Quartet of Stars To Present 'Don Juan in Hell' Scene Here

The National Drama Quartet will present George Bernard Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" in the Iowa Memorial Union on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at 8 p.m.

High Court Gives Reprieves to Death Cell Author, Provo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carly Chessman, death cell author, won another reprieve Monday from California's gas chamber.

The Supreme Court, splitting 5-3, ordered a new hearing for Chessman, who has written two books during the more than seven years he has spent under a death sentence.

In another action, the court blocked government efforts to bring former Army Sgt. John David Provo to trial for a second time on treason charges. Provo, 38, and a former San Francisco bank clerk once sentenced to life imprisonment, now goes free.

In the Chessman case, the supreme court said it was doing so "without intimidating any opinion regarding the validity of Chessman's claims. But, the court added in a brief unsigned opinion, the circumstances were such that Chessman's habeas corpus action "should not have been summarily dismissed."

The production, directed by Agnes Moorehead, will star Ricardo Montalban, Kurt Kasznar, Mary Astor, and Reginald Denny.

There will be no settings, costumes, or props. The actors will stand before lecterns and read from manuscripts.

Shaw Comedy "Don Juan in Hell," presented in two acts, is a part of Shaw's comedy, "Man and Superman," but because of the length of the complete script it is usually omitted when "Man and Superman" is produced.

The play's four stars are all well-known by theater and movie audiences. Montalban (Don Juan) has appeared in numerous Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer films, in "Her Cardboard Lover" and the musical version of "Seventh Heaven," on Broadway.

Stage, Screen Star Kasznar (The Devil) has appeared in both stage and screen versions of "The Happy Time." Some of his motion picture successes include: "Lili," "Anything Goes," "My Sister Eileen" and "Journey into Hell," not yet released.

Miss Astor (Donna Anna) has appeared on the screen in "Don Juan" with John Barrymore, "As Thousands Cheer" and "Meet Me in St. Louis." She has been seen on the stage in "Tonight at 8:30," "The Male Animal" and "Time of the Cuckoo."

Denny (The Father) appeared on the stage in "Richard III" and "The Cocktail Party" and on the screen in "Rebecca," "Of Human Bondage," "Private Lives" and "Mr. Blandings Builds His Dream House."

Former Star Miss Moorehead, who does not appear with the company, was "Don Juan's" Donna Anna in the Charles Laughton production of several years ago.

This presentation is sponsored by the Committee on University Lectures. Distribution of tickets to students and staff members will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday, in the east lobby of the Union. There will be a separate line for faculty and students.

Admission is with the presentation of student or staff ID cards.

Two other persons, both Daventry residents, suffered heart attacks during the game.

Norman Landauer, 55, is described in serious condition and Clarence Meek, 61, is very good by University Hospitals authorities.

Team coach, Dick Holzappel said Baker evidently fell on the trampoline and hit his head.

Police in San Bernardino, to the east, reported that her 18-year-old son, sought for questioning, dashed into the side of a truck on a highway in an apparent suicide try.

The boy, Jack Hawley, was struck by a diesel truck on Highway 66 near San Bernardino and was reported in critical condition.

'Definite Progress' In Ticket Inquiry

Dean of Students L. Dale Faunce reported "definite progress" Monday night in the investigation of the 15 counterfeit tickets presented at the Homecoming Dance Saturday night.

"We hope to settle it in the next day or two," said Faunce. "We hope that if only students are involved, the matter will be turned over to the University for action."

Ike Favors No Hike in Defense Cost

DENVER (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson said Monday that President Eisenhower is in agreement on plans for keeping defense spending and manpower levels about the same or a little higher in the next fiscal year.

Wilson told a news conference at Denver White House that present planning on the budget for the year starting next July 1 is on the basis of retaining military manpower at the present level of about 2,850,000. He added that his present thinking is that military expenditures for next year might go "a little higher" than the 34 1/2 billion dollars expected for the current year.

The secretary and Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, had just spent 25 minutes with Eisenhower at his hospital bedside.

Wilson said there would have to be a "radical change" in the world picture before the administration could consider cutting the armed forces below current levels.

The conference with the two defense chiefs marked the start of the heaviest work schedule the recuperating, 65-year-old chief executive has taken on since his Sept. 24 heart attack. Other top officials will be coming in from Washington through the week.

For the first time doctors allowed Eisenhower to sit in an easy chair instead of his hospital bed for his daily sun bath on an eighth floor terrace at Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

Iowa City police said Monday that SUI officials would make any announcements concerning the case.

The 15 tickets were presented at the Homecoming dance Saturday night. The holders were refused admittance.

The counterfeits were detected because they were printed on a slightly different shade of paper, Faunce said.

Good Printing Faunce described them as "a good printing job, very similar to the actual tickets."

Rumors that the tickets were printed at a Cedar Rapids printing shop are false, Faunce said.

"We have no leads as to where the counterfeits were printed," he added.

Presented by Several Faunce said the tickets were presented by alumni and residents of fraternity houses and dormitories.

Some of the bogus tickets carried serial numbers as high as 400.

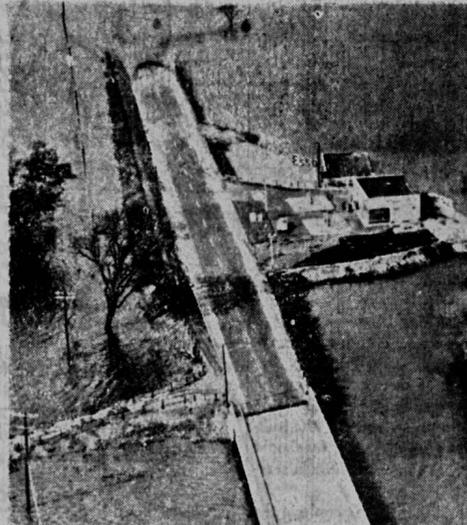

One thousand bona fide tickets were printed by University Printing Service for the dance at the Iowa Memorial Union.

Fire laws and Union regulations limit the number of tickets that can be sold for any dance to 1,000.

10,000 Badges Sold

On the brighter side of the Homecoming weekend, Prof. Wendle Kerr of the Pharmacy Department, said Monday that returns on badge sales by late Monday indicated at least 10,000.

England in Turmoil as Princess Comes Home

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret came home to face the music Monday night as leaders of the government, church and royal family converged in the capital for the crisis week in her romance with Peter Townsend.

A speeding Rolls-Royce brought the 25-year-old princess to Clarence House from her weekend in the country with the 40-year-old flier. They were house guests of Margaret's cousin, Mrs. John L. Willis.

Prime Minister Eden got back from his country cottage and went straight into talks with his ministers at 10 Downing St. Queen Elizabeth is expected to confer with Eden today after arriving from Scotland. And the Duke of Edinburgh, who is reportedly opposed to any Margaret-Townsend match, was to have flown home Monday night from Germany.

Princess Margaret returned unsmiling amid growing indications that the established Church of England still held hopes of blocking her marriage to a divorced man.

Townsend drove back alone from the Berkshire mansion where he had spent the weekend with the princess. Before leaving he took a horseback ride and told reporters he had "a very pleasant" time.

