Silver Denies Heiress Knew Schwartzes

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Herman R. Silver, father of Mrs. Doris Jean Silver Oestreicher, told the district attorney Thursday that as far as he knew none of his family was acquainted with the people in whose apartment his attractive daughter died Aug. 24.

Breaking silence for the first time since the strange death of his 22-year-old daughter nine days ago, Silver visited with Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash, and pledged his cooperation in unraveling the mystery surrounding Mrs. Oestreicher's sudden death.

Earlier Thursday, Dash had announced that Mrs. Oestreicher, food chain heiress and Philadelphia socialite, died as a result of an illegal operation.

'Unable To Tell'
"We are unable to tell at this time whether it was a criminal abortion," Dash said.

A veil of official secrecy had shrouded the probe of the death of the 22-year-old socialite who died suddenly Aug. 24. She was expecting a child, Dash said.

She made headlines two months ago when she eloped to Georgia with a Miami motorcycle cop.

Less than six weeks later she returned alone to her parents' home in suburban Melrose Park.

Shatters Story
Dash disclosed the interview with Silver, vice-president of Food Fair, Inc., one of the largest grocery chains on the Eastern seaboard.

The district attorney said Silver had shattered an important point in the story told by principals in the case, that Mr. and Mrs. Milton Schwartz, in whose apartment Mrs. Oestreicher died, were long-time friends of the family.

Investigators said this punched a hole in the story told by the girl's mother that she and her daughter were paying a friendly visit to the Schwartzes to bring them reading matter.

Father Didn't Know
Dash said Silver told him he did not know of his daughter's alleged pregnancy or anything about the alleged operation.

The district attorney quoted the father as saying he didn't even know that his wife and daughter went to the Schwartz apartment.

Dash also announced that an attorney for the Schwartzes visited with him Thursday and said the couple would testify at Friday's inquest and tell all they know.

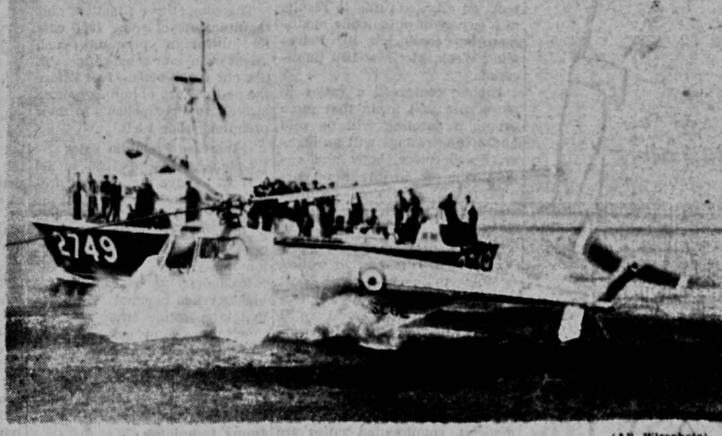

Schwartz, a bartender, and his wife, a beautician, were questioned for three hours Thursday by police.

The district attorney also said he had been informed by an attorney for Mrs. Silver that the mother was in a state of shock and would not be available for the inquest.

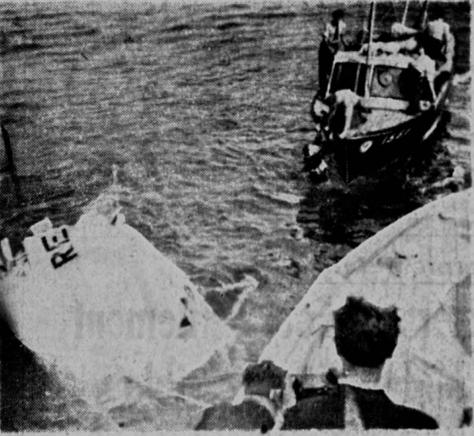

Silver came to City Hall to see Dash upon the advice of his attorney that it would be best for him to tell his story. Later, dodging newsmen, he hurried home.

In his statement Dash said: "The complete autopsy findings now confirm beyond a doubt that Mrs. Oestreicher died of an unnatural death because of the operation."

Would-Be Rescuers Rescued

A ROYAL AIR FORCE helicopter participating in an air-sea rescue demonstration crashes in the English Channel off Sussex Tuesday near the launch from which it was to remove a "stretcher case."

PILOT AND NAVIGATOR are plucked from the water and taken aboard the launch. Squadron Leader Paul Bowry is lifted aboard as Flight Sergeant Grant Scroggins paddles toward aid. Aircraft is shown just before it sank, three minutes after the crash.

Ike Calls '56 Strategy Conference

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday booked a high-level political strategy powwow for Sept. 10 to chart the 1956 campaign wars — and thereby touched off fresh speculation about whether he will seek re-election.

The summer White House announcement that he will hold a breakfast conference here then with the 48 Republican state chairmen seemed to be at least a pretty clear indication the President plans an active role in the campaign whether he runs or not.

But as for the answer to that red hot will-he-run question, Eisenhower continued to keep his own counsel.

At any rate, it is probably a safe wager that the state chairmen at the Sept. 10 session will make a strong appeal to the President to go for a second term.

Arriving here along with them will be Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, who for months has been predicting that Eisenhower will run again.

The Denver conference will be preceded by a two-day meeting of the state chairmen in Washington. The National Committee said in Washington that the state chairmen or their state party organizations will pay their expenses to attend a work shop meeting starting Sept. 7.

In discussing plans for the meeting White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen Thursday the conferences have been arranged:

1. To improve party campaign techniques — get-out-the-vote doorbell ringing missions, use of television and radio time, and so forth.

2. To stimulate party organizational activity.

3. To broaden and expand present activity with a view of whipping up 1956 enthusiasm on the part of party workers.

Juan D. Peron
Police Powers

New Drive To Destroy His Enemies

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Congress Thursday night gave President Juan D. Peron dictatorial police powers to carry on his new campaign to "annihilate and crush" his enemies.

It declared a state of seige in Buenos Aires within hours after Peron demanded the emergency powers as part of his get-tough policy.

The all-Peronista Senate acclaimed the seige bill into law, after the House of Deputies rammed it through a rowdy two-hour session by a vote of 109-12.

