Request 6 1/4% Raise In City Gas Rates

By GENE INGLE

The Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. asked the Iowa City Council Tuesday for a 6.25 per cent increase in retail natural gas rates here.

If the company were to be granted the full amount, a typical homeowner, without gas heating, would pay about 25 cents more each month for gas. A typical owner of a 5-room bungalow with gas heating probably would pay about $1.75 more a month.

In a letter to Mayor LeRoy S. Mercer and the City Council, the firm cited increases in wholesale rates and wages as reasons for requesting the increase.

Gas Revenue 'Deficient'

Natural Gas Pipe Line Company of America raised its gas rates to Iowa-Illinois about 10 per cent last March 2. Company wages were raised in August.

In the letter, the firm said: "Under present rates and with present costs, the annual gross revenue from gas sales in the Iowa City district is deficient by at least $56,000."

The firm said a 6 per cent return on the "fair value" of the property would make up this deficiency of $56,000.

Ask 4% Return

Last Sept. 9, the utility company asked the council to raise gas rates by 7.12 per cent but was turned down. At that time, the question was over the rate base to be used.

The firm contended the rate should be based on a 6 per cent return on the "fair value" of its gas property.

During the electric rate battle between Iowa-Illinois and the council in 1954, the utility said "fair value" of its property was the reproduction costs minus depreciation.

Original Investments

The council then claimed that the fair value of the property was the original cost of the company's equipment.

(Original cost is the amount the company originally invested in its property. Reproduction cost is the amount it would cost today to buy its equipment. Fair return is the profit the company is making yearly in comparison with the value of its property.)

In early 1955, the council granted an electric rate increase to the firm and used then an "original investment" standard for determining the rates.

Reports Income Figures

When the council turned down the 7.12 per cent increase in gas rates asked last September, it was advised by City Manager Peter F. Roan to "wait until the end of the year to see the company's 1955 figures."

The company reported Tuesday it now has these figures. It listed the earnings for its gas department for the 12 months ending Nov. 30, 1955, as $117,845. This amounts to a 4.9 per cent return on a "fair value" investment of $2,405,000, as of Sept. 30, 1955, the company said.

In most states, the rate base usually is determined by a public utilities commission or by the courts. However, Iowa law requires the city council to fix the rate.

The Weather

Snow
Cold

Colder temperatures are predicted for Iowa City today. A high of about 15 degrees is forecast for the eastern portion of Iowa.

There is also a possibility of snow today and Thursday. The Weather Bureau added that temperatures will average above seasonal norms in the western half of the country during the next 30 days.

GI Loans Extended For Home Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP)—From now on, home buyers who obtain loans guaranteed by the Veterans Administration or the Federal Housing Administration may have 30 years to pay off the loans.

This was announced Tuesday by the VA and FHA, which last July 30 had cut the maximum permissible maturity on VA-guaranteed and FHA-insured loans from 30 to 25 years.

The joint FHA-VA announcement said: "Although 30 years is now the maximum security of government-backed home loans, the final decision as to the terms of the loans is subject to agreement between the borrowers and the private lenders making the loans."

JayCee's Man

John Graham
By Unanimous Vote

JC's Honor John Graham For Service

John H. Graham received the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award Tuesday for his efforts in pushing the 1955 Iowa City Community Chest drive $1,000 over its quota.

The award was presented at a JC dinner meeting. Graham's brother, Donald, received the award in Graham's absence. Graham is vacationing in Winter Park, Colo.

Receives Scroll

Graham's father, Albert, received his son's commendation scroll.

Graham also received the U.S. Junior Chamber "Key" award for distinguished service to the community.

In presenting the award, William Meardon, former county attorney and chairman of the 1954 Community Chest drive, commended Graham for organizing and personally soliciting for the drive.

"This is the first time in seven or eight years that the drive has gone over the quota," Meardon said. Meardon received the DSA award last year for his work on the Community Chest.

Committee Members

Other members of the awards committee were: Robert Yetter, manager of Younkers department store; Roger Ivie, attorney; Allan Arneson, manager of the J. C. Penney Co.; Keith Kafer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; and Rev. A. C. Proehl, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church.

Nominations for the award are made by any interested individual or organization. Candidates are judged in seven categories: 1. contribution to community welfare during the year; 2. participation in all-round community activities; 3. evidence of lasting contribution to community activities; 4. exhibition of leadership abilities; 5. evidence of personal or business progress; 6. co-operation with individuals and civic organizations; and 7. reason for the recommendation.

Graham was nominated by John G. Craig, president of the Iowa City Kiwanis Club. Craig's nomination stated that Graham had "led the forces of the Iowa City Community Chest over the top on the goal for 1955 for the first such successful effort in many years."

2-JET CRASH

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton said two of its jet fighters collided in the air Tuesday night about one mile east of Troy and that one pilot parachuted to safety.

Meters Pay

Report Shows Income
Tops $79,000

Revenue from Iowa City's parking meters totaled $79,534 in 1955, the annual police department report showed Tuesday.

Another $130 was taken in from meter hood rentals. (Meter hoods are rented by businesses who require extra parking space or reserved space for a certain time. The yellow hoods are placed over the top of the parking meter and proclaim either "no parking" or "reserved.")

Police Chief Oliver A. White emphasized that the department only received 25 per cent of the $79,534 total. The remainder, he stated, goes for the purchase of off-the-street parking lots. This means approximately $60,000 was accumulated for that purpose during 1955.

Other revenue during the year included $14,385.16 from fines, $655.50 from court costs, $625 from bond forfeitures, $2 for tow-in charges and $139.85 from the issuance of bicycle licenses.

The grand total from all sources was $95,071.51.

Power Fails; Guides Plane By Compass

NEW YORK (AP)—With only a compass to guide him, a veteran pilot brought his long overdue Northeast Airlines plane through a snowstorm Tuesday night to safety at LaGuardia Field. Twenty-two persons were aboard.

The Boston to New York airliner landed with only about 14 minutes' gasoline supply still in its tanks. It was 2 hours and 22 minutes overdue.

The two-engine Convair made it here from Boston without lights, radio or electrical navigational equipment after its electrical system failed.

There was no way for ground stations to contact it after it left Boston at 3:56 p.m. (Iowa time). Nor could it receive its usual guidance from the ground. Pilot Robert Francis, 37, of Boston, had only his compass to go by.

Francis, a flier for nearly two decades, told a reporter: "About six or seven minutes out of Boston our electrical system failed. All our lights went out. It had never happened to me before. It happens once in a million times. "We were at about 1,500 feet. We turned east looking for stratified layers and to keep out of traffic. We went up at one time to 12,000 feet. It was snowing and we never saw the ground until we got almost to New York."

"We went entirely by compass," Francis said the flight took longer than usual because of the roundabout route he took to avoid any other aircraft.

Say Missionaries Shot at Savages

PANAMA, Panama (AP)—A bullet hole in the windshield of their plane indicated the five U.S. missionaries who died at the hands of savage Auca Indians in an Ecuadorian jungle last week attempted to defend themselves.

U.S. Army helicopter pilots stationed in the Canal Zone who participated in the search for the missionaries reported the bullet hole Tuesday.

They said the evangelists were armed with pistols. Indians of the area are armed only with spears.

SUI Needs More Money—Hoegh

A DEMOCRATIC PLOT? wonders Gov. Leo A. Hoegh as he tries to enter a locked-up room at the Iowa Memorial Union Tuesday. The governor took it good-naturedly, though, as he waited for John Graham, E. Brooklyn, Ia., to unlock the door. However, Graham never did get the door open and the governor finally had to use another entrance.

State Must Meet Needs Of Expansion

By IRA KAPENSTEIN

Gov. Leo A. Hoegh said here Tuesday night that state appropriations for building expansion at SUI should double within the next 10 years.

Hoegh, addressing the SUI chapter of the American Association of University Professors in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol, said that in the past five bienniums (two-year budgetary periods) the state has been spending an average of $745,000 per biennium for the university's capital improvements.

"We're going to have to provide $1.5 million for each biennium," Hoegh said. "I have no hesitancy in saying the people will do that."

Three for Two

Hoegh said the challenge to Iowa lies in the prediction that there will be three students in higher institutions in 10 years for every two now in attendance. This would mean an enrollment at SUI of 13,500 by 1965, as compared to the 9,400 students enrolled this year.