Queen Mother Elizabeth, who reportedly is sympathetic with her daughter's plight, rejoined Margaret at their London residence of Clarence House. The Queen Mother spent the weekend at Windsor Castle, only 10 miles from Allanby Lodge where Margaret and Townsend stayed.

Wednesday night the princess and the rest of the royal family are set to meet the Church of England in force over the dinner table at Lambeth Palace, Canterbury's red brick London home. All the bishops of the church are on the guest list.

Rain Abates; Rivers Down In 6 States

NEW YORK (AP) — Parts of six Northeastern states Monday faced a grim job of rebuilding flood ruins for the second time in less than two months.

Waters were receding throughout the area for the first time since last Friday. Weathermen said the worst appeared over as rainfall finally tapered off and river crests abated.

The toll of dead and missing stood at 42.

Millions in Damage Damage ran into many millions. Weeks of rehabilitation faced vast areas, some of them not yet recovered from the floods last August caused by Hurricane Diane.

New York City's big Croton Reservoir was shut off as a result of the storm. It supplies the city with 150 million gallons a day. Other reservoirs easily took up the slack.

The American Red Cross estimated 6,900 homes were destroyed or damaged in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

100 Rescued In Connecticut, Coast Guard helicopters and surface craft rescued 100 persons from rooftops or tree branches.

President Eisenhower, from his sick bed in Denver, pledged federal aid for the storm-ravaged belt. News Secretary James C. Hagerly kept him advised on federal disaster operations.

Val Peterson, director of Civil Defense, flew east to inspect damage for a first hand report to Eisenhower.

The big storm — a miniature hurricane in all but the technical sense — blew out of the Southeast last Thursday.

15-Inch Rain Top rainfall was 15.03 inches in New York's Catskill Mountains. Readings of 3 to 8 inches were general in the 6-state area.

As late as Monday afternoon, cars were backed up 15 miles at a detour around a damaged section of the Merritt Parkway, the main highway line between New York City and New England.

Farrell, Dunlop To Address Panel

Thomas Farrell Jr., chairman of the Council-Manager Association, and Ken Dunlop, a member of the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League, will take part in a panel discussion tonight at a Men's Club meeting in the Unitarian Church following a 6 p.m. dinner.

Both groups are sponsoring candidates in the November Iowa City municipal election. Farrell will replace Councilman Walter Daykin, who was previously announced as the speaker.

BLOW LOUDER, SATCHMO HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Seven thousand hot jazz fans rioted in Hamburg's Ernst Merck Hall Monday night when the microphone went dead during a personal appearance concert by Louis Armstrong. They complained they couldn't hear.

By STU HOPKINS

The newly organized National Farm Organization (NFO) moved into Johnson County Monday night.

About 200 Johnson County farmers heard representatives of the NFO present the organization's program at Gatens' Sale Barn on south Linn Street.

The NFO was formed by Jay Loghry, Corning, to push for solutions to farmer's economic problems through "legislations and other means."

Against Benson Policies The group has taken a stand opposed to the farm policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson.

At Monday night's meeting here, part of a series to establish the NFO in eastern Iowa and Illinois, farmers were urged to organize on the township and county level.

Elmer Carlson, Audubon, state corn husking champion, and Deane Orton, Atlantic farmer, asked the group to elect township NFO delegates.

Ask Contributions At the township meetings, they said, appoint one man in each school district to contact every farmer and ask for a donation or contribution of $1 or more.

The money is to be sent to John O'Riley, they said.

The township delegates will then meet at the county level and elect a representative to a state meeting. Orton said.

The state meeting would make out a program to take to the Department of Agriculture, they explained.

Both Parties Directing the NFO is an 11-man board composed of nine Republicans and three Democrats. Former Iowa governor Dan Turner (Rep.) is a member of the board, as is Loghry.

Acting office manager of the NFO Eldon Roberts said Monday in Corning that a regional meeting will be held there Thursday for all organized counties in Iowa and Missouri.

Roberts said the organization has been growing "so fast the office has been unable to keep up with it," but that definite organizations have been formed in Iowa and Missouri.

Draft Revision Not Enough—

Tough military training under conditions that will promote the highest moral standards was urged recently for pre-draft age youths who volunteer for the six-month reserve program.

These recommendations were submitted to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson by the National Security Training Commission.

It was this same committee that was responsible for the highly controversial National Reserve Plan.

This new plan is very important to the majority of University freshmen and sophomores because they fall in the age requirement of between 17 and 18.

The situation is poor for the persons entering the service now because:

1. They receive no educational benefits, which were cut off Jan. 31, 1955.

2. After they serve their two years they have an active reserve obligation unlike that of the person who has left the service.

The National Reserve Plan originally proposed by Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La.) would have included those people who were in the service at the time the bill was passed.

However, after Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), Armed Services Committee Chairman, received a mass of letters from draftees who were in the service at the time, condemning this part of the plan, he took action to eliminate the obligation for the men serving at that time.

This was great for the person finishing his service obligation, but it was unsound for the person now entering the service.

Our country believes in "equality of sacrifice." Otherwise everyone should serve his country as equally as possible.

That is why in all fairness to the people entering the military service now, those who serve two years in the Army should not have the same reserve obligation as those individuals serving only six months.

It was the belief of Senator Russell that those people in the service at the time of the bill should not have to serve this long obligation.

The logical conclusion is that since it was not the fault of the individuals going into the service now that they had to come in now, it would be fair for them to receive the same consideration.

Congress then should realize the "equality of sacrifice" for those men entering the service now and give the alternative of serving two years without a reserve obligation or going only six months with a reserve obligation.

Public Statements—

It seems to me that anyone who accepts a position of public office or trust should make every effort to weigh carefully each public utterance he makes. He owes it both to himself, his office and to the public at large to make his statements as clear, definite and factual as possible. Some sincere, well-meaning individuals have brought both their positions and themselves into disrepute with statements worded in such a manner that they have created impressions quite opposite to those which were intended.

dent's rights. Parking per se is not my complaint. My complaint still stands—purposeful encroachment of students' rights under any guise should not be tolerated.

Arnold Tammes
111 Central Park

TO THE EDITOR:

Below my letter to the editor of Oct. 14 was an "explanation" that the reason we in Central Park were deprived of our parking was to reserve parking for 'I' club members.

This, in my estimation, is hardly an explanation or justification. Why should we as legal residents in University housing have our "garages" appropriated for any reason? Would Mr. Phillips stand by and let me "take over" his garage for any reason? I doubt it.

To take our parking places for another group of students places them in a favoritism group. I don't think it is valid to award any group special privileges as this when it means undignified invasion of other students' rights.

Court Suit Against City Doctor Settled

A $60,000 damage suit in Johnson County District Court was settled out-of-court Monday morning, moments before the court convened.

The suit was brought by Marshall A. Perry against Dr. R. H. Flocks, who performed an operation on Perry Oct. 17, 1950 in the State University of Iowa Hospitals.

Perry charged in his petition that Dr. Flocks had erroneously diagnosed his ailment and prescribed and performed the operation.

