Peron Flees, Rebels Plan Interception

BULLETIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Government troops bombarded the headquarters of the pro-Peron Nationalist Alliance in downtown Buenos Aires, setting the building afire early this morning.

The military junta which took over the government charged 400 or 500 Peronista stalwarts were inside the building with heavy arms and refused to evacuate it.

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Juan D. Peron took refuge Tuesday aboard a Paraguayan gunboat in Buenos Aires Harbor.

The rebels whose revolt shattered his 10-year dictatorship demanded that the fallen dictator—president be intercepted and arrested. Political asylum is highly regarded in Latin America, however, and this increased Peron's chances for escape to Paraguay.

It seemed obvious that the military junta now in control, including some of Peron's associates, had made no air-tight arrangements to prevent Peron's flight Tuesday from the presidential palace to the Buenos Aires docks.

The junta, meanwhile, was undertaking peace talks with the rebels. The government radio announced that a delegation of the junta left Rio Santiago Naval Base to meet a group of the rebel command. The talks are taking place aboard the cruiser Argentina.

Tense Situation

A tense situation brewed in the capital. Anti-Peronists triumphantly paraded through the streets, ripping down portraits of Peron, toppling in a four-day revolution. For a time there was little sign of the bully-boy shock troops of street brawlers who sprang to Peron's aid in past crises.

But during the morning about 100 Peronistas began their own demonstration, marching down the Avenida de Mayo shouting "Peron, Si! Otro, No! Peron, Yes! Others, No!"

At the corner of Florida street they were dispersed by police without clashes or casualties. But this was the first pro-Peron demonstration since the rebellion erupted Friday. There was still speculation about what the powerful labor organization forces of Peron might do in this situation.

Peron's Escape

Peron's escape to the Paraguayan gunboat, which in effect is Paraguayan territory, was announced by Juan R. Chavez, the Paraguayan ambassador here.

Chavez said Peron, bundled up in a raincoat against a cold downpour, appeared "tranquil." He wore civilian clothing and carried only a small valise containing clothing.

The deposed dictator had spent Monday night in his presidential palace at Palermo while his friends, former associates and enemies in the military junta debated his fate in a secret session lasting the night.

Peron reached the gunboat, accompanied by his military aide, Maj. Ignacio Cialceta, about 10 a.m.

Board Gunboat

The deposed dictator and Maj. Cialceta walked aboard the gunboat accompanied by Chavez and the Paraguayan military attaché, Gen. Demetrio Cardozo. As they stepped aboard the 636-ton craft the gunboat commander, Cesar Cortese, assured the two fugitives of protection. The ambassador then immediately informed the military junta that Peron and his aide were in asylum aboard the gunboat.

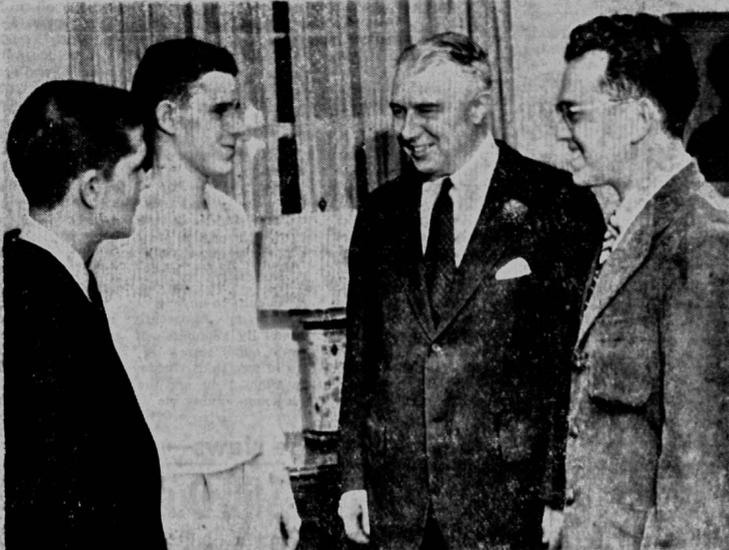

Early Tuesday evening the Paraguayan ambassador said the gunboat was still tied up at the dock with Peron aboard.

Paraguayan Foreign Ministry sources said the ship would need a safe conduct from the military junta now ruling in Buenos Aires to leave port since the rebel command has announced its ships are blockading all Argentine ports.

The ship ordinarily would take a course from Buenos Aires up the winding Parana River to Asuncion, a 900-mile journey taking five days because of the strong currents.

With powerful Peronista forces still remaining in the capital, the junta of generals who took the reins of government when Peron fell acted quickly to tighten their control of Buenos Aires. There was a possible threat from the General Confederation of Labor. Six million strong, the CGT was the backbone of Peron's power.

Reds Release 86 Classes Filled; Missionaries From China K-Q Register Today

HONG KONG (AP)—The Chinese Reds Tuesday released two American women missionaries they tried but failed to pressure into admitting spy charges.

Miss Dorothy Middleton, 42, of Cicero, Ill., and Miss Sarah Perkins, 63, of Charleston, S.C., walked across the border into Hong Kong and a tender reunion with missionary friends.

Their liberation was the climactic event in years of foreign service for the two women.

They told of Red questioning and prison conditions far less harsh than reported by seven male Americans released in previous days.

Spry Presbyterian

Miss Perkins, a spry Presbyterian missionary, said she told the Reds:

"You may shoot me tomorrow but I will still tell the truth."

Miss Perkins said each time she denied she was a spy, she was sent back to her cell to "reconsider."

"I have been reconsidering for about 1 1/2 years," she added wryly.

She said she was never physically ill treated.

"I am sure we were treated better than the men," she said. "We were closely confined but the prison was clean and the food good. The Communists are strong on hygiene with clean buildings, streets and stations and very few insects."

Attempts Abandoned

Both women said it was not until this month that the Reds finally abandoned attempts to break them.

They said they were sentenced to the 4 1/2 years they have been held, plus immediate expulsion on vague charges of sabotage.

Today the Reds may free the final prisoner on the list of 10 U.S. civilians whose early release was promised at the Geneva talks. He is Dilmus T. Kanady, Houston, Texas, cotton inspector, arrested in Shanghai April, 1951, charged with black marketing, tax evasion and concealing weapons.

The Reds also promised at Geneva to take steps to free 19 other jailed Americans and 12 detained for lack of exit permits. Some of the latter are leaving soon from Shanghai by ship for Japan or Hong Kong.

Trucker Fined For Excess Fuel

DES MOINES (AP)—The state treasurer's office reported Tuesday that a driver for a Grand Island, Nebr., trucker paid a fine of $10 and costs and a tax of $12.60 because the truck had excess fuel in a concealed tank.

Earle Smith, director of the gas tax division, related that a truck also belonging to John Lambert of Grand Island was found to have a concealed fuel tank when it was halted several weeks ago at Keokuk.

In that instance, Smith continued, the truck driver was required only to pay the Iowa tax on the more than 200 gallons of fuel the concealed tank contained in excess of the Iowa limit of 20 gallons.

Red Germans Warn Of Traffic Squeeze

MOSCOW (AP)—East Germany's Communist boss Walter Ulbricht warned Tuesday that a new traffic squeeze may be imposed on Red-surrounded West Berlin.

He spoke after the Soviet Union and East Germany signed agreements restoring—they said—sovereignty to East Germany.

These agreements provide that Russian troops must be stationed in East Germany for defense purposes. They also concern the remaining war prisoners held by the Russians.

Ulbricht told a news conference after the signing that new traffic measures around Berlin might be necessary "unless the government of West Germany and West Berlin abandon their cold war attack against our German Democratic Republic."

The Bonn government of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has refused to recognize the East German government, claiming it is only a Soviet puppet regime.

Retailers Offer $3,000 In Prizes

State University of Iowa students will be eligible to receive more than $3,000 worth of prizes in the Iowa City retailers' Fall Opening Day program Sept. 29.

The prizes will include a new, 1956 Ford car.

"This is open to students as well as townspeople," Keith Kafer, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said Tuesday.

More than 100 Iowa City stores will take part in the program, Kafer said. All have offered prizes ranging in value from $5 to $25. Some of the prizes are now on display in store windows.

Drawing Sept. 29

The smaller prize-winners will be determined in a drawing to be held at noon, Sept. 29.

The winning numbers will be placed back in the draw for the 1956 model car, which will be held during a street show at 8 p.m.

Iowa City residents and SU students can obtain tickets at any of the stores taking part in the program, Kafer said.

Kafer emphasized that obtaining a ticket in any Iowa City store makes the ticket-holder eligible for all prizes, including the 1956 model car.

Numbers To Be Posted

The prize-winning numbers will be posted in store windows following the drawings. Store owners taking part in the program will unveil special window displays at 7 p.m.

The Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the Fall Opening Day program, has also lined up a variety show, Kafer said. It will be held at 8 p.m. at a site to be announced later.

A street dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 12 midnight, Kafer said.

This is the first Opening Day program that has been held in Iowa City.

"We hope," said Kafer, "to make it an annual event."

British Officer Arrives for Talks

NEW YORK (AP)—A high British air official arrived Tuesday for Washington conferences but denied he was here to press for unification of U.S. and British bomber forces.

"It is premature to consider anything like that," Sir William Dickson, marshal of the Royal Air Force told reporters.

UN Votes To Shelve Red China Question

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The 10th UN Assembly Tuesday backed an American motion and voted 42-12 to shelve the question of seating Red China for the duration of this session. It was the sixth straight year the Russians have failed to get Peiping into the UN.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, present for his first Assembly since 1946, demanded a seat for the Reds 12 minutes after the session began. He took his defeat calmly. Russian delegates have been pressing the UN to seat the Red Chinese since January, 1950.

Molotov did not attack the United States as previous Russian delegates had done. This apparently was a result of the Geneva meeting of the Big Four and the current Russian campaign to win friends.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., U.S. delegate, was prepared for Molotov's move. Lodge put up a counter resolution simply stating that the Assembly decides not to consider at its 10th regular session during the current year any proposals to exclude Nationalist China from the UN or to seat representatives of the Central Peoples Government of the Peoples Republic of China.

The Assembly did not vote on the resolution by Molotov to give the Chinese place to Peiping. Lodge prevented that by proposing the Assembly decide to vote first on his motion. This was done 41-10, and then Lodge's postponement motion was approved, 42-12.

The Assembly elected Jose Maza of Chile, President for this session.

'Inspector' Dupes Couple

A man describing himself as an inspector for the gas company Tuesday duped an Iowa City couple out of $3.

The swindle was reported to Iowa City police about 2 p.m. by the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. after they were called by the couple.

The man, described as tall, dark complected and with dark hair, and dressed in working clothes, presented himself as "King, from Waterloo," a gas inspector and then pattered around the kitchen stove.

He then asked for $10. The couple told him they only had $3. He accepted that and left, driving away in a black car.

After he left the couple discovered their stove did not work properly. They called the gas company and were informed the man was a phony.

Before 10th UN Session

SECRETARY OF STATE John Foster Dulles, left, and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov shake hands Tuesday before the start of the 10th session of the UN General Assembly. Immediately after the session started, Molotov took the floor and called upon the Assembly to contribute to the improving international atmosphere by seating Red China in the World Organization. The Assembly voted, 42-12, to shelve the question for the duration of this session.

Police Press Search for Kidnapper

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police pursued the greatest search in San Francisco's history Tuesday for a woman who kidnaped the 3-day-old son of a Mt. Zion Hospital staff physician.

Acting Police Chief John A. Engler mobilized his forces on an unprecedented scale. He said every hour that passes added urgency to the quest. The child, Robert J. Marcus, was stolen Monday from a glass-enclosed crib in the Mt. Zion Hospital's nursery.

State Claims New Data in Sumner Case

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—State lawyers trying two white men in the slaying of a Chicago Negro boy said Tuesday night they are on the trail of "absolutely newly discovered evidence."

Special prosecutor Robert Smith III told reporters he regards as a major development in the state's case the discovery of an unspecified number of new potential witnesses.

Trial of the two defendants—Roy Bryant, 24, and his half-brother J. W. Milam, 36—was interrupted earlier in the day to give the state time to question the potential new witnesses and also because the courtroom had become overcrowded.

At least one of the newly discovered witnesses, Smith said, has available "pictures we did not have until today."

He said the pictures relate to the body of the slain victim, 14-year-old Emmett (Bobo) Till, who was kidnaped and slain last month after he allegedly wolf-whistled at Bryant's wife in their country store at nearby Money.

North Carolina Damage High, Five Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS (Storm Picture: Page 8)

Hurricane Ione veered out to sea Tuesday, sparing the populous Northeast from a new assault on towns still digging out from last month's floods.

But it struck hard to the south, taking at least five lives and inflicting damage estimated in the millions of dollars in North Carolina.

A sister hurricane, Hilda, struck Tampico, Mexico, killing at least 12 persons, injuring 350 and leaving 15,000 homeless.

Out to Sea

Ione moved well out to sea off Norfolk, Va., on an easterly course running well below Nantucket Island.

Weather forecasters said this meant the coast was free from further danger, but that the howler still menaced any ships in its path.

Ione, the season's ninth hurricane, hit the Atlantic Coast near New Bern, N.C., and wrought its heaviest damage in that state. Then it arched through Virginia before heading to sea.

Damage Heavy

Gen. Edward Griffin, North Carolina's Civil Defense director, said Ione's damage would "certainly equal and might surpass" the combined losses inflicted there last month by Hurricanes Connie and Diane.

He said damage from the two August storms had been placed at from 85 to 100 million dollars.

Heavy rain and winds up to 100 miles an hour hit New Bern. Water there was 10 feet deep at one time on Middle street. Homes two miles from the Trent River had up to four feet of water in them.

Flooded Towns

Flooded towns in North Carolina included Morehead City, Washington and Elhaven. The latter, with a population of 2,500 reported every house damaged by wind or water.

The rainfall spewed by Ione, coming so soon after that of Diane and Connie, virtually ruined North Carolina's peanut crop, valued last year at 38 million dollars.

Virginia, with rains of three inches or more in 24 hours, suffered to a lesser extent.

For a time the storm appeared to be aiming at New York City and New England. Floods induced by Hurricane Diane on Aug. 19 and 20 caused almost 200 deaths in Pennsylvania and New England.

But then Ione changed from a northeasterly to an easterly course, taking it out into the Atlantic.

East Germany Claims 'Real Sovereignty'

MOSCOW (AP)—In a burst of diplomatic speed, the Soviet Union signed agreements with Finland Monday restoring the Porkkala military and naval base to Finland and extending their friendship treaty for 20 years.

Negotiators in the Kremlin also finished drafting a new treaty with East Germany — hailed as granting "real sovereignty" — which is to be signed today.

Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin signed for the Soviet Union and Premier Urho Kekkonen and Defense Minister Emil Skog for Finland.

Inconvenient

Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev stood behind Bulganin. The Finnish and Soviet presidents, Juhon K. Paasikivi and Marshal Klemente Voroshilov, sat at the end of the table during the ceremony in the Kremlin.

Porkkala is only a short distance from Finland's capital, Helsinki. Paasikivi said its restoration "is a serious matter for us" since its occupation by the Soviets was "very inconvenient."

With completion of the Finnish-Soviet agreements, the Russians have been calling for American troops to quit their European bases.

30-Mile Movement

American sources at the United Nations in New York pointed out that the Soviet withdrawal from Porkkala would move Russian forces only 30 miles across the Gulf of Finland.

American withdrawal from Europe would roll back U.S. forces about 3,000 miles.

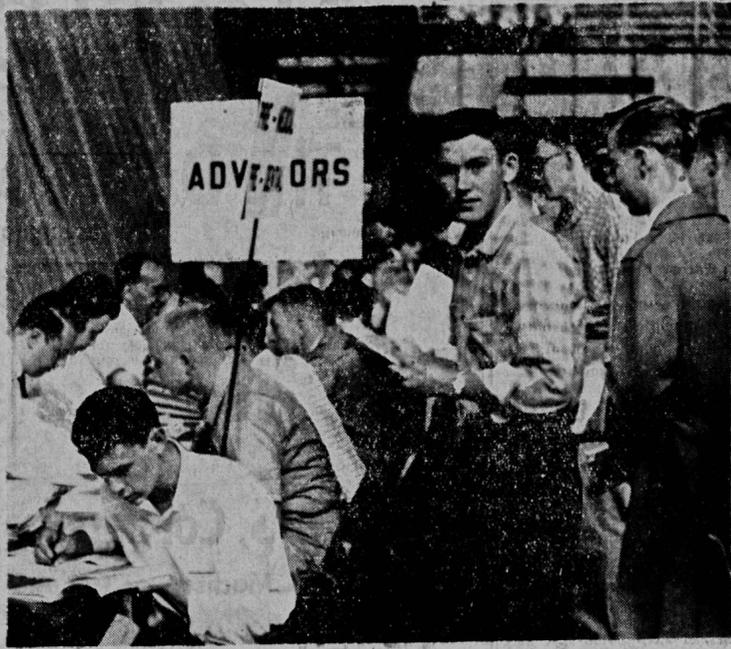

First Western European reaction came from Paris, where the French Foreign Ministry commented that it could see no comparison in the stationing of Soviet forces at Porkkala and the U.S. forces in Europe.

