Arms Sales Delay Peace, Dulles Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles disclosed Tuesday he has twice told Russia that Communist arms shipments to Egypt would not "contribute" to lessening the world's strains.

He said American officials "still hope it will be possible to avoid" getting into any arms race in the Middle East.

Dulles also said "there is every reason to anticipate that before long it will be possible to talk to the President" about any foreign policy matters that may become urgent.

Dulles stressed that Mr. Eisenhower's illness has not interfered with carrying out the nation's foreign policy because the National Security Council has continued to operate along lines previously approved by Mr. Eisenhower.

1st Conference in Month Dulles, appearing at his first news conference in a month, said he personally told Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in New York that Communist weapons deliveries to Egypt "would not contribute to relaxing tensions."

Dulles declined to reveal Molotov's reply but said this problem was discussed on two occasions during the past two weeks when he was in New York to attend United Nations meetings.

Dulles said his remarks to Molotov were similar to a statement he issued at his news conference Tuesday in which he said "it is not easy or pleasant to speculate on the probable motives of the Soviet bloc leaders" in shipping weapons.

Czech Weapons Egypt plans to buy weapons from Red Czechoslovakia in exchange for cotton.

Dulles left open the possibility of the United States sending arms to Israel to balance any Communist military shipments to Egypt and other Arab countries. He said, in reply to questions, it was impossible to say whether American arms shipments were a "likely prospect," because it would depend on the amount and type of Communist arms provided Arab countries.

Dulles reported he has no reason to believe, despite Asst. Secretary George Allen's talks with high Egyptian leaders, that Egypt would abandon its announced plan of buying Czech weapons.

Flood Nears Texas City

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—The crest of a swelling flood Tuesday night neared this North Texas city where hundreds already had been chased from their homes. Floods also hit parts of Oklahoma.

Civilian Defense Director Steven Marchand said more than 500 persons will have fled their homes before muddy waters of Holiday Creek recede here.

Marchand said the rate of rise on Holiday Creek was slowing and the end was in sight.

The Wichita River where it skirts the eastern edge of the city was expected to crest at 21 feet late Tuesday night or early Wednesday. Early Tuesday afternoon the stage was 20.51.

About 100 persons were evacuated from their homes in low lying areas along the North Canadian River at Oklahoma City.

Moist Air Brings Light Rains to City

Light rains fell in Iowa City Tuesday night and are predicted to continue through today, ending this evening. Cloudy skies are forecast for Thursday.

A wide current of moisture laden air from the South is responsible for the showers which have covered most of the Middle West.

The Weather Bureau reported that rainfall amounted to only a few hundredths of an inch in most places, but Lamoni received .79 inches Tuesday afternoon.

Temperatures today are expected to reach from 64 to 72 degrees locally. At noon Tuesday, the temperature was 71 degrees.

Horror Comic Books Are Gone

LOOKING OVER COMIC BOOKS in an Iowa City drug store is Lowell Stanfield, 14, 1512 Broadway St. Lowell would have quite a different assortment to pick from if Iowa City police and local merchants and comic book distributors had not cooperated in a year long drive to rid Iowa City of horror comics.

Cooperation Rids City Of Horror Comics

By STU HOPKINS One year ago the Iowa City Police Department asked the aid of local merchants in ridding city news stands of horror comic books. Not a single comic book of that class was found on local news stands in a Daily Iowan survey Tuesday.

The nearest thing to the "horror" category was "House of Mystery," a comic featuring tales of mad scientists and haunted houses.

Horror Missing The diabolical plots, weird creatures and violence that were the main objection of the horror brand of comics were absent, however, from even this one magazine.

Detective Lieutenant Harland Sprinkle, who last September contacted news dealers and asked their cooperation, said "We are and will continue checking on news stands for the type of book which we think might have a morally degrading effect on youth."

City officials have no legal power to censor books.

Cooperation 'Gratifying' "It has been gratifying to know merchants as well as distributors of comic books and other magazines have taken it upon themselves to remove these books," Sprinkle said.

Last week two magazines were removed from Iowa City stands at Sprinkle's suggestion.

The majority of the magazines found on the stands Tuesday were of the "animal" category—"Bugs Bunny," "Super Duck," and other popular cartoon characters.

Romance Stories At least two dozen were in the romance category.

Evidently taking the place of the horror comics in giving children their fill of action and violence are war comics.

Titles here included "Army War," "Battle Attack," "Battle Front," and "Navy Patrol." Almost all the "stories" included vivid pictures of men on both sides of the battle lines, getting shot and killed.

Quiet Campaigns The 1954 campaign was not the result of any pressure by civic or social groups. Largely it was the result of Sprinkle's quiet approach to dealers.

"It's not always easy to tell where to draw the line," Sprinkle said, "but usually when flagrant violations in reading matter appear, dealers are wonderful in cooperating to keep them off the stands."

Several Iowa City merchants reported turning back comic books and other magazines as "unfit for youngsters."

Suggestive Covers "There are still a great many pocket books with suggestive covers though," Sprinkle commented.

"A survey of these books indicated that the content is much milder than the cover, however," Sprinkle reported that he knows of no distributor of por-

Throw Away Arms, Menon Urges World

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—India's V. K. Krishna Menon called on the world Tuesday to renounce war and throw away its atomic weapons.

"There is only one way before the world and that is for the nations to renounce war as an instrument of national policy," he said at the end of a two hour speech closing the UN Assembly's general debate.

Abandon War "Disarmament is not the way. We can establish peace only if the nations have decided to abandon war. That is possible once confidence is established. You cannot reconcile dreams with schemes."

The Indian chief delegate, who is the top advisor on foreign affairs to Prime Minister Nehru, again urged a halt on experiments with nuclear weapons pending an international agreement on disarmament. He also advocated direct talks between the United States and Red China and expressed satisfaction at the way matters are going between those two countries.

Moderate Tone His address was moderate and conciliatory, in keeping with the line taken by most of the 45 chief delegates who spoke in the general debate.

Krishna Menon was one of the leaders in obtaining the 28-27 vote last Friday by which the UN Assembly decided to consider the Flaming Algerian issue. As a result of that vote the French delegation walked from the Assembly. Krishna Menon appealed Tuesday to the French, whose space was vacant, to return.

Officials Lead Liquor Raid COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP)—Iowa State Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer and R. W. Nebergall, chief of the Iowa Bureau of Criminal Investigation, were part of a raiding party that seized more than 50 bottles of liquor Tuesday night at a suburban restaurant.

Earlier Nebergall and Moyer held conferences here and in neighboring Omaha concerning law enforcement.

Millionaire Leads In Brazil Election

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Adhemar de Barros, multimillionaire ex-governor of Sao Paulo state, pulled into an impressive lead Tuesday night in scattered returns from Brazil's presidential election.

But the tallied ballots represented only about four per cent of the total expected vote and the final result still could prove close.

Final results are expected from the large cities within the next few days but the winner of the election may not be known before the end of the week. Final official totals are not expected for 15 days.

Ike Resting Well, Signs 10 Papers

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower continued to make satisfactory progress toward recovery Tuesday and signed half a dozen more official documents, the most since his heart attack.

One of the papers he signed during a 10-minute business conference with his top assistant, Sherman Adams, released $500,000 of disaster relief funds which the Agriculture Department will use for conservation measures in the hurricane-flood damaged states of Connecticut, Massachusetts and North Carolina.

Three of the signatures were on commissions for federal positions and one was on a letter accepting the resignation of Jack K. McFall as ambassador to Finland.

Like the President, McFall has a heart condition and that was the reason for turning in his resignation.

A second consecutive night of good rest dispelled the last traces of concern over the President's Sunday night weariness.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said Adams will fly to Washington Wednesday evening to attend sessions of the National Security Council Thursday and the Cabinet Friday. He will return Saturday, accompanied by Boston heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, as previously announced.