He pointed out that finances for education are governed by how much the people can and will pay. "There isn't any reason why Iowa cannot have as good an educational system as New York," the governor said. "I probably will never be satisfied with our educational system until President Hancher is satisfied. You never get education by standing still."

High Schools

Hoegh said if higher education is to be successful, strong elementary and secondary school training is necessary. He said the people are anxious to have better elementary and secondary education but at no increased cost. This could be done by reorganization of school districts, he added.

He pointed out that 24 cents out of every tax dollar in Iowa goes for state aid for education. He said that when elementary and secondary schools are strengthened it means that higher education must be improved.

Iowa's Gov. Leo A. Hoegh may meet Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams in a swimming contest, if Williams picks up a suggestion made here Tuesday night.

Prof. William Porter, president of the SUI chapter of the American Association of University Professors and a member of the School of Journalism faculty, suggested to Hoegh after his talk here that a swimming contest between the two governors would be a good way to raise funds for the March of Dimes polio fund drive.

Hoegh, a former member of the SUI swimming team, said he would be glad to race against Williams.

Hoegh said industry is needed to broaden the tax base and provide job opportunities "to make Iowa grow and become more productive."

Create More Jobs

In 1955 there were 6,000 new job opportunities in Iowa. He predicted that this year there will be 10,000 new jobs.

"This is the land of opportunity for industrial growth," Hoegh said. He added that when he talks with industrial leaders they want to know about Iowa's educational facilities and that industry is willing to pay for education.

Recalling his own days at SUI, Hoegh related, "This institution is so good that a good friend of mine, same fraternity, flunked chemistry his first time. But that fellow had such a desire to be a chemist that he took it again and got a 'B.' Now he's vice-president of one of the leading clothing companies in the United States."

PANACEA TRYOUTS
Panacea will continue holding tryouts for some of the 60 roles to be filled for the show, it was announced Tuesday. The tryouts, to be held in MacBride Auditorium today and Thursday, will fill spots for singers, dancers, actors and comedy acts.

Retract 'Brink of War' Threat: Adlai to Ike

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson called on President Eisenhower Tuesday to repudiate the "brink of war" statement attributed to Secretary of State Dulles or fire, the secretary, Stevenson termed Dulles' action "suicidal folly."

Stevenson's views were expressed at a news conference shortly after he personally filed a slate of delegates pledged to him in the March 20 Minnesota presidential primary election.

His filing marked his first entry into a state primary as he launched his second attempt to win the Democratic nomination for president.

The Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor State Central Committee has formally voted to support Stevenson. Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) and Gov. Orville Freeman are among the delegates pledged to him.

"This week has seen two ominous and frightening statements," Stevenson said.

Stevenson referred to statements ascribed to Dulles in a Life magazine article and statements in the Saturday Evening Post by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army chief of staff.

Gen. Ridgway "has declared that during his tenure Defense Department decisions were not based on clear cut military needs but on budgetary considerations, on political considerations, on the advantage to be gained in the field of domestic politics by a drastic reduction in military expenditures," Stevenson said.

"Yet, Secretary of State Dulles has just told us that three times during the last three years he led the American people to the brink of war, with the President's approval—and boasts that such dangerous risks are a diplomatic 'art' of which he claims mastery."

Dulles spoke out in the midst of a controversy which has raged in Congress and among America's allies over Dulles' interview with Life magazine.

The magazine article said Dulles three times averted war—over Korea, Indochina and Formosa—by letting the Communists know the United States was prepared to take strong measures.

Dulles had said last Friday that the statements attributed to him "do not require correction from the standpoint of their substance."

"Citizens for Ike'
Think He Will Run

NEW YORK (AP)—A group close to President Eisenhower reactivated "Citizens for Eisenhower" Tuesday with a statement they are convinced he will seek a second term if his health allows.

Retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, an intimate of Eisenhower, joined the other organizers in declaring in a letter to 50,000 former "Citizens" workers:

"We are convinced that under present world conditions the President will consider it his duty to serve a second term, provided he finds that his health will permit him to carry the load."

At Washington, James C. Hagerly, presidential press secretary, said there was no comment from the White House.

Signing the letter with Clay were Mrs. Oveta Culo Hobby, former secretary of health, education and welfare, and Sidney J. Weinberg, New York financier.

Eisenhower's final physical checkup before announcing his decision is scheduled for next month.

Dulles Still Backs Quotes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles Tuesday toned down a magazine article which quoted him as saying the Eisenhower administration "walked to the brink" of war three times and averted it by "strong action."

But Dulles stood firm on what he termed a "policy of seeking to prevent war by preventing miscalculation by a potential aggressor."

He said this "is a calculated risk for peace" and is part of a policy which also includes patience, conciliation and pursuing "every honorable course to avoid" war.

Dulles had said last Friday that the statements attributed to him "do not require correction from the standpoint of their substance."

"Citizens for Ike'
Think He Will Run

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson sent the administration's new "soil bank" bill to Congress Tuesday and asked quick action.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.) introduced the bill, described by Benson in a letter to the senator as designed to "help our farmers in their valiant efforts to reverse the severe five-year decline in our farm economy."

Long Leads Louisiana's Early Vote

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Former Gov. Earl Long jumped into an early lead Tuesday night with New Orleans Mayor Delesseps Morrison, runnerup in the Louisiana Democratic primary for governor.

With scattered returns from slightly more than half the state's 64 parishes, Long was the leader in every parish (county) except Lafayette and Terrebonne in the southwest, where Morrison held command.

Unofficial Returns

In unofficial returns, 621 of 2,039 precincts:

Francis Grevenberg 16,079
Earl Long 106,480

James M. McLemore 17,715
Delesseps Morrison 83,808
Fred Preaus 23,349

Despite shivering, overcast weather, nearly 800,000 participated in the Democratic first primary.

A trio of political kingpins and two independents struggled for power.

Fights for Leadership

They are Gov. Robert Kennon, the pro-Eisenhower Democrat fighting to hold his political leadership in a Democratic state that preferred Adlai Stevenson; former Gov. Long, crown prince of the Huey P. Long dynasty that did a fadout years ago, and New Orleans Mayor Delesseps Morrison, young, alert administrator of the South's oldest city.

Kennon, unable to succeed himself, has entered Fred Preaus as his administration candidate.

Independents in Race

Independents in the race are former State Police Supt. Grevenberg, youngest candidate at 41, champion of law enforcement, and rancher McLemore, who finished fourth in 1952's nine-way election.

While no presidential primary is involved, the Democratic choice for governor will provide a key to Louisiana's action in the forthcoming election for president. The governor usually reflects the political pulse.

With each entry claiming large support, a runoff is likely Feb. 21.

Report Prof. Eliot In 'Poor' Condition

Prof. Thomas D. Eliot, of the SUI Sociology Dept., was reported in poor condition Tuesday after receiving chest and head injuries in a car accident late Sunday.

Eliot, around 65, was driving back to Iowa City from his home in Fontana, Wis., when his car skidded on icy pavements near Cuba City, Wis.

Eliot, who has been at SUI since last September, was a member of the Northwestern University faculty until he retired.

Annual Police Report Shows—

Many Drunks, Few Bums in Iowa City

By LARRY DENNIS

Two hundred and two persons tipped the bottle a little too high during 1955 and found themselves booked by Iowa City police on intoxication charges.

Twenty-four more tried to combine alcohol and gasoline and wound up on the short end of O.M.V.I. counts.

These facts were brought out Tuesday in the annual police report by Chief Oliver A. White.

Hot Under Collar

No one, however, was charged with a liquor violation during the year, the report showed.

Forty persons caused so much fuss and disturbance in one way or another that they were booked on disorderly conduct charges. Six others got too hot under the collar and, in attempting to vent their ire on their fellow citizens, were charged with assault. Four of the cases were aggravated assault, the report showed.

There were 44 cases of persons violating the "Thou shalt not steal" commandment. Twenty-eight of these were listed as burglary charges, nine were larcenies over $50 and seven larcenies under $50.

Rare Vagrants
Twelve persons during the year tried to write checks on other persons' bank accounts and were charged with forgery. One other tried to obtain a little extra green stuff by another method and ended up with an embezzlement count staring him in the face.

