Whitfield Withdraws Nomination To AEC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confronted with a Senatorial quiz which he said included some "most extraordinary" questions, Allen Whitfield asked President Eisenhower Friday to withdraw his nomination to the Atomic Energy Commission.

This the President is expected to do, next week.

Whitfield, a 51-year-old Des Moines lawyer and Republican party worker, had been summoned before the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee for a hearing on July 18.

Nomination Pending
His nomination to be a member of the AEC has been hanging fire for nearly four months, while committee investigators delved into his handling of an estate for which he acted as trustee.

In a letter made public by the White House, Whitfield told Eisenhower he had been made the "victim of insinuations which have been widely circulated by sources unknown to me," and added:

"It appears clear that if confirmed, my service might involve the Atomic Energy Commission in political controversy for which I would be made to feel responsible and which I am confident you did not intend that important agency to sustain."

"Request Withdrawal"
"Consequently," he wrote, "I have concluded that, at whatever cost to myself, I should request you to withdraw my nomination. I have reached this decision after much soul searching."

The White House said Whitfield's letter arrived after the President had left for a week-end visit at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm. Advised of its contents by telephone, the President was reported to have expressed regret. Murray Snyder, a assistant White House press secretary, said Eisenhower would take "appropriate" action next week. Reporters asked Snyder if the President had suggested that Whitfield request withdrawal of his nomination, and he replied the President had not.

Series of Questions
In his letter to Eisenhower, Whitfield said he had received a letter from Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), chairman of the joint committee, asking detailed replies to a series of questions.

Most of the questions, he said, would "require me to reveal affairs of persons who are my clients."

Asserting this would involve a breach of legal ethics, Whitfield said:

"I know that the confidential matters inquired about do not involve any violation of law or improper conduct on the part of my clients or myself—nevertheless I am forbidden to answer questions concerning them."

Bank Stock
Anderson took the position that the committee was entitled to the information it sought because he said Whitfield was a principal stockholder in the Valley Bank & Trust Co. of Des Moines. Anderson said committee investigators had assembled "hundreds of pages" of material concerning the sale of bank stock while Whitfield was trustee for the late R. A. Crawford, who also was a principal holder.

Anderson did not go into detail about the nature of the transactions. He said he was not making any charges against Whitfield but was seeking information on a matter which had been brought to the committee's attention.

He said he had airmailed 18 subpoenas Thursday night to two investigators for the joint committee now in Des Moines after they had reported to him Whitfield declined to give them information about the estate matter.

Record High Were Employed in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 64 million Americans had jobs in June. The government reported it was the highest employment figure in the nation's history.

From a May total of 62,073,000, the Labor and Commerce departments said, civilian employment rose in June to 64,016,000. The previous high was August 1953, when 63,700,000 men and women held jobs.

Unemployment during June increased by 190,000 to a total of 2,679,000, the Departments reported. This was one of the smallest June increases since World War II.

Allen Whitfield Withdraws Nomination

Wilson Hits Vet Reserves Exemption

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson Friday opposed proposals to change the Eisenhower military reserve program by exempting ex-servicemen from compulsory service in the reserves.

Such a plan had been suggested by Sen. Richard Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He said it was unfair to compel men who have already served regular hitches, to continue to carry a burden in the proposed new national reserve.

He suggested instead that a $400 bonus be offered these ex-servicemen if they voluntarily agree to three years of active reserve training in combat units of the Army and Marine Corps.

In a letter to Russell, Wilson said, "We cannot leave to chance the supply of experienced personnel who will provide the hard core of our reserve."

He asked that all eligible youths be made subject to eight years of obligatory service, counting active duty and reserve training.

Russell presented his plan as the Senate Armed Services Committee went into a second day of hearings on President Eisenhower's program, designed to increase the reserves from their present strength of 700,000 to 2,900,000 by 1960. This would require the inclusion of veterans of the regular armed forces.

Meanwhile, the issue of racial segregation was raised anew. An amendment against segregation in the National Guard was once adopted by the House but was dropped after a fight blocked the legislation for six weeks.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington director for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, declared the bill finally passed by the House "left the door wide open for segregation," and said this would prevent the use of a million draft-age Negroes in Southern states.