City Groups Set Debates On Policies

Iowa City's two political groups have scheduled debates and speeches to carry their campaign speeches to carry their campaigns to the voters between now and the Nov. 8 city election.

Two debates between leaders of the Council-Manager Association (CMA) and Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL) have been scheduled.

Daykin-Dunlop Debate City councilman Walter Daykin, supporter of city manager government, will debate Ken Dunlop, a member of the anti-manager NPTL, before the Men's Club at the Unitarian Church Oct. 18.

NPTL chairman Edward L. O'Connor will debate councilman Ansel Chapman Oct. 28 before the Unitarian Church's Worthley Club.

Dale Welt, a member of the CMA, will talk to the Iowa City Optimists Club today on city manager government.

The CMA's three council candidates will speak at a meeting of the Iowa City League of Women Voters Oct. 10.

After their speeches, they will answer questions from League members.

CMA Candidates The CMA candidates are Louis Loria, Prof. Phillip Morgan and George Dvorsky.

O'Connor said the NPTL candidates would be announced before Oct. 11, which is the deadline for filing for the city council race.

The CMA will hold a coffee meeting Oct. 20 at the Herbert Hoover Grade School. City councilmen will be at the meeting for informal discussions.

O'Connor said that the NPTL's program had not been worked out. In August, he said the group would attempt to bring officials of non-city manager cities in Iowa here for talks.

Two Days Remain To Pay Tuition

There are two days left to pay tuition fees for the first semester at the State University of Iowa. Students can pay their fees from 8:15 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. at the University Treasurer's office in University Hall today, and Thursday.

A $2 fine will be charged Friday for late fee payment. After that, $1 will be added to the fines for each late day.

Switch Student Grid Trip to Notre Dame

The student football trip has been changed from Michigan to Notre Dame, Ron Dowd, A3, Vinton, chairman of the Student Council Trip Committee, said Tuesday.

Dowd said that the trip was changed mainly due to televising of the Michigan game, but also because of the length of the trip.

Plans for the Notre Dame visit, Dowd said, were recommended to the Faculty-Student Trip Committee by the Hawk-I Pep Club and the Student Trip Committee of the Student Council. The change was then approved by President Hancher.

The Pep Club backed the change from Michigan to Wisconsin, and when that was not feasible, suggested Notre Dame.

Dowd said that 70 tickets will be available for the Notre Dame travelers, but that distribution plans are not complete.

Cost, Dowd estimated, will be about $13. He emphasized that this will cover only bus fare and admission to the game. He said that the trip will take about seven and one-half hours each way.

Officials To Study Fraternity Parking

Parking problems in the Ellis Avenue-Mott Circle area will be discussed at a meeting of fraternal representatives and Iowa City officials at 7:30 p.m. today in the house chamber of Old Capitol.

City officials have pointed out that congested parking in the area, commonly called "fraternity circle," might hinder fire equipment answering a call in the area.

Fraternities invited to the meeting: Delta Sigma Delta, Phi Kappa, Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Upsilon, Phi Epsilon Pi, Theta Xi, Nu Sigma Nu, Delta Chi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Other Speakers Carl Zimmerman, I3, Waterloo, club president, said Tuesday that other prominent GOP speakers will appear through the school year.

The speakers: Gov. Leo A. Hoegh, Charles K. McWhorter, national chairman of the Young Republicans, and two of the Iowans who toured Russia this summer.

Schwengel's talk tonight will highlight the part college students can play in politics, the farm and highway issues, and his political internships and scholarships. (Under the political internship plan jointly sponsored by Schwengel and the Republican and Democratic parties, 12 Iowa college students spend a week in Washington, D.C. each summer observing the functioning of the government.)

Wants Student Views Zimmerman said Schwengel would like to hear the views of students on current political issues.

The SUI Young Republicans will try to organize clubs at Iowa State Teachers College and Iowa's 22 private schools this year, Zimmerman said.

This, he said, would be the club's major project for 1955-56. He asked that SUI students who know Republicans at these colleges contact him.

He said the SUI group would send them materials and aid in organizing their groups.

Battles Rage In Morocco

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—French troops battled rebel mountain tribesmen Tuesday in the fourth straight day of scattered vicious clashes in Eastern and Northern Morocco.

A major battle appeared to be brewing a few miles south of the Spanish Moroccan border.

The fighting was principally in the Rif Mountains between Taza and the Spanish Moroccan border, some 150 miles west of Rabat. But there were widespread guerrilla-type attacks in sparsely settled areas and the French were hard-pressed to stem the violence.

The tribal raids began a few hours after Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Atafa, with a strong push from the French, left his palace in Rabat and flew to the international city of Tangier. The Sultan's removal was part of a French plan for Moroccan reforms.

Charge Man Forged Check For $1,931

A man wanted in Washington County on charges of forging a $1,931 check was arrested Tuesday afternoon near here by an Iowa City policeman and a highway patrolman.

Martin Hapler Piliser, Cedar Rapids, allegedly passed the check at an Ainsworth bank earlier Tuesday after signing the name of an Ainsworth area farmer, Lee Ebner.

Washington County Sheriff Charles C. Snyder alerted the highway patrol when notified of the forgery, police said.

Spot Forger's Car Both Sgt. Richard Lee, Iowa City Police Department, and Highway Patrolman J. L. Smith spotted Piliser's car on Highway 218 near the Iowa City sanitary land fill about 3:45 p.m.

Lee, in a city patrol car, and Smith, in a State Highway Patrol car, pulled Piliser's car to the shoulder after they had followed him for a short way.

Piliser did not try to get away, the law officers said.

Brought to Iowa City After his arrest Piliser was brought to the Iowa City police station. The Washington County sheriff was notified and he took Piliser back to face the forgery charges.

The Ainsworth assistant cashier who exchanged Piliser's forged check for a cashier's check said he checked the signature shortly after Piliser left the bank.

Piliser had told him he was selling cattle to Ebner. The cashier, Cleo Orris, became suspicious and called Ebner. He learned Ebner had been in Muscatine all day, and was buying no cattle.

Orris then notified Snyder.

Tried To Cash Check Piliser stopped in Lone Tree where he tried to cash the check, police said. The Lone Tree marshal, who had heard the alert, spotted Piliser's car and notified Iowa City authorities that Piliser was headed north out of Lone Tree.

Iowa City Police Tuesday night were checking the motor number of the car Piliser was driving to determine if it was stolen.

Finally a Change

After months of indecision and argument, the official student football trip was changed Tuesday from the Michigan game to the Notre Dame game.

The change approved Tuesday by President Hancher is an improvement, but it still leaves much to be desired.

Last spring, the student-faculty trip committee met and chose Michigan as the official student trip for this football season. The choice was then approved by President Hancher.

Soon after, many students voiced disapproval of the choice and the Hawk-I Pep Club registered a formal protest.

June rolled around and nothing had been done. The Pep Club made a survey of housing unit leaders which showed that Wisconsin was the most popular choice for the student trip.

The Pep Club submitted the results of the survey to the committee, pointing out that the Michigan game will be televised and that many students considered it too long a trip.

But due to an illness of the trip committee chairman, a committee meeting was not called during the summer.

Pep Club leaders contacted the Iowa ticket office during the summer and reserved about 75 tickets for the Wisconsin game. Their plan was to sponsor a trip to Wisconsin whether or not the committee decided to change their choice.

But last month the Pep Club's plans went down the drain when they found out that the tickets supposedly reserved for them had been sold.

Pep Club leaders were told the reason for this was because of confusion as to whether the club could sponsor a trip in its own right.

