Ike Reviews U.S. Defense Achievements

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — President Eisenhower said Thursday night there has been a solid accomplishment in national defense, including the incorporation of "new weapons of unprecedented tactical and strategic importance."

The chief executive set forth his views in a message to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson as the third annual "secretaries conference" opened at this Marine base.

Eisenhower, who had visited the two previous sessions of the top-level civilian and military officials, expressed his regret at being unable to attend this year. He explained that he leaves tonight for the Geneva four-power meeting.

Nuclear Weapons
Although the President did not elaborate on his reference to new weapons, he obviously had in mind the constantly growing, widely varied "family" of nuclear weapons, guided missiles, rockets and other equipment of the atomic age arsenal.

Emphasis in this year's military meeting is on international aspects of the national defense problems. Although the civilian chiefs, generals and admirals—including the Joint Chiefs of Staff—hold detailed reviews and discussions of problems, no decisions are made at the Quantico conferences.

At the outset of the business sessions today, the theme of the conference — "international responsibilities of the Department of Defense" — will be set by a half-dozen speakers.

Describe Problems
George V. Allen, assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern, South Asian and African affairs, and Adm. John H. Cassady, commander of naval forces in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, will describe the problems of those areas.

To depict the situation on the other side of the world, three talks—like the others, all in secret session—are ready: The political situation in the Far East, by Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs; the military situation in the Far East, by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, new Army chief of staff and recently the supreme commander in that area; the military situation in the Pacific, by Adm. Felix B. Stump, commander-in-chief, Pacific.

Two Engines Dead, Plane Lands Safely

HAMILTON AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A Strategic Air Command Globemaster which flew more than 700 miles over the fog-shrouded Pacific with two of its engines dead and 87 men aboard, landed at this base at 10:08 p.m.

The big C124 transport had been escorted for the last three hours by all available rescue planes on the Pacific coast, although Air Force officers insisted that the plane never was in real danger and that the extra precautions were taken because of the number of passengers, all of the 187th Regimental Combat Team.

A part of the Air Force operations Gyroscope, the C124 transport, with a crew of eight and 79 passengers, left Hickam Field, Hawaii, for Travis Air Force Base, north of here Thursday.

It developed engine trouble at 5 p.m. and two hours later had both starboard engines stopped. All air rescue planes on the Pacific Coast were summoned to its aid.

AFL Begins Wage Talks with ALCOA

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The AFL Aluminum Workers — already committed to join the CIO United Steelworkers in bargaining strategy — opened wage talks Thursday with the Aluminum Company of America, the nation's biggest aluminum producer.

The CIO union began its wage talks with ALCOA Tuesday and presented demands for an hourly wage increase and a classification of jobs into pay groups.

For the Governor's Safety

GOV. LEO HOEGH straps on a safety belt which was installed in the governor's official car Thursday. The belts were donated by the manufacturer. "I'm willing to try the belts," the governor said, "if it means making auto riding safer."

Khrushchev To Join Russian Delegation

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev and Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, defense minister, are going to the Geneva conference with Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin. The Premier said Thursday night this means the Soviet delegation "is the very summit."

Khrushchev, Zhukov, Bulganin, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will make up the five-man Soviet delegation, the Kremlin announced.

The official announcement called this a "government delegation." Khrushchev technically is not a member of the government, though he is a member of Parliament. His main title is that of secretary of the Soviet Communist party. But he has been occupying an increasingly dominant role in Soviet affairs. The recent prominence of Marshal Zhukov has indicated a strong rise in the influence of the Soviet armed forces.

Thursday night Khrushchev and Bulganin headed a group of leaders helping celebrate Bastille Day at the French Embassy. Reporters buttonholed both of them to inquire about the announcement made a few hours before.

"Summit" Delegation
"The composition of our delegation is the very summit," Bulganin said. "For instance, how could we discuss disarmament at Geneva unless Defense Minis-

Countryman Tells What Makes a Meeting

DES MOINES (AP) — Atty. Gen. Dayton Countyman Thursday issued a set of rules to help county officials decide whether a meeting is a conference or a convention.

This is an interesting question for county officials because it's illegal to go to a convention at taxpayers' expense.

The attorney general's opinion says county tax money can be used to pay expenses of officials who go to conferences.

The question was raised by Scott County Attorney Martin D. Leir at Davenport. The opinion was written by Assistant Atty. Gen. Oscar Strauss.

It says there's no getting around the expense ban on conventions but the meeting isn't a convention if it is a "conference for the betterment and benefit of the individual officer."

The board of supervisors should decide on the educational value of the trip before the official starts, the ruling said.

An earlier ruling on when a convention is not a convention was issued by the attorney general's office Dec. 18, 1953.

ter Zhukov came along?" Walter Walmsley, U.S. charge d'affairs, commented that army men might be more interested in arms than in disarmament, and the goateed Bulganin retorted:

"I do not think so. I have said before and I say again that nobody understands the terrors and hardships of war better than soldiers. We know what war is."

Bulganin was referring to himself and Zhukov. Actually, Bulganin is a "political" marshal, having received his rank from Stalin in recognition of wartime work far from the battlefronts.

French-Soviet Toasts
Khrushchev, just as amiably chatty as he was at the July 4 party of the American Embassy, joined in toasts to French-Soviet friendship and success at Geneva. He said the delegation would leave for Geneva Saturday.

"Mr. Khrushchev," a correspondent asked, "when was it decided that you would be part of the Soviet delegation?"

"What difference does that make?" asked the party boss.

"Mr. Khrushchev," an Italian correspondent interjected, "It would make some difference to history."

"What matters to history," said Khrushchev, "is whether we do some good work in Geneva."

Then, easing away from the reporters, he added:

"Look, if I stand around talking to you boys I'll miss one of these." He waved a champagne glass.

Few Banquets
A reporter commented he understood the Big Four leaders were going to Geneva for "lots of negotiations but few banquets."

"That's all right with me, and I'll shake hands on that," Khrushchev said.

Diplomatic quarters regard the delegation as the strongest the U.S.S.R. ever sent to an East-West conference. Its advisers will include Jacob A. Malik, Georgi N. Zarubin and S. A. Vinogradov, ambassadors respectively to Britain, the United States and France, Georgi M. Pushkin, ambassador to Communist East Germany, and Vladimir S. Semenyov, deputy foreign minister and former Soviet high commissioner in Germany.

While the Geneva conference is concerned with worldwide tensions this makeup underscored emphasis first on Germany and second on European problems.

New Owners Raze Des Moines Hotel

DES MOINES (AP) — A salvage and wrecking crew Thursday began razing Hotel Plaza at Fifth and Grand Avenues.

The hotel was sold last March to a subsidiary of the Central National Bank and Trust Co. An official of the bank said Thursday plans for the use of the corner have not yet been completed.

Peress Case Report Tells Of 48 Errors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who investigated the question of "who promoted Peress?" reported Thursday the case was compounded by 48 errors, including poor judgment and improper coordination.

Five Army generals, among others, were named by the Senate Investigations subcommittee as guilty of errors in the case of the promotion and honorable discharge of Maj. Irving Peress, after he had refused to say whether he was a Communist.

The subcommittee's report, signed by six of its seven members, raised no question of subversion in the handling of the Peress case by the military.

