Atomic Expert Tells Of Nuclear Fuel Era

GENEVA (AP)—A leading United States authority told the 72-nation Atomic Energy Conference Wednesday "the nuclear power era will have abundant fuel resources."

Jesse C. Johnson, director of the division of raw materials for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, said the world's resources in nuclear fuels exceeded those of all other types.

"There are adequate resources of uranium and thorium for a long-range expanding world power program," he said.

2 Million Tons
On the basis of present geological evidence, Johnson added, producing nations of the West alone are estimated to have between one and two million tons of uranium that can be produced at a moderate cost. There are several million tons more available at a higher production cost, he said.

"Uranium can no longer be considered a rare metal," Johnson said. "There are extensive deposits throughout the world and there are processes for extracting the uranium economically."

"Uranium production already developed is sufficient for a major nuclear power program of world-wide extent. Additional production can be obtained when needed."

By Year 2000

A British scientist predicted that by the year 2000 it may be possible to tap the equivalent of a million tons of coal from a single ton of uranium.

The scientist, Sir John Cockcroft, said this may be achieved through full development of "breeding" of atomic fuel.

A "breeder" reaction is one in which at least as much fissionable material is created as is consumed in keeping the reactor going. Britain now is experimenting with such a reactor, known as the Zephyr.

Peaceful Uses

A belief that the fusion type of energy used in the hydrogen bomb will be harnessed for peaceful uses within a generation was expressed by another British scientist, Sir George Thomson.

Thomson agreed with Dr. Homi J. Bhabha of India that engineers will be able to bring this unlimited new source of energy under control for other purposes beside destruction.

Bhabha, president of the conference, predicted Monday that a method would be found within 20 years to liberate "fusion energy to a controlled manner."

The United States still has not stated whether it is working on the problem, but Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, has called a news conference for today at which he said he would like to make a comment on the subject.

Russia announced July 1 that it was doing research on the question of harnessing H-bomb type energy.

Hurricane Drifts Near Carolina Coast

HATTERAS, N. C. (AP)—Hurricane Connie, 125-mile winds swirling at her center, drifted slowly toward the Carolina coast Wednesday night.

At 5 p.m. (EST) the big tropical storm, which posed a threat to the whole Eastern seaboard, was centered some 200 miles southeast of Myrtle Beach, S. C. She was moving about 6 miles an hour toward Myrtle Beach, where last year's big Hurricane struck land.

But the Weather Bureau said Connie likely will veer to the northward during the night and pick up speed as a low pressure trough of air approaches from the Great Lakes region.

Toward Coast

Meanwhile, for the next 6 to 12 hours the storm probably will continue the same plodding course toward the coast.

Increasing gales and high tides were expected along the Middle Atlantic Coast, beginning late Wednesday night or today.

The hurricane loafed along the same path as Hazel, which ripped from South Carolina to Canada, ultimately taking 177 lives.

Residents Flee

Vacationers and permanent residents by the hundreds fled the Carolina beaches. They had plenty of warning. Connie had been offshore and well pinpointed by radar and hurricane hunter planes since early Tuesday.

Waves up to 15 feet high pounded and battered the beaches. Tides were running two to four feet higher than normal.

Connie's hurricane-force winds extended outward 100 miles north and east as she stood almost stationary off the coast. Gales whipped out 300 miles to the northeast and 50 miles to the southwest.

Mrs. Hancher, President's Mother, Dies

Mrs. Priscilla Nellie Hancher, mother of State University of Iowa President Virgil M. Hancher, died at University Hospitals at 11:50 p.m. Tuesday. She was 77.

Death was attributed to a malignancy. Mrs. Hancher had been a patient at the hospital since May 20 of this year.

Born on a farm near Manson November 18, 1877, she was the daughter of Patrick and Mary Ann Hodgetts Hanlon, and one of seven children.

The family moved from Manson to a farm near Old Rolfe when Mrs. Hancher was four years old. She attended school in Old Rolfe and later in Rolfe public schools.

She was married to Melvin Park Hancher, a grandson of Civil War settlers in the Rolfe area.

The couple farmed near Rolfe until her husband's death in 1928. Mrs. Hancher then moved to Rolfe, where she has lived since that time.

She has been a member of the Rolfe Presbyterian Church since 1904.

Surviving are her son, President Hancher, a sister, Mrs. Clyde Banks, Des Moines; and two grandchildren, Virgil M. Hancher Jr., and Mary Susan Hancher, both of Iowa City.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the Rolfe Presbyterian Church, with burial in Rolfe.

Blast Razes Ohio Town

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP)—Grimy-faced firemen were hauling more bodies from the wreckage of six buildings torn by an explosion and fire Wednesday night at nearby Andover, and there were reports the death toll might reach 18 persons.

At a state highway patrol station in Warren, Ohio, Patrolman Leroy Peach said he had a radio report from the scene that there were at least 12 dead and 15 injured.

An Associated Press photographer, Julian Wilson, said he saw six bodies taken from the debris and that a fireman told him 12 other bodies had been removed previously.

Search Ruins

Aided by searchlights and emergency generators, firemen and volunteer rescuers were continuing to search the ruins.

Communications in the village of 1,100 were knocked out, and the place could not be reached by phone.

Wilson said a fireman told him the blast was caused by gas which had accumulated in one of the six buildings which were demolished, a two-story frame structure housing the Gateway restaurant and an Isaly's store, part of a national dairy chain.

Chaos

Wilson described the scene as one of utter chaos. Parts of the buildings had been blown into the street and over automobiles, and the entire area was littered, he said.

Just before the explosion, the tiny village was swept by a fierce storm which cut off communications and electrical power. The telephone company said its service would not be restored until today. Andover lies about 20 miles southeast of here, near the Pennsylvania line.

11 Freed Airmen Arrive in Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—Eleven U.S. airmen, free after 2½ years in Chinese Red prisons, arrived in Hawaii Wednesday on the way to their homes and families.

A tumultuous Hawaiian welcome greeted them. Beauty queens draped their necks with flower leis and covered their faces with kisses. Old friends crowded around them. High military officers beamed and a band played.

