Russia Rebuffs Ike's Aerial Check Plan

GENEVA (AP) - Russia again rejected the Eisenhower aerial inspection plan Friday night despite an American offer to extend it to as many as 50 other nations.

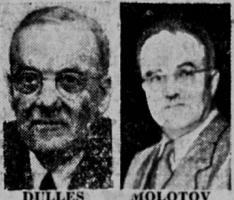

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles pleaded vainly with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to accept the plan on this new global basis.

Molotov replied that Dulles had "not dealt with the Soviet delegation's objections."

Angry words, the Big Four foreign ministers exchanged condemnations of rival East and West disarmament programs they had submitted Thursday to their deadlocked conference.

After Molotov's new rebuff of Eisenhower's "open skies" idea, Dulles declared:

"The Soviet proposals are a cruel deception which is sought to be perpetrated on peoples of the world for propaganda purposes."

Not Practical As for the three Allies' proposals, Molotov charged that "They do not contain a single provision that would guarantee any practical step to terminate the armaments race and to prohibit atomic weapons." He added:

"The Western proposals even legalize the employment of atomic weapons... contradicting the honor and conscience of humanity.

"The Western Powers are now retreating and trying to nullify results that were achieved in earlier disarmament discussions."

Ends Wednesday The stormy 11th session brought an announcement by Molotov as the day's chairman that the Big Four would terminate their Geneva negotiations next Wednesday.

Another round of disarmament arguments is slated for Saturday. On Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning, the foreign ministers will discuss developments of East-West contacts. Their experts committee disbanded Thursday without agreement on any recommendation on contacts.

The foreign ministers again will take up on Tuesday afternoon the questions of European security and German reunification. They have clashed on these since the opening debate Oct. 27.

Communique They will devote Wednesday to trying to agree on a communique with which to end the three-week conference. It may at least faintly reflect "the Geneva spirit" which shone here for the summit conference.

Although British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay joined with Dulles in expressing hope that Molotov's opposition here was "not the Soviet Union's last word," they obviously expected no conciliatory gesture from him before the conference breakup.

Dulles Fights Back To no avail, Dulles undertook to meet Molotov's objection that the Eisenhower plan failed to cover American foreign bases or the armed forces of Allied powers.

Noting that Britain and France have already expressed approval, Dulles said the United States would be prepared "to proceed promptly" to negotiate with "40 to 50" nations for the plan's extension to U.S. overseas bases and to these nation's own forces "on a reciprocal, equitable basis."

Physics Professors Meet Here Today Prof. Francis T. Cole of the SUI Department of Physics will speak at a joint colloquium of physics professors from Iowa State College and SUI today about the work being done on a 30 billion electron volt atom smasher.

Cole is helping to design the atom smasher that the Midwest University Research Association plans to construct. His speech will be given in room 301 of the SUI Physics Building.

A group discussion on the theoretical and experimental research being done in the Physics department here will also be held.

Stick-Up!

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Three teenage youths entered Mrs. Selma Young's laundrette Friday, the largest announcing "this is a stickup."

The 50-year-old woman picked up an ash tray, hurled it at his face, but missed.

He seized her right wrist but Mrs. Young is left handed.

She reached under the counter with her left hand for a pick handle, and began swinging, landing three resounding blows on the ringleader's head.

The three youths fled empty-handed.

Author Says '55 Panacea Will Be Held

Rita Burney, G. author and director of the 1955 Panacea production "Pick Up the Pieces," said Friday that the show will open Dec. 1 as scheduled "if everyone concerned is willing to work."

Kay Taylor, N3, Tulsa, Okla., a member of Panacea Board, had told the student council Wednesday the board thought the show should be postponed or abandoned because the rehearsals were moving too slowly.

Mrs. Burney said she is well satisfied with the work of the cast.

She added that if the rehearsals are going slowly, it is largely because the board was late in casting the show and arranging for rehearsals.

Mrs. Burney said that Miss Taylor apparently was unaware of late developments in the show when she told the Student Council the musical score was not acceptable to the Panacea Board.

Mrs. Burney explained that new music has been written to replace the original score.

Panacea Board Chairman Barbara Oliver said Friday that a definite decision on the opening date for Panacea would be made this weekend.

She said that the show definitely will be held.

Putney Attending Big 10 Conference

Student Council President Mark Putney, L2, Gladbrook, will meet with other Big Ten student government leaders today and Sunday at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich.

The group will evaluate the operation of the Central Headquarters in East Lansing and receive recommendations from the Central Headquarters' Administrative Board.

Changes in the student government association's constitution will be submitted for approval.

Topics of discussion include finances of student organizations on the campus, and government sponsored student services.

Ike Home From Denver, Crowds Cheer Welcome

A STERN-FACED PRESIDENT EISENHOWER briefly addresses gathered dignitaries and homefolks at National Airport Friday bringing smiles to the faces of former President Herbert Hoover, the last Republican occupant of the White House, and Vice-President Richard Nixon, right, who represented the chief executive during his recent illness. Says Doctors Urge Easy Work Load

WASHINGTON (AP) - A smiling, waving President Eisenhower came back to the capital Friday, telling a throng of well-wishers that he has "a parole if not a pardon" from his doctors.

In brilliant sunshine, his friends and neighbors by the thousand jammed the airport and lined the bunting-decked streets of the capital to cheer the President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

Moving a shade more slowly than he used to, but ruddy and radiating cheerfulness, the chief executive walked down the ramp from his airplane at 3 p.m. (Iowa time), five hours after leaving Denver where a heart attack had hospitalized him for seven weeks.

"Happy" "I am happy," he said in a brief talk before microphones at the foot of the ramp, "that the doctors have given me at least a parole if not a pardon, and I expect to be back at my accustomed duties, although they say that I must ease my way into them and not bulldoze my way into them."

Vice-President Richard Nixon, heading the welcome home delegation, told the President the crowd at the airport was "just a small indication of the joy and inspiration your return to Washington has brought to the people of the United States and people throughout the world."

"I knew that I express the sentiments in their hearts when I say welcome back and God speed you in the days ahead," said Nixon.

Ready Handshake Said the President, quietly: "Thank you, Dick."

He had a ready handshake for the vice-president and for a surprise welcome - former President Hoover.

Can Reject The right was reserved to the station to reject advertising which in its opinion is otherwise unsuitable for telecasting, and in accepting any program or advertising account, to cancel it for sufficient reason.

The station also was authorized to accept contracts with networks which may, based on their own judgment, desire to have WOI-TV as an affiliate. It is to be the continued policy of the station to cooperate with broadcasters everywhere in making its educational programs and resources available for broader use.

Needs Revenue The board pointed out that it took its action because of the absence of other sources of revenue to continue the non-profit educational operation of the station. It said also that a source of regularly recurring income must be available to the station since the state makes no appropriation for the station.

The resolution was passed, the board explained, to clarify the record concerning its policies, to reaffirm certain policies, and to modify some provisions.

First Station It related that WOI-TV has operated since 1950 as an educational, non-profit station, it was the first regularly licensed station owned and operated by an educational institution in the United States, it has been operated entirely without tax funds, and depended for its support on income from affiliated national networks and sale of advertising time.

The board said also that WOI-TV has been responsible for establishing television in central Iowa, creating for itself and other TV stations later established a large audience, and pioneering in the development of a TV sales and service business in central Iowa exceeding $100 million in volume.

Doctors making a quick check found he made the trip with no fatigue. Nor did the cheering welcome he got from crowds along the way from the airport to the White House tire him.

