U.S. Leaders Disagree on Geneva Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration leaders voiced clashing opinions Wednesday on whether failure of the Big Four conference at Geneva means a stepping-up of the cold war between the Communists and the Free World.

Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson said "one could not draw the conclusion" that the stalemate reached by the foreign ministers in Geneva will result in "an intensification of the cold war."

Another policy maker, however, asserted "the cold war is back" and the administration is consequently reviewing its spending plans.

Changing Program
This official, who would not permit the use of his name, reported "the administration is re-examining its program and is prepared to make any changes that are necessary."

Wilson told a news conference the results at Geneva will have "little or no effect" on the American defense program.

He said the basic plan is to maintain strength into the indefinite future and to insulate the program from international "ups and downs and temporary pessimism and optimism."

But the other officials said:

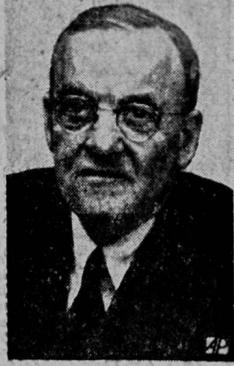

1. Cuts in spending for foreign military and economic aid, pegged at $3,900,000 for the fiscal year ending next June 30, are "not now contemplated."

2. Budget balancing aims of the Eisenhower administration will be subordinated to the "necessities" of the developing international situation.

The Eisenhower official emphasized there was no doubt in his administration circles that the cold war is being renewed. He cited the tense situation in the Middle East, where Israel and Egypt have been firing at each other and the Communists are providing the Arabs with arms.

Balanced Budget Unsure
He indicated it was not yet clear, in view of deteriorating relations with Russia, whether the administration can balance the budget this year and proceed toward its goal of keeping the budget in balance hereafter.

Some authorities believe even fairly substantial increases in government spending would not necessarily prevent the achievement of a balanced budget. The highly prosperous national economy has poured increased taxes into the federal coffers this year, and the value of this development has not yet been fully assessed.

Sultan Returns To Morocco After Exile

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Sultan Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef returned to Morocco Wednesday from two years exile and tens of thousands of Moslems screamed out their happiness.

His frenzied welcome was in dramatic contrast with the grim hour of Aug. 20, 1953, when tanks surrounded his palace and French officials rushed him into exile for being too nationalistic.

Nationalists, conservatives and even Frenchmen lined up behind him Wednesday — at least temporarily — to the Moroccan's return foreshadowed greater independence from France.

Thanks People
In a brief speech on arrival at the old pirate port of Sale, near Rabat, the 41-year-old Sultan thanked his jubilant people for their "faithfulness" and reminded them that he, too, had been faithful.

He said nothing about his fight for self-government or the rioting and terrorism that followed his removal. Diplomatic sources suggested this was to keep the bad reception peaceful, and no violence marred the welcome home.

Two big silver DC6's brought the Sultan from Paris with his two wives and 20 concubines.

Trials Beginning
Despite Wednesday's peaceful course, many thought the Sultan's worst trials may be just beginning. The Nationalists who supported Ben Youssef during his exile face a split.

Some think terrorism should be stepped up with the aim of wearying the French of their duties as the protecting power and thus get more home rule.

Others, more of the Sultan's leanings, want to get some home rule quickly, under the shelter of French protection.

Israel Asks U.S. Arms At Cut Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel formally asked Wednesday for U.S. arms at cut-rate prices on easy payment terms. Egypt promptly protested that this would start a Middle East arms race and lose America the friendship of Arabs.

Israel's Ambassador Abba Eban told the State Department his country urgently needs defense weapons. He said Israel has a "sense of alarming vulnerability" arising from Egypt's purchases of Communist arms.

But 5 1/2 hours later Egypt's Ambassador Ahmed Hussein turned up at the State Department to say:

'For Defense'
"We believe Israel doesn't need American arms. We need arms ourselves for defense."

Hussein told George V. Allen, assistant secretary for Middle East affairs, that "Egypt may be compelled" to make more arms deals with the Communists.

The State Department issued Eban's statements saying Israel's request had been taken under consideration and the telecast, which started Wednesday in a story in the Cedar Rapids Gazette, that there was a good possibility for transmitting the game over WMT-TV.

Disapprove Hostilities
To Hussein, the department said that:

"Mr. Allen repeated that the United States would be favorably inclined toward anything which led toward peace in the area and would view with grave disapproval anything which might lead to hostilities there."

Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., who talked with Eban, reminded the Israeli diplomat that the United States is still waiting to hear how his country feels about United Nations peace proposals.

Neither Israel nor Egypt has formally replied to a U.S. request Nov. 5 for a statement of intentions toward proposals carried to the troubled Middle East by Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, UN truce chief.

Burns' Proposal
The Burns proposals call for withdrawal of Israeli and Egyptian troops from the El Auja demilitarized zone, freedom for UN inspection teams to patrol the area and meetings to try to draw a permanent boundary line.