The club leaders, who had talked with Dean Faunce about sponsoring the trip, naturally were dismayed in the light of what seemed to be a broken promise. They then did the next best thing and proposed the Notre Dame game. Many students had shown interest in attending this game at South Bend.

The Student Council in a recent meeting also proposed that the trip be changed to Notre Dame.

The proposal was finally passed on to President Hancher Tuesday and the trip was changed to Notre Dame.

There are three outstandingly bad points to this issue, and we hope that the committee will not make the same errors next year.

First, the committee should have been more conscious of the wishes of the students. Interest has always been high for the Wisconsin game and the distance between here and Madison is reasonable.

Second, the committee should have found a way to consider the change long before this. It has been obvious for several months that the chosen trip was being met with much discontent.

Third, if the Pep Club was promised 75 tickets would be reserved for the Wisconsin game, then those tickets should have been saved. There doesn't seem to be any justification for selling those tickets.

Pep Club and Student Council members are to be commended for their hard work on this issue in the interest of the students. We hope next year the situation will be rectified so that their hard work won't be necessary.

Letter to the Editor

Prejudgments Cause Much Prejudice, Says Student

(Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses—typed representative letters when many on the same subject are received, or withhold letters. Contributors are limited to not more than two letters in any 30-day period. Opinions expressed do not necessarily represent those of The Daily Iowan.)

I could not determine from your letter of Sept. 29, 1955, whether you were disturbed because "colored" girls were unfriendly to you or whether "un-colored" girls, who though more friendly than "colored" girls, still, were not friendly enough to dance with you.

You were as much in error as the girl who told you to, "Go to your people," when you approached American Negro girls assuming these are my people. Yes Mr. Nchami, they are of the same race, but their cultural backgrounds are different. You must consider this before you approach someone expecting them to receive you as a "long lost cousin."

Whereas, you may have had the opportunity to associate with American Negroes, most of us, unfortunately, have had little or no opportunity to associate with African Negroes. Because we know so little about Africa and Africans, no doubt we do appear strange and withdrawn to you. Most American Negroes have a negative attitude toward Africa because of their lack of enlightenment of the true 20th Century Africa. A great deal that any of us know about Africa, we have gained through the media of motion pictures which left us far from being impressed.

Certainly the lack of tolerance and understanding of both of our groups caused this unpleasant incident. People may prejudice others, because one group forms negative attitudes based on misconceptions concerning the other. These prejudgments become prejudice only if they are not revised to new knowledge. Mr. Nchami, all that is asked is that you give people a chance to know and understand you before assuming that they are prejudiced toward you.

I know a man of your intelligence is capable of dispelling all misconceptions people have regarding Africans and Africa. The near future is sure to find a more perfect social harmony between Africans and Americans. Let us hope that some of this harmony can be found at SUI, one of America's most liberal educational institutions.

Too Many Student Cars—

Others Have Traffic Woes

Editor's Note: SUI is not alone in its problems of student parking and driving. Other universities and colleges have the same worries. Printed below are editorials from other Big 10 schools on their individual situations. The first is from the Indiana Daily Student, the student publication of Indiana University.

Just as the term has begun, the first student has been suspended for possessing an automobile illegally in Monroe county.

Last June, the Board of Trustees resolved that all freshmen and students on academic probation would be prohibited from possessing automobiles because of their "distracting influence" on academic performance.

Since these students may not register their vehicles and receive an I. U. decal for their automobile window, any persons violating the rule are subject to arrest by the Division of Safety.

Traffic Board

After arrest, the violator is called in for conference with a committee composed of two administrators and two students. The supreme penalty he may receive is suspension from the University.

Similar situations exist at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Purdue University, and the University of Illinois—all Big 10 schools.

The first instance of violation and suspension is example that rule will be enforced.

The next editorial is taken from the University of Wisconsin's newspaper, the Daily Cardinal:

Last week, the department of protection and security set some sort of record for the handing out of tickets for traffic violations.

Hundreds of students, some well aware of the driving and parking regulations, others who were quickly informed of them, were served notice that the university intends to back up its rules to the hilt this year.

If only the crackdown would serve to ease the miserable automobile situation on this campus. All it serves to do is point up the dilemma before us.

Inherited Problems

Of all the problems which the university inherited after World War II, the driving and parking problem has been the most conspicuous and confusing. Matters are getting steadily worse, as new buildings replace former parking lots and more students bring their cars to campus. Handing out tickets to traffic violators may ease the situation for a week or two, but adds nothing constructive to the solving of the problem.

Elementary Decision

The university must either cut down on the number of cars on this campus, or add to the available parking space. This seems rather elementary.

Assuming that all the available space must be used for construction of badly needed classroom buildings and dorms, then the answer lies in fewer cars to use what streets and parking lots the campus area can boast.

If the university should, for example, permit no student living on campus to own a car in Madison, it would raise a hue and cry that would take years to quell. Yet such a move would be at least aimed at the heart of the matter, and if carried out, would serve to alter the present situation.

Radical Steps Needed

It is clear that some radical steps have got to be taken, before we all come to hold a car in higher regard than an education.

As long as the university permits students to own cars while finding no place for students to drive or park them, then it should not spank students for trying to do so.

This is what the new dirge of parking tickets amounts to.

South Korean Economy Hit By Inflation, Budget Deficit

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's economy, plagued by a spiraling inflation, is in for rough sailing during the next six months, according to American officials here.

They fear that unless the Korean government takes drastic steps soon to exercise more stringent money controls, all the aid money in the world won't put this republic back on its feet.

Large Army Burden

However, this apprehension is tempered by the knowledge that so long as South Korea continues to shoulder the burden of maintaining the world's fourth largest standing Army—now 20 divisions—she will never reach stabilization as Americans know it. The price of rice—the nation's main staple—has doubled on the open market and now costs 14,000 hwan (about $28) for an adequate monthly supply for a family of six.

Budget Deficit

Latest estimates are that South Korea will end up with a budgetary deficit of from 30 to 35 million hwan by next June.

This has all occurred since the ROK's signed an agreement with the United States last November to take measures to curb inflation.

It was one of several assurances given American officials by South Korea in a minute of understanding which paved the way for a 700-million-dollar aid program for the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Private Ownership

They have so far shown no inclination to encourage private ownership of major industries and utilities now owned or subsidized by the government—such as the banks, railroads, power companies and coal companies.

Any hope for extensive trade with Japan faded several weeks ago when the ROK's issued a sweeping ban on Korean trade or travel to Japan.

U.S. Money Sold

A current move by the ROK Finance Ministry is the offering for sale of some seven million hard-to-get U.S. dollars to Korean traders who will promise to buy needed consumer products for import and sale on local markets.

The market rate is about 800 hwan for one U.S. dollar. The official rate, until two weeks ago, was 180-1. Now it is 500-1.

The United States has already pumped 900 million dollars into South Korea since the end of war in 1953 and has earmarked 628 million dollars for the present fiscal year.

YWCA Members Cheer Lives Of Young Hospital Patients

By KAY CROSS

An enormous task of making confinement in a hospital not quite so lonely is being continued this year by the Young Women's Christian Association at the State University of Iowa.

The coeds devote part of their free time to brightening patients' lives with entertainment and affection.

Transportation to the hospitals is not provided. The girls make the jaunt across the river on foot. They receive no credit or pay; simply a satisfaction that they have helped.

Hospital Board Meeting

The annual fall orientation meeting of the YWCA Hospital Board will be held Thursday at 4:30 p.m. at the Shambaugh lecture room in the University Library.

Any girl willing to donate an hour or more of her time a week is a welcome addition to the Hospital Board. She may indicate a project in which she is especially interested on interest finder blanks to be distributed at the orientation meeting. The Hospital Board chairman will contact members some time next week as to when their individual orientation groups will meet.