The Eisenhowers entered the White House through the south portico. That saved the President any step-climbing and he walked on a level floor to the elevator that took him and Mrs. Eisenhower to their living quarters on the second floor.

CBS Rejects NCAA Game Telecast Ban

NEW YORK (AP) - The National Collegiate Athletic Association announced Friday that Iowa would be blacked out for today's Illinois-Wisconsin football telecast, but the Columbia Broadcasting System promptly answered that it would not respect the ban.

The NCAA announcement, made in Kansas City, said the District Four telecast of the Big Ten game would not be released in Iowa because the "unauthorized telecast of the Iowa-Minnesota game last Saturday by station KRNT-TV of Des Moines, Iowa, violated the understanding and agreements in effect between the NCAA and the CBS television network."

Letter to NCAA In a letter to Asa Bushnell, director of the NCAA television program, CBS, under the signature of senior counsel Charles Woodward, wrote:

"As I advised you on the telephone, we regret the unauthorized action of KRNT-TV in carrying the Minnesota-Iowa game on Nov. 5th. However we cannot accede to your request to 'black out' Iowa in violation of our contracts with the sponsor of the broadcast and our affiliated station.

Contract Obligation "Our contract with the Big Ten grants us the right to carry the Illinois-Wisconsin game in Sioux City. We are contractually obligated to the sponsor of this game to carry it in Sioux City, and we are contractually obligated to our affiliated station in that city to furnish the program to it. Accordingly, we do not plan to withhold the program from Sioux City."

A CBS spokesman said Sioux City KTVI is the only station in Iowa authorized to carry the game.

KRNT's Answer Robert Dillon, manager of KRNT-TV said, "the NCAA committee is attempting to deny the people of Iowa the same opportunity to view Big Ten football as that enjoyed by people in the six other states where Big Ten football is played."

The NCAA said its television committee drew up special provisions to govern football telecasting in Iowa at the request of CBS and other interested parties.

Provisions Violated "Since these provisions have been violated and there is a lack of adequate assurance at this time that they will be observed on Nov. 12," the NCAA added, "the NCAA television committee has been forced to conclude that the special provisions are no longer meaningful and, consequently, they have been voided."

"If this deprives other CBS affiliated stations in Iowa from airing this game, the NCAA Television Committee greatly regrets this inconvenience, but wishes to submit that the fault does not rest with the NCAA."

Faure Faces New Test in Assembly PARIS (AP) - Deserted by large fractions of his pledged support, Premier Edgar Faure today faces a new confidence vote in the French National Assembly.

The vote will be on the issue of holding elections in December under a slightly modified form of proportional representation. Full victory seems almost impossible for the government.

If Faure loses today, he must resign.

KCID Hits 'Blackout' of Football TV

SPENCER (AP) - Ben Sanders, manager of radio station KCID, Spencer, and past president of the Iowa Broadcasters Association Friday night said the NCAA's black out of the telecast of the Wisconsin-Illinois football game in Iowa Saturday "brings the problem of the NCAA monopoly out into the open."

The NCAA announced the ban, indicating it was the result of an "unauthorized" telecast of the Iowa-Minnesota game last Saturday by Station KRNT-TV of Des Moines.

Sanders said: "This incident concerning KRNT is purely between the NCAA and the station. But freezing the other stations out brings the problem of the NCAA monopoly out into the open. Here's the question.

"Why should the taxpayers of the state of Iowa be denied the right to see or hear the sporting activities of their own tax supported institutions? And especially why should the colleges of our state relinquish this right to any organization outside of our state.

"This whole problem is now out before the public. I hope the rights of the people of Iowa are benefited by the solution."

Anthony Signs Autographs

BANDLEADER RAY ANTHONY signs autographs at intermission Friday night at the Autumn Nocturne dance in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Anthony is currently touring the country, appearing on television and filling college engagements.

Ray Anthony Provides - Autumn Nocturne

Good Dance Music By BILL DONALDSON

In times of music from neurotic movies and assorted emotional noises, music to study by and music to make you flunk, over-symphonic symphonies and sonatas scored for unaccompanied dispan, it's nice to know that good dance music still survives.

Ray Anthony and his orchestra proved this point Friday night. They performed smoothly for the Central Party Committee-sponsored Autumn Nocturne dance at the Iowa Memorial Union.

In playing tunes that would attract any red-blooded SUI terspichorean, Anthony and the band were in great form. "Cherry Pink" went over just as big as "Night Train."

But it was "Mr. Anthony's Boogie" - exhausting for both band and dancers - which highlighted the evening. Most students in attendance, whether tired or not, gathered around the bandstand, watched, listened, and enjoyed.

Distinct Beat Running close competition with "Boogie" for the audience's favor was "DC-7," another fast one. During "DC-7" one little lady slid, fell in a rather becoming manner, quickly recovered and moved right back in step - so distinct was the Anthony beat.

The vocalists lent to the evening's pace without attracting any great amount of attention, and this was right. Tommy Mercer did well with "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" and "Unchained," as did Joni Durrelle with "Sweet and Gentle" and "Lover Man."

Then there were "Tenderly," "Dream," "Autumn Nocturne," and "Serenade" - all slow, mellow standards and all well played.

Anthony Version A word, too, for Anthony's version of "Dancing on the Ceiling," which was the first number to set the audience moving.

Anthony has a way of taking corny tunes and making something pleasant out of them. His rendition of "Moments to Remember" is such an example.

Last night's dance audience may disagree as to the type of dance music in which Anthony and his band excel. But, judging from the way the dancers moved around the Union floor, they all seemed to realize that the man knew his business.

CIGARETTE SMOKING RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - The Medical College of Virginia announced Friday a 13-month series of experiments conducted there indicate cigarette smoke has no harmful effect on the lungs of mice. Dr. Seymour J. Kreshover said no sign of tumors appeared in the lungs of mice subjected to daily inhalations of cigarette smoke.

Regents OK Advertising For WOI-TV

AMES (AP) - The State Board of Regents has authorized television station WOI-TV to accept programs and advertising for all legitimate products, Iowa State College officials said Friday. The college operates the station.

The board at its meeting in Des Moines Thursday, the college said, passed a resolution which authorized WOI-TV: To accept programs and advertising for all legitimate products, services, or sponsors with the continued exception of wines, beer, or any alcoholic beverage.

Can Reject The right was reserved to the station to reject advertising which in its opinion is otherwise unsuitable for telecasting, and in accepting any program or advertising account, to cancel it for sufficient reason.

Ike's Home! White House Lights Aglow

WASHINGTON (AP) - Folks going home to dinner Friday night in the early winter dusk saw the White House gleaming with lights.

That's the way Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower likes it to be. She thinks it betokens good cheer within if a home's living room shades are up and the light shines forth.

One of the first instructions she gave the White House staff after she moved in back in January, 1953, was: "Don't draw the curtains on the main floor."

And Friday night the White House, set back amid trees that have nearly lost all their leaves, was aglow downstairs and up. Lights gleamed on the north and south porticos, too.

"First time the lights have been on like that since the President and Mrs. Eisenhower went to Denver back in August," said a guard at the White House gate. "It does look cheerful."

Within the lighted mansion there was quiet good cheer - and thankfulness.

Doctors making a quick check found he made the trip with no fatigue. Nor did the cheering welcome he got from crowds along the way from the airport to the White House tire him.

The Eisenhowers entered the White House through the south portico. That saved the President any step-climbing and he walked on a level floor to the elevator that took him and Mrs. Eisenhower to their living quarters on the second floor.