The speedy congressional action clamped police powers on an area embracing more than three million of Argentina's 19 million citizens.

Angel Enrique Peralta, who represents the powerful pro-Peron General Confederation of Labor in the House of Deputies, said the state of seige "will last as long as necessary — until we eliminate the last danger spot of trouble-makers."

Extraordinary Powers
A state of seige would give Peron forces extraordinary powers such as arrest and punishment of alleged troublemakers on the spot.

Peron said he needed the powers to deal more effectively with his political enemies. He spelled out these powers to a wildly cheering throng in the Plaza de Mayo Wednesday night when he withdrew an earlier offer to resign.

He told his well-organized followers to "annihilate and crush" the enemy, and added:

"We have to answer violence with greater violence . . . When one of our people falls, five of them will fall . . . From now on . . . who in any place tries to disturb order . . . contrary to the law of the constitution may be slain by any Argentine."

Seige Bill
The seige bill was introduced in the House by Peronista floor leader Oscar Bidegain. Bidegain told the House:

"A nucleus of oligarchs in the federal capital is directing permanent attacks against the people and the authorities with terrorism, revolution and crime."

Peron clamped a state of seige on the entire country for 13 days after the unsuccessful June 16 revolt. Argentina has been under a state of internal war since September 1951, when a band of military men staged another unsuccessful revolt to oust Peron.

Constitutional guarantees have been suspended since then and Peron has wielded special powers. But a state of seige will give him even greater powers.

Deputies Debate
The Chamber of Deputies debate on Peron's call for a state of seige opened with an uproar from the opposition, but Peronistas drowned the uproar with an even greater tumult.

Santiago Carlos Fassi, Radical party deputy for the federal capital, shouted that Peron's speech in the Plaza de Mayo last night was designed to "incite to crime and destruction."

Peronistas jumped to their feet and drowned out the rest of Fassi's remarks with a chorus of cheers, "Peron, Peron, Peron!" Fassi was unable to continue.

Bidegain told the House it would not be necessary to apply the state of seige to areas outside the capital city because "the rest of the country lives in peace."

As he spoke, reports of sporadic violence outside Buenos Aires continued to pour into the capital. The capital itself appeared tranquil.

Riots have been erupting throughout Argentina for several weeks, part of Peron's running fight with student organizations and supporters of the Roman Catholic Church.

Chrysler Joins 'Big 3' With Layoff Pay Plan

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corporation Thursday agreed to a layoff pay plan for its 139,000 employees, completing establishment of the pattern for a three-year term in the industry's "Big Three," builders of 95 per cent of the nation's automobiles.

General Motors Corporation and the Ford Motor Company signed similar contracts in June. Before the new agreements the three paid an average of about $2.10 hourly.

Besides the layoff pay plan and wage increases ranging up to 38 cents an hour, the latter for highly skilled workers, the Chrysler agreement gives the CIO Auto Workers a union shop.

The union got a similar concession from GM this year. Ford has operated as a union shop since its first UAW contract.

The Chrysler-UAW pact snuffed out strikes in six states which started six hours earlier, but which affected relatively few workers. The company's Chrysler, Desoto, Dodge and Plymouth divisions are down for model changeovers. Picketing started at midnight. The agreement came at 6 a.m.

A strike could have affected future new model introduction.

The new UAW-Chrysler agreement eliminates wage differentials between Detroit plants and those elsewhere. Chrysler has plants in Indiana, California, Delaware, Kansas and Georgia as well as Michigan.

Elimination of differentials will result, Chrysler said in special increases ranging from 4 to 9 cents hourly for more than 16,000 employees. The company said it believed it was the first in the industry to equalize wage rates on a national scale.

Like the Ford and GM layoff-pay plan, Chrysler's will guarantee laid-off workers 60 to 65 per cent of regular take-home pay for up to 26 weeks of idleness.

Israel Accepts Border Truce With Egypt

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel conditionally accepted a U.N. appeal for a cease-fire on the border with Egypt Thursday night.

It came after a new blaze of serious ground fighting and a reported clash of air forces.

A compilation of claims listed as many as 61 killed and 91 wounded in the last nine days along the inflamed border of the Egyptian-held Gaza coastal strip.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman announced his government had agreed to a U.N.-proposed cease-fire provided Egypt stopped military attacks first.

Israel Balked
Egypt had agreed to a cease-fire last Tuesday but Israel balked at that time, demanding that Egypt first accept the blame for the latest series of outbreaks.

Earlier Thursday an Israeli Army spokesman reported the second air clash in the border area, announcing that two Israeli jet fighters shot down two Egyptian jet fighters in Israeli territory north of the Gaza Strip.

Egyptian spokesmen denied his government's planes were shot down. He said they collided in heavy clouds during a dawn reconnaissance mission.

Residents Saw Fight
Newsmen in Israel who visited the scene of the crash quoted residents of the area as saying they saw two Israeli planes intercept the Egyptian craft.

A minute later the witnesses said, one of the Egyptian planes exploded in the air. Then one wing of the other began to burn and the plane crashed.

The two pilots were killed. Both sides were using British-built jets.

Heavy Attack
Ground fighting flared Wednesday night when Israeli armor and infantry smashed into the Gaza Strip and blew up an Egyptian military encampment at Khan Yunis.

A broadcast of Israel's Voice of Israel Thursday night said the hit-run column "could easily have occupied the entire Gaza Strip" but withdrew in accordance with orders.

The broadcast said 40 Egyptians were killed and 40 wounded in the raid which was described as a punishment for previous Egyptian attacks.

Admit Losses
An Israeli spokesman previously announced loss of one killed and eight wounded in the attack, while the Egyptians had admitted 10 members of the Palestine National Defense Force were killed and 12 wounded in the two-hour battle.

The Palestine National Defense

Force, mentioned by the Egyptians as having incurred casualties in the fight, is an Egyptian-trained group of Palestine Arabs who have been armed by the Cairo government. This was the first time it has been officially mentioned from the Egyptian side as taking part in border clashes.

Its participation could be important, for Egypt is limited to the number of regular troops she can keep in the Gaza Strip, a narrow coastal area 6 by 30 miles lying between Israel's Negev Desert and the Mediterranean.

