Girl, 8, Saves 5 Tots From Blazing Home

Leads Four Out, Then Goes Back for Baby

By JAMES FLANSBURG

Eight-year-old Ruth Ann Griffin led three of her young brothers and a sister out of their burning home here Friday afternoon and risked her life to return to the blazing house for her 9-month-old baby brother.

Ruth Ann was overcome by smoke as she carried the baby through a downstairs room, but both were saved and revived by Iowa City firemen, who were called by neighbors.

Both were in good condition at Mercy Hospital late Friday night. The other four children were unhurt.

Ruth Ann's mother, Mrs. Daniel C. Griffin, had left her alone with the children for a few minutes about 4:30 p.m. Friday while she went to drive her husband home from work. The children were quarantined at home with chicken pox.

The fire destroyed the Griffin home at 532 Olive St. and all its contents.

Iowa City Fire Chief Al Dolezal credited oxygen masks, bought by the department about two months ago and used for the first time Friday, with saving the two children's lives.

Started Near Furnace

Firemen believed the blaze started in the vicinity of a coal furnace in the basement.

Seven firemen and three trucks battled the blaze for about two hours in the three degrees above zero temperature.

Mrs. Griffin said the family moved into the home about a year ago and had planned to purchase it. She said the loss would be covered by insurance.

Suffering from Shock

Hospital officials reported that Ruth Ann is suffering from shock and was overcome by smoke. She was placed in an oxygen tent Friday night. The baby, Vernon, also was overcome by smoke and suffered first degree burns on his stomach.

The Griffins are staying temporarily at the home of Griffin's brother, Urban, in Iowa City, with two of the children. The other children are staying with friends.

Griffin and several of his coworkers at Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. helped firemen fight the blaze.

A Second-Grader

Besides Ruth Ann and Vernon, children home at the time of the fire were: Donnie, 6, Paul, 5, Keith, 3, and Teresa, 2. Another sister was not at home at the time of the fire.

Ruth Ann is in the second grade at St. Patrick's School.

Drops 'Cop'

'Dragnet' Alters Script To Suit FBI

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A milestone of sorts was reached in television Thursday night. For the last time, producer-star Jack Webb opened the "Dragnet" program with:

"This is the city, Los Angeles, California. My name's Friday. I'm a cop . . ."

Webb said Friday he has been asked by FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover to drop the word "cop." Last Monday the Los Angeles City Council adopted a resolution asking newspapers, magazines, TV and movies to drop "cop" because "law enforcement officers, generally . . . consider it derogatory."

Henceforth, Webb said, he'll begin the show:

"This is the city, Los Angeles, California. My name's Friday. I work here . . ."

GOP Salutes Ike At 53 Dinners

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower promised the GOP Friday night he will continue to fight for his administration's policies, either as "a candidate for your nomination or a worker in the ranks."

In a prepared address climaxing 53 "Salute to Eisenhower" dinners across the country, Eisenhower offered no definite clues as to "my own future role in the party."

Eisenhower looked back over the years on this third anniversary of his inauguration, said that "the general record is good," but that many tasks still await action.

"I could devoutly wish," he said, "that there were some method by which the American people could, under the circumstances, point out the path of my true duty. But it appears that this is a question that first I alone must answer.

"That answer will be forthcoming as quickly as it is firmly fixed in my mind."

Principally his words were directed by closed circuit television and radio to the "Salute" dinners in 34 states and the national capital.

Hickenlooper Says Farm Plan Leans On Demo's Action

DES MOINES (AP) — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) Friday night pledged full Republican support in Congress for President Eisenhower's farm program but said its chance for passage depends upon whether the Democrats "drag their feet."

In a speech at the $25-a-plate Iowa Republican "Salute to Eisenhower" dinner here Hickenlooper declared the President is "acutely aware" of the current livestock price slump and that "we are constantly searching for solutions."

He said the program, if enacted, would reduce acreage of surplus crops through the "soil bank" plan dispose of surplus commodities now on hand; strengthen the support prices on basic crops; protect the family type farm; provide a more workable farm credit plan; and expand research to develop new uses for farm products and better marketing methods.

Sen. Thomas E. Martin, Iowa City Republican, who joined with Hickenlooper in the news conference, said he also would attend.

Both Hickenlooper and Martin said they had no specific ideas to present to the President, but would join in the general discussion of the situation.

Two Iowa City Men At Des Moines Dinner

DES MOINES (AP)—Two Iowa City businessmen attended the Salute-to-Eisenhower dinner in Des Moines Friday night.

George Nagle, state Republican finance chairman and president of the Nagle Lumber Co. in Iowa City estimated that between 3,500 and 3,800 persons attended the banquet. He said that final ticket sales may reach 5,000.

Iowa City restaurant operator Curt Yocom proposed that a congratulatory telegram be sent to President Eisenhower. He invited all persons attending the dinner to sign the wire.

Iowa Accident Toll Increases: 4 Killed Friday in Crashes

By The Associated Press

Four more persons died Friday as a result of auto accidents in Iowa. The four deaths bring to 40 the number killed so far this year.

The latest victims were:

Delvan Vetter, 45, Muscatine, killed in a three-car collision at a Muscatine intersection while on his way to work.

Teresa Agnes Bach, Earling, died at a Carroll hospital — the third victim of a two-car accident near Carroll Tuesday night.

Mrs. George Kircher, 62, Olivia, Minn., died at an Atlantic hospital of injuries received Tuesday in a two-car collision.

Robert Daughterty, 17, Marengo High School senior, died of injuries suffered in a two-car crash on Highway 6 near Marengo Monday evening.

BEAR LUCK

FLATBUSH, Alta. (AP)—A startled bulldozer operator bagged himself a bear near here with nothing but his scraper. The operator was scooping dirt from a bank to help fight a natural gas fire when he uncovered the bear curled up for his winter nap. One blow from the scraper blade cut the bear's throat, killing him.

Legislators Take Farm Issue to White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iowa members of Congress arranged Friday to carry their fight for immediate aid for farmers direct to the White House.

But they were unable to get an appointment with President Eisenhower.

A White House announcement said that the all-Republican group of two senators and eight congressmen will confer Monday morning with Sherman Adams, presidential assistant, and other administration officials.

House Republicans from nine midwest states have an appointment with Secretary of Agriculture Benson next Wednesday.

This group, from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Kansas, and Wisconsin, met Thursday at the Capitol and decided a personal conference with Benson was necessary to ask for immediate help for livestock producers.

Rep. LeCompte (R-Iowa) said he was "awfully disappointed" that the Iowa legislators could not see Eisenhower. He said he had looked forward to detailing for the President the plight of Iowa farmers and pleading with him for some prompt assistance.

Reps. Talle, Jensen and Gross, Iowa Republicans, also expressed disappointment. Gross told a reporter:

"I would regret very much if the President were not at this conference. Because I think the President ought to know first hand about the disastrous farm situation in the Midwest, particularly Iowa."

Solon Man Held Here On Bad Check Charges

John P. Riley, Solon, was arrested by Iowa City police Thursday on a false check charge.

He was arraigned in police court Thursday evening. The case was continued until today.

The number or amount of the bad checks was not revealed.

Bandits Stage 'Play' in Theater

NEW YORK (AP) — Two well-rehearsed gunmen grabbed a $7,000 Broadway payroll Friday night backstage at the Mark Hellinger Theater in full view of the startled cast and crew of the musical "Plain and Fancy."

About an hour before the evening performance, the two men strolled into the main dressing room where company manager Al Jones was getting ready to hand out pay envelopes to 65 members of the cast, stage hands and dressers.

"This is a holdup," said one. He carried a drawn gun. The other kept his hand in his overcoat pocket as though aiming a gun.

One took the envelope and said "if you yell, we'll kill you."

Then they walked out a side exit and disappeared into the crowds just off Times Square on 51st street.

Budget Chief Quits; Post To Brundage

WASHINGTON (AP) —Rowland R. Hughes Friday resigned as director of the budget, effective April 1. President Eisenhower announced he would appoint Deputy Director Percival F. Brundage to succeed him.

Hughes, who has held the post since April, 1954, gave "compelling personal and family reasons" as the explanation for stepping out.

HUGHES

He noted in his letter of resignation that he agreed in the first place to serve for only one year but has stayed on for a second year.

Eisenhower, accepting the resignation "with deepest regret," praised Hughes' services in drafting a balanced budget.