The Old Russian Line—

How are we to interpret the Russian attitude at the current Geneva talks?
Last July the Big Four chiefs of states met in Geneva, talked peacefully, amicably, and emerged from the conferences with an air of confident hopes for the solution to world problems.

Now the Big Four foreign ministers because of the attitude of Russia's V. M. Molotov, have failed to agree on any of the vital issues brought up at the Geneva foreign ministers meeting. In the latest development, Molotov Thursday rejected the U.S. proposal for immediate U.S.-Russian exchange of military blueprints and reciprocal air inspection.

Molotov said the U.S. plan would increase international tension instead of wiping out fear of surprise atomic attack. Let's dissect Molotov's argument on this issue. By the very fact that the U.S. proposed the plan, the U.S. is saying in substance that it would lessen for us the fear of surprise attack. But Molotov tells us that it would increase tension. How can he possibly tell us what our attitude would be?

The only thing he can tell us is what the Russians might feel. He stated in effect that their attitude is a negative and distrustful one. On the other big issue taken up by the foreign ministers at Geneva, Molotov has called for a unified Germany under Communist domination. This request is obviously so uncompromising that it is out of the question for the Western powers to even consider. It is the old Russian strategy of unwillingness to see the other side of an issue.

In fact, the whole Geneva conference thus far has been marked by a gloomy return to the old Russian line. The "Spirit of Geneva" developed in the July talks has been rudely crushed by the Russians.

Communism's 'Century'?

This century is the century of the triumph of socialism and communism. Soviet First Deputy Premier Lazar M. Kaganovich confidently assured his Moscow audience on Sunday. Such assertions are easily made. Hitler used to speak confidently of the "Thousand Year Reich." Let us look more closely, instead, at the bases of Mr. Kaganovich's confidence.

He asserts that capitalism "has historically outlived its span of life." Yet later on he faces facts enough to admit that "the United States is rich" relative to the Soviet Union, he might have made the same statement about every major Western nation. Mr. Kaganovich could support his thesis only by reiterating the old Marxist proposition about the inevitability of capitalist crises. But Soviet leaders have been predicting a capitalist "crisis" for many years now, and what they have actually witnessed in the West is increasing prosperity.

Mr. Kaganovich speaks of Soviet progress in heavy industry. That progress, aimed fundamentally at increased war potential, is real enough and presents a threat we cannot ignore. But thirty-eight years after the Bolshevik Revolution the Soviet people are still overwhelmingly ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed.

Finally, Mr. Kaganovich speaks of the "countries of the Socialist camp" and warns us not to dismiss Communist China's industrialization drive. But Communist China still has to pass through the ordeal of forced collectivization which is only now beginning. The price that will have to be paid is yet to be determined. As for Eastern Europe, Mr. Kaganovich might note that Marshal Tito agrees with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that freedom for the satellites is still an unsolved issue.

Political leaders, who cannot deliver today what their people want like to divert attention to the cloudy future. Mr. Kaganovich's speech would seem to be an example of this ancient practice.

TO THE EDITOR:
How often have you cursed under your breath, or out loud, over the penciled underline in a library book? I've been doing this for some time. There are, perhaps, more vital issues on the campus of SUI, but I ask your help in remedying this thoroughly, imbecilic and irksome habit.

Frankly, I'm fed up with these people. I give notice of immediate war against Freshman through Professor. If there are any disciplinary means to be taken, I mean to initiate these measures. This is the workings of the mentality that carves on desks, blows his nose in his hand, and/or spits on the classroom floor.

WHY IS THIS so disturbing? Others must use the same books. This leads to the second objection. It makes the book very difficult to read. Those of you who underline in pen or pencil, write "perceptive" or "witty" comments in the margins, or place any number of symbols in a library book, make the task for the next reader infinitely harder.

These acts multiplied by hundreds, give to the book a bizarre appearance but render it completely unreadable. But why go on? This is a lecture one gives to children not adults. Perhaps the "children" in our midst will only see reason with punishment.

NEXT TIME you think a passage is important, keep it to yourself.

Member of Music Writing Team Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Jerry Ross who with Richard Adler wrote the scores for the highly successful musical comedies "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees," died Friday of a chronic lung infection. He was 39.

Ross teamed with Adler in 1950 and together they wrote 250 songs, among them "Rags to Riches," "Hernando's Hideaway," "Hey There," "Whatever Lola Wants" and "Heart."

Half a dozen Ross-Adler songs sold over seven million records and albums.

THE AMERICAN announcement that Israel's appeals for arms will be "considered," however, opens the door on an idea which has been avoided in previous consideration of the problem.

One thing that the U.S. and Britain have kept in mind since the crisis developed is that Israel had the edge when Czech sales to Egypt were announced, and they have been waiting to see whether Egypt is actually going to develop the power necessary before any attack.

Also, they don't want to give Israel the power to implement her talk of preventive war. Such a policy in South Korea prior to June 1950 eventually proved very expensive, but it is one with which the democracies are inherently stuck.

Arms Still Being Shipped to Egypt By Czechoslovakia

By J.M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
It begins to appear that Israel will get arms if she really needs them to insure her security, and thereby lessen the chances of war in the Middle East which could spread to war in the world.

The hope that Russia could be persuaded to call off shipment of Czech arms to Egypt is fizzling out. Russian statements recently made it clear that shipments will continue. The Russian statement that arms will not be used to hurt Israel is just another Russian statement.

THE RUSSIANS have finally brought into the open, however, an important factor in the whole Middle East situation. Arming of Egypt represents counteraction against the "Northern Tier" pact between Turkey, Iraq, Iran, Pakistan and Britain, say the Russians.

Russia, choosing to accept this as a threat, made it a race by tying up with Cairo and trying to work herself in with the Arab countries which fought the pact, Syria and Egypt, or which align themselves with Egypt, as Saudi Arabia and Lebanon.

This is a double dose of Communist disruptiveness, heightening the trouble between Israel and Egypt as the same time it emphasizes the differences within the Arab world itself.

General Says Press In Brazil To Be Free

GREAT BEND, Kan. (AP)—Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott of the Brazilian Army told the Great Bend Daily Tribune Friday he doesn't intend to control the press of his South American country.

Reporter Bob Burns offered to give it a test, if Conrad would pay for a call. Conrad approved.

Water Pollution Threatens Health of American Citizens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pollution of U.S. rivers, lakes and harbors is spreading an evil and potentially dangerous blight upon the American scene.

Countless cities and towns flush their raw, untreated sewage into once beautiful streams. Nearly 11,000 industrial plants spew millions of tons of poisonous, corrosive chemicals into the water we drink and brush our teeth with.

MANY CITIES, such as Los Angeles, have closed down their bathing beaches at times because of pollution. In some areas pollution-stained waters have brought industrial expansion to a virtual halt.

Here, as seen by a panel of sanitation experts who insisted on anonymity, are the nation's "10 most polluted cities"—that is, metropolitan areas where pollution is a major problem.

1. Pittsburgh—Has voted bond issue for treatment works.
2. St. Louis—No sewage treatment.
3. Miami—Putting in big sewage treatment and ocean outfall plant.
4. Kansas City.
5. Omaha—Making progress toward cleanup.
6. Seattle.
7. New York-New Jersey area.
8. Washington, D.C.
9. Charleston, V. Wa. Kanawha Valley area.
10. Youngstown, Ohio, Mahoning River area.

SCIENTISTS SAY even our "secondhand" water—fouled by sewage and recaptured to be used again—is generally safe to drink after going through modern water purification plants. But 31 million Americans live in cities with no water treatment facilities at all.