Press Cease-Fire
Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UN Palestine truce observer, who last week appealed to both sides for a cease-fire, again pressed his proposals Thursday when the fighting took its new turn.

He said the situation as it had developed was a "very dangerous threat to peace."

Since the 1948 Palestine war, peace between Israel and the Arabs has been based not on peace treaties but a series of armistices.

In Washington, a state department spokesman said U. S. diplomats in the Middle East are keeping in close touch with the Israeli and Egyptian governments "to impress on both sides the gravity of the situation."

WAC

1st Woman Checks in Soldiers Home
WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a bit of excitement among the 1,800 men veterans at the U. S. Soldiers Home here.

The reason? Friday the first woman is checking in. She is Miss Regina C. Jones, 47, of Washington, a former WAC private 1st class, now retired.

Former enlisted women in the WAC can qualify to live at the home on the same basis as their brother GIs — 20 years' service or a service-incurred disability — but Miss Jones is the first to apply for residence.

Those who run the soldiers home are expecting other former WAC's to follow suit, so they're fixing up special quarters for women.

Miss Jones joined the WAC in 1943. Two years later, when stationed in Egypt, she developed cataracts in both eyes. Later one leg had to be amputated. She explained that with her eyesight failing, she kept banging into things and kept her toes and in-step so badly bruised that the operation became necessary.

In recent years she has been in and out of military hospitals. Her family has scattered and she doesn't want to be a burden to anyone. So for Pfc. Jones "home" hereafter will be the Soldier's Home.

4-H Judging at State Fair Today

DES MOINES (AP)—An estimated crowd of 42,500 persons visited the Iowa State Fair Thursday as industrious farm boys and girls scrubbed and groomed the animals they will exhibit in today's 4-H and FFA livestock judging.

About 13,000 spectators, the largest grandstand crowd since Sunday, watched the Thrill Day performance with cars and motorcycles hurtling off ramps and through the air.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Eugh of Kanawha were named winners of the fair contest to decide the most safety-minded Iowa farm family. The couple received a $50 U. S. savings bond.

More than $10,000 prize money was distributed to the Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn purebred beef cattle.

Winner in the annual four-day Quiz Derby was a team of three Boone Junior High School boys. They were David Otto, 13, Donald Josephson, 14, and Steven Shaler, 14.

Harrison Seeks Aid For Cattle Feeders

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Robert Harrison (R-Meb.) Thursday sought, apparently unsuccessfully, Agriculture Department assistance for Nebraska cattle feeders who need corn for livestock.

The corn crop in many sections of Nebraska, Harrison said, is in bad shape because of hot weather and lack of rain. Cattle feeders have almost used up all the "free" corn — that not under government loan or storage—in their areas.

The Nebraskan said cattle feeders have only three choices:

1. Reach out further to buy the free corn at the present market price of around $1.50 a bushel.

2. Buy corn from farmers who have it under loan to the government but have kept it stored on their farms and have not delivered it to the government.

This would cost about $1.54 a bushel plus interest on the government's loan to the farmer.

3. Buy corn direct from government storage at 105 per cent of parity, plus handling and shipping charges. Harrison estimated this would cost an additional 22-24 cents a bushel.

Whether extra-community, even extra-regional pressure on key leaders may be effective in overcoming local pressures for the maintenance of segregation may determine the nature of the desegregation process in the next few years.

Another report to the society said the Supreme Court has brought about "a quiet revolution in the traditional patterns of race relations in the South" by a series of decisions compelling graduate schools and the colleges to admit Negroes.

Guy B. Johnson, professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina, said but for the high court decisions "it might well have taken from 10 to 50 years to reach the point of raising the question seriously, and in some of the states the political conflict over the issue would be extremely bitter."

Johnson said more than 100 Southern institutions of higher education now admit Negroes, compared with only 3 or 4 in 1948.

Supreme Court Case
The law up to that time covered only first, second and third offenses, saying nothing about subsequent offenses.

A man charged and convicted on a fourth offense drunken driving count took the case to the State Supreme Court.

He contended that since there was no mention of fourth and subsequent offenses, the fourth offense should be considered as a first offense.

Court Interpretation
The court countered that though the words of the law did not include mandatory sentences for convictions after the third, the intent of the law was plain. The three year conviction was upheld.

The Iowa Legislature subsequently changed the legislation

'To See Ourselves'

This business of Russian-American fraternizing is getting out of bounds. Take this exchange of farm missions. Thousands of Russians who found by seeing and hearing that the American visitors were friendly human beings are bound to create problems for "hate-America" propagandists. Meanwhile the Soviet delegation, subjected to tremendous amounts of hospitality and information, has itself made deep impressions.

Vladimir Matskevich, chief Russian spokesman, charmed the pencils right out of the hands of the Washington press corps. He was described as being much like a witty Rotarian. It is even reported that a hardheaded Iowa farmer said that if the Russian stayed long enough he could be elected to the Senate! Will that give Mr. Matskevich a black eye in the Kremlin? Or will his telling Soviet farmers — any who get the Voice of America program — that they have much to learn from American agriculture? How much further can this two-way subversion at the grass roots go?

Speaking seriously, however, it is probable that the Russians will learn more than Americans from this interchange. The Soviet delegates have been earnest students of farming efficiencies in the United States and declare many can be adapted to their system. They probably have not grasped and are not ready to use some of the secrets of the American way. But it might be well for Americans to take some note of how their agriculture looks to others.

A major impression was created by the extent of mechanization. The productivity of 200 and 300 acre farms amazed the Russians. The success of such family-sized farms is damaging to their collectivist theories. But they still contend that mechanization is most suitable to large acreage. It would be well if more Americans recognized that the socially valuable family farm is in fact threatened by the "factory farm."

The Russians were baffled by the price-support program. First they could not reconcile a system described as free with such a degree of government control. But most of all they were puzzled by the money and effort devoted to curtailing production — where they are struggling so hard to raise more food. Here again are two aspects of American agriculture about which no citizen should be complacent.

Africans Plan Farm Training Center in Memory of Chief

An imaginative and far-sighted project destined to improve the lot of the African farmer has been selected as a memorial to a popular African chieftain killed by the Mau Mau nearly three years ago.

