Who Shares the Improvements?

The steel industry and the steel-workers' union brought to bear on each other all the familiar stratagems of an industrial war of nerves, bore down unrelentingly up to the deadline, past the deadline, and then settled within 12 hours. A strike was authorized, confirmed, and actually started; furnaces were cooled, plants prepared for siege, and actually shut down. And all of this took place with a notable absence of the bitterness and appeals to public emotion that characterized the bitter disputes of a few years back.

This bright side of the picture can be credited in part to the determined efforts by the steel industry and the steel union during the past three years to solidify mutual understanding and good will. In part it can be ascribed to maturing labor-management relations generally, to better public understanding of the collective bargaining process — and in part, also, to the world atmosphere of relaxing tensions in which this dispute has taken place.

The settlement is a compromise, as expected. The industry raised its last published offer substantially — from 10 cents per hour average to 15. The steelworkers similarly accepted 5 cents less than the 20-cent figure of the auto contracts which they had demanded, however invalidly. Their pay rate will now average near the top among American workers.

This is how the industry and its production workers have come out. The question remains how the rest of the country fares. Steel profits have been high but world demand is great. So apparently the public will be asked to pay the costs of settlement. Steel prices are to rise $7.50 a ton.

This seems to take no account of the fact that the rise in productivity has been great, especially in the new and modernized plants. This means more steel is being produced per worker. Some figures indicate that output has risen while employment dropped.

Industry, including both stockholders and management, is entitled to a share of this improvement. Few would dispute that labor is due a share although for three years there has been no rise in living costs.

But are big industry and big labor to monopolize this productivity improvement and divide it only between themselves? Where does the consumer — from bridge builder to housewife — come in? What of other employers and workers who can't match the big fellows' productivity? Is not this truly social gain shared most widely when prices are lowered — or, at the very least, not raised? The consumer is a party to his own dispossession if he only grumbles when asked to pay a higher price — and then goes right ahead and pays it.

These reflections evoked by this settlement in one of the nation's most basic industries may be out of key with elation over the strike's end and a boom in stocks. But the industry, the union, and the country might well take heed.

Better Iowa City Contest—

Suggests Systematic Tours To Introduce City to Public

(Editor's Note: This letter is the third prize winner in the city division of the Better Iowa City contest. The other winning letters will be printed in subsequent issues of The Daily Iowan.)

"What's there to see?" is the question most of us ask when we go into a new town. Hundreds of visitors to Iowa City ask the same thing. True, there are a number of signs pointing out places of interest, but unless one happens on these signs, we don't know they are there.

People driving through our highways get only a poor glimpse of all we really have in Iowa City. University students often spend several years with us and know little beyond the campus of what Iowa City as a city, has to offer. And how many of our "old timers" really KNOW all the places of interest and where they are?

I suggest that we compile and publish a printed folder, containing a map of Iowa City, with a well-marked sight-seeing trail. In addition full directions, indicating every turn of the trail, should be given, with places of interest noted to left or right.

The enclosed map shows a suggested trail, which would include most of the places of interest. This tour will take about one hour without stops. I have worked out a complete routing, in case of further interest in the project, with thirty-five turns and ninety places of interest. (Map was presented to Chamber of Commerce.)

This service should be advertised by billboard on all entrances to Iowa City and visitors invited to secure these guides at the Chamber of Commerce Office, or other designated places. Folders, or information where they may be obtained, should be in all hotels, motels, restaurants, and filling stations.

This trail might be called "The Old Gold Trail." Arrows indicating each turn should be placed in conspicuous places, so the trail might be followed even without the map. But the folder would tell them WHAT they were seeing.

What more effective and less expensive way is there to advertise Iowa City than to show people what our beautiful city has to offer? What city is more see-worthy? This tour, too, would serve to stress the civic pride and cooperation which we all cherish as one of Iowa City's important intangible values.

So let's make it easy for folks to see what we have here. We have to TELL 'em to SELL 'em — but a LOOK is better than a BOOK!

Interpreting the News— Segni, Like Scelba, Must Depend on Brittle Coalition

By WEBB MCKINLEY For J. M. Roberts, Associated Press News Analyst

ROME (AP) — Since June, 1953, Italy has changed governments like women's fashions — or faster. It has seemed sometimes to distant observers that this nation must be on the edge of political chaos.

Actually this is not so. Look at it this way: For eight years Italy had the same Premier, Alcide De Gasperi, who led her out of the ashes of defeat into the Western Alliance.

For five of these years the Christian Democrats had an absolute majority in Parliament. Communists were strong but De Gasperi outmaneuvered them.

