Reds Agree To Talk On German Unity

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said Friday it "does not see any obstacle" to discussing German reunification and the return of war prisoners with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer during his visit to Moscow next month.

These discussions would be in addition to talks on the question of establishing diplomatic, trade and cultural relations between the Soviet Union and the West German republic. Adenauer had insisted all these questions are bound together.

A note delivered by the Soviet ambassador in Paris to the German ambassador in the French capital said the Soviet Union saw "no obstacle" to taking up the reunification and war prisoners issues. But the note's phrasing did not raise hopes much progress would be made.

Bonn Fears

In Bonn most West German political leaders expressed fears the most Adenauer can expect from his Moscow visit is establishment of diplomatic, trade and cultural relations and the prospect of losing prestige at home by failure to win ground on the other key points.

The text of Friday's note, read at a news conference in the Soviet Foreign Ministry, said in part:

"As for the question mentioned in the note of the German Federal Republic about the unity of the German nation the Soviet government does not doubt that the position of the Soviet Union on this problem is known to the government of the German Federal Republic."

'No Obstacle'

"The Soviet government, of course, does not see any obstacle against exchanging opinions on this question as well as on other international problems of interest to both parties."

Press Chief Leonid Ilyichev recalled to newsmen that the West German note of August 12 stated that Adenauer wanted to talk about "national unity of Germany and the question of setting free Germans still on Soviet territory."

Soviet Position

In its reference to the fact that the Soviet position on reunification is well known, there was an obvious inference that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's Geneva statement—that West Germany's membership in the Atlantic alliance continued to block reunification—still stands.

The Soviet note's reference to "other international problems of interest to both parties" was understood to cover the Russian leaders' assent to examine the war prisoners issue.

Grandpa Gives a Casting Lesson

(AP Wirephoto) PRESIDENT EISENHOWER allowed reporters and photographers to visit his vacation retreat Friday for the first time and gave his seven-year-old grandson, David, a casting lesson for their benefit. Under the President's tutelage, the boy made several casts into a well-stocked pond at the mountain ranch but refused to cooperate. He didn't get a fish, even though his grandfather said he did well.

Death Toll Rises To 56 In East's Worst Flood

Manager Named for Student Aid

Howard Moffitt, a veteran of 21 years' high school coaching and teaching, has been appointed manager of the Student Aid and Placement Bureau of the State University of Iowa, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Friday.

A native of Iowa City and an SUI alumnus and former athlete, Moffitt was named to succeed the late Robert L. Ballantyne, who died suddenly Aug. 1.

Moffitt, whose appointment was approved by the State Board of Regents, comes to SUI from Ft. Madison High School, where he has been director of high school guidance for the past year.

Prior to that time he spent eight years on the faculty of Iowa City High School as basketball coach and assistant football coach and teacher of physical education. He was director of athletics at City High from 1947 to 1954.

Moffitt has also taught in the Waukon, Vinton and East Waterloo schools. He received his bachelor of science degree in physical education from SUI in 1934 and his master's degree from Iowa in 1941.

While an undergraduate at Iowa, Moffitt won five major letters — two in football and three in basketball. He was captain of the 1933-34 Hawkeye cage team.

A graduate of Iowa City High School, Moffitt is married and the father of two children, a boy, 17, and a girl, 7. His father, Jess Moffitt, is associated with the H. L. Bailey Insurance Agency of Iowa City.

Rains Swell Torrents in 9-State Area

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The death toll in the East's worst floods in history rose to at least 56 Friday night as rampaging, muddy waters, fed by torrential rains, churned through nine states with property damage estimated at billions of dollars.

As swollen rivers and tributaries gushed over their banks in many sections, while receding in others, the governors of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Connecticut proclaimed a state of emergency.

'Major Disaster'

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut telegraphed President Eisenhower: "We are faced with a major disaster."

In New Jersey, southeastern New York and Rhode Island some towns were isolated.

The drenching summer storm, causing the heaviest rainfall ever recorded in some sections — as much as 11 inches in a 36-hour period—developed Thursday after Hurricane Diane spent its fury in the Carolinas.

The rains whipped across Virginia, where one drowned, and moved northward through Washington, and the states of Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York. Friday they blew destructively into New England.

Known Dead

The known dead:

- Pennsylvania 26—21 drowned, 3 traffic, 2 electrocuted.
- Massachusetts 10—7 drowned, 1 traffic, 2 electrocuted.
- Connecticut 16—15 drowned, 1 electrocuted.
- Virginia—1 drowned.
- Rhode Island—1 drowned.
- New York—1 drowned.
- New Jersey—1 drowned.

Twenty-five others were reported missing—20 in Pennsylvania, three in New Jersey and one each in Virginia and Connecticut.

Worst Storm Area

Stroudsburg, a popular resort town in Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountains 44 miles east of Scranton and 20 north of Easton, was one of the worst storm areas. For a long while it was isolated, encircled by swirling waters and without power or communication.

As skimpier service was restored, the full seriousness of the situation became known. But even those in the town itself were unable so far to determine the number of dead in the area. All they can say is that nine "definitely are dead" with "possibly 20 others" listed as missing.

Waterbury Hit

Waterbury, Conn., also suffered heavily from the flood waters. Mayor Richard C. Lee of New Haven said more than 15 lost their lives in Waterbury.

Gov. George M. Lederer of Pennsylvania flew to Stroudsburg in a National Guard airplane to make a first-hand survey of the stricken section as far south as Easton, where the boiling Delaware already was 15 feet above flood level—nearly 39 feet high — to break the flood stage record of 38.1 set in 1903. And the river was still rising at Easton.

In common with a number of other cities afflicted by the floods, Stroudsburg was deprived of pure drinking water. Similar conditions existed at Scranton, Pa.; Bristol, Conn.; Easthampton, Mass.

Red Cross

The Red Cross, which dispatched 20 disaster experts into the flooded areas, trucked water to hospitals.

Helicopters and other craft, operated by the Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard and National Guard units, sped into many sections of all the stricken states to rescue stranded persons.

Railroads, particularly in New England, were forced to curtail operations.

Roads by the hundreds were reported swamped, isolating small towns and villages. In three Pennsylvania counties alone, dozens of bridges, many of them major ones, were washed away. Dams yielded to the great weight of the waters.

