

Ban Interstate Travel Segregation

ICC Rules 'Jim Crow' Is Unlawful

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Interstate Commerce Commission ruled Friday that racial segregation in train and bus travel between the states is unlawful. It ordered an end to the separation of white persons and Negroes on interstate trains and buses and in public waiting rooms serving the transportation lines. The ICC has been grappling with the problem for 68 years. Friday's decisions follow a course already established by the Supreme Court, although the court has never issued a flat ban on all segregation in interstate travel.

Friday's ICC order was issued under a section of the Interstate Commerce Act that forbids discrimination among patrons of transportation companies. The section provides for a possible fine of $5,000 for each offense. Until now the ICC has sanctioned the principle of separate but equal accommodations for the races in administering the Interstate Commerce Act. But it said in Friday's ruling: "The disadvantages to a traveler who is assigned accommodations or facilities so designated as to imply his inherent inferiority solely because of his race must be regarded under present conditions as unreasonable. Also, he is entitled to be free of annoyances, some petty and some substantial, which almost inevitably accompany segregation even though the rail carriers, as most of the defendants have done here, sincerely try to provide both races with equally convenient and comfortable cars and waiting rooms."

The ruling applied to all facilities provided by the carriers for interstate travelers. This would include rest rooms, if they were part of such service. The commission set Jan. 10 as the effective date. The ICC ruling has no effect on travel within one state. Thirteen states have laws requiring segregation. These are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, South Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky.

In these states the railroads would still have to supply separate waiting rooms and separate passenger accommodations for whites and Negroes, if they comply with state law. Thus, the situation would arise of a railroad being forbidden by the ICC to separate Negroes and whites traveling across state lines, and having to separate those traveling from one point to another within the state. A 1946 Supreme Court decision ruled against a Virginia law requiring segregation within the state of bus passengers in interstate travel, holding that this was an undue burden on interstate commerce. That decision, limited to a bus case, did not mention railroad passengers but it generally was interpreted as broad enough to cover all interstate travel, by bus or train.

Cross Quits As ICC Chief GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) - President Eisenhower Friday accepted the resignation of Hugh W. Cross, Interstate Commerce Commission chairman whose actions had come under scrutiny of Senate investigators. Cross' resignation as chairman and commission member was made effective immediately. It was submitted by Cross last Wednesday. Cross became chairman of the ICC last July under the system by which ICC members rotate in the chairmanship. Cross said in his letter of resignation that the charges against him were baseless, but: "I am realistic enough to know that, unfounded as they are, the mere pendency of such charges impairs my further service on the commission and its proper functioning in the public interest."

Mrs. Woodward Freed; 'Blameless in Slaying'

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP) - Mrs. Ann Woodward was found legally blameless Friday in the shotgun killing of her millionaire sportsman husband. A Nassau County grand jury, deliberating 46 minutes, held that there was no crime involved in the Oct. 30 slaying of 35-year-old William Woodward Jr., owner of the racehorse Nashua. Mrs. Woodward spent more than three hours in the grand jury chambers. Only part of that time was spent in the witness chair, where she repeated her account of the shooting as a tragic accident. By its decision, the grand jury accepted her account of the death. Carried From Hearing The blonde, 39-year-old former show girl, was virtually carried from the building after the jury finished its chore. She was sobbing convulsively and had to be supported. Her condition at the climax of the sensational case appeared even worse than it had been when she entered the grand jury chambers earlier. Then her head was bowed and she was sobbing. She was dressed entirely in black, including a black hat and a veil. She wore no makeup and the only color about her except for her blonde hair was a white handkerchief clutched to her face. Mrs. Woodward declined to answer reporters' questions as she was assisted from the courtroom. On four different occasions, including her grand jury appearance, the Kansas-born Mrs. Woodward told essentially the same story. Feared Prowler She said she was in dreadful fear of a prowler who was active in the vicinity of the Woodward's Oyster Bay estate, the weekend of the killing. Both she and her husband armed themselves with shotguns when they returned from a party early Oct. 30 in honor of the Duchess of Windsor. Thus armed, they retired to separate first floor bedrooms, on opposite sides of a 10-foot-wide hallway. Mrs. Woodward said she was awakened by the barking of a family poodle, that with a reflex action she grabbed the gun as she leaped from her bed and fired blindly into the hallway in the direction of a noise she heard. Her husband, nude and unarmed in his own bedroom doorway, was hit in the head by one of her shotgun charges.