Senior Chief Waruhiu, a Kikuyu chieftain for over 30 years, was shot and killed in October 1952 as he returned from Nairobi. A fearless and outspoken opponent of Mau Mau, a devout Christian and an exponent of the doctrine of cooperation between all races, Chief Waruhiu was murdered in revenge for his progressive leadership.

Now a committee of Africans, Europeans and Asians — farmers, coffee-planters and businessmen — are combining to raise funds for an African Farm Institute and Training Center in memory of their friend.

Patronage of Governor
Under the patronage of the Governor of Kenya, Sir Evelyn Baring, the Center will be a memorial not only to "this great Christian gentleman," but also to all loyal members of the Kikuyu, Embu and Maru tribes who have lost their lives in the fight against Mau Mau.

The Institute will be located largely on the late Senior Chief's farm in the Kiambu district. His family have donated ten acres for the farm buildings, and another hundred acres will be leased from them and from neighboring African farmers.

Small Holdings
The land will be split into typical small-holdings on which practical farming will be carried out. The attending farmers will be shown how these small parcels of land may be run economically for a family unit.

Each African is expected to bring a wife and her children along, since wives play an important part on the farm. Other courses at the Center will cover Education and Welfare, and Agriculture.

The Memorial Center may be the first step towards a whole new era of modern agriculture in this British Crown Colony.

CANADIAN HEALTH PLAN
TORONTO, Ont. (P) — A Canadian labor official predicts that Canada will have a national health insurance program within two or three years. Gordon Cushing, secretary-treasurer of the 600,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada said the province of Ontario has been the most active in creating a national health scheme.

All-Time Travel Mark Seen For Labor Day Weekend

More pleasure-bound motorists will be on the nation's highways during the Labor Day holidays than during any previous weekend in history, was the prediction issued by Andrew J. Sordani, president of the American Automobile Association.

The AAA official said that nine out of 10 passenger cars will be used during the three-day weekend, and about 18-million of these will be operating on relatively long trips of a full day or more.

"Heavy traffic over the Labor Day weekend usually brings out a certain amount of hysteria about highway safety," Sordani said, "but actually, the motoring public is doing a better job of driving safely than ever before."

Fatality Rate
He pointed out that the fatality rate per hundred million miles driven is at the lowest point on record, and added that "there is every reason to expect that it will continue to go down." However, he cautioned, "The loss of one life is one too many. Play it safe — drive carefully."

The AAA president said that the heaviest traffic conditions will in all probability develop on Monday evening when holiday weekend travelers add to the congestion caused by motorists who traditionally end their summer vacations on Labor Day.

Barks Up Wrong Tree; Student Fined $40

DETROIT (P) — James Rapp, 27-year-old sophomore at Wayne University, barked up the wrong tree to the tune of $40.

He was found hacking away at a tree in a city park and fined for violating a city ordinance. Rapp told Judge W. McKay Skillman he "needed some elm bark to do research on dutch elm disease."

"But the tree you chopped up was a poplar," the judge told him.

Interpreting the News—

Observers Feel Settlement In Middle East Possible

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Talk of a cease-fire in Palestine bolsters the belief of American diplomatic observers that stabilization of the situation is quite possible.

This belief was adopted before the latest cease-fire moves and despite the extremely warlike events of the last two days.

Here's the way the thinking goes: Israel, if she had been intending to resume the war now, would not have withdrawn from the Egyptian military headquarters she captured Wednesday night, but would have reinforced the raiders who were in a potent position relative to a large part of Egyptian forces in the area.

Egyptian Policy
Egypt apparently is trying to escape the necessity of retaliation on her own part by claiming to have killed a large number of the attackers, and by claiming that two Egyptian planes collided instead of being shot down by Israeli Thursday.

Pressure is being applied by the Western Powers on both countries, though on a basis of persuasion rather than threats.

By not trying to change the borders established by the 1948 truce, Israel and Egypt have avoided invocation of the tri-power statement by Britain, France and the United States that they would enforce the demarcation lines.

Major Changes Seen In 1956 Automobiles

Major changes to be found under the hoods of 1956 automobile models will have a quick impact on some segments of the oil industry, and long-range effects on all, according to results of a survey of automobile manufacturers conducted by Petroleum Week, McGraw-Hill publication.

Higher compression ratios in more cars will mean that more premium gasoline will be sold and octane ratings will go higher. Furthermore, body and engine changes in the new cars will result in altered requirements for batteries and accessories.

Compression Ratios
Engine compression ratios, climbing to new highs, will boost engine power by about 25 horsepower per car, and more than 21 per cent of all 1956 models produced will have engines of 9:1 compression ratios or higher, compared with only 3.4 per cent in 1955, and none at all before that. The following year (1957 models), compression ratios are expected to hit 9.75:1, or even 10:1.

On a weighted average basis, compression ratios for the 1956 cars will be 8.42:1, compared with 7.83:1 this year, and only 7:1 in 1950. About 40 per cent of all 1956 cars will require premium grade fuel, and it could go to 45 per cent if one manufacturer's line of V-8 engines all require premium fuel.

Approach 100-Octane Mark
The need for higher grade fuel—and more of it—probably will force refiners to nudge premium grade gasoline up to a national average of 97-98 octane before 1956 ends, compared to between 94.9 and 95.8 average octane rating in July of this year.

The competitive situation, plus requirements of some 1956 cars for ultrahigh premium fuel, might even spur some refiners to put out a 100-octane fuel before the end of 1955 or to incorporate aircraft fuel components in their premium grade fuels.

Increase Premium Sales
Octane needs of 1956 model cars will shove the sales of premium gasoline up to about 35 per cent (20 billion gallons) of total sales, as compared to 33 per cent of sales (18 billion gallons) this year.

Producers thus can expect higher crude demand in relation to total gasoline output. As octane ratings go up, gasoline yields go down. More barrels of crude, therefore, will be required to meet the demand for greater volume of higher-octane gasoline, on the basis of existing refining techniques.

Other Changes
Other changes in the new cars will involve crankcases, which will require less motor oil and fewer oil changes. Average capacity of crankcases on next year's cars will be 4.9 quarts; this year it is 5.2 quarts.