Registration Of Students' Children Set

All pupils expecting to enroll in Iowa City elementary schools this fall, who are now or will be in married student housing, should register next Tuesday, David Stuart, elementary school coordinator, said Friday.

He stressed that these pupils should be registered whether or not they attended school in Iowa City last year.

Children of residents of Central, South and Stadium parks will register at Roosevelt school, 724 W. Benton St. All others register at Linsain school, corner of River and Lee streets.

Student couples arriving late in Iowa City should register as soon as possible at the specified schools.

Kindergarten registrants must be five years old on or before Nov. 15, 1955, and birth certificates must be submitted at the time of registration.

Further information may be obtained by calling 8-3687, the elementary schools office.

UN To Ask Reds Return U.S. Airmen

MUNSAN, Korea (Saturday AP) — Demands that the Communists turn over a U.S. Army captain and Air Force Lieutenant they shot down in an unarmed training plane will be made by the UN command at a full dress Military Armistice Commission meeting at 10 a.m. Sunday (8 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, today).

This strongly indicated belief that the two men still were alive although there has been no official announcement since the Wednesday incident.

An Air Force spokesman said he had heard a Peiping broadcast reporting the two men were alive. But radio press monitoring facilities in Tokyo did not hear such a report on any of Friday's Peiping casts.

The UN Command Friday night called for "an urgent meeting" of the Military Armistice Commission at Panmunjom. The Communists agreed.

In Washington the Pentagon identified the two men as Air Force 2nd Lt. Guy H. Bumpass Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Bumpass of Jackson, Miss., and Army Capt. Charles W. Brown whose wife, Agnes, lives at West Louisville, Ky.

Gallagher Sentenced To Life Imprisonment

NEW YORK (AP) — An Army court-martial Friday sentenced Sgt. James C. Gallagher to life imprisonment for killing two fellow American soldiers in a Chinese Communist prison camp in Korea.

The 23-year-old Brooklyn native, vowing his innocence, promptly said he would take the case to the Supreme Court if necessary.

A number of servicemen have been charged with prison camp crimes, but Gallagher is the first to be accused of taking the lives of comrades.

Deliberate 5 Hours

The eight-officer court deliberated almost five hours in convicting him of unpremeditated murder, equivalent to a second degree murder charge in a civilian court.

Then it took only 20 minutes to decide on the sentence — the maximum.

Gallagher was convicted of throwing two sick buddies out of a prison camp hut, because he did not want to hear their moans, and leaving them to die in sub-zero temperatures outside.

They were Cpl. John William Jones of Detroit, and Cpl. Donald Thomas Baxter of Waukon, Iowa.

Collaboration

The court also found Gallagher guilty of collaboration with the Chinese Reds, mistreating fellow prisoners, and informing on them "for the purpose of securing favorable treatment by his captors."

Col. Harmon Broyles, court president, announced Gallagher would be dishonorably discharged from the army and that he would forfeit all pay and allowances. Gallagher's basic pay as a sergeant was $191.10 a month.

Paled at Verdict

The tall defendant paled at the verdict and the sentence.

Later, Gallagher appeared before television cameras in a courtroom corridor.

"I would like to state," said Gallagher, "the members of the court studied the evidence conscientiously and came up with what they believed to be a good verdict."

"I have no hard feelings toward any of the men who appeared in this case. Some came in and told the truth — some didn't. Those men know who they are."

'Look at Parents'

"The only thing I can say," Gallagher continued, "is when they go home to look at their parents, let them remember what they did to my parents."

"I'd also like to ask some of these law-abiding citizens outside to stop annoying my family. My family is receiving phone calls and letters threatening them. I don't believe that is just."

The defendant's mother, Mrs. Mae Gallagher, seated nervously in the courtroom at Ft. Jay on Governors Island, wept after hearing the guilty verdict. Then she left the courtroom moments before the sentence was handed down.

Eligible for Parole

A first army legal spokesman said Gallagher would be eligible for parole after serving 10 years.

The sentence is subject to two automatic reviews, first by the first army commanding officer and then by a review board of the Judge Advocate General's Office in Washington.

Gallagher said he would appeal to the Supreme Court if he did not get satisfaction from the review agencies.

Lieutenant Acquitted of Collaboration

FT. LEWIS, Wash. (AP) — Lt. Jefferson D. Erwin was found innocent Friday of charges he collaborated with the enemy while a prisoner of war in Korea.

A nine-man trial board of superior officers freed the Blanchard, Okla., career soldier after two hours and 15 minutes of deliberation.

Erwin's attractive wife, Margaret, was in the court room when the president of the court announced the decision. She stepped to the front of the room and kissed her beaming husband.

Prosecution Charges

The prosecution demanded Erwin's dismissal from the service, asserting it had proved the government's charges that Erwin made pro-Communist statements in front of other American prisoners with design to promote disloyalty and disaffection.

Dismissal would preclude Erwin, a 38-year-old career soldier, from drawing retirement pay. He has 19 years service and will be eligible to retire in 10 months.

Iowa Citizen

The prosecution, headed by Lt. Col. Glen R. Bowen of Iowa City, Iowa, said Erwin made the pro-Communist statements in order to win favor with his captors and effect his early repatriation.

Erwin's counsel, Lt. Col. Leslie E. Dixon of Ft. Ord, Calif., said Erwin made the pro-Communist statements under duress, including threats of death.

The case went to the court after the law officer, Col. Walter O. Beets of Oklahoma City, spent 45 minutes giving instructions.

Wilson Asks Hardening of Fighting Men

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders went out Friday to harden American fighting men for the ordeals of combat and captivity.

Secretary of Defense Wilson directed the military services to make a start by posting the new code of military honor "prominently" in every unit, ship and post throughout the world.

In training men to cope with an enemy both as fighters and possible prisoners of war, Wilson said it is essential that they be taught the "basic truths and advantages of our democratic institutions and the fallacies of communism."

The new military code, holding to the loftiest ideals of courage but recognizing that every man has a breaking point in the tests and trials of war, was proclaimed by President Eisenhower Wednesday.

It was drafted by a group of experts who drew heavily on the lessons learned by military personnel captured by the Reds in the Korean War and forced to endure torture and brainwashing.

