Yuba City Spared; Flood Levees Hold

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The swirling, yellow flood of the Feather River reached its peak Monday at Yuba City, the levees held, and the river started a slow descent.

The city of 9,000 had been spared an inundation such as that of Christmas week when the river pierced the dikes, 33 persons perished in the Yuba City area, and property damage there exceeded $75 million.

The rich farm area was not fully out of danger, however. The soft levees were being hard pressed by the massive volume of water.

But Col. William F. Cassidy, Army division engineer, said: "I wouldn't call the situation critical now." The river crested at 68.3 feet. The levees at their lowest spot are 70 feet high.

The torrential rains that started last Friday night and continued through Sunday morning gave way to bright skies and a warm sun Monday. It was colder in the high mountains and melting of the snowbanks stopped, lessening the run off into the soggy valleys.

Along California's coast, from the San Francisco area northward, where there was much weekend flooding of large and small streams, cleanup squads were busy in dozens of places.

The storm and flood didn't begin to compare with that of Christmas week, when northern California counted 62 dead, and property damage probably exceeding the $500 million mark.

Ridgway Hits Ike's Policy On Defense

(Special to The Daily Iowan)
WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway contends that when he was Army chief of staff the Defense Department attempted to get him to "conform to a pre-conceived politico-military party line" in regard to defense expenditures.

Writing the first of a series of articles in the Saturday Evening Post, Gen. Ridgway took issue with administration policies on armaments, and openly challenged a statement by President Eisenhower concerning a decision by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Ridgway, Army Chief of Staff for two years under the Eisenhower administration, disputed Eisenhower's statement that "the Defense program recommended for 1955... is based on a new military program unanimously recommended by the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

"As a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff who most emphatically had not concurred in the 1955 military program," Ridgway wrote, "I was nonplused by this statement. The fact is, the 1955 budget was a directed verdict, as were the Army budgets for 1956 and '57."

Eisenhower's statement was included in his State of the Union message for 1954.

Ridgway said that as chief of staff he learned quickly that although his own recommendations were made on a purely military basis, the decisions of the Defense Department were based on considerations "other than clear-cut military needs. They were based on budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures."

"I learned too," Ridgway continued, "with a certain sense of shock, that sometimes I was not expected to present my reasoned military judgment to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson... I learned that no matter how strongly my views might differ from those of higher authority, it was not expected that I would let my nonconcurrence publicly be known."

Secretary of Defense Wilson was expected to express his own reactions to this former chief of staff's criticisms at a news conference scheduled this afternoon.

The Weather

Snow & Cold

Winter came back to Iowa over the weekend and, Monday, the Weather Bureau predicted cold temperatures and more snow flurries for today.

Further outlook for the week is continued cloudy, snow and cold. Monday's high was a chilly 17 degrees. The low was an early morning temperature of 6 above.

Predicted high for today is 16. Iowa City streets are slippery and, for the most part, snow covered. City street officials reported that tons of sand have been used since the snow began Sunday morning.

The Iowa State Highway Patrol reported that many highways are near normal. But in district 10, from Osceola mostly north and east the roads in the southeast part of that district were normal to 100 per cent ice covered.

The weather bureau noted considerable variation in temperatures between western and eastern Iowa Monday afternoon. Readings in the extreme northeast were up in the mid-20s, while in the extreme west the readings were down to just a little over the zero mark.

Meanwhile, one of the longest continuous cold spells in Florida's history ended Monday, leaving behind many frost-damaged truck crops which represent millions of dollars.

Balmy weather, missing from Florida since the first of the year, returned Monday. The cold spell was one of the worst in southern Florida in about 25 years.

Plane Crash Kills Kin of Iowa Citizen

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A light plane piloted by the brother of an Iowa City man crashed as it made its landing approach Sunday and burst into flames. All four persons in the plane were killed.

The pilot was Earl E. Comer, about 55, a veteran pilot who flew in France for the United States during World War I. He was the brother of Chet Comer, 231 Fairview Ave., Iowa City.

The plane was at treetop level preparing to land when another light plane got into the flight pattern. Comer banked the plane sharply to avoid collision. It stalled and then crashed into an empty schoolyard.

Balanced Budget Proposed by Ike

Sees Small Surplus; No General Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower submitted to Congress Monday a balanced $65,965,000,000 budget for the 1957 fiscal year starting July 1. He called on the legislators for the "utmost cooperation" in keeping it balanced for the first time since 1951.

Eisenhower made no recommendation for a general tax cut.

The budget for the next fiscal year and a revised one for the current year ending June 30 provide for slender surpluses that will help scale down the 274-billion-dollar national debt.

This is on the basis that while spending is going up, federal revenue is going up even more.

Anticipate Surplus
For the fiscal year the government now expects to spend $64,270,000,000 and take in 6 1/2 billion, leaving a surplus of 230 million.

For next year it plans to spend $65,865,000,000, collect 6 1/2 billion and show a surplus of 435 million.

In his message, Eisenhower called the budget "a comprehensive plan of action" that provides for a "full measure" of defense, for maintaining "unprecedented prosperity" and for promoting "the well-being of all our people."

The President cautioned that taxes should be trimmed only "when we prudently can"—without unbalancing the budget.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, commenting on a future tax cut, said that the revenue figures for expected income of $66,300,000,000 might be "unduly conservative." But he insisted they weren't underestimated deliberately "for purposes of cutting taxes later."

'Time Will Tell'
Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, remarked that "only time will tell whether this budget is realistic and reflects all the facts."

The House Republican whip, Rep. Leslie A. Young of Illinois, claimed that Eisenhower's skillful management "makes a balanced budget and a payment on the national debt as well as a further tax cut possible."

Republicans generally praised the message but some Democrats were "astonished" at the amount of projected expenditures.

Members of committees handling appropriations and financing promised to fine-tune both the budget. One of them, Rep. George Mahon (D-Tex.), nominated foreign aid as an item for whittling.

Farm Tax Cut
The farmer would get the only tax cut the chief executive proposed. A total of $60 million a year of the 2-cents a gallon federal tax on gasoline used on the farm would be dropped.

The administration proposes to spend $12 million less on agriculture and agricultural resources in the 1957 fiscal year. The idea behind the farm program is to cut down crop surpluses, strengthen prices and help the farmer make more money on his own so that he will need less federal aid.

The 1957 budget allots about two of every three dollars to national security—an increase of $903,000,000 to a total of $40,370,000,000.

Spending on guided missiles and on military and peaceful uses of atomic energy will reach highest-in-history levels.

Trend Continues
For the first time since he took office, Eisenhower tilted spending upward and indicated the trend will continue in the years ahead.

All-inclusive totals of budget items are listed at the bottom of this column.

Some, but not all, the money appropriated is spent in the year for which it is appropriated. Some of it is carried over into later years.

