season. It was round-tripper No. 8 for Thompson and No. 6 for Hoffman. Maglie's record is now 8-3.

Seixas Upset, Trabert Wins At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—A young American scored an upset over ailing Davis-Cupper Vic Seixas in the second round of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships Wednesday.

Seixas, 31-year-old Philadelphia who was third seeded, lost to Gil Shea of Los Angeles, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, 4-5, 6-4 in the top match thus far in the 3-day-old 69th Wimbledon tournament.

Seixas started out as if he would win in three quick sets. But, when he was 5-0 in the first set, he suddenly came down with a sore right shoulder and from then on his usual powerful game sagged. He pulled a muscle two weeks ago during a match in Paris.

Seixas, winner of the American singles last year and first ranked in the U.S., thus leaves Tony Trabert of Cincinnati as the only Yank Davis Cup player still in competition for this most coveted of tennis crowns.

Trabert won from left-handed Trevor Fancutt of South Africa, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. The third American Davis Cup player, Ham Richardson, lost in the opening round.

"Wasn't that something?" the 26-year-old Shea asked after the match. "Old Shea, number 10 in the states, knocks off Mr. No. 1."

Dodgers Edge Chicago, Lead By 13 Games

CHICAGO (AP)—First-place Brooklyn scored an un-earned run in the eighth for a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday.

The Dodger triumph, featuring a bases-empty homer by Rube Walker in the fifth, moved Brooklyn 13 games ahead of the second-place Cubs.

Dodger pitcher Russ Meyer, who has a 22-3 lifetime record against the Cubs, had to quit because of a stiff neck in the sixth and the victory went to the third Brooklyn pitcher, Ed Roebuck.

Hal Jeffcoat lost his chance for a relief victory with a bad throw which helped Brooklyn to the decisive run. Jeffcoat had succeeded starter Bob Rush to start the eighth.

The tainted Dodger run came after Pee Wee Reese led off with a single. Duke Snider's attempted sacrifice wound up in a bad peg by Jeffcoat, sending Reese to third. Gil Hodges forced Snider, but Reese scored the big run.

When Ernie Banks hit his third single in the eighth, Roebuck replaced Jim Hughes and finished for the Dodgers.

Walker's homer made it 2-1 for the Dodgers, but the Cubs came back with their second run in the seventh on Dee Fondy's double and Jim King's pinch single.

Yankees Take Two

Yanks Down Athletics, 6-1; Mantle Hits 18th

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle hit his 18th home run and Yogi Berra batted in his 45th and 46th runs as southpaw Whitey Ford spaced nine hits to give the Yankees a 6-1 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday.

Mantle got the Yankees off to a 2-0 lead with his homer in the third inning following a walk to Gil McDougald.

Berra drove in two mates with a bases-loaded single in the seventh when the Yanks rose up with a four-run outburst that shelled starter Art Ditmar and reliever Lou Sleater from the mound.

The A's scored their run in the eighth.

Joe DeMaestri opened with a double and Bill Renna walked. Gus Zernial got an infield single to load the bases but third baseman Andy Carey turned Bill Wilson's grounder into a double play as DeMaestri scored.

Sox' Donovan Halts Senators, 3-0, On 4 Hits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dick Donovan posted his fourth shut-out and his ninth victory of the season for the Chicago White Sox 3-0 Wednesday night as he held Washington to four hits.

It was Donovan's fourth win over the Senators, who have lost 12 of their last 13 games.

Donovan permitted one runner to advance beyond first base, when Carlos Paula tripled with two out in the eighth inning.

Nelson Fox's 17-game hitting streak expired when the White Sox second baseman went hitless in five tries.

Chicago clipped loser Dean Stone for a run in the second inning when Jim Busby tripled to right and scored on Walt Dropp's single.

The White Sox added a run in the fourth when Sherman Lollar walked, moved to second on a wild pitch, to third on Busby's sacrifice bunt and scored on Dropp's sacrifice fly.