Rapid Development Of A-Power Seen

GENEVA (AP) — Sir John Cockcroft, Britain's atomic energy chief, said Friday night that development will be so rapid that the atomic power station of 1970 will make the present plants as out of date as a Model T Ford.

In an evening lecture, the British scientist also told the atoms-for-peace conference he has faith that the energy of the H-bomb eventually will be harnessed for peaceful uses.

Cockcroft said he could not predict when the fusion process of the H-bomb could be controlled.

Sound Foundation

Speaking of the immediate future of atomic power development, Cockcroft said the next 10 years will be devoted to laying a sound foundation for the production of nuclear power from which it can expand until it becomes "the major power source of the world."

He said it would be a mistake to expect the cost of nuclear power to be cheaper than coal during the next decade, but he added there was "good reason to believe that in the second decade the cost of nuclear power will fall below that of power from coal and oil."

Radiation Level

Speaking of the expected increase in the radiation level of the world in general, as a result of atomic development, he said investigations are already proceeding in Britain and the United States which should help decide what the maximum level should be.

The United States, Britain and France revealed hitherto secret details of the chemical processing of atomic fuels in the conference Friday, but no paper on the subject has been offered by representatives of the Soviet Union.

Lessons Fish Learn To Live To Old Age

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's "educated" fish are entering the throes of final examinations.

The fish — 70,000 brook and rainbow trout — were planted in trout lake sand streams last fall. Fingerlings then, they had just completed a course in how to live to a scaly old age.

Their instructors were three psychologists hired by the state conservation department.

Toward the end of the summer, these learned trout will be large enough to have an interest in man-made flies. But if the experiment proves successful, they will scorn such dangerous bait in favor of natural food.

Justin Leonard of the conservation department explains: "Fish reared in hatcheries develop conditioned reflexes. When a hatchery worker dumps food into the water, the fish sees its shadow and swims for it. Whenever something hits the surface of the water, they jump at it."

"We've tried to cure them of these habits with our experiments. This has been done by electrically shocking the fish when they jump for surface food or for shadows. They learned to feed instead from the bottom of the pools where food occurs in natural waters."

It's hoped, Dr. Leonard said, that by educating hatchery reared fish the catch will be distributed among more fishermen.

Emergency Proclaimed In Sudan

KHARTOUM, Sudan (AP) — Gov. General Sir Alexander Knox Helm proclaimed a state of emergency Friday night in three southern Sudan provinces to cope with a mutiny of Sudanese army troops.

At least one officer was reported killed in the uprising on the far upper Nile.

Helm was notified of the trouble while vacationing in Scotland.

He ordered his Khartoum office to proclaim the emergency in the Equatorial, Upper Nile and Bahr El Ghazal provinces because "events . . . constitute an imminent threat to public safety and the well being of the community . . ."

The Sudan people are preparing to decide whether they should merge with Egypt or become completely independent.

About 900 British troops and a Royal Air Force squadron are stationed in the Sudan. They are due to leave within the next three months. About 600 Egyptian troops are there.

The million-square-mile Sudan, governed for more than a half century by Britain with Egypt as a partner, now is in the process of getting rid of foreign rule. Some political turmoil has resulted.

Smith Given Mental Check

DES MOINES (AP) — James B. Smith, 23, confessed slayer of his grandmother, was examined Friday by Dr. Charles C. Graves, director of mental institutions for the State Board of Control.

Smith was brought from jail at Knoxville to Dr. Graves' office in the State Office Building by Loren Jarman and Elmer Nichols, Marion county deputy sheriffs.

The examination lasted about two hours. Dr. Graves said he would make his report on Smith's mental condition Monday to Marion County Attorney Bert Bandstra.

Bandstra said another examination of Smith is scheduled for Aug. 31 at the State Psychopathic Hospital, Iowa City.

Smith pleaded guilty Wednesday to slaying his grandmother, Mrs. Daisy Betterton, 67, of Attica. He had been released from Veterans Hospital at Knoxville June 15 after treatment for mental illness.

Five Killed in Train Wreck

MARKED TREE, Ark. (AP) — Four cars of a passenger train jumped the track Friday, bashing a day-coach against two boxcars parked on a siding and killing five persons.

A physician, the first on the scene, said four persons were killed instantly. Another died a few hours later in a Memphis hospital. Two were in critical condition.

Most of the dead and injured were riding the daycoach, fourth from the end. The thunderous impact peeled its steel side back in jagged pleats.

The train was the Kansas City-Florida Special of the Frisco Railroad. The pileup happened about half a mile outside this east Arkansas town (Pop. 3,000), some 40 miles northwest of Memphis, Tenn.

At least 21 passengers were hospitalized. A dozen were treated in an emergency hospital, set up in a Methodist church near the scene of the crash, for relatively minor injuries.

Only the last four cars of the 13-car train were involved. Several hours after the wreck, the undamaged portion of the special moved on to Memphis.

Homesick Boy, 15, Homeward Bound

DES MOINES (AP) — The homesick Canadian boy who walked into police headquarters Thursday and announced "I want to go home" was on his way Friday.

James Frank Smith, 15, of Old Castle, Ont., hitchhiked to Des Moines on his way "out west to see the cowboys."

Pollen Count

The pollen count, as reported Friday for the Iowa City area by the SUI Department of Preventive Medicine, was 14 grains per cubic yard of air. Fifty grains per cubic yard is usually considered the level above which most sufferers feel discomfort.

Summer Grades

Summer Session grades will be available Tuesday, Harvey Croy of the State University of Iowa registrar's office said Friday.

Students enrolled in engineering, pharmacy and nursing may pick up their grades Tuesday in the offices of their respective deans.

All other students may pick up their grades in Room 1, University Hall, from 8:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

Only Justice—

A court-martial Friday found Sergeant James C. Gallagher guilty of killing two fellow GIs in a Red Chinese prison camp and sentenced him to life imprisonment at hard labor.

Rigid though this penalty may seem, it is well deserved in light of the painstakingly prepared evidence presented by the prosecution. And it serves notice to citizens of the United States and the world that criminals — no matter what their circumstances — will be dealt with under the due process of our laws and courts.

There may be many who feel that leniency should be granted to those who, while prisoners, committed deeds because of the pressure of Communist interrogators or the fear of torture or mistreatment. We would agree with those who feel this way.