Refuses To Sign
The seventh subcommittee member, Sen. George Bender (R-Ohio), refused to sign. He said the report should have stated specifically that there was no evidence to support the suggestion, raised by Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), that some "Communist mastermind" in the Pentagon was involved.

Peress was a Brooklyn dentist who had entered the Army Jan. 1, 1953, with the rank of captain. He was promoted to major Nov. 3, 1953, although he had refused to state on Army forms whether he was a Communist. He also refused later to answer questions raised by McCarthy, then chairman of the subcommittee, about alleged Communist links.

McCarthy wrote the Army on Feb. 1, 1954 it ought to hold up the honorable discharge; the senator had been demanding a court-martial for Peress instead.

However, the day after McCarthy sent his letter, Peress was honorably discharged, leaving with the rank of major. The subcommittee majority charged Thursday that Army counselor John G. Adams, since resigned, "showed disrespect for the subcommittee when he chose to disregard" McCarthy's letter.

McCarthy Among Six
McCarthy was among the six who signed Thursday's report. It said Secretary of the Army Stevens, who has submitted his resignation — or perhaps some among his Pentagon superiors — did a disservice to the country in, as the subcommittee put it, "deleting facts about the case for almost a year."

Among those blamed for errors were Maj. Gen. Miller B. White, the president of the Army Personnel Board; Lt. Gen. Walter L. Weible, deputy Army chief of staff; Gen. Charles Bolte, then vice chief of staff; Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, who was Peress' commanding officer; and Lt. Gen. W. A. Burgess.

Signing Thursday's report were McCarthy, Chairman John McClellan (D-Ark.), Henry Jackson (D-Wash.), Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), Ervin (D-N.C.), and Karl Mundt (R-S.D.).

Lightning Kills Racing Fan

LONDON (AP) — Lightning bolts killed a horse-racing fan at fashionable Ascot Thursday and knocked out more than 100 others while they were studying their bets for the next race.

And dense fogs caused two ship collisions as the death toll from a midsummer week-long heat wave in Britain and Western Europe approached the 100 mark.

Two men jumped into the historic Tiber at Rome to cool off and were fished from the water. Oslo placed restrictions on lawn sprinkling to conserve the city's water supply.

Except for the palace garden party, Britain's young Queen Elizabeth would have been at Ascot at the time the storm broke over the race course. One bolt struck the main stand near the royal box.

The same violent electrical storm that hit Ascot also killed five other persons—two teenage boys and a girl sheltering together at Southampton, a farm worker at Alton, and a soldier at the Bisley Rifle meet, Britain's top shooting event.

The Ascot victim was Mrs. Barbara Batt, 29, who had gone to the races with her husband. They were expecting their first child next November after nine years of marriage.

The 6,103-ton American-owned steamer Innes collided with the 5,406-ton Norwegian Black Heron off the Dutch North Sea coast but suffered only slight damage.

Farmhand Denies Story, Calls Confession 'Hoax'

Dulles Joins Pinay in Paris

SECRETARY OF STATE JOHN FOSTER DULLES is interviewed by newsmen, with microphone, at the French Foreign Ministry in Paris Thursday following his arrival by plane. Next to him is French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay. Dulles spent three hours with U.S. experts going over proposals the Americans, British and French will put to the Russians when they meet "at the summit" in Geneva, Switzerland, next week.

Dulles Confers With Allies About Summit Talk Strategy

PARIS (AP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles arrived Thursday and went to work on proposals the Americans, British and French will put to the Russians when they meet "at the summit" in Geneva next week.

A U.S. spokesman refused to answer questions about what the proposals contain. It seemed certain French agreement must have meant inclusion of Premier Edgar Faure's plan for the big powers to cut slices from their defense budgets and pool these savings in a fund to raise living standards in poor countries.

Also expected to be among the Western proposals were plans for:

1. Unifying West Germany and Communist East Germany, under carefully supervised free elections.

2. Cutting atomic and other arms under a system of international inspection.

Experts Finish List
A group of American, British and French experts finished their list of topics and detailed proposals Thursday morning. The U.S. spokesman said Dulles spent three hours Thursday going over the work with Jacob Beam, chief of the U.S. experts.

Dulles paid a quick call to French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay. Afterward Pinay told reporters he thought the Geneva conference may start a long series of negotiations, and lay a solid basis for peace.

British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan commented that the Geneva session had been arranged with the idea of beginning "a new series of negotiations, by which patiently, one by one, we can get the solutions we are looking for."

3 Power Sessions
This morning, after a meeting with his staff, Dulles goes into session with Pinay and Macmillan to look over the work of the experts.

Today will also see a meeting of foreign ministers from the seven countries of the new Western European Union — France, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. The organization was formed to give West Germany a framework for rearmament. With it went the idea of setting up armament limits and controls, with the hope that one day limits and controls might be extended to countries beyond the Iron Curtain.

The meeting is scheduled to deal with setting up elections in the Saar territory, long in dispute between France and Germany.

Senate Expresses Hope For Satellites' Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate proclaimed its hope for the freeing of Soviet satellite nations Thursday and then, with several members expressing misgivings, took a stand against colonialism.

The resolution putting the Senate on record as hoping that the captives of "alien despotism" will regain the right of self-government was adopted 89-0 on the eve of President Eisenhower's departure for the Geneva Big Four summit talks.

It contained no specific mention of communism, Soviet Russia, or the Geneva talks, but Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California said there is "only one tyrannical power loose in the world today, and that is the Soviet Union."

Is Not Binding
The resolution is merely an expression of Senate sentiment, it does not require House action and is not binding on Eisenhower or anyone else.

Both the President and Secretary of State Dulles have said they intend to raise the satellite question at the Big Four meeting.

The second resolution, adopted 88-0 with Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) voting "present," was a policy horse of another color.

The resolution, which originated in the House, would put Congress on record as favoring a U.S. foreign policy that would "support other peoples in their efforts to achieve self-determination or independence under circumstances which will enable them to assume and maintain an equal station among the free nations of the world."

Stems From Bandung
It stemmed from the recent Africa-Asia conference in Bandung and Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.)

said it could easily be interpreted abroad as a U.S. policy of "stirring up revolt" in friendly countries.

Sen. Green (D-R.I.), who handled the resolution on the floor, said the United States has been "tarred with a kind of colonial guilt-by-association in many parts of the world." He said:

"The Communists busily seek to promote the impression in Asia and Africa that the United States is an imperialist power. The fact is, of course, that the worst imperialism on the face of the earth is centered in Moscow."

Appeal Court Rules Against Law Guild

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals refused Thursday to interfere, at this stage at least, with Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr.'s move to list the National Lawyers Guild as a subversive organization.

In an unanimous decision, the judges told the Guild that before coming to court it must go through a Justice Department hearing, even though it claims the attorney general has prejudged the hearing.

"We cannot assume in advance of a hearing that a responsible executive official of the government will fail to carry out his manifest duty," the three-judge court said. "Our conclusion on the point is that the plaintiff must await the event rather than attempt to anticipate it."

The lawyers' group appealed after losing two attempts in a lower court to halt the attorney general's proceedings.

Police Renew Search for Girl's Slayer

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Audrey Brandt, 42-year-old farm hand who clung 23 hours to a story that he beat and raped two-year-old Donna Sue Davis at Sioux City, told police late Thursday his account was a hoax.

