The Weather

Generally fair, little change in temperature today and tonight. High today, 85 to 90 degrees Thursday partly cloudy and warmer.

Reds Offer New German Unity Plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed Tuesday night that the problem of restoring German unity be approached through a European collective security system. The Russians warned that any attempt to involve Germany in a military alliance "leads to an increased threat of a new war."

The Kremlin issued the statement six days in advance of the Summit conference of the Big Four at Geneva, and at the end of an important full meeting of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee.

The statement, issued through the official news agency Tass, proposed that a European collective security system could be joined by both West and Communist East Germany and that all European states could participate, "irrespective of their social and political differences."

The statement rejected any plan which would countenance a choice by a unified Germany of joining the Western military alliance. It added that it was obvious the Western Powers in their turn would reject any proposal which envisaged joining a unified Germany to the Warsaw agreement, which set up a sort of Communist bloc NATO.

In Washington, officials felt that Russia is hardening its basic position on German unification, in advance of the Geneva conference.

At the same time the Moscow statement indicated to the officials that the Soviet government is trying to steer away from the position it seemed to take several months ago: that German unification has become completely impossible since West Germany signed an alliance with the Western Allies.

School Board OK's Budget For 1955-56

Iowa City School Board Tuesday night approved the tentative budget of $1,251,442.00 for the 1955-56 school year. The budget is an increase of $212,442.00 over last year.

Other business at the board meeting included: Cochran Roofing and Insulation Co., Iowa City, was granted the contract for the Junior High roof repair job, with a low bid of $11,482.05. The job includes installing copper gutters along the roof's edge.

Tom Alberhasky, cement contractor, was awarded the tennis court contract. His bid was $8,196.80 for the resurfacing job.

The Nagel Lumber Co's quotation of $1,195 for the football fencing project was accepted. Teacher resignations accepted were: Mrs. Margaret Hoff, home economics at the high school; Mrs. Virginia Canin, elementary art; and Mrs. Keith Thayer, elementary.

Teacher appointments approved were: James Blank, teaching principal at Mark Twain school; Mrs. Maurine Lindquist Alfrey; Mrs. Jean Wilson Celek; Mrs. Elaine Goodrich; Donna Skurat Ellefson, and Mrs. Eleanor Walker, all elementary.

U.S. Farm Leaders On Way to Russia

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen U.S. farm leaders who are going to visit Russia said Tuesday they will keep their minds and eyes open and "our ears unplugged."

The U.S. delegation flies from New York City Tuesday night for Helsinki, Finland, and thence to Moscow.

A delegation of 13 Soviet farm leaders, led by First Deputy Minister of Agriculture Vladimir V. Matskevich, left Moscow by air Tuesday for the United States in search of some points on how to cope with Soviet agricultural problems.

SHEPPARD APPEAL DENIED CLEVELAND (AP) — Three judges Tuesday denied an appeal by Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard for a new trial. They held the 31-year-old osteopath's conviction for the murder of his pregnant wife ended "a fair trial" and that "there was sufficient evidence to support" the jury verdict.

MARIA TEUSCHLER, 66, and Klara Brandecher, 3, both from Austria, see America for the first time as they arrive with 1,243 refugees aboard the transport Gen. W. C. Lansfitt in New York Tuesday. It was the first of nine refugee ship trips planned this year by the 25-nation Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration. Maria and Klara will live in Trenton, N.J. All refugees have sponsors who guarantee them housing and employment as required by the 1953 refugee act.

No Asia Pledges At Geneva: Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was reported to have assured congressional leaders Tuesday he will make no commitments on Asia at the forthcoming Geneva conference.

Three legislators who sat in on a White House briefing said the President made it clear he was not going to deal substantively with Asiatic problems in a meeting in which Asians themselves were not represented.

From the legislators came this additional outline of American plans for Eisenhower's meeting with the Prime Ministers of Britain, France and Russia, beginning at Geneva next Monday:

1. The President will bring up the question of disarmament.
2. The United States will take the initiative in proposing that steps be taken looking toward unification of Germany.
3. Eisenhower will attempt to keep before the conference constantly the issue of self-determination for the peoples of the satellite states.
4. He does not expect the meeting to produce any final solution to existing problems but hopes it may bring some new approaches to those problems as well as a new spirit of cooperation.

The President was said to have outlined his position on Asiatic problems in response to a question by Sen. Earle Clements of Kentucky, the acting Democratic leader.

As one lawmaker summed it up, the President said he was not going to Geneva with the aim of discussing Far Eastern problems. He would not agree, the President was quoted as saying, to take any steps that would in-

Improve News To Japan, Wilson Urges

American news agencies must constantly improve our news service to Japan in order to wage a more aggressive battle against Red propaganda and promote friendly relations, Prof. Quintus C. Wilson said in a Graduate Lecture Tuesday night.

Wilson, head of the department of Journalism at the University of Utah and member of the State University of Iowa School of Journalism summer staff, spoke at Old Capitol.

Too much time has been given to Red propagandists before our own news services make a reply, Wilson asserted.

"Friendly relations between countries cannot exist where peoples of one or both nations daily, weekly or monthly read false, biased or misleading news dispatches," he said.

Wilson made these points about American news in Japan:

Much of the information sent to Japan is not used because it is too late and too little.

Many of the items are about crimes in which the Japanese man has little interest. He is more interested in economic events and items that are almost void on news wire stories.

The Japanese people do not carry any resentment against the American people, but they do not like any country that tests atomic weapons, Wilson said. Wilson, who studied newspapers in Japan on a Fulbright scholarship in 1954, said his study consisted of three parts.

The first was a study of the stories that actually appeared in print in Japan about the United States. Then questionnaires were sent to the editors to find out what they thought about the news services from America. Wilson then took this information and talked to the editors personally.