But in the case of Gallagher, the evidence points to the fact that the crimes he committed were of his own volition. He was not forced by his captors to cause the death of two fellow POW's in the wintry Korean compound. He was not forced to "rat" on his fellows — a despicable act under any circumstances.

There is a vast difference between the GI who signs a confession for his captors after long physical and mental strain and the GI who brutally murders other men only because "their moans bothered him."

For the former we have utmost sympathy and compassion. For the latter, only criminal justice is warranted.

Congressional Travel—

American congressmen have established some sort of record for globe-trotting junkets which have taken them to every continent in the world on good-will and investigative missions.

So it is not surprising to hear the proposal of Indiana Senator Homer Capehart Friday that there should be a law requiring all members of Congress to travel abroad each year.

In fact, he says that when Congress reconvenes he will introduce a special resolution seeking to establish the principle that regular foreign travel is the duty of every congressman.

Since the Second World War, this idea of Capehart's has had more and more merit. At that time the United States moved into a position of world prominence.

Attitudes and actions of our congressmen have world wide repercussions. U.S. foreign aid gave many nations the financial boost needed to enable them to get back their war-shattered industrial production. It has been a shot in the arm to economies which are now providing markets for U.S. goods.

Considering the impact of the United States on world affairs, it seems reasonable that every congressman should gain first hand knowledge of the trends in foreign countries.

The world has shrunk — it is the duty of our legislators to keep in close touch with all peoples, not just their constituents.

Hope for Release of Vaccine Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Welfare Department said Friday it hopes to release next week a report from the Public Health Service on its inquiry into Salk polio vaccine made by Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif.

The Public Health Service launched an investigation April 27 after six cases of polio had developed in persons inoculated with vaccine made by Cutter.

Use of the company's vaccine has been suspended since that date. This is the third successive week in which similar expressions of "hope" that the report would be made public.

"When released the report will speak for itself. Until it is released, the department, of course, can't comment on its content.

"It is hoped that the report will be made public some time next week."

There have been stories published in trade publications recently that the report was not expected to do much finger-pointing.

A legal problem as to what can properly be included in the document is reported to have held up its release.

This legal question arises from provisions in the 1905 Biologicals Control Act which were designed to protect trade secrets. These prohibit revelation by the health service of processes, operations and other data it discovers in controlling biologicals such as the Salk vaccine.

Boone 4-H Baby Beef Brings Record $7,114

BOONE (AP) — A record price for the 4-H livestock sale at the Boone County Fair was set Thursday by the Storz Brewing Co. of Omaha, which paid 76 cents a pound to Bill Snider, owner of the reserve grand champion baby beef.

The animal weighed 940 pounds and netted Snider $7,114.40. The Storz company turned the animal over to the Boone Junior Chamber of Commerce which will resell it at auction Aug. 27 to raise funds for the Thanksgiving and Christmas basket fund.

London Declares Smokeless Zone for Smog Prevention

For the first time in history London, widely known as the grimeiest, foggiest and most smoke-laden of all big cities, is taking up arms against its sea of troubles. From Oct. 2 the whole of its mile-square city area is to be declared a Smokeless Zone.

A Clean Air Bill was introduced into Parliament shortly before the recess on July 28. Based on the recommendations of a committee set up in 1953 to look into the problem, the Bill authorizes local authorities to act independently to control the smoke menace. It puts teeth in the regulation that smoke at its source must be prohibited.

Fuel Switchover

The principles of smoke control are well known. Nearly half of all the smoke in the air comes from domestic chimneys, and the switchover to smokeless solid fuels could be accomplished without too much difficulty merely by putting it on the market and insisting people use it in preference to soft coal.

Elimination of railway smoke — and London alone has at least 10 large rail terminals, plus a number of smaller ones, all of them pouring out clouds of evil-smelling black soot into the air — is rather more complex. The engines could be electrified, or switched to diesel, but the cost would be enormous.

Then there is industrial smoke, from such sources as iron and steel works, coke ovens and cement plants. A ready solution would be to burn smokeless solid fuel here, too, if there were a sufficient supply. But at present stocks are barely sufficient for the expected needs of householders. Other methods might be more efficient stoking or the use of special firebricks of a type developed during the war to prevent enemy detection of ships by the smoke from their funnels.

New Advice

But anyone in any doubt about how to proceed will be able to get free advice and information from the Smokeless Zone Advisory Center which has just been opened in the city.

The new plan should work well, for in two other big manufacturing towns — Manchester and Coventry — smokeless zones have been introduced with great success. The Manchester area, in fact, is about to be enlarged. Business men, particularly, have been greatly impressed by the rapidly clearing skies in those two grey cities.

Certainly the time is long overdue for something to be done about air pollution, which it is estimated costs the country some $840 million a year in damage and doctors' bills.

Historical Attempts

History records attempts to curb the smoke nuisance as long ago as 1306; and in 1616 John Evelyn, the diarist, wrote his famous "Fumigium; or the Smoake of London Dissipated." In this he deplored "with just indignation" the fact that "this Glorious and Ancient City should so wrap her stately head in Clouds of Smoake and Sulphur, so full of Stink and Darknesse."

But London has continued to wrap herself in stink and sulphur. Her magnificent public buildings, her countless thousands of trees, her Wreg-designed churches, her beautiful Regency terraces and squares, her docks and her slums have alike become covered with a dark indissoluble film — the soot and grime of centuries.

Health Menace

Smog — a new word — has entered the national vocabulary. It is recognized now not merely as a nuisance, but as an acute danger to health. When the poisonous fumes from industrial plants and the black smoke from countless chimneys mingle with the thick dense fogs that sweep in from the English Channel, the result wreaks havoc with British lungs.

It is largely because 4,000 people died in the disastrous smogs of the 1952-53 winter that the government set up its committee, and the resultant Clean Air Bill was introduced.

London can only win this new battle, she will find herself back, climatically speaking, in the glorious dawn of her history when the British had nothing to fear but an occasional healthy pea-souper.

Iowan Most Active In Toastmaster's

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 24th annual convention of Toastmasters International, now in session here, has turned up an Iowa man as its most enthusiastic member.