The President said that thanks in part to Hughes' efforts the nation now is on a strong financial foundation — one "on which it is possible, for an indefinite time and without resort to borrowing against future generations, to make provision for both the nation's security and the advancement of human values so fundamental to our democracy."

Hughes, 59, is expected to return to his post as a vice-president of the National City Bank of New York. He left the bank in 1953 to become assistant budget director.

Brundage, 63, has been deputy director since May, 1954. He formerly was senior partner of Price Waterhouse & Co., one of the nation's largest accountancy firms, and president of the National Bureau of Economic Research. A Republican, he has a farm at Long Valley, N.J.

Ship Crashes Radar Outpost 100 Miles at Sea

BOSTON (AP) — The "Texas Tower," man-made radar outpost 100 miles off Cape Cod, escaped damage Friday in its first encounter with a ship, but the vessel that bumped one of the tower's three long, steel legs was sent slogging home Friday night at half-speed—5 knots—with 15 feet of water in one hold.

The Military Sea Transport Service's Sagitta—5,202 gross tons and 269 feet long — was transferring supplies when she crashed the tower.

The ship was considered in no danger and there were no casualties.

Built at a cost of $10 million, the tower is the first of a chain of such structures planned to guard the coast against approaching enemy air or surface craft.

Its "Texas" designation was gained through its resemblance to oil rigs.

The Weather

Snow & Colder

Continued cold temperatures and a possibility of snow over the weekend in Iowa City and most of southeast Iowa, the Weather Bureau predicted Friday.

Lows in the area Friday night ranged from zero to five degrees above. A high of about 18 degrees is forecast for Iowa City today.

Light snow, which began falling in northern Iowa Thursday, moved southward Friday and was expected to end in the southeast early Saturday.

The mercury dipped to a state low of 13 degrees below zero in Mason City Friday morning.

Friday's low in Iowa City was two degrees below zero—the first time in 1956 that it has been below zero here.

The Iowa Highway Commission report Friday said a few icy spots remained on the roads around Independence, Dubuque and Elkader. Elsewhere, state highways were reported as practically normal.

Hoegh: Friend of SUI

Gov. Leo A. Hoegh, in a speech this week before the American Association of University Professors, said that state appropriations for building expansion at SUI should be doubled within the next 10 years.

Hoegh pointed out that in the past five bienniums (two-year budgetary periods) the state has been spending an average of $745,000 per biennium for capital improvements.

"We're going to have to provide $1.5 million for each biennium," he said. "I have no hesitancy in saying the people will do that."

° ° °

The State Board of Regents, which governs the state institutions, asked $4,340,000 for capital improvements at SUI from the state legislature last spring. Hoegh recommended $2,620,000 for new SUI buildings during the current biennium. The legislature approved a $1,630,000 figure.

"There isn't any reason why Iowa cannot have as good an educational system as New York," Hoegh continued. "I probably will never be satisfied with our educational system until President Hancher is satisfied. You never get education by standing still."

It's encouraging to have a governor who puts forth such progressive ideas on education. SUI knows that it has a friend in the state house. This good feeling between governor and university has not always existed in other states in past years.

But Hoegh is only the governor of Iowa. Where appropriations are concerned he can only recommend, urge and veto. The state legislature has the final say on the purse.

° ° °

The legislature has tended in the past to be conservative, although past Governors William S. Beardsley and Hoegh were members of the Republican party's liberal wing. Hoegh found it difficult to get legislation through the 56th General Assembly. He will find it difficult (provided he is still governor after this year) to get higher appropriations for SUI through a conservative legislature.

Hoegh would like to see an expanding SUI. So would the majority of the people of Iowa. How this can be converted into majority votes in future state legislatures is another problem.

Now for Some Action

Student seating was a headache for students and athletic officials alike during the 1955 football season. At the Iowa-Kansas State game, which opened the season for the Hawkeyes, many students could not find seats.

The Board in Control of Athletics added extra bleacher seats for students in the south end zone. At least three home games, which were announced as sell-outs, vacant seats remained in the student section.

A committee of the Student Council recently recommended that student tickets be claimed during the week before every game upon the presentation of student identification cards. Students could then reserve their seats in advance. Unsold tickets would be placed on sale. This would assure that every seat would be filled whenever possible.

This plan should meet with favor from the student body. It would assure a student of his seat. And he wouldn't have to arrive an hour before the game to get it.

The Student Council adopted its committee's report and added one more item: a plan that would enable students to take non-student dates or guests to games. The plan would permit a student to obtain one seat, at reserved seat prices ($3.60), for the non-university date or guest.

This would put a stop to the gripe of many SUI students: they must split up after they bring their non-student date to the Iowa games.

There are, however, kinks to this plan. A student would have to wait until all students who wanted a ticket for only themselves had a shot at the supply.

Otherwise, on sell-out games, many students would bring dates and friends and SUI students who waited until the last minute to claim their tickets might be left out.

There are about 9,400 students at SUI and only about 8,400 seats in the student section.

Many students will not bring dates. They will bring friends, relatives and parents. Should a friend, relative or parent have a chance to obtain Iowa football tickets before persons who do not have such a connection?

Nevertheless, the plan has merit and is worthy of the consideration of the athletic board. The board has not been ignoring the seating problem. It has been waiting until the Student Council could recommend plans. Now it has them.

Latin America and Communism

Throughout the Cold War, the attention of leaders and citizens of the United States has been turned toward Europe and Asia.

Through the Marshall Plan, we poured billions of dollars into Europe to aid recovery from the effects of World War II and to halt communism. We have made progress in both.

Now we are faced with a similar problem in Asia. We no doubt will spend millions there to raise living standards and stop the spread of communism.

During all this time we have ignored the possibility that communism might take root in the fertile soil of poverty and illiteracy in Latin America. Millions there exist in conditions as bad as any found in Asia or Europe.

So far communism has not been a problem. Communist leaders have been busy in Europe and Asia. Now, with a breathing spell in the Cold War, they can turn to Latin America.

The strong men that control most Latin American nations have been anti-Communist recently. But their dictatorial rule has set the stage for the discontent that breeds communism. And a dictator is often an opportunist willing to do business with anyone — as long as the price is right.

The United States found this out in Guatemala, where dictator Jacobo Arbenz openly courted aid and arms shipments from Communist nations. Only then did Americans wake up to the threat a Communist nation would wield so close to the Panama Canal and the southern United States.

A revolt of anti-Communist Guatemalans ended this threat. But we may not always be able to count on revolts to solve a Latin American Communist problem.

John Scott, assistant to the publisher of Time Magazine, estimated in a speech here Thursday that the United States will have 10 years of grace before communism becomes a threat in Latin America.

In that time, he said, we must invest capital in these countries to enable them to make economic and sociological progress. Now, he pointed out, the illiteracy rate in these countries stands at about 50 per cent.

About 91 per cent of the capital of Latin American nations was derived from the countries themselves in 1954. The U.S. gave only five per cent. The United States, Scott pointed out, received more than half of its total capital from foreign nations during its period of major development in the 1880s.

We can no longer afford to ignore the Latin American nations, which have a population of about 175 million. (U.S. population is about 160 million.

If we do, we may someday find that the threat we have been fighting abroad has made its way into our own back yard.

Automobiles Safer Now

Cars of today are more economical and comfortable; More power, widely used, may save lives

Reprinted from Automotive Facts

In the 1920's an automobile engineer, famed for his imaginative flights into the future, beguiled his conferees at technical sessions by predicting:

"Sooner than you think, you're going to take the runing boards off automobiles and put that saved space to good use as more room inside the car."

Though it always evoked tolerant laughter, the prediction was soundly based on the prophet's understanding of the meaning of certain technological changes then taking place. He was aware that the expanding network of paved highways, then replacing the muddy and rutted trails that had long served as the nation's roads, was making it possible to lower the center of gravity of the automobile, and to get rid of that vestigal descendent of the carriage-step, the running-board.

The prophecy was founded, too, on a recognition of how new sheet-steel rolling and forming methods, then emerging from laboratories, would enable designers and engineers to develop safer, more roomy and more comfortable bodies.

* * *

HOW THIS prediction came true is one of a number of examples of automobile improvement cited in a recent report of a study of trends in vehicle characteristics over the quarter-century period from 1930 through 1955.

In that period, the study shows, a marked increase of useful size apparent to the user has been achieved by increasing front and rear seat widths from an average of 47 inches to one of about 63 inches. This has been achieved by lowering the structure and using inside the car the exterior space once needed for running boards.