A rebel faction within the Christian Democrats forced Scelba to resign June 22. Wednesday Christian Democrat Antonio Segni took office with a coalition government like Scelba's. What his fate be the same? Mathematics hasn't changed since 1953. The Center parties still have the same men in Parliament, and the same brittle majority. Only an internal revolt — such as upset Scelba — could throw him out of office.

2d Palsy Workshop To Convene Monday

The second annual Cerebral Palsy Workshop will be held in the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children July 11-29. Twenty from the United States and Canada have registered.

The registrants, employed or studying in fields dealing with cerebral palsy children, will attend the three week workshop to learn from Hospital School staff members and University guest speakers about the special problems of the children handicapped by the disease.

Through an integrated series of lectures, discussion periods, observations and assigned readings, the workshop will cover the problems of the cerebral palsy child in the areas of medical, medical-social, education and special education, psychology, speech therapy, physical therapy, occupational therapy, physical education, nursing and recreation.

Guest Speakers The Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children directed by Dr. Raymond R. Rembold, has about 50 handicapped children at any time throughout the year, a large percentage of them afflicted with cerebral palsy.

Guest speakers at the workshop from the State University of Iowa staff will be: Lee W. Cochran, Extension Division, director of audio-visual instruction; Frederick L. Darley, assistant professor of speech pathology; Orvis C. Irwin, professor of psychology, Dean Welfare Research; Dr. Child Lierle, professor and head, Otolaryngology and Maxillofacial Surgery, College of Medicine; Dr. John C. MacQueen, assistant professor of Pediatrics, director of State Services for Crippled Children; Dr. Russell Meyers, chairman, Division of Neurosurgery, College of Medicine; Charles D. Parker, instructor, speech pathology and audiology; and Dr. James B. Stroud, professor of education and psychology.

3 Grads Here Three SUI graduates are among the 20 applicants selected to attend the workshop on the basis of profession and education. They are Melanie A. Snider, '51, Jane A. Condon, '54 and Mrs. Earl J. Foster, '54.

Miss Snider has been a speech therapist at a public school in Ventura, California, for two years. Miss Condon and Mrs. Foster completed a year of occupational therapy training at SUI last June.

Miss Condon will begin work at a Cerebral Palsy Center in Des Moines in August.

Seventeen of the twenty, including Miss Condon and Mrs. Foster, are registered for 3 hours of University credit for the workshop.

The remainder of the students are from Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Illinois, North Dakota, Virginia, Wyoming, and Canada.

The Iowans are: Roberta Brewer, speech and hearing therapist, Des Moines; Richard Brooks, public school teacher, Harlan; Kathleen Caldwell, visiting nurse, Dubuque; and Dorothy Cash, Albia.

3 From Wisconsin From Wisconsin are: Charles Safford, principal and special education teacher, Eau Claire; Marie McCrory, chief physical therapist at a cerebral palsy clinic in Milwaukee; and Margaret Moriarty, physical therapist in an orthopedic school in Superior.

Also from the Midwest are: Laverne Hanson, occupational therapist from Minneapolis; Margaret Myers, speech correctionist in a public school in Detroit; Ann Kevelus, occupational therapy supervisor at a veterans hospital in Chicago; and Imogene Goll, teacher and counselor from Jamestown, N. D.

From Guernsey, Wyo. is Martha Flint, acting assistant professor in physical education, and from Arlington, Va., is Winona George, an occupational therapist in a school for the handicapped.

Four students from Montreal, Canada, are: Doris Campbell, an occupational therapy head; Jean-Marc Chevry, head of the department of psychology at a rehabilitation institute; Gustave Gauthier, director of a speech clinic; and Francoise Savard, a physical therapy assistant.

The out of town students will be living in the Iowa Center for Continuation Study during the session.

Captured

SUI Student Nabs Forgery Suspect

A State University of Iowa medical student Tuesday night put a woman suspected of passing bad checks in Iowa City in a Waterloo jail.

This was the story: Morgan E. Cline, M.I., Exline, was working in the Ford Hopkins Drug Store here last Friday when a young woman asked him to cash a check for $5. The check was worthless.

The woman, who used the name Mrs. Everett Williams, wrote five other rubber checks Friday night in Iowa City drug stores, police said.

Cline was transferred to Waterloo this week to take the job of a Ford Hopkins employee who is on vacation.

Wednesday night the woman walked into Waterloo's Ford Hopkins store and asked Cline to cash a check.

He stalled her off while calling Waterloo police.

Waterloo police said the woman, who was identified as Hazel Joan McGuire, 20, had written worthless checks there for $100.