In Connection with Latin Institute—

Greco-Roman Articles in Library Display

A collection of Greco-Roman articles Wednesday went on display in the State University of Iowa Library as part of the eighth annual Latin Institute.

The institute will open today at the SUI Center for Continuation Study.

The library collection includes coin books, manuscripts, model buildings and utensils and objects of art.

The objects were borrowed from various classical collections in Iowa City, Prof. Gerald Else of the SUI Classics Department said.

Books Borrowed

The books were borrowed from the rare book collection of the SUI Library. They include Renaissance editions of classical authors, a medieval manuscript of Horace, a leaf of a book printed before 1500 and one of the first Latin-English dictionaries ever printed, a 1551 edition.

The coin collection shows the major Roman coins, their historical sequence and uses. Many of the coins were loaned to the exhibit by William Lasansky, an Iowa City High School student.

One display case is devoted to art objects and utensils of the Minoan and Mycenaean periods.

Another will display models of Greek and Roman buildings, built by the Latin classes of Iowa City High School.

Two Weeks

The exhibit will remain on display two weeks, Else said.

A feature of today's institute program will be a talk by Prof. Paul MacKendrick of the University of Wisconsin at 8:15 p.m. in the Shambaugh lecture room of the SUI Library. He will talk on "The Romans on the Frontier."

His lecture will be co-sponsored by the SUI graduate college and the Iowa society of the Archaeological Institute of America.

Augustine's Trial Listed For Monday

William C. Augustine, 30, Elgin, Ill., will be tried Monday in Johnson County District Court in connection with the May 30 wounding of Dr. John Greenleaf, Iowa City urologist.

Augustine is charged with assault with intent to commit murder. He is formerly from Iowa City.

He is being held in University psychopathic hospital under direction of Judge Harold D. Evans. He is under $10,000 bond. The shooting, in which Dr. Greenleaf received two flesh wounds in his left arm, occurred on Park Road when Augustine pulled his car alongside the doctor's as the urologist was returning to his home from routine calls at Mercy Hospital.

According to Dr. Greenleaf, Augustine made accusations against him concerning a doctor-patient relationship five years ago. Augustine then reportedly fired three shots from a .38 caliber automatic pistol, wounding the doctor twice.

Dr. Greenleaf returned to practice after brief hospital treatment.

Begin Construction of First Cross-Ocean Telephone Line

CLARENVILLE, Nfld. (AP) — The laying of the world's first trans-oceanic telephone cable started Wednesday. It is to stretch from Heart's Content village across the Atlantic's floor to Oban, Scotland.

The Clarenville end of the cable, which will span 2,250 statute miles, was christened with sea water from Heart's Content Bay, site of the first successful Atlantic telephone cable landing near here in 1856.

The 8,650-ton British ship Monarch, spinning the cable slowly out of her huge tanks, will reach Oban by the end of the summer, completing the west-to-east underwater telephone system.

This will link New York directly with London and add 38 extra telephone circuits to the present overseas shortwave radio system of 14 circuits, all dependent on weather.

A second cable will be laid next summer from Scotland to Newfoundland. The over-all system, a 40 million dollar job undertaken by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the British Post Office, which operates the telephones in Britain, and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications corporation, is expected to be in service by late 1956.

Two Fined $300 In District Court

Two men were fined $300 after pleading guilty to drunken driving charges in Johnson County District Court Wednesday.

Judge Harold D. Evans fined LaVoy Thornton, 47, Marengo, and Merle L. Van Aukon, 31, Lone Tree, and suspended their drivers' licenses for 60 days.

Judge Evans also revoked Thornton's liquor permit. Van Aukon had no permit.

Van Aukon was granted a 30 day period in which to pay his $300 fine after Co. Atty. William Tucker explained that Van Aukon did not have the money at present and wanted to retain his job as tenant farmer near Lone Tree.

Board Warns 'No Dumping'

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors Tuesday promised action against persons dumping refuse on County Truck Route G east of Hills.

The route this week was partially blocked by refuse, board members said.