Orientation speakers, to be introduced by Hospital Board general chairman Shirley V. Rolene, N3, Dows, will include:

Charles Ingersoll, assistant superintendent of University Hospitals, on Hospital Ethics; Dr. J. C. McQueen, associate professor of pediatrics, who will explain the YWCA hospital program, and Sally Carnes, A4, Clinton, who will explain the difference among programs in order to help interested students make a selection.

Marty Lear, A2, Webster City, has been handling publicity for the board.

Program Unique

The Hospital Board program includes adult patients as well as children. Members work individually with the patients.

Much of the members' work is well known in the pediatrics ward. Nurses find that children who have had a one or two-hour reading session before bedtime are easier to quiet for the night.

More tangible evidence perhaps of the board's accomplishments was indicated in a thank you card from University Hospitals Superintendent Gerhard Hartman for more than 500 man-hours of work for the past year.

Projects of the Hospital Board include: Reading to Children and Adults of which Alice Cox, A4, Hinsdale, Ill., Ruth Walker, A3, Iowa City, and Nancy Rodhouse, A2, Cedar Rapids, are committee members. Approximately 50 to 75 girls are needed for this program. Each girl reads to one patient with the exception of pediatrics where reading is done in groups. Mrs. Leota Stagg, hospital librarian, introduces the girls to their patients and helps them become acquainted with the hospital. She selects books used in this project according to the patient's needs, interests and age.

Recreation for Children

Another important work of the YWCA Hospital Board is Recreation at the Iowa Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children. Miss Carnes, Virginia Hagens, A3, Mason City, and Mary Ellen Downs, A3, Ottumwa, are on this project.

Members "adopt" a child as a younger brother or sister, play with him, take him shopping, to movies, to the parks, sometimes spending as much as six hours a week with him. Boys and girls in the hospital school look forward to these days. It gives them assurance that people out in the world care for them and want them to be happy.

At least once a month, and more often if enough volunteers offer their talents, members of the Entertainment Program visit Oakdale Sanitarium and Psychopathic Hospital.

SHIRLEY ROLLENE, N3, Dows, reads to 9-year-old Judy Good, pediatrics patient at the University Medical Center. Shirley, general chairman of the YWCA Hospital Board, is participating in the Reading Clinic portion of the board's program. Many of the patients are from various parts of Iowa and receive visits from home only occasionally.

Two-hour shows are presented on Wednesday nights. Transportation to and from Oakdale is provided. Sally Jo Slepker, N2, Quincy, Ill., and Joan Blackstone, N2, Rockford, Ill., are on the Oakdale committee. The position on the Psychopathic project has not been filled.

Future Projects

New plans include Special Projects of Story and Music. Still being formulated, they are designed for those patients who don't care to read themselves. Stories will be illustrated while they are told.

For example, a puppet show might be used for a children's story. A series on jazz would feature the story behind the music. Mrs. Stagg is in charge of this activity and Kay Stientjes, A2, Sioux City, and Maureen Kratzke, A3, Council Bluffs, are on her committee.

The Rev. Lloyd Bartholomew, hospitals' chaplain, is in charge of another new program, the Visitation project. Working with him will be Patricia Ellingson, N2, Dysart. Students will visit the chaplain's office to talk to patients already selected by him. Student and patient will be paired according to a common religion.

Anyone unable to attend the Orientation Meeting Thursday may sign a preference card at the YWCA office in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Religious Educator To Visit Campus

Walter P. Wagoner, executive secretary of the Rockefeller Brothers Theological Education Program at Princeton, N. J., will be on the State University of Iowa campus Thursday to confer with religious educators of eastern Iowa.

The Rev. Mr. Wagoner, formerly chaplain at Northwestern University, will discuss the Rockefeller program for an expense-free year of study for men "interested in but not committed to the ministry." Director Robert S. Michaelsen of the SUI School of Religion, said Tuesday. Iowa City ministers, students, representatives of nearby Iowa and Illinois colleges and members of the School of Religion will meet Wagoner at a tea at 4 p.m. Thursday on the sun porch of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Stamps Once Raised Homecoming Funds

By ART BERGER

Homecoming badges, traditional at all Homecomings now, were not the first means devised to raise funds for the big weekend.

Dean Emeritus of Pharmacy Rudolph A. Kuever, who was on the original Homecoming Committee in the early 1900's, says Homecoming Stamps were used in 1921.

Kuever has the singular distinction of having attended every home field Iowa football game for the last 30 years, with the exception of one game with South Dakota which he missed a number of years ago.

"Homecoming was getting to be an important event during the year, and it carried with it a substantial expenditure of funds," he said. "From its inception till 1922, the cost had been borne by business men and faculty members, and it became quite a burden."

Homecoming Stamps

In 1921 the Homecoming Committee obtained permission from the local post office to issue Homecoming Stamps, but after a year the Federal Post Office required the stamps to be put on the back of envelopes, and also set a limit of one cent per stamp.

The next year the committee decided to use badges, which were so successful that badges have been used every year since. The badges sold for 10 cents then.

In the first years of the badge sales, Kuever said, three sororities used to sell the badges in competition, on a commission basis.

Badge Sales

"It used to be very colorful," he said, "having 150 coeds selling badges all over Iowa City." The sororities used to make several hundred dollars from the sales, which they used for furniture and the like.

"The Homecoming Committee used to have several hundred dollars left over annually from the badge sales," Kuever added.

game, 2-0, on Johnny Podres' 9-hit pitching.

Scored as 19-5 underdogs after dropping the first two games at Yankee Stadium, the Dodgers came back to become the first team ever to win a best-of-seven series after losing the first two.

Five times the Yanks threatened to knock Podres out of the park, just as they had jolted five other Dodger series bids.

But Podres and Sandy Amoros, who started a double play with a one-handed catch in the sixth, thwarted the Yankee bids.

When Podres came to bat in the ninth, the 62,465 fans at Yankee Stadium gave him a tremendous ovation. It was Podres who lifted the Dodgers off the floor in the third game and it was Podres who led the Bums to final victory.

It was the first Yankee series defeat since Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals upset them in 1942 and their fifth defeat in 21 series. They had won seven in a row since 1942.

When the details of this series are covered with dust and all but forgotten, they still will remember the catch by Amoros that saved the day for the Dodgers.

The Yanks were making one of their raids on Podres in the sixth. Billy Martin walked and Gil McDougald, who had three of the eight hits off Podres, had beaten out a perfectly placed bunt for a single.

Brooklyn's 2-0 lead appeared shaky as Yogi Berra strode to the plate. The Dodger outfield was pulled around to right, leaving a gap in left.

Berra slashed the ball into a high arc toward the left field corner, and Amoros, playing in left center, raced close to the stands with his gloved right hand outstretched, catching up the ball at the last second.

One step less and the ball would have dropped for a probable double, scoring both base runners to tie the score with a man on second and nobody out.

Amoros whirled and threw a perfect peg to Reese who relayed the throw to Hodges at first, nipping McDougald for a double play.

It was a ball game with $100,000 riding on every pitch by Podres and his assorted opponents, starter Tommy Byrne and relievers Bob Grim and Bob Turley. Because the difference between the winning and losing pool was just about $100,000.

Although official figures won't be released for some time by the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, it was understood the Brooks had voted 32 splits, making each full share worth $9,684. The reported 36 Yankees' full shares were each good for $5,739.

Time after time it seemed the Yanks must break through Podres, working with three days rest after his fine third-game victory.

Bad Break for Yanks In the third inning the Yanks got a bad break when, with Phil Rizzuto on second and Billy Martin on first, McDougald grounded to third. Rizzuto, sliding into third under the threat of a force play, was hit by the ball for an automatic out.