Hoboes made themselves scarce around Iowa City during the year. Only two vagrancy charges were filed.

Sex offenses totalled three during 1955, the report revealed.

Parking tickets were handed out at the rate of one for every two Iowa City citizens. A total of 13,996 were recorded during the year.

Other traffic violations, ranked high, as always, on the list. There were 182 violations of road and driving laws and 99 cases of motorists breaking a traffic and motor vehicle law.

Nobody Gambles

The report listed all other violations during the year at 30. Offenses which were not committed during the year included homicide, rape, robbery, concealed weapons and gambling.

All in all, the law in Iowa City was broken 14,598 times during the year.

Lost Are Found

Iowa City police were busy in other ways throughout the year, and one of the department's most notable accomplishments was the finding of 101 missing persons.

This is not so surprising until it is revealed that there were only 100 missing persons reported during the year. The explanation, of course, is that two of the persons were reported missing in 1954 and were found in 1955. One is still missing.

Among the miscellaneous services performed by the police were 12 ambulance runs.

A Last Word on Hillcrest

Last Wednesday several students living in Hillcrest dormitory became violently ill. Many were confined for one or two days to their beds. Others continued to go to classes.

Hillcrest officials estimated that 23 per cent of the students living in the dormitory were ill Wednesday. Later they admitted that this number was probably too low.

The story was carried to the people of Iowa by newspapers and radio stations. The fact that so many students became ill at the same time aroused natural suspicion. All suspicion in this case pointed to the food served by the Hillcrest dining service. Many Hillcrest students voiced opinions that the food was poison. Some said that it was ptomaine poisoning. An explanation was necessary.

College administrators, like administrators everywhere, have a tendency to cover up stories when they become hot. They do this in the hope that if nothing more is said on the subject people will forget about it.

People don't. They let their minds run wild and breed all sorts of wild rumors. Even if a final and complete explanation is made, it seldom fails to patch up the damage caused by rumors.

All of this, of course, can be averted by simply telling the truth, and the whole truth, from the beginning.

That was what Dr. Chester I. Miller, head of SUI Student Health Service, did from the first day on in the Hillcrest case.

He co-operated with newspapers and wire service representatives in Iowa City, and gave them all the facts he had at hand, whether or not they reflected well on Hillcrest.

He said that the sick students did not show signs of food poisoning, but that tests would be conducted to make the case complete. The tests proved that there was no food poisoning — period.

He did not hedge on speculations as to what caused the sudden sickness of so many students. He said that it was a virus ailment and that there was a strong possibility that it was transferred through food served at Hillcrest.

He did so after taking into account the facts of the case: there were no sudden outbreaks at other dormitories, the Hillcrest sicknesses all came at once, and Hillcrest boys had had no large dormitory gatherings at which the germs could be transmitted.

Of course, there is no way of proving that the virus was carried through food. The virus seems to have an incubation period of from 3 to 21 days before it affects a person. The meal at which the virus was transmitted could have been served sometime during the previous week. No samples of this meal are available. All, therefore, is speculation. It cannot be proved that a meal was the cause of the sudden illness.

Even skeptical persons should be able to accept these facts. They should remove any doubts that may have existed concerning the illnesses.

But something much different could have happened if some official had blocked the story or parts of it for fear that the truth would be better left untold. Rumors would have started and they would have been spread by those who are always quite willing to believe the worst about state institutions.

The handling of this case by Dr. Miller should be a model for SUI administrators in future affairs of this nature.

End of a Myth

The Republican party over the past three years has tried to give the American public the impression that it has been sweeping out of government scores of security risks hired by the Democratic party.

A sampling of government employees who have left government payrolls under the security risk cloud since May, 1953, shows that this just isn't so.

Chairman Phillip Young of the Civil Service Commission brought this forth last week in testimony before the senate civil service subcommittee.

Young said a survey has been completed of the cases of 4,020 of the 9,267 persons fired as security risks since May, 1953, a few months after 20 years of Democratic rule ended.

Of these, 41 per cent were persons hired since the Republican administration came to power. Persons hired during the 20-year

Democratic reign made up 58 per cent of the total.

Even these figures do not tell the true story. They do not tell that the majority of government employees were hired by Democratic administrations. Therefore, the number of security cases hired under Democratic administrations would be likely to be higher.

The figures do not tell that many security risks are persons removed from sensitive jobs and placed in jobs where no government secrecy is necessary.

And figures cannot tell the true story of security risks — that most are not subversives (or people someone said were subversives) but are also drunkards, homosexuals or just people who talk too much.

Nevertheless, Young's figures should discourage the Republicans from making an attempt during the 1956 election campaign to build the myth that they cleansed the government of Democratic-hired "subversives."

Others Got It, Too

Iowans thought they were hard hit by the tax increases voted by the state legislature last year. Many immediately raised the cry that Iowa is a "high tax" state.

Figures gathered by the Commerce Clearing House (CCH), a national reporting authority on taxes, shows that Iowans were hit no harder than residents of other states.

Every state, with the exception of Kentucky, which had an election this year, increased taxes in some way. "The legislators," the CCH report said, "went tax hunting with elephant guns."

The five big sources of revenue — income, sales, gasoline, cigarette and motor vehicle taxes — were attacked most vigorously by state legislatures.

Iowa was one of 14 states in which three or more of these sources were tapped for tax increases. The others were Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Michigan, Mississippi, Nevada, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Texas, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Iowa, which has one of the worst primary roads systems in the nation, didn't get socked for as high a gasoline tax as a few other states. California, Maine and Alabama motorists will pay seven cents tax per gallon this year. In Georgia, the tax will be six and one-half cents. Iowa motorists and those in Connecticut and Wisconsin will pay six cents.

Iowans can be thankful they completely missed tax increases on some common items.

In 24 states, increases in motor registration fees were voted. In 15, cigarette taxes were hiked. Seventeen state legislatures authorized local governments to levy new taxes. Illinois legalized city imposition of sales taxes and 639 towns, including Chicago, immediately levied them.

Tax-wise, Iowans this year are no worse off than residents of other states.

"Well, that's the end of the hour. Anyone who wants to may leave — I just have one little story I'd like to tell . . ."

Americans Are Flabby

Inactivity And Work-Savers Are Making Weaklings Out of Many in U.S.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP)—America is paying twice for its autos, elevators, a automatic furnaces, washing machines, tractors, vacuum cleaners and other aids to the more relaxed luxurious life. Once in money, again in aching backs.

With every new work-saver or foot-saver, human muscles become more flabby, less fit to perform the functions for which they were intended. This is not ironic theory, but a physical fact which is causing the medical profession increasing worry.

It even has a name, Hypokinetic disease, indicating the role which inactivity plays in producing illness—ranging from malfunctioning organs and malformation of bones to emotional and mental disorders.

A RANKING authority is Bonnie Prudden, a researcher for New York University—Bellevue Hospital's Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation. She tested almost 6,500 "normal, healthy" boys and girls between the ages of 6 and 19. About 4,500 were American children, the rest were youngsters living in comparable urban and suburban areas in southern Austria and northern Italy. The simple tests involved muscles of the back, abdomen and legs.

"More than 78 per cent of the American children failed one or more of the tests," Miss Prudden reported. "Only 8 1/2 per cent of the European children failed. Just about the only difference between the two groups is that the European children live in a much less mechanized society."

Young Italians and Austrians walk to school, frequently trudging long distances. They indulge in active rather than spectator sports, so most of their recreation is based on active use of their bodies.

Other studies of both active and sedentary adults indicate that men and women who use their bodies are able to stand stress better, build up less tension, tire less easily, age more gradually, have lower blood pressure, greater strength, larger breathing capacity, lower pulse rates.

A BRITISH survey found that among those who exercised little there was more appendicitis, lung cancer, prostate disease, varicose veins, osteoarthritis, myositis and fibrositis, inflammations, respectively of the muscles and fibrous tissue.

It showed also that coronary disease is twice as frequent among those who don't exercise much; that there is considerably more diabetes and duodenal ulcer among the inactive.

The crushing wartime statistics of nearly 1 1/2 million rejects out of 3 1/2 million men examined for the draft indicated to the medical world that the American body, in spite of orange juice, vitamins and high living standards, wasn't as great as it was touted.