"We're going to cover the refuse as soon as equipment is available," J. E. Pechman, board chairman said.

"After that we'll post a watchman, if necessary, and take action against anyone that we catch dumping refuse there."

The area has long been a dumping grounds, although such dumping is illegal, board members said.

Some Japanese Soldiers Still Hiding in Pacific Hills

HONOLULU (AP) — Some of the Japanese soldiers who took to various Pacific hills during World War II are still there. From the looks of things, they know the war is over but prefer the hills.

Since 1945 an estimated 32 Japanese army stragglers have been flushed out of jungle hideouts in the Philippines, New Guinea, Guam, Saipan and Attafu in the Marianas. Most of them claimed they didn't know the war was over.

Japanese government officials in Tokyo believe about 50 more are still hiding out in the Philippines, Guam and New Guinea.

Know War Is Over
But the belief is growing that these remaining holdouts know full well the war is over. They must know, too, that they have little to fear in the way of punishment or reprisals.

"Maybe they've heard too much about the world outside," a Navy official at Pearl Harbor theorized. "Maybe they prefer the jungle to civilization in the atomic age."

Japanese welfare ministry officials working through U.S. military commanders have scattered thousands of leaflets telling stragglers throughout the Pacific the war is over.

To Drop Leaflets
The Philippine air force is about to drop another 10,000 leaflets, books and letters asking holdouts on Lubang Island to surrender.

In the Philippines and Guam a holdout would have to be deaf, blind and exceptionally stubborn to miss the evidences of bustling peacetime activity.

"The lack of gunfire alone over 10 long years should convince any die-hard the war is over," an official on Guam said.

The first two Japanese stragglers who came out of hiding on Guam in April, 1948, waved a November, 1947, copy of an American magazine as they hailed a passing patrol jeep.

Finds Magazine
The magazine carried a picture of Emperor Hirohito parading under guard of American MPs.

In 1951 eight stragglers were flushed out of the hills of Guam. One of them said he had found a U.S. magazine in a dump. It showed a map of Korea with U.S. and Allied flags on one side and the sickle and hammer of the other.

There are no available estimates on the number of Japanese soldiers who took to the hills after VJ-day. Reports from captured stragglers, however, indicate that many of the original holdouts died of tropical diseases.

Many were killed, some in evading capture, others by native tribesmen and a few by other Japanese holdouts.

Fischer Says Red Grilling Reduced His Mind To 'Putty'

NEW YORK (AP)—Swea City's freed ace flier Capt. Harold E. Fischer says Chinese Red grilling reduced him mentally to putty, forcing him to falsely confess to waging germ warfare.

Fischer reported in a Life magazine article which came out Wednesday that he also made a phony admission of having been ordered to fly across the Yalu River and over Manchuria.

"Never doubt for a moment that the Communists can put a man in that condition, given the time and right circumstances," Fischer said. "They have had years of experience with a multitude of human guinea pigs."

'Disagreeable' Officer
Fischer told of being questioned by "a disagreeable Chinese officer named Chong."

"He wanted me to admit that I had dropped germs on the Chinese and that I had been ordered to cross the Manchurian border," Fischer wrote.

"I was grilled day and night, over and over, week in and week out, and in the end, to get Chong and his gang off my back, I confessed to both charges.

"The charges, of course, were ridiculous. I never participated in germ warfare and neither did anyone else. I was never ordered to cross the Yalu. We had strict Air Force orders not to cross the border.

'Grave Mistake'
"I will not try to explain away so grave a mistake. I will regret what I did in that cell the rest of my life. But let me say this: It was not really me—not Harold E. Fischer Jr., who signed that paper.

"It was a mentality reduced to putty. I believe now that I had been driven nearly out of my mind and that I had altogether lost contact with reality."

Fischer said that when his mind "gradually returned to normal" he began to have "deep-seated pangs of conscience" about the false confession.

"Then I became very angry and prayed to God that he would help me find a way to get back at the Communists," he said.

Tries Escape
"I realized that the only way was to escape and get back to the free world to denounce the statements."