In the Ohio River watershed alone, 24 cities have no sewage treatment. And in 32 states, appropriations for water pollution control are less than $50,000 a year.

Federal health authorities today are gravely concerned about long-range effects on human health stemming from the vast influx of noxious industrial wastes into the nation's waterways.

Says Mark D. Hollis, chief sanitary engineer of the Health, Education and Welfare Department:

"THE WHOLE problem in sewage treatment in the past was to break down organic waste. Now in the last 15 years we've got 700,000 new synthetic chemicals—plastics and so on—and they have changed the nature of waste.

"What is the effect on human health? We just don't know. We don't get any immediate acute effects, but we must look to the potential long-range dangers.

"What happens is that you put a lot of these chemicals in streams and they react on one another. The result, in effect, is that our streams have become a giant test tube for what is taking place."

As an example, Hollis said that an influx of two tenths parts per million (PPM) of copper into a stream doesn't affect the fish. Nor does 8 PPM of zinc.

"But if you combine as little as one tenth of that amount of copper and zinc in the stream, you kill all the fish," he said.

Two Items Stolen At Sorority House

The theft of a lamp and a scholarship trophy from the Alpha Chi Omega sorority house was reported to Iowa City police Friday.

The thefts occurred on two successive nights, Nov. 4 and 5, between 9 and 11 p.m., Mrs. Marie H. Frye, sorority house-mother said.

She explained she had delayed reporting the thefts in the hope the articles would be returned. The lamp was described as a small colonial floor lamp. The scholarship trophy was a gold loving cup, Mrs. Frye told police, and had the names of a number of the members of the sorority inscribed on it.

New Bible Translation For Catholics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roman Catholic officials Thursday announced a new translation of seven books of the Old Testament, "going back to more reliable sources" and aimed at satisfying the modern reader.

For one thing, the new translation drops the obsolete "thee," "thou," "hath" and "hast" and turns to contemporary usage.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference said a notable difference from the Douay version, used by Catholics in English-speaking countries since the 17th Century, is the changing of the name of Ecclesiasticus to the Book of Sirach.

Protestant Version

The Book of Sirach, along with the Book of Wisdom, which also appears in the new translation, is not included in the Protestant version of the Bible.

In addition to Wisdom and Sirach, the new volume contains Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and the Canticle of Canticles.

Some of the differences between the Douay-Rheims Bible and the new translation are shown in the following passage from the Book of Proverbs:

Old: "As he that taketh a dog by the ears, so is he that passeth by in anger and meddled with another man's quarrel."

New: "Like a man who seizes a passing dog by the ears he who meddles in a quarrel not his own."

Book of Sirach

Also, from the Book of Sirach: Old: "A good wife is a good portion; she shall be given in the portion of them that fear God, to a man for his good deeds. Rich or poor, if his heart is good, the countenance shall be cheerful at all times."

New: "A good wife is a generous gift bestowed upon him who fears the Lord; be he rich or poor, his heart is content, and a smile is ever on his face."

"The new volume," the announcement said, "contains the Sapiential or Wisdom books of the Bible, and is the second to be published as part of a project started in 1944 to translate the entire Bible from original sources into idiomatic English."

Protestants Lack Adequate Ministry, Church Leader Says

CLEVELAND (AP) — A large segment of the American public has been deprived of an adequate ministry because of denominational competition among protestant churches, a noted church official said here Wednesday.

Dr. Stanley U. North of New York told 3,000 delegates attending the seventh national assembly of United Church Women that in too many instances denominational conduct has been "on the level of competing chain stores and gas stations."

He is general secretary of the Division of Church Extension and Evangelism of the Congregational and Christian Churches.

Dr. North said hundreds of rural communities are "over-churches" through the sectarian zeal on the part of one or another of the denominations. He warned that the results of sectarian competition "are quite often chaotic and not infrequently tragic."

He said, "It is because of a third-rate loyalty that across rural America hundreds of communities are denied adequacy of church plant, competence of leadership and richness of program."

'Politics, Religion Devoted To Same Goal': Schwengel

Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Ia.) told the Iowa City Roger Williams Fellowship Sunday that Christianity and politics are not mutually exclusive. Both, he said, are devoted to the same goal — serving mankind.

Speaking at the Baptist Student Center, Schwengel said that most U.S. Congressmen and office holders are also good Christians, whose practical Christianity is responsible for the passage and execution of wise laws which have made this country great.

Christianity in action," Schwengel said. He urged his fellow Baptists to take a greater interest in politics in order to be of service to their fellow men. "It is only through politics," he said, "that we can help solve some of the racial, economic and political problems prevalent in our country today."

Penny Shortage Puzzles U.S. Mint
DENVER (AP) — A mysterious shortage of pennies throughout the nation has caused 11-hour shifts at the U.S. Mint here.

Mrs. Alma K. Schneider, Mint superintendent, said Friday: "It beats me and there's no explaining it but the penny demand is tremendous. Just a short time ago we had tremendous stores — pennies to a value of 75 million dollars right here. That backlog is gone and the squeeze has been on us for some while."

The Mint now is turning out 3 1/2 million pennies a day. A puzzling aspect of the shortage, Mrs. Schneider said, is that the return of worn coins has not picked up.

Hawks Close Big Ten Season Against OSU

Behind the Sports Desk

With FRED MILLER

The sports prognosticators met around the Sports Roundtable again Friday over radio station WSUI. Our table was not full this week as Bucky O'Connor, Iowa basketball coach, was among the missing.

Last week there was no disagreement with the pickings so each member came up with a 9-2-1 record for the week and the group average jumped two percent from 65 to 67. We missed on Michigan-Illinois, an upset, Stanford-Southern California, and Duke-Navy, a tie.

This week's roundtable, Dave Etzel, WSUI sports staff, Terry Bledsoe, sports information service, Bob Zenger, moderator, and I, had some disagreements with the picks of the week. We said:

IOWA OVER OHIO STATE

It was my turn first to predict the game. Cal Jones, Iowa captain, said Thursday night that he thought Iowa would win, and the panel seemed to agree readily.

It has to be noted that both the Hawkeys and the Buckeyes are in top physical shape, the first time for Iowa. Ohio State will have its best backfield ready to go, Bledsoe pointed out, and that could spell trouble. Coach Forest Evashevski had been worried about Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy and Jim Gibbons, but I said that ends Jim Gibbons and I said Freeman should be able to stop or turn Cassidy in toward the middle of the line.

Etzel pointed out that Ohio State has no known passer with the exception of quarterback Frank Ellwood. The Buckeyes are principally a running team, but Ellwood has thrown two touchdowns passes this season.

With all these obstacles in Iowa's path to victory, Zenger commented that both teams have big forward walls and this might be the deciding point in favor of the winner.

MICHIGAN OVER INDIANA

A unanimous decision, in favor of Michigan. Etzel said the Wolverines would win with "not too much trouble." Even though Michigan lost to an upcoming Illinois team, we had to give the nod to Michigan.

WISCONSIN OVER ILLINOIS

Another unanimous decision, with Bledsoe commenting "too many guns" in Badger land for the Illini to face. Illinois is bound to have a let down, he said, after being up and beating Michigan last week.

MICHIGAN STATE OVER MINNESOTA

Unanimous in favor of the Spartans, who are the top rated team from the Big Ten in the national standings, if that means anything.

PURDUE OVER NORTHWESTERN

Unanimous again. Northwestern is the cellar-dweller in the Big Ten and Purdue has quarterback Len Dawson to toss passes, so it looks like an easy victory for the Boilermakers.