'Real Sovereignty'

East German Communist party chief and Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht said a treaty between the Soviet Union and East Germany "granting us real sovereignty" will be signed today at the Kremlin.

Premier Bulganin said the new pact would "confirm that the German Democratic Republic (Red East Germany) is free to settle herself the questions of foreign and domestic policies, including relations with the German Federal Republic (West Germany)."

2 Charged, 1 Fined On Drunk Driving Informations Here

Charges of drunken driving were filed against two men in Iowa City Police Court over the weekend, and another was fined $300 in Johnson County District Court on a similar charge.

Melvin Roy Hopp, Homestead, and Dennis Mark O'Laughlin, 22, Washington, are both free on $500 bond after their arraignments on drunken driving were continued in police court Monday.

Hopp was arrested Sunday evening at the intersection of Washington and Clinton streets by Iowa City police.

O'Laughlin was arrested by highway patrolmen about midnight Saturday at the junction of Highways 218 and 22 between Riverside and Lone Tree.

Fined in Johnson County District Court on a drunken driving charge Saturday was Paul T. Dvorsky, 37, Solon.

Judge Harold D. Evans also suspended Dvorsky's drivers license for 60 days.

Dvorsky was arrested by the highway patrolmen in Solon March 10.

HARD ON CORN

AMES (AP)—Philip Wood, 23, Des Moines, was fined $300 in municipal court here Monday on a charge of malicious mischief to property. Carl Kingsbury, farmer near Ames, said Wood drove back and forth in Kingsbury's cornfield Saturday night, knocking down about a dozen rows of corn.

Mansfield to Benson: Tell Farm Plans Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) Monday challenged Secretary of Agriculture Benson to unveil his "very specific" new farm proposals immediately and ask the Senate and House Agriculture committees to start hearings.

Mansfield said in an interview "the crisis" of declining farm income has reached a point where legislative cures must be ready for quick action when Congress returns in January.

The senator asked rhetorically: "Why does Benson wait until January? Is he waiting for Providence to come to his rescue or for some miraculous bolt from Heaven to cure the farm depression?"

Best Asset

Benson said Sunday that administration farm proposals, to be submitted next year, are now in the discussion stage.

Mansfield, asked if he thought President Eisenhower should fire Benson as several Democrats and some Republicans have demanded, smiled and said Benson "is the biggest single asset the Democrats have" for next year's general election.

Benson Monday moved to solve one sector of the farm problem: the falling hog prices.

30 Per Cent Drop

He said in a statement he has instructed the Agriculture Department to use "appropriate machinery" to improve hog prices.

The statement did not say what the "appropriate machinery" had been authorized in the situation. However, at a news conference last Friday, Benson said the government might buy surplus pork in an effort to bolster prices.

Hog prices have averaged 30 per cent lower this year than last.

Meanwhile, a committee of Democratic farm leaders met in Chicago to consider 1956 party policy in their field Monday and came up immediately with a statement that they "stand on the principle of price parity."

Johnson County Court Convenes

The September term of the Johnson County District Court was opened Monday by Judge James P. Gaffney, with impaneling of a grand jury one of the first items on the agenda.

Seven grand jurors were picked from a panel of 12, chosen at the first of the year.

The grand jury chosen Monday includes:

J. B. Meyers, Penn, foreman; Verne W. Bales, University Heights; C. E. Beck, Iowa City; Milton Chadima, Monroe; Joe Kadera, Graham, and Walter Weber, Sharon.

Jerry White was appointed bailiff for the term by Johnson County Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy.

Trial Begins On Slaying of Negro Boy

SUMNER, Miss. (AP)—Two white men went on trial Monday for the murder of a teen-age Negro boy from Chicago. At the end of the court day, 10 prospective jurors had been tentatively seated.

The defendants — Roy Bryant, 24, and his half-brother, J. W. Milam, 36, went on trial with their 2-year-old boys on their laps. Flanking each defendant a few feet from the judge's bench in the steamy Mississippi courtroom was a slightly older son.

The little boys' thin waifs or alternately their childish laughter cut across the routine hum of court proceedings in the most sensational murder trial in Mississippi Delta has seen in years.

Bryant and Milam were accused of the kidnap slaying of Emmett (Bo) Bo) Till, 14. He was vacationing in Mississippi last month and was slain after he allegedly made offensive remarks and wolf-whistled at Bryant's attractive wife Carolyn, 21. Both defendants have pleaded innocent.

As the state and the defense went to work picking an all-white, all-male jury for the murder trial, Dist. Atty. Gerald Chatman emphasized he is not asking for the death penalty.

Said the prosecutor: "The state will not ask for the infliction of the death penalty since a substantial part of the state's evidence is circumstantial evidence."

Armour-Swift Clash Settled Out of Court

CHICAGO (AP)—An out-of-court settlement of a suit filed by Armour and Co. charging Swift & Co. with infringement of Armour patents covering modified lard was announced Monday.

The settlement involves the purchase by Swift of all Armour patent rights in the field of modified lard for $250,000 cash. In addition, Swift is authorized to license other processors to use the modified lard patents on "reasonable" terms with Armour receiving one-half of the royalties.

Armour also is granted a royalty-free license to use both the patents purchased by Swift and all Swift patents pertaining to modified lard.

Words of Men, Wise and Otherwise

"No mistakes or derelictions in the expression of editorial opinion could ever approach in danger to the republic the suppression of the right to print the facts and to comment on them as the press may see fit."

—Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri

editorial

Justice Is the Goal—

In the Delta country town of Sumner, Miss., a trial got underway Monday which seems certain to make headlines across the nation.

Two white men went on trial for the murder of a teen-age Negro boy from Chicago.

The defendants—Roy Bryant, 24, and his half-brother, J. W. Milam, 36—went on trial for the kidnap-murder of Emmett Till, 14. Till was vacationing in Mississippi last month and was slain after he allegedly made offensive remarks and wolf-whistled at Bryant's wife Carolyn, 21.

Certainly elements for a sensational trial are present in this Mississippi courthouse. White men are on trial before a white jury for the murder of a Negro lad in a state where the color line has been and still is rigidly drawn.

Dist. Atty. Gerald Chatman emphasized he is not asking for the death penalty. He said the reason was because a substantial part of the state's evidence is circumstantial evidence.

Or perhaps Chatman feels that there is little hope of ever impelling an acceptable jury which would consider capital punishment and therefore is not asking for that penalty.

Yes, this trial is sensational. But as thinking citizens we should consider some of the things that make it sensational before we dismiss the incident as "another case of Southern bigotry and prejudice."

A boy was killed. Two men are on trial for that deed. This is not enough to make a sensational trial. But when the boy was a Negro and the men white, it does draw more attention.

The defendants deny they killed him. This is not unusual in a murder trial.

The defendants are accused of killing the boy for "making offensive remarks" to the wife of one of them. Certainly this is not reason for murder. But then there is seldom reason for murder.

The boy was a Negro. But he was not the only Negro that has been murdered. Certainly other trials have been held to determine the guilt of persons accused of the murder of Negroes without attracting nationwide publicity.

But this boy was killed in Mississippi, one of the states that has long believed in the principle of segregation. And now a white jury will try two white men for the deed. Perhaps this is where the drama and sensation creeps in.

Will justice be done in this trial? It is comfortable to feel that the only interest of the nation is on that question. We sincerely hope that is the case.

Letter to the Editor—

Friend of Storz Family Raps Beef Sale Criticisms

Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses—typed or printed signatures are not acceptable. Letters become the property of The Daily Iowan. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to shorten, select representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Contributors are limited to not more than two letters in any 30-day period. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.

In my opinion, good citizenship has always been an immeasurable and invaluable attribute of character, regardless whether of a person or a business institution. I should like to see it remain so.

The Storz Brewing Company bought a prize 4-H calf at the Iowa State Fair. Following the purchase, an unfair attack was made on the members of the Storz Brewing Company by certain ministers and carried on the press wires.

Since the accusation was carried over the press wires, I want you and your associates to know these facts and to become acquainted with the citizenship record of this fine family.

As the advertising agency for the Storz Brewing Company, of which I am justly proud, and as a personal friend of the Storz family for more than a quarter of a century, I KNOW THE FACTS!

The Storz Brewing Company and members of the Storz family have purchased such prize cattle at State Fairs and County Fairs—and have donated such prizes to charity and civic causes for numerous years. As far back as 1939, the Storz Brewing Company purchased the prize steer at the Nebraska State Fair and donated it to Father Flanagan's Boys Home . . . and without any questioning of the motives of this fine civic-minded family!