SHARING WITH ANNA RUSSELL one of the many hearty laughs the English musician-comedienne caused here Monday, is Prof. Earl Harper, director of the Memorial Union and the School of Fine Arts. Miss Russell kept a capacity Union crowd of about 1,800 laughing just as hard at her concert Monday night.

Detroit News Strike Ends

DETROIT (AP)—The first Detroit regular daily newspapers in 47 days hit the newsstands Monday, following settlement of a long strike that involved eight unions.

The afternoon Detroit News and Detroit Times were the first to get back into publication. Both rushed out 22-page editions with the latest news and summaries of top news stories they were unable to report during the shutdown.

Neither newspaper carried advertising in its first issue although both said they had a large volume of advertising on hand.

A walkout by 116 stereotypers at the three newspapers touched off the strike Dec. 1. Nearly three weeks later, larger groups of printers and mailers joined the strike.

The striking unions and the photo-engravers settled for 2-year contracts granting immediate $3.75 weekly wage increases and an additional $2.75 next Dec. 11. The stereotypers originally demanded $10 more a week. The other unions never made public their demands.

British Comedienne—

Anna Russell

—Delights SUI Audience

By WILLIAM DONALDSON

Some 1,800 persons who heard Anna Russell's concert Monday night learned that her billing as "the world's funniest woman" is no exaggeration.

It is quite a feat to single-handedly hold an audience at one's fingertips for over two hours—especially when that one happens to be a comedienne. It is gratifying (and somewhat astonishing) to report Anna Russell did just that.

She was phenomenal. The audience was roaring at almost every instant, and when they weren't laughing, they were applauding.

Miss Russell proved that she can do just about anything. She is equally at home as a Spanish dancer, a French torch singer, a Wagnerian soprano, or a night club pianist.

Her voice has just the amount of warmth to make the listener love her, but it is a voice that avoids seriousness, a voice whose every insufficiency is so developed that the result is hilarity.

Every technique employed by the artist hit home. She knows how to use a flick of the wrist, an exaggerated note, or a dance step to full advantage.

But her facial movements really revealed her brilliant flair for comedy. A puff of the cheek and a wide smile sometimes brought more laughs than did the lines which she so skillfully composed.

Classical music needs comedy, says Anna Russell. See story on page 6.

There were times when, with a twinkle of the eye or a protrusion of the lower lip, she had her audience applauding for more.

Even those who had previously heard her recordings enjoyed experiencing those same sketches again, for it should now be common knowledge that hearing La Russell is only the half of it.

There were madrigals, folk songs and arias; "pop" tunes, leader, and even a lecture on the art of playing the bagpipe. "Bagpipes," Miss Russell summed up, "are like pipe-smoking. A lot more fiddling around with the equipment than using it."

But the favorite of this critic was "Anaemia's Death Scene," which was one of Miss Russell's encores.

It didn't only typify an opera's closing scene; it also proved that a wonderful woman who had gone through quite a routine was still as effervescent as always.

Not Engaged, Miss SUI Says—'All a Mistake'

By BETTY BROYLES

Miss Dora Lee Martin, A1, Houston, Tex., recently elected Miss SUI of 1956, Monday said she is not engaged to a Houston student, as had been reported.

Miss Martin had previously informed The Daily Iowan of her engagement which was then announced in the Jan. 5 issue. She told reporters Monday that the whole thing was a mistake.

"I received the diamond during Christmas vacation as a gift," the 17-year-old Miss SUI said, "and it was mistaken for an engagement ring."

Miss Martin said when she returned to the University a day late and wearing the ring, everyone thought she was engaged.

She said she had spoken of Leonard Patterson, a freshman student at Texas Southern University, before vacation, and that her friends naturally thought him to be her fiance.

"So many people took the engagement for granted that I couldn't back out," she said. "Now I'm very sorry for the whole thing."

When asked why she wore the ring on her left hand, Miss Martin said she was just "being silly."

Miss Martin said after the story got started, it ran away with itself. She said she thought it would do no harm as long as it didn't get back to Houston.

She said she wrote a letter to the Houston paper Jan. 9 telling of the error. The Houston paper reported it to the Des Moines Register and Tribune which called Miss Martin Friday.

Miss Martin said she is "very relieved" to have the whole thing straightened out and has straightened everything out with Patterson, who is a very good friend of hers.

Brink's Bandit Pleads Guilty

BOSTON (AP)—Joseph J. ("Specs") O'Keefe, 47, convict who admitted participation in the six-year-old Brink's $1,219,000 robbery and accused 10 others, pleaded guilty to armed robbery in Superior Court Monday but six of his alleged partners in the job refused to follow suit.

O'Keefe told his story to a grand jury on Friday. As a result more than 40 indictments were returned against him and the others.

His guilty plea this morning was quick. He was taken back to jail as sentence was deferred.

Monday afternoon six of his alleged colleagues were brought under guard from Charles Street Jail to the same courtroom.

While the six stood mute before Judge Daniel D. O'Brien, police guards—some of them armed with riot guns—swarmed over the big Pemberton Square Court-house.

Judge O'Brien set bail of $200,000 each for the six—Joseph F. McGinnis, 52; Anthony Pino, 48; Vincent J. Costa, 41; Adolph Maffie, 44; Henry Baker, 49; and Michael V. Geagan, 47.

The grand jury went into another huddle Monday and returned 43 more indictments—similar to the earlier ones, but designed to clarify technicalities.

Careless Talk by Dulles

The United States, for the first time in its short history, is the most powerful single nation in the world. With this position goes leadership and responsibilities.

One responsibility is keeping down the tensions of the world. We must recognize that every statement made by our leaders (even some of our second-string leaders) will be headlined and dissected for meanings throughout the world. Our leaders must be careful what they say.

John Foster Dulles has evidently never learned this.

Twice within the past few weeks Dulles has made statements that have injured the United States in its battle to contain Communist imperialism.

First was the Goa incident. Goa is a small area in India that is now a Portuguese colony. Its population, mostly Indian, would like to be united to a free and vigorous India. But Portugal, like most colonial powers, is stubbornly ignoring the times and hanging on. This is as irritating to Indians as it would be to Americans if France were still holding New Orleans.

Khrushchev and Bulganin, in their tour of India last month, backed up India's claim to Goa. Dulles, in a joint statement with Portuguese officials, criticized the Russian leaders' remarks.

The result: the United States was put in the position of defending colonialism, and further antagonized the Far Eastern powers.

There was no good reason for Dulles to make such a statement. It only gave Khrushchev and Bulganin more ammunition and made more Asians regard us with suspicion.

Now comes the Life magazine article last week in which Dulles told of how the United States has gone to "the brink of war" three times in the past year by threatening the use of atomic weapons against the Red Chinese in Korea, Formosa and Indochina.

First of all, the question of why such a scoop should be given to Life Magazine should be answered. The fact that atomic threats had been used was not previously revealed.