"This trend has been important in increasing comfort and safety when three people are carried in the front seat," the report's author declares.

* * *

ANOTHER TREND observed in this study of all the automobiles tested in one company's proving ground in the past 25 years shows that the average weight has increased from about 3,600 to 3,900 pounds, and that this has been the result of heavy models becoming somewhat lighter and light models becoming heavier. In other words, the difference in weight between light and heavy models is not as great as it was 25 years ago, when minimum weights were as low as 2,500 pounds and maximum was as high as 5,500 pounds.

In the same period average horsepower has increased from about 75 to 177, the maximum having gone up from 120 to 265. Naturally, this has been accompanied by a rise in average top speed (from about 67 mph in 1930 to about 97 mph in 1955) but, as a comparative study of the figures evidences clearly, the increase in rated horsepower has not been matched by the increase in speed. This is most obvious when one compares the figures for 1941 with those of 1955.

In the last pre-war year, when the maximum rated horsepower was about 165, the fastest car was capable of 100 mph; but, in 1955, when the maximum horsepower was 265, the fastest car attained only 108 mph.

To the engineer and designer, speed is not an objective but a by-product of certain design compromises that have to be made in order to attain other objectives. The chief of these objectives, is improvement of the vehicle's safety. To that end, increases in rated horsepower have been used to shorten the time required to accelerate from low to high speed. This is extremely important on a two-lane road, for instance, when passing and getting back into the right lane must be accomplished as swiftly as possible.

* * *

IN THIS RESPECT, improvement has been remarkable in the past decade. In 1946, the average time required to accelerate from 10 to 60 mph was 24 seconds; today, the average is a bit less than 15 seconds. The slopes of the curves representing this improvement closely match those for increase in rated horsepower.

In terms of distance needed to accelerate from a lower to a higher speed, the average 1955 model takes 350 feet to get from a speed of 30 mph to one of 50 mph. But, to increase speed from 30 to 60 mph requires an additional 300 feet. To change speeds from 30 to 80 mph, the average 1955 car requires nearly 2,000 feet of travel.

These data point to one conclusion; namely, that an ample reserve of power under the hood is an important contribution to highway safety when it used judiciously.

* * *

THE STUDY also shows there has been an average improvement of nearly 30 per cent in fuel economy. At a speed of 40 mph the average car of 1930 got slightly more than 15 miles out of a gallon of gasoline; in 1955, the average was more than 20.

As 1955's average car is heavier than that of 1930, the improvement is greater than is apparent in a simple comparison such as above. A more realistic measure of the work done by the fuel is given when the vehicle weight is taken into account. In these terms, there is more than a 50 per cent improvement.

In other words, measured in ton-miles per gallon, the contrast between 1930's average car and the average of 1955 is 29 to 45.

In this improvement in economy, the automotive engineer has to share credit with the petroleum refiner, and the two must, in good conscience, make low bows in the direction of highway construction and maintenance people.

* * *

THIS IS apparent when trend of highway fuel economy is measured on a specific cross-country schedule covering slightly more than 300 miles at an average speed of 45 mph, and including a specific number of traffic stops. In this comparison, the earliest recorsd are those of 1933, which show 13.5 miles per gallon. The latest, for 1955, show 18.3 miles per gallon, an imporvement of 35 per cent in 22 years.

Though this improvement in fuel economy is of most immediate interest to the car owner. it has an even greater significance to people as a whole. For, in terms of conservation of irreplaceable natural resources, the improvement of 30% in fuel economy from 1930 to 1955 represents an enormous saving. If all automobiles now on the road were 1930 models, we would be consuming ten billion more gallons of fuel yearly, at a cost of an additional two-and-a half billion dollars.

In other words, today's engines are saving gasoline at the rate of more than ten billion gallons a year, although they are more powerful than their 1930 counterparts, and are propelling vehicles of greater useful size and some increase in weight.

College Boys

Are Magical Creatures, Nurses Say

A group of nurses at the University of Pennsylvania Nursing school recently wrote an essay entitled "What Is a College Boy?" reprinted in the Ohio State Lantern. Here are a few selections:

"A college boy is laziness with a draft card in his wallet, idiocy with lanolin on its hair, and the 'Hope of the Future' with an overdrawn bank book in its pocket.

"A college boy is a composite . . . he has the cnergy of a Rip Van Winkle, the shyness of a Mr. Micawber, the practicality of a Don Quixote, the kindness of a Marquis de Sade, the imagination of Bill Sykes, the aspirations of a Casanova and when he wants something it is usually money.

"He likes good liquor, bad liquor, cancelled classes, double features, Playtex ads and girls on football weekends. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, campus guards, alarm clocks or letters from the dean.

"A college boy is a magical creature . . . you can lock him out of your heart, but not out of your bank account. You can get him off your mind, but you can't get him off your expense account. He is a no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of hope and daydreams, he can make them seem mightily insignificant with four magic words: "I flunked out, Dad."

No Unemployment

Secretary of Labor Mitchell states that automation is not causing unemployment. He adds that there are more people working than ever before and "automation is increasing the demand for skilled technicians."

This should surprise no one. Every technological advance in history has advanced, not undermined, the welfare and interests of working people. Automation is simply one more phase of the beneficial industrial revolution that began with the steam engine.—THE HARVARD (ILL.) HERALD

Compare Baptist, Lutheran Baptism

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of features articles comparing the sacraments or ordinances of churches.)

Both the Lutheran church and the Baptist church practice Baptism. They both take their charge from the same Bible verse, Matt. 28:19: "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit."

In both churches, Baptism is one of the sacraments or ordinances; the other is the Lord's Supper.

Outward Symbol

The Baptist church believes that Baptism is an outward symbol, an external events signifying an internal event, conversion or the confession of faith in God through Christ. One part of Baptism is subjective and the other is objective.

The Baptist church, therefore, practices immersion Baptism after the person can make his own decisions.

On the other hand, the Lutheran church believes in infant Baptism by sprinkling, where the child is baptized at an early age. The parents and sponsors for the child take a vow to "bring the child to God's house, provide for his instruction in the Christian faith, teach him the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and place in his hands the Holy Scriptures."

The Baptists say that the Holy Scriptures are the only authority for faith and practice in the Christian life and point out that the only mode of Baptism mentioned in the Bible is immersion.

Baptist Belief

The Baptists believe that the individual as a person is competent through God-given capacities to receive grace or salvation directly from God. In the case of infants who are in danger of dying, the Baptists dedicate them to God with a dedication service.

To the Baptist, immersion into the water signifies the death of Christ and the rising, the resurrection.

Lutheran theology says that "Baptism is not simply water, but it is water comprehended in God's command and connected with God's Word."

THE REV. GEORGE T. L. JACOBSEN, minister of First English Lutheran Church, administers the Sacrament of Holy Baptism. "William Koeppen, I baptize thee, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen." William Koeppen is the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Burch of Iowa City.

THE REV. G. THOMAS FATTARUSO, minister of First Baptist Church, is preparing to baptize Mrs. Maynard Parker of Iowa City by immersion in the church baptistry. The Ordinance of Baptism is one of two to which the Baptist church holds.

Says Religion Strengthened By Marriage

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A study by a University of Michigan psychologist indicates both men and women have a stronger religious attitude after 20 years of married life.

This was the largest significant change noted by Prof. E. Lowell Kelly in his study concerning the basic attitudes of 300 couples who had become engaged. He questioned them again on these attributes after 20 years of married life.

Now Kelly has published some of his findings. Reporting the stronger "pro-church attitude" after several years of married life, Kelly notes that his study began in the days of the depression when pessimism and cynicism seemed to prevail.

At the same time religious interest was growing, he reported aesthetic interest among the married couples seemed to fall.

Both men and women tended to rate themselves as less neat, less energetic, less good tempered and less broad in interest after several years of married life.

There is also the possibility, says Prof. Kelly, that they are "more realistic, more honest" in their self-appraisals now than before they were married.

Of the 300 original couples, says Prof. Kelly, only 22 broke their engagments. Of the 278 remaining marriages, 12 ended in death and 39 in divorce.

Prof. Kelly's sample was drawn from the New England area and composed of people, he says, who were "somewhat above average in intelligence, somewhat above average in education and somewhat more interested in what makes the world go around."

Mrs. Birnie was involved in riots, hunger marches and farmer demonstrations and helped implement the Communists 25-year plan to infiltrate and organize the United States.