The purchasing of the prize baby beef at the Iowa State Fair which brought on the unfair attack was merely a continuation of this company's generosity and its expression of good citizenship in the area in which it does business . . . an honorable business which they have been conducting for 75 years.

Members of the Storz family are vitally interested in agriculture, own farms and raise considerable cattle.

Adolph Storz, president of the company, has always been interested in soil conservation and devotes much to the improvement of cattle and horse breeding.

Arthur Storz, a vice-president, was just selected as the "Man of the Year" by the Air Force Reserve Association at its national convention in California, because of his interest and support of air force activities. Arthur Storz is a national leader of Ducks Unlimited. He is a regent of Creighton University. He has been a national leader in wild life conservation.

Robert H. Storz, a vice-president, headed the drive which raised more than a million dollars for a new Clarkson Episcopal Hospital of which he is executive vice-president. He has been post commander of the largest American Legion post in the world; he has been president of the Chamber of Commerce, and president of the Manufacturers Association of Omaha. He has been president of the Industrial Foundation of this area, and of numerous other civic organizations. He is a trustee of the University of Omaha; a trustee of Brownell Hall Girls' school; a trustee of the Nebraska Resources Foundation; and a vestryman of Trinity Cathedral. Just recently he was honored by the B'nai B'rith order as the "Best Citizen of the Year." He is a member of the national American Legion Americanism Endowment Fund.

These are only part of the family's civic interests. They are recognized among the first citizens of this area because of the endless hours of work and untold amounts of money they have given to help the Midwest in every possible field of endeavor.

We who know the Storz family are proud of them—proud to number them among our personal and business friends.

I am mailing this letter to you so that you may have the facts. You are at liberty to make any use of this letter you may desire.

$1 Can Buy A Deed To A Carolina Child

By DEL BOOTH
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — No. 28463 in a title to real estate book in the county court clerk's office is a deed—but not to real estate. It is a deed to a child.

Sale price: $1.
The title number and the names have been changed, but here is the language of a deed filed in one county under an ancient law which, although infrequently used, is still valid in South Carolina.

"Whereas, my wife, Mary Drake, has recently died leaving the following children: Bill, age 5; Jo, age 4; and Mae, age 2, and

"Whereas, I have no home in which to take care of said children, and

"Whereas, I desire that a home be provided for my said children, and

"Whereas, Dena Gray, has expressed a desire to provide a home for my infant children . . . during their minority, and in further consideration of the sum of one ($1.00) dollar to me paid by the said Dena Gray, . . . do grant, bargain, sell, release and give unto the said Dena Gray, the custody and tuition of my infant children . . . for and during the time as each of my said children remains under the age of 21 years.

"Signed (X) Bill Drake, his mark."
The law permitting such transactions dates back to 1660, when it was drafted in England. It was incorporated into South Carolina's colonial laws in 1748 and most of the original language remains in the state constitution today.

Use of the law was not uncommon until only four years ago. In 1946, for example, a welfare department survey showed there were 135 such cases.

Welfare workers believe the circumstances most often involved were those in which Bill Drake found himself: one or the other parent left with small children and not enough income to provide a home.

Childless couples sometimes used the deed method rather than formally adopting a youngster. It was simpler and cheaper, with the average cost of getting the deed written and recorded ranging from $5 to $10. Disparity in public school facilities was another reason for deeding away a child.

Suppose a family lived in a suburban area with inferior schools. Crowded city schools won't accept out-of-towners. Parents have gotten around this situation by deeding children to city residents, usually relatives. City schools then had to accept the children.

Much of this has been changed, however, by a 1951 legislative act requiring that state circuit judges review and approve all child deeds. This put the mechanics of the transaction into the same category as adoption, insofar as concerns cost, complications and time required.

Abandoned
Welfare officials believe the practice has since been all but abandoned, even though the statute remains on the books.

The deed gives custody, rather than ownership, and expires when the child reaches 21. It carries no right of inheritance from the foster parents, nor does it curtail the child's right of inheritance from the natural parents.

The foster parents are charged with clothing, feeding and educating the child whose custody they have bought. Their treatment of the child is always subject to court review.

Goals For Our Schools

(Editor's Note: This is the third in The Iowan's series of reprints and condensations from the Sept. 10 Saturday Review devoted to "Accent on Education.")

The advisors of the upcoming White House Conference on education who are concerned with the subject of what our schools should accomplish fully realize that they are confronting the invisible issue which lies at the heart of most controversies about public education today.

Fundamentally the question facing the schools and the public is a simple one:

"Should the schools attempt to teach only the skills of the mind, or should they be held responsible for health programs, vocational training, recreation, and a whole host of activities which are demanded of most modern school systems?"

This country's earliest schools taught children chiefly to read and to cipher. But gradually during the past 25 years our schools have become institutions which help to encourage almost every human characteristic deemed worthwhile by the community.

American schools are still trying to do everything they did fifty or a hundred years ago, but in addition they have acquired an almost limitless list of other duties.

A modern public school system in a fair-sized city often offers a catalogue of courses and activities a half-inch thick. Such a school system generally includes in the list a liberal arts program which has changed little over the years, and courses in the sciences which if the teachers are on their toes have to change almost every month.

On top of the academic program, and under it, and on all sides of it are courses in the operation of machine tools, in cooking, in child guidance, and in almost every kind of knowledge that one can imagine to be useful to anyone.

Apparently nothing escapes planners of school programs: Courses in international relations, the avoidance of alcoholism, and the art of happy family living vie with aviation mechanics and salesmanship.

It is tempting to be satirical about the growth of school offerings until one remembers that almost every subject in a school catalogue is there as a result of a specific public demand.

Professional educators have often been accused of an excess of ambition in expanding the scope of education. But the records of most school boards will back up the contention that it is the public which has forced the adoption of most new activities.

The enormous variety of subjects offered by a modern school system makes sense when one relates it the enormous variety of the student body in an age when almost literally all children go to high school.

The problem of establishing priorities both for the student's time and the taxpayer's money becomes staggering in the complex school systems of today. Almost as great a problem is that of guidance—the process of helping a student to choose a correct diet from the great educational cafeteria which are springing up.

Interpreting the News—

Free World Still Dubious About Argentine Situation

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The political picture in Argentina following the downfall of Dictator Juan Peron is developing very slowly.

Alberto Gainza Paz, publisher of the famous newspaper La Prensa which Peron took over, says he believes the military junta will eventually dissolve into a return to democratic government, but admits strong cross currents are at work for the moment.

Labor Question
Perhaps the biggest question today is whether the Peronist labor unions will attempt, and the insurgent forces be able to prevent, a general strike. Chaotic conditions could result, but in the first hours after verification of Peron's abdication there were no indications of a workers' mobilization.

One of the great imponderables in Argentina now is the future of the Christian democratic groups scattered incohesively through the country. If they form a regular political party they could be very powerful.

Little Confidence
There's not too much confidence among North American observers in the Radical party which represented Peron's chief political opposition. Its leader has opposed Peron's invitation to American investors as "vassalage" for Argentina. But that may have been due as much to opposition to Peron as to the United States.

Nevertheless, Washington seemed to be nervous lest nationalism, isolationism and traditional distrust of the United States should combine under the new Buenos Aires regime to make new troubles for Argentine-North American relations.

They are instead trying to clarify the issues and to delineate certain broad areas of agreement which they hope can serve as bases for constructive action.

Only in this way can the other problems to be discussed at the White House Conference be solved. For how can the questions of our school-building needs and of school finance be answered until there is agreement on what the people want the schools to do?

10 Counties Called Distress Areas

DES MOINES (AP) — Gov. Leo Hoegh announced Tuesday that the Iowa office of the Farmers Home Administration has recommended to U.S. Department of Agriculture the designation of 10 western Iowa counties as distress areas.

They are: Woodbury, Monona, Harrison, Pottawattamie, Mills, Fremont, Montgomery, Page, Adams, and Union counties.

"If the federal government agrees that the counties represent emergency areas where a production emergency exists," Hoegh said, "the farmers in those counties will be eligible for short-term, low-interest loans."

Production emergency loans would be made at 3 per cent interest for one year, to farmers who cannot obtain credit elsewhere.

The recommendations of the FHA were based on a survey of crop and credit conditions in a number of southwestern Iowa counties, particularly those hard hit by the summer's extended drought and heat.

Threaten Strikers With Replacements

DES MOINES (AP) — Western Tool and Stamping Co., strike-bound at its plant here since Aug. 23, Tuesday sent a letter to its employees and told them to report back to work "or we will have to go ahead and replace you."

Officers of striking Local 562 of the CIO United Auto Workers quickly sent out an answering letter that said in part:

"This attempt by the company to threaten the employees is the last effort by the company to break this strike."