MISS PRUDDEN, a one-time professional dancer, believes in research, but she also believes in applying what she learns. So she applied the stack of statistics and medical terms she had accumulated to her own children, two teenage girls. Both of them, "normal and healthy," were television addicts, spectator sports fans and, like their friends, were accustomed to being driven almost everywhere they went.

Their mother decided a program of physical fitness was indicated. She started two classes of five pupils each, each class including one daughter and four of her friends in the same age group.

Suddenly, Miss Prudden found herself in business. The project grew out of hand. Classes in dancing, judo, tumbling and games grew to 20. Other children wanted in. Parents pled. Doctors and even psychiatrists began prescribing her classes for boys and girls with problems ranging from overweight to crooked spines to shyness. Then adults wanted classes of their own.

So Miss Prudden acquired an abandoned elementary school to care for the crowds.

BUT SHE continues to devote a lot of time to non-profit crusading. "Most Americans," she'll tell you, "don't even know how to walk. Backache isn't a killer, but too many people are hobbling around suffering from it. Forty-four per cent of our children can't even touch the floor with their fingertips without bending their knees."

"And, at any European beach, it's easy to pick out the American children. They're the ones with sway backs and big stomachs."

"Most of our youngsters today have been so carefully protected that they've never been hot or cold. Or pushed, or wet, or hungry. Most of them have never even been really frightened—and I think it's very important for everyone to understand something about fear. Our kids have been chauffered, they've been protected in playpens, walked in clothes, showering, and the strollers. Not many of them really know anything about free play."

SHE ALMOST snorts at the mention of physical education classes in schools:

"So they have an hour of physical education — about 30 children with one instructor. I figured my own children were getting about 6 1/2 minutes of exercise in that hour, after you'd deducted time out for changing teacher attending to other pupils."

Miss Prudden has several people over 70 in her classes and one woman over 80, and she finds them easier to put into condition than teen-agers.

"Men and women over 40 have had to use their muscles at some time," she says, "so it's just a re-training job. But the teen-agers have never used them. Their stomachs stick out, their backs are wobbly, their shoulders are round. They have no pride of body."

HER ANSWER lies not in exercise courses—her dancing, judo and other courses are merely disguised exercises—but in some basic changes in the vaunted American way of life.

Radical as it sounds, Miss Prudden would like to see the school bus done away with, as well as mother in the role of family chauffeur. In place of such transportation, she would establish "safeways" on which boys and girls could walk to and from school.

She'd like more playgrounds and more time spent on them and she would reduce playpens and strollers to kindling wood. She thinks children should carry things — "chores never did children any harm, but plenty of good"—climb trees, run, tumble and otherwise learn to use their bodies.

"Until we can return to some of these ways," she says, "we have to provide a substitute. We must teach them to use their bodies well, unless we want them to grow into unhealthy, frustrated adults."

Canada Considers Recognizing China

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP)—Canada is considering diplomatic recognition of Communist China.

Foreign Secretary Lester B. Pearson told the House of Commons Tuesday that the government "is giving and will continue to give careful consideration" to recognition.

In August, Pearson said in a speech that Canada must soon take a new and searching look at the problem.

Old Capitol Remembers

One Year Ago Today

Prof. Earl E. Harper announced that the recreation area of the new Union addition would soon be opened to students. The Justice Department asked Congress to double and triple penalties for sedition and related crimes.

Five Years Ago Today

The auto industry informed the government it is cutting its 1951 production 20 to 30 per cent below last year's output.

Ten Years Ago Today

There were several outbreaks of violence as CIO steelworkers in Los Angeles picketed the United States Steel plant. Police threw tear gas bombs at the picketers to stop the violence.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Three persons died as a snow storm swept across Iowa blocking roads and stalling traffic. Rudyard Kipling, British poet, died in London.

Time Staff Member To Speak Here

John Scott, assistant to the publisher of Time magazine, will speak on "Latin America and the News" in the Senate Chamber of old Capitol, at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Scott recently returned from a 6-month tour of Latin America where he gathered data on current problems.

Former chief of several overseas bureaus for Time and Life magazines, Scott is well-known as an author, lecturer and foreign correspondent. Recently he published "Political Warfare," a book telling of a tour through the Near East.

Dad's Association Is SUI's Newest Club

Organization of the SUI Dads Association for fathers of current and future SUI students was announced Tuesday by E. A. McCordell of Newton, temporary president of the new group.

Planned to further the mutual interests of SUI and the parents of its students, the association hopes to contribute to the information and appreciation of parents and to the understanding and accomplishment of the University.

Under terms of its constitution, any father or male guardian of an SUI student is a member of the association and may become an "active member" upon payment of $2 annual membership dues, with voting and office-holding rights. Fathers of former SUI students are eligible for associate membership.

Gross Says Benson Will Not Act Fast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Tuesday night he is convinced that Secretary of Agriculture Benson "left to his own devices, will take no emergency action that will substantially lift net farm income in the next few months."

Gross said that unless an "effective, emergency program" is announced in the next few days he plans to join with other Congressmen in an attempt to lay the farm problem "directly before the President."

Unless President Eisenhower can be made to understand that drastic, emergency action is imperative now, before another crop of hogs goes to the market at bankrupt prices, farmers will continue to go right on through the wringer and with them will go a lot of small independent businessmen.

Two Trucks Crash On Slippery Street

A truck loaded with liquid petroleum gas cylinders smashed into another truck owned by Home Town Dairy and rolled on its side at the intersection of Governor and Fairchild Streets shortly after noon Tuesday. Both drivers escaped injury.

The crash was attributed to snowy and slippery streets. The front end of the dairy truck was smashed and both sides of the gas service truck were damaged. Estimated loss was about $300.

Indian Rites Subject of Kiwanis Talk

The Iowa City Kiwanis Club Tuesday heard how the Hopi Indians of Arizona make a ritual of rattle snake worship.

Prof. Norman C. Meier of the SUI Psychology Department told how he watched the Hopi Indians perform a "spectacular snake dance in the colorful setting of a high plateau in Eastern Arizona."

The traditional dance is performed by the Hopis once each year, usually in the latter part of August, Meier said. The Indians intend it to be a plea for rain, essential to their livelihood, Meier explained.

"The dance means little to the average spectator," Meier said. "It takes some knowledge of anthropology to even partly understand it."

Outside spectators are allowed to watch the ritual, but no picture-taking is allowed. Meier said. "Guests are asked to stand as quietly as possible during the ceremony, and no one has ever been known to be attacked by the rattlers," Meier said.

VA Hospital Gets Assistant Manager

Reuben H. Denning, of Camp White, Oregon, has been named to replace James A. Hurson as assistant manager of the Iowa City Veterans Hospital.

The change in personnel was announced Tuesday by Dr. L. E. Stillwell, hospital manager.

Hurson has been transferred to the VA regional office in Trenton, N. J. He will be director of administrative services in the Trenton area.

Schweitzer at the Organ— On the Records

—Warren Still Top Baritone

By BILL DONALDSON

Among the newer recordings, there are a few that have been almost wholly overlooked in record reviews. The reason must be that the records can easily sell themselves.

Columbia has added Volume 6 ($4.98) to the collection of "Bach Organ Music" of Albert Schweitzer. It includes Passacaglia and Fugue in G minor, Prelude and Fugue in C major, and Six Chorale Preludes.

Crisp playing and even tempos punctuate Schweitzer's entire performance. His version of the chorale preludes especially demonstrates why he is unequalled in the interpretation of Bach organ works.

Leonard Warren upholds his reputation as the world's greatest baritone in the RCA-Victor release, "Verdi Baritone Arias" ($3.98). He sings areas from "Rigoletto," "Il Trovatore," "Otello," and others.

The album is a notable one, simply because all the arias are excellently performed. Especially interesting is Warren's interpretation of "Era la notte" from "Otello," in which Iago tells Otello the false story of the love between Cassio and Desdemona, Otello's wife.

Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra have recorded Bartok's Concerto for Orchestra on a Columbia $4.98 disc.

Youth Charged with Reckless Driving

A reckless driving charge was filed against Loren Windus, 20, West Liberty, by the Iowa Highway Patrol following an accident Tuesday.