The man, Everett Gross, Decorah, Iowa, convention records show is an active member of two clubs.

Gross joined six years ago when a club was organized in Waukon, 20 miles from Decorah. Two years ago, Gross helped to form a club in Decorah. But he liked his Waukon associations so much he remained on the rolls of that club, too.

Each week, Gross drives to Waukon to attend the club meeting. Later in the week he meets with the Decorah club. So far, he has had a perfect attendance record with both clubs.

MISSOURI BIDDING

OMAHA (AP)—Tobin Quarries of Kansas City, Mo., was the apparent low bidder on repair and construction of Missouri River dikes in the vicinity of Whiting, Iowa. The Omaha District Engineer's office said the Tobin bid, lowest of seven was $543,007.85. The government estimate on the job was $531,215.63.

Old Capitol Remembers

One Year Ago Today

Italian Premier, Alcide de Gasperi, the anti-Communist battler who led Italy out of post war chaos, died of a heart attack in his native village of Silla Val Sugana.

State University of Iowa officials announced that dormitory space for the coming fall semester had been filled and that they "are bending every effort to avert what promises to be an acute housing shortage."

Congress passed and sent to the President a bill outlawing the Communist Party.

Five Years Ago Today

Some top ranking military officials expressed wonder about whether we were fighting only North Koreans or soldiers from other Communist countries in the Korean War—and how much longer could it be considered "just a Korean affair."

Seeking "missing links" in the Chambers-Hiss case, the House Un-American Activities Committee called a new witness, Leo Pressman, otheime New Deal government lawyer and a former CIO leader, whose name was suggested by Rep. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.).

Ten Years Ago Today

A sensational charge that Maj. Gen. Vidkun Quisling planned the Nazi invasion of Norway and received gold from Hitler for betraying his country marked the opening of the treason trial of the former puppet premier of Norway.

In one stroke the government wiped out 210 wartime controls on industry which had been damping up materials and the freedom of industry to turn out civilian goods.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that within 10 days he would dictate surrender articles in Japan.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Iowa City voters went to the polls to vote on a bond issue authorizing funds for a new high school to be built at the end of E. College St., a site purchased by the school board in 1930. The issue was defeated by a small margin.

Religious Television Marked By Sincerity

NEW YORK (AP) — "I feel most of these Sunday morning religious television programs are weak," the man said. "But it's a tough thing to say. People think you're attacking religion."

"Not if you're specific," the older man said. "Not if you say what you don't like and why — and what you do like and why."

The older man has been a Protestant clergyman for 45 years. Retired now, he sat before the TV set with the younger man for a couple of Sunday mornings. They found themselves in close accord.

Both were impressed by the television presence of the clergy of all faiths upon the screen — Catholic, Jewish and Protestant.

Without exception these men and sisters of the Catholic faith who appear on Sunday television are marked by a serenity and conviction that cannot be matched by the cleverest actors. After all, actors only speak lines written for them. But those who have devoted their lives to religion speak from the heart.

Examples of Strength An example of a strong, serene presence on television was the Rev. Robert E. Goodrich on The Pastor-Religion (CBS-TV). It was his task to help a man purge himself of bigotry toward Jews. The theme of tolerance is a great and important one; probably it's the theme most frequently expressed on TV religious programs.

"But Goodrich found himself stuck with a thin story and poor actors," the younger man said when the program ended.

Budget Problem? "Maybe there's a problem of budget there," said the retired clergyman. "And isn't it hard to develop any idea dramatically in only 15 minutes? Regardless, I agree with you that it really wasn't a story at all. It was only a situation. Everybody agreed in the end. It's a terrible thing to be a bigot. Which it certainly is."

"But the important thing is to explain WHY bigotry is bad. From the programs I've seen that is where TV misses the boat. It doesn't take advantage of the dramatic opportunity to show how bigotry — how sin — corrodes the human soul. When you show that a bigot cannot be happy, you give a man a good reason not to be a bigot."

Favorite Program The favorite religious program of both men was Look Up and Live on CBS-TV. It's drama workshop program, with excellent actors and intelligent cameras, in which a guest clergyman interprets some aspect of life that our grandparents thought far removed from "religion." It has taken up such matters as "the theology of jazz" and folk music of the Southern mountains.

YMCA Urged To Bridge Gap With Roman Catholic Church

PARIS (AP) — New efforts to bridge the historic gap between the Roman Catholic Church and the Young Men's Christian Association were urged at the YMCA's world conference.

The delicate question has long been a concern of the YMCA, which is deeply rooted in Protestantism.

Sir Frank Willis, general secretary of the British YMCA, told the 6,000 conference delegates "we seek Christian unity."

But he cautioned that, "the intricate and baffling problems confronting us in our work with Roman Catholics . . . call for the best of our feeling and the best of our thinking."

He said he was deeply convinced that "God is beckoning us . . . across the main confessional frontiers."

The world conference of YMCA young men, held in conjunction with the main YMCA sessions, recommended in a report issued Friday that the YMCA should "explore at all levels the possibility of achieving a more effective relationship between this body and the Roman Catholic Church. . . ."

In 1920, the Vatican discouraged Catholics from joining the YMCA although it did not forbid them from doing so. Several efforts by the YMCA to bring about more cordial relationships with the church have met with no success.

The YMCA claims that in some countries as many as 95 per cent of its membership is Roman Catholic. In the United States, a quarter of the nearly three and a half million YMCA members are Catholic, a YMCA spokesman said.

Rev. Yohr Named Convention Delegate

The Rev. Elmer Yohr of Iowa City, has been selected as a delegate to the general synodical convention of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, to be held in St. Paul, Minn.

The announcement was made Friday at the closing session of a three-day convention of the church's meeting at Alden.

Fall Meeting at SUI—

300 To Attend Pharmacology Conference

Some 300 scientists from all parts of the nation will convene at the State University of Iowa College of Medicine Sept. 4-8 for the annual fall meeting of the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics.

E. G. Gross, of the SUI Department of Pharmacology, is president of the national group.

Although their session is one of the country's major scientific conferences of the year, the pharmacologists expect to make few headlines with their discussions, for they are accustomed to receiving scant notice from anyone outside the field of medical science. Even their neighbors and friends in other professions often have little idea of what it is that pharmacologists do.