Life Magazine has been a strong pro-administration publication. The Eisenhower administration has made a practice of leaking good stories to friendly publications.

The administration must realize that this is a dangerous precedent. If wielded often and effectively, this practice could be a threat to freedom of the press.

What, moreover, was the reasoning behind planting such a story in the American press? Its only result has been an increase in world tensions.

More neutrals (and many of our allies) are beginning to think of the United States as the trigger-happy gambler which will risk anything to win the pot.

Dulles says that the threat of atomic warfare was used to stop the Chinese Reds from entering Indo-China. Yet the world will remember that Dulles stormed out of the Geneva (1954) conference, leaving it to Mendes-France to bargain with the Communists to end the war there. Is it, many nations will want to know, the policy of the United States to throw up its hands during unfruitful negotiations and wave the atomic weapons threat in the face of its tormentor?

This incident, once again, would have been one where silence on the part of Dulles would have been golden.

There has been a lot of talk on the part of members of both parties about keeping foreign policy out of the 1956 election campaign. Every time Dulles makes a statement, this becomes a more remote possibility.

Some Good Ideas

The Student Council's parking committee last week came out with its long-awaited report on the SUI parking problem. Its chief proposal was the marking off of an area bordering the SUI campus and recommended that students living within the area be forbidden to use SUI parking lots during school hours.

This recommendation points up a basic fault of SUI students: too many are driving cars to classes when they could walk.

There is no sense to a town man living six blocks from the Pentacrest driving to classes. There is no sense in a man living at the Quad, South Quad, Hillcrest and most of the fraternities driving to classes.

They have little to lose by walking — except 15 minutes of sleep every morning, a little shoe leather and, perhaps, a few pounds.

The $3 parking fee is a good idea. The fee money would go toward the maintenance of SUI parking lots. Neither the taxpayers of Iowa nor the walking student should have to help foot the bill for the car-driving SUI student.

The committee's proposal on getting the maximum use out of present parking lots was worthy of note. It called for railroad ties or painted lines to separate parking stalls. One glance at the erratic parking and large spaces between cars in any SUI lot makes the committee's estimate that 20 per cent more cars could be parking in the lots sound accurate.

The committee report will now go to the SUI Parking Committee, which is made up of staff and faculty members and is supposed to recommend solutions to the parking problem to President Virgil Hancher.

The council committee's plan, despite its good all-over outlook, has a few flaws.

Why are the Beta Theta Pi and Alpha Tau Omega fraternities exempted from the plan? Are their members less physically able than students living equal distances from the campus and yet within the area set forth by the committee?

Why wasn't the ban on nearby students driving to classes made iron-clad? Why not forbid students living near the campus to park in streets adjoining the campus as well as in lots? If this is not done, the parking lots will remain crowded with cars of students living far from campus and the streets will be jammed with the cars of students who live nearby but are too lazy to walk.

SUI will have to hire more office and police help to properly administer such a ban on parking on its lots. This will take up the revenue derived from the parking fees.

Committee members admit that their recommendations are temporary solutions. They are designed only for the next few years. They may not be practical for even that long.

SUI may have 16,000 students by 1970. It needs permanent, long-range parking recommendations. If the council committee wants to do SUI a real service, it should start working on such a plan now.

Winter Again

Dear Weatherman:
You misunderstood. We're sure you did. We said last Saturday in an editorial that it had been nice in Iowa City this winter.

We meant that it was good not to be shoveling snow. We weren't mad that we haven't had a chance to use our snow shovels.

We weren't complaining that we hadn't had a chance to use our snow tires and chains. We didn't say that we liked slush and slob being thrown all over us by cars.

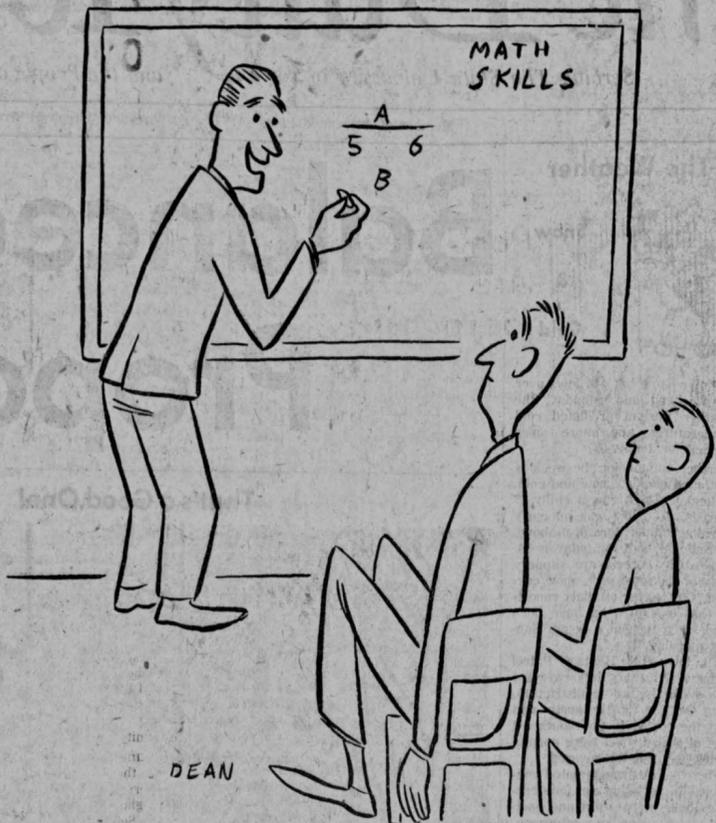

We were just pointing out the facts and saying that it was nice.

Now everyone is asking us why we didn't let well enough alone. They say: "Why did you have to go and open your big mouth?" We wonder ourselves.

We shouldn't have pointed out to you that Santa Claus' house had been taken away. We guess you thought you had to do something to remind us that spring was still more than two months off. You did.

Young Men Can Relax

Only one boy in fifteen faces draft this year; Volunteers make present draft calls low

Reprinted from U.S. News and World Report
For most youths, chances now are heavily against being called for draft duty in the armed forces. Key to the future is volunteers. If they continue to press forward in present numbers, draft calls will stay low.
If volunteering slows, draft calls will rise, and a youth's chance of being tapped for service will go up again.
The military draft is getting to be a remote factor in the lives of more and more American youths. Draft calls now pose less of a threat to youths' plans and careers than at any time since 1948, when the draft was revived to keep the armed forces up to strength.

If volunteering slows, draft calls will rise, and a youth's chance of being tapped for service will go up again.

BARRING WAR, or an unexpected rise in defense needs, officials expect the draft to hit only about 100,000 youths each year from now on.

On a strictly arithmetical basis, this means that one youth in 15, out of those eligible for draft, will be called to duty in the year ahead. In succeeding years, unless rules change, the backlog of available youths will increase, and the chance of the draft's striking a particular youth will diminish some more.