Sick Steer Ruins Iowa Girl's Bid for 2d Championship

CHICAGO (AP) - Shifting fortune Friday night ruined the dream but not the hope of Janice Hullinger who came to Chicago seeking her second top championship at the International Livestock Exposition. The 17-year-old high school girl from Manly, Iowa, entered the grand champion steer of the show last year. Her Shorty I, an Aberdeen-Angus, brought her cash and gifts worth $25,000. She thought she had a good bet for a repeat win in Shorty II, her new entry. Sick on Trip But the animal got sick on the 450-mile drive to Chicago. For a while it looked like he might rally sufficiently to compete, and Friday morning, prospects were bright as Shorty II paraded in the judging ring. During the day, the steer's condition worsened, and by night this opinion came from the show's official veterinarian: "Shorty II probably will be in no condition to compete tomorrow. There is a remote possibility of pulling through, but he's lost a lot of weight." The ailing Angus, meanwhile, got super treatment. Besides injections of antibiotics, he was outfitted with a special plastic bag that fit over his head and in which oxygen was fed from bottles. Lung Infection Shorty has a pneumonia-like lung infection which is common in animals. At the height of Shorty's illness his temperature was 107. Friday it was 104. Normal temperature is 102. Show officials said that if Shorty fails to compete in the junior events today, then there will be no chance for further competition. Meanwhile 13-year-old Jane Turner of Champaign, Ill., brought her Aberdeen-Angus calf, Elmer, into the judging ring Friday and walked out with her second consecutive championship. Elmer, 18 months old and 1,054 pounds, got the championship ribbon in the fat carcass on hoof, beef animal, competition. The reserve championship went to Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa.

France and UN End Deadlock on Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) - The UN Assembly and France Friday dramatically ended their row over Algeria. The Assembly unanimously dropped Algeria from its 1955 agenda and France called off its boycott. The break in the deadlock means France will resume the seat in the Assembly from which Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay angrily stalked eight weeks ago Friday. Pinay walked out when the Assembly voted 28-27 to debate Algeria's troubles with France. Pinay claimed Algeria is a domestic issue outside the province of the UN. The end of the boycott over Algeria came swiftly in these developments: 1. The Assembly's Political Committee met in an extraordinary seven-minute session and approved a motion by India's V. K. Krishna Menon to drop the Algerian item. 2. The Assembly itself met next in plenary session and within five minutes approved the action of the Political Committee. 3. Pinay informed the French Cabinet in Paris and the Cabinet decided on France's return to the Assembly. Pinay emphasized that France had not asked for Friday's action. Compromise Reached Some diplomats explained privately the compromise was reached so France can take part in the vote for the admission of 18 countries to the UN. Krishna Menon, India's top delegate and foreign affairs adviser to Prime Minister Nehru, was hailed by several speakers as a "genius" for thinking up the formula approved Friday. Menon's Proposal Krishna Menon's proposal simply stated that "the General Assembly decides not to consider further the item entitled 'The question of Algeria' and is therefore this item is no longer on the agenda of the tenth session." Arab delegates said they hoped France will reach a settlement with the Algerians but indicated if France does not the issue will be brought back to the 1956 Assembly.

Santa Comes to Iowa City By Airplane and Fire Engine

By HAROLD SCHWARTZ Santa Claus came to Iowa City Friday by plane and fire-engine. His plane arrived at the city airport from the North Pole about 1 p.m., Santa climbed aboard the fire-engine and was whisked to his headquarters in a little tin house at the intersection of Washington and Clinton Streets. The absence of Santa's eight reindeer was not commented upon by any of the children present, in the excitement and confusion of the moment. Arrives Early Santa Claus arrived at his headquarters at 1:25 p.m. - five minutes early. "I got here early because we had a tailwind all the way," Santa said. He handed out candy-canes and good cheer to the more than 100 children who were pushing and edging their way as close to the pot-bellied old gentleman as circumstances allowed. Seeks Santa An eager youngster became separated from his mother for about five minutes. He had decided to "find" Santa on his own. One of the more suspicious boys in the crowd was not willing to believe that this was the real Santa Claus who had come from Iowa City from the North Pole. When Santa turned his back to the crowd to get more candy for the children, the youngster quickly took a peek under Santa's red coat. No Comment The boy was not available for comment as to whether this was really Santa or just another of his thousands of helpers. The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce sponsors this annual event. All the Christmas decorations and Santa's headquarters are the work of Iowa City Chamber of Commerce and SUI personnel, said Dayton Howe, chairman of the Christmas committee. Santa will be at his headquarters at 2-4 p.m. daily and from 7-9 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays until Christmas. RESCUE TRY FAILS HALIFAX, N.S. Faure Asks Another Vote Of Confidence