A companion of Miss McGuire's, Richard Dean Sheridan, 24, of Lincoln, Neb., was arrested later.

Waterloo police said Miss McGuire has signed a confession admitting writing five bad checks there.

Union Big-Screen TV To Carry 'The Search'

When the CBS television network begins its summer program series, "The Search," next Tuesday night with a program on the State University of Iowa speech clinic, Iowa City viewers won't have to squint to recognize the participants. The program will be shown on theater-size television equipment in the Iowa Memorial Union.

According to Lee W. Cochran, director of the SUI bureau of audio-visual instruction, the Fleetwood Corporation of Toledo, O., will provide a large-screen TV unit for demonstration purposes Tuesday.

Huestwood Vice-President John A. Fleet will explore the educational possibilities of large-screen TV with SUI faculty and staff members at two sessions Tuesday in the Union, from 10-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. At 8:30 p.m. the equipment will be used for a public showing on the 9-by-12-foot screen of "The Search," which will replace the Edward R. Murrow "See It Now" program this summer.

As last fall when "The Search" began its network show, the Iowa program will launch the series showing far-reaching research projects of 25 major American universities. Based on some 25

SUI Seminar To Feature Morgenthau

Prof. Hans Morgenthau of the University of Chicago will be on the State University of Iowa campus today and Friday as visiting specialist at the halfway point of the Seminar for the Improvement of Teaching in International Relations.

The author of "Politics Among Nations: the Struggle for Power and Peace," Morgenthau will discuss "power" and "the national interest" as basic concepts in international relations. He will also discuss future developments in the field with the 12 college teachers from 11 states, who were awarded Ford Foundation Fellowships to participate in the SUI seminar.

Discusses Psychology Monday and Tuesday Prof. Harold Guetzkow of the Carnegie Institute of Technology will speak on contributions of psychology to the study of international relations.

Guetzkow has edited a publication of the U.S. office of Naval Research entitled "Groups, Leadership and Men" and is the author of the book "Men and Hunger."

Thursday and Friday the group will hear Prof. Klaus Knorr of Princeton University discuss the aspects of economics in international affairs. The author of "British Colonial Theories," "World Rubber and Its Regulation," and "Tin Under Control," Knorr was consultant to the European Economic Commission at Geneva in 1949-50.

Discusses Politics The seminar will be held until Aug. 10 to appraise current introductory courses in international politics. Consultants will include Frederick L. Schuman, political scientist and author from Williams College, and Philip E. Mosely, director of the Russian Institute at Columbia University who served as an advisor to the U.S. delegation at the Potsdam Conference of 1945.

The SUI seminar is under the direction of Prof. Vernon Van Dyke of the SUI Political Science Department

James Jordan Receives Bid for National Office

James R. Jordan, director of university relations at the State University of Iowa, was named secretary-treasurer of the American College Public Relations Association at the group's national convention last weekend in Chicago.

He will serve with a slate of officers which includes ACPRA President Bradford Ansley of Emory University, G. Duncan Wimpsey of the Colorado School of Mines, James W. Armsey of New York University, and John E. Fields of the University of Southern California. Lynn D. Poole, director of public relations for Johns Hopkins University, was named ACPRA president-elect, to take office in 1956.

Stevenson, in a speech for the National Assn. convention, quipped Eisenhower after he assumed a school system demerit plan, effective Feb. 1, "Yet, today," said "Two and one-half years ago, when this need has been all critical, nothing done. Instead of 'give help,' we await a education to be White House next fall."

Says Situation "Now a conference said Stevenson, "And matize the great system our educational system, critical deficiencies, to me a pitifully inadequate cause for years of doing nothing about American domestic need — a teachers."

Stevenson referred White House conference, a meeting of educators who will recommendations on school. The former Illinois said the President to Congress last Feb. to pass legislation for $100 million dollars worth of School Houses V.

"For meeting this proposed grants of $6 million for three years. This a year to meet every of admitted present need."

Stevenson termed ing if disheartening that while proposing grant of only $6 million a year for three years construction aid, that at the same time proposed grant for highway aid — mostly on basis — of 3 billion 10 cents for the next 10 years — of 45 dollars of federal highways to every school.

"I will resist the to draw inferences from equal competition between mobiles and education government these Stevenson, "but I de 45-1 ratio between schools represents the of priority of values ple of America."

Stevenson Hits Ike's School Aid Program

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, former Democratic presidential nominee, Wednesday night attacked President Eisenhower's program of school aid before an audience of school teachers.