What this outlook means, in practical terms, is this: The youth who takes his chances with the draft — instead of enlisting in Reserve Officers Training Corps, in the active forces or in the Reserve — will have a constantly increasing prospect of avoiding military service.

The youth who wants to go to college, before he makes any decision about military service, has a greater certainty that he can complete his course without interruption.

The youth who is trying to convince an employer that he is a good risk for a beginner's job, and not likely to be drafted just about the time he becomes useful, has a better basis for his sales talk — although he still cannot match the assurance to an employer that can be given by the youth who has volunteered and served a stint in the armed forces before applying for the job.

The older man still legally within the draft's reach, but past his early 20's, also has a highly important stake in the latest trends. Under a change in draft rules that is being actively pushed by Selective Service headquarters and the armed forces, fathers and older men would be shoved to the rear of the draft lists, thus increasing their chances of avoiding service altogether.

SIGNS SUGGEST that youths and their advisers are well aware of the changing twists in the draft. One sign is the indifference shown to the Army's reserve-training plan, which offers six months of training plus seven and a half years in the Reserves as an alternative to two years of draft duty. Youths are largely ignoring this plan, preferring either to volunteer for a full enlistment in the armed forces or to stay quiet and take their chances with the draft.

Another sign of the times is the fact that, at some preparatory schools and colleges, faculty members are advising younger students to steer clear of all connections with the armed forces such as ROTC, and to concentrate, instead, on their studies.

The argument used by these educators is that the chance of a youth's being drafted is slim, and getting slimmer, so a student is better off to use the time that would be spent on ROTC in studying his major subjects.

IN OTHER institutions, however, the argument is made that ROTC still offers a route to a commission and a desirable degree of certainty about the timing and nature of military obligations.

Explanation of the draft's shifting course is the trend in manpower supply and demand.

The military demand for men is declining. This decline is about to level out, at around 2,852,000 men, by July 1, 1956, and remain at that strength for the next 10 years or more.

At the same time that demand for men is lessening, the supply of youths of military age is rising. The U.S., as a nation, has turned a corner in this respect. Small annual totals of military-age youths, an inheritance of low birth rates during the depression of the '30s, are past. From now on, more and more youths will be reaching age 18 every year. By 1960, the annual total will be 1,200,000 youths, nearly 20 per cent more than in 1955. By 1965, almost 2 million youths, nearly double the 1955 figure, will be reaching military age.

ALONG WITH declining demand and rising supply of youths in the last year has come a surprising upturn in voluntary enlistments. The main reason probably was the 10 per cent raise in pay given the armed forces in mid-1955.

As the chart shows, first-time enlistments were 33 per cent higher in the year ended June 30, 1955, than in the year ended June 30, 1954. A further rise is indicated for the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1956.

Re-enlistments are up, too. In the first four months of the last fiscal year, July through October, 1954, a total of 91,149 men re-enlisted in the armed forces. In the same period in 1955, the total was 109,042. That's a gain of 17,893 re-enlistments in those four months, the latest for which data is available.

EACH MAN who re-enlists serves four years, on the average, so he is regarded as equal, in military manpower, to two draftees who serve only two years. The gain in re-enlistments so far in the current fiscal year is the equivalent of nearly 36,000 draftees — or a six month's supply of draftees, at the indicated rate of 6,000 a month in 1956.

The Navy's experience shows the effect of rising enlistments. The Navy had planned to draft 56,000 men in the first six months of 1956. With enlistments better than expected, the Navy now plans to call fewer than 28,000 in that period.

The Air Force has a ceiling on the number of volunteers it will accept, and takes only 10,000 men a month. It might enlist substantially more if it took all qualified applicants.

EVEN WHEN a "draft call" of 6,000 is posted — as in January, for instance — not all the men who answer the call are involuntary draftees. Many are youths who volunteer, in an effort to get their service completed at a convenient time.

The upshot of all these factors is that the draft is getting steadily more remote, as far as most youths are concerned.

A decline in voluntary enlistments and re-enlistments could produce an upswing in draft calls. A decision by Congress to draft men for the Reserves, instead of relying on volunteers, also could increase any youth's chance of being drafted.

At the moment, however, there is no evidence that such developments are in the wind. Instead, all trends and all suggested changes in rules point to an easier, not a tighter draft.

COMPETITION

Reasonable and legitimate competition is the life of trade, while the interperate use of competition may mean the death of trade as well as the ruination of the traders.

Old Capitol Remembers

One Year Ago Today
The first nuclear powered submarine was launched at Groton, Conn. President Eisenhower related to congress that the atomic submarine fleet would number around seven.

Five Years Ago Today
The U.S. moved closer to general price controls today as the creation of machinery to control the prices was set up.

Ten Years Ago Today
SUI enrollment was expected to reach 6,000 this semester. The student housing situation began to be critical. More than 18,000 Iowa packing house workers went on strike as a result of the nation wide walkout in the industry in an effort to get higher wages.

Twenty Years Ago Today
Governor Hoffman of New Jersey granted a stay of execution to Bruno Richard Hauptmann just 29 hours before he was to die in the electric chair for the death of the Lindbergh baby.

Tense, Rapid Pace of Today Brings Need for Relaxation

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of six articles on relaxation and what it can do for the normally high strung American. The second will appear on the Society page of Thursday morning's Daily Iowan).

By M. GLADYS SCOTT

Keyed-up, high strung, tight as a fiddle string, on edge, fidgety, split-second response.

These are familiar terms in our common vocabulary. They express the tension and the rapid pace of our present day life.

There are symptoms, too, of our tensions.

Do you frown when frowning isn't necessary, do you doodle on the desk pad when waiting for a phone call, do you pat nervously while waiting for a friend, do you complain about the slowness of the signals while waiting for the green light, do you lie awake at night worrying over yesterday and trying to solve tomorrow's problems?

Not Me!

Yes, I can hear you say, "Who? Not me!"

We seldom think of ourselves as needing relaxation. More frequently we think in terms of shortage of time to do the things we want to do. We know that we sometimes get jittery and overly tense but we are seldom aware of the level at which we operate day after day.

Awareness of tension comes only when it reaches the stage of being a handicap or hazard for work, when we can't sleep, when we become excessively tired, or when someone kindly or otherwise says "Relax, take it easy!"

Better Golf

Relaxation is a muscular response. It is a motor skill as definitely as a tennis or golf stroke. It takes less effort at any one instant than tennis or golf, but it is a skill which is even harder for some to learn than sports skills.

Incidentally, your tennis and golf will be better if you know how and when to relax.

Relaxation can best be learned with an instructor, but like tennis or golf some can do a fair job of self-instruction. Follow whatever suggestions you can find from reading, from your doctor, or from friends.

Then practice as often as possible; make relaxation a regular habit.

MAYBE YOU DON'T think you are tense and high strung but if you have a tendency for dropping dishes and spilling things, chances are you could benefit from mastering a few simple rules for relaxation. Here, Mrs. John Kottman, 1001 Kirkwood Ave., demonstrates what can happen to keyed-up nerves.