PARIS (AP) - Fighting a desperate battle against opponents of early elections and enemies of the government's policies, Premier Edgar Faure Friday asked for another vote of confidence to speed work on the election bill. The vote is scheduled for Tuesday. The government's support has been slipping away bit by bit for six weeks and it no longer commands any working majority in the Assembly. It has survived two votes of confidence on the election question only through the aid of the Communists. Communist Help If it is to squeeze by again, Communist help again will be necessary. Faure never has asked for Communist votes and has expressed discomfort at remaining in office with their assistance. The Communists always have opposed Faure's policies, but in earlier votes of confidence said they were throwing their weight behind the principle of quick elections. What attitude they will take this time is not certain. Technically, the confidence vote will be on rejection of recommendations by the Assembly's agenda committee on the organization of next week's work. The agenda committee Friday morning decided to schedule a debate on Tuesday on a question by Francois Mitterrand, former minister of the Interior. Decisions Necessary The Mitterrand question alleges that the government "by its hesitations and about faces during the debates bears the responsibility for the paralysis of parliamentary work and that it is no longer possible to put off the decisions which, in all fields, are necessary for the safeguard of the national interests." Faure opposed the agenda committee decision to schedule this debate. When he was beaten down in committee, the Premier announced that he would ask for the vote of confidence on the issue of putting the election Law debate at the head of the Assembly's agenda.

SUI Professor Hits Emphasis Of Activities over Studies

NEW YORK - The assumption that a student learns more from extra-curricular activities than from studies was called untrue here Thursday night by Prof. John Gerber of the SUI English Department. Gerber, president of the National Council of Teachers of English, made this charge in his keynote address to the annual meeting of the 14,000 member group. He said it is the "most insidious of all academic heresies perpetrated in the name of social adjustment." Urges Stress on Classes Noting how often teachers are asked to "tolerate hurried work or no work at all" because of a football game, dance or play, Gerber urged more stress on students learning the facts, skills and insights of their classes. Student adjustment is "certainly a desirable goal of education," he said. "What can possibly have higher potential for adjustment than growing competence in communication and a growing understanding of life?" Security through Confidence Such skill and understanding, he continued, can bring adjustment through wisdom instead of through resignation. "It can bring a sense of security through confidence in oneself and not through surrender to substitute mothers." Gerber cited a series of threats to our effectiveness at a time when our responsibilities are increasing in the face of greater enrollments, teacher shortages and other problems. One unfortunate tendency, he

Ransom Demanded For Missing Boy

EAST MEADOW, N. Y. (AP) - The mother of 3-year-old Steven Damman who vanished nearly a month ago, has received a note demanding ransom, it was learned Friday. Police confirmed that Mrs. Jerry Damman received the note last Wednesday, but refused to disclose its contents or how it was delivered. The youngster, son of an Air Force sergeant stationed at nearby Mitchell Field, disappeared Oct. 31 from in front of a supermarket grocery store while his mother was inside shopping. Another woman shopper told police she saw a group of negro men and women take the boy. The missing child is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Damman and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wilson, both of Newton, Iowa.

Family of 12 Loses Clothing In Fire Set By 3-Year-Old

There is no holiday cheer in the three-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Hunter, 326 1st St., today. The Hunters and their 10 children lost most of their clothing in a fire at 8 a.m. Friday. Mrs. Hunter, who three weeks ago gave birth to her tenth child, said that one of her sons, Alva Jr., 3, ignited the clothing with matches he had found. Mrs. Hunter was in another room at the time caring for her three-week-old son. The screams of the children warned Mrs. Hunter of the fire. By the time Mrs. Hunter had drawn a bucket of water from a well outside, the fire had destroyed much of the clothing. Pump Breaks "On top of it all, the pump broke after I got the water," she said. "If my neighbor, Mrs. Linnell, (Marie Linnell) hadn't called the fire department when she saw the smoke, we would have lost much more than we did," she added. The Hunters do not have a phone of their own. No one was injured in the fire, although the three-year-old singed his hair. Besides the clothing, a double bed, two mattresses and bedding were destroyed. The Hunters have no insurance. "We had been looking for a larger home for the family for a long while," said Hunter, "and this fire makes it even more necessary that we find one." The Red Cross has appealed to Iowa Citizens for donations of clothing. Red Cross Help Contributors are asked to bring the clothing to the Red Cross office at 309 E. Implications and Confusions—

Communist Party, boss Nikita Khrushchev spoke to the Indian-Soviet Cultural Society in Bombay Thursday. His speech was loaded with implications and confusions.