The suit was scheduled to be the first jury trial in the September term of the court.

Celebrates Ten-Year War Against Hunger

ROME (AP)—Seventy per cent of the world's population will go to bed undernourished tonight. What is being done about it? A lot—through an outfit called the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization. FAO was 10 years old Sunday and this year will spend just under 3 cents of each American's money; plus money from scores of other countries to help fill the world's breadbasket.

FAO Story
This is the story of FAO—the progress made in the 10 years since men united to declare war on hunger, man's most ancient and persistent enemy.

The idea originated—appropriately enough—over a lunch-table during World War II. Australian food economist, Dr. Frank McDougall got to talking about a plan for a world food planning organization.

His hostess, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, was impressed.

1943 Conference
"Dr. McDougall, would you like to discuss that idea with my husband?" she asked. "I think he might be interested."

President Franklin D. Roosevelt was. He called a 45-nation conference at Hot Springs, Va., in 1943 to draw the plans. Two years later, at Quebec, 20 nations signed the Oct. 16, 1945, agreement establishing FAO. Twenty-two other nations joined within a few weeks.

71 Flags
Now 71 flags fly in front of the two great marble buildings in Rome which Italy turned over to FAO as a world headquarters for a token annual rental of $1 each.

After 10 years, hunger still is in the field, menacing as ever. But FAO reports many beachheads have been won, particularly in lands where want is greatest.

World food production has increased by 25 per cent in less than 10 years. Generally, it has increased faster than world population growth.

No Growth
In 1954 the world failed to increase its annual food production for the first time since World War II.

For the future there is promise. Soviet Russia has been hinting that after a decade of abstinence she may join FAO. Her membership would be a powerful aid in world food planning, for Russia is among the big food producers.

New Weapon
Also, atomic energy has added a mighty new weapon to the farmer's arsenal by showing the way to greater yields, in animal and plant growth. Experimenters believe that man of the future may dine off synthetic foods produced by the energy of the sun acting on inorganic matter.

FAO has two sides. There is the headquarters in Rome, which is sometimes criticized for being bureaucratic and out-size. The striking arm is elsewhere—1,100 technicians in some 50 countries teaching farmers and fishermen how to produce more food.

Field Operation
It is the field operation that is the dramatic and heart-warming side of FAO:

An Iowa farmer in the wilds of Afghanistan shows turbaned Afghans how to use the scythe instead of the hand knife for cutting wheat.

FAO's broadscale program is:
1. To keep the world's food production ahead of its skyrocketing rise in population, which increases by almost 100,000 daily.
2. To distribute the world's food output so that surpluses reach the regions of underproduction.

Interpreting the News—

Pinay Awaits UN Action On Africa

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Word from France that she will await UN General Assembly action on African problems before deciding what to do about her general relationship with the organization slightly clarifies her original position.

It means she will not take part in most of this year's assembly work.

Foreign Minister Pinay said when his delegation walked out of the Assembly that its return, as well as France's over-all membership in the organization, had become matters under consideration. Now he indicates that consideration will not be complete until after the Assembly acts on the anti-colonial resolutions which was put on the agenda under French protest and caused the walkout.

France Out
Unless there is a shift of sentiment among the delegations, that means France will be out of the Assembly not only for most of the session, but for all of the major discussions now booked, which include the current atomic-peace debate, expected to take another week, and disarmament.

There was a movement after France's walkout to save some face for her by moving up the colonial debate to follow that on atoms. Some delegates thought that a routine disposition of the African questions might be achieved so France could come back.

The movement didn't get very far. The same Asian-African nations which are the prime movers against France have achieved a certain portion of their objective on that point, and are anxious to get the disarmament discussion going. They are expected to get their way.

So France is absent from the world forum at a time when the shakiness of her governmental system has been newly advertised by the African trouble. The debate over her inherent strength or lack of strength as a great nation has been resumed, with Frenchmen themselves actively participating.

Better Balance
His own president is saying that a better balance must be established between the executive branch and the presently overriding powers of the National Assembly.

But the crux of the matter lies not in a strong French government, nor in the time needed for strengthening North Africa politically, and France economically, for separation. The crux lies in the spirit of the approach.

Until now, France has been seeking piecemeal compromises to prolong her power, under bitter political pressure from the French colonists and business interests across the Mediterranean.

Problems Concerning Future Higher Enrollments Stated

(Editor's Note: The following information was taken from a report presented to the Iowa Taxation Study committee by the State Board of Regents concerning what is being done in the three state colleges in Iowa about the problem of a growing enrollment).

The State Board of Regents and the executive officers of the three institutions, have been seriously considering these problems surrounding the growing enrollments for the past several years.

Resolution Passed
When it became apparent this fall that there would be more applications for admission than could be accommodated, the following resolution was passed by the board asking for action:

"It is recommended by the Faculty committee that a study be made of anticipated enrollments, housing facilities, the usage and need for classroom facilities, available faculty members, the possible necessity of restricting enrollments and other matters which may be necessary to enable the institutions to meet the demands which may be made upon them in the foreseeable future.

"It is further recommended that the matter of the study be referred to the presidents of the State University of Iowa, Iowa State College and the Iowa State Teachers college for their recommendations with regard to the scope and conduct of the study."

More Class Hours
All of our institutions are using longer days to make full use of classroom and laboratory space. Some classes start as early as 7 a.m. All three institutions schedule classes through the noon hour. Some classes continue until 6 p.m. Saturday morning classes are held in all three colleges. Night classes and laboratory sessions for many sections have already been necessary. Many students are in the classrooms as late as 10 p.m.

We recognize that this procedure is not in keeping with good educational standards. The student is denied many of the extra-curricular activities which we believe to be essential to a well-rounded college education—namely the benefits of participation in drama, radio and television workshops, music activities, athletics, attendance at lectures and other educational activities which are usually held in the evenings so that all may attend.

Shorter Hours
Staff members are lured away from the classrooms by the shorter, regular 8 to 5 or even shorter hours being held forth by business and industry.

College administrators are seriously surveying every available space. Rooms which have been used for research or other service functions are being reapportioned for class room use. Rooms which have been previously considered as unfit for classrooms are being converted for this use.

Class schedules are undergoing considerable revision. Courses are being offered fewer times during the year. This often causes the student considerable inconvenience and often leads to the necessity of a student remaining on the campus an extra quarter or semester in order to complete his prescribed work.

Economic Feature
At this point let us digress for just a minute and point out a unique feature of economy and efficiency in the organization of our two larger institutions. For example, at SUI, duplication of courses and curricula throughout the university has been reduced to a minimum by requiring departments within one college to serve the needs of another and so avoid the creation of duplicating departments. At Iowa State, all basic courses such as English, mathematics, etc., are taught in the Science division, thus avoiding duplication where separate courses might exist in each of the several divisions.

Increased enrollments mean larger operating budgets. In August, 1954, the board, after lengthy consideration, increased tuition approximately 30 per cent, effective this fall, to help support these larger budgets.

It is estimated that this increase will result in an increased revenue for the three institutions of higher learning in the amount of $900,000 per year.