Increasing popularity of the V-8 engine is expanding the need for spark plugs — about 81 per cent of the 1956 cars will have V-8 engines, meaning additional sales of about two million spark plugs. The 1956 models also will mark the complete transition from the old 6-volt battery system to the 12-volt system, and declining demand for the 6-volt batteries which were standard on about half of the 1955 cars.

Oil Filters
Oil filters also are gaining in popularity, with almost every other 1956 car having one as standard equipment and another 21 per cent will have it available on an optional basis, the survey shows.

Power brakes and power steering are increasing steadily in popularity — about 24 per cent of cars produced in the first half of 1955 were equipped with power brakes (either standard or optional), representing a 5.2 per cent gain over all of 1954. In 1956, eight models will have power brakes as standard equipment and another 47 will make it optional. Similarly, in power steering, more than 24 per cent of 1955 models were so equipped in the first half of this year, as against 19 per cent for all of 1954. For 1956 models, ten will have power steering standard, and 45 will offer it as optional equipment.

Interpreting the News—

Observers Feel Settlement In Middle East Possible

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
Talk of a cease-fire in Palestine bolsters the belief of American diplomatic observers that stabilization of the situation is quite possible.

This belief was adopted before the latest cease-fire moves and despite the extremely warlike events of the last two days.

Here's the way the thinking goes: Israel, if she had been intending to resume the war now, would not have withdrawn from the Egyptian military headquarters she captured Wednesday night, but would have reinforced the raiders who were in a potent position relative to a large part of Egyptian forces in the area.

Egyptian Policy
Egypt apparently is trying to escape the necessity of retaliation on her own part by claiming to have killed a large number of the attackers, and by claiming that two Egyptian planes collided instead of being shot down by Israeli Thursday.

Pressure is being applied by the Western Powers on both countries, though on a basis of persuasion rather than threats.

By not trying to change the borders established by the 1948 truce, Israel and Egypt have avoided invocation of the tri-power statement by Britain, France and the United States that they would enforce the demarcation lines.

Israeli Theory
The Israeli theory about the retaliation raids is that, as they did in Jordan, a sufficient display of force will eventually make Egypt see that border harassment is no longer worthwhile.

Observers are almost unanimously agreed that if a new war were to develop, Israel would have everything her own way.

The Western Allies, of course, have the power to virtually order an end to the breaches of the peace. But the United States, particularly, is handicapped by the potency of Israel sympathizers in domestic politics. This potency played a large part in the establishment of Israel in the first place, and is a strong deterrent against any Washington administration which might fish to really put the screws on Israel.

British Influence
British influence in Jordan, Egypt's only important ally in the dispute is such that Cairo cannot depend on that country's help even as much as she did in the 1948 war.

So what is hoped for now is that Egypt and Israel will consider themselves at something of a balance in the more recent troubles, and lie doggo for a while. Then they would like to see Egypt accept the existence of Israel as something she cannot do anything about, with possibly some boundary revisions. But the active Arab campaign of hate against Israel shows no signs of permitting this.

Middle Eastern Hot Spots

MAP ILLUSTRATES smoldering Near East problems which are worrying the U.S. State Department.

Signal Drills Open Hawkeye Practice

Sixty-six candidates for the 1955 University of Iowa football team turned out Thursday morning for the first in a series of twice-daily practices.

The drills were held on the new practice field north of the Iowa stadium. A permanent fence is now being constructed, and light poles will be raised to accommodate night practices.

Coach Forest Evashevski, after a short talk to his team, sent four teams through top-speed signal drills to insure that they were thoroughly acquainted with Iowa's multiple offensive patterns.

Veterans Prominent

Evy's "first team" consisted of the men most observers had tagged as the players to beat for first string berths. Frank Gilliam and Jim Freeman were at the ends, Roger Swedberg and George Kress were at tackles, and Captain Calvin Jones and Alex Karras, only soph in the group, manned the guard posts. Veteran Norman Six was at center.

In the backfield Jerry Reichow held down the quarterback spot, Eddie Vincent teamed with Earl Smith at the halves, and Roger Wiegmann was at fullback.

The players drilled in the shadow of an off-kilter appearing goalpost, an innovation of Evashevski.

The goalpost is regulation height, but measures only six feet between the uprights, and is used in a modification of the old "weighted bat," long a baseball standby.

Evy figures that if his placekickers can learn to connect on the narrowed post—which from 20 yards out looks very small indeed—they should have less difficulty on the regulation posts under game conditions. He apparently wants no repeat of the Michigan losses of the last two years, where missed extra points twice cost Iowa a tie.

Second Team

Running on Evashevski's tentative second team were ends Jim Gibbons and Frank Rigney, tackles Dick Deasy and Bill Reichow, guards Frank Bloomquist and Don Bowen, and center Don Suchy.

In the backfield of the second unit were quarterback Don Dobrino, halfbacks Ken Ploen and Mike Hagler, and Del Kloewer at fullback. Kloewer, normally a halfback, is slated for a trial at fullback, in an attempt by Iowa coaches to strengthen that wide-open position before the first game of the season Sept. 24 against Kansas State.

Favor Yanks In AL Race

NEW YORK (AP)—The final four weeks of the pendulous American League pennant race appears to be swinging in favor of the New York Yankees.

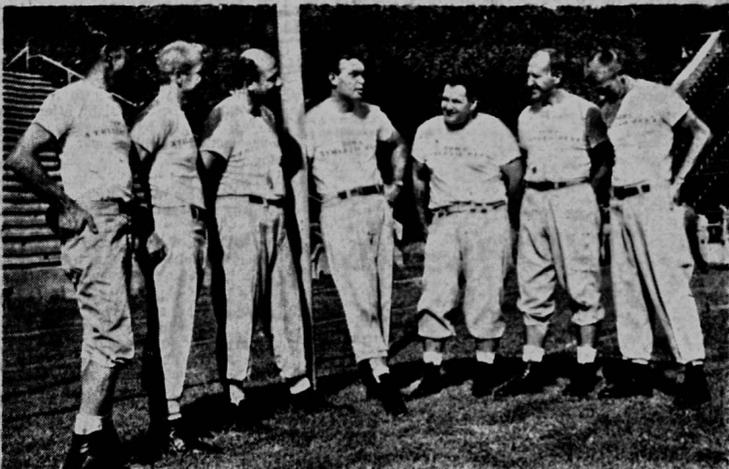

Only half a game behind league-leading Chicago, the Yankees face a golden opportunity to regain the top perch over the long holiday weekend. While the White Sox and Cleveland Indians will be clawing away at each other in a four-game series beginning Friday night and ending with a doubleheader Sunday, the Yankees will be host to the lowly Washington Senators in a three-game set at Yankee Stadium.