"We have many other countries who think as we do, and India is among them," he said.

"In competition for peace we are sure to win. The capitalist press accused me of making a slip of the tongue when I said that in Moscow — they said my tongue was loose — but it was no slip."

And in the next breath, Khrushchev exclaimed, "We will not deviate from the path set for us by Lenin."

Does Khrushchev need reminding that Lenin followed the Marxian doctrine which advocated violent overthrow of capitalism?

Does Khrushchev have to be told that a policy of peaceful coexistence is incongruous with a doctrine of violent overthrow of the capitalist world?

We think not. The Associated Press story on Khrushchev's speech said that the Russian interpreter had difficulty finding the right words to translate the speech from Russian to English. "Frequently Khrushchev's sentences emerged in English as a confused jumble of words," the dispatch reported.

We think not. The Associated Press story on Khrushchev's speech said that the Russian interpreter had difficulty finding the right words to translate the speech from Russian to English. "Frequently Khrushchev's sentences emerged in English as a confused jumble of words," the dispatch reported.

"I don't like the capitalist system," Khrushchev said, "and when I speak about coexistence it is not for the purpose of continuing that system. But I give de facto recognition to capitalism and grant that it does exist."

He says that he grudgingly recognizes capitalism but not for the purpose "of continuing that system."

He follows this with the statement: "We don't want our enemies to talk too loud, to threaten or raise emotions, because we are determined to maintain and expand world peace."

Who are Khrushchev's "enemies"? Are they the capitalist countries which he grudgingly recognizes? How can the Russians be determined to maintain and expand world peace while still following the Russian doctrine of the violent overthrow of capitalism?

How does Khrushchev expect the intelligent listener, whether Indian or American, to interpret his talk? We're not quite sure. But we hope, with a tinge of pessimism, that the Indian people will see the shallowness of the Russian escapade in India.

'Drive In,' Said the Spider —

The "drive-in" trend has gone a long way toward making it possible for Americans to live without getting out of their cars. There are drive-in restaurants, drive-in theaters, drive-in banks, curbside mailboxes, and drive-in laundries, either for clothes or the car itself.

Now a community in South Carolina has carried municipal service a step further. The city of Camden is building what may be the first drive-in jail. Bluecoats will not have to struggle up the police station steps with a resisting drunk; patrol cars will drive down a ramp and deposit prisoners at the cell door—more out of consideration for the policeman's dignity than for the offender.

The idea of drive-in service is still capable of added possibilities. If everyone drove sport cars perhaps there would be supermarkets in which one could pick up the canned soups and ready-mixes from his bucket seat instead of pushing a wire cart.

Mother probably thinks school has become pretty much of a drive-in service considering the rainy days she deposits the small fry at the school door. But we know a young chap who will not be convinced the ultimate has arrived until he can drive into one end of the college campus in his convertible and out the other with an education. The Christian Science Monitor

Words of Men, Wise and Otherwise

"The most important factor responsible for the increase in campus marriages can be stated in one word: Prosperity. In the past, the one big thing that kept male students' minds off matrimony was the chilling doubt of how long it would be before they could support a wife. Today they know that scouts for the big corporations are eagerly seeking out college seniors, and that the wife too can get a well-paid job."

6th Graders Use Pin-hole for Lens— They Take Pictures with Cardboard Boxes

By ROGER HIPPSLEY

Photography can be fascinating, especially if you do it yourself. This fall sixth grade students at University Elementary School have been not only taking, developing and printing their own pictures, but they also have made their own cameras.

The cameras are not elaborate or expensive. Most of them are small, light-proof, cardboard boxes. Instead of a lens, a small pin-hole is utilized to focus light rays upon the film.

William Mullins, sixth grade teacher, explained that his 30 students made their cameras as a project for their science course, which is concerned with the study of light, lenses, and photography. The course is scheduled three hours a week.

More Time

The students have discovered that without a lens, it requires a much longer time to "take" the picture.