Wilson concluded that the need to read more about what our friends are doing and thinking is great.

"We need to understand our fellow men in this war jitters, atom-disturbed world of confusion if we are to live in peace," he said.

Relative Confesses Jamestown Killings

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — A 26-year-old mother and her 19-month-old daughter were found murdered in their first floor apartment Tuesday, and police said the husband's brother had admitted raping, beating and strangling them.

Police said Joseph Reade, 26, an unemployed taxi driver, had signed a statement admitting that he killed his sister-in-law, Mrs. Beverly Reade, and little Cheryl Lynn Reade.

Their nude bodies were found by Mrs. Reade's husband, Francis, 24, when he returned home from his night-shift factory job in this southwestern New York furniture city.

Death of the Dixon-Yates Project

GIANT EARTH-MOVING EQUIPMENT sits idle at the Dixon-Yates power plant site near West Memphis, Ark., Tuesday as work stopped on the controversial project following President Eisenhower's orders to cancel the Dixon-Yates contract.

SEC Head May Face Contempt Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Securities & Exchange Commission (SEC) was threatened with possible prosecution for contempt of Congress Tuesday in connection with the Dixon-Yates row.

The possibility was raised by Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), after SEC Chairman J. Sinclair Armstrong refused to testify whether his agency was free from White House "influence" in handling financial aspects of the Dixon-Yates private power contract.

But Armstrong stood firm on a declaration that he couldn't discuss the question because of a standing presidential order not to disclose confidential exchanges between executive departments of the government.

"I don't mean to imply by asserting privilege that there were any such communications," Armstrong told a Senate Anti-monopoly subcommittee headed by Kefauver.

Contract Cancelled President Eisenhower ordered the controversial Dixon-Yates contract canceled Monday after receiving assurances from the City of Memphis that it would build a generating plant to supply the electricity the federal government had ordered from the private interests.

At the Senate hearing, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), complained "an iron curtain is being erected between Congress and the SEC."

Armstrong's refusal to answer questions, he asserted, is "another instance of the gradual attempt of the executive branch to extend power over the whole government of the United States."

Kefauver and other members of the subcommittee pounded at Armstrong for three hours in an attempt to find out why an SEC hearing on Dixon-Yates financing was postponed at what Kefauver called a critical stage in the case.

Despite cancellation of the Dixon-Yates contract Monday, Kefauver announced his inquiry would go on until the senators got "to the bottom of this entire matter."

Armstrong questioned The Hawk-I club and the SUI Student Council would make arrangements for the trips, Adams said.

The club has sent letters to SUI housing units, asking them for estimates on how many students are interested.

Adams said that any SUI students interested in the trips should contact him immediately.

The official student trip has been set for the Michigan game, Adams said the club wants to know whether students prefer traveling to this game by train, bus, car or by transportation provided by themselves.

Adams said some students have expressed interest in the UCLA and Wisconsin games.

The plane trip, including game tickets and meals, to the UCLA game at Los Angeles would cost from $95 to $130, Adams said.

The Wisconsin trip, which would be made by bus, would cost a student about $9 for transportation and game ticket.

The Hawk-I club and the SUI Student Council would make arrangements for the trips, Adams said.

Operation Exposes Heart for 2 Hours MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The heart of a 2-year-old Iowa boy was exposed for 20 minutes Tuesday while University of Minnesota surgeons worked to mend cavities in the wall separating the youngster's heart chambers.

Jesse Weddle, Bayard, Ia., was taken to a recovering room following the surgery and was reported doing "as well as could be expected."

During the two hour operation, the boy's blood was pumped into an oxygenator, where it was purified and sent back into his blood stream.

Police Say Clues Are 'Meager'

SIoux CITY (AP) — Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and local police pursued meager clues Tuesday in the abduction-slaying of Donna Sue Davis, 2. The FBI issued a "John Doe" warrant for the kidnaper's arrest.

The officers explained that a "John Doe" warrant enables any law officer anywhere in the country to arrest any suspect and hold him for the FBI.

The raped body of the blue-eyed child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Sioux City, was found late Monday afternoon in a farm field near South Sioux City, Neb., just across the Missouri River from Sioux City.

The tiny girl, snatched from her crib within minutes after her mother tucked her into bed Sunday night, had been "beaten savagely about the head. Coroner Thomas L. Coriden said that caused her death.

FBI Takes Charge Six FBI agents from the Omaha office, arrived in Sioux City to take charge of the investigation.

In Sioux City, several men have been questioned since the abduction but police reported no solid developments.

Tangible clues in the case were meager but Detective Lt. Toas Warnstadt of Sioux City said:

"People are telephoning us many tips. We are trying to check them all.

"We believe help from an outraged citizenry may well help lead us to the killer."

Fingerprints Found Among clues on which authorities were working, was a set of fingerprints taken from a cedar chest in Donna Sue's bedroom and another set of partial prints found on the frame of the screen on the bedroom window.

Officers said the kidnaper entered the room and left it through the window.

Warnstadt said that "sheer sadism" seemed the only motive for the crime. No demand for ransom ever was made, nor was any word received from the abductor.

The detective lieutenant added that it appeared the kidnaper picked Donna Sue as a victim "by the sheer coincidence that he apparently prowled by a time when the child was being put to bed. It was a hot night and the shade was up."

Police and the FBI were continuing to check on all known sex deviates in the area.

Funeral Today Meanwhile, the grief-stricken parents continued plans for a funeral for Donna at 9 a.m. today. A neighbor who spent the night at the Davis home said they were "taking it very hard."

Community feeling was running high and incensed residents flooded police and city officials with calls.

Many families, fearful that the kidnaper might strike again, kept yard and house lights burning through the night. Hardware stores reported they had a heavy run on door locks.