She became disillusioned by the party and tore up her membership card. Since that she has been subpoenaed as a key witness in trial of top Communists in the United States and to give her information about the Communist objectives for this country.

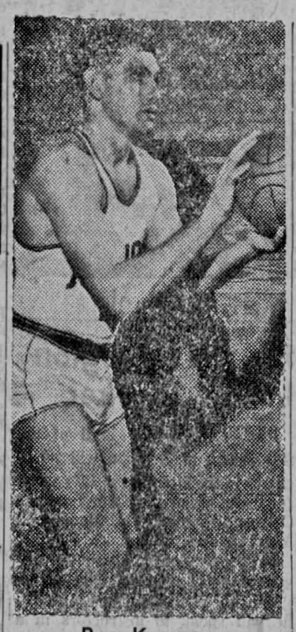
Iowa Cagers Meet Wolverines Today



Ron Kramer
Michigan's Top Scorer

The Iowa basketball team, back in championship form after a shaky start, tangles with the Michigan Wolverines today in a television battle at Ann Arbor. Game time is 2 p.m. (Iowa time).

Monday the Hawkeyes complete the eastern tour with a contest at Lafayette, Ind., against Purdue.

Michigan and Purdue are tied for fourth place in the Big Ten with Indiana, all with 3-2 marks. Iowa (2-1) holds down the second spot behind Illinois (4-0).

Gears Defense

Iowa Coach Bucky O'Connor will have to gear his defense to stop husky Ron Kramer, Michigan's top scorer. He is averaging 18.5 points for 12 games. The second high Wolverine is guard Tom Jorgensen with an 11-point average.

Kramer notched 18 points Monday in Michigan's 69-58 loss to Wisconsin. Last Saturday he set a new Michigan scoring record with 34 points against Northwestern, breaking his own mark of 30 points set earlier this year against Oregon.

Will Not Overshift Defense

O'Connor is not expected to overshift his defense in order to concentrate. He has said that one-man teams—such as Ohio State—can be beaten if the other four are stopped. Against Ohio State, O'Connor assigned only one man, guard Sharm Scheuerman, to guard Buckeye star Robin Freeman.

Iowa leads the Big Ten in defense by holding other teams down to 66.7 points. Purdue is the only other team to keep its defensive mark below 70 points.

Causes Worry

Iowa has consistently caused worry to the opposing coaches, who attempt to defense the Hawks. Because of Iowa's balanced scoring, no one player can be boxed in by a specially designed defense.

Although Iowa has averaged 78.7 points per game in league play, only two Hawkeyes rank in the top 20 leading conference scorers. Bill Seaberg ranks tenth with an 18-point average. He has the Big Ten's top percentage mark of .524.

Carl Cain rates 16th; Bill Schoof 22d, Bill Logan 25th and Scheuerman 35th.

Scheuerman Must Shoot

After the 84-62 victory over Minnesota last Saturday O'Connor said that one of the main problems of the Iowa offense is to make Scheuerman shoot more often. "He is like Ohio State's Freeman, except that when Freeman shoots Sharm passes," the Iowa coach said.

Scheuerman has made five field goals and 18 free throws so far in three conference games.

Sports Briefs

Condensed From Associated Press Dispatches

'TIGER' FINED — Earl Torgeson, Detroit Tiger first baseman, was convicted in St. Petersburg, Fla., Friday, of reckless driving and fined $50. Torgeson was acquitted in Municipal Court of a charge of driving without a driver's license.

THOMPSON O.K. — Outfielder Bobby Thomson Friday returned his signed contract to the Milwaukee Braves and, in a note accompanying it, said his legs and shoulders felt great. The contract reportedly called for about $30,000.

GOLFER — Mike Souchak, with another round of sub-par golf, stretched his lead to three strokes Friday as play reached the midway mark of the $12,500 Caliente Open. The 28-year-old Souchak was not as hot as he was in the first round, when he toured the long Tijuana Country Club course in a seven under par 65, but his 71 Friday gave him a 36-hole score of 136.

BASEBALL MEETING — The Iowa state baseball league will hold a reorganizational meeting in Fort Dodge Sunday morning to consider changing from a semi-pro to an amateur league.

BERG LEADS — Patty Berg lost her putting touch Friday but clung to her one stroke lead at the halfway mark in the $5,000 Tampa women's open golf tournament. Still in second place was young Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif.

TURNER WINS — Favored Gil Turner won his second split 10-round decision over Jacky Labua Friday night, opening a wicked cut over the younger boy's eye in the fourth round and forcing him to protect it throughout. Turner weighed 156, Labua, 158.

Boilermaker Coach Accepts SMU Post

DALLAS (AP)—Henry Stram, backfield coach at Purdue University, Friday was named backfield coach at Southern Methodist University and accepted, coach Chalmer E. (Woody) Woodard announced.

The SMU coach said Stram plans to report here Wednesday for spring football training, which is set to open Feb. 6.

Stram, 32, was born in Chicago, and played high school football at Gary, Ind. He entered Purdue in 1941 and graduated in 1948 after taking time out for service in the armed forces.

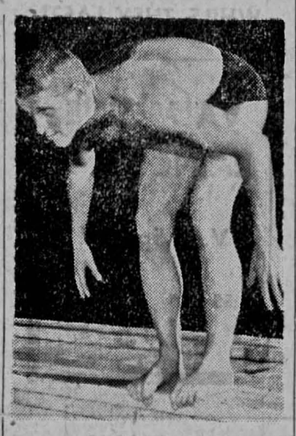
Stram played fullback at Indiana university and stayed on as B team coach there following his graduation.

He will succeed Bo Hagen at SMU. Hagen resigned to accept a coaching position at Rice Institute.

Lucas To Try for 5th Letter—

Hawk Tankers Meet NW; Seek Third Win

By FRED MILLER



Buddy Lucas
In Last Appearance

Ross (Buddy) Lucas, distance man on the Iowa swimming team, needs two points in today's meet against Northwestern to win his fifth varsity swimming letter of his collegiate career.

Lucas, a native of Auckland, New Zealand, won his first varsity award when he was a first semester freshman during the 1952 spring semester. He picked up enough points during the second half of that season to earn the letter.

Freshmen Eligible in 1952

Freshmen were eligible for varsity competition in 1952, but now a rule limits varsity competition to sophomores, juniors and seniors. Lucas also has won awards during the past three full seasons for his present total of four. His eligibility expires with the current semester with only three meets being swum.

The Hawkeye swimmers will seek their third straight victory as they take on the Wildcats at 7:30 p.m. in the Iowa pool.

Northwestern brings a 5-0 record into today's meet, including four non-conference victories.

Team 'Little Tired'

Iowa Coach Dave Armbruster said Friday his team may be a "little tired" because they have "worked hard all week."

"We expect a tough meet because they (Northwestern) are strong where we are strong," the coach said.

Armbruster pointed out that the Wildcats have one of the Big Ten's better medley relay teams which will challenge Iowa's relay team. The Hawkeye team, Hurring, Glenn Johnston and Dennis Roberson cracked the NCAA, American, pool and Iowa record in that event against Michigan last week.

The Wildcats will offer Dave Pemberton as competition for Hurring in the 200-yard backstroke. Hurring, on the other hand, set a new NCAA record for the 200-yard backstroke last week when he clipped the old mark by 12.1 seconds finishing in 2:09.6.

Offer Tough Competition

Paul Schutt, another Northwestern sophomore, will offer tough competition for Hawkeye sophomore Jim Coles in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle sprints.

Bill Stetson will probably swim the 220 and 440 freestyle against Hawkeye Lucas and Earl Ellis. Lucas may earn his letter in either of the events by placing at least third in both or at least second in one of them.

Ellis, another sophomore sensation, established the pool record for the 200-yard individual medley last week and will be out to better his mark in the event.

Contribute Team Strength

Other team strength for the Hawkeyes will come from Clyde Logan and Tom Jacobson in the sprints, Sherman Nelson in the backstroke, and Jim McCullough in diving.

Iowa's two relay teams, medley and speed, are unbeaten in competition as are Hurring and Coles.

Iowa swimmers will have a brief rest from competition during the semester break and examinations, but will continue workouts. The next meet is with Wisconsin in the Iowa pool Feb. 11 at 2 p.m.