E. W. Kolls, Western Tool president, signed the company letter. He said that effective Sept. 30, the company will terminate its payment of premiums on insurance we carry for our employees who "are not presently at work."

UCLA Rated Best By A.P. Weekly Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — UCLA, currently tabbed as the best college football team in the country, should learn the truth Saturday.

Are the Uclans overrated or not?

If Red Sanders' Pacific Coast Champions can beat powerful Maryland on the latter's home grounds, they may be able to stake a pretty stout claim to the honor.

Maryland Loaded

Maryland, loaded with talent, is reported laying for the Uclans, who beat the Terrapins last year, 12-7. It looks like the toughest game on the UCLA card, which includes mostly west coast opposition.

UCLA, the pre-season pick for 1955 honors, held its position in the first weekly poll of sports writers and broadcasters by The Associated Press.

Iowa Not Listed

Iowa, which faces Kansas State Saturday, was not listed in the top 20 of the nation by the poll. On a flying tour around the Big Ten last week, AP sports writers picked Iowa to finish fifth in the Big Ten Conference.

The West Coast titans received the No. 1 nod from 34 of the 58 participants in the poll, racking up 512 points. Points are awarded on the basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

The UCLA total was well ahead of the 364 given Georgia Tech, winner over the highly rated University of Miami Hurricanes, 14-6.

The leading teams with first place votes and season's record in parenthesis:

1. UCLA 34 (1-0)	512
2. Georgia Tech 3 (1-0)	364
3. Oklahoma 10 (0-0)	319
4. Michigan 6 (0-0)	284
5. Maryland 1 (1-0)	198
6. Ohio State (0-0)	157
7. Pittsburgh (1-0)	142
8. Mississippi (1-0)	139
9-10. USC 1 (1-0)	124

(West Virginia also received one first place vote.)

Kinnick's Speech In 1939 Will Be On WSUI Today

Excerpts from the late Nile Kinnick's acceptance speech for the Heisman trophy he received after the 1939 Iowa football season and a brief history of Iowa football since its beginning will highlight the 12:45 p.m. Sports at Midweek broadcast on radio station WSUI today.

Sportscaster Bob Zenner has edited several recordings of the highlights of Iowa football and compiled them into a 15-minute program.

Another highlight of the program will be Iowa Football Coach Forest Evashevski's now-famous remarks at a pep rally in Iowa Memorial Union after the history-making 14-14 tie Notre Dame managed against Iowa in 1953.

Arch Ward's Son Has A Meal with Rocky In Dad's Absence

For the past three years Rocky Marciano always had breakfast on the day of a championship fight with Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune. Ward died July 9 of a heart attack. When Rocky went to Chicago to attend the funeral he invited Tom Ward, Arch's son, to take his place. The date was fulfilled Tuesday morning. Tom Ward, former sports writer in the Associated Press Bureau in Chicago and now a public relations man for U.S. Steel, has written the following account of their meeting.

By TOM WARD

NEW YORK — The atmosphere in suite 909 of the Concourse Plaza Hotel was as gloomy as the skies that hung low and threatening over Manhattan. It was so quiet you could hear yourself breathe.

This was the temporary home of Rocky Marciano, heavyweight champion of the world. The champion, who will meet Archie Moore for the title in Yankee Stadium tonight, had made a breakfast date with the late Arch Ward, former sports editor of the Chicago Tribune. But Ward died of a heart attack July 9 and so, Rocky had graciously passed on the invitation to Ward's son.

Began in 1952

Their unique good luck pact began the day Marciano wrestled the championship from Jersey Joe Walcott in Philadelphia in September, 1952. They had carried on the tradition of eating together on the morning of each title fight ever since. There was only one exception. That was last spring when Rocky fought Don Cockell. Dad was in Europe with the Golden Gloves boxing team.

"But your dad sent me a wire from London," Rocky said, "and promised to make the next one."

Rocky and Dad were close friends during those three years. They formed a sort of mutual admiration society. My father regarded Marciano as the greatest fighter of the day, on a par with Dempsey and Louis. He also admired his clean living and level headedness. Rocky told me he liked Dad because he always wanted to help him.

Two characteristics of the champion strike you at once. They are his friendliness and his supreme, unmatched modesty. He seems to remember everyone he has ever met and holds in deep affection those who "knew him when."

Looking at Rocky, you get the impression that he is carrying less weight than his frame requires. His chest, manly enough, is slightly sunken. His waistline and hips are as lean and narrow as a flag pole. Rocky's legs are the only big part of his rather peculiar physique. They are fullback's legs, large and muscular. He bears a number of ring scars, two recent cuts on his right cheek and a one-inch vertical scar on the tip of the nose. The latter injury worries Rocky and his handlers. When it is broken open by a punch, it bleeds profusely.

"What do you think of Moore?" we asked.

He Can Talk

The champion wrinkled his brow and replied he thinks the challenger is good, adding: "He's a fine boxer, and he can talk, can't he?"

At 10:30 a.m., Manager Al Weill telephoned to announce the postponement because of Hurricane Ione. The news went almost unnoticed. It had been expected.

Marciano felt like air, so together with Detective Steve Melchiorre and myself, we went outside. Rocky said he wanted to walk three-quarters of a mile to a Roman Catholic church "to say some prayers."

Outside on the sidewalk, it began to rain and Rocky, dressed comically in baggy blue slacks, a loose-fitting green sweatshirt and a baseball cap, decided to go later. He might have been mistaken for a delivery boy he looked so harmless as he strode through the hotel lobby and out on to the street. A woman brushed by him and hailed a cab. There were no autograph hounds. His secret hideaway was secret, all right.

Back in his modestly appointed 4-room suite, the champion said goodby and slipped quietly into his bedroom from which Yankee Stadium was plainly visible in the distance. He closed the door behind him. Now he would rest and think.

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers jumped on rookie right-hander Glen Cox for five runs in the second inning Tuesday and went on to defeat the Kansas City Athletics 7-3.

Giants Win 2; Record Is Tied

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays matched a major league record with his 49th and 50th home runs of the season Tuesday as the New York Giants clobbered the Pittsburgh Pirates in an explosive doubleheader 11-1 and 14-8.

The homers gave Mays seven homers in six consecutive games. That matched the record set by the Giants' George Kelly in 1924. Mays, stretching his homer lead to four over Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski, also became the seventh player ever to hit as many as 50 in one season.

In the nightcap, the Giants put together 16 hits and had an 11-2 lead after three innings.

Orioles Take Sixth in Row

BOSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles extended their winning streak to six games by sweeping a rain-spattered doubleheader from Boston, 3-2 in 10 innings and 7-4, Tuesday with key performances by rookies Angelo Dargres and Bob Hale.

Dargres' second sacrifice fly won the first contest after Don Leppert had tripled. Hale, a pinch hitter, broke a 1-1 tie with a 2-run double in the Orioles' 4-run sixth inning of the second game.

The twin defeats ran the Red Sox losing skein to six games. They have dropped 11 of their last 13.

K-State Coach Promotes Sophs

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Coach Bus Mertes Tuesday promoted a couple of husky sophomores to first string duty as he propped his Kansas State Wildcats for their game with Iowa Saturday.

Displeased with the work of his line in K-State's opening loss to Wyoming last Saturday, Mertes moved Ellis Rainsberger, 200-pounder, into veteran Bob Hilliard's left guard spot, and John Keelan (230) into the tackle spot previously held by Frank Rodman.

Yanks Win 2 As Indians Tip Sox

New York Now Leads Tribe By 2 1/2 Games

By HERB ALTSCHULL
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON — The New York Yankees, running their winning streak to seven, stormed two giant steps closer to the American League championship Tuesday night with a sweep of a day-night doubleheader over the stumbling Washington Senators 6-3 and 9-7.

The first game of the day-night affair was a breeze for the Yankees, but the second was a real thriller as the Senators rallied for six runs in the last two innings. Casey Stengel sent in four relief pitchers in forming the suddenly reversed tide.

By winning two, the Yanks took a 2 1/2-game lead over the runnerup Cleveland Indians, who defeated the Chicago White Sox, 3-2, in a night game at Chicago. The Yanks have five left to play. The Indians had four and already had lost three more than New York.

Washington's rookie right fielder, Carlos Paula, was the Yankees' best weapon in the night game. He played a routine line drive into a double in a 3-run third inning and kicked a bases-loaded single into a 3-run wallop and misjudged a hard liner that went for a triple in the 6-run seventh.

INDIANS STOP WHITE SOX, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — The desperate Cleveland Indians ended a week-long victory famine Tuesday night, eliminating the Chicago White Sox from the American League pennant race with a 3-2 triumph.

The Indians nonetheless lost ground to the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Any combination of three Yankee wins or Cleveland defeats now would clinch the flag for the Yankees, who have five games to play to four for the Indians.

