Kutcher Reaffirms Socialist Affiliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Kutcher, who lost his legs in World War II, said Friday he would keep up his membership in the Socialist Workers party even if the government cuts off his veterans benefits.

The 43-year-old Kutcher, from Newark, N.J., appeared before a Veterans Administration board that is considering his case.

He told the board it was a mistake for the party to be placed on the attorney general's subversive list. It doesn't advocate violent overthrow of the government, he said.

Denies Statements

And he denied under oath a series of statements he has been accused of uttering during the Korean War. These it was charged, amounted to "rendering assistance to an enemy of the United States" — Communist China and North Korea.

Those who said he made the statements have not been identified.

The fact is, Kutcher testified, the Communists are bitterly opposed to his party and any party member "would be dead" if he ventured into North Korea, Red China or Soviet Russia.

Peyton H. Moss, chairman of the VA's Central Committee on Waivers and Forfeitures which conducted the two-hour hearing, turned down Kutcher's attorneys' pleas to dismiss the case.

Decision Delayed

Moss said it would take time to study the evidence, so there won't be a decision before next week at the earliest.

Kutcher's lawyers previously lost out on their plea that witnesses against him be brought to appear publicly.

Kutcher's $329-a-month VA compensation for his war injuries — worth many thousands of dollars over his lifetime — was briefly suspended by a regional office Nov. 30 in the latest of a series of troubles connected with his party activity.

Then the VA announced it was restoring the payments pending an investigation.

Was File Clerk

Back in 1948 Kutcher was fired as a file clerk in the VA's Newark office. The discharge was based on his membership in the party. He's still fighting that case in the courts.

Kutcher walked into the hearing room Friday with the aid of two canes. Most of the time, he let his lawyers, Joseph L. Rauh Jr. and John Silard, do the talking for him.

Moss said the evidence shows Kutcher has been since 1938 an active member of the Socialist Workers party. He called it "an organization which seeks to alter the form of government of the United States of America by unconstitutional means."

Attended Meetings

The evidence also shows, Moss said, that Kutcher attended party meetings at Mountain Spring Camp, Washington, N.J., in July 1950 and the summer of 1951 at which Kutcher made a number of statements.

Among the statements he was alleged to have made were that he liked the "Red" system of government; that "in this country half of what a worker earns goes to the government and under the 'Red' government the worker gets all he earns; that the government of the United States is composed of people who are cheaters and crooks who oppress the working people."

Kutcher swore he had not made these statements attributed to him. Neither he nor the Socialist Workers party advocates overthrow of the government by forceful means, he said.

Marshall Plans Quiet Birthday

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Soldier-statesman George C. Marshall will mark his 75th birthday quietly today.

The former secretary of state will be a guest today at a luncheon and at dinner in the evening. Marshall said one of his greatest satisfactions was the fact that "we were able to get the passage of" the Marshall Plan for European recovery enacted by Congress.

He also expressed satisfaction with accomplishments of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which he helped organize. He termed NATO a "saving grace" for free Europe.

City Officials To Be Named By Council

Iowa City's new city council will elect a new mayor and appoint a police judge, a city solicitor and a city clerk at its first meeting of 1956 Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

All four new officials will serve for two years in that capacity.

Leroy S. Mercer is mayor now; Roger Ivie, police judge; Edward Lucas, solicitor, and Kenneth Millsap, clerk.

All are expected to be re-elected or reappointed to their present positions.

Also on the temporary agenda for the meeting — an organizational one — is the approving of the 1956 city budget, drawn up by City Manager Peter F. Roan and approved by the old council last Aug. 8. It is a $1,049,355 budget.

The approval of the budget at the first of each year is a mere formality.

The meeting will be the first for three new council members — George P. Dvorsky, Philip F. Morgan and Louis Loria. They were elected at the city elections Nov. 8 to serve 4-year terms.

They will succeed Ansel J. Chapman, Walter L. Daykin and Clarence Parizek, none of whom sought re-election in November.

Holdover council members are Mayor Mercer and Robert G. Stevenson.

Chinese Reds Ask Return of Student

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Chinese in a mental hospital in Missouri Friday became a bone of contention in the cold war between Red China and the United States.

Communist China charged that Liu Yung-ming, former student at the University of Missouri, is being prevented from leaving this country by confinement in a state mental hospital at Farmington, Mo.

The U.S. Immigration Service replied that it would be glad to return him to his homeland but that the British have balked at letting him go through Hong Kong, gateway to Red China. Apparently the British believe he might stay in Hong Kong and become a British charge — rather than go on to China.

Sgt. York Applies for Medal of Honor Pension

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sgt. Alvin York, World War I hero, has applied for the pension that goes with his Medal of Honor.

He wrote the Army from his home at Wolf River, Tenn., recently asking about the extra pension to which the Medal of Honor winners are entitled upon reaching the age of 65.

Under present law, such payments amount to $10 a month.

Britain Ups Jordan Aid Despite U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Britain Friday announced an expanded program of financial aid for Jordan, where riots last week upset plans for the little Arab kingdom to join the British-sponsored Baghdad Pact.