The airmen landed at Hickam Air Force Base in two plush C-54's — Douglas MacArthur's old "Bataan" and a sister ship. Both of the four-engine transports are luxuriously fitted with bunks and other conveniences for comfortable air travel.

The airmen will remain one day in Hawaii.

'Toughen Your Intellect,' Bean Advises Graduates

WITH AN ESTIMATED 2,000 relatives and friends attending, commencement exercises for 564 graduates were held in the State University of Iowa Field House, Wednesday night.

564 Receive Degrees at Field House

Graduates were told to continue the "care and feeding of the intellect" by Dr. William B. Bean of the College of Medicine at State University of Iowa summer commencement exercises Wednesday night.

Addressing the 564 graduates and an estimated 2,000 spectators in the Field House, Dr. Bean said a graduate must extend his knowledge and toughen his intellect to keep his diploma from meaning: "The State University of Iowa hereby certifies that John Doe does not know anything except advanced mathematics."

"We live in an age of over-specialization, Dr. Bean said, in which the specialist is unable to recognize his deficiencies outside his own field, and he is unwilling to accept advice from other specialists."

Over-Specialization

Over-specialization and too much routine collection of facts for facts' sake were mentioned by Dr. Bean as criticisms of our modern world.

Examples of collecting unrelated facts cited by Dr. Bean were quiz programs and college examinations.

"In a quiz program the plan is to see how many isolated facts can be delivered from the pregnant head of the subject by a quizmaster midwife, with the lure of a wad of money or a trip somewhere to escape quiz programs."

Examinations

Speaking of examinations he said, "Examinations now often measure merely the ability to select or identify; and even memory is not taxed by the 'which of these is right or nearly right?' or 'the either or method.'"

"The analysis of examinations is done now by turning on the current. All the correlations and percentages come tumbling out, accurate to the third decimal place. But what do the answers mean?"

"These tests are far removed from a test which offers the candidate a chance at creative expression, with all the hazards of actually spelling words and constructing sentences somehow guided by syntax," Dr. Bean said.

'Care and Feeding'

How to care and feed the intellect without accumulating stores of unrelated facts was then outlined by Dr. Bean.

"First by concentrating. We live in a scatter-brained age of distractions. Don't try several things at once; but whatever you do, take it all in. Can you quote a poem exactly, or even the title? The near miss is about as helpful as the telephone number with only one wrong digit."

"Secondly, you must be selective," continued Dr. Bean. "I can remember the awful desolation I felt many years ago when I calculated how few books I would ever be able to read of all those I wanted to read. I have had to choose."

'A Commencement'

The next principle he emphasized was work. "I would emphasize that this is a commencement. You are just starting to work on your own, in your chosen career."

"The American people have a vast talent for jumping about and reacting violently," he continued. "We need balance which implies reacting to stimuli, but not with such brisk reflexes that turn us heels over head."

Lastly, Dr. Bean added imagination. "The capacity to rearrange facts so they show us a new truth. The flash of insight or inspiration we cannot turn on like a light switch, but we can encourage it."

In conclusion he said, "Man has learned how to rest his brain by making electronic machines do its work. He has probed the secrets of the heavens by fashioning enormous telescopes. He has conquered some of the pestilential scourges. He is able to dribble electric signals back and forth from the moon as casually as a basketball player bounces a ball."

Committee Probes News Blackouts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee started questioning government agencies Wednesday to see if they are being "arbitrary and capricious" in deciding what the public should be told of their activities.

The survey grew from charges inside Congress and out that federal officials are holding back legitimate news.

Chairman William L. Dawson (D-Ill.) of the House Government Operations Committee announced in June the study would be undertaken.

Rep. John E. Moss (D-Calif.) heads the Operations subcommittee which Wednesday sent out 5½-page questionnaires to each executive and independent agency.

Answers were requested by Sept. 15 to such questions as:

What officials are authorized to apply, review and remove restrictions on information? Which ones held news conferences last year, and how many were there? Which employees are instructed not to comment to newsmen or the public, either formally or informally?

SEVEN-MONTH-OLD Dick Fricca and his mother watched as husband and father John Fricca, Follansbee, W. Va., received his masters degree in dramatic arts.

Lumpa Receives Coded Message

Wayne Lumpa, 18, Johnson County jail escapee, received a coded telegram in his closely guarded hospital room at a Cedar Rapids hospital Wednesday.

The telegram was sent from Iowa City. Lumpa claimed he did not know what it meant or who sent it.

The message read: "Meet sixty-nine stop. Four four thirty seventeen nine five. Luck."

Cedar Rapids Detective Captain John Kuba has asked Iowa City police to try and determine the name of the sender of the mysterious message.

No Information

Police here have been unable to get the information from Western Union authorities.

Western Union officials are not allowed to release the names of telegram-senders until a court order for the information has been obtained by the county attorney.

Johnson County Attorney William M. Tucker said Wednesday night he had not gotten a court order for the information. He said he would "have to wait until I talk to Lumpa" before he takes action to get the sender's name.

Lumpa was recaptured in Cedar Rapids after eluding police for 19 days. He broke out of the Johnson County Jail July 20.

He was wounded in the shoulder by a Linn County deputy sheriff when he resisted arrest.

by Cedar Rapids police Monday night.

Out Of Hospital

Lumpa was released from the Cedar Rapids hospital where the bullet was removed Wednesday and was being held in the Linn County Jail.

Tucker said Lumpa will be returned to Johnson County for arraignment on a charge of breaking jail to avoid imprisonment.

He had been sentenced to 7 years at the Anamosa Men's reformatory on a bad check charge the morning before he broke jail.

"He will be brought here as soon as he is physically able to make the trip," Tucker said.

Tucker said he was hopeful Lumpa would be brought to Iowa City early today.

To Be Arraigned

When he is returned he will be arraigned on the jail break charge, which carries a one year sentence in a state penitentiary.

If Lumpa pleads guilty the one year sentence can be imposed immediately, Tucker explained, but if he pleads innocent he will have to await jury trial at the September term of the Johnson County District Court.