Brandt told John Showers, acting detective captain, that he had heard an account of the kidnapping and raping of the child over an automobile radio while riding in the vicinity of Sioux City.

He did not say why he told police he had stolen the child, then beaten and raped her.

Still Held
Police continued to hold him on a vagrancy charge and continued to check into the possibility he may have had some connection with the affair. They also awaited results of a comparison of Brandt's fingerprints with those found in the baby's room.

Sioux City Police Chief James O'Keefe said that he has not relaxed the manhunt in his area while authorities were checking Brandt's story.

Arrested in Joplin
Brandt was arrested by Joplin police after a truck driver, with whom he had hitch-hiked a ride became suspicious and told police Brandt's appearance corresponded to the description of the man believed to have kidnapped the child.

Showers said he was inclined to believe Brandt didn't know much about the affair. There were several points on which his story did not jibe with the known facts.

FBI Check
Brandt repudiated his statement shortly after he was closeted with Leo Ross, an FBI agent who had been working on the case at Sioux City. Ross brought a brief case full of data to Joplin to check Brandt's story and to compare his account with evidence gathered at the source.

Ross made no comment after his interview with the prisoner, but shortly afterward Showers announced the latter had told him his story was a hoax.

New Statement
In his newest statement, Brandt said he was not in Sioux City Sunday night, Showers said. He was vague as to exactly where he was, the police officer added.

He told Showers he had left La Porte City, Iowa, several weeks ago and worked for a time with a carnival. He said he had left his car at St. Clair, Mo., when he ran out of gasoline and was hitchhiking when picked up.

Indiana Man Held
Dubuque, Iowa, police meantime held an Indiana man for questioning after arresting him in an alley at 3 a.m. Wednesday. He was identified as Marvin Hill, 42, Elkhart, Ind.

Police said he told of being in Sioux City during the past weekend.

Hill was wanted in Iowa for parole violation, officers said, and added he had served sentences for breaking and entering at the Iowa state penitentiary and reformatory. No sex offenses were included in Hill's available record, they said.

Audrey Brandt Confession a Hoax?

editorial

We Have the Machinery—

Iowa's last state legislature passed a law to permit the commitment of "criminal sexual psychopaths" to state hospitals for treatment. This is a great step forward for the belief that a person with a record of sexual public offense is a sick person and is in need of care in a hospital instead of a penal institution.

In many respects this might be considered a "preventive" law rather than a "punitive" law. Its purpose is to help these persons become normal members of society. In so doing perhaps it can prevent the necessity of committing them to prison after some future crime has been committed.

The case of Audrey Brandt, 42-year-old farmhand, who has been implicated in the rape-murder of Donna Sue Davis of Sioux City serves to illustrate the need of such a law.

Police records show that Brandt paid $100 fine and spent 30 days in jail in Cedar Rapids in 1947 on a charge of molesting children in theaters. He was arrested in 1954 in Waterloo on a charge of molesting children, but was released. He previously had been picked up in Des Moines and Lincoln, Neb., on morals cases but was released both times.

This sort of record seems to indicate this man needed some help. The way to help him was not to give him a light fine or to release him with a warning. He needed the attention of doctors and hospital care.

Wednesday Brandt was picked up by authorities in Joplin, Mo., and confessed to beating and raping Donna Sue. Thursday he denied that he was guilty and claimed his whole "confession" was a hoax.

Is he guilty? We don't know. That must be determined by a jury and a court on the evidence that is presented both by police authorities and by counsel for his defense.

For men like Brandt, Iowa law now offers some help. But just because the machinery is there, the law will not automatically take care of them.

Commitment of a sexual psychopath directly to a state hospital requires a hearing similar to a hearing for commitment of an insane person.

There have been many insanity hearings in which relatives and friends have petitioned the courts not to approve the commitment because of the stigma caused by the word "insanity." Though they believe they are acting to "save" the person's reputation, these relatives and friends actually are denying the mentally ill person the very care and help that he needs.

We expect that the same condition will prevail in the hearings on the commitment of sexual psychopaths. The courts must be encouraged by strong public support to act for the good of the sick person — not on the requests of relatives and friends.

Our last legislature gave us the machinery to help the habitual sexual offender. It is up to the citizens to make it work.

Interpreting the News—

U.S. Should Be Considerate When Punishing Turncoats

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

There are indications that public opinion and the government are preparing to take the hide off the three American boys who are coming home from Communist China.

It's a good time for a little calm consideration.

The word turncoat is one of the most scornful terms an American knows how to use. A double turncoat is, in many eyes, a man who is truly without a country, and deservingly so.

Careful Punishment

If the acts of these boys deserve punishment, however, it should be meted out in the most carefully judicious fashion that a democracy can apply.

They themselves say they have not been smart. Indeed, they have been awfully dumb. But, when not even half educated, they were picked up and sent off to a very strange land to fight. They were captured by the enemy. The enemy is a skilled seducer of the mind. With little if any intellectual background to help them, the boys succumbed. They became confused by talk. Once they were faced with facts, they changed their minds again.

Mental Gyration

This is a small-scale repetition of the mental gyrations through which thousands, perhaps millions of Americans have gone regarding communism in the past 10 years.

Men of demonstrably high intellect and education, men in high places whose confusion handicapped the nation in recognizing and understanding the old war, have been numerous. They have given more aid and comfort to the enemy than all the prisoners of war who have ever been subjected to Communist indoctrination. And most of them have been let off for not knowing what they did.

No Privileges

The full record of what motivated these boys, of what they did to comfort the enemy aside from proving that they were defectors among the American troops in Korea, as there were thousands and thousands of defectors among the Chinese troops, is not yet available. By their own account, they certainly were not treated as heroes among the Reds. Their privileges do not seem to have greatly surpassed those of the impressed coolie workmen.

For years Soviet Russia has been saying to her defectors abroad, "Come home, all is forgiven." The appeal has lost its touch in later years because the Soviet police state has such strange ideas of forgiveness. It will not pay the United States to fall into a parallel course.

Old Capitol Remembers

One Year Ago Today

President Eisenhower asserted a direct American responsibility for blocking communism in southeast Asia. He tied this to the necessity of keeping Japan out of Communist control.

An increase of $3,215 in the Iowa City assessor's budget was approved by the City Council at a joint meeting with the Johnson County Board of Supervisors and the Board of Education.

Five Years Ago Today

North Korean troops, smashed in one attempt to cross the Kum River, knifed over and hurled back the American defenders before strategic Taejon.

The United States served notice on the world that its rock bottom requirement for a settlement of the Korean crisis is the withdrawal of the Communist invasion army from South Korea.

Ten Years Ago Today

The non-fraternization policy was relaxed to allow American, British and Canadian occupation troops in Germany and Austria to talk with groupings in the streets and in public places.

A general international economic conference to consider "practical steps" to achieve freedom of international trade was suggested by four Republican Senators.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Voters in Iowa City's last school election will be asked to sign a petition calling a special bond election to finance 55 per cent of the cost of Iowa City's proposed $800,000 senior high school building, school board officials announced.

The continental United States craned collective necks to watch one of nature's super-spectacles, the first complete eclipse of the moon since 1927 and the longest in half a century.