Eban declined to detail the list of weapons he wants to buy from the United States.

Game To Be on TV If Sponsor Willing

Permission was granted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Wednesday for televising the Iowa-Notre Dame football game Saturday over station WMT-TV, Cedar Rapids.

A request for broadcasting the program over other Iowa television stations, however, was refused by the NCAA.

Three Elements
Three elements are necessary for the telecast: permission from the NCAA, permission from Notre Dame and a sponsor. The first two essentials have been met.

The Amana company and WMT-TV had originally petitioned the NCAA for permission to also feed the program to three other Iowa stations. The NCAA refused such a request early this week and another was sent Tuesday to the NCAA chairman in New York City.

Foerster said that his company hopes to pick up a telecast over Notre Dame's station. The alternative would be to use the national hook-up of the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

50-50 Chance
He said that the possibility of carrying the program on the Cedar Rapids station was better than a 50 per cent chance, but that he would not know definitely until today or Friday.

Meanwhile, Gov. Leo Hoegh Wednesday joined the groups requesting an Iowa network telecast.

In a telegram to NCAA chairman Asa Bushnell in New York City, Hoegh said "every citizen of Iowa joins me" in asking that the NCAA "relax its rules and permit telecasting from four Iowa stations."

Asks Reconsideration
He asked that the NCAA "reconsider its decision" to make the game available only to station WMT-TV at Cedar Rapids.

Paul Brechler, SUU athletic director, was not available for comment Wednesday. The athletic department said it had no new information. Brechler had also asked that WMT-TV be allowed to send the program to the other Iowa stations.

Hoegh said in his telegram that since SUU is a state-owned institution, and supported by tax money from all corners of the state, every television outlet is a local station.

More Snow Forecast for Iowa City

The weather man was not satisfied with the cold weather that had SUU students walking briskly to and from class — he predicts more below-freezing weather through Friday.

Wednesday's low of 14 degrees was accompanied by winds of 14 miles an hour. Temperatures dropped rapidly early Wednesday with some areas reporting as much as 40 degree drops in a few hours.

The light snowfall beginning at 2 a.m. Wednesday was enough to make travel by car slow and hazardous.

Minor accidents were numerous, but no serious mishaps were reported.

Today's low will be about 10 degrees. A high of 20 to 25 degrees is expected.

Don't put away the overshoes, more snow is predicted for Friday.

Will Arraign Graham for Killing Mother

DENVER (AP) — John Gilbert Graham, 23, will be arraigned today on a charge of murdering his mother, Mrs. Daisie King, 54, who died in the time-bomb blast of an airliner Nov. 1 near Longmont, Colo.

District Attorney Bert Keating said he would ask the death penalty.

Graham spent Wednesday reading paper-backed novels and asking jail guards to hurry up his meals.

Mrs. Gloria Graham, 22, mother of the two small children, in her first public statement since the arrest of her husband said, "I'm not going to believe a thing until I see Jack."

Police said Graham in a signed confession claimed he plotted to kill his mother to get his share of her $150,000 estate and $37,500 in insurance he bought just before she boarded the plane.

Forell Lecture Time Changed to 4 P.M.

Prof. George W. Forell of the SUU School of Religion will give the second lecture of the Information First series sponsored by the University Women's Association today at 4 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol instead of at 4:30 p.m. as was announced previously.

"What Can the Modern Mind Believe?" will be the Rev. Mr. Forell's topic.

Surprise Move
The government's move came as a surprise. Provisional President Maj. Gen. Pedro Aramburu met with his full Cabinet Wednesday morning for the first time since he ousted Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi on Sunday but there was no announcement of any antistrike measures.

At that time, Migone spoke only of plans being drafted to bolster the country's sagging economy. Wednesday night Migone described the strike—now in its second day—as harmful to the economy and jeopardizing the workers' welfare.

Expect Announcement
Kefauver is expected to announce his 1956 plans next month.

Stevenson formally named James A. Finnegan of Philadelphia as his pre-convention campaign manager.

Stevenson said President Eisenhower scored a "substantial achievement" at the summit conference in Geneva because he "reassured the world that the United States is not a menace to peace."

Government Seizes Union In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's new provisional government seized the General Confederation of Labor (CGT) Wednesday night and announced that its old Peronista system would be destroyed.

Cracking down in the wake of a general strike called by the CGT, the government sent marines to take over CGT headquarters.

A government decree naming navy Capt. Alberto Patron as administrator said all officials of the central organization and its member unions had been removed from their posts.

Radio Broadcast
Labor Minister Raul Migone told the nation in a radio broadcast of the move. He said the old CGT system, which he accused of serving tyranny and not the workers, had to be destroyed.

The CGT was organized by ex-dictator Juan D. Peron and his late wife, Eva, as the core of their political strength. It claims about six million members.

The marines that took over the CGT headquarters met no resistance.