DRAKE AT WICHITA—TIE

Etzel has lost once voting Drake and stuck by his guns this time. I went along with the Des Moines team. Zenger and Bledsoe decided that Wichita was a little better team, and cast their votes in that direction.

OKLAHOMA OVER IOWA STATE

Unanimous. Bledsoe said "no sweat" for the Sooners and we agreed. The Cyclones have been troubled with chicken pox and injuries most of the season, and are not in the best physical shape. Oklahoma is the top team in the nation.

COLORADO OVER NEBRASKA

I decided to try the Cornhuskers, but the other three picked Colorado.

KANSAS STATE AT MISSOURI—TIE

Etzel and Zenger teamed together for Missouri and Bledsoe and I stuck with K-State for the second tie of the day.

COE OVER ST. OLAF

A unanimous decision, but not an easy one. Each team has seven straight victories and it should be the "most even" game of the week.

NOTRE DAME OVER NORTH CAROLINA

Unanimous, with the Fighting Irish having too much power.

WEST VIRGINIA OVER PITTSBURGH

Another split with Zenger sticking his neck out for Pittsburgh. A good game with West Virginia trying for an unbeaten record.

Cassady, Dad's Day Crowd Face Iowa

By FRED MILLER
Daily Iowan Sports Editor

There is considerable optimism here that underdog Iowa, showing signs of duplicating its great November surge of 1953, will surprise league-leading Ohio State at Columbus today in its final Big Ten game of the season.

Ohio State will play host to the Hawkeys at 12:30 p.m. (Iowa time) before a Dad's Day crowd estimated at 82,000 fans.

Feud Rises Over 9.2 Dash Record

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A stop-watch tempest boiled Friday as Northwestern's track coach criticized a national AAU move to credit his star sprinter, Jim Golliday, with a new world record time of 9.2 seconds for the 100-yard dash.

The performance in question happened in the Big Ten relays May 4 at Evanston and at the time, Golliday's clocking was announced as 9.3, matching the world mark set in 1948 by Southern California's Mel Patton and equalled by Australia's Hector Hogen in 1954.

Unique Position

The unique position of a coach not grabbing all the spotlight possible for a protégé was taken by Wildcat mentor Rut Walter because:

"If those people go fooling around asking for a 9.2 record, Golliday won't even get his honest 9.3."

This was a slam at the national AAU, whose secretary, Dan Ferris, announced in New York that the Central AAU (Chicago area) gummied up a record application submitted to the national group. Ferris said a 9.2 clocking will be submitted for approval at the AAU convention in Louisville, Dec. 1-4.

Ferris Wrong

But Walter said he, himself, filed the application and that Ferris was wrong in saying two of the required three times caught Golliday at 9.2 and the third at 9.3.

"It was the other way around," said Walter. "Two clocked him at 9.3 and one at 9.2. True, there was a fourth timer, an alternate, who also caught Golliday at 9.2, but his time is unofficial."

"I very carefully made this application, knowing the factors involved, and wanting to keep it entirely official. I submitted it not only to the national AAU but also for national collegiate approval."

Golliday, top United States' sprint prospect for the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne, Australia was slightly bewildered.

"I'd like to be the world's fastest human in the books, naturally," said Golliday, "but I'd rather be a co-record holder for sure, than the other maybe."

Venezuelan Wins In Photo Finish

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—El Chama justified his owner's confidence in paying his way from Venezuela Friday by winning the fourth Washington, D.C., International in a photo finish over his fellow South American, Preadase, before a Laurel record crowd of 32,450.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Social Outcast was third and Ireland's Panalipper fourth among the field of 13.

Carlos Vegeler Rincones insisted on paying his El Chama's way after Laurel had invited only Preadase.

Preadase had beaten El Chama in the Simon Bolivar race just before the invitation was issued.

It was the seventh victory in 11 races this year for the 4-year-old El Chama and was worth $50,000 to his owner. He ran the mile and half in 2:36 1/5 on a soft track in sunny, mild weather.

O'Connor, Iowa basketball coach, fills in with "color" material during time outs, half time and after the game. The team will end its second season together next week at South Bend, Ind., when Iowa meets Notre Dame. Today's broadcast of the Ohio State game starts at 12:25 p.m., Iowa time.

Indiana Passing Attack Aimed at Wolverines

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Once-beaten Michigan, hoping for the Rose Bowl at the end of the Big Ten rainbow, faces an aerial downpour today from Indiana's Chick Cichowski, the Big Ten's leading passer.

Last year another Hoosier aerial artist, Florian Helsinki, passed and bucked Indiana to a 13-9 upset over Michigan.

This year Michigan's Rose Bowl hopes are alive again, but Indiana could kill them for good by topping Michigan before an expected 57,000 fans in Michigan Stadium, a loss either to Indiana or to Ohio State next weekend would finish the Wolverines.

But Michigan is recoiling from its first defeat of the season last Saturday by fired up Illinois. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan is been putting the spurs to his depressed Wolverines.

Off Injury List

The Wolverine secondary will be coming off the injury list to withstand its first real pass defense test.

Indiana has been throwing more than one pass every four plays. Cichowski tosses most of them. He's got a 408 pass completion average, hitting three out of every five tosses.

No team this season has seriously challenged Michigan's pass defense. The Wolverines have allowed an average of 55 air yards per Big Ten game. But conference opponents have passed little more than nine times a game against them.

More Passing Yards

Cichowski's passing, on the other hand, has gained more yards than his teammates' collective running in Big Ten competition.

Oosterbaan will be returning first string left halfback Terry Barr to action to bolster the Michigan defense. Barr is injured (pulled muscle) and will play at partial efficiency. His replacement, Jim Pace, is running on a wobbly ankle.

At the critical linebacking position of fullback, Oosterbaan has troubles too. First and second stringers Lou Baldacci and Dave Hill are nursing leg hurts for the third time this season.

Indiana will be in almost perfect shape.

Three-1 May Drop Baseball Playoffs

CEDAR RAPIDS (AP)—The Three-1 baseball league will consider dropping the Shaughnessy playoffs when the league directors meet at Chicago Sunday and Monday.

President Hal Totten, Cedar Rapids, said Friday that playoff attendance has been reduced to the point where interest of fans and profit to the clubs is a matter of concern.

If the playoff system is dropped, he said, the alternative would be to use a split season. The top ranking clubs in mid-July and the league leaders at the end of the season would determine the winner.

Totten said no action can be taken toward adopting a 1956 schedule until this problem is settled but that he expects the Three-1 will operate as an eight-club league next year.

St. Pat's Drops 2d Cage Test, 82-63

St. Patrick's lost its second basketball game of the season Friday night to St. Wendel's of Cedar Rapids, 82-63, in a Northeast Iowa Catholic Conference game played in Cedar Rapids.

St. Patrick's, which lost its opening game 65-53, will take on St. Patrick's of Cedar Rapids Monday night on its home court.

Brechler Confident Of Hawkeye Victory

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Iowa's envoys, in subdued but confident statements, said Friday the experts were wrong in picking Ohio State as favorite in today's Western Conference grid clash here.

The odds-fellows are spotting the Hawkeys from 7 to 12 points against the defending national, Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions who currently are all alone at the top of the Western Conference with four wins in a row.

But Paul Brechler, Iowa athletic director, told a luncheon group here Friday:

"Our team is in shape, physically and mentally, for the first time this year. Our injuries are all healed and we're ready to go. 'I don't want to appear conceited or cocky, but we are just confident we're going to win. In the 16-game series with Ohio we've lost 8, tied 2 and won 6, and tomorrow we're going to even the record a bit.'"