Ohio State, Gophers See Big Ten Action

CHICAGO (AP) — With pacesetting Illinois sidelined by classroom examinations, the Big Ten basketball race today produces an important tilt between two surprising contenders, Ohio State and Purdue.

The Robin Freeman-sparked Buckeyes of Ohio State will appear at Lafayette, Ind., Saturday night deadlocked with defending champion Iowa for second place with a 2-1 record.

The Boilermakers, still in the running with a 3-2 record, boast the Big Ten's best defensive outfit against which Freeman will carry a 33-point average.

The other conference game this weekend, besides the Iowa-Michigan contest, is Minnesota's (1-2) invasion of Michigan State (1-3).

Cyclone Swimmers Win Meet; Break Records

AMES (AP) — Iowa State swimmers broke three meet records and won eight of 10 events Friday in beating Colorado, 53-31, for their first dual victory of the season.

The Cyclones' 300-yard medley relay team bettered the NCAA and American records but was disqualified when the third man jumped the gun.

Jack Ryder of State was the only double winner, taking the 220 and 440 yard free style races.

LOUISVILLE MANAGER

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—John (Red) Marion will manage the Louisville club of the American Association again this year. Gonzalo Vega, spokesman for the group of new owners from Havana, said the formal action was taken late Thursday night. Marion, brother of Marty, manager of the Chicago White Sox, managed Louisville last year.

Officials 'Pick On' Thompson

Strannigan Blames Conference Coaches For Guard's Fouls

AMES (AP) — Basketball Coach Bill Strannigan of Iowa State said Friday he will not protest what he calls attempts by Big Seven officials to "pick on" outstanding Guard Gary Thompson.

Thompson, playmaker and leading scorer, is the object of conference coaches who "have gotten together" to have "acting" or "baiting" fouls called on him, Strannigan said.

He said fouls called on Thompson in games at Oklahoma and Kansas last week "have left me very upset."

Knocks Down Thompson

Strannigan referred specially to a foul called by Referee Cliff Ogden after Kansas' John Cleland knocked down Thompson.

Ogden, here to officiate the Iowa State-Drake game Friday night, said conference rules prohibited him from commenting on Strannigan's statements.

"Any comment," he said, "will have to come from Reaves Peters, the commissioner. He was at the game."

Quotes Secretary

The Des Moines Tribune quoted Big Seven Executive Secretary Peters Friday as saying he has received no protest from Iowa State.

"Such things have to come to the conference office. That's our rule. If there are things that are wrong, that's the only place they can be corrected," Peters told the Tribune in a telephone interview from his Kansas City office.

Peters said Ogden, who has been in the conference about 12 years, is "considered one of the top officials of the nation."

Thompson Out-thinks Opposition

Strannigan said what Thompson does is no more "baiting" than what any other player in the conference does. He said because Thompson out-thinks and out-maneuvers the opposition, they think he is trying to draw fouls.

Peters said he thinks Thompson "is one of the greatest I've ever seen." He said in the recent conference tournament he did not see Thompson deliberately draw fouls.

At Norman, Oklahoma, Coach Doyle Parrack said this is the first he has heard of Thompson being "baited." He said Oklahoma did not attempt any such maneuver but declined to comment further on the charge.

Did Not Talk to Officials

And at Lawrence, Coach Allen said neither he nor his assistant talked to officials before, during or after the Kansas-Iowa State game concerning the Cyclones' drawing of fouls.

"We did instruct our captain, Dallas Dobbs, to call the attention of the officials in case Iowa State should attempt to draw fouls by dropping under our players," Allen said.

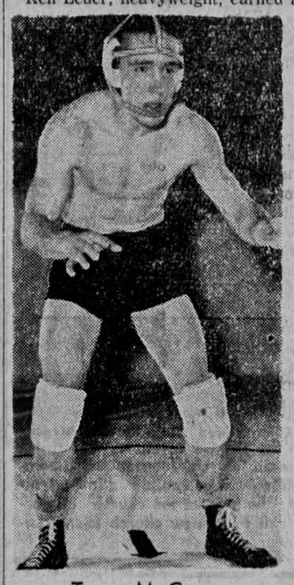
"They did it at the Big Seven Tournament in Kansas City when Johnny Parker of our team went in for three underhand layups. Iowa State players didn't attempt to block the shots, but simply fell under Parker. But officials saw Parker on top of the pile and called fouls against him."

Matmen, Gymnasts See Action Today

Iowa's unbeaten wrestling and gymnastics teams will perform for the home folks today at 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m., in the Iowa Fieldhouse.

The grapplers, boasting a 21-3 victory over Wisconsin last week, will take on Michigan State. The Spartans edged Iowa in 1954 and 1955, but the Hawkeyes are hoping to reverse the count today.

Ken Leuer, heavyweight, earned an almost permanent position in his weight class by upsetting Wisconsin's Big Ten champ, Bob Konovsky, to hand the Badger his first dual meet loss in 21 starts and three seasons.



Terry McCann
Stars in 123-pound Class

Lyons To Support McCann

Terry McCann, NCAA champ last year, will wrestle in the 123-pound class, with support from Larry Lyons, 130; Ralph Rieks, 137; Simon Roberts, 147; and Harlan Jenkinson, 167.

Either John Winder or Garry Kurdlemeier will wrestle at 177 and the 157-pound event is undecided between Bill Clements and Gary Meyers. Winder and Clements are veterans.

Michigan State's top men include Jim Sinadinos, winner of two seconds in the Big Ten and two thirds in the National Collegiates, 137-pound class; and Dick Gunner, 147, who placed twice in the conference in a lower weight class.

Gymnasts Meet Wildcats

Immediately following the wrestling match, the gymnasts will take on Northwestern and Western Illinois State in two dual meets. The gymnasts hold a 4-0 record and captain Sam Bailie has picked up 25 of a possible 28 first places in the four meets.

Team strength will come from Bill King, Stan Beebe, Bill Voge, Dick Kuiper and Dick Dohrmann. The meet starts at 3:30 p.m. in the gym of the Iowa Fieldhouse.

The wrestlers meet the Spartans on the mats placed on the basketball floor.

'Black Friday' In Olympics

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP) — American performances improved but still fell short of championship standards Friday, and a new batch of broken bones was racked up in training for the Winter Olympic Games.

With opening of the games just six days away, four well-known skiers took crippling tumbles on Cortina's treacherous slopes and a sled flew off the bobsled run for the seventh such accident in less than a week.

These casualties, plus the gashed leg suffered by figure skating champion Tenley Albright Thursday and the broken vertebra for skier Katy Rodolph previously, marked these as the most disastrous of all Winter Olympics.

Only the Russians, it seems, are keeping healthy and daily establishing themselves as a standout contender for unofficial team honors.

Across the Alps at Davos, Switzerland, a 25-year-old Russian student, Juij Michailov, set a world 1,500-meter record in giving the Soviet Union its third speed skating championship in three days in the Swiss International Tournament.

Accidents Friday struck down Evi Lanig, Germany's top woman Alpine skier; John Secui, downhill star of the Austrian team; Steinthor Jacobsson, Icelandic downhill hope, and Lebanon's ski captain, Monsour Geagea.

Unbeaten Ramblers Clip St. Pat's, 84-64

ST. MARY'S JIM JENSEN tries a set shot in a contest with the Iowa City's Irish while St. Pat's Tom Schuwaigert (23) looks on. In the background is Ramblers' Dave Maher. St. Mary's won the inter-city tilt, 84-64.

By TOM SCHORNHORST

Playing without the services of star center Dennis (The Menace) Walljasper, St. Mary's high school of Iowa City showed no signs of pain Friday night as they defeated cross-town rival St. Patrick's, 84-64.

The win over the Irish left the Rambler's record untarnished with a string of 15 victories.

Sprained Ankle

Walljasper, out with a sprained ankle, sat on the bench and watched teammate Dave Maher score 28 points to take top scoring honors for the evening.

Rambler guard Jim Jensen contributed 22 points to the game while Joe Johnson, six-foot center for the Irish, caught fire in the second half and came out high for his team with 23 points.

Trail by Two

During the first quarter, St. Pat's kept pace with the fast St. Mary's team and at the end of the quarter trailed by only two points, 18-16.

The second period was a different story. Maher, Rambler guard, opened with a barrage of 14 points on six fieldgoals and two charity shots.

Seven-Point Lead

St. Pat's Roy Welsh tried to keep the Irish in the game with an eight point spurt in the second quarter, but at halftime the Rambler's had climbed to a 43-30 lead.