Ghost Ship Called Hoax

NEW YORK (AP) — A dramatic radio report of the sinking of the ghost ship Blue Star was written off as a hoax Friday by the Coast Guard. The prank cost the government $50,000.

"Our evaluation is that there is nothing out there," said Coast Guard Lt. Cmdr. James Doyle as a vast air-sea search was called off more than 30 hours after it began.

At least eight planes and six ships took part in a criss-cross of 4,000 square miles of the Atlantic Ocean in the vain hunt for the Blue Star.

A radio report early Thursday said the 40-foot fishing vessel was afloat and sinking and that a foreign submarine had picked up 21 survivors.

The Coast Guard was inclined to think the fake distress message may have come from a shore station, possibly manned by an amateur operator.

Coast Guard marine investigators and the Federal Communications Commission will continue trying to trace the source of the message. But they admitted there wasn't much hope of pinning it down.

Whitfield Says 'It's a Relief'

DES MOINES (AP) — Allen Whitfield, Des Moines attorney and Republican leader, said in a statement Friday "it is with a sense of personal relief" that he has withdrawn from appointment to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Whitfield's action was announced from Washington earlier in the day. He had asked President Eisenhower by letter to withdraw the presidential nomination, and the president indicated he would do so "with regret."

Although Whitfield could not be located for comment he issued this statement through his office:

"Sacrifices"

"I did not seek the appointment to the Atomic Energy Commission. When the matter was proposed, I consented to accept the appointment, realizing that if permitted to serve, it would require personal sacrifices by me, my family and associates, and inconvenience to my clients.

"It is with a sense of personal relief that I note some other individual will be called upon to carry the heavy burden of responsibility."

Confirmation of Whitfield's appointment had been held up by the Senate after questions were raised by Democrats on the committee.

Two investigators for the joint Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee quizzed Whitfield at his office for two hours Thursday. Neither they nor Whitfield would make any comment at that time.

On several occasions investigators have been sent to Des Moines. The investigation centered around Whitfield's connection with the handling of the R. A. Crawford trust.

Photostats Obtained
Photostatic copies of legal matters involved in the trust had been obtained from the clerk of the Polk County District Court.

Before Whitfield's withdrawal was made public, one of the two committee investigators sent here this week said their work might continue in Des Moines "quite a while" and possibly take them elsewhere in Iowa, unless Whitfield withdrew. Then it would end immediately, he added.

After the withdrawal the investigator declined to comment.

Judge Calls For Disputed 4-Year-Old

DEDHAM, Mass. (AP) — Judge James F. Reynolds of Norfolk Probate Court Friday ordered sheriffs to bring before him immediately 4-year-old Tildy McCoy, central figure in a two-year adoption controversy.

The child, born of a Roman Catholic mother, has been with a Jewish couple, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ellis, since she was 10 days old. An adoption petition was nullified in the same court two years ago but the Ellises have refused to surrender the child.

Not long after the mother gave her daughter in adoption, she learned the Ellises are Jewish. She moved to revoke the adoption under a new Massachusetts adoption law that says where practicable a child must be given in adoption to foster parents of the same religious faith.

Counsel for the couple, John McAuliffe, gained a delay in the State Supreme Court by asking for a review of the Probate Court action. No developments are expected until later this month.

Thursday McAuliffe sought to have the Ellises adjudged in contempt for disobeying the order to surrender the child. A hearing was ordered July 18.

Ellis has said he is ready to do whatever is necessary — possibly even go to jail for contempt — to keep Tildy. He said he does not believe the child's mother, now Mrs. Marjorie McCoy Doherty of Hingham, wants her.

Wallet Back Contents of $108 Intact; Finder Unknown

Honest young men are hard enough to find these days—but if an honest young man is also very modest, the task becomes more difficult.

C. V. Collinge, G. Carroll, is searching for such a person, who chose to remain anonymous and unthanked when he returned Collinge's lost wallet, complete with contents, Wednesday morning.

While in a down-town store Wednesday, Collinge reached for—but didn't find—his wallet. "I was ready to head back to Carroll," he said. "Every penny I owned was in that billfold."

The contents was hardly in pennies. The wallet contained $108.

The predicament was short-lived, however. His anonymous benefactor had come to his home at 152 Riverside Drive and handed the wallet to his daughter, Karen, 8, who was playing on the lawn in front of the home. The young man said, "Here's your Dad's wallet," and then walked away. The $108 was still there.