Confusing Name
And because of the similarity in sounds, pharmacologists are frequently confused with members of another group—the pharmacists.

Yet pharmacologists play a vital role in the story of medical progress. Their profession stands as a "filter" through which all new drugs today must pass before being placed on the market for the physician's use in treating the sick.

Thousands of new chemical compounds are produced each year in the research divisions of drug and chemical firms, in medical colleges across the nation, in the laboratories of individual scientists and in various government and privately endowed institutions. Many of them are produced by pharmacologists.

Time and Money

A large percentage of these new chemical formulas grow from research aimed at finding drugs to ease man's pain or to cure his ills. Vast amounts of money and time are expended in building the complex structures of atoms and molecules which arise from this crusade to lengthen man's life.

The mass production and distribution of a new drug does not begin immediately upon discovery.

The discoverers may know that in test tube situations the drug will function in a particular way. But they must also know what else it will do. Its beneficial effect upon a certain organ of the body or its curative effect upon a disease may be of little value to a patient if it is found to be dangerous because of side effects which it also produces.

Work With Animals

With their intensive training in physiology, anatomy, biochemistry and the other basic medical sciences, pharmacologists subject the new drug to exhaustive research on experimental animals.

By the time the drug is ready for use in the treatment of humans, the pharmacologists have built an extensive and valuable understanding of its effects upon the organs and tissues of numerous species of animals.

In this way, pharmacologists stand as guards for both the discoverers or manufacturers of the drug and the ailing persons for whom the drugs are hoped to have curative effects.

'Pure' Research

However, all research in pharmacology is not aimed at results which have immediate application. Many of the people in this profession, as in the other sciences, are involved in "pure" rather than "applied" research.

For example, some pharmacologists look for an understanding of the relationship between the chemical structure and the biological effects of all drugs. They would like to build what they envision as a "predictive science of drug design"—an understanding of drugs and chemicals which would be so complete that effects of a new chemical compound could be predicted on the basis of information already known about its components.

There are some 600 pharmacologists in the nation. Most of them are found on the faculties of medical schools, in large hospitals or medical centers, in government laboratories, in privately endowed research centers and in industrial laboratories.

More than 300 research projects now or recently under way in pharmacological laboratories will be described in sessions of the September meeting at SUI.

City Clerk Is Appointed

State University of Iowa graduate Kenneth F. Millsap, 37, has been hired to work in the Iowa City office of the city clerk.

He will fill the vacancy made by the resignation of the present city clerk, Robert E. Meyer, who is leaving Aug. 31. Millsap will serve as acting city clerk until a successor is appointed by the city council.

Meyer, who has been city clerk since February, 1954, has resigned to take a job with the city government at LaGrange, Ill.

Floods Ravage Eastern Towns

RAIL AND HIGHWAY TRAVEL are snarled as Delaware River flooded the area around Port Jervis, N.Y., Friday. The river, moving at a terrific speed, ate into banks along the stream and toppled buildings into the turbulent waters.

ONE AUTOMOBILE is left suspended from a tree and another lies overturned beside a flood-dismantled small building as waters of the Broadheads Creek began to subside a little near Stroudsburg, Pa., Friday. Cars were washed from the highway where they had been abandoned when flood waters tore out a bridge connecting the town with East Stroudsburg during Thursday night's storm.

Audio-Visual Conference At Okoboji

How can our schools be assured of having teachers who are adequately prepared to use a wide variety of teaching and learning resources? What can be done to correlate audio-visual materials with textbooks? How can adequate facilities for improving instruction be provided in new school buildings?

These and many other questions will be discussed by nearly 40 educators from 20 states when they meet Sunday through Wednesday at the Iowa Lakeside Laboratory for an audio-visual leadership conference. The laboratory is located on Lake Okoboji.

Iowans Invited

Iowans invited to attend the conference by the National Education Association's department of audio-visual instruction include Dean Bruce E. Mahan, Lee W. Cochran, John R. Hedges and J. Patrick Kelly of the State University of Iowa, Waldemar Gjerde of Iowa State Teachers College, Herold Kooser of Iowa State College, Paul Imbrock of Drake University, and Clifton F. Schropp of the Des Moines Public Schools.

Each participant in the invitational conference was required to submit a question for discussion by the group, according to Cochran, who is chairman of the conference.

Long Range Plans

It is hoped that next week's discussions will result in long-range plans for the improvement of instruction and the launching of some specialized studies in audio-visual education, Cochran says.

One question seems destined for almost certain discussion by the audio-visual educators: should audio-visual education be eliminated?

The conferees who posed this question asked if perhaps audio-visual education has outlived its usefulness as a specialty, and whether its materials and methods should perhaps be absorbed into the broader framework of educational curriculum and supervision.

Rioting Prison Inmates Charged with Arson

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Sixteen inmates involved in Tuesday night's fire and riot at the Nebraska penitentiary were charged with arson Friday.

Two of the 16 were also charged with assault with intent to do bodily injury. In another aftermath of Tuesday night's outbreak Gov. Victor Anderson Friday listed improvements he believes are needed at the penitentiary.

He previously urged a new maximum security building to replace the one which has long been a cause of discontent among prisoners. The present building was the scene of last March's rebellion in which two guards were held as hostages by eight rebels for 3½ days.

The governor's suggestions include: making water available to every building; making numerous revisions in the electrical system to be used in case of power shortage; inside towers to protect buildings which could be fired; use of a split system of feeding so that fewer inmates will be in the dining room at any one time.

Gov. Anderson said following a conference with the board of control the need for a new maximum security building "is very great," and that "we should try to get it built as soon as possible."

Another development Friday was the statement of Reformatory Superintendent George Morris that there should be a full scale investigation of the administration of the state penitentiary.

Crowds Wait At Balmoral

BALMORAL, Scotland (AP)—Princess Margaret frolicked with two pet dogs on the lawns of Balmoral Castle Friday while the world wondered whether her 25th birthday Sunday may bring news of her betrothal.

Outside the castle gates camped a crowd of newsmen and radio and television commentators waiting for Sunday—when Margaret will be of age to wed without consent of her sister, Queen Elizabeth II.

Mass circulation British newspapers have predicted that Margaret will marry Peter Townsend, 40, handsome Battle of Britain pilot and divorced father of two children.