Dakota authorities had an alert after a trucker reported seeing a man in a white T-shirt and suntan trousers. A prowler of that description ran with a bundle from the Davis yard at about the time Donna Sue vanished and is sought as the abductor. Sheriff Theodore Deibert of Pierre said the hunted man could not be found and commented "the person could have been anyone."

60,000-Ton Forrestal Will Soon Put to Sea WASHINGTON (AP) — The aircraft carrier Forrestal, world's largest warship, will put to sea for the first time in mid-August and be commissioned Oct. 1.

The 60,000-ton vessel, first of a new class of carriers designed to handle airplanes of the atomic and supersonic age, will leave Hampton Roads, Va., Aug. 12 for two days of sea trials by the builders, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company.

Powerful Performance — 'Emperor Jones' — Not Hindered by Distractions

By STU HOPKINS

There is a temptation to say that J. Preston Cochran's portrayal of the Emperor Jones Tuesday night was as sterling as the silver bullet Jones carried as a charm.

For though the pun is obvious, that is very near the truth.

Cochran, a graduate student from Alabama, is a towering figure. He gave to the character of Brutus Jones the nobility — and later the touching wretchedness — that O'Neill built into the part.

As Jones flees his revolting subjects, he becomes increasingly desperate. He is tortured by visions of his evil past. It seemed in the early scenes that Cochran had reached his climax too soon.

But he continued to build. He became more convincingly desperate. He grew more pitiable.

In short, he struck off his challenging role with strength to spare although at times he leaned heavily on the phrases of supplication "Oh Lawdy" . . . Oh Jesus . . . Save me! save me" which O'Neill used much more sparingly.

George Quenzel, G. Jersey City, N.J., made of Henry Smithers all that might be expected of an amoral parasitic renegade.

Quenzel was more than adequately evil. His violent, ignorant disgust with "them blasted niggers" was wonderfully inciting. Although he lost a few lines trying to master the difficult Cockney accent, he was a constant complement to Cochran's Brutus.

Dennis Tate, A2, Iowa City, rounded out the major roles as Lem, the vengeful black who finally proves the Emperor's undoing.

The play had minor distractions, but they did not hinder the overall impact.

Changes between the eight scenes (they were run consecutively, without intermission) were effected in what should have been a blacked-out stage. Stray rays of light, however, made the activities between scenes visible, and somewhat disturbing.

And the revolver with which Jones blasted the apparitions that plagued him had a nasty habit of misfiring. It seemed to cause him no great concern, and he became accustomed to pulling the trigger on duds.

Crucial to the dramatic effect of the play, and worthy of special commendation because of their overall excellence, were the sound effects produced by the Music Department.

Together with excellent lighting effects, they provided a surprising reality to jungle scenes.

The play runs tonight and Thursday at the University Theatre. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

A Just Punishment—

Three former American GI's who had once chosen the communist way of life in Red China sailed for the United States Monday night. These three were gratefully returning to the land they so jubilantly renounced at Panmunjom in 1953.

What will happen to these men when they reach home? How should Americans feel about them? What should be done with them?

It is possible that some among us would claim that these men have seen the error of their ways and have been sufficiently punished by the thought of being men without a country. Perhaps that is the attitude that should be adopted.

But if any consistency is to be followed in the mess that the trials and welcomes to returning POW's have become, we cannot, with clear conscience, permit that to happen.

For our action toward our returning military personnel is clearly contradictory. Batchelor and Dickenson were convicted of the crimes of collaborating with the enemy and cooperating with what ever the Reds asked. They acted as soldiers should not and for this crime the two corporals drew long prison terms.

Then we saw the triumphant return of Capt. Harold Fischer and company. These young officers casually admitted signing statements concerning germ warfare, among other things. But these men were heroes and received heroes' welcomes.

Dickenson and Batchelor were poorly educated kids who joined the army while still in their teens. This is a fact that was brought out in their court martials. It has often been pointed out that the best minds have difficulty in resisting the "brainwashing" technique so finely developed by the Reds.

Fischer and company were officers—the elite of our armed forces. Presumably their mental ability was of high caliber and their education backgrounds better than average. They are heroes.

In essence, both these groups did the same thing. They collaborated with the enemy. Yet one group is heroic and the other is villainous.

This just doesn't make sense!

It would seem logical that we should punish these latest turncoats in some way. They turned their backs on duty and country. As soldiers their first duty was to rejoin their units at the earliest opportunity.

They had that opportunity at the prisoner exchange. They turned it down.

They turned down their country in dramatic speeches. Now they are on their way back.

Perhaps like Philip Nolan, the famous "Man Without a Country," the only fitting punishment would be to deny them the privilege of living in the United States.

But the country cannot let these men go unpunished.

Better Iowa City Contest—

Institute Teen-Age Forum, Discuss Problems on KXIC

(Editor's Note: This letter is the first prize winner in the high school division of the Better Iowa City contest. The other winning letters will be printed in subsequent issues of The Daily Iowan.)

To the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce:

I believe Iowa City would be a better place if the teen-agers could influence the community and each other through an educational forum on the air.

This is what I believe should be done. The student council, or other form of student government in the school comparable to the student council, with the help of an administrative or teacher adviser, would choose the panel members. Each school would be represented by one student. (Counting Junior High this would mean a panel of five.) A student worthy and capable of the position would also be chosen from one of the schools to serve as moderator. A new panel and moderator would be chosen for each forum. Perhaps each school as a whole could also participate in a survey or poll to decide upon a list of appropriate topics. This would be done immediately prior to each discussion for the following reasons:

1. This would bring all school members into direct contact with the discussion proceedings at a time when their interest would be beneficial in making them want to listen to the program.