Fischer said he dug a hole in his jail cell with a rusty nail in January, 1954, escaped, tried to steal a MIG, failed, suffered frostbite in trying to make his way on foot across country, and finally, hungry and exhausted, gave himself up in a railway station.

Fischer, who had been credited with shooting down 10 MIGs prior to his capture, said he believed he shot down two more just before his plane was forced down in Manchuria, just across the Yalu River.

He said he shot one, stopping its engine, and blew up a second one dead ahead of him.

"I now believe my engine was stopped when debris from the second Red plane flew down the air intake and jammed the turbine," he said.

Apply To Drop Train Service

DES MOINES (AP)—The Iowa Commerce Commission took under advisement after a hearing Wednesday the application of the Chicago Great Western Railway Co. for authority to discontinue passenger-express service on two trains.

Concerned are trains 5 and 6, now running on Saturdays in Iowa on a Kansas City-Minneapolis route. The service now is daily, but the company wants to make it Sunday through Friday only.

The company is to submit some exhibits later, and it and objecting shippers and railroad brotherhoods are to file briefs.

The company based its request on increasing costs and declining revenues. Objectors sought to retain the present service along the line.

Included on the route are such cities as Osceola, Marshalltown, Gladbrook, and Oelwein.

Although several objections were filed in advance of the hearing, only one person appeared to testify against the company's application.

The objector was a school teacher at Athelstan, in Taylor County, who lives in St. Joseph, Mo., and commutes to and from Athelstan on weekends.

Capt. Harold Fischer Admits 'Confessions'

Iowa Banker Gets Fine, Light Term

MARSHALLTOWN (AP)—H. L. Haesemeyer, 43, State Center banker, Wednesday was given a suspended sentence and $5,000 fine for false bank statements.

Haesemeyer was convicted in connection with the Central State Bank handling of a transaction connected with a cattle feeding venture in which Haesemeyer was engaged.

Judge John Tobin of Marshall County District Court gave Haesemeyer a 2 to 5 year sentence. He also barred him from ever holding a bank office again.

Plea for Leniency
Judge Tobin pronounced sentence after hearing five prominent State Center area residents make special pleas for leniency.

The witnesses said that in the interests of justice, of Haesemeyer's family and of the community he should be given a parole.

The witnesses were Dr. C. R. Sokol, Henry Dobbin, Harold Gerke, Frank C. Brown and Fred Gilbert.

Judge Tobin told the banker he had entered upon a course of "calculated deception of your associates" in the cattle feeding operation.

Recalls Depression
The judge recalled "public hatred of innocent bankers during depression days" and told Haesemeyer that bank officials occupy a special position of public trust.

The judge also made reference to lengthy petitions for leniency filed with him Tuesday by many residents of the State Center vicinity.

Judge Tobin said filing of the petitions was improper. He said that "while the petitioners may have been well-intentioned they were highly misguided."

Bank Didn't Lose
The judge said the fact the bank lost no money in connection with cattle loans at issue in the case had no bearing on the judgment.

He added: "If there had been losses, many of the petitioners who asked leniency would have asked that this man be prosecuted to the full extent of the law."

The prosecutor, J. D. Robertson, recommended to the court that the maximum sentence not be imposed in view of Haesemeyer's family. The law provides for a prison term of 2 to 5 years and a $10,000 fine.

House OK's $100 To Honor Recipients

WASHINGTON (AP)—Voicing praise for winners of the Medal of Honor, the House whisked to passage Wednesday a bill to give each of them $100 a month for life. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The measure started off as a relief bill—opposed by the Eisenhower administration—when House Veterans Affairs committee members heard that "several" of the 395 living holders of the nation's top military award had gone on public welfare rolls.

The medal winners now get $10 a month after age 65, provided they aren't receiving military retirement payments. Twenty-six of them are being paid the $10.

Doctor Asks Shelving Of Salk Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, a critic of the Salk polio vaccine, recommended Wednesday that its manufacture be halted.