Bud Suter, radio-television advance man for the Hawks, told of how the long Iowa hospital list had dwindled to nothing, and concluded with: "This is the game we want and I'm certain we're going to get it."

The Hawks flew into town about noon, Friday and Coach Forest Evashevski put his charges through a warmup session at the stadium.

Evashevski, who did some great blocking for Tom Harmon at Michigan, could block Ohio from its second straight Big Ten crown by winning today, and could also make next week's Buckeye clash with his alma mater anti-climactic.

NU Invitation to Fisher as Athletic Head

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—A man associated with Northwestern athletics for 31 years, basketball coach Waldo Fisher, may become the new athletic director, expected to restore the Wildcats to football respectability.

Fisher, 49, an athletic staff member ever since his graduation in 1928 after four years of Northwestern stardom, is most prominently mentioned as successor to Ted Paysour, who was "kicked upstairs."

School president J. Roscoe Miller Thursday announced that Paysour was relieved of the athletic director's post to become an assistant business manager of the university "for athletics."

The move obviously was directed entirely at reorganizing a football program which has produced only one Big Ten victory in 17 games since 1953 and this season finds the Wildcats winless in seven starts.

The new athletic director will have in his hands the fate of Lou Saban, nearing the end of a one-year contract as new head football coach succeeding harassed Bob Voigts.

Voigts quit early this year under alumni pressure. Whatever his decision on Saban's future, the incoming athletic director has the blessing of president Miller to "revolve a program consistent" with Big Ten standards.

This points at a stepped-up hunt for football talent, comparable to the better-manned squads which are attracted to other Big Ten schools.

'What Is Man and What Is His Life?'

Michaelsen Discusses Medical Philosophy

"What is man and what is his life all about?" Prospective doctors from 18 Iowa Colleges were told at SUI Friday that the way they answer that question will determine to a large extent the kind of physician and the kind of individual each of them will become.

Prof. Robert S. Michaelsen, director of SUI's School of Religion, made the statement at the University's seventh annual pre-medical conference.

"Were I to be a physician," Michaelsen said, "I could not be actively related to birth and death without asking: 'Why? What's it all about? From whence do we come and whither are we bound?'"

The religious educator said that, admittedly, no practicing physician can concern himself unduly with these matters.

"We want for a personal physician a man who is first of all technically competent—not first of all a philosopher," Michaelsen told the group. "When the obstetrician is delivering my child, I do not care to hear a lecture on the marvels and miracles of a new life."

But Michaelsen said that there is one thing he does desire in a physician: "That he regard me as a human being—not just a case, an interesting example of pernicious anemia, or an extremely unusual instance of 'galloping silicosis.'"

"Position of Privilege" "I need hardly tell you that the doctor's position is one of privilege in the community. People look up to the medical profession. This, however, has the inevitable effect of intensifying the doctor's impact—for good or for ill. A rotten apple physician does more to spoil the bushel than most any other type of rotten apple," he said.

On the other hand, a doctor's potential for good is also intensified, he said, recalling that "at a particularly critical juncture in my young life the support of a friendly physician of immense integrity was of defensive influence."

"Any scientist must first of all be honest with himself and with his data," Michaelsen told the students. "And perhaps there was some truth in the words of old Polonius: 'This above all—to thine own self be true; and it must follow, as the night the day, that thou canst not then be false to any man,'" he added.

Longitudinal View "The speaker said he was suggesting 'the high desirability of a degree of sensitivity and reflectiveness which the words 'human' and 'humanity' imply. It is so easy to fall into the longitudinal or quantitative view of life. How long does it take to arrive? How much is there in it for me? What kind of a car does he drive?'"

Michaelsen told the students that no one expects them to become saints. "But it is highly commendable, and indeed eminently worthwhile, to strive mightily to achieve the fullest possible humanity," he concluded.

Other Speakers on the morning program were Dean Dewey B. Stuit of SUI's College of Liberal Arts and W. W. Morris, assistant dean for medical student affairs and associate professor of medical psychology. Morris, who is director of the annual conferences, read a paper prepared by Dr. R. G. Bunge, professor of urology in the University's College of Medicine, on "Language, Thinking and Communicating."

The advisers met during the afternoon for a panel discussion on "Teaching of the Physical Sciences in Preparation for Medical Studies."

Bankers To Hold Tax School Here

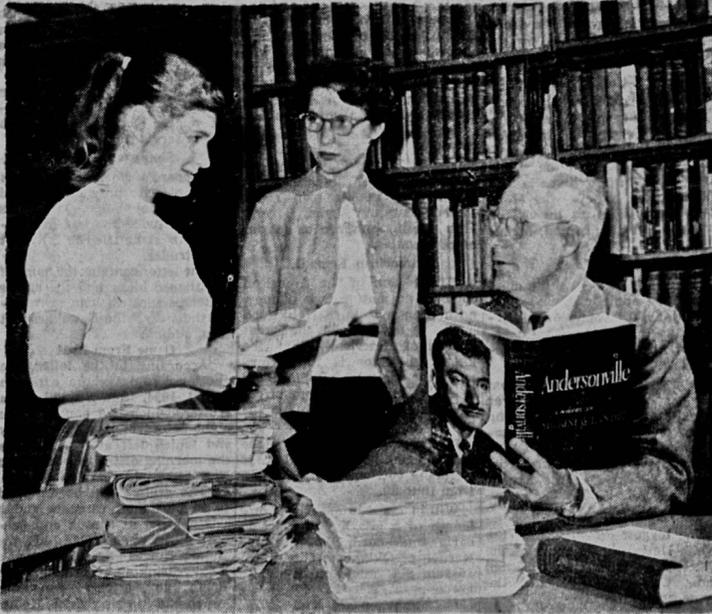

Nearly 150 Iowans will take part in an income tax school to be conducted by the Iowa Bankers Association at SUI Monday through Wednesday.

Instructors for the school will be representatives of federal and state administration and social security agencies.

Local arrangements are in care of the SUI college of commerce and the Iowa Center for Continuation Study. Featured speakers will include Arthur J. O'Hara, vice-president of the Northern Trust Company, Chicago, and H. B. Howell, extension economist of Iowa State College.

O'Hara will speak on "Investment Policies to Meet Current Conditions" Tuesday night at the school's dinner session in Iowa Memorial Union. Howell will talk on "Income Tax Management for Farmers" at 3:30 p.m. Monday in Shambaugh lecture room.

PROF. RALPH ELLSWORTH, right, director of the SUI Library, shows Mildred Hanson, A4, Knoxville, left, and LaVelda Rowe, A2, Iowa City, the original manuscript, the final draft for the printer and an edition of the book, "Andersonville," by MacKinlay Kantor. Kantor contributed all three to the library's Iowa Author's collection. He is a native of Webster City. "Andersonville" concerns the life of Union prisoners in a Confederate prison camp.

The Nation Pays Tribute 2d Veterans Day Observance Honors America's Fighting Men

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation paused reverently Friday to pay tribute to all its fighting men, living and dead.

In Arlington National Cemetery, center of the second annual observance of Veterans Day, former President Herbert Hoover laid a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and declared:

"On this day we renew our dedication to the eternal quest for the holy grail of lasting peace, not for ourselves alone but for all mankind."

The same theme was repeated in ceremonies throughout the country. Some speakers also spoke of the need for maintaining American military strength at a high level until the end of the cold war with the Communists.