2. Issues appropriate at that particular time could be chosen. The entire system of the students choosing the topics would make them feel more a part of the plan and also, topics which they are truly interested in would be discussed. Broadcasts would be once a month on KXIC and at a time convenient to most teen-agers. (Other members of the community, also).

These once-a-month programs would be further limited to months during the school term. This would assure the largest possible listening audience and also keep the number of broadcasts to a minimum so that they would be something "special" and not just taken for granted and ignored as is too often the case with "Teen Time."

In regard to "Teen Time," perhaps once a month the weekly school news could be sacrificed for the forum. The time limit of one half hour, however, might prove hampering and would tend to distract from the importance of the program. It would merely be a branch of "Teen Time." As the audience of "Rumpus Room" is predominately teen-age and more time (40-60 minutes) could be allotted this might be a better proving ground. Also, the weekly news of "Teen Time" would not be neglected. (KXIC's opinion would be valued here).

Here are the reasons why this forum is favored as a success. 1. There are approximately 1,300 teen-aged people in Iowa City. (This does not include college students). Surely their not often-heard opinions would be worth while to the rest of the community.

2. If intelligent discussion of common problems (safe driving, school behavior, dating; plus civic projects and national issues) could be handled by teen-agers rather than adults it might have a greater influence upon the teen-agers not taking part, let alone those who are. They would be more interested in, have a greater understanding of, and therefore more respect for each other's earnest opinions rather than those of their elders (unfortunate as this might appear).

3. The mere power itself of exerting influence would give the forum's participants a feeling of worthwhile civic responsibility. This trait and all its merits would be extended through adulthood to produce competent community leaders.

4. All teen-agers would be proud of their improving reputation in the community and would strive to live up to the standards, set by their friends on the forum.

Group Action Staff Nurses To Study Topic in Maine

Are you the bottleneck or the sparkplug to progress in a group? To learn how their own actions help or disturb the efforts of a group, three staff members of the College of Nursing are leaving today to attend the 9th summer session of The National Training Laboratory in Group Development in Bethel, Maine.

Dean Myrtle E. Kitchell, Prof. Mary M. Lohr and Associate Virginia Miller are attending the first advanced group development session July 16 to August 5. It is open only to persons who have attended previous sessions.

Attended Session

Miss Lohr, who attended a session two years ago, explained the methods used in studying individual actions in a group.

"About 150 persons from many localities and professions are divided into groups of 20 persons. Each group is on its own to go about studying itself, with a trainer and assistant trainer to help evaluate the results."

The results, Miss Lohr added, are often painful to the individual. "For instance, I was told my habit of interrupting people was annoying."

Group action is such a widespread part of modern living, the National Training Laboratory feels people can profit by learning to improve their actions in group activities.

Held In Bethel

The sessions are held in Bethel because it is isolated and offers little temptation to distract the students from their group meetings.

However, tuition, room and board cost $325 which should be a sufficient incentive for students to pay attention and get their money's worth.

Sessions in group development are held all over the country. Marie M. Tencer, Director of Nursing Services at the University Hospitals, and Prof. Faye M. Kubichek, of the College of Nursing, attended the Midwest Training Laboratory in Urbana, Ohio, last year. Prof. Louise M. Schmitt of the College of Nursing, has also attended a training laboratory session.

"Of course, the people who work with us in the College of Nursing are interested in what we learn at the laboratory," concluded Miss Lohr. "They are wondering what crazy new ideas they will have to put up with when we get back."

Iowa Man's Body Taken from River

OMAHA (AP)—The body of a man about 35-years old was pulled from the Missouri River about two miles downstream from the South Omaha Bridge Tuesday.

Identification on the body gave the name of Obert Nowel Fjeldstad, Des Moines, Acting County Coroner George Sullivan said. He estimated the man had been dead about four days.

Tax Burden

THIS CHART, with 27 pennies set off in federal, state and local taxes, illustrates one of the findings of the presidentially appointed Commission on Intergovernmental Relations after a two-year study. The commission's report says it is impossible to eliminate overlapping taxes, which take 27 per cent of the dollar.

24-Hour Air Defense Alert Set Thursday

Iowa City Ground Observer Corps (GOC) will go on 24-hour duty Thursday, it was announced Tuesday by Robert Alderman, Iowa City post commander.

Alderman said that the Iowa City post needs 175 more observers to fill their quota of 250.

"We now have about 75 observers and expect to enlist the additional 175 within the next two weeks," Alderman said.

The entire state will go on 24-hour alert Thursday, as ordered by the Iowa Civil Defense office in Des Moines.

Sgt. Gene A. Shoot, Air Force Detachment 8, GOC, Cedar Rapids, said, "The Air Force invited the Iowa GOC posts to go on 24-hour duty June 1, so that they would be ready for the real operation on June 14."

At present, it is intended that the 24-hour day be broken up into twelve 2-hour shifts. Two observers will be on duty on the seventh floor of East Hall at all times.

The East Hall room that is to be the observation point has a direct telephone line with the Des Moines filter center. The Des Moines center will be notified by the Iowa City observers of all unidentified aircraft in this area.

Air Force officials will be notified by the Des Moines center, which will send fighter interceptors to check on unidentified planes. The nearest fighter squadron for this zone is in Sioux City.

Leo A. Ruppert, Johnson County Civil Defense director, said that it would take about 35 minutes for the fighters to reach Iowa City from Sioux City. It is approximately 250 miles from Sioux City to Iowa City by air.

Persons from 15 to 80 years may join the observers by calling the Chamber of Commerce office and giving their name and address.

Women are especially needed during the day when most men are working, Ruppert said.

Faculty Quartet To Play Tonight

The State University of Iowa faculty string quartet will present a concert of chamber music at 8 p.m. today in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Quartet members are Stuart Canin and John Ferrell, violins; Claude Carlson, viola; and Hans Koebel, violoncello.