On Monday, the White Sox will be engaged in a doubleheader by the tough Tigers in Detroit while Cleveland and New York will face comparatively softer opposition. The Indians will clash with the Kansas City Athletics whom they've whipped 16 times in 20 starts and the Yankees will tackle the Orioles in Baltimore, over whom they hold an 18-2 edge.

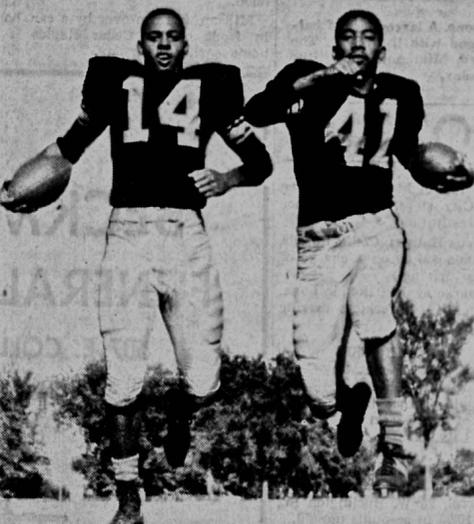

Back home where they will play 14 of their remaining 23 games, the Yankees feel the worst is over. They departed for their last Western jaunt two weeks ago with half a game lead and, although they lost five of nine, they dropped a mere game in the standings.

The Yanks were able to escape more serious damage because of the mediocre showing of both Chicago and Cleveland on their home grounds. The White Sox played only 6-5 ball and the Indians could do no better than 5-4. Encouraged by the inability of Chicago and Cleveland to take advantage of their home stay, Manager Casey Stengel remained confident his Yankees could win the flag.

"We've got as good a chance as any of the others," he said. "I don't think this will be decided until the last couple of days." Manager Al Lopez of the Indians wasn't making any predictions at this late stage but Marty Marion, the White Sox pilot, was a picture of optimism as Chicago opened a three-week road trip.

Chisox Manager Fined by Frick

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Lane, explosive general manager of the Chicago White Sox, was fined $500 and ordered to make a public apology Thursday for what Commissioner Ford Frick termed "unbecoming conduct" during a game Tuesday night in Chicago.

Lane, summoned to New York to face the commissioner, immediately apologized and then gave his own explanation of what happened in front of the box of Will Harridge, the American League president.

Sports writers said Lane stormed into Harridge's box in the seventh inning and began abusing Umpire Larry Napp in loud, pungent language.

Aimed At Hubbard

Lane acknowledged he did so but said his remarks were aimed not at the dignified, white-haired Harridge but instead at Cal Hubbard, chief of the league's umpires sitting in Harridge's box.

At any rate, Frick heard of the incident, called Lane to New York and, after a brief morning conference, sent the following telegram to parties concerned:

"For conduct unbecoming a baseball official and for using violent profane language Frank Lane is fined $500 payable to this office by personal check within five days. It is understood Lane will make a proper public apology to Mr. Harridge, the American League and to the

Wertz Recovering From Polio Attack

CLEVELAND (AP)—In a flower bedecked Lakeside Hospital room Vic Wertz is recovering from polio, looking forward to playing baseball again next year and reading stacks of mail.

"There must be a hundred pounds of mail in his room," Mrs. Lucille Wertz, his wife, said Thursday.

Mrs. Wertz has been the only person, other than the hospital staff, allowed in his room since the Cleveland Indian first baseman was hospitalized last Friday after complaining of a headache, fever and sore throat at the baseball field the previous night.

Doctors say Wertz, 30, has improved during the past few days. They are fairly certain he will escape paralysis.

Five Nile Kinnick Scholar Winners

Five football players this week began their varsity careers at Iowa with the aid of scholarships in memory of Nile Kinnick, one of the Hawkeye all-time greats.

They are holders of Nile Kinnick scholarships, selected from high school seniors on the basis of records and tests. Each player entered the university in the fall of 1954.

Sophomores are: Frank Bloomquist, Waterloo, guard; Jerry Jenkinson, Fairfield, end; James Young, Waterloo (West), end; Delmar Kloewer, Manilla, halfback; and Eugene Veit, III, Clinton, quarterback.

Kinnick, 1939 all-American and athlete of the year, died in June, 1954, as a navy flier. The fund for scholarships was established in 1945 and the amount increased by contributions of alumni and friends.

Swaps Hurt, Hopes for Rematch Dim

CHICAGO (AP)—An injured foot Thursday put Swaps out of competition for an indefinite period—and clouded the hopes of fans of seeing him run against Nashua again this season.

The injury to his right front foot was announced by Rex C. Ellsworth, owner of the big California horse.

Swaps, who bested Nashua by 1 1/4 lengths in the 1955 Kentucky Derby, trailed Nashua by 6 1/2 lengths in their $100,000 winner-take-all match race Wednesday at Washington Park.

Swaps apparently suffered the injury in his first few strides from the starting line.

Ellsworth said the exact nature of the injury may not be known for several days. He ordered a complete rest for his horse for an indefinite period.

Thousands of racing fans in the East had hoped to see Nashua, the pride of the East, renew his duel with Swaps, the pride of the West, on Eastern tracks later in the current season.

Handlers were set to race the two horses in the East several times before the season ends.