U.S. Offer Falls
Not even an American offer to extend aerial inspection to some 50 nations tempted Russia to accept the Eisenhower plan.

The discussions on development of East-West contacts produced nothing. The West would not discuss giving up its strategic goods embargo. Russia would not open a single chink in the Iron Curtain for Western ideas.

Fear Elections
"Conditions in Eastern Europe may be such," he said, "that the Soviet Union feels it cannot now agree to free elections in any area it controls, because that would have a contagious effect."

Dulles said Premier Bulganin sent Molotov to Geneva "apparently under orders not to discuss seriously the matter of German reunification," despite agreement to the contrary "at the highest level and under the most solemn circumstances."

Price Supports
He told newsmen that neither flexible nor fixed price supports offers the entire answer to the farm price problem.

Asked if he expected that President Eisenhower would be his opponent again, Stevenson replied:

"I hadn't thought so but I read in the paper that his recovery is rapid and encouraging and that there are those who believe that he may be fit to be a candidate again."

Admit Total Failure on Major Issues

GENEVA (AP) — Russia and the Western Powers Wednesday night broke up the Big Four conference, confessing failure to progress toward securing the peace of Europe, unifying Germany, or expanding East-West relations.

The three Western foreign ministers bitterly accused Russia's V. M. Molotov of bad faith in all his major proposals during the three-week conference.

Molotov, in his concluding speech, claimed that only the Soviet Union had maintained the "Geneva spirit" which marked the summit conference here four months ago.

Pledge New Efforts
In a separate declaration directed to Germans on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the U.S., French and British ministers said their governments would "not cease their efforts to end the injustice and wrong now being done by dividing the German people."

The four ministers agreed on only one thing — no commitment to meet again.

The final conference communiqué said they would "report the result of their discussions to their respective heads of government and recommend that the future course of the discussions of the foreign ministers should be settled through diplomatic channels."

No Progress
Contrary to the directive from the heads of government at the summit meeting last July, the ministers contributed nothing to "the relaxation of international tension and the consolidation of confidence between states" in their 21-day conference. Their prolonged psychological warfare here may have only created new distrust.

They froze harder the division of Germany between Western and Eastern blocs. Russia abandoned even lip service to the principle of free elections to unite 70 million Germans.

The ministers rejected four plans from the summit for making a quick practical start on disarmament. These were President Eisenhower's reciprocal aerial inspection, Premier Bulganin's ground control posts at key centers, Prime Minister Eden's East-West demilitarized buffer zone, and Premier Faure's coordinated military budget cuts.

U.S. Offer Falls
Not even an American offer to extend aerial inspection to some 50 nations tempted Russia to accept the Eisenhower plan.

The discussions on development of East-West contacts produced nothing. The West would not discuss giving up its strategic goods embargo. Russia would not open a single chink in the Iron Curtain for Western ideas.

Ice Age Bones Arrive Here

All four of the ancient skeletons discovered earlier this fall at Turin, in western Iowa, are now at the SUU archaeological laboratory, Prof. R. J. Ruppe said Wednesday.

The first Ice Age skeleton was brought to the Iowa campus several weeks ago, and the remaining three were delivered Wednesday by W. D. Frankforter, director of the Sanford Museum at Cherokee.

The skeletons have been kept in Cherokee since their discovery. Frankforter and Ruppe directed their excavation at Turin early in September.

The bones are still encased in the plaster "casts" and surrounding earth in which they were removed from the edge of a gravel pit. The bones will be carefully removed for reconstruction and study by SUU and other scientists.

They will try to find out how many thousands of years ago the bones were buried.

If authenticated, the Turin skeletons apparently will be the only complete skeletons of Early Man in existence.

Strictly Legal?

Iowa's police officers will have to limit their penny-ante games of chance in their homes and make nickle bets on their golf scores in hushed tones if they are to keep their jobs.

Atty. Gen. Dayton Countryman has said "that is gambling and it's still gambling even if done in a home."

He had said earlier he would initiate removal proceedings if any officer should participate in substantial gambling activities.

Countryman's statement came as a result of the charge that a number of Iowa police officers failed to attend a peace officers conference at the Dodge "because of the extent and magnitude of gambling and drinking by some small group of officers themselves."

His interpretation of what constitutes "substantial gambling activities" seems strict to the point of being unenforceable. Certainly most of us don't consider nickle-a-hole bets on our golf games as gambling.

While his statement was applied directly toward the activities of police officers, it certainly must by inference apply to the citizen as well.

We must agree that technically petty wagers are gambling, according to the law. But it would take the deputization of every citizen in Iowa to enforce.

Countryman is only doing his duty when he enforces the ruling against gambling by peace officers. Organized large scale operations cannot be condoned. The letter of the law is quite specific on this point.

But we won't be especially worried if we should hear the cop on the beat say, "I'll bet you a nickle it doesn't snow before morning!"