The charge was placed against Windus after a car he was driving swerved from one side of the road to the other and rolled over in a ditch on Highway 6 near the Fairview golf course, injuring Richard Reiland, 20, Atalissa.

The injured man was reported in good condition at University Hospitals with a fractured pelvis.

RECOVERING FROM FALL

Injured while playing in a schoolyard Sunday, John H. Poggenpohl, 12, 718 Dearborn St., was reported in good condition Monday at Mercy Hospital. He received a cerebral concussion when he slipped on some ice and fell.

Worked in Russia

Scott joined the Time staff as a correspondent in 1941 and drew his first assignment in Japan. One year later he became a contributing editor for Time in New York.

During 1951, Scott was an editor of Time, Inc. on a project produced by "The March of Time."

He was in Europe and North Africa during the summer of 1952, spending most of his time in Germany and Austria.

In 1942 Scott published "Beyond the Urals," a book describing life in the Siberian steel mills and chemical plants. Basis for the book was his experience working in the Russian mills from 1932 to 1937.

He also is author of "Duel for Europe," published soon after his first book.

Expelled by Soviets

Scott remained in Moscow for three years as a correspondent for Havas, the French news agency, after the great purge of 1937 forced him, with thousands of other foreigners to quit work in Soviet industry.

Two weeks before the German attacks against USSR, he was expelled from the country by Soviet authorities for "slandering Soviet foreign policy and inventing reports of Soviet-German friction."

Scott's appearance at SUI is being co-sponsored by the SUI Graduate College and the School of Journalism.

COLD PEPPERS

A Campus-to-Career Case History

"One open door after another"

"That's how I feel about the telephone company," says Walter D. Walker, B.E.E., University of Minnesota, '51. "When I joined the company I felt that I could go in any direction. And that's the way it's been."

"For the first six months I was given on-the-job training in the fundamentals of the telephone business—how lines are put up and equipment installed. Learning those fundamentals has really paid off for me."

"Then I had the opportunity to go to the Bell Laboratories in New Jersey. I worked on memory crystals—ferro-electric crystals—for use in digital computers. I learned how important research is to the telephone business."

"After two years I came back to Minnesota, to St. Cloud, to work in the District Plant Engineer's Office. There I made field studies of proposed construction projects and drew up plans to guide the construction crews. This combination of inside and outside work gave me invaluable experience."

"In July, 1955, I came to Minneapolis as an Engineer in the Exchange Plant Extension Engineer's Office. We do forecasting—not of the weather, but of future service needs. Using estimates of growth and economic studies, we make our plans for the years ahead. We figure out where and when new facilities will be needed to meet future growth."

"All this has been preparing me for a real future. You see, the telephone company is expanding by leaps and bounds. That's why it offers a young man so many open doors."

Wally Walker's career is with Northwestern Bell Telephone Company. Similar career opportunities exist in other Bell Telephone Companies, and in Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. Your placement officer has more information regarding Bell System companies.

BELL TELEPHONE SYSTEM

By DAVE STEVENS

The Class B schools under the Iowa basketball tournament rules find it rough sledding. Anyway, last year they did, as the bigger schools won all the top positions.

But once in a while those one-horse outfits come up with a bunch of boys that look like it was born with a basketball in its collective hands. And we have one of that brand in Iowa City—the St. Mary's Ramblers.

Undeclared in 14 games this year, the Ramblers have set their sights on the state finals. Last year they made it to the finals of the sub-state before being bounced out by a red-hot St. Ambrose five.

HERKY THINKS THEY are the best team in the city and one of the best in the area. Without a doubt, St. Mary's stands heads and shoulders above any team around that compares in school enrollment.

When the teachers count heads at St. Mary's, they need figure no higher than 85—that's for the four high school grades. About half of these are boys. This leaves about as many girls as would try out for the Davenport High School sophomore squad.

The astounding part of it all is that the three top Ramblers will be back for the 1956-57 season. They start 'em young at St. Mary's. They have to. There just ain't many older ones.

THE 25-3 MARK of last year was achieved with the support of two sophomores and a freshman. Now a grade higher, the trio is playing even better ball. St. Mary's has an 80.5-point offensive mark to its foes' 43.8.

Junior center Dennis (Ching) Walljasper, 6-5, (who is still growing) is averaging better than 22 points per game. His speed (he fast breaks frequently) and his all-around court play tab him as future college material.

Sophomore Dave (Fudd) Maher, 5-9, the playmaker of the trio, sports a 14-point average at a .490 percentage. He is called by Coach Don Green "as good a guard as I've ever coached." He has two more years to go.

Two seniors and junior—Jimmy Jensen, Kenny Klein and John Cahill Jr.—round out the "playing six."

WHAT ABOUT THE COACH, Don Green? He also shows the same promise as his team. In seven years of coaching at three schools he has produced five conference champions—two at Ventura and three at Cedar Falls. His "worst" season was in 1954-55 at Cedar Falls. He only won 15 and lost 7.

Herky sez: keep your eye on Green and his Ramblers. They'll surprise some big schools in the state tourney.

In Second Draft Session—

Pros Draft 4 Iowa Gridders

By GEORGE WINE

Four Iowa football standouts were included Tuesday in the National Football League draft. Quarterback Jerry Reichow was the number one choice of the Detroit Lions, and Jim Freeman was the second pick of the San Francisco 49ers, halfback Eddie Vincent was the third pick of the Los Angeles Rams, and guard Calvin Jones was Detroit's sixth choice. San Francisco immediately traded Freeman to the Los Angeles club on a pre-arranged deal. This is the second draft session of the winter for the NFL. The first one was conducted in November, and no Iowa players were drafted.

Had Canadian Offers

Reichow, who capped off a brilliant career by being chosen the outstanding back in the East-West Shrine game December 31 at San Francisco, had previously been offered several contracts by Canadian football clubs.

He said Tuesday night, however, that he felt sure he will sign with the Detroit club.

"I would much rather play ball in this country," Reichow said, "and if I can reach a contract agreement with the Lions, I'm sure that is the club I'll be playing with next year."

"Get-Rich-Quick" Clubs

The 21-year-old senior from Decora referred to the Canadian Inter-provincial Football league as a "get-rich-quick" opportunity. "I know they offer some terrific salaries up there," he said, "but all things considered, I think it would be wiser to play football in this country."

Jones said he feels the same as Reichow about playing ball in the U.S. "I'm really happy to be drafted by Detroit," he said.

Jones had also received Canadian offers, and had reportedly signed a contract with the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Jones emphatically denied signing any contract, but admitted he has had one in his possession for several days.

Freeman, the giant end who will graduate in June, is not certain about his future.

Undecided About Future

"I haven't considered playing professional football," he said. "I am undecided about the future right now and was seriously thinking about doing some graduate work."

Freeman added that he will have to talk to San Francisco before coming to any decision about professional football.

Vincent said he has also had a few Canadian offers but like Jones, waited to see if an American club would draft him.

Will Contact Rams

He had not talked to Los Angeles officials as of Tuesday night, and wants to do that before making a decision.

"It's still pretty much up in the air right now," Vincent said, indicating he may go with the club that makes the best offer.

Three other Iowa players who were expected to be drafted into the NFL—halfback Earl Smith, Fullback Roger Weigman and Tackle Roger Swedberg—had not been picked by any club late Tuesday night.

Iowa Ranked 20th in Poll; Dons Still 1st

By The Associated Press

The San Francisco Dons, undisputed kingpins of college basketball, have a date with examination papers until Jan. 28, but several other members of the top 10 have their work cut out for them on the playing floor this week.

Seven of the top 10 teams in this week's Associated Press nationwide poll will be kept busy trying to protect their rankings, while San Francisco, Illinois and Duke take a brief vacation. Illinois barely edged out Duke for the No. 6 spot in the latest tally of the nation's sports writers and sportscasters.

Dons Tie Record

San Francisco tied the major college winning record of 39 straight by defeating Fresno State last Friday. The record, held by Long Island University and Seton Hall, will go by the boards of the Dons can defeat California (9-3) in Berkeley Jan. 28.

Illinois knocked off Purdue Monday night 92-76 to make it 10-1 for the season, but now will be idle until meeting DePaul Jan. 28.

Duke, winner over Maryland Saturday, has a blank schedule until Feb. 1, but the Blue Devils pick a toughie when they get back into action against Kentucky.