Although missing Walljasper's usual control of the boards, St. Mary's decided the best defense was a good offense and out-scored the Irish 15-8 in the third round with Rambler guard Jim Jensen hitting 10 points on five successive field goals.

19-Point Burst

Highlighting the final period was Johnson of St. Pat's. Held scoreless in the first half, the Irish center collected two field goals in the third quarter and then cut loose with a 19-point burst as the clock ticked out the closing minutes of the game.

Keeping up with the last minute Irish rally were Ramblers Maher and Cahill who avoided the possible threat by dropping in eight points apiece.

Ramblers Still Tied

St. Mary's, rated as one of the top class B teams in the state, still shares the lead in the Northeast Iowa Catholic Conference with Immaculate Conception of Cedar Rapids, who, likewise, are undefeated.

The victory over St. Pat's is the second in the intra-city series this season. The all-time series record shows 37 wins for the Ramblers against 33 for the Irish.

Defeat McKinley CR—

Hawklets Win, 69-46

By LARRY WATT
Daily Iowan Sports Correspondent

CEDAR RAPIDS — Sophomore Pat Phillips came off the bench for Iowa City High, scored 11 points, acted as playmaker for the Hawklets during three quarters and led his team to a 69-46 victory over McKinley of Cedar Rapids here Friday night.

It was the first starting assignment for Phillips and his first contest with the Little Hawk varsity. Phillips, a transfer student, previously played in the sophomore games for the Little Hawks.

He was assisted by teammates Loras McGuire, and Jim Luper, who dropped in 17 and 14 points, respectively.

It was a close contest only during the first half. Three minutes before the halftime, McGuire dropped in three successive free throws to tie McKinley, 23-23. He shortly followed with two more to push his team ahead, after which it never trailed.

The half time score stood at 31-25 in favor of Iowa City.

The high scorer for the game was McKinley's Duane Bliss, who came off the floor with 19 points. His teammate, John Huston, bucketed 17 to take secondary scoring honors.

Twenty-five fouls were called on McKinley of which Hawklets capitalized on 15. McKinley made the same amount of charity shots in the rugged and action-packed contest.

The Little Hawks outscored McKinley, 18-8, in the third quarter, to completely sew up the game and assure themselves of victory.

In the sophomore contest, Iowa City High suffered its eighth straight loss, being defeated by McKinley sophs, 61-43.

Iowa State Romps Over Drake 81-60

AMES (AP) — Iowa State clamped a tight zone defense around Drake Friday night and defeated the Bulldogs 81-60 in an intrastate rivalry dating back almost 50 years. The game was the 100th encounter between the two Iowa schools.

The Cyclones jumped off to an early lead which they never lost, improving their shooting percentage substantially over recent performances.

Iowa State guard Gary Thompson was high scorer with 19 points. His teammates, forward John Crawford and center Don Medsker contributed 13 points each. Forward Dave Hutchins was high for Drake with 15.

The Cyclones had a 40.3 shooting percentage for the game. Drake, held to fewer tries, shot 33 per cent in each half.

Students 'Troupe' Through SUI—

Registrar 'Books' Variety Act

A dance and magic act which began with a "blind date" in Ft. Madison in 1945 is "booked" by the SUI registrar's office as Clifton James Britton, L1, and Joy Maxine Britton, A2.

Known in entertainment circles of 30 states as the Britton Variety Show, this talented pair of married students are "trouping their way" through SUI by giving occasional shows of music, magic, dancing and ventriloquism in the vicinity of Iowa City.

Their household and equipment trailer is now parked for a 4-year "run" at the Iowa campus, Jim is studying to become a corporation and tax lawyer while Joy works toward a degree in office management.

UP SHE GOES, as Jim Britton, professional entertainer and student lawyer at SUI exerts his magical influence upon his wife, Joy, also an SUI student. The talented pair are working their way through the university giving occasional shows of magic, dancing and ventriloquism in and about Iowa City.

Auto Accident

The Brittons still might be full-time entertainers were it not for an automobile accident in 1951. Joy injured her leg, a series of operations followed, and the pair decided to give up their strenuous routine on the road, where they often played as many as 15 shows a week before school assemblies and various organizations. Sometimes their engagements would require them to travel nearly 1,000 miles each week.

Although they grew up only 13 miles apart—he in Ft. Madison and she in nearby West Point — and they both competed in local dancing contests as children, they didn't actually meet until the summer of 1945, on a "blind date" arranged by two of their friends. Joy had graduated that June from Donnellson High School.

That fall they performed together in public for the first time, before the Women of the Moose in Ft. Madison. Other mutual appearances followed, and they simplified their "billing" by their wedding on Jan. 1, 1947.

Their courtship revolved around approximately 100 performances and the countless hours of rehearsal which were necessary to get their acts in shape for the more critical audiences which they would find outside their hometowns.

'Critical' East

During the first year of their marriage they spent much of their time getting a series of acts ready for a 3-month contract a New York booking agent had arranged for them in the "critical" East.

When they arrived in New York they found that they were signed up for only a week and a half of engagements for the 3-month period. But, by scouting around, they managed to fill up most of their time for these 90 days, mostly at public school assemblies but with one week of putting on their act in a large hotel, only one block off Broadway.

During that first tour of the area around New York City, they kept a dove, which was one of their stage properties, in a dresser drawer. "A couple times," they say, "we were almost desperate enough to eat the bird."

Snowbound in Ohio

On another tour they were snowbound in a small Ohio town, where the storm had even broken down the telegraph and telephone wires. Just before the storm, they had sent almost all their money back to Ft. Madison for safekeeping. "We got down to one meal a day for awhile."

But as they look back upon their years of hard work—"It's tough to give three performances in one day in three different communities, especially if you're coming down with flu or bronchitis"—they are grateful to show business for the opportunities it has given them.

"We've seen a lot of country and met a lot of people while being paid for it. We've acquired poise and self-confidence. In fact, show business is the basis of any success we've ever had or expect to have," Joy says.

New 'Wrinkles'

They credit a Donnellson cabinet maker, Tilford Overton, with much of their success with their magic acts. Because of Overton's construction of wood and metal-work for their large illusions, they've been able to develop some new "wrinkles" on acts which are common in the repertories of magicians. Jim observes that "other magicians haven't been able to figure out what we do sometimes because of an additional device which Tilford has added to our equipment."

Altogether, including their apprenticeship performances in their home county, their five years on the road, and occasional performances since becoming full-time college students in 1953, they figure that they've given a total of 2,000 performances.

And it all started with Jim's father, C. J. Britton of Ft. Madison, teaching the boy card tricks before he could read, and with Joy's piano and dancing lessons which started when she was only eight. They both learned ventriloquism from a school band instructor who had been on the Chautauqua circuit. And Joy learned her magic routines from Jim, who first did his tricks in public before the inmates of the Iowa state penitentiary when he was only seven years old.

Several Performances

On their savings from years of touring and on income from one or two performances monthly for nearby organizations, they now live comfortably in their modern, 40-foot trailer in Forest View Trailer Park just north of Iowa City.

When Jim passes his last examinations and starts to work in a law office, Joy hopes to help the family exchequer by combining her vaudeville experience and her office management training at the University into a new enterprise of her own — a talent booking office.

"I'll concentrate on booking us," she says, "until Jim gets well started in his new profession."

Anesthesia Parley To Start Monday

By DAROLD POWERS

The SUI College of Medicine's post-graduate conference in anesthesia Monday and Tuesday will draw guest speakers from Boston, Philadelphia and Charlottesville, Va.

Early pre-registrations include a greater-than-usual number of anesthesists from distant states.

"This must indicate respect for SUI's Division of Anesthesiology and the quality of the program," Joseph Brown, SUI science editor, said. Dr. Stuart Cullen, Chairman of

Registration

Registration will begin at 8 a.m. Monday. The conference will be held in the medical amphitheater in University Hospitals.

The conference will include four general topics: use of depressant drugs, ventilation, muscle relaxants, and miscellaneous.

Dr. Cullen's speech will cover 'Advantages and Disadvantages of Narcotics as Supplements to Inhalation Anesthesia, Including the Post-anesthetic Period."

Initial Address

"The Role of Narcotics in Preanesthetic Medication" will be the subject of the initial address to be delivered by Dr. Henry K. Beecher. Beecher is professor of research in anesthesia and anesthetist-in-chief at the Harvard Medical School, Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

"Measurement of the Effects of Drugs on Some Common Symptoms" is the title of a second speech to be delivered by Dr. Beecher.