He would be returned to Anamosa, where he was sentenced on a bad check charge before he broke jail, to await trial on the new charge.

Charges have also been filed against Lumpa by Linn County authorities for stealing a car and resisting arrest.

Moeller To Participate At Boulder Convention

Prof. Leslie G. Moeller, director of the State University of Iowa School of Journalism, will participate in a panel discussion on the qualifications and recruitment of journalism faculty members at a meeting of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism in Boulder, Colo., Aug. 23.

The AASDJ meeting will be part of the Association for Education in Journalism convention at the University of Colorado Aug. 22 through Aug. 26. "The Desirable Education, Experience, Recruitment, Training and Evaluation of Journalism Faculty Members" is the title of the panel discussion.

Meet Today About New Korean Crisis

SEOUL (Thursday) (AP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer is expected to meet President Syngman Rhee today, presumably on the crisis rising from South Korean demands that Red truce teams leave by Saturday.

The Far East commander is expected to underscore the words of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Dulles appealed to South Korea at a Washington news conference to avoid violence. He said the United States will meet its obligation under the armistice to protect the teams.

Rhee himself urged his countrymen to use no violence. But 300 demonstrators at the nearby port of Inchon ignored him. They were turned back by U.S. Soldiers with tear gas and fire hoses when they tried to storm the truce teams compound on Wolmi Island.

No Comment From Council On Charges

City councilmen Wednesday declined to comment on charges made against them by the newly-formed Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL).

Mayor Leroy Mercer said he wanted to study the 11 charges made against City Manager Peter F. Roan and the city council before commenting.

Other councilmen said they would prefer to reply to the NPTL in a joint statement.

Roan is spending a two-week vacation in Michigan.

A resolution adopted Tuesday by the NPTL at its organizational meeting said the group's purpose was to terminate city manager government and the tenure of Roan.

The resolution called Roan and the city council "unfit to rule free people."

It listed 11 points which it said backed up this contention.

Edward O'Connor, NPTL chairman, said his group would support three candidates in the November city elections against candidates of the Council-Manager Association (CMA).

Britain May Block Chinese Bid to UN

LONDON (AP)—Britain was reported Wednesday ready to line up with the United States in blocking Red China's bid for entry into the United Nations at the General Assembly meeting next month.

British informants said Prime Minister Eden's government favors seating the Chinese Communists eventually but has decided the time is not yet ripe for the U.N. even to discuss the issue.

The Foreign Office refused to comment on the report.

Ike May Be Forced To Run, Williams Says

CHICAGO (AP)—Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan Wednesday described President Eisenhower as "an old man" who may not want a second term but who is likely to be forced by Republicans into running in 1956.

Williams, who said he is leaving the door open to the possibility that he may seek his own party's nomination, told reporters at the 47th annual governors' conference, that "a lot of things can happen before next year's party conventions." Eisenhower is 64.

When a reporter remarked this seemed "a cold-blooded statement," Williams supplemented it by saying that Adlai E. Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee, "or any of us may die before that time."

Williams noted that if Eisenhower runs and is re-elected he will become the nation's oldest president before he completes a new four-year term.

Williams' statement provoked speedy response from Republican Governors Arthur B. Langlie of Washington and Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland.

Langlie said that by raising the issue of Eisenhower's age Williams was "slandering one of the finest workers and finest minds of the country."

McKeldin said he regards the nomination and re-election of

G. Mennen Williams Warns Governors

Eisenhower and Vice President Richard E. Nixon as "inevitable," adding that he is 100 per cent for such a ticket and has no aspirations of his own.

"So far as the President is concerned, age is not a matter of years but a matter of spirit," he said. "The President's spirit is as young, inspiring and stimulating as it was years ago when he first began to serve his country."

August Harvest—

The August ripeness creeps across the land, somewhat hastened by the heat but forever typical of the season. Fore-runner of the later total harvest, it is a reminder, too, that no harvest is a brief and isolated completion in any year. Harvest is a continuing event, from the first hay through the oats, the wheat, the barley and rye to that amazing abundance which is corn and autumn.

Traveling west you see August harvest in all its stages; and the seeing is a fresh reminder of this country's scope, its variety, its ever-amazing bounty. The corn is everywhere, from the patchy little fields of the east to the vastness of Illinois and Iowa cornfields which scent whole counties with the smell of corn pollen. The deep, rich green of soybeans, all but unknown a few decades ago and now almost typical of much of the Midwest. The oat fields and the rye and barley and wheat fields, all now clipped and thrashed of their grain, now golden stubble quartered and halved and striped by brown or black furrows of fresh plowing. And, as one approaches the Western mountains, the endless, ordered fields of sugar beets, garden-fresh and tended.

And the hay. Hay everywhere, timothy and clover and alfalfa and native grass. The clover in red bloom, the alfalfa in purple bloom, and both honey-sweet. Hay in bloom, and hay cut and baled, and hay in fresh windrows curing in the sun. Stacks of hay, bales of hay, millions of tons of hay; for this land of ours, while it has its special hay lands, has hay fields and mowing and meadows and pasture lands everywhere. For ours is an essentially grassy land. And even where the hot winds and the swirling dust have blighted the plains the grass still struggles for its native foothold between the dunes of dust momentarily at rest.

You travel, and you see this creeping harvest, this ripeness of August building toward the ripeness of autumn, the vast harvest yet to come. And you know again the reality of statistics. For here is the diet, the nutrition, the plenty which statistics can only hint at on dry terms of mathematics. Here is the storehouse, here is the grain bin, here is the plenty of a nation ripened in the August sunlight.

Graduate Student Surveys Elementary School Teachers

Only one out of three young women elementary teachers plans to teach just until she gets married, according to a survey in a new State University of Iowa research study.

After a survey of the experiences and plans of 189 young Iowans who taught for the first time in 1954-55, Caryl A. Middleton, G. Cedar Falls, reports that their future plans fall into three groups:

Twenty per cent "do not anticipate marriage" and plan to teach from two to 30 years. Fifty per cent plan to teach after marriage, both because they like teaching and for financial reasons. And with the remaining 30 per cent, one to four years will be the extent of their teaching careers to be concluded by marriage.