ROAST FRESH PORK WITH POTATOES

Ingredients: Fresh pork loin roast (about 5 pounds), garlic salt, all-purpose seasoning salt, medium-small potatoes (peeled and cut in half lengthwise).

Method: Place roast fat side up on a rack in an open pan; rub lightly with garlic salt and seasoning salt. Insert a meat thermometer through the fat side into the center of the roast. (Do not let thermometer tip touch bone). Roast in a slow (325 degrees) oven until thermometer registers 185 degrees — about 3 1/2 hours. About 1 hour before roast is ready, place potatoes around meat in pan; use 2 to 4 potato halves for each person to be served. Bake potatoes with pan drippings a few times. Allow roast to rest for 15 minutes out of the oven before carving.

HAM TURNOVERS

CORNMEAL HAM TURNOVERS

Ingredients: 1/2 cup enriched cornmeal, 1 cup sifted flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup shortening, 3/4 cup milk, Ham Filling.

Method: Sift together the cornmeal, flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening thoroughly. Add milk all at once, stirring only until dry ingredients are dampened. (Add a little more milk if necessary to make a soft dough). Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth; knead gently several times. Roll out 1/4-inch thick; cut 10 four-inch circles. Put 1 to 2 tablespoons ham filling on half of each circle. Fold other half of dough over filling and press edges together. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in very hot (450 degrees) oven 12 to 15 minutes or until browned.

Ham Filling: Mix together well 1 cup diced cooked ham, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, 1/2 teaspoon horseradish, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

VIVE LE POPCORN!

The other day as I was walking down the street picking up tinfoil (Philip Morris, incidentally, has the best tinfoil, which is not surprising when you consider that they buy the best tobaccos and the best paper and put them together with skill and loving care and rush them to your tobacco counter, fresh and firm and loaded with gentle smoking pleasure to lull the palate and beguile the senses; and shoo the blues) the other day, I say, as I was walking down the street picking up tinfoil (I have, incidentally, the second largest ball of tinfoil in our family. My brother Eleanor's is bigger—more than four miles in diameter—but, of course, he is taller than I.) the other day, as I was saying, while walking down the street picking up tinfoil, I passed a campus and right beside it, a movie theatre which specialized in showing foreign films. "Hmmm," I said to myself, "I wonder how come so many theatres which specialize in showing foreign films are located near campuses?"

And the answer came right back to me: "Because foreign films are full of culture, art, and esoterica, and where is culture more rife, art more rampant, and esoterica more endemic than on a campus? Nowhere, that's where!"

I hope that all of you have been taking advantage of the foreign film theatre near your campus. Here you will find no simple-minded Hollywood products—full of treacly sentiment and machine-made bravura. Here you will find life itself—life in all its grimness, its poverty, its naked, raw passion!

Have you, for instance, seen the recent French import, Le Jardin de Ma Tante ("The Kneecap"), a savage and uncompromising story of a man named Claude Parfum, whose consuming ambition is to get a job as a meter reader with the Paris water department? But he is unable, alas, to afford the flashlight one needs for this position. His wife, Bon-Bon, sells her hair to a wigmaker and buys him a flashlight. Then, alas, Claude discovers that one also requires a leatherette bow tie. This time his two young daughters, Caramel and Nougat, sell their hair to the wigmaker. So Claude has his leatherette bow-tie, but now, alas, his flashlight battery is burned out and the whole family, alas, is bald.

Or have you seen the latest Italian masterpiece, La Donna E Mobile ("I Ache All Over"), a heart shattering tale of a boy and his dog? Malvolio, a Venetian lad of nine, loves his little dog with every fibre of his being. He has one great dream: to enter the dog in the annual dog show at the Doge's palace. But that, alas, requires an entrance fee, and Malvolio, alas, is penniless. However, he saves and scrimps and steals and finally gets enough together to enter the dog in the show. The dog, alas, comes in twenty-third. Malvolio sells him to a vivisectionist.

Or have you seen the new Japanese triumph, Kibutsi-San ("The Radish"), a pulse-stirring historical romance about Yamoto, a poor farmer, and his daughter Ethel who are accosted by a warlord on their way to market one morning? The warlord cuts Yamoto in half with his samurai sword and runs off with Ethel. When Yamoto recovers, he seeks out Ethel's fiancé, Chutzpah, and together they find the warlord and kill him. But, alas, the warlord was also a sorcerer and he has whimsically turned Ethel into a whooping crane. But loyal Chutzpah takes her home where he feeds her fish heads for twenty years and keeps hoping she'll turn back into a woman. She never does. Alas.

The makers of Philip Morris, who bring you this column, hope that if there's smoking in the balcony of your campus theatre, it will be today's new, gentle Philip Morris you'll be smoking.

Plan June Weddings

Feller Tells Local KC's: 'I Will Return To Play for Cleveland.'

By TOM MAU

Bob Feller returned to his native state and addressing the fifth annual Knights of Columbus Sports Dinner held by the Iowa City KC's assured his Iowa followers that it is only a matter of formality until he returns to the Cleveland baseball club.

Bob Feller Speaks to Knights of Columbus

but in his 17 years of active baseball he shares the record of three no hit games with Cy Young and pitched 11 one hit contests.

Has Most Strikeouts

Among his other feats which will go down in baseball archives is the most strikeouts in one season, 349, and the most strikeouts in one game, which total 18.

To the proverbial question of whether or not Cleveland would take the American league pennant, Feller remarked that the race would be among five teams. He added that if the New York Yankees would come up with a starting pitcher who could guarantee them 15-15 wins the pennant flag would once again be in possession of the Yanks.

Rookie Prospects

In talking about rookie prospects for next year, the man from Van Meter pointed out that outfielder Rocco Colovito is one of the best he has seen. He said that the accuracy and speed of Colovito's throw equals that of Joe DiMaggio when DiMaggio was in his prime.

Of the much talked about trade between the Indians and the Chicago White Sox, which involved Cleveland's Larry Doby for the Sox's Chico Carrasquel and Jim Busby, Feller believes the impact of the trade will not be noticed for at least a year or more. "If Doby and the Sox do great this year it will make the trade look bad of course," he added.

The Big Ten—

Illini Still Unbeaten, Clip Purdue, 92-76

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Illinois' Big Ten basketball leaders beat down Purdue's stubborn Boilermakers with an eight-minute surge of power in the second half Monday night, 92-76. The victory, following another road success at Indiana Saturday night, made the Illini odds-on favorites in the Western Conference campaign.

Bruce Brothers, replacement for Illinois forward Don Ohl, hit all eight of his field goals in the second half on only 11 shots.

The Boilermakers, suffering their second loss in five league games, were down only 44-42 at the half. Illinois surged to 62-50 in the next five minutes but Purdue came back to trail only 64-60 with 10:43 to play.