What Student Pays
How much of the cost of public higher education should be supported by tuition and fees? Some of you may have been wondering if the students have been paying their share of the cost of their education. In Iowa the tradition has been that a relatively small portion of the cost of higher education in state-supported institutions is paid by the student. In recent years student tuitions and fees accounted for a little more than 10 per cent of the income at SUI and ISC and an average of 6.5 per cent at ISTC. The balance of the operating income comes from state appropriations, gifts and grants, sales, etc.

Some folks have suggested that we raise out-of-state student fees. The board has considered such a course of action and has decided to leave them as is, at least for the present. The benefits of a cosmopolitan student body to both students and institution should not be underestimated.

This experience fosters a more complete development of the individual.

Student Housing
It has been a long-time policy of the board that students should have a desirable place to eat and sleep. More and more parents are asking that their children live in college-owned and supervised facilities.

Except for comparatively small amounts contributed by the state years ago, the dormitory systems at the three institutions have been financed by funds borrowed by the board under the laws of Iowa. They are self-supporting enterprises. Revenues derived from the operation are pledged to the servicing of the loans. In recent years the board has expanded and accelerated the dormitory building program. Since 1949 the board has constructed, has under construction and has made arrangements for future construction of buildings costing approximately $12,000,000, housing 3,850 students. When this program is completed and added to the dormitory facilities built before 1949, our institutions will house a total of 11,300 students. In this way the Board is trying to meet the increasing demand for housing.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer pioneers in design and sales of new tiny transistors

The germanium transistor—some smaller than the eraser end of a pencil and able to operate on a few thousandths of a watt—is probably one of the most promising developments in the electronics field today. It opens the way to new midget radios, TV sets flat enough to hang on a wall and many other exciting possibilities.

One of the men who helped design and perfect these tiny transistors—and the man who is now head of sales for all General Electric germanium products—is James H. Sweeney, Manager—Marketing, Semiconductor Products Department.

Sweeney's Work Interesting, Vital

As early as 1948, Sweeney was head of a group that studied the design and possible uses of germanium products. He gained national recognition for his work in developing and introducing these products to other industries, and when a new Semiconductor Products Department was formed in 1953, Sweeney was a natural choice for the job of marketing these products.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Sweeney came to General Electric in 1941, he worked in many different departments until he finally found the work he wanted to do. Like Sweeney, each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees is given the chance to grow, to find the work he does best, and to realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, the country.

JAMES H. SWEENEY joined G.E. in 1941 after graduating with a B.S. degree in E.E. from the University of Pennsylvania. During World War II he served four years with the Army.

Hoad, Rosewall Fail To Sign Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tennis promoter Jack Kramer said Monday that Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad, Australia's 20-year-old Davis Cup twins, were "in the bag" to turn pro but somebody down under pressured them out of the decision.

"I feel like a bride left at the altar," said the tennis great after the Sydney announcement that Hoad and Rosewall had decided to remain amateurs.
"I absolve the boys themselves," Kramer added. "They are real nice boys but unfortunately they must lean on others for decisions."
Kramer, still drowsy from a night-long chore of answering phone calls from the Australian newspapers, said the whole deal had been set while the two were in this country.

Matches Planned
"I had already given the green light to about 25 organizations which sponsor my matches in cities throughout the world, telling them to get ready for a tour with the Aussies, Tony Trabert and myself.
"Now, I have to get off an air mail special to the same 25 and tell them: 'Well, I did have them but they flew the coop.'"
Kramer had offered the Aussie stars $50,000 each to join his touring troupe plus a percentage of the gate. Only last week, he signed U.S. national champion Tony Trabert for an estimated $75,000.

'In Same Boat'
"Hoad and Rosewall were in the same boat with Trabert," Kramer said. "I was just holding off the final word to protect them with the Australian public."
He said it's okay with him if Trabert wants to revert to amateur status as the American star has not been paid a cent yet. However, Renville McMann, vice-president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, said in New York there's no chance of Trabert getting his amateur status back.

No Desire
Kramer said Trabert, though, has no desire to go back to the amateurs even if he could. Kramer said he probably would fill out the tour with pros Pancho Gonzales and Frank Sedgman, himself a former Aussie Davis cupper.

"These are what you call the old pros," said Kramer. "I must be honest about this. The tennis probably will be better with Gonzales and Sedgman but it won't interest the public as much."
"The whole deal was predicted on tours in Australia, South Africa and Europe."

DiFrancesca said he planned a scrimmage session with the varsity pitted against the freshmen squad today.

U-High Sets Sights On New London

University High had its second narrow escape in as many weeks last Friday night when the Blue-hawks beat Columbus Junction, 20-7, for their 20th consecutive victory.

The game was actually much closer than the score indicates. U-High scored its second touchdown just as the third period ended and added the clincher midway in the fourth quarter.
Coach Carl Selin had issued a warning that Columbus would be

The Bluehawks this week will prepare to meet another team that could easily upset its unbeaten apple cart. After losing two games early in the season, New London has won its last three in a row, beating Columbus Junction, West Liberty, and West Branch.

Selin will give his squad a defensive workout this week in an effort to stop New London's multiple offense which consists of single wing, double wing, T and spread formations.
No injuries were reported after the Columbus Junction game, and the Bluehawks should be at full strength for this weekend's encounter.

CHICAGO (AP)—For four straight Saturdays since the football season began there's been rain and mud all over the east and the normally-terrible coaches have been asked to move over on the mourner's bench and make room for the college ticket managers.

Just how much damage has been done to athletic budgets by this run of bad weather can't be determined with any accuracy at this stage, but it certainly is enormous. The only cheerful men among the ones responsible for balancing athletic budgets are the ones who sold most of their tickets in advance.
Those include Penn State's H. R. (Ike) Gilbert, who saw a record attendance for last Saturday's game against Navy in spite of wretched weather almost up to game time, and Army's Col. Jim Schwenk, whose financial worries were dissipated by good advance sales.

Last Saturday's cyclonic storm, which poured tons of water into eastern stadiums and caused all but the most rabid, or foolhardy, fans to stay at home just about wrecked hopes of prosperous seasons for the others.
At Princeton, for instance, attendance at three home games this year has totalled less than half of that for the first three last season.
These figures for actual attendance won't show up entirely in red ink on the books. Princeton's 7,240 attendance for last Saturday's game against Colgate only showed how many people were willing to brave torrential rains out of some 20,000 who had paid for tickets. On the same day only 1,500 of 2,500 ticket holders watched Brown and Rutgers, a game that normally would draw 6,000 to 8,000 on a good day.
Columbia and Pennsylvania, with losing Ivy League teams, also have suffered at the gate. Columbia's drenched homecoming game against Harvard Saturday drew only 12,000 fans as compared to 26,000 for homecoming and the Army game last season.

WHITNEY MARTIN'S Sports Trail

NEW YORK (AP)—We got acquainted with George Bayer gradually. The big lug is just too massive to know all at once, and you just don't walk up and slap a moose jovially on the back the first time you see it.