Dr. James E. Eckenhoff, professor of anesthesiology at the University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, will talk on the "Rational Use of Narcotic Antagonists."

Medical Literature

Dr. Eckenhoff also will talk on "Medical Literature — Problems Relating to Its Assimilation and Evaluation."

"The Anesthetist and Pain Management" is the topic of the speech to be delivered by Dr. F. A. Alexander, associate at Veterans Hospital here.

A question-and-answer period will follow each talk.

A panel discussion on ventilation will be moderated by Dr. Douglas W. Eastwood, professor of anesthesiology at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville.

Another discussion, concerning muscle relaxants, will be led by Dr. Cullen.

Dinner Meeting

Among SUI College of Medicine faculty participating in the panel discussions will be Dr. William Hamilton and Dr. Charles Pittinger.

The celebration of the anniversary will include memorial meetings and exercises this year, publications of Hamilton's papers, the issue of special coins and stamps, and educational exhibits and activities.

The ACRPA will assist in carrying out the commission's recommendations for essay and oratorical contests in educational institutions and the adoption of Hamilton as a special topic for discussion groups.

Other members of the committee are Prof. W. Norwood Brigance Wabash College; Prof. D. L. Clark, Columbia University; Prof. W. S. Howell, Princeton University; and Prof. Marie Hochmuth, University of Illinois. Brigance received his Ph.D. in speech at SUI in 1930.

Killer Made Own Key For Jailbreak

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — State police and FBI agents searching the jail cell of escaped killer Leslie Irvin Friday found a cardboard-and-tinfoil key that worked the lock on the cell door.

Detective Sgt. W. W. Cornett said the key was made of sheets of cardboard from cigarette cartons, reinforced with tinfoil. Cornett said the key, found hidden above the shower in the cell, was accurate and strong enough to work the lock.

Cornett said bits of paper and soap were found in the lock. The soap could have been used for a key pattern, or Irvin might have memorized the pattern. Sheriff Earl Hollen said he had noticed Irvin eyeing the jail keys.

Cornett said Irvin was definitely known to have been in Mount Carmel, Ill., after his escape.

FBI Enters Chase

His crossing a state line brought the FBI into the search, as police of five states patiently checked a flood of reports that a man answering his description had been seen.

Irvin, convicted of one murder and under indictment for five others, fled late Wednesday night from the Gibson County Jail at nearby Princeton with the admitted aid of a cellmate who is under indictment for three other murders.

The 31-year-old pipefitter was convicted at Princeton in a trial taken there on a change of venue from Evansville. He was convicted last month and sentenced to die June 12 in the electric chair at the state prison at Michigan City, Ind. He was to have been transferred to the prison Monday.

Seen in St. Louis

FBI agents in St. Louis late Friday were questioning a woman who said she knew Irvin personally from years ago and that she saw him about 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the Milner Hotel in St. Louis.

Mrs. Ruth Patton, a waitress at the hotel, told St. Louis police she knew Irvin was under death sentence but hadn't heard of his escape.

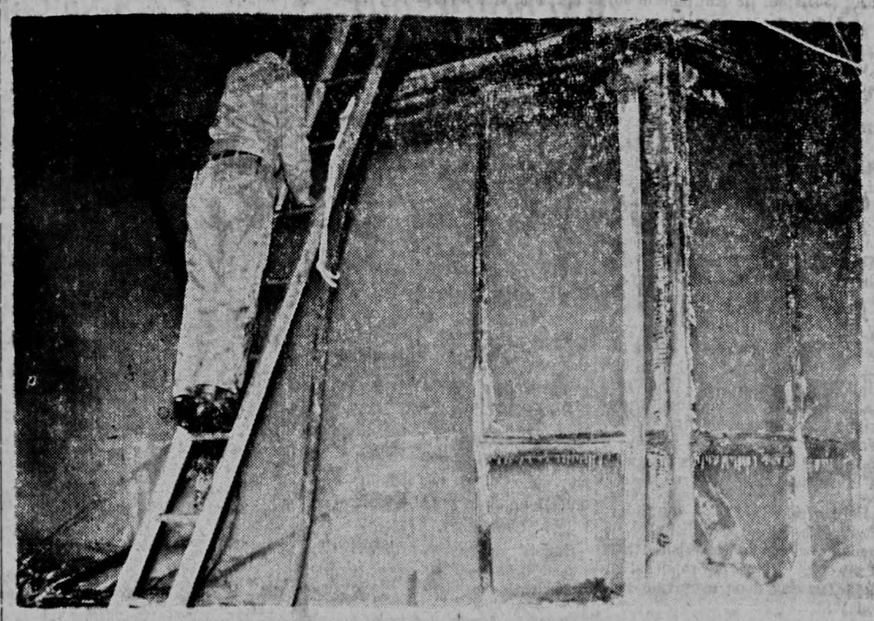
Irvin was standing just inside a door of the hotel cafeteria and did not see her, Mrs. Patton said. Just as she recognized him another man rushed out of the cafeteria, grabbed him by the arm and they left, she added.

Regular Customer

She told police she knew Irvin as a regular customer of a Louisville restaurant where she was employed until 1954.

She was so frightened at seeing him that she locked herself in her room and remained there all night before reading of his escape. It was then that she notified police.

Dog Watches Wistfully as Master's Home Burns



A BYSTANDER PEERS into the gutted house of Daniel C. Griffin, 532 Olive St., after fire swept through the structure Friday evening. Firemen credited 8-year-old Ruth Ann Griffin with saving her four younger brothers and one sister from perishing in the blaze.

RUTH ANN GRIFFIN'S DOG, Spotty, strains at his lease after firemen tied him up to prevent him from returning to his master's blazing house at 532 Olive St. Firemen commandeered a lady's apron to secure the dog to a fence.

'Bootlegging' Of Cars Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) said Friday he will "strike at the core" of automobile bootlegging with a bill to require that the ownership record of all new cars be shown on their windshields.

Auto bootlegging is one of the "abuses" which Frederick J. Bell, executive vice-president of the National Automobile Dealers Assn., testified today has created an "appalling" situation in the auto sales field.

Witnesses before a Senate inquiry group have described bootlegging as the sale of new cars at cut-rate prices to unauthorized dealers. The sellers are franchised dealers who, witnesses said, are under pressure to unload cars to meet their sales quotas.

Monroney said he would disclose details of his proposed legislation at a meeting of the dealers association here soon. Briefly, he explained, it would require a windshield sticker to be placed on each new car until it reaches the hands of an owner who intends to keep it and drive it.

The sticker would show each change of ownership up to that point, as well as the method of transportation from the factory down through various hands.

In the case of bootlegged cars, the senator said, it would inform the purchaser whether he was actually getting a "used car" that had been driven considerable distance to the bootleg seller.

LIQUOR STORES

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa state liquor stores will be closed Friday, Feb. 3 for inventory.

Army Displays Scale Model of 'Redstone" Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army displayed a scale model of its "Redstone" bombardment rocket Friday, and said the weapon is the basis for new designs which will lead to the development of a 1,500-mile ballistic missile.

Except for an official comment, and a statement that the Redstone is the Army's biggest present missile, officials declined to give any details.

The scale model indicated that the Redstone is approximately 45 feet long and 4 feet in diameter.

The Redstone is believed to have a range of 200 to 300 miles. It travels at supersonic speed and, like all ballistic missiles, is aimed in a high trajectory (angle).

In the case of the Redstone, the trajectory may be up to 100 miles above the earth.

War Orphans May Receive Financial Aid

(Special to The Daily Iowan)

DES MOINES — The Iowa Veterans Bonus Board said Friday there may be several SUI students entitled to financial aid under provisions of the Iowa War Orphans law.

To be eligible for this aid the veteran parent of the student must have died while in the service or as a result of the service between the dates of:

World War I — April 6, 1917 to June 2, 1921; World War II and Korean War—Sept. 16, 1940 and the present.

The law provides:

1. The school must be a university, college or trade-school located within Iowa and approved by the Iowa Bonus Board.
2. The child must have been a resident of Iowa for two years immediately preceding the application.
3. The aid is a gift from Iowa and not a loan.
4. The aid is a recognition by Iowa of the War Orphan and it is given regardless of scholastic ability or financial standing.
5. Three-hundred dollars is available each year in school, divided into $150 each semester, and the amount is billed to the Iowa Bonus Board by the school attended.
6. The $300 may be used for tuition, fees, books, board and room or anything else certified by the school as necessary.
7. No limit has been set as to age or number of years of schooling.