Three numbers will be played, including the first performance of "Quartet in E Minor," written by SUI Professor Thomas Turner.

The concert will open with "Quartet in D Major, Op. 64, No. 5" by Haydn. The closing number will be "Quartet in F Major, Op. 96" by Dvorak.

The public will be admitted free to the program.

GUEST LECTURER

Prof. Wendell Johnson of the State University of Iowa Department of Speech Pathology, is guest lecturer and consultant at the University of Michigan Speech Correction Camp being held at Northport, Mich., July 13 through 14.

Musial's Homer In 12th Wins For Nationals, 6-5

He Hits First Pitch Of Inning into Seats

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Stan "The Man" Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals lined a 375-foot home run into the right field bleachers on the first pitch of the bottom half of the 12th inning Tuesday to give the National League a 6-5 comeback victory over the American in the 22d All-Star game.

Musial's smash set an All-Star record for it was his fourth in 12 games, the most ever played by any man since the late Arch Ward dreamed up the series back in 1933. Until he broke up the ball game, Musial hadn't had a hit.

Trailing 5-0 as late as the seventh inning, the Nationals clawed back to win. Mickey Mantle's tremendous 425-foot blast into "Perini's Woods" in center field with two men on climaxed a four-run spurt by the Americans in the first inning.

Clutch Pitching
Clutch pitching by Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall and Milwaukee's Gene Conley, the ultimate winner, stifled the Americans while the Nationals closed the series gap to 13-9 in favor of the American.

Musial's winning blow provided a smashing climax to Milwaukee's first taste of All-Star play. Most of the 45,643 fans who had bought tickets—of whom 45,324 showed up—knew the Americans only by reading about them in the papers. They were willing to believe all their fine press notices in the early innings while the Nationals floundered.

Conley, the towering 6-8 right-hander who has won 11 games for the Braves, had just taken up the pitching burden in the 12th inning. Nuxhall, the Cincinnati lefty who was used in relief in regular season play Saturday and twice Sunday, had stopped the Americans for 3 1/2 innings, striking out five men.

Used 24 Men
At the end of the second extra inning game in the series history, manager Leo Durocher had used everybody on his 25-man squad except Luis Arroyo, the St. Louis lefty. He had to let pitchers bat for themselves in the late stages.

Conley, who had worked a full nine-inning game Sunday, simply threw the ball past the opposition in his one-inning stand. Detroit's Al Kaline, Washington's Mickey Vernon and Cleveland's Al Rosen all struck out.

After that bit of inspirational work, Musial stepped to the plate to face Boston's Frank Sullivan, the fourth American League pitcher. One pitch, one home run. It was as simple as that.

Errors Costly
No World Series winner ever received a warmer welcome than Musial. The entire National bench—manager, coaches and players—waited for him to touch home plate as the Americans struggled off the field.

A costly error by Chicago's Chico Carrasquel who fumbled a grounder and then threw away the ball, trying for a force play, cost the Americans a run in the seventh.

Another error, by Rosen, who let Kaline's throw get through him at third base, permitted the Cubs' Ransom Jackson to score the tying run in the eighth. In each case there were two out before the Nationals scored.

Game Bogged Down
The Nationals had won the other extra inning fray, too, also on a home run by a St. Louis Cardinal. In 1950 at Comiskey Park in Chicago, it was Red Schoendienst who came through in the 14th inning for a 4-3 decision.

After a smashing start, the game bogged down in the middle innings and then rose to a furious climax. The fans who had contributed to a gross gate of $179,545.50 (net $163,254.02) must have gone home happy, humming with memories to carry through the years until the game returns to Milwaukee.

The receipts, plus $110,000 from the radio-television rights, go into the major leagues' central fund which supports the player pension fund.

425-Foot Homer
Mantle's 425-foot homer with two men on base in the first inning looked like the ball game. Mickey's hit cleared a double fence and rolled toward the cluster of trees, planted by Milwaukee owner Lou Perini to give the hitters a better background.

One run already had scored on a wild pitch by Philadelphia's Robin Roberts before the New York Yankee centerfielder connected to complete a four-run inning. The second guessers quickly got busy, claiming manager Leo Durocher should have started a lefthander instead of giving Roberts a chance to tie a record by starting his fifth All-Star game.

The American lead was stretched to 5-0 in the sixth on a combination of a single by Yankee Yogi Berra, a double by Kalina and an infield out by Mickey.

Hot Smash
The double by Kaline was a hot smash off the left wrist of single by Brooklyn's Gil Hodges in the sixth, but they started to catch up with the Americans in the seventh.

Willie Mays, the hotshot of the 1954 world champion New York Giants, started it off with a single. The next two men filed out.

When Carrasquel fumbled a ground ball by pinch hitter Stan Lopata of the Phillies and then threw wild trying to force Logan at second, Aaron also scored.

Three in the eighth tied the score for the Nationals with the help of four hits and another error, this time by Rosen.

Once again there were two out. Mays singled to right and Kluszewski singled to the same field. Right fielder Kaline, fearing a homer, was playing deep, and wasn't able to reach Kluszewski's hit that fell at his feet. Jackson grounded a single to right, scoring Mays with his second run.

Whitney Ford, the Yankee lefthander who took over from Wynn in the seventh with a 5-0 lead, was replaced by Sullivan at that point with the score 5-3, two on and two out. Aaron came through with his second hit, also to right, driving in the big Cincinnati first baseman.

Jackson Scores
When Kaline's throw to third, trying for Jackson, got away from Rosen and rolled to the stands, Jackson also went home with the tying run. A brilliant play by Carrasquel on Logan's smash prevented further trouble.