"He must have done some fast research," said Collinge. "My address wasn't on anything in the billfold. Now I want to find him and give him his due reward."

But Collinge's sleuthing isn't going as well as the young man's. Collinge is appealing to him to drop in at 152 Riverside and pick up his reward.

Fisk Suggests One-Story Civic Building

Architect Henry Fisk said Friday that a one-story city hall-recreation building would cover about two-thirds of a city block.

Fisk, who drew plans for previous proposed city buildings, appeared before Mayor LeRoy S. Mercer's civic building site committee.

The 13-member group was selected by Mercer to suggest sites for a building or buildings to replace the 74-year old city hall and burned-out Community Center.

Fisk said a one-story building would cover about 80,000 square feet. A city block covers 102,000 square feet.

Space Estimates
Fisk also gave space estimates for the various city departments. They were (in square feet): fire 7,700; police 3,800; city council chambers 2,000; city administration 6,000 and recreation 24,000.

Fisk said that a one-story building, while it would take up a lot of space, would be more economical and practical than a multi-story building. He said a rough estimate would place the building's cost at $600,000.

Six sites were suggested at the committee's first meeting last week: the Musser parking lot, the Community Center block, the College Street Park, the City Library block, the present City Hall property and the Johnson County Courthouse block.

Chairman William Hart Friday ruled two of those sites out.

'Not Interested'
"The county supervisors told me their present building was adequate," Hart said. "They told me they were not interested in a city-county building."

Hart also said the library site would not be large enough.

Fisk and some committee members brought up talk of two or three buildings for the city and recreation facilities.

City Manager Peter F. Roan, a non-voting member of the committee, said one building would be better for coordination of city government.

Voting members Louis Loria and Mrs. George Horner claimed that a one building plan would have a better chance of passing in a bond issue election.

Defeated in '54
A proposal to build a $330,000 building next to the then-standing Community Center was defeated in June, 1954.

The committee voted unanimously to hold future meetings in secret session to eliminate land speculation on or near sites that are being discussed.

COLLISION
LONDON (AP) — An automobile carrying Labor party leader Clement Attlee, 72, with his wife driving, collided with a bus Friday night at Hyde Park corner, one of London's busiest intersections. The Attlees escaped injury.

House Committee Cuts Ike's Foreign Aid Fund

Brownell Tells FBI Interest In Memphis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. declined an invitation to appear before a Senate subcommittee Friday, sending instead a written explanation of why he has FBI agents checking on Memphis' plan to build a city power plant.

He said it was necessary to know whether Memphis is making "definite commitments" to go through with the project.

His letter brought prompt expressions of dissatisfaction from subcommittee members and a declaration by Chairman Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), that Brownell might be asked to explain further.

Controversy
It was all part of the boiling controversy over the Dixon-Yates private power contract, which probably will be canceled by President Eisenhower if Memphis proceeds with plans for its own generating station.

When Kefauver's Antimonopoly subcommittee heard of the use of G-men at Memphis it asked the attorney-general to appear Friday and explain things. Kefauver called it "a shocking misuse of the FBI."

In his letter, Brownell said he was unable to appear immediately, but that it was "normal and appropriate" to use FBI agents in collecting facts on which to base a legal decision.

Kefauver disagreed, saying "the legislative and historic background of the FBI doesn't show it should be used to investigate sovereign cities."

Since Memphis has given notice of termination of its power contract with the Tennessee Valley Authority, he went on, it is none of the federal government's business how they plan to get electricity.

'Responsibility'
The White House suggested earlier Friday that before the Dixon-Yates contract is canceled the mayor and City Council of Memphis vote to assume "sole responsibility" for providing the city's electric power.

That would be one way of assuring that the power needs of the Memphis area are met, James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, said in discussing the beleaguered contract.

Dixon-Yates has a contract with the government to build a 107 million dollar generating plant at West Memphis, Ark.

It would provide power to replace that being drained from the TVA system by installations of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But Memphis, which would have absorbed most of the additional power, announced it would build its own plant rather than buy Dixon-Yates power. In that event, TVA said the Dixon-Yates plant would not be necessary.