Application may be made to the Iowa Bonus Board, Statehouse, Des Moines, Iowa.

Nursing Educators Will Meet Here

About 70 Iowa nursing educators are expected to attend a Work Conference on State Board Standards Wednesday through Friday at the SUI Continuation Study Center.

The conference is co-sponsored by the Iowa Board of Nurse Examiners and the SUI College of Nursing. It will continue studies begun previously of policies governing the 26 schools of nursing in Iowa, said Etta Rasmussen, board chairman and chairman of practical nurse education at SUI.

The board hopes to receive recommendations from the conference to use in revising standards, Miss Rasmussen said.

Harriman Hits Ike's Policies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Eisenhower is a buck passer—"the biggest dodger of any president we've ever had in my memory," New York's Gov. Averell Harriman said Friday.

He also hit the Republicans as the "party of drift and reluctance" and said GOP policies have created an "alarming situation" at home and abroad.

"Generally speaking," he told a news conference, "Eisenhower is creating the impression he's over and above his administration.

"It's not his farm program, it's Benson's; it's not his interior program, it's McKay's; it's not his financial program, it's Humphrey's; it's not his foreign policy, it's Dulles'—and so on."

Harriman, a Democrat with presidential aspirations, made these observations when asked about the President's stand concerning differences with Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

Ridgway, in a recent magazine article, took issue with Eisenhower's statement in his 1954 State of the Union message to the effect that the Joint Chiefs of Staff were unanimously in favor of reducing Army manpower and increasing emphasis on atomic weapons and air power.

Burglars Set Fire In Plan To Crack Fire Station Safe

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP) — The men were too fast for the safe-[illegible].

The fire fighters answered an alarm Friday and quickly put out a garage fire. It apparently had been set to get them out of the fire station.

On returning to the station, the firemen found an array of safe-cracking equipment in front of the safe on the second floor. The safe was intact. So was the $20 inside.

The safecrackers made a getaway in fireman style — sliding down a 40-foot length of rope.

Paid No Tax On Big Tips

NEW YORK (AP)—Being headwaiter at a world-famous hotel has always been regarded as a lucrative job. The government Friday estimated just how lucrative.

Hans Paul, headwaiter at the Waldorf-Astoria earned $125,000 during the four years preceding his retirement in 1952, the government said, when his salary was $3,000.

Paul, currently vacationing in Miami, was indicted on a charge of failing to report more than $67,000 he received in tips between 1949 and 1952.

Asst. U.S. Atty. David Jaffe estimated that Paul cheated the government out of nearly $25,000 in taxes.

Jaffe said the banquet department at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel collects a million dollars each year as tips for its waiters by including on the bill a 15 per cent charge.

Jaffe said this was the first indictment ever brought here charging tax evasion of money received as tips. He said an "intensive investigation" is under way at other hotels in the metropolitan area, looking for unreported tips.

Hike Pork Prices Iowans Urge Benson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Iowa Farm Bureau representatives put in a busy day Friday urging Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson to step up pork purchases and liberalize credit for farmers.

President Howard Hill and Secretary Thatcher of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation asked Benson to increase government purchases of pork to help raise hog prices.

They said after the meeting that Benson told them 10 million pounds of pork had been bought this week by the government and the total purchases as of Jan. 6 were 68 million pounds.

Fuel Drivers End New York Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A five-day strike of fuel truck drivers ended Friday. Mayor Robert F. Wagner said the hard-won settlement saved the city from "a catastrophe."

Striking Teamster Union members voted a return to work and the first trucks started rolling at 4 p.m.

The settlement involves a 30-cents-an-hour wage, pension and welfare package for 3,000 drivers of coal and oil trucks. The strike began at midnight Sunday and by Thursday many homes were out of fuel or close to it.

Cotton Warehouses Burned by Indian Rioters in Bombay

BOMBAY, India (Saturday) (AP)—Arson mobs set fire to Bombay's big cotton warehouses early Saturday and rioters again battled with police.

Spectacular fires and new street fighting came after authorities had expressed a belief that Bombay State and city violence was on the wane.

Sixteen fire engines fought the inferno in this famous textile city's "Cotton Green" area.

Sixth Day

This was the sixth straight day of violent rebellion against the Nehru government's decision to make Bombay a federal city apart from surrounding states and their language differences.

Five thousand rioters, mostly Marathis, surged around the Mazagaon tram terminus as the warehouses blazed.

Reports of other violence poured into the city from interior Bombay State.

Fire On Mob

At Nasik, 100 miles northeast, police fired on a Marathi-speaking mob that looted 20 shops. Troops were reportedly called into Nasik the site of India's closely guarded printing press for currency notes.

At Kalachowki, police were reported to have killed eight persons and wounded others in shooting to disperse thousands of rioters.

A period of relative quiet on Friday had raised hopes of peace.

Death Toll

The official death toll for the disorders was reduced in rechecking from 40 to 39.

By official count, only one man was killed Thursday. Police had orders to shoot looters on sight and presumably that is how he died.

The police, who said Communists have stirred up the riots to emphasize a cleavage of Bombay's people on language lines, fired back repeatedly.

Ceremony Is Set For Eagle Scouts

The fifth annual ceremony, paying tribute to Eagle Scouts who have achieved the Eagle Scout rank, will be held Sunday, Feb. 12, at 3 p.m. in the Coe College auditorium.

Boy Scout leaders in Iowa City have been urged to submit names of Scouts who have earned the high honor in 1955 to the Scout office so that they may take part in the Hawkeye Area Boy Scout Eagle Recognition ceremony.

The Hawkeye area council was one of the first in the nation to inaugurate the ceremony. Each boy will be presented with an Eagle neckerchief in recognition of his achievement.

It Happened in Iowa—

Youths Recaptured, Given Special Cells

MANCHESTER (AP)—Two young escapees were back in the Delaware County jail here Friday night after their recapture at Rockford, Ill., ended some 36 hours of freedom.

Sheriff Arthur Longseth said Robert Wright, 17, Rockford, Ill., and David Jenkins, 18, Foreston, Ill., who escaped Wednesday night after cutting a hole in the jail roof, were placed in special cells.

Wright and Jenkins were arrested at Independence Jan. 5 when their companion, Warren Nutter Jr., 19, Freeport, Ill., shot and killed an Independence policeman. They were taken to Manchester Thursday.

The sheriff said the two youths face new charges of larceny of a motor vehicle and jail breaking. They will be arraigned in justice court today.

Rockford police seized the pair early Friday at Wright's home when they noticed a light burning after the parents had left for work.

Meat Promotion

CLARION (AP)—Representatives of several Wright County farm groups passed a resolution at a meeting here Thursday night saying the county's joint livestock committee favors a meat promotion checkoff.

The committee will sponsor a canvass of all farmers in the county for support of a plan for producer contributions to a fund to finance advertising and promotion of the sale of meat.

If the program finds favor with producers in the Wright and Cass counties, it is expected eventually to be submitted to farmers in the 15 states which produce the majority of the nation's livestock.

Final Witnesses

COUNCIL BLUFFS (AP) — Two of Council Bluffs' top city officials, Mayor William Knox and City Manager L. M. McConnell, testified Friday before a grand jury investigating "vice and corruption" in Pottawattamie County.

They were the final witnesses as the present grand jury concluded its phase of the investigation.

The panel, which has been hearing testimony all this week, is expected to make a report to District Court today. There was no indication whether the report will be made public.

Precision Timing

MASON CITY (AP) — Mrs. Walter Hart Johnson, Mason City, gave birth to a son at a Mason City hospital Thursday on the same day, hour, and minute as the birth of another son four years ago.

Legion Candidate

HARTWICK (AP)—Kenneth Benda, executive vice-president of the Hartwick State Bank, announced Friday he is a candidate for commander of the Iowa Department of the American Legion.

Benda, a graduate of Iowa State College and a World War II Navy veteran, has been active in the American Legion since 1945. The election will take place during the Legion's state convention next August.

Water, Then Slush. Then Ice.

A BROKEN WATER MAIN Friday night resulted in a flooded street in front of 408 Finkbine Park. Jim Asendorf, G, (inset) points to a hole in the ground just off the street through which water from the broken main rushed. Freezing temperatures soon converted the flooded street to a skating pond.