In the next eight minutes Illinois ran its margin to 82-70. Six-foot-eight George BonSalle dropped in two baskets to start the rush. He was high man for the Illini with 21 points, seven on free throws, but Joe Sexson of Purdue won game honors with 24 points, hitting eight free throws without a miss.

Indiana 79

Michigan State 70

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Indiana threw a balanced scoring against Julius McCoy's 34 points and beat Michigan State Monday night 79-70. The Hoosiers thus kept alive their hopes for a piece of the Big Ten basketball title.

Michigan State missed its first 21 field shots. When McCoy finally hit after 5:44 the score was 13-5 against the Spartans, and the closest they could get after that was four points at 23-19. The Hoosiers pulled out to 11 points at 43-32 at the half, and it was never closer than nine after that.

Notre Dame 86

Northwestern 72

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—John Smyth poured in 36 points, second-highest old-game total by a Notre Dame basketball player and the Irish defeated Northwestern's Wildcats Monday night, 86-72.

Lloyd Aubrey set the Notre Dame record of 43 against Butler Jan. 4.

Wisconsin 69

Michigan 58

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Wisconsin, using only five men all the way, scored its first Big Ten basketball victory of the season by defeating Michigan, 69-58, Monday night.

It was Wisconsin's first victory in five conference starts and ended the Badgers' seven-game losing streak. The loss was Michigan's second in five Big Ten games.

New Record Set In Iowa Victory

Iowa guard Bill Seaberg, Moline, Ill., senior who holds the Hawkeye individual season shot percentage mark, set a new Iowa record for accuracy from the field in a single game against Minnesota Saturday.

He made eight of ten shots for .800 percentage mark to beat the old record of .750 by Bob (Pinky) Clifton five years ago when he made nine of twelve against Northwestern in 1951.

As a sophomore, Seaberg compiled a .470 per cent season mark on 64 field goals in 136 attempts. Seaberg's .800 placed him in a second-place tie in the all-time Big Ten records with Dick Farley of Indiana and Bob Gell of Minnesota.

Five of Seaberg's eight shots were long ones. He made five of six in the first half and three of four in the second half.

This splurge moved the Iowa guard's season mark of .403 right behind center Bill Logan's .406 percentage. The team average is .367.

Defeat Michigan, 48-45—

Iowa Swimmers Set Records

By FRED MILLER

It was a record-breaking day last Saturday as the Iowa swimming team beat Michigan, 48-45.

In all 13 records were broken, 8 by the Iowa team, and 5 by Michigan. Besides these Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster is asking the records committee in New York to accept two times to establish three records.

Lincoln Hurring, Iowa captain from New Zealand, clipped 12.1 seconds off the NCAA 200-yard backstroke record as he toured the long course in 2:09.6. The old mark was also a pool record, set by John Chase of Michigan in 1952. Hurring also set an Iowa record, with his time, clipping 15.2 seconds off the old mark of 2:24.8 set by Willis Weber in 1952.

Iowa's medley relay team set four records as it won the 300-yard event in 2:56.3. The records include the NCAA, American and pool marks set by a Michigan team in 1952. The old mark was 2:58.5. Jack Wardrop, Michigan's world record holder for the 220-yard freestyle, set all five records for Michigan as he won the 220 and 440 freestyle events.

Wardrop's 220 time of 2:10.2 establishes a NCAA, American, and pool record for the event. The old mark of 2:13.7 was set in 1938 by Iowa's Wally Ris. The American time of 2:10.5 was held by Yale's Jim McLane, which he set in 1950.

In the 400-yard freestyle, Wardrop established a new NCAA and pool record as he breezed in at 4:50, erasing the old mark of 4:56.7 set by Bill Heusner of Northwestern in 1948.

In winning its second meet, Iowa took six of the ten first places and picked up valuable seconds and thirds in other events for its total. Coles set an Iowa record of 23.4 in the 50 breaking the mark set by Kenny Marsh in 1948.

Earl Ellis, all-around sophomore ace from Mt. Vernon, Wash., established a pool mark and Iowa mark for the 200-yard individual medley as he swam 2:22.1. Because this event is new this year, Armbruster is applying to the records committee for recognition of this time as NCAA and American records.

300-yard Medley Relay — 1. Iowa (Hurring, Glenn Johnston, Robertson). Time: 2:56.2 (new NCAA, American, pool and Iowa records).

220-yard Freestyle — 1. Jack Wardrop (M); 2. John O'Reilly (M); 3. Tom Jacobson (I). Time: 2:10.2 (new NCAA, American, pool record; old mark, 2:13.7, Wally Ris, Iowa, 1948).

400-yard Freestyle — 1. Coles (I); 2. Logan (I); 3. Laurie Thomas (M). Time: 4:50 (new NCAA and pool record; old mark, 4:56.7, by Bill Heusner, Northwestern, 1948).

300-yard Breaststroke — 1. Jim Thurston (M); 2. Joe Hasbey (M); 3. Robertson (I). Time: 2:38.1.

400-yard Freestyle Speed Relay — 1. Iowa (Johnston, Logan, Jacobson, Coles). Time: 3:35.6.

200-yard Backstroke — 1. Hurring (I);

2. Don Adamski (M); 3. Sherman Nelson (I). Time: 2:09.2 (new NCAA, pool and Iowa record; old mark, 2:21.7, by John Chase, Michigan, 1952; Iowa old mark, 2:24.8, by Willis Weber, 1952).

440-yard Freestyle — 1. Wardrop (M); 2. Ross Lucas (I); 3. Ellis (I). Time: 4:50 (new NCAA and pool record; old mark, 4:56.7, by Bill Heusner, Northwestern, 1948).

300-yard Breaststroke — 1. Jim Thurston (M); 2. Joe Hasbey (M); 3. Robertson (I). Time: 2:38.1.

400-yard Freestyle Speed Relay — 1. Iowa (Johnston, Logan, Jacobson, Coles). Time: 3:35.6.

200-yard Backstroke — 1. Hurring (I);

Gymnasts Win Dual Meet Against Badgers, Buckeyes

Gymnastics Coach Dick Holztaepfel credited his team's two dual meet victories, over Wisconsin and Ohio State, last Saturday to team support of captain Sam Baillie.

Baillie won all seven events against Wisconsin and won five of the seven against Ohio State to collect 72 points for the Hawkeyes.

Iowa beat Wisconsin 76½-35½ and Ohio State, 60½-51½ for its third and fourth victories of the season to remain undefeated in league competition this year.

Graham, Athlete of the Year

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Otto Graham, Cleveland's great passing quarterback who came out of retirement to lead the Browns to the National Football League title, Monday night was named winner of the S. Rae Hickok $10,000 trophy as "professional athlete of the year."

The 34-year-old star became the sixth winner of the valuable award and the first footballer to top the nationwide poll. He was presented the award at the annual Rochester Press and Radio Club dinner for the benefit of the Polio Fund.