Ike Denies Du'les Said Soviets Weak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Friday that when Secretary of State John Foster Dulles stated that the Russian economic system is "on the point of collapsing" he did not mean Russia faces any "immediate crisis."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said "there is no difference" between the views of Dulles and President Eisenhower. The President said Wednesday that nobody in his government has stated the Soviets will enter the Geneva Big Four conference in a state of weakness.

Dulles' "point of collapsing" remark apparently was an off-hand one which was too strong to fit the available facts.

Dulles made the remark June 10 before the House Appropriations Committee, where he appeared to plug for a big foreign-aid fund.

Russia, he said, is showing strains as it struggles to keep up. The Soviets, he declared, are "overextended, unable to meet their commitments."

Private Arsenal Uncovered

AN ARMS CACHE uncovered in Detroit is examined by Fred McIntyre, chief of the FBI's Detroit office. The weapons, along with cash and jewelry loot were found in the apartment of Louis Emery Teller, who, with his 17-year-old companion, Lora Lee Ritenour, were being hunted in connection with a $23,000 Ohio Ohio bank robbery.

Public More Alert, Morgenthau Claims

Hans Morgenthau, University of Chicago political scientist, said Friday that American public opinion is ready to appreciate the realities of foreign policy.

He said that the Truman and Eisenhower governments were intimidated by a small vociferous minority into making irresponsible public declarations.

Morgenthau, a specialist in international law and politics at Chicago, discussed the role of national interest in foreign affairs at the State University of Iowa Seminar for the Improving of Teaching in International Relations. The seminar is supported by a $22,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Prisoners of Fear
Morgenthau said U.S. state department officials have become "prisoners of their own fear," of popular emotional reactions to international realities.

For instance, he noted the state department's statement to the press Thursday opposing comments made Wednesday by Burmese Premier U Nu.

The Burmese leader had said that he had the impression that "most of the responsible people in Washington did not oppose Peiping's admission but were waiting until the time was ripe."

But the State Department insisted that "this government's opposition to the seating of Communist China in the United Nations has not changed," Morgenthau reported.

He discussed a basic core of principles which govern present-day diplomatic conduct in line with traditional national interests with modifications reflecting recent situations.

Woods Named Drake Dean

DES MOINES, Ia. — Elsworth P. Woods, former State University of Iowa student and instructor, Friday was appointed dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Drake University.

Woods, who graduated from SUI in the 1930's, is now a professor of political science at Western Michigan State College at Kalamazoo, Mich.

He received his B.A., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees at SUI, where he was a Social Science instructor from 1947 to 1949.

Terms Ike's Practices 'Questionable'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a blast at what it called "questionable administrative practices," the House Appropriations Committee Friday knocked $827,900,000 out of the new foreign aid fund requested by President Eisenhower.

The committee also spoke of a "chaotic fiscal situation" in the military aid part of the program.

It recommended approval of $2,638,741,750 in new aid money for the current fiscal year, which started July 1. Eisenhower's request was for $3,286,841,750.

Sets Limit
Congress Thursday set a limit of $3,285,800,000 on new foreign aid authorizations for the year, Eisenhower, who had asked for a figure of $3,408,000,000 signed the reduced authorization bill Friday.

Further cuts in actual appropriations are likely to be proposed when the money bill comes up for House debate Monday. The Appropriations Committee noted that the foreign aid program has an estimated $8,717,100,000 in unspent balances from previous allotments.

Biggest cut recommended by the committee was $420,000,000 from the $1,125,000,000 reserved for general military aid to non-Communist nations. Other big reductions were $100,000,000 from funds requested for Asian economic development and $52,800,000 from the $827,800,000 sought for defense support for Asia.

The committee said the cuts it proposed would not hurt the program in view of the large balances on hand.

Ways Questioned
With respect to these funds, it expressed concern about "questionable administrative practices followed in obligating, deobligating and reobligating funds."

It said it had "reason to believe" that funds frequently are obligated late in a fiscal year in order to keep them available for the next year, "even though the obligations are not based on firm agreements or commitments."

Implying a chaotic situation in military assistance, the committee report said witnesses estimated June 30 unobligated balances all the way from 100 million to $92 million. On the last day of the fiscal year—June 30—the committee said, the defense program set aside for use during the new year $614,000,000 of unobligated balances in addition to $337,000,000 obligated earlier in the month.