Stevenson, in a speech prepared for the National Education Assn. convention, quoted President Eisenhower as saying just after he assumed office: "Our school system demands some prompt, effective help."

"Yet, today," said Stevenson, "Two and one-half years later, when this need has become actually critical, nothing has been done. Instead of 'prompt effective help,' we await a conference on education to be held at the White House next fall."

Says Situation Critical

"Now a conference is fine," said Stevenson, "and it will dramatize the great significance of our educational system and its critical deficiencies, but it seems to me a pitifully inadequate excuse for years of doing absolutely nothing about America's No. 1 domestic need — schools and teachers."

Stevenson referred to the White House conference on education, a meeting of some 2,000 educators who will make recommendations on school problems.

The former Illinois governor said the President recommended to Congress last February that it pass legislation for seven billion dollars worth of new schools.

School Houses Vs. Roads

"For meeting this seven billion-dollar need, the President proposed grants of 66 millions a year for three years. This is 33 cents a year to meet every 35 dollars of admitted present, crying need."

Stevenson termed it "interesting if disheartening to reflect that while proposing an effective grant of only 66 million dollars a year for three years for school construction aid, the President at the same time proposed a federal grant for highway construction aid — mostly on a matching basis — of 3 billion dollars every year for the next 10 years! This is 45 dollars of federal funds for highways to every dollar for schools."

"I will resist the temptation to draw inferences from the unequal competition between automobiles and education in our government these days," said Stevenson, "but I deny that this 45-1 ratio between highways and schools represents the standards of priority of values of the people of America."

Custody Battle Continues

MR. AND MRS. MELVIN B. ELLIS have been ordered by probate court to surrender their foster daughter, Hildy McCoy, 4, to her natural mother, Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty of Hingham, Mass. The order was based on a Massachusetts state statute which says a child must be given for adoption, where practicable, to a couple of the same religious faith as the child's natural parents. The Ellises are Jewish. Hildy's mother is a Catholic. Counsel for the Ellises, who have failed to obey the court order, charged Wednesday their rights were ignored. Mrs. Ellis is shown with Hildy.

people friendly, kind, and willing to help her in any way they can. In New York, she had a personal guide, a Girl Scout, naturally.

Language No Barrier

Language has not been a barrier for Gudy. She speaks English very well, having studied it for more than eight years.

The wide streets of our cities never stop amazing Gudy. In Germany the common vehicle is still a bicycle. Streets are very narrow in the century-old cities and towns. Sometimes cars must be parked outside the city limits.

Gudy observed that in the United States traffic laws must be made because there are so many cars while in Germany they must be made because there is no place for the few.

German Plan Differs

The hugeness of the Girl Scout organization in America is different from the German plan. The emphasis there is on small groups of many origins, sometimes connected with the church but never with the school as in the United States.

Gudy got an unexpected surprise when she arrived in Iowa City. When she is finished with her camping activities here she will be able to travel to Louisiana and Texas with some of the local Girl Scouts, thereby seeing much more of the United States than she had anticipated.

Dodge Street Viaduct

THIS IS THE DODGE STREET viaduct which Iowa City contends should be replaced. The Rock Island Railroad says the present structure can be repaired.

State Commission To Rule on Viaduct Dispute

DES MOINES — The Iowa State Commerce Commission ruled Wednesday that it has jurisdiction in the Dodge Street viaduct dispute.

The Rock Island Railroad claimed in June that the commission had no jurisdiction in the matter under Iowa law.

The city of Iowa City has passed an ordinance directing the railroad to share the cost of constructing a new viaduct. It claims the present viaduct is unsafe for modern traffic.

Railroad Claims

The railroad claims that the structure can be repaired.

The commission's ruling said: "The commission . . . has authority . . . to determine whether a bridge at Dodge Street is necessary to the safety and convenience of the public and whether plans and specifications for the bridge shall be approved by the commission."

Other Rulings

On other jurisdictional matters the commission ruling said: "As to the rights of parties under a contract . . . or location of the bridge . . . the commission has no concern because these are matters to be decided by the court."

John Ropes, commission member, said the ruling meant that the commission has the power to order a new viaduct to be constructed.

Iowa Maintenance Law

A. B. Howland, attorney for the railroad, told the commission here June 9 that it had no jurisdiction in the case due to an Iowa law that says only one viaduct every four blocks must be maintained by the railroad.

The Dodge Street and South Summit Street viaducts are only three blocks apart.

The commission postponed the hearing to consider Howland's motion.

Ropes said Wednesday that the hearing would resume sometime in the near future.