The victory assured the Indians of at least a tie for second place in the American League.

Bobby Avila's three-bagger with two out and two mates aboard in the eighth inning broke up a 1-1 pitching duel between Early Wynn and Billy Pierce and ended a four-game losing streak for the Tribe.

Hemus' Homer Gives Cards 2-0 Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A first-inning two-run homer by Solly Hemus and some stung relief pitching by Harvey Haddix were all the St. Louis Cardinals needed Tuesday night for a second straight victory over the Chicago Cubs, 2-0.

Evy Plagued By Personnel Problems

George Kress 'Definitely Out'

A series of uncertainties and injuries are bothering Coach Forest Evashevski as the Iowa football team prepares for the opening of its 67th season against Kansas State here Saturday.

Evy isn't taking a pessimistic approach to the situation but said Tuesday he hasn't had to cope with something like this in the four years he has been head coach of the Hawkeyes. Iowa has to meet a 9-game schedule this year.

Minor Injuries
Several players have minor injuries and some sophomores have failed to develop as fast as he would have liked them to, he said.

The failure of some veterans to respond to expectations also has bothered him.

These points have hampered Evashevski in naming a positive starting lineup.

He has tentatively named Mar-

Walker (182) as the starting fullback. He said coaches are now trying to put weight on Roger Wiegmann, No. 2 fullback last year and expected No. 1 fullback this year.

Wiegmann weighed 210 last year and pared down to 187 during the summer, thinking it would add to his speed.

Effectiveness Hampered
But it has only hampered his effectiveness. He is currently out with a shoulder separation and hasn't been able to work for several days.

Eldan Kanellis and Jon Janda are currently fighting for the No. 2 fullback spot.

Evy said that George Kress, listed last week as of doubtful value because of his knee trouble, definitely will not play this Saturday.

On Fourth Team
Kress has been drilling with the fourth team since his injury. At his own request, Kress was permitted to try out his injured leg the first part of this week, but was forced to limit his efforts to defense.

Evashevski said he lacks the maneuverability required for the left tackle position.

Jehle, Deasy Probable

Frank Bloomquist probably will see action at either right guard or right tackle. He was shifted from the No. 2 left guard to the left tackle group.

Primarily Defense
Tuesday's practice by the Hawkeye squad was devoted primarily to defense against Kansas State's offense.

Followers of the Iowa team were commenting on the improved running of Earl Smith and Eddie Vincent, halfbacks, and the improved passing of quarterback Jerry Reichow.

Evy Intangibles
Hawkeye football coach Forest Evashevski Tuesday warned Iowa followers not to set too high a standard for this year's Iowa football team.

Speaking at the annual luncheon of Iowa City's service clubs — Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis and Optimists — Evy said: "I am not underselling this team, but I do not want too high a standard set for it."

Some Intangibles
Evy said 1955 Iowa football fortunes depend on "intangibles over which we have no control at the moment."

He pointed out he hasn't given the team as much hard contact work as in previous years because of the fear of key players being injured.

Key Players

He also noted that several of these key players — quarterback Jerry Reichow, halfbacks Eddie Vincent and Earl Smith and guard Calvin Jones — are seniors, and wondered whether they might be able to rise above early-season disappointments, if there are any.

If they can, he said, the team may be a very good one. If they can't be indicated, it may be a very poor one.

Fight Is Delayed Until Tonight; Boxers Heavier

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Rocky Marciano and Archie Moore, sidelined for 24 hours by the empty threat of Hurricane Ione, weighed in heavier than expected Tuesday for tonight's heavyweight title bout at Yankee Stadium.

The tickle Ione scared Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, into announcing a one-day postponement in mid-morning.

Shortly after the noon weighing, the sun peeked through and the skies cleared. It would have been possible to have held the fight as Ione sliced out to sea.

Norris Prompted
Hundreds of calls from out-of-town ticket buyers who wanted to be sure before they left home prompted Norris to order the postponement because of the "uncertainty" of the weather.

The weather man predicted today would be fair with the thermometer hitting the 75-degree mark.

Avoid Conflict
Because the fight falls on a Wednesday night, it will be pushed back 15 minutes to 8:45 p.m. (Iowa time) to avoid conflict with the usual Wednesday television show, a middleweight bout at Miami between Bobby Dykes and George Johnson.

There will be no change in arrangements for the big bout, except the new starting time.

11-5 Favorite
Marciano, unbeaten in his 48-bout career, remained a 17-5 favorite to blunt the bid of the 38-year-old light heavy king, after the weigh-in and postponement. Marciano weighed 188 1/4, and Moore came in at 188. The Rock had been expected to weigh 187 and Moore 185 or 186.

Says Rocky Will Quit If He Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Allie Columbo, long-time friend and assistant trainer of Rocky Marciano, said Tuesday Marciano will retire if he wins the fight with Archie Moore tonight.

The heavyweight champ is reported to have about a half-million dollars in the bank and is tired of the training routine.

"He has been living the life of a hermit for the last four years, and he will quit for sure if he beats Moore," Columbo said.

At Least 2 Hawkeye Games To Be on TV

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System disclosed Tuesday it has received permission from the National Collegiate Athletic Association to telecast five Big Ten regional football games in Iowa.

The network said the games can be telecast by its four affiliate stations in the state providing Big Ten contests do not conflict with any other college games within a range of 90 miles of the station.

Iowa Stations
The network's stations in Iowa are KRNT-TV, Des Moines; WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids; KVTU, Sioux City, and KGLO-TV, Mason City.

Should a game involving a school in the contest's area conflict with the station's offer for TV, the station can negotiate with the school for permission to air the Big Ten game.

WMT-TV will be automatically cleared for telecasts of games involving Iowa.

All stations are clear of area games this Saturday. The Indiana-Michigan State game will be telecast.

NBC Games
The NCAA has a series of national and regional games. The national games, including the Iowa-Michigan game October 29, will be carried by all NBC outlets regardless of their location. The NBC outlet in this area is WOC-TV, Davenport. The Iowa-Michigan game will be televised in color.

On five Saturdays this fall, regional games will be shown throughout the country. Iowa is due to appear on one of these telecasts. The full schedule has not yet been announced by CBS, but the Iowa-Ohio State game at Columbus November 12 or the Iowa-Minnesota in Iowa City Nov. 5 is expected to be Iowa's

Father, Mother, Daughter at SUI—

Pastor, Family Will Commute from Letts

By STU HOPKINS
LETTS—When the Coxes go to college they make a cooperative enterprise of it.

Father, the Rev. Leo Cox, mother, and daughter Rachel have all registered for the fall term at the State University of Iowa.

The family is presently living in Letts, where the Rev. Mr. Cox is pastor of the Letts Methodist Church.

They plan to commute to Iowa City daily, bringing their lunch and eating breakfast and dinner in their parsonage home.

School of Religion
 The Rev. Mr. Cox has entered the School of Religion, working toward an M.A. He plans to continue his studies for a Ph.D.

Mrs. Cox registered as a special student.

Rachel is a freshman in liberal arts. She will enter the School of Music, taking piano and the saxophone.

She ordered a sax two weeks ago, and plans to start lessons before getting into the class.

Shorter Route
 The Coxes have found a route from Letts to Iowa City, over country gravel roads, that cuts 15 miles from the 52 mile route using Highways 218 and 92.

Mrs. Cox had hoped to be able to have a class schedule that would enable her to stay home at least two days of the school week and take care of the Cox home and the church work. But a skills class she registered for will necessitate her being in Iowa City Tuesday through Friday.

"I'll still manage to keep my home a home," she said.

The Rev. Mr. Cox will retain all of his duties at his church.

Moved to Letts
 The family moved to Letts in June, after a one year stay with a Methodist Church in Aberdeen, S.D.

Before that they had spent five years in Melbourne, Australia, where the Rev. Mr. Cox was principal of a bible school.

The family left for Australia in 1948 after the Rev. Mr. Cox received an appointment at the bible school.

They flew there, and returned January, 1955, by boat.

While in Melbourne Mrs. Cox assisted in bible school teaching and Rachel attended school.

Confusion
 There was some confusion as to what grade Rachel should be in.

Rachel said, "both on arrival in Australia and on returning here."

In Australia she was put in sixth grade, and after that had to take entrance exams into "what was called high school,

The Coxes have two other children, May, 12, and Martha, 8, both attending elementary grades at the Letts Consolidated School.

which is equivalent to our junior high."

When the family returned to the United States and the Rev. Mr. Cox became pastor of the Aberdeen Church, Rachel graduated from high school.

In addition to conducting the junior choir at the Letts church this summer, Rachel worked for the Muscatine Journal as replacement for persons on vacation.