Return to the Cold War

The Big Four foreign ministers met October 27 at Geneva amidst high world hopes for a concrete program whereby world tensions might be lessened and the threat of another world conflict avoided.

Wednesday that conference adjourned. United States administrators termed it a "total failure." The rosy hopes for a peaceful world faded as the West and the Soviet Union were unable to agree on European security or reunification of Germany.

One top Washington policy maker commented "The failure of the Geneva conference has brought the cold war back."

The major result of the conference was to prove to the world that the Soviet "peace" talk which has been the Russian line since the "summit" talks last spring was just that — talk!

Though the Russians contended they wanted only peace, they demonstrated at Geneva that the peace they sought was on their terms only. While the conference was in progress, arms from Czechoslovakia were shipped to the tense Middle East.

Is this a return to the cold war? Much as the world dislikes the thought, the Russian stand leaves little other alternative.

1956 May See Democrats in 'Party of Moderation' Role

JOHNSON CITY, Texas (AP) — From a political base deep in the hills of central Texas, a strong influence is developing to present the Democratic party to the voters in 1956 as a "party of moderation" which rejects extremes.

This base is the ranch home of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson whose heart attack last July has not stopped him from charting, in his convalescence, the broad outlines of a course of action for his party in the months ahead.

Johnson is lean, tanned and fit. He seems to be almost bursting with an energy which he tries to control while regaining his full strength. All the medical signs point to his return to active duty as the Senate majority leader when Congress convenes in January.

AT FIRST GLANCE, his ranch on the Pedernales River would seem an unlikely place for the evolution of a movement which — if successful — would have the end result of placing the "moderates" in firm control of the 1956 Democratic national convention. This could nudge the liberal and conservative "extremists" as they are being called to the party's outer fringes.

The Johnson ranch is an important political center right now. In addition to the cattle and the sheep roaming its acres, the ranch has become a sort of watering place for Democratic leaders who don't just chance to find their way there while wandering through the mesquite and the wind-gnarled cedars.

Despite protestations of "no politics," there is an electric air of politics about the place, perhaps generated by Johnson's own vitality. Texas political situation leave the indelible impression that Johnson is moving into the role of a counsellor of moderation because he sees this course as best for the Democratic party and as offering the widest appeal to the voters.

HIS FRIENDS believe the emphasis moderation would strengthen the party's chances at the polls next November by appealing not only to the great bulk of southern Democrats but also to the party's "moderates," in other sections who lean toward a middle-of-the-road path. Thus the base of appeal would be far broader than any sectional alignment.

They argue President Eisenhower's sweeping victory in 1952 reflected the temper of the nation and the people's desire for a steady course neither too far to the right nor too far to the left. In its fundamentals, the course they favor would roughly parallel the Eisenhower course in the sense of "avoiding extremes."

These friends insist Johnson is seeking no sectional coalitions of alignments. They repeat earlier statements in which Johnson has said: "I'm not going to turn the Senate floor into a nominating convention or senators into precinct captains, even if I could."

BUT THEY CONCEDE that in taking the leadership in a move toward moderation, Johnson may become a rallying point for the "moderates" at the national convention. Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) already has said it is a "reasonable assumption" that Western and Southern Democrats may join forces on a presidential candidate and platform in 1956. And then he added he would not discount the possibility that Johnson "might become a figure around whom Southern and Western Democrats could rally."

What effect would such a delegation have on the choice of a nominee? Would it become an effort to stop Adlai Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee, or Gov. Averell Harriman of New York?

JOHNSON DISCLAIMS any interest in stopping anyone, and southern politicians generally agree it's too early to say what might happen at the convention.

Talk of Johnson going to the convention as Texas' "favorite son" candidate has touched off speculation that he may have reached some sort of accord with Gov. Allen Shivers. It was Shivers who led Texas into the Eisenhower camp in 1952 and he is now fighting for control of the state's delegation to the national convention.

The Shivers fight is against the "loyalist" liberal Democratic forces led by House Speaker Sam Rayburn who in turn is regarded generally as Johnson's political mentor in Washington.

AFTER THE TEXAS bolt to Eisenhower, the Democratic National Committee refused to recognize Texas' national committeeman Wright Morrow because of his support of Eisenhower. National Chairman Paul Butler made it clear that Morrow would have to be acceptable to Rayburn and Johnson.

Last July the Texas State Democratic Executive Committee, controlled by Shivers and his supporters, ousted Morrow in a sudden move which the "loyalists" gleefully called "coldblooded" and the "loyalists." But Ramsey had refused to bolt to Eisenhower and he had voted for Stevenson.

Johnson's friends say he engineered the deal in which he, Rayburn and Shivers agreed on Ramsey as the national committeeman. Shivers said the shift from Morrow to Ramsey was necessary in order to give Texas a full voice in national democratic affairs.

CONTROL OF THE Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention will be decided next May when the "liberal" and "conservative" forces clash in precinct conventions and then in the state convention.