Dayton Rates Second

In this week's poll, based on games through Saturday, Jan. 14, unbeaten Dayton easily clung on to North Carolina State, Kentucky, Vanderbilt, Illinois, Duke, Temple, North Carolina and Louisville.

There was only one change in the 10th to 11th while Louisville edged into the No. 10 slot.

San Francisco, with a 13-0 record, has led the poll for six consecutive weeks, or since the first of the season.

The top teams with won-lost records in parentheses:

1. San Francisco (12-0) . . . . . 1377
2. Dayton (12-0) . . . . . 1110
3. North Carolina State (12-1) . . . . . 829

20. (Ile) Iowa (3-5) and Oklahoma A. & M. (11-3) . . . . . 142

A well known newspaper in this state thinks high-powered rifles should be outlawed in Iowa. The paper hasn't considered the great equalizer to the high-powered rifle: the half-shot hunter.

Iowa makes believers of the Minnesota Gophers by nearly chasing them out of the Fieldhouse. How can the Hawks miss another Big Ten title, with fifty-thousand fans helping Bucky coach the team?

Jim Tatum urges Maryland football players not to follow him to his new job at North Carolina. Evashevski would never have that problem if he were to leave Iowa. None of the Hawkeys have a car fast enough to keep up with Evy's Cadillac.

The NCAA will have two national basketball tournaments in 1957—one for the "big time" schools and one for the smaller colleges. This state may have two champions... Iowa should win the "big time" tourney, and Iowa State the other.

The Iowa Iowa Sports Staff joins Decora, Iowa in saluting Jerry Reichow, outstanding Hawkeye quarterback the past two seasons. We're only sorry it took a game played 1,800 miles away to convince many fans of Jerry's ability on the gridiron.

Crimmins Is An Old Flop, Says Editor

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—An Indiana University student editorial Tuesday criticized the recent awarding of a new five-year contract to Bernie Crimmins, head football coach, calling him "the same old flop."

The editorial in the campus newspaper, Indiana Daily Student, said Crimmins becomes one of the highest paid university coaches at $16,000 a year but complained he "has won only 10 games while losing 26" in the last four years.

"A new stadium won't build a good football program if the coach is the same old flop," the editorial said.

Crimmins, a former Notre Dame football star under Frank Leahy, commented: "The Indiana Daily Student has a right to express its opinion about anything concerning the university."

It's a Question of Age

Saddler Will Defend Featherweight Title Against Elorde Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler settled one issue about himself Tuesday and figured to take care of another today when he defends his title against Gabriel (Flash) Elorde in the Cow Palace ring.

The point settled Tuesday was Saddler's age. Ring records list him as 29 with a June 25, 1922, birth date. But Saddler said Tuesday he was 32, reaffirming a statement he made the other night on a local television program.

"I was born June 25, 1923," he said.

At issue today will be the champion's title defense against Elorde, the boss man at his weight in the Orient. The two met at Manila last July 20 with Elorde taking the decision in a non-title 10-rounder, but Saddler never in his long career has lost twice to the same man.

Saddler was a top-heavy favorite to retain his title in the bout which will be scored under the 11-point California system. The national telecast is scheduled for 9 p.m. (CST).

Freeman added that he will have to talk to San Francisco before coming to any decision about professional football.

Vincent said he has also had a few Canadian offers but like Jones, waited to see if an American club would draft him.

Will Contact Rams

He had not talked to Los Angeles officials as of Tuesday night, and wants to do that before making a decision.

"It's still pretty much up in the air right now," Vincent said, indicating he may go with the club that makes the best offer.

Three other Iowa players who were expected to be drafted into the NFL—halfback Earl Smith, Fullback Roger Weigman and Tackle Roger Swedberg—had not been picked by any club late Tuesday night.

A late AP bulletin announced Tuesday night that in the 12th round of NFL draft Iowa end Roger Swedberg was chosen by San Francisco.

U.S. Team Arrives For 1956 Winter Olympics in Italy

The 40-member U. S. winter Olympic team arrived at London Airport Tuesday and immediately split into two sections.

The ice hockey players left for three tuneup games in Germany. The skaters and skiers, headed for Treviso, Italy.

For the first time in the history of the Olympic Games, a woman competitor will pronounce the Olympic oath formally opening the 1956 winter games.

She is Diuliana Cheval Minuzzo, who placed third in the women's downhill ski event at Oslo in 1952, and this year is considered Italy's best hope in Alpine skiing.

Thirty-seven Russian Olympic skiers, smartly dressed and smiling, pulled into the Olympic village in Cortina D'Ampezzo, and headed for their isolated hotel in the mountains.

The athletes are the vanguard of the Olympics' largest team—1400 members in all.

At their hotel they joined teammates already training for the Olympic-hockey players and ski jumpers.

Cubs Sign Up Four Rookies; Total 19

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Cubs placed four rookies under contract for 1956 Tuesday and now have 19 players signed.

The fledglings are righthanded pitchers Bob Thorpe and John Pych, catcher Joe Hannah and infielder Don Eaddy. All but Eaddy have been to Cub spring training camps before.

Eaddy was signed by the Cubs last June after his graduation from Michigan, where he starred in baseball and basketball. The third baseman hit .353 in 15 Big Ten games for the Wolverines last season and topped the conference in stolen bases with 11.

He batted .304 in 32 games with Burlington, Iowa, of the Three I League after signing with the Cubs. He is 21, and lives in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Stella Walsh Will Make Last Track Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The fabulous Stella Walsh, who has been breaking records for a quarter of a century, makes her farewell appearance Saturday in the 1956 Women's National Indoor Track and Field Championships. She is 44.

The women's events are being held in conjunction with the ninth annual Evening Star Games, which have drawn a top ranking field of male competitors.

Much of the interest, however, is concentrated on the women's events, since nearly all the prospective U.S. Olympic competitors will be on view.

Miss Walsh, however, won't be going to the Olympics. As a native of Poland, she is ineligible to compete for the United States. But she plans to try to show up some of the upstart youngsters who have been making inroads on her records.

The particular target, it would seem, is Mae Faggs of Tennessee A&I, this nation's top prospect for the Olympic dash events.

Miss Faggs broke Miss Walsh's old record for the 220-meter dash outdoors last summer, making the distance in 25.1 seconds and chopping 6 of a second off Miss Walsh's time.

The Misses Walsh and Faggs will have a chance at it in the 220-yard event here Saturday.

Now a U.S. citizen, she was born Stephanie Walasiewicz in Poland.

Iowa Ties for 2d In Big 10 Standings; Unbeaten Illini Lead

CHICAGO (AP)—The Iowa Hawkeyes moved into a tie for second place in the Big Ten basketball standings this week, after defeating Minnesota, 84-62, in Iowa City Saturday night.

Illinois continued to lead the Big Ten race and remained undefeated after they downed Purdue, 92-76. The Illini now boast a 4-0 record while the Hawks are tied for second with Ohio State, both with two wins and one defeat.

The Big Ten standings are:

Team	W	L	Pct.
Illinois	4	0	.667
IOWA	2	1	.667
Indiana	2	2	.500
Purdue	2	2	.500
Michigan	2	2	.500
Minnesota	1	2	.333
Michigan State	1	2	.333
Wisconsin	1	4	.200
Northwestern	0	3	.000

IBG President Says—

Boxing Guild Will Keep on Operating

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The International Boxing Guild, its president said flatly Tuesday, "will keep right on operating."

Charley Johnston, IBG chief, refused to have any further conversation on the matter and declined to admit an Associated Press sports writer to his room at a downtown hotel.

"I'm not interested in talking about it," Johnston said over the telephone when asked if the writer could come up to his room from the lobby. "There's nothing to talk about."

Johnston admitted he had wired his resignation as a member of the banned Boxing Guild of New York to Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission Monday. The New York guild is an affiliate of the international.

Under Federal Charge

The international guild is under federal indictment on charges of violating the antitrust law.

In New York, Helfand said Tuesday a few additional resignations had "cleared the slate" of all licensed managers who had been members of the New York guild.

Helfand had set a Jan. 16 deadline for all managers to quit the guild or lose their licenses.

In sharp contrast to Johnston's close-mouthed attitude was that of Jack Kearns, veteran manager and secretary of the international guild.