Better Iowa City Contest—

Bypass Would Relieve Heavy Traffic on Iowa City Streets

(Editor's Note: This letter is the third prize winner in the high school division of the Better Iowa City contest. The other winning letters will be printed in subsequent issues of The Daily Iowan.)

To the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce:

I believe Iowa City would be a better place if all of the highway traffic and trucks, including explosive trucks, going through Iowa City, would be re-routed around Iowa City.

This is what I believe should be done: Highway 218 should be re-routed about the way the highway commission plans to do, but at the southern end where it meets Highway 6 it should continue south around Iowa City, then, to the east, and then north to Highway 261 forming a horseshoe and a bypass for Iowa City.

This horseshoe would intersect the proposed Iowa Turnpike, thus forming a complete "circle" around Iowa City. Any one going on this bypass coming from, let's say, Highway 6 west, wishing to go to Highway 6 east; or from Highway 218 north, (new one) to Highway 218 south; or, from Highway 1 west, to Highway 1 east, would not go too much out of his way going around Iowa City on this bypass to get to where he would want to and he would get to the other side of the city much faster and on a much better highway than if he would go through the city on its inadequate roads.

A bypass around Iowa City would not ruin the beauty of the city and the campus. Nobody wants to have a cloverleaf or two and a big super-highway right in front of the Capitol. They want one going around Iowa City. Everybody does, I've talked to many people about this problem.

In rebuilding Highway 218 they should build Section B, on my map, FIRST before building Section A. Because more accidents happen on Highway 218 shown in red between Iowa City and North Liberty than do on Highway 218 shown in green between North Liberty and Cedar Rapids. So if they build Section B and put it to use before they build Section A, many an accident will be prevented.

I have planned six ways to leave Iowa City to get onto the bypass. Highway 261 north, would connect to the turnpike and both ends of the bypass would connect to it, so there would be three entrances to the turnpike. The four main entrances to the bypass from Iowa City would be Highway 6 west, and east; Highway 218 south; and 261 north. Highway 218 north would not enter the turnpike, it would go under it (bridge).

The present Muscatine Road, on which goes Highway 6 east, would not enter the bypass, but go under it (another bridge). Lower Muscatine would enter the bypass and would take the present Highway 6 road.

There would be a big six-way clover leaf where Highway 6 west, and new Highway 218, the turnpike, and the Iowa City bypass meet.

This plan is for something outside of Iowa City, but the contest is for ideas of how I believe Iowa City could be bettered, and since this would better Iowa City, I think this letter is eligible for the contest.

Atomic Age Passes Tenth Anniversary

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ten years ago this week man terrified himself by winning a monumental scientific victory. He produced an atomic weapon.

Now he has lived with it for a nervous decade, watching its mounting power and numbers dominate political decisions, remake the art of war and threaten him each day with extinction.

The United States made the weapon first because it won a race with Nazi scientists. For five years the weapon belonged exclusively to the United States. No one expected it would remain forever exclusive, but Russia learned its secrets far faster than was forecast.

Today atomic weapons exist by the thousands, a family so diversified that one member can be used merely to blow out an enemy airfield or another to vaporize the biggest city.

Their blasts can wipe out great masses of humanity in an instant and threaten countless others with lingering death from radioactivity. They can unleash heat greater than that of the sun itself.

Anxious Men

The atomic weapon age opened at Alamogordo, N.M., on July 16, 1945, like a Wagnerian opera. Pitch darkness, storm, lightning, pealing thunder greeted the band of men who came to the desert at night to test their weapon. It was an omen for the anxious decade ahead.

The band of scientists and military men who gathered in a lonely corner of the sprawling Alamogordo air base was small by comparison with the tens of thousands who were to conduct tests in later years, but their names now are famous.

Manhattan District

Heading the Manhattan District, the very name of which was high secret, was Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, with Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell as his deputy. Both were Army engineers. The command was military, but much of the personnel was civilian — men like Doctors Robert Oppenheimer, Vannevar Bush, R. F. Bacher, James Conant, Enrico Fermi, Alvin C. Graves and K. T. Bainbridge. Since 1940, these scientists had been working toward the goal of creating explosion by fission of atoms.

Now all the years of calculations, of theories, of laboratory tests, of refining uranium, of building huge and secret plants were past. The moment for proof had arrived.

$2 Billion Investment

Four nights before, in an old ranch house, the scientists had started putting together the components of the first bomb, the explosive charge, the rudimentary trigger. What they assembled represented a two-billion-dollar government investment.

Two days before scheduled shot time, they had hoisted the bulky, instrument-festooned gadget to the top of a steel tower. The time set for the detonation "S-hour" (shot hour) was 4 a.m., but when that hour arrived a violent thunderstorm was whipping the area. The timetable was reset to 5:30 a.m.

Closest Observers

The closest observers were stationed in a timber and earth dug-out almost six miles from the bomb site, where the controls for the test were situated. At another point, nearly 10 miles distant, Groves, Bush and some of the other top officials took their stand.

A timer chanted the moments over a loud-speaker — "minus five seconds . . . four . . . three . . . two . . . now!"

Then came a swiftly mounting, unearthly white light, the punch of a racing shock wave and the grumbling roar of the explosion.

Minimum Size

For several years after Alamogordo's "Trinity" test, the use of two bombs on Japanese targets and the 1946 tests against naval ships at Bikini were believed that the minimum size of an atomic bomb had to be 20,000-ton (20 kiloton) energy, with doubt about building up beyond that range.

That is forgotten now. Nuclear fission explosions ranging from a single kiloton to 100 kilotons have been detonated at the Nevada proving ground. In the remote Pacific proving ground at Eniwetok, tests running up to half a million kilotons presumably have been carried out.

These, of course, are the mere, conventional fission explosions — little things when measured against the H-bomb.

H-Bomb

The H-bomb is misnamed. Actually, hydrogen is only one of the elements that appear in the production of thermonuclear explosions.

The atomic weapons — fission and fusion — which exist or are close to perfection today fall into two classes:

1. Tactical bombs, missiles, rockets and cannon projectiles, for use against troops on the battlefield, ships at sea, enemy plane formations or specific military targets such as supply dumps, transportation centers or naval air bases.
2. The weapons of strategic destruction, capable of wiping out vast areas.

No Limit

There is no practical limit to the power of a thermonuclear bomb except the dimensions of its casing and its transportability.

In a preliminary test of thermonuclear explosion in 1952, using a device much smaller than the 1954 weapons, an island of the Bikini Atoll was wiped out, leaving a crater a mile wide and 175 feet deep in the ocean floor.

Teachers Learn, Instruct In Speech-Drama Workshop

Teachers from Iowa high schools are learning while they are instructing in the 24th Summer Workshop for high school students in speech and dramatic arts.

The purpose of the workshop is two fold, according to Prof. Hugh F. Seabury, advisor in charge. It provides facilities for high school and university instructors to learn and observe demonstration teaching, and at the same time the students profit by participating in discussion, debate, and dramatics.

The workshop is a part of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts summer program.

The enrollment in this summer's workshop is 71, nearly twice that of last year.

High school students from all over the nation may participate if they are recommended by their teachers and meet other qualifications. They have to be at least sophomores and have speech interests. The majority of the students are from Iowa.

The workshop began June 27 and will run through July 22. Three main areas of study are available to the participants. They can concentrate in dramatic arts, discussion and debate, or voice and speech development.