George is the acknowledged king of swat in golf. When he plants those size 14D brogans, corkscrews his 6-foot-5 frame, and lets loose with 240 pounds the ball he is aiming the clubhead at practically vanishes. A drive of less than 300 yards he just "caught on the handle," a baseball player would say.

Baseball, Football
Huge, powerful and good-natured is the 30-year-old guy out of Bremerton, Wash., who went to the University of Washington with the idea of pitching a little baseball, was drafted for the football team, and wound up as a pro golfer.
When he had finished school he played briefly for the Washington Redskins. He felt he wasn't being used enough, had a show-down on the subject, and was released.

Sold Cars
"I sold cars for 3 1/2 years," he said. "Played some golf, but not too seriously. A lot of people asked me why I didn't turn pro, so about three years ago I took up the game seriously."
The pros soon were well aware of his presence. As Doug Ford said, "We'd hit our second shot, walk about 50 yards, and there would come Bayer's tee shot right up to us."

Bob Hope's Friend
A friendship with Bob Hope, the funny man, was a turning point in George's career. Hope took the big fellow to Washington with him for the Celebrity Tournament.
He uses a club with a 4 1/2 inch shaft, about an inch longer than the average shaft. It weighs 14 1/2 ounces, not exceptional for its length.

Longest Drive
He figures the longest drive he ever made was at Tucson, Ariz., where his shot was 10 yards beyond the pin on a 445-yard hole. He admits the ground was a little hard, but a 455-yard shot would be something on a concrete pavement.
He has been in the money consistently on the tournament circuit, and is in demand for exhibitions because of his tremendous driving. So, along with his tie-in with a sporting goods firm, he's not doing too badly for a guy whose goal three years ago was to break 80.

Football TV Issue Comes Under Fire

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO — Athletic directors Ed (Moose) Krause of Notre Dame and Biggie Munn of Michigan State were in full agreement on football matters Monday with the exception of television.

Munn told the American quarter-back club that "I am all for football television, but it has to be controlled."
Krause reiterated Notre Dame's stand of the last five years for uncontrolled TV and predicted: "In another year or two, football television will be on an open scale. Every school should arrange its own TV schedule."

Farm System Better
"Our farm system — a very small one — has looked better than ever before and may provide some help whereas it was disappointing in the past."
"I've been asked if I would trade pitcher Billy Pierce. I think he was one of the standouts of the league this year and if I traded him I would have to trade the fellow who left town (Frank Lane) and I would have to go through it."

MSU Better Team
"We were beaten by a better team Saturday," said Krause. "Our line was so tough that even our own backs couldn't run through it."

Chuck Comiskey, vice-president of the Chicago White Sox, also was a guest speaker. He assured baseball followers that the Sox wouldn't stand pat next season.

"If we did, we would be looking up to four teams ahead of us instead of two," he said. "What we need mostly is a ball player who can hit the No. 4 spot, one with a good slugging percentage who can produce 25 or more homers. We had four in '54. In another year or two, football television will be on an open scale. Every school should arrange its own TV schedule."

Munn, elated with the Spartans 21-7 victory over the Irish Saturday, said the "Notre Dame-Michigan State relationship is terrific one, and one I enjoy very much. We are going to play them as long as I am athletic director."

Hats Off to Two Sophs

Iowa and Purdue boast heavy, fast-moving lines. Purdue uses its big line to offer pass protection to quarterback Len Dawson. This was evident last Saturday as Purdue passed its way to a 20-20 tie with Iowa.

On ground gaining attempts the Purdue line was effective occasionally. The Iowa line, on the other hand, was effective both on defense and on offense.

BOWEN

GIBBONS

Spearheaded by Captain Cal Jones, the Iowa line successfully stopped most of Purdue's running attack.

Aiding Jones were two young sophomores who have had to fill in for injured players. At the left end position is Jim Gibbons, a 6 foot 3 inch 202-pounder from Chicago. Gibbons replaced Frank Gilliam, who broke his leg in a practice session after playing only one game this season.

GIBBONS HAS DONE a good job taking Frank's place, and I suspect that Frank may have some trouble when he returns to the playing field trying to oust Jim from the spot.

Against Purdue Saturday, Jim was the receiver of Iowa's second touchdown pass. He stood alone in the end zone and waited as Ken Ploen fired across field. This very same play, Gibbons, the only pass receiver downfield, put Iowa in scoring position in the fourth quarter.

During other games this season, the play has been quite effective with the big sophomore gaining yardage and snaring passes like a veteran. On defense Gibbons is a tough man to avoid, especially on end sweeps and off tackle slants.

THE OTHER SOPHOMORE fill-in is Don Bowen, who replaced Rodger Swedberg at tackle. Rodger suffered a shoulder injury during the Indiana game and has been sidelined since.

Bowen, from East St. Louis, Ill., stands 6 foot 2 inches and weighs in at 208. During the Indiana game, Bowen showed promise as he upset the Hoosiers and plugged holes on defense. Saturday against Purdue Don was again an unheralded stand-out as he frequently upset the Boilermakers.

In Monday's practice session Evy continued to use Bowen in the first team right tackle spot, which might indicate that another sophomore will gain considerable experience and prowess on the starting eleven.

THE AMAZING THING about these two sophomores is that they both played 60-minute ball against Purdue. Gibbons played the full game against Indiana, and Bowen was not replaced after he filled in for Swedberg in the same game.

It is encouraging to see enthusiasm and power from the sophomores, and I might just say "hats off" for a job well done, but don't let down now. There are two more seasons after this one.

Gilliam Returns To Warm Up—

Hawkeyes Healthy After 20-20 Tie

CAPTAIN CALVIN JONES holds up four fingers indicating the time remaining in the Iowa-Purdue game last Saturday when the Boilermakers' Len Dawson threw the final touchdown pass. The extra point attempt, kicked after time ran out, was good and gave the Boilermakers a 20-20 tie in the Iowa Homecoming tilt.

A healthy Iowa football team Monday looked far from dejected after its 20-20 tie game last Saturday as Coach Forest Evashewski drove his boys through one of their hardest Monday practices.

For the first time this season not more than one player appeared on the injury list. Therefore, Evy ordered over an hour of offense scrimmaging against a hard-charging reserve squad.

Bowen Continues

A cheering note was the sight of end Frank Gilliam exercising in sweat clothes at the practice field. Gilliam broke his leg less than three weeks ago, but Monday he did not limp noticeably while running around the field.

Purdue dominated the offensive play during the first quarter of the Homecoming Game Saturday against Iowa. The Boilermakers drove for 66 yards in 11 plays, and Len Dawson hit halfback Jim Whitmer with a 14-yard pass in the end zone for the first touchdown. Dawson booted for the extra point.

The Boilermakers pushed Iowa back to a minus 14 yards gained in the first quarter, but the Hawkeyes came back in the second quarter. Iowa went 76 yards in 16 plays and then sent fullback Roger Wiegmann on a three-yard slant off tackle for the touchdown.