Previous winners were Phil Rizzuto and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees, heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, ex-golf champion Ben Hogan and Willie Mays of the New York baseball Giants. Mays captured it last year with Graham the runnerup.

Five Escape Injury In Auto Accidents

Five persons, including a 5-year-old infant, escaped serious injury Sunday in two auto accidents near here.

A car driven by Lewis Brown, 23, skidded into a ditch 10 miles south of here when it hit a patch of ice. His wife, Carolyn, 20, was shaken up, but not seriously hurt. Their infant son, Danny, in his mother's arms, wasn't injured.

In a truck-car crash 3 miles east of here on Highway 1, a West Liberty man, Thomas Sexton, received a gash over his right eye and bruises. He was treated by a physician and released.

Sexton said the semi-trailer truck he was driving skidded on slippery pavement and sideswiped a car driven by Jack Gott, Atalissa. Gott was not injured.

Two Still Serious After Auto Crashes

Two young people, admitted to University Hospitals as a result of weekend car accidents, were reported in critical and serious condition Monday.

In critical condition is Carol Airy, 17, Marion, who received head injuries and a fractured pelvis in an accident early Sunday morning.

A Conroy youth, Dale Richard Lane, 21, was admitted after an accident late Friday with a cervical fracture of the spine. Hospital authorities termed his condition as serious.

Russians Free 501 German Prisoners

HERLESHAUSEN, Germany (AP) — The Russians returned 501 more World War II prisoners to Germany Monday. They brought the total repatriated to more than the 9,826 the Russians promised last September.

Red Cross officials here said this presumably marks the end of the repatriation operation.

Of the POW's returned Monday, 208 were sick, including nearly 60 on stretchers. One man died en route from Russia.

Cites Problems Of Bus Company

By JOHN STEGMAN

Iowa City has to have a bus company. It covers too much area to make it economical for non-drivers to take a cab every day. But we of the bus company have our problems too, and are not making much on profit," Louis H. Negus, manager of the Iowa City Coach Co., said at a meeting of the Federated Business and Professional Women of Iowa City Monday night at the Jefferson Hotel.

Negus outlined the main problems his bus system faces: (1) traffic; (2) passengers receiving rides from motorists and (3) motorists parking in bus stops.

Traffic is the worst problem, according to Negus. Under existing conditions, he said, it takes about five minutes to drive a bus through the three main blocks of the business district, leaving the driver only about 15 minutes to cover the rest of his four mile route.

Traffic jams and double parking cause most of the trouble, Negus continued. "We figure we are doing well if we average 12 miles per hour through the routes. Five minutes uptown would raise the average to 16 mph and we just can't operate at that fast a pace."

Bus stop parking is bad, Negus said, especially when all the buses meet at the corner of Dubuque and Washington Streets. The stations are big enough for two buses to fit but no more. Automobiles in those areas only contribute to the traffic problem and make it harder for the driver to operate his bus, the manager said.

Negus estimates that close to 30 per cent of his business is dependent on SUI students and personnel.

"Much of our operation depends on what we do during the winter months," Negus continued. "The summers are slack but winter business makes up for this. If we have a good winter, we buy new equipment the following summer. We eventually hope to replace all our old buses and extend service to areas not now supplied with transit service."

Panacea Tryouts Begin Tonight

Tryouts for Panacea, student musical production, will be held today through Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in MacBride Hall Auditorium.

The cast of 60 will be named after this week's tryouts, Panacea Board President Barbara Oliver, 44, Des Moines, said Monday.

Miss Oliver urged all students interested in singing, dancing, acting or comedy roles to attend. She said singers should bring their own music.

"The title of this year's production is 'Pick Up the Pieces.' It will be presented March 28-30.

4 Boys Enter Guilty Pleas

Four of the six boys arrested by Iowa City police Dec. 6 pleaded guilty to grand larceny Monday in Johnson County District Court.

Ray J. Sheetz, father of the two of the boys, pleaded innocent to a charge of receiving stolen goods.

Judge Harold D. Evans continued the hearings until Jan. 26. The four who appeared Monday were arrested in connection with a series of break-ins in the Iowa City area.

Three of the boys, James P. Musack, 16, 1228 Sheridan Ave., William H. Neubauer, 16, 1026 Kirkwood Court and David L. Sheetz, 17, Morse, had their cases transferred to Juvenile Court by Judge Evans.

Raphael M. Sheetz, 18, brother of David, pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in excess of $20. Judge Evans continued his hearing to Jan. 26.

Musack, Neubauer and David Sheetz are charged with larceny in connection with the theft of two outdoor motors and other tools from the I. L. Orris farm north of Iowa City on Dec. 2.

Commitment to the Iowa training school at Eldora until they are 21 is the maximum sentence they can receive.

Raphael M. Sheetz is charged with larceny in excess of $20 in connection with the theft of tires from Reliable Sales and Service, Inc., Oct. 19. Maximum sentence for the offense is five years imprisonment.

Oxford Derailment Knots Rail Traffic

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

OXFORD — A 10-car derailment, believed to have been caused by a broken rail, blocked the main rail line here Sunday morning for 6 1/2 hours, delaying three passenger trains.

No one was injured when 10 cars of the 61-car Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Co. freight went off the track.

Officials said cause of the accident was a broken rail. They said the train was preparing to back onto a side-track at the time.

Two of the 10 cars, all of which contained meat, remained upright; four others ended up on their sides and the remaining four leaned to one side.

All the wreckage was cleared by 2 a.m. Monday, the railroad reported.

Hampton Man Tries To Break Indictment

ELDORA (AP)—Hearing opened in District Court Monday on a motion by Keith J. Stinson, 31, Hampton, to quash an indictment charging him with conspiring to defraud Mrs. Grace Miller, 77-year-old Ackley widow.

Stinson is county attorney of Franklin County. He is accused of conspiring with George B. Dewey, 57, a lecturer, to defraud Mrs. Miller of $108,000.

Stinson's attorneys, in asking Judge Stanley E. Prall of Indiana to break the indictment, argued that it was illegally returned.

Among grounds they cited was a contention that outsiders were improperly in the jury room and took part in the questioning of Stinson.

Lyman Lundy and John L. Butler, Eldora attorneys representing Mrs. Grace Miller in a civil suit, suggested to County Attorney Lester Oethe of Eldora questions to be asked of Stinson, the attorneys for Stinson argued.

They also claimed that Robert Sheely, court reporter from Hampton, was acting as clerk for the grand jury without being appointed to the job.

DES MOINES (AP)—Thirty-seven apprentice barbers, including one woman, took the State Board of Barber Examiners' written and demonstration tests Monday. They have just completed six months of schooling.

But, to qualify for state licenses, those who pass the apprentice test must now do 18 months of work under the supervision of a licensed barber, and then pass another test.