Kearns Comments

"The international is solid, it's all right," said the voluble Kearns. "It's like any other labor organization, trying to get the most money out of the employers for four fighters."

Kearns said he was president of the Illinois chapter and that his group there "controls several states around Illinois."

"We've had no trouble," he said. "They're having that little dispute in New York. They're always having disputes there, and there's that one in Cleveland with the Ohio chapter, but that's all."

Mr. Basketball

GEORGE MIKAN, who returned to play for the Minneapolis Lakers Friday night after a year and a half retirement is shown in a practice for the Laker's first foe. He returned to play professional basketball in response to the pleas of Laker fans.

Mont To Coach Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Tommy Mont, former University of Maryland quarterback, was chosen head football coach at his alma mater Tuesday, succeeding Jim Tatum.

Mont, 33, has been an assistant coach since 1951 to Tatum, who resigned Jan. 8 to coach at North Carolina.

He was given a three-year contract.

Mont quarterbacked Maryland football teams, played for the neighboring Washington Redskins for three years after graduation in 1946 and helped coach the pros in 1950.

Mont steps into an impressive record to uphold. Taking Maryland from out of virtually nowhere in college football in 1947, Tatum coached them to 73 victories, 14 defeats and 4 ties in regular season play.

The past year university President Wilson H. Elkins started talking of "adjusting" the balance of scholarships between athletics and academics. Elkins himself was a star quarterback at Texas and was a Rhodes scholar.

Chicago U. Will Not Resume Football

CHICAGO (AP)—The Council of the University of Chicago Senate Tuesday voted not to accept a recommendation made last month that the university resume intercollegiate football.

The recommendation was made by a special faculty committee Dec. 8, 1955. The special committee was appointed by Chancellor Lawrence A. Kimpton to make a study of the situation.

The senate council is the university's top ruling body.

Chicago dropped football in December 1939.

Rehabilitation Counseling Study Begins

By KAY CROSS

A new graduate program in rehabilitation counseling, made possible by funds from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, will get under way at SUI next semester.

The 1 1/2 year program will train counselors to assist handicapped persons in making plans and setting up goals to restore them to a useful life.

Prof. John E. Muthard, recently appointed coordinator of the program, said particular emphasis will be given to the vocational adjustment of these clients.

The program will supply state agencies and private organizations.

Two semesters and a summer session in full-time study in the SUI Colleges of Education and Medicine, the Department of Psychology and the School of Social Work are required for an M.A. degree in rehabilitation counseling.

The SUI Graduate College hasn't accepted a curriculum for a Ph.D. degree in rehabilitation counseling. However, persons may take courses at the Ph.D. level in this area without earning a Ph.D. degree, Muthard explained.

Similar programs in other institutions call for two years of study in the graduate curricula of rehabilitation counseling for an M.A., Muthard said.

Twenty-nine institutions in the U.S. offer approved training in rehabilitation counseling.

Five traineeships grants have been awarded to the university by the federal government. The purpose of the grants is to subsidize students accepted by SUI and the Iowa Division of Vocational Rehabilitation counseling program.

Grants pay $800 for one semester. A student also may be eligible for a traineeship grant for summer session work, which at Iowa is $400.

Another type of grant is the third year traineeship, paying $2,400 for an academic year. One of these is available this year at SUI. A proportionate amount is supplied for summer session work.

New rehabilitation counselors are likely to earn between $3,500-$4,500 in the field, Muthard said. Senior rehabilitation counselors earn between $5,500-$6,000.

A rapidly growing field in the last five years, the next decade will probably see an expansion of rehabilitation services of 50 per cent throughout the U.S., Muthard noted.

Ford Stock Sales Begin

NEW YORK (AP)—The public offering of Ford Motor shares at $64.50 apiece was cleared by the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) late Tuesday and dealings began immediately at a premium of around $4 a share.

Formal offering will be this morning, but underwriters said the offering actually became effective with the clearance.

In the over-the-counter market in this country, the shares were bid at $68.50 and offered at $68.75.

Biggest Sale Ever

Dealers said trading was not active, mostly because many officials of banks and financial institutions had left for the day.

Sale of the 10,200,000 shares will net $657,900,000, making it the biggest common stock sale in history.

While the public will pay $64.50 a share, the Ford Foundation, which is selling the stock, will receive $63 a share for a total of $62,900,000.

Ration Stock

The difference of $15,300,000 will go to underwriters and investment dealers as discounts and commissions.

The stock was a sellout even before it was offered. Most brokers already had made up lists allotting shares among their customers.

Thousands of investors were scheduled to receive less than 10 shares, although they had asked for many more.

No Dividend Announced

Not all the 10,200,000 shares were available to the public. Blocks were set aside for Ford dealers and employees, investment trusts and institutional investors, and foreign investors.

Ford has not announced what its annual dividend will be, but has said a 60-cent dividend will be paid in the present quarter. That would be $2.40 on an annual basis.

If a year-end extra brought the total payments to $3, as some Wall Streeters expect, the yield would become 4.6 per cent.

General Motors currently yields 4.5 per cent and Chrysler nearly 3.7.

WRONG NUMBER

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Doris Sturgis is still puzzling over a telephone call she received one night. The caller asked: "Who is this?" Mrs. Sturgis gave her name. "Oh, you've got the wrong number," the voice at the other end said, and its owner hung up.

Symphony Band To Play Tonight

By WILLIAM DONALDSON

The 100-piece SUI Symphony Band will give its first concert of the current season today at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Prof. Frederick Ebbs of the Music Department is the group's director.

The program includes: Classic Overture in C, by Gossec; Two Argentine dances by Aguirre-Hindsley; the first movement of Borodin's Symphony No. 2 (arranged for band by Leiden); Persichetti's "Psalm for Band"; Rimsky-Korsakov's Concerto for Trombone; and the introduction to Act III of Wolf-Ferrari's "Jewels of the Madonna."

Also, the band will perform Richard Rodgers' "Victory at Sea," the symphonic scenario composed for the NBC-TV production of the same name. Moore's March Forth will open the program and Losey's March Forth will close it.

"Victory at Sea," the most popular of the offered selections, originally was scored for orchestra. RCA Victor released an album of this music with Robert Russell Bennett conducting. It was Bennett who arranged the work for band.

The scenario consists of "Song of the High Seas," "Submarines in a Calm Sea," "Beneath the Southern Cross," "Guadalcanal March," "The Sunny Pacific Islands," "The Approaching Enemy," "Attack," "Death and Debris," and "Hymn of Victory."

The Symphony Band is drawn each year from members of the Fall Concert Band and the SUI Marching Band. Members include:

More Using Instructor Rating Polls

More SUI instructors are now using the "Survey of Student Opinion of Teaching" polls available at University Examinations service, Desmond L. Cook, assistant director, said Tuesday.

Students rate instructor teaching ability and the value of his course on the IBM-marked sheets.

"We have marked and returned about four of the rating sheets to instructors," he said. About 10 to 15 more instructors have asked for them.

He said many instructors mentioned they had not been aware of the service until reading the article about it in The Daily Iowan.

Students rate instructors in seven categories: 1. knowledge of his subject; 2. skill in presenting subject; 3. interest and enthusiasm in subject; 4. tolerance and emotional balance; 5. helpfulness to students; 6. sense of humor; and 7. freedom from annoying mannerisms.

Students are asked to rate instructors in these categories in comparison to other college instructors.

Students are also asked to compare the course with other college courses. Courses are rated under three categories: 1. quality of the examinations; 2. value of course to the student; and 3. over-all quality of course.

RADIO LECTURE — Causes of shyness in children and ways in which parents can help the shy child will be discussed Thursday at 12:45 p.m. by Mary Alice Russell, a teacher in the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station, on the weekly Child Study Program "Know Your Children," broadcast by radio station WSUI.

FILM AND LECTURE — Dr. Gerald P. Ivancic, assistant professor of periodontology at the SUI College of Dentistry, will appear before the Madison, Wis., Dental Society Thursday. He will present a film and lecture on special problems of treatment procedures utilized by dentists in treating disease in the areas surrounding the teeth.

SIGMA XI SPEAKER — Constantine J. Alexopoulos, who will assume new duties as professor and head of botany at SUI next summer, will be featured speaker at the Jan. 25 meeting of the SUI chapter of Sigma Xi. A short business meeting will precede Dr. Alexopoulos' talk.