Dramatic arts sequence includes acting, stagecraft, make-up, costumes, and lighting. The discussion and debate group are concerned with official high school problems for discussion and propositions for debate. Students interested in radio and television learn production techniques and performance in the WSUI radio station and the SUI Television Center.

Most of the students also participate in SUI theatrical productions. "Yellow Jacket," a Chinese fantasy which will be presented in the University Theatre July 19-21, will be a workshop production. Most roles feature high school students. This production will conclude the 1955 summer speech workshop.

SUI educators are assisted by 14 high school teachers in instructing the workshop participants.

The girls are housed in Currier Annex, and the boys live in Hillcrest dormitory. Both groups are supervised by proctors and counselors.

Many Fighting Non-Existent Enemies—

Thousands Given Hope for Allergy Care

New findings on the treatment of allergies is giving hope to thousands of men and women who have previously suffered unexplainable and untreatable medical problems.

Doctors are discovering that many cases of headaches, muscular pains, heart trouble, stuttering, eye trouble, fatigue and various other ailments are caused by allergies.

An allergy is an unusual situation. If a person is allergic, he actually is defending against enemies that don't exist. The human body fights off disease germs by turning out antibodies. This automatic mechanism is called an allergic reaction.

What Causes Ailments?

In allergic persons, the body mechanism is triggered needlessly by such substances as dust, pollen, wheat, eggs or other foreign substances that aren't harmful at all. When this happens the body may be affected in any number of places, causing various ailments.

Allergy can play many unpleasant tricks, some serious, in the eyes. Puffy, swollen lids and pink-eye are forms of ocular allergy. One of the latest medical reports even suggests that it might be worth checking on the possibility of allergy in producing nearsightedness. Allergy may also be a factor in hearing loss.

When allergy hits the heart, it can disturb the rate and rhythm of the beat. It can produce chest pain and even coronary-artery disease and damage to the heart muscle.

Tobacco An Irritant

In addition to food and pollens, such drugs as aspirin and penicillin may produce heart allergy. Tobacco is one of the most important irritants. Dr. Joseph Harkavy of New York has found. He discovered that many heavy smokers have allergic skin reactions to tobacco.

In cases of undue fatigue and weakness, allergy should be suspected when other organic problems are ruled out.

No one knows where the relatively young field of allergy stops. Most of the allergy experts are careful to point out that allergy is not invariably the cause of any particular problem. It is one possible cause. The same form of allergy may cause various types of sickness in different people.

Methods of Relief

There is still far to go in finding treatment. But, much has been done in finding methods of relief. Avoidance of the allergy-causing substance is the surest method.

Many causes of allergies can't be avoided, but desensitization treatments often help. Starting with injections of weak extracts of the offending substances, doses are gradually built up until the patient develops a greater tolerance. Antihistamine drugs are also helpful. A large number are available, and where one does not work, another often does.

The hormones ACTH and cortisone have produced dramatic relief in many forms of allergy which have not yielded to other measures.

Drilling Starts For Fremont County Oil

The first drilling for oil in Iowa this year began near Thurman in Fremont County, H. Garland Hershey, State Geologist, announced Wednesday.

A company from Wichita Falls, Tex., previously had filed their intent to drill in Fremont.

Thurman is located in southwestern Iowa, about 30 miles south of Council Bluffs.

Any company which intends to drill for oil in Iowa must file with the State Geologist. Besides the location, other factors concerning the land and the well must be presented to Hershey.

If the company should decide that there is no oil to be found at this location, Hershey must inform them of the proper method to "plug" the well.

The well must be plugged so that surface waters will not contaminate underground sources of the water supply in the future.

Hershey recently was re-elected chairman of the Iowa Natural Resources Council. He also heads the Iowa Geological Survey at the State University of Iowa.

For that quick lunch: heat slices of ham and place on toast. Top with canned whole cranberry sauce and serve as open sandwiches. Good with a mixed green salad.

'Civil War History' Sent Free to Last Union Army Vet

Albert Woolson, Duluth, Minn., last remaining Union army veteran of the Civil War, now holds a complimentary subscription to the magazine "Civil War History," published quarterly by the State University of Iowa.

Editor Clyde Walton has mailed a copy of the first issue of the magazine to the 108-year-old veteran.

In a letter accompanying the first issue, Walton told Woolson: "We hope that you will find 'Civil War History' of interest. Through the years, it cannot help but be a living tribute to the men, both of the North and South, who fought a war for what each believed was right and true. It is fitting, we feel, that 'Civil War History' be such a tribute."

Army Chief

He Learned a Lesson From a Private

TOKYO (AP)—Somebody once asked Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the Army's new chief of staff, why he chose to be a paratrooper. "I never knew why I picked that outfit," the lean, blue-eyed general replied, "until one day when I was talking to a private in Normandy."

Taylor explained that when he was commanding general of the 101st Airborne, he called on recruits whenever possible and welcomed these new men into the division. Among the questions he usually asked was "How do you like being a paracutist?"

"I don't," a newcomer shot back one day in the fields near Carentan. "I don't like jumping out of airplanes."

"If you don't like jumping out of airplanes, then what are you doing as a paracutist?" Taylor asked.

"Because I like being with men who like jumping out of airplanes."

"For gosh sake put 'er there," Taylor exclaimed, shaking the young recruit's hand. "That's the way I feel too, but I never realized it before."

Combat Jumps

Taylor has made seven jumps, two of them in combat. In Normandy and Holland he jumped with his division, the famed 101st that held firm at Bastogne when German Panzers hammered every other outfit around them out of the line.

Although his postwar jobs have been less demanding, he is still in top physical condition. He stands a trim six feet and tips the scale at 175 pounds, which he calls his "fighting weight." He plays tennis three or four times every week and can hold his own with Grant Golden, 10th-ranking U.S. player, who "happened" to be a member of Taylor's staff in the Far East.

"I almost fired my GI personnel officer for not telling me Grant Golden was in the 9th Corps," Taylor said one day, jokingly.

No Fat Officers

"Taylor won't have fat officers on his staff," an 8th Army colonel said once. "That's why handball, tennis and even calisthenics became so popular in Korea when the war ended."

Officers' club menus blossomed with low-calorie items when Taylor took command at Far East headquarters.

Probably because of his own age, he prefers young officers on his staff. At 53 he is one of the youngest chiefs of staff the Army ever had.

Else Notes Increase in Latin Students

Prof. Gerald F. Else, head of the Iowa Latin Workshop, which closes here today, believes that the so-called dead language is not really dead at all.

He said this is confirmed by reports from 15 Latin teachers who attended the workshop, and told of the status of Latin in their own areas in a questionnaire.

Else, head of the SUI classics department, said that fewer schools are teaching Latin, but those that do are experiencing increased enrollment in the course.

"It is possible that schools are dropping Latin from their curricula because of an acute shortage of qualified teachers," Else added.

The Iowa Latin Workshop, first held in 1949, was the second of its kind in America. Since that time, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan have held similar sessions.

The three-week workshop, which may be taken for three hours of credit, is for the purpose of conveying new information to the teachers attending.

Indians Edge Yanks, 5-4, On Two-Run Eighth

Three Singles, Two Homers Give Tribe Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Al Rosen and Larry Doby belted home runs Thursday night as the Cleveland Indians came from behind and defeated New York, 5-4. The loss cut the Yankees league lead to four games.