Great Leaders Needed
Morgenthau said the U.S. needs to keep and support diplomatic leaders of great intellect, experience and moral responsibility who also have the courage to conduct foreign affairs in line with the "national interests" as each historical situation arises.

Morgenthau stressed that the success or failure of a foreign policy must depend on a number of factors outside the control of the nation conducting the policy.

"It's impossible," he said, "to conceive of one single foreign policy which coincides with all the policies suggested in this country, ranging from preventing war by dropping A-bombs first to an idealistic faith in the power of moral accord and paper agreements to halt charging tanks."

Hoover Is Pessimistic About Geneva Meeting
NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Herbert Hoover said Friday he does not expect "a lasting peace" to result from the forthcoming Big Four conference at Geneva.

However, he said, "we might get what we can call an endurable peace for years to come; that's the most we can hope for."

He said, "A very, very able group of men is representing the United States."

The former President made the remarks before flying to San Francisco for a month's vacation.

The String Orchestra's selections will be: "Sinfonietta in D," "Adagio," and "Allegro" by W. A. Mozart.

The Girl's Chorus will sing "Through the Silent Night" by Serge Rachmaninoff, and the Boys' Chorus will sing "Passing By" by Purcell, and "Rock-a-my Soul" by Regier.

The Orchestra will play "Konn, Sussor Tod" by Bach-Whitney; "Entrance and March of Peers," from "Iolanthe" by Sullivan-Riebold; "Romanic Prelude," and "Holiday Tune" by Whitney.

Five groups participating in the All State Music Camp will present a "Pops" Concert at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The organizations are the Mixed Chorus, String Orchestra, Girls' Chorus, Boys' Chorus, and Orchestra.

Maurice Whitney, Lee Kjelson, and Dallas Tjaden will conduct the program. Marcelyn James will be the accompanist for the Mixed Chorus, and Connie Davis will accompany the Girls' Chorus.

Don't Count on 'They'—

Let eight people be killed in six or eight highway accidents scattered around the state and nobody pays much attention to it, beyond perhaps a pious shake of the head. But let eight people be killed in one accident, at one particular intersection, and immediately everybody is steamed up with indignation. On all sides people start pounding the table and shouting, "It's high time they did something about this senseless slaughter!" Or words to that effect.

Always it's "They ought to do this" or "Why don't they do that?"

Well, the answer to that is that there isn't any "they." The word is "you."

There isn't anybody in the world who can do as much about the highway accident danger that really concerns you as you can do yourself.

Sure, our roads are too narrow. The sight distances aren't long enough. The cars ought to have less horsepower and more seat belts. The highway patrol ought to be bigger. The judges ought to really lower the boom on traffic law violators. There ought to be more driver training courses. Driver license examinations ought to be tougher. This ought to be and that ought to be.

But the fact remains that anybody who has any business driving a car at all knows how to drive the kind of car he owns on the kind of roads we have, in accordance with the restrictions laid down in our existing laws. Undoubtedly we ought to have a lot of things we don't have, but we don't.

We have horsepower and no seat belts because you buy horsepower and you don't buy seat belts. We have narrow, antiquated roads and an undermanned highway patrol and inadequate driver training because you bellyache so much about taxes as they are that few public policy makers have the gumption to vote them any higher. Judges go easy as a rule because you think they were unduly harsh in the particular cases that happen to interest you. License examinations don't amount to anything because you're afraid you couldn't pass them if they did and therefore don't insist that they mean something.

It may be that all these assertions don't apply to you specifically, and if so beg your pardon and offer our congratulations. But the statistics strongly suggest that some of them do.

Even so, we could all adjust ourselves to the conditions as they exist and keep from getting killed or killing anybody else if we were willing to put ourselves out that much. We know how to do it.

But we needn't sit around thinking "they" will do it for us. They won't.

Better Iowa City Contest—

Outlines Plan To Rebuild Community Center Building

(Editor's Note: This letter is the second prize winner in the rural division of the Better Iowa City contest. The other winning letters will be printed in subsequent issues of The Daily Iowan.)

To the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce:

I believe Iowa City would be a better place if a new Municipal Office, Fire and Police and Recreation Building were built now.