Woman Paroled

DAVENPORT (AP)—Mrs. Vera Vaughn Bowden, 54, was paroled Monday from an 8-year sentence on a charge of manslaughter in the death of her common-law husband, Charles Bowden, 63, last September 17.

Bowden, a former Iowa Citizen, was killed following a quarrel. District Judge Charles G. Rehling said he paroled Mrs. Bowden after considering the fact that she had been beaten several times by Bowden before the quarrel.

IC Award Banquet Planned for Tonight

The Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual Distinguished Service Award — Bosses' Night Banquet tonight at the Mayflower Inn.

Presentation of the DSA award will be made to an outstanding young man of the community from a list of nominees submitted by individuals and organizations in the city.

Principal speaker at the dinner will be Robert Jones, president of the JayCees' statewide organization.

Approximately 150 are expected to attend, JayCee president William Maas said Monday.

Members have been asked to bring their bosses or a guest to the meeting. A social hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and the dinner will begin at 7.

Minister Held in Murder

DES MOINES (AP)—The Rev. Seymour J. Gaines, 36, operator of the Metropolitan Drug Store and also pastor of the Union Baptist Church, was held without bond Monday on a charge of murder.

The Rev. Mr. Gaines signed a statement admitting he shot Johnnie Brown, 47, during a Sunday argument. He claimed Brown had been threatening his life.

Davenport Man Killed

DAVENPORT (AP)—Rudolph Ladehoff, 39, Davenport, was killed late Saturday night when his car apparently went out of control and plunged into a ditch in rural Scott County.

Ladehoff's wife, Gloria, who was injured, was reported in good condition at a hospital here today. It was Scott County's first traffic death of the year.

Student Awarded Rockefeller Grant

L. Rhodes Lewis, graduate student in music at SUI has been awarded a grant by the Rockefeller Foundation of New York to make a study of community orchestras in the United States and Canada in cities of 25,000 or less.

Much of the study will form part of Lewis' dissertation for his Ph.D. degree at SUI, said Prof. Himie Voxman, head of the SUI music department.

Lewis will visit some 30 cities in the United States and Canada in making the study, which will deal with representative orchestras in all parts of the two countries. Purpose of the study will be to determine the most successful practices in organizing and getting support for symphony orchestras in order to help existing orchestras and new groups.

The SUI Ph.D. candidate expects to complete the entire study by December, 1956, though the part dealing with support of community orchestras will be completed by next summer for use in his doctoral dissertation, which is under the direction of Prof. Neal Glenn.

Budget

er and a sixth, mammoth, Forrestal-type aircraft carrier will be spent over the years it takes to build them.

Similarly, to refill foreign aid pipelines with weapons and supplies to be delivered months or years from now, the President sought appropriations of $4.9 billion, a jump of $2.2 billion.

Cold War Spending

Spending for the cold war, to help free nations "preserve their independence against Communist threats and enticements," was set at $4,292,000,000 for fiscal 1957, an increase of $102 million. Military assistance—jet planes and other modern weapons—accounts for 2 1/2 millions, about half of it earmarked for strategic Korea, Formosa, Pakistan and Turkey.

To step up the campaign to "explain our peaceful objectives and show in its true light the Communist attempt to divide and destroy free world unity," the President recommended substantial boosts in both spending and appropriations for the United States Information Service.

There is a sizable increase too, for the State Department and its foreign service.

"We seek, above all," Eisenhower said, "the attainment of a just and durable peace."

Urge Cafes To Sell Coffee for Polio

Iowa City restaurants have been urged to participate in the "March of Dimes Coffee Hour" program set up by the Iowa Restaurant Assn.

The association has asked owners to donate proceeds from all coffee sold for a day or part of a day to the current March of Dimes campaign.

One Iowa City restaurant has already set aside an hour every afternoon from now until the campaign ends, Jan. 31, for the project. It reports favorable results.

Stolen Car Found Near S. Amana

A car reported Saturday as stolen was found Sunday near South Amana by the Iowa Highway Patrol.

Melvin Michaelson, North Liberty, told Iowa City police Saturday his car had been missing from the University Hospital parking lot since Thursday afternoon.

It was found parked near Highway 6 east of Amana. The battery was dead and the keys, which had been in the car when it was stolen, were missing.

Classics Need Humor, Claims Anna Russell

By WILLIAM DONALDSON

Classical music has a definite need for humor, Anna Russell, international concert comedienne, said Monday before she performed to an SUI audience.

Speaking at a press conference, Miss Russell said, "you have to be careful, however, about the type of humor you use. Frightfully sophisticated humor can at times be a bore. Some of mine is sheer corn," she added.

Material Varies

Miss Russell said that her basic routine (she writes all her material) varies from place to place. Speaking a volatile British accent and flailing her arms, she described the difference between a British performance and an American one.

"With American audiences," she explained, "you have to build up and into a punch line. And then, bang! You get scr-r-reches and bellows."

"British audiences are different," she continued. "They sit back and twitter along."

Immediately before the press conference, Miss Russell had presided over Prof. Herald Stark's Choral Conducting class in the SUI Music Building.

The class increased for the occasion from the regular 26 to some 150.

Sketches Discussed

In discussing her sketches, the comedienne said the best-received one—both in performance and on recordings— is her analysis of Wagner's Ring Cycle.

Asked of comparisons made between her and other artists, Miss Russell said that the person she comes closest to in style is Madame Florence Foster Jenkins.

(Mrs. Jenkins, when 75 years old, decided that she had a beautiful voice and started giving concerts. In singing serious music seriously, Mrs. Jenkins was so funny that her concerts were always sold out.)

Born Claudia Anna Russell-Brown in London in 1911, the blonde charmer now is a citizen of Canada. She is now working, she reports.

on a new sketch — "Verdi's Hamlet."

"After all," she explained, "Verdi did so much work on Shakespearean drama. There's 'Otello,' 'Macbeth,' and 'Falstaff.' Frankly, I think he should have composed an opera based on 'Hamlet.' So I'm doing it myself."

Grocer Cashes In On Slogan Contest

It pays to be a good grocer, S. T. Spalding, manager of the A & P grocery in Iowa City, found out Monday.

In fact, he came out $10 to the good because of it.

Jack Snyder, G. Portland, Ore., won the monthly Lucky Strike "Droodles" contest. Spalding's name was submitted as Snyder's local grocer.

Snyder's droodle, entitled "ants under an umbrella" took the $23 first prize over 1,800 entries submitted nationally for December.

Garst To Speak At SDX Initiation

Roswell Garst, Coon Rapids, will speak Sunday evening at the winter initiation banquet of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

Garst, advocate of more U.S. trade with Russia and her satellites, will present his views at the dinner honoring 13 SUI journalism students and three professional journalists scheduled to be initiated into the organization earlier in the day.

Garst, a seed executive, also will discuss his recent trip to Russia, Hungary and Rumania.