Rosen, leading off in the eighth inning, tied the score with his 12th round trip of the year. Doby's blow, his 14th of the season, came with none on in the third.

Singles by Hal Naragon, Ray Narleski and Al Smith produced the winning run in the eighth.

New York got all of its runs against Bob Lemon, the first of three Cleveland pitchers.

The pitching victory went to Narleski and was his fifth without a loss.

The loser was Jim Konstanty, who came on in the sixth and got Gene Woodling to hit into a double play after the Indians had filled the bases with two singles and a walk.

Homers Give Red Sox Split

DETROIT (AP) — Boston's Red Sox, baseball's hottest team before the All-Star break, opened a 13-game tour of the west Thursday night and split a twin-night doubleheader with the Detroit Tigers.

After drawing a 6-0 blank in the first game, the Red Sox snapped back for a 7-3 nightcap victory, with successive seventh-inning home runs by Ted Williams and Jackie Jensen nailing the decision.

The split gave Boston 10 victories in its last 12 games and 29 out of 36.

A crowd of 44,676 saw rookie Frank Lary chill the Red Sox in the opener, scattering six hits while pitching his first major league shutout. He retired Williams four straight times.

In the second game, Williams walked twice and fanned once before lining his 13th home run into the upper right field seats in the seventh inning.

The Sox exploded for seven runs in the fourth inning of the initial contest to overcome a 3 to 1 lead the Nats had established in their fourth turn.

Cardinals Hand Bums Third Loss in Row, 6-1

BROOKLYN (AP) — Stan Musial, hero of Tuesday's All-Star game, and Wally Moon smacked home runs and rookie Larry Jackson tossed four-hit ball Thursday night as the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-1.

It was the third straight defeat for the National League leaders. The Dodgers, who have been shut out only by Jackson and Milwaukee's Bob Buhl this season, averted a second whitewash at the hands of the St. Louis righthander in the ninth inning. Jackie Robinson started the scoring with a double and came home on Carl Furillo's single.

Until then, the 24-year-old Jackson had handcuffed Brooklyn on two hits — both by Roy Campanella, who was making his first appearance since stepping down June 29 with a knee injury.

Musial, who broke up the all-star game with his home run in the 12th inning, got the Cards rolling with his 20th homer of the year to lead off the fourth inning. Just as in Tuesday's

Reds Smash Pirates, 19-1 As All Hit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 19-1 drubbing Thursday night, every man in the starting lineup getting at least one hit.

Wally Post hit two homers good for four runs, Dale Burgess chipped in with a circuit clout and Johnny Temple had five hits in seven trips — including a bases loaded triple.

The Redlegs teed off on five Pirate pitchers for 21 hits. They scored in every inning except the third. Their attack was featured with five-run first and seventh innings.

Buhl Fans 12 As Braves Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bob Buhl pieced out five hits — one a ninth-inning homer by Andy Seminick — as the Milwaukee Braves whipped the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night, 7-1.

Homers by Bobby Thomson and Hank Aaron, plus a two-run single by Andy Patko, did the bulk of the Milwaukee damage. Buhl, whose record now stands at 7-7, fanned 12 and walked four.

Thomson hit his ninth homer of the season with none on in the second. Aaron's came with the bases empty in the sixth. It was Hank's 18th.

In the eighth, Logan singled and when Ron Mrozinski wild pitched a fourth ball to Aaron, there were runners on second and third. Thomson was walked intentionally and Patko's flyout scored Logan. Mrozinski tried for a pickoff at second and threw wildly, permitting Aaron to score, but Thomson was out on a rundown.

2 Iowans Lose; Leichty Advances

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Two State University of Iowa golfers were defeated in second round play of the Iowa Amateur Golf Championships Thursday morning.

Herb Klontz lost to Bill Bergman, Cedar Rapids, and John Marshall was defeated by John Eymann.

After winning in the second round, John Leichty, Iowa City, the state junior champion, advanced in the afternoon by defeating former Iowa Amateur champion, Fred Gordon, Belmond.

Defending champion Bob Leahy, Denison, and Rod Bliss, Des Moines, the 1951 titlist, also won third round victories.

Jack Webb, Spirit Lake, a former winner, was sidelined by Eymann in afternoon play. Leichty had to battle all the way over the Cedar Rapids Country Club course to defeat

Bergman, 1 up, while in the lower bracket Bliss eliminated Bud McCardell, Newton, 4 and 2.

The Leahy-Bergman match was tied after the first nine holes. Leahy won No. 10 but Bergman evened matters again on the 15th with a birdie 4.

Leahy banged out a birdie 3 on the 16th for what proved to be the winning margin as he and Bergman halved 17 and 18. Bergman rimmed the cup with a 50-foot putt on No. 9 that would have put him 1 up at the turn. A chip shot just off the No. 12 green also just missed dropping for the Cedar Rapids attorney.

George Clark of Ottumwa defeated Bill Iverson of Clinton, 4 and 3, and Tommy Davis of Cedar Rapids beat Burleigh Sutton of Clinton, by the same margin.

Sixteen-year-old Jack Rule of Waterloo was beaten, 2 and 1, by Larry Dwyer of Muscatine and Phil Joselyn, another young player from Ft. Dodge, lost 4 and 2.

Quarterfinal round pairing for today:

Upper Bracket
Leahy vs. Leichty
Clark vs. Davis
Lower Bracket
Eymann vs. Dwyer
Bliss vs. Humphrey

Favor Nashua In 'Upset' Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The six horses who will challenge Nashua in Saturday's $115,000 Arlington Classic can gain some cheer from the fact this traditionally is a "Disaster Mile" for champions.

The 26-year-old Classic has tripped up such favorites as Whirlaway in 1941, Assault in 1946, Bimelech in 1940, Johnstown in 1939, Sub Fleet in 1952, and Twenty-Grand and Spanish Play in 1931.

There's no Swaps among the game half-dozen apparently set to have a go at Nashua Saturday, but the competition may be brisk if the likes of Impromptu and Dedicate are full of run.

Another contender, Traffic Judge, might do well if he had his favorite rider, Eddie Arcaro, aboard, but he will ride Nashua Saturday.

Dogoon, Munchausen and Jett Flame will round out the field, although Hasty House Farm's Summer Solstice is an eighth, but unlikely possibility.

Fleck Eight Behind Pace By Middlecoff

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dr. Cary Middlecoff fired a record-equaling 64, six under par, with a record 29 finish, to pace Thursday's sizzling first round in the Milwaukee $35,000 Open Golf Tournament.

Par was shattered 39 times before an estimated 10,000 fans, greatest crowd of the season.

Eight shots off the pace in the 147 player field, and making his first appearance as United States Open Champion, was Jack Fleck of Davenport.

With his 72 start, he faced the task of shooting not worse than par 70 in the second round to be among those who continue in the final 36 holes.

A late starter, Middlecoff capped his brilliant round with a 10 foot birdie putt on the 18th green to snatch the lead from Fred Hawkins of St. Andrews, Ill., who appeared safely lodged at the top with 33-65.

Crowding into the spotlight were five 60s, including Mike Souchak; Oklahoma City's Bo Winiager; veteran Ted Kroll of Ufa, N.Y.; Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kan.