Two-Year Graduates
In the sample of young teachers covered by Middleton's study, all were two-year graduates of Iowa junior colleges and Iowa State Teachers College in June, 1954. Of the group 94 per cent ranged from 19 to 21 years of age at the time of their graduation. He found that 65 per cent intend to go on to college and complete their work for a bachelor's degree. Following this degree, 82 per cent of this number look forward to more teaching in Iowa, with most of the others undecided, he reports.

Middleton conducted "A Study of Public School Teachers in Their First Year of Teaching" as his dissertation for his doctor of philosophy degree in education, conferred Wednesday evening at SU's Summer Commencement exercises.

Introduction
In the introduction to his study he notes that, out of all the June, 1954, graduates of Iowa colleges who were certified for teaching in the elementary schools, 73 per cent were two-year, rather than four-year degree graduates. And since he expects this situation to continue as an emergency measure until the teacher shortage is alleviated, he set out to discover what experiences and other qualities of the two-year graduates would have the most bearing upon their first year of teaching.

On the basis of his findings Middleton recommends more opportunities for practice teaching in those subjects and in those grades which the young teacher will be hired to teach. He also recommends a longer daily student-teaching period to provide for more outside-class relationships with children and with other members of the building staff.

Interpreting the News—

Harriman, Stevenson In Political Spotlight

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Four and five years ago the annual governors conferences were full of talk about Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower. This year it's Averell Harriman and Adlai Stevenson.

The search is for trends in the Democratic party. So far, the Republicans seem to be considering no possible alternative to a renomination of Eisenhower. Stevenson up to now has had the Democratic field mostly to himself, but suddenly Averell Harriman is moving up, and many of those in Chicago are considering him an actual candidate for the nomination.

Recognition of this situation has produced pressure by Harriman supporters for an early announcement by the 1952 candidate. He has wanted to take a few more months to see how things are working.

Harriman is still sticking to his public line that he's for Stevenson, but gives indications of wanting to be in on it if a horse race develops. Both Harriman and Stevenson know that, as of now, Eisenhower is the leading candidate for the presidency, and that opposing him may be a thankless task. Harriman seems particularly conscious of this. Both express the thought, however, that a properly handled Democratic campaign, based primarily on party differences over social philosophies, would have a chance of derailing the Republican.

The conference has served as the occasion to emphasize that the Democrats still have a party cleavage comparable to the Republican cleavage between the Eisenhower wing and the Old Guard. The States' Rights, considering Stevenson a representative of the majority which attacked them in the '52 convention on the loyalty oath issue, have stayed away from him.

This has led some of the governors to consider that, despite the great respect for Stevenson displayed by the public both in the last election and since, Harriman might represent a salve. His stretch-running strength in New York in 1954 also gives him standing as a vote-getter.

While Democratic congressional leaders have been priding themselves on their nonpartisan approach, especially in the international field, both Harriman and Stevenson have criticized Republican handling of foreign policy and think they can make something of it in the campaign. In the meantime, a much-interested Harriman keeps saying he's for Stevenson.

Labor Rulings Make Strikes More Difficult

Recent decisions of the National Labor Relations Board and the courts make it much more difficult for unions to strike, Walter L. Daykin, State University of Iowa professor of labor economics, points out in a recent issue of the Labor Law Journal.

In his article, "The Right to Strike," Daykin sees the rulings of the past two years as "a trend to interpret the Taft-Hartley law as an equalizer of bargaining relations rather than as a statute to protect unions." Thus the employer is privileged to use legal methods to lessen the effects of union weapons, he says.

For instance, he finds that the new NLRB has tended to emphasize the timing of the strike by the union. If a strike occurs at a time when it causes great financial loss to the company, it may be considered illegal.

"This would obviously weaken the effect of strikes because unions have for years been interested in striking at the most strategic time, generally at the peak of production," Daykin notes.

In the article, he calls attention to approximately 100 decisions pertaining to Taft-Hartley sections governing strikes and other work stoppages.

"As they have done in the past," Daykin concludes, "unions will attempt to devise techniques to negate any barriers that interfere with their attempt to elevate the status of employees in the American economy."

Text Of Resolution Approved By NPTL

WHEREAS, on July 4, 1776 our forefathers adopted the Declaration of Independence with the following opening paragraph: "When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the Powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation." Today the citizens of Iowa City are in somewhat of a similar position and a group of those citizens banded together in the interests of a better community speak out as taxpayers with their reasons for opposition to the present city-manager form of government.

In 1951 a small majority of those voting in a municipal election decided upon a drastic change in the historic mayor-council type of government which had been in existence in Iowa City since its inception as a municipal corporation. The form chosen was that of the present council-manager system whereby the entire administration of all municipal affairs was placed in the hands of one man.

After the election of a city council that group selected Peter Roan as the city manager. He had been employed as city manager in Mexico, Missouri. Apparently that Council did not make a sufficient check as to the background of Mr. Roan. Some of the later activities of Mr. Roan in this community have shown that to be true. In spite of this the City Council of Iowa City hired Mr. Roan and are now paying him in salary and expenses an amount which exceeds the compensation of the Governor of the Great State of Iowa. This is a community of about 25,000 persons where the total spending for the city prior to the beginning of the manager form of government did not exceed $900,000. The voters of this city had been led to believe that the drastic change in the form of government would result in more efficiency and less expense. Now after more than four long years of this government both of these contentions have been proven to be false. (We find that we have been unwilling victims to a long-train of abuses and usurpations which appear to be calculated to reduce the people to a frustrated condition under despotic or dictatorial rule.)

AND WHEREAS, the city manager and the city council have turned deaf ears to many meritorious suggestions and just complaints made by intelligent and liberty loving citizens and taxpayers of this fair city of ours which was once known as the "Athens of Iowa," and the city council has approved the wasteful spending and dictatorial actions of Peter Roan so that during the past four years they have become known as "Peter's Rubber Stamp Council."