Mullins explained that on a bright, sunny day it requires an exposure of about 15 seconds to get a satisfactory picture with a pin-hole camera. On cloudy days an exposure of a minute or more is required.

Now, Mullins explained, his students are taking pictures with standard, lens-equipped cameras. They will learn that the lens enables them to take much better pictures with a greatly reduced exposure time, he explained.

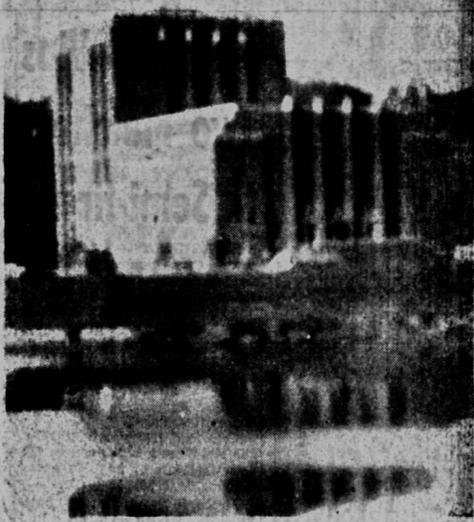

To Make Telescope

Mullins said that later this semester the class will study the use of lenses in telescopes and binoculars. He said he plans to have the class make a simple telescope.

The pin-hole cameras were made from small cardboard boxes or cigar boxes. The students painted the inside of the boxes black and taped the outside to prevent light leaks. Black cloth was used to seal the crack between the box-top and the box.

A small cardboard frame was placed in the back of the box to hold the film. A hole was cut in the center of the box front. Over this hole was taped a piece of metal foil.

A small pin-hole was pierced in the foil to serve as lens. A small, moveable, cardboard flap was fastened on the outside of the box front to serve as a shutter.

The students loaded their cameras in a darkroom, using commercial sheet film. To take their pictures, they placed the camera on a firm base to prevent movement during the long exposure. The cardboard flap serving as a shutter was then moved aside allowing light to pass through the pin-hole.

At the end of the required exposure time, the cardboard flap was moved back in position, covering the pin-hole and shutting off the light.

The students developed and printed their own pictures, using the darkroom at University High School.

Richard Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Lawton of 1117 E. College St., used some sheets of color film in his pin-hole camera. The film has not been processed yet, but the class is anxiously awaiting the results of his experiment.

An exhibit of the students' pin-hole cameras and pictures is on display over the weekend in the window of Louis Drug Store, 124 E. College St.

Passenger-Carrying 'Sidewalk' Described

A passenger-carrying conveyor or belt which may some day revolutionize the nation's transportation is described in an article in the current issue of Iowa Transit, magazine published monthly by engineering students at SUL. The article was written by John R. Kemp, a 1955 civil engineering graduate from Harlan.

Kemp's article, "Subways of Tomorrow" describes the speedwalk and conveyor systems now being studied for use by the New York Transit Authority. Both systems, Kemp says, would use continually-moving rubber belts. The speedwalk conveyor would be used to transport passengers on foot, while the conveyor would provide small cars mounted on a moving belt for longer distances.

Women's Club Sends City Girl to Stock Show

The Iowa City Women's Club has sent a "city" girl with a "farm" girl to the International Livestock Exhibition in Chicago this weekend to promote a better understanding between farm and city youths.

The city girl is Phoebe Welt, 14, who attends City High. She is now in Chicago with Mary Jean Miltner, 14, who also attends City High. Mary Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Miltner, R.R. 5, is showing her Black Angus calf at the livestock show.

Phoebe was selected by a committee of the Iowa City Women's Club, the local director of Girl Scouts and the girls' adviser at City High.

Mrs. William J. Petersen, chairman of the Women's Club project, said the girls were chosen for their outstanding work; Mary Jean in her 4-H Club work and Phoebe in Girl Scouting.

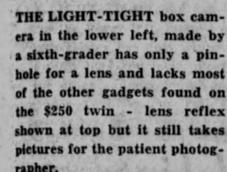

Set Hearing on Lone Tree Liquor

Judge Roger H. Ivie will hold a hearing Tuesday on the status of 10 bottles of liquor seized in a recent Lone Tree raid. It will be held in Iowa City police court. Sheriff Albert J. (Pat) Murphy has been holding the liquor since he led a raid on a tavern owned by Charles E. Allen Oct. 7. A Newman Toomey, Allen's attorney, earlier asked for a jury trial on the confiscation. The motion was overruled by Ivie.