Tenney, asked about the precise nature of Swaps' injury, said:

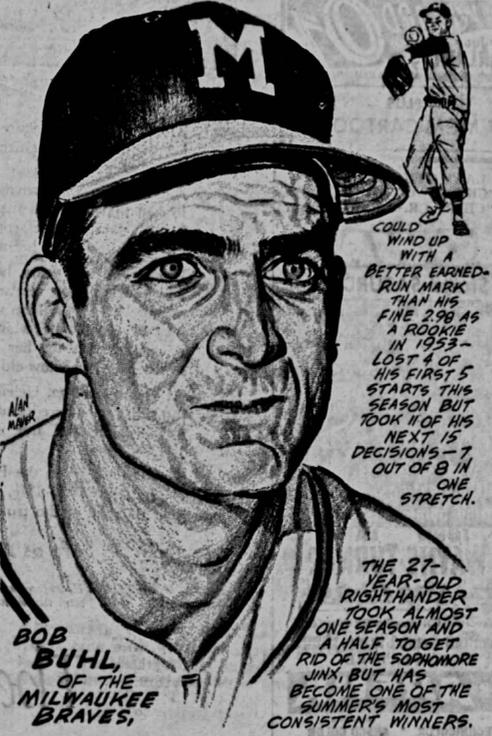

"A horse can show soreness or other evidence of not being right and it sometimes takes a veterinarian several days to decide the true nature of the ailment."

Dodgers Brush Milwaukee, 6-3

BROOKLYN (AP)—The league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, scoring all their runs and collecting all their hits in two innings, defeated Milwaukee 6-3 Thursday to open up a 13-game lead over the Braves.

Limited to seven hits by starting pitcher Roy Campanella, who pitched the first two innings, the Braves were replaced by Clem Labine in the seventh but all they could manage was single runs in the first, fourth and seventh as they left 10 runners stranded.

Roy Campanella paced the Dodgers attack with a pair of singles, driving in two runs and scoring twice.

Milwaukee committed four errors. The victory, Brooklyn's 13th in 20 meetings with the Braves, reduced the magic number to 10. Any combination of 10 Dodger victories and Milwaukee defeats would clinch the flag for Brooklyn.

Weather Balloon Explodes Over Boone

WEATHER INSTRUMENTS from a balloon released by University of Minnesota scientists fell Thursday morning over Boone. One, a 135-pound aluminum-encased article, punched a hole in the dining room ceiling at the O. L. Eytcheson home (above). A ceiling joist kept it from plunging through the house. The Eytchesons were unhurt.

The other instrument landed on the P. I. Mc Coy farm southeast of Boone. A large piece of balloon fabric landed in Ledges State Park near Boone, causing a tree to bend with its weight. The plastic Navy balloon was at a height of about 60,000 feet when it exploded. Minnesota authorities said the instruments had been set for release by parachute at 8 p.m. Thursday.

University Hospitals Report Condition of Accident Victims

Six persons injured in accidents the past week are recovering at University Hospitals.

An Iowa City youth, Robert Emanuel, 19, was taken to the hospital Wednesday night after he was run over by a heavy road construction machine near Oxford.

He received multiple bruises and fractures when a "wobble wheel," a 10-ton pneumatic-tired machine used to pack freshly-spread dirt, rolled over him when he fell from the tractor that was pulling the machine.

Emanuel, who lives at 1004 Newton Road, is reported in fair condition. Doctors say the spongy condition of the road and the fact that the vehicle's tires are only partly filled with air account for the fact that he escaped with his life.

Good Condition

The tractor passed over the upper part of Emanuel's body.

Kenneth Richard Millsap, 4, was brought from Mercy Hospital in Cedar Rapids to University Hospitals Thursday afternoon.

Millsap was run over by a car in front of his Cedar Rapids home earlier Thursday.

His condition is good. He received a depressed skull fracture in the accident.

Still Serious

Mario Sastini, 42, Des Moines restaurant owner, is still listed in serious condition.

He suffered a fractured lower jaw, head injury and lacerations of the face in a collision Tuesday.

His car and one driven by Lloyd I. Halladay, 26, Wheatland, Wis., crashed on a curve a mile west of Mt. Pleasant on Highway 34.

Off Critical List

Halladay suffered a dislocation of the hip and fractures in the mishap. His condition is still listed as good.

Samuel Taylor, 22, who shot himself through the mouth in Cedar Rapids Sunday, was taken off the critical list Thursday. He was brought to University Hospitals Sunday night. No details of the shooting have been learned.

Lee Krotz, 31, whose 18-year-old wife was killed when their home in Tipton burned Sunday, is still reported in serious condition.

Public Schools Open Tuesday in Iowa City

Opening day schedules for Iowa City elementary, junior high and high schools were released Thursday by Superintendent of Schools Buford W. Garner.

The fall session at all Iowa City public schools will begin Tuesday.

Primary and upper elementary grades, one through six, will report to school at 9 a.m. for book-lists and other information, and will be dismissed about 9:30 a.m. to allow time to secure books and other materials.

In Shifts

Kindergarten classes will report in staggered shifts.

Children whose names begin with A through F will report at 9 a.m.; G through M at 10:15 a.m.; N through R at 1:15 p.m. and S through Z at 2:30 p.m.

Kindergarten children should be accompanied by parents the first day, Garner said.

Following the opening day the schedule for all public elementary schools will be as follows:

Kindergarten — morning session, 9 a.m. to 11:35 a.m. Afternoon session, 1:20 p.m. to 3:55 p.m.

Primary (grades one, two, three) — 9 a.m. to 11:35 a.m. and 1:20 p.m. to 3:55 p.m.

Upper Grades (four, five, six) — 9 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. and 1:20 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Junior High School

The first day for junior high school students will be from 8:40 a.m. to noon. During this time an assembly will be held and each class will be on a shortened schedule to permit dismissal at noon.

Following the opening day of school the junior high school will convene at 8:40 a.m. and dismiss at 3:15 p.m. daily. Classes will continue during the lunch hour with three shifts being held between 11:40 a.m. and 1:06 p.m.

A general assembly will mark the opening of the first day at Iowa City High School at 9 a.m. It will be followed by a regular schedule of shortened classes with dismissal at noon.

The high school schedule throughout the year will be 8:40 a.m. to 3:25 p.m.

'Fair Trade' Prices Lifted

NEW YORK (AP) — The first major break in the solid front of "fair trade" manufacturers came Thursday when Westinghouse Electric Corporation announced it was dropping fair trade prices on its electrical housewares products. Other fair-trading manufacturers, however, showed little inclination to go along.

The Westinghouse action came at a time when "fair trade" — the principle that a manufacturer has a legally enforceable right to set the minimum retail price of his products — was being openly defied by many retailers and was under increasingly heavy attack in the courts.