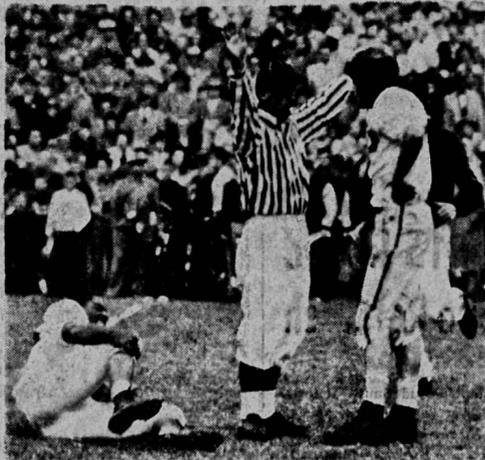

Shift to Single Wing

Iowa had shifted their T formation to the powerful single wing during the downfield march. End Jim Freeman kicked the extra point to tie the score, 7-7.

Iowa's crashing ends, Freeman and Jim Gibbons, hit Len Dawson two plays later and he fumbled. Freeman recovered on the Boilermaker 13 to set up the Hawkeyes' second touchdown.

Ken Ploen, quarterback, called a buck lateral and sent Gibbons into the end zone alone to receive the transcontinental pass. Gibbons waited for the pass which put Iowa ahead, 13-7. Freeman's boot was wide.

In the third quarter with Iowa in possession of the ball and moving downfield, halfback Eddie Vincent fumbled and Dawson recovered. Dawson then led his team 54 yards into Iowa territory and fired a 22-yard pass to Lamar Lundy to give the Boilermakers a 13-13 tie.

OH MY KNEE cries Purdue's Mel Dillard with 17 seconds remaining in the Purdue-Iowa Homecoming game last Saturday. The clock was stopped when Dillard was injured after he gained 17 yards. He was carried from the field and play resumed. Looking on is Boilermaker passing ace Len Dawson, who threw two passes following the injury. The second was good for a TD and Dawson kicked the point for the 20-20 tie.

Dawson's first extra point attempt was wide, and Iowa was penalized for roughing the kicker. Dawson's second attempt missed the mark, and the Boilermakers held onto the tie.

Early in the fourth quarter Reichow hit Gibbons downfield to advance the ball to the Boilermaker 3. Reichow swept end on a keep and went over for the score. Freeman's kick was good and Iowa led, 20-13. There were 4:51 minutes left when Purdue took over.

Dawson passed and ran his team 78 yards toward the Iowa goal, but the clock was moving just as fast. Dawson flipped a pass to Mel Dillard who gained 17 yards to the Hawkeye 14. Dillard was injured and the clock stopped with 17 seconds remaining. Dawson tried another pass, but it fell incomplete with only 4 seconds remaining.

The last play of the game found Dawson sending end Bob Knoe to the left, drawing four Iowa defense men with him. This left reserve end Steve Chernicky

UCLA One of Better Teams, Piro Says

Iowa scout Whitey Piro reported Monday that UCLA, Iowa's foe Friday night, is one of the best teams he has seen play this year. He said the Uclans will be one of the better teams Iowa will meet this season.

Piro watched UCLA romp over Oregon State, 38-0, and beat Stanford, 21-13. He has praise for the California team, although he says it did not play exceptionally well against Stanford.

The Iowa scout reported that UCLA uses the single wing placing stress on power and precision of the fundamentals of football.

The Hawkeyes will fly to California from Cedar Rapids Thursday at 8 a.m., and will return to Iowa City Sunday after arriving in Cedar Rapids at 5:30 p.m.

Reichow Leads Iowa Rushing

Quarterback Jerry Reichow has regained the rushing lead for the Hawkeyes with 181 yards and an average of 6.2 yards per carry. Mike Hagler, who had replaced Reichow against Indiana and gained only two yards on two tries against Purdue, dropped to third place with 150 yards and a 5.1 average.

Reichow added 36 yards to his total on eight tries against the Purdue team.

Roger Wiegmann, fullback, moved into second position with a 151 total and a 3.8 average. He picked up 51 yards against Purdue in four carries.

Halfback Eddie Vincent is in fourth place with 135 yards and a 4.0 average. Vincent picked up 50 yards in 13 carries against the Boilermakers.

Reichow also leads the passing attack, completing 52 per cent of his passes for 348 yards, while Ken Ploen has completed 45 per cent of his passes for 105 yards.

Students, Residents Build or Buy Sets—

Hi-Fi Hobby Combines Science and Art

By WILLIAM DONALDSON
Because of the present trend toward realism, the entertainment media have made considerable advancement. We now have cinemascope, color television, and Marlon Brando.

But as far as music is concerned, there seems to be one realistic device which captures the most interest.

It's high fidelity, and there is no accurate description of it. Better to describe what it does. High fidelity is a system of components which reproduces recorded sound vividly — making a performance seem to originate in your living room.

Students Have Sets
As a result of the hi-fi craze in Iowa City, many students carry their sets back and forth each year. More permanent residents prefer to build their own hi-fi systems.

Both types are made up of similar parts: the turntable; the needle which sends electronic impressions through the cartridge to the amplifier; the amplifier, or equalizer, which controls the volume and tone; and the speaker, which changes the impressions to sound.

Consequently, hi-fi appeals to many types of people, ranging from mechanics to music lovers. And it also makes the listener more familiar with classical music.

HI-FI SOUND EQUIPMENT can be compact and easily transported as this set which Marshall Field, A2, Wapello, has in his dormitory room. College students, such as Field, with restricted living space and frequent moving problems find that the small sets give good sound reproduction.

IMPORTED, PRECISION COMPONENTS are the keynote of this high fidelity set owned by Anthony M. Friedson, G, Sussex, England. Apparatus of this type is more expensive than the smaller commercial sets and is designed to give the listener a front seat in the concert hall.

Portable Set
Marshall Field, A2, Wapello, finds that (1) his commercial set can be easily transported; (2) for the comparatively small size of the set, it gives the listener good sound reproduction; and (3) it adapts itself to the average college student's needs.

Because his was one of the first hi-fi sets to be put on the market and because of recent improvements in high fidelity, Field has added an additional speaker. This enables his set to divide the reproduction of the highs and the lows, thus producing a stereophonic effect.

British Units
Anthony M. Friedson, G, Sussex, England, graduate assistant in the English Department of the State University of Iowa has his own high fidelity system.

It consists of several British-made units, including a leak amplifier and pre-amplifier and a Tannoy 15-inch coaxial speaker. The coaxial speaker does the work of two speakers. It contains a treble tweeter, which reproduces the high notes, and a bass woofer, which reproduces the lows.

Whereas Field's set produces a stereophonic effect (i.e., it puts you in the middle of the orchestra), Friedson's set projects you to the front rows of the concert hall.

Cost of Sets
Field's set cost $150. Friedson's is valued at $500.

Therefore the type of set you own depends upon your pocketbook and the way you like your music. Hi-fi sets range in price from about $125 to $2,000.

A great help in the boom of high fidelity has been the issue of hi-fi recordings. These recordings were made on certain curves which treat the lows and highs separately, boosting one or toning down another or boosting both.

Contrary to a fallacious belief, hi-fi records can be played on an ordinary phonograph, although of course, the sound is not reproduced there as it should be.