A fielding lapse by the Dodgers opened the gates again in the fourth when Duke Snider, going after Yogi Berra's high fly, was scared off by the charging Junior Gilliam from left. Snider held up at the last second, letting the ball drop untouched for a double.

Once again the Yanks were unable to jam through the opening as Hank Bauer, Bill Skowron and Bob Cerv went down in order.

Yanks Come Back Still the Yanks kept coming back, nibbling at Podres but never able to get a full slice of him. Rizzuto, playing a record-breaking 52d series game, opened the eighth with a single. After Martin flied out, McDougald bounced a single off Don Hoak's shoulder at third. But Berra lifted a fly to right with Rizzuto forced to hold third. Bauer struck out.

Byrne didn't allow a hit until the fourth. Then Campanella, who had gone 0 for 12 in the Stadium, slammed a double to left. Furillo was thrown out by Rizzuto, Campy moving to third. Hodges then lined a 1-2 pitch into left for the first run.

Byrne Jerked Brooklyn almost broke the game wide open in the sixth. Reese opened with a single and the Yanks' Skowron let Byrne's peg get away from him for an error as he tried to tag Snider, who had bunted.

Campanella also bunted, moving up the runners with his sacrifice. Manager Casey Stengel ordered Byrne to fill the bases with an intentional pass to Furillo. Grim succeeded Byrne. Hodges drove a deep fly to Bob Cerv in center and Reese romped home easily. That ended the scoring.

Snider Takes Blame For Berra's Double

NEW YORK (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers cut loose in their dressing room as no other team has done in recent years after winning the World Series Tuesday.

Five heroes were singled out: Johnny Podres, the superb pitcher; Sandy Amoros, whose catch of Yogi Berra's high pop to left field corner saved the day when he turned it into a double play; Gil Hodges, who drove in the two all-important Dodger runs; Manager Walter Alton, who did what no other Brooklyn manager could do in winning baseball's biggest prize; and Duke Snider, the slugging center field star.

"That Podres—that Amoros," catcher Roy Campanella shouted. "Shook him off."

"He never shook me off on anything I called for all day except the last pitch of the game. I wanted a fast ball. He wanted a change-up."

Campanella roared with laughter. "A change-up it was, and Elston Howard grounded out to Reese. Commissioner Ford Frick, President Will Harridge of the American League and President Warren Giles of the National League were on hand to offer congratulations to Alton and the Dodger team.

"This is it," yelled Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers. "Boy am I happy. Where's that Alton?"

Since it was generally understood that O'Malley hired Alton for the specific job of winning the series, it can now be assumed that the mission has been accomplished.

Podres was the center of considerable adulation. He retreated into his dressing cubicle and parried questions deftly.

Snider charitably took the complete blame for Berra's two-base hit that fell between him and Gilliam.

"All my fault, all my fault," repeated the Duke. "I heard someone yell 'grab it' and I did. But I missed it. All my fault."

Reese said he couldn't believe his team had won.

"While I was standing out there in the ninth inning, I said to myself, 'This can't be true. Something's got to happen to make us lose. But it didn't and when it was all over I had all I could do to keep from crying.'"

Marines Discover Billy Is a Nanny, So They Retreat

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A detachment of marines stormed a University of Pittsburgh beachhead Monday but retreated empty-handed.

The marines, from the Pittsburgh recruiting office, intended to save the Naval academy midshipmen the humiliation of having their mascot, Billy XIV, paraded by the enemy at the Navy-Pitt football game in Baltimore Saturday.

The leathernecks invaded the Delta Tau Delta fraternity house where Billy was reported to be in custody. The mascot was "gottapped" from its pen in Annapolis Sunday by two youths believed to be Pitt students.

The animals lodged in the fraternity house turned out not to be Billy at all, but a nanny goat.

'Murals Openers Postponed by Rain

Rain caused postponement of the 10 intramural touch football and volleyball contests slated for Tuesday, the opening day of the season.

The schedule for today and Thursday will remain the same. Postponed games of Tuesday will be rescheduled for either later this week, or sometime next week.

Hoosier Lineman Has Injured Hand

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana Coach Bernie Crimmins said Tuesday that X-rays show left tackle Ted Ross suffered a fracture in the hand at Notre Dame and probably will not play at Iowa.

Ross was expected to work the No. 2 left tackle assignment. Crimmins said J. E. Checkley probably will be moved over from right tackle to take his place.

Stan Baumgartner, Sportswriter, Dies

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Stan Baumgartner, veteran baseball writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer, died at his home Tuesday after a long illness.

The 61-year-old former major league pitcher had been covering the Philadelphia Phillies National League games for the Inquirer since 1930.

Born in Houston, Tex., Baumgartner starred in baseball, football and basketball at the University of Chicago.

A close personal friend of Amos Alonzo Stagg, he was an outstanding end in the heyday of Chicago football under Stagg's tutelage.

He left Chicago in his junior year to join the Phillies and pitched for them and the Philadelphia A's for a number of years.

HERE'S THE sixth-inning catch by Sandy Amoros of the Dodgers that broke up a Yankee threat in the sixth inning, and preserved the Dodger lead that won the game. The blast was from the bat of Yogi Berra, coming with two men on base. Amoros turned the almost-two-bagger into a double play.

Brooklyn Boosters Slow To Celebrate

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Dodgers won their first World Series Tuesday but, frankly, Brooklyn acted like it couldn't quite believe it.

According to tradition, scenes of wild and spontaneous abandonment should have swept the streets. Brooklyn fans, however, have been numbed by years of last minute defeats and seven prior denials of baseball's world championship crown.

Nonetheless, Brooklyn wore a happy smile as first baseman Gil Hodges made the final out that insured a 2-0 Dodger victory over the Yankees in the seventh and deciding World Series game.

Vincent 'Probably' Out, Aallsup Says

Eddie Vincent Won't Play Saturday

Trainer Lists Key Players With Injuries

Eddie Vincent, Iowa's right halfback, probably will miss the Iowa-Indiana game here Saturday because of an injured knee, Trainer Doyle Aallsup said Tuesday.

This would eliminate two-thirds of Iowa's noted "Steubenville Trio."

However, Vincent said Tuesday his injured knee has recovered "quite a bit" since he hurt it Saturday at Madison. He has practiced without pads this week.

Bad Twist

The injury has been diagnosed as a bad twist. But Vincent said there may be some ripped ligaments or a loose cartilage. "You can't tell about those things," Vincent pointed out.

"A couple of days ago I could feel the pain when I bent to put on my shoes," he said. "Now I don't feel anything when I bend my knee. I still can't straighten it, though."

Aallsup also listed a half-dozen other players partially disabled. Vincent became Iowa's second injured player from Steubenville. Last week end Frank Gilliam broke his leg. The third party of the threesome is Cal Jones, who was knocked out the last game. He'll be ready Saturday.

Reichow Injured, Too

Quarterback Jerry Reichow is another starter in the "doubtful" category. He suffered a partial shoulder separation in the Wisconsin game, Aallsup said, and it is not yet known whether he will be available Saturday.

The injury, Aallsup said, is similar to the one suffered by fullback Roger Wiegmann in pre-season drills. It took Wiegmann about two weeks to regain his stride.

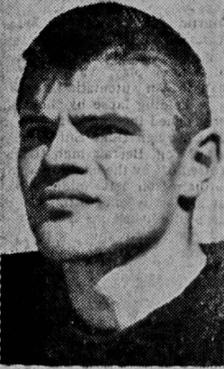

If Reichow is out, the job probably would go to junior Ken Ploen, who directed Iowa to its second touchdown against Wisconsin.

Ploen's generalship and defensive play was good, and he seems likely to stay at quarterback for at least the present.

The second-string signal caller,

Jerry Reichow A Question Mark

Ken Ploen May Start Saturday

Don Dobrino, has been held out of contact work since he suffered a back injury a week ago Monday.