Worked on Paper
 She worked on the sports desk, wrote society copy, and "even sat in the managing editor's chair one day."

Not as managing editor, she explains, but because he was on vacation and someone else was using her desk that day.

She is currently enrolling Letts' youngsters in a beginner's piano class.

In between the time she will spend choir directing, leading a Sunday school class, teaching piano and studying for her SUI courses, Rachel will be head janitor at the Letts Methodist Church.

Wants to Teach
 She hopes, after graduating from SUI "if we stay here that long," to teach piano and vocal.

Her mother taught for five years at Kansas State Teachers College and in elementary rural grades.

She and her husband met at Miltonvale (S.D.) junior college when they were both students there. Later the Rev. Mr. Cox was dean of the theological department at the school.

The family has always enjoyed doing things together, Mrs. Cox relates. One of their favorite pastimes is singing hymns while Rachel plays the piano.

The Coxes' two youngest daughters are both active in 4-H work.

Student Wins First Prize for Essay

Franklin L. Hartman, A4, was notified Tuesday that his essay "Loyalty and Security" won first prize in the essay contest of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science fraternity.

Students from about 50 universities and colleges took part in the contest.

Hartman received the William Jennings Bryan award for the paper at the June, 1955, commencement. The Bryan award is given annually to the author of the best paper written in Political Science Department courses.

RULES FOR A VOTE
DES MOINES (AP)—The attorney general's office, in response to a question raised by Davis County Attorney Richard Wright of Bloomfield, ruled a vote of the people is necessary to approve levy of an additional one-mill tax to finance an addition to an existing county hospital.

Truckers Say Government Favors Rails

WASHINGTON (AP)—A spokesman for truckers attacked the administration's new transportation policy Tuesday as leading to destruction of the motor transport industry and a monopoly for railroads.

A representative of the railroads testified the policy would correct an "indefensible situation" arising from unjust government restraints applied to rail lines but not to much of their competition.

Into the transportation policy battle, developing before a House Commerce subcommittee, the rival industries sent James F. Pinkney, general counsel of American Trucking Assn.'s Inc., and J. Carter Fort, vice-president and general counsel of the Association of American Railroads.

As a basis for possible legislation, the subcommittee is considering a report by a Cabinet-level presidential committee. This proposes to rewrite the transportation law and ease up on federal regulation of railroads and other common carriers.

Trucker Pinkney said the new philosophy of regulation would "seriously injure all forms of surface transportation" with the possible exception of the railroads.

Taking a directly opposite stand, Fort said the advisory committee's recommendations "are designed to lay the groundwork for a more efficient and economical development and use of our national transportation plant and in that way reduce the over-all cost of transportation to shippers and to the general public."

Brucker Says Appointment Was Surprise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wilber Marion Brucker says he doesn't have the foggiest notion why President Eisenhower named him secretary of the Army.

One well-informed guess is that he knew the right people—or the right people knew him. This guess, right out of the Republican National Committee, goes this way:

A Michigan man, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, suggested to another Michigan man, Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson, that Brucker, still another Michigan man, would be good at the job. Wilson passed the suggestion on to the President.

Succeeded Stevens

Until he was elevated by Eisenhower to succeed Robert T. Stevens, Brucker had been operating quietly for more than a year as general counsel to the Department of Defense.

For 22 years he had been a Detroit lawyer. His chief claim to fame was that he was the last surviving Republican who had held office as governor when Herbert Hoover was President.

In those 22 years he amassed, if not a fortune, then considerable wealth. He became a wheel in the American Legion, the Masons and Knights Templar.

Now 61, Brucker, now 51, is 5 feet 10 and 182 pounds of affability. He is a churchgoing Presbyterian, non-smoking, non-drinking disciple of Herbert Hoover. He and Hoover are great personal friends and see eye to eye on the theory that government should stay out of competition with private enterprise.

For the last 24 years in and out of politics, Brucker has been a trend-bucker.

When he was governor in 1931-32 and the country was tiring of prohibition, Brucker supported the dries.

While the bottom was dropping out of the nation's economy and the tendency was to create government jobs, Brucker was cutting his state's payroll and consolidating offices.

Brucker ran for re-election but was defeated in the Democratic landslide of 1932. In 1936 he ran for the Senate and was defeated by Prentiss Brown.

Through 20 long and politically lean years Brucker remained faithful to the party. In 1952 the tide finally shifted and Eisenhower was elected. In the campaign Brucker was a member of the Republicans' Speakers Bureau.

Moved Quietly
Except for three years in the Army and two years as governor, Brucker's life has moved quietly.

He was born June 23, 1894, the third and youngest son of Ferdinand Brucker, a lawyer and Democratic congressman. He was 4 when his father was defeated for re-election and 9 when his father died.

"We were in pretty bad shape," he recalls. "My father had been ill for six years, and that sapped all the family fortune."

Hard Worker
Brucker pulled mustard weeds out of corn fields at a penny a row to help out further. Except for time in school, he has worked nearly all his life.

He worked his way through the University of Michigan at assorted jobs and in summers worked in a lumberyard at Saginaw, starting at 50 cents a day.

It was while he was at the university that Brucker enlisted in the National Guard—just in time to be mustered into federal service. He went off to the Mexican border in 1916 with the 33d Michigan.

Entered War
When the regiment returned from the border, the United States had entered World War I. "Ours," Brucker said, "was the only regiment that came back from the border and remained in federal service. I was sent to Ft. Sheridan for officer training. I was one of two picked from the regiment."

As a second lieutenant, he shipped out to France with the 42d Rainbow Division and went through the Chateau-Thierry and Meuse-Argonne campaigns.

Silver Star
He won a Silver Star for valor and a Purple Heart for wounds. He came out of the war a first lieutenant and acting company commander.

Brucker married Clara Hensel, daughter of a Saginaw minister, in 1923. He was then acting prosecutor for Saginaw County.

He moved up to county prosecutor and then went to Lansing as an assistant attorney general. In 1928 he was elected attorney general. In 1930 he became, at 38, the second youngest governor in Michigan's history.

Though he was the son of a Democratic congressman, Brucker has always been a Republican. Does he have a philosophy for operation of the Army?

Not yet, he says. He hasn't had time to formulate one. He's still too busy learning the mechanics of the job.

Officials Tell How Company Got Federal Loan Guarantee

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Harvey Machine Co. of California obtained its federal loan guarantee and power contract for its Oregon aluminum project after threatening to sue the government for $70 million, government officials disclosed Tuesday.

Harvey's suit for alleged repudiation of contract was prepared by the New York law firm of which Thomas E. Dewey, former New York governor and twice the Republican presidential nominee, is senior partner.

The company waived its claim only after a conference this summer between James E. Nickerson of the Dewey firm and high officials of four government agencies. Administration lawyers decided Harvey had a case at least good enough to cost the government "many millions" if taken to court.

Obtained Pledge
This, officials said, explains how Harvey obtained the pledge of a federal guarantee, announced a week ago, for its private borrowing to finance the long-delayed $75-million aluminum plant on the Columbia River at The Dalles, Ore.

Such guarantees have been contrary to government policy, except for crucial military items like titanium, since the Eisenhower administration took office.

Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming, who supplied the information in an interview and authorized other officials to release full details, said the general policy is unchanged.

Contract Terms
Flemming and the others emphasized, however, that the contract terms are advantageous to the government and that the Harvey firm has demonstrated technical ability of a high order.

In the settlement the company obtained, in addition, federal tax benefits to help its financing, as agreed in December, 1952, plus a guarantee—as agreed in May, 1953—that the government will buy up to 270,000 tons of its early aluminum output and if necessary make advance payments on this output to help the firm finance construction.

New Concession
The guarantee of Harvey's bank borrowing is a new concession, however. The General Services Administration, government purchasing agency, granted it as part of the price of the out-of-court settlement.

Government officials related the story this way:
The case began in 1952 when the government announced a "third round" of aluminum expansion because of the Korean War. It invited new, independent producers into the industry with the lures of rapid tax write-offs and guaranteed-purchase contracts.

Harvey obtained its tax certificate in December, 1952, signed a contract with the Bonneville Power Administration in January, 1953, for electric power, and in May obtained GSA's letter of intent guaranteeing that the government would buy up to 54,000 tons of its aluminum annually for five years.

The company bought a plant site and in May, 1953, began preliminary construction. But Congress failed to appropriate funds for power transmission facilities to the plant.

The item was omitted from President Eisenhower's next budget message. In the 1954 message the President said an item for the transmission facilities would be submitted later. But no request reached Congress.

Last April, Harvey notified the government that it had suffered $70 million in damages because of the government's failure to honor its commitments. The threat to sue followed.