This is what I believe should be done: Sketches should be prepared showing needed space for various departments of the city government including recreation space for various civic organizations to replace those lost in the disastrous fire which recently destroyed the Community Building. The space for civic activities could be provided at reasonable costs in a second story over the municipal offices and in ground floor areas under the Fire Department. The use of the Gilbert Street property now owned by the city is ideal for an arrangement of this kind as the ground floor natural elevation is now available for use as is with no excavation necessary and permitting traffic flow on two different street levels easing traffic congestion in and out of the building on to other streets.

within walking distance to the business districts of the city, helping to stop the moving out of various business enterprises to less congested areas. The revenue from these parking facilities could easily provide sufficient funds to pay the interest on the bond issue for the entire building project.

The cost of the project could be substantially reduced by the sale of the present city owned municipal buildings and fire stations which will no longer be needed when the new buildings are completed. This would put these properties back on the tax rolls and provide needed business properties in desirable locations.

The engineering structural problems could be analyzed and designed by the University of Iowa Engineering College with suitable awards for the most useful and economical design. The architectural design should be awarded to an experienced and reputable architect with instructions to incorporate in his design standard first quality commercially available products to produce functional finished buildings without resorting to costly custom built material and equipment which add nothing to the value of the project except useless expense.

To properly get this matter before the taxpayers and citizens, a publicity campaign should be undertaken. Photographs of present municipal buildings should be taken showing the obsolete worn-out fire-hazard conditions and shown along-side of pictures of the recently destroyed Community Building together with sketches of the proposed new buildings which are to replace the first two buildings. This work can be carried on by the Chamber of Commerce and other civic minded groups interested in the welfare and efficient operation of their municipal government, direct mail, radio and television and "Town Hall Meetings." Being of and in the public interest, the costs for this publicity should be low. A hard hitting locally respected Citizens Committee should be formed to get the job done at once.

Interpreting the News—

Security Seat Fight May Increase Tension

By FRANCIS CARPENTER

For J. M. Roberts,

Associated Press News Analyst
Poland and the Philippines are running for the same seat on the UN Security Council. This is almost certain to put a new strain on the relations of their big brothers, the U.S.S.R. and the United States, just as the great powers are working to ease world tensions.

Poland during its first sessions in 1946. With Moscow's backing it has tried to return, but the United States blocked all the attempts. The new election will be held in the General Assembly convening Sept. 20.

U.S. Opposition

In the years before the current thaw in the Russian cold front, the United States opposed all Soviet satellite candidacies. Washington saw no reason to give the Russians one more vote on the Security Council. The Americans felt Russia's veto power was more than enough for the Communists.

The hottest Council fight between Moscow and Washington developed in 1949 when Yugoslavia, which had broken with Russia the year before, announced for the Council.

The Yugoslav bid infuriated the late Andrei Y. Vishinsky. He threatened dire consequences if the UN elected the Yugoslavs. The UN did. No dire consequences resulted.

Red Bid

Next the Russians tried to put Czechoslovakia on the Council. But the United States backed Greece and won. Poland tried again in vain two years ago, when Turkey was elected. Turkey will go off the Council this year and Poland claims the right to the seat as a representative of Eastern Europe.

The Western camp has not been unanimous on this and Poland may have a chance to squeeze through. The rub is a gentleman's agreement made in London when the Council was established. Seats were then allocated geographically. Moscow says the Russians were promised one for Eastern Europe.

One Year Agreement
The United States contends this agreement was for one year only. Britain, however, is known to feel that the agreement was for a longer term and has voted against the U.S.-backed candidates on several ballots.

It is reported that the Philippine permanent delegate, Felixberto Serrano, did not consult Washington when he formally announced the Philippine candidacy this week. So far the United States has not made known its position. Serrano says it is time for Southeast Asia to be represented.

Health Service Initiates New Salk Polio Research Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new research program aimed at "further improvement" of Salk polio vaccine was announced Friday by the government.

The Public Health Service (PHS) also released 300,000 shots of the vaccine, the first made available since June 6 for the virtually stalled antipolio drive.

The PHS said the coming research program—involving government, university and industrial laboratories—might also help improve vaccines against other virus diseases.

Wyeth Laboratories
The vaccine released was manufactured by Wyeth Laboratories of Marietta, Pa., and cleared under revised testing standards adopted on May 26.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis said on June 24 that its program of vaccinating first and second graders was stalled for the need of more vaccine and that six million "shots" would be necessary to complete it.