A government statement said this country will give Jordan at least 3,350,000 pounds — $9,380,000 — in loans and grants during the coming financial year to develop its economy.

British economic help during 1955 totalled 2½ million pounds.

Once Dependable

The increased British contribution appeared aimed at strengthening political and military ties.

Jordan, once part of Palestine, has been regarded as one of Britain's most dependable Middle East allies. But its relations with Britain earlier this month suffered a severe setback.

Britain sought vainly to persuade Jordan to join the new Baghdad grouping of Britain, Iraq, Iran, Turkey and Pakistan in a defense alliance along Russia's southern borders.

Against U.S. Advice

Although the Foreign Office has refused to comment officially on the situation, diplomats here and in Washington have said the British action was taken against the advice of the U.S. State Department.

The Americans reportedly warned the step would serve only further to deepen the disunity of the Arab world.

Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria all bitterly oppose the Baghdad Pact and so, of course, does the Soviet Union.

Guilty Plea in Kidnaping Of Auto Dealer's Wife

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Arthur Ross Brown, 30, Friday pleaded guilty to a federal charge of kidnaping Mrs. Wilma Allen, attractive wife of a Kansas City motor car dealer, last August.

District Judge Charles E. Whittaker accepted the plea after three psychiatrists reported Brown sane and able to stand trial.

Whittaker said he would call a jury to hear the evidence against Brown Jan. 23 and recommend whether he should be sentenced to death.

A state murder charge against Brown is pending in Kansas.

New Trial Hearing

CONVICT-AUTHOR CARYL CHESSMAN, who has lived in the shadow of California's gas chamber for seven and one-half years, was taken to federal court Tuesday for a hearing in his fight for a new trial. It is the first time the convicted kidnap-artist has been outside the walls of San Quentin prison since 1952.

$1 Million Swindle Puzzles Auditors

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Bank examiners continued Friday to try to fit together the jigsaw puzzle of Minnie C. Mangum's accounting system to find the total of a nearly million-dollar swindle blamed on her by the building and loan firm she helped operate for 28 years.

The plump 52-year-old spinster was free on $25,000 bail while the reputation she enjoyed because of her generosity to church, charity and friends crumbled about her.

Miss Mangum was charged with the theft of $100,000 over the past 12 months. But the president of the firm she served in the hiring-and-firing job of assistant secretary-treasurer said the shortages probably would show another $800,000 over the past five years.

Defer Action

Preliminary court action against her was deferred Friday at the prosecutor's request when the case was called in police court. The hearing was rescheduled for Feb. 7 to allow time for completion of the complicated audit.

The chief examiner, John F. Harbison of Greensboro, N.C., said "the complete absence of internal control" was what pointed to examiners that everything wasn't in good order at Commonwealth Building and Loan Assn., one of the largest in eastern Virginia.

He went on to explain that by this he meant one person had too much access to the books and records.

'Trouble Maker'

Others close to the investigation said a Navy wife fired by Miss Mangum as "a trouble maker" had a bearing on the investigation.

Mrs. Esther Marie Cannon, formerly of Waukegan, Ill., who was fired by Miss Mangum only a couple of months after she was hired, was back on the job Friday. An argument between the two women while auditors were in the bank — reportedly over the disappearance of an account card — was given as a factor.

It was reported Mrs. Cannon, who had previous banking experience, contacted federal officials after her discharge.

Miss Mangum had said she liked to hire untrained girls and train them her own way.

Act To Stop Slaughter On Highways

By The Associated Press
A counterattack against death on the nation's streets and highways began Friday night.

Police — and, in some states, National Guardsmen — were alerted for emergency action aimed at holding down the traffic toll.

The National Safety Council predicted 420 lives will be lost in motor vehicle accidents during the New Year holiday period — from 6 p.m. Friday night to midnight Monday.

Would Break Record

That many deaths would break the record of 407 set during the four-day New Year holiday at the end of 1952 and the start of 1953.

The traffic toll of 609 during the recent Christmas holidays set a new record for any holiday period. And it touched off moves to make sure that "Black Christmas" is not followed by "Black New Year."

Officials in many states ordered tough traffic law enforcement.

National Guardsmen were summoned to help patrol highways in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Arizona.

Use Planes

Officials planned to use planes to scout above highways in Louisiana and Illinois.

Extra police were ordered on duty in many states.

In Texas, which led all states with 53 traffic deaths during the Yuletide, patrolmen have been instructed to make an arrest "in every moving traffic violation."

The weather, at the start of the turn-of-the-year weekend, was dry in most areas.

This is the final weekend of a year with a grim history of motor vehicle deaths. The National Safety Council reported that the 11-month total — through November — was 34,690. It estimated that, when the final returns are in, the 1955 total may be 38,500.

That would be the highest in 14 years.

Government Urges States To Push Polio Vaccinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leonard Scheele Friday urged all states to push ahead with their antipolio campaigns, using up available supplies of Salk vaccine as rapidly as possible.