But Queen Elizabeth—as titular head of the Church of England, which frowns on divorce—would find it difficult to give her approval to such a marriage. That's what makes Sunday so important.

Group Capt. Townsend, on leave from his post as air attaché at Brussels, stayed discreetly out of Britain. He is to ride in a series of gentlemen's horse races on the Continent.

Next month his schedule brings him home, officially for the royal air show at Farnborough and—since his Brussels assignment is near its end—perhaps to stay.

Authorities Book Carpenter On Murder, Assault Charges

CHICAGO (AP)—Lawmen who captured cop killer Richard Carpenter alive began Friday a move that may send him to death in the electric chair.

They booked the 26-year-old desperado on charges of murder and assault to kill. State's Atty. John Gutknecht asserted "the state's demand will fit the crime"—indicating he will seek the death penalty.

Caught Thursday

Carpenter, who slew Detective William Murphy in a pistol duel Monday night and wounded Policeman Clarence Kerr in a gun battle Wednesday night, was trapped Thursday night in an apartment building on the Northwest Side.

The prisoner, who was shot in the right thigh by Officer Kerr and injured slightly in a scuffle with his captors, still was clad in hospital garb Friday. Part of his forehead was bandaged.

He seemed calm and subdued while he gave a verbal statement to Asst. State's Atty. Frank Whalen. He told how Murphy, hunting him for a string of robberies, overtook him Monday night on a subway train.

Pistol Duel

The detective escorted him off the train at the Roosevelt road station. The pistol duel took place there. Carpenter fled, and touched off one of the most intensive hunts in Chicago's history.

"I slept in movies," Carpenter related. "I spent most of my time in them."

He was in the Biltmore Theater Wednesday night when Policeman Kerr happened upon him. The second gun fight ensued.

The fugitive ran to the nearby apartment of Leonard Powell and his wife and two young children. He compelled the family to keep silence for 23 hours.

Let Family Go

But Carpenter, to avoid arousing the suspicions of neighbors, let members of the family go out Thursday night, and Powell called the police.

Under a convoy of three dozen policemen, Carpenter was taken to the Criminal Courts building Friday. His handcuffs were removed in Whalen's office and he read the 15-page statement he had made earlier.

Carpenter raised numerous objections, and finally refused to sign the statement.

Groundwork

Then, apparently trying to lay a groundwork for a defense, he said:

"When Murphy took me from the train, I felt sure he was going to kill me. You know, Murphy shot first. It was the same with Clarence Kerr."

He complained, too, about being "lonesome all my life."

Carpenter made a brief appearance before Judge Joseph F. Geary in Felony Court. He was held to the grand jury under $100,000 bond on the assault charge.

No Bail

No bail is permitted in murder cases, and his hearing on that charge was continued to Aug. 23.

"I don't know what to say," Carpenter told the judge. "I'm not familiar with the procedure."

The Cook County Grand Jury is in recess until Aug. 31. State's Atty. Gutknecht plans to ask for indictments on that date.

Carpenter's .38 caliber revolver was retrieved from a stove pipe in the Powell flat. Police said the weapon was taken from an off-duty policeman April 1 during a North Side tavern robbery.

Trenton O. McPherson, Des Moines, was sentenced to 10 days in county jail Friday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication. The sentence was suspended on condition the defendant leave the city.

EMPLOYEES STRIKE
EAST MOLINE, Ill. (AP)—About 600 employees of the International Harvester Works here walked off the job at noon Friday in advance of a strike called for next Tuesday by the CIO United Auto Workers Union. Company spokesmen termed the walkout an "apparent demonstration strike" since negotiations between the firm and the union are still underway.

Former Cabinet Member Blasts 'Ridiculous Outcry'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former Democratic Cabinet officer denounced Friday what he called a "ridiculous outcry" against businessmen working in government for free while drawing regular salaries from private corporations.

Charles Sawyer described Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks' Business Advisory Council as a group of "wonderful people" performing "an unselfish and patriotic service."

Sawyer, who served as secretary of commerce under President Truman, thus lined himself alongside his Republican successor in a defense of government activities of the WOCs. The abbreviation stands for "without compensation" and refers to men who take unpaid federal advisory posts without giving up their private compensation.

Sawyer voiced his views in a telephone interview from his private law offices in Cincinnati in the midst of the controversy between Weeks and Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), of a House Judiciary Subcommittee.

Celler recently recessed subcommittee hearings until fall with a threat to subpoena "a whole slew of BAC people" following the refusal of Weeks to surrender BAC files.

Weeks described recent criticism of businessmen in government as an apparent attack "on the free enterprise system" by "people who don't believe in what this administration believes in."

Celler retorted by calling Weeks' remarks "palpable nonsense."

Celler said one aim of his investigation into the BAC files is to determine whether its members unduly influence govern-

Yanks Maintain Lead, 8-0; Ford Gives Orioles 2 Hits

NEW YORK (AP) — Southpaw Whitey Ford, fighting his own wildness, allowed Baltimore just two hits in an 8-0 New York victory Friday night as the Yankees maintained their American League lead.

Ford picked up his 14th victory of the season while walking seven batters and handing the Orioles their 20th shutout of the season.

The Yanks put the game away in the first inning, clipping right hander Jim Wilson for two home runs and nearly smashing three in succession.

Gil McDougald started the Bombers' attack by slicing his ninth homer into the right field seats; Yogi Berra powered a ball to the same general area, but the Orioles' Dave Philley made a leaping snare of the drive. Then Mickey Mantle stepped up and smashed his 31st home run off the third deck.

Indians Beat Athletics, 2-1

CLEVELAND (AP)—Saved again by the sensational relief pitching of Don Mossi and Ray Narleski, the Cleveland Indians beat the Kansas City Athletics 2-1 Friday night on 11th inning singles by Hal Naragon, Ralph Kiner and Dale Mitchell.

Mossi and Narleski pulled the Indians out of deep trouble in the 10th with flawless pitching performances.

With the score tied 1-1, Enos Slaughter opened the 10th with a double off Indian starter Mike Garcia. Elmer Valo followed with an infield single. Slaughter took third on a wild throw.

Mossi came in and struck out ex-Indian Harry Simpson.