Some political observers see the Johnson-Shivers-Rayburn agreement on a national committeeman as an effort to bring the party factions back into some kind of working agreement before the national convention.

Whatever the top-level strategy may be behind the maneuvers in Texas' internal politics, the fact remains that Johnson is in a key position both at the state level and at the national level.

Campaign on To Increase 'Economic Literacy' in Iowa

This week marks the start of a large-scale campaign to increase "economic literacy" in Iowa.

It is the climax to six years of sifting and relating basic economic facts of life by the Iowa Council on Economic Education (ICEE). The campaign is spearheaded by the booklet, "What Are Economic Problems?" just published by the SUI Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

The booklet is the first of eight to be published under the title of "A Primer of Economics." The booklets are sponsored by the ICEE, which represents Iowa's educational, industrial, labor and farm interests.

THE EIGHT SECTIONS of the "Primer" can be used as a text or to supplement lectures, discussions or textbooks in high school, basic college courses and adult education programs.

The "Primer" has grown out of ICEE meetings and summer Workshops on Economic Education at SUI led by Prof. C. Woody Thompson and Prof. Clark Bloom.

The first pamphlet is written by Lewis Wagner, research associate in the Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

The "Primer" recently had a trial run with a class of University High School seniors, who "reacted favorably" to it, Wagner said Wednesday.

Along with the "Primer" series, the bureau also will publish six pamphlets for teachers under the title "Studies in Economic Education." The first two of these appeared earlier this fall.

IN EXPLAINING basic forces affecting individual activity and national economic policies, the "Primer" series serves to "fill a gap in the need for suitable materials to place in the hands of students," Wagner pointed out.

The "Primer," he said, is based on the assumption that, whether one likes it or not, economic life requires many difficult decisions.

"And these decisions can be made more intelligently when citizens understand how the various cogs in the economic machine mesh and what causes the machine to plod in low gear, travel smoothly in high, or race madly out of control," he said.

Lewis Wagner Author of Pamphlet

In "What Are Economic Problems?" Wagner notes that what may be sensible for one person may not be sound economics for society.

For one thing, one person's spending becomes the income of others.

Putting aside part of one's income for a rainy day, for instance, is considered sound personal economics. But if everybody tried to save more, total income might drop. The result would be smaller savings for the whole group, Wagner explained.

DISCUSSING THE unlimited human wants crying for satisfaction and the scarcity of some commodities, Wagner points out that desires for food, clothing, automobiles and other commodities must be satisfied by available human and non-human resources.

And because there are not enough resources, some wants must go unsatisfied. It then becomes necessary to choose — or economize — among the wants and the combinations of resources to meet them, he says.

"What Are Economic Problems?" concludes that an understanding of our economy can help citizens make choices as individuals and as voters on political problems which may be economic in nature.

Bloom is chairman of the sponsoring ICEE. The Council's three vice-chairmen are Kenneth Everhart, Des Moines, representing labor; Guy Gilchrist, Des Moines, agriculture, and Ralph McCague, Marshalltown, management.

Pecan-Crust Pumpkin Pie

THIS HONEY PIE combines a delicious spicy pumpkin filling with tender buttermilk pastry. A roll-in of chopped pecans gives the pastry delightful crunchiness and flavor.

Broom Sale Brings Lions Club $1,250

The Iowa City Lions Club grossed $1,250 in its recent broom sale, Harold J. Roberts, drive chairman, reported Wednesday.

Brooms sold were made by blind persons and profit from the sales will go to several organizations for the blind.

Four different sizes of brooms were sold, Roberts said, and 2,500 were bought from Lion salesmen.

Spicy Pumpkin Pie Is Thanksgiving Favorite

A new concept in pie-making is that of the flavored pie shell. A pumpkin pie with a pecan crust would be a good way to finish your Thanksgiving dinner.

The traditional spicy pumpkin filling is enhanced by a crisp, tender buttermilk pie shell with a rolled-in crunch of chopped pecans.

A further feature of this pumpkin pie is the separate baking of filling and pie shell at their respective low and high temperatures; and later, when both are cold, the filling is slipped into the pie shell. This technique insures crisp pastry.

Pecan-Crust Pumpkin Pie
 1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin
 3 eggs
 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 1/4 teaspoon mace
 1 1/4 cups undiluted evaporated milk
 1 baked Pecan Pie Shell

Heat pumpkin in saucepan over low heat 10 minutes, stirring constantly.

Beat eggs slightly in mixing bowl. Stir in brown sugar, salt, spices, and pumpkin. Add milk and mix. Pour mixture into buttered 9 inch pie pan and set pan in shallow baking pan containing hot water.

Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50-60 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let cool on wire rack; do not refrigerate to hasten cooling.

Make and bake a Pecan Pie Shell with a flat rim. Let cool. When both filling and pie shell are cold, loosen filling thoroughly from sides of pan with spatula; then shake gently to loosen filling from bottom.