"This is the ideal time for vaccinations," he said in a statement. "The safety and effectiveness of the vaccine are now well established. Injections should be given as soon as vaccine is available in local areas in order to assure protection to as many children as possible before the next polio season starts."

A new U.S. Public Health Service report indicates that more than half the Salk vaccine shipped to private physicians and health departments has not been used yet. Use of the vaccine within six months of production is recommended, although officials say longer storage does not affect safety.

West Branch Man's Car Goes in Ditch

James Murphy, from near West Branch, suffered slight face cuts and scratches Friday night when the car in which he was riding crashed into a ditch about one and a half miles east of Iowa City.

The car was apparently traveling east on a gravel road just off Iowa Highway 1 when the accident occurred.

The Weather

Clear & Warmer

Warmer temperatures are predicted for today with perhaps even warmer marks on the way for Sunday.

Highs today will range in the middle 30's.

The high here Friday was a cold 19 degrees. The low was two above zero.

Roads throughout Iowa were reported in normal condition.

On the national scene, the Washington Weather Bureau said Friday its 30-day outlook for January calls for temperatures to average below seasonal normals in the eastern third of the nation.

Above normal temperatures are indicated from the Mississippi westward to the Pacific with greatest departures in the southern Rockies, the bureau said.

Precipitation is expected to be near or above normal in the Southwest and along the West Coast. In the remainder of the country generally sub-normal amounts are predicted, the bureau added.

Say Matusow Paid by Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Internal Security subcommittee charged Friday that a Communist "brain trust" paid Harvey M. Matusow to recant his testimony against alleged Reds, and that Matusow lied when he recanted.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss.), recommended a federal grand jury investigation of what it called an "apparently conspiracy to obstruct justice."

It also recommended contempt of Congress prosecution of others, and disbarment of four New York lawyers whom it did not name.

One subcommittee member, Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.), has said the report contains "a number of basic matters and conclusions with which I am forced to take exception." He said he will make a statement soon outlining his exceptions.

Matusow swore he had lied for profit as a "professional witness" against alleged Communists, both in court trials and in congressional investigations in the earlier 1950s.

He already has been sentenced by a Texas federal judge to serve three years in prison for contempt of court, based on his recanting of testimony which helped convict Clinton E. Jencks, a West Coast labor union official, on perjury charges.

Admits Shooting at Israeli Police Ship

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The UN Palestine truce chief said Friday night a Syrian officer captured in an Israeli raid had admitted firing a bazooka Dec. 10 at an Israeli police boat on the Sea of Galilee.

Israel has said Syrian shelling of Israeli fishing boats and their police escort was the reason for the raid into Syria the following night in which, by UN count, 56 Syrians and 6 Israelis were killed.

The truce chief, Canadian Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, gave the prisoner's story in a report sent here from his Jerusalem headquarters. A UN military observer had interviewed the man in the Israeli prison in Acre.

The Syrian officer, Burns said, identified himself as commander of the Syrian outpost at El Douga and told of shooting the bazooka on orders from his company commander at El Koursi.

Affair Backs Faure Into Bad Position

PARIS (AP) — The French cameraman of an American newsreel company Friday, backed Premier Edgar Faure's lame duck government into an embarrassing political position almost on the eve of national elections.

The government, through its Ministry of Interior, Thursday accused 34-year-old Geroges Chassagne, Algeria correspondent for Fox Movietone News, of bribing a French gendarme to shoot down an Arab to get a picture.

Premier Faure is acting as his own interior minister.

Bribing Charge
Chassagne, who flew from Algiers to Paris early Friday, denied what he called "scandalous accusations against my company and myself."

Chassagne added that he knew of no official charges placed against him. Earlier, the Interior Ministry had said he had been charged with corrupting a civil servant.

"I never asked for any posing of pictures," Chassagne declared. "I never saw the gendarme before. I have never seen him since and I certainly never bribed any gendarme."

Hold Gendarme
That left it to the authorities to back up their announced accusation against Chassagne of corrupting a public servant — or climb down.

Reports from Algiers said the gendarme — his name was not disclosed — was being held at Constantine.

Chassagne made his denials before more than 50 French and foreign newspapermen jammed in the private projection theater at the Fox Movietone offices.

The Story
That left it to the authorities. On Aug. 25, by official invitation, he went with five other newsmen to the Algerian village of Ain-Abid to witness cleanup operations in the area. That was two days after hundreds of French men, women and children had been massacred in the uprising which swept through much of Algeria and Morocco.

The gendarmes ordered all the Algerians of Ain-Abid to the village market place, warned that any found elsewhere would be treated as combatants.

When a suspect ran unarmed from a farm, one of the gendarmes shot him down. Chassagne and CBS television cameraman Jacques Alexandre recorded the incident.

Events then proceeded in this chronological order.

The picture strip, shown in movies throughout the world but not in France, was later published in U.S. magazines and newspapers. It showed the gendarme with his gun raised, the running man, his fall and the gendarme calmly reloading his rifle.

Campaign Issue
Express, the Paris newspaper of former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, picked up the pictures and printed them yesterday — four months late, but handily near the end of the election campaign.