Schoendienst, Kluszewski, Mays and Aaron each had two of the National's 13 hits off the four American pitchers. Carrasquel was the only two-time hitter for the losers who had 10 hits off six pitchers.

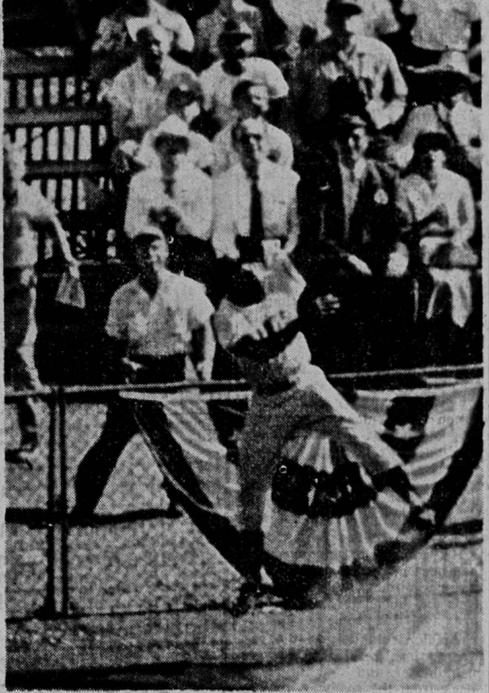

Durocher opened with Roberts and followed with Harvey Haddix of St. Louis, Don Newcombe of Brooklyn—for only one inning—Sam Jones of Chicago, Nuxhall and finally Conley.

Smith Takes Ward's Tribune Sports Post
CHICAGO (AP)—Wilfrid Smith, veteran sports writer, was named sports editor of the Chicago Tribune Tuesday night, succeeding the late Arch Ward who died Saturday.

Funeral services for Ward were held Tuesday.
George Strickler, another veteran member of the Tribune sports staff, was named Smith's assistant.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CENTER FIELDER, Willie Mays, jumps high against the right center field fence to rob Ted Williams of a homer in the seventh inning of the All-Star game.

AL Stars Bitter After Losing Tilt

MILWAUKEE (AP)—It was a bitter and disgusted bunch of players in the American League All-Stars' clubhouse but the bitterest was Yogi Berra and the most disgusted was Whitney Ford, his pitching mate of the New York Yankees.

Most of the athletes were hurriedly getting into their street clothes, anxious to get out of here and board trains or planes.

Berra, however, was stomping around in front of his locker, muttering under his breath. Ford, who was whacked in the 6-5, 12-inning loss to the Nationals, sat disconsolately on his stool, for the most part looking into space.

"They're supposed to be power hitters," grumbled Berra to nobody in particular. "I didn't see any power. All I saw was bloopers. Yah, that's what those guys are—a bunch of blooper hitters. They only got one extra base hit—Klu's double—until Musial hit that homer. We gave them the game."

Ford, who yielded the first five runs to the Nationals in 1 2-3 innings of pitching, was the most unconsolable.
"I was plain lousy out there today," he chastised himself.

Berra growled:
"Who called this a good ball park? It's full of shadows. You can't see the ball in the late innings. Good park, my eye."

ALopez, the losing manager, accepted the heart-breaking overtime defeat more graciously than his catcher for the day, but he too, blamed "bloopers" for the loss.
"The turning point of the game," he said quietly, "came when we couldn't catch those bloopers."

Right Man Did It, Giles Says

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"The right man did it!"
That was the exclamation of National League president Warren Giles as he thumped Stan Musial on the back for his 12th inning homer which broke up the All-Star game Tuesday.

It also voiced the sentiment of the entire whooping National League dressing room in which Musial completely stole the spotlight.

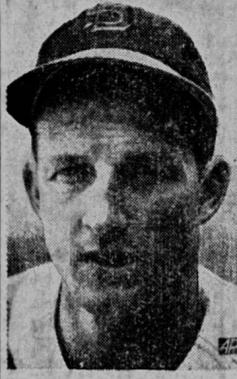

Durocher Jubilant
A jubilant Lippy Durocher, manager of the victorious Nationals, joked that he ordered Musial to hit the decisive homer because he had nearly exhausted his bench.

Only pitcher Luis Arroyo of the St. Louis Cardinals was left for service when Musial stroked his homer off Frank Sullivan's first pitch in the 12th.

Musial accepted wholesale congratulations in a modest fashion, explaining that he was swinging "just to get on" in the 12th.

Easy Swing
"Before that," said Musial, who entered the game as a reserve in the fourth inning, "I was really swinging for the fences. I didn't take a vicious cut at Sullivan's pitch in the 12th. It was a fast ball, letter high. But when I connected, I knew it was over the fence."

Durocher, momentarily, was left speechless after his triumphant squad swarmed into the

'Just To Get On'

National dressing room.
"It was a wonderful thing, as good a game as you'd want to see."

'Really Something'
Then the Lip began warming up oratorically.

"I have had four All-Star squads," said Durocher, "and this one really was something. They were like a bunch of college kids on the bench. When we went four runs, then five runs down, it didn't squelch them a bit. They kept up bench chatter like a football team."

Durocher had high praise for lanky Gene Conley, the Milwaukee Braves pitcher, who struck out the American League side in the 12th and was credited with the victory.

'Wasn't As Nervous'
For Conley, it was a goat to hero All-Star hole in two years. Last year, he was charged with defeat as he pitched a home run ball to Larry Doby and put the winning run on base in an 11-9 defeat.
"I wasn't as nervous as last year," said the gangling hurler. "And pitching before the home crowd helped. This was the greatest thrill I ever had in baseball."

Iowa's Marschall Wins Medal Honors

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—An early two-under par 69 turned in by State University of Iowa golfer John Marschall of Hampton withstood the onslaught of more than 200 golfers for medal honors Tuesday in the qualifying round of the Iowa Amateur Golf Tournament.