Slide filling quickly into pie shell. Serve with sharp cheese.

Pecan Pie Shell
 1/2 cup less 1 tablespoon shortening
 1 tablespoon boiling water
 2 tablespoons buttermilk
 1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 4 tablespoons chopped pecans

Put shortening in mixing bowl. Add boiling water and buttermilk and whip with fork until all liquid is absorbed and a thick, smooth mixture is formed.

Sift flour and salt together onto shortening whip and stir quickly into a dough. Pick up and work into a smooth dough, shape into a flat round. Roll between two 12 inch squares of waxed paper into a circle 1/8 inch thick and about size of paper.

Peel off top paper, sprinkle 2 tablespoons chopped pecans over pastry, leaving about a 1 inch border plain. Re-cover with paper, fit pastry into pan, trim 1/2 inch beyond pan, turn back even with edge of pan, flute rim. Prick shell all over with fork.

Bake in very hot oven (450° F.). 14-19 minutes.

HARVEST SALAD
 An appetizing harvest salad is made by combining two diced oranges, 3 slices pineapple, cubed, 2 red Delicious apples, unpeeled and cut into bite-sized pieces. Add 1/2 cup pitted dates, chopped, and 1 cup seeded or seedless grapes. Mix with cooked salad dressing or a tart French dressing. Serves 6-8.

Evashevski Practices Team in Fieldhouse

A frozen, snow-covered practice field prompted Iowa football coach Forest Evashevski to move his team indoors Wednesday for its second last home practice session of the season.

The players donned sweat-suits over their pads and substituted tennis shoes for their cleats. Evashevski barred the press from the north section of the Fieldhouse, converted into a wooden gridiron.

Although Iowa teams have retreated to the Fieldhouse in the past because of bad weather conditions, it is believed to be Evashevski's first "retreat" in his four years as the Hawkeye coach.

Head trainer Doyle Allsup reported that the squad has avoided injuries and should be ready by Saturday. "Toward the end of each season there are always lingering ailments, but all of our minor aches and pains should be healed for the Notre Dame game," he said.

Notre Dame Gains Physical Strength

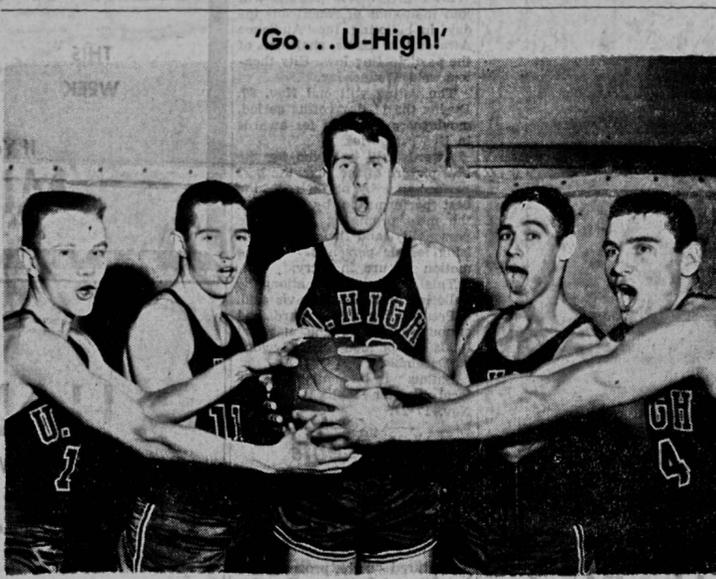

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame will be able to muster most of its injured players for the home Irish finale against Iowa Saturday.

Participating in Wednesday's drill were such formerly injured players as tackle Ray Lemek, end Dick Prendergast, quarterback Paul Hornung, tackle Wayne Edmonds and halfback Aubrey Lewis.

Fullback Don Schaefer still was sidelined with a knee injury, but is expected to face the Hawkeyes.

Top Offense, Defense Teams in Big 10 Meet

U-High Opens Season Friday With Two Veteran Starters

By GEORGE WINE

University High will open the 1955-56 basketball season Friday night with only two veterans in the starting lineup.

Jim Scott and Jerry Schoenfelder will be only returning lettermen starting when the opening whistle blows at Anamosa. Coach Chuck Wolbers is faced with a huge re-building task this year. "We have a long way to go," he said, "but should whip into shape after a few games. Last season we lost our first seven games in a row and still didn't have such a bad season's record."

Finished Fourth
U-High won eight and lost 12 last season and finished fourth in Eastern Iowa league with a 7-7 record.

Teaming with forwards Schoenfelder and Scott (both 5-11) will be big Dick Stocker at center and Bill DeKock and John Raffensperger at the guards.

Stocker is a 6-5 junior who Wolbers says "needs plenty of experience to reach his potential."

Just a Soph
Raffensperger is only a sophomore and stands 5-11. "He didn't even come out for basketball last year," Wolbers said, "but he has developed so fast since practice started, I'm going to start him Friday."