Mendes-France and Premier Faure are the bitterest of opponents in the election to be held next Monday. In the fight they have split their own party, the Radical Socialists.

Express not only charged the Algerian was shot for the benefit of a cameraman, but accused French forces of a series of acts in Algeria, including the bombardment of villages and taking of hostages.

The shooting incident thus became a hot issue in the campaign.

Firemen Put Out Minor Fire at Wells Home

Firemen put out a minor fire Friday night in the apartment of Mrs. Mabel Wells, 822 Newton Road.

The blaze started in the kitchen of the apartment. There was no estimate of damage.

Retiring Councilmen

Three members of the City Council — Walter Daykin, Ansel Chapman and Clarence Parizek — will go out of office tonight. The three newly-elected members— George Dvorsky, Phillip Morgan and Louis Loria — will meet with the two hold-over members — Mayor LeRoy Mercer and Robert Stevenson — to form the New City Council Tuesday.

Daykin and Parizek have served on the council since city manager government went into effect here in 1951. Chapman has been on the council since the resignation of Pat Pearson in 1952.

All three have served as members of a city council under manager government are supposed to serve — without partisanship and without serving special interests.

Daykin has been the most colorful of the three. He was willing to fight all night for his point at council meetings. He was willing to be the "one" on 4-1 council votes.

He was City Manager Peter F. Roan's most severe critic on the council. Yet, when Roan was under fire from the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL) in the election campaign this fall, Daykin was ready to defend him in talk after talk before interested groups. When Roan was under public criticism in 1954 after he was arrested on a charge of drunken driving, Daykin was willing to stand by him.

Daykin gained the reputation during his four years on the council as the man most likely to get things done. "Take it to Daykin," was the advice given people who could not get something they wanted from the city.

Chapman, quiet and capable, came under the most fire from NPTL leaders during the past campaign. This was due to his agreement with Roan on issues, most notably the debate over the Burlington Street widening.

Parizek didn't make a lot of noise in council debates, either. But he wasn't pulled along with the crowd. He cast the deciding vote in 1954 when the council decided not to consider a new franchise for the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company. He went against Roan and the council majority in the 3-2 vote on Burlington Street, joining Daykin in the minority. After the street had been widened and tested under football traffic conditions he was not ashamed to say that he had been wrong about the project and that the widening was more useful than harmful.

The three councilmen served over some of the biggest improvement projects in Iowa City's history. They had the difficult job of making a new form of government work and work well enough to gain the confidence of a skeptical public. The overwhelming vote pro-manager Council-Manager Association candidates received last November was proof that they did their job well.

All three men put in their time and took frequent public abuse without compensation. And yet they never conducted themselves as if they were doing the people of Iowa City a favor. Iowan Citizens owe them a vote of thanks.

Man of the Year

Time Magazine has named Harlow Herbert Curtice, president of General Motors, as the Man of the Year. Time is the only organization that makes an annual Man of the Year selection on an international basis.

Most Americans, even those who own Chevrolets, probably don't know who Harlow Curtice is. Many of those who do greeted the selection with the question: "Why him?"

On the surface the selection of Curtice as Man of the Year seems to indicate that Time is taking a narrow look at 1955. After all, the Geneva conference, the antics of Bulganin and Khrushchev, the growing neutralism of Nehru as the leader of Asia all took place during 1955. President Eisenhower came back after a heart attack to resume his duties. Chief Justice Earl Warren backed up the 1954 de-segregation decision with orders to start at once on integration.

Alongside these events and men, how could a businessman who only did his job compare?

One must realize the mood and tempo of 1955 if he is to see why Curtice was Time's choice. Americans no longer cared about foreign conferences, UN debates or national issues. In 1955 we stopped living and jumping from crisis to crisis.

The biggest problem for most Americans was: what to buy? The year 1955 passed without the recession that marked 1954 or the semi-war prosperity of 1950-53. Americans came to see for the first time that our economic system could work without war. For the first time in years we could enjoy the fruits of our system without hindrance from depressions, wars or international crises.

Who made this possible? The chiefs of state didn't. It was the businessmen who had the courage to invest the large sums that make our economy spin.

Curtice was one of these. His corporation is spending $1 billion to expand their plants for the continuing auto sales it is counting on.

The actions of his corporation have instilled into our economy the confidence that is needed. He was typical of the men who made 1955 a year (perhaps the first of a long string of years) of prosperity.

France Goes to the Polls

France Tuesday will elect a new General Assembly that will probably serve her for the next five years. In its main aspects, the new assembly will differ little from the old. It will be a multi-party affair with no group commanding a decisive and workable majority. Governments that arise from it will no doubt fall with every sway in French passions.

Observers can find few signs of trends or indications in the campaigning. Frenchmen might be expected to be repelled by the dirty politics of their assemblymen, repelled enough to stay away from voting altogether. Not so. Registration is 1,200,000 above past records for this election.