The liquor was taken from the back seat of Allen's car, which was parked in front of the tavern during the raid, Murphy said.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

A Christmas party for town men and women will be Friday on the sun porch of the Iowa Memorial Union.

THE LIGHT-TIGHT box camera in the lower left, made by a sixth-grader has only a pin-hole for a lens and lacks most of the other gadgets found on the $250 twin-lens reflex shown at top but it still takes pictures for the patient photographer.

Man Arrested on False Check Charge

Elmer Harold Raim, 38, was arrested in Iowa City for attempting to pass a false check Friday — just eight days after he was released from the Anamosa reformatory.

Raim attempted to pass the $20 check in a local shoe store. After Raim left the store, the manager called an Iowa City bank and learned that the check was worthless.

The manager chased Raim, caught him, returned him to the store, and called police.

Police charged Raim with false drawing and uttering of a check. He will be arraigned today in Iowa City police court.

He was released from Anamosa Reformatory Nov. 17 after serving a term for forgery.

WHITNEY MARTIN'S Sports Trail

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Evons, a breezy fellow with a wide-open face, breezed in from the wide-open spaces of Texas to tell about the Milk Bowl football game to be held Dec. 10 at the Alamo Stadium in San Antonio.

If you don't know about the Milk Bowl, or the competing team, you have plenty of company, as most people interested in a Milk Bowl are interested in a bowl of milk.

7th Milk Bowl
However, Evons' own enthusiasm and the fact that 23,000 football followers will turn out to watch the Denver, Colo., Presentation Parochial School eleven play the Oak Cliff Ponies of Dallas in this seventh renewal of the game indicates it has considerable merit, although the members of the team are kids from 10 to 14 years old, inclusive.

"The boys put on a real show," Evons said. "It's strictly a charity affair, with the charities supported by the Alamo Heights Lions Club, which sponsors the game."

We wondered a little about the extent of the organization of teams in this category, and how the rival teams were chosen for the bowl game.

Always Texan Team
"There is no national organization," Evons said, "but there are about 4,900 such teams in the country, and about 100 of them, wanted to play in this year's game."

"Texas alone has about 500 teams, and one of the teams in the bowl always is a Texas team. It's really Texas against the rest of the country."

We began to see why so many Texas colleges can have so many good football teams. They have not only possibly the most extensive high school athlete program in the country down there, but they're also starting to train the kids before they reach high school.

Rules Explained
Evons went on to explain some of the rules and regulations governing the play of these juvenile Davy Crockets.

"The boys are limited to a maximum of 110 pounds in weight," he said. "Otherwise you'd have some pretty big kids out there, as a lot of 13 and 14-year-olds are man size."

"The games are played with 12-minute quarters, and no boy plays more than half a game. The even-numbered jerseys play the quarter, and the odd-numbered the next."

"The boys are required to wear face masks, and also rubber cleats. We've never had a serious injury in any of the games. It costs from $800 to $1,200 to outfit a team."

No Part of Little League, Says Stotz

WILLIAMSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Carl E. Stotz, dismissed as commissioner of Little League Baseball, Inc., said Friday he was no longer connected with the corporation directing the small boy baseball organization.

Stotz, who founded the organization in 1939, made the statement in reply to one by President Peter J. McGovern which said that Stotz, while dismissed as commissioner, "is still an employee and member of the board of directors."

McGovern relieved Stotz of his duties as commissioner Tuesday after Stotz filed a foreign attachment in Lycoming County Court which, he said, was preliminary to a $300,000 suit for breach of contract. The suit has yet to be filed.

In San Bernardino, Calif., Perry Winstead announced Friday he has resigned as a sectional director of Little League and said three district directors in Southern California have quit with him.

Winstead said Stotz is setting up his own program under the name of the Original Little League and has called a meeting in Pittsburgh for Dec. 10-11 to outline its future.

Prep Gridders Receive Warning Letters, Too
CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) — Police began an investigation Friday after Headmaster J. William Kennedy disclosed that several Chelsea High School football players received threatening letters before their traditional Thanksgiving Day game with Everett.

Chelsea High, apparently headed for the state class A championship, was walloped 21-0. Kennedy said the letters were typewritten and unsigned. Mothers of the boys of the team telephoned him with complaints, he added.