If he and Dobrino are sidelined Saturday, Iowa's first two quarterbacks would be from the same city, Clinton.

Sophomore Gene Veit, from Lyons in Clinton, has been running with the third team most of the season. Second-team guard Alex Karras also has been practicing without pads this week. Karras' sprained ankle is still swollen. Three others hobbled with leg injuries are end Jim Gibbons and centers Bill Van Buren and Norm Six.

No one knows about Evy's personnel changes, but it's thought that tricky Mike Hagler would take Vincent's right halfback spot. Hagler has turned in sparkling runs in both of Iowa's games this fall.

Coach Forest Evashevski has closed all practice sessions to the press this week as he prepares to mend the Hawkeye squad, lowered mentally and physically by a rugged Wisconsin team last week.

Aerial Stars To Meet In Top Big Ten Game

By JERRY LISKA Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO—Wisconsin's sling-shot pair of "Jim dandies" and Purdue's brilliant Len Dawson will hook up in a whale of an aerial duel which could settle the Big Ten football championship Saturday.

The Badger duo, of course, includes Jim Miller and Jim Haluska who will share the quarterbacking in Wisconsin's invasion of Lafayette, Ind.

Fans, experts and the coaches of both clubs, themselves, expect to see some of the season's best passing in this conference contest which will be televised throughout the midwest.

ISC Polishes Ground Game

AMES (AP)—The Iowa State Cyclones worked until dark Tuesday brushing up on a ground attack they plan to throw at Kansas next Saturday at Lawrence.

"We think Kansas looks about 50 per cent improved this year," said Coach Vince DiFrancesca.

"They're a good young ball club. I said earlier that our games with Denver and Kansas would be crucial ones and I still think so. We really want this one."

Iowa State lost its opener to Denver, 19-7.

DiFrancesca said that films of the Cyclones' 40-0 loss to Illinois last Saturday showed that they played much better than the score indicated.

MATHER SATISFIED AFTER J-HAWK DRILL

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Coach Chuck Mather expressed satisfaction Tuesday with his University of Kansas gridgers following a scrimmage.

The team spent about 45 minutes on offense and a half hour on defensive maneuvers. Mather said he promoted end Lynn McCarthy and guard Tom Leo to the first team on the basis of their play last Saturday against Colorado.

Chelf Among 26 Burned By Grid Lime

FT. LEE, Va. (AP)—Don Chelf, former Iowa football player, and 26 other gridgers were burned by lime during an interservice football game here last Friday night.

Others burned included Johnny Lettner, former Notre Dame star, and Lowell Perry, former Michigan player.

FT. Lee officials explained Tuesday the burns apparently came from lime placed on the field. Hard rain fell during the game. The Army said the lime was labeled "unstacked."

Unstacked lime usually does not burn when mixed with water.

Ten Ft. Lee players and 27 Bolling Field players suffered burns and 10 persons, including Perry, Lettner and Chelf, were hospitalized.

Chelf was a Baltimore Colts draft choice after he completed college football, and joined the Bolling AFB Generals shortly after entering service.

Chelf apparently was not seriously burned but along with most of the Bolling first string will not be able to play against Fort Sill Saturday in Oklahoma.

FT. Lee spokesmen promised an investigation.

IOWA STATE STAR

Jim Doran, Detroit Lions end, never played football in high school. He took up the game as a sophomore at Iowa State and soon became a star.

Steeler Coach Hit By Heaviest Fine

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Walter Kiesling, coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National Football League, Tuesday was fined $500—heaviest fine in league history—for his behavior toward officials during and after the Steelers-Los Angeles Rams game Sunday.

Commissioner Bert Bell announced the fine and confirmed that it was the heaviest such levy against player or coach in league history. The commissioner said it was necessary to protect the officials.

Fined 'Tempered' The commissioner, who made his decision after a "telephone" hearing with Kiesling, said the fine was tempered by Kiesling's long and faithful service to the game as well as his unblemished record to date. Under the NFL code, the Pittsburgh coach was liable to a fine of up to $2,000 and suspension for life.

The rhubarb developed Sunday when Kiesling allegedly used hard language to officials for decisions he deemed unfair to the Steelers. Pittsburgh lost the game 27-26 on a field goal kicked on the last play of the game. Kiesling also was charged with grabbing two officials.

Stories 'Conflicting' Bell said his brief investigation brought conflicting statements from the parties involved. He said Kiesling told him, "I don't think I grabbed hold of anyone. My other coaches pulled me away."

The officials involved, James Underhill and Tay Brown, both reported that Kiesling voiced his displeasure with their work in no uncertain terms.

Underhill said the Steelers coach grabbed him during the game after the official had inflicted a 15-yard penalty on Pittsburgh. Brown told the commission there was so much excitement after the game he wasn't sure whether Kiesling grabbed him or not.

Kiesling said he had no comment to make on the fine.

Casey Hints He'll Return Next Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, thwarted in his bid for a sixth world championship, hinted broadly Tuesday that he'll be back to try again next year as manager of the New York Yankees.

"I don't know about next year," the crease-faced manager of the Yankees said in the solemn New York dressing room after Brooklyn's 2-0 decisive world series victory.

"But I got a contract. I got it in black and white and unless they fire me—"

Then he let his voice fade into the rafters and left his interviewers to draw their own conclusions.

The Yankees accepted their World Series defeat—their first since the St. Louis Cardinals stunned them in the 1952 series—in much the same fashion as they accepted their 16 World Series victories in the 20 appearances preceding this one—like professionals.

There were no tears, bitter disappointment perhaps, but no gripes and alibis.

They had nothing but praise for the dashing Dodger team which fought back from two opening game defeats to wrest the series crown from the grasp of the Yankees.

"That was a great catch and play by their left fielder (Sandy Amoros) in the sixth inning when we were moving," Casey said. "That play was the play that won the game for them."

In the sixth with Billy Martin and Gil McDougald on base and none out, catcher Yogi Berra lifted a high fly to deep left field near the foul line.

Amoros, playing the lefthand hitter to the right, had to race across the field and make a one-handed stab of the ball. Then, off balance, he threw the ball to Reese who relayed it to first base to double off McDougald.

McDougald said he felt Amoros had no chance for the ball and he was off running with the potential tally that might, under different circumstances, have tilted the game.

"I don't see how Amoros caught the ball," said Berra. "If he misses, we have two runs and I'm on third with none out. It was that close."

Stengel, asked to review the series, said that the thing that hurt the Yankees most was "that centerfielder of theirs (Duke Snider) who hit four home runs."

"They got some awfully good pitching, too. From this Podres (Johnny Podres), who beat the Yankees twice and their reliever (Clem Labine), who made four series appearances.

"We didn't do anything with their relievers. You know, we didn't get a run in the last 17 innings."

Wolverine Tackle Has Knee Injury

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—First string tackle Bill Kolesar may be lost to the University of Michigan football team for the rest of the season, doctors said Tuesday. Kolesar suffered a knee injury in last week's game with Michigan State.

Doctors said fullback Lou Baldacci will play against Army Saturday. Baldacci suffered an ankle injury but it was not serious enough to sideline him, they said.

How To Stay in College

Students Must Grow Up Rapidly — Or Fail

"Don't forget chapel — Make a schedule — Get enough sleep... start studying at once..."

By ROBERT U. JAMESON
(By Special Arrangement with The Saturday Evening Post)

A student who has finished a year at Washington and Lee says this: "I have just begun to realize, at the end of a rough year, what college has to offer. I hope that next year I will do a better job."

"In college," says a girl at Michigan, "you get nowhere until you grow up."

But no college dean or adviser deriding freshman and say, "You will do all right as soon as you grow up."