Optimists are hoping that the high registration previous to election will mean the same to France as it did to the United States in 1952: a general house-cleaning is in the making. They think that the voters will bring to power the supporters of former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, the only strong and determined leader France has had in the past 35 years.

France has plenty of color and variety in her political campaigns. This time she has everything, from the militant Communist party of about 100 assembly members to the militant fascist Union for Defense of Shopkeepers and Artisans, which has no assembly members. In between are the men who will govern France: Mendes-France and his left-of-center coalition and Edgar Faure and Antoine Pinay and their right-of-center coalition. Also included are the followers of Charles DeGaulle, who want a strong presidential system for France modeled after that of the United States.

All of this is very colorful. It makes for good newspaper copy, hot debates, and an interesting field of study for students of political science. But it also makes it impossible to run a modern nation.

If wishes were horses, there wouldn't be any room for people.

$3 Million Building Boom, A New Industry and City Elections Highlighted 1955

By The Iowan Editorial Staff

Iowa City took booming 1955 in stride in a comfortable, care-free 12 months.

No crises and few disasters hit the town or its people.

They just went along with the continuing goodtimes and took their cut of the expanding economy.

Appropriately, most of Iowa City's top stories of 1955 had financial angles.

The event that was felt by the most people started at 9:45 a.m. January 28. Robert Lee, city recreation director was talking on the telephone in his office in the Community Center building.

Suddenly the line went dead. Lee got up and walked to the gymnasium, where painters Robert Roe and Jess Fulton were working. They told him that they smelled smoke. Lee investigated, found smoke pouring from the east wall of the basement. He called the fire department.

The firemen never had a chance to get to the blaze through the smoke-filled building.

The structure crumbled in flames about noon. The loss was estimated at $300,000. The loss in recreational pleasures to the people of Iowa City can't be measured in dollars and cents.

The Community Center fire had followed close on the heels of the $10,000 fire at the Johnson County Creamery. Both had followed a year that saw no major Iowa City fires.

MONEY played a major role in other major Iowa City stories in 1955.

A total of $3,775,705 worth of building permits was issued during the first 11 months of 1955 to smash all previous construction records.

The previous record, the 1954 total of $2,200,000 was passed in July.

Most of the building was done in the southeastern sections of Iowa City — in the Mark Twain and Herbert Hoover School areas.

This made necessary a $190,000 bond issue to put additions on the two schools, which had been opened in 1953. City voters okayed the issue, 82 per cent of them casting "Yes" ballots.

IOWA CITY has always been a town with one industry — the State University of Iowa.

This was one of the major changes in Iowa City for 1955. Procter and Gamble decided to build a $5 million plant southeast of the city and started construction. It should be opened by late 1957.

A TELLING sign of prosperity: Iowa City residents pushed the Community Chest drive over its goal for the first time since 1948, giving more than $35,000. The Iowa City goal was the highest in the drive's history.

IOWA CITY, politically stagnant since 1950, went through a bitter city election campaign to elect three new city council members.

The main issues were financial: 1. Was the city getting its money's worth out of the increase in taxes since city manager government went into effect and (2) Was City Manager Peter F. Roan getting too much money ($12,700 per year).

It all started when Roan decided that Burlington Street needed widening. Property owners protested. Some hired attorneys. One attorney was Edward O'Connor, former attorney general of Iowa. That's when the campaign started.

O'Connor hired a hall and spoke before the Burlington Street property owners. He blasted the widening project, then took off on a protest against the rising taxes under city manager government.

The city council, by a 3-2 vote, approved the widening project.

A few weeks later, to no one's surprise, O'Connor formed the Non-Partisan Taxpayers League (NPTL) to work for the election of city councilmen who would fire Roan.

Roan, under heavy fire throughout the campaign, received a vote of confidence from the people in his first test at the polls in four years as city manager.

The pro-Roan Council-Manager Association (CMA) candidates got 63 per cent of the vote, carrying nine of the city's 11 precincts.

THE CITY Council had a hand in most of Iowa City's major stories of 1955. Some of them:

1. The rise in city taxes were halted. This year the average property owner will pay only 15 cents in taxes for city use.

2. The city spent more than $200,000 in street improvements. The money came from the state gas tax fund. It didn't cost city taxpayers a cent.

3. The council was assured by the state highway commission that a by-pass would take Highway 6 out of town by 1957.

All three were big factors in the election of the CMA candi-

One of the larger stories concerned action the council did not take. All five council members said the day following the Community Center fire that they favored building a combination Community Center - City Hall. Mayor LeRoy Mercer appointed a citizens' committee, which recommended that the building be built either at the old Community Center site or the Musser Parking lot site.

The council accepted their report. That's all the further the building proposal ever got.

PARKING continued to be a problem. The city opened a new lot (on Clinton Street) and put in more parking meters, widened parking stalls, cut parking time limits, and set up stiffer parking fines. It still had no solution to the main parking problem: how to stop people from buying cars.

TRAGEDY made plenty of news in 1955.

Iowa City made the headlines when eight persons were killed in a two-car crash on highway 6 west of here July 4. It was the worst auto crash in the nation over the holiday weekend and the second worst of the year in the nation.