AND WHEREAS, it appears that the city manager has recently hired in the engineer's office at a large salary a close relative of his contrary to the spirit and intent of the state law against nepotism and also has hired as a consulting engineer a man who is a Street Traffic Plan for Iowa City to be prepared at a very great expense to the city and has refused to follow out the most important recommendation of that survey, namely the relieving of the traffic bottle-neck at the west approach to the Burlington Street bridge and has instead created a further traffic bottle-neck by the widening of Burlington Street from Gilbert Street to Madison Street and by deliberately changing its appearance from one of natural beauty that once earned for Iowa City the title of the "Athens of Iowa" into a bare, naked, ugly and barren looking street, similar to trails generally found in some desert city of the arid southwest.

AND WHEREAS, money received through parking meters has been used for the purpose of buying off-street parking areas on which meters have been placed so that it now costs to park on city-owned parking lots contrary to the spirit of the law and also contrary to information given to the public at the time of those purchases.

AND WHEREAS, the present manager and Council are strong advocates of a luxurious new Municipal Government Building at an additional cost to the taxpayers of upwards of $700,000 without first attempting to make use of the present city hall for possible expansion purposes (as a matter of fact they haven't even had sufficient pride in their community to have the City Hall Tower Clock fixed and regulated since their entry into power.

AND WHEREAS, the city manager and the Council have failed and refused to take out adequate insurance on the city's late recreation center building even though many insurance agents and other citizens had urged that this be done for the protection of the city and even though the manager himself had publicly stated that a survey was being made as to insurance carried by the city on its buildings and property and as a result of such gross negligence the city of Iowa City and its overburdened tax payers have suffered a financial loss of more than $200,000.00 and its youth has suffered a terrific loss in recreational facilities.

AND WHEREAS, the city manager and the city council have turned deaf ears to many meritorious suggestions and just complaints made by intelligent and liberty loving citizens and taxpayers of this fair city of ours which was once known as the "Athens of Iowa," and the city council has approved the wasteful spending and dictatorial actions of Peter Roan so that during the past four years they have become known as "Peter's Rubber Stamp Council."

AND WHEREAS, it appears that the city manager has recently hired in the engineer's office at a large salary a close relative of his contrary to the spirit and intent of the state law against nepotism and also has hired as a consulting engineer a man who is a Street Traffic Plan for Iowa City to be prepared at a very great expense to the city and has refused to follow out the most important recommendation of that survey, namely the relieving vehicle laws of the State of Iowa.

AND WHEREAS, the present manager and present city council assumed office and gave wide publicity to their proposal to pick up all garbage and trash at least twice a week but in reality they are not picking up all garbage and trash and in fact are refusing to gather some items and in fact are making collections not more than once each week all of which is being done at greater cost than was ever true in prior years in so far as garbage collection is concerned.

AND WHEREAS, the present manager and council are continually trying to mislead the voters and taxpayers by claiming the present city manager type of government is reducing the tax mill levy and is saving the city from "25 to 35 per cent on certain purchases" when in reality the records in the office of the County Auditor show that they have increased the tax levy for city purposes from $356,895.11 for 1951 to $569,482 for 1955 and in the preparation of the budget for 1956 has again raised it to over $592,000 and have raised salaries and wages from $282,534.21 in 1950 to $454,181.55 without greatly benefiting the average employee but by benefiting mostly the high-bracket wage earner and when in reality they have reduced the amount spent for public improvements from $424,137.04 in 1950 to $130,785.71 in 1954.

AND WHEREAS, the present manager and council have created a multitude of new offices and positions, especially in the engineering department, at a great cost to the tax-payers and have also employed large numbers of employees to insert lane markers in the downtown area and in other areas such as College Street as far east as Summit Street at a cost of seven cents per individual marker and at a total cost in excess of $2,500.

BE IT RESOLVED that this group of free citizens and taxpayers organize for the purpose of halting and bringing about the termination of the Council-Manager form of government in Iowa City, Iowa, and particularly for terminating immediately or as soon as possible the tenure of Peter F. Roan as City Manager and for the additional purpose of having many of the more serious complaints fully investigated.

Adm. 'Bull' Halsey Recalls Pacific Battles

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—Fleet Adm. William F. Halsey sat back and recalled the titanic war that was ending in the Pacific 10 years ago.

The time they were down to their last three planes off Guadalcanal... The long night racing through strange waters, worrying that an uncharted island might hit them in the face at any moment... The decision to turn north off the Philippines... The smiling day they sailed into Tokyo Bay...

He remembered the best and the worst moments. He recalled with pride the men of his command, with sorrow the men who were lost, with confident equanimity the critics who belabored him for his action in the Battle of Leyte Gulf.

'Bull'
The man they called "Bull" Halsey, who once commanded the greatest single naval force in history, now makes his bridge behind a corporate desk in a Manhattan tower. He is board chairman of All-American Cables and Radio, Inc., and Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co.

At 72, the retired admiral is in good condition. His speech and opinions retain their old-time vigor. But he is partly deaf and his blue eyes are heavily magnified by the thick lenses of glasses worn since a cataract operation several years ago.

When he thinks of the war, what phase does he remember best?

'A Shoestring'
"Those early days in the South Pacific," he said. "We had nothing but a shoestring. We were told to hold on—and we held on all the way from Guadalcanal to Tokyo."

had a tremendous steamroller. I could do anything I pleased. But in those days I was scared to death all the time. The Japs had everything. They could have wiped us out."

In the Battle of Leyte Gulf, in 1944, which accompanied Gen. Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines, Halsey's 3rd was one of two fleets standing offshore in support of the invasion. Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's 7th Fleet was the force to the south. Halsey was to the north.

3 Directions
The Japanese fleet came in to attack from three directions—south, west and north. The central or western force turned out to be the strongest. After both U.S. fleets had done great damage to the southern and central Japanese forces, Halsey turned his units north to chase enemy carriers there.

It was this action which brought Halsey considerable criticism. His critics say he fell for the enemy bait, that he was lured into chasing a decoy fleet of carriers which actually carried few planes; that he endangered the whole Philippines invasion by leaving the San Bernardino Strait unprotected. Fortunately, the enemy failed to pursue his advantage. What's his answer?

"First of all," he said, "I still don't think that was a decoy force."