Military Parades There were parades of military forces and veterans groups in some cities. Many communities observed a minute of silence at 11 a.m. This is the hour at which the guns fell silent in World War I, 37 years ago.

What used to be Armistice Day is now observed in honor of all the Americans who have fought for their country since 1776.

Arlington Cemetery, the national shrine across the Potomac River from Washington, in which 86,000 military dead are buried, was the scene of several ceremonies.

Tribute to Pershing Before Hoover spoke at the Unknown Soldier's tomb, Secretary of the Army Brucker placed a wreath on the grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing, leader of the American Expeditionary Forces in World War I.

In another rite, Canada honored the memory of all United States citizens who fought with the Canadian forces during World War I. Canadian Ambassador A. D. P. Heeney laid a wreath at the foot of the Canadian Cross in the presence of 35 Canadian military officers.

Maintain Arms Lead Secretary of the Air Force Quarles, speaking in Birmingham, Ala., urged the country to maintain a superiority in weapons "tomorrow, next year and next decade—so long as they are needed."

The national commander of the American Legion, J. Addison Wager of Battle Creek, Mich., spoke in Gettysburg, Pa., near the massive Soldiers Monument on the Civil War battlefield. He warned Russia against upsetting the balance of power between Israel and Egypt and possibly provoking fullscale war in the Middle East.

BREAK THE BANK RENO, Nev. (AP)—Federal agents swooped down on Reno's big Cal-Neva club Friday and seized the $30,000 gambling bankroll for unpaid taxes.

'Crazy Mary' Defense attorney Daniel Ahern urged the jury to weigh carefully the testimony of Carpenter's uncle, James Abene, that he had always considered the defendant insane, and that Carpenter's mother was known in her neighborhood as "Crazy Mary."

Seeks Sons' Murderers; Father Dies

CHICAGO (AP)—The grieving father of two of three murdered Chicago schoolboys died Friday after a heart attack.

Anton Schuessler Sr. succumbed to the weariness and exhaustion of first anxiety and then a ceaseless search for the killers of his only two sons and a playmate.

Dr. Julius Steinfeld said the father "very probably" suffered a heart attack while being given a "routine" electrical shock treatment for remedy of his "depressive state."

Schuessler, 42-year-old tailor, was the father of John, 13, and Anton Jr., 11, whose strangled bodies were found Oct. 18 in the Robinson Woods forest preserves. Also slain was 14-year-old Robert Peterson. The murders remain unsolved.

Schuessler closed his shop to help police work on the crime as well as pursue every angle he could develop on his own.

The strain showed and early Friday he entered the Forest Sanitarium and Guest House, a rest home, in suburban Des Plaines.

His wife, Eleanor, said then: "His nerves are shot. He's going to stay in the home at least a week, and maybe two, and get a complete rest."

Speaking of Schuessler's unrelenting search for the perpetrators of the vicious crime, she said: "The strain has been too much for him."

The strain was too much. Hours after Schuessler entered the rest home, his heart failed him and he died.

Vandals Pour Paint On Automobile Here

Vandals who stole a number of articles of clothing from Hal Lunhauser's car Thursday night didn't stop with stealing. Before they left the scene they spilled a gallon of paint over the 1955 model auto.

Lunhauser, of Ottumwa, reported the theft and vandalism to police Friday morning. His car, he said, had been parked in an alley behind 317 S. Gilbert St.

When he returned to it early Friday he found that it had been broken into and smeared with paint. Police Detective Emmett Evans found an empty gallon paint can nearby.

Italy Bans Shipment of Planes to Egypt

ROME (AP)—The West got a breather Friday in the perilous Middle East arms race as Italy announced she would ban export of 30 Italian-made jet fighters ordered by Egypt.

The 30 would have been in addition to 16 Vampire jets shipped earlier this year by a private Italian manufacturer in which the Italian government, ally of the West, was not involved.

Italy's announcement that she would refuse export licenses for the obsolescent planes—manufactured under British license by the Macchi Works of Varese—may have saved the West from an embarrassing situation.

Reds Catch Blame

Up to now, the Soviet has caught the blame for the arms buildup which Western diplomats fear could lead to a major explosion between Arab states and Israel in the oil-rich area centered around the vital Suez Canal.

The Middle East crisis was precipitated when the Communist bloc sold 200 planes, 100 tanks, six submarines and other war equipment to Egypt's military government at cut-rate prices. Substantial deliveries already have been made.

The Italian Foreign Office, while denying knowledge of any Egyptian jet order or past delivery, said Italy would refuse export licenses, if asked for them.

Confirmation

Despite official Italian denials, Associated Press correspondents received confirmation of the two jet deals from responsible officials of three interested governments. Foreign sources said Italy had been "unofficially" advised of the arms transactions.

There was eyewitness confirmation of the first 16-plane deal. An American airline official said he saw the planes—already marked with Egyptian air force insignia—parked on Milan airfield prior to take off for Cairo. This is the airfield used by the Macchi plant for testing.

Two Shot Down

Reliable informants said also that two Egyptian planes reported shot down by Israeli fighters recently bore Macchi markings. Egypt's version was that the two planes collided.

Egypt, it is understood, placed the orders for the Vampires after being turned down by the French in a bid to buy the much more modern and faster Mystere III.

Egyptian sources claim the French, mad at Egypt because of their North African troubles, have sold 36 Mysteres to Israel in recent months. Egyptians say the new French planes tipped the air balance of power heavily to Israel.

Attache Says Brazil Coup Not a Crisis

DES MOINES (AP)—Brazil's cultural attache said here Friday that the overthrow of his country's provisional president is "not even considered an internal crisis."

Elberaldo Machado declared that had the overthrow occurred before last month's elections, the change in government could be called a "coup d'etat."

Domestic Trouble

As it is, the overthrow is merely domestic trouble, he said. For proof, the 30-year-old diplomat said he made no changes in the speech which he had prepared for a Friday luncheon of the Midwest Conference on Latin America.

The conference is being sponsored by the Midwest Institute of International Affairs of Grinnell College in connection with the Greater Des Moines Chamber of Commerce and Iowa Assn. for the United Nations.

'Arouse Curiosity'

Reference in his speech to the present situation, Machado said, would merely "arouse curiosity." Machado said he was "not exactly surprised" at the news because he knew a change in government was to have taken place this week.

Supports Elections

"The Army and Minister of War, Gen. Henrique Teixeira Lott have always been in support of an established government. Gen. Lott has always been a strong supporter of elections and their results. He would support anybody elected democratically."

This leads Machado to believe that the actions of the minister of war are only temporary and that the situation will be resolved with the inauguration of President-elect Juscelino Kubitschek in January.

SPECIAL ESCORT

ACCRA, Gold Coast (AP)—Police provided special escorts for Gold Coast Cabinet ministers Friday after a dynamite explosion at the residence of Premier Dr. Kwame Nkrumah. No one was injured.

'False Charges'

In an address to a University of North Carolina Young Democratic rally at Chapel Hill, the Democratic chairman faulted his party against over-confidence as a result of Democratic successes in Tuesday's elections.

He said "a desperate Republican party has already indicated the kind of false charges it would hurl" in the 1956 campaign.

GOP Policy Committee

The Republican Policy Committee includes in its membership all Republican senators seeking re-election in 1956.

The memo pounced on the publication of separate magazine articles by Acheson and Hiss, convicted of perjury in connection with his denial he ever passed secret State Department papers to a Communist courier.