Mrs. Clarence Wichmann of Oxford and her three daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Max Williams, daughter Joan and friend Earl Lowry, all of Moline, Ill., were killed.

The most spectacular auto death of the year occurred May 12. Mrs. Amanda Mayman, 43, Miami, Fla., drove her car into the path of a gasoline transport south of Iowa City on highway 218. The fire, which burned Mrs. Mayman to death in seconds, was seen within a radius of 20 miles.

Lumpa After Capture
He led police on a wild chase

3, son of SUI student Rolley Glasgow, Jr., El, Burlington, was killed when struck by a car in Templin Park.

Iowa City went without a murder for the second year in a row. The closest it had to one came May 31, when William Augustine, 30, former city resident, shot Dr. John Greenleaf, 35, local physician, in his car. Three bullets entered Greenleaf's shoulder. Augustine was sentenced to the criminally insane ward at the Anamosa Reformatory.

TWO top-notch crime stories caught the eye of Iowa Citizens during 1955.

Wayne Lumpa, a cocky 18-year-old boy who had been in and out of juvenile court for four years, broke up the monotony of hot, dry summer days with an old-fashioned cops-and-robbers chase by leading Johnson County law enforcers on a wild chase.

Lumpa slugged a cook at the county jail July 20 hours before he was to be taken to Anamosa for check forging and escaped into the seven-foot high corn south of town. A posse of city police, sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen couldn't flush him.

He remained at large for 19 days, selling stolen grain to elevator operators and living in one of Cedar Rapids' best hotels all the while.

Finally he was recognized by an Iowa Citizen in Cedar Rapids; shot and captured after another cops-and-robbers chase. He got one year attached to the seven-year check-forging sentence.

A long list of 1955 thefts was ended Dec. 6, when an Iowa City man, his two sons and three other youths were arrested by police. Their loot amounted to $6,000. All have pleaded innocent to the charges.

The story that made many Iowa Citizens maddest; four dogs in southern Iowa City were given strychnine in March. The poison was put in meat and left where the dogs would find it. One dog belonged to Sept Swisher, State Representative.

THAT was a rare occurrence. Most Iowa Citizens weren't mad at anyone in 1955.

They weren't mad at SUI, which pushed the new Procter and Gamble plant.

They couldn't be mad at SUI for keeping industry out of town any longer. SUI pushed hard to bring the Procter and Gamble plant to Iowa City.

They weren't mad at city hall — at least not mad enough to do anything about it.

They didn't even have much to be mad at SUI students for — except when they went to find parking spaces.

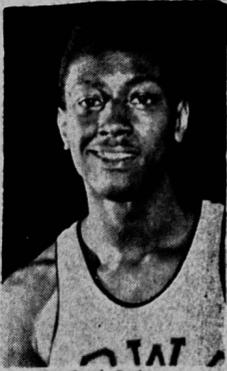

Confident and contented, Iowa Citizens were ready to roll into a promising 1956 tonight.

Ike Returns Red Blast

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — President Eisenhower Friday served notice on Soviet Russia that peaceful liberation of captive peoples in Red satellite nations "will continue to be a major goal of United States foreign policy."

This position was set forth in a White House statement personally approved by the President in reply to sharp criticism of him voiced Thursday by Nikita Khrushchev, Russia's Communist party boss.

Khrushchev accused Eisenhower of violating the spirit of the Geneva summit conference and of "crude interference" in the affairs of Eastern Europe.

Christmas Broadcast

The Red leader said the interference came in the President's Christmas message broadcast to the people of that Soviet-dominated area.

In that message, the President assured his Eastern European listeners that Americans share their "concern for the restoration of individual freedoms and political liberty."

Khrushchev's blast was the first time any Kremlin chief had loosed such an attack on the President since before the Geneva conference of last July.

Khrushchev also aimed his criticism at Secretary of State Dulles, because of a message he beamed at the satellites.

Approved By Ike

The U.S. reply was in a statement issued by James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, after it had been approved by Eisenhower as well as Dulles.

"The peaceful liberation of captive peoples," the statement said, "has been, and until success is achieved — will continue to be a goal of United States foreign policy."

Eisenhower, in Key West for further convalescence from his Sept. 24 heart attack, approved the statement at the end of a 3½-hour work session which dealt mainly with the State of the Union message he will send to Congress Jan. 5.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER STRUCK BACK at Soviet officials Friday in a statement from his Key West, Fla., White House. Sharp criticism of the United States and other western powers was voiced by Soviet party boss Nikita Khrushchev and Premier Nikolai Bulganin as they arrived back in Russia earlier this week. The two Russian leaders are shown being greeted at Moscow's airport by a long receiving line.

Dog Licenses Go On Sale Tuesday

Although the delinquent date is three months away, the city clerk's office will start selling dog licenses Tuesday.

The tags cost $2 each. This is the second year the licenses will be issued under a new city ordinance requiring rabies vaccination.

The ordinance requires dog owners to present a certificate from a veterinarian showing that the dog has been vaccinated for rabies within six months before the date of applying for the license.