Wouldn't Turn Back
"Secondly, if I were given the same information today, I'd do exactly what I did. Except this time I wouldn't turn back. I'd have stayed up there and finished that gang."

could have bypassed the Palau, and I still think so. Also, if I were invading New Georgia again I wouldn't go on head-on the way we did in 1943. We used 75,000 men to drive out 10,000 Japs and we caught hell.

"And in the Leyte battle, I think it would have been better if either Kinkaid or I had been in over-all naval command. This would have been more efficient than the divided command we had."

Pet Snake Tame, Woman Tells Court

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Stella Ling told a suburban magistrate's court Wednesday her pet snake "Screwball" was so tame she rode in buses and subways with him coiled around her waist.

She was appearing against her neighbor, David Frampton, accused of "maliciously killing" the 4½-foot constrictor. Frampton testified he didn't have the slightest idea the snake was a pet of Mrs. Ling's. He said he killed the reptile with a stick after it reared and hissed at him in the garden.

"Case dismissed," said the magistrate, Mrs. S. G. Hawkey. "The bench feels there is a considerable doubt as to any malicious intent."

TOY STORE OPENS
DES MOINES (AP)—Toy World, Inc., of Des Moines, filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state's office Wednesday. The firm, capitalized at $10,000, plans to set up a toy sales store in Des Moines. It paid a fee of $28 for a permit to operate in Iowa.

Yanks Keep Pace; Beat Red Sox, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Andy Carey's single over Ted Williams' head in left field gave the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Wednesday in a 13-inning battle between Don Larsen and Frank Sullivan.

An error by shortstop Billy Klaus who fumbled Yogi Berra's grounder opened the door for the Yanks in the 13th. After Joe Collins sacrificed, Irv Noren was walked intentionally. Hank Bauer popped up to Sullivan but Carey hit a 1-0 pitch on a line over Williams' head to score Berra with the winning run.

The victory left the Yanks virtually tied with Chicago and a half game back of league leading Cleveland.

Boston scored two in the second inning when Grady Hatton singled with the bases loaded. The Yanks came back with two in the third, squeezing home one run on Gil McDougald's sacrifice bunt and picking up the other on Berra's single that scored winner Don Larsen from third.

Cubs Drop Doubleheader To Redlegs

CHICAGO (AP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs snapped a Chicago Cub six-game winning streak Wednesday, defeating the Bruins twice, 7-2 and 6-3, under a barrage of 26 hits.

The victories pulled the Redlegs up to two games of the fifth-place Cubs.

Don Gross, recent 24-year-old graduate from Nashville, was credited with his first major league win in the first game although Buster Freeman pitched the final three and two-thirds innings in relief. Between them they held the Cubs to six hits.

Art Fowler pitched the distance for his eighth win in the second game, yielding seven hits, Warren Hacker, first of three Chicago pitchers, was the loser of his 10th game against as many victories.

Ted Kluszewski smacked his 37th homer in the second game and Ernie Banks, Chicago shortstop, accounted for the first Cub run by blasting his 38th.

2 Former Hawkeyes Playing For Browns

John Hall
Former Hawkeye

CHICAGO (AP) — Two former Iowa football players may see action with the Cleveland Browns here Friday night when they meet the college all-stars in the 22d game of the colorful series.

Almost sure to see duty is guard Harold Bradley. Bradley played three seasons with Iowa ending with 1950 when he was elected co-captain of the squad. The other is John Hall, an end. Hall is in his first year with Cleveland and is reported showing up well in drills. He was a lineman on the 1954 Hawkeye squad.

The Browns are two-touchdown favorites to score a fifth straight pro triumph in the rivalry which has produced 13 victories for the play-for-pay forces against 6 collegiate verdicts and 2 ties.

Big Reach Gets Little Phil

LITTLE PHIL RIZZUTO didn't have to ask the umpire if he was out in the third inning at Yankee Stadium Wednesday—he knew it when Frank Sullivan, Boston Red Sox pitcher, tagged him roughly. Play came on Rizzuto's sacrifice bunt which moved Yankee runners up to second and third. Norm Zaichin, Red Sox first baseman, and Umpire Jim Honohick watch the play.

Dodgers Beat Giants In 7-Inning Game, 5-4

BROOKLYN (AP) — Gil Hodges rapped home three runs with a double and single Wednesday night as the Brooklyn Dodgers spotted the New York Giants two runs in the first inning, then went on to win 5-4 in a game called in the seventh inning by rain.

Hodges delivered a bases-loaded double for two runs and Junior Gilliam drove in another with a high-bouncing infield hit as the Dodgers passed the Giants with three runs in the first inning. Then two-out singles by Roy Campanella and Hodges made it 5-2 in the second.

The Giants got their two in the first without a hit as rookie Roger Craig loaded the bases on two walks and a hit batsman, and Hodges booted Don Mueller's grounder.

Craig also loaded the bases with two walks in the fifth after Wayne Terwilliger's single. Karl Spooner came on in relief and Hank Thompson clipped him for a two-run double that bounced over Hodges' head. Willie Mays, representing the tying run, was cut down at the plate by second baseman Don Zimmer's peg to Campanella.

U.S. Golfers Win Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — United States golf pros swept 6 of 8 matches from their foreign colleagues Wednesday to win the two-day international team matches 8½ total points to 3½.

The home-bred shooters scored 2½ points to 1½ in Tuesday's first round of alternate shot team competition. In Wednesday's windup of match-play singles, they piled up 6 points to 2.

Most lopsided victory was registered by 45-year-old Jimmy Demaret, who disposed of Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B.C., 5 and 4. He was three-under-par for the 14 holes required.

The most sensational finish was fashioned by Doug Ford, All-American and national PGA champion. He downed Roberto De Vicenzo of Mexico City 1-up with a 40-foot birdie 3 putt on the last green. Ford posted a 36-33-69, three under the standard.

Single game tickets are still available for the two remaining home games, Kansas State on Sept. 24, and Indiana on Oct. 8. Tickets are also available now for road games at UCLA Oct. 21, Michigan Oct. 29, Ohio State Nov. 12, and Notre Dame Nov. 19.