Greyhounds Hand 2d Loss To City High

By KIRK BOYD
Burlington, tall, fast and dead-ly, overwhelmed Iowa City Friday night, 69-35.

It was much worse than the final score made it sound. Burlington ripped the Hawks apart for three quarters to take a 66-23 lead.

Ragged Fourth
Then the Iowa City subs outscored the Burlington reserves, 12-3 in a ragged fourth quarter to make it look respectable.

Buck Cheadle, Burlington coach, became famous in Iowa high school circles in 1950 and 1951 for his slow, deliberate and short Roland teams.

He didn't bring this style with him to Burlington three years ago.

Burlington Friday night used a fast break that Iowa City could never catch.

Fast Breaks
Starting from rebounding centers John Distelhorst or Bob Moerke, the Greyhounds went down the court in frequent fast breaks that wore Iowa City down and out.

When the fast break didn't come off, forward Dick Johnson and Fred Galey shot over the Hawklet defense — just like Cheadle's Roland teams used to do.

The Hawklets were in the hole before they started.

Dennis Kelso, 6-foot-5-inch center for City High, was in Des Moines, at a high school festival.

Bill Holmstrom, Iowa City coach, moved regular guard Jim Luper to center and started 5-6 Bob Nicola in Luper's place. That cut 11 inches off the Hawklet reach.

Burlington Cold
Burlington was cold and ragged in the opening minutes, but Iowa City was worse. It was 10-0 before Hawklet Jerry Stack scored with 3:07 remaining in the first quarter.

Burlington ran off to a 20-7 first quarter lead, then dashed any hopes that the game might be a contest.

The Greyhound fast break started to click with guard Fred Galey and forward Ed Bedell leading the way.

When the fast break wasn't in use, there was Johnson. He hit five straight shots from the right side and added a free throw to lead the route.

Hit 73 Per Cent
An unofficial shot tally showed that Burlington hit 73 per cent of its shots in the blistering second quarter to take a 44-18 lead by halftime.

The third quarter was much of the same: Burlington fast breaking and hitting well from outside a 15-foot radius.

Only in the final quarter did the Hawklets make a game out of it.

Balanced Attack
Four Burlington starters scored 12 points or more in the balanced Greyhound attack. Johnson had 15, Bedell, 14, Galey, 14 and guard Don Martin 12.

Luper put forth Iowa City's best effort with 11 points, nine of them in the first half.

The victory made Burlington a strong-looking challenger in the coming Little Six conference race.

Hold 2-1 Record
Muscatine, the pre-season Little Six favorite, had to hustle last week to beat Iowa City, 59-40.

It was the second loss in the three games for Iowa City, last year's state tournament runner-up. The Hawklets' opponent next Friday will be Franklin of Cedar Rapids, which lost last week to Burlington, 65-52.

Forward Bill Gavvey led the Iowa City sophomores as they overcame a 26-25 halftime deficit to defeat Burlington, 45-36. Gavvey, Iowa City's top scorer with 11 points, got nine of them in the last two quarters. Allen Pistorius led Burlington with 13 points.

Air-Minded Middies Favored over Army

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Air-minded Navy remained a firm touch-down favorite over ground-conscious Army despite the forecast that their 56th annual football battle today may be played in cold rain, snow and tricky winds.

The Weather Bureau predicted Friday that a rain and snowstorm would strike the city Friday night and continue throughout this morning. There is a chance for clearing in the afternoon.

Both Navy and Army hoped so. The rival camps left no doubt that they preferred dry footing for this grandest of football spectacles. Army holds a 28-23 edge in the series. There have been four ties.

Damp conditions would hamper Navy's brilliant passing attack, statistically the nation's best, and at the same time would cut into the efficiency of the Army offensive, built on back-field speed and quickness in the line.

Stadium Protected
Municipal Stadium, where a sellout crowd of 102,000 will gather, is being carefully protected by tarpaulins. Only rain or snow at game time could produce a wet field.

Kickoff is at 12:30 p.m. (Iowa time). The game will be televised nationally by NBC.

Both squads arrived in the city shortly after noon and whisked through brief warmup sessions at the stadium.

Ike Won't Appear
President Eisenhower, recovering from a heart attack, will not attend the game but other government officials, Cabinet members, congressmen and generals and admirals by the dozens are on hand.

Also present are two representatives of the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, openly declaring their interest in landing Navy, a Sugar Bowl victor last January, as a foe for Texas Christian Jan. 2.