DeKock, a 5-9 senior, will round out the starting lineup. He played enough last year to gain some experience although he failed to letter.

Other players Wolbers is relying on are Vince Scott and Jim Keefer, guards; Bob Price and Ron Jennings, forwards, and Al Scott, center.

Small Shooter
Bill Brechler, a 5-8 freshman, could also land a regular berth before the season is too old. Wolbers describes him as "a good floor man and one of the best shooters on the squad."

Rounding out the squad are Bruce Cullen, Bill Jones, Ken Kasparek, John and David Morgan, Ned Glenn, Garland Hershey, Ray Benton, Larry Bowers, Dale Furnish, Dave Ebel, Jim Deegan, and Jim Breese.

The 1955-56 U-High schedule:

RICE COACH EYES BIG MAN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rice basketball coach Don Suman smiles when he sees 6 foot 8½ inch Tom Robitaille who will start the season with the freshman quintet. Robitaille will be eligible for the varsity next year. He could team up with Temple Tucker, a 6 foot 10 sophomore.

Iowa Cross Country Team To Contend For Big Ten Title

Iowa's cross country team, undefeated in three dual meets this year, is rated as a top contender for the Big Ten championship Friday morning in Chicago.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer will enter six men in the race over the four-mile course in Washington Park.

Michigan State has assumed the favorite's role with Illinois and Iowa the closest challengers.

The Hawkeyes are paced by sophomore Charles (Deacon) Jones, who won three dual meets this season. He finished one-tenth of a second behind the winner of the Chicago Track Club's Invitation meet last Saturday.

Ted Wheeler, who finished second to Jones all year, is also expected to place high. Wheeler took second in the Big Ten meet in 1951 and third in 1952 before entering the Army.

The rest of the team includes Wayne Everman, Murray Keatinge, Ira Dunsworth and Dick Allen.

Behind the Sports Desk

With FRED MILLER

There was favorable response to my column of last week telling about the operation and function of a press box at a football game. Consequently I have decided to title today's column "Chapter 2—The Press Box."

As previously pointed, the host school is usually most congenial to the visiting and local press by supplying all the services for fast and accurate coverage of the game. This includes telephones, telegraphs, operators, statisticians, and information.

ONE OF THE other conveniences of the press box is the amount of supplementary material that is supplied for the sport writer's use. A regulation football program for the game is supplied as a standard in the press box.

A second item, the day's probable lineups as of that morning, is also handed out. This card tells not only the starting team, but also gives the teams three deep in each position so that the user may easily recognize substitutions. This card also gives referees' signals on the reverse side, each team's punters, passers, kick off specialists, and extra point kickers in separate columns.

A third item is a booklet, usually mimeographed, of the bands performing that day. Information includes a history of the band, the size, the director's name, and most important, a running description of the band formations with illustrations.

ANOTHER SERVICE in most press boxes is a small but adequately equipped lunch room or luncheon counter. In the Michigan State University stadium, there is a lounge and self service lunch counter below the press box.

At halftime the host school usually serves a light lunch to the press. This lunch varies anywhere from turkey sandwiches and coffee to a hot meal including a salad and dessert. For the practical and the working writer, this is one of the nicer treats.

In conclusion of Chapter 2, I would like to say "thanks" to all the people that make it possible for accurate coverage of the football games and for the friendly and hospitable way that I, as well as the other sport writers, have been treated both in the Iowa press box and in other press boxes in the conferences.

SUI Cadets To Fly To Texas Airbase

A friendship which started in Korea has enabled Capt. Kenneth A. Dyer, detachment flight operations officer for the AFOTC department at SUI, to arrange a flight to Perrin Air Force Base, Tex., for 20 cadets today.

Dyer, while serving in the Korean campaign, met Lt. Col. Albert J. Freund, at that time an operations officer. They did not meet again until last summer when Dyer was stationed at Perrin to assist in the summer camp training of cadets.

It was then Dyer asked about getting a plane to fly Iowa cadets to Perrin for a tour of the base.

Capt. K. A. Dyer Arranges Trip

Arrangements Made

"About a month ago my wishful thinking began to materialize when I received word from Freund that arrangements were being made for a flight to Perrin the 17th of November," Dyer said.

Perrin, a tactical Air Force base, is about 70 miles north of Dallas.

Officials at Perrin will fly a C-47 to Iowa City today. The plane will be operated by its regular crew, so that Dyer and Maj. Harold B. Orr, members of the permanent personnel accompanying the cadets to Perrin, may go as passengers, although they are rated as a pilot and navigator respectively.

4:30 Departure

The plane will leave here at 4:30 this afternoon and is scheduled to arrive at Perrin about 9 tonight, Dyer said. The cadets will return Saturday noon.