Narleski came in and fanned Hector Lopez and got Jim Finigan to end the inning by grounding into a forecourt.

CALGARY SIGNS ENGELS

CALGARY (AP)—The Calgary Stampede has signed Quarterback Don Engels, formerly of the University of Illinois who has been attending Baltimore Colts training camp. Engel is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 195 pounds.

Injury Ends Conley's Season

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves' drive to stake down second place in the National League sputtered anew Friday with the news that lean Gene Conley will be out for the remainder of the season with a serious shoulder injury.

The verdict on the 6-8, 225-pound righthander—who had been counted on for 20 wins—followed by 19 days the loss of first baseman Joe Adcock due to a fractured arm. Conley had won 11 and lost 7.

Dr. Bruce Brewer, a medical specialist who examined Conley Friday, said the towering hurler had suffered an injury to the ligaments that hold together the bones of the right shoulder.

Conley, 24, started his last game at Chicago last Saturday, lasting 3 2/3 innings and being touched for five hits. Bob Buhl won the game in relief. A day or so later Conley said his shoulder was bothering him and it was decided to take X-rays Friday.

Cards Buy Schoolboy Star

Pierce Stops Tigers, 3-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Pierce shutout the Detroit Tigers 3-0 Friday night before a sweltering crowd of 36,473 to keep the second-place Chicago White Sox in the thick of the American League pennant race.

The little lefthander, backed by Walt Dropp's two-run homer, put the Tigers down on six hits and allowed only one runner to reach third base. It was his 10th victory against 8 losses.

Detroit starter Steve Gromek took his eighth loss against 11 victories. He was sailing along until the fourth inning, when Jim Rivera opened up with a single and Dropp knocked out his 16th homer.

The Sox picked up their third run in the sixth on singles by Rivera and Dropp and Bob Kennedy's double.

Yanks Consider Offer By Japanese For Tour

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees have been invited to make a good will trip to Japan, similar to that taken by the Giants two years ago, and there's a good chance they will accept.

No final decision has been made and until one is reached the club can make no statement, a Yankee spokesman explained.

19-Year-Old Inks Pact For 'Around $40,000'

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals Friday signed Lyndall McDaniel, 19-year-old righthanded pitcher from Hollis, Okla., as a bonus player at a figure believed to be around $40,000.

The Cardinal front office declined to give the exact figure but admitted it was more than the club paid Dick Schofield, the infielder from Springfield, Ill. Schofield was signed two years ago for around $35,000.

McDaniel, a 6-foot 3-inch strikeout artist, hurled four years high school ball at Hollis and he was an American League junior player in 1951-52 with the Altus, Okla., state championship team. In those two seasons he won 31 and lost only three.

McDaniel, now a freshman at the University of Oklahoma, will not be eligible to report to the Cardinals until Sept. 1 as there will be no room on the Redbird roster until then. Schofield, who saw most of his baseball with the Redbirds from the bench, was farmed out to Omaha of the American Association this summer.

Manager Harry (The Hat) Walker of the Cardinals said McDaniel in the last month of the season would get a chance to orient himself to big league baseball by seeing service "a few innings at a time."

Roberts Wins 20th; Beats Dodgers, 3-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robin Roberts became the first 20-game winner in the majors Friday night — reaching the magic mark for the sixth straight year — by besting Brooklyn's big Don Newcombe for the second time in six days as Philadelphia scored two times in the ninth to beat the Dodgers 3-2.

It was Newcombe's error that allowed the tying run to score in the final frame, leaving runners on third and first. Willie Jones then followed with a single to left that knocked the Dodger ace to his third straight defeat, and fourth of the season, after winning 18.

Newcombe had limited the Phils to two hits and had retired 15 men in order before the eighth. Granny Hamner clipped him for a two-out single in the first inning and Andy Seminick smacked him for a leadoff double in the third before Newk tightened the clamps.

Roberts, meanwhile, was tagged for a base knock in every inning until the sixth — only one of two frames in which he leveled the Brooks in order.

The Phils had Newcombe leaning in the eighth. Eddie Waitkus, Jim Greengrass and Seminick singled in succession to score Philadelphia's first run before Newk got anybody out.

Roberts became the fifth pitcher to win 20 games in six consecutive years. The others are Lefty Grove, Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson and Mordecai Brown.

Boston Wins Shutout, 8-0

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Sullivan held Washington to six hits Friday night to register his 15th win as Boston mauled three pitchers for 13 hits and an 8-0 victory over the Senators.

Sammy White crashed his eighth homer in the sixth inning to snap a scoreless pitching duel between Sullivan and Bob Porterfield, the loser.

The Red Sox chased Porterfield with a four-run outburst in the seventh inning and added three runs off Dean Stone in the eighth.

Porterfield faded rapidly after White's blast into the left-field bleachers. Roy Sievers made a well-crashing catch off Jim Piersall to end the sixth inning, but Sullivan and Billy Goodman singled to start the seventh.

U.S., Aussie Teams Quit Tennis Meet

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — American and Australian Davis Cup representatives Friday dealt a major blow to the rain-drenched 75th National Doubles Tennis Tournament by withdrawing after Longwood officials announced further postponement of the event.

U.S. Davis Cup Capt. Billy Talbert pulled out the defending champions Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas—first seeded domestic entry—plus Ham Richardson and Gil Shea which spelled the end of two more teams.

Australians Rex Hartwig and Neale Frasse, the top foreign seeds who were unable to contact Capt. Harry Hopman by phone immediately toyed with Italian Giuseppe Merlo and Dick Gaines of Edgartown, Mass. — then defaulted at match point.

The announcement by Talbert and the action by the Aussies followed a statement from Tournament Chairman Lytton Dowson that play from the round of 16 on in the men's division as well as all remaining women's matches would be held up until the inundated courts had dried out completely.

Braves' Burdette Blanks Cubs, 7-0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves shut out the Chicago Cubs 7-0 on six hits Friday night before a near capacity crowd of 41,569. Del Crandall and Henry Aaron led the Braves' attack with two-run homers.

The victory enabled the Braves to whittle Brooklyn's first place margin to 13 games as the Dodgers dropped a 3-2 decision to Philadelphia.

Burdette was in real trouble only in the eighth when the Cubs loaded the bases with two outs on a single and two errors.