BARITONE RECITAL — Robert Davis, G. Cedar Rapids will present a recital Friday in North Music Hall. Davis, a baritone, will open his program with a group of songs including "Lasciatemi Morire" by Monteverdi, "Quia Fecit Mihi Magna" by J. S. Bach, and "Che Fiero Costume" by Legrenzi.

PHOTO COURSE — The 9th annual news photography short course at SUI will be May 18-20. The course will consist of lectures, discussions and demonstrations in photographic journalism.

DETROIT SUI GRADS — Paul Armand (Pat) Righter, '48, has been elected president of the Detroit SUI Club.

Regents Okay Gifts For Med School

Gifts and grants totalling $5,125.41 were accepted by the State Board of Regents for use at SUI's College of Medicine, President Virgil M. Hancher announced Tuesday.

The largest grant, $4,000, was from Bristol-Myers Company, a pharmaceutical firm, for research by Dr. William D. Paul, professor of internal medicine. The grant will partially support the physician's continuing study of sedative drugs.

$1,800 was donated by the Winnebago County Tuberculosis and Health Association for research in the pulmonary function laboratory, a unit of SUI's cardiovascular research laboratories. Dr. Paul M. Seebach, associate professor of internal medicine, will study asthma and emphysema, or loss of elasticity in the lung.

$74.41 in miscellaneous donations was accepted for gifts to patients at the Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children.

$30 was contributed by Tina and Eric Bergeson, daughter and son of Mrs. R. Bergeson, Des Moines, to the Ophthalmic Gift Fund. The gift will be used for research in the department of ophthalmology.

Spenders Honor Frugal Franklin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's capital, never renowned as a hotbed of frugality, Tuesday paid tribute to Benjamin Franklin, who made pennypinching famous.

"I took care," Franklin once wrote, "not only to be in reality industrious and frugal but to avoid all appearances to the contrary."

What a subversive thought for a nation now dedicated to the proposition that it's the length of the new car — and not the 36 payments due — that counts.

Still, this is the 250th anniversary of the great man's birth, and the Library of Congress has done its best.

Its exhibit stresses Franklin's many sides — printer, inventor, diplomat, scientist, musician, business man, elder statesman — and goes a little easy on his ready maxims for every fiscal occasion.

No one can stroll through the exhibit without being convinced that Franklin must have been one of the most inquisitive men who ever lived.

City Schools Give SUI Skills Tests

Basic skills tests of reading, arithmetic, language arts, and study skills are being given today to students of Iowa City schools.

The skill tests, prepared by SUI, are given annually to students in grades three through eight.

The results of each student's tests are compared with previous results to gain an idea of the student's progress from year to year, and to discover any area of weakness in the student's overall knowledge.

Byrd Grets Russ In Antarctica

ABOARD USS WYANDOT, MC-MURDO SOUND, ANTARCTIC (AP)—Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd, director of the U.S. Antarctic expedition, welcomed the leader of a Russian expedition which had reached Wilkes Land, west of McMurdo.

With the welcome went a subtle reminder that the Americans had already flown over much of the territory assigned to the Soviets.

"I welcome you to Wilkes Land," Byrd said. "Hope you are having good luck finding your IGY base site. We recently flew over interior in vicinity of your planned inland bases, surface does not appear rough but glacial plateau ranges between 11,000 and 13,000 feet elevation. We would like to exchange weather information."

The U.S. expedition — called "Operation Deepfreeze" — wound up its program of long flights for this season with three weekend missions deep into the interior of the Antarctic continent.

About 20 students have applied thus far for a week trip to Washington this summer under the "political internship" program of the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House (ICCH). Robert F. Ray said Tuesday.

Ray, director of the Iowa Institute of Public Affairs at SUI, said deadline for applications is Jan. 27.

Ten Students

Ten students interested in politics will be house guests of Rep. and Mrs. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) for a week in Washington this summer.

The "interns" will be introduced to national political and congressional leaders, visit the national headquarters of their political party, and attend committee meetings and sessions of Congress.

Residents of Iowa

To be eligible to apply for the trip, students must be residents of Iowa and be attending any college or university in the state, Ray said.

Students, five each from Republican and Democratic parties, will be chosen by the Clearing House advisory board on the basis of scholarship and interest in politics and campus activities.

Students should preferably be in their second or third year of college, Ray said.

The "interns" will make the trip two-at-a-time over a five week period.

To finance the trip, each student will receive $50 from the Clearing House and $25 from his political party.

A total of 62 students from Iowa schools applied last year.

Applications are due Jan. 27 and may be obtained from Donald Johnson, assistant professor of political science, room 310-A, Schaeffer Hall.

White House Knew Of Illinois Primary

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—White House advisers knew in advance that President Eisenhower's name would be filed in the Illinois presidential preference primary, an aide to Gov. William G. Stratton said Tuesday night.

William W. Downey, administrative assistant to Stratton, said Stratton conferred in advance with Sherman Adams, assistant to the President; Atty. Gen. Brownell, and Tom Stephens, former White House appointment secretary.

Downey added that Stratton did not talk to Mr. Eisenhower or Vice-President Nixon about it.

Stratton filed Monday the petition putting the President's name on the ballot. The petition bore 5,000 names.

CUFFS DON'T WORK

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—When a prisoner caused a disturbance at the county jail, Jailer Ponder Jenkins had to report that his attempt to handcuff him was unsuccessful. The prisoner had only one arm.

Coralville Sewage Plan Postponed

The Iowa City Council will take no official action until March on the proposed expansion of the sewer lines in Coralville, Councilman William G. Nusser said Tuesday.

Coralville had signed a five year contract April 1, 1950, with Iowa City for treatment of sewerage. Though the contract expired in 1955, it contained a clause that said Iowa City must give two years notice before cancelling the agreement.

Car Registration To Continue Here

Vehicle registration will continue in Johnson County even if the supply of license plates runs out, Lumir W. Jansa, county treasurer, reported Tuesday.

Nehru Target Of Rebellion

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Violent, burning rebellion erupted Tuesday and blazed through the night in western India against Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

Rioters, representing millions of Indians, held Nehru personally responsible for the new decision making Bombay a city apart from surrounding rival states.

Nehru, announced his compromise plan for Bombay Monday night. Under the Nehru plan, the city of Bombay would become a small bilingual state, with both Marathi and Gujarati as official languages.

Demonstrators clashed with police said two rioters had been killed here and four at Belgaum, a city of 75,000 people about 250 miles to the south.

Dulles Wants Long Range Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said Tuesday he is sure Congress will help solve the problem of long-range foreign aid as a counter weapon to Russian promises.

Such congressional leaders as Sen. George (D-Ga.) and Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) have opposed the idea. It would be a departure from the practice of limiting pledges of aid to the amount Congress appropriates each year.

Dulles said that to meet the problem of Russian offers—even though these offers had political overtones—it was necessary to help foreign nations in projects which will take years to complete, rather than give short-term assistance.

The Russians have talked of letting Egypt have around $300 million for its Aswan Dam, making 100 million available for Afghanistan development and 95 million for a steel mill in India.

MOSCOW (AP)—A delegation of Soviet doctors and medical research workers left Moscow Tuesday for the United States to study American polio treatment and preparation of Salk vaccine.

Girl Wins In Lefevre Competition

Dorothy House, A1, Muscatine, Tuesday evening won the Lefevre Memorial Speaking Contest held in Old Capitol.

Dorothy House Lefevre Winner

speech was on "Crisis in the East." First prize in the contest is $10, second prize $5.

Other contestants were Jerry Banes, A1, Sigourney, and Jack Elkin, A1, Iowa City.

Banes' speech, "Thou Shalt Not—" was on the connection between smoking and lung cancer.

Miss House stated, "Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery. One of the best arguments for our foreign aid policy is the fact that Russia has begun her own aid program."

Studebaker Wins Court Case

CHICAGO (AP)—The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday there was no basis for a former Studebaker corporation employee's charge that he was dismissed for driving another make of car.

The court upheld dismissal by the National Labor Relations Board of a case in which Elmer E. Kovach charged he was a victim of unfair labor practices when he was laid off work at the Studebaker plant in South Bend, Ind., in 1953.