WHAT Square Dealing in Want Ads Means

To Advertisers:
That the same rates and conditions are available to all.
That no special concessions, inside deals or rebates are granted to any one.
That no advertiser enjoys any credit arrangements not available to all.
That no want ads are printed for some, while charging for others.
That no want ads are printed on a contingent, or "pay-if-you-get-results" basis.
That no want ads are printed as a result of high-pressure sales methods with implied guarantees of getting the jobs or renting rooms or apartments.
That no want ads are copied from other publications and inserted free without the knowledge of the advertiser for the purpose of padding out the want ad columns.

To Readers:
That the ad is genuine.
That it is a bona fide offer to buy, sell, or trade.
That the terms and descriptions in the ad are not designed to mislead.
That the want ad is an earnest effort on the part of the advertiser to do business on the terms stated.
That it is not bait to lure the reader to expose himself to sharp practices, trickery or fraud.
That it is authorized by and published with the consent of the person or firm used.
That it is not a free ad, made up and inserted without the knowledge of the advertiser, for the purpose of padding out the want ad columns.

Britain's Ambassador Lauds Ike's Peace Talk At Geneva

CHICAGO (AP)—Britain's ambassador told the nation's governors Wednesday night that President Eisenhower laid to rest at the Geneva Big Four conference "the ghost of the ideas that Americans are a pack of warmongers."

This, Sir Roger Makins said, was "the great American contribution" at the recent summit meeting.

The ambassador was guest and speaker at a formal state dinner of the governors.

Ike's Pledge
Shunting aside politics for official business at their annual conference Wednesday, the governors received from Eisenhower a renewed pledge of "whole hearted readiness to work with you" in solving massive highway and school problems.

Highways were the special concern of the governors Wednesday. A Democrat and a Republican spoke out for a special session of Congress to act on highway legislation it failed to shove through the regular session last year.

Like Eisenhower, but in a different way, Sir Roger mentioned a need of cooperation in his address.

'Take The Lead'
"You," he said, "can't take the lead in persuading and convincing the people of our communities, of your states, to have faith, understanding and patience while diplomacy, yours and ours, works upon the contentious issues, now that a more favorable political climate has given it its chance."

It is "an important advance," the ambassador said, if Soviet leaders are "coming to recognize that nuclear war cannot now be regarded as an instrument of national policy."

As the first official business of their 47th conference, the chief executives of the states went into a "square-table" discussion of the huge and growing highway problem.

Like Congress
Like Congress, they settled for the time being on no one method of financing. Some called for a compromise, some repeated the traditional demand of the states for the federal government to give up gasoline taxes and let them have this source of revenue for road construction.

Some sort of definite stand probably will come out of the conference in the form of a resolution Friday.

In a message to the governors, Eisenhower said such problems as highway construction and a school building program — Congress also failed to act on a school bill — are of "sharp concern" both to the states and the nation.

"These cannot be solved completely except in a partnership effort," the President said. "For the federal government, I renew my pledge of a wholehearted readiness to work with you in their solution."

Iowa Guard In Camp After 'Battle'

CAMP RIPLEY, Minn. (AP)—Bleary-eyed Iowa and Nebraska National Guardsmen of the 34th Infantry Division began trudging back to camp Wednesday after a two-day battle 14 miles north of here.

Nearly 6,000 men had spent a near sleepless 30 hours in maneuvers plagued by rain, fog, cold and "aggressor" raiders.

The camp area was all but deserted except for housekeeping and headquarters personnel as even the division brass ran the battle from the field in a blacked out command post exercise. The battle plan included a move by the entire command during the night.

Even the rear echelon was not spared from harassment. Raiders in "aggressor army" uniforms from the Iowa City reconnaissance company infiltrated the rear area at 3 a.m. Wednesday in a vain attempt to breach headquarters defenses.

The battle included mass movements by Iowa's 133d and 168th Infantry Regiments, flanking sweeps by Nebraska's 195th Tank Battalion, placing of nearly 300 miles of communication wire by the 2d Missouri signal company, helicopter evacuation of "wounded," bridge building and water purification by Nebraska's 128th engineers and the 5th field artillery battalions.

Guardsmen competing in division boxing and wrestling tournament finals were shuttled from the field to compete and back out to fight.

4-H Prize Winners

VIVIAN STOCKMAN, 15, R.R. 6, holds the grand champion ribbon that the judges awarded her prize litter of Chester White hogs. Miss Stockman raised the 10 hogs from piglets, fattening and greening them for her first exhibit of swine at the Johnson County 4-H fair. She has entered other livestock in the fair competition since 1951. She is the daughter of Frank A. Stockman.

Nancy Lord Shows Top 4-H Swine

Livestock judging got into full swing Wednesday at the Johnson County 4-H fairgrounds with grand champions being chosen in dairy, swine, sheep and rabbit divisions.

Judging started at 8 a.m. in the swine classes and ended at 5 p.m. when winners in the largest field of lambs ever shown in Johnson County were chosen.

Throughout the day there was activity in the senior girl's demonstration and 4-H boy's demonstrations and judging contests.

Swine Winner
During the evening all livestock and home furnishings displays were on exhibit.

Nancy Lord, 17, R.R. 6, exhibited the individual grand champion swine, a Chester White. Nancy is the daughter of Lewis Lord.

The grand champion litter was shown by Vivian Stockman, 15, R.R. 6. She won with 10 four month old Chester Whites.

Vivian has exhibited at the Johnson County fair for four years, placing two beef calves in the ribbon class.

This was the first year she exhibited swine, she said.

Sharon Boy Wins
The third classification — three uniform pigs exhibited as a group — was won by John Hughes, Sharon. Judges awarded him a grand championship for his three purebred Durocs.

The grand champion dairy cow was shown by Marilyn Warren, 15, R.R. 5. Her two year old Holstein, "Nancy," was bought for her by her father, Martin Warren, in April.

Miss Warren has had blue and red ribbons in previous exhibits of dairy calves.

Ronald Jennings exhibited the grand champion Guernsey calf.

Lamb Entry
A two year old Ayrshire owned by Kenneth Yoder was named grand champion in its class.