Possible Bowl Bid
The bid will be forthcoming if Navy wins. All indications are that Navy, on the theory that bowl appearances promote naval enlistments, will accept.

Navy, beaten only by Notre Dame and tied by Duke, has a superior record over Army, which has won five and lost three.

Army, upset 27-20 a year ago and smarting under three other losses to Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz, has the revenge motive.

Kyasky To Start
Army hopes soared with the announcement that halfback Bob Kyasky, who suffered an early season knee injury would start in the backfield along with quarterback Don Hollender, a converted end; halfback Don Lash and fullback Pat Eubel, who has played his greatest games against Navy.

A change in the Navy backfield put Paul Gober at right half in place of Chet Burchett, who is still limping from an injury suffered against Duke Nov. 6.

Completing the Midshipmen's backfield are George Welsh, whose passing arm has been Navy's chief weapon, Ed Oldham and Dick Guest.

A crowd of around 90,000 is expected to see the closing game of the college season here in Memorial Coliseum. The kickoff is set 4 p.m. (Iowa time).

U-High Drops 3d Game to Tipton, 46-42

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
TIPTON — Iowa City's University High School dropped its third straight basketball game of the season here Friday night to Tipton High School, 46-42.

Tipton took a 14-3 lead in the first quarter and U-High was unable to close the gap completely. Jim and Al Scott were standouts for U-High and both dumped in 13 points for the losers. Chet Christianson of Tipton also scored 13 points.

Bill Leighty controlled the backboards for Tipton and was effective on rebounds. He pushed in 12 points for the night, but fouled out late in the game as did John Rafensberger. U-High, a few seconds earlier.

The Bluehawks, after gaining ground in the second quarter, could not erase a five-point deficit in the final period to win.

West Virginia Tallies Twice in 4th, Wins, 27-7

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Halfback Joe Marconia ripped off touch-down runs of 15 and 49 yards in the fourth quarter to lead West Virginia's Mountaineers to a 27-7 win over North Carolina State Friday night before a rain-soaked crowd of 4,000.

The game, replete with fumbles because of the steady rain, saw West Virginia wind up its season with a 8-2 record. In spite of the loss, State closed out its most successful season since 1950 with a 4-5-1 record.

Babe To Re-Enter Texas Hospital for Cancer Check-up

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Babe Zaharias said Friday she will re-enter a Galveston, Tex., hospital over the weekend for another cancer check-up.

"My hip got to hurting real bad, so I had some X-rays taken and they (doctors) didn't like the way they looked," the Babe explained.

The golfer, top woman athlete of the past half century, came to the telephone to talk briefly about her return to the John Sealy Hospital at Galveston. She had been released there Sept. 14 after treatment for her second cancer attack.

Mrs. Zaharias said the situation is not clear, but that after hearing a report of the X-rays here, her Galveston specialist, Dr. Robert M. Moore, instructed her to be ready to return to the hospital Sunday.

The Babe, who seemed to be improving slowly but steadily while resting at her Tampa home, said "I guess I'll need some more treatment, but they will be able to stop the pain anyway."

Outland Award Winner

Jones Named Lineman Of the Year by Look

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
NEW YORK — Iowa guard Calvin Jones was voted the John B. Outland award by the 780 members of the Football Writers Association, who make the Look All-American selections, "for being the outstanding lineman of the year."

Jones along with eight other players from the Midwest area were named to the Look All-American football team. The magazine appears Tuesday on the newsstands.

Led by Ohio States' Howard (Hogalong) Cassady, whose sparkling, quick-opening dashes kept Ohio State among the national leaders all season, the Big Ten and Notre Dame "again showed their heels to the rest of the nation," Look said in making the awards.

'Player of Year'
Mississippi State's halfback Art Davis, "who does everything—run, pass, punt, tackle, block and catch passes" was named "player of the year."

As usual, there was a spirited contest for the two all-American quarterback slots with the front-runners this year being Michigan State's Earl Morrall and Navy's George Welsh. Morrall and Horning won out; Morrall on his superior passing and Horning on his outstanding running and ball-handling.

'Best Running Back'
University of Southern California's Joe Arnett, a tumbler and acrobat in his spare time, was singled out as probably "the best running back in America."

The Football Writers again chose a 22-man All-American "team" for Look, with each player having equal first-string rank, because "there are too many good players in the country today to pick just 11." This continues a tradition begun by the late Grantland Rice, long the dean of American sportswriters.