During their 1½-day visit to the base, the cadets will receive briefing from the base commander; be briefed by the wing commander; tour operations of the base; be given a complete tour of the base, and be allowed to use base recreational facilities.

A T-33 jet trainer ride for two cadets will highlight the trip. All 20 cadets will be allowed to operate the simulator, a pilot training device for F-86 type aircraft.

F-86 Simulator

The device is a simulated cockpit. Although stationary on the ground, it gives the feeling that one is actually flying a jet plane.

The cadets will be joined in the visiting officers quarters and will eat at the field ration mess hall.

"The purpose behind the flight is to orient and motivate the AFOTC cadets by giving them an opportunity to see Air Force operations, personnel and equipment in actual operation," Dyer said.

"We feel that one of the best ways we can do this is by taking the cadets on a cross-country flight," he noted.

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS

Harry Hoegh, 50, Minneapolis, Minn., brother of Iowa Governor Leo A. Hoegh, remains in serious condition at University Hospitals. He was brought to the hospital from Minneapolis Monday to be treated by specialists. Hospital authorities did not release the nature of his illness.

Auto Victim Dies Here

Mrs. Ella A. Jackson, 71, Kalona, died at University Hospitals Wednesday noon of injuries suffered in a truck-auto collision near Frytown Monday.

Mrs. Jackson had suffered chest and other injuries when a car driven by her grandson, Robert Shettler, Kalona, struck a truck as it turned into a farm lane.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Jackson, described as in good condition after the crash, had taken a turn for the worse Wednesday morning.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

See End for Lone Tree School Hearing

Judge James P. Gaffney Wednesday stepped up the pace of the hearing on a request to set aside the Sept. 13 Lone Tree School election. He said that the hearing would be completed by the weekend, even if sessions until midnight were necessary.

Gaffney said that the speed-up in the hearing, already in its seventh day, was needed because the September session of court ends Saturday at noon. He is to open the November term in Marango on Nov. 21.

Homer Eden and Robert Baker, two of the plaintiffs, took the stand Wednesday.

Eden, as advocate of a central elementary school for Fremont township, claimed in his testimony that County Superintendent of Schools Frank J. Snider and the county board of education had "conspired" on reorganizing the Fremont school district. Baker accused Snider of creating an irregular boundary to include the western edge of Fremont township.

Valenti's Performance — Harpsichord Concert

—Brilliant, Amusing—
By WILLIAM DONALDSON

Fernando Valenti's audience found three ways to enjoy his harpsichord concert at the Union Wednesday night.

They (1) sat back and listened to some very fine music played in brilliant fashion, (2) enjoyed an informal, informative and wholly amusing lecture and (3) watched Valenti's nimble fingers glide over the harpsichord's two keyboards.

When Valenti came on the small platform (placed on the north side of the Main Lounge to promote better hearing) he explained that, due to a sprained back and a severe cold, he wasn't in the best of health. Then he added, with only the slightest smile, "Let's start from the beginning. This is a harpsichord. It is NOT an old piano." He had his audience in tow, all right, and he kept them there.

The selections on Valenti's program were all composed in the 17th and 18th centuries, so the explanations he gave them were fully appreciated.

The best number on the program, I thought, was Soler's Sonata in D major. To say that some parts of the work are complicated would be an understatement; Valenti seemed to be doing the impossible. He met intricate trills and difficult passages with ease, at all times keeping the pace of the work.

Especially interesting was Valenti's performance of seven Scarlatti sonatas. Scarlatti wrote some 500 little gems for harpsichord, and Valenti said, with modesty, that he had recorded about 200 of them. Then, with all of the fervor of a college freshman picking courses, he called off seven numbers—and played them well.

The selections on Valenti's program were all composed in the 17th and 18th centuries, so the explanations he gave them were fully appreciated.

A new Kodak Film

Kodak Panatomic X roll film is an entirely new panchromatic film with exceptionally fine grain and the ability to record extremely fine detail. This new film represents a substantial improvement over the former Panatomic-X roll film that was discontinued during the period of materials shortages that started during World War II.

This ASA exposure index is 25 for daylight and 20 for artificial light. These values are conservative and incorporate a safety factor. Careful workers can use somewhat higher exposure indexes without loss in negative quality.

Panatomic-X roll film incorporates an extremely fine grain emulsion that is very thin. The reduced thickness of the emulsion layer minimizes light scattering to improve image sharpness. This advantage is particularly apparent when big enlargements are made.

Because the exceptional performance of the new Panatomic-X film would largely be wasted when used in simple, box-type cameras, it is recommended that the film be used in better cameras with adjustable lenses.

Optimum results will be assured if Panatomic-X roll film is developed according to the recommendations in the instruction sheet packaged with the film. This film, because of its thin emulsion layer, develops much faster than conventional films, a feature that will be appreciated by many photographers. Overdevelopment should be avoided, since it largely nullifies the improvements built into this film. Kodak Developer D-76 or Kodak Microdol Developer is recommended.