GOP Report Hits Acheson, Hiss Tie-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Republican Policy Committee, issued a "memorandum" Friday saying that former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Alger Hiss appear to be "together again" and working for the nomination of a left-wing Democratic presidential candidate.

The accusation cited "separate magazine articles by Acheson and Hiss, dealing with foreign policy."

Left-Wing Democrats

Prepared by the committee's staff, the release said: "It is to be hoped that no one will charge the Republicans with raising the Communist issue in the campaign." It added that, "the left-wing Democrats are doing it themselves."

Without referring to the GOP document, Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler predicted that the Republicans will resort to "smear" tactics in the 1956 campaign.

Adlai Asks UN Patrol On Egypt-Israel Border

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson proposed Friday night that the United Nations mount guard on the flaming borders between Israel and her Arab neighbors, to enforce peace in the Middle East.

Stevenson, who is expected to announce next Tuesday he is a candidate for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination, did not mention in a speech to a University of Virginia audience how United Nations troops would be raised.

But he left the clear implication he would be willing to support an American contribution of men toward the necessary guards he said might prevent the development of "all-out-war."

"A major effort of statesmanship is required if we are to avert a political disaster in this troubled area," the 1952 presidential nominee declared. "We have shown little initiative within or outside the United Nations in devising measures to prevent these border incidents."

Keep Them Apart

Stevenson said it seemed evident the way to avoid bloodshed was to "keep the troops of these antagonists apart."

"And I wonder if United Nations guards could not undertake patrol duties in the areas of tension and collision," he said. "Certainly both sides would respect United Nations patrols where they do not trust each other."

The Eisenhower administration has given no indication it would be willing to involve American troops in the Middle East.

ern dispute, even as a part of any U.N. action.

Defensive Arms

The State Department has said it would be "strongly opposed to the side which starts a war" there. It has said the United States will furnish defensive weapons but enter no arms race with the Communists who are furnishing equipment to Egypt.

Stevenson cited the Arab-Israeli hostilities as part of what he said are "signs of disintegration of our whole security system" as the "rosy mists around last summer's meeting at the summit" fade away.

'Leap Ahead'

He said that what is needed now "is a great leap ahead in our thinking and our action." He said it was not enough to limit war but to abolish the means for war.

"The difficulties in the way of achieving an enforceable system of disarmament are immense," he said. "Maybe the problem is insoluble now as it has been in the past."

"But it seems to me that the urgency is such that we can settle for nothing less than a sustained and dogged search for effective disarmament with the best brains we can muster, and that we have no greater foreign policy objective."

Ike— (Continued from page 1)

dent Herbert Hoover, who told Mr. Eisenhower he looked fine. There was another handshake for the President's son, Maj. John S. Eisenhower, and a kiss from John's wife, Barbara.

Then—begging off from further handshakes, and asking the assembled dignitaries to "let the wish take the place of the deed"—the President and Mrs. Eisenhower entered a plastic-top convertible and slowly drove off to the White House.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty told newsmen the three doctors aboard the Columbine III examined the President just before the plane landed and reported "There was absolutely no fatigue, as far as the President was concerned, on his flight."

Doctors Check

The doctors also gave the chief executive another "brief and preliminary" checkup on his arrival at the White House, Hagerty said, and arranged a more detailed one later.

Repeatedly, on the drive from the airport, Mr. Eisenhower waved his hand to crowds lining streets on which troops were stationed, five paces apart, as an honor guard on the route from Memorial Bridge to the executive mansion.

White House Crowd

The biggest crowd was at the White House where many of the newcomers carried hand-printed signs. One read: "We like Ike home again."

The welcome back delegation at the airport included members of Congress from both parties, Cabinet members and foreign diplomats. Surrounding the area where the plane landed were troops with polished rifles glistening in the sun.

Airport buildings were plastered by Young Republican groups with black and red signs such as "Welcome Ike" and "Hi, Ike, Health and Happiness."

Mrs. Eisenhower appeared first in the door of the plane. Then the President came to her side and held her elbow, as he always does, while they descended to a small platform at the foot of the ramp.

Raw, Misty Weather

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower left Denver in raw, misty 36-degree weather. "Feeling fine and ready to go" was the President's word Friday morning to doctors who had attended him at Fitzsimons Army Hospital where he had spent the past seven weeks.

At Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, he spoke to the American people by radio and television for the first time since his Sept. 24 heart attack.

Cowboys New Lead Claimed In Sheppard Murder

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The stirring saga of the Old West was revived here Friday amid a Hollywood-like blend of galloping horses, bugles and blaring microphones.

Twelve hundred horsemen, a full platform of founders and thousands of spectators who scrambled to vantage points around Persimmon Hill, joined in dedication ceremonies of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame site.

"This reminds me of a Warner Brothers movie," quipped Will Rogers Jr., son of the late famous Oklahoma cowboy-humorist and a top-railer in his own right. Rogers flew here from Beverly Hills, Calif., to serve as master of ceremonies.

American Legend

"The legend of the American cowboy, no matter how phoney, no matter how much Hollywood horses it up, still is the great symbol of America. What the knight in armor is to Europe, what the legend of Robin Hood is to England, so the story of the western cowboy is to this country," Rogers told the gathering.

Rogers stopped the show at the microphone, but the real stars were the cowboys and cowgirls, from 10 to 80.

Within a branding iron's length of a grizzled 82-year-old early time cowboy, Texas Joe Harden of Oklahoma City, sat a 10-year-old miss on a white horse.

Rodeo Performers

A group of rodeo performers was headed by Buck Rutherford, champion cowboy of 1954 from Lenap, Okla., while Charles Tompkins of San Antonio, Tex., president of the Old Trail Drivers Assn. of Texas, paced the pioneer riders.

Officials of the hall of fame labeled this one of the biggest mounted parades ever staged.

Seventeen western states are joined in sponsoring the Cowboy Hall of Fame, to be a million-dollar museum and memorial to cowboys—both past and present.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Daily News says an unnamed letter writer has accused a fellow-camper of the murder of Marilyn Sheppard in Bay Village, Ohio, July 4, 1954.

The copyrighted story by Theo Wilson says private investigators for the Sheppard family are on a "highly secret investigation in this country and Canada."

Marilyn's husband, Dr. Sam Sheppard, was convicted of second degree murder in her death and is serving a life term.

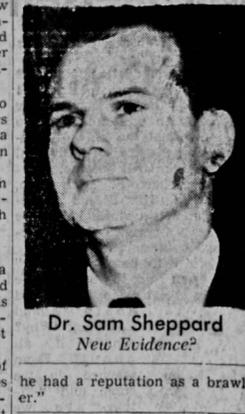

Sheppard's story was that a bushy-haired prowler invaded his lakefront home, killed his wife and twice knocked him unconscious as he tried to intercept the intruder.

"The letter contains the name of the alleged killer and the names of two persons who can corroborate the story," the News' account says, adding:

"According to the letter, the murderer came ashore early on July 4, 1954, from a small cabin cruiser, which had anchored the night before in Bay Village Bay and which left at daybreak on the morning of the murder. The News was told that:

"The cruiser had been rented to two summer campers and a youth hired as a cook and general utility man. One of the campers was described as a 'heavy-drinking, woman-chasing lough guy, a very dangerous rough and tumble fighter. He has heavy bushy hair.'"

"This man left the cabin cruiser about 1 a.m. or later on July 4 and returned about daybreak in a rowboat which the cruiser had carried. His face and shirt were spattered with blood. He told the other two men he had been in a fight in town and suggested they pull out quietly before the cops spotted him. His companions were not surprised because he had a reputation as a brawler."