Elaborate Programs
Instead, all colleges provide elaborate programs to introduce the college to the freshman, to warn the young people about what is ahead.

When the million new freshmen arrive for Orientation Week at any of the nearly 2,000 colleges in the land, they are put through a complicated and sometimes bewildering mill.

They meet their roommates. They take placement tests and aptitude tests and reading tests and physical examinations.

Meet President
They meet the president. They are invited to buy the school paper, pennants, beer mugs, rugs, laundry service and everything else under the sun.

They attend a football rally and chapel and a dance or two and a picnic and a number of meetings for indoctrination in the methods of study.

They are breezed through a very pleasant week — dizzying, perhaps, but new and different.

Homesickness
They don't even have time to get homesick. That comes about two weeks later.

Now, during this week, deans and advisers say many things which freshmen may, to their sorrow, ignore:

Start studying at once. Get to know the library immediately. Set up a schedule for yourself — revise it later, if necessary — to include both social and academic activities.

Join one or two extracurricular activities, but not every one in sight.

Get enough sleep. Don't forget chapel. Don't cut classes.

You're on your own; make the most of your independence. But if you get into trouble, see your adviser right away.

Then classes begin, and the realities of college are suddenly all too evident.

The first theme is written; the first physics experiment is done.

And the first blast comes from a teacher, who, unlike lovable old Mr. Chips at home in the high school, is apparently half devil and half dragon.

A freshman hands in a paper two days late and wonders why he gets an F.

Another is stymied by the fact that his edition of King Lear has no footnotes to explain the text. "How am I supposed to be able to understand this stuff?"

Child or Adult
A freshman's reaction to failure is a clear indication of whether he is a child or an adult.

The adult simply works harder. The child may get surly. He may blame the instructor, not realizing that it is he, not the instructor, who has failed.

He may look for excuses to explain his failure — headaches, a loudmouthed roommate, the radio across the hall.

Under-trained in English teachers are simply not finding it possible, to condition many of their students for the rigors of college work, particularly in the one most important subject of go over the problem with his adviser, who will be able to give sound advice about the art of studying.

New Instructor Teaches Largest SUI Class

In his first year at the State University of Iowa, Prof. Eugene Weber has assumed the task of educating over 1,100 students in the Western Civilization core course.

Weber, an assistant professor, has been named to fill the post vacated last year by Prof. George L. Mosse, who accepted a position at the University of Wisconsin.

The Rumanian-born professor said he had taught courses in history before, but never on such a large scale.

Started in Paris

Weber started teaching at the University of Cambridge in Paris where he did his undergraduate and graduate study. He has also taught history at the University of Alberta, Canada, and UCLA before coming to SUI.

Weber pointed out several differences between European and American universities, the main one being size. He said the European type is made up of several colleges which are not related to the university in the manner they are in America.

More Selective

Another difference, he said, is that the European system is more selective in admitting students. Weber indicated that the system tends to provide for the education of a minority while in America there seems to be no discrimination in admitting students.

A course such as Western Civilization, he said, would not be found in a European university such as Cambridge.

Weber said he left his home in Rumania shortly before the outbreak of World War II. He served with the British army in Belgium, Germany, Sicily, the Middle East and India. He had been promoted from private to captain by the end of the war.

Several Articles

Weber has published several articles in England, France and Canada dealing with the subjects of history and politics.

Most of them, he said, have dealt with the problem of power, that is, why some people tend to dominate others, and why others let themselves be dominated.

Aside from his duties as the Western Civilization lecturer, Weber will also teach a course in cultural European history.

Jews Will Be Free People, Rev. Dunnington Tells Kiwanis

Spirit and determination will make the Jews a free people in the Far East, the Rev. L. L. Dunnington, pastor of the First Methodist Church, told the Kiwanis Club luncheon Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Dunnington related further impressions of his recent trip to the Holy Land.

"I have found more hatred among Egyptians than I have seen in all of my life. You can feel the tension when you walk down the street," he said.

"Mistakes have been made by both the Arabs and the Jews. Some Jews feel that there should be a place to call their own. Arabs have often desired to drive the Jews out of the area."

Terrorist Gangs
"Terrorist gangs are found on both sides, but spirit and determination is going to make the stoney and barren Jewish country free," said the Rev. Mr. Dunnington.

"How did a handful of Jews lick the Arabs? Energy, idealism, and fanaticism are doing the impossible job. Jews are making progress in many areas today."

The Rev. Mr. Dunnington this summer flew over the land where Moses led his people to live.

"It is hard to understand the desire of a people who would put up with such waste lands for so many years," he said.

Millions Persecuted
"In recent years Nazi persecution did away with five or six million Jews, but the Jews kept fighting. People were going to have freedom or die," stated the Rev. Mr. Dunnington.

"There is hope if the people listen to John Foster Dulles," concluded the Rev. Mr. Dunnington. "Two things must be done to settle the dispute. Better homes and living conditions must be made available to the Arabs."

"Relocation of the Jewish-Arab boundary must also be made. These things must be done and therefore will sometime be accomplished," he said.

Mid-Victorian Dentistry

MID-VICTORIAN DENTISTRY is displayed by a painting that was recently donated to the State University of Iowa College of Dentistry by Dr. Walter L. Stocks, Nashua. The painting was hung in the office of Dean William J. Simon as a reminder of the advances that dental technology has made since the scene was painted by an unidentified Fayette woman over 60 years ago.

19th-Century Painting Shows Early Dentistry

Dentistry has come a long way since a century or so ago when pain-killers were unknown and a trip to the dentist usually meant an ordeal of tooth twisting and yanking.

Although those days are now history in this part of the world, dental students at the State University of Iowa this fall are reminded of them by a 19th-century painting which hangs in the office of their dean, William J. Simon.

The painting shows a suave mid-Victorian dentist in a red coat extracting teeth for an apparently wealthy matron. While charming away the woman's fears, he holds in his right hand — unseen by the patient — a hook, or turn-key of the type used in those days to extract teeth by twisting them out.

Given to Alumnus
Painted by a Fayette, Iowa, woman artist, the canvas was presented some 60 years ago to the late Dr. L. S. Forbes, an 1891 graduate of SUI, in payment for his dental services. For more than a century it provided some distraction — if not consolation — for the patients who came to his Nashua office.

"I remember seeing the painting on Dr. Forbes' wall when I visited his office as a boy in Nashua more than 45 years ago," says Dr. James H. Wick, 1918 SUI dental alumnus and a member of the Iowa dental faculty for more than 33 years.

Painting Contributed
This summer the painting and its valuable gold leaf frame were donated to the SUI College of Dentistry by Dr. Walter L. Stocks, boyhood friend and SUI classmate of Wick. For many years Forbes' dental partner in Nashua, Stocks found the painting's dimensions — nearly four by five feet — too large for the new office he built in 1952 after his partner's death.

The picture so captured the fancy of Simon that he had it hung in his office as a reminder of the advances dental science has made since the scene was painted by the Fayette woman, whose name has long since been lost.

Till's Uncle Says He Was Forced To Flee for Life
NEW YORK (AP) — Mose Wright, uncle of a Chicago Negro boy slain in Mississippi and a witness against two white men charged with murder, has told a New York newspaper he had to flee for his life following the trial.

Wright now in Chicago, gave his account of the trial's aftermath in a telephone interview with the New York Post.

He was quoted as saying three carloads of white men paid a midnight visit to his cabin, just a few hours after the trial ended.

"But I had been warned they were coming," Wright told the Post. "So I put my three sons in the car and we hid out in the bushes near the cemetery."

"My neighbors said they (the visitors) drove up and shone their lights on three sides of the house. They kept calling out: 'Preacher, Uncle Mose, come out here.'"