Iowan Defeated In Tennis Tourney

ATLANTA (AP)—Tommy McCord, Atlanta, defeated Roger Robinson, Waterloo, 6-2, 6-4, in the first round of the national clay court tennis tournament Monday.

Finishing Touches Completed On New Iowa Union Addition

The offices of Prof. Earl E. Harper, director of the Iowa Memorial Union, and George F. Stevens, assistant director, were moved to Unit III of the Memorial Union Tuesday. This reorganization completes the new addition.

The formal opening April 24, found parts of the building not completed, and in the past months constant work has been done to make new recreational facilities available to students.

The first step in the building's occupation was taken last February with the opening of a 16 lane bowling alley. Since then a billiard room, soda fountain, music room, library and main lounge have been opened for student use.

The information desk was recently moved from the main building to Unit III. Through this, the new addition has become the operative center of Union activities.

The new office of the Director is designed to fit in with the modern structure of the building. It is located on the south side of the addition and according to Harper is a complete block from the north side of the main building where the director's old office was housed previously.

William L. Adamson, assistant to the director and pipe major of the SUI Scottish Highlanders, will occupy Harper's old office. A storage room is planned where Stevens' previous office was located.

THE INFORMATION DESK of the Iowa Memorial Union has been moved from the main building to the new addition. This is part of the program of centralizing the Union activities in the new section. Air Force S/Sgt. Gene Shoot asks for information from Carol Crawford, A2, Iowa City.

Dorms Will House 750 More: Rehder

Dormitories at the State University of Iowa will house an additional 750 single students this fall, Ted Rehder, director of dormitories and dining services, told the Kiwanis Club Tuesday. SUI dorms will house 3,125 single students and 726 married students and their families. Of the total single students, 1,275 are women and 1,850 are men, he said.

To accommodate this increase, many of the single and double rooms in Hillcrest have been converted into double and triple rooms, according to Rehder.

Additional closets, double-decker beds and desk-dresser combinations have been added to the rooms so that all students will have an equal amount of equipment, he said.

New Units Planned
Future housing and dining facilities are in the planning stages now, he said, and include the following: (1) the Hillcrest dormitory addition, (2) the Hillcrest kitchen and dining hall, (3) the Quadrangle dining hall, and (4) Burge Hall, women's dormitory.

The Hillcrest dormitory addition is under construction and is planned for completion in the fall of 1956, he said. Hillcrest kitchen and dining facilities plans are being drawn, and bids are expected to go out for this project in the early fall, he added. The dining hall would be ready for use in the fall of 1956 along with the dorm addition, he added.

New Dining Facilities
Construction of the Quadrangle dining hall will begin soon, Rehder said. The contract for this construction has been let, he said, but a problem of finances is holding up the ground-breaking. This addition will be ready this fall.

The Quad, he pointed out, has been changed into a boarding dormitory for the fall semester and thereafter South Quadrangle only remains as a non-boarding men's dormitory, he said. Burge Hall, a women's dormitory to house 800 students, is in the final planning stages, Rehder said. Bids for construction are expected to go out late this summer or early in the fall. Burge Hall, named in memory of the late Adelaide Lasheck Burge, SUI dean of women from 1920 to 1946, will be a five-story structure divided into four house units of 200 women each.

Burge Hall Next Year
Completion of Burge Hall is planned for September, 1956. Location of the dorm will be in the block immediately south of Currier Hall bounded by Clinton, Capitol, Davenport and Bloomington Streets, Rehder said.

At present, dormitory applications are a month to six weeks ahead of last year, Rehder said. Women's applications are still being accepted; he said, to fill possible cancellations.

Rehder added that during the last 37 years, not one dollar of tax money has been spent for dormitories. The living units are self liquidating.

Dormitory evaluation, according to their time of building, is estimated at $4.5 million. But to replace these dormitories at the present price levels, it would cost $10-$12 million, Rehder said.

SUI Rates Cheaper
Rehder pointed out also that SUI single students, living in the university dormitories, pay less per year than other students in any of the other Big Ten universities. SUI students pay $620 per year for room and board, while other Big Ten students pay as little as $664 and as much as $750 for the same double or triple housing facilities, he said.

Long range plans for student housing include units for 1,200-2,000 single students and additions to the married housing units, he added. This increase over the present capacities is necessitated by the predicted enrollment increase, he concluded.

City Resident Confesses to 13 Burglaries

Authorities today are checking a confession made Monday by James Martin Paintin, 26, 320 2nd St., in which he admitted 13 Iowa City area burglaries.

In the signed statement Paintin admitted breaking into and taking about $800 from the firms during the past six weeks.

Paintin was arrested July 2, after being surprised while burglarizing the Barron Motor Supply Company, 603 S. Madison St.

Held On Bond
He is being held in Johnson County Jail under $5,000 bond. He waived to the grand jury when arraigned in Iowa City police court, July 5.

Co. Atty. William M. Tucker said Iowa City Police, the office of Johnson County Sheriff Albert J. Murphy and state agents are continuing to investigate the breaks in order to "confirm the confession, gain additional evidence to be used in indictment and prosecution, and tie loose ends."

Admits To Following:
The breaks Paintin admitted in his signed statement Monday, according to Tucker, were:

May 26: Dr. Allen N. Lang's office, 305 Kirkwood Ave., $28 dollars; the Kirkwood Market, 308 Kirkwood Ave., $15 to $25 and some beer and cigarettes.

June 16: Central Sand and Gravel Co., Highway 218 south of Iowa City, $400 to $500 in cash and checks; Plumbers Supply Co., south on Highway 218, $10 to $15; Farmers Rendering Co., south on Highway 218, nothing reported taken.

June 21: Superior Oil Co., Coralville, $200.