He suggested that a new vaccine be developed with a "less virulent" strain of the disease. Other doctors disagreed.

Sabin, a University of Cincinnati researcher, made his recommendations in testifying at a symposium on the vaccine conducted by a House Commerce subcommittee.

Chairman Priest (D-Tenn.) had called in 15 medical experts with the hope of creating "renewed confidence" in the mass vaccination program now under way.

Two other doctors present took issue with Sabin, who is working on his own formula for an anti-polio vaccine. They were Dr. Thomas M. Rivers of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, New York, and Dr. Joseph E. Smadel of the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital here.

Rivers said that what Sabin was suggesting was "that we stop making a safe vaccine and make a safer one."

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele told another congressional group last week that the Salk vaccine is "a potent material as safe as we know how to make it."

Salk Quiet
But Sabin, who is working with the Children's Hospital Research Foundation in Cincinnati, contended there is no way to be sure the vaccine now used can be made "regularly safe."

Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh, developer of the controversial vaccine, took no part in the argument except to warn against "losing sight of the forest for the trees."

"I prefer to remain in the role of an investigator providing the facts," Salk told the subcommittee. Speaking to newsmen later, however, Salk expressed confidence in the current inoculation program.

Six Million Shots
So far about six million school children in the first and second grades have been inoculated with the Salk vaccine.

Sabin said it is the Mahoney virus that caused him to fear for the safety of the program. This is one of several strains of polio virus. A strain is a group of organisms having a common lineage and differing in some respects from another group.

Sabin recommended that manufacture of polio vaccine and all inoculations be halted to permit researchers to develop a vaccine which uses "less virulent polio strains than the Mahoney virus."

Sabin said the Mahoney virus, sometimes called Type One, accounts for 80 per cent of all cases of paralytic polio.

Time Left Sympathetic Culprit Pays For Meter Mystery

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP)—For several weeks, police ticketed cars for overparking in the main shopping district of this Chicago suburb.

For weeks angry motorists complained they still had time on their parking meters when they found tickets on their windshields.

Some of the irate motorists were Police Chief John D. Biehl's best friends. He wanted to believe them. He also wanted to believe his patrolmen.

Tuesday, Officer Richard Kahl bot a break in the perplexing case.

After spotting a car parked by a meter on which time had expired, Kahl began writing a ticket.

While looking down at his ticket pad, Kahl heard a small, polite voice say:

"Officer, you can't put a ticket on that car because there's still time on the meter."

Kahl looked up just in time to see a serious-faced boy shove a penny into the meter in question.

Taken before Chief Biehl, 13-year-old Thomas Ponczko admitted he had been feeding money by cars which had been ticketed. He felt sorry for the motorists, he explained.

Wednesday Thomas paid the fine assessed by a police magistrate.

Using his weekly allowance and working under the watchful eye of officer Kahl, Thomas put 10 pennies into each of 20 meters in a downtown block.

Army Head Heaps Praise on Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Army Minister Franklin Lucero in a broadcast Wednesday night heaped praise upon President Juan D. Peron.

Lucero, who has taken over command of all security forces to assure order among the Argentine people, told his troops the Argentine soldier was "honored to have been led in difficult circumstances by the very excellent President of the nation, the commander-in-chief of all armed forces, Gen. Peron."

The broadcast topped another day in which Peron held a series of conferences obviously designed to show government business is moving normally again after the June 16 revolt of navy, marines and fliers.

Although there have been many rumors of negotiations to form a three or five-man junta, in which the power of Peron would be considerably reduced, there has been no outward indication of a change in government.

Two moves went far toward restoring normalcy. Army guards were withdrawn from bombed Government House and other damaged areas around Plaza de Mayo for the first time since the rebel attack.

Congress met for its usual Wednesday afternoon session and received a message from Peron asking an emergency appropriation of 150 million pesos (11 million dollars). Two-thirds of this would be for repair of public buildings as a result of the revolt and the remainder for repair of private property.