Conley's 3-Hitter Stops Cubs, 5-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Milwaukee climbed to within one game of second place Chicago by defeating the Cubs, 5-1, Wednesday behind Gene Conley's three hit pitching.

Eddie Mathews' 21st homer was one of the Braves' 11 hits as starter Bob Rush suffered his fifth loss.

Conley, selected for the National League all-star team, thus became the first Milwaukee pitcher to win 10 games.

He missed a shutout when he yielded a leadoff single to pinch hitter Frankie Baumholtz in the sixth. This swat was blended with Hank Aaron's error, a walk to Gene Baker, and rookie Jim King's single.

The Braves blasted their 11 hits off a threesome of Chicago pitchers starting with Rush. They gained a 1-0 lead in the second on Bobby Thomson's pop fly double and Joe Adcock's single.

Milwaukee made it 3-0 in the third on Billy Bruton's leadoff single, and Mathews' drive over the right field screen.

A walk, a force play and Del Crandall's steal of second preceded Conley's single for the third placers' fourth run in the fourth.

Milwaukee posted its final marker in the sixth. Crandall singled with two out and scored on Jack Dittmer's triple.

Detroit Gives Fain Outright Release

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers Wednesday gave veteran first baseman Ferris Fain his unconditional release.

The 33-year-old infielder, considered one of the game's great competitors, has been bothered for the past year by an injured knee.

Fain had a batting average of .264 this season. He was the Tigers' regular first baseman through the early part of the season, but needed occasional rest periods.

Two weeks ago Detroit purchased Earl Torgeson, another veteran first baseman, from the Philadelphia Phillies. He took over as the Tigers' No. 1 first sacker, with Fain relegated to the duty of pinch hitting.

Fain was a two-time American League batting champion with the old Philadelphia Athletics.

Williams Leads Sox Past Senators, 7-5

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams slammed a two-run homer, a double and a single Wednesday night in Boston's 7-5 victory over Washington in the first game of a scheduled two-night doubleheader.

The second game was rained out.

Williams' homer, his 11th of the season and 377th of his major league career, came in the fifth inning off Dean Stone. It put the Sox in front to stay, 5-4.

The win was the sixth in a row and 25th of the last 30 for Boston.

Yanks Lose Fourth Straight; Orioles Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Wilson shut out the league-leading New York Yankees on four hits and batted in two runs to help drive Whitey Ford off the mound Wednesday night as the lowly Baltimore Orioles handed New York its fourth straight defeat, 4-0.

It was the second time the Orioles have defeated the Yanks in 13 meetings this season.

Tigers Beat Chisox, Eed Losses at 6

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline slugged a two-run homer in the first inning Wednesday, starting the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

It snapped the Tigers' six game losing streak — their longest in two years.

Kaline connected off loser Virgil Trucks following an inning-opening single by Harvey Kuenn and a grounder by Bill Tuttle.

It was Kaline's 18th homer of the season and gave him 65 runs batted in. He later doubled to left center, pushing his league leading batting average to .375.

Ned Garver went all the way for Detroit, pitching out of frequent trouble as he recorded his first victory since June 7. It brought his overall mark to 6-9.

Mueller's Homer Beats Phillies, 4-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Mueller's home run with a man on base broke up a tie in the sixth inning and gave New York a 4-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in a rain-shortened game Wednesday night.

The victory pushed New York into fourth place.

Tibbets, Walker Fined $100 Each After Fight

CINCINNATI (AP) — Birdie Tebbets, manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, and Harry (The Hat) Walker, manager of the St. Louis Cards, were fined $100 each Wednesday for participating in a fight at Crosley Field Tuesday night.

Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, who witnessed the brawl between the managers at the home plate in the ninth inning, fined the men.

In a statement, he said: "Scuffles between players under tension in a close ball game do not normally require action by the league office but when managers are involved it is a different situation."

"Managers have an obligation to preserve or restore order and, not by their own actions, to incite disorder. Accordingly manager Harry Walker and manager Birdie Tebbets are each fined $100 for their conduct in the game of July 5."

Catcher Bill Sarni of the Cardinals was fined $25 for repeatedly refusing to heed Umpire Jocko Conlan's order to return to his position and resume play.

Tebbets took a punch at Walker during an argument over the warming up of St. Louis replacements in the outfield and at third base. He led with a wild round house right and missed. Walker swung back and they wrestled to the ground, rolling about and punching.

The benches of both teams emptied and soon there were a half dozen brawl going on.

Tebbets came out of the melee with a scratched face, a couple of spike wounds on his legs, and a bloody nose. Walker complained that he had suffered a bruise on the bald spot on his head.