Classes Sales Up
Bob Bush, manager of the record department of West Music Company says that since the hi-fi craze, sales in classical records have risen considerably, because it is in classical music that one finds the widest variety of sounds.

Bush stated that this does not necessarily mean that SUI students are going "high-brow." Many record buyers, in seeking new sounds, sometimes overlook the music itself.

Others, like Field and Friedson, just prefer the at-home experience of being projected into some part of the orchestra hall.

Bach To Tour Southern Asia

Marcus Bach, author, lecturer and professor in the State University of Iowa School of Religion, will visit religious leaders and address college and community groups in India, Pakistan and Ceylon this winter.

He will leave Iowa City in mid-December for three months of travel to Asiatic centers of thought and culture under the auspices of the International Exchange Program of the U.S. Department of State.

Currently on leave of absence from SUI, he has visited and interpreted 40 of the world's religious groups in recent years.

This summer Dr. Bach revisited the Canadian Doukhobors and the Hutterites, who were the subjects of his 1949 book, "The Dream Gate." Last year he attended religious festivals in Mexico and Guatemala. In 1952 his book, "Strange Altars," described voodooism of Haiti.

Two years ago he traveled 40,000 miles in a trip which included interviews with Dr. Albert Schweitzer, medical missionary, philosopher and organizer in French Equatorial Africa; an audience with Pope Pius XII in Italy, and meetings with religious leaders of Germany and the Near East.

Prof Urges Planning of Advertising

Buyers of advertising were urged Monday at the State University of Iowa to play a bigger part in decisions on when, where, how and what products to advertise.

Speaking to the Fall Management Institute of the Iowa Independent Oil Jobbers, Prof. Ellis Newsome, of the SUI School of Journalism, suggested "more careful planning to avoid decisions made by default."

Newsome said that the individual businessman should know enough about his needs, what products he should put before the public, the timing and choice of media, that he can decide on the basis of these factors. Too many businessmen buy because of the sales presentation of the media representative, he said.

"Advertising should be regarded as a business tool and not as a business expense," said Max Wales of the SUI advertising faculty.

"If a firm questions the worth of its advertising, this may indicate that advertising has not been approached with enough study," Wales suggested.

Today's sessions will include "Current Trends in Labor Relations," with Prof. Chester Morgan of the SUI Department of Labor and Management and Prof. William A. Knoke of "Consumer Credit Administration" and "Farm Credit Management."

Omaha Phone Pact Talks To Continue

OMAHA (AP) — A spokesman for the CIO, Communication Workers said the situation became "a little more critical" after a fruitless one hour bargaining session between union and Northwestern Bell Telephone Company negotiators Monday.

Both sides met with U.S. Conciliator Edward Ries. The Conciliator stepped in to urge a resumption of negotiations last week after the union announced it was making strike preparations. Another session is scheduled for this afternoon.

The union spokesman said no new proposals were presented and no progress was made. A Northwestern Bell spokesman declined comment.

The CWA and Bell have been bargaining for a new contract since July 26, and some 18,000 workers in five midwestern states have been working without a contract.

SUI Indian Students Laud Nehru Regime

By IVARS LIEPINS
Foreign students from India, studying at the State University of Iowa, seem to agree that the nationalism and independence from the British rule are doing great things for their country.

"Today everyone in the country feels a common goal; that is the prosperity of India," said P. K. Kandaswami, an Indian student who has been in this country for about a month.

5-Year Plans
Kandaswami explained that the work of his nation is based on five-year plans, in which time the country will meet certain set standards of development. This year India will finish the first five-year plan and start the second which will emphasize industrial expansion.

"Setting a goal gives our people something to work for," he added.

Kandaswami feels sure that in 15 years the standard of living in India will reach that of United States and other prosperous countries of the world.

Government-Sponsors
Kandaswami, who is studying hydraulic engineering at SUI, is an Indian government-sponsored student. He plans to return to India in three years and work for the Indian government.

Communism is not such an important threat to India as people in the United States tend to believe," Kandaswami said. "It spreads only among the poor people."

"Our leaders try to eliminate Communism by attacking its root. They try to reduce poverty."

Shah Disagrees
Another Indian student Dinesh Shah, has a different idea about Communism. He thinks that in India only the intellectual class has Communistic tendencies.

"The poor people are like a flock of sheep, they follow the leader," Shah said, "at present the leader is a democratic government."

Shah has been in the United States for two and a half years. He is a graduate student in civil engineering and came here paying his own expenses. He plans to return to his native country in two years.

Favors Coexistence
Asked about Indian Prime Minister Nehru's recent trip to the Soviet Union, which caused quite a stir in the United States, Kandaswami said that Nehru believes in the coexistence of all nations.

"India will take help from everyone, even Russia. The only thing we ask is that there are no strings attached," Kandaswami added.

He has a great admiration for the American people and thinks that people in America are always working and are very systematic in their work.

There is a definite tendency in the Indian government to eliminate the caste system, Kandaswami said. India is a democracy and so all people should be equal.

Homecoming—

badges had been sold.

Kerr said he couldn't predict how many of the 17,000 badges had been sold, but he hoped all money and unsold badges would be turned in by today.

Final Figure Today

"Then we'll be able to give a final figure on the sales," he said.

Badges were sold up to and during the Iowa-Purdue game Saturday.

Winners in the Homecoming Parade float competition were announced during half-time at Saturday's game.

Winner of the sweepstakes award was a float titled "Hurricane Herky Approaching," jointly built by Phi Gamma Delta social fraternity and Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

Float Beauty Prize

First place in the beauty division was taken by "Ioway Goes Hawaiiway," a float by the Hawaiian student's social organization Hui-O-Hawaii. Second place in beauty was won by the Associated Students of Pharmacy's float "Let's Boot Purdue."

Winners in originality were Delta Tau Delta and Chi Omega with "Whale the Tail Off Purdue" — first place, and Alpha Epsilon Pi and Sigma Delta Tau with "Old Gold will Drive Purdue Pell-Mell" — second place.

Quadrangle dormitory took first place in humor with "I Dreamed I Beat Purdue in My Manlyform Shorts." Second place in humor went to Hillcrest dormitory's "Purdue is All Washed Up."

Best Sorority Float

Lions Club Awards for highest ranking sorority float went to Alpha Chi Omega.

A Kiwanis Club award for the highest ranking fraternity float went to Phi Gamma Delta.

Quadrangle received the Elks Club award for the best dormitory float.

Rock Island Jury Probing Davenport Numbers Racket

ROCK ISLAND, Ill. (AP) — An alleged numbers operation with headquarters in Davenport, Iowa, and operations extending to here and Moline, was under investigation Monday by the Rock Island County grand jury.

Thirteen persons accused as "runners" in the operation were subpoenaed to appear before the jury for questioning about the operation which is reported to gross $144,000 a year.

State's Attorney Bernard J. Moran said he will file an information in Rock Island County Court against Jesse F. Ganaway of Rock Island, charging him with promoting the lottery.

Moran said Ganaway and a

Davenport man are owners of the numbers game operation. He said Monday he had notified Davenport authorities that the operation's headquarters is in the 600 block on Harrison Street, Davenport.