It also requires that the name and address of the owners be on the collar.

About 800 tags were issued in 1955. Tags must be bought before April 1.

Political Ghostwriting Explained by Professor

LOS ANGELES — To expect a presidential candidate unassisted to write and deliver as many as 30 major addresses in 60 days on issues affecting 165 million Americans is to expect the impossible.

Yet many persons think that the candidate ought to write his own speeches, even though such a performance would require a superman with nothing else to do except to prepare speeches, Professor Robert F. Ray of SUI pointed out Friday.

Director of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs, Ray presented his views on "Ghostwriting in Presidential Campaigns" in the 1955 Speech and Theatre Convention, which is meeting this week at the Hotel Statler in Los Angeles.

Expert Assistance

Noting that the presidential candidate must be free to see many persons, make numerous rear-platform train appearances, engage in many strategy conferences and assume other responsibilities, Ray cited the need for considerable expert assistance on the preparation of campaign addresses.

"No man could possibly prepare such a volume of addresses without help, especially since each speech is subjected to appraisal by experts and laymen alike in every problem area concerned. Statistical data must be absolutely accurate, for proof of error may cost the votes which could mean victory.

Dishonesty

"If it is 'dishonest' to deliver a speech which another person helped prepare," he continued, "then most speakers are to some degree 'dishonest'."

There cannot be such a concept as pure invention in any speech effort in which the speaker advances premises beyond the realm of his personal observation, personal fact-gathering or personal experience, Ray said.

Analyzing, for example, the speech preparation processes of President Roosevelt and Governor Dewey in 1944, Ray noted that "insofar as the end products reflected the points of view, desired word arrangement, style and intent of the speakers, the candidates 'wrote their own speeches'."

Yet the speeches "did not result from a process involving only pen and paper in the solitude of their personal chambers. They were written with the assistance of others."

To have expected them to do otherwise would be to have expected the impossible," he concluded.

Krishna Menon Slowly Recovering from Illness

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — India's UN delegation said Friday diplomat V. K. Krishna Menon's "recovery" has been slower than doctors expected.

Krishna Menon is Prime Minister Nehru's closest foreign affairs adviser and headed India's delegation to the General Assembly. He has been confined to his hotel room with appendicitis for eight days.

A Cup of Kindness Almost Fatal

BERLIN (AP) — The Russians succumbed to the New Year spirit Friday and almost got shot for their pains.

Maj. Gen. P. A. Dibrova, the Soviet commandant of East Berlin, decided it was a good idea to send a bottle of vodka to the American commander, Maj. Gen. Charles L. Dasher Jr., to start out 1956.

Toward the end of the day, a Soviet car roared up to American headquarters and started to go through the gate without identifying itself. An American soldier put his weapon at the ready position as he flagged the car down. A Russian captain explained his mission and was permitted to proceed.

Gen. Dasher's office accepted his bottle with thanks. Officers said Gen. Dibrova would receive some American whisky in return.

Holiday Business Schedule

Government offices — federal, state, county and city — and most stores in Iowa City will be closed Monday for the New Year's Day holiday.

There will be no window service at the post office and no city or rural mail delivery except special delivery.

Outgoing mail will be collected on a holiday schedule. Most county and city offices will operate on a partial-staff basis Saturday morning. All will be closed this afternoon.

In observance of the holiday, The Daily Iowan will not publish Tuesday morning. Normal operation will resume with Wednesday morning's edition.

Crime Expert Ends Probe in Slaying Of Omaha Coed

OMAHA (AP) — Criminologist Le Moyne Snyder, winding up his investigation of the Carolyn Nevins murder case Friday said he had "some quite definite ideas" on the slaying.

Dr. Snyder said the killer probably was "a fairly young, irresponsible-type person" and added there is a strong possibility more than one person was involved.

He said he considers it of "prime importance" to locate the murderer gun. Another important key to solving the mystery would be the car which the girl's father, Arthur Nevins, and his son reported seeing at Omaha University the first time they went to meet Carolyn, the night of her death.

County attorney Eugene Fitzgerald said Dr. Snyder will receive $900 — $150 a day — plus expenses, for his services, and the county will pay the bill.

Ex-Marine Sues Drill Sergeants, Government

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A discharged Marine recruit wants $175,000 in damages for injuries he says he suffered from cruelty by Marine Corps drill sergeants.

Attorneys for Earl E. Brown, 19 of Dell Rapids, S. D., filed suit in U.S. district court here Thursday against the federal government and three Marines.

The complaint says Brown was beaten with a club and ducked in boiling water by Cpl. Richard A. Clark and Sgt. Larry A. Ramel until he fainted last Jan. 5 because he chewed gum in class at the Camp Matthews rifle range, near San Diego.

It Happened in Iowa—

Call Off Speed Limit Until Court Decision

DES MOINES (AP) — Safety Commissioner Clinton Moyer said Friday nothing further will be done on establishing daytime or nighttime speed standards until the validity of the present speed law is established in the Iowa Supreme Court.