Defending Champion Wins Quarterfinals

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Defending champion Gene Andrews, Pacific Palisades, Calif., threw an eagle and four birdies at Jack Gregory of Detroit on the front nine Thursday and then eased up to win, 4 and 3, in quarter finals of the USGA public links golf tournament.

Andrews started off the match with a double-bogey 7 but won seven of the next eight holes with superb golf for a 32 on the first nine — 4 under par. He had a couple of bogeys in the last six holes to finish 2 under par for the match.

Stolen Bases Help Giants Beat Cubs

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, who only once this season had stolen two bases in one game, swiped four Thursday night against Chicago, setting up two big runs with two of the thefts in a 3-2 triumph over the Cubs.

The Giants, battling to overhaul the third place Bruins, sewed it up in the third after Don Mueller had led off a two-run second inning with his sixth home run of the season.

Hank Thompson worked a walk from loser Bob Rush with two out in the third, stole second and scampered home on Mueller's single.

In the second inning, Al Dark followed Mueller's home run with a single, stole second and

Come To Hearing, Garner 'Dares' Rotary

"I dare you to come to the school board budget hearing August 9," Buford Garner, superintendent of Iowa City schools told Rotary Club members Thursday.

"If anyone of you shows up at that meeting, it will be the first time anyone has done so in the past three years," he added.

The school budget has increased approximately $90,000 each year for the past three years. Taxpayers have been paying for this increase, Garner said.

Budget Increase
Pointing out that this year's tentative budget asks for a $302,380 tax increase, Garner challenged Rotarians to take an active part in the school board proceedings.

"It is your children and grandchildren who are benefiting from the school system," he said. "And you should be interested in their education."

Garner said that persons between 21 and 65 years old will have to carry the burden of supporting those over 65 and educating those under 21.

"We must, therefore, utilize the spending of every tax dollar to the best possible advantage," he said.

Lists Problems

Current school board problems listed by Garner are: (1) retaining elementary teachers for more than one year, (2) obtaining more men elementary teachers, and (3) expanding the curriculum on all three (elementary, junior high, and high school) levels of education.

Another problem, Garner said, is that by 1968 the high school enrollment will be about 1,663.

Presently the school board is considering additions to the junior high school, looking at new building sites, especially in the southeast part of Iowa City, and considering an addition to the Mark Twain School, Garner said.

Garner pointed out that he, as superintendent of schools, and other school personnel are employees of the taxpayers.

"As your employees, how do you want us to proceed?" he asked.

Licenses Processed In New Egg Law

DES MOINES (AP) — The State Department of Agriculture said Thursday it has begun processing applications for licenses under the new Iowa egg grading law and will begin mailing out the licenses next week.

Department officials said they have applications for licenses from 4,000 dealers, 4,000 retailers and 3,000 candlers and graders. L. D. Liddy, chief of the department's dairy and food division, said the new law became effective July 4. A test suit is in progress in the courts.

S.O.S. Note

Blonde Alarms Police; Just a Dispute

When Iowa City police received an "S.O.S." note late Wednesday night they took action to prevent what looked like a kidnaping in progress.

But developments early Thursday proved the only trouble involved was the failure of two people to agree on where they wanted to go.

The story ran like this: A local filling station attendant turned in the note he said he found in the station washroom to police at 11:40 p.m.

State-Wide Alarm
The attendant said he thought the note had been left by a "good-looking blonde." A state-wide alarm was put out.

The note said:
"Please help — am being taken against will on Highway 6 to Battle Creek, Mich. in 1955 Chev. sport coupe, green and cream with California license plate. My name is Patsy Head. Please send police after me. Hurry!"

The note was written on the back of a money order made out by Patsy Head. The handwriting on the order and the note matched.

Shortly after Iowa City police sent out the call Davenport answered that they had the car and the occupants in custody.

Directional Difficulties
A later report from Davenport revealed that Miss Head, 23, and her companion, George W. Hahn, also 23, had quarreled over the destination of a trip they were taking.

Miss Head, who owned the car, was sharing the expenses of a trip from Battle Creek, Mich., to California with Hahn, Davenport police reported. At Iowa City, Hahn decided that he wanted to return to Battle Creek, the report said.

Davenport police said the argument was settled when the woman took the car and headed for California and Hahn bought a bus ticket to Michigan.

Gregory will be in Des Moines then for the world premier of his first motion picture, "The Night of the Hunter."

American Motors Rejects Contract

DETROIT (AP) — A statement by American Motors Corp. that it has rejected a union contract proposal pattered after the General Motors and Ford layoff-pay agreements set off a fight Thursday.

The CIO United Auto Workers denied a proposal on that basis had been made the company and charged American Motors with having "dishonorably" taken union negotiation remarks "out of context."

The union also accused the firm of a "double cross" in lifting a news "blackout" on negotiations.

The American Motors-UAW contract talks are the first in the industry's smaller manufacturer field since the GM and Ford contracts were negotiated.

Leonard Woodcock, a UAW-CIO vice-president and chief negotiator, attacked statements made Thursday by Edward L. Cushman, vice-president in charge of American Motors industrial relations.

The union also challenged American Motors claims that its workers were paid more than Ford and General Motors employees as a result of what American Motors called "pattern plus" bargaining on the union's part.

The clash between the company and union indicated a developing battle along the lines of both the layoff pay proposition and other major elements in dispute.

All but Chrysler of the big auto firms have settled with the union on three-year contracts.

American Motors, 14-month-old merged firm of Nash-Kelvinator and Hudson, announced its stand publicly in a statement issued during negotiations.

2d Times Reporter Admits Red Affiliation

Quit 'Dull, Inept' Party After Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York Times reporter Ira Henry Freeman said Thursday he was a Communist party member for a year in the 1930's. He said he quit because he found Communist meetings "inept and futile... dull and fruitless."

Freeman thus became the second Times reporter to tell the Senate Internal Security subcommittee he was a Red in the 1930's. The other, Charles Grutzner, said he left the party when he became disillusioned about the Communists.

A third Times man, Melvin Barnet, told the senators Wednesday he is not now a Communist but wouldn't answer questions about party membership a dozen years ago. He refused to answer on grounds of possible self-incrimination and the Times fired him.

Grutzner's name popped up again Thursday with the appearance of Ansel Talbert, military and aviation editor of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Security Breach
Talbert said that while he and Grutzner were war correspondents in Korea in 1950, Grutzner filed a story which Gen. George C. Stratemeyer, then Far East commander, described as "one of the most serious security breaches of the war."

This story reported the first use of F86 Sabre Jet fighters against the Reds in Korea and, Grutzner said, officers in the field refused to clear it for publication. Grutzner said he filed it with a notation to the Times to get Pentagon clearance before using it; the Times has reported it got the clearance.

Chairman James Eastland (R-Miss.) said Thursday he had received a telegram from Turner Catledge, managing editor of the Times on the subject.

Collaborates Story
The Catledge message contained a copy of a memorandum dated July 8 from Glen Stackhouse, a United Press correspondent of Korean days, in reply to a telephone query from Grutzner.

Stackhouse said that the same day Grutzner filed his story to New York, he filed his own account of the F86 story to his office in Tokyo, by telephone.

The Stackhouse memo said it was ridiculous to assert that Grutzner was guilty of a security leak, since the Chinese Reds "by that time were well aware of presence of Sabres having been in combat with them."