J. O. Neil was given a grand champion ribbon for his Jersey calf.

Earl Hoffman and John Brogan placed grand champion Brown Swiss and milking short-horn calves in the final dairy classifications.

Johnson County Extension Director H. J. Montgomery said the entries in the lamb judging outnumbered any previous year at the fair.

Triple Winner
Lloyd Colony, 18, R.R. 1, took top honors in three lamb judging divisions.

He got grand champion ribbons in the market lamb, purebred lamb and pen of three classes, and first and second in both the market lamb and purebred classes.

All of Colony's lambs were Shopshires.

He has been exhibiting lambs and beef and dairy cattle in the fair for six years, winning grand champion ribbons in the market lamb class in 1951. He has also won red and blue ribbons for baby beef and dairy cattle entries.

Judging today will be in purebred beef heifers, poultry and beef steers.

A livestock parade will be staged at 7:30 p.m.

M.A. Team

Husband, Wife Receive Their Degrees

A New York City husband and wife team received Masters Degrees in Education at the State University of Iowa graduation exercises Wednesday night.

Daniel and Rhoda Isaacson decided to go west for the M.A. required sooner in New York to teach than in other states.

"We chose Iowa because it was highly recommended," Rhoda said.

Finance
To finance their further education, Rhoda taught mornings at pre-school in Iowa City, and Dan worked as lab assistant in Hydraulics Laboratory.

Both took undergraduate work at Cornell College, Ithaca, N. Y.

Rhoda received a B.S. in home economics. She is a member of Pi Lambda Theta, honorary educational sorority.

Dan earned a B.M.E. in mechanical engineering. He is a member of two honorary fraternities, Pi Tau Sigma, engineering, and Phi Delta Kappa, education.

Home Economics
Rhoda will use her degree to teach home economics in New York, but Dan will resume his career in engineering.

"I thought it would be nice to have the degree, in case I ever needed it," he said.

Persons attending any of the six folkings during the year and summer should be familiar with Dan. He was the organizer and a guitarist.

Make City Friendlier, Lions Told

"A lot can be done as far as welcoming new people to the community," Cal Brackley, manager of the Hawkeye Bookstore, told the Lions Club Wednesday.

Brackley, who came to Iowa City in February, said it is a "very hard town to get acquainted in."

Since he has been in the city, he reported, no ministers have come to call on his family, and no businessmen have come into the store to welcome him to the city.

"I seemed to get the cold treatment," he said.

"I would change the system if I had the opportunity to do so," he added.

Brackley said that he did not want to give a false impression, but stated that the businessmen could do more to make people feel welcome in Iowa City.

This talk was the first in a series of talks by Iowa City businessmen. Each speaker will discuss the general topic of developing civic interest to make the city a better place to live.

Two Law Students Win Scholarships

Two State University of Iowa law juniors, Rex J. Ryden of Des Moines and Raymond A. Sloan Jr., of Sigourney, have been awarded scholarships for the coming school year by the Iowa Law School Alumni Foundation.

Announcement of the awards, which will be applied to this fall's tuition at the SUI College of Law, was made this week by Judge T. G. Garfield, Ames, supreme court justice and chairman of the foundation's board of trustees. The awards are made on the basis of scholastic attainment and need.

Both Ryden and Sloan hold bachelor of science degrees from the SUI College of Commerce, Ryden having graduated in 1952 and Sloan in 1950. Both served with the air force in the Far East after graduating in commerce and before entering law school.

Sloan is married and has two children; Ryden and his wife have one child.

The Iowa Law School Alumni Foundation was established by the SUI law class of 1952 in order to develop a closer relationship between the law college and its alumni.

In addition to Garfield, the board of trustees include Professors Frank R. Kennedy and John C. O'Byrne of the Iowa law faculty; David H. Foster, Cedar Rapids, and Kenneth Vander Leest, law senior from Ft. Madison and president of the Law Students Association for 1955-56.

Kent and 38 other children at the school are leaving this week for their summer vacation.

Praise Ourselves at Times, Hoover Says on Birthday

NEWBERG, Ore. (AP)—Herbert Hoover said Wednesday on his 81st birthday:

"We should lift our eyes upon the hills from whence cometh our help. We should occasionally mention something good about ourselves."

The former president, in an address prepared for delivery at the dedication of his boyhood home here as a national shrine, said, "during the last score of years our American way of life has been deluged with criticism."

"Altogether, if we look at the criticisms alone, we seem to be in a very, very bad way."

'High Standard'
But, Hoover continued, "we could point out that our American way of life has perfected the greatest productivity of any nation on earth; that our standard of living is the highest in the world..."

"In the government field we could suggest that our supposedly decadent people still rely upon the ballot and the legislative hall to settle their differences without a secret police with slave camps..."

"And we could suggest that we alone, of all nations, fought in two world wars and asked no indemnities, no acquisition of territory, no domination over other nations."

Influence of Marx
Hoover said he, himself, has joined in criticism of the American scene "because of my anxieties over mistaken policies and especially the influence of Karl Marx on our way of life."

Other criticism, he said, "comes from the fuzzy-minded totalitarian liberals who believe that our creeping collectivism can be adopted without destroying the safeguards of free men."

"It comes bitterly and daily from the Communists at home and abroad who would overthrow our American system. And it even comes from free nations whom we have tried to help."

'Need Family Doctors'
Hoover recalled that he was brought here some 70 years ago to live with his aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Minthorn, a physician and Quaker educator.

He told of Minthorn's experiences as a pioneer country doctor and said "America needs more family doctors" today.

This Pigeon Knew Just Where To Go

MILWAUKEE (AP)—This bird knew where to go for protection. A parakeet on the loose and pursued by an angry pigeon, sailed through an open window of Circuit Judge Ronald A. Drechsler's chambers in downtown Milwaukee Wednesday and perched on the shoulder of Deputy Sheriff Patrick Dickie.

The pigeon fled. The parakeet stayed. Dickie took the bird to the Humane Society.

The pigeon was seen in the lower covered area of the city. It was later captured by a man who took it to the Humane Society.