In a third action Friday, the PHS assigned one of its scientists to each of the six vaccine manufacturing plants. They will "facilitate more rapid exchange of information between scientists of the pharmaceutical industry and the federal govern-

Research Effort

As for the research effort the PHS said it would delve into such things as:

1. Possible use of "other" strains of polio virus in the vaccine. The Salk vaccine now uses the Mahoney strain as a preventive against Type 1 polio. Inclusion of the Mahoney strain has been criticized by some virologists on the ground that it is too virulent. Dr. Jonas Salk says that, when properly made, his vaccine containing Mahoney strain is safe, but he himself has said that a different Type 1 virus is ultimately desirable.

2. "Improved tests for potency" of the vaccine and "the improvement of monkey safety tests."

Stop Weekly Summaries

In another development, the PHS said it has decided to discontinue its previous system of releasing weekly summaries of polio cases among vaccinated children.

A spokesman said publication of such summaries would be "without meaning" unless related to other statistics, including the total vaccinated, and also the expected number of cases among a given group of children. He said the service does not get total figures on vaccination on a current basis.

Iowa Citizens Swelter As Mercury Hits 97

Weatherman Says Cool Air on Way

Iowa City sweltered in a new record temperature Friday while awaiting promised relief.

The mercury rose to a 1955 high of 97 degrees by 5 p.m. Friday to break the previous record of 96 set Thursday.

Two cool fronts, meanwhile, were on the way.

The first was moving eastward across the state, pushing thunderstorms ahead of it.

The second was moving southward from Canada with cool air that reportedly would drop temperatures 10 degrees by this afternoon.

Today's high temperature is expected to be under 86 degrees.

Heat Sees 13th Day

Friday was the 13th day of the heat wave — and the worst.

The temperature cooled to 78 degrees in the early morning hours, then started climbing. It was 90 by noon and 96 by 2 p.m. The day's high of 97 was reached at 5 p.m.

Iowa Citizens tended to be skeptical of the rain forecasts for this morning and today.

They have been promised rain every day since last Saturday. All they have received is a Wednesday night drizzle that measured .01 of an inch.

Most of the nation was suffering along with Iowa City Friday. All of the United States east of the prairie states reported high temperatures. So did the Southwestern states.

Chicago Records 98

Chicago recorded its ninth straight day of 90-degree temperatures. The mercury edged up to 98 there for a July 8 record.

Only the Northern Plain states got relief Friday as the cool air pushed southward over them.

Only one thing marred the coming of the cool air: possible tornadoes.

The entire northeastern quarter of Iowa was alerted for possible twisters Friday. High winds Friday damaged houses at Maxwell and Collins, villages about 25 miles northeast of Des Moines.

Webster City got a large quantity of relief from the heat. About 2.65 inches of rain fell in 45 minutes Friday afternoon.

THE HEAT WAVE reached a year's high of 97 degrees in Iowa City Friday. The main problem of Iowa Citizens was finding a way to beat the heat. Above, Patty Campion, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campion, R.R. 6, Iowa City, splashes gaily through the foot bath at the City Park pool in anticipation of that cool, pool water.

AND AS USUAL, the City pool had a large turnout of youngsters and adults alike. The pool remained at near-capacity through most of its opening hours, from 1 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

MIKE HUTCHINSON, who works for a local ice cream company, couldn't go to the pool Friday, but he beat the heat in another way. He works in an ice storage room where the temperature is four degrees below zero.

THE CITY PARK DUCKS didn't react in the same manner as many humans did. The water fowl stayed out of their water habitat and loafed in the cool shade of the park trees.

Des Moines Office Loses Small Safe

DES MOINES (AP)—Police Friday were investigating the theft of a small safe taken from the New Holland Machine Company in Des Moines Thursday night.

Office manager Calvin Spayde told police that the safe weighs about 150 pounds and contained $74.66 cash, an unsigned check for $25.34, and about $30,000-to-$40,000-worth of endorsed checks. Spayde said the checks were endorsed for deposit to a New Holland bank account only, and could not be cashed.

Spayde said it was the second time the building had been entered this year. He said robberies had been attempted four times in the past.