SOLAR POWER
NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time, the sun's energy will be used to power a rural telephone line, near Americus, Ga., the Bell Telephone Laboratories announced. The line, using power from a newly developed solar battery, will go into service Oct. 4. The new rural telephone system will use tiny transistors in place of vacuum tubes.

Milwaukee Railroad To Extend Route

CHICAGO (AP)—A 75-year-old train interchange of operation will be juggled Oct. 30 when the Milwaukee Road takes over a 488-mile passenger run on the route between Chicago and San Francisco-Los Angeles.

The shift in relations between Western roads was made public Tuesday.

The Milwaukee Road—the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Co.—will take over the Chicago-Omaha segment of the coast service. For three-fourths of a century the Chicago and Northwestern Railway has operated the service, connecting it with the Union Pacific for the run to San Francisco. The Southern Pacific handles part of the route to San Francisco.

North Western Steps Out
The North Western is stepping out, its president, Paul E. Feucht said. It will continue to operate Chicago-to-Omaha and intermediate passenger service but will concentrate on building up fast freight service along the double and triple-track divisions involved.

Feucht said the North Western's part of the joint deluxe through-service operation has proved too costly.

John P. Kiley, Milwaukee president, told reporters he is "happy" over the new arrangement and believes that for his road "it will operate at profit."

Helpful Tieup
Leo T. Crowley, Milwaukee chairman, said "we are very pleased to tie up with Union Pacific. It will be helpful and profitable to our stockholders."

Although confirming the change, A. E. Stoddard, president of the Union Pacific, left the bulk of discussion about it to North Western and Milwaukee executives.

The effects of the shift will include some schedule changes in operation of through passenger trains between Chicago and such Western cities as Denver, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Portland, Ore., but no substantial change in running time, Kiley said. These changes will be announced later.

Chicago arrivals and departures will be shifted from the North Western's station on West Madison street to the Union Depot at Canal and Van Buren streets.

Trains affected include the City of Denver, the City of Los Angeles, the City of San Francisco, the City of Portland, and the Challenger.

Then, over the years, came an automobile, a truck and a 12-foot plank hurled by a wind-torn.

Now another truck has smashed 19 windows, moved the foundation, cracked plaster in all rooms and knocked off part of the veranda.

Mrs. Eaton said: "I think we'll move soon."

Missing Sioux City Boy Back

SIoux CITY (AP)—Search for a missing Sioux City boy ended Tuesday when the lad turned up at his aunt's home and said he had been close by while the search was in progress. He was unhurt.

The boy is Donald Wade Hollister, 11, son of Mrs. Mildred Joyce Hollister of Sioux City. The parents are estranged.

Donald had been sought since 6:30 p.m. when he left the Sioux City home of his aunt, Mrs. Wilbur Thorson. She assumed he had left for his mother's home in South Sioux City.

Mrs. Thorson said Donald told her he spent the night on the porch of a neighbor of Mrs. Thorson. Donald said his aunt and others passed him a number of times while they hunted for him. He also said he was present at the scene of a fire at a block from his aunt's home Monday night.

The boy's father, Arnold Hollister of Omaha, arrived in Sioux City Tuesday morning to aid in the search. Until recently the boy had been staying with his father.

Mrs. Thorson and police officers who later questioned the boy said he did not give any reason for not going home but officers surmised he was afraid because he had played hooky from school Monday.

Citizens To Meet On School Problems

Citizens of Iowa City will get a chance to say what they think about school problems at Iowa City High School tonight.

They are invited to attend the second meeting of the Johnson County Conference on Education at 7:30 p.m. in the school building.

At the meeting they will have the opportunity to take part in the discussions and present their ideas on Iowa City's educational problems.

State Report

A report of their ideas will be made to the Iowa school leaders, who will compile a state report from the 99 county reports.

The Iowa report will be presented to federal education officials in Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.

The county-level meetings are part of a nation-wide program initiated by President Eisenhower in 1954 to get the ideas of citizens on school problems.

Enrollment Rise

The Department of Health, Welfare and Education estimates that there will be an increase in enrollment of 1,658,500 over last year's enrollment. S. M. Brownell, commissioner of education, estimates that there will be a shortage throughout the United States of 141,300 qualified teachers for the term just starting.

Tonight's meeting at Iowa City High School will cover eight areas of discussion.

Among the questions under discussion are: (1) What should our schools accomplish? (2) How can we get enough good teachers and keep them? (3) What are our school building needs? (4) How can we obtain a continuing public interest in education?

SUI Students Can Become 'Big Brothers'

State University of Iowa students have an opportunity to brighten the life of a little boy or girl in the Iowa Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

Students are invited to take advantage of the Big Brother and Big Sister programs at the hospital, hospital Recreation Supervisor Merville L. Mevarden, said Tuesday.

Assistants are also needed to help with Boy and Girl Scout activities from 3:30 to 4:30 afternoons. Four girls and eight boys are needed. The hospital needs 103 Big Sisters and 51 Big Brothers to spend an hour each week with a little brother or sister during the following hours.

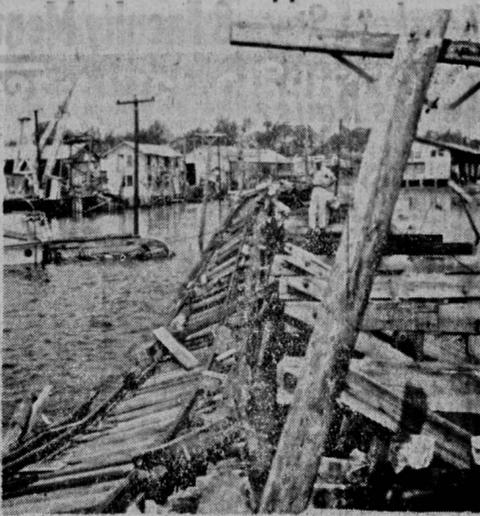

Weekdays: 4:30-5:30 p.m. (Wednesdays 2-5:30 p.m.)

Saturdays: 9 a.m.-noon; 2-5:30 p.m.

Sunday: 2-5:30 p.m.

Hundreds of SUI students have participated in this program in the past, helping these children to be well in spirit, though crippled in body. Students are invited to inquire at the hospital's booth at registration or contact Mevarden for further information.

Briefing Helps Kids Lose Drill Fear, Dentist Says

Taking children who are dental patients into your confidence and explaining the dental work to them in advance will make them better dental patients, a State University of Iowa professor told a group of practicing Iowa dentists Tuesday.

Dr. Kenneth Wessels, head of the Department of Preventive Dentistry and Pedodontics in the SUI College of Dentistry, told 12 dentists attending a post-graduate course in children's dentistry that appealing to the child's feeling of self-importance and making him feel that he is a very vital part of the procedure will do away with many of the problems connected with a youngster's visit to the dentist.

Dr. Wessels also stressed the need for early visits to the dentist, saying that children should see a dentist by the time they are three years old.

He added that parents could help in creating a healthy attitude in the child by having a natural, routine outlook toward dental visits, thus instilling a good attitude on the part of the child.

Highway Commission Plans More Widenings

AMES (AP) — The State Highway Commission indicated Tuesday it plans to continue its present highway-widening procedure despite a suggestion by the Associated General Contractors that a different method be used.

Irving Jensen of Sioux City, president of the Associated General Contractors of Iowa, said the AGC recommends that pavement widening, shoulder widening and resurfacing of the entire pavement be done in one operation.

Earlier Tuesday, Russell Lundy of Des Moines, commission chairman, said that because widening of pavement is the most urgent safety factor the commission is widening the pavement as a first step. Later it will widen the shoulders and then it will resurface the widened pavement.

"Apparently the commission and the contractors are in agreement as to what is needed and the type of program desired," Lundy said.

"The only difference of opinion is on how to proceed." The AGC and the Iowa Good Roads Association appeared by invitation at a commission hearing to present their views on Iowa's highway program. Charles T. Cownie, Des Moines, speaking for the good roads group, stressed the need of a long-range program to meet continually growing traffic needs. Lundy replied that such a long-range program definitely is part of the new commission's planning but until it is ready some widening work must proceed to meet immediate needs.

Lundy and Robert Beck, Centerville, commission member, said the widening program will be continued into 1956 on a basis of feasibility and need. The 1956 work also will include important grading projects and a large new paving program.

Some of the shoulder widening on roads already widened also is planned for 1956. Jensen, speaking for the contractors, said AGC recommends "widening with modernization." He said roads to be widened should be chosen carefully. Along with widening, he said, geometric design should be corrected to meet standards of the American Association of State Highway Officials.

Jensen also said bridges should be inspected carefully before a decision is made on whether to widen or replace them. He said widening, shoulder work and resurfacing should proceed simultaneously.