Lucero's broadcast was designed to demonstrate, also, his loyalty as army minister and temporary chief of the armed forces which under a state of siege have taken over complete control of the Argentine people. The army under Lucero decisively defeated the rebels in the brief but bloody rebel action.

SAFEST YEAR
WASHINGTON (AP)—Last year was the safest on record for the pedestrian, the American Automobile association announced Wednesday. It said statistics showed about 7,900 persons on foot were killed in motor vehicle accidents in 1954, as compared with 8,600 in 1953 and 15,500 during the peak year of 1937.

Doctor Hits Hospital Plan In Hospital-Doctor Suit Trial

DES MOINES (AP)—The American Medical Association's condemnation of a hospital insurance plan that caused a "very disturbed situation in Waterloo" was a subject of testimony here Wednesday in the hospital-doctor suit.

Dr. Francis C. Coleman discussed the plan in his fifth day of direct testimony in the Polk County District Court trial of whether Iowa hospitals practice medicine illegally by hiring physicians to conduct medical specialist services.

Dr. Coleman, pathologist at Mercy Hospital here and president of the Iowa Association of Pathologists, testified that in the fall of 1953 an employe hospital plan was adopted by Swift & Co. at Waterloo.

Difficulties arose, Dr. Coleman continued, because anesthesiologists (physicians) were not hospital employes but were performing as private physicians. Thus persons covered by the Swift & Co. insurance had to pay extra for anesthesiology.

Dr. Coleman then read from the January, 1954, issue of The Journal of the American Medical Assn. a resolution adopted by the AMA which "condemned" the insurance plan for "completely disregarding" the principle that such functions as X-ray, laboratory work and anesthesiology are "medical services" and not hospital services.

The steps described by Dr. Coleman Wednesday led to the February, 1954, ruling by the Iowa attorney general that hospitals practice medicine illegally if they hire physicians specializing in such specialties as X-ray or pathology.

Both girls had been on the critical list for several days at the hospital here following the accident June 5 near Vermillion, S.D., which claimed the lives of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oris Bowen of Atlanta.

Mara was to be taken direct to the home of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. George Hill, in Atlanta. But Iris will have to spend several days in an Atlanta hospital before she can be taken home.

It was reported here that the Bownens' modest home in Atlanta will be sold and the money placed in trust for the girls.

Pass 7.5% Pay Hike for Civil Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate-House negotiators Wednesday agreed on a 7 1/2 per cent pay raise for government workers. Leaders of both parties predicted speedy approval by Congress and the President.

As agreed on by a conference committee, the increase would be made effective as of last March 1. It would apply to 1,073,262 federal employes, all but 90,205 of them in the classified Civil Service. The remainder are mainly congressional, judicial and foreign service workers.

After months of battling around, the pay tables adopted in conference were just about the same as those voted by the House on Monday. They work out to within a few dollars of an across-the-board 7 1/2 per cent raise and create a salary range from $2,690 to $14,800 in the general Civil Service schedule.

All told, the increases will add about $238 million to the government's $4,350,000,000 payroll for covered employes.

The Eisenhower administration originally had recommended a 5 per cent Civil Service boost. Congressional sources said the President was likely to accept 7 1/2 per cent—but no more. Eisenhower wound up recently approving a Post Office increase higher than he was at one time represented as willing to go.

The Senate previously had passed a bill calling for a 10 per cent Civil Service raise.

Orphaned by Crash; Fly to Grandmother

SIoux CITY (AP)—Two little girls, orphaned by an auto crash in South Dakota, were placed aboard an airplane here Wednesday for a flight to Atlanta, Ga., where they will live with their maternal grandmother.

Iris Bowen, 10, and her sister, Mara, 6, both seriously hurt in the accident, were taken by ambulance from a hospital here to the Sioux City Municipal Airport. There they were placed aboard a private plane supplied by an American Legion post in Atlanta.

Iris rode in a stretcher with a built-in traction device to support her broken legs. Mara, who is recuperating from a head injury, rode to the ambulance and from it to the airplane in a wheel chair.