When Moyer announced earlier the night speed limit of 65 miles an hour would go into effect Dec. 1, he indicated there might be a daytime limit set after the first of the year.

Moyer said that up to a week ago his office had received reports of 48 arrests under the night speed policy. He added that 43 of the 48 pleaded guilty when arraigned in court.

NEW POLICE CHIEF MUSCATINE (AP) — Joseph G. Maher, 42, will become Muscatine chief of police at midnight today. He succeeds Chief Ted McGill who is retiring Jan. 1 after more than 24 years in the department.

A World War II Marine Corps veteran, Maher joined the police force in 1935. He is assistant chief now.

PHARMACY BREAKIN DES MOINES (AP) — Thieves broke into the Fleur Pharmacy here Thursday night but failed in an attempt to open the safe and escape without getting anything.

William Crewse, operator of the pharmacy, said the week's receipts were in the safe.

Last Sept. 5 thieves took $1,800 in cash and $1,000 in narcotics in a break-in at the same place.

COLLINS RITES CEDAR RAPIDS (AP) — Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. today for Mrs. Arthur A. Collins, 46, wife of the president of the Collins Radio Co.

Mrs. Collins died at her home here Thursday night of a brain hemorrhage. She was a trustee of Coe College, a member of the board of directors of the Cedar Rapids Art Assn., and a member of the Junior League here.

WASHINGTON (AP) — To avoid giving the public the jitters unnecessarily, the Weather Bureau will no longer use the word "alert" in official storm notices.

Instead, forecasters will use the expression "hurricane watch" in preliminary advices of severe storms and hurricanes.

"Studies have revealed" an announcement said Friday, "that many people mistake the word alert as synonymous with warning whereas the bureau intended it only as a preliminary notice."

The bureau said its "new look" in weather forecast wording is being extended to daily forecasts, by encouraging the use of more descriptive terms.

KNOWS NOSE TEMPLE, Tex. (AP) — A woman told cops answering a prowler call they'd know for sure how to identify any suspect. He had his nose pressed against the window screen and she poked it with a camera tripod.

Father, 92, Still Wants More Kids

WHITESBURG, Ky. (AP) — There's a new baby at the Eli Lucas cabin, the 19th for the 92-year-old father.

"And I'm not through yet by a lot of it," Uncle Eli said with a chuckle. "There'll be more, I hope."

"I was 92 years, one month and 17 days old when the baby came. My wife's 35," he told a photographer. Records here verify his statement.

Married Twice Uncle Eli, married twice, had 14 children by his first wife and five by his present wife, Rita. They were married in 1941.

Twelve of the children are alive but only three, Wanda Fay, 10; Eli Jr., 7, and Millard Ray, 3, live at the tiny cabin eight miles from Whitesburg, the county seat.

Uncle Eli contends there is no particular reason for the longevity that runs in his family. A paternal grandmother lived to be 107 and Lucas' father was 97 when he died.

"I've just worked hard all my life, eat cornbread and fat meat and paid my debts," Uncle Eli explained.

Was A Farmer For years he made a living from farming. He also served 21 years as a deputy sheriff without ever carrying a gun in a remote area where a cannon-sized pistol often was the only convincing badge of authority.

Today, Uncle Eli spends most of his time on the front porch but manages to dig a little in the garden behind the house.

"Lots of folks tell me I don't look any older than I did years ago, but I can tell a big difference. I can't hardly get up and down without pulling on something."

That said, he went out to the garden and began to hoe his potatoes.

Quints Patch Family Rift

NORTH BAY, Ont. (AP) — The surviving Dionne quintuplets and their parents patched up their differences Friday. They said in a joint statement any rift between them was due to a misunderstanding.

Three of the quintts arrived home Friday morning to talk over the family troubles.

Olivia Dionne, the girls' father, complained Tuesday that for the first time in their lives they had not spent Christmas at home.

He asserted that his four famous daughters were drifting away from their parents and blamed so-called outsiders whom he would not identify.

Yvonne, Cecile and Annette reached their home at nearby Calander before daybreak after a drive over 350 miles of icy highways from Montreal.

Dionne issued the statement in a telephone call to the North Bay Nugget and then each of the girls came to the phone and said she approved it. It said:

"This afternoon we all discussed this trouble we have been having and we now feel it was all due to a misunderstanding. There was a misunderstanding and it has been ironed out."

The girls said they were certain their sister Marie agreed to the statement.

Marie, the fourth surviving quint, remained in Montreal because she is convalescing from a recent illness. The fifth sister, Emilie, died in August 1954.

The three who came home were driven by brother, Olivia Jr., a 19-year-old airman, and were accompanied by two unidentified youths.

Welcome, 1956

... we're ready for you!

During 1955, every effort has been put forth to assure you of good, dependable gas and electric service—the kind of service that means so much in terms of modern comfort and convenience. Linemen, service men, engineers, accountants, tellers, clerks—all have contributed their best toward that goal.

The most appropriate way we can say "Happy New Year" is to renew our pledge to furnish the best possible service at the lowest possible cost consistent with sound business practice.