SUI TV Center Produces Second in Science Series

The role of the community druggist in Iowa is the subject of "Mr. Tomkins' Executive Ability," a half hour kinescope production by the State University of Iowa Television Center.

This is the second in the series of TV productions entitled "The Scientist on the Corner." The first was "Herman's Tough Customer," which was finished earlier this year. Six productions are planned in the complete series, according to producer James E. Lynch.

"The Scientist on the Corner" is sponsored by a grant from the Iowa Pharmaceutical Association.

Local Crash Victim Files Damage Suit

William T. Maher, 320 Hutchinson Ave., Friday filed a $1,580 damage suit against Mr. and Mrs. William Cahill, 722 E. Market St., and Paul E. Paulson, 409 E. Jefferson St. in Johnson County District Court.

The suit claims Maher's auto was wrecked and Maher received personal injuries when his car was struck at the intersection of Riverside Dr. and Highway 6 June 19 by a car driven by Paulson.

Mr. and Mrs. Cahill are the owners of the car Paulson was driving.

Maher seeks $1,080 for damage to his automobile and $500 for personal injuries.

Indians Top White Sox, 1-0, As Lemon Yields Five Hits

Tribe Scores Winning Run In 1st Inning

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Bob Lemon of the Cleveland Indians turned the Chicago White Sox back, 1-0, Friday night before a crowd of 38,326 to become the first 12-game winner in the American League.

It was Lemon's fourth triumph of the season against the Sox who have handed him only one of his six losses. He allowed five hits.

The powerful righthander didn't allow a ball hit out of the infield until the fourth inning and was in trouble only once although he was taken out for a pinch batter in the eighth inning after apparently tiring.

Cleveland pushed across its run in the first inning on a single by Al Smith, a sacrifice by Bobby Avila and a pop double down the right field line by Al Rosen.

Billy Pierce, White Sox starter, pitched brilliant ball after that until he, too, was lifted for a pinch batter in the eighth.

Yanks Defeat Nats in Short Contest, 3-0

WASHINGTON (AP)—A downpour came to the relief of Tommy Byrne Friday night and preserved a 3-0 shutout over Washington for the New York Yankees' lefthander in a game called in the last of the seventh inning after the Senators had scored a run and had the bases filled with two out. The score reverted to the sixth inning.

Jim Konstanty replaced Byrne but never fired a pitch. A heavy rain developed into a deluge as he arrived on the mound, necessitating a halt. The game was called one hour and 15 minutes later.

Byrne struck out his second successive shutout against the Senators, both three-hitters, and extended a string of scoreless innings against Washington to 20. He has won seven games this season, four against the Senators.

Barber sank birdies on the second, fourth, fifth, eighth and ninth holes with putts from 5 to 20 feet. He was one under with 35 on the second nine.

Ex-Marine Swims 18-Mile Icy Strait

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—Bert Thomas, 29-year-old former frogman with the U.S. Marines, became the first swimmer to conquer icy Juan de Fuca Strait Friday.

It was the fifth attempt by the husky 270-pound logger from Tacoma, Wash., and he swam the 18.3 miles from Port Angeles, Wash., to Victoria in 11 hours, 10 minutes.

"I tried four times to do it from Victoria to Port Angeles and didn't make it," Thomas said after arriving here to be greeted by his wife, 11-year-old daughter, and a $1,000 check offered by the Victoria Daily Times.

Waiting for him in Port Angeles where he started his swim Thursday night, was another $1,800 for the first person to swim the strait.

Three-Run Ninth Gives Dodgers 12-8 Victory

NEW YORK (AP)—The league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, six runs behind at one point, packed away a 12-8 victory over the New York Giants with three runs in the ninth inning Friday night after Don Zimmer had scooted home from second on catcher Ray Katt's errant throw to break an 8-8 tie in the eighth.

Three of the New York hurlers — John McCall, Don Liddle and Paul Giel — came on in the ninth when the Dodgers, after whacking three homers and a triple in their comeback drive, wrapped it up.

After a walk and a pair of bunts by Gil Hodges and Sandy Amoros filled the bases against McCall, Liddle forced in the first run of the inning by walking Junior Gilliam. Giel then appeared and got two out before Brooklyn reliever Ed Roebuck singled to short center to score two more.