Freeman said he was recruited into the Communist Party by Milton Kaufman, then executive secretary of the American Newspaper Guild and another person, since deceased.

Red Guild Influence
He noted that he had been a charter member of the guild in 1933 and is still active in the labor organization, a CIO affiliate.

The guild has acknowledged there was considerable Communist influence in the organization in the late 1930's but says it long ago removed Reds from all positions of authority.

In an earlier appearance before the subcommittee, Kaufman, said he is not now a Communist but relied on the Fifth Amendment's protection when questioned about allegations of former Red activities.

Talbert's account of the 1950 Sabre Jet story was at sharp variance with the earlier account given by Grutzner.

First Detect F-86's
Talbert said he and William Barnard of the Associated Press were the first reporters to detect the F86, but they were asked not to print anything—until it had gone into action.

Later, Talbert said, he, Barnard and three or four others, including Grutzner, watched the F86's return from their first strike to Kimpo Airfield outside Seoul.

But, Talbert said, Gen. Stratemeyer ordered that nothing be written about the plane in Korea, maintaining that the F86's had only a fleeting encounter with the Reds and the enemy probably knew so little that "the element of surprise was still with us."

Nevertheless, Talbert related, Grutzner filed the story. The witness said it was filed from a commercial telegraph office which the Air Force did not want correspondents to use since it was easily monitored by the Reds.

Filing a story by that method, Talbert said, was "equivalent to broadcasting" from the Seoul radio station.

Engineer Dies In Seven-Car Train Wreck

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP)—Pounding in darkness around "the severest" curve on its route, the locomotive and seven lead cars of the New Haven Railroad's Federal Express were derailed here early Thursday, killing the engineer and injuring 24 other persons.

The locomotive plunged over an embankment and landed in freight yards 35 feet below with a tremendous crash which woke thousands of residents. The forward coaches jack-knifed and went off the trestle down the bank. A switching engine and two cars on a siding were hit.

Dead in the wreckage of his cab was Arthur Ortenau, about 60, of New Haven, engineer of the 17-car Washington to Boston express which was carrying 175 passengers. Ortenau's body was trapped in the wreckage of the locomotive for hours before it could be released.

Several other passengers could be removed only after the wreckage had been pried apart by firemen and other rescue workers.

Patrick B. McGinnis, the road's president, said the accident occurred "on the severest curve on the New Haven railroad," and added it "seems to point up our need for the low-center gravity trains which I have been advocating."

Another official of the railroad estimated the damage will be "well over a half-million dollars."

Only 20 minutes before the derailment at 4:40 a.m., routine railroad procedure was credited with averting an even greater toll of casualties.

Acting conductor David Griffith moved all day coach passengers from the forward cars to cars in the rear. This, Griffith said, was common practice to make room for new passengers at the head of the train.

Physicians from Bridgeport's two major hospitals treated the injured at the scene of the wreck.

Reds Concentrate Air Power in Asia

TOKYO (Friday) (AP)—U.S. Far East Air Forces Command estimates that almost one-third of the Communist world's air power has been moved into Asia.

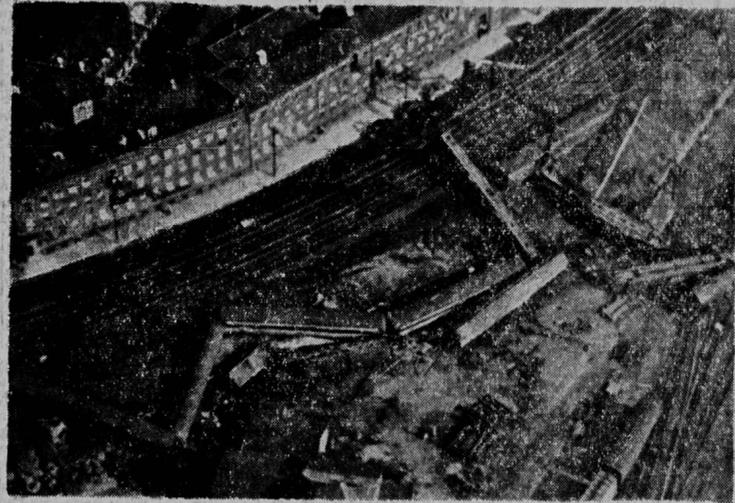

It also has taken note of a gradual shift southward from Manchuria and North Korea in Communist air power in the past year.

"Such a shift would support any program to 'liberate' Formosa," commented Col. James T. Stewart, FEAF assistant deputy for operations, at a military briefing for visiting U.S. newsmen.

Stewart said Communist air power, with its weapons of mass destruction, remains the most serious immediate threat to free world security even though Communist nations have "a huge combined ground army and a significant number of long-range submarines."

He said the Communist aircraft were built by Soviet Russia and represent almost a third of the total now in existence in Russia and satellite nations.

Gas Tax Increase Given Tentative OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Public Works Committee Thursday tentatively approved federal tax increases on gasoline and other highway-user items to raise about $11,800,000 over the next 14 years for a vast road-building program.

The committee scaled down by over a billion dollars the increases proposed by a subcommittee.

The tax plan has been advanced chiefly by Democrats as a substitute for President Eisenhower's proposal to pay for the new roads by issuing bonds.

The committee tentatively approved these tax increases, which would take effect shortly after the bill is enacted.

Gasoline, from 2 to 3 cents a gallon; Diesel fuel, from 2 to 3 cents a gallon; trucks and buses from 8 per cent to 10 per cent; heavy tires, from 5 to 15 cents a pound; heavy tubes, from 9 to 13 cents a pound; camelback, used in retreats, from no tax now to 15 cents a pound.

Senate Passes Armed Forces Reserve Bill; Roll Call 80-1

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Thursday passed an armed forces reserve bill aimed at building up a combat-ready reserve of 2.9 million men by 1960. Active reserves, including the National Guard, now number about 800,000.

The roll call vote was 80-1, with only Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.) voting "no."

Senators William Jenner (R-Ind.) and Andrew Schoeppel (R-Kan.) answered "present" and Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) said he was paired against the bill with Sen. Walter George (D-Ga.) who favored passage.

The Senate action virtually assures that President Eisenhower will get, at least in limited form, legislation he had tabbed near the top of his "must" list.

The House already has passed the bill but it will return there because of changes made by the Senate.

Vote Key Provision
However, both Senate and House voted for a key provision of the Eisenhower program. This would permit youngsters aged 17-20 to volunteer for six months of active training to be followed by 7½ years of service in an active reserve unit. Such volunteers would be exempt from the regular draft.

A Senate-House conference committee is expected to try to adjust differences in the program approved by the two bodies.

Chief of these is the question of compelling men who have completed active military service as draftees or volunteers to do additional training with reserve units.

The House approved compulsion for all service men drafted or enlisted since the Korean armistice, July 27, 1953.

In the Senate, it was argued that this would require double service liability for veterans while thousands of draft-age men escaped all military duty.

Compulsory Reserve Training
The Senate voted instead that 30 days after the bill becomes law, any man entering the service through the draft or enlistment could be forced to take active reserve training on completion of active duty.

And until July 1, 1957, the Senate agreed to offer a bonus of more than $200 to any prior-service man who volunteers for three years of active reserve training with combat-type units of the Army and Marine Corps.