The Davenport man, who allegedly is connected with the operation, cannot be prosecuted by Illinois authorities, Moran said.

Davenport Police Chief Harvey Smith said he had been informed by Moran's office of the complaint and had sent two detectives to the Harrison street address but they reported nothing had been found to indicate gambling had been in progress there.

Burning for a Tie

(Daily Iowan Photo)
A PROBLEM came up when Iowa tied Purdue, 20-20, Saturday in the Homecoming football game. What should be done with the Corn Monument, which is burned after every Hawkeye Homecoming victory? A student solved the short-lived problem by putting a torch to the monument.

Wants More Control by City Council—

Candidate Meeks Says Roan Too Powerful

(Editor's Note: This is another in a series on candidates for the City Council of Iowa City.)

By KIRK BOYD

Glenn Meeks is another City Council candidate of the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL) who doesn't go all the way with the group's objectives. Meek doesn't believe that city manager government has been a flop in Iowa City.

"With the right manager and council it could be as good as any other system," he said Monday.

Won't Commit Himself

And he won't commit himself to a strict platform of "Fire Peter Roan."

"I think that the city council should bring Peter Roan under its control," he says.

"If he is controlled, the system can work well."

This does not follow the NPTL resolution adopted at its organizational meeting Aug. 9 that called for an end to manager government in 1957 and to Roan's employment as soon as possible.

Objects to Salary

Meek said that his prime objection to Roan is the city manager's yearly salary of $12,744.

"That's too much money for a city manager," he said.

Meek said he would want to "adjust his salary according to duties involved."

Meek said Monday that he did not want to express his opinions on other election issues this early in the campaign.

"I would rather wait until later in the campaign to talk about them," he said. "They will come up then."

He believes that the present city hall is "an eyesore."

Against New Building

But he is not in favor of the proposed combination City Hall-Community Center building, which has a cost estimate of about $600,000.

"I think the present City Hall can be used and remodeled," he said.

Meeks, a real estate broker, is a comparative newcomer to Iowa City. He moved here in September, 1954, from Riverside, where he had lived since his birth.

Newcomer to Politics

Meeks, like the other candidates running for City Council is not a politician and doesn't pretend to be. He has never held public office or taken part in party politics.

But he does think that there is dissatisfaction with the present city administration.

"Every one I have talked to in

GLENN MEEKS, candidate of the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL) for a City Council position, looks from his office window over the city whose government he hopes to take part in. He is in favor of keeping city manager government, but cutting the salary of City Manager Peter F. Roan and "bringing Roan under the council's control."

my work has expressed unrest with the present government," he said. "Many have the impression that he (Roan) has control of the council and whatever he says is the final word."

'Good and Bad'

On the major city projects undertaken during Roan's tenure, Meeks said: "They had some good and bad points."

Meeks set forth his major campaign promise in a statement Monday that said:

"... if elected, I will make every effort to restore to the city of Iowa City representative government, respect the wishes of the people and attempt to restore confidence and co-operation among all of the people toward our city government."

Nixon Urges Russia To Accept Arms Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice-

President Richard Nixon Monday night expressed the hope and the faith that the "chances for peace today are better than at any time since World War II." But he told the Communist world that "the time for words alone has passed" in efforts to achieve it — "the time for deeds has come."

He urged Soviet Russia to accept as "a formula for peace" President Eisenhower's proposal to exchange military blueprints and aerial inspection of military installations.

Nixon voiced his views in companion speeches prepared for the International Air Transport Association, and the New York Herald Tribune Forum.

To the air transport group, with delegations here from 47 nations, Nixon hailed Mr. Eisenhower's sickbed offer to the Russians last week to accept their counter proposal for ground team inspection if they would accept his plan for aerial surveys.

"No greater step toward peace could be taken at this time than for the President's proposal to be accepted so that both systems of inspection could be put into effect for the purpose of eliminating the fear of surprise attack and, thereby paving the way for disarmament," Nixon said.

In his Herald Tribune Forum speech, Nixon said "The United States is willing to accept any proposal leading toward peace except one that would mean surrender of our own freedom or the freedom of others, or one that would mean acquiescence in the enslavement of any peoples in the world."

Reuther Sees 4-Day Week In 10 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther, CIO president, Monday predicted that new labor-saving machines will make possible a 4-day, 32-hour work week by 1965.

Reuther told a Senate-House Economic subcommittee studying growing use of push-button, electronic machinery that the new technology will pose "a tremendous challenge in the years that lie immediately ahead."

The CIO chief said the machines hold the promise of a better life for all citizens if the fruits of more efficient production can be shared equitably.

"If we fail to solve the problems that will probably crowd upon us," he said, "we may be forced to undergo shattering economic dislocations that could threaten our whole economy and our free society."

"We have mastered the know-how of mass production," he testified. "What we now need is to master the mass distribution know-how, to market the tremendous production these marvelously efficient machines can produce."

Reuther said that to market the growing flood of goods, consumer purchasing power will have to be developed through higher wages, tax relief and other worker's benefits.

Reuther said machines will cut down employment opportunity while the population and work force expand.

To meet this problem, he said the 4-day, 32-hour work week, plus longer vacations, should be adopted to keep the work force in line with dwindling work requirements as machines more and more take over human tasks.

McCloy To Talk on Physical Education

"A Half-Century in Physical Education" will be the subject of a State University of Iowa graduate college lecture to be given by Dr. C. H. McCloy, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. in Shambaugh Lecture Hall.

McCloy is research professor-emeritus in the SUI division of physical education.

The invitation to give the lecture was extended McCloy "in recognition of the long and distinguished service he has rendered the University and the field of physical education," according to Dean Walter F. Loehwing of the SUI graduate college.

Jointly Sponsored

The McCloy lecture is being sponsored jointly by the graduate college and the SUI division of physical education.

Internationally known for his research and writing in the field of physical education, McCloy has been a member of the SUI faculty since 1930, when he became research professor of physical education.

He had previously held positions in several other educational institutions and had worked in China for 13 years, going abroad as physical education secretary for the YMCA. Articles he had written while a researcher at Johns Hopkins University attracted the attention of YMCA officials.

With War Department

During World War II, McCloy was chairman of the Civilian Advisory Committee for the U.S. Navy's physical fitness program and served as a consultant for the Joint U.S. Army and Navy Committee on Welfare and Recreation. He has been an expert consultant of the U.S. War Department since 1941.

McCloy's published works include more than 30 books on athletics, health and physical education, 20 of them having been published in Chinese. He is an accomplished linguist, being able to speak Chinese fluently and to read French, Japanese, Italian, Portuguese, German and the Scandinavian languages.

6 Languages

Articles by Dr. McCloy have appeared in magazines and journals in English, Chinese, French, Italian, Spanish and Turkish. McCloy is a Fellow of the American Academy of Physical Education, which gave him its research award for 1948, and served as president of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation in 1937-38 and as president of the Pan-American Institute of Physical Education from 1946 to 1955. He is a member of numerous other professional, honorary, civic and fraternal groups.

Dr. McCloy's lecture will be open to the public free of charge, as are all SUI graduate college lectures.