Retail sources here said Westinghouse' action would have little effect on prices charged in many stores. "Thousands of retailers, they pointed out, have been ignoring fair trade prices anyway. Now — in the case of Westinghouse, at least — they can do so without fear of prosecution."

"Actually we believe in fair trade," said a Westinghouse spokesman, "but under present conditions we do not believe it is workable."

Fair trade laws have been enacted in all but three states — Missouri, Texas and Vermont.

Plants Strike Over Nation

By The Associated Press

Workers in several industries were on strike this week. These were the main developments:

Denver — The President invoked the Railway Labor Act in the dispute between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the CIO Transport Workers Union, which had called a strike for Friday night.

The act automatically postponed a walkout of 35,000 non-operating employees.

Detroit — UAW ordered Chrysler Corp. employees back to work after the company agreed to a three-year contract providing a layoff pay plan similar to the ones already granted by General Motors and Ford, and wage increases. The agreement came just six hours after the UAW struck against plants in five states. The layoff plan guarantees employees 60 to 65 per cent of regular take-home pay for up to 28 weeks of idleness.

South Bend, Ind. — About 9,000 employees walked out of the Studebaker division plant of the Studebaker-Packard Corp. as negotiations for a new contract continued.

Detroit — Talks between UAW and American Motors were deadlocked as a midnight expiration of a contract for employees in Michigan, Wisconsin and California neared. The company said it had agreed to a layoff pay plan similar to that given by the industry's "Big Three," but would not meet hourly pay raises demanded by the union.

Teterboro, N. J. — Five persons were injured in incidents at the gates of the strikebound Bendix Aviation Corp. plant in Teterboro, as the UAW and Bendix Corp. management continued negotiations in Detroit to settle the strike of 20,000 workers in five states. It began Sunday. The UAW is demanding a six-cent-an-hour pay increase, a layoff pay plan and fringe benefits.

Newton, Iowa — The UAW struck two plants of the Maytag Co., makers of home appliances, seeking a layoff pay plan and a union shop. About 3,000 employees are involved.

Investigate Death Of Negro Youth

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) — The governor of Mississippi Thursday called for a complete investigation of the kidnapping of a bubblem gum chewing Negro youth who allegedly wolf-whistled at a white woman.

Gov. Hugh White told newsmen, "Mississippi deplors such conduct on the part of any of its citizens and certainly cannot condone it."

In a telegram to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in New York, the governor said: "Parties charged with the murder are in jail. I have every reason to believe that the court will do their duty in prosecution."

Shot Behind Ear

A bullet behind the ear killed 15-year-old Emmitt Louis Till soon after he was taken early Sunday morning from the tenant farm home of his uncle Mose Wright.

The kidnapping came a few hours after Till was reported to have whistled the two notes of the wolf call at Mrs. Roy Bryant, wife of a white storekeeper near Money, Miss., deep in the delta plantation country.

The storekeeper and his half-brother, J. W. Milam of Glendora, Miss., are held in Leflore County Jail in connection with the kidnapping and slaying.

Can't Find Woman

Authorities issued a kidnap warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Bryant, who was not at her Money home Thursday.

A 16-year-old cousin of the dead boy, Maurice Wright, told newsmen Thursday about the incident which preceded Till's death.

He said the Chicago youth wolf-whistled at Mrs. Bryant when a group of Negro lads went to the store for bubble-gum.

"When he came out of the store, I told him, 'Boy, you know better than that.' He just laughed."

Maurice said later, when two or three white men and a white woman came to his father's home, Mose Wright pleaded with the kidnapers not to take Emmitt away.

Claims Innocent

"Just take him out in the yard and whip him and I'll be satisfied," the uncle said.

Bryant has maintained to authorities that he released the boy later.

Wednesday the boy's body, battered and weighted with metal from a cotton gin, was found in the Tallahatchie River about 25 miles north of Greenwood across the line in Tallahatchie County.

Authorities said they do not know where the killing took place, but the Tallahatchie grand jury was expected to get the case by Monday.

'Regrettable'

Robert Patterson, executive secretary of the Assn. of Citizens Councils — groups organized to keep segregation in all walks of life — termed the youth's death "regrettable."

He emphasized that it was not in any way connected with pro-segregation groups.

"One of the primary reasons for our organization is to prevent acts of violence," he said.

"We are doing our best in spite of constant agitation and inflammatory statements by the NAACP and outside agitators."

In New York, Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, said Mississippi "has decided to maintain white supremacy by murdering children."

Brownell To Investigate Negro Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell said Thursday he has launched an investigation of last month's Democratic primaries in Mississippi to see whether the rights of Negro would-be voters have been violated.

"If it discloses that any citizen has been deprived of his constitutional rights, immediate and vigorous action will follow," Brownell said in a statement.

"Reports indicate," he said, "that in some counties Negroes were refused ballots when they allegedly failed to answer correctly several irrelevant and frequently illegal questions."

"In other counties the indications are that ballots cast by Negroes were apparently not counted and that Negroes were kept from the polls by threats and intimidation."

Justice Department aides said Federal Bureau of Investigation agents are already at work on the investigations. It will presumably go into the question of whether civil rights violations took place.

The little old lady who loved America-

Most of us are lucky enough to be born with American citizenship. Helen Kolesz chose it.

And being an American meant so much to her that back in 1941, when the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor, she volunteered to help serve her adopted land.

During the war years, her patriotism and untiring effort resulted in the sale of more than $5 million worth of Savings Bonds. Bonds which she knew meant strength for her country and security for her fellow citizens.

At the age of 72, Helen Kolesz died last fall, remembered gratefully by her government and her neighbors in Lorain, Ohio.

This month, when the President proclaims Citizenship Day, we might all give thought to the truth that Helen Kolesz understood so well: That making ourselves and our families secure is one of the most practical ways of keeping our country secure. Let's begin investing in America through our good, safe, interest-earning United States Savings Bonds!

Sign up for Savings Bonds where you work or where you bank. Do it now!

Want your interest paid as current income? Invest in 3% Series H.

United States Government Series H Bonds are new current income Bonds in denominations of $500 to $10,000. Mature in 9 years, 8 months and pay an average of 3% per annum if held to maturity. Interest paid semiannually by Treasury check. Series H may be purchased through any bank.