"And when they didn't get any answer, they pulled out their searchlights and ransacked the place."

Wright said he and his sons, ranging from 12 to 16 years old, remained "in the bushes" all night and then spent the next day trying to sell — with little success — their possessions.

They went back into hiding the second night, he added, and left afterward on the journey which finally took them to Chicago.

Accountants To Confer On Taxation

The role of accountants in income taxation will be considered Thursday in the State University of Iowa Center for Continuation Study.

First speaker in the opening session of the second annual Tax and Accounting Seminar at SUI will be John W. Queenan, a partner in the New York firm of Haskins and Sells. Chairman of the committee on relations with the Bar of the American Institute of Accountants, he was previously chairman of the AIA Committee on Education.

Presiding over the gathering of some 90 Iowa accountants will be C. Arnold Carlson of Des Moines, president of the seminar's sponsor, the Iowa Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Dean Sidney Winter of the SUI college of commerce will give the address of welcome.

Banquet speaker Thursday evening in Iowa Memorial Union will be Edward B. Wilcox of Chicago, past president of the American Institute of Accountants. The senior partner in the firm of Wilcox and Harbinson, he is on the Board of Directors of the Chicago Crime Commission.

Other major speakers of the two-day seminar include Paul F. Johnson of Chicago, a member of the AIA Federal Taxation Committee, and Frederick Halstead, regional director of management services for Arthur Young and Company of Kansas City, Mo. During the Thursday afternoon session in Old Capitol, Johnson will speak on "Accounting Problems under the 1954 Code." Halstead will discuss "Mechanization of Accounting Systems" Friday morning in Old Capitol.

Shrine Adds $500 To Equipment Pool For Handicapped

Five hundred dollars were added this week to the Iowa Shrine Equipment Pool at the Hospital-School for Severely Handicapped Children, at University Hospitals.

Set up last winter by the Iowa City Shrine Club, the pool loans equipment to the young patients when they return to their homes and to other handicapped children throughout the state.

The latest donation was given by the Royal American Shrine Club, a traveling carnival which makes charity appearances all over the country. Added to the Iowa City Shrine Club's donation of last December, it brought the total amount given to the pool up to $1,000.

Wayne D. Grantham, clinical psychologist at the Hospital-School, who is administrator of the pool, said the equipment purchased from the Shrine Club is the type of rehabilitation equipment which youngsters are likely to need for only a short time.

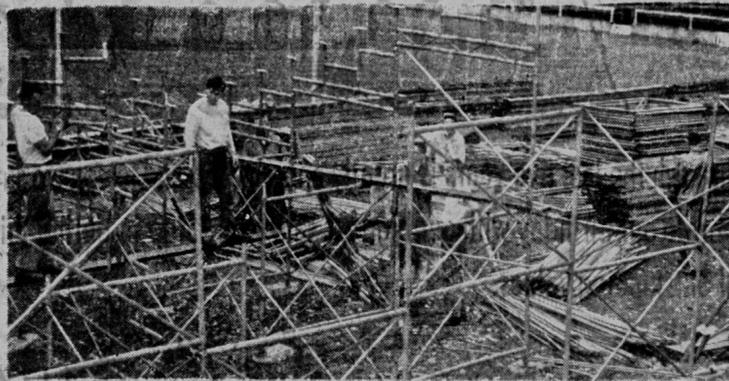

Equipment is checked out and returned "just like books from a library," he said.

Pharmacy Classes Elect Presidents
Rolf P. Solbach, P4, Denison, and James E. Gain, P3, Macomb, Ill., have been elected presidents of their respective classes in the State University of Iowa College of Pharmacy.

The senior class also elected James W. Nelson, P4, West Liberty, vice-president and Raymond M. Denkhoff, P4, Des Moines, secretary-treasurer.

The junior class elected Harold W. Wallace, P3, Knoxville, vice-president; Eleanor C. Theissen, P3, Fort Madison, secretary, and David O. Sutter, P3, Burlington, treasurer.

Start Work on New Seats in Stadium

WORKMEN COMMENCED CONSTRUCTION Tuesday on a series of bleachers behind the south end zone at the State University of Iowa Stadium. The section will contain 4,500 seats, of which 3,300 will be allocated to SUI students. Work is expected to be one-fourth completed by Saturday's Iowa-Indiana game and fully done by Homecoming, Oct. 15. The Athletic Board said that about 1,200 seats will be used for persons who have previously purchased tickets.

Author on Trial for Contempt of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Author Harvey O'Connor, who challenged the authority of Senate investigators to ask him whether he had been a Communist, went on trial Tuesday on a contempt of Congress charge.

O'Connor, testifying before the Senate Investigations subcommittee on July 1, 1953, said that under the constitutional guarantees of the First Amendment "my writings, my books and my political opinions are of no legitimate concern to this committee."

The First Amendment protects the rights of free speech and the free press.

O'Connor did not invoke the Fifth Amendment's protection against possible self-incrimination in refusing to say whether he had been a Communist at the time he had written books purchased by the State Department in its overseas libraries program. Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), who was chairman of the investigation subcommittee when O'Connor testified was the first witness called by Asst. U.S. Atty. William Hitz. McCarthy told of his committee's probe of the overseas information program.

O'Connor, who resides at Winnetka, Ill., and has a summer home in Little Compton, R.I., is the author of "Mellon's Millions," "The Guggenheims" and other books.

WSUI To Air New Parent-Child Series

"Know Your Children," a new series of programs to be sponsored by the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station over radio station WSUI, will have its premiere broadcast at 12:45 p.m. Thursday.

The program will bring to parents and teachers recent findings on child development during the current school year. Joseph Murray, principal of Lincoln Elementary School, Iowa City, will serve as moderator of the series, which will be directed by Ralph H. Ojemann, professor in the Research Station.

Murray will interpret the parent's point of view on the program, bringing in anecdotes from his own experience as a parent and educator.

Ojemann will give the opening discussion of the series Thursday, speaking on "Parents and Children Change Places." He will point out the need for parents and children to see each other's side of problems which arise in the home.

Boyd McCandless, director of the Research Station, will speak on "Living with Brothers and Sisters" Oct. 13.

Chimney Swift Migration

Thousands of Tiny Birds Fill Evening Sky Above SUI Engineering Building

By ELDON LIBBY
If you walk by the Engineering building around sunset during the next couple of weeks, don't look up. You may get dizzy.

This is the migration time of the Chaetura pelagica (linnaea). These birds, more commonly known as Chimney Swifts, will be seen flying around the smoke stack on the top of the building, with some of the birds flying down inside the stack from time to time.

It would take a sharp eye to count the swifts, for the small birds number up into the thousands around big chimneys preparatory to migration.

Dull Color
Some bird lovers have described swifts as dull colored, winged cigars, tapered at both ends, as the birds sail through the air with varying bursts of speed and direction.

The birds' wings are narrow at the base, pointed, and slightly curved like the end of a sickle blade. They have a short, stubby tail, which has two spine-like tips.

The birds use their tails as anchors when their feet grab the side of a chimney.

The swifts migrate to Central America in great flocks when the cold air of autumn begins to chase away their insect food.

In the spring, the birds return in small groups when they are assured that their aerial insect food is plentiful high above the ground.

There are hardly any bird calls heard as the swifts return.

Mating Season
When the swifts sight a good chimney, then begins the mating season. The air is filled with bright, staccato chirps or "tisk" as the swifts chase each other through the air.

When the birds are paired up, a nest is built in the chimney. The nests consist of a little hammock-like, half-saucer, made of twigs picked out of trees as the birds fly around.

The nests are fastened to the inside of the chimneys with the glutinous saliva of the bird.

Continual Flight
Swifts have the habit of continual flight during the daylight hours throughout the summer, restoring their energy by extending the wings and sailing in great