June 22: Joyce Lumber Co., Hills, nothing reported taken; Hills Grain and Feed Co., Hills, $30.

June 28: Hy-Vee Food Store, a small amount in change.

June 30: Walline Implement Co., east of Iowa City on Highway 6, $30; Meyers Trucking Service, Lone Tree, $10; Eclipse Lumber yard, Lone Tree, $2.

July 2: Barron Motor Supply Company, where Paintin was surprised by a company employe and fled without taking anything. He was arrested shortly after this incident.

Big-Screen TV May Aid Teacher Shortage

Large-screen television has many educational possibilities according to John A. Hurst, vice-president of the Fleetwood Corporation of Toledo, O.

The adaptability of this TV equipment was demonstrated in the Iowa Memorial Union by the company representatives Tuesday.

Experiments are carried out at present in Pittsburgh, Pa. schools where through the use of large-screen TV the fifth grade in nine different schools can be taught by one teacher.

"In the educational field the unit will make it possible in the future for specialists to teach subjects in different universities all over the country at the same time," Hurst said.

Fewer Teachers Needed
Large-screen TV will also be perfectly suited for large classroom teaching, since an unlimited number of people will be able to view demonstrations simultaneously.

Besides educational uses, the unit is employed in industry, sales work, and by the armed forces.

The large-screen TV unit was first developed last November by the Fleetwood Corporation, and since then it has been perfected and used in different institutions. The application of the unit is still in developmental stages and experiments are being carried out all over the country.

Easy To Operate
The recommended size of the image is 9 by 12 feet, and the unit can be operated by non-mechanical personnel. At present only black and white TV projection is possible, but according to Hurst, the corporation is currently developing equipment for color TV projection. The unit can be adapted to both closed circuit and TV station reception.

The approximate sales price of the unit is $2,950.

The CBS-TV presentation of "The Search" was viewed by a sizable crowd in the Iowa Memorial Union Tuesday night.

The work of the State University of Iowa speech clinic was the subject of the opening show on this summer's series of "The Search" telecast. Large-screen TV equipment was used for the first time in the Union.

It brought satisfactory results and proved that the unit can be used for educational purposes.

From almost any point in the main lounge, the TV screen presented a sharp, clear picture, and the accompanying sound was audible throughout the lounge.

Potter's Condition OK After Surgery

Professor Emeritus Franklin H. Potter, 86, was reported in good condition Tuesday at Mercy Hospital after undergoing surgery on a broken left hip.

Potter received the fracture when he fell in his home at 248 Hutchinson Ave., Monday.

He has been with the State University of Iowa Classics Department since 1895. He retired in 1939, but has continued to teach classes occasionally.

11 Girls Needed For Cruiser Jobs

Eleven girls are wanted to work on the "S. S. Aquarama," 520 foot passenger ship anchored off the Chicago Navy pier, Robert Ballantyne, manager of the Student Placement Bureau, announced Tuesday.

The Aquarama needs waitresses, bus girls and sandwich-counter girls to begin work Friday, July 15, until September 5. Salaries offered are $150 to $195 per month plus room and board.

Forty-seven, State University of Iowa students are already scheduled to work on the luxury liner during the seven weeks it will be in port. The students have been working on the "S. S. Milwaukee Clipper," operating across Lake Michigan, but will transfer to the Aquarama today.

Des Moines Thieves Get $460 in Doctor's Office

DES MOINES (AP) — Dr. Raymond Burnside reported to police Monday afternoon the weekend theft of $460 from a steel file cabinet in his downtown office.

Shrinier Is Invited To Swiss Meeting

Prof. Ralph L. Shrinier, head of the Department of Chemistry at the State University of Iowa, has been invited to attend the eighteenth Conference of the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemistry in Zurich, Switzerland July 20-28.

Shrinier, accompanied by his wife will leave from Idlewild Airport in New York today. He is one of a delegation of 30 chemists representing the United States at the conference.

IUPAC is essentially concerned with aspects of chemistry about which international agreement or uniform practice is desirable. Examples are: nomenclature, atomic weights, symbols, and terminology.

Several Iron Curtain countries will also send representatives to the meeting.

Concurrent with the IUPAC meetings is the Fourteenth International Congress of Organic Chemistry. Shrinier will present a report to the Congress on "Reaction of Flavylum Salts with Esters of Amino Acids."

The report is a joint research project with Dr. Russell P. Sutton who received his Ph.D. in Organic Chemistry at SUI in June.

SCENE OF ILLEGAL DUMPING near Hills, where refuse dumped by Hills residents and neighboring farmers at one time partially blocked the road, County Trunk G. The dump is just east of the bridge that spans the Iowa River. County and Hills authorities are taking measures to eliminate the unsightly scene.

Action Taken To Eliminate Offensive Dump Near Hills

Action to eliminate an eyesore dump along County Trunk G near Hills is being taken by the Johnson County Board of Supervisors and the city of Hills.

For years Hills residents and neighboring farmers have dumped garbage, cans, animal carcasses, and even auto frames in the ditch on the south side of the road.

Dumping in the area, just east of the bridge over the Iowa River, outside the city limits, is illegal, according to the Board of Supervisors.

The board is contracting to have someone in the area bulldoze the refuse away from the road and cover it.

If dumping continues they will take action against anyone caught and post a watchman to discourage persons from stopping along that section and depositing trash.

Hills Mayor Clarence Amalon said Tuesday negotiations were under way with several farmers in the area for land to be used as a city dump.

He said no final arrangements had been made, but that the city was bargaining with several persons and hoped to have a dump area available soon.

Amalon said that in the past years a local resident had owned a bulldozer, and kept the refuse back from the roadway. Several years ago he sold the machine, and only infrequent passing of county road graders has kept the refuse in check.
